BIG BRYAN DEMONSTRATION

A Mammoth Reception Is Tendered the Silver Candidate at Brooklyn.

HE SPEAKS TO THREE GREAT AUDIENCES.

The Meetings Adopt Strong Resolutions Pledging Support to the Democratic Ticket--Workmen Out in Full Force.

CROWDS PACKED BUILDINGS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—When the doors of the Academy of Music in Brooklyn were opened shortly after 6 o'clock this evening it took less than ten minutes to fill the big building from the front step to the rear wall. At 7:30 fully five thousand people were in the house. By 8 the crush had become so thick that all the doors were closed, shutting out a clamoring crowd of thousands. "Fighting Judge" William Gaynor of the supreme court presided. Before the speaking began a set of resolutions were adopted. They recite that the election to be held in November is of greater importance than any since the Civil war, denounce corporations and monopolies and compliment Bryan for the skill with which he has thus far led the fight.

"We find our faith in him strengthened," says the resolutions, "by the abuse poured out upon him by the enemies of the people, the defamers of the Democracy and the traitors to the Democratic cause who, venturing to insult the intelligence of the American people by using the Democratic name as a decoy flag, have at last found their fitting home in the bosom of Republicanism as it is typified by Quay of Pennsylvania, Platt of New York and Mark Hanna, the labor crusher of Ohio."

The document, in conclusion, pledges the support of the county Democracy for Bryan and the whole ticket. When Mr. Bryan appeared he received an enthusiastic demonstration which lasted six minutes. When quiet was restored Mr. Bryan said, in part:

"Before addressing myself to the money question, I desire to say something in regard to these planks in our platform which have been assailed by the enemy. Let me read to you a plank of the Chicago platform against which so much abuse has been leveled. It is: 'We oppose arbitrary interference by federal authorities in local affairs as a violation of the Constitution of the United States and as a crime against our free institutions.' That is the part which they say is bad. When did that become bad?"

"Let me read a plank of another platform and see how this plank which I am about to read compares with the one which I have just read: 'That the maintenance inviolate of the laws of a state, and especially the right of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions according to its own judgment exclusively, is essential to that balance of power upon which the operation and endurance of our political fabric depends, and we denounce the lawless invasion by an armed force of the soil of any state or territory, no matter under what pretext, as among the gravest of crimes.' Do you know from what platform that plank was taken?"

A voice—From Abraham Lincoln's "Great Success." "Yes, from Abraham Lincoln's; that is a plank in the platform of the Republican party of 1860, and when you compare our plank with that you will find that ours is mild in language compared to this one. Abraham Lincoln ran for president on that platform. He was elected president on that platform; and in his inaugural address he quoted that plank in full and reiterated it with his approval. Now, my friends, if our platform is wrong I want these Republicans to repudiate Abraham Lincoln, because if you take Lincoln from the Republican party you have taken from it its most sacred memory."

Mr. Bryan then defended the plank in regard to the income tax decision, and said:

"Let me read you what Abraham Lincoln said about the supreme court. This is from his inaugural address: 'I do not forget the position assumed by some that constitutional questions are to be decided by the supreme court, nor do I deny that such decision must be binding in any case upon the parties to the suit as to the object of that suit, while they are also entitled to very high respect and consideration in all parallel cases by all other departments of the government.'"

"I quote again: 'At the same time, the candid citizen must confess that if the policy of the government upon vital questions affecting the whole people is to be irrevocably fixed by the supreme court the instant they are made, in ordinary litigation between parties in a personal action the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal.'"

"Lincoln says that when it is asserted that the supreme court has a right to determine the policy of the government on great questions that then we will have resigned our government into the hands of the supreme court. Our platform is not as harsh as the language of Abraham Lincoln. We do not criticize the court as he criticized it, and when he uttered those words he was standing there as a co-ordinate part of the government of the United States."

"I quote these authorities in order that you may see how far-fetched is the criticism that is leveled against us. But I must apologize for quoting Lincoln as a Republican authority. Lincoln is no longer a Republican authority. Lincoln believed in a government by the people, of the people and for the people, and that is not Republican in this campaign.

"Now our opponents say we are opposed to the enforcement of law. I stand as the candidate of three parties. I do not speak of myself as an individual, because an individual is lost in a campaign of this character. But, I want to say to you that the fear that is expressed is not fear that if elected I will not enforce the law. I have said before—I say again—that if by the suffrages of my countrymen I am placed in that position every law shall be enforced against the great as well as against the small."

"Mr. Bryan then took up the financial issues of the campaign at great length, saying, in part: The present financial system contemplates the retirement of greenbacks and treasury notes and the substitution of bank paper for gold. The present financial system contemplates the retirement of all legal tenders. The present financial system, when run to its logical conclusion, contemplates gold only as the legal tender money of this country and bank paper only as the paper money of this country."

"The financial policy under which we are now suffering, therefore, contemplates a condition in which a few men will control the primary money. The national banks will control the primary money. The national banks will control the paper money, and the people will have nothing to say. What does Secretary Carlisle's recent statement referring to the redemption of silver dollars mean? It means that all this talk about retiring greenbacks and treasury notes in order to protect the gold reserve is a farce and a fraud, because they intend to start another endless chain as soon as they get through with the present one."

