FALLING OUT AMONG THE GENERALS

Air of Rennes Full of Rumors of Conspiracies and Predictions of Coups de Theatre.

FEELING THAT STARTLING REVELATIONS ARE ABOUT TO BE MADE.

PRINCIPAL FOES OF DREYFUS NO LONGER PULLING TOGETHER.

Alarmed Since the Evidence Has Turned in Favor of the Prisoner and Has Split Into Three Cliques, Each Anxious to Shift the Responsibility.

ANOTHER GOOD DAY FOR DEFENSE.

Rennes, Aug. 30.—The air at Rennes this evening is filled with rumors of conspiracies, and predictions of coups de theatre, but nothing precise can be ascertained.

General Mercier's attitude during the last few days has mystified followers in the case. He is extremely clever, and the general feeling is that he is preparing for something the existence of which will be revealed in a few days.

It is now accepted as beyond question that there is a serious division of opinion on the part of the generals. While the case was running smoothly against Dreyfus, they all pulled together, but since the tide of evidence has begun to turn in his favor certain dividing lines have become manifest between various cliques.

Roget Lauth, Cuignet and Gribelin, principal keeper of the archives of the war office, form one coterie; Mercier, and Gouze another, and Billot and De Boisdeffre a third. According to one report the first two coteries intend to throw over De Boisdeffre, whom they feel to be faltering. They declare he is responsible for all the errors and illegalities of the court-martial of 1894, thus making him the scape-goat.

ROGET MAY CUT LOOSE.

According to another report General Roget who was not implicated in 1894 and who even fought against Dreyfus because he had inherited from his predecessors the responsibility for so doing and placed over-confidence in the accounts of the matter furnished him by the general staff, will cut himself loose from Mercier, Gouze and Boisdeffre. This is a plausible hypothesis, since Roget has assumed throughout the role of the defender of the army, thus making himself popular with the nation, and probably would not lose by separating himself from the wrong-doers of 1894 in declaring that his opinion has been changed by the evidence given during the present trial.

Still another story is that General Gouze will give way on the authorship of the bordereau, in view of the strong expert evidence, and will admit that Esterhazy wrote it, alleging, however, that Dreyfus furnished the information to a third person who acted as the intermediary without Dreyfus knowing Esterhazy.

In this connection it was asserted this noon that Madame Bastine, housekeeper for Colonel Schwartzkoppen in 1894 and understood to have acted as a French spy, will be summoned as a witness concerning Schwartzkoppen's espionage system.

A QUIET DREYFUS DAY.

All these rumors may be without foundation, but in any event they are symptomatic of the feeling in Rennes that something is going on under the surface and that the complexion of the trial may be altered by some coup at any moment.

In the matter of evidence, today was a quiet Dreyfus day, only the deposition of the last witness, General Delove, being unfavorable. At the opening three professors of the School of Ancient Manuscripts, experts of the highest order, all testified to the same general effect that the bordereau was clearly written by Esterhazy, and not Dreyfus. All declared M. Bertillon's system all fallacious.

George Picot, a member of the Institute, related a conversation he had with Colonel Schneider, Austrian military attaché, last May. Picot said Schneider asserted that Esterhazy had relations with Colonel Schwartzkoppen, German military attaché; that Esterhazy wrote Schwartzkoppen the letter since known as the bordereau; in reply, Schwartzkoppen wrote the telegram card now known as the petit bleu, but on reflection crumpled it up and threw it in the fireplace. The witness said that Schneider gave him the impression he meant to assert unequivocally the innocence of Dreyfus.

The testimony of M. Picot is little likely, however, to serve the cause of the accused materially, if at all, because his introduction of Schneider as a champion of Dreyfus was rather calculated to arouse the resentment and adversely influence the judges, especially as it was followed by a tactful protest by General Roget against Schneider's complimentary allusions to French officers.

SECRET SESSION TODAY.

Tomorrow's proceeding, behind closed doors, will deal with the question whether Dreyfus was in position to divulge the information regarding artillery which was promised in the bordereau. The session will be very important. It is bound to have a tremendous influence upon the judges, one way or the other, because they are all artillery officers and will be able to appreciate such evidence better than the cryptographic intracacies that have been laid before them by the hand-writing experts.

The Dreyfusards express confidence that the artillery witnesses—Major Hartman and Major Ducros—will effectively satisfy the judges that Dreyfus was ignorant of the matters mentioned in the bordereau, and, as an artillery officer, would not have been guilty in stating the errors which it contained. The court room continues crowded, quite a number of ladies now succeeding in obtaining admission. The town loafers are making a regular business of forming in queue outside the entrance of the public park at the courtroom early in the morning and selling places.

The local papers publish a doubtful statement that former Minister De Freycinet on leaving the courtroom yesterday after his deposition remarked to a friend, "I am leaving an atmosphere of acquittal."

SYMPATHY FOR M. LABORI.

Buffalo, Aug. 30.—At the meeting of the American Bar association today a resolution expressing sympathy with M. Labori in his suffering and struggle for justice was introduced. It met with much opposition on the part of some who believed such action might do injury to Dreyfus' cause. Finally it was carried. Officers were elected with Hon. C. F. Manderson as president.

RAIN COMES TO GUERIN'S RELIEF.

FRESH WATER SUPPLY SECURED BY THE BESIEGED ANTI-SEMITE.

Paris, Aug. 30.—Rain this afternoon enabled M. Guerin, the leader of the besieged Anti-Semites, to secure a considerable supply of water.

SQUARE MILE BURNED OVER.

YOKOHAMA THE SCENE OF A CONFLAGRATION COSTING 16 LIVES AND $6,000,000 OF PROPERTY.

Yokohama, Aug. 18, via Victoria, B. C., Aug. 30.—The greatest fire in the history of Yokohama occurred Aug. 12. A densely populated square mile of buildings was destroyed and sixteen lives lost. The property loss was between five and six millions, with very little insurance. The loss fell heavily on homeless people, and the owner of the house where the fire started was killed by a mob. Apart from this demonstration, the calamity was taken with the utmost cheerfulness. Large relief subscriptions flowed in and the rebuilding is so actively progressing that in a week or two little or no trace of the fire will be seen.

TRAIN SMASH-UP IN NEW JERSEY.

RUNAWAY FREIGHT CARS WRECK A PASSENGER TRAIN AT A CURVE—ONE MAN KILLED

New York, Aug. 31.—The Erie accommodation train from here due at Arlington, N. J., at 2 o'clock, was wrecked on a bend just east of Arlington this Thursday morning. Two freight cars broke away from a siding at Mont Clair and, running down the incline past Arlington, crashed into the passenger train just before it got around the bend. The engine was smashed and derailed, while the smoking car was crushed and thrown high in the air. It was loaded with passengers. Turning over in the air it fell to the side of the track, whence it rolled down a thirty-foot embankment. William Nure of Arlington was killed and J. J. Campbell of Bloomfield fatally injured. Ten others were also injured.

SANTIAGO MADE THEIR CAPITAL.

DOMINICAN REBELS SET UP A PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

Puerto Plata, Santa Domingo, Aug. 30.—Today the revolutionists established a provisional government in Santiago, with General Horacio Vasquez as president and General Ramon Caceres minister of war.

The revolutionists entered Santiago last evening, General Perico Pugin, the former governor, having accepted the guarantees offered by General Horacio Vasquez, the revolutionary leader. Puerto Plata's declaration in favor of the revolution was accompanied by a popular demonstration. What has happened at Santiago and Puerto Plata is typical of what is happening at other points along the eastern boundary. The civilized methods with which the revolutionary change is being effected promise an early peace with all advantages to the agricultural interests.

JIMINEZ ORDERED RELEASED.

Havana, Aug. 30.—Governor General Boroke does not know that Jiminez has been arrested at Santiago de Cuba, as reported. He says he received a telegram from General Wood asking if Jiminez should be detained. He immediately answered in the negative.

Cape Haytien, Aug. 30.—Advices received from the cities of Santiago and Puerto Plata, in Santo Domingo, say both have proclaimed in favor of Jiminez.

ROUSING WELCOME TO M'KINLEY.

ALL PAST DEMONSTRATIONS CAST IN THE SHADE BY THE ONE YESTERDAY AT CANTON.

Canton, O., Aug. 30.—William McKinley has been the central figure of a great many big demonstrations here, but in the matter of enthusiasm, unanimity, heartiness and cordiality of welcome none have exceeded the one which marked his arrival here today. The ride from the depot was through streets jammed by a surging, flag-waving and cheering crowd. Judge Baldwin, at the Barber home, extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the citizens, to which the president briefly replied. A large crowd surrounded the house tonight when the Canton soldiers who served in the Spanish war and other citizens filed on the lawn with a band to serenade the president.

Mr. McKinley spoke, in part, as follows: "It gives me great pleasure to meet you once more in the dear old town. I do not forget that this old county of Stark was prompt in responding to the call of the government for soldiers in the war with Spain. I have always been proud of the fact. You have won and earned the nation's gratitude and praise. You did your full duty in front of Santiago—no higher honor can be paid to a soldier of any country than to say of him that he did his whole duty. I am thankful for the good will manifested here, and shall go away strengthened for the great duties and responsibilities of the executive office. Good night."

Boers Said to Consider War Inevitable Since Chamberlain's Speech and Are Engaged in Poisoning the Minds of the Natives Against the British.

KRUGER WELL STOCKED WITH MUNITIONS

Washington, Aug. 30.—American interests in the raid are making strenuous efforts to induce the United States government to co-operate with Great Britain in demanding justice for the uitlanders in the Transvaal. It is pointed out that about a thousand Americans are among the persons seeking comfort through the intervention of the British government.

WAR SPIRIT INFLAMED.

London, Aug. 31.—The Post's Pretoria correspondent cables: "The Boer officials, after reading the cable reports of Secretary Chamberlain's Birmingham speech, consider that war is inevitable. The speech has undoubtedly inflamed the war spirit here. The Boers are now all armed except those in Johannesburg. Their commissariat is fairly good. All the forts are amply victualled. Johannesburg fort has been strengthened with several quick-fires.

"President Kruger does not hesitate to express the view that war is almost certain and has stocked the presidency with ample supplies of provisions to secure his own person from privation, and he is often heard repeating the Eighty-third Psalm.

"The Matabeles are showing signs of unrest. The Boers are energetically engaged in poisoning the minds of the natives against the British. They have even approached the Zulu chief Dintzulu, who appears undecided which cause to espouse."

ANOTHER NOTE FROM ENGLAND.

Pretoria, Aug. 30.—The British diplomatic agent here, Conyngham Greene, has handed to Secretary of State Retz the reply of Secretary Chamberlain to the Transvaal's alternative proposals to the joint commission suggested by Great Britain to inquire into the effect which the proposed franchise reform measures will have upon the outlanders. Green afterward had a long audience with the state officials. The nature of the note was not disclosed, but it was subjected to the consideration of the executive council this afternoon. It is understood another conference may occur at Cape Town, and the result is anxiously awaited.

CECIL RHODES STIRS UP A ROW.

Cape Town, Aug. 30.—There was a violent scene in the Cape house of assembly today when Cecil Rhodes repeated his conviction that the Transvaal secret service fund was largely used during the late Cape Colony elections for the expenses of the Arikander candidates.

News is received that at a meeting of the Scandinavians at Johannesburg, just held, only two voted in favor of forming a volunteer corps in case of war.

UNRULY POLICEMAN FINED.

Johannesburg, Aug. 30.—The Boer policeman who recently assaulted an American negro after the latter had rebuked him for his abusive language when demanding the American's pass was found guilty today and fined £15.

CAR BLOWN FROM THE TRACK.

