WAR BELIEVED THE ONLY SOLUTION.

British Colonial Office Is Done With Diplomatic Methods With the Transvaal.

KRUGER'S REPLY TANTAMOUNT TO POSITIVE REFUSAL.

CRISIS LIKELY TO SOON DEVELOP INTO HOSTILITIES.

Peaceful Ending of the Controversy, It is Stated. Only Possible Should the Boers Back Down, a Course Not Considered Probable.

ENGLAND'S PROPOSAL TURNED DOWN.

London, Aug. 21.—There is no longer any doubt that President Kruger has refused to submit to the demand of Secretary Chamberlain for the appointment of a court of inquiry. He may have done so diplomatically, hedging, but that his answer is regarded by the British government as tantamount to positive refusal is now an established fact.

The colonial office is normally non-committal, but there are other evidences which amply justify the statement, while the report that Kruger has proposed new terms is somewhat verified by the guarded comment of the colonial office officials. The colonial office today confirmed a dispatch from Cape Town that the Transvaal had handed its reply to the British agent at Pretoria, but added only this, "The reply is not a complete acceptance of the British proposals."

WAR THE ONLY SOLUTION.

Irritability is displayed there [colonial office]. There is not the slightest doubt that they now believe that war is the only way to settle the controversy. They would far rather have had a curt, defiant answer than the temporizing reply which the Boer president has sent. With the former Great Britain would have plain grounds for the quick commencement of hostilities. Under the circumstances which it is believed now exist aggressive action needs considerable explanation to justify it in the eyes of the world and the England faction who still declare that war would be an outrage.

However if Secretary Chamberlain has his way, it is believed Kruger's counter proposal will meet scant attention, and that unless the Boers completely back down, which is not likely, the crisis will quickly develop into war. It has developed that the war office has been aware of the nature of the Transvaal government's answer for several days, that it was communicated to the war office, hence it is probable that Great Britain will delay life denouement as little as possible.

CRISIS HANGING FIRE FOR YEARS

A high colonial official today said: "The kind of a game Kruger is playing must be clear to Americans. The protestation of the Boers that they wish to live a quiet, agricultural life may be the tune of some on the veldt, but the gang in Pretoria is simply after money. Though Kruger says many harsh things of the outlanders, he has never hesitated to make money out of them, either by fair or foul means. This Transvaal question cannot be judged by recent occurrences—you must go back fifty years. It has been hanging fire all the time, and the sooner it is settled now the better."

Though the official quoted did not actually say so, it was clear he believed that war is the only method of settlement. It is learned that the government is somewhat annoyed at the public's small interest in the Transvaal, and the official above mentioned said, "Dreyfus seems the only thing people think about, though England is in a most serious crisis."

A special dispatch from Cape Town says there is great danger of an outbreak of violence on the frontier; that the scum of South Africa are enlisting throughout the colony and are being sent to points on the border.

PRAYERS FOR PEACEFUL ENDING

Cape Town, Aug. 21.—Sunday was observed throughout the Orange Free State and Cape Colony with humiliation, prayers and sermons advocating a peaceful solution of the crisis. A leading Dutch Reform preacher said that if war were declared Great Britain would commit "a heinous crime before God and man, resulting in civil war in Cape Colony." There is evidence of growing uneasiness at Johannesburg.

According to Afrikaner reports, the Transvaal's reply is a counter proposal—a five years' retrospective franchise in the election of president and increased representation. It is said that the suggestion is made to submit all other differences to arbitration.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—The Neugate Nachrichten today published the following dispatch from Pretoria: "President Kruger a few days ago personally conducted church services prior to holding an official reception. In the course of the ceremony he prayed that if war were unavoidable, God might find right and truth on the side of the Afrikaners."

THINKS RUSSIA SATISFIED.

CZAR NOT TO GOBBLE MORE CHINESE TERRITORY ACCORDING TO THIS GERMAN DIPLOMAT.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—Baron Von Heyking, German minister to Peking, arrived here today on a leave of absence for one year. He declared in an interview that Russia does not intend to extend its possessions in China, and he added that a China-Japan treaty is impossible because of mutual hatred. The baron asserted that Germany's Chinese interests lie in the direction of the Yang-tse-Kiang.

RUSSIAN PARTY 3 SACRED.

Marseilles, Aug. 22.—News is received that a mission of Russian engineers and escorts was recently attacked by Chinese bands at Karin, on the Chinese-Russian frontier near the Manchuria railway. All were massacred. It is expected Russia will take reprisals.

FRENCH BATTLE IN THE SOUDAN.

OFFICER SENT TO REPLACE THE BARBAROUS LEADER OF AN EXPEDITION IS KILLED BY THE LATTER'S TROOPS, WITH ANOTHER OFFICER AND NINE MEN.

Paris, Aug. 22.—M. De Crais, minister for the colonies has received a dispatch from the governor general of French West Africa telling of the killing of Lieutenant Colonel Klobb and Lieutenant Meunier by the members of the French expedition under conduct of Captains Voulet and Chanoine in the French Soudan.

It appears that on news being received of barbarity by the Voulet-Chanoine mission towards the natives on the march toward Lake Chad, the Dupuy ministry instructed Lieutenant Klobb, who was at Kayes, to proceed with a column and overtake the mission, investigate the charges and assume command. On July 14 the Klobb party overtook the mission at Zimber, near Domangar. Lieutenant Klobb sent word to Captain Voulet, who replied he would shoot him if he advanced. Notwithstanding, Klobb advanced and made himself known to Voulet, who ordered him peremptorily to stop.

This order was disregarded, and when the Klobb party was within 150 meters of Voulet's troops the latter, on his order, fired three volleys, followed by independent firing. Lieutenant Meunier fell dead, and Lieutenant Klobb was wounded in the leg by the first volley and dispatched by being shot in the head. Captain Voulet then ordered a bayonet charge, and the remainder of the Klobb column fled, carrying their wounded and leaving, besides the two officers, nine men dead.

The survivors and ten wounded reached Bossou under command of a native sergeant. The Voulet-Chanoine mission has taken to the bush, but a strong column was to be sent in pursuit. The Figaro this [Tuesday] morning says that Captain Voulet has often talked of the possibility of establishing an African empire, and asks if he is about to attempt to realize the scheme.

EFFECT ON DREYFUS CASE.

London, Aug. 22.—The Rennes correspondent of The News, commenting on the effect which the murders of the French officers in the French Soudan will have upon the Dreyfus case, says: "Captain Chanoine is the son of General Chanoine, former minister for war, who joined with the other war ministers in swearing that Dreyfus was guilty."

Referring to General Chanoine's mysterious resignation from the Brisson cabinet, the correspondent says: "It is evident that the Nationalist leaders got wind of the atrocities committed by Captains Voulet and Chanoine in the Soudan on men, women and children which were of such character as to be unprintable. He entered the Brisson ministry pledged to support the revision of the Dreyfus case, but just as President Faure was blackmailed into opposing revision by threats to disclose certain family stories, so General Chanoine was blackmailed into resigning and renouncing his conscientious belief in the innocence of Dreyfus by threats to reveal the misdeeds of his son."

GUERIN'S COOK DESERTS HIM.

ANTI-JEWISH LEADER RUNNING SHORT OF FOOD, HE SAYS.

Paris, Aug. 21.—M. Guerin's cook has been removed to a hospital. He complains that his illness is due to privation and says Guerin has only twelve men with him and his provisions are nearly exhausted. Premier Waldeck-Rousseau has declined to allow the reconnection of the water supply or the revivification of Guerin's establishment.

INFANTRY ATTACKS THE HOUSE.

London, Aug. 22.—The Chronicle this [Tuesday] morning publishes the following from its Paris correspondence: "A detachment of infantry has just commenced an attack on M. Guerin's house which is likely to lead to bloodshed before morning. Nobody is allowed to approach the scene."

GERMAN CABINET OUT.

MINISTERS MEET AND DECIDE TO RESIGN IN A BODY.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—The cabinet met this afternoon at the residence of Prince Hohenzollern, the chancellor, and decided to resign in a body. The emperor will return to Berlin Wednesday, when, it is reported, he will preside at a cabinet council and decide what steps are to be taken.

All kinds of rumors are afloat. One paper asserts that the kaiser has accepted the resignation of the whole cabinet. Others are of the opinion that the fall of Von Miquel will entail the fall of Von Hohenzollern also, but nothing will be definitely known until the emperor arrives.

