MR. BRYAN AT THE HUB.

He Faces the Largest Audiences of His Tour Through the East.

MORE THAN HUNDRED THOUSAND HEAR AND APPLAUD.

Sewall Is Also There and Again Tells the People He Is on the Ticket to Stay—Enthusiasm Was Great.

TALKED TO MONSTER CROWDS. BOSTON, Sept. 25.—This has been an eventful night in Boston, and a temporary lull foreshadows excitement tomorrow. Messrs. Bryan and Sewall addressed two monster crowds, one on Boston common and the other in Music Hall. Conservative estimates say 70,000 persons were present at the first gathering and at the latter the house was jammed and thousands were turned away.

Tomorrow the state convention of Democrats will be held in Music Hall. George Fred Williams addressed the meeting in Music Hall prior to the appearance of Mr. Bryan, and the wildest enthusiasm and excitement marked his address. He made a severe attack on the gold standard element of the party and was wildly cheered at every sentence. He charged that corrupt methods would be resorted to keep the silver element out of the convention and called for the silver delegates to remain in the hall all night.

This proposition received great manifestations of approval, and at present 350 delegates are in the hall to remain until the convention opens. Speeches are being made and the cheering continues. An appeal to the police to clear the house was made, presumably by the gold element, but the police commissioner declined to interfere. Then the delegates sent for meals and prepared to camp for the night. While the excitement during Williams' speech was at its height Mr. Sewall, and later Mr. Bryan, appeared and were greeted by uproarious applause.

A DINNER AND RECEPTION. At night members of the Bimetallic union tendered Mr. Bryan a dinner and reception. Vice President Boynton spoke at length, praising the patriotism of the people of the west. Ringing cheers followed Mr. Boynton's speech and then Mr. Bryan responded briefly, saying it was more than gratifying to find here in Boston so many who are in hearty accord with the sentiments of the Chicago platform. For a moment an expressive silence followed the conclusion of his short speech, and then the audience broke forth in loud, long and continued cheers.

Outside the hotel Mr. Williams appeared before the throng and said he would speak a few words for Bryan, who had already made several speeches during the day, but Bryan was called for. Finally, in response to their repeated shouts the candidate was forced to address the throng.

2 a. m.—About three hundred delegates are still in their seats and prominent delegates are addressing them. It is feared the lights may be turned out in order to force the delegates to retire.

2:30 a. m.—The doors of Music Hall are locked and policemen on guard, who will allow no one to enter, the lunch ordered for the delegates being also locked out.

HIS LARGEST AUDIENCE.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The audience which greeted Mr. Bryan on Boston common was the largest which he has faced since he has started on his tour through the "enemy's country." No estimate placed the number of people at less than sixty thousand, while many even place it at 80,000. Mr. Bryan addressed a big crowd at Worcester at 3:30. It was very enthusiastic and cheered at every telling point. Immediately after his Worcester speech Mr. Bryan started for this city. The party was half an hour late and the crowd became impatient. Mr. Bryan with his running mate, Vice Presidential Candidate Sewall, and the members of the reception committee occupied a platform in the center of the broad campus and the crowd entirely surrounded the little spot. The enthusiasm for Bryan was greater than the Boston common had ever seen before, and it was fully seven minutes before he was allowed to speak. Mr. Bryan said, in part:

"I came down to Massachusetts to present to your people the gospel of Democracy as I understand it. That is the way we do. I do not claim to have any authority except that conferred upon me by the Democratic convention. If you doubt my Democracy, I can point to that convention as a better certificate than any bolting Democrat can find.

EFFECTS OF THE GOLD STANDARD.

"We lay down this proposition, that the more money there is in the country the easier it is for any person who has something to sell to get his share of that money. Our opponents plant themselves upon the doctrine that the less money the whole people have the more money each individual will have. That is a mathematical proposition which you cannot find in any arithmetic, but it seems to be a proposition upon which Republican financiering is based.

"The gold standard fills our streets with men who are anxious to work but find no opportunity. The gold standard, by increasing idleness, brings poverty to those who should have enough and to spare; and when you bring people into poverty, when you take away their means of gaining a livelihood, you make tramps out of men who, under just conditions, would be self-supporting and contributors to the nation's wealth and greatness. And, last of all, when you drive men to hunger and despair you make criminals out of them. The gold standard is a failure if you will accept the testimony of those in every land that has had it, the testimony of those who create wealth and add to the national productiveness.

"We have commenced a warfare against the gold standard. I beg you to recognize the importance of this issue. If it results in elevating to office those who believe in the free coinage of silver, reform will come now. If it results in their defeat, it will simply postpone for four years more the bringing of real relief to the people of this country."

SEWALL TALKS TO THE CROWD.

With this last remark Mr. Bryan closed his address and changed his position to the other side of the platform, as he had been obliged to do so many as eight times during his address. Facing the portion of the crowd which seemed the largest he called his companion on the Democratic ticket to his side, and both stood upon chairs. For the first time in the state the two candidates were seen side by side. In introducing his running mate, Mr. Bryan said:

"I introduce to you a man who, way up in Maine, was willing to stand for free coinage when his neighbors were against it."

Mr. Sewall said:

"It is with great satisfaction to me that I have this opportunity to see you candidate for president, and I will also say it is great satisfaction to me to let you know that his associate is still on the ticket. No less a person than himself asked me that question tonight, whether I was on the ticket yet or not, and I am glad of the opportunity to say, vain as it may appear for me, that your nominee for vice president is still on the ticket and he will always be during this campaign."

"My friends, we are in this fight to stay. This is a fight between the people on one side—the producers of wealth and the defenders of our country—against the prosperous class, as we are told by the other party—the money barons and their European allies. I need not tell you when such parties are allied against each other which will win."

ON THE WAY TO BOSTON.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 25.—Candidate Bryan left Hartford, Conn., this morning to invade the "enemy's country" still further. The first stop was at Windsor. At Thomaston he was cheered enthusiastically by the crowd about the depot. In this city Mr. Bryan spoke to a large crowd. He argued the truth of the cause which he represents from the willingness of the people to stake their all upon the correctness of their convictions. He denied the movement had been started and is supported by mine-owners; declared the support came from the mass of the people, who do not own a bullion. He left for Boston after dinner.

FOUR BROKE THE RECORD.

Gimm Wins the Twenty-four-Hour Bicycle Race at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The American record was broken by four men in the twenty-four-hour bicycle race which closed at the Coliseum at 9 o'clock tonight. The score at the finish was Gimm, 486 miles 1,151 yards; Waller, 483 miles 968 yards; Schinner, 462 miles 567 yards; Miller, 459 miles 233 yards; Myers, 427 miles 887 yards. The American record for twenty-four hours was 453 miles, hence Gimm beat it by over thirty-four miles. Waller, Schinner and Miller also beat the record.

