Serious Disorders Follow the Election of M. Loubet to the Presidency.

FIERCE RIOTING SATURDAY NIGHT AND
ALL OF SUNDAY.

OUS ARRESTS MADE.

Hostile Demonstrations Towards the Newly Elected Magistrate Are Inci-

BATTLEFIELDS IN THE BOULEVARDS.

London, Feb. 20.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail says:
"I believe that the riotous scenes in Paris are only a foretaste of what is coming. Last night the boulevards were battlefields and nowhere was a voice to glorify the new president. Today the press is uncommonly rancorous. Here are some of the titles of honor conferred upon M. Loubet. "Imbecile," "Panamist," "Wretch," "Liar," "Perjurer" and "Avowed Protector of the Dreyfusards."

Paris, Feb. 19.—During the course of the rioting last night over the election to the presidency of M. Loubet, forty-six persons were injured, including fourteen policemen. There were 250 arrests.

This morning the anti-revisionist papers accused M. Loubet of being a defender of Dreyfus and expressed the deepest dissatisfaction with the result of the election, while the revisionist organs noted their surprise at the election of a man who never expressed an opinion regarding the Dreyfus case not bitterly received. Police measures for the maintenance of order have been taken on an extensive scale. M. Loubet did not quit his residence at Luxembourg until 9 o'clock this evening.

HIS PARTISANS WORSTED.

Toward 7 o'clock this evening demonstrations occurred in front of the office of the anarchist paper, the Journal Du Peuple, for and against Loubet. There was a collision between the rival factions and several persons were injured. The partisans of the newly elected president were worsted in the conflict and moved off to the Cafe Brehant, where they again were attacked and dispersed by their opponents. Many arrests were made.

Similar encounters occurred about 9 o'clock at the offices of the Libre Parole, and more serious disorders took place in other sections of the city, at one of which several women were trampled and injured. The police intervened energetically, arresting many.

At 11 o'clock tonight an enormous crowd was demonstrating in favor of M.
Zola. Toward midnight the crowds broke the windows of Rothschild's offices, in the Rue Lafayette, and another group wrecked the offices of the anti Juit.

Minor disturbances also took place in various parts of the city about the same time, but the crowds gradually dispersed and at midnight quietude has been almost restored.

PLAN TO FORCE RESIGNATION.

In the course of the demonstrations a mob of Dreyfusards attempted to invade the offices of the Petite Journal. Finding the doors barred against them, they smashed the windows.

The remains of M. Faure were placed in a coffin this morning. This afternoon crowds filed past the bier. It is estimated twenty thousand persons viewed the body Saturday.

Altogether a hundred arrests have been made in connection with today's disturbances. There is every sign of a campaign against President Loubet similar to that which drove Casimir-Perier to resign. The street demonstrations which have occurred have not been spontaneous, but evidently organized,
and so far they have been suppressed
without resort to the military.

The national assembly, comprising the members of the senate and chamber of deputies in joint session, yesterday afternoon at Versailles elected M. Loubet, president of the senate and a former premier, chief magistrate of the republic by a majority of 154 votes. Although it was announced that M. Meline had withdrawn, the Progressists cast their ballots for him despite his protests and he received 279 votes to M. Loubet's 438.
Fifty votes were scattered, divided among several statesmen. M. Meline himself voted for the victorious candidate. The proceedings generally passed off quietly.

MASSES NOT ALL PLEASED.

The president arrived from Versailles in the evening and received with military honors. He first proceeded to the Elysee palace, in order to pay a tribute of respect to the remains of M.
Faure, and then went to the foreign office, where he received the high officials of state and the diplomatic corps. Both hostile and friendly demonstrations marked the process of M. Loubet's journey through Paris.

As the presidential carriage left the St. Lazares station, on its arrival from Versailles, a band of thirty or forty persons ranged themselves on either side of the landau, under the leadership of a couple of individuals who kept giving signals for shouts of "Down with Lou-bet!" and "Resign!" "Resign!" but the general public was apparently indifferent, and no hostility was displayed. On the contrary, many in the crowd saluted the president and cried "Vive Lou-bet!" and "Vive l'Armee!" but the shouts of the demonstrators running beside the carriage drowned the friendly salutations.

The noise and the excitement were redoubled when the carriage stopped at the Elysee. Here two compact hostile groups were massed, hooting and blow-

UNCLE SAM HAS ONE HE WILL PRESS FOR PROMPT PAYMENT—
$100,000 FOR THE MURDER OF A PITTSBURG MAN.

Pittsburg, Feb. 19.—The Post tomorrow will say:

In the executive mansion at Washington there will today be recorded a protest
the result of which may lead to serious trouble between two nations—the United States and the republic of Honduras. The murder of Frank Pears, a Pittsburg man, in Honduras, the night of Jan. 31, will be undoubtedly lead to most embarrassing complications unless the little republic shall apologize and at the same time deliver up to the relatives $100,000 in advance as a fine for the murder committed. Senators Foraker of Ohio and Quay of Pennsylvania, as well as many others of national fame, are interested in the case.

BIG BLAZE IN WISCONSIN.

FIRE SWEEPS A LARGE AREA AT PORT WASHINGTON WITH THE FLAMES FIERCELY SPREADING
EARLY THIS MORNING.

Port Washington, Wis., Feb. 20.—A fire which started last (Sunday) night in the dry kilns of the Wisconsin Chair factory destroyed that plant and at this time—1 o'clock Monday morning—is still spreading. The loss to the chair factory alone is $350,000. The plant covered three blocks and employed five hundred hands.

The Wilson House, the largest hotel
in town, is now in flames, while an unoccupied foundry, a large number of fish shanties and a row of business establishments on Main and Franklin streets are in ashes.

Help has been sent from Milwaukee and Sheboygan, and the firemen are directing all their efforts to confine the loss to the section now burning.

CHICAGO THEATER WRECKED.

ANGRY PATRONS SMASH THINGS
UP ON BEING REFUSED THE RE-TURN OF THEIR MONEY.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—A riot in which two thousand men, women and children took part occurred this afternoon at the Star theatre, Edgwick and Division streets, and before the police arrived the interior of the theatre had been badly damaged.
The scenery which was to have been used in the presentation of the play had been tied up by legal proceedings, and after the audience had waited until 4:30
p. m. for the curtain to go up many began to clamor for the return of their money. They were refused at the box office, and two minutes afterward chairs were broken in pieces and hurled at the stage. Chandeliers were broken, carpets torn up and the theatre and sidewalk outside was one mass of fighting, yelling humanity. The clanging patrol wagon bells scattered the crowd in a hurry however. Later in the afternoon the money was refunded to those who presented their coupons.