PRESIDENT OF THE COURT-MARTIAL HOISTS HIS TRUE COLORS.

LABORI IN COURT THIS MORNING.

Paris, Aug. 21.—A dispatch from Emms says that Schneider [former Austrian military attache at Paris] has started for Paris with the intention of instituting proceedings for forgery and the employment of forged documents against those responsible for the authorship and use of the letter which he has already distinctly repudiated.

[The letter referred to, it will be remembered, is one in which Schneider is alleged to have said that Schwartz and Panizzardi, of the German and Italian embassies, were trying to make out that it was not Dreyfus who gave them information and admitting he had no belief in these protestations. Schneider's disavowal caused a great sensation at the time (last week) and is regarded as having dealt a severe blow to the prosecution, killing the only point in General Mercier's evidence that was dangerous to Dreyfus.]

WOUNDED MAN ON DECK.

Rennes, Aug. 22.—The Dreyfus trial was resumed at 6:30 this [Tuesday] morning. Matri Labori is present. He drove to court in a carriage and entered the hall at 6:30. The audience greeted him by standing up and by a general clapping of hands.

M. Labori walked quite briskly, but holding his left arm close to his side in order not to disturb his wound. He met General Mercier and Billot in the middle of the court room and, stopping, chatted and smiled. He looks very well. He was given a cushioned chair. Madame Labori is also in court.

M. Labori was warmly congratulated by the friends of Dreyfus, who on entering smilingly shook hands with his lawyer. Colonel Jouaust addressed a few words of congratulation to M. Labori and expressed the profound indignation of the tribunal at the attempt to assassinate the counsel. M. Labori was much moved and thanked the president in an eloquent speech.

PROGRESS OF THE TRIAL.

Rennes, Aug. 21.—M. Labori was not present at the opening of the third week of the Dreyfus trial. He is progressing favorably, however.

The first witness was General Fabre, former chief of the fourth bureau of the general staff. He said he had compared the hand-writing of the bordereau with that of Dreyfus, to which it bore a remarkable resemblance. His "duties" put it in Dreyfus' power to disclose the documents referred to in the bordereau. Colonel D'Arbouville, former deputy chief of the fourth bureau, testified that the bordereau documents could have been communicated by Dreyfus, while the hand-writing bore a striking resemblance to his.

M. Rochefort, former chief of detectives, and Colonel Gribell, of the general staff, testified that they present when De Paty Du Clam subjected Dreyfus to the famous dictation test. They said that from the first the prisoner showed evident uneasiness and accounted for the shaking of his hand by saying the fingers were cold.

Major Lauth declared that the Schneider letter of Nov. 30, 1897, was authentic and had emanated from "Agent Pierre."

TELLS OF ANOTHER FORGERY.

Colonel Picquart testified concerning the alterations in the postal card known as the "Petit Bleu" after it had left his possession, words being erased and others written in.

Captain Juncke, probationer at the same time as Dreyfus, testified at some length, going into the particulars of Dreyfus' intrigues with women. He declared it utterly impossible for Colonel Henry to have divulged the documents referred to in the bordereau.

Dreyfus, replying to the witness, said he would not speak of the latter's confidences to him. He denied he [Dreyfus] had ever gambled at the club at Mans, and declared that the probationers at the time the bordereau was written knew they could not go to the maneuvers.

He had no information through a cousin in the foreign office, because he had no cousin there. As to the plans for provisioning the troops, he had helped to print part of them, but he only saw a small portion.

M. Bertulus and Colonel Picquart next testified in contravention of Captain Juncke's evidence, followed by General Goussin in support. Court then adjourned.

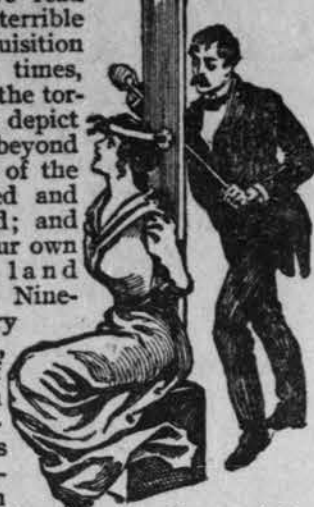

JOUAUST HOISTS HIS COLORS.

Three points stood out prominently at today's proceedings. They were President Jouaust's display of partiality, a new attitude for Dreyfus, and the contemptible conduct of the last witness—Captain Juncke. The spontaneous utterance of Captain Jouaust of the word "encore?" (again) when Colonel Picquart asked to be heard has been a leading topic of conversation this afternoon, as the president of the court-martial for the first time thus openly and candidly revealed his partiality and hoisted the anti-Dreyfusard colors. Throughout the trial neither he nor any of the judges have shown particular love for Colonel Picquart, but he has never committed such a flagrant violation of justice and his duties as judge as today.

Colonel Picquart's attitude was mainly one of independence and utter fearlessness.

HEROINES OF PEACE. When we read stories of the terrible Spanish Inquisition of the olden times, it seems as if the tortures they depict were almost beyond the invention of the most depraved and fiendish mind; and yet here in our own enlightened land and in this nineteenth century of civilization, thousands of tender women—our own sisters, mothers and wives—suffering from some unnatural weakness of the delicate organism of their sex, are daily undergoing an almost equally terrible, physical anguish and martyrdom.

It seemed as if there was an iron band around my head and it was being twisted tighter and tighter all the time," a New York lady said in trying to describe her terrible sensations. "I could not walk across my room without suffering dreadful pains," said another lady. Mrs. May E. Jones, of 530 Madison Ave., Ypsilanti, Mich., in a letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I was troubled with female weakness. I had suffered for two years when I began taking your medicine but now after taking three bottles Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I am free from pain. I do all my housework and walk where I please—thanks to Dr. Pierce's medicine." "It is the only medicine that relieved my terrible headaches," said Mrs. R. P. Mouton, of Lebanon, Warren Co., Ohio. "In very truth it is the only medicine ever invented that delicate and ailing women can positively rely upon to give them complete and permanent relief."

People who are paying twenty-five per cent more for their meats than they should be compelled to, because of manipulation of the market by the beef trust, would like to know if that trust is one of those "judicious combinations of capital" that Senator McMillan thinks are a good thing for the country.

The Escanaba Iron Port of Escanaba says General Alger's senatorial candidacy is gaining in popularity with the people since he left the cabinet. But the general declares that he is "out of politics" for keeps, or is reported as having so declared, in which case the turn of popular sentiment in his favor will not be permitted to bear political fruit.

Speaking at a Primrose meeting in London last week the earl of Denbigh made the remarkable statement that "if the break-up of the British empire is wanted all we have to do is to show a weak front in South Africa; Great Britain has to win the next trick there, whether by diplomacy or other means." It is news to the world that the vaunted power of the great United Kingdom might be so easily broken that it could not withstand so inconsequential a reverse as failure to destroy the Dutch republic in South Africa would be. The admission of the noble earl was a most incautious and damaging one if the facts warrant it.

Secretary of War Root gives it out cold that General Otis will not be replaced by General Miles, or any other general, as commander of our forces in the Philippines. The "round robin" of the newspaper correspondents at Manila has failed to accomplish what it was intended to, obviously, and a worthy officer will not be sacrificed to placate the gang of "war correspondents" of yellow papers who have been endeavoring to work the trouble in the Philippines for the benefit of the unscrupulous sheets by which they are employed. It is well.

A Chicago judge has imposed a fine of $100 and costs on a faith curist on conviction of violating the medical practice and in administering to Mrs. Annetta Flanders, who died under the faith "divine-healing" treatment. The Dowle treatment comprises the laying on of hands. The court held that under the law these healers must resort only to spiritual and mental means of treating the sick. When material means are added the state law governing the practice of medicine is violated. To the faith healer even the ordinary means to assist nature are denied hereafter, because the court held that all that a physician or surgeon does is to assist nature. This is certainly an original and interesting decision.

SECRETARY ROOT AND GENERAL MILES. The report comes from Washington that the new secretary of war and General Miles are not in accord regarding the plan of campaign to be followed in the Philippines when aggressive operations against the insurgents shall be resumed in the late fall. The secretary is bent on forcing the fighting and bringing the war to a close, holding that this can be done when the army under General Otis is strengthened by the addition of the fresh troops now being raised for that purpose, while General Miles insists on a tactical campaign which would involve considerable delay.

