CITY AND COUNTY.

JUDGE O'Keeffe is convalescing, and has resumed his official duties.

THE public schools began their fall term last Monday with a full attendance in all departments.

SHERIFF Anderson returned from the far west on Sunday. He says there's gold there.

Wно's the reason? No clubs, no flags, no excitement! Have our people forgotten that a president is to be elected this fall?

THE county poor house has but twenty-three inmates-the smallest number for some years. Marquette county, with a population of nearly 26,000, has reason to be proud of its small proportion of indigent persons.

S. N. BRONSON left for a two weeks visit to Cleveland last Saturday. His son Randall accompanied him as far as the Michigan Military Academy, at Orchard Lake, at which institution he will remain throughout the year.

The steamboats are discharging immense quantities of freight at this port now. The warehouse on the merchandise pier is filled to overflowing with provender, and it's not at all likely that we will have a famine in the iron district this year.

Two black bears were brought to the city last Monday by a Chocolay farmer, who killed them in the woods about ten miles east of the city. The carcasses found ready sale, and bear's oil will now grease the capillary adornment of the Marquette exquisite.

THE street commissioner paid off the city laborers last Tuesday. The amount paid was $2,000, and covered street improvements for the months of July and August. A dollar a day may be very poor pay for work on the boulevard, but the aggregate for two months amounts to quite a sum.

W. W. BITTELL has been appointed agent for the express and telegraph companies in this city to succeed Mr. D. F. Canfield, resigned. Mr. Bittell is not new at the business, having been the predecessor of Mr. Canfield, and his re-appointment will give universal satisfaction to our citizens, by whom he is held in high esteem.

THE job department of the MINING JOURNAL is now, more than ever, prepared to turn out work with despatch and in the neatest possible style. We have this week secured the services of Mr. C. N. A few weeks ago our city reporter wrote an item which touched a col ored barber at one of the hotels in that he was more blacksmith than tonsorial scientist. The following Monday he came into the counting room and inquired for the reporter, who happened to be out of town, and was thereupon shown up stairs into the den occupied by Cinders, of whom he again inquired as to the whereabouts of the offending reporter, and was again informed that he was out of town, and wouldn't be back till the next day. A Good Rule.-In buying machinery the safest rule is to buy only of parties whose responsibility is unquestioned. In the first place, such parties are always careful to have only such quality of goods as will carry out their guarantee, and not come back to them and cause a loss of money and a damage to their reputation. Next, it should be borne in mind that any guarantee is valueless, unless the party giving it is responsible not only to-day, but in the future. In this connection we call attention to the house of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., of Chicago, handling Fairbanks' Standard Scales, and the Eclipse Windmills. They give the strongest possible guarantees that their standard goods are the best made, and when such a well known house gives such liberal guarantees of superior quality, we take pleasure in recommending them.

MR. PARKER-DE-PARKER'S

Last night three of the hardy mari-ners of the Passaic, who are kept in town from lack of stamps most probably, were at Peter's, when to their un-bounded joy, Mr. Tom Parker-de-Parker most unexpectedly dropped in upon them. The three young gentlemen in the amateur aquatic line gave their comrade a most hearty welcome, and orders for fresh beers followed each other very rapidly.

Mr. P.-de-P. was sumptuously dressed as usual. A heavy gold chain flow-ed out of one vest-pocket, took a link in a buttonhole, then buried itself in another pocket, conveying the idea to the public that there was a watch at either end. And the public would have supposed this so had not, at one stage of the evening. Mr. P.-de-P., in his anxiety to know the time of night, made the embarrassing mistake of tugging at the wrong end of his golden cable, causing a huge brass key to fly from his pocket. The public eye should not be so easily deceived, for in spite of the liberal display of gold chains that the swell of our day wallows in, he is rarely equipped with even If the gold chain that Mr. P. de-P. sported suggested a great waste of ma-terial, on the other hand the white flannel sack he wore was decidedly short. I could scarcely pass for a long-skirted jacket. But in style it was the latest "cut." It is wonderful what delight your swells take in promenading abroad in coats that plain men, if doomed to wear, would prefer skulking along back lots.

