STRUCK BY A HURRICANE.

A Fierce Storm, Appalling in Its Results, Sweeps Along the Georgia Coast.

SAVANNAH AND BRUNSWICK SORELY SMITTEN.

Millions of Dollars Property Damage is Done and Many Lives Are Lost--Shipping Interests Suffered Severely.

AN EIGHTY-MILE-AN-HOUR GALE.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—A special to The Times-Democrat from Atlanta, Ga., says a disastrous hurricane swept over Brunswick and along the Georgia coast this morning. Meager reports have been received from the storm center, which say the hurricane was of terrific force and that great damage and probable loss of life resulted. All wires along the coast are down, and up to a late hour tonight communication had not been received from Brunswick, Savannah or Charleston.

No information was received from Brunswick except by a train which left there while the storm was still raging. Trains were delayed in Brunswick two hours, the engines being unable to make headway against the wind, which was blowing at a high velocity. The wind and water worked destruction, and as the train left Brunswick the streets were filled with wind, and telephone and telegraph poles and parts of buildings had been blown down and carried away. People were injured by flying objects; one lady was killed at Everett. Railroad tracks are obstructed by trees and poles, and the only train which came from Brunswick was preceded by a wrecking train and crew for a distance of twenty miles.

H. N. Merrill of the Atlanta Telephone company reached Atlanta late tonight from Brunswick. He states the city was badly damaged. Big vessels were blown from their moorings and sunk. The wind destroyed much of Brunswick's shipping interests. Mr. Merrill says the famous old gunboat Monitor was blown away from her pier. She is floating helplessly and is in danger of going to the bottom. Part of the Oglethorpe Hotel, the leading hostelry of Brunswick, was blown away and other big buildings were totally or partially wrecked. Many houses in the suburbs were blown away and water rushed through the streets in torrents, carrying property, household furniture and valuables toward the harbor.

Telegraphic communication was restored with Brunswick at 2 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning, and authentic news of the hurricane is being received. Four, all colored, persons were killed outright in Brunswick. A careful estimate places the damage at $500,000. Many persons were dangerously injured. The storm at Savannah was equally disastrous and several persons were killed in that city.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—A special to

The Times-Democrat from Savannah Ga., says a worse storm than that of August, 1893, if not the worst in the memory of those living there, was at its height at 12:30 today. Business was suspended over an hour, the storm being furious for that length of time. No person dared appear on the streets. Wires were hurled down, trees razed, fences blown down, houses unroofed, portions of big buildings wrecked, vessels turned over in the river, church steeples toppled and the streets literally strewn with debris of every kind. There is the greatest apprehension for vessels that are known to have been in the blow. Early in the storm there were reports of loss of life in the city. The money loss, it is estimated, will reach in the millions.

The wind began to rise at 11:30 and an hour afterward had reached a velocity of eighty miles per hour, or over. The steamer Flora left at 9 o'clock this morning with a heavy cargo for Brunswick, and nothing has been heard from her. Other steamers are known to have been wrecked. The Plant railway system depot is a total wreck. Many factories and prominent buildings were damaged to a heavy extent. There has not been such a general loss from storm in this city in years.

The loss of life will be great, and already ten deaths are reported. There are numerous islands about the city inhabited by negroes and the loss of life is believed to be heavy there. Two hours and a half after the storm began the sun was shining and the rain had ceased. The city is in total darkness tonight, owing to the blowing down of the wires.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The storm

which has prevailed along the coast and down through the Atlantic states struck here at 8 o'clock tonight. At midnight the wind was blowing twenty-five miles an hour, combined with rain in streams. At the weather bureau it was said reports were coming in slowly, as the storm played havoc with telegraphic communication in all directions. It is stated the storm along the coast at the southern Atlantic states still continued and extended toward the lake regions.

HURRICANE IN MEXICO.

Towns Are Wiped Out and Hundreds of People Killed.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 29.—Telegrams from Mazatlan state the town of Altata has completely disappeared as a result of a hurricane. Every house was destroyed, burying inhabitants in their ruins, and the only building left standing is a portion of the custom house. The bark Elena and the schooner Rebecca are probably lost. The town of Elota was wiped out of existence, only one house remaining. Nineteen persons were drowned there. Other towns destroyed were Tecuma, Escaleras, Silado and Ceriths. The inhabitants of these towns who escaped death are without food, shelter or clothing, and the authorities have taken immediate measures for relief.

It is rumored yellow fever has appeared at Manzanillo.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Mexican mine owners have advised stating that a terrible storm which recently swept the west coast of Mexico had played havoc with mining interests around Candelaria and San Dimar. The damage to mining property aggregates $250,000.

FUSION IN COOK COUNTY.

Democrats and Populists Patch Up an Agreement.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—The Populists and Democrats fused on a county ticket today. The People's party was accorded clerk of the superior court, surveyor and three county commissioners. This is considered small return for their services, but is all they could get, and was accepted. The fusion, however, split the silver vote, and the silver Republicans hold a convention of their own tomorrow.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 29.—The Populist committee met in this city today to consider fusion with Democrats. After being in session all day it adjourned tonight sine die after adopting a resolution that they nominate five Populist electors and ten Democratic electors and certify to the same on the Populist party state ticket of Indiana.

STANDS BY DR. BROWN.

The Dubuque Conference Admits the 'Frisco Pastor Into Fellowship.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 29.—At the annual meeting today the Dubuque district conference of Congregational churches took up the request of the Bay conference (San Francisco) that the action of the Dubuque body in condemning the Californians for expelling Rev. C. O. Brown after his acquittal by a church trial on charges of immoral conduct with Miss Overman, be rescinded. The matter was discussed and the conference re-affirmed its position in the case, not only refusing to rescind its resolutions but deciding to receive Dr. Brown into fellowship. It is predicted the case will be taken to the highest tribunal in the church by the Californians, but the Dubuque conference is determined to maintain its position in Dr. Brown's behalf to the end.

WOMEN DELEGATES.

They Will Take Part in the Democratic Club Convention.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—When the second quadrennial convention of the National Association of Democratic clubs assembles Saturday there will be duly authorized female delegates in the gathering and at least one club of woman workers for the Democratic ticket will be represented in the audience. A delegation of the Woman's Bryan and Sewall club of St. Louis waited on Assistant Secretary McKean of the association today to ascertain if the club could join the national association and take part in the convention proceedings. The delegation was assured of a hearty welcome in the convention.

