GREAT THINGS HEAR BRYAN

Ten Speeches Are Made by the Silver Candidate in Chicago Yesterday.

HALLS ALL PACKED AND MANY ARE TURNED AWAY.

Impossible at Some of Them to Obtain Admission Hours Before the Nominee's Arrival—Crowds Wildly Enthusiastic.

HE GETS MANY OVATIONS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Long before the hour for the noon day meeting at Battery D to be addressed by Mr. Bryan that building was packed.

The crush at the afternoon meeting at Battery D even exceeded that of the noon day meeting. Fainting women were carried from the hall every few moments.

The crush at the afternoon meeting at Battery D even exceeded that of the noon day meeting.

Just as Bryan was about to begin his address he noticed a large number of men in the windows on the roof of the building, and, fearing danger, declined to proceed until the roof was cleared.

Bryan's other speeches before midnight were at St. Stanislaus Hall, Noble street; Transit House, Union Stock Yards; St. Paul school, Ambrose street and Hoyne avenue; Novotny's Hall, Twenty-second street and Troy avenue; Bohemian Turner Hall, South Ashland avenue; Pulaski Hall, Eighteenth street and Ashland avenue; a big tent, Harrison and Loomis streets, and the People's Institute, Van Buren and Leavitt streets.

In Mr. Bryan's speech at the big tent, he said: "I wish it were impossible for me to meet all the American people and tell them what this gold standard means as I understand it.

"There are two arguments of our opponents are in the habit of making. In the first place, they tell you that the mine owner will make a great profit out of free coinage by converting a piece of silver now worth fifty-three cents into a dollar and they discuss the enormous profit to the mine owner, and as soon as they make the mine-owner rich by allowing him to convert that piece of silver now worth fifty-three cents into one hundred cents they turn around and make the wage-earner poor by having the dollar fall down from one hundred cents to fifty-three cents as soon as the wage-earner gets it.

"When you talk about the purchasing power of the laboring man's wages, you must take the number of dollars he gets today for the work he does and compare the purchasing power of these dollars with the purchasing power of the larger number of dollars that he gets with larger opportunity to work and better wages than he gets today.

"The best evidence that a gold standard is not a benefit to workingmen is that the workingmen themselves, who ought to know their condition, have never endorsed a gold standard or declared it is a good thing for them.

"You tell me that the interests of the employer and employe are the same. I tell you that is a question for the employer and employe to settle each for himself, and an employe how he must vote that an employe has to tell the employer how he must vote."

EGG-THROWERS JAILED.

They Are Later Released at the Request of Mr. Bryan. CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Chauncey Foster and L. J. Hanchett, two of the four students of Metropolitan Business college accused of having thrown eggs at Mr. and Mrs. Bryan during the parade yesterday, were arrested about noon by Detectives McCaffrey and Fay, who were working on the case.

Thomas Gahan, chairman of the Democratic county committee received the following letter from Mr. Bryan regarding the matter: "Auditorium

Hotel Chicago. Dear Mr. Gahan: I wish you would ask for the release of the boys arrested for throwing eggs. I am sure it was an act of thoughtlessness, and their arrest has doubtless been a sufficient lesson to them, and to others. Yours truly, W. J. Bryan.

GAVE BRYAN HOUSE AND LOTS A CHICAGO WHOLESALE CONTRIBUTION TO THE CAMPAIGN FUND.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—W. M. Hoyt, of the firm of W. M. Hoyt & Co., importers and wholesale grocers, presented Mr. Bryan today with a house and two lots in Lincoln, Neb., in lieu of a cash contribution to the campaign fund.

DIVULGED STATE SECRETS. Bismarck Condemned for Revelations as to Russo-German Alliance.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—Public opinion generally in Germany condemns Bismarck's revelations in the Hamburger Nachrichten, regarding the alliance between Russia and Germany which existed during the last year of his chancellorship.

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—An article in Neue Frei Presse on the subject of Bismarck's revelations as to the Russo-German alliance during the last year of his chancellorship has attracted much attention.

HAMBURG, Oct. 28.—The Hamburger Nachrichten, Bismarck's recognized organ, denies that the interview published in The Neue Frei Presse of Vienna Oct. 26 was with Bismarck, as intimated at the time.

FINANCES IN RUSSIA. Minister Breckinridge on the Monetary System and Its Workings.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—In answer to the state department circular calling for information as to money and wages in foreign countries, United States Minister Breckinridge, at St. Petersburg, has submitted a very elaborate report on the Russian financial system and its workings.

Manufacturers have long been stimulated by a protective tariff, as well as by the ability of manufacturers to pay their workmen approximately the old scale of wages in the cheaper money of the present system.

Not a word is heard favorable to the condition of agriculture. The universal testimony is extreme depression and the wages of agricultural laborers have had in the main a downward tendency.

