LETTER FROM THE SAULT.

[To the Editor.]
SAULT ST. MARIE, March 9, 1874.
For some reason unknown your regular Friday morning correspondent appears to have failed recently to supply his weekly letter, and it seems necessary for me to offer a few words to keep your readers posted in canal matters.

The work of canal improvement has progressed so favorably as to be without incidents of the nature of difficulties met. Its history for the winter is simply a record of work done. About 35,000 or 40,000 cubic yards of rock, and 22,000 yards of gravel have been excavated, and 38,000 cubic feet of timber placed in the revetment since the close of navigation. The point, or shoulder, which projected into the canal near the head has been removed; the excavation in the canal bottom at the same locality is nearly completed.

Between this locality and the basin but very little excavation remains. The sides of the cut have been smoothly trimmed the whole distance.

There remain, under the Barker & Williams contract, a few thousand yards of excavation opposite the basin, on which a force of nearly two hundred men are now employed.

The contractors for excavating the lock pit are employing as large a force as can be worked to advantage.

If favorable weather continues there appears no reason why the canal should not be opened to navigation at the date usual before the improvements were commenced—May 1st. N.

ORIGINAL SIN.

WHAT A LITTLE BOY THOUGHT OF IT.
[Written originally for the N. Y. Independent, and copied by request.]

Scene—Mr. Thompson's parlor. Little Freddie discovered learning his catechism.

The covenant being made with Adam, not only for himself, but his posterity, all mankind descending from him in ordinary generation, sinned in him and fell with him in his first transgression."

There! they have all gone! I'm so glad; Ruth has fixed me ever so comfortable in the big rocking chair and another chair, with two pillows and the sofa cushion, right in the bay window, where I can look out in the street, and learn my catechism. I was tired of the nursery, but nobody thought about me but Ruth, she's such a fine girl, she is! I wonder whether Ruth "sinned in him," too. Ruth says everybody is "totally depraved" but I don't believe she is. Ruth Thompson is my sister, and she's lovely; she knows lots, too, for she went to Vassar college last year. She says "we ought to love everybody," but I guess she loves Harvey best. Harvey is a great big man. I wonder what "covenant" means, and who made it for Adam—maybe Eve. I wonder whether it tasted like custard. I wonder what "his posterity" was. I wish Harvey would tell me, but he won't, so there is no use asking. Once we had a lesson about Jehu and Jezebel, and he said "Jehu kept a livery stable and drove fast horses, and that once when he was going to Central Park, Jezebel looked out of the window, and she had some Bloom of Youth on her face."—and then Ruth came in and he didn't say nothing more.

When I was well, Ruth used to take me to Sunday school, but since I'm sick, she learns me her own self. I've been sick lots, I have. First, it was the measles, and just as I was getting well, I took cold, and then it was the whooping cough, and then I clumba a tree and broke my arm, and then Miss Wilson's baby give me the chicken-pox, and then the time when I was sinful and stole green apples. Like Eve, that was the most awful time of all! And then I most got drowned, and they rolled me on a bar, and I had the cramp in the night, and when I was playing "fish" with Jimmie McIntosh at the hotel, we went way up to the top, and we had two strings and two crooked pins, and we leaned over the bannisters, and Jimmie fished off Mr. Clark's spectacles, and I tumbled, and fell right into one of the darkey watters. Oh, dear! they thought I was dead, and got bellowses and blowed in my face, and Ma fainted, and they blowed in her face, and spilt water on us. And then, one Fourth of July, Harvey gave me a cannon, a little one, and I loaded it up and fired it off, and ran behind the door, but it didn't fire off, and I went up and pecked into the muzzle to see what was the matter, and it clinked, it did, and burnt every one of my eye wipers and most all my hair off; then they rolled me in the hearth rug, and put oil and cotton on me. O! I did look so funny, just everybody would look at me and laugh, and say "poor boy" and then they would laugh again. Harvey was very good to me. He said it was his fault, cause he give me the cannon. He used to come to see me every day, and bring me an orange or some peanuts, or a picture book. Only I guess he come to see Ruth part of the time. He loves Ruth; everybody loves her, they can't help it, you know. He is on the back verandah now, smoking. I can see his boots way up among the grape vines. He always comes here on Sundays. Everybody else has gone to church "cept Pa; he's taking his nap on the sofa in the parlor, I can hear him snore way out here. But I was talking about my being sick. Well, the last time it was the sculet fever, but I'm gittin' well now. Ma says "it would be very 'pensive if it wasn't that Pa is a doctor," she thinks he's a very providential circumstance. There! I most forgot about my catechism.

"What benefits do they which are effectually called partake of in this life?"

"They who are effectually called do in this life partake of justification, adoption and sanctification, and the several benefits, which in this life do either accompany or flow from them."

"Guess Ruth is 'rotched and called.' I shouldn't like to be "dopted" though; Jimmie McIntosh is 'dopted. He used to live in the 'syum, where it was all whitewashed, and they had little iron beds and nasty soup. I wonder what original sin is, anyway? I wonder whether Methuselah had to learn the catechism when he was a little boy. I wish Ma would tell me about it, but she is always so busy making things out of Harper's Bazaar on her new sewing machine. There goes a lady on 't'her side of the street, with a bonnet just like ma's. I can't see this side of the street as well as the other, and its the farthest off; I wonder why. Oh! there goes the dearest, sweetest little bit of a teeny, taunty puppy dog! Wish I had a puppy dog. Ma don't like pets. I wonder why. She said I was her "pet" the other day. I wonder whether she don't like me. O, dear! "descendin' from him in ordinary transgression; sinned with him and fell in him in the first generation." I wish I had a drink of water! Somehow I don't like to ask Harvey when Ruth isn't here, he would say I "botiered him," but if Sis was here he would say I was just as good as pie. I wonder why "I wish I was in the land of cotton"—forget what comes next—"Look away, away down South in Dixie." O! I forgot. I musn't sing that on Sunday. What's the reason we can sing sinful songs on week days? I wonder why. Harvey sings wicked songs on Sunday, for when he was in here after a match to light his cigar, he stopped and looked at Ruth's photograph over the mantelpiece and sang, "O, she's just as beautiful as a butterfly, and as gay as a queen!—isn't she Freddy?" And I says "who?" and he said "Pretty Polly Perkins, of Kensington Green," and I says "I don't know, and it was sinful to sing that on Sunday," and I told him "wouldn't he please go up stairs and bring me my paint-box." But he didn't hear me. There's a great, big, bouncing, 'bominable blue-bottle fly! I 'spize him. If I could catch him I'd pull every one of his legs off. Oh, dear! "doption, justification, sanctification and all the blessings that in this life do flow from 'em." I s'pose grandpa, too—'cause he always asks me such ugly questions: "If seven boys eat ninety-eight oranges each, how many will they eat together?" "If forty pecks of cranberries cost three dollars and seventy-two cents, how much will six pints cost?" I 'spize him. Oh! my goodie! There's Ruth and Ma coming home! "Sanctification, justification, 'doption, 'secundin' from him in ordinary transgression not only for himself but his prosperity, and all the benefits which in this life do either accompany or flow from 'em!"

LISSIE J. WILLIAMS.

WE GIVE the following a place in our columns upon the principle that every person has a right to be heard in his own defense. We regret, however, that there should be any difficulty of the kind at Forestville, and must say that it looks very much to us as if the action of the school board was based solely upon the fact that the priest refused to be controlled or dictated to as to what he should or should not preach. This is yet believed to be a country of religious freedom, and the priest has the same right to preach what he believes to be the truth as the people have to endorse or repudiate his doctrines. Therefore, a determination to refuse the use of a school building to any denomination, for other than secular reasons, can not be considered exactly consistent with that spirit of religious freedom and toleration which is the boast of our people. We offer these suggestions in a friendly spirit, and without prejudice for or against any church system or doctrine, all having the same rights under the law:

[To the Editor.]
In reading the JOURNAL of the 14th inst. the temptation of writing an article for your paper comes over me which I can't shake off. The object is, in calling the attention of the public to a new luminary, who has discovered himself on the sky of the literary world about Forestville, (that lights it up like that furnace does a moonlight night, when she acts like a dosed animal!) in the person of your special correspondent, who, by instinct or otherwise, tries to follow scripture where it says: "Do not hide your light under a bushel" (unless it is a bushel basket). However, I would warn your correspondent to keep himself a little more to facts, if he wants to treat the public to a little joke at the expense of individuals, lest he might spoil his reputation as correspondent as much, if possible, as that boy will his pantaloons in setting on that chair where that Marquette priest stood on. Now, I will tell him why that Catholic priest was refused the use of the Forestville school-house for religious services: For several years the people of that place held church nearly every Sunday in the school-house, and used the school district's wood without ever asking the school board or any one else for the use of either, and without any interference by anybody, and would have had the privilege to do so still if some of the scholars had not complained of getting their books spoiled over Sunday, thereby calling the attention of the school board to the fact that not only had the scholars' books, but also a new dictionary which had been bought at the commencement of this term, and a new testament, which was also school property, been cut, torn and soiled. According to all information, that was a part of the religious services, and furthermore rumor says that that Marquette priest was in the habit of telling his hearers that whoever did not belong to the Catholic religion would be eternally damned, sure! Now, for the purpose of finding out, and if possible stop all this I went to the priest as the nearest source, and laid before him all the above charges, to which he answered that for spoiling books and so forth he was sorry, and would try to stop it; but as to what he was preaching, and what he should preach, I had no right to dictate to him—that was none of my business (doubtless for the purpose of giving me an idea of infallibility). I told him such was not my intention, but I should dictate to him what not to preach in that school-house, as I thought this was not the country nor the age in which such nonsense should be preached to old folks, far less to our growing generation, and if he would not promise to conduct his services in a more liberal sense, the use of the school-house would be refused. His answer to this was that he did not care a snap; so the teacher received instructions to keep the school-house locked on Sunday. The above is the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

A MEMBER OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.
Marquette Township, March 20th, 1874.