GEN. HENRY CALLS A HALT.

ISSUES A DECREE WHICH CAUSES
THE MAYOR AND COUNCILMEN OF SAN JUAN TO RESIGN.

San Juan de Porto Rico, Feb. 19.—The mayor and majority of the municipal council of San Juan have resigned. A few days ago the question of killing cattle for municipal consumption was referred to General Henry by the consent of all parties interested. After an investigation General Henry issued an order regarding the matter, and the mayor and members of the council declared they would resign before complying with the decree. General Henry, annoyed by their quarrelling and childish actions, today notified them that if they did not stop trifling and obey orders he would have them imprisoned. A meeting of the council was then held which resulted in the tendering of the resignations of the mayor and council on account of the alleged insult by the governor general and his partisan friends.
The deposed Liberals are said to be back of the trouble. General Henry says he can govern the city better with new councilmen who will not oppose American methods.

GHASTLY DISCOVERY.

FOUR CORPSES FOUND AT PHILA-DELPHIA WITH GAS FULL ON.

Philadelphia, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Charles Fahrenkramp, aged thirty-three, and her two children—Florence and William, aged ten and nine years—and an unknown woman, aged about thirty-five, were found dead today in a room in Mrs. Fahrenkramp's home. The gas was turned on and life apparently had been extinct for several days. Scattered about the first floor were the remnants of cigars and cigarettes and empty beer and whisky bottles. The bodies were found by a next-door neighbor who had forced an entrance to the house. Mrs.
Fahrenkramp's husband, a traveling salesman, left home about a week ago
on business.

has resumed the government amid general rejoicings.

GUERRILLA TACTICS IN THE JUNGLE.

Manila, Feb. 20.—10:10 a. m.—The enemy have apparently realized the hopelessness of attacking the American position and are occupied chiefly by occasional sharpshooting from the jungle
whenever feasible.
The retirement of General King's advance posts upon San Pedro Macati, evidently have been construed by the rebels as a sign of weakness, as they have pressed forward along both sides of the river, persistently harassing the occupants of the town.
Last [Sunday] night the rebels poured volley after volley into San Pedro Maccati from the brush on an adjacent ridge,
but fortunately without effect.

TOSSED IN A FEW SHELLS.

In view of the fact the enemy are concentrating on the American right flank, preparations were made last night to give them a warm reception in the event of an attack. General Overshine's line, stretching from the beach at Camp Dewey
to General King's right, was reinforced by two battalions of the Oregon volunteers and three troops of the Fourth cavalry as infantry.

The Buffalo's searchlight, discovering the rebels unusually active at 10 o'clock in the evening, the cruiser signalled the flagship for permission to fire upon them. This being granted, the Buffalo bombed the enemy's trenches for twenty minutes. The only effect of the fire, apparently, was to drive the rebels further inland. Beyond a few ineffectual volleys from the trenches, which were returned with interest, the enemy made no demonstration, and all was quiet along the rest of the line.

ARM IN A SLING.

Scouts claim they have seen General
Pio del Pilar, who commanded the rebels at Paco, with an arm in a sling directing the troops. General Montenegro, the insurgent commander-in-chief, is reported to be personally conducting the movements in front of General King's line
at San Pedro Macati.

The heat is intense and is increasing perceptibly daily. Under the present conditions, it is impossible to provide shade for the troops in certain parts of the line.

The signal corps is arranging signals with the navy for future operations on the left. With the exception of the port of Iloilo trade with the Philippine ports is still blocked.

Mr. Higgins, manager of the Manila-Dagupan road, is believed to be safe at Bayambang, although no communication has been received from him since the 9th. He was then housed at Mr.
Clarke's place with his wife and family and six other Englishmen, some of whom are accompanied by their wives.
It is feared the natives from the distant provinces may wreak vengeance at their expense.

LET THE LEGISLATURE DECIDE.

When it was announced that the upper peninsula members of the legislature would name the place where the proposed Normal school for this peninsula should be located there was no objection to this procedure raised by representatives of any of the upper peninsula towns which desired to secure the institution. It was conceded that this would be as satisfactory a way to settle the question of location as any that could be adopted, and that the chances of each place seeking the school would be as good under it as under any that could be suggested.

But since the caucus of upper peninsula members decided in favor of Marquette some of the places which were disappointed by its action have been raising a howl over it, and we hear that there is to be an attempt made to reopen the question of location.

The effect of this may be to prevent favorable action at present on the bill to provide the upper peninsula with a Normal school. Perhaps it is designed to have that effect. If so, those who are seeking to have a question that has been fairly disposed of re-opened are showing themselves sadly wanting in honor, and regard for the educational interests of the peninsula, for if provision for establishing the school is not made at this session it will be many years in the future before a state legislature will listen to a proposition to provide for the establishment and maintenance of a Normal school in the upper peninsula.

The present legislature has been told that we greatly need an institution of the kind up here, which is true; that we desire it for the service it will render as a place of training for teachers of our common schools, and that, so long as it is centrally located and easily accessible from all parts of the peninsula our people will be satisfied with the action of the legislature in locating it. The argument was made that we wanted the school established for the work it was to do, and not for the benefit of this place or that, and believing this to be the case the legislature chose its own way of determining the question of location. Marquette offered several beautiful sites for the school and rested there. Its only representative in the caucus which decided in its favor was the member of the assembly from this district. It took its chances with the other competing locations on even terms with all the rest in every way, and if the decision had been in favor of any of the other proposed locations its people would have abided by the result without complaint, and would have been just as earnest in support of the Normal school bill as they were before. The need for the school is just as pressing as it was before the matter of location had been acted on by the upper peninsula members, and the legislature's duty is to deal with it on the assumption that the school should be provided, and that the question of location has been fairly and wisely disposed of.

IT CAME HIGH.

Representative Hartman of Montana, in an interview published in a Washington paper, states that the election of Clark to a seat in the United States senate cost that liberal gentleman over $800,000, and those who followed the developments in that disgraceful election while the contest was in progress will not question his estimate of what the new Montana senator paid for the honor of representing his state in the senate.

This senator-elect is one of the richest men in the United States and his fortune is said to exceed $60,000,000. Hence the expenditure of a million for something that he coveted so earnestly as he appears to have coveted a seat in the senate would be a mere bagatelle. When he gets to congress, if he finds his associates as venal as the legislature that elected him, he will have everything his own way, for he is rich enough to buy anything that is for sale.

