WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

[To the Editor.] In your issue of August first I noticed a communication on the above subject. I do not write this as an answer to that article, but to agitate the subject a little more. The legislature of this state was silly enough last winter to pass an act giving the people the privilege of voting on the question of woman suffrage at our coming fall election. I do not believe there is any danger of the election going in favor of the woman's rights movement, unless those who are opposed to it, through carelessness, peglect to vote on the subject. To help prevent that is the only object I have in sending this communication. As an illustration of the popularity of the question in the past, I only have to say that the subject was agitated in Southey's time. He so ridculed the idea that it was given up. Pope, Rosseau, Addison, Montisquiec, Channing, and all the early writers, concur with a most formidable unanimity in representing the absurdity of the idea. In this country the first convention of women, in behalf of their alleged rights, was held in the state of Ohio, in the year 1850. In that convention, and in subsequent ones, which have excited so much public attention in this, and in other states, and, in which much that is feasible and expedient, has been blended with a vast deal of folly and extravagance, the right of voting has been distinctly claimed for women. I contend that the exercise of such a prerogat ive is unnecessary, and would be fearfully disastrous. If intelligent women possess such influence over men, as is generally conceded, they can secure their rights as they become developed and understood, by an appeal to their fathers, brothers, and husbands. If they have no such influence, but are under the influence of the other sex, as is often stoutly contended, then their votes would not secure them those rights, upon the assumption that they are inconsistent with or inimical to the rights of man. If the rights which they claim are entitled to the approbation of man, an appeal to him would secure them. If their rights would not receive his assent, then their enforcement by the votes of women would array the sexes in fearful collision, and in the end woman would be unsexed. If she be allowed to vote, hold office, set on juries, and the other privileges now peculiar to man, be conceded to her, then it would tollow that she should also bear with him the civil and political burdens of state. There is a practical as well as a fancy side of ten per cent. upon the amount of such "money" from head to foot, he said slowly, "well, you apto this question. If the old-fashioned system of issued by them since 1866, is, like many other proppear to carry a d-d small line of samples." Black training should be revived among us, I should ex- ositions emanating from the Treasury Department. pect to see her marching at the head of a militia a very foolish one. This so-called "money" is not company, armed and equipped as the law directs, money at all, nor does it claim to be. The notes are or (wielding some more favorable weapon of war- merely drafts upon the treasurers of the various and sisters in the church. He has got himself into fare) drafted into her country's service in times of companies, and have been used chiefly in some inwar in fact competing with man in all the walks stances exclusively—in the payment of wages. In ishioners—among them a Mrs. Harvey Jones. How of life. This much I would say to voters. Ask yourself the question before you cast your vote. Would I like to see my wife or daughter, my moth- debts due tradesmen and others, who were very er or sister, filling these positions ?-a natural con- glad to take them. For this the companies were not sequence of giving woman the ballot. I assert that responsible. If any one saw fit to take their drafts such political exercises are foreign to the sex and and give full value for them, it was a matter with true social position of woman. I would advocate for woman the highest and fullest system of education, in which her mind would be expanded and elevated to the greatest possible extent. I would advocate the endowment of female colleges where the highest branches of literature and science should be taught-where the female mind would be instructed in the ancient classics, in the science of government, in the principles of philosophy, and in every department of knowledge becoming a citizen of an enlightened republic, where every man is a sovereign, and woman his companion and counselor. I would have connected with these colleges, a gymnastic department, where the development and vigor of the body would keep pace with the development and vigor of the mind, and from whence the graduate would come forth adorned with that beauty of mind and person which is a natural result of a due attention to both. I will not admit shall have had an opportunity to personally inquire that thorough training of the body and mind is in- into the matter, it is probable they will never hear compatible with the exhibition of those graces which are the peculiar and distinctive charm of it is proposed to tax ten per cent, upon the amount woman, or that it would be in conflict with her appropriate sphere in her domestic, social, or civil state. I will not admit that the perfection of physical and mental health is not in harmony with the perfection of woman. I would as soon object to the opening bud bursting forth into the beauty and they have done so to a very considerable extent glory of the flower-to the sun breaking o'er the eastern hills, and in its ascent to the meridian showering upon surrounding nature its reviving heat and light. The education of woman would do more than anything else to arrest the supposed degeneracv of the human race. It is here that reform should commence. Education effects the most magical transformations. A persistant physical training of woman would redeem the artificial delicacy of her constitution, and a sound mind in a sound body would establish a new race of beings. IRON CITY, Aug. 7, 1874. SPIRITUALISM-THE OLD MAN'S STORY .- A Visit to the Spirit Land .- I lived in New Jersey when I was 22 years of age, as nearly as I can recollect. It was in November, 1842. After a long run of sickness from fever, my spirit was disembodied and was turned and reanimated the body. You see me now -and after a lapse of thirty-two years-still in the flesh, and with my health and senses in full use and vigor; and with the vivid recollections of the scenes that I witnessed that time still fresh in my mind, I am powerless to find language in which to convey to your mind a description of how the spirit departed from the body, its transit to the spirit world, and of what I witnessed while there. Now, being a believer, we will suppose an imaginary or dividing line. On one side of this line is this world, and on the other side the spirit world. As the separation of the spirit from the body may be the divid. ing line, I found that after my spirit had passed from this world upon this occasion, the spirits of departed friends came to welcome me and assist me Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. 515 yr death, or trance, whatever you may call it. I saw Church?

myl relatives weeping, saw them hold a looking glass to my mouth to see if they could discern any sign of life, and finally I saw them lay out the body; I with an impression all the time that I would return and reanimate the body after what had already transpired.

I would tell you some things I saw, but if I should live a thousand years I could not tell you all I saw in that thirty-six hours. What was most wonderful to me was that I could see to any distance therethat I could send my thoughts to where I saw a world of spirits, all busy, all happy; no sorrow, no trouble, all peace. Some of them seemed to have missions to and from this world, and in moving would make a peculiar rushing noise-others were in small parties conversing. I saw my father working with an old sea captain and friend that he had always been very intimate with. My father had been dead fourteen years and his friend about eight. I saw nine little girls, a class in a Sunday school, that were drowned on a sailing excursion; they were all together, singing their Sabbath songs. I saw saints and sinners walking together, all in harmony and love, (what I mean by saints and sinners is what I recognized them to be when living in this world. I saw all nationalities, and what they were doing-could see the people in France gathering grapes, see them catching seal on the Coast of Labrador. I saw horses running away in Montreal, Frenchmen playing euchre there for ten cents a corner—a storm passing over Lake Erie, with steamers and ships in distress (the mystic letters G. R. J. A, being emblazoned on their banners), some of them being wrecked on shore and their crews and passengers drowning-and a part of the city of Buffalo nearly submerged, also the steeples of some of and there are none to make them afraid. the churches blown down and other damage done, I also saw people of all nationalities and kindreds coming over the dividing line finding this to be the spirit world, and every living person has one or more spirits of their departed friends hovering around them and doing all they can for their welfare.

I will say no more at present, but to any questions you may hereafter want to ask I shall be very happy to make answer. GHONES.

THE "IRON MONEY" SCARE.