It was seen early in the day that the American record was to be wiped out, and it appeared to be equally certain that the world's record of 533 miles 1,493 yards, made by Riveire, would not be touched. This detracted somewhat from the interest in the match, but nevertheless an immense crowd was in the building to watch the finish.

Waller, Schinner and Miller were the only men riding at 9 o'clock. Gimm kept at it until close up to the hour, when seeing he had first place for sure, he retired with 486 miles to his credit, and Myers, seeing he had no chance to pass the man next to him, also dropped out.

There has been some feeling between Waller and Gimm, and the former rode very hard during the afternoon to make up the difference between his score and that of Gimm, and despite the earnest work of Gimm Waller gained eighteen miles in the last seven hours.

THEY SHOVED THE QUEER.

Brooklyn Street Car Conductors in Uncle Sam's Clutches.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The arrest in this city of William Knapp and wife and Thomas Scott for coin counterfeiting may lead to the discovery of an extensive conspiracy for coining and passing bogus silver. Two Brooklyn street railway conductors were arrested by United States secret service agents. Both had a quantity of counterfeit half dollars in their possession. It is believed these coins came from Knapp and Scott, and that other street car conductors have been engaged in passing the bogus coin.

THE VENEZUELAN BOUNDARY.

Report of the Commission to Be Made in December.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The report of the Venezuelan commission, appointed last January to investigate the British-Venezuelan boundary line in dispute, will probably be made to the president shortly before congress convenes in December. It was expected the report might be ready by Nov. 1, but complications in connection with the work in Holland caused delay. The several members of the commission have been at work on the different branches of the subject all summer.

BOLD DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

Foundry Company's Office in Chicago Suburb Is Visited by Two Bandits.

COVER THE FIVE MEN PRESENT WITH REVOLVERS.

Thieves Secure $1,000 and Escape in Safety Although Chased by Hundreds—They Fire Into Crowd, Injuring Several.

IN TRUE JESSE JAMES STYLE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Two men, carefully disguised, committed a daring robbery at the Union Foundry company's office, in Brighton Park, this afternoon and robbed the company of sixteen hundred dollars. They then escaped by means of a buggy, but before they had shot one man and fired several shots into a crowd of people who were chasing them. A patrol wagon gave chase but did not succeed in capturing the robbers.

The foundry is in a lonesome place and no other buildings are near it. In the office when the robbers entered were D. F. O'Neill, president of the company; M. A. Rourke, treasurer; C. R. Hopke, general superintendent; Charles O. Gorman, clerk, and John O'Neill, clerk. Rourke was engaged in filling the envelopes of the men preparatory to paying off, and the top of his desk was covered with money.

The robbers compelled the five men to line up, and while one kept them covered with two big revolvers the other scooped up all the money in sight and both made a dash for the door. They had left a buggy standing near the building and, springing into it, they drove rapidly north across the prairie. The robbers were pursued by President O'Neill and Rourke and about one hundred men and a general fusillade of shots was exchanged between the robbers and pursuers.

At Thirty-sixth street and California avenue the buggy tipped over and threw the robbers into the street. The patrol wagon was not far behind at this time and it was thought they would surely be captured. The thieves, however, quickly picked themselves up and dashed across the prairie and came out on Grand avenue.

Near the corner stood Frank Nyhoff's milk wagon and the robbers leaped in. The shorter man drew a revolver and fired one shot at Nyhoff, the bullet taking effect in the right leg above the knee. The robbers whipped up the horse, and up to a late hour had not been captured. Later the horse and wagon of the milkman were found standing in an alley. The robbers are described as "long" and "short" men.

FOUGHT TO A DRAW.

Tommy White Makes a Good Showing Against George Dixon.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—George Dixon of Boston and Tommy White of Chicago fought twenty rounds to a draw tonight at the Broadway Athletic club. Probably five thousand persons witnessed the fight, which was unusually fine. Each was said to weigh 125 pounds. The odds were 2 to 1 on Dixon.

The first seven rounds were not eventful and the honors were about even. Both fought hard. In the eighth both jabbed lefts on the face and Dixon's mouth began to bleed. First blood was for White. In the next five rounds both landed often and each brought blood. The fighting was fast and furious but not sensational.

In the fifteenth White had Dixon's right eye in trouble. These last three rounds were White's and he looked good enough to stay out the twenty rounds. In the sixteenth the men battered each other furiously and Dixon's eye suffered again. In the next three rounds hard smashing on the head, nose and body was continued and both men showed its effect.

In the twentieth both smashed rights and lefts on the face and body to a clinch. Rapid fighting with rights and lefts in hurricane style followed. It was one of the best rounds seen in this vicinity. Dixon grew very tired, as he clinched repeatedly. But his efforts early in the fight had weakened him, while the Chicago boy seemed to gain in strength. The crowd yelled words of encouragement to both pugilists. When the bell ended the contest the referee declared the bout a draw. Many who watched the fight were of the opinion White had a shade the better of the bout.

TO SETTLE SULTAN'S HAREM.

Britain, Russia and France Said to Have Made an Agreement.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 25.—The Guardian understands an agreement is probable between Great Britain, Russia and France in order to bring about a settlement of the eastern question, the cooperation of France being purchased by an understanding regarding Egypt. Continuing, The Guardian expresses the belief that the scheme suggested is to neutralize both Egypt and Turkey under an international guarantee, with their rulers under international tutelage.

FIXED INCOMES.

It is claimed by the advocates of the gold standard that free coinage will work hardship to the possessors of fixed incomes because the purchasing power of the dollar will be cut in half.

"The dollar buys more now than ever before," they say to the possessor of a "fixed income," and they ask: "Do you want it to buy less than now?"

It is an appeal to selfishness, and as most persons have a streak of selfishness in their composition the appeal is likely to have some weight. But who are the people with "fixed incomes?" They number but an insignificant few in comparison with the great mass.

Those who have loaned money on unquestionable security may be so classed, provided their investments continue to earn the stipulated interest.

The whole body of wage workers and the great mass of people on salaries cannot so consider themselves. Bookkeepers, clerks and the higher class employes in business houses and in the employ of corporations are paid by salaries, but there is no assurance of fixity of income in their case.

When business is bad and profits are low or are transformed into losses, salaries are in danger of being reduced, or the number of employes is decreased and incomes disappear altogether. It is, then, not a question of how much a dollar will buy, but how to get a dollar to buy with.

Mechanics, laborers and all the various descriptions of what are generally understood by wage workers, have no fixity of income. The scale of wages varies with the demand for their services, but the most important question with them is that of getting work to do.

