BADLY MIXED IN OHIO.

Legislature May Not Have a Joint Republican Majority After All.

OFFICIAL COUNT MAKING CHANGES IN ESTIMATED RETURNS.

Each Side Still Claims the Victory, and Many Contests and Law Suits Are a Certainty—Courts to Straighten Things Out.

HANNA'S CHANCES GROW SMALLER.

Columbus, Nov. 4.—Many talk about a crisis in Ohio. Some believe a crisis is impending. Talk of a combine in the legislature against Hanna has subsided, pending interest in the official counting of the vote of the close counties.

As the official canvass of the vote in the eighty-eight counties proceeded today the Republican plurality on the state ticket increased and on the legislative tickets it appeared to be getting towards a very close shave. While the Republican plurality on the state ticket exceeds 23,000, the vote on the legislative tickets is almost as close as it could be. For this reason there is still unusual anxiety at the respective state headquarters of both parties.

The Republicans still claim the legislature stands seventy-five Republicans to seventy Democrats on joint ballot for senator, and that their candidates for representatives in the three close counties have been elected by the following pluralities: Delaware county, 29; Wood county, 28; Noble county, 28, a total of 142 in pluralities in these three counties. The change of seventy-two votes, property distributed in these three counties, would, therefore, have turned the result in the legislature by giving these three representatives to the Democrats. Then the legislature would have stood seventy-two Republicans and seventy-three Democrats on joint ballot for senator.

The Democratic state committee continues to claim the legislature and, as the Republican state committee, will be closely on guard in watching the counting in the close counties.

The official count of Delaware county is in, but with protests and notices of contest from Democrats, and the same is true in Noble county. The official count in Wood county may not be completed till Saturday, although they expect to get through tomorrow.

In Wood county today the Democrats protested against counting the vote of a precinct where the place of voting was outside the precinct, but within the ward. Had this precinct been thrown out it would have elected the Democratic candidate for representative by a plurality of five, instead of the Republican candidate by twenty-eight. The vote of the precinct was counted and a Democratic protest was filed. Other technicalities are expected in the progress of the counting of the vote of that county tomorrow.

In Noble county there was a long contest over twenty-seven scratched tickets that were finally thrown out because they were not properly marked. This was a Republican loss. In fact, every point is being contested in the official count of the close counties.

Chairman Nash says tonight the Republicans have a safe majority of five on joint ballot in the legislature. He admits the pluralities are small in some of the counties, but claims they are safe. Mr. Nash also said the returns from the Thirteenth district showed the Republicans had a plurality of 432, so there were no longer any state senators in doubt, and the senate will stand nineteen Democrats to seventeen Republicans. At the Republican state headquarters Summit county is not considered so doubtful as heretofore, and its two representatives are being conceded to the Democrats.

Democratic Chairman McConville does not admit the Republicans have carried the Thirteenth district for their candidate for state senator, and he still claims the representatives from Noble, Wood, Muskingum and other counties claimed by the Republicans. He also expects the official count to give the Democrats two of the twelve members of the legislature from Cuyahoga county. In all these counties and in others, he says, there will be contests for seats in the event of certificates of election being given the Republicans.

Mr. McConville charges fraud in the close counties and in some Republican counties. He says nearly all the close counties had gone Republican heretofore and the Republicans still have the machinery of those counties. He says the returns have been held back, and it looks suspicious. Other counties have completed their counting, while the doubtful counties are still at it. He says the result was known definitely in Cincinnati yesterday, and he cannot get definite results even tonight from Cleveland, where he expects the vote to be very close on two or three members of the legislature.

Late tonight it became known the courts would be resorted to for the purpose of preventing the boards of election from issuing certificates to the Republican candidates in certain counties. Cases will be brought in the lower courts and thence to the supreme court. The Republican state committee also has lawyers preparing cases for contest. They claim the Democrats also elected members of the legislature on close margins; that there are ten counties that gave less than a hundred plurality each for their candidates for the legislature, and the Democrats secured as many members on these small pluralities as did the Republicans.

While both committees are keeping secret any arrangements for legal proceedings, yet it is stated the Democratic state committee will seek to enjoin enough certificates of election from Republican representative to prevent the Republicans from organizing the house and appointing the committees that will consider the contests. Developments are expected tomorrow in the policies of both parties, so far as appealing to the courts are concerned.

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—Senator-elect Volght, one of the independent Republicans elected in Hamilton county, was tonight asked how he stood on political matters. Volght replied he was a Republican sound money man and a supporter of the present national administration. When asked if he would vote for Hanna for United States senator, he replied: "That I will not say. I shall vote for a Republican, but will not go further than that until the time comes to vote."

Cleveland, Nov. 4.—Senator Hanna today received a large number of telegrams congratulating him on the result of the election in Ohio. Governor Bushnell, Senator Foraker, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Chauncey M. Depew and scores of others in public life were among those who sent the messages.

THEIR NAMES ARE "MUDD."

Gorman's and Also His Probable Successor in the Senate.

Official Count Shows Republicans Have a Majority of Twelve on Joint Ballot in the Maryland Legislature.

OLD "BOSS" THRUN DOWN.

Baltimore, Nov. 4.—The official count of the ballots, made in most of the counties today, leaves no further room for doubt that the Republicans have control of both branches of the legislature and a Republican will succeed Gorman in the United States senate.

Five members of the assembly and one senator were taken from the Democratic list of probabilities and added to that of the Republicans—three members and a senator from Talbot county and a member each from Prince George's and Carroll. This gives the Republicans forty-four members in the house and the Democrats forty-two. It also gives the Republicans eighteen senators to eight for the Democrats and a majority on joint ballot of twelve.

The result in Talbot county arose from the fact that eighteen votes in the Tighman precinct were found to have been counted twice for the Democratic ticket. This being corrected gave the Republican legislative candidates majorities ranging from sixteen to nineteen. In Prince George's a similar correction elected Underwood, Republican, by four votes, while in Carroll the recount showed that Stansbury, Republican, had defeated Carroll, Democrat, by twenty-three. The doubtful votes of Montgomery and Washington counties also went into the Republican column by small majorities.

The Democratic state headquarters were closed today. Before leaving, Chairman Vandiver gave out the following statement: "As far as the joint convention of the general assembly is concerned, the matter is not entirely settled, and will not be until the official returns are made up. The election in several counties is so close that it is impossible to tell at present which side won, and I believe a recount will be demanded in Montgomery, Talbot and Carroll counties to determine the result with certainty. At any rate, we have not given up the expectation of controlling the house, whether we have a majority on joint ballot or not."

Among those most prominently mentioned as the probable successor to Senator Gorman are Alexander Shaw, former Congressman John V. L. Flindley, Postmaster General Gary and Congressman Sidney E. Mudd.

KANSAS REPUBLICANS TICKLED.

Populists Badly Mauling in Tuesday's Battle of the Ballots.

Topeka, Nov. 4.—Returns have been received at the Republican headquarters from sixty-three Kansas counties out of 105, and from sixty-eight counties at the Populist headquarters. While both reports agree on large Republican gains over 1896 they are conflicting in comparison with the vote of 1895, and this must be determined by an official count. The Republicans elect nine out of thirteen district judges. About the election of these judges there is no dispute. The Populist managers late this afternoon conceded that the result of the judicial elections was a victory for the Republicans.

G. O. P. HELD ITS OWN.

Later Returns Decrease the Fusion Plurality in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Nov. 4.—Returns by counties today and tonight served to slightly reduce the previous estimates of the fusion pluralities. They also showed the Republicans had made some gains in county officers. Congressman Mercer, chairman of the Republican state central committee, while conceding the defeat of the state ticket, said the result was satisfactory to him as showing the Republicans were at least holding their own. Sixty-seven out of the eighty-eight counties in the state give Sullivan, fusion, for supreme judge, 73,858; Post, Republican, 66,708. The remaining counties will slightly increase the fusion plurality.

POPULISTS WIN OUT IN COLORADO.

Gabbert Elected to the Supreme Bench by About Three Thousand.

Denver, Nov. 4.—At midnight there seems little doubt as to the election of Gabbert, Populist, as justice of the supreme court. The Rocky Mountain News has special giving complete returns from all but six counties. The missing counties are far from railroads and but sparsely populated. Estimates are made of their vote and the result gives Gabbert 3,300 plurality over Hoyt, Republican. The Republican leaders, while admitting the present returns unfavorable, do not concede Gabbert's election, maintaining that only the official canvass will decide who won.

WANTS LINDSAY'S SEAT.

Blackburn of Kentucky Early in the Field for the Next Senatorship.

ANNOUNCES HE WILL BE A CANDIDATE TWO YEARS HENCE.

Ex-Senator's Hopes Not Without Grounds, for the Legislature is Overwhelmingly for Silver and Many of the Democrats Will Hold Over.

JOSEPH C. TO TRY IT AGAIN.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4.—The result of the election has given ex-Senator Blackburn fresh hope. He has announced that he will be a candidate two years hence to succeed Senator Lindsay, a gold Democrat.

And the ex-senator's hope is based on excellent grounds, for the silver Democrats have captured both branches of the general assembly beyond doubt; there is a silverite vote of over 125 on joint ballot, or about 70 per cent. of the entire vote. Of twenty-two state senators elected, eighteen are Democrats, and they will hold over to the legislature which elects the next United States senator, for which honor Mr. Blackburn has now announced himself a candidate.

Just how the assembly will stand is not yet known, as many races are close, and the full vote of all the counties has not been heard from. Owing to the inaccessibility of many of the counties the exact vote in any of the races will not be made known for several days. The Republicans concede defeat on all hands, and admit that the silver Democrats can organize both branches of the general assembly, and may increase their majority, as there will be probably several contests.

