MUST FIGHT FOR ITS LIFE.

Crisis in Affairs of Sugar Trust That Threatens Its Very Existence.

OPPOSITION IS RAPIDLY GROWING MORE POWERFUL.

Beet Industry and Establishment of Big Independent Refineries Two of the Factors That Have Caused Those "on the Inside" to Pull Out.

STOCK HAS TAKEN A TUMBLE

New York, Nov. 15.—There is a crisis in the affairs of the sugar trust. It has a fight on its hands for its very existence; and opposition to it is growing apace. All over the West refineries are springing up like mushrooms, and right here in the center of its trade two immense new sugar manufactories are being rushed toward completion—those of Arbuckle Bros. and Claus Dorschner, both located in Brooklyn.

Twenty thousand shares of American Sugar Refining stock, worth at the market $2,600,000, long held by relatives and friends of H. O. Havemeyer, have been sold in the stock exchange within the last ten days. The decline in the stock was not due entirely to "short selling," as some of the manipulators would have it appear, but rather to the selling out by persons in position to know all the ins and outs of the trust.

It was announced on July 15 that the Standard Oil clique had bought the control of the sugar trust. This fact was again made evident when Wall street was recently shocked by the announcement of H. O. Havemeyer's serious illness. Sugar stock tumbled rapidly from 144 to 123, and even then it appeared that the bottom had not been reached. In order to stay the decline a semi-official statement was issued to the effect that Mr. Havemeyer's illness could not affect the sugar trust, because "H. O. Havemeyer held only enough stock to enable him to qualify as a director." As the ownership of ten shares only is necessary for a director of the American Sugar Refining company, it seemed hardly credible that Mr. Havemeyer's holdings in the gigantic combination which he himself engineered could have dwindled to such an extent. But this is literally true.

Now that the head of the trust, whose careful management alone enabled it to hold the trade, earn handsome dividends and accumulate a surplus, was really out of it, the anxiety of his friends to sell their holdings was easily understood. The stock last week under the influence of this inside selling dropped from 132 to 126 1/2. Buying for "covering" hoisted the stock to its closing price on Saturday of 130 1/2. Today the stock fell away to 128 1/2.

It is only by holding absolute control of the manufacture of sugar that it can hope to keep its business profitable and continue to pay dividends on its immense capital of $75,000,000. The question which is agitating Wall street, therefore, is whether Mr. Havemeyer will retain the presidency of the company in which he has small pecuniary interest. It is pointed out that his recent serious illness may compel a long period of rest. The death of Theodore A. Havemeyer, the brother, who helped form the trust, and whose hand and head assisted in its management, was a blow to Mr. Havemeyer, from which he has not recovered. The removal of one brother by death was serious, and the retirement of the other from the management would be a staggering blow to the trust.

The beet sugar industry is making serious inroads into the field of the trust. Factories are springing up on every side in the West. Several refineries in Nebraska and Kansas are making annually 45 per cent. on the money invested. This is a much larger percentage of profit than the trust can possibly obtain. A Wall street news bureau issued on Saturday the following statement concerning these refineries:

"Some interest has been excited by the fact that several new beet sugar refineries are about to be built in different parts of the country. An authority on sugar matters says that there are ten beet sugar refineries now in operation with a total capacity of about 4,200 tons per day during the season of 120 days. A new factory is projected in California of 3,000 tons capacity, another one in New York of 350 tons capacity, and several others are in prospect in other sections."

And in addition to the menace occasioned the trust by the beet sugar industry, there are the two big plants being built by the Arbuckles and Dorschner. The capacity of these refineries will be 4,000 barrels each a day. The manufacture of 8,000 barrels daily in opposition to the trust will, it is believed, cut very seriously into its business. The Arbuckle Bros. control a machine for packing sugar in pastboard boxes of various sizes to be supplied to the retail trade. Instead of obtaining the refined sugar in barrels and placing clerks at work wrapping the sugar in bundles for consumers, they can buy it all ready for delivery.

Another blow to the trust is the expiration of the five years' contract with the Hawaiian sugar planters. It expires on January 1 and will not be renewed. After that date only 50,000 tons will be refined by the Western sugar refinery, which the trust owns, and the balance of 225,000 tons will be taken by the opposition refiners. The Arbuckles and Claus Dorschner have contracted for 90,000 tons, and the balance will be divided between a new refinery now being built near San Francisco and the California Beet Sugar & Refining company, which has a capacity of 60,000 tons.

Foreign refined sugars, notwithstanding the protection afforded by the Dingley tariff bill, are being imported in increased quantities. Last week one sale of 2,000 bags of Australian refined sugar was made in this market. The price was 4.75 cents a pound net, which included both the differential and countervaling duties, amounting to 2.37 cents a pound. The sugar refined by the trust is quoted at 4.72 net cash a pound, equal to 3 cents more a hundred pounds.

Now that the Standard Oil clique is in control of the sugar trust a fight for mastery is expected. The well-known policy of "rule or ruin," which has been characteristic of the Rockefeller's in their conduct of the Standard Oil monopoly, is looked for in the sugar trust. The cash on hand—mainly surplus—of the sugar trust amounts to $35,000,000. This affords the sinews of war for a long and bitter campaign, and Wall street fully expects it soon.

PROVED DREYFUSS' INNOCENCE.

Friend of the Imprisoned French Officer Writes a Sensational Letter.

Paris, Nov. 15.—M. Scheurer-Kestner, one of the vice presidents of the senate, who has been prominent in the agitation for re-opening the case of Alfred Dreyfuss, former captain of artillery, reduced to a sentence of imprisonment for life for selling important French military plans to agents of a foreign power, has written a letter to the newspapers which asserts that on Oct. 30 he presented the French minister for war, General Billot, documents proving the prisoner innocent.

M. Scheurer-Kestner adds that the minister promised to make inquiry into the matter and communicate him the result within a fortnight. Continuing, he says that as a fortnight has elapsed without the minister for war communicating with him, he now repeats, without fear of contradiction, that he showed the minister documents which easily establish the culpability of another than Dreyfuss.

The letter of M. Scheurer-Kestner has caused considerable excitement in the lobbies of the deputies, and it is expected the cabinet will discuss the situation tomorrow and issue a pronouncement on the subject.

CREW SAFELY RESCUED.

British Steamer Rutherfordian Succumbs to Fierce Atlantic Gales.

Queenstown, Nov. 15.—Particulars are just received of the wreck of the British steamer Rutherfordian, which, as cabled Saturday, foundered 330 miles west of Fastnet. The Rutherfordian, after leaving New York, encountered a series of severe gales. The steamer labored heavily, the cargo shifted and she listed so much that her sails set to steady her were sometimes submerged. Matters went from bad to worse. The steamer was filling with water when she was sighted by the Hermanos. It was decided to abandon the Rutherfordian, and the crew were taken aboard the Hermanos. The boats of the Hermanos made five trips before all the members of the Rutherfordian's crew were rescued. Some idea of the difficulty of this task may be gathered from the fact that it took nine hours to rescue all the crew of the British steamer. The latter numbered twenty-eight men in all.

DR. EVANS DIES IN PARIS.

Celebrated American Dentist Who Leaves Much Money to Charity.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Dr. Evans, the celebrated American dentist, died here today.

Dr. Evans was born in Philadelphia seventy-five years ago and went to Paris in 1846. Dr. Evans attended to the teeth of most of the crowned heads of Europe. His fortune is estimated at twenty-five to thirty-five million dollars. He is said to have made arrangements to endow schools of dentistry in several American universities. The doctor is said to have left large sums of money to charity, and during the course of his life he received innumerable orders and other decorations from foreign potentates. The secret of the success of Dr. Evans as a dentist may be said to be in the fact that he was practically the first person to introduce gold fillings for the teeth into Europe.

POLICE STOPPED THE FIGHT.

Chicago Bluecoats Save Billy Smith a Knock-Out by Kid McCoy.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The six-round contest between Kid McCoy and Australian Billy Smith, in which George Siler was the referee, was stopped by the police in the first half of the second round tonight. The fight would not have lasted over two rounds anyway, as McCoy knocked Smith down twice in the first round and four times in the second round and had him nearly out before the police interfered. The contest was McCoy's from start to finish and Smith was never in it at any time. McCoy hit him when and where he pleased and got away from Smith's swings without trouble. The latter was badly punished, his right eye being cut and nearly closed when the fight stopped.