"When I see bonds worth 119 sold for 104 and try to describe what kind of a transaction it was, I regret that my parents did not give me more tongues with which to express my ideas. The English language does not adequately express the question. And yet the people who sell for 104 bonds worth 119 assume they are doing the people a kindness. And they assume more than that, that the people who run the government into a corner and then persuade the government to sell them bonds worth 119 for 104, they assume these people are the only people worth consulting as to the good of the common people."

Mr. Bryan then quoted Bismarck's recent letter on bimetalism, and commenting on the fears of independent action by this nation, said:

"Shame on the cowardly American who thinks this nation is not as big as Bismarck's does. Oh, that some of the Republican campaign fund might be used to pay the expenses of some of those timid Americans if they would go across the ocean and sit at the feet of that great statesman and learn confidence in the American people."

"We say if we cannot have an independent financial system we cannot have a foreign policy of our own. We are opposed to some of the policies of the president, but let me tell you, let it be said of the people of the west and of the south that in spite of their opposition to the president's financial policy they stood by him on the Monroe doctrine when your cowardly financiers begged him to submit."

THOUSANDS WERE TURNED AWAY

Labor Mass Meeting in Favor of Bryan a Great Success.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—There perhaps never has been such a significant demonstration for Bryan in the east as that given tonight in Brooklyn by the combined labor interests. It has been a mooted question whether the labor people of the east would respond to a call for a mass meeting in favor of Bryan, but there was no mistake about the demonstration at Clermont rink tonight. The capacity of the building is estimated at 8,000 and every available corner was filled with good-natured humanity, while thousands besieged the doors and were refused admission. It was a typical labor gathering. It was also a meeting far out of the ordinary in its method of procedure. Instead of formal introductions, the presiding officer, a clean-cut man with gray hair, stepped to the front of the platform shortly before 8 o'clock, and said, "Will the audience please take from their seats the song that is there and join in singing it," and they responded so heartily that the refrain "You Shall Not Press a Crown of Thorns Upon the Toiler's Brow" rang against the unpainted rafters and echoed again and again, and when it was finished a mighty cheer went up. And so it was throughout the meeting, and while they were waiting for the arrival of Mr. Bryan, who was speaking in another place, they listened to several speakers. The meeting was presided over entirely by labor organizations and the stage contained a representative from each labor organization. Resolutions were adopted commending the work of the Chicago convention, and proclaiming:

"We believe the present contest to be much more than a struggle between the Democratic and the so-called Republican parties, more than silver against gold; and it is not a fight of the poor against the rich, nor labor against capital, nor the farmer against the artisan or mechanic, nor the creditor against the debtor class; but, when sifted and analyzed and stripped from all sophistry, is a battle of the people against the oligarchy of wealth, founded on special privileges; therefore be it:

CANTON WAS THE MECCA.

Two More Delegations of Loyal Republicans Make the Pilgrimage.

CAME FROM WOOD COUNTY, O., AND MUNCIE, IND.

They Parade to the McKinley Home, Where the Candidate Addresses Them About Short Work and Short Dollars.

CALLED ON THE NOMINEE.

CANTON, O., Sept. 23.—Major McKinley addressed two delegations this afternoon. The first was from Wood county, Ohio, and the second from Muncie, Ind. The latter came in special trains and included four bands. Mr. McKinley in his response to the Muncie delegation said:

"I must congratulate this assemblage of Indians upon the selection of their spokesman, who delivered before me so able and eloquent a speech. He said that 'it is understood I am an American.' That is altogether true. I believe in America for Americans. I believe in an American payroll and I do not believe in diminishing that payroll by giving work to anybody else under another flag while we have an idle man under our flag. Four years ago the laborer was agitating the question of shorter hours. We then had so much to do; I have heard of no discussion of that kind for four years. But I never heard the laboring man discussing the desirability of having short dollars."

"The chief cause of the complaint of our opponents is, first, that we have not enough money, and second, our money is too good. To the first complaint I answer, that the per capita circulating medium of this country has been greater since the so-called crime of 1873 than it ever was before, and it has been greater in the last five years than it ever was in all our history. We have not only the best money in the world, but we have more of it per capita than most nations of the world. We have more money per capita than the United Kingdom, than Germany, than Italy, than Switzerland, Greece, Spain, Austria, Hungary, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Russia, Mexico and the Central and South American states, and more than Japan and China. So that some reason rather than lack of the volume of money must be found to account for the present condition of the country."

"To the second complaint that our money is too good, it would seem to be enough to say that the money of any country cannot be too good; and no nation ever suffers from having its medium of exchange of the highest and best quality. It has been poor money—not good money—that has been the cause of so much loss and ruin in the past, both to individuals and to nations. The older men in this audience will remember that before the war we did business with an uncertain and fluctuating currency known as state bank money. Many of these banks and their notes were absolutely sound; but for the most part they were subject to discount. A number of these banks also broke down and their notes were absolutely worthless. Upon whom did the loss fall? The laboring men and farmers. I allude to this only to show that those who suffer the most from poor money are least able to bear the loss."

"I cannot imagine any interest that can be permanently subserved by having poor money. The bare suggestion of such a proposition to a man of reason meets its instant rejection. From 1862 to 1877 we did business with paper money exclusively, and you will remember that gold was constantly at a premium, ranging from 40 to 100 per cent. Then when a man wanted to borrow money he had to pay a higher rate of interest than he has had to pay since 1879 on a gold basis. Money today is idle because it cannot be profitably and safely invested by those who have it. It is neither lack in the volume of our money nor the quality of our money that is our trouble but the lack of confidence in the steadiness and stability of business."