If this sort of thing is to be allowed to continue it would be a wise plan to amend our laws so that seats in the senate should be sold at public auction to the highest bidder. In this way the money would go into the state treasury and the rich men could fight among themselves to their heart's content without polluting politics with wholesale bribery. But if this plutocratic form of government is not agreeable to the American people let us adopt another method of reaching the root of the evil and enact a constitutional amendment that United States senators shall be elected by the direct vote of the people. Under this system it will not be so easy as it is now to spend money with the certainty that the goods will be delivered.

The president's Boston speech was a masterly forensic effort, considered as a piece of oratory alone, but it was more than that as a dignified and impressive statement of the administration's policy with reference to the Philippines and their people. In that respect it was superb. "No imperial designs lurk in the American mind. They are alien to American sentiment, thought and purpose. Our priceless principles undergo no change under a tropical sun. They go with the flag. They are wrought in every one of its sacred folds and are in-extinguishable in its shining stars." That declaration ought to reassure those who have feared the president's purpose relative to the Philippines. It is plain and direct enough to leave no doubt of his attitude on the question involved in our present occupancy of these islands.

A bill providing for a state bounty on pig iron produced in Wisconsin from ores mined in that state has been introduced in the Wisconsin legislature. Its passage is being urged particularly by Superior people, who feel that if the state were to offer a bounty on pig iron the effect would be to build up a big iron industry at that point, and there is little doubt of the soundness of their position. The Minnesota legislature has shelved the bill providing for a bounty on pig iron in that state, which would make it all the better for Superior if the Wisconsin legislature should act favorably on the similar proposition now before it.

Gomez is alleged to have "offered his sword" to the Porto Ricans if they desire his aid to fight the Americans. The Porto Ricans had better have very little to do with the old swashbuckler and his toad-sticker, even though they intend to make us trouble, which is much to be doubted. Gomez has been doing business with that same old sword as his capital for pretty near an average lifetime, and always at the cost of those whom he professed to serve. The people of Porto Rica can trust to Uncle Sam with more safety than they can to chaps like Gomez and their rusty old swords.

President McKinley appears to be an imperialist only by providential compulsion. He admits that we have got hold of an unpleasant proposition over in the Philippines, but takes the ground that we can't let go of it without national dishonor, and there are a good many Americans of the same way of thinking.

France has a new president, and it must be admitted that he was elected with much less fuss and expense than is the case with us which we have to choose a chief executive. They do some things quite well in France.

BATTLE BETWEEN ANTS.

One Army Invades a Schoolroom to Attack Another Lodged in Walls.

A missionary who is in charge of the Catholic school at Mpala, on Lake Tanganyika, tells of an extraordinary battle between ants in his schoolroom, which the pupils and their teacher were compelled to abandon in haste when the invading foe appeared on the scene. The deserted room became the theater of a hotly contested battle between the ants that had their homes in the cracks of the stone walls and another species which advanced to the fight from the fields. The thousands of ants living in the walls are known to the natives as Masumbolo. They are very large and black, and as it is almost impossible to get rid of them, and as they have the excellent quality of letting human beings alone little attention is paid to them. The invading ants were not more than a third as large as the other species. They are called Sifaou and are nomads and thieves by nature. When they discovered the home of the peaceful black insects they felt certain that a rich booty of larvae awaited them and lost no time in advancing to the attack.

Their squadrons moved forward in close files. They clambered up the door steps and into the room, moving very rapidly and began the fiercest sort of an attack upon the enemy, whom they surprised at home engaged in their peaceful occupation. Though the Masumbolo are so much larger than their fierce little enemies, they could not stand against these formidable aggressors, who are most effectively armed with the sharpest and hottest of pinners. So the attacked insects made scarcely any resistance, but gathered up as much of their larvae as they could carry, and fled at the top of their speed. They finally carpeted the floor as they moved toward the doors, while their conquerors lost no time in further attack upon the unresisting fugitives, but began to pillage the city that had been so suddenly abandoned.

A few minutes later, however, the Sifaou paid very dearly for the raid they had made. Dozens of the school children applied wisps of burning straw to the cracks which the conquering ants had entered and burned them at the very place of their victory.—New York Sun.

KING OF SPENDTHRIFTS.

Alonso Chester Yates came to Syracuse, N. Y., says the New York World, in 1851 with $800, which his wisdom and energy had increased to $4,000,000 when he died in 1880.

Alonso Chester Yates, Jr., came into the major part of this vast fortune six years ago. When he died in Nice, on Monday last, his magnificent manhood wrecked, there was left of all his money but a trifling remnant.

The story of the father and the son, of the growth and the downfall of the house of Yates, is one of the most remarkable in the annals of American thrift and American extravagance.

On the train that brought Alonso Yates from Utica with his $800 in his pocket, saved from his wages as a clothier's clerk, he sat on the same seat with General Longstreet of this city.

As the train pulled into Syracuse the great gray towers of Renwick castle came into view. This was the finest house between New York and San Francisco, built from plans by Renwick, the famous New York architect of that day.

"What house is that, sir?" asked Yates.

"That," replied the older man with a little sigh, "is Longstreet's folly." The present and the future owner of the house sat side by side.

Yates first act in Syracuse was to go in debt $5,200, buying out a little clothing store, with its stock. And there his struggles were as the struggles of other young men until the war came.

Then Yates showed his mettle. He went to his bank and said: "I want to borrow $100,000 on my personal note."

The bank president stared at him without a word.

"I'll tell you why I want it," said Yates. "This war is not going to be an 'On-to-Richmond-in-three-months' affair. I want to buy every yard of cloth for soldiers' clothes I can lay my hands on. It is sure to rise."

Men laughed at the enthusiast at first, but he went so others, and in the end he was a shrewd man talking to shrewd men—he gained his point. Contractors for making soldiers' clothes had to reckon with Yates when it came to buying material. He bought in advance the output of mill after mill. When the war closed he was worth nearly a million.

After that Yates gave Philadelphia its first ready-made clothing store, advertised largely and—but this part of the story isn't so interesting. After the first million others came easily.

Yates' first matrimonial venture was not fortunate. He married Annie Cuddeback of this city, and bought Renwick castle for a home, but after two children were born to him he secured a divorce. Roscoe Conkling was his attorney. He next married his housekeeper.

A housekeeper the mistress of Renwick castle!

Society closed its doors against the Yates family. Alone they lived in the huge castle, and Alonso Yates died there in 1880, when young Lonnie Yates, son of the second marriage, was nine years old—a beautiful boy, and the one who died in poverty last Monday.

Of course the will was contested. Yates had left $20,000 to each of the first wife's daughters, one of whom is the wife of Charles Dike, the riding master; but it was three years before the will was probated.