The purchasing power of the dollar steadily increases as prices fall, but the chances of getting the dollar to purchase with diminish in proportion, if not more rapidly.

Even those whose incomes are derived from investments in industrial securities or in mortgages on land are in danger of discovering that under the existing gold standard there is no fixity to their incomes. When shrinking business and falling prices extinguish margins for profit, interest and dividends cannot be paid and holders of securities are deprived of their incomes and cannot turn their investments into cash without heavy loss.

With free coinage of silver, a consequent broadening of the monetary basis, and a starting up of business upon a rising market, employment would increase, incomes from wages and salaries would become more sure, and there would be greater stability for "fixed incomes" arising from investments.

THE MINING JOURNAL criticizes Bishop Ireland of the Catholic church, Professor Hillis of the Unitarian, Dr. Thomas of the Methodist, the Rev. Dr. Gonsals of the Congregational, and other great lights of the American pulpit, for assuming to attack the vicious proposition of the silverites from their respective pulpits.

When the very foundation of national safety and the security of all society is threatened with deprivation of an honest standard of value, it is time teachers of this class come to the rescue, and most fortunately and wisely are the greatest preachers of the land taking a hand in defending the integrity and honor of the nation against the adoption of the dangerous doctrines of the Chicago platform.—Negaunee Herald.

Beg pardon, but our criticisms are not confined to clergyman who talk on one side. We regard the pulpit as not the place from which to make partisan appeals, and our strictures apply equally to those who use it to argue for silver coinage and those others whose fulminations are directed against what the patriotic and wholly good editor of the Iron Herald stigmatizes as "the vicious propositions of the silverites."

THERE can be but one opinion of the conduct of the ruffianly Yale students who interfered with the Bryan meeting at New Haven Thursday. It was disgraceful and unmanly, and marks the students who were guilty of it as a lot of scamps on whom the educational advantages they are enjoying at Yale would be as completely lost as delicate cosmetics would be if applied to the hide of a rhinoceros.

The college has yet to be found that can transform a boor into a gentleman who knows his own rights and respects those of others, and Yale has a hard task on its hands to make anything of the hoodlums who put such a stain on its reputation Thursday when they grossly insulted one of the candidates for the presidency.

A MEMBER of the board of directors of the Illinois Steel company says that since the middle of June there had been absolute stagnation in the iron and steel business. The company has numerous orders and contracts ahead, but in many cases these were cancelled or held in abeyance for various reasons.

In view of these contracts it was necessary that the company make large purchases of raw material, which it did, but the cancellation of orders left it with large stocks of raw material on hand. The company is in splendid financial condition. It has over $1,000,000 cash on hand, and its raw material will more than pay all its debts. In view of the company's poor business the last three or four months and the present disturbed financial and political situation, it was not considered wise to pay a dividend. However, prospects are very good for the future. Within the last week more inquiries have been received and more orders placed than during the last four months.

THE Leadville miners who attempted to bring the mining companies to terms by wrecking the mines showed about as much judgment as the man who perched himself on the limb that he was about to saw off a tree, taking his position outside the cut he was making. It didn't seem to occur to them that if the mines were wrecked nobody could get work in them at any wages.

Several of the men are now in jail awaiting trial for their part in the outrage and these will be able to think it out clearly in the seclusion of their cells.

THE Democratic and silver conventions meet today at Escanaba. It is said that Mr. Thos. Flannigan of Norway is a candidate for the nomination and that the two conventions are likely to unite on him. Mr. Flannigan is a lumberman. He is connected with a company which owns a sawmill at Sagola and is well known throughout the district.

If nominated he will put up a good campaign but he will find himself with a big contract on his hands when he undertakes to overcome the Republican majority in the district.

EVIDENTLY the election is going to be unanimous in Negaunee this year. Even the postmaster there is lining up with the rest for McKinley, according to the Iron Herald. The advantage to the party of having such a paper as the Herald to educate the people is shown by the result of its work in persuading the voters of Negaunee to go in to a man for "protection, prosperity," etc., this year.

DANGEROUS FINANCIERING.

Men in Straits Jeopardize Their Credit by Issuing Valueless Checks.

"Are Pittsburgh business men often detected in the practice of kiting checks?" was the question asked of a number of leading bankers the other day in response to which some interesting information was obtained. The allegations made in a recent sensational trial about how the practice of obtaining money without paying interest could be carried to a sort of scientific perfection made the subject appear one of considerable importance as, indeed, those of the bankers who would talk about it admit that it is. Bank cashiers and directors are, of necessity, the most discreet people in the world, and consequently those who would consent to give any information on the subject stipulated that their names should not be used.

It would appear, however, from facts obtained, that there is nothing to prevent a business man or firm with good credit from always having an amount outstanding in checks much greater than their bank account if they are sufficiently skillful and unscrupulous. Honest men will not draw against nothing, it is generally maintained, though there are said to be frequently cases where the bankers send for their customers and reprimand them for some irregularity or request them to move their accounts to some other bank. The greatest care is necessary to protect banks against the acceptance of worthless checks, and such losses are frequently occurring. A banker, who has also a variety of other interests, in discussing the matter said:

"Kiting is drawing checks on banks where you have no money and then sending the bank drawn on a check on a third bank, to meet the first when it arrives. Skillful and well-posted men can form a chain by which they can get the use of money for months in this manner, and though it is not often resorted to by any but the dishonest there are cases where big firms have floated large sums a long while, and eventually took their paper without having been suspected.

"The simplest form of kiting is where a man gives a check on a bank where he has not the money to meet it and goes to the bank next day and deposits the amount. In the ordinary course of business the check will not reach the bank for 25 hours and if the cash is there to cover it when it arrives it is presumed his intentions were honest, and so that the transaction is not properly to be called kiting at all. If, however, by some mischance, he is unable to make the deposit, he is liable to prosecution for false pretense, even if he had supposed that he would make the deposit, the thing which a man does being always the best presumptive evidence of his intentions.

"Where it is the intention of a man to obtain large sums of money by flying kites whether to defraud the last holders of his paper or with the idea of getting money to tide him over difficulties, he will operate between different cities and sometimes also with the aid of a confederate."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful, acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

THE OPPOSING STANDARDS.

CONDITIONS IN MEXICO.—There has been so much said about the state of labor in Mexico brought about by the silver standard in vogue in that country that I hope you will give this article, taken from the Chicago Record of yesterday, room, as it gives more light on the subject than anything within the same compass that I have read to date. "HONEST DOLLAR."