The proposition of the Comptroller of the Currency to bring suit against the iron companies of stead of cashing their drafts at the companies' which they had no need to concern themselves. None which were presented to them for payment were ever reissued, any more than they would reissue ordinary sight drafts or promissory notes. We question the expediency of issuing such drafts for any purpose other than those for which drafts are commonly employed by business men, and we have no doubt the "iron money" will soon be withdrawn from circulation. Such a system is liable to grave abuse, under the most favorable circumstances, and as there is no limit to such issues, the companies however, and find in it no warrant for any such order as that lately issued from the Treasury Department, and as further proceedings against the companies has been suspended until the Comptroller of the tax again. The local banks, however, whom of such drafts paid out by them as money since 1866, will find themselves in a very awkward position should the Treasury Department push its claims against them. It is very clear that they never had any right to pay out "iron money" at all, though during the past eight years. That the government will press its claim against the banks is scarcely probable, but it is very certain that no more "iron money" will be passed over their counters as currency. It is, we believe, admitted by those best acquainted with the subject, that there exists no necessity for a circulating medium of this character at the present time, and for many reasons it is better that it should be withdrawn and greenbacks substituted for it; but it is very evident that the government has no more right to tax the companies upon such evidences of indebtedness than it has to tax the iron companies of other districts ten per cent, upon store orders given the workmen, which are redeemable in merchandise, or business men in general upon sight drafts, notes of hand, war hon-e receipts, &c., which change hands before they come back to the sources from which they originally emin the spirit land about thirty-six hours-as I be- enated. We understand that the iron companies of confident that the government has no legal claim upon them .- Iron Age.

QUERY ?- Congress having passed a bill for the punishment and suppression of polygamy in Utah, why should it not, at its next session, give some atover the line. We hovered around the scene of my tention to the practice of "nest-hiding" in Plymouth post-paid, by sending $2.50 to the publishers, MICHIGANISMS.

-John J. Drake, of Cambridge, Adrian county, is no "lame duck," in one sense, at all events. He was recently arrested and held on two charges of Beechering one Elizabeth C. Daniels, and attempting at the same time, the same sort of playfulness with her little sister. Now he is very penitent and even wishes he were dead.

-Geo. H. Richardson, for the past four or five years city editor of the Saginaw Courier, committed suicide in the office of that paper on the 7th, by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. If any person can be justified in thus ending the trials and troubles of life, the poor local of a country daily must be that man.

-Ben. Huston, jr., of Tuscola county, perfectly 'irregardless" of his reputation as an honest man and good citizen, aspires to be the congressional successor of Mr. Conger. The republican party has accomplished a good many ridleulous things in the past ten years, but it only remains for it to elect B. W. Huston to congress, in order to gain for itself the gratitude of generations yet unborn!

-The crusade against the saloons in Port Huron has come to grief. It appears the city council had passed an ordinance licensing saloons, similar to that in force at Negaunee. At a late meeting of the council, Hon. H. M. Look, city attorney, and one of the ablest lawyers in the state, submitted an and void. The next day a nolle prosequi was entered in two cases that had been commenced for the collection of the license, and now the people of that city lie peacefully down in their native sawdust,

-A member of the Saginaw county bar was recently in one of our thriving interior towns on professional business. In the office of the hotel he was accosted by a very agreeable gentleman, evidently of the genus drummer, who wanted to know "where he was from." The legal gentleman not exactly relishing the stranger's familiarity, answered shortly, "from Detroit." The next question was. "for what house are you traveling?" "For my own," "You are! May I ask your name?" "You may." Pause-enjoyable to the lawyer, embarassing to the other. "Well, (desperately) what is your name?" "Jones." "What line are you in?" "1 don't understand you, sir." "What are you sell-Lake Superior and elsewhere, which have issued ing?" (impatiently) "Brains." (cooly) The drumwhat is known as "iron currency," to recover a tax mer saw his opportunity, and looking at the other stone says he owes that drummer one.

-Rev. Mr. Brothers, of Hastings, doesn't possess a very brotherly feeling towards his brothers the courts on a charge of licking some of his parcan the gentlemen of the cloth satisfy worldly peooffices, the men have used them in the payment of ple, when in one end of the country they are blamed for being altogether too tender and loving, and in another end arrested for being too harsh

> -The Detroit Free Press has entered upon its fortieth volume. It is now, as it always has been, the best newspaper in the state.

> -Fowlerville has a four-column quarto newspaper, printed on a Novelty press one page at a time. W. H. Hess is the editor and proprietor, and he rejoices in a circulation of 17 copies, including exchanges.

-The fruit crop of lower Michigan, especially peaches, was never better than the present year. -One Cutchell, representing himself to be a member of Plymouth church, made an indecent assault might put out millions if they could get any one to upon a little eight year old girl, down at Adrian, the take them, and carry on operations far beyond their other day. Owing to the fact that he is, or was, a actual capital. We have carefully examined the law, respectable citizen whose usefulness ought not to be impaired, he was given three months in the house of correction, instead of a life time of peni tence in the penitent lary.

-A deaf and dumb preacher is one of the curiosities down at Lexington. He should be secured at once and forwarded to Plymouth church to succeed Beecher. One that can minister to the wants of his flock and not talk too much, would just suit that congregation.

-They have ripe grapes at Niles and other towns in lower Michigan; and plenty of sour ones up at Negaunee and Ishpeming.

-There is but one more improvement necessary to make the Keweenaw Herald a very respectable paper-and that is to have eight, instead of six pages, edited and printed in Chicago or Milwaukee.

-A man named Jack Spade recently "dug out" of Jackson and proceeded to delve in Battle Creek, A jack of clubs from Jackson fished him out of the creek with the sanguinary title, and took him back to that city on a charge of larceny. He will doubtless be afforded an opportunity to dig himself out of

-Kate Nolan was engaged in the lucrative business of selling whisky, beer and sich to the thirsty denizens of Cassopolis, in order to provide for the ease and comfort of a loving husband. The wicked crusaders came along and somewhat varied the substance of the couplet about "man's inhumanity to man," by causing the faithful Katy to mourn in jail. Now her husband has sued the sheriff for the loss of the society and services of his wife, which he values at $100. > -The Detroit Evening News is the smallest daily paper in the State, but it blows a very big hore of its own. The tune is becoming somewhat monotonous, and we venture to suggest that a slight variation would be acceptable. It should not persist in trying to prove that there are more fools than wise men in the city of the straits.

> WE have received from James Leffel & Co., Spingfield, Ohio, a copy of their valuable new publication entitled, "The Construction of Mill Dams," It is a book of 336 pages, handsomely printed and profusely illustrated-being the only work of the kind ever published. A WESTERN paper speaks of Sergeant Bates as the "flag-toting fiend," and proposes to "cut him dead" if he ever comes around there. All right; if you don't want to fish, why cut Bates. A WICKED little boy in a Denver Sunday school was asked by his teacher if he had learned anything during the past week. "Oh, yes," said he. "What is it you have learned?" "Never to lead a deuce when you've got an ace back of it," was the reply.

TRICKS OF WASHOE UNDERTAKERS.

From the Virginia City Enterprise. A nightfor two since, while on his beat through B street, officer Shirts found an inebriated individual reposing on a bench in front of Wilson & Brown's undertaking establishment. The officer shook the fellow until he awoke him from his drunken slumber, then explained to him that he would be obliged to escort him to the station house unless he hunted other quarters. The man told the officer that he was a stranger in town, that he had but four bits and the night being warm he had concluded it would be good economy to sleep out of doors and save his four bits to buy his breakfast in the morning. Not being a hard-hearted man, the officer told the fellow that he might finish his snooze, provided he would get up and move out of sight before the people were astir on the streets. Passing that way again in the course of an hour or two, Mr. Shirts found that his snoozer had rolled off the bench and was lying in the empty case of a coffin which was sitting at the edge of the sidewalk. Rousing his man again, the officer told him he "must get out of

"Out of what?" grumbled the fellow. "Out of that coffin," said Shirts-though it was but one of those large coffiin shaped cases in which coffins are shipped.
"Who's in a coffin," said the fellow, rubbing his eyes.