DISCHARGED ON A TECHNICALITY Crawford, the St. Louis Merchant Who Bounced Free Silver Employes.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 28.—Dugald Crawford, a prominent dry goods merchant of this city, was arraigned in the court of criminal corrections today to answer to the charge of intimidating and coercing employes in the right of franchise.

WATSON'S FAMOUS LETTER. It Will Not Be Altered to Suit Chairman Butler.

ATLANTA, Oct. 28.—Thomas E. Watson wires The Journal today in regard to his letter of acceptance, acknowledged by Senator Butler to have been received Saturday after eight days of delay, saying it was mailed Oct. 14 to Chairman Butler at Washington, and continuing: "Perhaps Edgerton, secretary of the national committee, could tell where the letter has been, had not the same do with Washburn's telegram the letter be altered to suit

TRIBUTE FROM CANTONIANS.

BUSINESS IN THE CITY UNIVERSALLY SUSPENDED.

Streets Near the Nominee's Residence Are Jammed With People in the Evening—The Climax of an Eventful Day.

DEMONSTRATION FOR MCKINLEY. CANTON, O., Oct. 28.—There was a tremor in McKinley's voice this evening when, after repeated attempts, he responded to the home greeting of thousands of his neighbors and fellow-citizens.

It would be a hard heart, indeed, that would be unmoved by this magnificent demonstration of my neighbors and fellow townsmen, who have assembled here tonight without regard to party, nationality or creed, to give expression to their good will for the great cause for which I have been designated to stand.

Great issues are involved in the pending struggle. The people are aroused as never before, and I believe that the election next Tuesday will show a much larger vote than was ever polled in the history of our country before.

With what shall always seem to me unaccountable rashness, it is proposed at the end of 120 years of glorious national life, proposed in earnestness, for the first time in our history, to cast reproach upon the honor of the American name.

"I have always earnestly supported with whatever poor ability I possess that great economic policy by which not only Canton, but all other thriving and enterprising cities of the country have been steadily advanced.

"Some of our political opponents have been denying the question of the tariff as an issue in the present campaign. They will not even tell us how they propose to raise the money with which to run this government.

"We have suffered three years and a half from business depression and the people are only waiting for an opportunity to overturn the policy they adopted four years ago and reinaugurate that

STRONG TALKS FOR GOLD.

Hundreds of People Participate in a Great Demonstration at Casino Rink.

TOMLINSON, COCKRAN'S LAW PARTNER, IS A HUMMER.

Looks for Ultimate Success of Democracy Through Its Present Defeat. Features of the Bir Rally. Organized Disturbance.

YELLOW METAL DEMONSTRATION

Nearly fifteen hundred people crowded into the rink last evening to hear the two most notable orators that have been here this campaign...

The speakers were Hon. Don M. Dickinson and Hon. John C. Tomlinson. Both gentlemen have been life-long Democrats, and each still looks forward to the ultimate success and rejuvenation of his party.

ESCORT OF HONOR.

The distinguished speakers were escorted from the home of Hon. Peter White where they are being entertained, to the rink by the band and body guard of a hundred cyclists...

As the speakers entered the rink they greeted by an enthusiastic outburst of applause, from a crowd that filled every available chair, and had hard work to find standing room.

Hon. Peter White introduced George C. Hayden of Ishpeming as the chairman of the evening. Mr. Hayden came forward, and in an address of about five minutes touched upon the political situation of the day...

Mr. Dickinson announced that he took as his subject liberty. Not the liberty that was the subject of the Fourth of July orator, but the common workaday kind that was given by the constitution and under which every man had a chance to get on in the world.

Mr. Dickinson qualified himself. The platform was a great source of instruction to the American people, and it was through its agency that they were kept so well informed on the great questions pertaining to its welfare.

He told of his early life and of his father, who had been brought low by business reverses, yet paid every dollar of his obligations without taking even the exemption that the laws of the state allowed him.

Having thus qualified himself to talk he proceeded to pitch into the Chicago platform assailing specially the planks crying out against the ruling of the supreme court on the income tax, and the one condemning the interference of Cleveland in the Chicago strike with United States troops.

He said that Mr. Bryan, in justification of the former of these planks, cited Lincoln's position against the supreme court for its ruling on the Dred Scott case. Lincoln, he said, didn't like the Dred Scott decision, and like any other lawyer might have done, and like many a lawyer has done, went down to the corner grocery and cussed the court, because its opinions didn't agree with his.

As for the income tax, he declared that he, too, was in favor of it, but that he believed in having it brought about by a change in the constitution, not by an attack upon the greatest bulwork of it.

BURIED LONG AGO.

On the question of federal interference in Illinois to protect the United States mails he came out fairly in support of Cleveland's course and in opposition to Altright, and the plank in the Chicago platform upholding the latter's action.

country, didn't uphold states rights. In 1838 the legislature of South Carolina passed unanimously a resolution that it would not permit the carrying out of a certain federal law within the borders of the state.