TO THE EDITOR:—Mr. Trumbull White is being savagely set upon by various critics, who not alone oppose him and his methods but also oppose the Chicago Record. The animus of their attacks seems to be a fear that he will bring forward arguments tending to prove that free silver has improved the condition of the Mexican people. These critics are fully open to criticism as Mr. White and they show their ignorance while undertaking to find fault and give advice.

For more than ten years I lived in Mexico and carried on extensive business, employing many workmen during the time when Mexican dollars exchanged at par with the United States, and while the value of silver was shrinking till at the close of our correct opinions as to causes and effects in Mexico in these matters by making a cursory investigation. It requires plenty of time to do so properly. Mr. Curtis is a man of great experience in such matters, who is acquainted with languages and customs, and thus has great advantage over a person who visits the country for the first time.

I wish to commend Mr. White and his remarkable fact that the pesos are willing to work for one of their own countrymen for much less pay than they will for Americans. There are exceptions, but generally the more wages a day a peso is paid, the less he is willing to work for because he does not work with the ambition to gain a life competence, but only has in view the supply of his necessities from day to day. When plenty is in sight for his needs he will "lay off," and if he gets for four days' work enough money to support him for a week he will do less days' work in proportion. And to spoil him altogether the speediest way is to raise his wages regularly when he has not asked for it.

Mr. Mitchell says in his criticism that natives "live on beans and bread; it is all the poor fellows can buy." It looks as if the critic might be ignorant of the diet of the Mexican people. For his information, let it be said that in place of bread tortillas are universally eaten. Bread is not eaten because all classes prefer tortillas, but is generally beans, corn or wheat flour, tortillas, beef and chile, and coffee, the latter the finest that can be made.

I am a protectionist to a moderate degree, and have been marveling greatly that persons who are anxious to show the degradation of labor in Mexico, which they claim is caused by debased money, and who prescribe as a remedy for our present depression in trade a protective tariff, should allow the fact to escape their keen observation that Mexico is now under a very high tariff which should pretty nearly fill the bill in fostering "infant industries." It is from this tariff to ask that all be admitted that labor's degradation in Mexico is due to the protective tariff. That would be too much! A very considerable part of the added cost in Mexico for the necessities and luxuries of life, as shown in various price lists which may be seen during this campaign, is caused by the prohibitive tariff and high state, municipal and stamp duties in Mexico. Inside our southern neighbor's border all the products of the country are taxed to raise money to pay interest on the government debt, and its running expenses. The land is not taxed as here. Consequently the business man, the merchant, even up and sees to it that his income is more than his outgo by putting large profits on what he sells over and above the duties and expenses he has to pay.

I would like to give a few samples of protection, but not having the latest Mexican tariff schedule at hand must forbear. But as the Record's commission is in this business, I respectfully ask that it furnish us the cost of imported articles without duties, and in a separate column the total duties and cost of introduction from the frontier to destination. Many people, no doubt, have the idea that the doubling of cost is entirely due to depreciated money, but it is not fair to thus allow the impression to be made.

Mr. Price intimates that the silver men are responsible for the parading of so-called Mexican prosperity before the people during this campaign. The truth is that silver men tried to give us a great object lesson by showing up the degraded Mexican with his cheap dollar, and now the silver men retaliate by saying that in Mexico times are better than here, that the gold men there are unknown, and so on; that matters are looking up rapidly and great progress is being made in every respect, all of which is true.

The prosperity of Mexico is due to a combination of circumstances and conditions. Railroads have but just been introduced. Stability of government is a comparative new thing down there. The fact that the country is under double protection which also gives energy to domestic manufactures and production, and there is a vast field for improvement over present conditions, I assure you.

Every fair-minded man must commend the Record for its care in bringing out both sides in this controversy in a clear and unprejudiced way. The truth will prevail. There is no danger in bringing out all the facts honestly and openly. The good sense and spirit of truth which dwells steadfastly in the hearts of the American people will lead to a correct decision on this or any other great question which comes before the bar of public opinion in a proper manner. "AMERICAN." Boston, Mass., Sept. 23.

AN EXPERIMENT.—Mr. Bryan and his supporters are claiming that the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1 is not an experiment, that we have had it before and that it is not a new thing that they propose to do.

True, we have had in this country the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at 16 to 1, but when that ratio was adopted it was the market ratio, or very close to it, while today it is very far from the market ratio. This the granting of free coinage to silver and gold at 16 to 1 in 1834 and in 1896 would present two totally different propositions; the one was free coinage at the market ratio and the other is free coinage at an arbitrary ratio differing widely from the market ratio.

Alexander Hamilton, secretary of the treasury, in his report to congress in 1791 on the establishment of a mint recommended, after careful investigation, that the coinage ratio should be 15 to 1, as that was the market ratio in London at that time.

In this he was supported by Jefferson, who wrote: "The proportion between the values of gold and silver is a mercantile problem altogether." And that ratio was adopted in the first coinage law.

The ratio was changed to 16 to 1 in 1834 to correspond with a change in the market ratio.

Thus we find no precedent in our own history for granting free coinage at any but the market ratio and the writer has not been able to discover in the history of other countries an instance where a single nation has attempted to give free coinage to silver and gold at a ratio differing materially from the market ratio. He therefore feels justified in calling Mr. Bryan's plan an experiment. INVESTIGATOR. Negaunee, Sept. 25, 1896.

Yacht Club Regatta. The second regatta of the Onigaming Yacht club for the summer was sailed Thursday afternoon over the club course. The wind blew a gale from the south, making a beat to the windward on the first leg of five miles. There was an unusually heavy sea for Portage lake. The Sylvia and Menemosh, of the first class, started under single reefs, but after a short time the Sylvia was obliged to put in close reefs and the Menemosh to take in her jib and mainsail, working for a time under her foresail alone.

Another midnight visitation was made by burglars at Haun & Schulte's store at Dollar Bay, Thursday night. COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE.

Curious Customs Practiced in Other Parts of the World.

Some of the customs peculiar to courtship and marriage among the race of dwarfs who inhabit the Andaman island are, according to M. de Quatrefages, who recently published a book called "The Pygmies," about these people, very peculiar. Not the least remarkable of them is the procedure of courtship. The young man who has made his choice addresses himself to the parents, who never refuse, but send the girl into the forest, where, before day, she conceals herself. The young man must find her.

If he does not succeed he must renounce all claim to her. The wedding ceremony of these people is equally curious. M. Quatrefages thus describes it: "The two parties climb two flexible trees growing near each other, which an old man then makes to bend toward each other. When the head of the man touches that of the girl they are legally married." Turning from Asia to Europe, we find a very curious custom prevailing in Roumania. Among the peasantry of this country, when a girl attains a marriageable age her trousseau, which has in the meanwhile been carefully woven, spun and embroidered by her mother and herself, is placed in a painted wooden box.