"By-the-bye, Tommy," said one of his companions, "you haven't told us what brought you home so soon; the season ain't over yet—homesick for a sight of the boys, eh, Tommy? Or was it that you couldn't hold out any longer without your Ballantine's without your Ballantine's ""

"No, not homesick, Billy," replied the elegant youth, as he rolled up a cigarette. "And though the beer was beastly, I could have pulied through till October. No, no! neither of them things, Billy, that caused me to pack my reticule and turn my back upon jes' one of the gayest, niftiest rackets I ever had in my life at a watering place. If I must confess it, lads, it was the cuttin' off my supplies that did it, and nothin' else; but that would have done it, and don't you forget it."

"Oh, you ought to have seen how the gals went on; how they wept and wailed when the news was broke to end that I was goin' home. They stood on the piazza six deep, and handkerchiefs from both pockets they put to their eyes as the waiter came out with my they as the waiter came out with my eyes as the waiter came out with my trunk. That they might have a better view of my departing form, I stood on the top of my trunk, and bade them a lovin' good-bye. Says I, T'll have to adopt this style of sayin' good-bye. It wasn't the way I'd like to do it. If I'd had twenty-four hours' notice, or, bet-ter yet, the legal three days grace, that my time was up, I'd have gone around distributin' locks of hair to every one of you, even if I had to go back to Newark baldheaded. I thank you all for the kindness you have every one of you shown me. I never was at a notel where there was so many good ookin' young ladies, and where they all danced so gracefully. If I haven't selected one of you to wear in my heart for life it's because I was too bewildered by the good looks of all of you: When we was out sailin' an' a shower hove up whose overcoat an umbrella was readier at your service than mine? When at the picnic, who dealt out hig-

When at the picnic, who dealt out higger plates of ice cream or larger slices of pie to his partner than I? Ao' at the hops, did I ever upset lemonade on your silk dresses or carry away a lace flounce on my boot toe? Ah! it makes my heart rejoice to hear you shout in chorus, 'No!' I can go away satisfied that you won't go to the hotel register and write 'N. G.' after my name.'

"Then I turns to a little group of youths, an' I says to them: 'Farewell, brothers; there is only six of you left to look after these one hundred and fifty young ladies, but don't get weary. By comin' to the hops very early an' stayin' very late, and not goin' out to brace up very often, you may manage to give each one of these one hundred and fifty young ladies a 'ittle show on the floor. It may make you all round shouldered, but remember after the season is over you are ber after the season is over you are goin' home for a rest. By goin' on guard early in the morning you kin do a good deal of work before sundown. know that six into one hundred and fifty goes a good many times, but by a system, each one of these one hundred and fifty young ladies can have a beau for ten minutes at least during the day. It will keep you stirring lively from daybreak to midnight, but it must be done, otherwise them 14-year old boys that take their meals at the children's table will have to put on high collars and give you a lift, and the old gentlemen will be forced to exchange their walkin' sticks for croquet mallets. Don't let the dear creatures come down to necessities like these. I'll do my best to send you reinforcements'

"These one bundred and fifty gave me three cheers at that promise, and I finished my speech, It does tell, Billy, on a chap's pocket money to have to treat fourteen girls to ice cream and ginger ale every morning after bath. No wonder the governor shut down on my drawin' on him for another cent, my drawin' on him for another cent, and he orders me home by telegraph.

"But I tell you I struck it rich when I tumbled upon that summer resort of one hundred and fifty charming young ladies, and only seven young men to respond to the roll-call for beaux! Until I arrived them six cads were so overworked with dancin' and flirtin' that crowd of girls that they had resolved to go over the mountains and stay in camp for a week or two to resolved to go over the mountains and stay in camp for a week or two to recruit. Had they done it I believe that the girls would have discovered disguised foreign noblemen among the members of the band that played for dinner and the hops, and would have made a raid on the young farmers in the valley below the hotel. Luckily I arrived, and the poor fellows again took heart, and by giving only five minutes at a time, or, in case of an emergency, five more to any girl, we emergency, five more to any girl, we ran that hotel until my governor shut down and I had to tramp. See here, eighty-five letters this mornin', and every one of them from that very hotel. Now isn't such a thing a shame, and with all this revival in emigration, too? Now isn't such a thing a shame, and with all this revival in emigration, too?
One night at a hop I carried ninetyfive glasses of ice water for those girls to sip. When I promenaded on the piazza you'd have thought I was a Brigham Young or a Vassar college professor at recess. One day I says, 'Is there any young lady here who cares to walk with me to the post-office?' and honestly eighty-seven ran for their hats. What was one silk umbrella to that crowd in a shower? If we chaps had taken 'em out ridin,' you'd have thought it was a Freemason's funeral. One day it was propos