"The threat of free silver is driving our money in hiding today; to bring it out is to restore confidence, and how will you restore confidence? There is only one way, and that is to destroy through the ballot the party that destroyed confidence. We do not believe that the way to restore confidence is through the mints of the United States. We can only restore confidence and prosperity, not through a debased currency, but through a policy that will restore the wasted revenues to the public treasury and rekindle the fires in American workshops."

MCKINLEY TO YOUNG VOTERS.

Major McKinley, in response to the Wood county delegation, said: "I cannot imagine a body of citizens more representative than that which I see before me here today. The presence of this body of young men who are to vote for the first time next November is to me an inspiring, sight, and that you are so soon to enjoy the priceless privilege of citizenship must be to all of you an inspiring thought. For twenty-one years you have been enjoying our free institutions and the protection and opportunity of our laws without any political power or responsibility. You are soon to assume your share in the government and bear your share of duty and responsibility. I wonder as I look into your faces, whether you fully appreciate the privilege and honor which you are so soon to have."

"I fear some times that few of us estimate suffrage at its true worth. It

Those farmers and workmen who are being hauled to Canton by the railroads at a nominal charge for the ride are having the picnic of their lives. It is a great campaign for them.

SHIPMENTS of iron ore from the mines of Lake Superior for the season to date of the 1st inst., footed up 7,104,092 gross tons. On the corresponding date last year the total shipments from the Lake Superior region amounted to 5,672,051 tons.

EX-SENATOR SAWYER of Wisconsin celebrated his eightieth birthday Tuesday, and admirers of his from all parts of Wisconsin flocked to Oshkosh to assist him in doing it. The senator is a well preserved old gentleman, and notwithstanding his great age he feels vigorous enough to serve another term as one of Wisconsin's representatives in the United States senate if called on to do it.

SEWALL'S wife and son are both working for the gold standard cause, and if Sewall would make up his mind to join them it would be a relief to the silver party. A man who presides over his own household with solite effect is not cut out for the job of presiding over the senate of the United States, with a possibility that he might some day be called on to serve as executive head of the nation.

A DETROIT paper one day this week published a statement in its correspondence from here that the W. J. Bryan club organized here Saturday evening elected as president a railroad man, John Dumond, who had been discharged by the company for which he worked on account of his advocacy of silver coinage.

It is charged that the nomination of Thatcher for governor by the Democrats of New York was in pursuance of a deal with the Republican leaders in that state, engineered by Hill, by the terms of which the electoral vote of the state will go to McKinley and the Democrats will be permitted to gain control of the legislature, so that Hill can be returned as his own successor.

One thing that tells against the silver campaign is the want of money to push it vigorously. All the wealthy concerns of the country are on the side of the gold standard, regardless of the previous political affiliations of their managers.

THE treasury now holds $120,000,000 of gold available for the redemption of the government's paper notes, this being $30,000,000 more than it had two months ago, or before the great banking concerns of the east concluded not to allow another bond sale until after election.

strongest combination that could be put up against them.

The attack of the union miners on the Emmett mine at Leadville was another of those disastrous blunders that organized labor so frequently perpetrates when it is led by men who subordinate judgment to unreasoning passion.

England is the great creditor nation of the world, that there can be no doubt whatever, and it is increasing the great creditor country of the world.

THE only cheering article on the prospect for the pig iron trade that we have noticed in the trade papers for some time we find in the Chicago Journal of Commerce. It is as follows:

No line of production is moving toward a more healthy and systematic status than that of the pig iron interest. With stocks greatly reduced by the recent speculative movement and a great drop in output for August, furnaces are practically in their best position for the year.

IMMIGRATION OF 1895. Information Concerning Numbers, Ages, Occupations, Etc.

The report of the chief of the bureau of statistics on immigration for the year ending June 30, 1895, contains much interesting information, and now that the restriction of immigration is being seriously considered in congress, is deserving of careful study.

The greatest number of immigrants, 47,972, came from Ireland, and of these there was an excess of females of over 7,000, from which may be inferred that the American servant girl question is still being answered from Ireland.

As to the occupations of these immigrants, 1,935 belonged to the professions, 32,547 were skilled in trades and 104,779 were marked as miscellaneous, being bookers, merchants, bankers, agents, brokers, keepers, coachmen, farmers and other recognized vocations.

While our immigration laws are liberal—quite too much so, as many think—there are some restrictions, and it is not everybody that is permitted to come in. We find by this report that 2,394 persons were debarred from entering the country last year.

THE OPPOSING STANDARDS.

A SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT.—I ask space to lay before your readers this statement of England's reasons for opposing the return to silver coinage, made by Gladstone, then premier of England, in the British parliament in February, 1893.

LABOR CAN TAKE CARE OF ITSELF.—I notice that some of the writers and talkers who advocate the gold standard say that if we adopt silver coinage prices will advance but the wage rate will not, and that the workmen should vote for the gold standard for that reason.

I DON'T see any sense in that argument. If free silver sends the prices of what labor produces up that will give the employers of labor just what they want.

IF labor works for small wages now it is because the workers know that their employers are handicapped by the hard times.

THE wealth of this country is in close touch with that of Europe. All the great banking houses of the eastern money centers are practically only branches of greater wealthy people abroad.

At a meeting held April 4, 1896, there were present the following persons: John F. Mack, J. H. Jacobs, James Pendill and D. W. Powell.