Under the caption, "The End of the Battle," Henry Watterson today announced editorially in The Courier-Journal that he has ceased to fight for the gold Democratic party. In part, he says:

"The Courier-Journal has little to add to what it has already said by anticipation touching the Democratic situation in Kentucky brought into being by the vote of Tuesday last. That vote confirms the position of the convention that nominated Mr. Shackelford [silver Democrat] for clerk of the court of appeals, and repudiates the position of the convention which nominated Mr. Hindman. It fixes the relation of the Democratic organization in Kentucky to the national organization of the Democratic party, at least through the next state and national elections. It is so decisive in character as to leave nothing to conjecture, and The Courier-Journal has neither the wish nor the purpose to challenge it.

"The issue, as it was made and as it has been fought out, was clear and explicit. No effort was wanting to maintain it. Nobody by any possibility can be mistaken about it. We may regret the verdict against us, but we accept it. We shall make no further effort to direct the party course or councils or to share in any of the responsibilities of party leadership, having done our best, according to our conscience and belief, to divert our political associates from a policy and procedure the end of which no man can now foresee, the results of which we very much fear, both as to the welfare of the country and the party. But we are Democrats, not Republicans, and, nailing our flag to the masthead of honest money, free trade, and home rule, we shall, in the character of a private soldier in the ranks, contribute whatever we are able to the ascertainment and the vindication of truth."

The returns are coming in slowly. Those from heretofore missing precincts in the state raise Shackelford's (Democrat) plurality to twenty thousand in round numbers. Three hundred and eighty-seven precincts out of 1,774 are still missing. The total vote shows a falling off of a hundred thousand from last year's vote, when a grand total of 444,000 was cast.

Duluth, Nov. 4.—The engagement of Samuel J. Shackelford, the successful candidate for clerk of the court of appeals in Kentucky, and Miss Marjorie Magoffin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beriah Magoffin of Duluth, has just been announced. The wedding, for which 1,800 invitations have been issued, will take place at the residence of the bride's parents in Proctorknott, a suburb of Duluth, on Wednesday, Nov. 10. Miss Magoffin is one of the most beautiful young ladies in the city and comes from an old Kentucky family.

"BOSS" PLATT STILL HOLDS THE FORT.

N. Y. Republicans Have Clear Working Majorities in Both Legislative Branches.

New York, Nov. 4.—According to the latest returns, Mr. Platt's ascendancy in the legislative branch of state politics has not been interfered with to the extent that he has been "turned down." Although the Democrats will have a clear working majority of twenty in the senate and sixteen in the assembly, or lower branch.

The senate, which holds over, stands thirty-five Republicans, fourteen Democrats, and one independent Republican. The assembly, which was elected this year, will have eighty-three Republicans, sixty-four Democrats, and three Citizen's union. This shows a Republican loss of thirty-one members, as last year the lower branch of the legislature contained 114 Republicans, thirty-five Democrats and one independent Republican.

It was first thought the assembly was nearly a tie, or the Republicans held so narrow a plurality over the Democrats that the Citizen's union members would hold the balance of power. These members were friends of Jacob Worth, the Brooklyn Republican, or former Republican leader, and to get even with the boss who had de-

IS THE RACE DYING OUT?

At the recent convention of philanthropists at Battle Creek, Dr. J. H. Kellogg presented some interesting views on the theory of race extinction, which he claimed was the inevitable tendency unless errors of living are corrected. Dr. Kellogg was willing to admit that the race is growing stronger or weaker; he was inclined to favor the latter theory and cited facts to sustain his impression. Reliable vital statistics show that the average length of human life has been doubled within the last two centuries, and yet in the face of such knowledge a certain class of hygienists tell us the race is dying out. Dr. Kellogg is one of them, and he defends his position by saying that vital statistics are not the true measure of the constitutional vigor of the race. He and like thinkers argue that the true measure of vital endurance is not the average longevity, but the number of individuals per thousand or million who attain great age. While the average longevity in certain portions of Europe 200 years ago was only about twenty years, it is at present in most civilized countries more than forty years, but hygienists of the Kellogg type tell us that this merely indicates that a sufficient number of persons have been kept alive to double the average.

There is no dispute anywhere as to what sanitary science has done toward the salvation of millions of human lives. Dr. Kellogg argues, however, that there is no indication that by a continuation of the same methods human longevity may be indefinitely or even very greatly increased. He reasons that sanitary science operates as an agency for prolonging the lives of weaklings, but it is far from being an indicator of increased constitutional vigor of the race. All hygienists give full credit to sanitary science which has limited the destructive action of epidemics and plagues, but there is evident truth in the statement that the keeping alive of weak, constitutionally tainted and feebly resisting individuals hardly adds to the sum total of the vigor of the race.

As Dr. Kellogg lucidly points out, the individual with a sound stomach may be able to digest cholera germs, just as the gastric juice of a healthy individual readily destroys typhoid fever germs, and hence, though all may be exposed in time of pestilence, the strong may live and the weak die. Following out this demonstrated truth, he reasons that the weakening of the physical organism by injudiciousness or excess in eating or drinking is a direct invitation to the disease germs, which would be powerless to injure vital organs that had been maintained measurably intact. In the same category of destructive forces Dr. Kellogg enumerates the slavery of conventional dress for women and asserts that, "aside from the liquor and tobacco habits, there is no deteriorating force which deals such destructive blows against the constitutions of the race as the wrong, unphysiological customs in dress which prevail among civilized American women."

Dr. Kellogg finds a rift in the clouds in the increasing tendency toward bicycling and other outdoor sports, which in moderation are undoubtedly helping to increase the vigor of the race. Otherwise he seems to be a confirmed pessimist, but his views are evidently too extreme to meet with support from hygienists as a class. There is much truth in his assertion that follies in gastronomy and dress are constantly battling against the highest efforts of rational hygiene to preserve and increase the vigor of the race. As the race becomes older it is not a very rash prophecy that it will also become wiser.

IT PINCHES PINGREE. Governor Pingree is not happy over the result of the election, and he does not hesitate to let his displeasure be known. In fact, he roars it out like a wounded lion into the listening ear of a Detroit Tribune reporter. Says the governor:

"It seems a new deal in the next election," is the way Governor Hazen S. Pingree sizes up the Democratic victory of Tuesday.

"It's the way the people have taken to bring about a new deal next time," he continued. "I attribute the defeat of Mr. Black to the McMullans, the supreme court, the street railway company, Tom Johnson, Albert Pack, and the rest of that outfit. It's a big victory for them over me and my friends who have been fighting for the rights of the people. They are like the little boys who wanted all the boys to play their game or they would take their playthings and go home."

"They don't want any man to get an office that they can't run to suit themselves. They'd rather elect a Democrat that they can dictate to than a Republican that they can't. It don't make any difference to them who it is just so long as he'll do what they tell him to do. The people are getting mighty sick of that sort of thing. It's the same way down in New York where Tom Platt wanted to boss the whole show. The people won't have it much longer. They turned Tom Platt down, and there's going to be a new deal. You just mark what I tell you, there's going to be a new deal right here in Michigan."

So the governor thinks the Tammany victory was intended as a rebuke to Platt. Well, the people of Greater New York will find it a very expensive and unprofitable method of rebuking a politician which has displeased them, to turn their city over to the control of a gang of hoodlums and spoolmen.

Then the governor pays his respects to the judges of the supreme court. Of course he has no personal feeling against them, but he doesn't like "little tin gods on wheels," you know; and he thinks a salary that is large enough for a governor is large enough for a judge, even of the supreme court.

"This election reminds me that if I should happen to call a special session of the legislature this winter one of the things I had better ask for would be a reduction in the salaries of the supreme court judges. Maybury and his crowd say they want lower taxes, don't they, and that would save the taxpayers $35,000 just as easy as not. We people up here in Wayne county have to pay a good slice of their salaries. There ain't one of 'em that could earn $2,500 in private practice. I doubt if they could do that well. But there they sit and draw $7,000, and they think they're little tin gods on wheels."

"That makes me think of another thing, by gracious, that needs a little stirring up, and needs it bad. Here's these Wayne county circuit judges drawing $6,000 and too all-fired important to get out and work in an election like the rest of us. I did all I could in this campaign, and I don't think I hurt my dignity any. But they stayed at home, every mother's son of 'em. It strikes me that any man who is elected by the people isn't any too big and important to get out and work for good government. It doesn't make any difference what ticket he works for, so long as he works for the ticket he honestly thinks is the best one for the people. But that's the way with 'em all. The minute they get elected judges they think they're a little bit better than the rest of us poor humans. I guess about the same salary the governor gets would be plenty for 'em wouldn't it?"

And by the way, governor, you forgot to mention that one of these judges is getting, in addition to his salary as supreme court judge, a big pension from the government, as a "totally disabled" soldier of the late war.

One of the most peculiar products of these fin de siecle times is the high school boy. It is quite within the memory of many of us when "children should be seen, not heard," and when our sons and daughters respected the opinions of their parents, and deferred to the ripper judgment of their elders. But "advanced" methods of education have changed all this. The high school boy (begin pardon, should have said "young gentleman") of today is quite capable of forming his own opinions on all matters of public policy or private concern, and equally willing to attempt to maintain them against all authorities. If his father expresses an opinion on the non-adviseability of war with Spain, he is very sure that "we can lick Spain with one hand tied" and we ought to help Cuba at once, and not stand any more of Spain's nonsense. If his teacher considers that certain lines of study would be most valuable to him, he is quite ready to argue the case, and prove that he knows better what will avail him most in fighting life's battle. He will read an editorial in one of the leading periodicals on some moot question of the day, and coolly express his dissent by a flippant remark: "O, of course, that is the attitude of the World," as one who should say, "if he only knew as much about it as I do, he would write very differently." The ripened experience of his elders, gained through years of study, toil, reflection and painful experience, seems to bear no weight with him; he is the supreme arbiter of his own destiny. And in after years, when he is in reality swaying the destinies of the nation, he will see these things repeated in his son, probably, and wonder "where on earth that kid got his self-conceit."