"Why, you are," said Shirts.
"If I am I don't know it."

"Well, I know it, and if you don't get out of that it will be the end of you. Don't you know that if the undertakers get up in the morning and find you snoozing in here they'll clap a lid on the coffin, nail you up and bury you, and then send in a bill and make the county pay your funeral expenses?"

Crawling out of his narrow quarters, the fellow stood and gazed upon the coffin case for a time, then said : "What sort of d-d undertakers have you got up here in this country, that go and set coffins long-side the sidewalks to ketch men?" and without waiting for an answer he shuffled away to find safer quarters.

A GERMAN IDEA OF THE FUTURE AMERICAN HO-The following is the translation of an article in a Berlin paper which will convey an idea of the German estimates of the coming American hotel. The latest American progress in building will be the "mammoth hotel" soon to be erected in Chicago. The enormous hotel is to have a frontage of three English miles long and a depth of six miles; the height of seventy-seven stories will measure 3,480 feet from the glound floor to the roof. The hotel will have no stairs, but five hundred balloons will always be ready to take visitors up to their rooms. No room waiters are to be employed, but visitors will be served by a newly patented auto-matic, put up in every bedroom, who will do all shaving, shampooing, etc., to the guests by a very simple and ingenious mechanism. Suppose the guest requires hot water, the automatic will be able to call down stairs, "a bucket of water to room No. 1,002,107," and the water will be up in seven seconds by a patented elevator. Half an hour before table d'hote, instead of ringing the belis, a gun (twenty-four pounder) will be fired on each floor to call the guests to get ready for their meals. The tables in the dining-rooms will be measured four miles each, attendance to be performed by twelve waiters on horseback on either side of the table. Music during table d'hote will be played—gratis—by eight bands of seven y sown men each. For the eight bands of seventy seven men each. For the convenience of visitors a railway will be built on each floor, as well as telegraphic offices. The price of one bed-room will be from one dollar to ten dollars. The cost of this building is estimated to be $80,000,000. The billiard-room will contain nine hundred American, ninety-nine French and one English table, and, as most of the visitors are expected to be Americans, the billiard room will be fitted out with a spittoon of one hundred feet in

GRAND PACIFIC HOTEL

Opposite the Government Square and the new Feds-ral buildings, is without doubt the most perfect hotel structure in the world, and the largest edifice representing private enterprise in the U. ited States. Its four fronts, on Jackson, LaSalle, Quincy and Clark streets, have an extent of ten hundred and twenty-two (1022) feet. It was opened to the public on the 2d day of June, 1873, and has proved to its multitude of patrons, representing the best elements of the traveling community, the well chosen and unsurpassed character of all its appointments and arrangements, (of which special mention may be made of the Baths, Turkish, Electric and Vapor,) secured with a lavishness of outlay, aided by experience and careful study, never before given to an enterprise of its class. The magnificence of the exterior, its great interior rotundas, superb public apartments, and unequalled suites of private rooms on its mile of corridors, the system and detail of its management have not only won the pride and admiration of our citizens and guests, but furnishes the key to the success of the GRAND PACIFIC, which from the outset has never been equalled by any previous or cotemporary enterprise. Central to all the great railway depots, the banks, wholesale stores, and places of elegant shopping, and amusements, it is at all seasons, by its lightness, spaciousness, and perfection of ventilation, the most comfortable as well as elegant home for the resident most comfortable as well as elegant nome for the resident guest and tourist ever offered. And it will be maintained as it has begun, the most complete and perfect hotel in the world—a claim for it sustained by the guests of the past eleven months, many of them our patrons since the opening of the former Sherman House, July 8, 1861.

A HMEEK LODGE No. 150-I. O. O. F.-F. Black-well, N. G.; F. W. Richards, Secretary. Meetings held on Friday evenings.

ISHPEMING LODGE, U. D., F. & A. M.-Regular communications Thursday on or before the full D. F. Wadsworth, Sec'y. P. T. TRACY, W. M. ISHPEMING MECHANICS' AND LABORERS' BEN-EFICIAL SOCIETY —Regular meetings first Satur-day of each month, at 7:30 P.M., in the upper room of the M. E church. All nat-onalities invited to join.

THOS. HARPER, Pres.

Ishpeming is the boss town on new business buildings this season.

Next Thursday is the day for tax-payers to vote on the steam fire engine question.

CHARLEY KIRKWOOD says he will show the folks a drug store as is a drug store, when the new building is completed.

JUSTICE WENDELL now has offices in McKev's new building, where he will dispense law and justice with an even hand, and his eyes shut.

And now another lawyer has hung out his shingle, being the fourth or fifth one with which the city is blessed. Look out for more rows among neighbors. A PARTY of gentlemen, including the officers of

made a tour of inspection through the Cleveland PARKS & HAYDEN have removed their law office to McKey's new building, occupying the rooms in the second story, on the corner of Main and Pearl

the steamer Michigan, were up here Monday, and streets. They have neat offices. A Considerable number of working men are leaving this country every week, many foreigners returning to the old country, and not a few leave remembrances behind them, in the shape of un-

THE resignation of Aldermen Anderson, handed in some time since, was accepted at the last meeting of the Council, and a special election, to fill the vacancy, ordered to be held on Thursday next, the 20th inst.

Our chief of police gives notice that "any person found bathing in daylight in Loon Lake or Lake Angeline, will be punished to the full extent of the law." The question now arises, where is S. R. going to find a place to wash his feet!

THERE was a ball and raffle for a hore the other night, and after the drawing the animal was taken to the pound, for a joke on the holder of the winticket, and now there's a row as to who shall pay the the incumulated costs to set the animal at liberty.

PROMOTED.—Our fellow-citizen J. Ropes, Esq. has had greatness thrust upon him by the county board, having been appointed to the important and highly lucrative position of poor master. He will deal out pork and potatoes to the boys this winter.

THE supervisors from this city manage to attend about half the meetings of the board, which is a kind of half-way style of doing their duty. Suppose, for instance, the court house question should come up when our second ward supervisor was absent? We shudder to think of the consequences!

WE doubt if a larger or better display of furniture can be found in the county, than that of Messrs. H. Kretchmar & Co., in this city. The stock embraces a full line of both fancy and plain goods, and a complete outfit for a house, from parlor to kitchen, can be found here in various styles. The firm also do a general undertaking business.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT .- On Thursday Frank Newitt, a young man of about 20 years, son of the proprietor of the Commercial hotel, a cartridge of dymanite with which he was fooling, and in trying to pick the powder out with a pin, the cartridge exploded tearing his hand badly, and injuring one eye, it is feared beyond recovery.

AND now the boys are practicing on a new trick, They place a flat ring on a bottle, and a dice on the ring, and then try to knock the ring out and make the dice fall into the bottle. One enthusiast takes a bottle to his room, and practices all night; he is getting thin for want of sleep. The secret is said to be known to only three men and a boy in the world, and the men are hunting for the boy with a big knife.