When a young man thinks of asking to be allowed to pay his attentions to the girl he is at liberty to open the box, which is always placed in a convenient position, and examine the trousseau. If he is satisfied with the quantity and quality of the dowry he makes formal application for the girl's hand, but, if not, he is quite at liberty to retire.

WHERE MEN ARE CARELESS.

Thoughtless as to the Future of Wife and Family

It is a singular fact that the American man, who is the best and most thoughtful husband in the world, should yet be peculiarly thoughtless as to the future of his wife and children in the event of his death. How often this fact is brought home to all of us when a man dies and leaves his widow in poverty and his affairs in absolute confusion, whereas a little forethought might easily have prevented either or both. The most loving of husbands is often the one most careless in the making of his will. Either he forgets altogether to make one, or he leaves a document which he had planned to change, but for some reason or other failed to alter. Again, he neglects to take out an insurance policy where his income easily justified his doing so. Or, perhaps, he took out a certain policy for the benefit of his mother, sister, father or brother, and the beneficiary having passed away it was his intention to alter the policy to the name of his wife. He intended to do it, but death found it undone, and trouble ensued for the widow. Particularly, in cases where a man marries for the second time, should the strictest punctuality and care be exercised in altering his will, insurance policy or such other documents as he may leave behind him tending to benefit his heirs or successors.

But men are optimistic about their deaths. Friends may drop at their very sides, and for a time the lesson is brought home to them. "I must make my will, and see about my own affairs in case I die," says the man to himself, and he honestly intends to give the matter attention. But within a few days he has plunged into business again and forgotten his good resolution. Suddenly he dies, or becomes so seriously ill as to make suitable arrangements impossible. Then trouble ensues for those he leaves behind. Such cases are not isolated ones. Again and again during the past year have such instances come directly under my attention or I have heard of them. And yet, in each case, I venture to say, there existed an intention on the part of the dead man to "set his house in order." It was simply thoughtlessness; it was "put off" as a matter which could be attended to at any time. Naturally, the wife shrinks from discussing the subject of a provision being made for her and her children in the event of the death of her husband's passing away. Death is never a pleasant topic, even at its best, and it is a topic which we avoid if we can. The wife fears, too, having ulterior motives attributed to her if she mentions the subject. And so the matter of provision for the wife after the husband's death is allowed to go undiscussed. There is some reason why a woman should refrain from speaking of such a topic to her husband—and yet I cannot help thinking that it would often be better if she would. But there is no excuse for the man's neglect of so important a matter. No man should become so engrossed in affairs that he cannot take time to see so far as he is able, that no trouble that he can provide against shall come to his wife and children after his death. If he has anything to leave to them he should make a will and distinctly provide for the distribution of his effects. Nor can such a document be safely made except by a lawyer. "Memorandums" are worthless things in the eyes of the law, and frequently have exactly the opposite effect to that which was intended. The same care should be exercised in the case of insurance policies. I firmly believe that it is the duty of every man to be insured. With insurance policies to be had at such low rates as is at present the case, there is scarcely a man who cannot afford some sort of a policy, no matter how small the amount it may call for. What seems to the man himself in good health as a small amount for an insurance policy, often turns out to be a modest fortune to the woman or children who survive him. I wish, sometimes, that the taking out of an insurance policy, on the part of the husband, for an amount according to his means, might be made an obligatory part of every marriage ceremony.

I know whereof I speak when I say that there are hundreds of women in the homes of this land who are daily carrying with them the fear that their husbands or fathers are neglecting or forgetting to make suitable provision for them as widows or orphans. They shrink from speaking to the men of their homes about the matter. And is it especially for the benefit of these women that I write these words. Perhaps, where the occasion makes it necessary, they can, with a woman's skill, see that what I have written here may come to the attention of these men. And if my words should prove to be the means of bringing even one man to a realizing sense of his duty I shall not have written in vain. No man can afford to neglect a simple duty which may mean all the difference between happiness and misery to his family. Suitable provision he cannot allow himself to "put off," for surely it is true that "in the midst of life we are in death."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Latest Styles in Fashions. Empire fashions still continue to lead the fashion in that very significant little accessory of dress which is always an addition to the dressy toilet and a positive necessity to the summer costume. Glitter seems to be the special feature of black fans, and spangles are a very conspicuous part of the decoration. Feather fans have not lost their prestige among the matrons, and are quite as much in use as ever, marabou-feathers alone being more in fashion than the ostrich.—Ladies' Home Companion.

Willing to Help. "Can't you help me?" said the lady who was trying to raise the car window and hold her baby at the same time. "Certainly," said the gentleman she addressed; "I'll hold your baby for you."—Town Topics.

Ishpeming and Vicinity.

A MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

One Formed at Ishpeming With Flattering Prospects of Success.

In response to the call for a meeting to organize a musical association there was a good attendance of musical people of Ishpeming at the Presbyterian church Thursday evening. Great interest was manifested in the purpose for which the meeting was called. The association was organized with the following officers: President, George Tucker; vice president, Mrs. M. Schumacher; secretary, Miss Matilda Sincoc; treasurer, Oliver Rye; director, C. A. Snowden.

About fifty ladies and gentlemen signed the membership roll. It is expected that fully seventy-five or one hundred more will join the association within the next month or so. The secretary and director were instructed to receive names for membership.

It is the purpose of the association to organize an orchestra from among the membership. A hall will be rented and one regular meeting will be held each week. During the winter months public entertainments will be given. The name of the association will be decided on at the first regular meeting, to be held within a week or so.

Katie Putnam an Artist.

It will interest the reader to know that the charming comedienne, Katie Putnam, is, in addition to her cleverness as an actress, a skilled artist with brush and canvas. Her lovely home at Benton Harbor, Mich., contains many valuable works from her brush and it is her delight to surprise some friend on birthday or holiday occasions, with some charming conceit in oil or pastel. Her latest play, "The Old Lime Kiln," has for its location the wonderful region known as the Yellowstone National Park. Its scenery depicts many famous points and places in the park and the sketches for the scenery were all made by Miss Putnam herself, who visited the park last summer to familiarize herself with its topography and scenery. Mr. St. John Lewis, the well known scenic artist of the Columbia theatre, Chicago, who built and painted the scenery, says the sketches were among the best ever furnished him. The production of this play at the Ishpeming Opera House next Wednesday evening by Miss Putnam and her company will be a welcome event. Reserved seats tickets will be placed on sale today at Tillson's.

Football Today.