The secretary of war is not a military man, and it would seem that he ought to give consideration to the views of the commander of the army in matters purely military. But it is well known that the advice of General Miles was disregarded in the Cuban campaign, yet that resulted in complete success in a much shorter time than seemed possible when the object of driving out the Spaniards, General Miles does not appear to have the confidence of his superiors at Washington, for some reason, and is faring no better under Secretary Root than he did under the latter's predecessor.

The statement is made, also, that the plan of General Miles for organizing the new army, as also his recommendations for officering it, have been disregarded by the secretary of war. If all that we hear concerning the relations between Miles and the administration is true the proper thing for General Miles to do would be to tender his resignation and follow General Egan—the other principal in the "embalmed beef" controversy—into retirement. He is cutting but a sorry figure as commander-in-chief of the army, in spite of the gorgeousness of his numerous uniforms.

arbitration commission. That we are not willing to do, therefore we must be conscious that we are claiming more than rightfully belongs to us. The logic of Sir Charles is simple but effective. It entirely ignores the fact that we may feel so certain of the justice of what we claim in the boundary matter that we are not willing to risk losing what we honestly believe to be ours by taking chances on the verdict of an arbitration commission, which is about as uncertain a thing as that of a petit jury in an ordinary court case.

But there is a way of beating us out, Sir Charles believes, even if we cannot be bluffed or coaxed into leaving our dispute with Canada over the Alaskan boundary line to a commission of arbitration. That is by building a railway exclusively through British territory to Dawson City, and thus obtaining a monopoly of the transportation business of the Klondike region, supplementing this by enacting a law prohibiting any but British subjects from mining gold on the Yukon. The Americans are purposefully delaying a settlement of the boundary dispute, he declares, in order that our coast cities and miners may get as large an opportunity as possible out of the development of the Klondike district, but if the railroad he suggests should be built and the law he proposes passed there would be no longer anything to be gained by us through putting off an agreement in regard to the boundary line.

Sir Charles is suspiciously eager to have the question disposed of by arbitration, but the bluff he makes about building a railway and making a law that will shut American trade and miners out of the Klondike will not dispose of the American people to favor that way of settling the controversy. We are the most neighborly people on earth—and about the hardest to drive.

CAUSE OF HIGH PRICED MEATS. A sharp advance has come in the price of meats, the packers claiming that this is caused by scarcity of cattle. If it came from that cause there would be no sense in complaining of it. But does it? Many of the journals which have investigated the matter say not. "The sole cause," avers one of these, the Boston Traveller, "is a speculative movement on the part of five Chicago firms which, united, control the beef market," and it explains what they are seeking to do and describes their methods in this article:

The beef trust is engaged in a vigorous effort to drive Australian beef from the markets of Great Britain. To that end prices are being cut liberally on beef for export. Today American beef can be bought cheaper in England than it can be here. The loss made there for speculative purposes must be made up in this country, so the increase is made without a thought of the rights of consumers. The Beef Trust, or the Big Five, is composed of these firms: Armour & Co., the Cudahy Packing company, Swift & Co., Nelson, Morris & Co. and the Schwarzchild & Sulzberger company. These are the concerns by which beef has been advanced from 6 1/2 to 8 1/2 cents a pound to the butchers, and prices to consumers in many sections have been advanced from two to three cents. Butchers are now compelled to pay from $20 to $25 more for a dressed steer than they paid four months ago.

The law of supply and demand has no effect upon beef prices. It will be remembered that when the Vest committee investigated the beef combine it was asserted that representatives of the packers met every day and fixed the prices which shippers should receive for hogs, hogs and sheep. There is no doubt that this agreement is in force now, but it is next to impossible to obtain proof. The rancher and farmer are at the mercy of the trust. They must accept the prices agreed upon, no matter what the condition of supply and demand. What was true seven years ago is true today.

The question now is, how long will this nation endure to be at the mercy of the beef trust gamblers? The nation has endured seeing the packers combine reduce the retail trade to a state of serfdom; it has made no objection to having that combine so shape things that it fixes the price it pays the raisers of cattle in the west, and that which the dressed meats are retailed for to the consumers all over the country; the people have stood inertly while the "big five" were, step by step, strengthening their hold on the trade, beginning with the cattle raiser and ending with the retail dealer, and made no protest, and they will endure to the end. It is too much trouble for the masses of the people to think and more yet to act, so they stolidly endure. There may be some complaining because we are paying excessive prices for meats in order that American packers may break down competition from Australia in the markets of Great Britain, but we will have to pay the price or go without until it suits the interests of the packers to ease up a bit.

THE SITUATION IN FRANCE. Pere Hyacinthe, the well known independent clergyman of Paris, has an article in a New York paper which throws considerable light upon the social and political conditions of France as revealed by the Dreyfus case. He says, among other things, that he has never known France to be on so low a plane, morally, as now, and that the whole case is a revival of the mediæval and fanatical hatred of Jews. Certain journals have poisoned the minds of the people and a clerico-military combination has selected Dreyfus as a victim. "When I speak of a clerico-military combination I do not include Pope Leo," says the Pere, "who is always just and who is believed to be the fanatical part of the French clergy, just as he could not stop their fanatical attacks upon the illustrious archbishop of Minnesota."

Father Hyacinthe characterizes General Mercier's iteration that England and Germany contributed enormous sums to the Dreyfus campaign as "bebetudinous drivel;" and he adds that since he espoused the cause of the much-persecuted captain he has discovered political corruptionists in France compared with whom our most maligned public men are white-winged angels. Dreyfus, he believes, is morally acquitted, but the moral condition of France is so undermined by the immoralities connected with this case that another St. Bartholomew massacre would not surprise him. It is to be hoped that Father Hyacinthe exaggerates the intensity of the public feeling. The mercenary French people are given to much loud talk and violent gesturing, but there is probably good sense and self-restraint at the bottom to prevent the overturning of society. If Dreyfus is acquitted, his persecutors, with the enlightened public opinion of the world against them, will hardly dare resort to extreme measures to express their displeasure. Should they start a campaign of murder and arson they would receive no more consideration than did the members of the commune that took possession of Paris after the German invasion.—Minneapolis Tribune.

STATUS OF AFFAIRS IN CUBA. General A. G. Greenwood of Santiago de Cuba, a Virginian who was on Lee's staff in the civil war and had an important, but unpublished, American mission in the campaign in Cuba last year, was in Boston last week.

About three months ago the general purchased a couple of islands on the northeastern coast of Cuba, for $1,000,000. For the same he has been called in several newspapers "the prince of the gardens of the king," his property belonging to the group known in Spanish as "Jardines del Rey."

Touching on affairs in Cuba, General Greenwood said: "The situation in Cuba at present is one of general quiet. Although the people are orderly, they are plainly dissatisfied on account of the suspense due to doubt over the present attitude of the United States. That is to say, there is appreciable uneasiness on account of the question whether the island shall have independent government or shall be annexed to the United States, and this involves the racial question, which is bound to be always of the greatest importance."

"There are two kinds of people in Cuba, you know—Cubans, with a large percentage of people of negro blood, and Spaniards; and the negro element on the island, in most sections, is twice as numerous as the Spanish element. Excepting the better class of native Cubans, who have had some education, have brains and civilization, and have acquired money enough to be considered well off, the Spanish residents in the cities and towns are the most enlightened and most influential people on the island. The Spaniards own a greater part of the property in nearly every community."

"Now, the fact is today that the Cubans, as a class, want independence, and the Spaniards want either annexation or governmental administration by the United States—simply because, to tell the truth, they are afraid of the Cubans. Without American military control of the island, danger of internal revolution, aimed especially at Spanish property holders, would be great. Meanwhile, thousands of poor Cubans out of work would be found in the woods, getting a living by robbing and committing depredations against all laws, and there would be a condition of things nearly as bad as that which caused the United States to interfere against Spanish rule. For the welfare of all the people, I am decidedly in favor of annexation. It is the only sure remedy. And under competent civil administration the island will become safe for all sorts of people, very handsomely prosperous and wholly civilized."

"Perhaps General Brooke, who is one of the finest gentlemen I have ever met, and a military man to the letter, has not had opportunity to make himself familiar with the peculiar characteristics of the native Cubans, who, as I said, constitute the majority of the population of the island. At any rate, General Wilson and General Wood certainly have gone out of their way to investigate the temperament of the people, their actual economic condition and their tendencies and preferences. Wilson and Wood are two of the most capable men in the United States army. They are not only well-trained soldiers, but also men who possess sound business judgment."