AFTER FITZSIMMONS NOW.

No Purse Forthcoming. Corbett Will Not Fight With Sharkey.

DENVER, Sept. 29.—Theodore Brown of this city today received a dispatch from Corbett to the effect that neither of the California clubs would offer a purse for a fight between himself and Sharkey, and that he will now try and arrange a match with Fitzsimmons as soon as possible. When informed of this, Sharkey announced he "would break Corbett's neck on sight." Lynch, Sharkey's manager, says there are plenty of other clubs willing to offer a purse for a fight, and that he was in correspondence by wire with Corbett this afternoon, though with what result cannot be learned.

FOREST FIRES NEAR SUPERIOR.

Village of Itasca Narrowly Escapes Destruction--Railroads Suffer.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 29.—The forest fires, under an adverse wind, died down this morning, but this afternoon more danger is reported in this vicinity. The city fire departments were withdrawn in the village of Itasca early this morning after saving that suburb when fires had approached within two hundred feet of the dwellings. The Eastern Minnesota road is crippled by the burning of a thirty-two foot bridge over the Nemadji river, eight miles south. Traffic was delayed six hours. The logging camp of the T. Allen Logging company, ten miles up the St. Louis river, is in danger.

WET WEATHER AT CANTON.

Outdoor Demonstrations Are Made Impossible by a Steady Down-pour of Rain.

McKINLEY GREETED HIS VISITORS IN THE TABERNACLE.

Tells Delegations of Veterans, Farmers and Railroad Men That What the Country Needs is Sound Money and Protection.

GREETINGS TO THE NOMINEE.

CANTON, O., Sept. 29.—Rain fell almost incessantly today. Outdoor demonstrations were impossible. Inmates of the Soldiers' Home at Sadasky and residents of the vicinity arrived this afternoon. Mr. McKinley met them in the Tabernacle. In his address, he said, in part:

"When you entered the service you entered not for fame; not for the pittance paid you; not for glory or popular applause, but from the purest and highest motives of patriotism, that no harm could come to the country. Nearly two millions of men when duty called, no matter what the exactions, were ready to answer to the call of the country and defend the country's free institutions.

"There is now on the pension roll more men than enlisted in the war of the revolution, the war of 1812 and the war with Mexico. I have always been in favor of pensioning deserving disabled soldiers of the Republic, and I want the pensioners, who are among the largest creditors of the government today, paid in dollars worth one hundred cents every day, everywhere. I am glad to have this large body of veteran soldiers declare they are still in favor of the country and the country's honor.

A special train of ten coaches brought the second delegation of the day. It started at Walkerton, Ind., and picked up railroad men in all branches of work and farmers, mechanics and citizens in general between that point and Chicago Junction, O. The delegation was presented by Judge Penfield of Auburn. Mr. McKinley responded, in part, as follows:

WHAT THE FARMER NEEDS.

"The farmers of this country must appreciate that we cannot outdo the competition which they have in India, Russia and the Argentine Republic or increase the consumption at home of their products by cutting down the value of the currency of the United States. The only way the farmers will be benefited is through a larger consuming class. The mints will not furnish the farmer with more consumers. He has the most profitable market for what he produces at home, not abroad. He is met in the markets of the world by the products of other lands beyond the sea. The only market he can rely upon every day of the year is the American market [applause], and what he wants to know is how to make the American market the best. He can only improve the American market by favoring a policy that will put every man to work who lives beneath our flag at living wages, not the wage scale of some other nation of the world, but the American scale, the best in the world. The moment you have destroyed the credit of the country, you have taken away from the manufacturers ability to get the money with which to conduct their business; and when he cannot conduct his business he cannot employ men, and when they have no wages to spend they make poor customers for farmers.

"What a deep interest railroad men have in a rightful settlement of the money question. Not only are they interested in preserving the integrity of their savings for old age or disqualification, and insurance to their families in case of accident or death, but they are interested in present and future wages. I do not believe the railroad men of this country will ever consent to having their savings cut in two or insurance money paid at the rate of fifty-two cents on the dollar, nor will he be satisfied to receive his wages in anything but currency which is worth a full one hundred cents.

"The greatest creditors in this country today are the workingmen. Aside from what is due them upon investments and savings their current wages make them the largest creditor class in the United States. The employers of this country owe their employes every thirty days in good times more than the bonded debt of the United States. Does the railroad employ propose to aid any party to exact legislation which would cut his pay from 25 to 50 per cent, in the name of a cheap dollar?

"It is stated by some leaders of the Democratic party that the free coinage of silver would make fifty-three cents worth of silver actually worth one hundred cents. I do not believe it. Such a proposition is a contradiction by reason and experience and opposed to common sense and the plain principles of old-fashioned honesty."

PROSPECTIVE FOREIGN ORE MARKET.

The Engineering and Mining Journal thinks that there is likely to arise a demand for American iron ores in Germany in the near future and gives good reasons for that opinion. It points out that there has been a good deal of discussion of future sources of ore supply in that country, owing to the growth of the iron industry there— which, though not as rapid as in other countries, is steady, and the inadequacy of the domestic supply to keep pace with the increased output of the furnaces, which will reach 6,000,000 metric tons this year. We give the portion of its article bearing on the probability of American ores yet finding a market in that country:

The native iron ores were found sufficient for all requirements up to quite a recent date; but for several years past there has been a constant increase of imports. It cannot be said that the German ore deposits are becoming exhausted, but their exploitation has hardly kept pace with the demands of the trade, and in several of the districts the cost of mining is increasing with the depth and extent of the work carried on, and the time is approaching when new supplies must be had. In upper Silesia, in the Harz and in the Dill-Lahn district it is probable that the maximum supply has been reached, and the output of ores must in the future rather decrease than increase. With characteristic national prudence the German ironmasters do not wait until an emergency comes, but are already investigating the quarters from which the supply of native ores can be supplemented in the future.

