M. I. A. COLUMN.

The amount received from the lecture given by Colonel Parker, at Mrs. J. M. Longyear's residence, last Monday afternoon was $12.40. The sum for the monument and fountain is gradually growing, although much more is needed before we can have the pleasure of seeing the monument finished and in its place. A six-hand echeque party will be given at Felix Hall, Thursday afternoon, Aug. 31 for this purpose. The tea, last Friday afternoon, was not as fully attended as desired, but was a very pleasant social affair.

In driving about the city, M. I. A. notices with pleasure, the care that is given to almost all of the lawns, but with regret, the condition of some of the streets. For instance, East Ohio street, which with its pretty houses, and well kept lawns, should be one of the prettiest places in the city. If the unsightly weeds and stumps in the middle of the street could be removed and the street graded it would be a great improvement. This suggests a question which has long puzzled many brains. When the lawn inside of the fence is watered and cared for so beautifully, why is the grass outside of the yard left uncared, unwatered, and untrimmed? The lower, or north end of Spruce streets shows sadly where the road roller became tired and left for other parts. M. I. A. notices also, what one man can do to improve the grass outside of the yard on — street near the golf grounds and would like others to profit by his example.

A park has been suggested within walking distance, where people can sit comfortably and look out on the lake. Why not make one of the grounds about the water works and light house, have a sidewalk extending from the point to Fenwick Rocks, with seats, as they are arranged in Lincoln park, Chicago? Perhaps that would result in better care of the property on which are several cottages near the lake shore. A general removal of the cans and garbage would follow and be of great benefit to the olfactory nerves of passers-by. Or, would it be possible to make a park on top of the hill this side of the cemetery? It seems a great pity that such a beautiful place as cemetery park should have such an unsightly approach, and the M. I. A. has visions of green grass, fountains, seats, where one can look upon one of the most beautiful views in the world—and perhaps, who knows, with a statue of our real Father Marquette, who has lived in our midst and accomplished more for our city than the M. I. A. can ever hope to accomplish.

SANTO DOMINGO'S GOLD.

President Grant strongly urged the annexation of Santo Domingo, and at the time the Santo Domingans favored the idea of annexation. In many ways the island of Santo Domingo would be a more valuable possession to the United States than either Cuba or Porto Rico. It has many fine natural harbors, and with the Mona passage on one end and the Windward passage on the other, controls the two most important entrances to the Caribbean sea. The whole island, which includes the Spanish negro republic, Santo Domingo, on the east, and the French negro republic of Hayti on the west end, has an area of 28,000 square miles. The Dominican republic occupies about two-thirds of this area on the east end, separated from Porto Rico by the Mona passage, and Hayti, about one-third on the west end, separated from Cuba by the Windward passage.

The climate of Santo Domingo is much the same as that of Porto Rico, and although tropical and warm, is generally healthy. The soil is extremely fertile, and in minerals it is richer than either Cuba or Porto Rico. According to Columbus and the early Spanish reports, gold exists in astonishing richness. Either the early Spanish discoveries conspired to deceive one another, were sadly deceived themselves, or gold in great richness exists in the principal mountain range. The hostility of the natives is given as the reason why the early Spanish gold hunters were unable to follow up their operations and explorations, and revolutions and unsettled conditions have prevented later investigations, besides the early reports were, and are now, deemed so extravagant that they are not credited. That there is gold in the main mountain range of the island is certain. Native women have for years washed gold from streams which come from this range, and many now depend upon it for their living, but among this ignorant and lazy people the idea of seeking the sources in the mountains of these golden sands has never occurred. The fact that but enough for their yearly wants is taken out argues nothing to those who know their character, as they would not take out any more were there many times more to be had for the labor of looking for it. All primitive and ignorant people are alike in this regard.

Iron ore of the best quality near transportation is abundant, and near the port of Azna petroleum in paying quantities and of good quality has been found. What other mineral wealth exists is unknown, as beyond a narrow strip on the coast the interior is unknown to intelligent white men. The total population of both the republics is calculated at about 1,200,000. They are almost entirely negroes, the few Spaniards who remained having been long ago assimilated in the black blood. In the interior white men are unknown, and there are grown people in the interior towns who have never looked on a white face. Two sailors who ran away from a ship in one of the ports walked across the island to another port not long ago. They tell a strange story of the condition of the blacks in the interior. The natives fled before them in many instances. The children up to the age of ten and twelve years wore no clothing but their dusky complexions, and the adults were not blessed with a superabundance of wardrobe. Voodooism and superstitions of that character were rampant. The account given by these men shows a pitiable condition of ignorance and undevelopment, and explain why the government is so irresponsible and corrupt. Many leading Santo Domingans, who are men of education and thought, favor the idea of annexation, and believe it to be the ultimate destiny of their republic. Some influential Haytians believe the same of their country, but the idea of annexation is not as popular in Hayti as it is in Santo Domingo. —Philadelphia Record.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO ANTICIPATE YOUR WANTS.