In St. Petersburg the principal streets are to be paved gratis by an asphalt firm for the privilege of laying mosaic advertisements in them. Newspapers are the best mediums in this country, but in Russia, where the ordinary word runs across two columns and then breaks over, perhaps a street is best. Nothing short of a boulevard could run a dry goods ad.

Expert testimony was frequent enough to be a bore even when it came so high as $25 a day, but now that the Illinois supreme court has declared it must be given at regular going prices for ordinary evidence it will become an insufferable nuisance.

Belgian swindlers have been pasting transparent papers over the postage stamps they put on letters. The paper took the postmark, leaving the stamp beneath uncancelled. Either stamps are high in Belgium or labor and ingenuity are very cheap.

Ex-Judge Walling, a New Jersey politician, was so excited and worked up over the election Tuesday, that he deposited his ballot in the box, turned away from the booth and shot himself. The election was hot in Kentucky, too, and all the politicians there took shots, but the results were fatal to somebody else.

MISS FROLIC'S WEAPON.

The Timid Little Woman Brought the Burglar to Terms.

There it was again! Miss Frolic sat up in bed, every curl of her hair waving with a species of satisfied apprehension—the long-expected burglar had come at last! She could hear him moving stealthily about the hall. She was quite composed, and in a twinkling had whisked herself into her dressing gown and lit a candle. She even cast a glance at herself in the glass, remembering that there had not been a man in the hall for twenty years. With a final quick to her gray ringlets, Miss Frolic sallied out to reconnoiter. She crept to the banisters, and surveyed her visitor through the gloom; he appeared big enough to swallow her whole, and Miss Frolic thought of her spoons, and her heart sank. She glided back into her room, took something shining from her drawer, and with mouse-like movements descended the back stairs. The burglar was in the dining room by this time. He was kneeling by the sideboard, very intent upon the business of transferring a silver teapot to his bag. There was a small dark lantern before him. All at once he started, gave a hoarse cry, and then crouched, trembling, with his hands still in the bag. A figure was standing over him, and a circle of cold steel was pressed against his ear.

"Ketchid—I own it," said the burglar, wriggling.

"Set right still where yew air," advised Miss Frolic, gently. "I ain't wal accustomed to firearms, an' this 'un is subject to goin' off impromptu."

The burglar swore. Caught by a woman! He wriggled again. There was an ominous click; his hair rose.

"Thar, ain't I tellin' yew," said Miss Frolic, reproachfully; "it's reel dangerous to trifle with an unsartin weapon like this."

"What are you goin' to do?" growled the burglar with an oath. "Young man, I'm goin' to set right here till mornin'. Admirin yewr back ha'r ain't an exaltin' occupation, but maybe, ef in the nex' four hours I kin interdose some moral principles inter its roots. I won't regret it."

He was completely in her power, and he knew it. He was absolutely helpless so long as she held the revolver. Presently, with her watchful eyes still fixed upon him, she drew a chair toward her foot and established herself thereon, upright as a dart, certain as fate.

"Family man?" she asked in a light and conversational tone. "Yah," said the burglar, contemptuously. "Bin long in the—the—business?" said Miss Frolic, delicately.

"Pah!" said the burglar. Thus foiled, Miss Frolic relapsed into silence. She was growing very tired, but she dared not move. The clock struck three. The burglar feigned sleep, but Miss Frolic allowed the cold circle to nestle lovingly into his hair, and he sat up with a gurgle of fear. He could see her out of the corner of his eye, with her ringlets askew and her prim little figure rigid with effort. The lantern cast up oily smells, and somewhere in the darkness of the hall a cricket chirped. Twice Miss Frolic's lids fell over her straining eyes and twice she lunched forward in her chair, to save herself only just in time.

The gray dawn came, and with it birds in the garden, and, oh, welcome sound! steps upon the path. Suddenly the burglar knocked Miss Frolic's arm up. "Ketchim!" shrieked she, and he dashed through the window, straight into the arms of the hired man.

Miss Frolic went to see him in jail, and they were quite friendly. As the burglar looked at her tiny, fragile form, he muttered:

"Done by that! But then, she had her weapon." "I calc'lated yew'd be interested in viewin' it, so I brougt it along," said Miss Frolic, and held out her curling tongs!—Massey's Magazine.

Not to Be Cheated.

Time was when there was only one chaise in the town of Mechanic Falls, and that one belonged to an old man of somewhat eccentric ways. One day a young man wanted to hire the chaise to take his best girl to ride. The owner agreed, but nothing was said about the price. Toward nightfall the young man brought the chaise back.

"How much is the damage?" he asked. "Where did ye go?" returned the old man. "The young man named the place. 'How far do you call that?'" "Twelve miles." "Nope," said the old man, "it's only ten."

"I tell you it's twelve good times, long miles, and I've been over it times enough to know." "I traveled the road before you was out of dresses. I tell you 'tain't but ten miles." "Both of them were losing their temper rapidly.

"Never mind how far it is," cried the young man; "you tell me how much I owe you, and I'll pay you and get out." Catching his breath, the old man thundered: "Young feller, you don't owe me a cent; but, by mighty, I'll be durned ef you're not to cheat me on the distance."—Leviston Journal.

Willing to Pay.

Among the prettiest of literary anecdotes is that related by William Grimm, one of the pair of famous story-tellers. One day a little girl rang the bell, and greeted the arrival with the words: "Are you Mr. Grimm who writes the pretty tales?" "Yes," was the answer. "I and my brother."

"And the story about that clever little tailor who married the princess?" "Yes, certainly."

How George Johnson "Won Out."

BY PAUL LAWRENCE DUNBAR. The Famous American Negro Poet and Writer.

Other men had courted Melinda Jones, courted her assiduously, but, without success. They had been men of parts, too; men who had money, men who had bucked the tiger successfully or ridden a horse to a winning finish—but all their wooing had been in vain. Melinda Jones was a hard-hearted, obdurate, cruel flirt.

Against her obstinacy a yellow jackey had no more power than a black tout. All were her victims.

Melinda Jones was the brown-skinned Cleopatra of the Tenderloin. No Anthony had yet appeared.

Then Mistah George Johnson came on the scene. George Johnson was from Kentucky, and he was black and ugly, but he had cut his eye teeth. He was standing in front of Madison's barber shop the day he first saw Melinda. She passed in all her glory, hardly casting a glance at the crowd of humble admirers who followed her with their eyes.

"I see gwine to make dat black gal mine," hummed Mr. Johnson, and the crowd greeted his presumption with a scoff.

"Why don't you go in an' win huh, Gawge, you say you're sich a good man, an' they ain't been nobody wahn enough for huh yet?" "I win huh. I win huh ef I sets my head to it."

"Keep on yo' stringin', o' man, but I tell you, Mistah Gawge Johnson win dat gal ef he jest puts his mind down to it, an' you'll all be goin' aroun' h'yeah in mou'nin'. I take my banjo an' play in front o' huh house an' she'll jump out o' the window to me."

"O, I don't know; you needn't think that yore the sun, just because yo' face is shinin'!"

Mistah George Johnson took out a red bill pocket handkerchief, and slowly wiped the perspiration from his shiny black face. "Dat's all right," he said. "Dat's all right, jolly to yo' heart's content now, fur you'll be cryin' after while."

"I'll be at yo' fun'al then." That night there was a long conference between Mr. Johnson and his friend, Billy Black. Billy was a popular boy. Everybody liked him, even Melinda Jones, supposedly because he didn't try to court. Well, the two talked long together, and later on the dulcet strains of a banjo were heard under the charmer's window, and Mr. Johnson was singing a tender strain.

Melinda promptly blew out her light. This did not seem like encouragement, but the serenader went away chuckling to himself: "Dat's a good start, sly!"

Billy Black's form was on the belle's sofa next evening. "Law, Miss Lindy, you don't mean to tell me that you blowed out yo' light while he was singin'?"

"Of cose I did. I didn't want that niggah singin' under my window. I don't know nothin' 'bout him!" "Don't know nothin' 'bout him! Whew!" whistled Billy; "don't you tell nobody else that—they'd set yo' down as jest plum ign'ant, that's what they follar!"

"Why, who is he? He ain't so many, I guess." "Ain't so many! Well, I reckon he's a purty good few, yo' do know who yo' use a-foolin' with."

"I never seen him before." "No, course you never; that's because he don't hang out around no such parts o' the town as this very much. He lives up among God's people. He ladies began to show an accession of indelibility to the subject, and her informant went on: "Why, that's Mr. Composer Johnson, you'd ought to hear tell of him."

By accident, Billy and Mr. Johnson happened to meet directly in front of the female's house and under her open window. Of course they could not know that she happened at that very moment to be sitting at her window in the darkness listening to the varied sounds of Thirtieth street. Among the varied sounds she heard this:

"How'd do, Mistah Johnson? I jest been talkin' 'bout you." "How'd do, Billy? Who you been talkin' wit'?"

"The lady in this house—in a stage whisper." "I do know what that lady could have to say about me. She ain't treated me right."