Lonnie Yates grew into a magnificent specimen of physical manhood. When he came of age he went to Harvard. There was a fast set there then that became famous. Yates was one of the fastest. His friends were the sons of men worth millions, and they spent more dollars in revelry than minutes in study. Wherefore President Elliot finally suggested to Mr. Alonso Chester Yates that his presence was unappreciated.

Yates next went to Hobart college in Geneva, N. Y., and set that quiet village by the ears, but finally decided that college life was too fatiguing and gave it up.

Rome's turn to howl came later. Syracuse began it when Lonnie began spending his money. On one occasion he left a charity ball in Syracuse with a quartet of friends and went to New York city for a week. It cost Lonnie $20,000 for that trip; no one else in the crowd was supposed to spend a cent.

The Yates stable was the finest in central New York. Yates was a magnificent figure on horseback and the best whip in that section. Once when he was out driving a little lad went under the horse's feet. Lonnie pulled up before the boy was injured and climbed down to help him. The boy's mother was before him, and when Lonnie reached the ground she pulled the whip out of the socket of Lonnie's trap and used it in no gentle fashion. Lonnie folded his arms while the woman lashed him, and when she had finished he apologized for running over the boy, handed her his card, and, raising his hat, stepped into the trap and drove off.

That was just like Lonnie. He had the manners of a Chesterfield—and also the morals. No one could help loving the tall, handsome young man with the frank face and the manner of a polished gentleman.

His only enemy was the man who died in Nice last Monday.

You could not keep that man in Syracuse. Europe was the place for him, and to Europe he went.

Not altogether to see churches and art galleries. The presence of his mother did not restrain him from the same pursuits that had varied his scholastic calm in Harvard.

A cousin, Miss Lella Yates, of Milwaukee, accompanied the family. One morning the two went out together and returned husband and wife. The news was rather welcome than otherwise, and for a time Lonnie was a changed man. However, there was time for him to change again, and he did. His wife's dower of $40,000 didn't last long.

There was a fashionable roller skating rink in Rome, Italy, in those days, and there Yates went one evening, primed with choice champagne and other things, and put on a mad Americano catapulting through the ranks of the noblewomen, bowling them down like ninneps. Two policemen arrested him, and a good day's work for them, because the "boy millionaire's" bribe was the biggest that had ever arrested their official attention.

There were few swift places on the continent that Lonnie didn't visit. They palled at last, and he returned to this country and pursued such a gait that trustees were finally appointed to take charge of the estate. They cruelly restricted him to a yearly income of a few beggarly thousands, which in the old days he could have spent in a week. They did another thing. They sold at

 Last year, after Lonnie and his wife returned from a brief trip in Europe, they separated. It was understood that Mrs. Yates was incensed by Lonnie's attentions to an actress, the sister of a fair lady of the stage who set New York chappies wild some years ago.

Again Yates tried to slow up, but he had become used to the pace. He soon swerved from the straight and narrow way. It was the beginning of the end. A few weeks ago he went to Europe again, and the first that Syracuse heard of him was the cable news of his death. That was the end of one of the handsomest, most generous, most lovable spendthrifts that even America, land of broken records, ever produced.

There are yet a good many in the older school of society in England and America who can recall the misguided youth best remembered as the "poor Marquis of Hastings."

In a little less than six years he squandered an estate of over £1,000,000.

There is little to tell about the marquis that might not be told of a hundred others. He began his career by holding a cock fight in the drawing room of the Hastings town house. He backed prize fighters and ran an expensive stable, one-half of which was worthless; he customarily dropped £20,000 at roulette or cards in one sitting; he lavished diamonds, jewels and broughams upon actresses; he took the shortest road to the bottom of a fool's purse.

Two things endeared him to noble and commoner alike—he threshed a bully who insulted a poor shop girl, and later turned a hand organ on the sidewalk for two hours, turning the money he collected over to a beggar woman and her baby.

He was on the road to ruin when he married one of the four "beautiful Moncrieff girls." His wife had been betrothed to Henry Chaplin, and jilted him for Hastings. "I'll drive him to his death for this!" said Chaplin.

The opportunity came when the marriage was barely a year old. Hermit, who belonged to Chaplin, had been the winter favorite to the Derby. Then came the report "gone lame." The Lady Elizabeth was then the rage. Hastings and his friends backed her to win for £100,000. The marquis needed the £100,000 for which he had played her to save him from ruin.

Vanban, Lady Elizabeth's trial mate, won the 2,000 guineas and the public went wild. The marquis threw his last coin into the ring. Hermit came out of his box on the Derby day and left his field. Hastings' ruin was complete and Chaplin laughed.

The exploits of the gayest and most lovable of all the Beresfords, "Mad Marquis of Waterford," are remembered by many. It was his boast in after life before a stumble over a stile gave him a broken neck that he had run through £30,000 in one year, made the acquaintance of every London police magistrate and possessed a larger collection of door knockers than any man in London.

Beside these records the achievement of Richard, seventh earl of Barrmore, in squandering a fortune of £300,000 between 1787-1793 seems puny. Yet the earl of Barrmore, during his career as the companion of George IV, then prince of Wales, contrived to run the gamut of every kind of pleasure. His extravagant tastes in theatrical management cost him £15,000 before the place was seized by his creditors. The remainder was lost on the turf.

In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., to an old friend, Major G. A. Studer, for twenty years United States Consul at Singapore, says: "While at Des Moines I became acquainted with a liniment known as Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I found excellent against rheumatism as well as against soreness of the throat and chest (giving me much easier breathing). I had a touch of pneumonia early this week, and two applications freely applied to the throat and chest relieved me of it at once. I would not be without it for anything. FUN AT CALUMET.

THAT OFT-POSTPONED DOG RACE FINALLY IS PULLED OFF AND IS A HOWLING SUCCESS.

The much-talked-of and oft-postponed dog race at Calumet was finally a "go" on Saturday afternoon, and F. A. Wiedner and Dr. Blankner, who had the preliminary arrangements in charge, drew a great breath of relief when the cry "They're off" went up. Between 4,000 and 5,000 people assembled in the streets to witness the fun, the crowd being so vast as to interfere sadly with the dogs and their youthful drivers.

After much bickering and the usual number of scraps in which both dogs and drivers participated in unholy glee, the judges—Messrs. Ed. Mertz, of the Arlington Hotel, E. M. Lieblein of Hancock and J. B. Taylor, of the Taylor House—finally decided to race the twenty-five entries in heats, the winners of the first prize to be shut out from participation in subsequent events.

The races lasted from 4 until after 6 o'clock and caused an unlimited amount of fun and excitement, the projectors of the affair being amply repaid for their trouble by its success. The following were the awards of the judges: First prize, $15—Willie Parribeau. Second, $10—Albert Ford. Third, $5—Leo Letosky.