ELECTS THE DEMOCRATS.

Wyoming Supreme Court Decides the Votes of Illiterate Finns Do Not Count.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 15.—The supreme court today rendered a decision in the Caroon county election case, sustaining the contention of the plaintiffs, who were candidates for county attorney, treasurer and commissioner on the Democratic ticket at the last election. The court decided that foreign-born citizens must be required to read the Constitution in the English language in order to vote. There were 115 Finns who voted the Republican ticket but could not read the Constitution in English. Their votes were accepted, as they could read it in their own language. The decision will put the Democratic candidates in office and settle a very important constitutional question.

STABBED BY UNKNOWN ASSASSIN.

Pastor Stubenvell at the Point of Death in His Home at Racine.

Racine, Wis., Nov. 15.—Rev. Hugh Stubenvell, pastor of the St. Paul German Lutheran church, lies in a precarious condition at his home tonight as the result of a stab wound in the abdomen, received from an unknown assassin at a late hour Saturday night. Rev. Stubenvell recently had some trouble with boys who were persistent in disturbing the services at his church. A concert was held at the church Saturday night and the old trouble was renewed, so the police were notified and the disturbers fled. After the concert as Rev. Stubenvell was returning to his home he was attacked by a masked man, who thrust the blade of a knife in the abdomen and fled.

HANNA MEN CONFIDENT.

Have Quietly Convassed Legislature and Find They Have Two Majorities.

Columbus, Nov. 15.—According to the official count, the senate has 17 known Republican members, 18 known Democrats and 1 fusion Republican elected on the Democratic ticket in Cincinnati, a total of 36. The house has 58 known Republican members, 47 known Democrats and 4 fusion Republicans elected on the Democratic ticket in Cincinnati; total, 109. On joint ballot the Republicans have five majorities. If they get the fusion Republicans the majority will be ten. Of the known Republicans, three declined to say how they will vote for United States senator. The Hanna men claim all the other known Republicans, which, if the claim is well-founded, would give Hanna a majority of two on joint ballot.

Vienna, Nov. 15.—Turkey, in reply to the demands of the Austro-Hungarian ambassador for recent indignities offered an Austrian merchant, Branzafoili, agent at Mersina for the Austrian Lloyd Steamship company, has agreed to dismiss both officials, the vail of Adana and the mulesariff of Mersina, and salute the Austrian flag. The incident is now closed.

London, Nov. 15.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: "The commanders of two Austrian warships had received instructions to bombard Mersina in case the Turkish government delayed giving satisfaction before next Thursday noon."

Wisconsin Will Ignore the Challenge of the Chicago Team—Asksans' Governor Condemns the Game and Will Try to Stop It.

FIFTY-SEVEN TO FIVE THE VOTE.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Alderman Plotke, author of the ordinance compelling women to remove their hats in theatres, introduced an ordinance into the council tonight abolishing football in the city limits. It was placed on file by a vote of 57 to 5. The alderman tried to make a fight for his measure, but was jeered into his seat.

HAVE WON FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

Wisconsin Will Not Accept Chicago's Challenge of $5,000 for Another Game.

Milwaukee, Nov. 15.—Captain Flordan of the University of Wisconsin football team arrived here this afternoon on his return from Chicago. He was shown the following statement made by Coach Stagg of the Chicago team, which was printed in a Chicago paper this morning:

"The coach and captain of the Wisconsin team say the score of Saturday's game is unsatisfactory to them. Both of them lament the fact that Chicago scored at all and one of them says a better criterion of the two teams would have been given if the scores were 30 to 0. I wish to make the bare statement that we will give the Wisconsin team a guarantee of $5,000 for a game to be played on any one of the three coming Saturdays. We will be glad to give them another opportunity to make a satisfactory score."

In reference to the above challenge Captain Flordan said:

"Mr. King and Manager Clark are still in Chicago. When their return, action will be taken. It is not policy for a team which has won the championship to play two games with the same team. We won the game, and the championship clearly, and there are no honors to be derived from a second meeting with Chicago. While $5,000 would be very acceptable to the athletic association, we cannot play for such an inducement. It looks too much like a prizefight deal to me, and does not belong to football."

CONDEMNNS IT AS BRUTAL.

Governor Jones Favors the Prohibition of Football in Arkansas.

Little Rock, Nov. 15.—The governor of Arkansas is the first magistrate to disapprove of the game of football. In a letter to President J. L. Buchanan of the state university at Fayetteville, Governor Jones takes the recent game between Fort Smith and the State university as the text and strongly condemns the sport as brutal. He recommends there be a stop put altogether to the playing of the game by students of the state university. The governor is ex-officio president of the state university board of trustees.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

The reports from Washington indicate that the president is disposed to cordially co-operate with Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his mission, which has for its object the vexed questions still pending between the United States and Canada, that which leads all others being the matter of a reciprocity agreement. The prospects are therefore fairly good for the ultimate establishment of the entente cordiale on a firmer basis than formerly, and where we hope it will rest without the frequent friction that has troubled it in the past. It is gratifying to see the president taking this position, because it is somewhat different from the one which he has held, and indicates that he is not blind to signs of the times and that he is willing to depart from the hard and fast lines of commercial exclusiveness which marks the policy with which his name has been so long and so closely identified.

The change, or rather marked modification of the early policy of the year, we believe will strike all parts of the country favorably. The matter has been so hopefully initiated by the executive heads of the two interested governments that there is a chance that good progress may be made before congress assembles. Its treatment by that body is still a subject of speculation. As this is a question which affects the business men of the country, especially, it would be well for them to discuss the proposition in their various organizations and give the movement aid and comfort. The country is a wide one and any expressions of interest and encouragement from its various sections are always acceptable, and frequently help to bring to maturity plans and arrangements of benefit to the whole. The Canadian premier shows a disposition to leave the slate clean with respect to all old reckonings, if it can be done, and start anew with our mutual fishing rights more clearly defined and a new, friendly and advantageous trade established.

IRON PRODUCTION INCREASING.

The American Manufacturer's report giving the number of iron furnaces in blast at the opening of this month and their capacity shows a remarkable increase in production. On the first of the month there were in operation 185 furnaces, with a total weekly capacity of 219,638 tons. This is a gain of 14 in the number of active furnaces and of 22,240 tons in weekly capacity over the showing on the first of the previous month. All classes of furnaces show a gain in weekly productive capacity during the month covered by the report, October, though there has been no increase in the number of charcoal and anthracite furnaces in operation since the first of October. The gain in weekly capacity has been 396 tons for charcoal furnaces and for anthracite 708 tons, while the coke furnaces show an increased weekly capacity of 21,136 tons, this being obtained mainly by the addition of 14 furnaces of this class to the active list. There are now in blast 57 more furnaces than there were at this time a year ago, and the weekly capacity shows an increase of 104,879 tons. However, the production of October, 1896, was the lowest of that year. At the present rate the country is turning out more pig iron than at any previous time during the past two years. The nearest approach to the present output was in the month of December, 1895, when the total weekly capacity was 219,326 tons. Estimating from the weekly capacity of the furnaces now in blast, we see that the country is now producing something like 20 per cent. more pig iron than it was three months ago, or at a rate that would make the output 11,421,176 tons for the year if maintained for the full twelve months.

PLACING THE SCREWS.

The navy department has been advised that the Carnegie and Bethlehem Steel companies have purchased the right to manufacture armor plate by the Krupp process in this country. This move has been made, it may be assumed, by these companies in view of the measures taken by the last congress to ascertain the advisability of having the government provide itself with an armor plate plant of its own to protect itself against the imposition practiced on it by the two companies named in the exorbitant charge they have been making for armor plate for our war vessels. If they secure control of all the proved processes for making the plate they will have the government where they have been trying with some success to get the public—where it will have to submit to be squeezed because it cannot help itself.

HOUSEHOLD GODS.

The ancient Greeks believed that the Penates were the gods who attended to the welfare and prosperity of the family. They were worshipped as household gods in every home. The household gods of today is Dr. King's New Discovery. For consumption, coughs, colds and for all affections of Throat, Chest and Lungs it is invaluable. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and is guaranteed to cure, or money returned. No household should be without this good angel. It is pleasant to take and a safe and sure remedy for old and young. Free trial bottles at The Stafford Drug company's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

It is fortunate for the gentlemanly pirates who are plundering the people of this country, individually and collectively, that they are dealing with "a government of the people, by the people and for the people." If this were a despotism instead of a free republic they would not find robbing the government so easy, for about the time they go to putting on the screws too mercifully their plants would be confiscated and they would be in great luck if they were not themselves subjected to decapitation at the same time.