ANOTHER NEW BUILDING .- Mr. C. H. Wingate, having purchased the half interest of his partner in the lot corner of Main and Division streets, has commenced the erection of a fine two-story building thereon. It will be $7x22 feet in size, and vencered with Milwaukee brick. The piles for the foundation, 400 in number, are now being driven, and the building will be ready for occupancy by fall. Mr. Wingate will put in a stock of merchandise and carry on business at the old stand.

THE TOURNAMENT.—The preliminar; arrange ments for the grand base ball tournament are being made, and the prospects now look very favorable for a successful affair. It is the desire of the gentlemen having the matter in charge to raise an amount sufficient to enable them to invite all the clubs of the Upper Peninsula to take part in the exercises. Failing in this, the contest will probaably be confined to clubs in this county, of which, by the way, there are a goodly number. We hope by next week to be able to announce the full pro-

THE SUNDAY ORDINANCE.-This ordinance went into effect on Sunday !ast, and, we are glad to say, was very generally respected. In fact, but one saloon keeper, Mr. Sanson, thought best to openly disregard the law. He proposes to try issues with the city regarding his right to keep his saloon open on the Sabbath day, though on what he bases his claim is hard to determine. The following is a copy of the ordinance referred to: "No place of business, resort or amusement shall be kept open for any purpose on Sunday. Pro-vided, that barber shops may be kept open until 11 o'clock in the forenoon; drug stores may be kept open all day for the purpose of selling drugs, medicines, books and papers, and for no other purpose. Livery stables may be kept open all day. This or-dinance shall not be construed as applying to railroads, machine shops, nor to works of necessity at

Exciting Contest .- On Thursday morning a number of our citizens were afforded a sight at one of the most extraordinary and exciting games of base ball ever played in the county, and which throws all former contests in the upper peninsula into insignificance. The players were gentlemen who in former years achieved national notoriety in handling the ball and bat, but who have latterly took no active part in games, other than to bet on the results of various contests. We regret that we eannot give a detailed account of each inning, but busy keeping out of the way of the ball to take notes. But four innings were played when the whistles blew for noon, and each man struck out

Betting among the spectators was very lively. The P. O. D. bet the cigars on the losing side, and then refused to pay them. An indignation meetwas held, and a petition for his removal is being circulated. The members of the One Side are down on the harness shop for spoiling their score by making a ran. He was sentenced to treat the crowd. The same nines are engaged to play in the coming tournament, and will then travel, giving exhibition games.

-The force at the Washington mine has been increased to some extent since the strike, though there is sufficient ground open in which to employ double the number now at work. The mine throughout never looked better than at present; this is especially true of the westend opening, in which there is a marked improvement both in quantity and quality of ore.

-A most important discovery has been made on the forty acre tract between the Champion and Keystone mines. Near the line of the latter a body of very fine magnetic ore has been uncovered at several points, showing a well des fined vein, similar to that at the Champion, and making almost absolutely certain the presence of a very large body of ore. The property was lately purchased from the Champion Company by E. Breitung, Esq., who is the present owner.

-- A committee appointed by the Scranton Silver Mining Company to examine the property and consider and report upon the best mode of working the mine and extracting the silver from the rock, have been to Ontonagon and have returned home. They profess great satisfac'ion with the condition and prospects of the mine, and have entered into an agreement with the Ontonagon Silver Company for the erection of a mill on joint account. If this arrangement is carried out we shall soon know if the vein can be worked at a profit, and in view of the prospect of our soon having a practical test of the ores, we forbear publishing the opinion of a number of experts to the effect that, while the vein is undoubtedly rich in silver, it will cost more to extract the precious metal than it will be worth when coined into dollars and cents. We advise all to wait and watch for future developments. -At the Michigamme mine operations are confined to that portion of the vein already opened, which, from its length, furnishes sufficient basis for as vigorous work as is desired. The force employed at present numbers about 150 men, who are getting out nearly 300 tons a day. A look through the company's property reveals, even to the uninitiated, a perfection of system and economy in the workings which can but commend itself. After the ore is loaded at the pits into carts it is taken to docks alongside the track, whence, when cars are provided, it can be dumped immediately into them. At the worst, the ore is dumped on the dock from where the work of placing it in cars is small. All the mining is done under contract this season, jobs being let to crews of from five to twelve men. The rate allowed gives the men a chance, by good steady work, to earn wages largely in advance of the ordinary day rate. The miners are contented with their posi tions-a fact evidenced during the la'e strike when they said it would require more men than they numbered to "influence" them to stop work. All the shops and buildings of the company are substantially built structures, and the various industries necessary to the working of the mine are close at hand. A commendable feature provided by the company for its men is a large "change house," where the miners assume their working clothes in going into the mine, and doff them on returning from work The house has a large stove, from which an extra-size pipe runs the length of the building, furnishing plenty of heat in winter for drying of clothing. At the office the arrangements for the transaction of business with the least trouble are complete. By a system of reports transmitted to head quarters each week, the eastern officers can see at a glance the state of the work and progress made, just as well as though on the spot. These reports show the amount of ore shipped from L'Anse during the week, the amount on hand there and at the mine, the weekly product, and the expenses for the week. The yield is now about 1,600 tons per week, but this will be raised shortly to the neighborhood of 2,200, with the present force. The large and completely equipped saw-mill of the company has been idle most of the season. It will soon be started up for the purpose of supplying the wants of the company for lumber, but is not likely to find other busi-present is confined to the pits already opened, and this plan will probably be pursued during the shipping season. During the coming winter sharts will be sunk and drifts driven for the purpose of getting out the intervening ore between pits without removing the surface. The late discovery near the west line of the Keystone gives assurance of a continuous vein the whole length of the tract, as the present workings are on the east end of the "forty."

The amount of mill cinder used with the ore, if any, is not stated; but it seems almost incredible that a furnace of that size could be made to yield so largely, running upon the richest ores exclusively. It would be interesting to know the kind of ore and its yield.

PENOKA IRON.