On motion, the reading of the minutes of the last meeting was dispensed with. Moved by Mr. Pendill, seconded by Mr. Powell and carried, that the bid of the General Electric company, $4,910; Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, $6,400, and Stanley Electric company, $6,344, be rejected and returned.

At a meeting held April 7, 1896, there were present D. W. Powell, James Pendill and John F. Mack.

The bill of Anthony Pings for tools, amounting to $65.41, was read and allowed at $50, the amount to be applied as rent of city farm.

CAUGHT UP WITH THE HERD. Southern Railway Conductor's Apt Retort to an Impatient Passenger.

Southern railroads have a reputation for slow travel, and in some cases it is well merited. A western traveling man, says Harper's Round Table, making a trip on these lines suffered a great deal of annoyance from this particular failing, but up to the time of the following incident he had enjoyed himself immensely glying the conductors, trainmen or any person having to do with the roads about their rapid transit.

MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

They Ring for the Marriage of Miss MacNaughton and Dr. Farrand. Miss Jessie Douglass MacNaughton of Calumet was married to Dr. Royal T. Farrand of Detroit Tuesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Daniel Stalker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the parlors of the Calumet Hotel. The rooms were tastefully decorated with roses, smilax, evergreens and autumn foliage. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Katherine MacNaughton, as maid of honor. The bride was attired in a gown of mirror moire, trimmed with Duchesse lace, and she carried a cluster of bride roses. The maid of honor wore a gown of rose taffeta, with lace trimmings. After the ceremony a reception and supper was tendered the happy couple at the hotel, to which, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, only near relatives and six of the bride's most intimate lady friends—the Misses Coggin, Hoatson, Childs, Lathrop, Wallbridge and Sutton—were invited. Dr. and Mrs. Farrand left yesterday for a trip to New York. They will be at home at Detroit after Oct. 15. Mrs. Farrand is a daughter of the late lamented Archibald MacNaughton. She goes to her new home with the best wishes of a large circle of friends for her future happiness. Dr. A. A. Davis came from Great Falls, Mont., to attend the wedding, as did Dr. Peter D. MacNaughton and James MacNaughton of Iron Mountain, the latter gentlemen being brothers of the bride.

At the Tamarack.

The recent improvement in the Tamarack as indicated by the rich grade of rock disclosed in sinking south of No. 4 shaft tends to confirm the position so sturdily held all along by Superintendent Parnell relative to the permanent character of the mineral wealth of the Calumet lode in its prolongation through the Tamarack property. Mr. Parnell has never wavered in his faith in the richness of the conglomerate however much, in passing through it or sinking or driving, it has shown at times streaks of rock rather below the average. This is an incident no more peculiar to the working of the Calumet conglomerate in Tamarack ground than it has been for years past in the property of the Calumet & Hecla. It is understood that the wise son of No. 4 will be sunk to a depth sufficient to determine whether such sinking will warrant the further deepening of the shaft, and it is expected such will be the case.

The outlook of the mine generally from north to south is highly encouraging, and it makes one wonder why for months past the Tamarack should have occupied relatively so low a point on the market at the Hub as it has done. Those interested financially in the mine are particularly gratified by the outlook today.

He Struck It Lucky.

The many friends of J. C. Foley, a former Hancock man and well known throughout the entire peninsula, will be glad to learn that his recent mining speculations give promise of making him wealthy. In speaking of his gold mine, the Rainy Lake Journal says: "When it will crush sixty tons of ore per day. The lowest assay is $20 in free milling gold to the ton. The estimated yield of gold bullion will then be $1,200 per day. The total expense of mining and milling the ore is $5 per ton, which will leave a year's profit of $325,000 for J. C. Foley and his associates, and those who read this should remember it was the push of the nerve and the grit that put Joe Foley on the road to wealth."

Will Give a Fair.

A meeting of the ladies of the congregation of St. Patrick's church, Hancock, was held Tuesday evening and it was decided to hold a fair for the benefit of the parish, beginning in October and continuing for a week. The presidents of the different tables were appointed, as follows: Mrs. Thomas Conway, Mrs. J. T. Finnegan, Mrs. P. S. Meehan, Mrs. J. Howard and Mrs. Charles Ward. An interesting program will be rendered during each evening of the fair.

He Goes Up a Notch.

Lincoln Burgan of Lake Linden has been tendered and accepted the position of assistant superintendent of the Tamarack-Oscoda mills. Mr. Burgan succeeds James C. Glanville, who resigned the position owing to ill health, and who will shortly leave for the west.

The attention of parents and school teachers in the vicinity of Laurium depot is called to the dangerous custom of school children of attempting to climb between the cars of the freight train due there about the time of the close of school. It is very dangerous, and only a few days ago a serious accident to a four-year-old child was narrowly averted.

Where It Is Hot.

"Say, if you people think this is hot you ought to have my job for about a week and then see what you'd have to say," said a tall, thin man to a group of perspiring unfortunates who stood on one of the downtown corners one afternoon during the recent hot spell.

"Why, what do you do?" came the feeble query from one of the sweltering ones, almost too overcome to be curious.

"I'm an oiler in the engine room of that big building. And, say, this air out here is a picnic to what we get down there. If you fellows think this 90 in the shade is hot or this 100 per cent humidity business is hard to stand, you want to come down where we work eight hours a day with the thermometer making all the time from 110 to 120 degrees and see what it feels like." But he never got any farther, for at the bare mention of 110 degrees the group melted away like the mist before the rising sun, several members being seen a few moments later holding themselves up in front of a soda water fountain with their eyes turned heavenward.—N. Y. Tribune.