In 1894 the total amount of iron ore mined in Germany was 12,392,005 metric tons. The exports were 1,900,000 tons, but nearly all of these were of the minette ore of Elsass-Lothringen, which were shipped to the French furnaces just across the border, most of which were established when the minette ore district was mainly on French territory, and which still continue to use those ores. The imports of ore for the same year were 2,093,007 tons, of which 694,324 tons came from Spain, 572,289 tons from Sweden, 98,144 tons from Algiers, 98,375 tons from Greece, and the remainder from other countries, which include Belgium, Bohemia, France and Russian Poland. The Spanish ore, though they form one-third of the imports, do not find special favor in Germany, and it is especially as their price has been increasing, owing to the large demand for them in Great Britain, and also the fact that some of the Spanish sierras are approaching the period of exhaustion of the more accessible and easily worked deposits. The Swedish ores are better liked, and a considerable quantity, chiefly from the Gellivara mines, is now going to Germany; but here again the growing British demand is interfering to raise the prices. Moreover, the exporting mines of Sweden are in the far north, where working and shipment are possible for only half the year, thus increasing the cost and limiting the product. The Greek and Algerian ores are taken only in limited quantities, and these are not increasing.

It is not remarkable under the circumstances that some attention should be directed to America as a possible source of supply. Some time ago a shipment of Lake Champlain ores was made to Germany with results which were satisfactory to the buyers. Recently a German gentleman connected with the iron trade has spent some time in this country looking for iron ores suitable for export. Through the assistance of the Engineering and Mining Journal he has been able to arrange for a considerable quantity of ore from Cuba for present use, but the question of future supply is still open and it is not impossible that a regular trade in ores may be developed hereafter.

The German demand is not for a Bessemer ore. The production of Bessemer metal is comparatively small, fully seven-eighths of the steel produced being made by the basic process. The minette ores, which supply a large part of the burden of the furnaces of Luxembourg, Lothringen and the Rhenish-Westphalian district, with an average of from 35 to 40 per cent. iron, carry from 0.75 per cent. upward in phosphorus. Thomas pig—that is, iron made for conversion by the basic process—constitutes about 50 per cent. of all the iron made in Germany.

It would be, of course, necessary that mines furnishing iron ore for export should be so located as to obtain a low freight rate to tidewater, the ability to place the ores on shipboard at a moderate cost being the next element to be considered after the quality of the ores themselves. Although the freights on the regular Atlantic lines are now rather too high for ore shipments, there would be very little difficulty in obtaining low ocean rates if a considerable trade should be developed, since there is always abundance of ship tonnage to be had, and the competition of sea carriers is usually sharp.

As to the mines which could furnish the ores, there are certainly some in New Jersey which could meet the conditions and probably some in Eastern Pennsylvania also. The Lake Champlain district and the Hudson River ores have the advantage of cheap water carriage to the port of New York. Most of the New Jersey mines have only a short rail haul. It is quite possible that an export demand may enable some of those in Morris, Sussex and Warren counties, now closed, to reopen, and to work at a profit. The Lake Superior ores would be out of the question, owing to the cost of transportation to the seaboard, as would probably be any ores further distant from the coast than Eastern Pennsylvania. Some of the southern ores also might fill the requirements. In this connection also it is worth while, perhaps, to inquire whether some market for Alabama basic pig could not be found among the German steel makers.

This question of possible iron ore exports has never before, we believe, been brought up in this country. It is, however, in view of the facts we have stated, worth investigation, since there is at least a probability that such a trade could be established, and once begun it would be likely to continue.

The Salt Lake Tribune administers this "roast" to Senator Sherman in a recent issue:

Senator Sherman thought in 1876 that he was sure of the nomination for president by the Republicans. On the 11th day of April of that year he made a speech in the senate, and to show now he has changed, we copy a portion of it: "The utter ruin that would come to mankind, especially to the poorer nations, by the entire demonetization of silver, cannot be estimated by us. Take one-half of the solid money of the world out of existence, take the sole standard of more than two-thirds of the human race, reduce it to a base metal, and the effect upon the commerce of the world would be incalculable. It cannot be done. It will not be done."

"These two metals have traveled side by side since the beginning of time. The records of the human race do not go back to the time when they did not move together. They have varied in value, sometimes one, sometimes the other, being the higher, but they have gone on, gold the money of the rich, silver the money of the poor, the one to measure acquired wealth, the other, to measure the daily necessities of life, and, sir, no act of parliament, although it may for a moment disturb the relation of these two metals to each, nothing but the act of God, can destroy the use of both by mankind."

Contrast the position he then took with his present position, now that silver has been demonetized by the civilized nations of the earth. That speech outlined what would be. It has come, and yet the only speech he has made in this campaign, was to prove that everything that has been done was right, and that ours must be the most discredited people on earth, and the most short-sighted, to think of restoring the old days.

CONGRESSMAN TOWNE of Duluth has brought suit for libel against the St. Paul Dispatch and the Duluth News-Tribune on account of a slanderous statement affecting his integrity which the former paper published and the latter reproduced. He sues the Dispatch for $75,000 and the News-Tribune for $50,000 damages. The St. Paul paper attempts to make capital by offering to assist in having an immediate trial of the suit against it, affecting to believe it of great importance that the voters shall be enabled to decide whether the charges were truly made or not before election day. This is a transparent attempt to take advantage of Mr. Towne. The Dispatch knows very well that he is now conducting a campaign that calls for all his time and that he cannot abandon it to try a law case. If it could get him to do that there would be no trouble about getting the money to pay any judgment he might obtain, for the interests which are fighting Mr. Towne would give more than that to have him taken out of the fight for the balance of the campaign. He will not be caught by the proposition of his slanderers. It is his first business to be elected as his own successor, and he can afterward attend to the papers that have sought to defeat him by lying attacks on him.

Governor Drake of Iowa addressed a union meeting of the churches at Dubuque Sunday night in the interest of the American Bible society, and in the course of his remarks thus alluded to pulp politics: "I want to send the Bible into every home in Iowa and unite some of the pulpits. I want the preachers to read the beatitudes and to remember that 'blessed are the merciful.' Don't teach politics from the pulpit. Just convert the people to Christ and they will take care of their own politics." Good counsel, that, and it comes from a Republican governor, too.

This is a consistent administration. Secretary Carlisle and Comptroller Eckels and others of the high officials are allowed to go about the country making gold standard speeches with impunity, but when a subordinate official says a word in favor of silver coinage he risks decapitation. Two employes of the custom house at Port Huron were recently peremptorily removed because of "pernicious activity" in behalf of the silver ticket. The president is a staunch believer in freedom of speech—when the speaker talks the way he wants him to.

THE OPPOSING STANDARDS.