Much has been said and written about the existence of iron in the Penoka range of hills, or mountains, but until recently very little was known of its quality or extent. This mountainous range is situated in Ashland county. Wisconsin, and is reached, by about the only feasible railroad route, in a distance of thirty miles, a little east of south of Ashland, on Chegwamigon Bay, at a point known as Penoka Gap. It has always been and is still our belief that the Marquette iron range, which has now been developed over a distance of thirty miles west of the point where the original discovery was made, will ultimately be found to extend through Ontonagon county into Wisconsinbeing, perhaps, continuous with that of the Penoka range, with, possibly, occasional breaks or interruptions. This belief is strengthened by the fact that each year developments progress in that direction, and by the further fact that iron has been found and is known to exist far beyond the present western limit of development. It is true there may be found a great difference in the quality of the ore, as indeed there is in this district, but that the great ore belt of the Upper Peninsula is circumscribed by town, county or state lines, we do not believe. We shall not live to see it, but the time will come when the entire stretch of country between Marquette and the head of the lake will be marked with iron mines as continuously as is that part of it lying in this county and already developed. The Penoka mountain range has an elevation of 1,100 feet above Lake Superior, about the same as the iron hills of Marquette. Iron was first discovered in the Penoka hills by Col. Charles Whittlesey, while engaged in a geological survey, of which Dr. Owen was the chief, in 1860. Col. W. has ever since been a firm believer in the great extent and value of the Penoka iron deposits, and has evinced his belief by large investments in lands in that section. It was not, however, until the commencement of work on the Ashland end of the Wisconsin Central made certain the construction of a line of railway to the range, that any effort was made for its development. Several companies were formed, and as many attempts at exploration, made, but as yet there has been nothing approximating a well-devised, systematic examination of the deposits. The La Pointe Iron Company has done the only work so far, and their explorations consist simply in the sinking of a few test pits through the drift, and a single shaft, 12x14, which has been sunk to a depth of 45 feet through mixed ore. Our visit was necessarily a brief one, and afforded us an opportunity to make only a hasty examination of the workings. Work had been abandoned a short time previously, and the shaft disasters, conflagrations-what else remains to be was filled with water, so that we had no inflicted upon a free but unhappy people? chance to examine the vein. We found, however, on the bank about 250 tons of mixed ore, badly assorted, and out of which perhaps from twenty five to fifty tons of good first-class ore might be selected. Some of this ore is of a very fine quality, though altogether unlike anything we have ever seen in the Marquette district. It is highly magnetic, with opposite poles, and the better specimens appear to us fully as rich as magnetic ores generally. None of the red oxyde has been discovered in that vicinity, though we have recently been shown specimens of lean red specular found by Capt. Moore on the Montreal River, a considerable distance east. At the point where the shaft has been put down, the vein is about 30 feet in width, and has been traced by the needle over 1,000 feet in length. In the absence of a personal examination of the vein inside the shaft, it is, of course, impossible to form any opinion as to its character, except from the appearance and stratification of the ore taken from it. The ore, while unlike the magnetics of this district, is not crystalline, like that of Lake Champlain, but is slaty, and apparently lies in thin plates of from one to three inches in thickness. As Col. Whittlesev remarks, "It is not massive, like that of out of the county." stratum, between strata of quartz rock, generly thick-bedded and compact." The vein dips sachusetts, seven places in Connecticut, two places to the north, and apparently lies in alternate in New Jersey, and all over New York. Notwithlayers, or strata, of ore and quartz. The ore outcrops in many places, and though no work-explorations-no more. These explorations, in bluff, not far from its face, at a height of not ground explored, unless cross cuts were made would have been to run a drift under the bluff, and by cross-cutting the entire formation, ascertain to a certainty what it contained. It very soon determine the question of the existence of ore in paying quantities to their own and the satisfaction of the public. We strongly urge them not to throw away any more money in sinking shafts from the summit of a mountain, which, if it is found to contain a valuable deposit of ore, can only be worked economically by cutting down or making a

The Penoka mountain range is about twenty-five miles long, the course of which is from northeast to southwest. Other discoveries have been made on the range-one about five miles east of the gap, where there is an outcrop indicating a vein sixty feet in width. The whole of it is heavily timbered, and its general features are not unlike those of the iron range in this county. Ore from the shaft referred to gives by analysis 58 to 60 per cent., and 100 pounds reduced in a small reverbatory at Milwankee, yielded 621 per cent. of metal. It is noticeable that the analyses were made of ores taken from near the surface, while it is claimed, and with apparent truth, that the quality of the ore improved very rapidly as greater depth was attained. Some of the ore on the bank would certainly show a betteryield by analysis.

Our observation warrants the belief, at least, that there will ultimately be developed large deposits of rich ore in the Penoka range. It may be years hence, or, if the companies go to work in the right way, the question may be determined in a few months. That the outcrops are lean proves nothing against it; that is one of the peculiarities observable at all our mines, with one or two exceptions. At the Cleveland there are immense outcrops of lean ore, none of which are rich enough to work, but close by are found the beds or veins from which hundreds of thousands of tons have been mined. Who is prepared to say that the same phenomenon (if such it can be called) may not be found in the Penoka range-that misled by the lean outcrops, the explorers may not have been delving all around the richer deposits, which in most cases are concealed by drift, if not capped with rock! At all events, the owners of iron properties at Penoka have no reason to be discouraged; on the other hand they have much, very much, to encourage further and more extensive explorations.

HON. JAY A. HUBBELL has kindly favored us with a number of public documents, among them a copy of Prof. Raymond's report upon the "Mineral Resources West of the Rocky Mountains." THE gushing Susan B. has at last got herself

HON. GEO. F. HOAR authorizes the Boston papers to announce that he has not been, and will not be, a candidate for governor of Massachusetts. Perhaps the people of the old Bay State will feel as much relieved as they did when it was decided not to name a prominent Boston hotel in honor of the man who now declines gubernational honors. We have already too many men in office whose characters and reputations are synonymous with the name of this distinguished Massachusetts statesman.

THE voice of the American people is again being heard in the renomination of both democratic and republican congressmen, who but a short time ago were so fiercely and universally assailed for grabbing the back pay! Well, didn't most of them, when they found the people wouldn't stand the steal, cover their stealings back into the treasury? And why shouldn't the dear people reward their honesty by giving them another chance to retrieve a lost opportunity?

The good sense in the country is not wholly em bodied in the educated classes. Down in Pennsylvania, the other day, a lumberman who had sold his timber, bought a new suit of clothes and took the balance of his money home, was persuaded by his wife to attend church the following Sabbath. At the close of the services a strong appeal was made to raise some missionary money, when the lumberman rose and said : "Here's fifty dollars for the old hoss behind the pulpit, but I'll not give a cent to be took

The superintendent says that obedience in all the schools, as a rule, has been prompt and cheerful. It could not well be otherwise where the children, through kindness, are made to understand that the teachers are their friends and not their tormentors. It is time that the whipping and degredation of little children should be abolished from all our schools, as it was long ago banished from the navy. To the Chicago Times belongs the credit of having effected this salutary reform in the management of the schools of that city. We cherish the hope that the next legislature of Michigan will pass a law for the protection of the rising generation from the brutality now too often practiced upon

It is gratifying to note the fact that work is being resumed, to some extent, upon the proposed new railways and extensions in this State. WE are in receipt of several communications in answer to those that have appeared in these columns in favor of woman suffrage. We do not print all of them because they are principally from old crusty bachelors, and the question is one that more immediately concerns the ladies. We have already said that we shall cheerfully concede the right of the ladies to soil their fair hands in the dirty pool of politics, if a majority of them desire it-though we sincerely hope and honestly believe they don't. Our columns are, therefore, open to them for the discussion of the question, without interference on the part of fussy old bachelors, who would doubtless be able to vote more intelligently if they had intelligent wives as confidental advisers. It's a woman's question, and we want the women to decide it in advance of the election

THE Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association truthfully remarks that "the West and South are the sections of country in which tariff men should expend their energies within the next few years." The great battle between protection and free trade must be fought in the West, and unless the friends of protection are on the alert the victory is sure to be against them. Thousands of dollars are frittered away by iron men upon eastern publications which make protection-their hobby, but which are without influence in the west and

We dissent, however, from the views expressed by brother Swink, in reference to the value of political publications as advocates of protection. Protection to American industry is not a party question, and should not be made a party issue. Its friends are to be found in the ranks of both the great political parties, and, in our opinion, the protectionist who strives to make that a distinct issue in any political platform is a dangerous friend, more to be feared than an open enemy. It is only the non-partizan press-those who discuss the question without party bias or prejudice-that are in a position to do valuable service in the cause of GREAT bodies move slowly; but those interested in the development of the mineral resources of Wisconsin will be pleased to learn that the State Geologist has at last effected an arrangement with Maj. Brooks for the examination of the supposed iron deposits on the Menominee. Of course, it would have been highly improper to appoint a practical geologist like Maj. B. to the position of State geologist, but we are pleased to know we are to have the benefit of his experience, even in part. The work entrusted to him will be well done, and we shal soon know if there are any workable deposits of iron ore on the Wisconsin side of the Menominee.