The big, hearty, healthy man is a continual irritant to his dyspeptic friend. One man in a hundred is perfectly healthy. The other 99 have some digestive trouble, and perhaps more than 50 per cent of these could trace their trouble to that most prevalent evil—constipation. It's a simple thing of itself, but like many simple things, it may grow and become complicated. Constipation is the root of nine-tenths of the sickness of men, and of a large proportion of the sickness of women. It can be cured. It can be cured easily, naturally and quickly. There is no reason save that of carelessness why it should cause the trouble that it does. Nature is continually working as hard as she can to throw off impurities, and to force out poisonous refuse matter. Nature is not a dray-horse and should not be overworked. Nature is systematic. Some little thing may interfere with the system, and cause serious derangement. The removal of this little impediment sets the wheels working again without any trouble. This is exactly what Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do. They assist nature in a gentle, healthful, efficient way. There is nothing violent about their action, and yet it is just as certain as if it were twice as violent. The use of the "Pellets" doesn't derange the system in any way, and once it is in order, you can stop taking them. There are unscrupulous druggists, who will tell you that something else is "just as good." They are mistaken—or worse. Whether they are ignorant or untruthful matters little to you if you do not get the "Pellets." Insist on getting what you ask for.

GYMNASTIC TRAINING.

The Past and the Future of Physical Education.

By unanimous consent Adolph Spiess was the inventor of the method and exercise on which the programmes of gymnastics are based to-day. Few schoolmasters have left such deep traces in education; few, perhaps, have done so much work as Spiess. He taught, in the public schools at Burgdorf, history, geography, drawing and gymnastics—all at the same session. Poor as he was, he would make a three-hours' walk every week to the Munchebuchsee gymnasium, and, after two hours of hard exercise, he would return, always on foot, tired but not discontented. Burgdorf is a little town in the canton of Bern. Its castle crowns the summit of a hill. One day I visited the town, went up to the castle, and, passing through it to the terrace, sat down under an old linden to admire the landscape and gaze on the snow-capped Alps whitening in the distance. An instructor in the high school of Burgdorf who had gone with me on this walk pointed out to me the windows of a room in the castle where Spiess' first school had been. In that room boys and girls had first gone through those exercises which are now part of the training in all public schools. All there is just as it was in 1833, when Spiess came from Germany, full of hope, happy in being called there as Pestalozzi's successor. Pestalozzi had written in that very castle his book "How Gertrude Teaches Her Children," as well as the "Mother Book," no less celebrated in the history of popular pedagogy. Spiess tells us how the gymnastic exercises were carried on in the castle only in winter and when it rained, but at other times how he would lead his boys out into the open air to exercise in the playground which is down in the valley, a grassy meadow protected from the sun on the south by a high cliff.

Spiess' best years were passed in that meadow. The four volumes of this work on gymnastics were thought out and put into practice on that playground. An old horizontal beam on two rusty supports, which is still there, is probably the oldest piece of gymnastic apparatus in Europe.—A. Mosso, in Chautauquan.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Cailloutte, Druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at E. Farnham's Drug Store.

DETROIT

Striking Facts Concerning the State Metropolis.

THE HANDSOMEST CITY IN THE WEST AND A LEADER IN ENTERPRISE.

Depot of Supplies for Michigan and Adjacent Territory.

William E. Curtis, the talented newspaper correspondent, thus entertainingly alludes to some of the beauties of the metropolis of Michigan:

"The people of Detroit have utilized the abundant natural resources for rest and recreation that surround them, in a very attractive manner. They have beautiful parks, and a magnificent boulevard system. Belle Isle, which sits in the river opposite the city and only a few minutes' journey from the court house [City Hall], is a lovely place. It has been decorated by a skilled and tasteful landscape gardener, and its drives and groves and lawns are unsurpassed. Up and down the river for a distance of thirty miles are clusters of hotels, club houses, cottages and villas and other private and public pleasure resorts, which offer attractions to all classes at all prices and easily accessible. Along the St. Clair ship canal, upon which the government has expended so many millions to make a channel that carries more commerce than any other waterway in the world, is a row of cottages and clubs several miles in length that are built upon stilts, like the lake dwellers in Paraguay and the people of Maracallo, which Americus Vesputius saw when he cruised along the Spanish main in 1505. He called that country Venecuela, which means 'Little Venice.' The people of Michigan also call this cool and lovely place after the famous city on the Adriatic. Some of the houses are surrounded by lawns and groves of trees planted upon the reclaimed ground, and are very attractive. They say it is always cool there, that mosquitoes are unknown, and that you can catch fish enough for breakfast by dropping a line out of your bedroom window."

Besides Belle Isle Park, Detroit has nineteen other parks, the next in size being Log Cabin Park on Woodward avenue, one hundred and twenty acres. These twenty parks comprise within a fraction of eight hundred and eighty-seven acres of land devoted to the recreation and health of the residents of the city, and the pleasure of visitors. The value of this property is over six and a quarter millions of dollars. The Grand Boulevard is a semi-circle over eleven miles in length.

Detroit's Public Library contains nearly one hundred and forty thousand volumes. About two thousand volumes are worn out by use and replaced every year.