The $16 remaining were divided up among the contestants who had won one heat each, darkness preventing the finals for the succeeding prizes.

NEW POSTOFFICE RATING.
HOUGHTON TO BE RAISED TO SECOND CLASS WITH THE END OF PRESENT FISCAL YEAR.

On July 1, which marks the beginning of Uncle Sam's new fiscal year, Houghton's postoffice will be raised from the third to the second class, the change involving the assumption of the rent charge of the office by the government.

The business of the office now exceeds $10,000 a year, exclusive of money order business, and Postmaster R. B. Lang is hopeful that with the new rating of the office and increased allowance for clerk hire, the government will decide to conclude a five-year lease with the owner of some one of the new blocks to be erected this summer, and that the office will by fall be located in larger and more commodious quarters and ones better fitted, too, for the transaction of business. The present cramped quarters makes the speedy handling of mails an impossibility, while the demand for lock boxes is steadily increasing, although the last one has been taken; the applications are now put on file as received. With the sudden expansion of business sure to strike Houghton this spring, Mr. Lang will be at his wits' ends to pinch along until new and larger quarters can somewhere be secured for him.

NO "WILLING BARKIS" HERE.
FRIENDS OF MR. REES HOLD DIFFERENT VIEWS FROM THAT GENTLEMAN ON THE JUDICIAL QUESTION.

The Mining Journal has received a note from Allen F. Rees, of Chabourne & Rees, Houghton, in which that gentleman objects to the use of his name in connection with the Republican nomination for circuit judge in this, the Twelfth judicial circuit. Mr. Rees says, "I have never been a candidate, and some time ago declined to permit my name to be used."

The Mining Journal thoroughly understands the position of Mr. Rees in this matter; it recognizes fully the fact that he has not in any way sought the office, but it believes, in common with a host of Mr. Rees' friends throughout the counties of Houghton, Baraga and Keweenaw, that he is splendidly fitted for the position by reason of his eminent legal abilities and that, should he be chosen and elected, he would wear the judicial ermine with honor to himself and the bar.

and people of the Twelfth judicial circuit.

In the selection of a circuit judge it is pre-eminently fitting that the office should seek the man, and Mr. Rees certainly has reason to feel proud of the loyalty and disinterestedness of the friends, who continue to urge his name, without disparagement to any other candidate, for the nomination despite his protests.

COPPER GOSSIP.
ITEMS OF INTEREST AMONG THE INDUSTRY THAT HAS MADE HOUGHTON COUNTY FAMOUS.

The foreign visible supply of copper was 25,830 tons on Feb. 15, a decrease of 2,066 tons since Jan. 1.

Abert C. Burrage, the noted Boston attorney, who is president of the Arcadian, arrived in Houghton Saturday to visit the new record breaker. He was accompanied by his sons, A. C. Burrage, Jr., and F. H. Burrage, and by his private secretary, A. W. Bemis. The party returned East yesterday, accompanied by N. F. Leopold. The Burrage party came to the copper country from Butte, Mont., where they visited the Anaconda and other mines.

One of the new South Range mines had an agent at L'Anse for two days at the close of last week endeavoring to secure the Fall river site for its stamp mill. The property is owned by S. L. Smith of Lansing and Detroit, and it is yet to be seen whether he will keep this concern out as he did the Nestlers and the Hebirds, thereby creating Baraga and Pequamung, or whether he has learned a lesson from experience and will abandon his short-sighted policy.

The Boston papers of late have devoted considerable space to exploiting the merits of Old Dominion, the articles conveying the intimation that the stock will go much higher. It is pointed out that the mine's product can be sold at a larger profit in New York than copper from Michigan or Montana, and also that big ore reserves are in sight, with the transportation facilities finally completed. The buying has been by the best houses on the Street.

Lew Peppard, brother of M. J. Peppard the well-known railroad contractor who is building the Arcadian branch from the Mineral Range for the South Shore company, will begin work by the middle of the week upon the pile driving, for which he has the contract, for the approach to the new Franklin mill at Grosse Point. Including the approach to the mill and the tailings trestle, there will be in all 1,200 feet of trestle work. The timber framers will get to work as soon as the pile driver has got a fair start.

Baraga is showing a very wide awake determination to be strictly in it when Keweenaw bay stamp mill sites are involved. Upon the announcement by The Mining Journal of the South Shore's projected extension along the South range the Baraga township and village authorities held meetings at which every provision which might interfere with the dumping of stamp mill sand into the bay was repealed, and in every other possible way encouragement has been extended to those seeking mill sites by the town famous as the home of the banana on the upper peninsula.

BANK IMPROVEMENTS.
C. K. Shand, the architect of the proposed improvements in the Red Jacket Opera House, has another big job on the boards in his office, having been commissioned to plan the improvements which the First National bank of Calumet will make in its banking building this season. The bank now has a frontage of thirty-three feet, but by the changes planned this will be increased to forty-nine feet, with a depth of seventy-six. The second floor will be arranged in six suites of offices, and in the rear of the banking room proper will be a private office for the cashier, and a large directors' room and a safety deposit vault of the very latest pattern will also be put in.

INJURED AT THE KEARSARGE.

John Nicholls and James Curnow were injured by the explosion of a quantity of powder left in an old hole in the twenty-first level of No. 2 shaft at the Kearsarge Friday afternoon, the accident being caused by their starting to drill a new hole there. Nicholls had his right hand blown off and was severely injured about the face and body, his eyesight also being in danger, while Curnow received only slight injuries. Both men are at the Tamarack hospital.

A SPLENDID PERFORMANCE.

The writer of this article journeyed down to Marquette Saturday and in the evening witnessed the presentation of Henrik Ibsen's "A Doll's House" at the opera house there by Miss Clara Thropp, and he can assure the readers of this department that they have a theatrical treat before them this week, when the little lady will appear at Red Jacket to-night and tomorrow night and at Houghton on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The play is unique in character, as is Miss Thropp's presentation of it; a more polished piece of acting has not been seen on the peninsula than her rendition of the difficult role of "Nora." She was ably supported, and her singing of Rudyard Kipling's "On the Road to Mandalay" and "My Honolulu Lady" in the interpiece was applauded to the echo. An incident of the evening, too, was the curtain call at the end of every act to which Miss Thropp was forced to respond.

Frank Sherwood was down town today, the first time since he had his tussle with cholera morbus. He says he drove thirty miles after he was taken, and never came so near dying in his life. After this when he goes out in the country he will take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him.—Missouri Valley (Iowa) Times. For sale by the Stafford Drug Co.

COPPERDOM BREVITIES.

Jim Byers of Baraga was a Portage-Lake visitor Sunday.