MORE MOB WORK AT CLEVELAND RESULTING IN THE INJURY OF SIX PASSENGERS.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 30.—A combination car on the Wilson avenue line was blown up by a powerful explosive tonight at 9:30. There were six passengers on board, five of whom sustained injuries. The explosion lifted the car entirely off the track, destroying the trucks and demolishing the flooring and falling again on the tracks in such a way as to injure the injured passengers. The injured are Mrs. L. Schroeder, left leg broken; Miss Ella Schroeder, right ankle sprained; E. D. Schultz, head hurt; Mrs. E. O. Schultz, left leg broken; J. F. Ingraham, leg hurt. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the disaster.

AMERICAN MATCH CO. IN THE FIELD WITH $1,000,000 CAPITAL.

New York, Aug. 30.—The Herald tomorrow will say that the American Match company has entered the field with a capital of $1,000,000. It will, it is announced, endeavor to compete with the Diamond Match company.

COAL BOOSTED IN PRICE.

RAISE BY THE READING COMPANY OF 25 CENTS PER TON.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron company today advanced the prices of coal 25 cents per ton, to take effect Sept. 1.

AERONAUT DROPS TO DEATH.

Dubois, Pa., Aug. 30.—N. E. Crissy, aged twenty-five, an aeronaut, fell six hundred feet to instant death today. The belt by which he was held broke before the parachute spread. Five thousand people saw the accident.

ONE MORE PLAGUE DEATH.

Oporto, Aug. 30.—One death and one new case of the bubonic plague were officially reported today.

EUREKA!

As you travel through southeastern Kansas about one hundred and twenty-five miles south of Topeka and eighty-five miles east of Wichita, the brakeman sticks his head in the doorway and yells: "Yreeky!" and a couple of minutes later the train pulls into Eureka, the prosperous county seat of Greenwood County.

One of the happy inhabitants of Eureka is Mrs. Sarah E. Taylor, and the reasons for her present happiness are set forth in the following letter addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the "Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute," of Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Taylor says: "I had been a sufferer for fifteen years and in August 1886 was taken with severe cramping pain in my stomach. A hard lump about the size of a goose egg formed in my right side. It became so sore I could scarcely walk about the house, and I had no appetite. I consulted two of the best doctors in town and they said medicine would do me no good. I gave up all hope of ever getting well again. One day I thought I would write to you telling you of my condition. You told me I had enlarged one of the lobes of my liver and the gall bladder, and advised me to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery'." "I consulted two of the best doctors in town and they said medicine would do me no good. I gave up all hope of ever getting well again. One day I thought I would write to you telling you of my condition. You told me I had enlarged one of the lobes of my liver and the gall bladder, and advised me to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery'."

"I had not taken more than half a bottle of each when I began to feel better, and my appetite came back, and for a little over a year since, I began to do my work." "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine that cures on rational, scientific principles. It is the discovery of a regularly graduated, practicing physician of high standing. It tones up the stomach, stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels. It brings all the digestive organs into healthy activity. It neutralizes and eradicates all poisonous, effete matter in the blood and fills it with the rich, vital, red corpuscles of health and vigor. The 'Discovery' is a temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol in any form."

"Our humanity was interpreted as weakness and our humanity as cowardice," said President McKinley in his Pittsburgh address, discussing the campaign in the Philippines. The president states the case well. But who was to blame for trying a combination policy of militarism and missionism in dealing with the Filipino insurgents? That is what the people most want to know just now. And when they obtain the information they will know just where to place the blame for the failure, to date, of our government to reduce the revolt in the Philippines.

The Chicago Record's London correspondent is informed by an official of the colonial office that the efforts of Canada to engage Salisbury and Chamberlain on the side of the irreconcilable attitude in the Alaskan boundary dispute have failed. The premier and his colonial secretary have trouble enough in South Africa to furnish their abundant occupation for the present, without getting into a mix-up with us over the Alaskan boundary matter. My the way, what is Canada doing toward raising a force to serve in South Africa against Gen Paul's headed sharpshooters?

War between the British and the Boers of the Transvaal seems all but inevitable; still we adhere to the belief that there will be no fighting in spite of the blustering on both sides. President Kruger must know that to provoke a conflict with a power so vastly superior to his own could only result in disaster for his own country, and we risk the prediction that he will grant the British demands at the last minute, and thus avert war. The overthrow of his republic will follow just the same, but its death will be less violent and painful if it is strangled in a peaceful way than though its life were crushed out on the red field of battle.

The Saginaw News notes the revival of the "perennial fairy tale" about Benton Hanchett as a candidate for the United States senatorship, but says there is no more hope now than there ever before was that he will get there. "Mr. Hanchett would, of course," the News goes on to say, "make an admirable official, about four stages higher in the scale than anybody else who has been mentioned; but Republican legislatures for many years have been looking for a candidate who will knock out the head of a barrel of powder rather than for one who combines dignity of character with distinguished ability suitable for the honor." This is undeniably true, and "pity 'tis true," but how is it with Democratic legislatures? What kind of a senator have the Democrats of Montana given the country in the person of Millionaire Clark, who got such title to his seat as he can show by outrageous bribery? Other similar cases discreditable to the Democracy might be cited, but what is the use of unnecessarily bearing testimony to the well known fact that boodle, and not brains, has come to be the determining factor in the selection of United States senators?

IT IS WORLD-WIDE. Speaking of the iron situation the other day, John Swank, general manager of the American Iron and Steel association, brought out this important point, which few take into account in considering the strength of the iron and steel markets: "There may have been a time when the iron trade of this country and of other countries experienced simultaneously a period of increasing demand and advancing prices, like the present well-named boom, but I do not remember such a period. That the iron making and steel making energies of our own country, and of Great Britain, Germany, France, Belgium and Russia, should be pushed to the utmost limit of available productive capacity at the same time is a most remarkable fact. It is now certain that the world's production of iron and steel in 1899 will be fully 10 per cent greater than that of 1898, which was a most active iron and steel making year, and 20 per cent greater than that of 1897. In this country the increased production over 1898 will be probably considerably above 10 per cent. It is a significant fact that the world's production of iron and steel should increase 20 per cent in two years."

Discussing the probability of a continuance of demand, Mr. Swank said: "That the iron and steel boom in both Europe and this country will continue into next year and perhaps longer there can be no doubt whatever. Prices may soon cease to advance, because production will overtake the demand, but the demand will continue to be very great, insuring fair prices, if not a continuance of present prices. The opening of foreign markets to the iron and steel manufacturers of the United States itself will assist greatly in maintaining an active demand for our iron and steel products."

These are the views of a man who is in a position to speak understandingly of the iron and steel industries of this country, with reference to the activity now manifested in them and the prospect for its continuance. The best assurance we could have of the stability of the present demand and prices is to be found in the fact to which we direct attention—that iron and steel consumption in the great countries of the world keeps pace with that which has developed in our own, which fact is shown by the extent to which we continue to export iron and steel, and wares and machinery into the manufacture of which they largely enter, in the face of advancing prices. The existence of a strong demand abroad gives us the best guarantee we could have of enduring strength for the home market, as but for that the advance in prices here would cause a heavy importation that would tend to slump our market.

A RIDICULOUS BUGABOO. From across the water came, the other day, a piece of information that was intended wholly for effect on the people of this country. It set forth that Russia is doing all that she can to create bad feeling between this country and Great Britain by keeping alive the dispute over the Alaskan boundary line, her object in this being to thwart the efforts of statesmen of both countries who are endeavoring to bring about an alliance between them which would, it is claimed by these, work advantageously for both. The statement was made that Russia's diplomatic agents are secretly exerting themselves to prevent this country and Great Britain from arriving at a mutually satisfactory understanding in regard to the disputed boundary, in the hope that if they can be kept apart on that they will not get together as allies for the purpose of winning greater influence in the world's affairs for the "English speaking race."

The Milwaukee News takes up this "bugaboo" and subjects it to a merciless analysis, in the course of which its utter absurdity is shown. As to the alliance which Russia is charged with seeking to thwart, the News submits these pointed observations: "American newspaper readers are becoming quite familiar with the campaign being carried on via London in favor of an Anglo-American alliance. And the introduction of the Russian bugaboo comes as a matter of course. Russia, we are told from the same source, desires to isolate Great Britain and force her from her dominating position in the east. And why should the American people concern themselves about this affair? Why should we take it upon ourselves to pull England's chestnuts out of the fire? What benefits are there to be derived by the United States in joining hands with Britain to oppose Russia? Russia is the rising power in the east. It is so ordained. It is as natural as the domination of the western hemisphere by our United States. Russia encourages our trade. Our interests do not conflict. Great Britain and the United States are competitors in the markets of the east. Great Britain is slowly but surely being forced from its commanding position in the east."

Why, then, should the United States ally itself with a losing cause? Why should it take issue with the course of events, as irresistible as the law of gravitation? The United States has no need to ally itself with any nation to secure its just rights. It is today friendly with Great Britain. It is also friendly with the other great nations of Europe. Its friendship for Great Britain no one would disturb, if he has the best interests of his country at heart. But there should be no misunderstanding of the meaning of that friendship. Whatever the administration may conceive the fact to be, the American people still adhere to the doctrine enunciated by Washington in regard to entangling alliances.

MILES AND ALGER. The Minneapolis Tribune, which has been consistently unfriendly and unjust to General Alger since the movement to force him from the cabinet first took form, takes much comfort from an indirect criticism of the ex-secretary indulged in recently by General Miles, and makes it a text for these comments: "General Miles, in an interview in Philadelphia, succeeds in getting in a back-handed lick at ex-Secretary Alger under the guise of eulogy of Alger's successor. He says the new secretary of war is a man of business, and that 'as a result, very different conditions already exist.' This is a very neat way of saying that conditions were not satisfactory under the former secretary. 'The interests of the country have demanded a vigorous prosecution of the war in the Philippines; now they will have it,' he adds—which is equivalent to saying that the campaign heretofore has not been sufficiently vigorous and that the fault for the lack of vigor was in the war office."

General Miles goes on to praise General Otis as a fine officer and to attribute the lack of results to the inadequacy of Otis' force. But here the commanding general is a little lame, for General Otis has always had as big a force as he said he needed. If his force under these circumstances was inadequate, it was Otis' own fault, and is rather contradictory of the idea that he is a fine soldier—in the sense of being a fine general—in every respect. The commander of a campaign who underestimates the enemy and underestimates his own needs in the way of resources can hardly be said to have an adequate grasp of the situation. General Miles probably praises General Otis from a sense of professional etiquette; but no such motive restrains him in the case of General Alger. He does not regard Alger as a soldier; but as a civilian, and a man, besides, who has been his personal enemy—therefore he does not scruple to throw all the blame for the errors of the Philippines campaign upon Alger's shoulders. But this is unjust to General Alger. There is some evidence going to show that Alger was in favor of sending more men to the Philippines and of superseding Otis by a more capable general; but the latter secretary was held back by political considerations and the optimism of those above him. Alger was unquestionably incompetent, but there are some things he should not be blamed for. It is quite true that General Alger was over-ridden in regard to the character of the campaign that should be put up in the Philippines, and this is why the president's treatment of him subsequently was lacking in manliness. But as General Alger is making no complaint on that score his friends are under no obligation to take up the cudgel for him. The Tribune has been hounding General Otis as persistently as it did Alger during the latter portion of the ex-secretary's service as a member of President McKinley's cabinet, and the commendation of that officer by Miles is a pill it swallows with difficulty. It is not true that Alger advised the withdrawal of Otis, nor is it true that Otis decided what the force furnished him to subdue the Filipino insurgents should be. The fact is that he was sent to the Philippines under instructions to do, or attempt doing, certain things, and was provided with a force which the Washington authorities deemed sufficient for the task set him. Like a good soldier, he neither asked for a greater force or questioned the judgment of his superiors. He obeyed orders, and did the best he could with the means at his command, and for his obedience and the good work done he is entitled to the credit General Miles has tardily given. We say "tardily" with intent, for General Miles did not say a word in praise of Otis until after the new secretary of war had announced that he would not be recalled, expressing entire satisfaction with the manner in which he has thus far conducted the campaigning in the Philippines. There is little reason to believe that Miles is any more friendly to General Otis than he has shown himself toward General Alger, and his commendation of Otis would probably never have been spoken had the administration decided to treat Otis as it did Alger when the latter was forced to retire from the cabinet.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Marquette.— At a session of the probate court for said county held at the probate office in the city of Marquette, in said county, on the 15th day of August, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine. Present the Honorable Charles Kelsey, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Charles D. Wick, deceased. On reading and filing the petition of the Marquette Land company, duly verified, setting forth that said Charles D. Wick departed this life about the 27th day of January, A. D. 1864, and that said deceased was, at the time of his death, seized of certain lands situated in this state, a portion of which said lands are located in said county of Marquette, which portion of said lands located in said county of Marquette are described and set forth in said petition, and also setting forth and alleging that said Marquette Land company is interested in the lands of which said Charles D. Wick died seized, the said Marquette Land company, by conveyance from the heir of said deceased, and praying that the court determine and adjudicate who are or were, at the time of his death, the legal heirs of said Charles D. Wick, deceased, and entitled by the laws of this state to inherit the lands of which said deceased died seized, and the share or portion thereof that each of said heirs was entitled to at that time, and the right title and interest that each of them, or their heirs or assigns may now have therein pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided; Thereupon it is ordered that Thursday, the 7th day of September next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all the persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said court then to be held at the probate office in the city of Marquette, aforesaid, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Daily Mining Journal, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county, for three successive weeks, previous to said day of hearing.