Well you see, the Republican fellow that is running against you has promised me a deputyship if I place brim under obligations, so I hope you won't object to my taking little liberthere; but no, his last stake went my you'd have thought it was a Freemason's funeral. One day it was propos ed to get up a fox hunt, but the girls shut down on it at once. They were afraid that an accident might happen to one of us chaps. They couldn't run any such risks, you see. The only drawback was that there was no time to get sweet on any one gal who had ten thousand a year in her own right. Takin' that view of it, it was a disastrous season to me. But I must stop chinin' now, for the old man's puttin' up the shutters. I'll be up to the boat house to-morrow. By-bye.—Sunday Call query: Woman sometimes complains that she is not permitted to enter our lodges and work with the craft in their labors. and learn all there is to learn in the in-stitution. We learn that before the G. A. O. T. U. had finished His work He was in some doubt about creating Eve. The creation of every living and creep-The creation of every fiving and creeping thing had been accomplished, and the G. A. O. T. U. had made Adam (who was the first Mason) and erected for him the finest lodge in the world, and called it Paradise No. 1. He then called all the beasts of the field and all the fowls of the air to pass before Adam for him to name them, which was a piece of work he had to do alone, so that no confusion might thereafter arise from Eve, who he knew might make trouble if she were allowed to participate and if he created her beforehand.

So, gold. So, delip me food, I wished him lu

Adam being very much fatigued with the labors of his task, fell asleep, and when he awoke he found Eve in the lodge with him.

Adam being senior warden, placed Eve as the pillar of beauty in the south, and they received their instruc-tions from the Grand Master in the east, which, when finished, she immediately called the craft from labor to refreshment. Instead of attending to the duties of her office as she ought, she left her station, violating her obligations, and let in an expelled Mason, who had no business there, and went round with him, leaving Adam to look after the jewels. The fellow had been expelled from the Grand Lodge, with several others, some time before; but bearing the footsteps of the Grand Master, he suddenly took his leave, teiling Eve to make aprons, as she and Adam were not in proper regalia. She went and told Adam, and when the Grand Master returned to the lodge he found that His gavel had been stolen. He called for the Senior and Junior wardens, who had neglected to guard the door, and found them absent. Afthe door, and found them absent. After searching for some time, He came to where they were hid, and demanded of Adam what he was doing there, instead of occupying his official position. Adam replied that he was waiting for Eve to call the craft from refreshment to labor again, and that the craft were not properly clothed, which they were making provision for. Turning to Eve, He asked her what she had to offer in excuse for her unofficial and unmasonic conduct. She replied that a fellow, passing himself off as a Grand Lecturer, had been giving her instructions, and she thought it would be no harm to learn them. The Grand Mas-ter then asked what had become of His gavel; she said she didn't know, unless the fellow had taken it away.

Finding that Eve was no longer trustworthy, and that she had caused Adam to neglect his duty, and let in one whom He had expelled, the Grand Master closed the lodge, and turning them out, set a faithful Tyler to guard the door with a flaming sword. Adam, repenting his folly, went to work like a man and a good Mason, in order to get reinstated again. Not so with Eve: she got angry about it, and commenced using Cain. Adam, on account of vis reformation, was permitted to es ablish lodges and work in the lower degrees, and while Eve was allowed to join him in the work of charity outside, she was never again to be admitted to assist in the regular work of the craft. Hence the reason why a wo-man cannot become a Mason.—Sunday

THE LAST DEAL .- "I never dealt

The words fell from the lips of a gentleman well known in Leadville; yet lew recognize in the elegant, easy going man who now commands the deep respect of his fellow citizens the deep respect of his fellow citizens the once cool-headed, imperturable gambler who in his day figured prominently along the Pacific coast, and was almost universally recognized as the shrewoest faro dealer in the west.