INGALLS ON THE MONEY QUESTION.—I very much regret that the limited space devoted to the discussion of the "Opposing Standards" in THE MINING JOURNAL renders it impossible to lay before its readers the full text of Mr. Ingalls' recent address at Chicago to railroad men. The following is a brief synopsis of some of the most important points discussed.

He shows that no government in the last two centuries has attempted to coin silver and gold at a ratio different from their commercial ratio, and that the first attempt at that experiment is the one the free silverites are now attempting to make in this country. England adopted the gold standard in 1816, other civilized nations of Europe followed, but still coined silver until 1871, when Germany, after the war with France, concluded she could take the large subsidy she received, put the country on gold, and established her commercial integrity with the gold standard. "This produced so much silver for sale that the Latin Union found themselves being flooded with silver, and gold being driven out."

In 1873 the Latin Union limited the coinage of five franc pieces, and in 1876, entirely suspended the free coinage of silver. The commercial value of silver was then about 17 to 1, compared with gold; and yet with this small difference, the people, they found their mines clogged with silver; gold leaving their countries (France, Switzerland, Italy and Belgium).

The ratio originally established in this country was 15 to 1, approximating as nearly as possibly to the commercial value of gold and silver bullion. In 1834 it was apparent that the ratio established was wrong, and a new ratio of 16 to 1 was established.

Alexander Hamilton overvalued silver about 3 per cent. Boston overvalued gold about 4 per cent., and yet so unerring was the law of trade that in the first place (prior to 1834) it drove out gold and in the next place it drove out silver.

"This process of cheaper money driving out the better has been known for 500 years. It was first mentioned in 1394. It is what is known as the Gresham law, on account of Sir Thomas Gresham, who in 1558 wrote a letter to Queen Elizabeth in regard to the matter. It is an unerring as the ab flow of the tides, yet these Populist people come to preach a new evangel and tell you in the nineteenth century this law will not work."

Mr. Ingalls, in proof of his assertion that the coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 would drive out of circulation what gold we have, calls attention to the fact that in no country on earth where there is free coinage of silver and gold at a different ratio than the commercial one is there any gold in circulation. "Look at Mexico, China and the South American republics; they all have silver but no gold. The only countries that have silver and gold both in circulation are those which, like our own, have limited coinage and legal tender qualities of silver."

Referring to the effect that the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 would have upon our wage earners, Mr. Ingalls says: "Who are the great creditors of this country? Not the eastern bondholder that Bryan in his wild trip over the country abuses. The great creditor is the wage earner. The country owes him more each month many fold than is due to all the bondholders. Take the railways of this country, for an example; each year nearly $500,000,000 is paid out to their employes in wages. If you adopt the scheme of the Populist and debase your currency you take from these men more than $100,000,000.

For twenty-five years you have tolled and worked in order to get your wages advanced to where they are now, and in one day, if this scheme succeeds, on the 3d of November, you reduce your wages anywhere from 50 to 25 per cent. You may ask me how this is done. Simply this, the result always in any country on the debasement of the standard is a rise in the cost of the necessities of life. If today the dollar a day you are getting buys ten pounds of meat and that meat goes up to twenty cents a pound you get but five cents worth of your dollar; for a dollar a day you are buying twenty pounds of sugar and its price goes up to ten cents a pound, your dollar get you but ten pounds, and you must either use less meat and sugar or you must get more pay. The history of the world proves conclusively, and no one knows it better than the workingman, that the last thing to rise is wages. In reference to railway wages, it would be impossible in any event to get them increased. The same hand which proposes to debase coinage proposes to reduce the railway rates. If it did not competition and laws would fix them. The railways can earn no more, and it will be paid them in silver worth one-half the present price. Most of the bonds of the railways are payable in gold and this silver has to be reduced to a gold basis, and many of the rail-

TOE NAILS TAKEN OFF.

The Peculiar Accident Said to Have Happened an Indiana Woman.

Mrs. John Bumgardner, of Lagro, Ind., is said to have been the victim of a wonderful accident the other morning, the cause thereof being one of those peculiar and unaccountable pranks sometimes played by lightning. It is alleged, and upon reliable authority, too, that the aforesaid lady had three of her toe nails amputated by a severe stroke of electricity, the shock being such as to cause her no other trouble or pain.

It seems that the lady was walking about the floor with bare feet, having left her bed for the purpose of closing the house to keep out the rain, and was just in the act of letting down a window when lightning by an unusually terrific flash of lightning. She felt the shock for only a moment, and then fully recovered, though considerably frightened. Shortly afterward Mrs. Bumgardner noticed that something was wrong with her right foot, and upon making an examination she found that three toe nails were missing. The would, even with the great economy, be forced into bankruptcy under free coinage; in any event, it would involve less work and greater economy, which means idle men and less wages."

In conclusion Mr. Ingalls urged that the honor of our country is at stake, and declared that no man could desire anything worse to happen to his country than would happen if the Populists should succeed. That it would allow the nation to live, but dishonored; that "the finger of scorn would be pointed at us by the civilized world as the one great nation that deliberately debased its coinage to cheat its creditors."

INQUIRER ANSWERED.—Without refuting the writer's premises, or bringing an example from history to support his position, Inquirer believes that the coinage paper set forth by Mr. Bryan and his supporters is not an experiment. Inquirer must then believe that some other nation has at some time attempted to give free coinage to silver and gold at a ratio differing widely from the market ratio. Will he kindly tell us when and where the attempt was made, in order that we may study its outcome and thereby judge of the effect which Mr. Bryan's election will have?

Inquirer makes the statement, however, that the coinage ratio recommended by Hamilton was the coinage of all the great commercial nations at that time.

In the M. S. reports of the committee on finance of continental congress for 1785 is the following: "In France 1 grain of pure gold is counted worth 15 grains of silver. In Spain 16 grains of silver are exchanged for 1 of gold and in England 15 1-2 sh. In both of the kingdoms last mentioned gold is the prevailing money, because silver is undervalued. In France silver prevails."

In Hamilton's report, before referred to, we find that the coinage ratio in Holland was 14.9 to 1. Also in regard to the cheaper money driving out the dearer: "Facts, too, verify the inference. In Spain and England, where gold is rated higher than in other parts of Europe, there is a scarcity of silver; while it is found to abound in France and Holland, where it is rated higher in proportion to gold than in the neighboring nations. And it is continually flowing from Europe to China and the East Indies, owing to the comparative cheapness of it in the former, and the dearth of it in the latter."