LECTURES.-The question of Woman Suffrage, which, though well canvassed in the Lower Peninsula, has not been agitated at all on Lake Superior. is about to be discussed. The movement is well organized below, and the association formed to encourage the adoption of the proposed amendment to the Constitution extending the right to vote to women, has turned its attention to Lake Superior. Mrs. Hazlett, who a few years ago at the Washington meeting surprised and delighted all the older advocates of Woman Suffrage by her eloquence and logical arguments, has come into the region under the auspices of the executive committee. She spoke in the copper district during this week, and was to have spoken at Coles' hall on Wednesday her to postpone her lecture until next Tuesday to speak at Ishpeming on Monday night next, and at Negaunee on Wednesday night, as well as at Escanaba on some other evening next week, Without committing ourself either for or against the proposed radical change in our organic law, our acquaintance with Mrs. Hazlett makes us wish that she may be heard. Her estimable qualities as a woman, and her rare powers as an orator, commend her to our people. She is a Michigan woman who has pursued a course independent of the eastern woman suffragists, because she believes in the movement; and she will give her reasons with an almost irresistible eloquence. Even those who disagree with her, cannot fail to reap a rich reward by attending her lectures, and, therefore, we hope a large audience will greet her wherever she may be advertised to speak. While her modest, womanly life Anthony, Stantor, or Woodhull, her fame as an eloquent advocate of woman suffrage is nevertheless national. Last Chance for an Easy Fortune.

A postponement of the Fifth Concert of the Public Idbrary of Kentucky has been so generally anticipated, and is so manifestly for the interest of all concerned, that it must meet the approval of all. The day is now absolutely fixed, and there will be no variation from the programme now announced. A sufficient number of tickets had been sold to have enabled us to have had a large drawing on the 31st July, but a short postponement was considered preferable to a partial drawing. Let it be borne in mind that

"That's me, sir." "Let me see your arm."
"It's all right, sir."
"A'l right, is it? In my humble opinion, it's abo it as wrong as wrong can be." 411 looked down at the bruised flesh and broken bones he had affirmed to be "all right," with a half contemptuous smile, and then resigning himself to the inevitable, laid quietly watching the white hands of the young doctor as he prepared splints, bandages, etc., and commenced the work of setting the bone, now rendered doubly difficult by the swelling of the bruised flesh.

The light of the setting sun stole into the room, luminating with a sudden glory the bare walls and comfortless surroundings, and throwing into strong relief the two figures which gave life to the picture. The doctor's frank, good humored face, slight easy figure, and an air of careless good breeding could not have been out of place under any circumstances: but the other seemed strangely in unison with, and yet in contradiction to, his surroundings. His muscular frame might have served as a model for strength and bouty—a Hercules in a prison dress! His hands, roughen 1 and hardened by toil, had been as slender and well-shaped as the doctor's own. His face, bronzed by exposure to all weatheas, was still high-bred and refined-aquiline features; clear, brave eyes; and above all, the closecropped hair of a convict. He had that air of reserve, totally distinct from rudeness, which only well-bred people possess, and which impresses even the most vulgar and obtuse. Though the sensitive mouth betrayed his delicate nervous organizations, nothing could be more sto-acal than the composure with which he bore the torture he was suffering.

"Why on earth, man, don't you say something, or cry out?" exclaimed the doctor, half impatiently "That's not my way, sir."

Noticing the gathering whiteness round his patient's lips, the doctor hastily poured something in a glass, and, bidding him arink it, went quickly on with his work. After a few minutes silence, he gianced up suddenly.

"What s that ?-pointing to a small blue figure on the brawny wrist. "That? O! my crest. I did it when I was a boy," said the man, indifferently. "Did I say that ?"-and a flush crept over his face. "I must have been dreaming; people do dream sometimes, don't they?" The doctor did not answer, but, looking keenly at him, as he turned away his head with a short em barrassed laugh.

"What is your name?" "I don't mean that; I mean you: name," persisted the doctor "Jim Brown." Dr. Harris laughed. "Jim Brown! Why don't you say, Bill Scroggins? One name would suit you about as well as the other."

411 frowned slightly. "Why should I tell you my "I'm sure I don't know," was the frank answer;

"unless because I want you to. The crest on your and is very like my own. I thought perhaps we "And if we were? You wouldn't own me." "Why not? I'm not a bad fellow in my way, neither do I think you are. Why shouldn't I own The man raised himself on his arm, and looked searchingly in the doctor's face.

"A convict?" he said, slowly. "Well, said the doctor, dryly, "I don't see much society except convicts, at present, and I can't say but what I like them as well as I do those who think themselves a good deal better. I've found out if isn't always the worst that are caught, by any means. I'm a 'radical,' you must know," he added, quaintly, "and very much disapproved of by disapproved of by the control of the co

411 looked out into the gathering darkness for some minutes, and then said, quietly: "Well, sir, if you care to hear a convict's story, sit down awhile. I've never told it to any one, and I don't know why I should tell it to you; but the mood's on me, and I might as well talk as think, may be; and then you've guessed my secret partly -at least you know I'm not Jim Brown"-and a smile flashed across his face. "How old do you think I am ?" he continued. Dr. Harris looked at the powerful frame of the man-at the strong, hard lines in his face.

"Between forty and fifty, I should say."
"Thirty six, yesterday. I was twenty-four the day I was sentenced; a pleasant way of celebrating one's birthday, wasn't it? There was a lot of stuff in the papers about my 'youth,' and my being so "hardened." Did they think I was going to beg for enercy ?- not I. I've been out here twelve years now, and I've escaped twice and been caught again; but I'il try it once, sometime."

"You ought not to tell me that," said the doctor, "Why not? They watch me all the time, anyway. Just give me some water will you? Thanks. Well, I ought to commence with my name, I suppose. It is Edward Tracy. I was the second son of a Northumberland squire, who had just money enough to keep up the place for my brother, and no more. A fine old place it was, and the only thoroughly happy days I can look back to was spent there. That was when I was a how home for the there. That was when I was a boy-home for the holidays, eager about cricket and foot ball, and to whom a gun and the range of the rabbit warren were perfect happiness. After awhile it was un-pleasant enough. My brother—a lazy, good-looking tellow, who knew how to ride and shoot, and only that—was the idol of my mother and sisters.

All deferred to him except little Mary, my pet, who used to follow me round like a kitten. Poor little girl! I wonder if she thinks of me now. Younger sons in a poor family have a hard time of it. I only wonder more don't go to the bad than do. Brought up as gentlemen they are then thrown on their own "That's true, as far as it goes; a gang of under the structure of the men told me you were help raise a heavy stone, and that you let the level in some way, and so got your arm crushed." "That's true, as far as it goes; a gang of under the structure of the men told me you were help raise a heavy stone, and that you let the level in some way, and so got your arm crushed." their own resources, to live by their wits, either in some beggarly profession, or as hangers-on where there any rich relations. They must put up with being snubbed and thrown over, whenever they come in the way—made use of and then east aside; at least, such was my experience. I was proud and passionate, and so felt the e things more than others, I dare say. I wanted to go into the army, but my father said he couldn't afford it-"I 'would always be getting into debt,' etc .- and so I was apprenticed to a London barrister-a great pompous man, whom I cordially detested before a month was out. He had a way of aggravating me whenever we came in contact that used to make me long for an excuse to pitch him down stairs. I believe in presenti-ments. I knew that man would injure me some I saw more trickery and under-hand dealing while in that office than i had ever seen in my life before. Mr. Pierson was a man of tact, not talent. He had gained several good cases, which made his reputation, and he had a way of making people believe that if black was not just white, it was certainly gray, which proved very useful to him.