"That's all right now, Mistah Johnson. I know all about that, an' it was a mistake. She took you for somebody else."

"Me fu' somebody else—me. Gawge Johnson? Oomph—that's wuss still. She mus' be ve'ry—" "Sh—sh—; don't get riled now. I wish you go with me to call on her some day."

"Not on yo' life; nobody that insults me that way." "But, I tell you, she didn't mean it for you, an' that's diff'rent."

"Yes, that is diff'rent—well, mebbe some day I'll go wit' you." They moved off down the street. Here was what the fair listener in the window above did not hear: "Well, now, look heed, Gawge, ef you expect to win out in this game, you've got to push mattsahs."

"If I make a killin' tonight, we'll do it tomorrow, an' I'll stake you fu' true, my boy." It was evident on the morrow that George Johnson had made a killin'. He came down the street in an entirely new outfit—check suit, patent leathers, new hat and cane—was gorgeous.

Billy Black was standing conveniently at Miss Melinda's window. "Law!" he exclaimed, "jest look at o' Gawge Johnson; ain't he wahn? I'll bet a dollar he's done sent a song away."

The dandel turned her eyes upon the approaching spectacle and gasped in admiration. She stepped back from the window. "Get him to come in," she gasped.

"H'yeah Gawge," Billy hailed from the window, "you must a-been sendin' away one of yo' songs at last." "Yes, I sent one away."

"Well, you're purty wahn." "Yes, I'm too hot to hold, but this is only the advance anticipation—when that song comes out, they'll have to send a fire company with me when I come down the street to keep me from scorchin' the houses."

"Come on in, Gawge." "Well, I do know; I will drop in fu' a minute." In a few minutes more the gorgeous Mr. Johnson was bowing before Miss Jones, and she was murmuring how happy she was to fawn his acquaintance. Then Billy found it convenient to leave.

It need not be chronicled what words passed between the two, but there is one word in love's summer-time vocabulary which George Johnson knew and uttered. It was—ice cream.

When Melinda passed the barber shop on the arm of her admirer, the idle crowd in wonder forgot to laugh, and they did not recover until they noticed George's new hat sweeping toward the ground in profound salute, as he passed them.

George took Billy's advice and pushed matters, and in less than ten days' time there was a wedding at the home of Widow Jones, her daughter and Mr. Johnson being the high-contracting parties. The groom's song, for some reason, did not appear, but he makes a "killin'" now and then, and the widow keeps a restaurant, so they get on. Billy Black is always welcome in the Johnson household.—New York Journal.

NEW WAY TO WEALTH.

Will Power as a Means of Winning Riches. According to theosophy, said Dr. A. W. Coryn, the human will was a definite force, and when strongly moved by desire it was able to accomplish visible results, although no apparent action had been taken. The desires of men were constantly affecting their outward circumstances, and even if, as in the case of a man wishing for wealth, no immediate result is seen, the ultimate effect would be that in another earth life he would be born amid wealthy surroundings. It always happened, however, that when the coveted boon was obtained some unwelcome and unlooked-for circumstance accompanied it, and so the wise man avoids definite wishes about his future, re-choosing the destiny meted out to him by the just law. George Muller, of Bristol, supports a large institution for orphans by prayer. The venerable founder relates his wish for a definite sum of money to meet a pressing engagement. Thoughts were things, and once the idea, strongly vitalized by his will, passed out into the ether, it floated about until attracted to the congenial soil of the brain of some wealthy philanthropist, who, "struck by the thought," sends his check for the required amount.—Essex Times.

NOT RIGHT KIND OF A LICENSE.

Amusing incident in which a would-be Benedict plays the star rôle.

One of the most amusing incidents to occur in this section for some time took place yesterday morning. Promptly at 9 o'clock Henry Murto-maki, of the Atlantic mine, entered the county clerk's office, hat in hand, with the request that he be granted a license. The young lady who acts as deputy during the session of the circuit court asked if a deer license were required, and Murto-maki, probably mindful of the "deer" one whose subtle charms had won his heart, smilingly nodded. After certifying that he resided at the Atlantic, his age was thirty-eight, hair light and eyes blue, Murto-maki was furnished a license to secure five deer—four more than he was negotiating for—and, folding the deer license carefully away in his pocket, the last obstacle to his future happiness being removed, as he thought, he started to the home of his sweetheart, Hilma Hikkala, in Houghton.

Armed with this formidable document the couple, together with their wedding party, drove to the Finnish Lutheran church at Hancock, where they presented themselves to Rev. John Back, together with deer license No. 1,085 of the state of Michigan, containing five detachable coupons. The license was a stunner to the reverend gentleman, who, after examining it carefully, explained the situation to the couple, and the wedding was postponed. Murto-maki returned to the clerk's office, where he stated that one deer was all that was interested in the affair and that he wanted a marriage license, which was promptly granted. The wedding will take place today.

Social Hops.

Invitations have been issued for a dancing party to be given by the Golden Star Dancing club of Lake Linden at the opera house Thursday evening, Nov. 18. Supper will be served by the ladies of St. Joseph's church. The dancing club is one of Lake Linden's popular social organizations and a jolly good time is assured those attending the dance.

Mrs. George Hore and the Misses Larkin, Leary, Sullivan and Schlichting of Lake Linden have issued invitations to their friends to meet Mrs. Campion and Miss Annie Daley at the opera house this evening, when a dancing party will be given in their honor.

Found Dead in Bed.

Peter Peterson, a Finn and almost a stranger in this section, arrived at Chassel Friday evening of last week and put up for the night at a boarding house conducted by a fellow countryman. Before retiring Peterson complained of pains in his stomach, but the matter was not considered serious. Saturday morning Peterson failed to reply to a knock at his door, and when a couple of hours after he did not come down stairs the suspicion of the landlord was aroused. He found the door locked, and breaking it in found his new guest cold in death. Peterson leaves a wife in Wisconsin. The remains were interred at Chassel Monday.

A Splendid Attraction.

The inevitable comedians, Monroe and Hart, with their excellent company of twenty-two fun-making players, will be at the Armory Opera House, Houghton, this evening in the brightest, jolliest and most attractive three-act comedy of the year—"The Gay Matinee Girl." This high class company has played to a succession of crowded houses since its initial production of this comedy and from present indications it will duplicate its success this season. Attention is called to the article on the foregoing page chronicling the great success of the company's performance in that city.

Frank Axel Adjudged Guilty.

The case of The People vs. Frank Axel of Calumet came to an end at half-past 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when the jury, after being out eighteen hours, returned a verdict of guilty. The evidence against Axel was strong and convincing and the verdict was scarcely in the nature of a surprise, though the result became doubtful when the jury was so long in reaching a conclusion. The case of Arthur Hill vs. The National bank of Houghton was on trial yesterday.

The Wild Horses of Arizona.

"There must be 20,000 head of wild horses in northern Arizona," said Will S. Barnes, one of the largest cattle-owners in Navajo county, recently. "They are the worst nuisance that can be imagined. It has reached the point when we cannot safely turn out a riding horse to graze. We have to keep our saddle animals and round-up horses stabled all winter or bring them down to Phoenix for pasturage. The wild stock not only eat the food that ought to go to the cattle, but they run cattle off the range. They have chased off all the cattle from the west end of the Hash Knife range, one of the best grass districts in northeastern Arizona. It is useless to put out salt for the stock, for the wild horses chase away the cattle that come near it. At this season of the year they are fat and have shining hides. They sweep over the country in great bands, gathering up any stray animals they may come across. A horse is as good as lost that joins them."—Correspondence St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A DRAMA BY PICTURES.

Plot of "The Chinook" an exceedingly interesting one.

Clara Louise Thompson will give her unique entertainment "Chinook" at the Armory Opera House, Houghton, Monday evening next, under auspices of the ladies of St. Agnes' guild. The story of "The Chinook" is an interesting one. Arthur Rutherford, a young Eastern man, has gone to Denver, where he has made acquaintances among the mining men, who, on account of his good humor and jollity, have nicknamed him "The Chinook." When the mine which figures in the plot is discovered, it is named "The Chinook" in his honor. Rutherford is a part owner of the mine, and while in the cabin with his partner has a dream in which he sees his father in financial straits and the girl he loves in trouble. He returns East and finds his dream to be true—his father's business affairs are at a crisis and his elder brother, on account of whose crooked deeds Arthur was compelled to go West, is pursuing Genevieve, the girl of the dream. "The Chinook" offers the mine as an aid to his father, but the brokers decide that it is insufficient and the elder brother is called in. He refuses to advance the money needed by his father and advises him to assign "The Chinook" at this point receives a telegram from the West, offering $500,000 for the mine, and his father upbraids him for his selfishness. One word leads to another, and the villainy of the elder brother some years before is revealed. Genevieve, who has been caught in the conservatory and has unwillingly overheard the conversation, discovers that "The Chinook" has been done a great wrong and her love for him finds expression.

Shaft Will Be Unsealed Today.

The Kaiser's Naughty Son.

Paris Messenger: A little story is being told of the Kaiser, the telephone and Prince Eitel Fritz. The small prince, aged fourteen, is, it seems, addicted to violent language, not, of course, swear words, but plain, strong expressions of dislike which he keeps for his younger brothers, and generally conveys in the French language, proud of the progress he is making in the language of diplomacy, and knowing that nothing is more helpful for acquiring a foreign tongue than to quarrel in it. Therefore Prince Eitel Fritz lately told his small brother that he was "un petit monstre." The emperor, when in Hungary, informed himself by telephone every evening as to the conduct of the little princes, and on this occasion the report was satisfactory for all with the exception of Eitel Fritz. He, the emperor telephoned, had been using big words to his little brother, strong expressions in French. The emperor's next question was unfortunate. "Quelles paroles donc? Qu'a-t-il dit ce petit monstre?" And the French teacher's voice came back: "May it please your imperial highness, that's just what he did say."