Thus it seems that 105 years ago there were many coinage ratios and but one market ratio which would not stay fixed, but varied according to laws that are higher than coinage laws.

Inquirer also states that the coinage ratio, originally fixed to accord with the relative commercial value of the metals, in turn fixed the commercial ratio and gave it stability. If it were true that the coinage ratio fixed the market ratio, why did the market ratio keep on changing as our table of ratios has shown that it did? Why did the United States change its coinage ratio to 16 to 1, and why did most of the nations of Europe change theirs to 15 1/2 to 1?

As a matter of history, all of the leading commercial nations have never agreed on a coinage ratio and the market ratio has never yet remained fixed for any length of time, and therefore the Republican party believes that the market ratio cannot be fixed in any other manner than by an international agreement.

In independent free coinage the ratio plays a very important part because the two metals never circulate side by side when the coinage ratio differs materially from the market ratio. As seen by the quotations above it placed England and Spain on a gold basis, and France and Holland on a silver basis, and as we have seen in our own history, the difference between the market and the legal ratios placed us first on a silver basis and afterward on a gold basis. Reasoning from analogy the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at 16 to 1 by the United States alone would today place us on a silver basis and all the arguments against gold monometallism are equally effective against silver monometallism. The Republican party is opposed to both, and has, by denying free coinage to silver, developed a system of practical bimetalism similar to that of France and the countries of the Latin Monetary Union, and has pledged itself to grant free coinage to silver as soon as it can be done without giving the country silver monometallism.

The tariff schedules are framed to produce certain definite results according to the conditions at the time when they are adopted, and in order to produce uniform results have to be changed when the conditions governing them change. So with the ratio. Under differing conditions it will produce differing results, and to keep the result uniform the ratio should be changed to correspond with every change in the conditions which govern it.

JUST TOO LATE. Thought Too Long About Kissing in the Tunnel.

"We are now coming to the tunnel," said the cautious lover, reports the Detroit Free Press.

"Nothing that you could do would surprise me," she said.

"I do not see anyone we know?" "Not a soul."

"Nor anyone that knows us?" "No, no."

"I suppose there isn't any sticking-plaster on your face?" "No, why?"

"It might betray us. I read of a young man like me, who kissed a girl like you when they were going through a tunnel."

"Well, what of it? How slow you are."

"The sticking-plaster was on her face when they went in; when they came out it was on his."

"How lovely. We are nearly through the tunnel."

"Then it must be now or never," said the cautious lover, and the passenger smiled audibly.

VOLUNTEER WEDDING.

Col. Pattie Watkins Married to Her Secretary in New York.

First Affair of the Kind in the New Organization Attended by a Large Audience That Pays to See the Ceremony Performed.

The romantic courtship of Col. Pattie Watkins, commanding the New York and New Jersey regiment of Ballington Booth's American Volunteers, and Capt. Frederick A. Lindsey has ended in their marriage at Carnegie music hall.

The hall was crowded with friends of the volunteers. Downstairs the house was packed, while the four galleries were comfortably well filled.

There is a large spice of romance in the wedding. Four years ago Mr. Lindsey, a business man, dropped into the Bowers barracks, where Pattie was preaching.

It was noted that Pattie Watkins was not required to say that she would obey her husband.

"When taking into consideration the time the volunteers were inaugurated, viz: March 9 last, and that their growth has been great during the heat of the summer and during the present financial strain, we think we may, without hesitation, lay claim to unparalleled advance in the history of Christian movements in this country."

"The volunteers have 115 officers, organized posts, a headquarters at Union Square embracing 10,000 square feet, with some 40 officers and employees connected with the building.

"I suppose there isn't any sticking-plaster on your face?" "No, why?"

"It might betray us. I read of a young man like me, who kissed a girl like you when they were going through a tunnel."

CAUSE A DANGEROUS SWELL. Complaint That American Liners Go Too Fast Through the Solent.

Baron Colville, of Culcross, chairman of the Great Northern Railway company, has addressed a letter to the newspapers of London protesting against the risk to life and property resulting from the high rate of speed maintained by the American liners in the narrow waters of the Solent.

In the course of his letter, Baron Colville gives a number of instances of the danger attending the running of big ships at great speed through the Solent, one of which involves the American line steamer St. Paul, a wave from which vessel, Lord Colville asserts, nearly swamped a small steamer off Cooves, as the liner was passing out.

Upon another recent occasion, he declares, a wave from the steamer Spree dashed upon shore and overthrew and severely injured a woman who was walking on the footpath of the Cooves road.

A representative of the press made inquiry in regard to Lord Colville's statements at the office of the American Line Steamship company, where it was denied that the ships of that company ran at a high rate of speed in the Solent. The speed record of the outgoing American liners, the officials declare, begins at the Needles.

Kites Sent to Great Altitude. When Mr. Eady first began to fly kites at Blue Hill, Mass., an altitude of 1,500 feet was considered remarkable, but recently an altitude of 7,200 feet above the level of the surrounding country was attained by a kite.

The Blue Hill boys have now some two miles of strong wire on hand and think that they can achieve still greater penetration into the upper air than the present record of a mile and a quarter.

The experiments of the present week are likely to be of importance, since Prof. Harrington, late chief of the weather service, and Mr. Archibald, from England, the first person to use kites for meteorological purposes, are in town.

These gentlemen will visit Blue Hill and trials will be made during the week to eclipse even the already noteworthy record.

TROUBLE WITH A SNAKE. Reptile Had a Rattle Attachment and Policeman Couldn't Get Rid of It.

A rattlesnake six feet long caused lots of trouble to a policeman in New York city the other night. It was handed to the policeman in the Bowery by the conductor of a surface road car.

The reptile was in a bag. The policeman was ordered to take the reptile to Central park, where the authorities refused to receive it.

The policeman was not allowed to ride on the cars, conductors objecting to snakes, so he had to tramp to police headquarters. The snake was not wanted there. It was finally deposited in the coal bin of the Fifth street station house.

It is the opinion of the police that the reptile, which is a fine specimen of a rattlesnake six feet in length, is the property of the proprietor of a museum, who may have been transferring his stock from the summer show grounds at Coney island to the winter quarters in the city, and, falling asleep in the cable car, had awakened suddenly upon arriving at his destination and left the car, forgetting the live property in his custody.