A reader of The Mining Journal in one of the towns up the road "puts this and that together" and reaches the conclusion that Jersey butter is going to be used as a lubricant of governmental machinery when the Menominee postoffice grist goes into the White House hopper. He sends us the following, which is quite good enough to print:

"The appointment of a postmaster at Menominee hangs grim ominously, notwithstanding the visit of ex-Congressman Stephenson to Washington a fortnight or so ago to 'pull it off.' Can it be that Sam over-estimated the force of his pull?"—Daily Mining Journal.

"Last week the Pine Hill farm, Menominee, shipped fifty pounds of Jersey butter to Washington. Twenty pounds of it went to President McKinley, the same amount to Secretary Alger and the balance to some of the leading hotels in that city, as samples."—Daily Edge, Marinette.

"Behold Sam's propensity to use grease in political matters!"

The Failure of the African Klondike.

An English "Industrial Commission" has made a report on the existing conditions of gold mining in the Transvaal, and one significant sentence of that report tells the whole story. "Under existing conditions 100 mines will have to close down," is the report. A Johannesburg letter to the London Telegraph says, "Amid all the evidences of prosperity, we are threatened with ruin." The simple cause of this is the fact that the Rand is not panning out according to the hopeful predictions of a year ago. The golden prospects have become so gloomy that "Johannesburg is going through an acute crisis, business paralyzed, credit gone, property depreciated, labor unemployed."

The enormous quantity of $43,000,000 worth of gold was taken from the Rand last year, and the present year's crop promises to be greater than that, yet utter prostration has overtaken the mining industry there as a whole. The reason is that it costs more to get the gold out of the vast majority of the mines than it is worth. A very few mines advantageously located, are paying splendid dividends, and will continue to do so until a depth is reached where the expense will meet the income, but the truth has already dawned upon investors that the gold of the Transvaal will not pay for its digging. Last year there were 183 mines working, only 79 of which produced any gold at all and only one-third of the productive mines paid any dividends.

It is the old, old story over again. For the past ten years the gold hunters of the Transvaal have been lying more upon expectation than upon reality. The geological experts were not mistaken in their splendid representations about the immense quantities of the precious metal that lie in the long stretch of auriferous ledge that has been so graphically described; but the engineering difficulties of the situation had been overlooked as regards nine-tenths of it. After the world has been treated to estimates of the billions of pounds sterling which the 30 or 40 miles of ledge would yield in the next 30 years, we are now face to face with the fact that only about three miles of it are productive in paying quantities.

Here, at least, one golden bubble is pricked that bears on the monetary question. As far as the Rand is concerned the world is not to be flooded with gold with cheap gold, as the predictions were last fall. Gold will continue to be as "precious" as ever, and unless the Klondike fields prove an exception to all the rules, gold will continue its slow march upwards in value, while nation after nation continues to discard silver and go to the single gold standard.—Detroit News-Tribune.

A Hydraulic Dredging Machine.

In its work of hydraulic dredging on the lower Mississippi, the United States government uses a machine that sucks up sand and gravel from the bottom of the stream and discharges the material one thousand feet away. It can be operated up stream or down stream, pushing with the cutters against the sand bar, or dragging them backward. In the stern of the dredge are two "spuds," or piles, which are driven down into the river bed to act as pivots, permitting the dredge to swing in the arc of a circle, sucking up all the sand which comes near the cutters, and by swinging on one of the spuds as a pivot, the dredge can remove 1,300 cubic yards of bottom without moving forward; it can move forward at the rate of 5 1/2 feet a minute and suck up sand at the rate of 8,000 cubic yards an hour, in a short time cutting a channel the full width of the battery of cutters across a sand bar. This enormous sand sucker is 172 feet long and 40 feet wide, and weighs, with its machinery, 1,200 tons. It carries ninety tons of coal and has a water ballast to equalize the draft. It has a battery of four 375-horse power boilers, the runners of the centrifugal pumps being seven feet in diameter. The engines driving the pumps are triple expansion, and are of the vertical, inverted, four-cylinder tandem type.

ABOUT THE STATE.

In the divorce mill in Saginaw, during the present year, seventy-nine bills for divorce have been filed and twenty-five of that number have been granted, leaving fifty-three of the cases started pending, one having been dismissed.

J. C. Darragh, who failed in the furniture business at Grand Rapids a few years ago, and who is well known at Monroe and St. Louis, was sent up for two years at Kalamazoo for wrecking a bank there. He was his president.

James Dodge, a seventeen-year-old farm hand, living near Morrice, died Friday afternoon from a gunshot wound in the leg that he received a few days ago. He had laid down his gun on the back steps of the house and it was accidentally discharged.

Mike Orcutt and Augustus Bean, who drank acconite at Muskegon, supposing it was alcohol, at the end of a spree, are both dead. Orcutt died game and maintained that he wasn't going to die. He said to his companion, exclaimed, "Oh, God, why not give me a chance to repent if I have got to die."

Miss Bertha Shepherd, dressmaker, was thrown from her wheel Saturday at Bay City. In falling, her head struck a stone and she was picked up insensible and carried to a neighboring house where a physician attended her. He pronounced her injuries not necessarily dangerous. A dog ran in front of her bicycle and caused the accident.

Prosperity has struck the capitol building at Lansing. At a meeting of the state board of auditors held Friday it was decided to re-establish the old scale of wages of the employes about the building. The pay of janitors was increased from $50 to $60 per month of the watchmen from $2 to $2.25 per day, and of painters and carpenters from $2 to $2.50.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Mr. Louis Gorseline of Saginaw, who makes a living by shooting sparrows and has hunted all over the state, killing 7,200 of the little pests in October, threatened to sue the county of Saginaw. He appeared before City Clerk Davies with 233 dead birds and received certificates for $6.46, which the county treasurer refuses to pay because there is no sparrow fund.

A national woman suffrage conference will be held in Grand Rapids, Nov. 22 and 23, and a large attendance is expected from the state is expected. Among the distinguished visitors will be Susan B. Anthony, Carrie Chapman Catt, Rev. Anna H. Shaw and Mary G. Hay.

Samuel Arney, the noted preacher and horseman, has entered into partnership with Knight Bros. at Schoolcraft, and will assume full control of the breeding interests of their extensive stock farm, south of the village. Mr. Arney will move from Otsego to Schoolcraft, he having some time ago publicly announced his intention of withdrawing from the ministry.

Mrs. Isaac McLaughlin, the wife of a farmer living near Yale, was seized with an apoplectic fit Saturday night, and died almost instantly. By her death McLaughlin is left a widower for the second time within twelve months.

Heard the wife of his youth about ten months ago and before two moons had waned married the woman who has just died, who was a widow of the neighborhood.

Nearly the whole of Huron county is interested in the discovery of coal and the expectation of finding precious metals about five miles south of Elkton. It is said that a company has been formed that holds leases of all the land in that vicinity and that George Smith, a veteran weldigger, has been engaged to dig a number of holes. The indications are that there is lots of coal of a good quality there.

One night recently a lady from one of the eastern states who is stopping at a health resort at Battle Creek accepted the company of a gentleman guest to attend to an errand. She missed her diamond pin before arriving home, and believing her escort had taken it, she enlisted the services of an officer and the pin was soon recovered. The officer refused to divulge any names of Elkton. It is said that a company has been formed that holds leases of all the land in that vicinity and that George Smith, a veteran weldigger, has been engaged to dig a number of holes. The indications are that there is lots of coal of a good quality there.

The residence of Mrs. Lampman at Romeo was entered Friday morning and a gold watch and chain and numerous other articles of jewelry stolen. Suspicion rested on a young man by the name of Edward Hartley, and a warrant for his arrest was sworn out by Miss Adella Ferguson, who owned the stolen goods. The young man was found the same night by Deputy Sheriff Oel J. Smith, and he at once confessed his guilt. He admitted that he entered the house for the purpose of burglary and was sentenced to sixty days in the Detroit house of correction. Hartley is only eighteen years old, but bears a very unsavory reputation.