CHOCOLAY.—Three miles below Marquette, on the bay shore, and at the mouth of the chocolate colored river of the same name, is the ancient and somewhat dilapidated hamlet of Chocolay. It was formerly, as it is destined to be soon again, a location of some importance. It is the site of the Northern furnace, built as long ago as 1800, but which has not been in blast since 1867—having run 207 weeks in all, in which time she made 15,068 tons of iron. In those palmy days the buildings were all occupied by families of the workmen and laborers, a store was maintained, and the founder of the place indulged the hope of one day being able to make it the successful business rival of Marquette. A branch railway, some nine miles in length, was graded to connect with the Peninsula division eight miles below Marquette, but, for some reason best known to Mr. C. T. Harvey and the Northwestern railway managers, it was never completed. With the failure of this enterprise and the stoppage of operations at the furnace, came long years of idleness and decay, and ever since Chocolay has been a "deserted village," with untenanted tenements, vacant store, and scarcely life enough to give even a faint hope of a future resurrection.

But we shall soon witness a change for the better. The furnace, so long idle, will soon again light up the midnight solitude, and give employment to a hundred men. A saw mill is now in operation, doing a good business, and the country back of it is rapidly being settled by a hardy class of homesteaders, so that we may expect soon to see the late desolate hamlet become a trading point of considerable importance, and the seat of active, thriving industries. The mill referred to has a capacity of about 6,000 feet per day, and has been in constant operation all winter. It is the property of C. T. Harvey, Esq., who has 150,000 feet of logs on the bank. Geo. A. Ewing, one of the old settlers, has also about 300,000 feet of logs at the mill, and 500,000 feet more will come down the river as soon as the ice is out. These last belong principally to parties who have taken up homesteads in the township.

The township is growing rapidly in population, having a great deal of land adapted to agriculture, though we have not heard of the organization of any farmers' granges as yet. Certain it is, however, that the farmers are making such good progress that we think Marquette may hereafter rely upon them for a supply of fresh vegetables and garden luxuries in their proper season.

A RELIABLE FIRM, and altogether well-known and popular on Lake Superior, is that of Beatty, Fitzsimons & Co., 200 and 202 Jefferson avenue, Detroit. They employ no traveling agents, the expenses of whom must necessarily be paid by the customers of the wholesale dealers who do employ such agents, but buying directly from manufacturers and importers, they are enabled to make very low prices. They give special attention to the selection of teas and other goods adapted to the Lake Superior trade, and are in every way deserving of the confidence of our people.

POOR MAN'S SCHOOL-ROOM.—Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, (containing 3000 illustrations,) has been said to be the "Poor Man's School-Room." It contains all that is necessary to a first-class elementary education,—grammar, history, classics, mathematics, geography, astronomy, and in fact nothing is wanting to make it a perfect encyclopedia of information. A book that every family should have, as it contains illustrated definitions, thus appealing to the understanding through that swift medium, the eye.—Morgan Mercury.

JONES GETS INJUDICIOUSLY FULL.—A day or two ago Jones was injudiciously "full." Being painfully aware of his inebrity, he endeavored to conceal it from the public by buttoning his coat up very closely, imparting an abnormal stiffness to his knees, and tripping over his own heels. He stalked up to a street car, walked briskly in just as the horse started forward—and instantly tumbled out again backwards without unbending a muscle. Straightway he recovered the upright, splashed with mud, and re-entered, seating himself on an unclean seat, making no sign of his mishap. Presently he turned to this individual and queried: "Kilzsh?" "No." He considered for about a moment and then again asked: "Off the track?" "No." More reflections sleepily, then: "Unoverprespree?" "No." "Splozsh?" "No." Somewhat exasperated, "Any acct'?" "Not at all." He took this piece of information into his intellectual maw, and, digesting it, concluded that he must be drunk indeed. Anxious to cover up the disgraceful fact and turn the matter off respectively, he shortly turned again with the blank observation: "Well, if I'd anome that I wondena got out." He blinked off into an unconscious state in a little while, and then "woke up" with his eyes very wide open, to show everybody that he'd only been thinking. He rode on about a mile beyond his street, and was finally taken home in a hack.

STRIKING WITH THE WRONG HAND.—The Hartford daily Times tells the following: A couple of citizens met at Geer & Pond's store yesterday, and while waiting for the New York papers to arrive, one of them, who had a scar on the middle joint of the fingers on his left hand, was telling how the scar happened there. Some twelve or fifteen years ago, at the time Jack Nelson had a gymnasium and gave lessons in boxing in Ely's block, on Main street, a friend of the man with the scarred hand, by the name of Billy M., having joined Nelson's boxing class, wanted to find some one whom he could practice with. He went to his friend J., him of the scarred hand, and proposed to give him lessons. Billy argued that he could impart the instructions to his friend free gratis, besides having an opportunity to improve in skill. So as soon as he got his first lesson he hurried away to show J. He got J. up in front of him, and gave him some advice, placed himself in an attitude of defense, and said to J.: "Now strike at my head with all your might."

"But," protested J., "we have no gloves, and I should be sure to hurt you."
"I'll risk it," laughingly replied Billy. "Nelson has already taught me how to parry. Strike out hard and I'll show you."
J. hesitated. It didn't appear to his sophisticated mind that he could strike at a man with all his might without hitting him and hurting him. Besides he had a due regard for his own safety. Billy might, in the enthusiasm of a handsome parry, counter on his (J.'s) prominent proboscis. His fears were dispelled by a promise from Billy that he would act wholly on the defensive, and by further assurance that it was absolutely impossible for an inexperienced person like J. to hit him.

"Don't be afraid," exclaimed Billy: "strike hard! You can't hit me. Strike at my head."
And while he was speaking J.'s left hand shot out like a kicking mule, and Billy went backwards like a log. J. saw that his left hand was badly cut, but he sprang forward to assist Billy to his feet. The latter, however, struggled up without aid, and with a thumb and forefinger ransacking his mouth as if searching for something, he emphatically remarked, employing his favorite oath, "G—! all insulliciency, you struck with the wrong hand!"

Billy had only been drilled in the right hand parry, and forgot to mention the fact to J. What Billy was searching for in his mouth he had found on the floor. It was a tooth. The scar of J.'s hand was caused by coming in contact with that tooth. J. ought to know better than to strike a friend in the mouth with the wrong hand. Billy never took the remaining eleven lessons. He had lost his appetite for boxing.

WHY DO I DISLIKE THAT WOMAN?

"You ask why I hate that woman? I should think you might see for yourself. She has a better complexion than mine, and I hate her for that. Her hair is two feet longer than mine, and I hate her for that. Her face is fresher than mine, and that is another reason why I hate her. Her jewelry is finer than any I have, and that is even enough for me to talk about her. She lives in better style than I do, and I hate her for that. She has a new bonnet every month and I have only six in a year, and I despise her for that. She has beautiful dresses, and they always fit her so well, and that is another reason why I hate her. She minds her own business and never says mean things about any one, and a woman who does that should be hated by every other woman. Her husband is a more prominent man than mine, and I hate her for that. She never goes about grumbling and telling things to make others feel mean and uncomfortable, and I hate her for that. She will not lend me her jewelry, and I feel above any woman who will not cheerfully lend her best clothes and jewelry. Then her diamonds are real, while mine are paste, and I hate her for that. Hate her? I should think I had enough to hate her for. She can sing and I can't, and I hate her for that. When I offered to tell her a half a dozen lies that I had heard and twelve that I made up about her and she would not hear me, I was mad enough at her to bite her head off—the stuck-up deceitful thing. When I give her advice she pays no attention to it, and I hate her for that. When I try to tell her something about her husband that will make her hate him as I hate mine, she will not even listen to me, and I hate her for that. When I would tell her what somebody or some other body has said against her, she says she does not care what folks say, so long as she has her husband's devoted love and confidence, then I hate her more than ever for throwing out slurs against me. Her breath is sweeter than mine, and I hate her for that. And I'll hate any woman that is happier or getting along better than I am."

SAVORY REPARTEE.—"And have you no other sons?" asked a curious lady of a bronzed old sea captain. "Oh, yes, madam. I had one that lived in the South Sea Islands for nearly a dozen years." "Really! Was he bred there, and what was his taste—the sea or land?" "No, madam, he wasn't bred, he was meat—least ways the niggers ate him; and as for his taste—the chief said he tasted of terbaccher." The lady walked to another part of the ship, and the captain smiled and took a fresh quid of "terbaccher" himself.