"I was about twenty-two when I went into Kent for a few weeks, partly on business for Mr. Pierson, and partly to visit an uncle of mine. Am I tiring you, sir, with this long story?"

Not at all, Tracy ; go on. 411 started at the unfamiliar name, which the doctor slightly emphasized. His breath came quickly, and his voice was husky when he spoke a-

"Would you think, now, that a man could hear his own name so seldom, that when it was spoken as you spoke mine, it could make the past come back like the great wave, almost blotting out the present? I haven't heard my name for more than ten years," he went or, musingly. "I don't wonder it sounds strange to me. It was in the summer when I went to Kent; the time for 'falling in love,' as it is called, and, of course, I did it. I don't as it is called, and, of course, I did it. I don't knowed, and promisin' to give his watch and gun wonder at mysell, even now, when I remember all to his folks. But Gus wanted me to agree to send that has passed. We were thrown very much together. Lucy was an orphan, living with a rich maiden aunt, whose place adjoined my uncle's. I had always a fondness for playing the part of protector; and she was a clinging, dependent little thing, with long golden curls and a delicate pinkand-white daisy face. I had never cared for any girl, and from the first I loved her madly. It's the 'old, old story,' and I need'nt make a fool of myself again by telling it to you. Before I went back to town, we had exchanged rings, and she had promised to love me through eternity. A lengthy eternity is horse and took a drink to his memory.—Travels ty it proved! Our engagement was to remain a in Utah, by John Codman.

secret until I should become a great lawyer, and then I was to claim her. This was Lucy's idea. I wanted to speak to her aunt, but she begged not, giving a dozen different reasons for my silence. I believe, even then, she thought it best not to bind herself too closely; but, of course, I never suspected this, for, with all my faults, I had always been perfectly truthful. In the winter, Mr. Pierson told me that the business I had been attending to had now to be completed, and that he was going down himself. I was, of course, very anxious to go, but he did not give me the chance. Lucy met him at a couple of dinners, and, from what she said, I knew he had been very attentive to her. He was a good-looking man, about forty, and could make himself very agreeable when he chose to do so. I wrote to Lucy immediately, telling her what I thought of him. She replied, accusing me of being jealous, and saying she was sure I was prejudiced against Mr. Pierson, who had spoken very highly of me, and to whom I found she had confided the whole story of our engagement. 1 was very angry, and wrote rather harshly to her, I fancy, for I remember she told me I did not love her as I once did.' That was our first quarrel and was soon made up, and for a few weeks we corresponded as usual. Mr. Pierson returned to London, but went back again to Kent in a week or two. He said he was collecting evidence for an important case. "Soon I noticed that Lucy's letters grew shorter and shorter, and finally one came saying that 'she had been thinking over our foolish engagement and as there was no prospect of my being able to support her, she had come to the conclusion that for the sake of us both it had better be broken.' "I know every word of that cool, heartless letter

now. One remembers such things. Very soon after, I heard of her engagement to Mr. Pierson. I was a gentleman, and he was a snob; but he had money, and I had'nt."
"'What's a gentleman born? Is it shillin's an'

ence?" quoted the doctor, softly. "Only a quotation from the Yorkshire Farmer;

"Well, offcourse I was furious, but what good did that do me? I thought if I only had money, I would find some means of revenge; but money was just what I had'nt got. About that time, I met a man calling himself st. John. He was clever and well educated, and seemed to read all my wild, restless longings at a glance. He led me from bad to worse, till it ended in forgery; then he turned king's evidence, and I was locked up. I was always very strong, and finding one of the bars loose, I wrenched it out, and dropped from my window one dark night and escaped. On my way to the set, I met this man—St. John. I might have got off if I could have let him alone, but I could'nt. I stopped him; he taunted me with my disgrace; told me that Mr. Pierson had known of the plan to ruin me. 'The young lady throwing you over was a prime trump in our hand,' he added, with a leer. I warned him to be silent; but he, as if blind to his danger, exasperated me in every way possible. I grappled with him, and remembering a trick I had learned at school, soon threw him. My hands were on his throat. A half-minute more, and the earth would have been rid of one sordid wretch; but his cries had been heard by some men in a neighboring field, and I was overpowered. This man—a ruined game-ster, once a gentleman—had changed me from an honest, honor ble lad, to a felon, and then, disregarding 'the honor' which is said to exist even 'among thieves,' threw me over to save himself. I would be content to give five years of my life -nay. more, I would be content to add five years to my life-could it purchase that one half-minute of which I was robbed. "My family disowned me, and made no attempt even to procure counsel for me. All forsook me except little Mary, from whom I got a tear-stained letter inclosing a five-pound note, her quarterly allowance, and telling me she would never forget me. she said, 'for you are my own brother, always.

"There was a flaw in the evidence, which my counsel took advintage of, but Mr. Pierson worked against him privately, collecting evidence for the crown, and I was convicted. Heaven grant there may not be many poor wretches who leave old England with the feelings with which I left it. If I had had the opportunity, I would have put an end to my miserable existence. I was taken in a cab, strongly guarded, from the jail to the wharf. We passed one of the parks on our way. I had been in prison for some time, and the fresh green grass, the trees, the flowers, had never looked so beautiful as now, when I knew I was looking on them for the last time. I thought of the hedge-rows white with blossoms, in Northumberland; the larks singing overhead; Mary perhaps in our favorite nook in the orchard, weeping bitter tears as a last good-bye to 'her handsome Teddy,' as she fondly called me. No wonder my heart swelled when I thought of those who in the sight of God were guilty of my

"As we went down the dock, a child passed us bunch of cowslips. Just two years before, I had gathered them for Lucy in the green Kentish lanes! The child looked up wistfully, as I passed; presently she ran after us, and put her cowslips in my hand. That was the drop too much in the cup al ready; to save my life, I could not have kept the tears which rolled over my cheeks. I was handcuffed, but one of my guards thrust a handkerchief into my hand, with a few cheering words gruffly said. That touch of sympathy, and the child's gitt saved me from utter despair. That was the last I saw of England. My life here has been the same, day after day, except the few rights I spent in the bush, the two times I got off. They mostly let me alone now. I keep by mysel', and I've never told a word of this before. I had almost forgotten I was'nt 'Jim Brown,' until to-day. Did you hear how I hurt my arm ?" "One of the men told me you were helping to raise a heavy stone, and that you let the lever slip

"That's true, as far as it goes; a gang of us wer working on the road when a carriage passed. I looked up as I stepped out of the way, and who do you think I saw?—Lucy and her husband! She was looking just the same as ever, only prouder. I was so near I could have touched her dress. She looked calmly at me—I was only a convict, covered with the dust from her carriag: wheels. If she had recognized me, the color would have faded a little from her pink cheeks, I think. I wonder it she remembers the letter I wrote her, before I was transportorted ? I told her some home truths then. She knows who to blame for my wasted-werse than wasted-life.