Dr. L. F. Stuch, president of the village of Allegan, was arrested Saturday afternoon on the complaint of E. T. Van Ostrand, a druggist there, charged with embezzlement and larceny. He waived examination, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Wednesday of this week. Bail was fixed at $300. The doctor was supplied with a key to Van Ostrand's drug store and he was in and out of there at any time and obtaining medicines for use in his practice. It is claimed that he took not only medicine but cigars and other things, for which he rendered no account. He has recently made a statement to the effect that his father and brother, also in custody for the same offense, and a mysterious third person, had committed the assault, but it was not implicated, but it is believed that he was equally guilty with the other two. The sheriff of the county has sent to Fort Wayne, Ind., for a pair of blood hounds to be used in tracking the fugitive.

Adler Franks, a farmer living five miles west of Port Huron, out on the Lapeer plank road, was killed by a bullet accident at Port Huron about 8 o'clock Saturday evening. In company with Mr. and Mrs. Schettler, neighbors of his, he was driving about town, and while going east on Lincoln avenue, he became unmanageable and ran into a telegraph pole while going at $500 IN ACTUAL CASH.

Five hundred dollars is offered to competitors in a contest that affords both instruction and amusement. We will give $500 to the one who will SUPPLY THE MISSING WORD in the following sentence:

"Some years ago a man in a New Jersey city made a silly wager that he could climb the high steeple of the local church. Hundreds of people gathered to witness his attempt, which ended in the man falling to his death."

The meaning of the missing word implies foolhardiness. While there are a dozen words that might properly be used in the sentence, there is only one correct word, and your skill in naming the correct one may gain you the prize of $500.00.

Probably you will be the only one who guesses the missing word, but if more than one answer is correct, then the money will be divided proportionately. It is not necessary to rewrite the whole of the sentence, simply say the missing word is—

The contest will close on December 20, and to the one who first guesses correctly, providing more than one is correct, we will give $100 in addition to the prize; to the second correct guess, $50; to the third, $25, and to the fourth, $15.

The postoffice stamp on the envelope will be taken as the date of the guess, so that whether near or far away, all have an equal chance. All envelopes will be open to the inspection of contestants. The sentence has been sealed and will not be opened until the close of the contest, when the prize will be determined by a committee and the money sent to the successful guesser, which will no doubt prove an acceptable Christmas present.

When sending the missing word mention whether you want the prize sent by bank draft, registered mail or express. We will send any way the winner or winners desire.

It will be asked why we offer a prize of such magnitude. We do it to introduce to the public our magnificent Chrysto diamond scarf pin and brooch pin.

The scarf pin is made of solid gold plate and the stone is one of our superb Chrysto diamonds. For fire and brilliancy it is unsurpassed. It is the finest specimen of an imported brilliant and cannot be told from a real diamond. It is acknowledged by experts to be the nearest approach to a genuine diamond ever produced.

A MARVEL OF BEAUTY. Is our magnificent crescent brooch pin. It is simply a masterpiece of workmanship. It is in solid gold plate and set with five white stones, very brilliant, with one magnificent stone in the centre of a star placed in the curve of the crescent. It is elegantly finished, and in appearance is equal to those sold by leading jewelers for $200.

We have spared neither time nor money to make the scarf and brooch pins the finest productions of the jewelers' art, and those who have seen them pronounce them unsurpassed in beauty and design.

OUR PROPOSITION. We will send you the brooch and scarf pins, carefully packed in a neat box, postage prepaid and delivery guaranteed, for ONE DOLLAR.

WE ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEE SATISFACTION. If you find the articles not as represented, send them back to us, and we will pay you $5 each for them.

One guess at the missing word is allowed for every scarf and brooch pin purchased. The competition will positively close on December 20, and no answer received after that date can enter the contest.

The name or names of the winners and the correct sentence will be sent by mail to each purchaser, and will also be published in this paper immediately the contest is closed. The prize money will be sent at the same time.

Remit by enclosing a dollar bill, postal money order or postage stamps, to THE CHRYSO DIAMOND CO., No. 233 BROADWAY, (11-3-14) NEW YORK.

break-neck speed. The unfortunate man was pitched forward, struck his head against the pole and bounded back into the buggy. The force of the concussion was so great that the man's skull was broken clean around, and the upper portion buried deep into the lower part of the head. The couple in the rig with Frank were thrown out, and received injuries which, although serious, are not dangerous. They were taken to Patrick's private hospital, and after having their injuries attended to, they were conveyed home. Mr. Schettler had the small bone of his left leg fractured, while the woman received some bad bruises. Franks was a married man, but had not lived with his wife, a suit for divorce having been pending for some time.

LEATHER BELTING, ETC. Immense Stock of J. T. Wing & Co., Detroit—An Invitation.

One of the best known firms in the West in the lines of belting, mill supplies and general ship chandler's goods is that of J. T. Wing & Co., 15, 17 and 19 Woodward avenue, with extensive works at 32 to 40 Bates street, Detroit. The house is an old-established one and reflects high credit upon its age. The stock comprises every description of mill supplies, belting, hose, etc., and also all goods needed in steamboat and vessel outfits. An idea of the immense assortment carried by the firm may be had from an inspection of the three large stores near the foot of Woodward avenue, which are filled from basement to attic with the various articles they furnish. The goods in every department have been selected with a view to meeting the wants of the trade, and the long experience of the house forms a guaranty that this object has been fully attained. The advantages of selection from such a large stock as may be found at J. T. Wing & Co.'s are so obvious as not to require a detailed setting forth. The buyer finds everything he wants. He sees the newest things in his line, of which as yet he may not have heard. He can expect prompt receipt of everything he orders; for there is nothing to wait for. And buying in such large quantities enables the offering of the lowest prices obtainable anywhere.

The firm would be pleased to enter into correspondence with all with whom they are not now connected in a business way. Beginners in manufacturing will do well to write them. They will send price lists and any information asked, promptly on application. Those just commencing business may learn much of value from the experience of a house like this. A personal visit, of course, would be much more satisfactory, for the reasons we have indicated above. Those interested who cannot make it convenient to visit the firm, however, will do the next best thing for themselves if they write them at once.

RUSHING THE WORK. Affairs at the Isle Royale Mine Fast Shaping Themselves for Active Operations.

Realizing that the time favorable for surface work is fast nearing end, operations at the Isle Royale are being pushed night and day and they will continue until No. 1 shaft is in a position to be covered. The work of clearing away the debris from the collar of this shaft is finished, while the water is removed to a depth of about 400 feet, or almost to bottom.

At this shaft the vein comes within ten feet of surface. The footwall is clearly located, and a force of men, with hammer and drills, started last week upon the work of cutting the shaft down from surface. Yesterday a depth of about ten feet had been reached from surface in thus widening the shaft, and an agreeable feature in connection with the situation is that fully a ton and a half of mass copper was secured from this source.

For the next ten days or so the available force at the mine will be worked at No. 1 shaft so that the shafthouse, shed and such buildings will be erected before the winter storm sets in. The framework of the shafthouse is nearly completed, and the coming two weeks will witness a decided improvement at this point.

MISTAKEN FOR THE CAPTAIN.

A Man-o-War's Apothecary is Luck at Yokohama.

The pranks in foreign ports of United States men-of-war's men are occasionally amusing. The captain of a great cruiser that went out to the China station about three years ago had a double on his ship in the person of the apothecary. An apothecary is an enlisted man with the rate of a chief petty officer.

When President Cleveland, two years ago, appointed three deep waterway commissioners under the Vilas law, he selected President Angell of the University of Michigan, on account of his knowledge of international law; Lyman E. Cooley of Chicago as an expert in waterway engineering problems, and Hon. John E. Russell of Massachusetts, because of his sound judgment, business ability, and familiarity, as a practical farmer and as secretary for five full terms of the Massachusetts board of agriculture, with the transportation needs of the agricultural interests.

"Ah, captain-so delighted!" exclaimed the two girls at once. "Do step in and go about with us a bit. We are both lonesome-and dying to be flattered!" The apothecary had his cue, and the temptation was great. He stepped into the carriage, and for two hours he made himself agreeable to the two girls. They carried him around to half a dozen houses for afternoon calls and he parried difficult questions in the small talk with a skill he had employed in former years, before he had become an enlisted man.