The Marquette High school football team will not meet the Ishpeming team here this afternoon, as the entire eleven could not attend, owing to the inability of two of the players to get away. The Superior team has been secured in place of the Marquette team, and a lively game is anticipated. The Superiors are credited with playing a strong game. They defeated the Duluths last season and also won games from other good teams. The local team has guaranteed the expenses of the visitors and as this amounts to about $75 the boys are anxious to see a large turnout. They sold quite a number of tickets yesterday and will be out again this morning. The admission will be twenty-five cents for adults and fifteen for children. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

People's Party Convention.

The People's party of the Twelfth congressional district and of the Thirty-first senatorial district have called a convention to be held in Ishpeming at Andrew's hall, a week from today, Oct. 3, for the nomination of a congressman and state senator. Delegates are expected from the counties of Alger, Baraga, Chippewa, Delta, Dickinson, Gogebic, Houghton, Iron, Keweenaw, Luce, Mackinaw, Marquette, Menominee, Ontonagon and Schoolcraft. The cities of Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette will be entitled to five delegates each and the townships of the county will each be allowed one delegate.

All Are Anxious.

The employees of the Lake Angeline mine have been quite anxious the past few days to know whether their proposal to work ninety days on the due bill system will be accepted or not by the company. Up to last evening no reply to the proposal sent from the men to the officials at Cleveland had been received here. A letter is expected by this evening's mail and in case it does not arrive a telegram will be looked for later in the day. The men will be greatly pleased if the company will grant them permission to work.

Political Talks Tonight.

The McKinley and Hobart club will be entertained this evening at its headquarters by two or three local speakers. The program has not yet been announced, as the committee on entertainment has not had a decided answer from the speakers. The Swedish Glee club will be present. William Peters will give a political talk at the Republican rally to be held tonight at Republic. Mr. Peters expects to return to Lansing in a few days, as his wife is recovering from her illness.

A Supper Tonight.

The members of the local Lady Macabees society will give a supper this evening, commencing at 5 o'clock and continuing until 10, at the Co-operative society's hall. The meal will be served for the small sum of fifteen cents for adults and ten for children. All will be made welcome.

A meeting of the school superintendents of Marquette county will be held in Ishpeming this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, to arrange for the annual educational rally to be held next month.

Charles L. Sheldon of this city and Rev. J. A. Greene of Negaunee were at Munising yesterday organizing a Presbyterian church society. They were delegated by the Lake Superior Presbytery to do the work.

Services will be held as usual tomorrow at the Presbyterian church. The theme of the pastor at the morning service will be "Grow in Grace." At the evening service his subject will be "Going Well." Beginning with Oct. 4 the hour of Sabbath evening service will be changed from 7:30 to 7 o'clock.

Hon. Fred Braastad got home yesterday from a business trip to Cleveland and Chicago. He was accompanied from Chicago by Hon. John Jones. The latter is exhibiting what he calls a $6 to $7 dollar which he procured in the World's Fair city. It is about four times as large as a United States silver dollar.

A MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING.

How Mr. and Mrs. Gopher Arrived at it Amicably.

"Never, never let me hear of you riding a bicycle," said Gopher, as he sat at the dinner table and addressed his pretty wife, according to the Detroit Free Press. "I do not approve of it. I would not permit Annie to ride one, and she is only eight. I could give you conclusive reasons for my position in this matter, but I am confident that a mere statement of my wishes will insure your compliance with them." Then Gopher took the long breath prompted by a satisfied appetite and Mrs. Gopher deftly switched the conversation.

Within a week she was limping about the house in an odor of ammonia and he was complaining of a rheumatism that greatly interfered with his usual activity. One afternoon Gopher dropped into the gallery of the army where a bicycle school had its training school and quickly attempted a disguise when he saw his wife careening all over the place with one of the instructors, struggling gallantly to keep within her immediate vicinity. But just as Gopher had turned up his collar and pulled his hat over his eyes Mrs. Gopher took a dull-thud sprawl all over one end of the hall and had a spirited rough-and-tumble before she could get from under the offending wheel. As she went home on the street car with smarting abrasions, blue bruises and sore muscles, she saw Gopher scurry by on a bicycle.

That evening she talked significantly about his rheumatism; wondered if it wasn't due to sudden climatic changes, and took inward satisfaction in urging him to call a doctor. He grimly condescended with her for getting stiff and awkward at so early an age and wondered if it would not be the wisest thing for her to try the hot springs for a few weeks. He felt the pleasure of knowing her secret without being suspected himself, and she was enjoying the same pleasant delusion.

One moonlight evening Gopher "went to the club." It was a golden as well as an inviting opportunity, and Mrs. Gopher was soon skimming over the pavements on a rented wheel. As she gracefully swung around a corner at top speed there was a head-on collision. Two silent steeds reared and plunged. Two riders mingled momentarily in aerial acrobatic feats and sat down side by side on the asphalt.

Before they helped each other up Mr. and Mrs. Gopher came to a perfectly amicable understanding on the bicycle question.

RARE VELLUM BIBLE.

Represents a Quarter Century of Faithful Labor of Love.

Biblical scholars in Europe have been excited by news of a discovery recently made in Asia Minor of a beautiful copy of the gospels, dating back to the sixth century. This ancient document has taken its place in the very limited category of original Bible manuscripts now in existence.

But in one respect it is far more precious than any other. It is not only complete in every page and line, but it is fresh and legible now as if it were almost new, and it is an example of rich embellishment not surpassed by any other similar document on earth.

This newly discovered copy of the gospels is a marvel of exquisite workmanship, and the antiquarians who have examined it assert that its manufacture must have occupied at least a quarter of a century in painstaking labor. Its pages are made of the thinnest vellum.

It is a quarto volume, and there are two columns on each written page. The pages are dyed an exquisite royal purple, which is delicate but brilliant.

It is in the writing, however, that this precious volume is unique. The letters are written in gold and silver.

Every one of the proper names, including those of saints and holy places, is written altogether in gold. The abbreviations, of which there are many in the book, are likewise written in gold.

The rest of the text is altogether of silver. The precious metals used in this lettering are as bright and untarnished to-day as when the original writing was done a few hundred years after the death of the Saviour, by some devout monk who was an artist in his line.

This volume was evidently made to withstand the effects of time, by one who well knew the best materials to use. The vellum of which the leaves are made was carefully chosen sheet by sheet.

The binding was done with the strongest of thongs. The covers are heavy and solid, the whole was well calculated to keep out dampness and to resist the attacks of moths, bookworms, or other insects.

The author, working on his labor of love in some lonely monastery, and spending perhaps a lifetime in the production of this exquisite manuscript, so well performed his task that his writings have come down to this nineteenth century clearer, more legible and better preserved than any document in existence written within 600 years of the same time. Hidden away in the dusty recesses of an ancient convent, it has now turned up to excite the wonder of antiquarians and pique the curiosity of Biblical scholars.