She has a Museum of Art which has cost in buildings and grounds one hundred and twenty-seven thousand dollars. The collections therein are valued at one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, and they were all given to the Museum by Detroit citizens.

She has sixty-one public school buildings, valued with the ground they stand on at over two millions three hundred and forty thousand dollars. Seven hundred and thirty-seven teachers instruct the thirty-five thousand pupils in these schools. Besides, there are probably fifteen thousand pupils in the various parochial and private schools.

Detroit has two hundred and twenty-five miles of paved streets, one hundred and fifty-eight miles of public sewers, and two hundred and eighty-five miles of lateral sewers. The city is lighted at night by a plant which she owns and which cost over six hundred and thirty thousand dollars. About forty thousand electric lights blaze every night in her streets.

The official municipal manual gives her population as two hundred and eighty thousand. The city directory figures the number within her borders as over three hundred and sixty thousand. The area of the city is twenty-nine square miles.

Over one million six hundred and twenty thousand dollars was expended for new buildings in Detroit during the first six months of 1896.

Detroit contains the tallest commercial building outside of New York and Chicago—the new Majestic Building, fourteen stories and two hundred and eleven feet high.

The above scattered facts show that the State metropolis is not only a beautiful, comfortable and otherwise highly enjoyable place of residence, but that she is an immense and fast-growing commercial and industrial center. In several branches of trade, among which are the manufacture of cars, drugs, stoves, matches, varnish, soda-and-pine, and in the seed business, Detroit leads every other city in America.

Naturally, Detroit is the wholesale depot for all Michigan and the adjacent territory. Here are some of her leaders in their respective lines of commerce, manufactures and finance:

CRUSHERS DOING GOOD WORK.

About 600 Tons of Ore Crushed Daily at the Cliffs Shaft.

The ore crushers at the Cliffs shaft of the Cleveland-Cliffs company are doing big work. At no time since they were put in, over two years ago, have such good results been obtained as now. Since starting the crushers early last spring there have been but two mishaps. These were of no great consequence, as the broken parts were in each case replaced within a few hours and the delay occasioned was slight.

Over six hundred tons of ore is being crushed daily on an average, this being enough to load twenty of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company's cars. To do this work the crushers are not crowded any. John Beal is in charge of the plant and he says he has learned from experience that it does not pay to run them to their full capacity. The ore is very hard and the weaker parts are quite liable to give out in case the crushers are forced. The plant is operated ten hours of each week day, no night work being done. Including Mr. Beal, there are ten men employed about the crushers. These handle the machinery, dump the cars and attend to the chutes. One man is kept busy watching the ore as it passes from the crusher to the cars to see that no pieces above a certain size pass through. The ore is reduced to about the size of a hen's egg. This is said to be finer than the ore is crushed at other places where similar work is being done.

The mammoth stock piles at the Cliffs shafts are gradually getting smaller. The reduction this season is quite noticeable. There is now not much more than half the quantity of ore there that there was when the property suspended operations in 1893. If the present rate of shipment continues during the remainder of the season there will be very little left of the pile nearest "A" shaft. There were about twenty men loading cars from two of the piles yesterday. About one in every six cars loaded is fine ore which does not have to go through the crushers. A small percentage of the ore crushed is from the Cleveland hard ore mines. The latter is treated only when orders for that grade of ore are received.

McKinley Club Organized.
A McKinley and Hobart club was organized Tuesday evening at the Winthrop location. A meeting was announced on very short notice to be held at the town hall. Before the meeting was called to order, however, one hundred or more of those who desired to get into the room could not find places there. Jacob Flaek was chosen president and John Hult secretary. Among those who were present from this city and addressed the assembly were George Tucker, Andrew Sandberg, Joseph Richards, John Farm and John Carlson. The McKinley Glee club was also on hand and rendered several campaign selections. The membership of the club promises to be large. Nels Majhamu, S. Eison, O. Sorsen, M. Kashi and Andrew Mickland organized a McKinley club among the Finnish voters at Republic Sunday evening. Forty-eight of those present signed the membership roll. There are over one hundred Finnish voters at Republic and the officers of the club expect to enroll the greater number of these between now and election day.

The membership of the Finnish McKinley club here is now 246. Several new names were presented at the last meeting and more are expected to join at the next meeting, to be held Sunday afternoon.

A program of speeches and songs is being arranged for a meeting of the Ishpeming McKinley and Hobart club, to be held next Saturday evening at the club room.

Sold Beer Without License.
Mary Ault, who conducts a restaurant on First street, was arrested yesterday on complaint of August Brodin for selling beer without a license. Brodin claims that he bought two bottles of beer from Mrs. Ault one Sunday recently. At that time he did not think of entering complaint against her, but since then he has heard that she conducted a rough place, so considered it his duty as a citizen to make the complaint. Mrs. Ault was placed under bonds to appear at the December term of the circuit court for trial. Prosecuting Attorney Young conducted the case for the people and Mrs. Ault was represented by Al. K. Sedgwick.

Football Saturday.
The football teams of the Ishpeming and Marquette high schools will meet Saturday afternoon at the Union Park grounds. As this will be the first game of the season here a reasonably large attendance is expected. The admission will be twenty-five and fifteen cents, the latter for children. The local team expects to meet the Ashland, Duluth, Houghton Mining school and, perhaps, the Menominee teams before the close of the season.

Will Extend the Trestle.
The trestle from which the city's garbage is dumped near the St. Lawrence mine will be extended. Such a large amount of garbage has been placed there that the additional trestle room is necessary. The extension will be about sixty feet. The addition will likely be built within the next week or two.