"Good morning, sir," said the apothecary, saluting. "You enjoyed yourself yesterday after-noon, didn't you?" "Exceedingly well, sir." The captain drummed on his desk with a paper weight. "You found the young ladies interesting?" "To a degree, sir." "Apothecary," resumed the skipper after a pause, "if I were to act strictly in accordance with the regulations, I should be compelled to punish you. I am not going to act strictly in accordance with the regulations, and I am not going to punish you. Instead I congratulate you. The deception was not of your origination or seeking. You did yourself credit yesterday afternoon; also you did me credit. I hear you say quite a few good things, and you appear quite to have superseded me ashore, even now that the matter is being laughed about all over Yokohama. As a man simply, and not as a naval officer, it is a pleasure to me to know that there are men in the United States navy up forward who know so well how to handle themselves in tight places. As a naval officer, and the commander of this ship, I really regret that you belong up forward, and not aft. But these things are the misfortune of the service. You will continue to wear your beard. I can not request you to remove it, and so I have sacrificed my own. It would be foolish on your part to remain in the service after the close of your present enlistment. You could do very much better ashore. That is all."

The apothecary saluted and started to leave the cabin. "Oh, by the way," the captain called after him, "the young ladies with whom you drove charged me with the delivery of this to you." "This was a very beautifully bound copy of Pope's 'Prisoner of Zenda,' that I had of physical resemblance. In the book was a note, signed by both the young English women. 'We have to thank you for a very delightful afternoon,' it read, 'and to assure you that, while we are reluctantly forced to contuminate them, we in no wise approve, nor even understand, the rules which create such a yawning abyss between 'forward' and 'aft' on a ship of war. In truth, however, we had never framed this grievance even in thought until yesterday afternoon, when we met your commanding officer, and explanations were made. What more, except that we are sorry?'"

When President Cleveland, two years ago, appointed three deep waterway commissioners under the Vilas law, he selected President Angell of the University of Michigan, on account of his knowledge of international law; Lyman E. Cooley of Chicago as an expert in waterway engineering problems, and Hon. John E. Russell of Massachusetts, because of his sound judgment, business ability, and familiarity, as a practical farmer and as secretary for five full terms of the Massachusetts board of agriculture, with the transportation needs of the agricultural interests.

stand, the rules which create such a yawning abyss between 'forward' and 'aft' on a ship of war. In truth, however, we had never framed this grievance even in thought until yesterday afternoon, when we met your commanding officer, and explanations were made. What more, except that we are sorry?'"

An Era of Canal Building.

When President Cleveland, two years ago, appointed three deep waterway commissioners under the Vilas law, he selected President Angell of the University of Michigan, on account of his knowledge of international law; Lyman E. Cooley of Chicago as an expert in waterway engineering problems, and Hon. John E. Russell of Massachusetts, because of his sound judgment, business ability, and familiarity, as a practical farmer and as secretary for five full terms of the Massachusetts board of agriculture, with the transportation needs of the agricultural interests.

The revolution will be the consequence of the extraordinary cheapening of the cost of canal digging by the new engineering devices brought into use in the construction of the Chicago drainage canals and the removal of the reefs and shoals in the channels between the great lakes. Steam shovels, rock dredges that grip limestone ledges twenty feet under water and wrench off great masses of rock, and other devices which Mr. Russell saw in operation in the lake region have reduced the cost of removing a cubic yard of rock not less than two-thirds in the last ten years.

Contraries in Clerks.

A clerk in one of the branch stores of Lipton, the English grocer and provision dealer, was recently so persuasive and convincing in his praise of a certain specimen of poultry that he succeeded in selling the article to his employer, who ordered it sent to his residence. The clerk's astonishment when he found that his supposed customer himself, quickly changed to satisfied delight, upon receiving an increase of salary.

PYLE FAMILY PIG.

How Its Marvelous Memory at Last Led to Its Undoing.

The Pyle family live on the Coyle farm, in northern Pennsylvania. Out of a litter of pigs born on the farm was one that was very small. It was entirely black. The children of the family took a liking to the black runt and made a great pet of it. As it got older it followed the children wherever they went, and they taught it a number of amusing tricks. One thing they were fond of having the pig do was to hunt apples which they would hide in different places about the yard. One day they buried an apple in one corner of the yard, and sent the pig in search of it. The pig was a long time in getting the apple, but finally worked its way to the corner of the yard and rooted the apple up and ate it. Subsequently another apple was buried in another part of the yard. The pig, in searching for it, went straight to where it had rooted up the first apple, but, not finding one there, finally located it and dug it up. Apples were thus buried about the yard in different places, and the pig found them all, but always went first to the place where it had found the apple on the first occasion, and so on until it had visited every previous hiding place in succession before it bunted up the new one.

A hired man one day said he would put an apple where the pig wouldn't find it, and wouldn't try to get it even if it did find it. He tied weight enough to an apple to sink it and threw it into a duck pond on the premises, where the water was about two feet deep. The pig went the rounds of all the former hiding places, and then went grunting and squealing toward the pond. Reaching the side of the pond, it hesitated a moment and then jumped in, dived to the bottom, and came back with the apple in its mouth.

Whether some one thought the pig was too highly accomplished to spend its day in rural isolation, and, consequently, removed it to more appreciative circles, or whether a bear, unimpressed by porcine genius, had walked off with it and eaten it, was not known at the time, but the day after the pig performed its feat at the duck pond it disappeared. No trace of the missing pet could be found, and there was great lamentation in the house of Pyle.

Three years afterward Farmer Pyle was in the town of Woodhull, Steuben county, N. Y., on business. Among a number of hogs in the pens of a farmer he was visiting was a boar that pleased him, and he bought it. It was small and black, but of good breed. It was forwarded to Pyle, and he got it in due time. It was driven into the yard, where it stopped, looked critically around the premises for a minute or so, and then, with a grunt of satisfaction, trotted to one corner of the yard, where it rooted a few seconds. Then it trotted to another part of the yard, rooted, and then went to other spots here and there, rooting a moment at each of them. Suddenly it trotted to the duck pond, and, jumping in, dived beneath the water. When it reappeared and swam ashore it looked disappointed, but Farmer Pyle and his family didn't. They knew that he had recovered their pet of three years before and that it hadn't forgotten its home or its tricks.

That was the sort of memory the Pyle family pig had. It was too bad its memory was so good, too, for it led to the pig's untimely death. One day the pig was doing its apple trick, when a neighboring farmer, who had stopped in to see the funny act, stole the apple from the pig and ran with it. This made the pig terribly mad, and it chased the farmer so hotly that he dropped the apple and jumped the fence. More than three months passed before that farmer had occasion to visit the Pyle place again, and the moment the pig saw him it bristled up and went for him. It got the farmer in a corner before any of the family could interfere and the farmer had to fight to defend himself. He gave the pig a tremendous kick, which sent it sprawling and broke one of its fore legs at the shoulder, and the phenomenal memory of the Pyle family pig had to be eclipsed forever by a rifle bullet.-N. ACRES OF PINK POND LILIES.

Floral Display That Delights Connoisseurs Railway Travelers.

One of the most beautiful floral exhibits in New England is upon "Tadpole," a famous pond lily pond on the line of the Norwich & Worcester railroad, one mile above Jewett City, Conn. The surface of the pond is now a mass of pink and white pond lilies, and their fragrance is carried for miles by the summer winds, says the New York Sun. No one knows how long this remarkable garden of pond lilies has been in existence, but for many years Tadpole's lilies have been sought by picnic parties from near-by counties in this state, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Carloads of the flowers are carried away, but there seems to be no diminution in the supply. The railroad comes suddenly upon the pond, which it divides in halves, and in an instant the passengers detect the fragrance of the lilies and throw up the windows, the better to view the beautiful and unusual sight. In one section of Tadpole there is a large tract of lilies the blossoms of which are of so rich a pink as to be almost rose colored, it is said. They are of exceedingly rare beauty and are much sought after by collectors. Tadpole's unromantic name comes from its being a favorite place for young frogs. It has been known by this title for years, but an effort is now making to change its name to the still more unromantic one of Clayville pond.

PLANS TO SURPRISE THE WORLD

Germany Preparing a Dazzling Exhibit for the Paris Exposition.