We leave for New York in a few days to select our Fall and Winter Goods. We expect to show the most complete selection of Dry Goods this coming season ever offered to the Marquette public.
Our Suit and Cloak Department has been a revelation to the ladies of Marquette county, and we are daily hearing praise for our garments from those who have favored us with their patronage the past two seasons. In anticipating your needs for the coming season, we shall be pleased this week to take your measure for a new garment, select the cloth for you while in market and have your garments made especially for you. We guarantee a perfect fit, and also guarantee entire satisfaction to you in every way. Many ladies have already left their orders, and we hope to receive yours before we leave.

A WORD REGARDING OUR DRESS GOODS DEPARTMENT.

Upon our return from market we shall display the latest weaves and colorings and a still larger assortment than we have heretofore shown. Our Black Goods Department will lack nothing, and remember--This will be largely a Black Goods season in ladies' wearing apparel.
Our Silk Department is winning many buyers, not alone in Marquette, but for many miles around. It will be still better this fall.

OUR CARPET AND UPHOLSTERING DEPARTMENT

Will be much improved in added lines of goods. During the season just closing we have kept from three to five persons in our workroom constantly busy. Our display of Carpets, Draperies and Curtains this fall will include many new lines and much finer goods, as well as a large assortment of staple goods.

The accompanying cut represents the Empress Skirt, sold exclusively by us. Our fall assortment is already bought. Special measurements will be made to order.

RAIN SHUT OFF GRAND PARADE.

OTHERWISE THE BIG CELEBRATION OF THE SONS OF ST. GEORGE SATURDAY WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

A heavy rain storm occurred just at noon was the only drawback to the big celebration of the Sons of St. George Saturday, which wound up the annual meeting of the grand lodge. The rain knocked out the big parade, which was given up altogether, and delayed the afternoon program somewhat. Its effects were not very disastrous, however, as all the visitors were able to get under shelter and they re-appeared early in the afternoon, dry and happy.

Negaunee was in festive dress when the visitors began to arrive. The big arch at the corner of Gold and Iron streets was completed by the persistent labor of several of the local sons, who worked on it until four o'clock Saturday morning. It was finished in plain white with a gold effect, and was surmounted with a life-size figure of St. George mounted on horseback in the pose of killing the famous dragon.

There were several streamers across the streets and every business house was gay with bunting. The display on Iron street was very pretty, as many people remarked. The visitors from Marquette and Ishpeming began to arrive early and the streets were rapidly filled with throngs of spectators. A special train over the Northwestern road brought in the Sons of St. George from down the line about eleven o'clock.

The copper country delegation was late in arriving. It was due at eleven o'clock but it was about twelve when the first train pulled in, bearing six car loads of visitors.

There were 150 people who could not be carried on the first train who came down later, including the members of the Quincy band. As Marshal Goodman had been waiting for the copper country lodges he had the Calumet & Hecla band which accompanied them from a line at the depot and march to the city square, where the parade was to be formed. At this point the sun, which had been shining brightly and with rather too much heat, disappeared under on-coming clouds, which threatened a heavy downfall of rain. It was hoped that the shower would blow over but while the marshals were working to form the line of march the first drops fell and caused a scattering of the crowds.

The shower was very heavy. Shelter was obtained by most of the people, however, and it did little damage beyond stopping the parade. As it rained through the dinner hour little delay was caused. Hundreds of visitors were fed at the Adelphi rink, which was to be the objective point of the parade, and others were accommodated about the city. When the dinner hour was over so was the shower. The decorations presented a bedraggled appearance, but as very few of the people had been caught by the downpour the storm did no material harm.

Owing to the wet condition of the streets the officers were a little late in starting the street sports. They were finally started, however, and hundreds of the visitors were amused by them. There were many contestants in the various events, and as some of these were closely fought they evoked great interest. The sports were pulled off on different streets. The Cornish wrestling proved to be a great drawing card and the committee was glad it had decided to make it a feature. This was also slightly delayed by the rain.

