A DISGRACEFUL NOMINATION.

It is deeply to be regretted that Mayor Pingree's fight to down W. G. Thompson of Detroit for state senator has not succeeded.

Thompson is one of the class of politicians who are a curse to the country, for they are nominated for state senator through the work and influence of the corporations of Detroit which Pingree has been fighting ever since he has been mayor.

Thompson openly charges that Chairman Ferry of the Republican state central committee threw the weight of his influence in that position into the scale in favor of Thompson. We give what he had to say about it in an interview published in Saturday's Detroit News:

"Talk about sound money; it is sound government we want. Here is the official head of the G. O. P. in Michigan using the money furnished him by Republicans to defeat the will of the people.

"I am a Republican, but I am not the kind of a Republican that wants to give away the people's rights to the corporations. If the Republican party goes on as the state central committee is trying to lead it, the party will soon be a thing of the past."

Mr. Pingree is the Republican candidate for governor, and it will be hardly doubted that he speaks the truth when he charges that Thompson's nomination was corruptly procured through the work of the street railway and other corporations which desire the retention of their willing and pliant tool in the legislature, and that Ferry aided them in that work.

ONLY two weeks remain for active campaign work, and the managers on both sides are determined to make them busy ones. All the doubtful states will be flooded with speakers, and the deluge of oratory that the people will be afflicted with from now till election day is appalling to contemplate.

We take this report on the state of the ore market from the last number of the Iron Trade Review: The better market for foundry iron in the past few weeks and the tapering off of the navigation season have directed the attention of furnacemen to their stocks of non-Bessemer ores.

This Chicago Journal of Commerce takes a hopeful view of the outlook for their iron and steel trades. We quote from its number for last week: It is very evident that a strong footing has been secured during the past month by many iron and steel lines, and such trade developments indicate profitable activity during the winter months. If the great consuming interests are not carried too swiftly into advancing prices, and the attitude of the government on vital questions does not change, the volume of smoke above our industrial centers will thicken weekly.

EDITOR OF THE MINING JOURNAL.—Much has been said and much is being said relative to the merits of the McKinley tariff bill and the Wilson tariff bill.

IN THE BAHAMAS.

BY WILFRED BENDALL.

Amongst the numerous British colonies there is none, perhaps, about which the average Englishman is more hazy than about the Bahamas—the islands of June—the Pink Pearl—the Olander, as they have been variously styled. Several reasons may account for this.

The Bahamas consist of a group of some 650 islands (only 20 inhabited), widely scattered, the extremes being something over 400 miles apart. Many of them are only partially explored, and some of the smaller ones scarcely known; the population is, of course, very scanty, the last census giving only 44,000, of which about 90 per cent. are colored people.

Nassau, the capital (and indeed the only town worthy the name), is situated on New Providence, an island about the size and shape of Isle of Wight. The finest buildings the town possesses are the jail, the hospital and the Royal Victoria hotel, said to be the best in the West Indies. It is only open from Christmas till the end of April, that being the times at which visitors come from the states; although as far as the climate is concerned, the rains are over in October and the weather is cool and delightful from the beginning of November.

At other times of the year accommodations can be had at the Curry houses and at various boarding establishments. The bank, post office and most of the shops are in Bay street—a long, wide street, planted with almond trees, running along the coast, east and west. The roads around the town and indeed far into the country are excellent. The island cannot boast of any special beauty of scenery; with the exception of a very low range of hills, the country is flat, in some places swampy. The uncultivated portions are always covered with vegetation, sometimes by an almost impenetrable bush, sometimes by pine trees, and sometimes by many miles of beautiful palmettos—plants without which no London drawing-room is complete nowadays.

The chief and oldest industry of the place is sponging; an apparently endless supply of sponge is found on the reefs which surround the islands. The sponge boats are constantly returning to Nassau with their cargoes, and large heaps may be seen almost any morning in the exchange. Sponge is sold by auction, clipped and pressed, packed in bales, and dispatched to agents in New York and London. Several species are found, but none of them are of so fine quality as most of the sorts from the Mediterranean.

Vast quantities of live turtle are continually being shipped, which figure later at Delmonico's and the London restaurants. Another species (the non-edible) is also abundant in Nassau; an important industry in Nassau; the shells are polished whole, and form very attractive ornaments, or are cut up to make combs and other small articles.

The two great prizes for which every fisherman is on the lookout are the pink pearls and ambergris. The former are found in the flesh of the large conch (strobilus gigas), a very abundant shell which is dived for by the boys, who are most expert in this exercise. A pearl of unusually large size was purchased by a dealer in Nassau lately for £405; as, however, only one shell in a hundred contains a pearl, and then probably only a small one, pearl fishing is a decidedly precarious means of livelihood. The natives much relish the flesh of the conch, but it is somewhat an acquired taste.