James Russell, editor of The Mining Journal, was a Houghton visitor between trains Saturday.

Tom Dee, assistant treasurer of the Peninsula Electric Light & Power company, Houghton, left Saturday for Chicago on a ten days vacation.

"Gene" Swift and Ralph Payne, brother of Chief Engineer H. J. Payne, both connected with the Mineral Range corps of surveyors at Hancock, spent Sunday in Marquette.

W. H. Burmeister, of Marshall Field & Co., arrived in Houghton Saturday evening on one of his regular visits to the copper country patrons of the "small" concern he represents.

H. L. Ottenheimer of Chicago, the architect who is designing the Dee and other business blocks to be erected in Houghton this summer, arrived in Houghton Saturday, returning to Chicago Sunday.

Frank Long and his company played a splendid business in Lake Linden last week and tonight will open a week's engagement at St. Patrick's Hall, Hancock. The company has done a fine business throughout the copper country.

Matt Kustola, of the Atlantic mine location, who was tried before Justice Brand Friday afternoon for assault and battery in attacking Thomas Dunstan with a knife, was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, a total of $65, with the alternative of sixty days in jail. He paid up.

Bruce, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hester McAskill, died Saturday morning at the home of his parents in West Hancock, having been ill only since Tuesday. The cause of death was pneumonia, followed by brain fever. The funeral will be held today, the services

MICHIGAN

ACCIDENT ASSOCIATION

OF KALAMAZOO, MICH.

Begins its second year of existence with a

RECORD NEVER EQUALED

by a similar association. It has excelled in the following ways the record of the first year's existence of any similar association ever organized in Michigan:

It has written more members.

It has held more members.

It has accumulated a large reserve fund for the protection of its members.

It has opened up more territory.

AND LAST BUT NOT LEAST

It is the only association in the State, regardless of age, that never closed its office at night with an unpaid claim on which it had received proofs on its books.

It is writing the most popular plan of accident and sick benefit insurance on the market. A few first-class agents wanted in unoccupied territory. Big money to hustlers. Fire and life insurance men can add many dollars to their yearly income by handling this association as a side line. Address:

SHORT SATURDAY.

Stocks Didn't Do Much the Last Day of the Week.

Though the market continued strong there was not much activity shown by the stocks Saturday, nothing like the activity which was manifested the day before, when under the lead of Old Dominion there was a wonderful advance and fully half the stocks on the board made a gain of a dollar or more each.

Only four stocks fluctuated Saturday outside the dollar range. Atlantic went up from 40 to 42; Butte & Boston dropped, going from 97 to 93 1/2; Copper Range went up a point and sold at 56; Quincy also gained a point and went up from 179 to 180.

Paine, Webber & Co. posted a bulletin saying that the market closed strong. A. B. Turner & Bro.'s bulletin board had the following: "Mass certificates will probably be issued next Wednesday or Thursday."

The meeting of those interested in Captain Daniels' Sauk's Head prospect which was called for Saturday night was not well enough attended so that those who were there felt warranted in going ahead and doing business. For that reason the meeting was adjourned and another meeting was called to meet at 8 o'clock this evening in the office of Button & Culver in The Mining Journal building. The report of the export will then be presented and it is likely arrangements will be made for doing further prospecting.

Sheriff Carlson has received a letter from James Miller of Port Hope, Huron county, this state, asking the whereabouts of his son Edward Miller, whom he says was working on the tug Calumet last season. The father fears that the son is in jail somewhere, as he always wrote home regularly till a few months ago.

F. L. Simmons is just buck from his annual purchasing trip to New York, where he has been brushing up on styles and buying spring goods. On his way home he stopped over at Detroit and attended the conventions of the merchant tailors and the custom cutters, both national gatherings. DuNah, now of Bloomington, Ill., who was formerly a cutter here for the Kaufmans, is president of the association.

AUGUST FLOWER.—"It is a surprising fact," says Professor Houton, "that in my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER than any other remedy, for dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach, and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, or for persons filling office positions, where headaches and general bad feelings from irregular habits exist, that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER is a grand remedy. It does not injure the system by frequent use, and is excellent for sour stomachs and indigestion." SAMPLE BOTTLES FREE at Stafford's drug store. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

S'UCK A NEW DEPOSIT.

DISCOVERY OF A FRESH BODY OF ORE AT THE PRINCETON MINE IS REPORTED.

The parties interested in the lands in the vicinity of the Princeton mine here are rejoicing over the reported discovery of a new and valuable body of ore near the main shaft of the mine. The find was made south of the shaft. The ore is of a fine grade and apparently exists in a large body.

The Princeton has been in operation under its new ownership and management about a year. It was purchased by Todd, Stambaugh & Co. from the Escanaba River Land & Iron company, a corporation largely composed of Negaunee parties. The mine had been worked by the latter company, but for some years previous to the transfer it had been idle, and when the new company took possession the workings in general were in pretty bad condition. The old company had pumped the water out regularly and the mine was all right in that respect, but the timbering was in bad repair and a great amount of work was required to put it in good condition.

The property changed hands at a ridiculously low figure. The old company was tired of owning the idle and unproductive mine, and the transfer was made on a basis which in no way represented the true value of the property. Although there were at least 200,000 tons of ore in sight the price fixed on the property was only $85,000, which is payable in installments extending over a period of two years. The new owners immediately took hold of the mine and since then it has been worked steadily, and it is rapidly developing into a valuable property.

The trend of the deposit in the working indicated that the main body of the deposit lay to the northward of the shaft, and under the management of the old company all explorations and drifts were extended in that direction. When the new management assumed control it was decided to push the explorations in a new direction and lately this was done. A drift was started south from the shaft in the expectation of reaching the main ore body. When the drift had been extended about a hundred feet from the shaft, the body of ore was reached.

The ore in the new deposit is as rich as any that has been mined up to date. It runs about 62 per cent. iron and about 48 per cent. in phosphorus. Apparently there is a large body of it there, and the discovery is generally considered important and valuable. It has not been definitely decided whether to work the new deposit immediately or not. The mere fact of finding the ore in this place, however, greatly enhances the value of the property and it insures a long life for the mine.

While the Negaunee men have disposed of their interests in the mine proper they still have considerable cause to rejoice at the discovery. When the original deal was completed the transfer covered about 318 acres, embracing the land in the immediate vicinity of the mine. Although they transferred a large acreage to the new company the local parties did not entirely close out their holdings in the vicinity and they still possess about 394 acres in the neighborhood of the Princeton and any increment in the value of the mine will add to the value of this land.