There were several standards. The entries embraced some of the best wrestlers on the peninsula, barring the cracks, who kept away. The arena was ideal and all could see without craning their necks. The sport was well officered and went on throughout the afternoon to the delight of the cranks assembled to witness it. Several of the hours were excellent and the wrestlers received much applause. First money was finely won by Bob Gilbert of Calumet, the well known heavy weight. Ed Johns of Ishpeming took the second prize. Ed Bracington of Iron Mountain and a wrestler named Shea of Champion took third and fourth places respectively.

The afternoon passed pleasantly for the visitors, the most of whom devoted their time to taking in the sport. After the program was completed the time until supper was consumed in renewing acquaintances formed at previous reunions and in seeing the city. The entertainment after supper consisted of a grand concert at MacDonald's Hall. The opera house was taxed to its limit by the number that gathered to wind up the festivities. A very excellent program had been arranged and its rendition was greatly enjoyed.

The visitors began to leave the city about six, and after the copper country special had pulled out in the evening the wind-up of the meeting was in sight. The celebration was an entire success. The attendance was fully as large as had been anticipated. The decorations were handsome and, barring the rain, everything went off well. The arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors were ample and perfect, as all who expressed themselves on that point testified. The copper country turned out nobly, as it usually does. The Negaunee Sons are very grateful for this, and in return will send a big delegation to the next reunion at Calumet. The abundance of band music in the city was favorably remarked on. The famous Calumet & Hecla band was down with the Calumet lodge, as well as the Quincy organization. The Lake Superior band was down from Ishpeming and the local bands were out. The members of the order here are greatly pleased with the success of the celebration. They worked hard on the arrangements and would have been much disappointed had anything gone wrong. The evidences of their work were seen on every side and in the complete success of their program.

LOCAL LACONICS.

The merry-go-round opposite Winter & Suess' store did a landoffice business Saturday.

Henry Nankervis was with Perkins Saturday to help look after the rush of extra business.

The trick cyclists who have been in this section lately pleased a big crowd on the city square Saturday morning.

John R. MacDonald, deputy collector of internal revenue, succeeding C. F. Sundstrom of Michigan, was here Friday. He hails from South Lake Linden.

Bushy & Davis will appear at MacDonald's Opera House next Friday evening with an Uncle Tom's Cabin show. A big company is carried and it is said that the old piece is given a pleasing production.

The trophies belonging to the Negaunee fire department are on exhibition in one of Perkins' show windows. The collection includes several pieces of valuable and massive silverware won at different tournaments.

The talk of post-tournament races has attracted some attention here and several of the firemen have declared themselves averse to anything of the kind. It is believed that the team that wins the association trophy should be admitted to be the best team of the association without any talk of judges being unfair or any other demonstrations that are unsportsmanlike. It is feared here that post-tournament races would result disastrously to the association and it is believed that they should be prohibited by the by-laws.

HIS LIFE WAS SAVED.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at the Stafford Drug company; every bottle guaranteed.

NURSES IN INDIA.

Rules Which Govern Them Are Very Stringent and Confine Them Closely.

Judged by the standards which seem to prevail in British India, the Philadelphia nurse—in spite of her increased duties now that so many sick soldiers are under her care—must have an easy time of it, says the Philadelphia Press. Let her, at all events, read and take comfort from these rules just promulgated for the benefit of the "Nursing Sisters" engaged in tending plague patients in Calcutta:

"Sisters must be in to dinners every night, and must not leave the premises after dinner, except with the leave of the lady doctor. Such leave will not be granted more than once a week."

The address at which the sister will be must be given to the lady doctor. Sisters going out driving are required to let the lady doctor know their destination and their escort (if any), and she is at liberty to modify the arrangements made if she shall deem it necessary. Visitors to the sisters must send in their card to the lady doctor. Sisters to be in bed by 11 p. m. Visitors may be invited to afternoon tea with the consent of the lady doctor. Ladies may occasionally be invited to other meals (with the consent of the lady doctor) at the expense of the person who invites them."

This supreme "lady doctor" corresponds to our head nurse, and sways a rule which extends to the very servants of the nurses under her.

Black-and-Tan Tigers.

Glance at your family cat or your fox terrier, or the cows in the field. All their markings, and those of nearly all domesticated animals are mottled and totally irregular. This is the curious result of domestication. Wild animals are, as a rule, marked with beautiful regularity. Look at the stripes of the tiger, the spots of the leopard, the absolutely even streaks on the zebra's coat, and a dozen other similar instances. There is very little doubt that all these animals' colors could be changed if they were tamed by man and kept in captivity for a few generations. Fancy a black-and-tan tiger, or a leopard with the irregular markings of a tortoise-shell cat.