RESTORED TO PENSION ROLLS.

Important Ruling in Case of Lieut. Rogers, of Revenue Service.

An important decision, in which the interior department for the first time declared a revenue cutter to have been part of the United States navy, has been made by Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis, in the case of William F. Rogers, lieutenant United States cutter Forward, a Mexican war claim. The decision overrules the action of the pension bureau under the last administration and affects a number of claims. Rogers was pensioned in 1887 for services from June 30, 1846, to April 30, 1847, his vessel being in active cooperation with the navy, by order of the president, in the Mexican war, but was subsequently dropped on the ground that he was not legally enlisted into military or naval service. In acting on the case Mr. Davis says it is beyond dispute that the cutter Forward, not in contemplation of the act, but under actual provision and mandate of the law and by virtue of the president's order, became part of the naval establishment of the United States, under the direction of the secretary of the navy, and hence the jurisdiction of the treasury over that vessel and the ship's company meantime was temporarily ousted. The officers and enlisted men thereby became, by merger, subject to the order of the commodore of the navy and amenable to the rules and articles of war in their then war practice and operation. It necessarily follows, the assistant secretary concludes, that the pensioner had title to pension under the act of January 29, 1887, having actually served more than 60 days with the United States navy in Mexico, he not being barred by the acts proviso. Rogers' name will be restored to the rolls and he will be paid the accrued pension.

TRUE LOVE NEVER DIES.

Wealthy Lady of St. Louis Remembers Her Lover of Forty Years Ago.

The story of a romantic love that has lived for 40 years, that was born in St. Louis before the war and has never died in the heart of one of the wealthiest ladies of that city, has just come to light.

Mary Metz was the daughter of a wealthy brewer. He was owner of the brewery which is now Lemp & Co. She loved George Mathews, but when his country called he left and served valiantly in the war. The other day he left Webster City, Ia., for St. Louis to manage her estate. It was by an accident that after nearly 40 years she learned of his whereabouts.

Father Fritz, of Le Mars, was in St. Louis attending school when she discovered that Mathews was a resident of Iowa. He was proprietor of the Hotel Vendome in Sioux City, and later owner of the Windsor hotel in Le Mars. She wrote him of her marriage to a man by the name of Boehmer; that he had died and left her a fortune, and that she was an heiress in her own right; that she was an invalid, and that if he would come and manage her estate she would deed him a valuable piece of property in St. Louis. He has accepted. It is given out that Mrs. Boehmer has no relatives and that presumably Mr. Mathews will in the natural course of events succeed to her many thousands.

GOLD DISTRICT IN PERU.

Perils of Travel Overcome by Americans and Rich Ore Brought Back.

Wallace R. Hardison, head of a big mining company in the new Peruvian bonanza district, has written to friends at Los Angeles, Cal., and the letters show that he will return to California within two months. Hardison organized a $3,000,000 syndicate in New York and last summer left Los Angeles for Peru with J. K. Gries, of Nordhoff, Cal. Hardison took mining machinery enough for equipment of a large mill for reduction of ores. The country where the mines are located is so rough that all the machinery had to be packed by Indian carrier, the trails being too unsafe even for mules. Gries found the journey so difficult that he turned back before the mines were reached and returned home. He brought with him samples of ore from Hardison's mine which are the richest ever seen in California. The ore is black quartz, which carries a phenomenal proportion of gold. Hardison was accompanied by 100 American miners.

BEER HIS PASSION.

Alexander Boessow Spends $80,000 Trying to Quench His Thirst.

Alexander Boessow, aged 44 years, died at Milwaukee, Wis., the other day from delirium tremens, after having spent a fortune in an effort to satiate his thirst for beer. Boessow was a native of St. Petersburg, and is said to have been the son of a wealthy nobleman. He was left about $80,000 in cash about two years ago on the death of his father.

Having heard of the fame of Milwaukee beer, he came to Milwaukee to spend his money, and is said to have been on a continuous jollity with the foaming amber from his arrival in this country until his death. On Monday he received a draft for $500, the last installment of his fortune. He immediately started out to spend the money, and for two days was crazed with drink. He died soon afterwards.

Chewing Gum Carries Diphtheria.

While attending school at West Chester, Pa., a few days ago a child of Joshua Abel came in contact with a schoolmate who had just been taken ill. The Abel child returned home and divided some chewing gum she had in her mouth among four brothers and sisters. Next day the entire family was stricken with diphtheria.

Neither being hurt they opened one of the windows and escaped.

There were ten cars in the train and all but two toppled over. Late tonight it was stated the accident was caused by the breaking of an axle of the forward truck of the locomotive.

CORONER'S JURY TACKLES IT.

Enquiry Being Made Into the Cause of the New York Central Wreck.

Cold Springs, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The second session of the coroner's inquest into the cause of the death of the twenty-one victims of the disaster on the New York Central road near Garrison's, Oct. 24, was held here tonight. The most important testimony as tending to show what caused the embankment to collapse and the train to plunge into the river was given by Michael Clare, former section master. His testimony was corroborated to some extent by two former section hands who worked under him.

Clare testified that a new wall was built last fall outside the retaining wall for the purpose of widening the embankment and thus straightening the curve by throwing the tracks further out into the river. He had considerable trouble with the roadbed, as the outer rails would sink below the surface three or four inches. Concluding, he said:

"I have seen it go three months without settling, and then again it would not stand for a week or two. The embankment back of the wall was filled in with blue clay, cinders, stone and gravel. The water at this place was forty-five to sixty feet deep. The company dumped carloads of stone there to get a solid foundation, but they would seem to disappear as fast as put in."

The inquest was adjourned to Nov. 21. In an interview tonight General Manager Toucey said the wall which Clare had described was not a retaining wall, but a sea wall, intended simply to keep the water from washing out the gravel. He further said that the fact the tracks had settled is not of special significance, because all track settles more or less.

GAG RULE STILL SUPREME.

Austrian House of Representatives Again a Scene of Turmoil.

Vienna, Nov. 4.—When the lower house of the reichsrath reassembled today the Leftists continued to oppose the discussion of the bill for prolonging for a year the Austro-Hungarian compromise, although the house had adopted a resolution to debate it. Dr. Lueger, whom Acting President Abrahamovic had invited to speak, was unable to make himself heard. The tumult became so great that Abrahamovic finally suspended the sitting. The sitting was resumed and suspended several times, but it was impossible for Dr. Lueger to get a hearing. At half past ten this evening the Leftists were shouting and belting and reading newspaper articles at the top of their lungs. The uproar is incessant.

Vienna, Nov. 5.—Amid an unseemly scuffle between Dr. Wolf and a number of Czech deputies a vote has just (2 o'clock Friday morning) been taken, and carried, on a motion to close the debate. But the house is still sitting, with the prospect of another all-night session. During the uproar Count Baden, the premier, was present for a time and was supposed to have a decree of adjournment signed by the emperor in his pocket. According to a well-informed deputy the emperor said: "I won't be dictated to by Schoenerer and Wolf." The deputy understood this to mean that Count Baden would not be allowed to resign whatever turn events might take.

Vienna, Nov. 4.—While the German Nationalists were holding a meeting here this evening a body of Christian socialists, who were present, raised a disturbance. The Liberal and Radical candidate, Alderman Duckworth, by a majority of 300 over the Unionist and Conservative candidate, William Mitchell. The bimetallic question played a considerable part in the contest. The refusal of the government to take any definite step to meet the proposals of the American and French governments was used against Mitchell.

feated him in Kings county. Mr. It was said that he would now be able to do so, however, will have to take his delight in the general result.

Senator David B. Hill, who hasn't been heard of in this campaign, is credited with having engineered the great victory of Judge Parker, by which the tremendous McKinley plurality of 288,000 last year changed into a minority of about 60,000, a reversal of 228,000 votes. It was Hill who suggested Judge Parker as a candidate, and although nothing has been said or heard of the former senator this year in politics, it is declared that he has helped on the quiet in the management of the state campaign for Judge Parker.

In confirmation of this Hugh McLaughlin, the Democratic leader of Brooklyn, said: "I think that David B. Hill ought to be the proudest man in the country today. Mr. Hill has been a much-abused man, but it is my individual opinion that he is entitled to as much credit as any other man in the state for the result of the election. He is the man who brought forward and recommended the nomination of Judge Parker, and the people have approved his judgment. Mr. Hill is one of the ablest men in the country today. He has no superior in politics. He was not heard from during the campaign, but his hidden hand was very effective."

DETROIT'S MAYORALTY ELECTION.

Maybury's Victory a Personal One and Pin-gree Helped (I) Him, too.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The result of the election in Detroit is summed up as follows by The Tribune's correspondent, as follows:

Maybury's decisive victory over Black in the municipal election was in a small sense a personal victory. When he was elected by a small majority to fill Governor Pingree's unexpired term last spring the wisecracks called it an accident. When Maybury was nominated this fall the Republicans put up their best man, Clarence A. Black, and thought that with the powerful aid of Governor Pingree, who fought with all the aggressiveness that his nature is capable of, that it would prove a cake walk. Pingree's personal canvass really injured Mr. Black in the anti-Pingree districts.