The German government has in course of preparation an exhibit for the Paris exposition of 1900 which is expected to surpass anything of the kind ever attempted by any nation. This statement is made by Consul-General Mason, of Frankfurt, Germany, in a report which reached the state department the other day. "It is intended," Mr. Mason says, "that the exhibit shall be a complete, harmonious picture of the resources and industries of Germany, down to the latest date. Everything is to be collected at home, assorted, adjudged, classified and its position assigned by an imperial commission, so that duplicates and everything trivial and inferior to the best shall be excluded and the whole display presented in its most striking and effective form."

"The exhibit promises to be even a greater surprise than was Germany's at Chicago in 1893, and it will be made and managed for the express purpose of showing the merchants of all civilized nations what Germany has to sell." Mr. Mason reports that Germany is doing everything possible to extend her commerce, having recently sent commissions to China and Japan and South America for this purpose. Her trade with the United States is being fostered as much as possible and he predicts that Germany will continue to follow this policy in the hope of eventually being the greatest commercial power of the world.

American's Many Languages.

Dr. D. G. Brinton, the archaeologist, said in a recent lecture that in North and South America no less than 120 or 130 absolutely distinct languages exist. As the growth of language is very slow, he thinks the fact of the existence of so great a variety of speech on the western continents proves that the native red men have inhabited them for many thousands of years. Another proof of the antiquity of the American Indians, according to Dr. Brinton, is the fact that they represent a distinct human type, and the formation of such a type requires thousands of years.-Youth's Companion.

IN THE WOODS

A Party That Had a High Old Time Hunt

A party of upper peninsula men spent all last week in the woods near King Lake hunting deer. They went up there on the invitation of Andrew Johnson of Michigamme. The party was composed of Dr. W. L. Bell of Ishpeeming, J. J. Roug of Negaunee, Joseph Tregonning of Humboldt, P. P. Chase of the Dexter mine location, C. H. Height and D. B. Quick of Three Lakes, Ralph Knight of Norway, August and Andrew Johnson of Michigamme. They got eleven deer between them. Chase got three; Andrew Johnson, two; Rough, two; Bell, one; Tregonning, one; Quick, one, and Height, one. The party broke up Saturday, when all returned to their homes. They had a most happy time in the woods and regretted having to leave the camp so soon.

"I never was much of a deer hunter, but I am right at home when it comes to trout fishing," said J. H. Brown, as he offered an apology for not bringing home a deer after spending three days in the woods last week. But that wasn't the best thing about John's experience as a deer hunter. When he got home he could not help telling one or two of his more intimate friends about his experience. He said he hated to tell everything but he guessed he would be safe in doing so as he knew that they would never make known what a coward he was, or how he got the "buck" fever when he saw a deer. He said he didn't care much, as he knew that he was not the only one who forgot having a gun in his hands when a deer came along.

Brown and George Thoney were out together. They were going through the woods one day a short distance apart, George in the lead. Finally they came to a place where they concluded they would rest and wait for a deer to come up. They were located perhaps one hundred feet or so apart. Presently a couple of fine deer came up and stood in front of Brown and looked right at him. Instead of taking a shot at one of them Brown began to doubt Thoney, telling him that there were two deer near him. George heard him and looking up saw the deer. He was sitting on a log but his gun was a few feet back of him. He tried to get the gun but couldn't reach it in time to get a shot at the deer. When he found the gun the deer had disappeared. George declares that Brown's yelling would have scared almost anything.

HAVE LET TWO CONTRACTS

Johnson Lumber Company's Operations Near Clowery.

R. J. Mahaffy was down from Dexter yesterday. He told the reporter that he had taken a contract to get out a portion of the Johnson Lumber company's timber near Clowery, and that Louie Nault of Greenwood had also taken a contract from that company. Mr. Mahaffy started ten men at work late last week and expects to double the force within the next few days. Mr. Nault will start in this week with ten or twelve men and will also add more later.

Mr. Mahaffy said that he and Nault will not cut out of the company's timber in the vicinity of Clowery during the winter, as they have not been granted that right. He said he understood that another contract would be let to someone with a few days. If this is not done he thinks it quite likely that the company will put in a camp. The Johnson people have about 2,000,000 feet of timber up there. This will be cleaned out this winter if the third crew is sent in. The Oconto Lumber company has about 8,000,000 feet to cut near Clowery. This will clean out that company's timber in that section. In fact they will hardly be any good timber left there after this winter's work. The Warren company of Wausau, Wis., owns standing timber a few miles up from Clowery and it is said that it will establish a camp up there at a near date.

Tried to Run the Place.

A couple of foreigners who had indulged a little too freely went up to Mayor Trebilcock's office at the Lake Superior Hematite mine yesterday and attempted to take possession of it. They didn't seem to have any particular grudge against the mayor, but just felt like doing the bossing around there for a little while. The captain ordered the fellows to move on but they were as stubborn as the average Ishpeeming cow when she takes possession of a man's lawn, and positively refused to leave. The captain was not feeling any too strong to tackle them, as they were big fellows, so he sent for Marshal Downing. When the officer arrived the two fellows still had possession of the office. The marshal forced them into the street but they were in fighting trim and gave the officer battle. It was a lively scrimmage for about a minute, the marshal having decidedly the best of it. Finally one of the pair got a blow in the face that stunned him. The other fellow fought hard, but the officer soon brought him to his knees. The man bit the officer's right hand, but the wound is not serious.

A New Pump Coming.

Fred M. Prescott, the pump manufacturer of Milwaukee, is building a large pump to be used in removing the water from the basin of Lake Angeline. It will be used in place of the monster pump now doing the work there, which is altogether too large to do the work required of it economically. The cost of keeping the water out will be greatly reduced when the new one is in use. The pump is ready for shipment and will arrive here within the next week or so.

A Monster Cactus.

J. J. Voelker has one of the largest plants in the upper peninsula at his place of business. It is a cactus which Tom P. Koskie of this city raised and recently presented to him. It is 7 feet 8 inches in height and three inches thick at the bottom. The plant is six years old.

A BIG GAME SATURDAY.

The Mining School football team prefers to pull off its game with the Ishpeeming team next Saturday instead of on Thanksgiving day, as the local players desired. The game will, therefore, take place at the Union Park grounds Saturday afternoon. This will easily be the greatest football game that has ever been played in the upper peninsula, and it is safe to predict that there will be a larger crowd out to witness it than has been attracted by any game at the park thus far. It is generally admitted that the team from Houghton is a powerful one and the hitherto invincible Ishpeemings will have to do valiant work to defeat it.

The Ishpeeming chaps are going in to win, just as they did in every other game they have played this season. The weight of their opponents cuts no figure with them; they know they possess speed and science, which are quite as essential as weight in any game. The local players were notified yesterday by the manager that they must get out to practice every evening this week and get in the best possible condition for the contest. A victory over the big team of the Mining school will be truly a great thing for local players and rooters as was the one won at Milwaukee Saturday. It is said that the Houghton players will be accompanied to this city by a large delegation from the Mining school.

Whim of a King.

The historic winter garden on the roof of the Royal Residenz palace in Munich is being demolished, to the regret of the public, who are loath to part with this relic of the late unhappy King Ludwig II.

The weight of the conservatory, with its large lake, giant palms and flower beds, was so enormous that fears were entertained that the roof might fall in, while an ever-present annoyance was the impossibility of keeping the ceilings of the state departments below in unimpaired condition, owing to the perpetual leakage. It is twenty-five years since King Ludwig commanded the garden to be made, and during the compulsory visit of three months to the capital, which he had to pay every year, it was almost his only resort. It opens on the three rooms which the mad monarch occupied, and in one of which he slept during the day, only rising at 6 p. m. to take a solitary drive in the English garden, as the Munich park is called, from which he returned long after dark.

After a lonely dinner—or, as it more often chanced, a banquet—at which he had almost to be forced to appear and during which he seldom spoke a word, the king would retire to the solitude of the beautiful palm filled house and spend the entire night there, if no Wagner performance had been commanded at the opera for his benefit. Thirty gardeners were kept busy the greater part of the day while the king slept, arranging the plants and bringing new flowers, so that each time he entered he should find some new charm.

Few can boast of having beheld the winter palace by invitation of King Ludwig. The last grand fete given there was on May 4, 1883, in honor of the marriage of Prince Ludwig Ferdinand of Bavaria and Princess Lella Paz of Spain. On that occasion the scene was fairylke, but it is said the illuminations were often on an even grander scale when the king sat quite alone, surrounded by the spirits conjured up by his diseased imagination. The late Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and Richard Wagner were perhaps the only two guests who were invited more than once to view the retreat where King Ludwig dreamed dreams and so mitigated the misery of his madness.—Exchange.