During the civil war, as well as in our late war with Spain, diarrhoea was one of the most troublesome diseases the army had to contend with. In many instances it became chronic and the old soldiers still suffer from it. Mr. David Taylor of Wind Ridge, Greene Co., Pa., is one of these. He uses Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says he never found anything that would give him such quick relief. It is for sale by The Stafford Drug Company.

Don't Read This Unless

you need a reference work. It won't interest you at all. It is all about The Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia and was written for certain people. For people who live and think and work. For people who realize how little they know, how much they have to learn, and how little time to learn even a little part of it. The Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia is the work for them, we speak from experience, for we use it ourselves and no one has a greater or more constant need for instant information on every subject than a busy newspaper. Read the following description and judge for yourself. If you know of something better, buy it, and if you think The Century is what you need write to us for further information. We will send handsomely illustrated pamphlets containing maps and specimen pages free of cost to all inquirers. Read, too, our great offer about the big saving and the easy terms of payment.

OVER 8,000 PAGES.

This Century consists of ten handsome royal quarto volumes, which contain about 8,500 royal quarto pages, copiously illustrated wherever an illustration could be used to make anything clearer. The paper used in the production is highly polished book paper. This was necessary in order to bring out exquisite effects of light and shade which characterizes the engravings in The Century. All this combined to make The Century the most sought after publication in the world. It is highly ornamental as well as eminently useful.

150,000 ENCYCLOPEDIA ARTICLES.

No other encyclopedia contains within 50,000 of this number. It treats of every conceivable subject, whether connected with the sciences, commerce, literature or art. All its information, too, is arranged on a new and simple plan. It is no longer necessary to turn to a long article under anatomy if you want to know something about the "EYE." You turn directly to the word eye, and there you find just what you want to know. If you just want to know what a "POINT" means in the brokerage business, you do not have to read a long article on brokerage to find this out. You turn to the word point, and you find that a point in a stock exchange transaction in Great Britain means ONE POUND, and in the United States ONE DOLLAR; that a point in coffee is ONE-HUNDRETH PART OF A CENT; that a point in oil is ONE CENT, etc. This same system of arrangement has been observed throughout the entire work, so that with its 150,000 encyclopedic articles it is in reality the only work of universal and ready reference that is perfectly adapted for present day use.

500,000 DEFINITIONS.

The elaborateness and completeness and the precision with which these definitions are executed so distinguishes The Century that all its predecessors seem mere school boys' manuals by comparison with it. The illustrations that accompany the definitions are of great value in explaining to the reader the general features of the subject described. Some illustrations tell the whole story, so beautifully and perfectly as they executed.

7,500 ILLUSTRATIONS.

Every one of these engravings is an accurate document as well as a picture, for the artists were as scrupulous as the editors. The services of specialists were enlisted for each of the many branches of illustrations required. The cuts of animals, for instance, occupied the exclusive attention of several illustrators, and the cuts of fish were the work of an expert in his special field, while the architectural drawings are the production of some of the best draughtsmen of the day.

It is not too much to say that as a mere picture book The Century contains an incomparable collection. Even the child who has not yet learned to read can gather an amazing sum of information from its pages.

300,000 QUOTATIONS.

When by its account of the history of a word and its exhaustive definition, The Century has shown its meaning. The Century subjects that word to another analysis. It presents a series of quotations showing how different readers have made use of that word. Of these quotations there are the astonishing number of 300,000. No other work has one-eighth of that number. The Century lays before the reader the evidence upon which it has founded its suggestions for the use of the word and as to the distinction between it and similar words. It does not lay down the law. It shows you how the English poets, from Chaucer to Kipling, have employed the word and how historians and philosophers have found various new uses for it, and it leaves you to judge for yourself whether you shall use it in the same way.

300 MAPS.

The Century contains 117 double-page maps, 138 inset maps and 45 historical and astronomical maps. The indexes show about 200,000 entries—more than are found in any gazetteer or atlas index previously published. The total engraved surface of the 300 maps is more than 150 square feet. The maps are printed in from five to ten different colors.

The most recent government surveys of all parts of the world, the latest lake, sea, and harbor soundings, the most recent explorations, the latest measurements of mountain peaks, are given. The statistics of population, the steamship routes and cable lines, are all brought up to date. The results of recent wars, cessations, frontier delimitations, and political changes are fully displayed. The railroads are all shown in red, avoiding the confusion of lines and the illegibility of names by which many atlases are disfigured. All important battlefields are plainly marked, and the dates affixed. The contour lines show mountains, hills and table-lands and water-sheds as clearly as a model in relief. Foreign words used in connection with place-names are translated. The historical maps illustrate the most important epochs of sacred as well as modern history.