Then Mr. Black, who neither drinks nor smokes, was quoted as remarking that he would never sell his waistcoat by leaning against the mahogany. That brought down upon his head the drinking element, who went after him with knife and tomahawk. The Ninth ward is densely populated by Poles and Germans, and it rolled up a plurality of 1,775, which in itself was enough to defeat the Republican candidate. The Third, Fifth, Seventh, Eleventh and Seventeenth wards, populated by laboring men, largely Germans, did not care to jeopardize their beer, either, and they rolled up pluralities for Maybury, who, like Carter Harrison, believes in a liberal government and is inclined to let the town run wide open at times.

It was the cleanest campaign ever conducted in the history of Detroit. It was a campaign of a gentleman against a gentleman. There were no personal attacks, no fifth, no Billingsgate. Mr. Maybury has in the past represented Michigan in congress and has an unblemished reputation. Already there is talk of running him for governor, and the prospect is not in the least pleasing to the irascible shoe man who runs the state.

There was no issue to speak of. Both candidates were very popular. Mr. Black would not doubt have stood a better chance had his views on the liquor question not been so pronounced. Then Black's friends made the further mistake of injecting national issues into a purely local campaign. Mr. Maybury is the only Democrat who has been chosen to serve as mayor of Detroit for a full term since 1889. The city patronage at his disposal for the next two years foots up $118,700 in salaries, a tidy slice for hungry office-seekers to gnaw at.

John A. Schmid, Republican, re-elected city clerk, is another example of general popularity.

Mr. Black said: "My defeat was not the defeat of the Republican party. It was personal. Mr. Maybury has lived in Detroit all his life, is polished and gracious and more popular than I. He was elected by Republican votes. Although the head of the ticket elected was a Democrat, the city really went Republican and is safe yet."

80,000 Votes Over Rest of Ticket the Altitude Attained by the "Fighting Parson."

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—It now appears that the Rev. Silas C. Swallow, candidate for state treasurer on the Prohibition ticket, who surprised all the machine politicians by drawing such a large vote from the older parties in Tuesday's election, ran 80,000 votes, or over, ahead of his ticket.

Dr. Swallow is a resident of Harrisburg, where he is the manager of the Methodist Book Concern. He came into prominence and gained his notoriety and no doubt the greater part of his popularity by his attempt to prove misuse of public moneys at Harrisburg a few months ago. He was called upon to appear before the legislative committee and substantiate his charges. Falling in this he was arrested, tried, and found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $2,000. After the trial public opinion apparently sided with the doctor.

The Prohibitionists made every effort to induce him to accept the nomination for state treasurer, and Dr. Swallow stoutly refused to accept for some time. Finally, great pressure was brought to bear, and he accepted the nomination. He at once started out to make a vigorous campaign, and as he is a vigorous fighter he did not mince things. Dr. Swallow made 227 speeches in the campaign, and was in sixty-three of the sixty-seven counties of Pennsylvania. He drew very largely from the granite vote and carried Dauphin county, which includes Harrisburg, the state capital, where he claims he has been persecuted in the past.

New York Banks Will Hold Much of the Union Pacific Cash—Another Anglo-American Peace Treaty Proposed—Court-Martial for Lovering.

NEWS FROM THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Consul General Osborne, at London, has made a report to the state department on trade in the United Kingdom in 1896. It shows the imports were $125,586,730 more than in 1895, and from the United States alone the excess was nearly $99,000,000. Exports show a large increase, being valued at $120,927,755, an excess of $70,000,000 over the previous year. The balance in favor of the United States last year was $370,000,000, greater than at any time in the past fifteen years and probably at any time previous to that period.

BANKS TO HOLD THE FUNDS.

Transfer of U. P. Purchase Price Arranged So as Not to Disturb Money Market.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Assistant Secretary Handelin today returned from a brief visit to New York, where he arranged for the transfer by the reorganization committee of the government's share of the purchase price of the Union Pacific railroad.

Several prominent New York city banks made application for a deposit with them of such amount of the purchase money as the treasury department may deem necessary in order that there may be no disturbance of the money market in consequence of the reorganization committee's heavy withdrawals. The National City bank will accept $15,000,000, the Chase National $2,000,000, the Hanover National $2,000,000, the National Bank of the Republic $800,000 and the American Exchange National and the Seaboard National $500,000 each, making a total of $20,800,000. Other banks will also apply for a considerable amount and furnish the required indemnity bonds should it be deemed necessary.

The fact, however, the reorganization committee has decided to make its payments according to the dates fixed by the court, instead of paying the whole amount at once, will relieve the situation very materially. According to treasury calculations, the exact amount of the government's share of the purchase money is $58,448,223. Eight million, four hundred thousand, eight hundred and twenty-eight dollars less than the amount of cash in the sinking fund will be due in fifteen days after the confirmation of the sale, which is expected to take place within the next few days. The second payment will be made fifteen days after the first and will aggregate over $12,000,000. The three remaining payments will be made within forty, fifty and sixty days, respectively, from the date of the confirmation of the sale and will be for $12,500,848 each.

New Peace Treaty Contemplated.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, British ambassador, just back from London, probably will confer with Secretary Sherman at an early day concerning the re-opening of negotiations for the Anglo-American treaty of arbitration. Sherman made known to the British authorities some months ago that the president would view with favor the re-opening of the negotiations and was hopeful a peace treaty ultimately would be secured.

Alaska's Agricultural Prospects.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Dr. Evans and Benton Killen, commissioners appointed to investigate the agricultural possibilities of Alaska, have submitted their reports to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. The reports agree that, while comparatively little agriculture exists there, it is possible enough of certain crops and animals may be grown to sustain a considerable population, provided proper methods are pursued.

President Orders Court-Martial.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The president, who returned from his Ohio trip this morning, has ordered a court-martial to try Captain Lovering. The court will meet at 11 o'clock, Nov. 22, at Fort Sheridan. The charges against the captain are: "Conduct prejudicial to the good conduct and military discipline of the army." The specifications include the acts of Captain Lovering in the case of Private Hammond.

Stock-Raisers to Organize.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The chamber of commerce has decided to call a meeting of all the prominent cattlemen of the country in January next to discuss the cattle, sheep and hog interests and perhaps form an association to protect stock-raisers. It is proposed to secure the presence of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and his predecessor.

The Marquette Shotgun club has been disbanded for the season. During the remainder of the month the members will devote their time to deer and partridge hunting instead of shooting clay pigeons. The club has closed a quite successful season. Its membership has been enthusiastic, and the average of marksmanship has been raised by the regular practice.

The dancing season has opened now, and private parties and public dances will soon be of nightly occurrence. Marquette is more fortunate than many cities in the quality of music it has for such occasions, and has, in the Ideal orchestra, under the direction of Professor Muhlbaur, an organization of which larger cities might be proud.

The orchestra has a number of engagements already on, some of them for months ahead, but there are still some good dates left. Those contemplating giving parties should confer with Manager Charles Geill while these still remain open.

Wild ore cargoes are very scarce and shippers could fix rates to suit themselves if they wished to. Tonnage is offered at figures below quoted rates. Coal men are bustling for tonnage, but with offerings light are not doing much business. The general opinion is that some fancy rates will be paid before the close of the season.

It is understood that Captain Alex McDougall and Captain Keith of Chicago are working on some kind of a scheme to search for gold in the Klondike region. The nature of it is not known, but it is suspected that they intend to pump the river bottoms for gold, as they are obtaining all the information they can relative to different kinds of pumps.

WORK OF THE COUNCIL.

Proceedings Had at the Meeting Held Wednesday Evening.

A regular monthly meeting of the city council was held Wednesday evening. Mayor Trebilcock presided and all the aldermen, with the exception of Lacey and Chipman, were present.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

A communication from C. H. Hall, thanking the council for the testimonial sent him, was read. It was accepted and ordered placed on file.

A petition from Rev. M. J. Stevens and forty other residents of the Seventh and Tenth wards, asking that an arc lamp be placed at the intersection of Saginaw and South Pine streets, was read. It was referred to the committee on electric lights.

The bills against the city were read and were referred to the committee on claims and accounts.

Alderman Persons, from the finance committee, reported that the books of the treasurer and recorder had been examined and were found to agree, and that the balance in the treasury Nov. 1, was $23,779.06. The report was accepted.

Alderman Doty, from the committee on water works, recommended that the petitions of Mrs. William Chipman and Samuel Parks asking for free water, be granted. The recommendation was concurred in.

On the recommendation of Alderman Haslam, from the sewer committee, the petition of Mrs. Emma Crane, who asked to be exempted from payment of sewer tax, was denied. The committee was granted further time to report on other petitions of a similar nature which had been referred to it.

A resolution introduced by Alderman Robbins, providing for the building of new sidewalks on North Oak street, was adopted.

The September reports of the chief of police and police magistrate were accepted on recommendation of Alderman Bowden, from the committee on police.

On motion of Alderman Hawes, from the committee on claims and accounts, the monthly pay roll of the city was accepted and the recorder was directed to draw orders for the payment of the same.

Alderman Robbins, from the special committee appointed some time ago to look into the claim made by Samuel Hoar for extra work done at the Carp River falls, recommended that the contractor be allowed $275, provided certain bills be paid by him out of this amount, and that he shall sign an agreement releasing the city from any further claim on account of that work. The outstanding bills will take up considerable of the amount that the committee recommended be allowed the contractor in final settlement of his claim. The report was adopted.

The only warm time of the evening was experienced when the members of the committee appointed to look into the matter of adopting a plan whereby the cost of lighting the city might be reduced locked horns. It seems the committee was divided on plans for cutting down the expense. Aldermen Kennedy, Bowden and Billings were together and Haslam and Chipman stood against them. If the majority report had been adopted the city would effect a saving of about $400 a year.