ORIGIN OF THE PRINTER'S DEVIL.—When Aldus Manutius set up in business as a printer in Venice he came in possession of a little negro boy. This boy was soon known all over the city as "the little black devil," for, at that time negroes were not often seen in Venice, and some of the most ignorant people believed him to be either an embodiment or emissary of Satan, who aided Aldus in the work of his profession. One day Manutius, desiring to dispel this strange and spreading opinion, displayed the young imp publicly to the poorer classes, making this short but characteristic speech: "Be it known to you, and to all Venice, that I, Aldus Manutius, printer to the Holy Church and the Doge, have this day made exposure to all of the printer's devil. And if any think he is not like us, flesh and blood, they may come and pinch him, and they will find that though he is black, he is human."

AT AND NEAR HUMBOLDT, MARQUETTE COUNTY, MICHIGAN.

This large and valuable property is now offered for lease from and after May 1st next. It is situated in sections 1, 2, 11 and 12, in township 47, range 29, Marquette county, comprising 1,000 acres of land, and extending two miles east and west upon the Iron Range. The property has been long and favorably known as containing large deposits of both specular and magnetic ores of extreme purity, which has a high reputation among consumers. It is traversed through nearly its whole length by the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon Railroad, and is provided with sidings at several different points. It is well provided with hoisting, pumping, and drilling machinery, and with houses sufficient for the accommodation of 400 workmen with their families.

The location is also provided with an ample working equipment of mining tools and utensils of every kind, horses, sleighs, wagons and the like, which will be disposed of to the lessee at a fair valuation. The openings and improvements already made are large and extensive, demonstrating the great extent of the deposits, and the best manner of working them in future. The indications of the magnetic or dip needle, which, when it falls to 90 degrees on this property, has invariably pointed to deposits of ore of standard shipping quality (67 per cent.), show very large bodies of ore which no attempt has yet been made to develop, and upon which mining can profitably be carried on for many years. No other equally well known valuable and extensive iron property in the Lake Superior Region has ever been offered for lease, and he present will be found an extremely favorable opportunity for ore consumers, who wish to control their own supply.

Every facility will be offered for examination of the property and its improvements by parties desiring to lease. About 15,000 tons of standard ore, which has been mined during the winter, will be retained by the owners; but a very large amount of 50 per cent. ore (about 75,000 tons) will become the property of the lessee, subject only to the royalty which may be agreed on.

Parties who desire to lease are invited to visit the mines in person, but any preliminary information which may be wanted will be furnished on application to EDWARD BREITUNG, Vice-President, Negaunee, Mich., or SAMUEL P. ELY, Secretary, Marquette, Mich.

THE article on peat, published in last week's JOURNAL, taken from the New York Bulletin, relative to the process of manufacture and curing in England, is an improvement on the "Lyons method" as manipulated here by the Lake Superior Iron Company for the past two years, inasmuch as it will require double the time to handle a given quantity of peat with a corresponding increase in expense, and no more.

THE school examination commenced a week ago yesterday, the primary department being examined on that day. On Monday the fifth grade were examined; on Tuesday and Wednesday the fourth grade in the higher department-Tuesday the higher classes being examined in reading and physical geography, and on Wednesday in algebra and scriptural geography. Thursday, third grade-classes examined in scriptural geography and reading. On Friday the examinations closed, the programme being the same as reported in the MINING JOURNAL of last week. Through the kindness of the Principal, Mr. Northmore, we were shown through the building, and, without going into details, we must say that is one of the best appointed and furnished schools we have ever visited. The basement contains store rooms, etc.; a furnace for heating the main hall, and two large play-rooms, one for the boys and one for the girls. The first floor has a large hall running the whole length of the building, with an entrance at each end. On either side of the halls on the first second and third floors are the class and recitation rooms, which are fitted up with the latest patent seats, and are all well lighted and heated. In fact, everything is most complete, and Ishpeiming has good reason to be proud of its school and teachers.

MINING JOURNAL.

MARQUETTE, MICHIGAN, MARCH 28, 1874.

WANTED.—A good printer, at this office immediately, to whom good wages and steady employment will be given.

AND now they have been and gone and discovered a 600 acre deposit of iron ore "of the very best quality," down in Oconto county, Wisconsin. We won't be a bit surprised to hear that it will analyze a hundred per cent. of metallic iron!

MR. WILLIAM C. MCCOMBER, a gentleman well known to iron men throughout the county, has opened a mining intelligence office at Negaunee, with a view of making explorations and giving correct intelligence concerning the value of mineral lands in this region. We take pleasure in recommending Mr. McComber to all who may have lands upon Lake Superior which they wish to have thoroughly explored and correctly reported upon.

GOOD.—The bill extending the time for the completion of the Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie & Mackinaw railroad two years passed both houses of the Legislature on the 20th. In the house the vote stood seventy-four to nine. The sneaking opposition of the Negaunee agitator didn't amount to much. Having been in Lansing during nearly the whole of the regular session, he is personally known to most of the members, by whom he appears to be valued at his true worth.

A COMPANY organized with a view of going into the silver mining business, has been formed here, and consists of some of our most solid men. The field of operations is in Ontonagon county, Michigan. The company owns 160 acres exceedingly rich in silver ore, the vein being three feet two inches thick and yielding, according to the various assays, from $600 to $2,000 per ton. The mine is now being worked, and some 300 tons have already been taken out, and waiting the arrival of the mill necessary to reduce the ore. By reference to our advertisements the names of the officers and other business information can be obtained.—Scranton (Pa.) Times.

WE have been shown by Mr. L. C. Palmer specimens of ore from the Menominee range, which certainly look very rich—especially the soft blue and brown hematites from the Quincaik and the southeast quarter of section 32. Specimens of the hard ore found in that region and exhibited by Mr. Palmer, though not first-class, look well, and give promise that something better may be found by further exploration. Mr. Palmer is an old explorer, trustworthy and reliable, and we give full credence to his reports. If anything, he is a little too conservative, and more likely to under estimate the value of these discoveries than to exaggerate them. Notwithstanding the abandonment of the range by the Milwaukee Iron Company, we still have confidence in the Menominee mines, and believe that future discoveries will amply compensate for the seeming failures of the past. The hematites are certainly equal to those of this district, and it would be strange indeed if some deposits of rich specular ores should not be found in their immediate neighborhood.

LET HIM BE REMEMBERED.—We have it from the very best authority that when the question of extending the time for the completion of the Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie & Mackinaw Railroad was broached in the legislature, the only serious opposition encountered was from John L. Buell, the representative of the county most directly interested, and which gave him an almost unanimous vote when he was a candidate for election. His opposition was only the more marked and effective because it came under the guise of pretended friendship. Let him be remembered as the attempted betrayer of the best interests of by much the largest portion of the people of the Upper Peninsula. The fact that he was possessed of sufficient influence to array only nine votes against the measure, on its final passage, and was, most probably, coerced into voting for it himself, should not excuse him when he again comes before the people for their suffrages; and it will not. The people of Lake Superior will take no excuse from those of its representatives who prove recreant to the trust reposed in them, and who betray the interests they were chosen to guard and protect. John L. Buell may have some claims upon the people of Menominee and Delta counties, but the people of Schoolcraft and Marquette have done with him, politically, forever.

THE North-American says "the national government asks more revenue; consequently the New York Post and the Boston Journal of Commerce propose to abolish the duties on imported steel. This is a characteristic mode of raising the revenue. We never could see the philosophy of it. Granted that we want the revenue, and that this steel duty yields revenue, it would seem to follow that if we abolish the steel duty something else must bear the burden. It is a hard case for us, cry the "steel consumers."

But will it not be an equally hard case for the steel producers if the duty be abolished? And will it not be a worse case for the interest that must be taxed to supply what is lost to the revenue by the repeal of the duty? The complaint comes chiefly from New England, where various branches of manufacture use large quantities of steel. If these industries were in Pennsylvania they would be subject to less State and local taxation, and being near the steel works, subject to less cost of transportation. Hence, to equalize their position they seek the repeal of the steel duty. Why not attempt to reduce their enormous local taxation? There is no more need of the repeal of the steel duty than of the reduction of local taxes. Indeed much less.

Our friends in Massachusetts, as usual, ignore the great question of bringing the producer and consumer together to reduce the cost of transportation. If the repeal of the steel duties be forced, the producers of steel will be compelled to make their own market sure by establishing near them rivals to the New England works, and on such a scale as to command the field and insure success.

The extension of the time for the completion of the Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie & Mackinaw railroad will, we feel certain, secure the building of the road within the next two years—or three years, at the utmost. It is an enterprise in which the people of the whole State have an interest, and we have assurance that the managers of the two railways soon to be completed to the straits are willing and anxious to take hold of the project and urge it on to a speedy completion, in order to secure it as early a day as possible a through line to the iron and copper districts. Its importance to the people of this section cannot be overestimated, and we know that the gentlemen composing the company to whom the grant has been awarded will make every effort to carry the enterprise through. And, as some parties have affected the belief that the company asked for additional legislation in order to enable themselves to speculate upon the grant, we are authorized to say, that so far from such being the case, its members are willing to donate to any parties who will guarantee the early building of the road, and furnish the necessary means, all they have so far expended—about $20,000—and surrender to them their claim upon the lands granted by the State. Marquette will do more; and in view of the fact that the legislature refused to exempt the lands from taxation for a term of years, our menied men will undertake the payment of those taxes regularly as a further bonus to any responsible parties who will take the grant and build the road. If this cannot be done, our home company will go into the market with bonds predicated upon the grant, and thus obtain the money necessary to build and equip the road. Built it must and shall be; that is the sentiment of the company not only, but of all our people.