A Talk With Housekeepers About China and Glass—With Some Advice to Purchasers.

How attractive is a visit to a well-kept china and glass store. The array of porcelain, china, crystal, and the scores of other styles and makes of tableware which modern humanity requires to furnish out a meal are beautiful to look upon. How the glass sparkles and reflects the light in miniature rainbows. Everybody likes a well-set table. Cracked dishes are unsightly—they are worse—they are uncleanly. No amount of washing will get the dirt out of the cracks. We do not believe any woman will be willing to put them on the table after she has thoroughly investigated as to the low prices at which china and glassware are selling.

But there are great differences in prices, and these depend on with whom the housekeeper deals. Those who purchase of the old established house of L. B. King & Co., china, crockery, glassware and lamps, 103 Woodward avenue, Detroit, have the advantage of a selection from the largest stock in the State, and one of the most complete and varied assortments in the West. Everything may be found there, from the substantial and plain goods up to the latest novelties in decorations for the table and sideboard. The variety of designs in china and crystal is very great, and an inspection of the stock will at once demonstrate the experience and judgment involved in its selection. To such an examination our readers are courteously invited by the firm.

The absolute reliability of the goods bought at "King's" is one of the chief reasons why this establishment has been able to hold its trade and to extend it, in the face of active competition. From the beginning of its efforts and all along in its career to this day the goods sold by this firm could always be depended upon. It is a comfort and a satisfaction to know where one can procure the finest and best of these delicate goods, with the assurance that they are exactly as represented. Souvenirs and heirlooms bought at "King's" are to be found in hundreds of homes of the wealthy and humble alike, throughout Michigan and States adjoining. For this veteran establishment numbers its customers throughout the entire West. These are customers in the literal sense; for they have acquired a fixed habit of buying of this house and nowhere else. The immense stocks carried insure an immediate selection and prompt shipment.

Buyers will find L. B. King & Co. courteous and accommodating, always pleased to answer inquiries and visitors the benefit of their wide experience. A visit to their establishment, if convenient, will be a source of great pleasure and profit.

This is what a prominent physician says: 'I have given my own children the benefit of very careful study in the matter of absolute cleanliness in bottle feeding. I have studied the so-called easily-cleaned nursing bottles, and I long ago came to the conclusion that a little Pearlina would render ordinary nursing bottles the safest utensils of them all. I firmly believe that children properly fed and cleanly fed will avoid the majority of the difficulties which they encounter during the first two years of life. I believe that if every feeding bottle was washed with Pearlina, many innocent lives would be saved.'

BLACKWELL QUITS THE BAND. LOCAL LACONICS.

James Curley, who is engaged as a clerk in M. J. Arland's dry goods store, has taken a two weeks' vacation.

Charles Mitchell, who recently moved his family to this city from Madelia, Minn., is out again, after having been confined to the house a short time.

All work at the Richmond property on the Cascade range will be finished up some day this week, when the mine will be closed down for the winter.

All the street work about the city has been finished up for the winter. Nearly all the hydrants have also been fixed up ready for the winter season.

S. C. Brehm, who travels in the interest of the National Wall Paper company, spent Sunday in Negaunee visiting his brother, Dr. Brehm, and wife.

James H. Rough has returned from up the line, where he spent last week hunting deer with a party of friends.

William Kirkpatrick got home yesterday morning from Pittsburg, Pa. He will spend the next few days packing up his household goods preparatory to moving his family to that city.

There was no venison to be found at any of the markets here yesterday morning. The supply the dealers had on hand was disposed of Saturday, many of their patrons having secured some for their Sunday dinner.

The lecture given last night by Rev. Dr. Todd of Escanaba was largely attended by members of the Presbyterian church congregation and many others. Mr. Todd is a very pleasing speaker and his discourse was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it.

His Wit Saved Him. A strict rule promulgated by every successive commandant at the navy yard prohibits smoking on Mare Island, under the most stringent penalties.

Admiral Miller, sauntering one recent afternoon through a distant part of the island, came upon an Irish laborer digging a trench and smoking a short black pipe.

The Irishman looked up, and with a kindly smile answered: 'Indeed, that's thrue, but here am I all by meself, wid not a soul to say a wurrd to, and I thought I'd take a puff or two to relate the silence.'

'The regulations are explicit, sir,' rebuked the admiral, 'and the silence dobs not excuse you. What's your name, sir?'

'An' who may you be, anyway?' asked the Irishman. 'I'm Admiral-Miller, sir.'

'Ah, 'tis the new admiral ye are. 'Tis the fat job you have, admiral. Be careful to kape it. Me name's Pat McGinnis.'

'Report at my office this afternoon without fail, McGinnis,' said Miller, who could hardly keep from laughing.

At 5 o'clock poor Patrick, who had made up his mind there would be the devil to pay, tramped over to headquarters and the orderly ushered him into the dreared presence of the admiral, who said: 'Sit down, Pat.'

Pat sat down. Miller touched a bell. The orderly appeared. 'Bring a bottle of champagne and two glasses,' he said.

Not a word was spoken until the wine arrived. The admiral filled the two glasses and pushed one over toward the Irishman.

'Pat,' he said, 'give me the pipe. You'll need it again.' The mystified laborer obeyed.

'Now,' said the admiral, 'drink hearty, Pat, but you'll keep your job as long as I'll keep mine.'

Nor was this the first situation saved by Irish wit.—San Francisco Wave.

The three-year-old boy of J. A. Johnson, of Lynn Center, Ill., is subject to attacks of croup. Mr. Johnson says he is satisfied that the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, during a severe attack, saved his little boy's life.

THE SIGNAL LIGHT. The lonely sailor, when the night o'er ocean's glimmering waste descends, Sets at the peak his signal light, And fondly dreams of absent friends.

Starless the sky above him broods, Pathless the waves beneath him swell; Through peril's spectral solitudes That beacon flares—and all is well.

So, on the wandering sea of years, When now the evening closes round, I show the signal flame that cheers, And scan the wide horizon's bound.

The night is dark, the winds are loud, The black waves follow, fast and far; Yet soon may flash, through mist and cloud, The radiance of some answering star!

Haply across the shuddering deep, One moment seen, a snowy sail May dart with one impetuous leap, And pass with one exultant hail!

And I shall dearly, sweetly know, Though storm be fierce and ocean drear, That somewhere still the roses blow, And hearts are true, and friends are near.

Each separate on the eternal main, We seek the same celestial shore; Sometimes we part to meet again, Sometimes we part to meet no more.

Ah, comrades, prize the gracious day When sunshine bathes the tranquil tide, And, careless as a child at play, Our ships drift onward, side by side!

Too oft, with cold and barren will, And stony pride of iron sway, We bid the voice of love be still, And thrust the cup of joy away.

No comfort haunts the yellow leaf! Wait not till, broken, old and sore, The sad heart pines in hopeless grief, For one sweet voice it used to hear.

Thought has its throne and power its glow, And wealth its time of transient ease; But best of hours that life can know Are rose crowned hours that fleet like these.

Let laughter leap from every lip! To music turn the performed air! Ye golden pennons, glance and dip! Ye crimson banners, flash and flare!

On them no more the tempest glooms! Whose freed and royal spirits know To frolic where the lilac blooms And revel where the roses blow!

But lights of heaven above them kiss As over silver seas they glide— One heart, one hope, one fate, one bliss— To peace and silence, side by side.

—William Winter. His Own Uncle. A few days ago a young medical student came suddenly face to face with a dear, kind, old, fatherly looking gentleman of highly respectable appearance.

They both stood transfixed. The same idea flashed across the minds of both. 'Your face is familiar to me—very familiar, but I can't remember where we have met so often.'

However, the friendly impulse was carried out. They shook hands warmly, partook of a friendly glass and departed, still ignorant of each other's name and occupation.

But the young man was determined to solve the problem, and he seized on a waiter. 'Who is that distinguished stranger with the long white hair?'

And the waiter whispered slowly: 'If you please, sir, that's the pawnbroker!'—Answers. SOMETHING TO KNOW.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centers in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood.

Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50 cents or $1.00 per bottle at The Stafford Drug company's drug store.

NOT LOVE OR SCENERY.

Book Which City of Marquette is About to Publish Deals With Neither.