"General Wood has shown what he can do through his wonderful administration in Santiago. He has changed the face of the earth in the city of Santiago. But it is to Wilson, who is at Matanzas, that I look with the greatest admiration that I have for any officer in the United States army, excepting General Miles alone. Wilson is one of the ablest business men that I have ever met in all my life."

"The trouble with Brooke has been, in Cuba, that he has known an order when he has got it, and hasn't known anything else. Perhaps that assertion sounds a little harsh. I might put it into better words by saying that General Brooke has carried out every order he has received from the war department in the pleasure of a journey lay in the interesting people they met en route, and the opportunity that was afforded for a panoramic view of human nature. I am convinced that 95 per cent of the patrons of any road regard the privacy of a compartment as a positive infliction."

HIS LIFE WAS SAVED. Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." DIVING FOR FIREWOOD. Fun On the Beach When the Wood Box Is Being Filled.

Boys whose most distasteful task is to keep the wood box filled, or who are expected to split the kindling wood every night, would undoubtedly enjoy living in Hawaii. Firewood there is not only very scarce, but they get it out of the water, another feature of the matter which would probably appeal to such of the boys as delight in "going swimming." Upon the shores of Hawaii firewood is a scarce and precious commodity. The present forests do not grow near the sea, and the labor of bringing wood from the distant timber is great, especially as roads are few. Practically all the firewood of the natives, and much that is used by the Europeans in the towns, is drift that is brought down periodically from the uplands by freshets that follow heavy rains.

There is nothing strange in all this, but what is strange is the way the natives gather the wood. Pick it up on the beach? Not at all. At least, very little is obtained in that commonplace manner. Much of the island timber is extremely heavy, and instead of floating in orthodox fashion as wood should do it promptly sinks to the bottom. As the freshets gather headway, down come the heavy tree trunks and branches, dashing fiercely against the rough lava sides of the stream and bumping against the bottom till all semblance of their original shape is lost, and they are bruised into shapeless blocks or split into kindling.

The current carries them well into the ocean, where they settle in the sand. The first stage of their journey is over; now for the second. In a day or two the ocean rises in its might and sends in huge breakers upon the shores, which catch the logs and splinters and roll them over and over, still on the bottom, toward the beach.

Here is the native's chance. He has been waiting long for just such an opportunity. Down to the shore come the Kanakas in troops. No one is left behind save the sick and the blind. Men, women and children are all on the beach, having an eye both to business and to pleasure. The women are clad in old, loose holakus, a garment I may best describe by likening it to the original "Mother Hubbard." The men doff their garments and don the economical malo, or waistcloth. The children follow suit, so far as doffing goes, and don—well, to tell the truth, most of them don nothing, and if they are satisfied, you and I need not complain. And now for it.

The men dash into the breakers, diving under the big combers and rising on the crests of the smaller ones till they are out shoulder high; then they feel around with their feet till they find a piece of wood—it may be only a splinter, or it may be a log so large as to require the aid of a rope to pull it in; but, large or small, no matter. Down dives the Kanaka head foremost to seize the prize. The women and children wade in a little distance to catch the smaller pieces that get past the men, and soon the piles on the shore grow from nothing to cords.

A hardy native will stay in the water, wading and diving for a couple of hours, and then come out, pretty thoroughly chilled, to sun himself on the beach in readiness for another bout with the waves, meantime solacing himself with the inevitable pipe or cigarette. Hard work is this wood gathering by diving, what between the buffeting of the waves, the cold and the labor of tugging the logs ashore. But for all that shouts and laughter fill the air, and one might suppose the occasion was a summer picnic.

Whatever his faults, the Kanaka has not added to the gloom and discontent of the world. He endures disappointment and misfortune with equanimity, and when the clouds pass and the sun shines he is ready to laugh and be glad.—Youth's Companion.

AN AMERICAN CHARACTERISTIC. "The average American doesn't want privacy when traveling," said an experienced sleeping car conductor. "He likes to meet strangers and chat with people he wouldn't come in contact with in every-day life. For many years the promiscuous mingling of passengers was supposed by railroad theorists to be an objectionable feature of the American system, and there was endless harping on the advantage of the English compartment. This idea was carried out in the construction of the 'Mann boudoir,' which was undoubtedly one of the most ingenious and elegant sleeping cars ever designed, but, strange to say, it has enjoyed only a limited popularity. The Pullman company is now building a new compartment car with a center aisle, and a number of them are in use on the Northern lines, but the experience of over a dozen years has convinced me that the great majority of people who travel prefer the old-style coach. I have heard passengers declare repeatedly that the pleasure of a journey lay in the interesting people they met en route, and the opportunity that was afforded for a panoramic view of human nature. I am convinced that 95 per cent of the patrons of any road regard the privacy of a compartment as a positive infliction."

CLEANED OUT THE CAMP. Plutes Play a Losing Game of Poker With Two Pale Faces.

When the Union Pacific train pulled into Elko, Nev., and the passengers were informed that it would be held there for several hours, on account of a freight wreck ahead, there was intense disgust, and a great many unpleasant things were said concerning everybody, from the board of directors to the section boss.

Mark Thrall, of the San Francisco Alcazar management, and George Davis, who comes east every summer to buy goods, were particularly frank and outspoken in their criticisms, and finally settled back gloomily to kill time in somber introspection. It was not until a train had casually mentioned that the Plutes from a neighboring reservation were nearby, engaged in a colossal gambling festival, that the belated travelers emerged from their gloom.

The fame of these Indian poker games, the skill of the gamblers and the reckless stakes involved, were not unknown to them. And so when Mr. Davis threw out a feeler about going over to look on Mr. Thrall accepted the very admirable suggestion without argument. It was really most picturesque, novel and exciting. The bravest of the Plute bucks, headed by a grandson of the tricky old war chief, Winnemucca, were deep in the game.

A gauzy blanket was spread upon the ground and the dusky gamblers sat huddled about it, dealing and conning the greasy cards with impulsive stolidity. Bits of stick served as substitutes for chips. There was real money at stake, and when an Indian sport went shy of legal tender, he had a pony or two, and certain personal belongings, to fall back on. A Plute Indian will gamble the shirt off his back.

The palefaces from the Golden Gate began to feel violently interested. They knew a few things, or thought they did, about the national game. Everybody ignored them. No one gave them even a fleeting glance. The Plutes are not a cordial, courteous, or demonstrative people. Finally, unable longer to bear the strain, Mr. Thrall rather diffidently suggested that himself and friend would not be wholly averse to taking a hand. A grunt of assent ran around the table, or, to be more accurate, the gaudy blanket, and the circle was augmented by two.

The war of races was very stubbornly contested, but when the Pullman car porter came over to notify them that the track was cleared, Messrs. Thrall and Davis had accumulated about all the ready money in the tribe, to say nothing of various lethal weapons, buckskin shirts, war bonnets and specimens of headwork. The porter could scarcely stagger beneath their weight. Winnemucca, who was pretty well cleaned out, put aside his stoical reserve sufficiently to implore the travelers for just one more jackpot. He hadn't much money, he confessed, but he was willing to stake his wife and two children and a piebald pony. He manifested great disappointment when it was explained that the train wouldn't wait.

Despite all the refinements of civilization, and the wise admonitions of the missionary preachers, the Plutes had not learned to realize the dangers of going up against a paleface traveling man and a theatrical manager. But experience is always purchasable, and they know better now. If there is any exceptional suffering and destitution at the Winnemucca agency the coming winter, and another Indian uprising should occur, Messrs. Thrall and Davis will have the guilty knowledge that they were largely responsible for the contributory causes.—New York Telegraph.

A SHOWER OF GOLD. Information received by the director of the mint in regard to the production of gold in the first half of the present year indicates an enormous increase over the product of the like period in 1898, breaking all records and promising an output that will make the silverite's talk of a gold famine obviously absurd. The production of the United States in 1898 was $64,463,000, of Australia $67,000,000, of South Africa $86,290,653, but the indications of the last six months point to a total production for the whole of 1899 of $74,000,000 in the United States, $79,900,000 in Australia and over $100,000,000 in South Africa. Add to this that Canada, which produced $13,775,420 of gold in 1898, will probably produce $23,000,000 during 1899, and an idea will be obtained of the rapid growth of volume the world's standard money metal is attaining. There is every reason to believe that the product of $296,000,000 of gold in 1898 will be swollen to over $350,000,000 in 1899 and $410,000,000 in 1900.—The Baltimore Sun.