FURNACE NOTES.—No. 2 stack, of the Jackson Company's furnaces, blew out for repairs on the 10th, after the most successful blast ever achieved by a charcoal furnace in this country. She commenced making iron, on her sixth blast, July 10th, 1873, and made her last cast March 19th, having been banked up or three days during the time. Total number of days in blast 250. During that time she smelted 11,385 815-2240 tons of ore; made 7,355 1732 2240 tons of pig iron and castings, and used 819,470 bushels of charcoal—an average of 29.42-100 tons of iron per day, with a yield of ore of 64 64-100 per cent, and a consumption of 111 40-100 bushels of coal to the ton of iron made. The stack is forty feet high with bushes nine and one-half feet in diameter. We challenge any charcoal furnace in the world to a comparison of figures with those given above, and which are taken direct from the company's books. And right here we again take the liberty of suggesting to the owners and agents of other furnaces in this district that they can, if they will, find in the above report of the Jackson No. 2 food for the amplest reflection. It might be to their advantage to inquire how it is that this single stack should be able to make in a run of a little over eight months nearly, if not quite, a thousand tons more than has ever before been made by any other furnace in this district in a whole year. The reason is obviously to be found in the simple fact that all the ore, coal and limestone used is kept under cover, and goes into the tunnel head in the driest condition possible. Furnacemen, who feed into their stacks equal quantities of ore, limestone, fuel, snow and ice, in the winter, and whose charcoal during the summer is allowed to absorb all the moisture possible from the frequent rain falls, must not expect ever to rival the Jackson in the flow of iron from the tap!

A great deal of money has been expended the past year in repairing, remodeling—we might say in rebuilding—the Northern furnace, at Chocoma, three miles below this city. The main buildings, which were originally of wood supported by iron columns and beams, have been rebuilt of Kelly Island limestone and brick, with iron truss roofs, and brick or stone floors, arched and supported by iron girders—making it thoroughly fire proof. The casting house formerly stood on the south side of the stack; this has been transformed into a stock house, while a new brick cast house, with iron roof, has been built on the north side. A new hoisting house has been built sixty feet nearer the stack, and a new hot blast, by the Sharon Iron and Brass Works, has been placed on the east side of the stack, instead of on the west as formerly. The hot blast and boilers are at the top of the furnace, and very near the tunnel head. The stack, which was originally designed for mineral coal, and afterwards changed so as to adapt it to the use of charcoal, has been again remodeled and raised in height from 43 to 50 feet, with bushes thirteen and a half instead of nine feet in diameter. The old cylinder boilers have been cut down in length from forty three to twenty-nine feet, and flues put into them. General repairs have also been made on the blowing engine, and machinery in general, and the furnace is now in shape to start up on short notice from the owners. It is very probable that she will go into blast within the next sixty days, the company having about 2,000 tons of coal on hand. The changes and repairs have all been made under the direction of Mr.

L. D. Harvey, who has been the superintendent ever since the furnace was built—in fact superintended its original construction—and who will doubtless remain in charge as long as he lives or desires.

The work upon the harbor is now progressing, it being the intention to place seven cribs at the mouth of the river to protect the entrance from the sand which washes in from around the west shore. This work will be completed by the opening of navigation, and with the aid of some dredging a sufficient depth of water can be obtained to float vessels drawing ten to twelve feet. A little tug, the John C. Chasell, has been purchased, and will be used in towing ore from Marquette, and such other work as may be found necessary.

Both stacks of the Bay furnace are now out of blast for repairs. At a recent meeting of the board of directors it was determined to make some necessary changes in both. The hot blast and boilers of No. 1 will be removed from the top of the stack to the bottom, the hot blast will be rebuilt and enlarged to fifty pipes, and a bell and hopper added. No. 2 will also be supplied with a bell and hopper. These changes and additions will all be made in time to put both stacks in blast as soon as hard ore can be sent down by boat from this place. It is thought the improvements will very materially increase the capacity of the furnaces, neither one of which have worked satisfactorily the past year.

The Munsing furnace has been compelled to blow out for the want of ore, having used up the stock which at the time she started was thought sufficient to last till the opening of navigation. She has made, in a run of a little less than eight weeks, over 1,800 tons of metal, and goes out of blast in the best possible condition for resuming operations as soon as a supply of ore can be obtained.

THE MINES ON THE MENOMINEE.

Having recently visited the Menominee Iron Range, it has occurred to me that it might not be out of place to give you a few minutes of how matters are progressing down there. I arrived at the Quincaik mine the second evening after leaving Marquette, and found three men at work taking out a blue hematite ore of very even purity, from a shaft twelve by twelve feet, but only about four feet in depth. Three teams were engaged in hauling the ore out to the mouth of the Sturgeon river, it being the intention, as I was informed, to get out one hundred tons for trial at the Menominee furnace. I was told that the vein was about thirty-five feet wide, and had been traced a distance of over six hundred feet. There is also a vein of hard ore, but it is somewhat mixed with rock. From all I saw I should think they had a good mine.

I also visited the south half of section 32, town 40 north, range 30 west, where a great deal of work has been done, and good shows of soft ore have been exposed—also any amount of hard ore, some of it of a very pure quality. This property is owned by J. W. Edwards and others, of Marquette, and was entered from minutes furnished by Mr. Norman Eddy, who explored it originally. I take pleasure in corroborating all that Mr. Eddy reported in reference to the existence of a large body of ore on the southeast quarter of the section.

I also found Captain Hyde at work on the northeast quarter of the section, where he has exposed a vein of soft hematite about sixteen feet in width. He is now exploring for hard ore, which he believes he can find a little to the north of the hematite. He is sinking a shaft through the sandstone cap, but is troubled badly with water, and has been to considerable expense in obtaining pumps. He is now using three suction pumps, two of them being required all the time to keep the water down; the water down so the men can work, and all three being necessary to clear the shaft in the morning, so the men can begin work. He had also started a drift, but that has been abandoned. The Captain deserves not a little credit for the energy and perseverance he has displayed during the past winter, and he will, no doubt, reap his reward by finding a good deposit of hard ore. The elevation of his property is from 300 to 500 feet above Lake Antoine.

I cannot close without saying that I felt somewhat elated, while in Marinette, in being mistaken for one of our U. S. Land officers, and wish to state that since my return I have made inquiries of the official for whom I was mistaken in regard to the homestead rights of settlers in the Menominee district, and was informed by him that he acted only upon special instructions in the matter, but it was his private opinion that all bona fide homesteaders would be protected in their rights, and would eventually get the patents for their homesteads.

Yours, &c., L. C. PALMER.

MINING AND INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

D. C. Agnew & Co., of Allegheny, have the largest ceramic works in the world. So they claim. The smelting works at Omaha extend one half the bulletin obtained from the ores of Utah last year. Recently, the last of the forty rolling mills at Pittsburgh which have been idle, was put in motion, so that no less than 15,000 people are again in active employment, directly or indirectly, in this branch of the iron manufacture. The coinage of the United States mint in San Francisco, for the month of February was $270,000 in trade dollars, $4,000 in half dollars, $8,000 in quarters, and $6,000 in dimes. The Manufacturer says that when the Lucy furnace made its large output of pig iron the other week the charge did not consist wholly of Kloman ore, as some of the day papers have stated, a part of it being Lake Champlain ore and mill cind. It is said that the miners of New Mexico, Missouri, have recently discovered asphalt. If it should prove to exist in considerable quantities it will be a valuable discovery. It can be used in paving streets, as in European cities, and for a variety of other purposes.

—Mining in the United States has about got through with the diseases and troubles of infancy and is becoming a strong and healthy industry. It will, doubtless, still be subject to numerous fits and occasional chills; but the strong vitality of its maturity can neither be burnt out by the one, nor frozen out by the other.

MICHIGANISMS.

—The river at Monroe is always Raisin' but never overflows its banks. —Navigation is open at Saginaw and steamers are making regular trips between that city and Alpena. —Wong Chin Foo has been giving the Lansingites a little Chinese "chain music" in the shape of a lecture. —Donnelly Cottrell, a clerk in the Hillsdale post office, has been arrested for opening and abstracting money from other people's letters.

—The estimated cost of the new city hall at Grand Rapids is $50,000, and it will be built in accordance with plans furnished by C. H. Marsh, of Rochester, N. Y. —Our old copper friend, J. H. Forster, lectured on "Lake Superior and its Mineral Products" before the Williamson (Mich.) Library Association, on Friday night of last week. —A Young Men's Christian Association is to be organized at Orosco. This news, coming so close upon the visit of one of the proprietors of the Mining Journal to that place, suggests the possibility that he may have struck a crusade or revival since he left.

—A youth of seventeen years, named March, stole a march on a married man named Hiltz, down at Kalamazoo, the other day, and ran away with his wife Polly. They didn't go far, but stopped at the nearest hotel for rest and recreation, where they were caught, and the amorous youth and his loving Polly were marched off to jail. —Two hundred and fifty liquor dealers in Grand Rapids have organized a society to work for the adoption of the license clause to the new constitution. As we understand it the legislature has not decided to submit that question to a vote of the people. The members evidently thought the people were not competent to decide the question for themselves.