CHARLES KELSEY, Judge of Probate. NOTICE. The annual meeting of School District No. 1, of the City of Marquette, Mich., for the election of two school trustees, and for the transaction of such other business as may lawfully come before it, will be held at the City Hall, on Washington street, in said City of Marquette, on Monday, the 4th of September, A. D. 1899, at 8 o'clock p. m. The polls will be open for voting from 9 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. GEO. BARNES, Director. Dated Marquette, Mich., Aug. 23, 1899. (8-23-100)

Pretty Mrs. Gordon.

I met her at a boarding house, of all places in the world. I had never been to a boarding house before, and I have never been to one since, and I often wonder why I went to one then. It was a queer freak on my part, and led to a queer result. I am inclined to think that the little experience involved was distinctly pathetic; but my friend, Hugh Drummond, the eminent private detective, of whom I have spoken before, assures me that it was distinctly comic. Which goes to show what opposite views different people may take on the same event. People said it was a nice boarding house, as boarding houses go. It did not commend itself to me, though certainly it was charmingly situated in a picturesque moorland neighborhood that shall be nameless, and near to a well known town that shall be nameless too. I had only engaged my room for a week in the first instance, but I should not have stayed so long as that if it had not been for—well, as a matter of fact, on the second day after my arrival, when I was meditating going up to town by the first train the next morning, Mrs. Gordon arrived, and after that no power on earth would have dragged me away. She brought her sister with her, and I saw her, and I saw them, for the first time at the dinner table that evening. It would have puzzled even sisters to present a greater contrast, though I am bound to admit that they often achieve most astonishing results in that line. One was the exact opposite of all that I admire in a woman—tall, and dark, with pronounced masculine features, a somewhat ungainly figure, a deep voice, and a short, unattractive manner. The other was my ideal woman personified. That is to say, she was small and fair, and graceful, with a face like a blush rose, a cloud of golden hair, the most innocent blue eyes in the world, and a voice as soft as fairy music. The former, Jessie Douglass, was unmarried, and it seemed to me extremely probable that she would always remain so. The latter, Grace Gordon, was a widow. I think, as a rule, there is a very subtle fascination about widows. Mrs. Gordon was no exception to the rule, for she was simply the most fascinating woman I have ever met, in addition to being one of the prettiest. I fell in love with her at first sight. Incidentally, I may mention that I have fallen in love no fewer than six times in my life, but I never performed the feat with such headlong rapidity as on that occasion. Miss Douglass, it seemed, was by way of being an invalid, though she looked strong enough. After the first evening she appeared no more at the public table, and it was explained that she would not have appeared there at all had there not been some hitch about the private sitting room that she had engaged. Mrs. Gordon came down regularly, though, to her place opposite mine, and I changed my mind and did not go to town.

I am very susceptible to first impressions, and almost invariably base my estimate of a person's character on some incident connected with our first meeting. A chance word or action or even look, is generally quite enough to enable me to form a decided opinion. It was so in this case. In the course of dinner, somehow or other, the conversation came round to what had been the most exciting topic of the previous week, viz., the case of a prisoner who had contrived to escape from one of the convict prisons. Everybody at the table had something to say on the subject, and most of the remarks were rather hard. The general opinion seemed to be that the sooner the unfortunate man was caught and taken back to drear his weird the better. But Mrs. Gordon thought differently, and when the others had said their say, she threw herself gallantly into the breach and espoused the cause of the condemned man with a warmth that spoke volumes for her generosity and kindness of heart. Her cheeks flushed and her pretty blue eyes glistened with tears as she spoke, and I admired her more and more with every word she uttered. I like women to be sympathetic and pitiful and tender particularly where men are concerned. Miss Douglass, on the contrary, did not seem to share her sister's charming sentiments, or even to appreciate them. She said nothing while Mrs. Gordon was speaking, but sheidgetted restlessly in her chair, and her thick brows met in a heavy frown. When Mrs. Gordon stopped she gave a grunt of relief. "Sentimental rot!" I heard her mutter, under her breath. That decided me. From that moment I hated Miss Douglass as deeply and unswervingly as I worshipped her sister. Hugh Drummond was sitting next to me. Boarding houses are no more in his line than they are in mine, but he was following the advice of his doctor, who had recommended him to try a breath of pure moorland air after a severe attack of influenza. He leaned forward and addressed himself to Mrs. Gordon. "To stand by the weak," he said slowly, in his clear, incisive tones, "is a beautiful theory, but in this world the weak generally go to the wall; and if you stand by them the chances are ten to one that you will go incidentally, so to speak—to the wall, too." Everybody looked at Hugh. People generally do look at him when he speaks. Mrs. Gordon threw back her head proudly. "I always stand by the weak," she said, "and I always shall. I never can bear to see things hurt or punished or oppressed, even if they are wrong, and I always take their part, whether it is a child, or a horse, or a dog, or—or—"

"A convict." Hugh supplemented quietly, finishing the incoherent speech. "I see." I have always liked Hugh and looked upon him as the best of good fellows, but just at that moment I longed to kick him, with a longing that could hardly be controlled. I did control it, though, and dashed abruptly into the conversation, turning it into an entirely different channel. A moment later Mrs. Gordon flashed me a quick look of comprehension and gratitude, and I was well, as I said before, I am very susceptible to first impressions, and on that small incident I based my opinion of

DON M. DICKINSON TALKS OF AFFAIRS AT THE BELT—HIS VIEW OF THE STOCK MARKET.

Ex-Postmaster General Don M. Dickinson of Detroit arrived in Houghton Tuesday evening from the Huron Mountain club. His visit here at this time is largely in the interest of affairs relating to the Belt mine, upon which a party of his clients have an option. This option, he said, was held by Hon. Peter White of Marquette, as trustee, and was of four months' duration, of which one month has already expired. Mr. Dickinson stated that the gentlemen interested are possessed of abundant means, and that should the work now under way offer the necessary encouragement the property would be purchased by them and operated upon a most extensive scale. Mr. Dickinson was to have visited the mine yesterday. Captain Thomas Buzzo is in charge of the operations at the property, and it is a coincidence that he was appointed by Mr. Dickinson as Laurium's first postmaster. Mr. Dickinson was agreeably surprised at the great amount of work under way at Houghton, and noted with especial pleasure the building of the new hotel. "You have a remarkable country here," he said, "although it is yet in its infancy." Mr. Dickinson expressed the opinion that, despite the dull market, the interest in copper stocks was never so great in Detroit as at present. He is a believer in the idea that Boston should not be the dictator of the quotations and everything else pertaining to "coppers," and stated that there is no doubt but what the stocks would be greatly benefited by being listed also in Chicago and New York. According to his belief a more liberal buying power would then be created and stocks would not be so subservient to professional influences. Mr. Dickinson referred to the fact that a Boston brand must now be placed on a property before it "goes"; that this was to some extent shown last winter when there seemed to be fear that the Hub could not supply managements for all of the new properties. There is much in Mr. Dickinson's argument, although it must be admitted with the fullest candor that Boston capital has done more for this district than New York and Chicago ever did or will. If the condition of the stock market of the past six months is any criterion, it will require more than New York and Chicago support to keep the bottom from falling out of it.

There is a feeling of disappointment at the lack of action toward the consolidation of the Arnold group of mines, as it was hoped this would be brought about and a good start made this summer in providing facilities for operating these properties on a big scale. As the matter now stands nothing is heard of the movement in this direction, and should it be accomplished but little work of importance can be done this year. The success of the Arnold, Humboldt, Ashbed and Meadow depends upon their operation on a big scale, with economical facilities, and a consolidation would be to the benefit of each. The Arnold is amply provided with capital, having fully $500,000 in its treasury. The showing on the fissure vein intersected at the Humboldt continues very good, while reports from the Meadow are to the effect that copper is being secured in liberal quantities.

COPPER SPECULATORS WAITING.

The interest of local speculators has been largely diverted from copper stocks, owing to their continued inactivity, and business now is to a great extent confined to the New York and Chicago markets, which seem to offer "quicker runs for the money." Copper is looked upon as a good speculative proposition about four months in each year, and this to a great extent is borne out by the history of past years. Among copper speculators the feeling scarcely prevails that September will offer any "bargain days" in the market, while the general opinion seems to be that after that month a strong market will prevail and continue well into the winter. It is a mistake to presume that the Lake speculators are loaded down with copper stocks, for local holdings now are smaller than for an extended period while there is an abundance of money awaiting action.

BIGGER OUTPUT PLANNED.

At the Atlantic the new hoisting plant at "B" shaft will get into commission about Oct. 1, after which much more efficient service will be rendered at this point and eventually more rock hoisted. At about the same time the double skip-rover will be in operation to the fifth level at "A" shaft, and here also an increased production can be looked forward to. Affairs are being shaped at this mine for a bigger product, both by reason of the improvement in the rock and the increase in the amount handled, and it will be but a brief period when the five heads at the mill will be operated to their full capacity.

STAMP MILL FOR THE BALTIC.

Plans are being prepared for a stamp mill at the Baltic, and in view of this fact experiments are being conducted at the head now being operated at the Atlantic in the benefit of which will be the main advantage of in the future treatment of Baltic rock. It is likely that provisions will be made so that, eventually, eight heads will be erected at the stamp mill. The average amount of rock treated daily by the Baltic at present is about 245 tons and the product of last week showed an increase of about fifteen one-hundredths of 1 per cent. over the result for the week preceding. There is every indication the improvement will continue.

WORKING NIGHT AND DAY

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Sold by The Stafford Drug Company.

WANTED—A good all around blacksmith, especially a horse-shoer. Wages $2.50 per day. T. F. Gill.

THE HOUSES OF MR. DOWNS OF HOUGHTON and Mrs. Nicholas of Lake Linden were struck by lightning during Monday night's storm. The latter named dwelling was considerably damaged. The copper country was given another electrical display Tuesday evening, followed by a heavy rain, and if the good work keeps on street sprinklers will be out of date.

ARCHIE SCOTT'S SCHEME.