TWO DIE THROUGH ACCIDENT.
MAN DROWNS AT THE ENTRY AND ANOTHER FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON THE TRACK AT REDRIDGE.

A sad case of drowning occurred Friday afternoon at Portage Entry, the victim being J. W. Neiml, a Finn, who it was stated had served in Cuba as a member of Company D of Calumet, although this report could not be confirmed yesterday. It seems that Neiml went to Portage Entry about a week ago to visit some friends. Friday afternoon, accompanied by his partner, he went bathing in the river about two miles from Powell & Mitchell's saw mill. Where they entered the river was shallow, but suddenly they found themselves in deep water, when the victim was taken with a cramp and seized his partner. Both men went down together, and the second time Neiml released his hold and did not come up again. The body was recovered Saturday noon, when the sheriff and Justice Brand were notified and went to the Entry on the tug Hennes. The evidence before the coroner's jury was, in substance, that outlined above and a verdict of accidental drowning was rendered. The body was taken to Lange's undertaking rooms, from which place the funeral was held yesterday morning. It is believed that relatives of the deceased reside in the vicinity of Calumet.

FOUND LABORERS SCARCE.
AGENT ST. JOHN HAD NO SNAP IN PROCURING MEN FOR COPPER RANGE ROAD WORK.
That the good times are not confined to this section of the country, and that the East, as well, is wrestling with the labor problem, is well borne out by this article reproduced from the Milwaukee Sentinel of Sunday:
Labor Agent C. W. St. John has returned from a trip through the East, where he went to look for Italians to employ on railroad extension work in Upper Michigan. His trip developed the fact that laborers are scarce in New York and other Eastern cities, but that wages paid in this section are better than those in the cities of the East.

SPLENDID RESULTS AT VICTORIA.
BIG MASS OF COPPER IS TAKEN OUT WITH MORE IN SIGHT.
Miners from the Victoria report a mass weighing 1,500 pounds having been taken out last week, with several more in sight. This copper is being found seven feet back of the footwall of the shaft wrought by the old company, and tends to confirm the claim made by old residents that the Forest company, which formerly worked this property, mined the vein only in the hanging wall where it was heaviest in mass and barrel copper. The claim is made by old timers that the Forest company paid for the sinking of No. 1 shaft from the mass and barrel work taken out, ten tons having been secured in the first 100 feet of sinking. Everything is in readiness for hoisting from No. 3 shaft, the machinery being installed and working nicely. The company has completed about twenty-five dwellings, and all are already occupied. The erection of more houses will be started at once, and by the time snow falls this will be one of the liveliest little towns in Ontonagon county.

OTHER ONTONAGON PROPERTIES.
A movement is on foot with a view to the renewal of operations at the Nonessuch and White Pine mines, in the Porcupine mountain district. In another year the whole country between the Victoria and Lake Gogebic promises to display the same activity as is shown today between Houghton and Ontonagon. A force of twenty men under Captain Thomas Buzzo of Laurium is conducting operations at the Belt mine. The shaft on the Knowlton lode is unwatered, and the drifts are being gotten in shape for mining operations. F. H. Begole of Marquette has purchased the lands of the Devon and Tremont properties, lying immediately west of the Victoria mine and carrying all of the Victoria lodes for a mile and a quarter.

IMPROVEMENT AT ATLANTIC.
It will be welcome information to a great many to learn that a decided improvement has taken place in the underground appearance at the Atlantic, and the product of the past week, with the same amount of rock treated as heretofore, has been greater than for any similar period within a year. The increase promises to continue, as the bottom of the mine is furnishing excellent results, especially at the south end. "A" shaft continues to improve with depth, while No. 3 shaft presents a better appearance than for years.

GLEANNED IN KEWEENAW.
The old village of Phoenix, which for years had been deserted, has taken a considerable life of late, and now compares favorably with many of the towns in Keweenaw. The houses have all been re-shingled, painted and otherwise improved. The shaft at the St. Clair is being pumped out, and at the old Phoenix property work is well under way with a good sized force. At the Arnold a new shaft has been started about 900 feet east of No. 1.

COPPER SCARCE AT 184C.
We have canvassed the copper situation and find that Lake copper can be bought only of the Calumet & Hecla company at 184c. Nearly every other copper mining company in the country is now sold up and out of the market at this price.—Boston News Bureau of Saturday.
THE VISIBLE SUPPLY OF COPPER.
The considerable apparent increase in the European stocks of copper during the second half of July was not altogether a surprise to the trade, and some operators look for a further increase during the first half of August. How much of the nominal gain was real it is rather difficult to determine. We do not question the honesty of the reports made by the well known firms of metal dealers which publish the statistics; but they necessarily depend on the figures fur-

ROCKLAND'S BUILDING BOOM.
The building boom at Rockland is scarcely exceeded by that of any town in the copper district. The new structures going up are of a substantial order and the village being the natural center of the Ontonagon mining district, it is attracting capital for permanent investment. George Stannard led a contract to Evans & Co. last week for a $6,000 residence that will contain all modern improvements. The material for the new depot being built for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company is on the ground, while the steel for the new bridge at Forest Landing will be delivered this week. The $25,000 hotel being built by the Jeffs estate will be open for business about Nov. 1, and the new and handsome bank building will be ready about the same time. The bank, by the way, is doing an excellent business, and last week a burglar-proof safe weighing 7,000 pounds was received for this institution. At the Michigan mine nearly 200 men are employed. New houses are being erected in large numbers, and also residences for Superintendent Brady and Captain Thomas.

SAD HAVOC BY STORM.
This county was visited by another terrible rain storm Sunday afternoon. There was an Irish picnic, a Finnish picnic and a German picnic at Haas' grove, and at each gathering the pleasure was marred by the showers. During the storm a scowload of rock belonging to Porter Bros. got away at the Canal and the rock was lost overboard. Many of the new buildings under way throughout the county suffered considerably, while the sand bank in the rear of the Quincy warehouse was badly washed away, doing much damage to the building and contents. Forces of men were at work at Hancock yesterday morning clearing away the debris opposite the city hall.
ANOTHER STEAMER PUT ON.
In order to accommodate its fast increasing business, the Howard Transportation company has secured the steamer City of Marquette for the balance of the season. The boat will be run in connection with the Bon Voyages. Freight will now be received for shipment to Eagle Harbor, Pequauming, Baraga, Skanee and Marquette. The Bon Voyage will continue to run on her present time card, and the City of Marquette will leave Duluth every Thursday.
The tug Ethel J., owned by James Pryor, sank Sunday morning at Carroll's dock in fifteen feet of water. A force of men was engaged in the work of raising the craft yesterday.

BIG LOSS BY FIRE AT VICTOR, COLO.

Business Portion of That Gold Mining Camp Utterly Destroyed.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT TWO AND A HALF MILLION DOLLARS.

FRANTIC EFFORTS TO CHECK THE FLAME ARE UNAVAILING.

Town Was Built for the Most Part of Pine Timber and the Flames Made a Clean Sweep Consuming Everything in Their Path.

INHABITANTS FLED FOR THEIR LIVES. Cripple Creek, Colo., Aug. 21.—Fire has utterly destroyed the business portion of the city of Victor, causing a loss conservatively estimated at two million dollars.

Beginning shortly after noon, the flames raged until evening, consuming everything in their way. The origin is thought to have been at the Merchants' cafe, adjoining the Bank of Victor. The town was built in the early days of the camp, was of pine timber, for the most part, and burned like paper. Efforts were made to stop the progress of the flames by blowing up buildings in the path, but in vain.

Among the lost buildings were: Bank of Victor, Postoffice, Victor Banking company, Western Union Telegraph office, Office Colorado Telephone company, Hotel Victor, Three great shafthouses of the Gold Coin Mining company, Ore bins of the Florence and Cripple Creek companies, Depot of the Midland Terminal road.

Hurrying before the roaring flames went men, women and children, carrying what they could snatch from the flames and running for their lives.

A special train from Cripple Creek took three companies of firemen, with apparatus, all of whom worked all afternoon in a vain endeavor to check the fire. The residence portions suffered comparatively little, but the business portion is paralyzed.

Later—the fire was gotten under control this evening. A conservative estimate now places the loss at two and a half million dollars.

WANTED:

Men to Make Us Room!