"As for the game's morality, that's neither here nor there. When dealt upon the square it is much like any other game. It is not to be thought that the law will hinder men a bit if they want to play, and often they are forever cured of playing when they find it doesn't pay. I've dealt the game for twenty years, but I've quit now. I made nothing nor lost anything and made nothing nor lost anything, and but for a sight I once saw I should probably be a gambler still. Hereby hangs a tale. Let me tell it:

"Some three years ago I ran a high-toned game at a certain place you probably know, for it strikes me I saw you there. It was a square game, as I will leave any one to say-a thriving game -for I dealt for half the bloods in town. and often had as many as five lay-outs at a time, with too much business on hand to even get time to rest. One evening a young chap strolled in with a sort of curious stare on his face, and I concluded right there that he was green. He was fair headed, and had a pair of blue eyes and clean-cut features pair of blue eyes and clean-cut features—an innocent looking young fellow, if ever I saw one. It only required a glance to convince you that he was a stranger in the gambling room. He soon was at home, though, for I saw in his blue eyes the love of play, and after that evening he was a constant visitor. He played his pile right up and never growled if his luck was hard, and on every second card he'd stack the limits up in blue. Take it altogether, his luck was hard—sometimes the hardest I think I ever saw. I've known him to lose at a single deal seven double shots.

"Business for me of course, but somehow it almost seemed too bad. how it almost seemed too bad. I couldn't say a word, though, and yet I liked the boy. He had lots of the filthy. I think from the day he began he must have dropped a cool $100,000 on the game, and he never growled.

"We both quit gambling the same night—he, poor lad, for sufficient reasons, and I because I loathed the game. It was in this wise:

and tried his line at bets again, but his luck was gone. My God! I'll never forget the pale, haggard look that crossed his face, but he was game. He never uttered a word, and kept his chair like a pillar of stone. For a moment he seemed dazed at his reverses, but suddenly his eye caught the thin, worn circlet of dull gold on his little finger. He looked at it a little while. finger. He looked at it a little while, and a dark wave of hot crimson blood and a dark wave of hot crimson blood passed over his face, for this circlet seemed to cling even faster than the flashing gem he had passed in before. He at last stripped it off his finger and handed it to me. It came reluctantly, this worn old ring. 'What can I have on this?' he asked. 'I don't know what it's value is, but I'll redeem it first of all.' It might have cost five dollars new, but it was worthless then. "Still I passed out a fifty stack in re-dollars new, but it was worthless then.

"Still I passed out a fifty stack in return. just to let him try again. He planked it down in the pot, and then low upon the table he laid his face on his folded arms. Well, for a wonder, his luck changed and he won three times. He took no notice of me as I told him when the limit barred, and so we played two fifty on each card. Would you believe it? In the deal the pot won out and never lost! And pot won out and never lost! And still he lay with his face hid in his arms. The deal was out and I shook him up, but not a muscle moved, and raising his face I started back in horror at the glassy expression of his eyes, for the boy was dead!

"I've often wondered to myself since that night what thoughts went flitting through his brain as he bowed his head and hid his fees from our sight; what farough his brain as he bowed his head and hid his face from our sight; what pledges of a better life, regrets for a fortune he had thrown away with lavish hand, and loathing of his irrevocable course. Who can tell? We can but guess at them, but may never feel. His face showed years of hell endured in that brief game, but it was not until the coroner's jury sat that I learned all. Before them was developed the fact that the ring which had changed his luck as it did his existence was given him by his dear dead mother years before. Poor boy I never dealt again."

CROSS-CUT RELIGION.—The meeting house of the Lickskillit district was crowded. The preacher, old Noah, with his grizzly beard and head half white, like a cotton field when the bolls are just opening, sat in the pulpit surveying his congregation in that peculiar way which as ever characterizes the colored preacher. A spontaneous hymn arose, and when the melody had ceased the preacher arose and said, "Let us engage in pra'r." The congregation kneeled, even young Ike, the preacher's son, who had just come from down to the spring, where he had been trying to swap mules with one of the deacons.

"Oh, Lord," began the preacher, "we 'semble in dis house ob worship to thank thee fur the many blessin's ob de past, an' ax dat yer would sprinkle our lan' wid a leetle moah rain. We must hab a shower 'twixt dis an' Saturday night, 'case, Lord, we'se needin' ob hit. Amen.' Just as the preacher arose there was a stir at the rear end of the house. A tall colored man, followed by several parties as intensely colored as himself, filed down the aisle. "Come up ter de stan', Brudder Robinson," said the preacher, for he recognized the preacher of the Blacksnort district. "I doan want ter come up ter yer stan'," said Mr. Robinson. "Whut's de matter wid yer, sah?" ex-claimed old Noah. "What's a ailin'

"Tuther day I sent yer a note, axin' yer ter stop prayin' fur ram," remarked Robinson, with emphasis. "Our cotton had been a supplied by the supplied of the supplied by the supplied is sufferin' fur sanshine. We'se had moah rain den we wants, an' heah yer goes axin' fur moah."