The heavy rains experienced this summer have raised havoc with some of the streets of Hancock and Houghton, and the expense of repairs following has been no small item. In view of this fact President Scott of Hancock has devised a plan whereby it is hoped to avoid in the future the stones and water being carried out of their course by freshets. As soon as the funds are available, it is the intention to construct near the city hall a large basin, about fifteen feet in width, to be backed by an appropriate ditch having three iron gates, one above the other twenty feet apart. It is estimated that 100 tons of stones and boulders have been carried down the hill by the recent floods.

SOAP COMPANY BUILDING.

CAPACITY OF THE "INGOT" PLANT TO BE MUCH ENLARGED.

The Lake Superior Soap Company, manufacturer of the famous "Ingot," has been reorganized and, notwithstanding that the site occupied by the company since its existence has been purchased by the Copper Range company, the business will henceforth be continued on a much larger scale. Herbert S. Baer of Hancock is now secretary and treasurer of the company. Ground was broken Tuesday just west of the old factory site for a new building that will be 80 by 30 feet in size, with a stone foundation. The structure will be of frame and will be erected by Gauthier Bros., who have secured the contract. It will cost $2,500, and is to be completed by Oct. 1. The company has arranged for considerable new machinery and will greatly increase the former capacity of the plant. The "ingot" is not excelled by any laundry soap among the hundreds of brands shipped in from outside, and this fact is proven by its enormous sales. With the greatly expanding local territory there is no reason why the business should not show a substantial increase and prove profitable.

SUDDEN DEMISE.

NEIL JOHNSON DROPS DEAD IN A HOUGHTON SALOON.

Neil Johnson, a carpenter, aged sixty years, died suddenly about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in Frank Monette's saloon, Houghton. Johnson had been in the place but a short time and in company with three friends had just taken a social glass, when suddenly he fell over in the chair in which he had sat down but a moment before. Thinking the man had but fainted he was straightened up in the chair and some water brought him, when it developed that Johnson had expired. The body was taken to Krellwitz's undertaking parlors, where a coroner's jury was impaneled, after which the jury adjourned until last evening. The deceased has a son engaged in the jewelry business at Munising who was advised of the sad affair, and funeral arrangements are pending until he is heard from.

COAL SEVEN DOLLARS NOW.

PRICE HAS BEEN BOOSTED BY THE HIGHER LAKE FREIGHTS.

The current local price of hard coal is $7 per ton, which is 50 cents higher than a year ago, the difference being due to the higher lake freights. The coal rates from Buffalo is 70 cents, as compared with 20 and 25 cents last season, while the cost of unloading is fully 10 cents a ton higher. It is likely that $7 will be the ruling price this winter, unless lake freights take another big advance, and this is not among the improbabilities. The shipments of soft coal coming in are exceedingly heavy and the aggregate for the season will be far in advance of the history of the district. The docks at Hancock are continually taxed to their capacity; the volume of business is indeed remarkable and an item of great importance to the village.

AMERICA ADVANCING.

American locomotives are hauling English trains, and the English trains and Englishmen are rolling over American steel rails. Our machinery is sold all over the world. A great American remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is gradually working its way to all parts of the globe where dyspepsia and indigestion thrive. Like all American products, it is honest, and does just what it claims to do. The most stubborn cases of constipation, biliousness, nervousness, liver and kidney troubles must yield to it. It is the most perfect remedy ever devised for weak stomachs. For fifty years it has been famous for its astonishing efficacy. It is a perfectly natural remedy, and there is nothing to equal it. RELIGIOUS FREEDOM IN GUAM.

Baltimore, Aug. 30.—A copy of the proclamation of Captain Leary, U. S. N., on assuming the governorship of the island of Guam, has been received here. It declares all political power exercised by the clergy to be abolished and freedom of worship established; says that all property, rights and privileges held by Spain are vested in the United States, and that the existing laws not in conflict with the terms of the proclamation are continued in force.

HOW TURKEY AIDED UNCLE SAM.

Washington, Aug. 30.—An interesting story is afloat in connection with the agreement made between the sultan of Sulu and this government by which the sultan should receive a salary from Uncle Sam. It is to the effect that an arrangement had been made with the sultan of Turkey to use his influence with the sultan of Sulu and induce the latter to recognize the sovereignty of this government. In return for his kind offices this government, it is said, agreed not to press his claims for indemnity for the outrages perpetrated upon American missionaries and the destruction of their property in Turkey with too much harshness.

The sultan of Sulu and his followers are Mohammedans, and as the "Sick Man of the East" belongs to the same sect, he is looked upon by the Moros after a fashion as the head of their religion.

As the story goes, Mr. Strauss, the American minister at Constantinople, made the agreement with the Turkish sultan's representatives, and word was sent to the sultan of Sulu to bow to the will of the United States. This was interpreted in the nature of an order, and when General Bates arrived at the palace of the sultan the savage was in a conciliatory mood, and ready to yield to any demand, provided, however, he should not be deprived of his income. It was an easy matter, therefore, for the army officer to reach a satisfactory agreement and arrange the details by which the sultan should yield his territory to his "brother."

At the state department many inquiries were made as to the truth of the story, but the officials professed to know nothing of it.

WROTH AT THE KILLING OF ONE OF THEIR RACE IN MISSOURI.

Maryville, Mo., Aug. 30.—Rev. Wm. Johnston, former pastor of the African Baptist church here and later evangelist of the Colored Baptist church in Kansas and Missouri, was killed this evening by an officer for resisting incarceration. Johnston was convicted this afternoon of having made indecent proposals Monday to Mrs. Alice Barton, a respectable white woman, and was sentenced to nine months in jail. The Maryville negroes are very bitter tonight and threaten to get revenge.

Darien, Ga., Aug. 30.—John Deleag was arraigned today for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Townsend. There was no demonstration.

LOUD IN PRAISE OF THE ALABAMA.

NAVAL MEN DELIGHTED WITH THE TRIAL RUN OF THE NEW BATTLESHIP—LATE DETAILS.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—The new battleship Alabama returned today from its builder's trials held off Delaware breakwater yesterday.

E. S. Cramp said that beyond question the Alabama is the finest handling heavy ship that his company has ever built. It can be turned in less than double its length, and this was done repeatedly in the runs around the lights.

The only fault that was found was with the temperature of the firerooms. At times the thermometer marked 121 degrees, and on the trip down the river several men were overcome. This defect will be remedied before the official trial.

Throughout the trials a heavy northeast gale drove the ocean into huge waves and each trip to the eastward, over a course steered north-northeast, found the ship facing a terrific gale and sea. Even under these conditions, anything but favorable, the Alabama proved that it could not only exceed its speed contract requirements but that it is a great sea boat and a splendid gun platform.

FASTEST OF HER CLASS.

Leaving the breakwater early in the morning the Alabama was run slowly out to the southwest lights, off Five Fathom Bank, and from there to the northeast lights, where the trials were held. The first trial was a warming-up race and showed 14.44 knots on the run out and 14.33 running in—an average of 15.25 knots.

The second trial began under full forced draft, and the big ship plunged ahead at a tremendous clip. The run out was made at the rate of 15.43 knots and the return at 17.02 knots, an average of 16.33 knots, which is the fastest ever done by a battleship of anywhere near the Alabama's class.

For more than a year the Alabama has lain in the Delaware, and its bottom was not in fit condition for great speed, but the vessel showed no inclination to drag, and answered every move of its helm with wonderful quickness. In the big seas it was staunch, and at no time was it difficult to walk on the decks.

The Russian and United States officers aboard were loud in their praises of the new ship.

SIX PERISH AMID FLAMES.

CRUSHED BENEATH THE SECOND FLOOR OF A BURNING YUMA (ARIZ.) BUILDING—LOSS, $150,000.

Yuma, Aug. 30.—The most disastrous fire in the history of Yuma broke out at 3 o'clock this morning in the second story of E. F. Sagnetti's merchandise store, resulting in the loss of six lives and the total destruction of the store building and stock of goods. The fire department was unable to cope with the flames owing to lack of apparatus. A crowd of men were carrying goods from the building when the second floor fell upon them, killing six and injuring many more. The dead:

H. F. NEAHER, city councilman. RODOLFO WILSON. JAMES TAPIA. JULIAN PRESICADO. R. R. IVORA. RICHARD WILSON.

The loss is estimated at $150,000; insurance, $50,000.

CHARRED SKULL FOUND.

Sparkill, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Workmen digging in the ruins of the St. Agnes convent orphanage today found a charred skull, supposed to be that of Jane, the old pensioner who perished. It is believed that Theresa Murphy and Anna Brown, the missing children, who it was hoped had escaped, were burned to death.

M'LEAN NAMED ON FIRST BALLOT.

Silver Journalist in Full Control of the Ohio Democratic Convention.

CHICAGO PLATFORM OF '96 ENDORSED IN ITS ENTIRETY.

NOMINATION OF BRYAN DEMANDED IN NINETEEN HUNDRED.

On the Philippine War. Regret Is Expressed That "American Soldiers Are Being Unlawfully Used to Crush Out Republicanism in the Orient."

PROCEEDINGS TURBULENT THROUGHOUT.

John R. McLean was born in Cincinnati fifty-one years ago. After he had served in all departments on the Cincinnati Enquirer he became half owner, in 1872, and sole owner in 1881. His success is due to him, and he has also succeeded in many other enterprises, being said to be worth ten million dollars. Mr. McLean has always been a staunch supporter of organized labor and a friend of the poor. While he has never held public office, he has been a powerful factor in politics. In 1885 McLean was the Democratic nominee for senator against John Sherman. He has been prominent at national, as well as local and state conventions. At the last Democratic national convention he was a prominent candidate for the presidency and declined the nomination for vice president.

Governor—John R. McLean, Hamilton, Ohio; Lieutenant Governor—A. W. Patrick, Tuscarawas.

Supreme Judge—Dewitt C. Badger, Madison.

Attorney General—J. W. Dore, Seneca.

FREE COINAGE THEIR SLOGAN.

Zanesville, O., Aug. 30.—When the Democratic state convention met today the convention hall was packed. Judge W. P. Mooney was temporary chairman and subsequently was made permanent. The convention was in control of John R. McLean throughout.

The platform recast the entire Chicago platform, especially the free silver plank at 16 to 1; demands the renomination of Bryan; declares the government cannot be both republican and "imperialistic"; opposes any entangling alliances; regrets "American soldiers are being unlawfully used in the name of liberty to crush out the dawning of republicanism in the Orient."

McLean was nominated for governor on the first ballot, and there was a great demonstration immediately after the vote was taken. McLean was known to have been a big winner, but the secretary could not announce the vote, except 402 1/2 for McLean and 227 for Kilbourne, when a motion to make it unannounced prevailed. The convention then took a recess until 4 o'clock. This was taken to confer with Colonel Kilbourne for second place. Conferences were held until 5 o'clock for that purpose, but in vain.

PATRIOT FOR SECOND PLACE.

On reassembling every possible effort was made to nominate Kilbourne as lieutenant governor, but after a dozen close personal friends had withdrawn his name and declared that Kilbourne would decline, the effort was again abandoned. During this part of the performance a committee appeared escorting the nominee for governor and the other candidates. McLean was given a rousing ovation, and Kilbourne also was most enthusiastically received. Both made speeches. The latter eulogized the platform and held that the principles were more important than personal preference.

Another effort was made to nominate Kilbourne for second place, but he was still in the hall and had the chairman make the official announcement that he could not accept. The names of Curtis V. Harris of Athens, John L. Beatty of Steubenville and A. W. Patrick of New Philadelphia were then presented for lieutenant governor. After the first ballot the nomination of Patrick was made unanimous. Patrick was a delegate to the national convention at Chicago when Bryan was nominated. At that time he presented the name of McLean for president, while at the convention today he seconded the nomination of Colonel Kilbourne.