See Below:

Some few months ago, before the manufacturers boosted their prices because of the increased cost of material, we purchased a large line of fall goods. They are coming now—sooner than we figured on—and we find we must make room for them. To do this, we have inaugurated a grand clearing sale, cutting the prices on all summer-wear goods to just about actual cost; for instance: $4.75 buys a man's all-wool suit that formerly sold at $6.00 and was cheap at that. A call will, we think, convince you that this is a bonafide sale—not an advertising dodge.

NOTHING WILL COME OF IT.

IT IS NOT PROBABLE THAT THERE WILL BE ANY IMMEDIATE DEMAND FOR INCREASED PAY FROM THE MEN AT THE MINES.

It is generally believed that Sunday's mass meeting failed to accomplish what the men who arranged it sought to bring about, and that there is no immediate danger of trouble at the mines resulting from a demand for a higher scale of wages. The meeting is not regarded as giving augury of ill results, and very little importance is attached to it. It is most probable that the only purpose of the meeting was to show what certain gentlemen would like to have the miners do, rather than what the men are likely to do of their own volition, or under the persuasion of bad advisers.

There is hardly a possibility of any general trouble along the lines laid down by the speakers at Sunday's meeting. This, well as the advice given, if followed, would result disastrously for the city. Decided advances in the wage scales will have to be made within a few months. In all probability they will be announced at the first of the coming year. There is no reason to doubt that the raises will be satisfactory to the men. The companies will be able to grant them and will willingly do so.

Nothing would be gained by endeavoring to force the companies by making premature demands. Eight months of this year have passed. Only four are left in the year of '99. The first of 1900 will undoubtedly see a revision of the wage scale that will be satisfactory to the men. They would be unwise if they tried to crowd things when what they desire will come naturally in such a short time.

If demands were made at this time, allowing that they would ultimately be granted, there would be a period, shorter or longer according to the circumstances, when the men would not work, pending a settlement. This would result badly for the general welfare of the city. It would be inevitable that much time would be lost, while if the men and companies got at loggerheads there would be no telling what the result would be.

Happily there is little dissatisfaction among the men and what exists is diffused in a comparatively limited circle. If the men are not entirely satisfied with the wage scale they are at least satisfied that it will be bettered before many months have passed, and are disposed to wait the action of their employers. If the new schedule is unsatisfactory they can put their grievance in definite form and then act accordingly. Now they have no well defined complaint. If they should follow the advice given Sunday they would receive very little sympathy, as their action would be ill judged and indiscreet.

The meeting Sunday was ill-timed, and it would have been better if it had not been held. It did no good, and if it had borne the fruit those instrumental in assembling it desired it would have been the means of causing much trouble for many people here, a decided loss for the business men, and a further misunderstanding between the men and the companies. Luckily it seems to have failed of its purpose and it is almost certain that the men will quietly await the time when the companies will grant fair advances voluntarily.

GLEE CLUB FRIDAY NIGHT.

The members of the University of Cincinnati Summer club will give a concert in the opera house Friday night. The organization is composed of six students of the University of Cincinnati who are also members of the University Glee and Mandolin club. The summer club is now filling an engagement at the Hotel Superior at Marquette. A rounding program of popular college music is given. It consists of both sextette selections and music from the mandolin club and is first class in every sense of the word.

The club is comprised of the following young men: Charles W. Adler, leader of the mandolin club; Walter H. Geier, business manager; Morris R. Ebersole, leader of the glee club; George Jackson, Walter E. Murray and Paul R. Ingies.

The club recently gave a concert at Marquette which was one of the successes of the present theater season. It brought out a packed house. Following are extracts from the commendatory notice given the organization: "Musically as well as socially, the concert was a success. The program was quite varied and there was something in it to suit nearly every legitimate taste. The members of the sextette sing and play together admirably and show the effect of their college musical training. From a vocal standpoint the club is stronger than it was when it appeared here a year ago, at which time it was lacking a high tenor."

"Ganne's 'La Czarina' was one of the most taking of the numbers not distinctly of the 'college' stamp. This was an instrumental number. The songs were mostly of the 'college' variety, and these were rendered as only college boys are able to sing them. That they were well sung and very popular with the audience was shown by the successive encores."

"The club's soloist, Morris Ebersole, repeated his hit of a year ago with his comic selections. 'Hello Ma Baby', in which the club assisted on the chorus, was probably the best of his numbers. By request Walter Geier delighted the audience with a couple selections on the Keywestola, an instrument of his own design, a cross between a violin and a cigar box. Contrary to what might be expected, the tones he produced from it had considerable melody and his skill in performing proves him to be the premier Keywestola artist of the concert stage."

MICHIGAN TO THE FRONT.

C. J. Byrns, state deputy for the Modern Woodmen, is in receipt of a summary showing the work in the interests of Woodcraft by the deputies of the various states in the seven months from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1. Illinois stands first, with a total of eighty-four new camps with a total of 5,225 members. Michigan is third on the list with seventy-six new camps and a total of 4,620 new members. The work is credited to the state deputies but the greater part of it is done by their deputies, under their supervision. Mr. Byrns works in Michigan with a comparatively small number of deputies and upon a smaller population, therefore in all respects his record for hard and effective work is the best of the deputies of the three leading states.

RENOVATING OPERA HOUSE.

Manager Butler has let a contract to Trembath Bros. for a complete renovation of the Ishpeming Opera House. Six men were started on the work yesterday and it will be rushed to completion before Thursday night, when the Busby & Davis Uncle Tom's Cabin company appears. The woodwork is to be repainted. The ceiling will be calcimined and the walls newly papered. The house will be brightened up in every way. Mr. Butler has some good bookings for the coming season and several first class attractions will be offered.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

J. C. Ulrich of Marquette was here yesterday.

William Kelly and wife of Vulcan were here yesterday.

C. A. Mayworm and wife of Houghton were here yesterday, en route for Chicago.

The members of the Cincinnati Glee club were here yesterday working up interest of their concert.

Mrs. Dr. Barts and family, Mrs. Menard and Mrs. Clowson, all of Chicago, are visiting in the city.

Nels Robbins is busy now taking the school census of the city. There is considerable work on the job.

Frank Erditz, representing the Menominee River Brewing company, was here on business yesterday.

Antoine Brosco of Excessor street lost an infant child by death Sunday. The funeral was held yesterday.

Reserved seats for Busby & Davis' Uncle Tom's cabin show will be put on sale at the usual place today.

The five months old daughter of James Olds of Empire street died yesterday. The funeral will be held today.

Camp Nine is being occupied this week by the families of George A. Newett and Captain Walters, who are enjoying an outing of some days at the club house.

There will be a dancing party at Anderson's hall this evening, arranged by the "Benedicts." It will be a pleasant affair and the attendance will be large.

The Juvenile and Senior Recheabites will give an excursion and basket picnic to Marquette next Saturday. It will make the trip over the L. S. & I. road.

Among the Chicago people who took advantage of the cheap excursion from Chicago to this city to visit friends here are Mrs. O. A. Sinclair, Thomas Pearce and Charles and John Hultquist.

The heavy showers Sunday afternoon interfered with the picnic at Pearce's grove given by the Catholic Foresters of this city. A goodly number went out to the grounds in the morning and early in the afternoon but the rain put an end to the enjoyment.

During the past few days there have been many visitors here who were attracted to this section by the grand lodge and annual celebration of the Sons of St. George. They have been renewing old acquaintance and taking in the sights of the city and vicinity.

Ishpeming broke even with Marinette in the base ball games played Saturday and Sunday. The first game was won by a score of sixteen to eight. The boys say that it should have been about sixteen to two. Marinette took the second game, which was evenly contested, by a score of seven to five.

Peter Kaspar, late of Menominee but now of Marquette, and Irwin Williams will meet in a five-mile bicycle race, best two out of three heats, at Union park next Saturday. Kaspar is one of the speediest riders who has been in this section, and Williams will have to work hard to beat him. Kaspar raced in the L. A. W. meet at Janesville against the crackerjacks of the wheel and showed wonderful form. Williams acknowledges that he expects to have to ride the hardest race of his career. Barrett, the ice walker, will also give an exhibition of speedy walking.

THE AMERICAN CHARACTER.

Investigation Seems to Prove That It Can Stand the Test of Comparison.