City Attorney W. T. Potter got home Tuesday from Chicago.

Will Jernquist was up from Menominee yesterday on a visit to his folks.

Miss Ellen Foubert of Sagola, Mich., is visiting in the city at the home of her uncle, M. B. Toutloff.

Several of the Republican voters of Ishpeming will take in the rally at Marquette this evening.

The advance sale of reserved seats for all attractions at the Ishpeming Opera House will hereafter be at Tillson's drug store, instead of at Sinclair's old stand.

Rev. H. H. Allen, M. D., of Cincinnati, who spent the greater part of the summer visiting Rev. M. M. Allen, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, left for home last evening.

A. F. Draper, representing a Chicago grocery house, was in the city yesterday for the first time in several weeks. He has just recovered from a severe illness. He spent about four weeks in a hospital.

All who are interested in the organization of a musical association are invited to attend the meeting to be held this evening for that purpose at the Presbyterian church. The meeting will be called to order as soon after 8 o'clock as possible.

Dr. C. O. Boyce of Marquette, accompanied by his friends, J. W. Druft and Warren Ijams of Terre Haute, Ind., spent yesterday in the city looking over the mines. The two latter were very much interested in the mines but they had no desire to go underground.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE OPEN.

Good Addresses on Agricultural Topics Interest the Farmers Attending.

CROWD COMES OUT TO THE EVENING SESSION.

Prof. Frost Makes His First Public Address in Marquette—Educational Needs in the Country—Other Local Speakers.

FARMERS ARE IN SESSION.

Yesterday morning the first session of the farmers' institute began. It opened with a light attendance, as the early hour of starting was inconvenient for the farmers, and the townspeople naturally chose to attend the more popular afternoon and evening sessions.

The attendance in the morning was thirty-five; in the afternoon sixty, and at night there were fully three hundred. Nearly every seat on the main floor of the city hall assembly room was occupied, and there were many who went to the gallery for better accommodation.

The morning session passed off exactly according to program. It was opened by a musical selection, and a prayer by the Rev. G. L. Hanawalt. After these Mayor Jacobs welcomed Marquette's country cousins to the city in a somewhat longer speech than is his custom. The mayor even grew facetious and told of his early farming experiences in a stone quarry at the age of ten.

Professor C. F. Wheeler, of the state agricultural college at Lansing, was the first of the educational speakers. He discussed "Grasshoppers and Other Insects," telling farmers of the little bug pests and how best to combat them. "The Farm Dairy" was in the hands of Henry Vandenberg, the first local speaker. This topic, and the "Value of Improved Stock and How to Improve It," by William Ball, of Hamburg, was followed by discussions which gave considerable aid to those who wanted additional knowledge. The morning session closed with a solo by Rev. G. L. Hanawalt.

Music opened the exercises of the afternoon. George Freeman, late secretary of the Upper Peninsula Poultry association, gave an address on "Poultry Keeping." In brief part his paper is as follows:

POINTS ON POULTRY.

Farmers who keep poultry, have as a rule, no proper house for them; they are crowded into a small building which is full of cracks, broken windows, and when the cold weather sets in the birds are chilled, their combs and feet frozen, and the food which should go into eggs, will be drawn upon to supply animal heat. The ordinary barn yard fowl is useful and has served a good purpose in the past, and this class will continue in demand as setters and mothers, but when it comes to the question of profit of dollars and cents they cannot hope to compete with their thoroughbred cousins, and no well informed person will undertake poultry keeping with hens laying 75 to 100 eggs in a year when a better class of hens that will lay from 150 to 200 eggs in the same length of time, can be had at a small additional outlay at the start. In this vicinity, eggs come nearer to representing cash than any other product of the farm.

To build a good poultry house it is not necessary to build a fine one nor one that is expensive. The thing most essential is to have a building that is absolutely frost and water proof. A slight elevation is desirable to keep the ground beneath the house free from dampness. With our hen-house and yards in shape the next thing is to select a breed. Don't take the word of any fancier as to which breed is the best for you, but get a description of the different breeds. Now subscribe for several good poultry papers, in which you will find the experience of many, and then make your selection of the breed you like the best. I would recommend only one breed, or at the most two. Thoroughbred poultry or first crosses alone should be used for laying stock. By first crosses I mean the offspring of two different breeds of thoroughbreds.

With only the intermission of a discussion Professor C. F. Wheeler followed Mr. Freeman, speaking on "Bad Weeds and How to Eradicate Them." He explained at some length the different varieties of weeds, how they travel, and the best things to do to hold them in check. The professor makes the assertion that weeds cannot be eradicated. The farmer will always have them with him, but if he goes about it right he may have them under suggestion. Wherever weeds appear, he says, it is an indication of two things, the land is losing strength, or the farmer is lazy. Weeds and crops cannot grow successfully on the same piece of ground at the same time. From this he reasons that if the crops are pushed and made to occupy the ground during the growing part of the year the weeds will have a hard fight for existence.

Noxious weeds, according to Professor Wheeler, are on the increase, in the upper peninsula and all over the state. The seeds are coming here in many ways; from the west in baled hay, from Europe in foreign crop seeds, and in many other manners. The professor had with him on the platform a Russian thistle which he had found in a walk about the town the day before. This weed is one of the worst plant pests of the farmer, and one which has been the cause of millions of dollars loss to this country and in Europe. The only way to eradicate the Russian thistle is to pull it up before it is distributed. Marquette are just now in a fine time to flower.