"We hain't had no rain, sah, an' I 'tens ter pray fur it until hit do come."

"Is ver typn' to drawn as a war."

"Is yer tryin' ter drown us out?"
"No, but I wants 'nough rain."

"What would you say?" "Why de reclipse."
"Dat's all right, but de fact I want settled is dis: Is yer guine ter stop?"

No, I isn't.

"Den we mixes wool."

Mr. Robinson sprang toward the pulpit. Noah sprang to meet him. The wildest confusion prevailed. The two men grappled, and the deacons gathered around.

"Gimmy de plantation grip." ex-

"Gimmy de plantation grip," exclaimed Noah, while Mr. Robinson vociferated, "cut yer capers, cut yer capers!" Finally Robinson fell. Noah mounted him, choked him into obedience and raising himself up, exclaimed: "Let us pray again. Brudder Johnson, git down dar." The preachers have become friends.—Little Rock. Gazette.

THERE was a mass-meeting at Portland, Me., a few nights ago, and the coming man made a speech to the Hancock boys. Among those present was a friend of the coming man. Much to the surprise of the speaker, as soon as he got under way the friend began to be disagreeable. When the coming man went on to say how much he loved to serve the people the friend he loved to serve the people the friend said in a loud voice: "That's a darned lie, and you know it." The coming lie, and you know it." The coming man did not care to have a row, and endeavored to proceed quietly, but the friend kept on making such remarks as:
"What was your name before you came to Maine?" "You ain't fit to be elected dog-pelter, and you know it."

Next day the coming man met his friend, who told him he was sorry that he interrupted the meeting and abused him so, but it was a sacred duty he

"You needn't abuse me to help him. You can go about praising him if you want to.

"I can't conscientiously do so. I can't praise him, because I have no respect for him, so, you see, I have to abuse you because you are a gentle-man. It would hurt my feelings to have you think I would praise a man who did not deserve it."

THAT drum-major's feet rose and fell with the regularity of quartz-crushers; his bearskin was as towering and fluffy as a cat's tail in spring time. His gauntleted left hand was glued to his hip and his gauntleted right hand to his staff, sawing right and left for dear life. Then he reached the second line of review and prepared to salute. First he raised the staff shoulder high and wobbled it four times like the walking beam of an engine. Then he reversed it and gave one gilderfluke to the right and two flabdabs to the left. twirled the knob seven times, flung the staff 20 feet in air and made a motion staff 20 feet in air and made a motion as if he were going to turn a triple somersault before it came down again. Instead of this, however, he caught it deftly, tucked it under his right arm, shot out his left horizontally, crooked his elbow and laid the back of his hand on his brow. And he did all this with such skill, rapidity and pride, that the such skill, rapidity and pride, that the small boy cried, "Oh, looker him, Jimmy! My eye! don't he look like a biled lobster nor nothin'!"

that the pedestrians along this thoroughfare are afflicted with. They seem to be lame in both legs, in their heads, all over their anatomy, and it is not caused by a stiffness of the joints, but rather from a looseness of the same. THE meeting of the Ishpeming Mu-

Most of the window glass broken on Main street is done by men so drunk that they don't know what glass looks like, and who walk through it under the impression that there is nothing in their way. But a glass was broken out of August Schmidt's front window in an altogether different way last Sunday evening. A strictly sober fellow smashed a large pane with a stick, and ran away before he could be spotted. He successfully eluded identification and arrest, and at the present time the officers have no clue to him whatever. It is believed that the glass was broken by a man who had a spite against Schmidt and took this means of obtaining revenge.

J. W. Jochim evidently expects the coming winter to be a remarkably cold one, judging from the large number of stoves with which he has stocked his hardware store. He has every value and Shoes. riety and size, from the small and cheap sheet iron affair to the latest improved nickel patent parlor stove, with all the patent attachments, and lots of them. His line of stoves was never so fine, and he calls the attention of the reading public to that fact through the columns of the MIN-ING JOURNAL. Persons who desire to purchase new stoves the coming fall and winter will remember that Mr. Jochim keeps the boss assortment to select from.