The minority members of the committee opposed the adoption of this report, but didn't submit report to take its place. It was said, however, that their plan was to save the city a little more than that amount. Several motions, amendments and substitute motions were made and for a time the mayor had something to do to unravel the knots. The matter was finally referred back to the committee on electric lights, where it will probably remain for a few months longer.

A petition from Mrs. August Rehnberg, wife of the late city treasurer, asking that an arrangement be made with the officials of the Peninsula bank under which she would receive the revenue her husband would get from the office had he lived, was read. It was proposed that D. P. Householder, the cashier of the bank, be appointed treasurer for the unexpired term with that understanding. The petition was adopted, Mr. Householder being chosen to fill the vacancy by a unanimous vote.

The council adjourned to meet again this evening for the acceptance of Mr. Householder's bond.

Has Taken a Contract at Ontonagon.

William T. Cole, the local boiler maker, has taken a contract to overhaul six boilers at the lumber mill of D. Martin on the mouth of the Fire Street river, six miles from Ontonagon. It will be three or four weeks before the work will be started, as it will take fully that long to get the material for the job on the ground. Mr. Cole will also build a steam chamber to be used in connection with the plant. It will take his force the greater part of two months to finish the work.

Surprised Her.

Several members of the Daughters of St. George society here drove out to the Ropes Gold mine location Wednesday night and gave the wife of Captain Thomas Robbins, who is a member of the order, a social surprise. The drive was a pleasant one, as the weather was most favorable for an outing of this kind. After arriving at the house the ladies were right at home, and all pitched in and had a good time, remaining there several hours.

Drew Out a Crowd.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church society have reason to feel pleased with the turnout to their chicken pie supper, given last night at the McKee block. There were more people out than the ladies expected, considering the very unfavorable weather. Those who took in the spread were not only well provided for but were also nicely entertained.

They Made a Big Hit.

It is not often that a theatrical company of any kind makes such a tremendous hit in Ishpeming as did Monroe & Hart in "The Gay Matinee Girl" Wednesday night. The company and play are all that the management claim for them. There was a good attendance and all present were kept in an roar of laughter throughout the performance. Nearly every feature introduced was new and some were fully as amusing as anything seen on the local stage in a long time. There are twenty-two people in the company and not one of them is a "stick." The play was written wholly to provoke laughter and the parts are so well handed by the members of this clever organization that encore after encore was necessary before the performers were permitted to retire after some of their "turns." The two comedians, Monroe and Hart, are immense in their fun-making work. During the last act of the play they were obliged to respond to six encores. The comedy introduced is refined and the performance one that anyone can attend without taking offense at anything said or done. One of the many big hits was the combination coat and tent. This is an original idea with Mr. Monroe, who, by the way, is one of the best comedians seen here in many a day. The local theater-goers who did not attend the performance regret that they missed it and it was evident from the good report of the entertainment circulated yesterday by those who were there that had the company played here a second night it would have been obliged to turn people away, so big would the demand for seats have been. Manager Hilton has promised the local opera house manager a date next season.

Putnam, of Kalamazoo, who has been in this vicinity since the first part of September, lecturing at various places, and holding institutes at Ontonagon and Houghton, passed through here last Saturday en route for Ishpeming where he spent the Sunday with one of his former pupils, Mr. Hendrick. Mr. Putnam is a noted educator of our state, having filled the superintendent's chair of Ypsilanti high school for a period of fifteen years with crowning success to himself. He resigned this position a few years ago to accept the chair of mathematics of Kalamazoo college, but his health having failed him he has been obliged to leave it.

Last Sunday morning occurred the decrease of one of our good citizens, W. J. Grooms. He was born at Stevens' Point, Wis., March 25, 1861, and was thirty-six years old when the grim harvester cut him down. He had resided in Sidnaw during the past ten years, during which time he made many friends by his charitable acts toward the poor and needy. He leaves a wife and child to mourn his loss. The funeral services were held in the school house Tuesday morning, and were largely attended. Father Lenhart, of Michigamme, conducted the services. A large number of people paid their last tribute to him by joining the procession which bore the remains to Kitchi cemetery, where he was laid in his last resting place.

CURIOS CONTESTS.

Whip-Cracking, Barrel-Rolling and Race of Cripples.

Nogent, the thrifty little town on the River Marne, in France, seems destined to become famous for the oddest contests enacted in modern times, says the New York Journal.

The other day the town was treated to the unique spectacle of a whipcracking contest, with about 50 contestants. The whips were, in class A, the usual driver's whips, and in class B the so-called peripann, much resembling the long whips used by the lumbermen in northern Minnesota and Wisconsin on their log sleighs.

At least 30 different kinds of cracking sounds can be made by these whips in the hands of an expert, and the prizes were distributed to those who produced the most of these sounds in rapid succession. The judges laid considerable emphasis in this odd contest on the kind of crackings which would stir a horse most without injuring him. In conclusion, all the drivers cracked their whips in chorus, which had the effect of ear-deafening cannonade.

A driver by the name of Lermisson received the first prize. This man can handle the whip in so masterly a manner that he is able to crack the "Marsellaise" and familiar French songs out of it.

FORTUNES FROM FRACTIONS.

Control Something Universally Needed and Be a Millionaire.

There have been in recent years several instances of sudden wealth. South Africa and Cripple Creek have produced millionaires over night, and a bicycle and patent medicine promoter in England made $10,000,000 in as many weeks, says Leslie's Weekly.

The sugar kings have reduced the price and improved the quality of sugar, but as long as they get their fraction on each pound the Americans buy they can make a profit all the way from 20 to 50 per cent. The coal oil monopoly has also reduced the price and improved the product, but its little fraction makes the greatest money-making enterprise in America.

PARISIAN SUICIDE MODES.

Sudden Resolves Followed by Execution in a Cold-Blooded Manner.

Suicide is developing strange forms in Paris, reports the New York Sun. A dressmaker was working with her three assistants one evening recently, when they began to talk of their troubles, and three of the women, all about 25 years of age, coming to the conclusion that life was not worth living, decided to kill themselves at once.

Another Temperance Lesson.

There is no known antidote for the bite of the tiger in Australia. Persons bitten die almost instantly, and the government has a standing offer of $1,000 for anyone who will discover a remedy.

Oldest Women's Club.

The Female Charitable society of Baldwinsville, N. Y., which recently celebrated its eightieth anniversary, has a remarkable record. It is not only the oldest woman's club in the United States, but during all these years it has continued to hold monthly and annual meetings.

A NATIONAL FESTIVAL.

Swedish Lutherans Will Observe Anniversary of the Death of Gustavus Adolphus.

The members of the Swedish Lutheran church society of this city will observe the anniversary of the death of Gustavus Adolphus at the church tomorrow evening. Although this is the first time that the Swedish people of Negaunee have observed this anniversary it will not be the last, as it is their intention to hold appropriate exercises on the 6th of November every year hereafter.

Gustavus Adolphus died Nov. 6, 1632. It was he who secured the success of the Lutheran cause in Sweden. The history of his life is familiar to every son of Sweden, and his memory will long be kept green by them.

The observance of the day would not be complete without a tribute to some kind to the memory of the hero, so Rev. Edward Schuch, the local pastor, has consented to deliver a discourse on his life. There are many things which Gustavus Adolphus did while fighting for his cause that will be of interest to those who turn out to the meeting. The younger people of the congregation are especially invited to be present.

More Lumbermen Arrive.

About twenty lumbermen came up from Menominee yesterday. They were bound for Michigamme, where they will go into the woods for Contractor Casey of Menominee. A few men and a carload of horses also went up to Sidnaw from points down the line.

Several of the members of the Swedish Lutheran church congregation of this city will go to Ishpeming tonight, to hear Hon. John A. Enander, of Chicago, speak on the life of Gustavus Adolphus. Mr. Enander is a very pleasing talker and all who attend will be delighted with his discourse.

Will Get New Sleighs.

At a meeting of the city council held recently it was decided that the fire department should be furnished with new horse sleighs provided the old one can be disposed of to good advantage. This matter was referred to the committee on fire department and the chief.

A few more cows have died in this city during the past twenty-four hours. A man whose cow was sick and not expected to live yesterday said he thought the animal was being poisoned with Paris green from the potato stalks in the field. Others are of the belief that the green turnip tops are causing the trouble.

DREAD OF DEATH.

Dwight L. Moody's Boyish Horror of the Grim Destroyer.

What most concerns us is the relation which Christ's resurrection has to our death and future life, says the evangelist in the Ladies' Home Journal. So many people live in a fearful dread of death and the grave, I believe, just because they do not study this doctrine. They speak of death and the judgment with a shudder, and their vision seems to be unable to pierce beyond. I will remember how in my native village in New England it used to be customary, as a funeral procession left the church, for the bell in the burying ground to toll as many times as the deceased was years old. How anxiously I would count those strokes of the bell to see how long I might reckon on living.

FLY DUG THE SPIDER'S GRAVE.

Grave Digger Took the Measurement of His Victim Eight Times.

Samuel Simon, Sr., a well-known resident of Neahannock township, Pa., while strolling near his home one day recently noticed a fly about half an inch long, and of a dark blue color, with a slim body, bearing a large dead spider, reports the New Castle Democrat. The fly crossed his path and laid his load down. It then went about 18 inches in another direction and commenced digging a hole in the ground. His curiosity being excited, he stopped and watched the work. After the fly had the hole dug about half the length of himself he went to where he had left the spider and took his dimensions. After going back to the hole he found it was not big enough and commenced digging again. After taking out a quantity of earth he again went to the spider and took his dimensions. He did this eight times and as often enlarged the hole. When the busy little fellow had the hole too deep for him to throw the earth clear out he would go on to the bank and force it back with his feet. After he had the excavation large enough for his purpose he went for the spider and took it to the grave, for such it proved to be, and dragged it to the mouth of the hole. After he had the body in he covered it with fine earth dust and finished by placing a small piece of cinder on top. When he had finished the work he flew away. The whole time consumed was exactly 55 minutes, as Mr. Simon says he sat and watched the whole performance.