—The Midland Times claims to be the largest paper in the State, and we guess it is. It is so large that the best part of it has to be printed in Chicago, and the other half filled up with quack medicine advertisements. If it wasn't so brittle it would make a good horse blanket, and it won't cut up into convenient sizes for special purposes. It's too big for the town in which it is printed, too big for the State at large, and too big for the capacity of its editor. —Why is it that the commissioners appointed by the Governor to select a site for the new insane asylum never give a thought to any of the towns on Lake Superior? We can't, it is true, do much toward filling an institution of that kind, but our pure air would, no doubt, prove beneficial to the patients sent up from the miasmatic,ague-stricken counties of lower Michigan! —One Thompson—with a p—was confined in the Coldwater jail, and tried to burn his way out by taking coals from the stove and scattering them on the floor near the door. The smoke was too much for him, and the fire was subdued by the department. Thereupon he had the p washed out of his name, and says that Coldwater jail is the right name for the institution in which he involuntarily resides.

—The champion compositor holds a case on the Midland Times. He is not noted for his dexterity in picking up the shining metals, but for his persistence in following copy. He had an "ad." which read: "Wanted—A new milch cow, for which a liberal price will be paid." The cow was purchased after awhile, and the citizen who ordered the advertisement called at the office and stated that he wanted a hired girl, and asked to have "girl" inserted for "cow." The change was made, and all one can imagine the feelings of the advertiser as he read the three or four lines over. —Referring to Tattle's History of Michigan, the Lansing Republicans say: "We have no remark to offer on the biographical sketches. Some of them are well done. The portraits speak to the eye; and it is the friends of the gentlemen are satisfied, so to speak. But the omissions are quite remarkable. We look in vain for Jacob M. Howard, who was two years representative in Congress, six years Attorney General, five years United States Senator, and in the very front rank of the legal profession. We do not find, either, Douglas Houghton, one of the early mayors of Detroit and the geological explorer of the Upper Peninsula, who brought his marvelous wealth to light; nor Rev. George Duffield, Sr., D. D., for more than 30 years pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Detroit, a giver of exalted character, wide influence, and finished scholarship, who traveled in the Old World, and who certain was not inferior to any clergyman in the State in talent and reputation, besides being known all over the country. Upon what principle were the portraits and sketches of Michigan's prominent men inserted in her "General History?"

We think we can enlighten the editor of the Republicans somewhat upon that point. If we may judge from our own experience we should say that a majority of the portraits and sketches of "Michigan's prominent men" in that particular history were bought and paid for, it is indeed the sketches were not written by themselves. The editor of this paper, who was once so unfortunate as to be a member of the Legislature, was offered a prominent place in that history, provided he would furnish his photograph and autobiography, and place his autograph on an agreement to pay the publisher one hundred dollars! He therefore supposes that others were applied to in the same way, and responded, as we did not. It was a cheap way of acquiring a place among the "prominent men" of the State, but—well, that our handsome physiognomy and a record of our noble deeds do not adorn its pages we'll bet the hundred dollars that would have secured prominence to both. The history is a fraud, we know—though we have never seen a copy, and don't know the author from a stougborn bottle!

The bungling correspondent who has taken the agitator's place in the Negaunee Herald says the people of Negaunee trusted A. P. Swineford once, and he repaid them by getting four supervisors for Marquette to one each for Negaunee and Ishpeming. We are not aware that we ever secured a supervisor for Negaunee or Ishpeming, though we did try hard to secure an additional one for the former, and would have succeeded but for the outrageous character sent us by the agitator. We succeeded in passing through the legislature, as was our duty, the Marquette city charter just as it was sent to us, and tried to do the same with the Negaunee village charter, before we discovered the clause authorizing the board of trustees to license houses of prostitution, and the other one fixing a property qualification for the office of trustee—both of which were conceived and written by the agitator, and were the means of defeating the bill. When Negaunee went into the Legislature, asking for a city charter with three supervisors, though having scarcely half the population of Marquette, the people of this city made no objections—nor have they any now. We can't see, therefore, wherein the agitator, or his substitute, has any cause of complaint. We certainly didn't pass or help to pass any laws legalizing prostitution or to disfranchise poor men—neither did we attempt, without the knowledge or request of our constituents, to set up a new county, with only one township, over which we might ourselves lord it as a whole board of supervisors; nor yet did we pass or attempt to pass an act giving to any one mining company the special privilege of holding 80,000 acres of land, while all others were restricted to the ownership of only 10,000! We simply did, or tried to do, our duty—and that was to carry out, so far as we were able, the wishes of our constituents in all parts of the district. That we failed in the Negaunee charter—our only failure—was due to the fellow who drew the charter with such obnoxious features that the members considered it a direct insult when first read in committee of the whole House. We have nothing to reproach ourselves with so far as our legislative career is concerned, except that we were simple enough to trust William P. Healy so far as to introduce a bill drawn by him without having read it before doing so!

COMMON COUNCIL.—At a special meeting of the Common Council of the city of Marquette, held at the Common Council chamber on Monday evening, March 23rd, 1874, present—His Honor, Samuel P. Ely, Mayor; Joseph H. Primeau, Recorder—Aldermen Cook, Atfield, Neidhart, Harlow and Brittell. Absent—Alderman Fraser.

The reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting was dispensed with. On motion of Alderman Cook, it was Resolved, That the city assessor be and is hereby empowered and authorized to prepare an assessment roll, assessing seven thousand dollars on the property abutting the Spring street sewer between Lake and Maple streets. On motion, it was Resolved, That the annual charter election be held at the following places, to-wit: in the First ward, at the House House, on Front street; in the Second ward, at the Court House; in the Third ward, at the office of Edward Fraser, on Bluff street. Thereupon the Board adjourned.

At an adjourned meeting of the Common Council of the city of Marquette, held at the Common Council chamber, on Tuesday evening, March 24th, 1874, present, His Honor Samuel P. Ely, Mayor; Joseph H. Primeau, Recorder; Alderman Cook, Atfield, Neidhart, Harlow and Brittell. Absent, Alderman Fraser.

The reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting was dispensed with. The special assessment roll, amounting to $7,000, levied on the property abutting the Spring street sewer between Lake and Maple streets, was presented, and on motion of Alderman Cook, adopted. On motion of Alderman Harlow, it was Resolved, That special notice be given by the Recorder, in the Mining Journal of the city of Marquette, or by hand bills, that a special meeting of the Common Council will be held at the Common Council chamber, on Monday, April 13th, 1874, at 7 o'clock P. M., to consider the final confirmation of said Spring street sewer assessment roll. On motion of the Mayor, it was Resolved, That the remainder of the cost of Spring street sewer and above the assessment roll be paid out of the general fund of the city of Marquette. Thereupon the Board adjourned.

CINDERS. -If you -Want circulars, -Dodgers, hand bills or posters, -Bill or letter heads, cards or statements, -Blanks or blank books, with or without printed headings, -In fact any kind of job printing, from an address card to a handsomely bound ledger, -Remember that the MINING JOURNAL is the largest and best appointed printing establishment on the peninsula, and is prepared to fill all such orders promptly, and at moderate prices. -A week from to-morrow is Easter Sunday. City election the day after. -A boat was sailing around on Marquette bay last Tuesday. It was on runners. -Clifford promises to invade Marquette soon with a new dramatic company of superior merit. -These days next will be the proper time for the boys to put big stones on the sidewalk and cover them with old hats. -We are requested to say that the champion window smasher is a woman of mature years, and that she resides on Bluff street. -Thanks to Hon. Jay A. Hubbard for a copy of the Congressional Directory, a work containing a great deal of valuable information. -Strange, isn't it, that it is an illiterate scribbler in the Negaunee Herald says, the MINING JOURNAL is a "vile sheet," that it should have a larger circulation than any other three papers on Lake Superior! -An abolition of the free lunch system by the Chicago saloons has added a veral thousand to the beer-guzzling population of Milwaukee, and there as many more Chicagoans out of their regular daily employment. -The rabble which follows the lead of W. P. Healy once burned the senior editor of this paper in office, y because he declined to support the agitator for a township office! S. says he felt honored rather than insulted! -Summer is dead, and now every silly ass in the country who imagines himself a poet is persecuting his memory with wretched doggerel, over which, if there be tears in heaven, the honored statesman will look down and weep! -The Pottsville Standard is the best and liveliest of our Pennsylvania exchanges. If we occasionally appropriate one of its sharp "splinters," it is with the understanding that our hottest cinders are at its service, by way of a fair exchange. -It is now reported that the consideration of the temperance question by the Marquette ladies was indefinitely postponed by some one inadvertently suggesting the conundrum-What will be the size, shape and style of spring bonnets? -We see by the Cleve and papers that the lady cinders of that city are holding daily interviews with Joe Richards-trying to get him to sign the pledge and irrigate the public square with his wines and liquors. Sign the pledge, Joseph, and send the liquor to your friends hereabouts, rather than kill the grass in your beautiful park! -"Gentlemen," said a would-be Mayor of the city to a crowd of gentlemen with whom he was conversing, "I do not wish to be a candidate. As a member of the council I have given a great deal of time to city matters, and it would be a great detriment to my private interests to accept the position of Mayor." "The excuse is perfectly satisfactory to me," said one of the gentlemen-"but," continued the other, "I have been asked by a number of my friends, prominent citizens, to consent to be a candidate, and feel that I cannot refuse the use of my name!" It is not probable, however, that he will be called upon to make any further sacrifice of his private interests for the public good! -A wicked old bachelor who, somehow or other, is permitted to edit a miserable little country newspaper down in Lower Michigan, atrociously suggests that it is time for the men to do something; and earnestly appeals to all husbands, fathers and lovers to join themselves together in a moral crusade against millinery stores and dressmakers shops. Let the men assemble in these establishments, or where admittance is denied, upon the sidewalks in front, and appeal pathetically and loud, and with tears and sobs, to the proprietors to abandon their trade of fashion, since their trade causes an amount of moral and financial ruin which cannot easily be appreciated, and which it is our duty to bring to a sudden end. -We presume the MINING JOURNAL is a "vile sheet" in the estimation of men who repudiate their own offspring, who practice their lechery upon little girls whom they have adopted-who insult their wives by making love to their female servants-who beat little boys in the street-who slander and make war upon defenceless women-and it always will be. The Negaunee scribbler is at perfect liberty to repeat this in print, with all that he may have heard from the very honest, conscientious, pure-minded Mr. Hunt, and others of that ilk, of whom, thank goodness, we have but few in this city! This is written by the editor, who is responsible for his words, in the office or out of it!