A discussion followed on the part of the professor, which all the gardeners and gardeners in the audience seemed to find of great interest. After a few minutes taken up in this manner Professor Wheeler again took the floor and gave some "Hints About the Apple Orchard." The discussion was quite as free during the professor's talk as afterwards. W. B. Roberts and L. J. Lavoie of Chocoma shared the floor with the professor, and the triumvirate gave their brother fruit growers the benefit of their experience. It was asserted that the best hope of the upper peninsula as an apple growing country was to raise a series of seedling apples which should be of good quality and hardy.

There was a slight change in the order of exercises in the evening from that laid down in the program. The first number was a vocal solo, "The Golden City," by Miss Cora Hanawalt, rendered so charmingly that the audience insisted vociferously upon an encore.

H. H. Frost, the new principal of the high school was the opening speaker. Professor Frost discussed "Education" in connection with farm opportunities and life. Among other things he said: "I wish to plead for the boys and girls of the country school. There are two things to be taken into consideration with the country school. The size of the school and its supervision, and the educational attitude of the parents of the children. If anyone will try to call to mind some country school with which has been familiar I think it will be a small building set in the corner of a lot that would otherwise be waste ground, and in most any stage of deploration.

"As the nearest way to the heart of a man is through his stomach, the nearest way to the mind of a child is to make its school surroundings inviting and set before it an educational ideal in the midst of which is the bread of life, true knowledge.

"Another point is the size of schools. You can no more have a good school with six pupils than you can have a strong galvanic battery with three cells."

This brought the speaker to a discussion of what was the best unit of school territory, whether the county, township or district, so that the schools might be of equal educational merit and their terms of equal length, the same number of months in the year. The principal argument advanced for using the township as the unit is the saving in money and in men. In Wisconsin where the unit was changed from district to township it resulted in saving many thousands of dollars to the schools, and in cutting down the number of school officials from 18,000 to 3,000. California pays teachers out of the state funds, giving wages according to grade to instructors in city and country and paying higher wages as a minimum than is paid to almost the best country teacher in this part of the United States. As an instance of a successful application of the county unit Augusta, Me., was cited. The taxes are assessed according to the valuation of property, but the school fund is divided according to the school population. This gives the country one fourth of the distribution where it pays one-tenth of the taxation.

"Augusta realizes," the professor declared, "that every city needs to be surrounded by an industrious and intelligent people. We need in the farmer's home all that tends to produce culture in the city. There is no more profitable or systematic way of giving for the rich man than to step up ungrudgingly and pay his school tax. The selfish rich often complain of being taxed to educate other people's children. The answer to that objection is that we educate not only for the child's sake, but for the sake of civilization.

"People regard children as a hindrance, and they put them to work to get something out of them as soon as possible. If some of our fathers had been as thoughtful in the begetting of children as they were in stock raising, they might have children today who would be a blessing and an honor to them in their old age."

The professor closed his address by quoting Carlyle, who said "It is a catastrophe that one soul should remain in ignorance which has a capacity for better things."

BUSINESS ON THE FARM.

After a vocal selection by Miss Cora Hanawalt and Messrs. Hanawalt, Dock and Loudy, Hon. William Ball occupied the time of the institute with a paper on "Some Hints on the Business Side of Farm Life."

There is no business side of farm life, Mr. Ball says, one side being distinguished from another, but there is business in all sides. One of the principal things necessary for successful business is organization, and for this Mr. Ball advocated farmers' clubs. The time has arrived when farming should be conducted on the same business principles as other occupations. A farmer should understand his soil and his climate, and should select the crops that would do best under the conditions, and understand the cost of raising his products.

He should be informed as to the probable demand for the crops he expects to sell. The future farmer must utilize the working time of the whole year, not use up in the winter the profits of the fruitful summer. He must make every working day take care of itself. He should look carefully after the leaks, many of the more prominent of which Mr. Ball enumerated.

He should know how to buy intelligently, keep posted on the markets and read the farm journals. Every farmer should be in communication with the Lansing agricultural college and should take the free bulletins.

These and many other things Mr. Ball gave as being hints on the business side of farming. To farmers who are raising the grains Professor Wheeler's talk on "Smut and Rusts" should have been of considerable value. The professor showed how these fungus growths started, and how they continued to grow. His talk was illustrated by large pictures of them as they appeared under a glass. For this pest the professor assured his audience there was a sure prevention.

Louis J. Lavoie, secretary of the institute, was the evening's last speaker. The first number he was "Pruning Blackberries and Raspberries," his practical knowledge of these plants was displayed by illustrations of his work from the stage. He proceeded with him a number of minutes, and proceeded in full confidence to prune them according to their needs. While some of the audience thought his talk was one of the most interesting of the evening.

The exercises closed with a piano solo by Miss Erbeling.

It pleases us when our competitors inadvertently advertise our business. We have never paid a physician a percentage on his prescriptions—no reputable physician or druggist would be a party to any such arrangement. If physicians have a preference as to where their prescriptions are prepared you may be sure there is a good reason for it. It does not interest our customers as to how large or small our expenses may be. The only important question to them is, can they get what they ask for at a reasonable price and be treated with civility. Our constantly increasing business goes to show that our customers are satisfied. And we are in better shape than ever to cater to the wants, at