It caused a great commotion in the cable car when the conductor first pulled the bag containing it out from beneath the seat.

DETROIT

Striking Facts Concerning the State Metropolis.

THE HANDSOMEST CITY IN THE WEST AND A LEADER IN ENTERPRISE.

Depot of Supplies for Michigan and Adjacent Territory.

William E. Curtis, the talented newspaper correspondent, thus contentedly alludes to some of the beauties of the metropolis of Michigan: "The people of Detroit have utilized the abundant natural resources for rest and recreation that surround them, in a very attractive manner. They have beautiful parks, and a magnificent boulevard system. Belle Isle, which sits in the river opposite the city and only a few minutes' journey from the court house (City Hall), is a lovely place. It has been decorated by a skilled and tasteful landscape gardener, and its drives and groves and lawns are unsurpassed. Up and down the river for a distance of thirty miles are clusters of hotels, club houses, cottages and villas and other private and public pleasure resorts, which offer attractions to all classes at all prices and easily accessible. Along the St. Clair ship canal, upon which the government has expended so many millions to make a channel that carries more commerce than any other waterway in the world, is a row of cottages and clubs several miles in length that are built upon stilts, like the lake dwellers in Paraguay and the people of Maracabo, which Amerigo Vespucci saw when he cruised along the Spanish main in 1503. He called that country Venezuela, which means 'Little Venice.' The people of Michigan also call this cool and lovely place after the famous city on the Adriatic. Some of the houses are surrounded by lawns and groves of trees planted upon the reclaimed ground, and are very attractive. They say it is always cool there, that mosquitoes are unknown, and that you can catch fish enough for breakfast by dropping a line out of your bedroom window."

Besides Belle Isle Park, Detroit has nineteen other parks, the next in size being Log Cabin Park on Woodward avenue, one hundred and twenty acres. These twenty parks comprise within a fraction of eight hundred and eighty-seven acres of land devoted to the recreation and health of the residents of the city, and the pleasure of visitors. The value of this property is over six and a quarter millions of dollars. The Grand Boulevard is a semicircle over eleven miles in length. Detroit's Public Library contains nearly one hundred and forty thousand volumes. About two thousand volumes are worn out by use and replaced every year. She has a Museum of Art which has cost in buildings and grounds one hundred and twenty-seven thousand dollars. The collections therein are valued at one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, and they were all given to the Museum by Detroit citizens. She has sixty-one public school buildings, valued with the ground they stand on at over two millions three hundred and forty thousand dollars. Seven hundred and thirty-seven teachers instruct the thirty-five thousand pupils in these schools. Besides, there are probably fifteen thousand pupils in the various parochial and private schools.

Detroit has two hundred and twenty-five miles of paved streets, one hundred and fifty-eight miles of public sewers, and two hundred and eighty-five miles of lateral sewers. The city is lighted at night by a plant which she owns and which cost over six hundred and thirty thousand dollars. About forty thousand electric lights blaze every night in her streets.

The official municipal manual gives her population as two hundred and eighty thousand. The city directory figures the number within her borders as over three hundred and sixty thousand. The area of the city is twenty-nine square miles.

Over one million six hundred and twenty thousand dollars was expended for new buildings in Detroit during the first six months of 1896. Detroit contains the tallest commercial building outside of New York and Chicago—the new Majestic Building, fourteen stories and two hundred and eleven feet high.

The above scattered facts show that the State metropolis is not only a beautiful, comfortable and otherwise highly enjoyable place of residence, but that she is an immense and fast-growing commercial and industrial center. In several branches of trade, among which are the manufacture of cars, drugs, stoves, matches, varnish, soda-ash and pins, and in the seed business, Detroit leads every other city in America.

Naturally, Detroit is the wholesale depot for all Michigan and the adjacent territory. Here are some of her leaders in their respective lines of commerce, manufactures and finance:

WANTED A WHEEL BADLY. A Woman Attempts to Get One on a Fraudulent Number.

Some time ago a bicycle was raffled off at S. Johnson & Co.'s store, the lucky number being 3,733. One day last week a woman came to the store and presented a corresponding number and demanded the wheel. The clerk who waited on her observed that the figures on the ticket had been changed. Without making known his suspicions the clerk politely told the woman that she did not have the right number. She insisted that the number was a duplicate of the one that drew the wheel and she gave everyone in the store to understand that unless the bike was delivered to her without any further ceremony "something would drop."

Something did drop, and the woman was caught in a trap. The stub of the number which drew the bike was produced and it was of a different color from the ticket which she presented. She saw that her game had failed to work and quickly left the store and has not called there since.

In case the holder of the lucky number does not show up at the store within thirty days another drawing will take place at the expiration of that time.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH. Either Deliberate Suicide or Took an Overdose of Laudnum.

Too much laudnum was the cause of death of Dr. F. B. Meloche, a young doctor and a member of the firm of Meloche Bros., druggists, who recently moved here from Ontonagon. Whether the young man committed deliberate suicide or took an overdose is in question, but evidence seems to favor the latter supposition.

The young man had been drinking considerably for two weeks back and a couple of days ago he began to take laudnum as a bracer. Yesterday he went to his room in the Urban House about five in the evening. A few minutes later James Kenny, a young man working in the drug store, went up to see how he was getting on. When Kenny pushed the door open he found Meloche lying on the bed and struggling in the throes of convulsions. He pumped his arteries, pounded his back and worked over him a few minutes trying to make him vomit, but when he saw he was not successful he hurried downstairs and telephoned to the drugstore for the sick man's brother. He came and then a doctor was sent for, but the victim of the drug was too near death for the medical aid to do him any good. He died just at 6 o'clock.

On a dresser in his room was found a four ounce bottle containing less than an ounce of laudnum. It may or may not have been full when he took his dose. The young man was twenty-eight years old and unmarried. His father and mother live in Ontario. His body was taken to the Columbian morgue.

CONTRACT NOT LET. Lake Superior Iron Company Holds Bids on Contract for Moving Houses.

The Lake Superior Iron company has received bids from four or five local contractors for removing twenty-two dwellings from the territory over which the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company proposes extending its line. The bids have been examined but the contract has not yet been let. Charles Johnson was the lowest bidder and it is likely he will be given the job as soon as the company decides to go ahead with the work. His bid for doing the work was $1,000. Joseph Douglas was the next lowest bidder, his bid being $149 higher than Johnson's.