Ambregis, which is formed by a disease in the sperm whale, is occasionally washed ashore on the islands, and a large piece of it is a small fortune to the lucky finder.

The department of agriculture states that the average cost of fertilizers for an acre of wheat in New Hampshire is $5.59. In the never states this item cuts little figure.

The biggest and most successful Republican rally ever held in Lake Linden took place Friday, the principal speaker being Attorney General Maynard. A special train of a dozen flatcars conveyed a large delegation from Calumet.

Good Words for Mining School.

The recently issued catalogue of the Michigan Mining School has been received with much favor, as the following notice taken from The Engineer, shows:

"The catalogue of the Michigan Mining School at Houghton, Mich., is a new departure in work of this kind, in that it seems to have been compiled with a view to give intending students a thorough knowledge of what they may have to encounter both in the pursuit of knowledge and the application of it to commercial work.

A Fifteen-Foot Draft.

John Beaton of Alhoo, an unsuccessful applicant for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Keweenaw county, has decided to run as an independent candidate. A meeting of the Honest Money club of Houghton will be held tomorrow evening at Pfeiffer's Hall.

Mr. Peter Gaudreau and Miss Maria Poisson of Hancock will be married by Rev. Father Kellar at St. Joseph's church Wednesday morning. A reception will be held in the evening at St. Patrick's Hall. The fair in progress at Calumet for the benefit of Sacred Heart church is being largely attended.

The remains of Thomas O'Brien, who was drowned in the canal Friday morning, were recovered early the same afternoon. A coroner's inquest was held at the light house, and a verdict of accidental drowning rendered.

In her love for the picturesque many a modern mother is in danger of imitating her child's sensitiveness or bashfulness on the shrine of the little one's clothing. For example, a woman, who has collected many quaint and pretty things in frequent trips abroad, lately asked her small daughter if she would like to wear a certain Dutch cap at church on a Sunday morning.

Inhabitants? Indians, coyotes, rattlesnakes, rabbits, prairie-dogs and Mormons, in the heart of it; while along its borders and in the valleys where water is or can be brought are ranchmen with stout hearts—as need there is to bring a livelihood from this desolate frontier. Villages there are in favored places, and a few towns with faces set firmly toward the Twentieth century as to the utilities, while the amenities are but fitfully in evidence.

REMINISCENCE OF LINCOLN.

A Proposed Colony of American Negroes in Central America.

It was a proposition of President Lincoln to colonize in Central America the colored people of the border states—Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware—states which did not secede, says the Baltimore Sun. "President Lincoln," said Dr. Morris, a few days ago, "was a native of Kentucky, and while a resident of Illinois during his mature manhood he had a good conception of the needs of the negro. Originally he was opposed to the wholesale emancipation of the colored race—to placing these untutored people upon their own resources to gain a livelihood. He was opposed to their return to Liberia or any African country because they had been thrown in contact with Anglo-Saxon civilization, and if the same methods of civilization should be used by them in Africa they would starve."

"Mr. Lincoln proposed to colonize them in Central America, where the Anglo-Saxon civilization existed, where fruit and cereals could be raised in abundance and without much labor, and where the climate suited a race which for thousands of years had lived under the piercing rays of the sun at the equator. Mr. Lincoln was distrustful of the border states, because many of their most prominent residents, including members of congress, were opposed to the emancipation of slaves. That was the situation in 1861 and 1862. "When the war broke out Dr. Charles A. Leas, of Baltimore, was consul at Cronstadt, and sent to the state department much valuable information bearing upon the fitting out of privateers in European ports for confederate service. These reports ultimately reached Mr. Lincoln, who was much impressed with them. In 1863 Dr. Leas returned to America and was summoned to Washington by Mr. Lincoln. The doctor, during the administration of President Pierce, had been stationed as consul at one of the principal ports in Central America and was thoroughly familiar with that territory and the character and habits of the people. To him Mr. Lincoln intrusted the delicate duty of negotiating the purchase of sufficient territory in Central America for the colonization of the colored people of the border states. Of course he had nothing to do with the colored people of the southern states, for those states were then arrayed against the union. Dr. Leas went upon his mission, but the plan was a failure because the war assumed more serious phases at that time and because every dollar that could be raised had to be expended in equipping and maintaining the army then in the field.

"Just think of the possibilities of the success of Dr. Leas' mission," continued Dr. Morris. "Had it turned out successfully we might not now have among us here in Maryland a single native colored man, woman or child. It is true, they might have come to us from the south, after the war, but if Mr. Lincoln's ideas had been carried to a successful issue, as would have been the case but for the pressure of more momentous events at the time, the tide of negro emigration to the Central American states would have been fully established, and there is no doubt that the colored people of states in arms against the union would have followed those of their race from the border states."

After the war Dr. Leas was for a time a health officer of Baltimore and superintendent of the house of refuge. He married Miss French. He died ten years ago at his home at Glyndon, Baltimore county.—Chicago News.