A small Notary Public and Conveyancer, amount of ore-about half a wheelbarrow full-was loosened by the upper end of the pole coming in contact, with the roof, and fell, striking the unfortunate man on the head, breaking his neck and causing his instant death. STATE OF MICHIGAN, TWELFTH JUDIcial circuit, in chancery. Suit pending in the circuit court for the county of Marquette, in chancery, at the city of Marquette, on the thirteenth day of August, A. D. 1880. Joseph Murdock, complainant, vs. Martin Pattison and William H. Pattison, defendants. It satisfactorily appearing that the said defendants, Martin Pattison and William H. Pattison, are nonresidents of this state, on motion of Dan H. Bail, counsel for said complainant, it is ordered that said defendants, Martin Pattison and William H. Pattison cause their appearance to be entered in this cause within four months from the date of this order. And it is further ordered, that this order shall be published in the Mining Journal, a paper printed and of general circulation in said county, within twenty days from its date, once in each week for six weeks in succession, unless the same shall be personally served upon said defendants within the time prescribed by law.

SUBSC IBERS ordering their papers transferred fr m one address to another should be careful to give the name of the postoffice to which the paper is being sent at the time, in order to secure prompt attention, as otherwise the mail clerk may have to search through the entire list to find the name.

Subscribers can always know when their subscription expires by comparing the number of the printed address on their papers with the corresponding number on their receipts.

All letters of a business character, such as advertisements and communications intended for the columns of this paper, should be addressed to "THE MINING JOURNAL," and not to the editor personally, as is often the case. Only letters of a personal or confidential nature should be addressed to—A. P. SWINEFORD.

All advertising sent from abroad must be paid for in advance, whether coming direct from the advertiser or through an advertising agency. Orders from advertising agents will not be accepted, or receive any attention what-ever, unless based on our regular rates, less the usual commission and accompanied by the cash. This rule is imperative, and will not be departed from under any circumstances.

THE Cleveland's shipments up to the 7th were 120,754 tons--8,850 tons more than her whole output last

THE New York is considerably behind her last year's figures, tor what reason the MINING JOURNAL is not able to state.

THE Calumet and Hecla copper mine has paid $17,850,000 in dividends, and keeps right on at the rate of $1,600,000 a year.

THE Republic has now achieved a product larger than her entire output in any previous year-178,253 gross tons, and is still shipping at the rate of 1,500 tons per day.

THE Lake Superior shows an increase of 12,548 tons over a corresponding period last year, though her stock piles are not yet exhausted. Should she continue shipping at the same rate to the end of the season she will crowd 200,000 tons very close.

THE Taylor branch track is now laid to within a quarter of a mile of the mine, and the company expects to be able to make its first shipment before the end of the month. The stock pile embraces only such ore as has been taken out in putting the mine in condition for future opera-

SHOULD the mines hold their own during the remainder of the season, the total output will reach, if it does not exceed, 1,900,000 gross tons. It is more than probable, however, that the ratio of increase will be continued to the end, in which event the aggregate may possibly reach the coveted 2,000,000.

THE discovery of a good quality of hematite is reported on lands belonging to the Falls River Iron company, adjoining the Taylor mine, Baraaga county. Specimens shown the editor of the MINING JOURNAL look well, and would seem to leave no doubt of the value of the discov ery, except it be as to the extent of the deposit.

WE learn from the Menominee Herald that a company has been organized among the shareholders of the Menominee Mining Co. with a view to building a blast furnace at Florence, Marinette county. The locality possesses the advantage of having an abundant supply of hardwood for charcoal.