ENTHUSIASM OVER BRYAN.

The vote defeating the minority report on credentials was the hardest fight the McLean men had during the day. Among the shrewdest plays was a motion to amend the report on permanent organization so as to continue the temporary organization. This corrected the only stipulation that the McLean managers made at last night's meeting of the committee. Judge Mooney had made such a good impression that all wanted him for permanent chairman. Hon. Thomas J. Cogan also was continued as secretary.

The convention much of the time was beyond the control of the sergeant-at-arms. The name of Bryan was cheered whenever mentioned, while the speech of Judge Mooney on taking the chair as temporary chairman was the keynote of the convention.

ELECTED BY 3,000 PLURALITY.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 30.—Late returns show that Dorsey W. Shackelford's plurality over Voshell, Republican, in the election in the Eighth Missouri congressional district, to succeed the late "Silver Dick" Bland, is about 3,000. Shackelford is a Democrat.

DECLARE AGAINST FUSION.

IOWA POPULISTS PUT UP A STATE TICKET AT DES MOINES.

Des Moines, Aug. 30.—The People's party state convention met here today, with a hundred delegates present, and nominated a state ticket as follows: Governor, Charles A. Lloyd, Muscatine county; lieutenant governor, S. M. Harvey, Polk; judge supreme court, L. H. Weller, Chickasaw; superintendent public instruction, C. Worth, Benton; railroad commissioner, Robert L. Dunning, Wapello.

The convention declared against fusion and endorsed Wharton Barker of Pennsylvania and Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota for president and vice president in 1900. The delegates were addressed during the day by Chairman A. W. C. Weeks, Professor George D. Heron of Iowa college, Grinnell and Joseph Parker, national organizer of Kentucky.

The issues of the campaign outlined by Weeks and incorporated in the platform are: Anti-trust, bimetalism, industrial freedom, anti-imperialism and direct legislation.

Chairman Weeks said: "The state conventions, both of the Republican and Democratic parties of Iowa, have denounced the aggregations of capital, but neither party has proposed an adequate remedy. We declare the remedy public ownership of public utilities." Weeks claimed that Bryan and the Democracy were responsible for the Philippine war as is the administration. The address of Professor Heron was an exposition of his well-known radical views on Christian socialism.

CHAIRMAN JONES' LIST OF THE NEW SUB-COMMITTEES.

St. Louis, Aug. 30.—The new members of the sub-committees of the Democratic national committee were announced tonight by Vice Chairman Stone upon the receipt of a letter from Chairman Jones, who is now in Great Britain. They are as follows, the first one named in each case being chairman:

Executive—J. G. Johnson, Kansas; W. J. Stone, Minnesota; Daniel J. Campbell, Michigan; John G. Shankling, Pennsylvania; Thomas Gahan, Illinois; James M. Head, Tennessee; W. H. Thompson, Nebraska; G. Fred Williams, Massachusetts; T. D. O'Brien, Minnesota.

Ways and Means—John R. McLean, Ohio; Urey Woodson, Kentucky; Adair Wilson, Colorado; J. J. Dwyer, California; Ben E. Tillman, South Carolina; Frank Campbell, New York; J. G. Johnson, Kansas.

Press—Clarke Howell, Georgia; Joseph Daniels, North Carolina; Alexander Troup, Connecticut; Charles A. Walsh, Iowa; J. G. Johnson, Kansas.

The former members of the ways and means committee—ex-Governor Altgeld, former Senator Wm. V. Allen, Senator Henry M. Teller and Mr. Stone—resigned and requested Chairman Jones to name their successors. Chairman Jones will be ex-officio chairman of all the sub-committees. The new committees will meet within ten days in Chicago and organize for the campaign.

HOLDS PORTO RICANS TOO IGNORANT TO VOTE.

Insular Commission Recommends That All the Officials Be Appointed for Awhile.

FILES A REPORT ON ITS SIX MONTHS' INVESTIGATION.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT SHOULD SOON REPLACE MILITARY REGIME.

New Code of Laws Is Submitted and the Appeal Made That It Immediately Be Given Effect for the Relief So Imperatively Needed by the People.

TEXT OF THE PROPOSED REFORMS.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The insular commission, consisting of General Kennedy, Judge Curtis and Major Watkins, which has given six months' study to the conditions in Porto Rico, today made a report to Secretary Root. It recommends a form of civil government in the islands to take the place of the present military regime and submits for adoption a code of laws. These laws it recommends should be placed in operation by an executive decree, arguing that congressional enactment of the general laws would change the status of the island toward the United States and make it part of the constitutional territory of the United States.

The code of laws and civil government proposed do not give the Porto Ricans elective franchise for any office. It is recommended that the military force remain in the island, but be kept in the background. English is made the official language. The code abrogates all Spanish laws and royal decrees and all systems of procedure, and substitutes the provisions of a code modified after the laws of the United States. In place of the Spanish system of courts the American system is provided. There are to be five supreme judges, three of whom are to be American and two native, and two federal, three district and eleven probate judges, and an attorney general, one district attorney, one United States marshal and a prosecuting attorney in each of the seven judicial districts.

OPPRESSIVE TAXES ABOLISHED.

A complete civil county, township and city government is to be provided, all the officers of the civil administration to be natives and the higher ones to be appointed by the president. A public school system is provided, also night schools for illiterate adults. Full general corporation and railroad laws, with the right to eminent domain, are provided. All taxes which bear heavily on the poor and all double taxes on non-residents are abrogated. Marriage laws are provided like those of the United States. Highways and poor laws are provided and the courts given full power to issue writs of habeas corpus, injunctions, etc. Speedy trials, coupled with humane punishment, are sought to be secured by the code. The foreclosure of mortgages and the redemption of property are provided for on the American plan.

The commission recommends that this code be put into effect at once by the president without waiting for congress to legislate on the question, saying the people of the island are in distress and will oppress by the old Spanish laws and customs.

The commission states the Porto Ricans have lost their markets in Spain for coffee by reason of increased duties and that the industry is now languishing for want of an immediate market. It recommends that the government of the United States purchase the coffee for the army and navy in Porto Rico, which the commission says produces as much coffee as can be found in the world. This is neither wisdom nor patriotism in purchasing foreign coffee to be sent to our soldiers in Porto Rico, it is declared.

HORDE OF GREEDY OFFICIALS.

The commission also presented Secretary Root a joint letter setting forth the general conditions prevailing and the main problems presented in extending American rule, and urging prompt action to relieve the distress and depression of affairs, saying: "No other matters demand such immediate or prompt attention as these. A horde of office holders are eating up the substance of the people." The commission outlines a plan for public improvements whereby the people may find work.

As to the character of the Porto Ricans, the letter says: "The people are industrious and ready and willing to work if given opportunity. There is a great field upon this island for the employment of capital, which now stands waiting for invitation and permission to enter. With its entry will come the dawn of prosperity for the Porto Rican people."

Regarding elections, the letter says: "We have not provided for any elections, as we are abundantly satisfied that the people are not ready to exercise the elective franchise. Not over 10 per cent. can read or write or own property. This applies to municipal governments as well as to the whole island. At present all the officers should be appointed."

The commission recommends a revision of the tariff rates on articles imported from the United States, and suggests that congress grant authority to the president to arrange a schedule of reciprocal tariff duties.

NEED OF MONETARY REFORM.

The commission lays stress on the need of currency reform. "Not all the complications growing out of the currency of Porto Rico," it says, "can be remedied until congress shall place a sufficient fund in the hands of the president, in the shape of silver certificates and treasury notes, all legal tender for their face value, to enable him to take up all the Porto Rican silver, authorize him to have it recoined into American silver dollars and also to issue more certificates to replace those used in the purchase or taking up of the Porto Rican silver, the difference between the bullion value and the 60 cents paid for them to be charged against the island and when practicable to be covered into the United States treasury."

As showing the immediate need of legal tribunals the fact is cited that eleven prisoners at San Juan have been confined from ten months to nearly five

$2,000 PACE WON BY PATCHER.

DEFEATS A FIELD OF FOUR FAST ONES AT HARTFORD.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 30.—The big event of the grand circuit meeting today was the first two-minute pace ever scheduled. There were five starters, John R. Gentry drawing out after a misunderstanding as to whether the event was two in three or three in five. The starters were Joe Patchen, Anaconda, Cheahals, Frank Bogash and Searchlight. Searchlight was very unsteady, breaking badly, and was never in any hopes of winning a heat. Joe Patchen won, with Anaconda second and Frank Bogash third. Best time, 2:03 3/4. The race was for a $2,000 purse.

TOMMY WHITE THE VICTOR.

HENRY LYONS, COLORED, LOSES ON POINTS AT DUBUQUE, IA.—KENNY VANQUISHES LEWIS.

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 30.—Tommy White got the decision over Henry Lyons, colored, of Chicago at the end of their twenty-round bout here tonight. They fought for the 126-pound championship. Lyons put up a good fight, but began to weaken in the last round and White landed almost at will. Neither man appeared to possess much power. They hugged continually from the start to finish. Hitting with one arm free was allowed, and they pummeled each other everytime they clinched. The decision did not meet with the entire approval of the audience, owing to the good showing Lyons made in the first fifteen rounds. White was the favorite, at odds of ten to eight.

In the preliminary bout between Jack Lewis and Charlie Kenny, for the lightweight championship of the West, Lewis was all but out several times. In the seventh he was going, and Kenny was given the decision and the entire purse on Referee Siler's decision that Lewis deliberately fouled in order to save himself from a knock-out. Lewis ruled the favorite in the betting at ten to seven.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING NEEDED.

UNCLE SAM SHOULD PROVIDE SUITABLE QUARTERS FOR ISHPEMING'S POSTOFFICE.

Some people here, prominent among them Postmaster Fairbairn, think the city should receive recognition from the national government, and that congress should appropriate money to provide a building capable of properly accommodating the postoffice. Mr. Fairbairn intends to give the matter his attention and will communicate with Congressman Sheldon to ascertain if it will be possible to have a bill providing for such a building here introduced at the next session of congress.

There is urgent need of a change in the postoffice quarters. The room in the Sellwood block is entirely too small to allow of an economical carrying of the business of the office. Carriers and clerks are crowded together in a space originally meant for about half of the present number of employees. An attempt was made this spring to find more commodious quarters, but naught came of it. The lease of the Sellwood room was not renewed in the hope that better quarters might be secured, and the room now in use is only being used at the pleasure of the owners of the block.

Something will have to be done soon to provide more room for the postoffice. As there are few places suitable for the office in the city Postmaster Fairbairn is hopeful that a bill to provide for a government building would be acted on favorably if introduced at the next session of congress and given proper backing. The matter will be presented to Congressman Sheldon and it is hoped that he may be induced to prepare the bill and present it at the coming session. The business of the local office is large enough to warrant the request for the appropriation. In all probability the bill will be presented and it is to be hoped that it will be considered favorably.

BUILDING NOTES.

The Cleveland Cliffs company has instituted general repairs on twenty-three of its houses at the Salisbury location and they will be put in the best of condition. The contract calls for re-siding the dwellings, repairing the siding wherever it is required and repainting them. Charles Regstrom is doing the carpentering work and Trembath brothers have the painting contract. When the repairs are finished the houses will be much more comfortable for their tenants.

John Silas has contracted for the erection of six-room cottage at the Marquette location. The structure will be built on up-to-date plans and will be a handsome little dwelling when it is completed. Work on it will be started at once, and it will be rushed to completion.

A local contractor is in receipt of a letter from the Huron Iron company of Crystal Falls asking him to submit plans and specifications for twenty-five dwellings that the company is about to erect for its men. The dwellings will be plain and will be built at a cost of $350 a piece. Each will contain several rooms. Reports indicate that there is much building being done on all the Michigan ranges to furnish accommodations for the miners.