-The momentous question just now is, who will be mayor? -The little hamlet of Chocoma, three miles from Marquette, furnished the brains which gave to New York city its elevated railway. -The man who has buried two wives, and has two more left to console him for the loss of the others, lately removed from this city to Negaunee. -They have "one good woman" at Oshkosh, and the Northwestern is telling a fearful story about her in an indefinite number of chapters. Do give her a rest! -The slogan of the ward politician is watted upon the morning breeze and the evening zephyr. His three to the primary meeting, and exercising the highest privilege of freemen. -They have a veritable English baronet down at Munising. He has been engaged there several years as a school teacher, married a daughter of one of the old settlers, and is said to be the happiest man on the peninsula. -If our Michiganian, L'Anse and Section 19 correspondents don't come around all right next week, we'll send a special reporter after them with a sharp stick. Don't worry in well doing, gentlemen, but do so some more so. -We notice the discussion of "The Great Problem," which has strung out through thirty or forty columns of the Fond du Lac Commonwealth, is ended. Let the editors, in justice to their readers, kill the author before he starts out on another subject! -The fire marshal of this city don't want to buy more than half a hundred steam fire engines, nor more than a million feet of carboled hose, he will, therefore, be obliged to the hundreds of manufacturers and dealers at the east, if they will give him a rest! -The Ishpeming girls organized a society recently, and resolved to have nothing to do with young men who smoke, chew, drink or swear. The society lasted until the boys began to play sweet on the Negaunee girl, and then its members weakened and concluded to disband. -O'Grady, the hero of one of our last week's burrows, denies the soft impeachment, and says neither Cinders nor any other man can undermine him in the affections of his sweetheart. He acknowledges the loss of the ring, but has implicit confidence in the love and constancy of his girl! -A precocious youth of thirty-six months, on Arch street, requested his mother to sing "I want to be an Angel." Mamma not complying at once, the youngster, kicking her on the shins, exclaimed, "D--ng it, mamma, sing 'I want to be an Angel!'" She tunel him to sing a different song with her slipper. -Peace once more reigns in the mansion of the Hunts. The prodigal son, after having spent several dollars in riotous living elsewhere, again takes his matutinal hash with his loving papa. In the meantime the club hangs on the kitchen wall, ready for future emergencies, and both await in perfect complacency the coming of another liquor agent who is not wise enough to have a lock affixed to his case of samples! -All interested in building materials will find it to their advantage to read the card of the Burt Free Stone Company, which appears in this paper. -MEADS has had a view of the interior of his store taken. The picture shows up the store and contents in fine, clear style. Of course Childs is the artist. -THE most popular place of resort in the city is Terry Hanley's billiard rooms, in the Tremont-notwithstanding the close proximity of the amiable Hunts. -A FEW nights since, during a heavy wind, the horses occupying the lower story of a barn near the Rolling Mill were taken by surprise, and undoubtedly much disgusted as well as discomfited. The barn being set against a hill, some cows managed to get in the second story, and were quietly munching hay when the door gave way, precipitating cows, hay and floor upon the horses. -OUR old friend Abner Kirby has gone back to the Kirby House, Milwaukee, as landlord, and wants, as he says, "customers for good fare and clean beds," at only $2.50 per day. There are very few people acquainted with Abner who will not give the Kirby the preference when they visit the Cream City. -THE counter, shelves and other wood fixtures of Risdon's new restaurant, was done by the Marquette building company, and reflects the greatest credit upon the mechanics to whom it was entrusted. It is, indeed, worth looking at, and ought to commend that company to all who are in want of the finer kinds of work in their line. -DAN. opened his new restaurant to the public Tuesday evening last, a few invited guests dedicating the tables and disposing of some choice viands. The place is fitted up in first-class style, everything being new, neat and clean. The dining hall and booths are separate from the bar, so that ladies may enter the former without seeing or encountering the patrons of the latter. It is a good place for hungry men to frequent. (To the Editor.)

In the JOURNAL of last week was a statement to the city council, and signed by the recorder, that the room adjoining his office was occupied by a "private party," (as well as by the water and fire commissioners,) without compensation. It is due to the public and to the undersigned to explain. I would briefly state that, being last fall unexpectedly deprived of my office room in the same building, I asked and obtained permission by regular action of the council to temporarily occupy part of the room in question, under the condition of supplying fuel for it during the cold season. This I have done at the expense of six tons of coal; and, in the opinion of members of the council, answered the requirements. This explains that the public room mentioned has not been occupied without permission and consideration. C. F. STURCK, Architect. March 24, 1874.

The city election occurs a week from Monday next, and we hope the citizens of the several wards will hold their caucuses early in the week, select their best men for Aldermen, and then see to it that they are elected. It is useless to grumble about high taxes, mismanagement of city affairs, etc., if those most interested stay at home and take no part in the nomination and election of city and ward officers. In fact, those who hold themselves above mixing in local politics and abstain from the caucuses, and possibly from voting, have no right to complain if bad or incompetent men are selected to administer the city government. The best men should always be selected for office, and the best men are the ones that are expected to make themselves prominent in the work of securing the election of such. Therefore, we say, let the caucuses be called early, so that there may be a full attendance, and ample time allowed afterwards for a discussion of the merits of the various candidates. The city convention should be called as early as Wednesday evening, at the very latest.

P. S.-Since the above was put in type calls for a city convention and ward caucuses have been bandied in. They will be found at the head of the local department.

A CRIME of bells will be one of the features of the proposed new Episcopal church, which is certain to be built.

THE tugs J. C. Morse and J. D. Dudley are receiving a general overhauling, and will be ready for business by the opening of navigation.

THE ice in Marquette Bay is still solid, and if anything, of greater thickness than at any time during the winter. It extends only a short distance beyond the breakwater, however, and will go out with the first brisk wind from the southwest.

ELECTION tickets will be printed at this office for the coming election, at the following rates: Single hundred, $1.00; 500, $2.50; 1,000, $3.50-and at the same rate for a larger number-money to accompany order. Write names plainly and full, so as to avoid mistakes.

MR. CHANDLER, of Houghton, some time since nominated by the President to the office of collector of customs for the district of Superior, has been confirmed by the Senate. We are glad to learn that Mr. Downs, the very efficient deputy, will remain in charge of the custom house here.

IF it is not generally known it should be, that Miss Pickands has established a select school for children, near the residence of her father, on Arch street. The little folks are in love with their teacher, and, as a consequence, progress rapidly in their studies.

IF you want blank books of any kind made to order, come to the MINING JOURNAL office. Our bindery is complete in every particular, and we employ none but the best workmen. Don't send your work away, but place it where it will do the most good.

MISS PHELPS, daughter of the Rev. Mr. Phelps, formerly of this city, has been engaged as organist at St. Paul's church. Miss Phelps is a highly accomplished pianist and, we are pleased to learn, will take a few pupils as soon as she shall have become settled among us.

DULUTH LAKE TRANSPORTATION COMPANY.-G. G. Barnum, Esq., of the above named company, called on us the other day, and left an advertisement of the line, which will be found in another column. It will be seen that the line will be extended to Marquette, and will consist of the steamers Manistowic and Metropolis, mastered by our old friends, Captains John McKay and Bart. Atkins. Mr. Barnum thinks the Manistowic will be able to get out of Duluth by the middle of April.

THE UNDERGROUND RAILROAD, though discontinued a dozen years ago, still lives in the recollection of the people, and is again brought prominently before the public in a book of 780 pages, by William Still, a colored man, who was for many years connected with the anti-slavery office in Philadelphia. The work is beautifully illustrated with portraits from life, is handsomely bound, and well deserving of a place in the library. J. L. Evans, of this city, is the agent, and will call on our people for their subscriptions.

OUR brilliant friend, who very properly hides his name under a nom de plume in the Negaunee Herald, is respectfully informed that there has never been a time, since the fall of 1868, when the present editor of the MINING JOURNAL did not control its columns-and that he expects to control them during the remainder of his natural life time. As an editor he is only unfortunate in an irresistible inclination to call things by their right name-an inclination which impels him to say that he considers "More Anon" a very dirty, cowardly, contemptible sneak, who dare not give his name to the public!

THE following note explains itself: FRANK SWINEFOOT.-Please accept the accompanying box of Havana, and as you put the fragrant weed, may you conjure up visions of future wealth and greatness for Lake Superior. And, as all things must pass away, that Four Months see may vanish and be replaced with National currency or Keystone Six Month's Sight Paper without interest, as a circulating medium. N.