It is known that ore exists on the property yet owned by the local parties. Some years ago a pit was dug within the limits of the land and at the time considerable ore was taken out. It was necessary, however, to haul the ore in wagons to the railroad, and as this entailed too great a cost the work was discontinued. Since that time nothing has been done toward the development of the property but there is little doubt that the foundation of a large and valuable mine exists on the land.

The discovery just made at the Princeton will enhance the value of this property and it may stir up an interest in its development that will lead to a further exploration. The developments at the Princeton property are right in line with the great interest that is being awakened in this vicinity in regard to the mines and their possibilities. There is apparently a great awakening of interest in all subjects pertaining to the development of new properties and operation of old ones.

LOCAL LAONICS.

Frank Long and his company may visit this city soon.

Charley Muck, Sr., received a handsome new delivery team from Appleton last week.

The loss on the Winter residence fire has been adjusted at $750. The policy was for $1,000 in the Commercial Union company.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fellow who have been visiting here for several weeks past concluded their stay and returned to their home in Canada.

The Catholic Foresters met at their lodge hall yesterday. A class of candidates was initiated and a fair attendance of members was present.

J. C. Maynard, who resided in this city for a long time and who is well remembered here, has just engaged in business at Escanaba and reports that he is already enjoying a fine trade.

A large number of people were at Ishpeming Friday evening in attendance at the performance of Ibsen's "A Doll's House" which was given there. The entertainment gave fine satisfaction.

The ladies of Negaunee are invited to call today at the Breitung House and examine the swell line of samples in shirt waists carried by H. W. R. Mott, representing a well-known Milwaukee maker.

Yesterday the spell of warm weather the world and ships goods to all parts of few days seemed temporarily checked. It is too early for permanent warm weather but the changes that have been experienced here lately are wearing on an ordinary constitution.

George Haupt has taken the agency for the Deering farming implements and will be in the field for business the coming year. His company is the largest manufacturer of farming machinery in the world and ship goods to all parts of the world. He has already disposed of several machines in this vicinity.

The Negaunee club has been re-organized on a basis that gives promise of making the organization a strong and stable body. At a meeting of the old club held recently it was decided to subscribe an amount large enough to pay up the debts of the organization and take possession of the property of the old club, valued at about $500. Two classes of membership are provided for by the new arrangement, associate and active. The first class pay an initiation fee of $10 and have an interest in the property while the second class only pay a regular monthly assessment of $1. The membership of the organization is now about fifty, which is entirely sufficient to pay the running expenses and in all probability the dues will be reduced. The club will be run along less exclusive lines than heretofore and it will be an organization of all the men who have the good of the community in view. It will be a much more valuable organization to the city than it has been in the past.

A DRUMMER'S LUCK.

How He Made a Ten Strike Against His Will.

Four commercial men, one of them employed by a firm of jewelers in this city, were swapping stories in a hotel up the state the other evening, says the New York Sun, and gradually drifted to experiences involving luck. When the jeweler man's turn came his eyes twinkled as he brushed the ashes from his cigar with a finger circled by a diamond ring, and rather lazily got into position for his innings.

"On the subject of luck," he began, "I suppose I have a right to say something, inasmuch as the stroke of my life was made inside of three days without the use of a dollar of capital. In 1885 the firm I was working for in a little inland town went to the wall, and without a week's notice I was left without a leg to stand on. When my bills were settled I had barely enough left to get out of town, but decided to go to New York, where I wasn't known, and begin life over again.

"During the ride along the Hudson I became interested in the talk of two men just behind me, who discussed business matters and referred incidentally to an important manufacturing site to be sold in a certain real estate office in New York at noon the next day. It was said that some western men wanted the site, which was regarded the best in the east for their purpose, and that a New York firm had planned to shut them out by buying the property at any cost. The westerners were thought to be equally determined to get the property.

"Beyond this conversation the only cause of interruption in my rather dreary reflections was a somewhat stout, middle aged woman who sat just ahead of me, and to whom two or three times I rendered trifling services. As we entered New York there was the usual flurry of preparations to leave the train, and the stout woman was among the first of the passengers to be lined up in the aisle. As I was in no haste I did not rise to put on my overcoat until the train stopped. I noticed that the woman had dropped a small handbag, but before I could get it and put on my overcoat she was outside the car. I hurried out to see her disappear into a carriage and hear her call out, 'Oh, my handbag and diamonds!' Before the alarm had gone further I placed the bag in her hands and explained that she had dropped it in the car. She almost overwhelmed me with thanks, in which her husband, who was present, joined.

"We owe you more than you know, sir," he said, ignoring my attempt to withdraw, 'and I must in some way repay your kindness. Our carriage is in the way here and there is no time to talk. Is there anything to prevent your taking dinner with us? If not, step into the carriage.' "Before I could collect my wits to make suitable protest we were being bowled away and the woman was reiterating her relief and gratitude. A few minutes later we were received at the door of a residence on one of the avenues and my host was saying, 'This is my son, sir—but I shall have to ask your name.' Whereupon I gave him a card. "The name of an old friend of mine," he declared as he read it; 'I knew him in M— county.'

"Possibly my father," I said; 'he lives at Stratford in that county.' "The very same, I am sure," he went on; 'we were at school together.' And I found thereafter as an old acquaintance. "It came out during dinner that the diamonds had been worn by the woman at a wedding she had been attending and were very valuable. The family seemed to rejoice particularly, however, over their escape from the publicity usually attending the loss of such jewels. At the close of the meal the hour was late and I spoke of going but was led to admit that my time was my own and it was soon settled, somewhat to my dismay, that for a day or two at least I must be a guest of the family. Next morning I went with my host to his place of business and found that he was a dealer in jewelry. As noon approached I thought of the real estate sale and spoke of the matter to my host. "What! you interested in that sale?" he said in a tone of surprise. 'Let's go over; it's just across the street.'

"We crossed and caused some comment, I thought, as we entered the place. The bidding seemed rather slow, but gradually ran up to $139,000. At that point the auctioneer glanced over in my direction and, scarcely aware what I was doing, nodded. "A hundred and forty," he shouted, and a few minutes later the property was knocked down at that figure. Before I could recover from my amazement or reply to the auctioneer's request for the purchaser's name, the door opened and a man rushed in and asked whether the sale was over and who was the buyer. When I was pointed out he approached, looked me over rather loftily and said: "Represent the St. Louis men, I suppose?" "No, sir," I said, with a meekness that he appeared to mistake for indifference. "The devil you don't!" he retorted, eyeing me suspiciously the jeweler who stood beside me. 'What do you want of the property, then? Going to sell, eh?' "Possibly," was all I could say. "Come aside here," he resumed, in a milder tone, as he motioned to the auctioneer to wait. 'I want to talk to you. I see you understand the situation and want to make something. I got caught in a blockade down town or you wouldn't have had the chance—you may bet on that.'