CONSIDERABLE CAMPAIGNING.

School matters are being freely discussed here. It is some time since there has been such a general interest taken in the election of trustees as there is this year and the work of the board has never been more generally discussed. The tax payers appear to be giving the election more than the usual amount of attention. The opposing tickets have not been named yet. B. W. Wright is the only avowed candidate for a trusteeship. Numerous of the prominent citizens of the city are being mentioned in connection with each ticket but no candidates appear assured. It is certain, however, that two tickets will be announced before Monday and from all appearances there will be a warm fight between them. During his absence from the city Recorder Small was mentioned as a possible candidate for member of the board. He has stated since his return that he is not in the field and that he never had the intention of seeking the position. His name was used without authority from him. If Mr. Wright should be defeated one of the men on the winning ticket might come in for the directorship of the board. The emoluments of this position would be an inducement to make a candidate work hard for his own election. Between the big celebration and the election Labor Day will be quite lively here.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY.

Mrs. J. H. Gillette of Marquette was here yesterday.

Cox & Lucas are ready for the opening of their saloon, which is set for tomorrow.

As was expected, Miss Olcott arrived home yesterday morning. She is enjoying excellent health.

John R. McDonald, deputy collector of customs, of South Lake Linden, was here Tuesday night.

O. G. Peterson, instructor in the high school, was expected to arrive from Ann Arbor this morning.

Mrs. F. P. Tilson's father, Mr. Bennett, who has been visiting here the past few days, left for his home yesterday.

Miss Lola Herbert and her mother who have been residing here for the past twelve months, left yesterday for their home in Detroit.

Miss Kate Walters entertained a number of her young friends at her home yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Alma Krogman, who is now visiting here.

Manville Jenks and D. P. Household left this morning for Paradise Lake, near Wetmore, on the D. S. S. & A. line, where they will enjoy an outing of several days.

The store formerly occupied by Johnson & Erickson, at the corner of First street and Cleveland avenue, is being renovated and repainted for the reception of a new tenant.

The school teachers from outside-points will begin to arrive here today. Most of them will come in Saturday and Sunday. The corps will be practically the same as it was last year.

All who went to Marquette Tuesday night express themselves highly pleased with Hoyt's "A Black Sheep," and announce their intention of seeing the other Hoyt shows that are booked.

The clerks held a meeting last night to complete arrangements for participating in the Labor Day celebration. They will be out Monday in force and will make up a large part of the crowd.

Miss Flora Heaton of Virginia, who has been visiting here for the past six weeks, the guest of Dr. Vandevanter and family, left this morning for points in southern Michigan which she will visit before returning to her home.

The miners are still out at Section 21. Most of the men are gradually getting back to their old positions or are finding employment at other mines. The few who are out are losing time with a total absence of worry over the matter that would be heroic in a better cause.

Clara Taropp will be the next attraction at the opera house. She will appear on the evening of Sept. 4 in "My Friend, the Count." Her advance men are expected today. Much interest is taken in her second appearance, as she made a big hit here last winter, and she will be welcomed by a packed house.

The big store in the addition built by F. Braastad to his Cleveland avenue block last spring is being finished up and prepared for occupancy. It is the intention to use the room for the accommodation of the crockery department, now an adjunct to the grocery department. A bazaar will occupy part of the room.

Haywood's Celebrities appeared before a fair gathering at the opera house Tuesday night. Counter social attractions cut down the attendance somewhat. The performance was pleasing and the musical numbers were received with considerable applause. The Marvins in their one-act certain raisers made the hit of the evening.

Ole Waiseth has completed the repairs on his residence which have been under way for the past several weeks. The dwelling has been completely remodeled and it is practically new. Its interior has been renovated and there are minor changes in the arrangement. The improvements have made it a handsome as well as convenient residence.

Air Johnson strayed into Paine, Weber & Co.'s branch office here yesterday morning to take his usual survey of the boards. He seated himself on the window ledge, but was unfortunately enough to select a sheet of fly paper as his resting place. It required the united efforts of the office force to separate the seat of his trousers from the "tanglefoot" and he carried off a collection of dead flies as a memorial of his misadventure.

Ed Haslam left last evening for Chicago, where he will be located in the future. For the past several months he has been bookkeeper for the Swift Beef company here. The arduous duties told on his health and he decided to take a position in the general offices at Chicago. Ed is one of the most popular young men of the city and has the best wishes of a host of friends who expect to see him make great strides in the Chicago offices of the company.

PRETTY MRS. GORDON.

Miss Douglas and Mrs. Gordon, respectively, I decided then and there that the former was hard and unsympathetic and unwomanly, all that a woman ought not to be, in fact, while the latter was—well, I don't know that I can exactly put into words all that I thought about the latter.

Time went on, and every day I managed to see a good deal of Mrs. Gordon. She spent many hours up stairs with her sister in their little private sitting room, but when she came down she always seemed ready to talk to me, and pleased to accept such attentions as I ventured to show her. Sometimes we walked together, sometimes we drove together; and day by day the spell of her fascination grew stronger.

"Samival, my boy," bevere of riders," said Hugh Drummond to me one morning, as we smoked our after breakfast cigarettes on the wide terrace that ran along the south side of the house.

His lips expressed absolutely nothing, and I hesitated, not knowing whether to laugh or frown. It is always so difficult to make sure of what Hugh is driving at.

"What do you mean?" I asked, rather shortly.

"Nothing," he answered, in the same way. "I never mean anything, you know, Colonel. Besides, that wasn't an original sentiment, but merely a quotation from the immortal 'Pickwick.'"

"I know that," I returned, more shortly still. "I know my Dickens as well as you do. I only wondered if you meant the quotation as a warning, because, if you did—"

I paused, and Hugh flicked the end of his cigarette.

"Yes?" he said, assuming an air of polite interest. "Yes? If I did, Colonel, what then?"

"Why, it was only waste of time," I answered, "that's all. I never listen to warnings, and I believe I'm old enough to take care of myself."

"Well, if you aren't now, you never will be," Hugh remarked equably. "Don't suspect me of trying to dry nurse you, Colonel. I've no desire to do anything of the kind." Then he stood still. "Here comes Mrs. Gordon," he added, "of course she wants to talk to you, so I'll clear out. It's against my principles to spoil sport."

He turned and lunged away in the opposite direction, but I went on to meet Mrs. Gordon, who was looking even more charmingly pretty than usual. I do like a woman who looks pretty in the morning.

"Have you anything special to do just now, Colonel Maitland?" she asked as she came up to me. "I hope not, because I want to talk to you for five minutes, if I may."

She raised her soft blue eyes to mine, with a look that made me feel that five years would be but as five minutes if spent in her company, and for her sake, "I have nothing to do," I answered, "though if I had it would make no difference. I am always at your service as you know, Mrs. Gordon."

She looked up at me again, blushing like a rose.

"Ah!" she laughed, "you have so often said that, and I have never put you to the test, but I am going to now. Are you willing to be put to the test?"

"More than willing," I said, as we strolled on together—"delighted!"

There was a pause.

"I'm going to ask you a favor," Mrs. Gordon went on presently, a trifle nervously I fancied. "I want you to do something for me. Will you do it?"

"Yes," I answered, without hesitation. "Of course, I will."

"Thank you, Colonel Maitland," she said, "I believe you are a true friend."

"Well, I hope so," I returned. "Anyway I've never been accused of being a false one yet. Now, Mrs. Gordon, will you tell me what it is you want me to do?"

She laughed lightly. Her serious mood had passed.

"It's nothing very great, after all," she answered. "Nothing to make a fuss about, really, only I'm always so shy about asking favors of people. Didn't you say last night that you knew one of the captains of the Manor line?"

"Yes," I answered, wondering what on earth she was leading up to; "Howard, the captain of the Royal Manor. Poor old Howard! He was born to different things, but he ran through all his money and then went to sea. That was his way of going under, poor chap! I don't see much of him now, but still we run up against one another from time to time, and we're always friends."

"Well," said Mrs. Gordon, "I should like to take a passage for my sister on board the Royal Manor. Jessie is going to some friends in New York and I am not able to go with her; so, naturally, I feel rather anxious about her. But if she could go in charge of a friend of yours, I shouldn't feel anxious at all. I should know then that she was safe, for the voyage, at all events. Would you mind—would it trouble you very much to write a line to Captain Howard, telling him about Jessie, and asking him to look after her. I find the Royal Manor sails next week, and that will just suit."

"Trouble me?" I repeated. "Not at all. Of course I'll write—no, on second thought I'll go and see Howard and make all the arrangements for you, if you like. I shall be glad to meet Howard again, as well as delighted to help you in any way, and I may be able to save you a lot of trouble."

"How good you are," said Mrs. Gordon, with a warmth of gratitude that seemed out of all proportion to the slight service I had offered to render her. "If all men were like you, how different the world would be! Yes, if you will really go and see Captain Howard that will simplify everything and save me no end of trouble. I am afraid I like being saved trouble."

She looked at me and laughed, and I laughed, too.

"You wouldn't be a woman if you didn't," I rejoined. "That's settled then. I'll run up and see Howard tomorrow, and you must tell me if you have any special stipulations to make. I'll see that they're attended to if you have."

Mrs. Gordon considered for a moment.

"No," she answered, "I don't know that I have, except that she must have a cabin to herself. That is an absolute necessity. She is not strong, as you know, and she is very nervous and faddy and has a horror of strangers. Unless she can have a cabin to herself I shall let her go, and I know that is sometimes difficult to arrange, but—"

She broke off and looked at me appealingly.

"What do you mean?" I asked, rather shortly.

"Nothing," he answered, in the same way. "I never mean anything, you know, Colonel. Besides, that wasn't an original sentiment, but merely a quotation from the immortal 'Pickwick.'"

"I know that," I returned, more shortly still. "I know my Dickens as well as you do. I only wondered if you meant the quotation as a warning, because, if you did—"

I paused, and Hugh flicked the end of his cigarette.

Miss Aida Lucier

Completely Recovered Her Health by Taking Dr. Coderre's Red Pills.

It is very distressing for a rich girl to be afflicted with female trouble, but it is much more so for the girl who has regular duties to perform. Think of the girls in the stores, the shops, the mills and in the household employ who have to work away day after day, all the time racked by pains and weakened by drains! These girls can afford high-priced doctors, but they can afford Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women, which are a thousand times better than all physicians put together. They can carry the pills to work with them, and take them free from observation. While they are working, the pills will cure them completely. They will thus be free from pains, irritations, displacements and drains. The flush of pink will come back to the cheeks. Their figures will be plump and symmetrical. They will feel like singing, instead of sighing. Other girls will be interested in the following words written by Miss Aida Lucier, of 19 Atwood St., Providence, R. I.: "Dr. Coderre's Red Pills have done me ever so much good. I was better after taking a single box. I had trouble with my stomach and head, and was weak all over. Many times I had fainting spells. These came on as often as two or three times a week. My sickness extended over two years. I am a cornetist in the Lucier Family Orchestra, and since my recovery I find my duties much more pleasant and agreeable. I do not hesitate to recommend Dr. Coderre's Red Pills to all weak, pale and sick women."

Write us for full professional advice if your case is stubborn. Our French specialists are at your service without cost. Send your name and address on a postal card for a free copy of our great doctor book, "Pale and Weak Women."

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are widely imitated. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred or at 25c a box. They are worthless imitations. Get the genuine at all honest druggists. They have them in 50 Red Pills in a box for 50c, or 6 boxes for $2.50. Or you can send the price in stamps, or by registered letter, money order or express order to us. We mail them all over the world, no duty to pay.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills, at 50c a box, last longer than liquid medicines costing $1. And they are easier to take, more convenient to carry, and they cure. Address all letters to THE FRANCO-AMERICAN CHEMICAL CO., Medical Department, Montreal, Canada.