'Twelve years did'nt seem much to me. I looked after the carriage like one stunned. The lever slipped from my hand-you saw my arm. I did'nt think of it, until I found I could'ut lift it. Mr. Pierson has got some high appointment here, some one said Of course his wife will be feted and flattered. I wonder how she would like to be reminded of that summer in Kent. How would she look if I should stop her carriage, and remind her of the time she swore to love me forever, or how often her bright head has rested on my shoulder. I can feel the thrill of her soil lips yet on my cheek. There, that's all. Do you believe in justice? I don't The cause of evil should be attacked; now, it is only the victim. That woman is more guisty to day than I. She drove me mad-and vet she rides ty in her carriage, respected and admired; while I, in my prison dress, can never be anything but what I am-411."-Overland Monthly.

A HEAVY "SELL."-"I know'd Gus well. We'd been partners in Californy. He was one of the best fellers I ever knowed, and we was always gettin' sells on one another. LAKE SUPERIOR IRON ORE. DENTAL NOTICE. To Lease for a Term of Years

The Washington Iron Co.'s MINES!

AT AND NEAR HUMBOLDT, MARQUETTE COUNTY, MICHIGAN.

This large and valuable property is now offered for leas from and after May 1st next. It is situated in sections 1, 2, 11 and 12, in township 47, range 29, Marquette county, comprising 1,000 acres of land, and extending two miles east and west upon the Iron Range. The property has been long and favorably known as containing large deposits of both Specular and Magnetic Ore of extreme purity, which has a high reputation among consumers. It is traversed through nearly its whole length by the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon Railroad, and is provided with sidings at several different points. It is well provided with hoisting, pumping, and drilling machinery, and with houses sufficient for the accommodation of 400 workmen with their families.

The location is also provided with an ample working equipment of mining tools and utensils of every kind, horses, sleighs, wagons and the like, which will be disposed of to the lessee at a fair valuation.

The openings and improvements already made are large and extensive, demonstrating the great extent of the deposits, and the be-t manner of working them in future. The indications of the magnetic or dip needle, which, when it falls to 90 degrees on this property, has invariably pointed to deposits of ore of standard shipping quality (67 per cent.), show very large bodies of ore which no attempt has yet been made to develop, and upon which mining can profitably be carried on for many years. No other equally well known valuable and extensive Iron property in the Lake Superior Region has ever been offered for lease, and he present will be found an extremely favorable opportunity for ore consumers, who wish to control their own

Every facility will be offered for examination of the property and its improvements by parties desiring to lease. AND now there's another row, and strange as it may seem, we are creditably informed that King William is not at the bottom of it! The contending parties are the school marms and the school board, nd this is the way of it: The county superintendnt was lately here examining the teachers, and gave certificates as to him seemed just. Some candidates failed altogether, and others received certificates for but six months. The board, or some members of it, thought there had not been a "square deal," and they held a meeting, at which they appointed a committee to visit the superintendent and request him to come and hold the examination over again. Whether or not ke will consent to this arrangement we are not informed, but those teachers who were successful say they do not propose to stand any foolery in the matter, and if another examination is held they will refuse to attend. They to teach without further trouble. The public is cities of waiting anxiously for King William to stick his finger in the pie.

That gentleman came, and the joker remarked, "I always expect to get the best of everything in this house, but the pepper is half peas." "That can't be so. We take especial pains to procure it, and half it ground in our own mill." "Well, it is so, and I can prove it." "If you can I should like to hear you. "Well, John, you just spell it." MINING, MECHANICAL AND SCIENTIFIC NOTES

[BRIGINAL AND SELECTED.] -The new rolling mill at Topeka, Kansas, employs 164 men. Unlike most iron mills, it has orders which it will

-The Pittsburgh Steel Casting Company have recently added to their extensive works a Siemens-Martin gas

-In the Mahoning (Ohio) valley, of the 27 blast furnaces only 11 are in blast. -The new rolling mili of Brown, Bonnell &Co. of

Youngstown, has gone into operation. -Up to a recent date, the Westinghouse brake has been under the exclusive control of the engineer; now it can be applied to the cutire train by any person in any car; while the train, in case of derailment, also applies the brake to itself, adding an immense impeding force to the obstacles which it otherwise encounters. -The smallest steam engine on record was made by a Scotchman, named Crawford. It is perfect in every part, and re small that it can be covered by a lady's thimble. It can be worked by steam, but he usually works it by atmospheric pressure, through a flexible tube, with rubber air receiver. The pet engine was made as an amuse ment, and to show what could be done. It is undoubtedly the smallest working machine ever made.

-MEXICAN MINES .- A Mazatlan correspondent says Of mining reports, we hear that the new gold diggings discovered near Chororas, in Chihuahua, give brilliant returns, nuggets of two pounds' weight having been found. An American company is now working the silver mines of El Parral, and other American companies are working different mines in the Sierra Madre. At Zacualyan the famous Alaeran mine is again in bonanza, but the same cannot be said of the Alaeran mine, in this State, worked by an American company, though offering good prospects. There is much American capital invested in Mexican mines, particularly on this coast, in Sinaloa, Sonora, and Lower California.

-THE mint in San Francisco coined from 1854 to 1867, in. clusive, $242,000,000, an amount equal to one-half the total coinage of the Philadelphia mint, from its establishment in 1793 to the same date. Since 1867 to the present time this mint has coined over $90,000,000 - making a total coinage of over $332,000,006. The charges at the mint for work done are fixed by the mint law, which enacts that for 'parting' gold and silver they "shall be equal to, but not exceeding the actual cost on the operation, including labor, wastage, use of machinery and material," etc. They are very moderate, and are as follows: On bullion, under 300 parts gold, 3 cents per ounce; 300 to 600 parts fine, 5 cents p-r ounce; 600 to 750 parts fine, 7 cents per ounce; 750 to 945 parts fine, 11 cents per ounce; 950 fine and upward, no charge. The new mint is nearly completed, and the machinery being placed in it. Active operations will be commenced in the new building within -The Cambria Iron Company now has both its old and new rail mills running double turn, and the steel works are also running. The Company experiences no difficulty in getting all the workmen it needs. All who go to work are required to renounce unionism. The miners' union has disbanded.

-The production of precious metals by the Pacific slope reached during the last quarter of a century $1,583,-644 934, of which California mines produced three fourths, nearly all of which latter was in gold. The a nount obtained is now increasing yearly, partly from the opening | Packing, Leather Belting, Oils, Leads of new mines, but chiefly from the introduction of improved methods of extracting the precious metals from the ores. The yield of the Pacific s'ope, last year, was $80,287,436, against $70,236,914 in 1872. The increase is mostly in silver, a much more useful metal than gold, except for coinage .- Boston Bulletin.

A Mississippi pilot saw the comet the other night, and immediately cried, "I've got 'em; snakes I've had before, but now the stars have tails on 'em: I'm

MATRIMONY AND PURGATORY .- A priest, the other day, who was examining a confirmation class in south Ireland, asked the question : "What is the sacrament of matrimony?"

A little girl at the head of the class answered, Tis a state of torment into which souls enter to prepare them for another and better world." 'Being," said the priest, "the answer for purga-

"Put her down." says the curate; "put her down to the fut of the class. "Lave her alone," said the priest, "for anything you or I know to the contrary, she may be perInsurance.