AND, while they last we don't care a continental about the kind or quality of currency with which we are afflicted! Thanks, generous friend, and list "whilst we impart, how firm you're locked and bolted in our heart." So long as that ere box a single weed contains, or in our town a single drop remains, to you an equal portion shall belong. This, we do swear-now, who'll send as another?-not too strong?

A CARD.-The Morgan Iron Company desire to express their thankful acknowledgment of the ready and efficient aid of the citizens of Negaunee, Ishpeming, Marquette, and of the furnace location itself, in arresting the fire in their charcoal pile, at Morgan, on Sunday last.

The fire occurred in the height of a heavy gale, which speedily set the whole surface of the pile on fire, and threatened the whole location. The people of the location fought it till help from other towns arrived, when, with the combined forces, the fire was mastered, being confined to the pile in which it originated, with a loss limited to about 12,000 bushels of coal.

Among others, we wish to thank the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon railroad and its General Manager, who ran special trains during the day as needed; the Mayor of Negaunee, who sent us the fire engine; the firemen of Negaunee and their officers, whose services were so well-directed and efficient; the firemen of Ishpeming and its former Mayor; without forgetting any who helped to avert what might have been a serious calamity.

THE MORGAN IRON CO. By S. P. ELY, Secretary, and C. DONKESLEY, Vice President. Marquette, March 24th, 1874.

PERSONAL.-Messrs. Niles, Allen and Newman, representatives of popular Detroit houses which advertise in the MINING JOURNAL, are still promulgating about the country and taking orders for immense quantities of goods. It is very creditable to Mr. Allen, and the house of Robinson, Burdeshaw & Co., of which he is the representative, that he was able to sell a large bill of boots and shoes to the ex-shoemaker, who resides at Ontonagon, and who knows all about the particular trade, having been brought up from the bench and nursed with a strap in his infancy.

Capt. John Spalding returned from the east on Thursday's train-just in time to be a candidate for alderman of his ward.

Mr. James McQuillen, of this city, has successfully passed the examination for the degree of Doctor of Medicine and Master of Surgery, at the McGill University, Montreal, Canada.

We can scarcely credit the charge made by some of the Ishpeming firemen that they were charged exorbitant prices for food at the Morgan fire on last Sunday. We were on the ground until a late hour, and know that meals were served to all who wished them at the house of Mr. Bishop, and that basket after basket of provisions were carried to the men at the brakes, all at the expense of the Morgan Company. Early in the day, some few who called for canned fruits at the store were charged for them, but it was certainly the desire of the company to provide all the food that might be called for by the men who so promptly responded to their call for aid. If any were neglected it was without the knowledge or consent of the Superintendent, and we are authorized to say that any person who paid their money for food will have it refunded by making application to the officers of the company.

FIRE AT MORGAN.-At about half past twelve on Sunday last dispatches were received in this city stating that the coal pile was on fire at the Morgan furnace, threatening the furnace with destruction, and asking for help. Dispatches of a similar character were also sent to Negaunee and Ishpeming, and Mr. Schoch immediately ordered special trains to be got ready to convey all who might volunteer their aid from the three places to the scene of the fire. A train with from one to two hundred men left this city as soon after receiving the news as an engine could be fired up, and another left Ishpeming about the same time, bringing down members of the Ishpeming and Negaunee fire departments, and a hand engine belonging to the latter. When the trains arrived, the immense pile of coal-about 50,000 bushels-was a mass of fire, but the firemen taking hold with a will, assisted by those from this city, prevented it from communicating to the furnace. Nearly all worked like heroes-especially the firemen-and as fast as the coal was wet down about the edges it was covered with sand, until the whole pile was enclosed. Our advices are that the loss will not exceed 15,000 bushels of coal, worth about $2,000. It was a narrow escape for the furnace, and but for the prompt response of the people of Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette, the loss to the company would have been very serious.

NEIGHBORING NEWS. NOTES FROM THE MINING JOURNAL'S SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.

L'ANSE.-I was a trifle disappointed at not seeing the correspondence I had sent you week before last, and which reached you too late for publication in it I mentioned that Mr. James Allen, of the Lake Linden house, had taken unto himself a help-mate to share his joys and sorrows. He married Miss Eva Moralee, of Hancock.

Township elections are near at hand, and we sincerely trust that the voters of this, and neighboring townships, will cast their votes and exert their influence in electing men who will be a credit to the offices they may hold-doing their work legally and not aiming to see how little of it they can do, and how much of the county funds they can appropriate to themselves. I regret to say that Houghton county has been favored with a goodly amount of municipal errors, which can only be remedied by electing men who are public-spirited, and have capacity and sound judgment.

The party given at the Lake Linden house, by Messrs. Scott and Smith and their ladies, last Friday evening, was a most pleasant affair. No pains were spared in making it all that could be desired. Quite a number of Sparr Mountain and Michiganian people were present and did the "light fantastic" until the peep of day. Marquette was represented by Mr. C. H. Palmer, Jr., Dr. Northrop and M. McConnell. The ball room was tastefully decorated with evergreens and appropriate mottoes.

Episcopal services will be held at the school house here at 1:30 p. m., and 7 p. m., Sunday, March 29th, Rev. Robert Wood, of Houghton, officiating. The Amateur Musical Troupe, of this place, encouraged by the liberal patronage given to their first entertainment, contemplate giving another performance on Monday, April 6th. PHIZ.

CLARKSBURG.-The morning is stormy, the wind is turning higher, and the gale is increasing as the day wears on. At dawn all was tranquil; but now the elements are aroused. The snow is thickly falling; but its descent is retarded by the sweeping wind, which whirls it now one way and now another. Still the little flakes persist in alighting; and finally they are freed from the grasp of the storm and settle down, in the spring to melt and wane on the bosom of their predecessors. The sun has not yet enlivened us with a genial smile, and it is feared his penetrating beams will be unable to pierce the storm. How pleasant is the fireside a day like this. Nobody cares to depart from the cozy corner near the hearth. Six days laboring for existence, enduring the inclemency of the weather, make the seventh a most acceptable day of rest. The weary arm can repose at ease, and the devout mind can find pleasure and contentment in peacefully contemplating the amazing works of the Creator. And thus a Sunday passes in Clarksburg, especially a Sunday so inclement as this. But I was forgetting; all are not leisurely reclining by the fireside. One class of industrious workers have no particular day to while away at ease, and that class is the furnacemen. Night or day-Sunday, Christmas or Fourth of July is no exception; their work is incessant. A day's repose, or a night's revivifying sleep is a rarity to them, and most delicious when it comes. Still, they do not disturb the quietness of Sunday. In fact, to the distant observer, the only sign of life around the furnace is the smoke and steam rising from the chimneys to the clouds; but if he draws near a more convincing proof meets him. He will find each man at his assigned post, carefully fulfilling his duty, and, judging from the modest courtesy that greets a stranger, the furnaceman is contented with his lot.

'Tis evening; the shades of night are falling; the storm has abated, but the night will be piercing cold. The little stars are beginning to twinkle in the heavens, and the moon-her pale face has not yet loomed above the horizon. But it is growing late, and the fire is slumbering on the hearth, so I think I will cease my folly and retire to the blanket's warm embrace.

March 25th.-The latest novelties in Clarksburg are a new blacksmith's shop, a new carpenter's shop, and a new and very curious steam boiler for the planing mill, which is composed, they say, of not more than eleven hundred distinct pieces, all crowned by a smoke stack not less than twenty feet in height. The boiler is not laid horizontal, nor is it perpendicular; but, from a bird's-eye view I got of it, I concluded that the angle of the plain of the boiler is somewhere between the angle zero and the angle of ninety degrees. Further description of this strange combination is beyond my power. Let the curious examine for themselves. All these things have been done under the directions of a fair-haired gentleman, the apex of whose cranium, elevated on curvilinear pillars, graces the atmosphere in the neighborhood of five feet six inches above terra firma. I.

MICHIGAMME.-It matters but little to him who loves his native country, whether he be among the Esquimaux, of the ice clad fields of the north, the quick, impetuous French, or among the cool, calculating Germans, he will, at times, voluntarily recur to the land of his birth-the home of his childhood. I may remark still further, that the more genial the soil, the more salubrious the climate, the more extensive the prairies, the more resplendent the lakes, the more rugged the mountains of a country, or the more unjust, the more tyranny, the more wretchedness, the greater the persecutions we have endured there, the more we are attached to the land in which we first saw light. No person can question the validity of this remark-everything tends to confirm it. The savage is more attached to his hut than a Crusius is to his palatial residence. Ask a French peasant if he would exchange his lot for that of a king of a country remote from his! When far removed from the sports which his infancy knew, he carries with him whithersoever he goes the pining recollections of infancy and innocence. He will sigh for his flocks, his torrents, his meandering streams, his limpid lakes, his beloved mountains, and more than all else, for the presence of those affectionate parents who no longer can be found among the living, and around whose venerated shades he loves to wander. He languishes if he is prevented from returning to his native clime. With what pleasurable emotions he will again return to his thatched roof! With what delight will he visit the sacred shades of his departed parents!

"Long, long be my heart with such memories filled; Like the vase in which roses have once been distilled; You may break, you may rain the vase if you will, But the scent of the roses will cling 'round it still."