WORK AT SECTION TWELVE.

A SECOND EXPLORATION BEING CONDUCTED THERE BY GENE ADAMS.

During the past several months the Jackson Iron company has been steadily at work testing the extent and quality of the iron ore on Section 12.

The work done by the Jackson company has shown that the ore body will not be found without careful and sustained search. The formation is very irregular. Ore and rock have alternated as the shaft has gone down and as the drifts have been extended.

For a time it was believed that the value of the property was assured and that it would early take rank as a mine. It is now apparent that there remains much exploratory work to be done before this is determined.

The exploration being made by the Messrs. Adams is on the north half of the northwest quarter. The Jackson company is working on the north half of the southwest quarter. The work has been going on upward of a month, with a small force of men, and consists of test-pitting and churn-drilling.

"I'll see what can be done," I said; "Howard and I will do our best for you, Mrs. Gordon. You may trust us."

A week later I traveled to Liverpool with Miss Douglass, and saw her safe on board the Royal Manor. We went alone; an arrangement for which I had not bargained and of which I did not approve, for I still disliked her as much as ever.

Howard was on the lookout for us, and he at once took Miss Douglas and her belongings under his special care. She was more pleasant to him than she had been to me, but still I could see that he was not at all displeased, and when she had gone off to look at her cabin he turned to me with a queer smile.

"Well, I can't say I admire your taste, Maitland," he said, "if that's a specimen."

Just then a slim, insignificant looking little man, who had been talking to Howard when we first went on board, came up to him and said something in a low tone. I could not help hearing Howard's reply.

"Miss Jessie Douglas, a friend of Colonel Maitland's who is an old friend of mine. She's all right. You may bet your bottom dollar on that."

"Who is that?" I asked, "and what the deuce does he want to know about Miss Douglas?"

"He hasn't fallen in love with her," he said. "You needn't be jealous. He's a detective from Scotland Yard, and he's after that convict chap Milner, the forger, who escaped a little time ago, you know. The police think he's lying low somewhere in England at present, and so far, they don't seem to have picked up a clue to his whereabouts; but, sooner or later, he's sure to try and sneak out of the country, and so they've kept an eye on every boat that's sailed since his escape. Now, Maitland, time's up, and you must be off. I'll look after Miss Douglas all right, and I hope she'll improve a bit on acquaintance. So long, old chap; so long."

"Well, colonel," said Hugh Drummond, meeting me almost as soon as I entered the house on my return. "Did you get Miss Douglas off all right?"

"Yes," I answered, "and glad enough I was to see the last of her. By the way, how is Mrs. Gordon's headache, Hugh? Has she been down stairs today?"

"I haven't spoken to Mrs. Gordon today," replied Hugh, with a queer smile; "but I conclude that her headache is better because she looked so well when she went away."

"When she went away!" I echoed. "When she went away! What on earth are you driving at, Hugh?"

"About three hours after you and Miss Douglass left," Hugh explained. "Mrs. Gordon had a wire asking her to go to a cousin who had suddenly been taken dangerously ill. It must have been a very urgent wire, I think, for Mrs. Gordon went off at once, with only a Gladstone bag by way of luggage. She gave the managess an address in London, to which her boxes were to be forwarded if she didn't come back in a few days; and I should think they might as well be forwarded there tomorrow."

"You mean that you think she won't come back," I gasped, for I was used to Hugh's little ways. "There's something behind all this, Hugh. I can tell that by your manner! For heaven's sake don't keep the truth from me."

"The truth, colonel?" he said, imperceptibly. "Well, the truth is that you've danced like a lamb to the tune of the prettiest, and cleverest and pluckiest little woman it has ever been my fate to meet."

"I didn't know that lambs danced," I returned irritably. "Confound you, Hugh; don't be a fool! Speak out, can't you?"

"Well, the case stands like this," Hugh said slowly, and in his most expressionless tone. "Miss Jessie Douglas is Jack Milner, the forger; Mrs. Gordon is his wife, and you, colonel, have aided and abetted a convicted criminal to defeat the ends of justice."

MANY "HAYS" ATTEND IT.

First Convention of the Western Hay Fever Association Held Yesterday Afternoon.

W. A. ROWE OF DES MOINES, IOWA, THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Meeting Was Largely Attended by Hay Fever Sufferers and Other Resorters—Fine Musical Program Contributed to Their Pleasure.

DESIGN SUBMITTED FOR AN EMBLEM.

The first of the two convention sessions which will be held here this season by the Western Hay Fever association was held yesterday in the opera house. The weather was very close and warm and many of the sufferers were obliged to keep in the open air in order to get relief, so could not attend the meeting. In spite of this the opera house was comfortably filled and the meeting proved one of profit and enjoyment to every member attending. In addition to the association members there was quite a sprinkling of unaffected resorters and local people, who found the session scarcely less enjoyable.

Two of the association's officers were unable to attend. These were President Goldsmith, who was detained at Petoskey by a family affliction, and Secretary Walker, who, though in Marquette, was confined to his room at the hotel. The burden of presiding over the meeting was thrown on Mrs. R. E. Gregory, of Owensboro, Ky., vice president from that state. In the absence of a secretary C. J. Willis, of Springfield, Ills., was chosen to fill the office for the day.

MORE ACCOMMODATIONS.

Bishop G. Mott Williams opened the session with prayer. He was followed by Mayor Neidhart who cordially bade the association welcome to Marquette, spoke of the pleasure the city had in the two visits of the "Hays," and promised that upon their return another season they would find the city with increased hotel accommodations and better able to care for its growing summer population.

As M. P. Goodman, treasurer of the association and chairman of the finance committee, did not arrive till yesterday morning that committee was unable to present a report as was expected. Colonel Charles T. Johnson, chairman of the location and transportation committee, laid several matters of business before the association which had come into his hands.

One of these was from the manufacturers of a medicine for hay fever and catarrh, which, it was claimed had been tried with great success in a small way but for which the proprietors desired a more comprehensive test. The concern offered to send its remedy free to persons suffering with well pronounced cases of hay fever who should be vouchered for by Colonel Johnson. The colonel said that he himself had no faith in medicines for the relief of hay fever, but as there might be others in the audience who had, he presented the offer. He said also that before leaving he had made arrangements with two afflicted friends of his in Louisville, Ky., to give the remedy a test.

MORE FREE MEDICINE.

The second of the subjects introduced by the colonel was somewhat similar. This was an offer by the proprietors of a sanatorium near Philadelphia to give free treatment and board at its institution to any one member of the association who might be denominated by the organization. The letter held out the promise of a permanent cure, but like the other one the proprietors of the sanatorium wished to make a thorough test of their treatment.

Both these subjects were referred to a committee of five appointed by the chair. To the same committee was referred the third subject which Colonel Johnson introduced. This was in reference to an emblem or insignia for the association.

It seems, according to the colonel, some newspaper correspondence was sent out from Marquette, in which it was represented probably in jest, as he suggested, that the association had a standing offer of $50 to be paid to the person who should submit the best design for an emblem for the association, said design to be descriptive, either pictorially or in words, of the characteristic hay fever sneeze. This article got into the Kansas City Journal and was from there reprinted in the Petoskey Daily Reporter. A young woman by the name of Miss B. Birdsell of Bay View took the proposition seriously and originated a design which she handed to President E. R. Goldsmith, who is one of the editorial staff of the Reporter. Mr. Goldsmith knew nothing of the offer, but thinking it might have been made without his knowledge took the design and sent it with a letter of explanation to Colonel Johnson.

BALE OF HAY.

The design is a really handsome and appropriate one. It is a miniature bale of hay bound with ropes. On one side it has the inscription "Ah-ker-choo" and on the reverse side a monogram of the letters "W. H. F. A.", signifying Western Hay Fever association. The designer of the emblem suggests several treatments for it. One is that the bale be in gold with the ropes of silver and the letters in black or blue; another is that the bale be made of greyish enamel with ropes of silver and the letters in black and gold; a third is for a white enamel bale bound with the silver ropes and lettered in black or blue. Miss Birdsell also submitted a monogram design for a pin.

Colonel Johnson said that while the association had offered no rewards he thought the emblem was a very appropriate one and he felt sure that the young woman would have some of them made up according to her design and in a style so they could be sold at a moderate price the members of the association would be inclined to purchase them. He suggested that the committee return the design and make such a report to Miss Birdsell, but of course avoid binding the association.

When nominations for a president were asked several names were put before the convention, but all save W. A. Rowe, of Des Moines, Ia., declined the honor, as did also President E. R. Goldsmith in his letter to Colonel Johnson. Mr. Rowe was made the unanimous choice of the convention. Escorting by two delegates the new president went upon the stage and after acknowledging his greeting by the association, made a short address thanking the delegates for the honor conferred upon him and promising to officiate in the office to the best of his ability.

Resolutions were introduced and adopted by a rising vote extending the thanks of the association to the people of Marquette for their hospitable treatment, to the manager of the opera house for the use of the theater, and to the talent which contributed the entertainment features of the program. The reports of committees and the election of other officers went over to the next meeting, which will be held in the same place next week Wednesday.

During the course of the session a number of excellent entertainment features were introduced which were all received with great enthusiasm by the audience. The participants were Miss Edna Appel, Detroit; Miss Myrtle Augur, Detroit; Miss Irene Johnson, Marquette; Mesdames Kroll, Chicago, and Chamberlain, Alton, Ills.; W. F. Clarke, Louisville, Ky.; and University of Cincinnati Summer club, Cincinnati.

OTHERS DO WORSE.

The compliment the late school bond sale is to the credit of the city and the negotiators of the deal is shown by comparison with other bond sales of recent date. While these bonds, in spite of their low rate of interest and short time to run, brought the handsome premium of $1,515 on $30,000, reducing the net rate to about 3 1/2 per cent, other towns have not succeeded as well with their flotations.

A late issue of the Insurance Press, of New York, furnishes some examples in its bond column.

Warrensburg, N. Y., sold $20,000 ten year (average) school bonds at 114.281. Allegheny, Pa., sold $32,000 four per cent, twenty-five year school bonds at par.

Houghton, Mich., sold $80,000 five per cent, semi-annual twenty-two and a half year (average) improvement bonds at par.

PROF. WALDO ARRIVES.

Principal of the New Normal is Here and the Faculty is Soon to Follow.

WILL TOUR THE PENINSULA BEFORE SCHOOL OPENS.

State Board Will Pass on New Faculty Appointments This Week—President for the State Normal System Not Yet Chosen.

HAMMOND AND JOHNSON ARE LOOKING.

Professor, D. B. Waldo, principal of the new normal, arrived on the 3 o'clock train yesterday afternoon, bringing with him his wife and children, Herbert and Ruth. As soon as their goods arrive they will unpack and go to housekeeping. Professor Waldo has several houses in view but he has not yet decided just where he will locate. Since he was here last he has succeeded in completing his faculty, though he says he is not at liberty to announce the new members till their appointment has been confirmed by the state board, which meets Friday and Saturday at Mt. Pleasant. He expects by the first part of next week to be able to give a complete list of the teaching staff.

As soon as he gets settled, which he will endeavor to do at once, Professor Waldo will make a tour of the peninsula and visit the principal places in the interests of the normal. Excepting the time required for that trip he will be here permanently from now on. The other members of the faculty are coming early and all of them are expected up by the tenth of next month. There is certain work which will need to be done by the faculty in its entirety before school opens.

NO PRESIDENT YET.