WILL CONTAIN AMENDED CHARTER AND CODE OF ORDINANCES.

Work of the Kind is Badly Needed—City Has Had a Thirst for Legislation—Many Changes in the Charter.

BOOK OF MUNICIPAL REFERENCE.

Marquette city is going to issue a book.

It is not to be a work descriptive of the commercial activity of the city or of its picturesque environs. It will afford no chance for the author to "throw" himself, or exhaust his stock of adjectives in word painting.

This book will deal with many devious subjects, but every one of them can be best handled with good, plain, old Anglo-Saxon, in the hope that they can be presented so plainly "that a way-faring man, though a fool, need not err therein."

This work, which is nearing the time when it can be turned over to the printer, will probably be entitled, "The Marquette City Charter and Ordinances." It might not be a bad plan for the authors and compilers of the volume an elucidate still further and call the book, "The Marquette City Charter and Ordinances—Strictly Up to Date."

The second section makes it read like the title to a joke book but it is needed because there have been so many amendments and revisions to the charter, to say nothing of the numerous ordinances passed and countermanded, that the date of the vintage is the first thing the man who refers to the volume will want to know.

Seriously speaking, this municipality has gone before the legislature with a regularity only a little less certain than the rotation of Christmas and New Years. The village was given a charter in 1859 by a special act of the legislature. Ten years later the city charter was granted, also under a special act of the legislature, and Marquette has been bobbing up for amendments to this charter at frequent intervals ever since. The longest period which it has gone without asking a change of some kind was from 1877 to 1885. It has succeeded in getting a bill granting charter changes through every legislature since 1891.

This has made work for the legislature, and it will also make work for the printer. City Attorney Brown, who has been compiling the new book has a great stack of gasted pages of print matter and type-written manuscripts, which he estimates will work up into a book of 250 pages, the size to be about that of the ordinary law page.

The need for the book has been evident a long time to all those who have had any occasion to make researches in the city archives. These were in a chaotic state. The searcher, to find something, was obliged to go through half a dozen small books which have been published from time to time and which contain sections of the charter and ordinances. When he couldn't find it there he was obliged to go through the files of the original written or typewritten resolutions, as they were given to the recorder when introduced.

The need was at last recognized by the council, and a sum of money was appropriated to have a new and complete volume compiled. This is the volume on which the city attorney has been working and which he has now nearly completed.

It is now waiting for estimates on the cost of publication and for new ordinances. The members of the city council, particularly the ordinance committee, will get to gether frequently from now till the book goes to press and revise ordinances, kill non-effective ones and make new ones with the idea of having the city law code so complete that it will not be necessary to pass any more ordinances for a long time to come.

The various standing committees of the council are sending in suggestions for ordinances covering their lines of work. The latest to arrive, a batch of typewritten suggestions from the police committee, came yesterday. The ordinances regarding the duties of the board of health and the city physician are also scheduled for revision.

Mr. Brown also wants to have what he terms a manual printed with the book. This manual will consist of a list of the dates of the various acts of the legislature regarding Marquette, a condensation of the ordinances, and standard forms to guide aldermen in drawing up resolutions for such things as street and sewer improvements. He thinks, too, that a few half one cuts of the city hall, water works, Presque Isle and perhaps one or two others, would greatly embellish the book. These last suggestions, however, are still awaiting the approval of the ordinance committee which has the publication in charge.

The city attorney has also devised, or rather, appropriated, a new scheme for the index. The book will be divided as the old ones have been into chapters and sections, but in addition each section and sub-section will be given a separate serial number. The index will be by subjects, and the references will be to these serial numbers. The advantage will be that it will not be necessary to scan a whole page with perhaps six or seven sections to find what is wanted, but by reference to the index one can find just where to look for what he wants.

Largest Deer Shot.

S. W. Shaul, who brought in a fine buck weighing 200 pounds dressed, is credited for having shot the largest deer of the season.

Mr. Shaul was a member of a hunting party that was away up Dead river, to a part of the country inaccessible by road and probably eight or ten miles from any other hunting party.

One of the members of the crowd says that where they were is the best deer hunting to be found in this section of the peninsula. All that is necessary to do, he says, is to sit in a tent by a fire, take an occasional look outside to see if any deer are going by, and if they are, shoot them.

Mr. Shaul didn't get his buck quite the same way, but the method was near enough to it to make the story seem probable.

The party was at breakfast. He was just finishing and was standing on his feet with a cup of coffee in one hand and a cookie in the other.

Looking out through the flaps he espied a deer a few hundred feet from the tent. His hands let go of the coffee and cookie with instantaneous accord. Seizing a gun he stepped outside.

A sharp report told the waiting ones within that he had shot. The bullet hit the mark and the buck dropped dead within eighty yards from the tent. The same hunter who is responsible for the story of how Mr. Shaul shot his deer, says that when they were making camp he was off a very short distance from the others, splitting some wood, when a doe walked out and stood quietly gazing at him. He had no gun with him so he called to his comrades. There was a general scramble for something to shoot with, but by the time the hunters had armed the game had disappeared.

Dr. E. L. Drake is entitled to rank among the most successful of the Nimrods. It was he who brought in the first deer of the season, and yesterday he came up from Onota club with two more fine animals, both bucks. The larger of the two weighed 180 pounds and had a magnificent head and antlers.

He shot the larger of the two first, hung it up and dressed it himself, then went back to camp to get one of his friends to show him where he had found the deer. Five minutes after his friend had left he saw and shot the second deer within a hundred feet of where the carcass of the first was hanging.

Gored by a Cow.

J. M. Egan, who was formerly of the L. S. & I., and who is well known to railroad men all over the country, met with an accident that came little short of being fatal. It happened to him at his home in Savannah a week ago today.

The story of the occurrence is contained in a copy of the New Orleans Times-Democrat. It is in a dispatch, which reads:

Savannah, Nov. 10.—An unfortunate accident which caused at first much uneasiness among his friends, occurred to Vice President Egan of the Central railroad, yesterday. Mr. Egan had purchased a cow to increase his herd, and, not knowing of her vicious propensities, went up to her to make an inspection.

As soon as she caught sight of him the animal, an immense jet black brute, lowered her head, and bellowing frightfully, made a powerful charge at him. Mr. Egan was cornered and could not avoid her sharp horn entering his thigh and ripping a deep gash six inches down toward his knee. With the blood gushing from his wound Mr. Egan managed to crawl toward the barn and shut himself in until assistance arrived. He was given surgical attention, and for a time the physicians were fearful that blood poisoning would supervene, but tonight he is resting easily, and with no backset hopes to be at his office in a week or ten days. Mr. Egan is well known through the South and Northwest.

Dangerous to Dispense Justice.

The administration of justice is not an absolutely safe occupation even in such a highly civilized and cultured community as Marquette.

Yesterday while Judge Cray was standing in a front street establishment an old man named Wright, who runs a little bakery around on Spring street, stepped up to him and with no warning at all struck the astonished judge three times in the face.

As Wright is a very old man and carries one arm in a sling the judge refrained from striking back.

When he demanded the reason for the assault the old man cried dramatically, "I hate you! I hate you!"

The grounds for his dislike are supposed to be a replevin suit which the judge felt obliged to decide against him some time ago.

As he couldn't retaliate on account of his assailant's infirmities the judge had him arrested and taken before Judge Blanchard, in whose court the case was continued till Thursday.

None Received Here.

The new number of The Michigan Bulletin of Vital Statistics is out but none have been received yet in Marquette.

There is being considerable interest taken in this publication here, on account of the very bad light in which it depicted Marquette in its first issue, and everybody is anxious to see if the promised reparation is made by the publication of the mayor's letter in the next.

Leasing papers announce that the second number went to press earlier in the month than the first one, which makes it seem strange that no copies have been yet received in Marquette.

The October death rate is said to have been much lighter all over the state than that of September. The returns for the second issue cover the state much more completely than for the first, when the law requiring them had just gone into operation. The success of The Bulletin is said to be assured.

Found His Boat.

"Captain" Marshal has found his boat.

When the storm went down the captain took another trip around Chocology and located the craft on the beach about two miles this side of Shot Point. She lies bottom side up on the sand with masts broke and hatches gone, but her hull is said to be as good as ever. However, her owner does not plan to use her again this season but expects to get a larger boat from Munising, with which he will run the season out.