The old book is still in Asia Minor, and the news of its discovery in this splendid condition only reached Constantinople a few weeks ago. It was stated at the same time that the precious manuscript had been secured by the Russian government.

It will, it is expected, be placed in the great Russian National museum alongside the celebrated Codex Sinaiticus. The latter contains parts of the Old and New Testaments and was published by the czar, who procured it from the antiquarian Tischendorf.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE YOUNG OF WATERFOWL.

They Often Sleep All Night on the Water.

In the Irish sea rock fowl of all kinds are very numerous, and vessels going north pass large numbers of gullmots and razor bills swimming far out to sea. In August these are accompanied by their young, often less than half grown and still covered with down. The little gullmots are "launched" very soon after they are hatched, and unless the old birds carry them up to the rocks on which they roost in the same way as they are said to carry them down they must spend their nights, as well as their days, upon the sea. Young wild ducks are so light and active that they seem able to walk on the surface of the water. It is hardly credible that they can do so, as a "water boatman" does, without breaking the "surface film," but they certainly can make a dash for a short distance with their feet on the water and the whole of their body out of it. In catching insects on the water they rival the dexterity of a young partridge on an ant hill. There is very little doubt also that, like young fish, they dive largely on the microscopic entomostraca, which come as a kind of manna in the wilderness to all aquatic creatures.

Mr. St. John once found a whole brood imprisoned in a water hole in the heather. The sides were steep, and it was evident that they had fallen in and had been unable to get out. There were signs that they had been there for some time, but they were all in good condition, and it was surmised that they had lived on insects which had fallen into the water from the surrounding heather. Probably they had largely supplemented this by devouring the water fleas and other entomostraca bred in the pool itself. Young coots, water hens, water rails, grebes and swans are almost as clever as the young wild ducks when in their downy youth. Later, when nearly fledged, and even when able to fly, they are much less adroit. They lose their cleverness, together with the beauty of their babyhood, and pass through a stupid half-fledged period as "flappers." Even their nerves go amiss. In parts of Iceland the line of flight of the young swans is marked by the natives, who assemble and when the flocks pass over yell, shout and scream at the birds. The young swans become perfectly muddled, and many of them simply close their wings, leave off flying and drop to the ground, when they are caught.—London Spectator.

HELD HIS BRIDE TOO CHEAP. Objected to Paying More Than Fifty Cents for His Marriage. A tall, shifty negro, with a gigantic mulatto girl clinging to his arm, slowly walked past the recorder's office in the courthouse Tuesday about noon.

"I suppose you are looking for a marriage license?" "Ya, ya," answered the negro; "you've struck it fast time."

"The couple were piloted to the marriage bureau and soon thereafter a neatly folded paper in the man's pocket proclaimed that Thomas S. Kinney and Mattie Mae Harris were licensed to wed.

"Laak a hyr," said Kinney, as he left the recorder's office, "I doan want no publication ob dis business. We wants to 'sprise de odder niggers."

"Well, Thomas, why don't you kiss the bride?" "Lawd, jedge. I dun kissed her more'n a million times already, an' de novelty am wore off."

"Hold on a minute; there is a fee attached to this ceremony." "A which," said the negro, looking mystified.

"It will cost you two dollars to be married," said the clerk. "Ain't we dun married?" asked Kinney.

"Not until the two dollars is paid. The marriage will not be binding until the fee is settled.

"Good Lawd, I ain't got only a half dollar. Here's de half," and the negro started to walk away.

"That won't do. Judge Scarritt doesn't marry people for nothing. You'll have to pay two dollars."

"Ain't got it." "All right; you are not married—that's all," and the clerk walked back to his desk.

During this conversation the bride clung close to her sable lover, and when she saw the marriage ties dissolving for want of the proper financial stimulation she seemed much distressed.

"Wat does dis mean, Tom?" she asked, apprehensively. "It means that we ain't married, that's all."

"Oh, Tom," sighed the bride, her eyes suffused with tears. "Ain't I worth another dollar and a half? It's dun worth dat much to be married by such a handsome jedge."

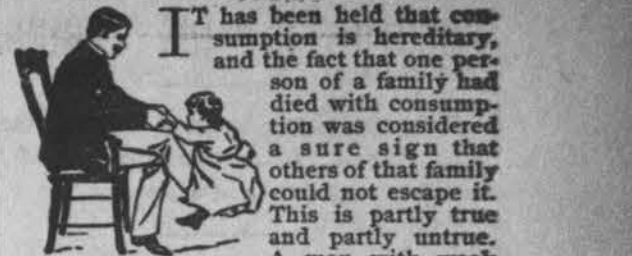

At this Judge Scarritt beamed, but made no sign. "It's all durned foolishness to pay any more, but I reckon dat we doan get married ebery day. Here's yo money," and Thomas produced an additional $1.50.

"You are charged with riding on the public highway after dark without a lighted lamp," said the magistrate, sternly. "Have you anything to say in your defense?"

"If—if you please, your honor," replied the fair bicyclist, tremblingly, "my—my lamp went out."

"That is what they all say," said his honor, sarcastically. "Did you know your lamp was out?" "Yes, sir," admitted the wheelwoman with downcast eyes.

"Then I can see no excuse for you," said the court. Still he wished to be lenient if he could. "Had you no match?" he asked more kindly.

BOOTH IS HIS FRIEND.

Commissioner Higgins on Intimate Terms With Commander of the World's Forces.

BOOTH-TUCKER WILL VISIT MARQUETTE NEXT MONTH.

Baptist Church Crowded to Hear the Visiting Dignitary—He Speaks of the Social Scheme and Its Branches.

VISITORS HIGH IN ARMY RANK.

Commissioner William Higgins of London, Eng., accompanied by Dr. Rice of New York and Maj. Gifford of Minneapolis, all bright stars in the Salvation Army official firmament, were present in the city yesterday. They addressed a crowded audience in the evening at the Baptist church.

The visitors arrived on the 10:55 train yesterday forenoon. They were met by the local officers and escorted to their places of entertainment where they were allowed to pass the afternoon without the formality of receptions. The commissioner, thanks to this arrangement, was at liberty to accompany the bishop to Presque Isle and spend a short time noting the beauties of Marquette's wonderful natural park.

There was nothing according to set program before evening. At 6:45 the Ishpeming and Negaunee corps came down bringing with them the Ishpeming Salvation band. They were met at the depot by the soldiers of the local post. All formed in line, and to the music of the band, made a circle of the business streets of the town to the barracks of the army. After a short rest, during which the line was strengthened by the arrival of late comers the procession again moved forward. This time it was an illuminated parade. The band members wore miner's lamps upon their caps, boys carried torches, and at the head of the procession was a large wire form with the word "Welcome." This was wrapped in strips of cloth soaked in kerosene, and burned brilliantly during the march to the houses where the guests of honor were being entertained.