The seventeenth of March verified this love of country. Here in this hyperborean region, covered with snow, forests and mountains, the sturdy sons of Hibernia, though far removed from their own green isle, met in concourse to rejoice over the return of another anniversary of their patron saint. To me, an American, it is a sublime sight to see a race, the star of whose country is obscured, opposed in their measures, thwarted in their manners and customs, ground down to the earth by cruel and relentless landlords, robbed of the possessions which were theirs by divine and hereditary right, here in this land of freedom, speaking on such a day as St. Patrick's, about the beauties of their native land, and Him whose labors christianized it. Strange and sublime thought-that a people who have fought and won battles under every flag, not only of monarchial Europe, but of the continent of America, whose liberty was first nourished and sustained, a people who are characterized for wit, eloquence, logic, bravery and love of country, have not a spot beneath the rigid sun which they can call their own! He who is free from prejudices and partisan bias must concur with the late lamented Seward in saying that "the plains of Waterloo and the heights of Quebec bear witness that they are brave and skillful in war-like the Greeks they have in their decline enchanted the world with wit, song and eloquence. Confiding and generous to a fault, while in their whole history does not occur one instance of the indulgence of an unlawful ambition." Such is this love of country that in war it has often turned a morning of disaster into an evening of victory; in literature it has produced a Homer, a Virgil, in a Burns and a Moore.

This love of country and its worthy sons seems to be, paramount to all others, the first duty of an Irishman. Born in a cottage, or perhaps, a hovell, and expelled from a spot where his ancestors lived and died, his life wears that melancholy tint which is one of its principal charms. And, if in a foreign land he rises to distinction and alliance, and the angel of eternity summons him to that world which is clothed in mystery, his last sigh, his last thought, his last prayer, will be for his down-trodden country-like "Attoreo, of whom the Maritan bard speaks, "Et dulces moriens reminiscitur Argos."

Early last Tuesday morning (the 17th) the casual observer could see men and women, with uncommonly bright, pleasant faces, entering the school house. My curiosity led me thither. Here were young women arranging festoons of evergreens to adorn the sides of the room. On the side of the wall, behind the speaker's desk, was the name of the never-to-be-forgotten Emmet, while right opposite was the name of the Irish tribune-O'Connell. A dance was given in the town hall in the evening, which continued until eleven o'clock, when the president of the society announced that a banquet would be served at the school room. Here was everything that an epicure could desire-excellent in every department. The toasts and responses were as follows:

"The day we celebrate-endured to us by many pleasing recollections of the past that animates us with the hope of a brighter future for the land of our birth."

An eloquent response by Dr. P. H. Gallagher. "The United States-the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Responded to in a neat speech by John Hickey. "Daniel O'Connell-Ireland's greatest son."

Response by Jeremiah Mahoney. "Washington and the patriots of '76."

Responded to by "eloquent young O'mann." "Our mining interests-the great highway on which we march to civilization."

This toast was responded to by Capt. J. T. Curley. "Ireland-one motherland."

Response by P. P. Pierce. "The President-a great and kind soldier and successful statesman."

Responded to by Wm. J. Doyle. "After listening to the mellifluous language of the speakers, and satiating myself with everything that is palatable, I betook myself again to the dance, which continued until broad daylight in the morning. J. M.

(To the Editor.) If "Magnetic," who in your issue of the 7th inst. makes an ineffectual attempt to whitewash Mr. J. R. Case's official conduct, so far as it is connected with the Michiganian assessment, will give his name, I will prove the following facts: 1st. That the assessment was not made until after the 19th of June. 2d. That the assessor did not personally or by deputy go through this village to ascertain from owners of property its value. 3d. That properties, differing in value several hundred dollars, were taxed alike. Should the gentleman favor the people of this village by giving his name, you are at full liberty to give mine. WANTED.—A good printer, at this office immediately, to whom good wages and steady employment will be given.

BUFFALO BILL is one of the residents of Negaunee. We saw him on the street one day during the week.

ROBERT MAXWELL, employed by the Jackson Iron Company, was severely burned on Saturday last while cleaning a steam boiler with benzine.

MR. O'NEIL, having sold his store and lot to Hillier & Stoppenbach, is now selling out his stock at very low prices. Any one wishing bargains will do well to give him an early call.

A C. & N. W. freight train loaded with stock struck a bad rail and went off the track just opposite Kirkwood's drug store, plunging its way nearly up to their steps. No damage to speak of.

THE coming elections will be held at the following named places on the 6th day of April next: First Ward, Ogden House; Second Ward, Town Hall; Third Ward, red house, at Jackson Mine.

CORNELIUS KEELER has been appointed assistant engineer of the fire department. He is to remain in the engine house day and night. He will, for the present, be under the instructions of Mr. R. O'Neil.

THE railroad authorities here have had their platform extended about twelve feet at the southern end, making it much more convenient than formerly for the transfer of baggage and passengers between the two roads.

ALBERT MAAS, of the firm of Taylor & Maas, has sold out his interest in their drug store on Iron street, to Mr. V. B. Cochran, of Marquette. Taylor & Cochran will make a good team, and we wish them every success.

THE City Treasurer has been directed to transfer to the general fund the following sums: From township tax, $ 173 89 From contingent fund, 73 11 From highway fund, 1,245 78 Total, $1,492 78

At a meeting of the Common Council the mayor was authorized to secure the services of a competent family to take charge of the pest house; provided that such family shall receive no compensation therefor, unless when patients are in the house or for labor when employed by the council.

A MARQUETTE came up to see the lions on Tuesday. Among others whom he interviewed was Red-Handed Mike. The visitor expressed the conviction that he could "raise" Mike, and a friendly set-to between them resulted in the total annihilation of the Marquette in one round.

THE editor of the Mining Journal desires to say that he is not in the habit of writing communications for his own paper—though he is very often called upon to revise and correct the manuscript of others. He thinks he has lived long enough on Lake Superior to have it generally known and understood that he is not afraid to father his own productions—that when he has anything to say upon any subject he says it without fear or hope of reward. He did revise and correct XX's manuscript last week, as well as this, but the ideas and points made are not his.

A CORRESPONDENT in the Herald accuses the Mining Journal with attacking and belittling Negaunee. The very next paper we open is the Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association, one of the most widely circulated publications in the country. In that we find copied from the Mining Journal's Negaunee department an article of nearly a column in length, showing the advantages of Negaunee as a point for the establishment of manufacturing of all kinds! This is written by one of the editors of the Mining Journal, so was the article copied into the Bulletin!

LAST Saturday evening a man who has lately returned from the west, whither he had been to dispose of property, got on a spree and made times lively wherever he went. He had something over $100 in his pocket, which he flourished promiscuously. The man finally became so noisy that the marshal, after trying in vain to get him to go home, took him to jail. On search being made, $1,500 in cash was found in a bag which had probably been worn next the body, but had slipped down into his pants leg and was nearly out. He certainly is lucky in having been arrested.

A WRITER in the Negaunee Herald, who may or not be the agitator in disguise, or who is more likely to be one of the numerous office holders imported by the Iron Cliffs Company, indulges in a number of sneaking, cowardly insinuations against the editor of this paper, and threatens to unfold a dreadful tale concerning him. We hope he won't do it! It might hurt our feelings! and, coming from the source it does, based upon the statement of that very respectable citizen, Mr. Hunt, might injure us in the estimation of the public! Do, please, don't do it! We'll beg Mr. Hunt's pardon for telling the truth about him, if you won't, and promise not to say anything more about the principal of our schools, until he or some of his teachers correct another little boy or girl with a club! We'll do almost anything rather than have you "unfold" that tale of yours!—Scientific.

[To the Editor.] My communication appears to have excited the wrath of some anonymous scribbler in the last Herald, who compliments me by pretending to believe that my article was written by yourself. It seems to me a little remarkable that the writer in question, in attempting to answer my effusion, should entirely ignore its main points, in reference to monopolies, and the relation of W. P. Healy thereto, and branch off into a covert attack upon yourself. And here let me say, that in correcting my manuscript, (which is none of the best) or the proof sheet, you made me say that the Iron Cliffs monopoly "monopolizes all the offices," omitting the word nearly before the all, as written. And when I wrote that statement I knew what I was saying, and did not say more than the facts warrant. Who runs our schools? Who the post office? Who is our senator? Who wanted to be representative, prosecuting attorney, and who is city attorney? Who made the last assessment? I know John Mulvey is assessor—and he is an honest, unsuspecting citizen—but the attorney for the Iron Cliffs Company did the work, manipulated the assessment rolls, and abused Mr. Mulvey's confidence! Then, I might ask, who attempted to get control of the city council, by inserting in the city charter a clause depriving the wards of the privilege of electing their own aldermen, and making them elective by the city at large? Who but Isham, Senator, and general agent of the Iron Cliffs Co., and W. P. Healy, lobbyist, and attorney for the same company, and who had his nose pulled by Senator DeLand for his impudence!

I leave you to take care of "More Anon" as to you may seem best and most appropriate, volunteering only the remark that you have to-day many good and true friends among the people of Negaunee, who regret that you are not still one of our citizens. But a charge not denied, is a charge confessed. If Mr. Healy, or his friends, can not or dare not deny the charges contained in my former communication, I take it for granted that very few people will say they were not founded in truth. A pretended friend of the poor man, he stands charged with having attempted to disqualify a large number of poor men from the right to hold office! A pretended enemy of monopolies, he stands charged with having, as a representative of the people, chartered, by special enactment, the greatest land monopoly on Lake Superior. To these charges he makes no denial. What, then, is the only fair inference? XX.