Supporters of Bryan and Sewall met at Andrew's hall on Monday evening and organized a silver club. The leading members of the organization expect that the membership will be increased considerably between now and election day.

Says He'll Do So Some More. An Italian living at the Dexter mine location was arrested Monday for violating the game law. He was brought before Justice Donahoe and pleaded guilty to the charge of killing partridge out of season. A deer hide was found in the fellow's possession but no positive proof of his having killed deer out of season could be obtained. The man was fined $10 and the costs of court. A friend paid the amount for him, though the fellow wanted to go to jail. He claimed that he was as poor that he was compelled to hunt and shoot whatever game he could for the support of his family. He told the game warden that he would continue to kill partridge but would take good care that he was not caught at it again.

By patronizing Quinn's establishment the ladies will secure correct styles. His line of ladies' fall cloaks is now complete. He has also just replenished his stock of kid gloves, which are still being sold at seventy-nine cents per pair. These are worth $1.25 and are a splendid article.

At the Club Room. The headquarters of the Ishpeming McKinley and Hobart club in the Jenk's block is quite a popular resort these days. The room is well filled nearly every evening and a number of the men who are now out of work spend their afternoons there. The tables are loaded with literature of various kinds and are also supplied with playing cards, etc. On Monday evening a number of local vocalists congregated there and a variety of pleasing selections were rendered. The concert did not come to a close until 10 o'clock.

Katie Putnam and her clever company will produce "The Old Lime Kiln" tonight at the Ishpeming Opera House. The play is a fine one and all who attend may expect a treat.

The invitations for the ball to be given next Monday evening under auspices of the Ishpeming Cycling club have been issued. A number of young folks are expected over from Negaunee.

Ole Walseth and wife left Monday evening for Alaster, S. D., where they expect to remain two or three weeks. Mrs. Walseth's mother resides there. Of late the old lady has not been in good health. She has been anxious for some time past to see her daughter.

A CHANNEL STORY.

BY CLYDE FORD.

One may travel far without seeing a more charming stretch of river scenery than can be found along our northern boundary between Lake Superior and Lake Huron. ...

Two or three miles below the Soo the river divides around Sugar Island; one arm making a bend to the east, and the other continuing nearly straight down for some miles through Hay Lake. ...

One cold May day a strange flotilla might have been seen leaving the Soo. It was the tug Tam O'Shanter, moving Dredge No. 4 and her two dumping scows down below Little Rapids in the new channel, where some dredging was to begin. ...

Along in the middle of the summer the Tam O'Shanter was transferred to a dredge at Nine Mile point, and another tug, the W. H. Maxwell, took her place with No. 4. ...

The fireman was now around on the bow and the captain was swearing at him and telling him to fire up. Finally Jakey appeared again at the pilot house. ...

With great puffing and snorting, and rolling out big clouds of smoke, the W. H. Maxwell steamed up to No. 4. Groans, oaths and entreaties were coming up out of the manhole on the upper deck. ...

German song to himself as he worked - some song that carried him back to a little village in the Rheingau, where his mother lived; but how could the dredge man know that his eyes grew misty at recollections of home, or that the strange words of his song had a mournful strain in them? ...

Late one afternoon the W. H. Maxwell was dispatched to the Soo for some repairs. In place of the regular fireman of the tug - if the fireman had had only been on for the last two weeks and had quit the day before could be called regular - one of the dredge firemen was substituted. ...

At the Soo the captain received the needed repairs, took on a few boxes of vegetables for the dredge and was ready for the return. He had not been able to find a new fireman in any of the loafing places or saloons on Water street. ...

They cast off the lines and backed out of the slip. There were a number of boats passing, and the captain signaled to go ahead, and reverse, and to slow up, and to put on steam, till poor Jakey was wild. ...

WANT LIQUOR LAW ENFORCED.

Negaunee Societies Write Mayor Kirkwood to That Effect. Mayor Kirkwood and Marshal Rough have each received a letter, signed by the presidents and secretaries of Silver Ball tent, Independent Order of Rechabites, and the Finnish Temperance society, calling their attention to the fact that the liquor law is being violated by saloon keepers of Negaunee. ...

We beg to call your attention to the slackness with which the Sunday liquor law is enforced in our city and to notify you that we intend to take immediate steps for the correction of this evil. ...

The names of William J. Lenin, president, and Charles H. Jennings, secretary, of the Rechabites, are attached to the letter. I do not propose to sit on the back door steps of the saloons to see who enters them on Sunday nor yet do I expect the marshal or any of the other officers to do so. ...

Major Kirkwood says he has no knowledge of the law being violated in the manner stated to by these two societies. If such is the case he cannot prove it as he has never entered a saloon on Sunday since he has been mayor of the city. ...

ALL THREE IN ONE WEEK.

Politicians Will Have a Trio of Conventions to Keep an Eye On.

REPUBLICANS AND FUSIONISTS WILL ARRANGE COUNTY SLATES.

McKinley and Hobart Club Will Blow Itself for Burrows—No Strike on South Shore Road—Couldn't Stand Drink.

MAKING THE COUNTY SLATES.

Next week will be crowded with conventions. The Republicans will meet and put up a county ticket on the 8th. The Silver ticket will be made up that week too on a date yet to be announced, and the fusionists have also a senatorial convention upon their hands.

The call is already out for the Republican county convention. It will be held in this city in the assembly room of the city hall, beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The officers to be nominated are judge of probate, sheriff, treasurer, clerk, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney, two circuit court commissioners, two coroners and a county surveyor. After the county ticket has been put up the delegates from the First and Second districts will organize and nominate candidates for the state legislature in their respective districts.

It is pretty well settled in the minds of those who have been watching the Republican scramble for county office how that slate will be made up, but no prophet has appeared to call the turn on the silver ticket. If anybody has been mentioned it was in a whisper, and the name of the aspirant has not yet become public property. Local silver leaders when approached claim to be in ignorance of the probable nominees.

PLAN A BIG DEMONSTRATION.

The Republican rally to be held here Thursday night with Burrows as the chief speaker of the evening, is giving indications as the date nears that it will be quite a demonstration.

In addition to Mr. Burrows, senior senator of Michigan, there will be Carl Sheldon, Republican nominee for congress, T. B. Dunston, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Alex Maitland, the nominee on the Republican slate for state senator. Despite a theatrical attraction and a leading society event the local managers are confident that there will be a crowd turn out which will do credit to the Republican strength of the city.