After the commissioner and the two other visiting officers had been taken into the line the procession turned about and marched back down town, and held the customary "open air" which is an adjunct to the army work every where. Short talks were made by a number of officers including the guests, and the crowd was invited to follow the procession to the church. Many took advantage of the invitation, and the commissioner had the opportunity of speaking to an audience that was representative of all classes of people in the city.

HIGGINS TELLS ABOUT BOOTH'S SCHEME.

"In Darkest England and the Way Out" is the topic of General Booth's book, and is the topic chosen by Commissioner Higgins for his address. As he himself says he speaks with some authority upon this topic. He is intimately associated with the general in the work of the army in England. He is a director in the English Salvation Army, and a property holding trustee. His work at present is to travel about the world and inspect properties owned by the army, and offered to it for its social work.

Rev. F. E. Feeman, pastor of the church in which last night's gathering was held, introduced the commissioner, stating as he did so that he was in sympathy with the work of the army and rejoiced in the good that had been accomplished through its agency. In proof of this he extended his hand to Commissioner Higgins and presented him to the audience.

The commissioner is a large well developed man with white hair and beard. He is English to the backbone and speaks with an insular pronunciation, which is a trifle difficult for an American audience to understand till it becomes thoroughly interested in remarks.

From the lengthy prologue to his address it seemed fair at one time to predict it would be like Artemus Ward's lecture on milk. Unlike Ward, however, he finally got through lamenting the shortness of time at his disposal, and although he expressed his awe at the immensity of the subject, fearing that he would forget many important points, he finally settled down to the topic and gave a highly instructive address on what is known as Booth's social scheme.

This scheme, according to the commissioner, is not the outcome of the book. The book is the outcome of the scheme. The Salvation Army was established thirty-two years ago, and soon after its inception it was found necessary to provide in some way for new converts, often times facing actual starvation. This led to the establishment of food and shelter stations. The rescue comes for women grown out of a makeshift. Profession and preaching would be the veriest hypocrisy unless aid were given these people.

It was to provide for necessities like those just enumerated that the social scheme was devised. The scheme has three branches, city, farm and over the sea colonies. Each has numerous subdivisions. As yet the over the sea colony is on paper, but the commissioner said he was happy to announce that a suitable tract of land had just been secured in western Australia, and that a colony would be started there in a few months.

The branch most heard about is the city colony. First and perhaps principal of its institutions are its food depots. These depots are not for the free distribution of food except in certain exigencies. The Salvation Army, according to its representative, doesn't believe in giving anything for nothing. The purpose is to provide the poor with good food at prices they would be able to secure, and even better than they would, if they bought in larger quantities. In this connection the commissioner asserted the fact that the poorer the customer the less in quantity and the poorer in quality can he get of goods for a given sum of money. In line with this also he says the hovels in the east end of London rent for more money actually crowded as they are with scores of families, than do the mansions of the rich in Hyde park and the most fashionable streets in the west end. There are forty six food depots in operation from which millions of meals are being served every week to the very poorest of the poor.

Under the direction of the army are sixty-six shelters which house every night in the year over 30,000 destitute persons, who for aught anyone knows, would otherwise be in public institutions either criminal or pauper.

There are shops, forty-six of them with forty trades in operation, which give temporary employment to out-of-works. These are a bridge the commissioner says from destitution to satisfaction, from crime to honesty and from disreputability to respectability.

The rescue homes are a much talked of branch of the work. The first of these institutions consisted of two rooms in a cottage. From this humble beginning it has grown until there are seventy-four complete rescue homes under the auspices of the Salvation Army.

There are eleven homes also for ex-criminals, called prison gate homes. The object of these is to meet the released convict at the gate of his prison, and give him temporary aid so he need not return at once to the haunts and habits of vice which caused his incarceration.

Last of the city colony divisions of which the commissioner spoke are the slum posts. There are ninety of these, manned by 200 self sacrificing women officers, who make their homes in the slums of slumdom, and by their lives and works endeavor to lead these dwellers in the submerged tenth to a better life both physical and spiritual.

BOOTH TUCKER COMING NEXT.

During the progress of the lecture the commissioner took a brief rest and allowed Dr. Rice to speak. The doctor is a living substantiation of the merit of the social scheme. Three years ago, he said he was dissolute and desolate in New York, sleeping in holes in lumber piles. He was a man of fine education, had been a surgeon in the German army. He was the son of a Lutheran minister and was reared with the best of Christian training, but drink dragged him down. The army, through its various agencies, took him up and set him on his feet again. He is now editor of the German edition of the War Cry.

At the close of the meeting Major Gifford arose and announced that one month from that night Booth-Tucker, the new commander of the American forces would be in Marquette and deliver an address.

Just Touched.

There was a blockade on Lake street and nearly a smash-up yesterday afternoon. A train of coal was being pulled off of Spear's coal dock along the Lake street track, and a line of empty ore cars was running down the Spring street grade through the tunnel in charge of one man. He failed to see the cars on the other track till he was nearly to them. He put on the brakes and managed to stop just as the first car of the line touched the moving coal train. The coal train did not have room to pull along and was obliged to stop till an engine could be hitched onto the ore cars and move them up a bit.

On to Other Institutes.

The sneakers at the farmers' institute just closed here left the city on the late afternoon train yesterday on their way to Iron River via Escanaba. They begin an institute in Iron River next Monday, and will spend the intervening time at that town. During their tour in the upper peninsula they will hold institutes at six points, Marquette being the first. Yesterday they took advantage of their liberty to visit a number of places about Marquette, taking care, of course, to see Presque Isle and going in the afternoon as the guests of Warden Van Evera to inspect the branch prison.

Car Barn Contract Let.

Contractor C. F. Bahrman, with a bid of $1,550 captured the contract to erect the new car barn for the street car company. He was the lowest one of nine bidders. The contract will probably be signed today and work begun at once, possibly Monday. The directors of the company have decided to have the building built of stone, thus making it entirely fire proof.

The Road To Prosperity

starts in a clothing store. A suit of good clothes is a letter of credit into any society. We supply good clothing at reasonable prices. We don't expect you to buy here until you have fully satisfied yourself that this is so, and that no one else can do better for you. In the meantime, our new Fall stock of overcoats and suits is here. We don't know how long it will stay—advise you to hurry. With every 50-cent purchase we give a ticket which entitles the holder to one chance on the $100 bicycle—a "Fowler"—which we give away on October 30 to the holder of the number drawn.
