prices, since announced:

It is understood that the mills of the steel rail combine have notified the railroad interests of the country that prices would be advanced and that the railroads could-cover all their wants at $33 per ton. Nearly every railroad in the country came in with orders and an aggregate of 1,500,000 tons of rails were orfered at the above price for laying in 1900. The price was then raised by railnakers as follows:

For standard iron, in lots from 100 to 200 tons, $37; carload lots, $38, and less than carload lots, $40. Light rails, from twenty-five to fifty pounds per yard $37 per ton. All the prices quoted are o. b. at Pittsburg.

The importance of this can scarcely be Pillsbury's Best Flour cealized. The total sales aggregate about $50,000,000. This means that about ne-sixth of the total steel output fo Lime, Plaster, Sewer Pipe, 1900 will be consumed in the manufac ture of rails. This does not include the rders placed by the Russian government some time ago, together with other or ders, which will make the aggregate tonnage in rails next year much more than has already been ordered. This fixes beyond all peradventure that prices of iron and steel for 1900 will be consider ably higher than prevailing figures.

THIS SCHEME WORKED

Slick Way of Getting Money on a Draft and a Forged Copy of It.

A novel fraud by which a Minnesota bank was induced innocently to abet the obbing of a Montana bank has perplexed recently one of the detective agencies. Inquiries made last week at a St. Paul hotel as to a possible guest who wore a silk hat, a Prince Albert coat and N. M. DeHaas of Marquette was in gray mutton chop whiskers revealed the nature of the criminal scheme. But the nguiring detective would not repeat names.

W. B. Anderson, J. T. Reider, W. E. A few weeks ago, said the detective, the very respectable gentleman with the lik hat bought of a country bank not far from this city a draft on New York or $1,600, paying for it in currency. He said that he was going to a small town in Montana and that he did not care to take so large a sum with him in eash. Would the cashier kindly notify the only bank in that Montana town that he had Dr. J. V. Certainly, the cashstore having been jainted throughout er would write. He did write. And and a new hardwood floor put in, which when the owner of the draft appeared a few days later at the Montana bank

he found not the slightest difficulty in Dr. W. R. Stringham expects to move ashing a forged copy of the draft. "You're Mr. Hat of Philadelphia. Of ourse," said the exchange clerk in Monana. "We received a letter from the bank that sold you the draft. Let's see Tall, gray side whiskers, very subdued manner. Oh, yes! that's all right. Description, a matter of form, you know. Your signature? Exact, of course."

So, with apologies for taking the usual precautions, the clerk, upon comparing the signatures of Mr. Hat, accepted his receipt and gave him all in gold, as be came a banker of the mining state, $1. 600. As the new customer went out he made a particularly good joke about the Montana weather.

The old gentleman with the subdued manner had copied the original draft upon a blank that he had somehow se cured from the Minnesota bank. The letter from the bank would naturally have quieted any suspicion in Montana, for the letter gave, as usual, the number of the draft and other details, which were fully corroborated in the forged copy. Inasmuch as the letter proved to Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he s senior partner of the firm of F.