This led him to the makers of the Chicago platform, Jones, Morgan, Harris, George and Tillman, all of whom he assailed vigorously on their personal, political and war records.

Closing he said: "I am a Democrat. Because, I am a Democrat. I repudiate every plank in the Chicago platform. The day McKinley is elected I am against him on the old issues, but until the cloud lifts which is hanging over our country I am with the great body of the American people and for William McKinley."

Enthusiastic cheers marked the closing of his hour's address. One unpleasant feature of the big demonstration was the apparently organized opposition that came from one section of the house by cheers at every mention of the name of Bryan or the word silver.

Mr. Tomlinson opened his remarks by speaking of the gravity of the present issue. He regards it as the most crucial without exception. Freedom, as known here, and American institutions are on trial this campaign, he says.

In introduction of himself he said: "I am a Democrat. I never voted any other ticket in my life, but today I am looking forward to the ultimate success of my party in its present defeat. The democracy is rotten, festering and corrupt, and it is necessary to apply the knife and cut deeply."

He told what money was, how it came to be selected as money, the manner of fixing the ratio between gold and silver. He explained and contrasted the system of commercial transaction in use with savage and semisavage countries and those highly civilized. He impressed many times on the minds of his hearers that money was simply a measure of value, chosen as such because of the comparatively uniform quantities produced yearly, and the difficulty of producing it.

Money, he asserts, to be good must be stable. Illustrating the ill effects of unstable currency, he said that if he had a clock that gained two hours one day and lost one hour the next by which he timed his laborers, and should go out and ask a man to work eight hours for him he fancied the man would say, "Well how is your clock running today?" People who had to work ten hours for eight-hour wages wouldn't like it.

Money, as represented by the common kinds of currency was the money of the poor. The man of large affairs dealt in credits. Checks were passed from one to another liquidating many debts before they were finally presented for redemption.

Money, he asserts, has very little to do with the success of business. It is not the quantity of money that makes good times or bad, but it is its activity. The amount of money needed in the business is controlled by the necessities of commerce and not by an act of congress.

That British capital should have sought investment in this country he does not regard as a horrible calamity, but rather seems to consider its present absence in that light. It was frightened away, he says, by the fear which developed as early as 1892 that this country would go on a silver basis, which would be in effect paying her debts at fifty cents on the dollar. When once out of America this capital is not lying idle in British vaults. It is invested in other new countries and used in the development of China, Russia, India, Argentine Republic and other countries whose products come in competition with ours and force us to make lower prices in the markets of the world.

The American people does not own this country, he asserts. They hold it only in trust. It was covered with the blood of patriots before the present generation was born to live in it, and it has been covered once in the memory of most of those now living. The country, the republic, is not the people's to wreck by some careless, ill-timed act.

"You hold it in trust," he cried. "You received it from your fathers and you must consign it to your children." The meeting closed with music, vigorous cheers for each of the speakers and for Major McKinley.

KASSEL OSHINSKY

Just arrived from New York—my second trip this fall—where I have been buying up bargains for spot cash for the past two weeks. Plain and novelty dress goods, ladies' plain and fancy plaid waists, ladies' and children's hats, ladies' and misses' novelty capes and jackets, ladies' fancy woolen dress skirts, men's fine kersey overcoats and suits and single pants—all bought for spot cash at fifty cents on the dollar, and will be sold at prices that will bring our store with buyers from morning until night. Following are a few of the many bargains to be obtained for the next thirty days:

- 500 yards fine novelty dress goods, changeable colors, good value at 50 cents; sale price, 24 cents. 500 yards black French serge and henriettas, the regular $1 value; sale price, 49 cents. Fine black astrachan, 54 inches wide, worth $3; sale price, $1.49. 25 ladies' fine black kersey capes, latest style, elegantly trimmed, for $3.75, well worth $8. Ladies' elegant bouclay jackets, elegantly made and trimmed, at $5, $7 and $9, good value at $10, $12 and $15. Ladies' fine all-wool novelty dress skirts, extra wide, for $3.25—the making alone is well worth the money. 10 dozen ladies' silk and wool plaid waists at $1.24; cheap at $3.

CLOTHING.

50 per cent. saved on Suits or Overcoats. A fine black or blue West of England beaver overcoat, sold all over at $10, our price, $5. A genuine black or gray Irish frieze nister, warranted all wool, $6 and $5.75. (Others ask $10 and $12.) A fine black or blue English kersey dress overcoat, custom made, silk lined, $9.75. (Others ask $18.) Children's reefer and cape overcoats at $1.75 and $2; good value at $4.

Our ladies' $1 dongola opera toe shoe equals any $3 shoe sold in the city. Misses' shoes at 85 cents—the're as good as you pay $1.75 for anywhere else. The largest line of gents' furnishings in the city.