It is quite easy for the scientists to trace the development of the human body and the effects of foods and climate and temperatures upon the human animal. The affluent medical literature of the day is full of instances in which the animal-man has been under rigid and productive investigation, every part of him and every fiber of him yielding information for a better appreciation of his physical self. And thus there are numerous prophecies, as to the future form and semblance of this interesting creature, and we are satisfied to know that while bald heads are increasing and dentists multiply, and other specialists abound more numerous each year, the prospect is that man is not going to be civilized into a breathing mummy for many centuries to come.

But it is different with the finer part of the animal. Even the specialists cannot keep a finger on the pulse of character. It is hard to take character's temperature, for the standards vary more than do cheap thermometers. We see as far as today, and tomorrow has its mysteries, while yesterday is forgotten. In all literature, there is not an absolutely truthful presentation of a human life. We cannot put the character in the cage as we can the animal and feed it on conditions and emotions to find their tendencies and effects. Nor, to group ourselves together and call the result a nation, can we find exactly the points from which to proceed in order to get a verdict. New York and Chicago are wide open on Sunday, and very respectable people sit in restaurants eating and drinking as if they were perfectly proper, while within 100 miles of either city are communities where a Sunday drink is regarded as a crime. Boston and New Orleans would find each other considerably embarrassed if they were to exchange customs and standards for a few weeks. San Francisco and Philadelphia would each raise a great ado if they were to trade Sundays. And so it goes over this great land.

It might be discouraging if it were not for the fact that it takes all sorts to make a nation of seventy or eighty millions of people, and they are apt to be right in the main if the thing that holds them together is sound. After years of trial there seems to be no doubt of that, and it is generally agreed that the American character is about as strong as any on the earth.—Leslie's Weekly.

ROYAL Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Miss Delvina Lancourt

There are dozens of so-called "cures for female troubles." Most of them are utterly worthless, while some are positively injurious. They contain either alcohol, morphine or some other dangerous ingredient. Usually they sell for $1. Besides being failures, they are high-priced. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women are a positive cure for every known form of "female disease." They restore strength, stop drains and pains, give vigor to the whole system, regulate digestion, purify and entice the bowels. Besides being the best medicine, they are also the cheapest. They are sold by druggists for 50c. a box, and a box will last longer than a dollar bottle of worthless compounds. They are convenient to carry and easy to take. Girls and women in mills, shops, stores and other public places will quickly see the advantage of a little box over a bottle and spoon. Some druggists put up imitation pills, and tell their customers they are "just as good" or "just the same" as Dr. Coderre's. Do not permit the druggist to trifle with your health for the sake of a few cents profit. Miss Delvina Lancourt has lived in Montreal for sixteen years. Her present address is 431 Paquet St. For many years she suffered the torture that comes from impoverished blood and female weakness, and her head ached so badly that she was dizzy and almost blind. She had palpitation of the heart and bad digestion. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills cured her completely and today she is the picture of health.

You are invited to write our specialists for free professional advice as to what you should do to become healthy again. Send name and address on a postal card, and get a free copy of our book, "Pale and Weak Women." Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are widely imitated. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred or at 25c. a box. They are worthless imitations. Get the genuine at all honest druggists. They have them—always 50 Red Pills in a box for 50c. or 6 boxes for $2.50. Or you can send the price in stamps, or by registered letter, money order or express order to us. We mail them all over the world; no duty to pay. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills, at 50c. a box, last longer than liquid medicines costing $1. They are easiest to take, more convenient to carry, and they cure. Address all letters to THE FRANCO-AMERICAN CHEMICAL CO., Medical Department, Montreal, Canada.

DON'T LOOK FOR FLAWS.

Don't look for the flaws as you go on through life. And even when you find them it is wise and kind to be somewhat blind and look for the virtue behind them. For the cloudiest night has a hint of light. Somewhere in the shadows hiding; it is better by far to look for a star than the spots on the sun abiding.

The current of life runs ever away To the bosom of God's great ocean; Don't set your face 'gainst the river's course, And think to alter its motion. Don't waste a curse on the universe— Don't shrink at the trials before you; Don't butt at the storm with your puny form, But bend and let it go o'er you.

The world will never adjust itself To suit your whims to the letter; Some things must go wrong your whole life long, And the sooner you know it the better. It is folly to fight with the infinite, And go under at last in the wrestle, The wisest man shapes into God's plan As the water shapes into a vessel.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures dyspepsia because its ingredients are such that it can't help doing so. "The public can rely upon it as a master remedy for all disorders arising from imperfect digestion."—James M. Thomas, M. D., in American Journal of Health, N. Y.—The Stafford Drug Company.

GRAIN-O BRINGS RELIEF to the coffee drinker. Coffee drinking is a habit that is universally indulged in and almost as universally injurious. Have you tried Grain-O? Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25c per package.

In and About Negaunee.

MANY STAYED OVER.

NUMBERS OF THE VISITING SONS OF ST. GEORGE SPENT SUNDAY AT NEGAUNEE. A large number of visitors who came here Saturday to take in the annual celebration of the Sons of St. George remained over Sunday and were informally entertained by the members of the local lodge. A few strangers were about the city yesterday. Many of the visitors who came here Saturday ran across old friends here who insisted that they should prolong their stay.

The Cornish wrestling ran until a late hour Saturday night and was not completed until about 9 o'clock. The closing bouts were wrestled under the glare of the electric lights. Large numbers were present in the arena from time to time. Some contests were most spirited. Bob Gilbert again demonstrated his prowess. He was by far the best of the sixteen men who made up the first standard. He is a fine wrestler and inferior to only two or three of the top-notchers. The big parade was pulled off after all Saturday afternoon, between the hours of two and three, so that the program, in its entirety, was completed in spite of the rain. The parade was very good, all visiting lodges being represented in the line of march. Several bands furnished inspiring music. After it was completed the program of sports was taken up. The formal windup in the evening was most enjoyable. The meeting between the outsiders and the local members was a most pleasing feature of the reunion.

STREET CARS DID BUSINESS.

The street cars had a banner day Saturday, when probably over eight thousand fares were taken in by the conductors. Handling the St. George celebration and picnic crowds was a big contract but the cars took care of a large share of the traffic, doing an extraordinary day's business. The number of people handled would have been much larger were it not for the heavy rain which interfered with the Scandinavian picnic, stopping many people from taking the trip to the grove or to Negaunee. Despite this the business was unusually large. One car took over two thousand fares. Sunday was also a good day for the line, as there was a large attendance at the Foresters' picnic at Pearce's grove, although the number at this affair was also cut down by the rain. The only accident to the system Saturday occurred about noon, when a street car loaded full of passengers was disabled by a stroke of lightning, which followed the trolley wire and burned out the motor.

WILL RESERVE THE GALLERIES.

It was announced in St. Paul's church Sunday that the galleries in St. Peter's cathedral at Marquette will be reserved for the people from this and the neighboring cities who wish to witness the consecration of Bishop Elect Els in his new office. Many people from here will see the ceremony, the interest in it being great because of Rev. Els' connection with the local parish for so many years. It is right that some accommodations should be reserved for outside people, as the crowd will be very large.

HARD PULL SUNDAY NIGHT.

The through train from Sault Ste. Marie had a hard time reaching this city Sunday night, and for a time it looked as if the train would have to return to Marquette for a second engine. The rails were wet and slippery and the heavy grades between here and Marquette were climbed at a snail's pace. At times it seemed as if the train would stop but the engine moved it with spasmodic jerks and finally got it through all right.

BEGGARY IN LONDON.

London probably suffers less from the plague of beggars than any other of the great capitals of the world. It is certainly less troubled with them than it was a few generations ago. According to the report of the Mendicity society, which held its annual meeting recently, our professional mendicants number about 70,000, a large multitude in itself, but not so very formidable, considering that they are distributed among a population of 6,000,000. That begging is a less tempting career than it formerly was is due largely to the operation of the excellent society whose figures we have quoted, and to the change that has in consequence come over public opinion. Up to a quite recent period it was held to be a breach of charity to refuse alms to a street mendicant, and well brought-up children were encouraged to give their half-pence to such claimants in preference to spending them upon sweets or toys. Possibly that was good for the children, but it was bad for society, which has now learned that mendicancy is generally only a form of crime, to aid in the repression of which is the duty of all good citizens.

Too many people still put their hands in their pockets in answer to a whining appeal, but most of them would confess that they are moved less by benevolence than by the desire to be rid of a temporary annoyance. In a large majority of cases the persons assisted in this manner are totally unworthy. If we may accept the Mendicity society's statistics, only about one beggar in twenty is in urgent need of help; 25 per cent are gross impostors, and another 50 per cent are altogether undeserving of help, though they are possibly poor enough. In view of facts like these, the giving of indiscriminate relief is less of a virtue than a crime.—London Globe.