A SHOWER OF FROGS.

Cloudburst Brings a Deluge of the Dazed Creatures.

A traveler from Fort Ogden, Fla., declared that he passed through an avalanche of frogs ten miles south of here recently, says a dispatch from Arcadia, Fla. It had been raining terribly for three days and the other day there was almost a cloudburst in this county, the rain coming down for four hours in almost solid sheets. This man started out and on the way he passed through a section where for two miles the frogs literally covered the ground. The road was covered and the ground in the woods as far as could be seen on either side. They were crushed beneath his horse's feet as he rode along. There were three kinds or sizes, most of them being the green so-called "tree frogs" so abundant there. The small ones were about an inch long, the others being two and three inches. There were millions of them and the noise they made was deafening. He brought several along as specimens.

It's the general opinion here that the cloudburst brought them. This is the first time that this thing has ever happened in this section and the people are greatly excited over it. The man stated that the frogs seemed dazed and hardly moved as he came along.

Kansas "Spanish Flies."

A certain old soldier of the triangle country manages to donate most of his pension money to charitable institutions, because he claims to make a good, honest living by catching the quick-moving Spanish flies, resembling potato bugs with a mosquito-bar dipnet, gives them a minute-long boiling hot shower bath, and then dries them. He says that the dried bugs are equal to Spanish flies in drawing blisters, and answers all other purposes where cantharides are used. He claims that he can sell his blister drawers for half what Spanish flies cost, for the reason that he needn't pay any import duties on his goods.

GETS AFTER THE L. S. & I.

Attorney General at the Instance of James Pendill Begins Quo Warranto Proceedings.

PAPERS IN CASE FILED IN CLERK'S OFFICE YESTERDAY.

Suit is a Corollary Action to the Right of Way Case Tried Last Winter—No Passenger or Freight Service.

RAILROAD IS INVOLVED IN A SUIT.

The attorney general of the state, on the relation of James Pendill of this city, has filed an information against the L. S. & I. Railway company, demanding by what warrant the company claims to use and enjoy the liberties, privileges and franchises provided for by the statutes of Michigan under which it was organized, without complying with the provisions of the statute.

It is claimed that the company has refused and neglected to furnish accommodations for the transportation of passengers over its road; that it has failed to maintain and run any passenger train whatever over any portion of its road, except that upon one day only in the fall of 1896, when it did run over its road a passenger train composed of cars belonging to other roads, upon which were carried a large number of invited guests, including the Association of Mining Engineers, and that that is the only passenger train ever run upon the road.

It is also claimed that the cities of Ishpeming and Negaunee and the village of Eagle Mills are regular stations upon the line of the D., S. S. & A. railway, and that passengers in going to and from Marquette to those places, could and would be greatly accommodated by the establishment of regular stations at those places by the L. S. & I.

The information alleges that on the twenty-seventh of August, 1897, Mr. Pendill applied to General Manager Harris of the company for transportation of himself and others over the road from Marquette to Ishpeming and offered to purchase tickets for that purpose, and was informed by the general manager that they were not running any passenger trains and had no tickets for sale, but that he would permit Mr. Pendill and those represented by him to ride in a caboose car attached to an iron ore train, and that Mr. Pendill and party could pay the conductor for their transportation.

It is also averred that Pendill contributed over a hundred lots and portions of four blocks of land of great value, in Island Beach addition, across and through which it was proposed to construct the railway. That as an inducement for such contribution or donation, it was represented to Pendill that the company had been arranging connections with the Milwaukee & Northwestern Railway company where-by there would be established a general traffic and passenger service over the line of the new railway.

It is alleged that in addition to the aid furnished by Pendill for the construction of the road aid was furnished the company along the line by Frederick Ayer, D. H. Ball, John M. Longyear, Hervey Meilen, Estate, Mary Kaufman and E. N. Breitung, all of whom contributed certain real estate for the right of way for the road.

The statute provides that a railroad company shall maintain and run at least one passenger train daily each way over its road, unless prevented by accident or the elements, and that the train shall not be used for the transportation of freight, except express or baggage, and is required to furnish sufficient accommodations for the transportation of passengers, and provides that any company refusing to comply with these provisions shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding $500 for each and every offense.

It is claimed by the relator that the company in its failure to refer and neglect in the particulars referred to, has forfeited its franchises, and he prays that the company be ousted and excluded from all corporate rights, privileges and franchises, and that the corporation be dissolved.

Sam Stephenson Was Here.

For a few hours yesterday Marquette sheltered within her corporate limits the mortal frame and ex-congressional dignity of S. M. Stephenson, lumber baron of Menominee, and for eight years the representative of the upper peninsula in congress.

Mr. Stephenson was here to buy pine, not to build any political fences. He was accompanied by F. A. Lemieux, his landlooker. The pair arrived on the early train in the morning, transacted their business and departed at 4:40.

While here Mr. Stephenson remarked that the Menominee postoffice fight would shortly be settled and that the man who would be appointed is the man whom he has recommended. He also remarked incidentally that he and Mr. Sheldon had not recommended the same man.

The postoffice fight in Menominee is being watched with interest by the politicians of this district, and it will be particularly interesting to watch its outcome, as Congressman Sheldon declared in an interview in Detroit Tuesday that his nominee will get the place, and that Washington dispatches would disclose his name in a few days.

Cold Winter is Coming.

Weather Observer Patrick says he inclines to the opinion that the coming winter will be colder, at least slightly so, than the two just passed.

Mr. Patrick bases this observation on local data, taken since early in the seventies, which seems to show that the cold and mild winters come in cycles. The tend is at present downward, and if the theory carries out, the mean temperature of the months of December, January and February will be several degrees below what it was last winter.

zero at Chicago it will of course be colder in Marquette. The temperature would be likely to stand five or six below.

As the storms travel farther to the south it will be just that much colder in Chicago and correspondingly colder in Marquette. The zero mark will be farther south.

The big storm of a short time ago dipped clear down into Texas and its accompanying cold wave was felt as far south as the gulf. Observer Patrick says the storm which was raging yesterday and last night between here and Duluth is moving south and will follow its predecessor down into Texas.

This would seem to indicate that the path of the storms is going to be farther south this year than it was last, and consequently that the temperature all over the states, particularly in the north, will be colder.

The October meteorological summary of the local office was issued yesterday. It bears out the observations of all lovers of nature that October is an exceptionally beautiful month in this latitude, particularly so on Lake Superior.

The fine days in the October just passed were unusually numerous. There were fourteen days on which there was no rain at all, and only one when the precipitation amounted to half an inch or over. The total precipitation for the month was 2.68 inches, which was almost an inch below what might have been expected, as the average for the twenty-six years the records go back, is 3.26 inches.

The temperature for the month was not too hot and not too cold, but was at the bracing average of fifty degrees, just half way between the natural extremes of winter and summer. It was five degrees warmer than the average for the month.

The prevailing direction of the winds during the month has been south. The maximum velocity was recorded on the third and the eighteenth, on both of which occasions there was a southwest wind with a speed of thirty-nine miles per hour.

There were no frosts of any descriptions during the month.

They All Want Nansen.

Dates are yet to be arranged for, but from the expressions of the people it seems evident that there will be the required support for the effort to bring Dr. Nansen, the great Arctic explorer, to Marquette.

Those who have the matter in charge have been before the leading national and fraternal societies, explained the intention of the projectors of the enterprise, and refreshed the minds of their hearers about Nansen and his discoveries. In each case they have been listened to gladly, and have invariably received promises of cooperation and liberal support.

The churches will lend their aid too, and the ministers of the leading denominations have expressed their willingness to do what they can to make the lecture a success and use their influence to cause a large crowd to turn out.

It will take a big crowd to pay the expenses of the venture, and on account of the great expense there are few if any cities of Marquette's importance where an effort will be made to get the great explorer for a lecture, but with the enterprise on the part of the projectors and the enthusiasm which the people have displayed there seems little doubt he can be secured.

Trick Isn't Funny.

A trick that's silly, not amusing, is complained of by the officials of the street railway.

Large boys, who are said to belong to the best families on the hill, have got into the habit lately of walking out at a corner after dark and signaling a car. They have no wish to ride, but only to have what they consider a little fun. When the car is stopped they inform the motorman that he has made a profane kind of fool of himself, then take themselves off lest he should leave the car and resent the insult. Often times their remarks are disgustingly vulgar.

The officials say they know who the boys are, and that unless the practice is stopped they will take means that will not be pleasant, to break it up.

That there may be ladies in the car does not prevent the boys, who are practicing this trick, from displaying the coarseness of their morals and the lowness of their minds.

Clerks Gave a Dance.

Fraternity hall last night was the scene of a pleasant party given by the Clerks' union of this city. In addition to the Marquette crowd three busses full of young people came down from up the road, two from Negaunee and one from Ishpeming, to participate in the merry making. Music for the affair was furnished by the Ideal orchestra. Joe Hogan did the prompting.

Arrangements have been made for a party to be given tonight at the Snow-shoe club house. It is expected about twenty-five couple will attend. Music will be furnished by a pair of traveling players on the harp and violin.