New Corporation .- The Dalliba Iron Mining company is the title of a new corporation organized under the general mining law of the state, with a capital stock of $500,000. It numbers among its shareholders some of the substantial business men of Cleveland and Chicago, as will be seen by the following list of directors:-Chas. Fargo, Chicago; Chas. Hickox, R. K. Winslow, P. P. Condit, J. H. Palmer, Jas. H. Dalliba, Cleveland; Thos. H. Wells, Youngstown; W. S. Dalliba, Green Bay; Alfred Kidder, Marquette. The officers are--J. H. Dalliba, president; R. K. Winslow, vice president; W. G. Pollock, Cleveland, secretary D. Z. Norton, Cleveland, treasurer. This new company is the owner in fee of the north half of the southwest quarter and the south half of the north-west quarter of section 29, town 48, range 29, immediately adjoining, on the cast, the new mine known as the North Champion, and is now opening a vein of red specular ore carrying 60 to 62 per cent. of metallic iron, 32 feet in width, and 600 feet in length, as has decided to remove the blast easily. Their descriptions of sula, up to and including Wednesday, the mines are immensely funny, if indeed they possess no other merit.

An explosion in a colliery at Seaham, England, on Wednesday, imprisoned 230 men underground, only 60 of whom had been rescued at a late hour Thursday night. It was feared that most of the remainder would perish before the pit could be re-opened.

A MOB of democrats undertook to break up a republican meeting at Ripley, West Virginia, the other night, but couldn't begin to make as much noise as the orators. A good stout club was what every head in that mob was aching for, and it ought to have been applied.

PRETTY thin. The Leadville Chronicle tells of the discovery of a full-rigged ship on the floor of a cave, which, until pierced by a mining shaft, was a huge cavity without inlet or outlet of any kind. They have many marvelous things in Colorado, chief among which are its marvelous liars.

There are crazier men in the Kalamazoo asylum than this same Cooper, but not many of 'em.

GEN. ROBERTS, the English commander in Afghanistan, attacked and was correct, the vein still looking dispersed Ayoob Khan's forces on the 3rd inst., with but little loss to his own army. England is a civilized nation, and a sound drubbing may do the uncivilized Afghans good, but exactly what business an English army has in that country is not exactly clear. > AT Washington, Indiana, the other day, a negro fired a pistol at an enemy in a democratic procession, but missed his mark and killed a brother republican on the other side of the street. The same day a party of colored men on their way home from a Republican meeting at Michigan City, assaulted the residence of state senator Winterbotham with brick and-(we can hardly believe it)-watermelons. It begins to look as if we might yet get a touch of the Mississippi policy in the north before this election is over.

which was accepted and ordered on file:

Your committee to whom was referred the petition of Messrs. Watson & Palmer, who desire to purchase (22) twenty-two feet of the south end of lot (20) twenty, so that they may have more room to accommodate their business. Your committee beg leave to report that they are not in favor of selling any portion of the city property, but in order to accommodate or assist the said petitioners in the transaction of their business, your committee would be in favor of setting off (10) ten feet of the south end of lot (20) twenty—running east and west—to be used as an alley way during the pleasure of the common council, providing said petitioners could purchase or make arrangements with owners of lot (19) nineteen, for a roadway through their property. Such alleyway should be entirely under the control of the city council, and should be closed whenever the city council shall direct.

PUEBLO, COL., Sept. 7, 1880. DEAR JOURNAL:-I received a Marquette paper this evening, and while taking my usual evening smoke the desire comes over me to write you a few lines about my experience in the west. I first came to Denver, where I remained but a short time, finding nothing encouraging. I then went to Cheyenne, and thence to Ogden. Utah, over the Union Pacific railroad. After stopping there a day or two I wended my way to Great Salt Lake City. Seeattendance at the teachers' institute, | ing a very pretty house, with a beautiful green lawn plentifully supplied with many kinds of flowers, and a large sign, "board and lodging," I entered and engaged both. I soon learned that it was a mormon family-twelve mothers

Nothing can be seen except the flat, rough granite slab which lies even with the ground, and cemented to the tomb below-not a word or letter being cut on the stone to tell who lies beneath. I wished very much to see camp Douglass, which is four miles from the city, and so situated on a hill The council then adjourned till the that the U. S. boys could destroy the whole city instantly, if they so desired. I did not like walking very well, so I went to the nearest livery to get a saddle horse, but all were out, and nothing left but a mule. Time was precious, so I took the mule, and started up a back street; but that didn't suit the mulenothing was too good for him, and he insisted on going up the main street. The people all seemed pleased and felt funny over something that morning. Everybody had a smile on his or her face, even the mule, who kept braying "Baby mine" and other familiar airs. A crowd of little Mormon boys surrounded me, laughing and talking, and one said: "That man is either traveling or going somewhere:" another said he lied, and that started a fight, which I believe saved my life, for all attention was directed to the fight, and I and the mule sneaked off. The mule tried very hard to rub me off against every passing wagon and tree along the road, but we finally reached the camp all O. K. To intending settlers no better opportunity To intending settlers no better opportunity has ever been offered to secure valuable farms at a low cost and on easy terms than is now offered by this company in Chippewa and Mackinac counties. Thousands of acres are open for selection of as fine agricultural land as can be found, which requires but little labor to fit it for the plow, with good soil, pure water, and the most healthy climate in the world. The success of this region, in an agricultural point, is now beyond doubt. Wheat, oats, peas and all root crops are grown in great perfection, and the low lands have meadows of the finest natural grasses. The farmer has a ready market for all his surplus.