As appears by the following special dispatch to the Detroit Tribune the president for the state system of normals has not been selected, though he is very soon to be named:

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 28.—Superintendent of Public Instruction Hammond returned today from an extensive trip through the upper peninsula. He says that the state board of education has not yet selected a president for the Michigan normal school system, but a selection is likely to be made so that the appointee can begin work with the school year, although it is possible that the appointment may be still longer delayed. This failure to act, he says, is not due to any disagreement or deadlock among the members of the board, but simply to a desire on the part of the board to exercise the utmost caution in making the selection to the end that no mistake may be made. During the past few weeks Messrs. Hammond and Johnson, a committee of the board which will recommend a man for the place, visited Buffalo, Syracuse, Cleveland, New Haven, Muskegon and other places, looking up the records of available candidates, and they hope to be able to make their recommendation in a short time.

CARD OF THANKS.

We, the children of William Foard, take this means of thanking the many friends who did so much to aid us in our late bereavement. Their comforting words and kindly acts will never be forgotten.

Patrick Foard, brothers and sisters.

PROPOSALS.

Proposals will be received up to and including Sept. 30, 1899, for the furnishing of 300 cords of hard body wood, split and four feet long, to be delivered on the cars on M. & W. track at nearest point to County Poor House. Same to be delivered during the months of December, 1899, and January and February, 1900, in such quantities per month as may be desired. Right reserved to reject any and all bids. All envelopes containing proposals should be so marked.

HARDEST RAIN THIS YEAR.

Floods Basements and Does Considerable Damage to Streets in Down Town District.

MADE BOYER'S SALOON LOOK LIKE A SWIMMING TANK.

Water Ran from Sidewalk to Sidewalk on the Lower End of Front and Superior Streets—Water Washing Down Hills Tears Macadam.

MAYOR NEIDHART EXPRESSES HIMSELF.

The rain storm last night was the hardest one this year, doing considerable damage to streets and basements in the business part of the city.

It set in to rain hard from about 8 o'clock and from then till 9 the water fell in torrents. Had it continued for another hour the damage would have been very great. Sewers were utterly unable to carry off the water and the streets everywhere were quickly turned into miniature rivers. Down at the corner of Front and Superior streets the water was level with the sidewalks on both thoroughfares, being deeper on Superior street. People desiring to cross the streets had to wade through the overflow, which was more than ankle deep on the crosswalks.

WATER FILLED BASEMENTS.

Peter Boyer's saloon in the basement on the northwest corner of Front and Superior was flooded with water which ran in from the outside. There was at least a foot on the floor. Basements as far up the street as the First National bank block all had water in them, though the one most damaged was Boyer's.

Water poured down the gutters on the Front street hill like a river in freshet time. These gutters stop at Washington street corner. On the east side of Front street the water after running off of the gutter dug a ditch nearly two feet deep over half way across to the Savings bank. Had the storm continued a little while longer the ditch would have gone clear across the street, carrying the water right to the door of the Savings bank basement. In many places holes can be seen a foot and a half deep. Neatly all the fine top dressing was washed out of the gutters on the hill streets.

MR. MAYOR REMARKS.

Mayor Neidhart came back much disgusted after a brief tour of inspection, made right after the rain had stopped. "It shows," he said, "that we don't build our streets right. It is a waste of time and money to put this fine top dressing right up to the sidewalk edges. It always washes out, then the street gang has to go around with wagons, gather it up and take it away. And I've noticed that by and by when they get to repairing streets again they go around with wagons and put some more on."

"On wide streets like these down town that fine stuff ought not to be put with in several feet of the curb. It is a big waste of time for the road roller attempting, when the street is built, to roll it in solid without breaking the sidewalk. If the fine stuff was kept for the center of the street and nothing but coarse rock put several feet from the sidewalks it would make a saving of fifteen per cent. In building the wide streets and ten per cent. on the narrower ones."

"We are spending this year $16,000 on street work and we'd save anyhow $1,600, which would build two more blocks of street. I believe we ought to have cement gutters all over, particularly on the hills. It would make a big saving in the long run."

LOCAL MARINE NEWS.

The life saving boat, which has been fitted with the Superior gas engine, was put in the water yesterday but no tests were made of her efficiency.

Ore is now being hauled from Marquette to Lake Erie ports for $1.15 a ton. Last season the rate from this port fell as low one time as 45 cents.

The steamer China called in yesterday morning on her way down. Her cabins were crowded with tourists, as is just now the case with all the liners, whether bound up or down the lake.

The excursion steamer I. M. Weston came in yesterday from the copper country on her way down to her home port on Lake Michigan. Captain Flagstad expected to give a moonlight excursion on the lake last evening but the rain came up and prevented.

BRAVE MEN FALL.

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents, at The Stafford Drug Company's drug store. NEXT THING IS THE FAIR.

Seventeenth Annual Will Be Held Here Sept. 27, 28, and 29, the Last Week of Next Month.

PROMISES TO FAR SURPASS THE ONE HELD LAST YEAR.

Horse Racing and Circus Acts Will Be a Strong Card—Amusement Committee Has Engaged a Fine Array of Talent. Transportation.

NEW BUILDINGS HAVE BEEN ERECTED.

The next big event in Marquette this season will be the seventeenth annual county fair, which will be held Sept. 27, 28 and 29 at the new fair grounds north of the city. Preparations for the fair have been going on quietly for some weeks, but from now on will be pushed with the utmost vigor as the directors are determined the fair shall surpass in merit the one held a year ago, and that was a big success, particularly its amusement program.

Since last year two more buildings have been added, completing the complement as originally designed. One of these is the administration building, which will be the headquarters of the secretary and directors and contain a rest room for visitors; the other is an exhibit building. These two buildings will fill a want which was felt last year. It will be possible now to make the exhibits more complete and display them in a more satisfactory manner and a strong effort will be made to improve them both in number and quality. The grand stand, which was found inadequate to accommodate the crowds last year has also been enlarged.

HORSE RACES AND CIRCUS ACTS.

As was the case last year horse racing and circus acts will be made a particularly strong feature. These are in the hands of the same amusement committee which handled them so satisfactorily last year. C. H. Call and W. A. Ross. The work is divided between them. Mr. Call attending to the racing program and Mr. Ross engaging the performers. The latter has already completed his work and congratulated himself on having secured a fine array of talent.

Professor Cromwell and Master Frank Cromwell will give a daring exhibition on the high wire. The Primrose brothers, aged eleven and thirteen, will do aerial acts, principally on the double trapeze. A sensational high dive of a hundred feet and landing in a net will be made by Professor Fred Bartlett. He will also give his wonderful slide for life, traversing a thousand feet of wire hanging by his teeth. Those who appreciate fancy bicycle riding will have an opportunity to see some of the best in the exhibition by F. F. Baader, America's favorite trick cyclist. Al Balding, the novelty aerial artist will be seen in an up-to-date high wire act.

BALLOON ASCENSION AND DROP.

A feature which the amusement committee was unable to present last year was a balloon ascension. This has been secured for the coming fair and Professor D. Meixell, a Grand Rapids aeronaut, will make daily ascensions descending to the ground by means of a parachute. This will be a particularly thrilling act and one seldom witnessed in this section of the country.

Good music will be furnished every day of the fair. The opening day tuncadet Greys band of Marquette will be in attendance, the day following the Ishpeming City band, and the last day the old Negaunee band.

The South Shore will run excursions to the fair as it did last year, and will run its trains direct to the grounds for the accommodation of Marquette, Ishpeming and Negaunee people. Additional transportation facilities will be furnished by electric cars and busses, which will run every five minutes.

SOLDIERS WITH CAMERAS.

Pictures Wanted for Newspaper History of Michigan Troops in War.

Spanish-American war, same to be taken from files of the Michigan papers published during the period of the war and scrap-booked.

In addition to the newspaper stories it is desired to intersperse in their order camera pictures of scenes, incidents, groups and persons, as taken by officers and men and the object of this announcement is to ask that all who care to contribute to the work send their pictures (unmounted preferred) either to the quartermaster general at Lansing, or direct to Frank A. Burrelle, 32 Park Row, New York. Accompanying each picture should be a memorandum stating plainly who from, address, when and where picture was taken and what or whom it represents.

Anything else in print on paper that has any historical value in connection with the late war is solicited and will have proper credit. If anything contributed is not found acceptable, it will be returned with explanation.

The books when finished become the property of the state and open to the public.

The members of the Young Women's guild of St. Paul's Episcopal cathedral will serve tea and ice this afternoon at the Morgan Memorial chapel on High street from 3 until 5 o'clock. This tea is given particularly for the tourists, hay feverites and other strangers in the city.

and a cordial invitation is hereby extended to all who are visiting Marquette. The courtesy is not extended to the women alone, as is often the case with afternoon teas, but this time the men are also invited. As announced by Bishop Williams last Sunday the resident members of the parish are the expected.

TWELVE MONTHS' CREDIT GIVEN TO ALL.

The Eastern Healers are now in Marquette and have located at 117 West Bluff street, and will open their doors Monday morning, September 4.

These good Samaritans will take no fee whatever for consultation, advice or their services, either from the hands of the rich or those of the poor, who call upon them before October 1. After that date charges will be made for the same. They heal all manner of diseases. If they can restore you; they will administer unto you; if not they will advise you.

The object of this pilgrimage is to introduce the Eastern mode of healing the sick without poisonous drugs or the surgeon's knife; also to introduce botanical medicines which God ordered from the foundation of the world for the healing of nations. These good Samaritans never administer medicines for symptoms of disease, but remove causes through a vegetarian diet and botanical remedies, hence their wonderful success in healing the sick and restoring to perfect health thousands who had given up all hope of ever finding a cure. The Eastern Healers or good Samaritans, are educated Christian men and women, whose aim is to deal justly by the sick and afflicted, the poor and the needy. The Healers or good Samaritans have existed in all ages. They went out in the highways and byways, healing the sick, visiting the rich and poor, administering alike to all.

Notice—If you have been advised by anyone to undergo an operation for appendicitis, ovarian difficulties, rupture, tumor, cancer or piles, do not listen to it and have your life endangered by the lance, knife or needle before taking counsel of the Eastern Healers. The Healers wish it distinctly understood that no case is taken without a moral certainty of either materially benefiting or curing the same. No matter what your condition may be or how many doctors you have tried, go and get free counsel and forever have it settled in your mind as to your true condition. Remember, a perfect knowledge of disease is half the battle. It is your life that is at stake. You must either get well or suffer. Do not accept what anyone says, but see the Healers and satisfy yourself. They give you this opportunity free until October 1st.

The following are a few of the many maladies cured by the Eastern Healers: Blood poisoning from poisonous lymph used in vaccinating; also insect, reptile and dog bites; scrofula, syphilis, cancer, tumors, old sores, ulcers, skin and scalp diseases, sore eyes, nerve, kidney, spinal and brain diseases, paralysis and fits, stomach, heart, liver and female diseases, colds, asthma, catarrh, weak lungs and first and second stages of consumption, nervous debility, lost strength of the whole or any part of the body, piles and all rectal diseases, rheumatism, withered limbs, stiff joints, contracted cords and weakened muscles. A special invitation given to those afflicted with dropsy, also stomach, heart and kidney diseases.

Notice—Wives must be accompanied by their husbands and girls by their parents or guardians. No time given to dromes or gossamers.

Be it distinctly understood that the Eastern Healers or good Samaritans are not Christian Scientists, Spiritualists or Faith Healers, but treat diseases on scientific principles based upon the belief in the healing powers of vegetable medicines which God ordered from the creation.

All calling upon the Healers who cannot speak the English language will please bring interpreter with them. Hours of administering from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. No Sabbath hours and no calls made.

Notice—Life insurance companies will reduce the rate 33 per cent to all who agree to take Rocky Mountain Tea. A wise measure. The Stafford Drug company.

The Aetna Life is the oldest, largest and most successful insurance company in America, writing life, accident and health insurance. For full particulars, see our agent, F. H. Vandenberg.