As Mr. Burrows will not speak in Ishpeming or Negaunee this campaign the Republican clubs of those cities have announced their intention to come down to Marquette and participate in the rally held here. They will bring the Ishpeming Swedish double quartette. The Munising Republicans are also expected to join in the demonstration. Special rates and trains will be given for the accommodation of these clubs. As each has a membership of several hundred the number who will come down here ought to make up for the local Republicans who will be drawn away from the meeting by the other attractions.

There is one thing sure and that is lack of funds will not cripple the local campaign as far as the Republicans are concerned. With one and one half day's work Louis Grabower, a member of the McKinley and Hobart Republican club finance committee, collected from club members an even $600.

With plenty of money on hand the managers intend to boom things. They have engaged the band for their Thursday night meeting, and have rented the vacant store in the Nester building for a reading room and secondary headquarters. It will be fitted up with chairs and there will be tables stocked with gold cause literature.

The McKinley and Hobart club will probably make its first public appearance by marching down to the train to meet the Negaunee and Ishpeming clubs, when a procession will be formed and all will march together to the rink. This feature of the evening, however, is still in abeyance and may not be carried out.

No Strike Here.

Telegraphic correspondents in the city were queried last evening by their papers for the story of the strike of the train dispatchers on the D. S. S. & A. The dispatchers have gone out on a strike on the Canadian Pacific and the impression seemed to be that the operators on the South Shore would strike in sympathy.

J. D. Boxer when seen last night declared that there was no strike here and that there would be none. Though some of the South Shore employes are O. R. T. men there is no organization on the line. The wages on the South Shore are considerably better than those on the Canadian Pacific, so the primary object of the strike is removed here. He says the operators on this road will not go out in sympathy.

The only way in which the South Shore is affected by the strike is that it missed its Canadian Pacific connections, on account of the crippled condition of the train service of the latter road.

Katie Putnam.

C. J. Dazey, who has written "In Old Kentucky," "The War of Wealth" and several other successes, is also the author of Miss Putnam's new play, "The Old Lime Kiln," that will be presented at the opera house next Thursday evening, Oct. 1. The story of the play springs from a situation creating intense sympathy and interest, the struggles of a good man, accused unjustly of a heinous crime, to re-establish his innocence in the sight of the world. Eighteen years before the play begins Robert Mervyn, unable to win his father's consent to a marriage with the woman he loved, fled with her. On that very night his father's safe is robbed and all the circumstances point strongly to Robert's guilt. His father writes him never to dare to show his face in his old home again or he will punish him as he would a stranger. One misfortune after another pursues him, until at the opening of the play he has become a prey to the opium habit and lives with his daughter Margery, in a ragged tent in the Yellowstone Park, where he has sunk to the humble position of a guide. How his father, with other old friends, visits the Park and fails to recognize him in the wreck he has become; how his true-hearted little daughter, Margery, inspires him with new hope and a fixed determination to return to his old home, and discover the man for whose crime he has suffered; how this is finally accomplished through Margery's self-sacrificing and heroic efforts form the substance of a story in which all the strongest passion of human nature are given full play and scope, and yet which brims over with comedy, and has in contrast with the darker passions, a sweet and tender love story, with elements of magnanimity and forgiveness which must appeal to everyone's better nature.

Found Not Guilty.

Tuesday was a lucky day for prisoners at the circuit court bar. The juries found for the defendant in every case.

When court opened in the morning the jury had not been charged in the first case of the calendar, that of the People vs. Peter Foote. There were a number of witnesses on both sides and the jury was surfeited with testimony. The judge charged them as to the facts and the law, and told them that if they believed the testimony of Foote's witnesses there was nothing to do but bring in a verdict for the defendant. He also pointed out the fact that the woman had failed to make her case in a justice court, and in her new complaint had changed certain material points in her allegations. He charged them to weigh these points well.

Apparently the jury followed this latter instruction to the letter, for although the case seemed pretty clear they were out over three hours before they were able to return a verdict. They decided for the defendant. John Adams and Charles Homes, two young men who were charged with burglarizing the depot at Michigan a few months ago were put on trial, and were equally lucky as Foote, the jury deciding that there wasn't enough evidence to warrant a conviction.

The last case of the day was that against Cornelius Sullivan. He is alleged to have attempted to hold up a woman in Ishpeming. Court adjourned with the case still on.

Jurors on a Toot.

Marquette is too big a city for a pair of up the readers who came here yesterday on business with the court.

They looked upon the wine when it was red, then looked upon the growler. Either they took more than they were accustomed to at home or the stuff passed out over the bar here is of a more deadly quality. At any rate both of them got gloriously and obnoxiously drunk and were arrested about seven last evening on the depot platform.

When taken up to the station one was recognized as the son of a prominent and respectable Ishpeming merchant. The other is a Republic character known locally as the Swede Fin. He declared that he was a juror, and for a couple of hours the officers labored under the delusion that both men were jurors. Reference to the jury list showed that neither of them were. Inquiry was made then and it was learned that one of them was down as a witness, and the other was one of a batch of Fins who were brought down from Republic yesterday to take out their last papers. When arrested he was trying to take the 6:40 train which comes in from Ishpeming on the impression that it was the train that would take him home.

No. 1 Dock Ablaze.

What might have resulted in a good sized fire was discovered before it had time to do any harm last night by some women on the porch of the Summit hotel. This was a small fire on the shore end of No. 1 ore dock. When the women saw it it was about as big as a small bonfire but it was eating its way outward. They called the attention of some men to the blaze. The men ran over and tried to put it out with dirt unsuccessfully. A passing engine was signaled and a bucket of water secured. This easily extinguished the blaze. It is supposed to have caught by a spark from a passing locomotive.

Sick-poison is a poison which makes you sick. It comes from the stomach. The stomach makes it out of undigested food. The blood gets it and taints the whole body with it. That's the way of it. The way to be rid of it is to look after your digestion. If your food is all properly digested, there will be none left in the stomach to make sick-poison out of. If your stomach is so weak to see to this properly by itself, help it along with a few doses of Shaker Digestive Cordial. That's the cure of it. Shaker Digestive Cordial is a delicious, healthful, tonic cordial, made of pure medicinal plants, herbs and wine. It positively cures indigestion and prevents the formation of sick-poison. At druggists. Trial bottles 10 cents.