SCHOOL MEETING .- At the annual school meeting held Monday evening, E. C. Anthony and Geo. O. Houston were elected trustees, to succeed themselves, for a term of three years. The question of voting an appropriation of school house, which should have come before the meeting, was not brought up for consideration, but will be voted on at a special meeting to be held next Monday evening. It is feared by those who are desirous of seeing the appropriation voted that the postponement THE Kanter street sidewalk is done, will have the effect to defeat the measand the residents can now come down | ure. The necessity of a new school town without getting sand in their building is sorely felt, and while some may be against the scheme it must be apparent to all that the matter ought to be attended to. TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFEICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE, WASHINGTON, D. C., January 26, 1880.

Messrs. LAWRENCE & MARTIN, 111 Madison St., Chicago, 111.:

GENTLEMEN: I have received a "certified formula" giving the ingredients and relative proportions used in the manufacture of an article which you advertise and sell under the name of "TOLU, ROCK and RYE." This compound, according to your formula, in the opinion of this office, would have a sufficient quantity of the BALSAM OF TOLU to give it all the advantages ascribed to this article in pectoral complaints, while the whisky and the syrup constitute an emulsion rendering the compound an agreeable remedy to the patient.

In the opinion of this office, an article compounded according to this formula may properly be classed as a medicinal preparation under the provisions of Schedule A, following Section 3.437, U. S. Revised Statutes, and when so stamped may be sold by Druggists, Apothecaries and Other Persons without rendering them liable to pay special tax as liquor dealers.

Yours Kespectfully, (Signed) CREEN B. RAUM, Commissioner.

A DETROIT man who was hunting land a few weeks ago in Antrim county, came across a settler who was doing some logging with a yoke of oxen. The two sat down together on a log and had a talk, during which it transpired that the settler had been a deacon in a village in the southern part of the state, and had lately moved in there. By and by the Detroiter moved on, but after traveling for half a mile had to retrace his steps to secure closer particulars regarding the lay of a surveyed high-way. While he was yet eighty rods away he heard shouts, and the nearer he drew the more the shouts sounded like cuss words. When he reached the clearing the settler was jumping up and down and pounding the oxen, which refused to pull on a log. Every word uttered by the settler required three exclamation points to punctuate it, and they were ground out like wheat from a hopper.
"My friend, didn't I understand you to say," observed the Detroiter, "that you were a deacon of the church?" "Whoa, there, you—infernal—, you, or I'll knock your horns off! Yes, that's what I told you. "And you expressed the hope that you might become a shining light in this wilderness?"

I did. Back up there, you-old hyena with horns on! Yes, that's my

"But the language you have, and are, making use of is utterly inconsistent with your asserted faith and profession.

"Stranger—whoa, you old imp!— stranger,—stand up there, or I'll chaw your ear off—stranger, there is only one way for a christian man to work alongside of a yoke of straw-colored steers. I've tried all other ways, and I've had to come to this. See that—infernal idiot-headed steer trying to turn his yoke! Hold on till I cut the hide off his ribs!"

"What way is that?" asked the Detroiter, after the settler had worn up his gad and thrown the stump of it

"You've got to holler and yell, and swear, and sweat during the day, and sing 'Old Hundred' all the evening! The general opinion around here is that one sort o' balances the other, especially as none of us go fishing on Sunday; but if it don't balance, and there's anything extra laid up agin me, I've got to git even by pounding that mule hitched over there with one hand, and holding the other over my mouth. Whoa, there—back up, or I'll cut your hides to shoe-strings!"—Free Press.