LOCAL LAONICS.

Van Dornin of Calumet, the Indian specialist, is here again looking after his practice.

John Miller and his family will leave today to spend about a week on a camping trip to Horseshoe Lake.

Ira A. Clark returned from Chicago, where he had been visiting his family, Sunday. He will return to that city soon.

Justice Trathen made Albert Sabre-nand and Miss Maggie Campeau, both of this city, man and wife Saturday night.

A number of local Foresters took in the picnic at Pearce's grove Sunday. They spent a large share of their time dodging rain showers. The success of the picnic was marred by the frequent rain falls.

Jack Venner has a position in the street car barn, instead of on the road. William Volden, who was mixed up in the collision with an ore train a few weeks past, has recovered and has been given a position in the barn.

The Cincinnati Glee club will give a concert at Ishpeming on Friday of this week. Its music is well known to people of Negaunee, and the concert will draw quite a number from here. The club gives a most pleasing entertainment.

There will be a 30-cent excursion to Presque Isle Thursday under auspices of the Presbyterian Sunday school of this city. As the fare is low there will undoubtedly be a very large crowd. Tickets must be purchased at Well's store here. The special train will leave at 10 a. m.

F. M. Davis of this city and J. C. Hammond of Lansing spent last Saturday on the Escanaba and had two fine catches of trout to show for their trip. The fishing was good. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Davis, leaving yesterday morning for Iron Mountain.

STILL MORE COUNTERFEITING.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters sets things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters get at the seat of the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeiters when buying.

IN A POWDER MILL.

Precautions Taken to Provide Against Every Form of Accident.

The danger buildings of a powder mill are themselves so constructed that not a nail head or iron in any shape is exposed, and the roofs are made slight, so as to give easy vent to explosions. The garments of the workers are pocketless, so that they cannot carry knives or matches, or, indeed, anything, and are made of non-inflammable material. Even the buttons must not be of metal. No one is allowed to go about with trousers tucked up at the bottom, because dirt is collected in that way, and the mere hard scuff of foreign matter in a charge of gunpowder is fraught with danger.

The entrances to danger buildings are protected by boards placed edgewise, so that when the door is open nothing in the shape of dirt can work in. This, also, serves as a check to any one who might thoughtlessly proceed to enter without having first removed his boots and put on the overalls that are kept just inside the door. Doors are made to open outward, so as to enable the men to escape the more readily; and on the approach of a thunderstorm the works are stopped, and the operatives repair to the different watchhouses scattered over the 300 acres covered by these extensive works.

Every week the machinery is inspected, and the reports as to its condition are printed and filed. In the case of a danger building needing to be repaired, it must first be washed out before a hammer or other iron tool is admitted to it. When artificial light is required, as when working at night or in dull weather, the lights are kept outside, being placed on the window ledges. In the case of the works magazine, which is surrounded with water, no light of any kind is ever permitted near it. These are only a few of the precautions against accidents at the works; they are sufficient, however, to show how lively must be the sense of danger. Men in powder houses usually have an arranged plan of escape in their minds, and at the

Ernest Seton Thompson, who not so long ago achieved prominence in literary circles through his charming book, "Wild Animals I Have Known," has contributed a story to the August number of Scribner's. He calls it "The Trail of the Sandhill Stag," and like "Lobo" and "The Pacing Mustang," it tells with rare sympathy the story of one of those kings of the forest and field with whom every man who has led the free life of the hunter sooner or later comes into contact. Here is a passage from the adventures of the Sandhill Stag:

"Within half a mile they found blood on the trail; within another half mile the blood was no more seen and the track seemed to have grown very large and strong. The snow was drifting and the marks not easily read, yet Yan knew very soon that the track they were on was not that of the wounded doe, but was surely that of her antlered mate. Back on the trail they ran till they solved the doubt, for there they learned that the stag, after making his own escape, had come back to change off; an old, old trick of the hunted whereby one deer will cleverly join on and carry on the line of tracks to save another that it too had pressed, while it leaps aside to hide or fly in a different direction. Thus the stag had sought to save his wounded mate, but the hunters remorselessly took up her trail and gloated like wolves over the slight drip of blood.

"Within another short run they found that the stag, having failed to divert the chase to himself, had returned to her, and at sundown they sighted them a quarter of a mile ahead mounting a long snow slope. The doe was walking slowly with hanging head and ears. The buck was running about as though in trouble that he did not understand, and coming back to caress the doe and wonder why she walked so slowly. In another half mile the hunters came up with them. She was down in the snow. When he saw them coming, the great stag shook the oak tree on his brow and circled about in doubt, then fled from a foe he was powerless to resist.

"As the men came near the doe made a convulsive effort to rise, but could not. Duff drew his knife. It never before occurred to Yan why he and each of them carried a long knife. The poor doe turned on her fess her great lustrous eyes; they were brimming with tears, but she made no moan. Yan turned his back on the scene and covered his face with his hands, but Duff went forward with the knife and did some dreadful, unspeakable thing. Yan scarcely knew what, and when Duff called him he slowly turned, and the big stag's mate was lying quiet in the snow, and the only living thing that they saw as they quit the scene was the great round form bearing aloft the oak tree on its brow as it haunted the nearer hills."

A MIRACULOUS BOILER.

"Whenever I think of a boiler I saw over in Texas the other day," said an insurance inspector just back from a trip through the Lone Star State, "I feel an icy creeping about the roots of my hair. I found it on a hillside in a country town, but I am by no means certain it is still there. In fact, I wouldn't even bet on the hill being in the same place. The boiler was extremely old. It looked as if it might belong to the glacial period, and was totally devoid of indicators, gauges or anything else to show the head of steam or quantity of water. The proprietor was a placid German, who told me he filled it every morning with a bucket. I asked him how he estimated the pressure, and he replied that he occasionally let off a little steam, and if it 'looked blue' he ceased to poke the fire. After I heard that explanation I hastily retired to the other side of the town and didn't breathe easy until the train pulled out. The old boiler has been rocking along for the last ten years, and its presence on earth each consecutive day of that period is a full-blown, 18-karat miracle. It is a capital illustration of the deep depravity of inanimate things. If it was located in the heart of the city, where it could blow up a hundred or so human beings at one fell swoop, it would explode in less than five minutes by the watch. Out there, where the best it can do would be to mix up the Dutchman and the hill, it evidently doesn't consider the results worth the exertion. I think it must be waiting for a Sunday school picnic."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THREE TIMES AS MANY.

Resorters Thronging Marquette in Far Greater Numbers Than They Did a Year Ago.

NEED OF A LOW PRICED SUMMER HOTEL CLEARLY SHOWN.

Rooms Are Still Numerous but Places to Eat Are Few—Every Train Brings in the Jolly Smeezers—Late Arrivals Listed.

GOOD SUMMER RESORT BUSINESS.

There are three times as many resorters in Marquette now as there were last season, and the number is reliably estimated as upwards of 500.

The problem is more one of feeding the crowds than of getting rooms for them. Large numbers of people are willing to take rooms who are not willing to give meals, for the reason that a great deal more work devolves upon the housekeeper, and her responsibilities are heavy even if she has plenty of servants.

Every day tourists are coming to the headquarters of the Citizens' committee with the request that the secretary find quarters for them and he is being driven to hard straits in his efforts to accommodate all.

Hotels Well Filled. There is some fluctuation in the crowds at the hotels, but all save the Superior are full to the limit most of the time and occasionally are obliged to turn people away.

It is the moderate priced accommodations of which there is the greatest lack. There is a large fraction of the summer visitors who want accommodation at prices ranging from $6 to $10 a week.

Another in the summer series of ten cent concerts will be given this evening in Felix hall. The program is as usual popular and calculated to entertain all.

More "Hays" Arrive. The hay fever season has just well begun now and the "Jolly Eaters" are coming in every day.

Twenty Years Wedded. Reception to Rev. and Mrs. Rogers in Presbyterian Church Parlor.

Yesterday marked the twentieth anniversary of the wedding of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Rogers.

Rev. and Mrs. Rogers stood to receive at the upper end of the room on the right hand side a little ways from the door.

The parlor of the church were beautifully decorated. Rugs covered the floor, there were curtains and drapes for the windows, with screens and tables about, all giving the rooms a pleasant and homelike appearance.