"I left the place with a $10,000 check in my vest pocket without having my name appear once in the transaction, and for the rest of the day my mind was almost an absolute blank. I vaguely recalled that my jeweler friend told me he had been authorized to buy the property, if it went right, and meant to bid, but that I had forestalled him. It was supposed that I bid for him and when he saw the situation he made me hold out for the ten thousand.

"The next day he offered to take me into his business, and fearful lest my money might vanish by some unearthy means I became his junior partner without even looking up his financial rating. The venture proved a lucky one. Not long afterward I became his son-in-law. And, by the way, the name of my father-in-law's old friend in M— county wasn't mine at all, as he thought by a slip of his memory, though the two were somewhat similar."

TWO THINGS THEATRICAL.

Ibsen's "Doll's House" Presented for the First Time on the Local Boards.

PIECE IS GIVEN BY CLARA THROPP AND HER COMPANY.

Criticism of the Production—Amateur Talent Will Be Seen in Burnt Cork on Washington's Birthday—For Charity.

STRONG ARTIST IN A GREAT PLAY.

The current theatrical season has been marked by the paucity of offerings, but it is worth something that the few companies which have been here have been generally organizations of merit.

The part of Nora, the doll wife, is one which requires a peculiar variety of talent. Of a childish, sunny, mercurial disposition, at the same time jealously guarding a skeleton in the closet, which will out in spite of her, the part makes heavy demands on the actress who would portray it well.

Chief of Miss Thropp's support is Robert Folsom, as Torvald Helmer, the aesthetic, refined and debt-aboring husband of Nora.

"A Doll's House" is rather peculiarly followed by a one-act comedy called "The Truant Spouse." Peculiarly followed because the two things are so utterly unlike.

The company had the encouragement of a very good house, and there is reason to believe it could renew its success another season.

On Wednesday of this week home talent will hold the boards, when the Marquette Minstrels appear in a testimonial benefit tendered to the Ladies' Benevolent society.

The singing first part will be a strong feature of the bill. The best vocalists in the city have been secured for the ballad singing and an unusually large number of new songs will be introduced.

One of the star features of the olio will be the Marquette Mandolin club in up-to-date selections.

The performance will conclude with the hilarious farce known as "The Slippery Day."

Seats go on sale this morning at Bigelow's. The prices are: Parquette, seventy-five cents; balcony, fifty cents; gallery, twenty-five cents.

HOME PRODUCT.

American Sculptors Will Make the Lafayette Memorial Monument.

Some time ago money was raised in the schools here, as it was in many schools throughout the country, for the purpose of erecting a fitting monument over the grave of Lafayette.

Lately there has been running through the press an open letter to the commission in charge of the work criticizing the commission for giving into the hands of foreign artists instead of awarding the work by competition between American artists.

The commission is now out with a circular disclaiming that it has given the work to foreigners and explaining reasons for not having an open competition.

TALKS ON IBSEN.

Miss Thropp Gives an Afternoon Address in Felix Hall.

Miss Clara Thropp, who appeared Saturday evening in the character of Nora in Ibsen's "Doll's House," spoke on the great dramatist in the afternoon to an audience in Felix hall.

Miss Thropp is a lover of all of Ibsen's works, but her favorite is the "Doll's House," in which she says she reads her own thoughts as she reads the work.

eral climaxes and anticlimaxes Ibsen has one grand climax. She advises those who wish to take up the study of Ibsen to begin with his blank verse, but to read little of this and go right on to his prose plays, which have given him his greatest distinction.

FOUR THINGS PAUL KNEW.

Rev. Elliott Speaks on Four of Which the Apostle Had Definite Knowledge.

HE SAYS PAUL WAS NOT A THEOLOGIAN WITH THEORIES.

What He Knew He Knew from Personal Experience and When He Spoke He Did So With Authority—No Questions or Doubts.

PAUL AND SOCRATES CONTRASTED.

"Things We Do Know" was the subject of the sermon delivered Sunday evening by the Rev. E. A. Elliott at the Methodist church.

"If a theologian is one who has a systematic knowledge of God or God's government," he began, "than Paul was not a theologian." His knowledge was fragmentary, but he taught certain truths that men needed, and what he taught he knew.

"He says, 'We know in part,'" continued the speaker, quoting the text, "but he says, 'We know.'" That is one place where Paul differed from Socrates.

The speaker said that of the things which Paul knew were four to which he would call attention in his address. The first of these was found in the text, "I know that in me, that is in my flesh, is no good thing."

"Paul, he said, looked into himself to find this out. He did not look back to Adam or his forefathers, and there is only one place in all his writings in which Paul expresses his belief in the fall of man through Adam.

Human suffering was noted as the second of the four things which Paul claimed positive knowledge.

"Most of us," said Mr. Elliott, "know that we are sufferers and think other men are sinners. Paul didn't. He reversed this."

Mr. Elliott told the legend of Sidartha, founder of the Buddhist faith, who when he found that he was suffering in the world, left his beautiful palace and went out into the world to lighten the sufferings of men.

"And so it is," said he, "that men learn that the world 'groaneth and travaileth in suffering till now.' So it is that Paul left his opportunity for quiet study and his prospects of advancement, and so it is that Jesus Christ left his heavenly home to come on earth and drink to the dregs of suffering and death that man might be saved."

The third of the four things given was that Paul knew God. "He had," said the speaker, "an intimate acquaintance with God, a thing which no Christless philosophy has to offer."

The fourth thing was touched on but briefly. That was Paul's knowledge of God's redeeming work.

In closing the speaker alluded to these as the four anchors and adured any of his hearers who were in doubt to cast them out, as Paul and his comrades cast out the material anchors when they were shipwrecked, and wait patiently for the dawning of the day.

AN IMITATION

of the Progress superior steel razors may look as well as the genuine article, but the test comes when you want a good, clean shave. The Electric razor is made from highly tempered Sheffield steel, and will split a hair with ease. They are not made for a day, but will give as perfect satisfaction in 1939 as they do now. Our stock of pocket knives, table cutlery and carvers is unexcelled, as well as our stock of hardware.

IS THE WAR OVER?

We wouldn't think so, with Miles and Eagan throwing beef at each other. There is never any question about whether our meats are high grade or not. We handle nothing but the best fed, primest and fattest beef, lamb, mutton, veal and pork to be procured, and we pride ourselves upon being expert judges of what is the best. We will sell you a fine roast, steak, chop or cutlet at a reasonable price, and if you want strictly fresh eggs try ours.
