

THE DEVIL.

Men don't believe in a devil now, as their fathers used to do. They've forced the door of the broadest creed to let His Majesty in.

Who does the steps of the tolling saint and digs the pits for his feet? Who sows the tares in the fields of Time where ever God sows His wheat?

A MATTER OF BUSINESS.—"You were out late last night, dear," said Mrs. Breezy, taking her seat at the breakfast table and fumbling nervously with her fork.

Too, Too Awful Utter.—"Well," said a Deadwood man who had just been introduced to a Brooklyn girl, and who had been asked by her if they had many of those lovely frontiersmen out here.

"But, my dear," said Mrs. Breezy, making a heroic effort to swallow a little of the steak, "it was a most important engagement—"

Porterhouse Steak.—At the restaurant: "This is the porterhouse, is it?" asked the sad passenger, sitting at the corner table in the restaurant.

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, with the weary air of a man who was tired of having to tell the same lie a thousand times a day.

nothing left of 'em when customers get through with 'em, sir." "Possible becomes of them?" The waiter looked nervous.

A ROUGH SELLER ON THE CANNIBALS.—Great results are expected from an experiment recently tried by the American Missionary Society.

COMELY! Attractive! Winning!—These expressive words are often and properly applied to the fair ladies of our favored land.

NEARLY A MIRACLE.—E. Asenith Hall, Binghamton, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for several months with a dull pain through left lung and shoulders.

"Oh! once in a while we get a hack at a buck, but mostly they are on the reservations," replied the Deadwood man, staring.

"An avalanche! Do you mean an avalanche?" Oh! can there be anything more crystalline utter than an avalanche?

"How sublime! How crystalline!" "But I was going to say we never have a sunset since."

UNIVERSAL approbation by the community at large has been given to BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

DURING last autumn's shooting season, an English gentleman, familiar with gun and rod, happened to be a guest at the South Side Club, Long Island, near New York.

"I shot 'em all round here," Ah, 'pon my w-o-r-d that's w-o-r-y extraordinary! And did you—pointing to the old negro—shoot them with that singular instrument?"

The Mining Journal.

ISHPEMING, OCTOBER 1, 1881.

The pound has been newly fenced.

The city flag floating over the engine house is torn to tatters.

TYPHOID fever is said to be quite prevalent in this city at present.

A NEW meat market was opened on First street, next to H. Asgard's, by a party named P. Hendricksen.

PARTRIDGE CREEK became a "roaring canal" Thursday night, and the few cellars in Ishpeming were converted into miniature lakes.

LARGE numbers of draft horses are being brought to this region from Canada, to be used at the mines. The opening of new mines has created an unusual demand for horses.

A GERMAN social club is quite a new thing for Ishpeming. There are so few Germans here that they seldom attempt anything in the social way, although there is not a more social class in existence.

THE Lake Superior mine and engine houses are to be lighted with electricity very soon. An electric machine and a number of candles have lately been received by the company, and the apparatus will soon be put in running order. This is another step in the line of progress on the part of the Lake Superior. The machine used will be the Brush Dynamo-Electric, the same as those in use at the Cleveland.

THE attention of the readers of the MINING JOURNAL is directed to the new announcement of Messrs. Quinn Bros. & Co. in to-day's paper. This firm has just opened up a magnificent stock of fancy and staple dry goods, carpets, boots and shoes, etc., etc., in a splendid store room, and are prepared to compete for the trade of this city and county. Their store is elegantly fitted up and their fine stock handsomely displayed. The Messrs. Quinn Bros. are courteous and accommodating gentlemen, with whom it is a pleasure to do business. They are a valuable addition to our mercantile population, and being enterprising and wide awake business men, will certainly draw trade to this city. They report a good trade, which we hope to see increased as the season advances.

THE DELUGE.—When the flood-gates of heaven were opened Thursday night, allowing the water to pour down on the land in sheets, it was generally expected that we would get an over-dose of it here. And so it turned out. Partridge creek lost no time in running over its banks, and over everything else for blocks on either side along its course. The water kept rising all night, and by daylight a large portion of the town was flooded. First and Second streets, north of Cleveland avenue, were submerged. The fire engine house, the Northwestern depot, and Ouderkirk & Co.'s coal yard were entirely surrounded by the flood. Bank street was a raging torrent, and a lake had formed around the Ishpeming foundry and Deer Lake lumber yard. The water flowed freely into the New York mine until it was five feet deep at the bottom of the pits, when to stop the flow they broke away a dam on the location. This was done at about 8 o'clock, when the water, as a result of the move, raised still higher in the streets. Main street commenced to fill about 9 o'clock, and by 11 the street was submerged from Outhwaite's to Swift's, about a block. In the other low parts of town almost everything except the streets were afloat. Alleys and back yards were covered with four feet of water, and in many instances people were compelled to build bridges from their dwellings to the sidewalk. The damage done in town by the flood is not very large. Sidewalks have been washed away from their proper places, and holes burrowed in the roadways, but that is all. Ouderkirk & Co. are the heaviest losers, in having their coal and wood yard submerged, losing several cords of wood and having much of the ground washed away, besides the damage to the coal, which is considerable.

AT THE MINES, the flood was more serious. At the New York the bottom level of one of the pits was flooded, delaying work for a day. The Cleveland had its lower levels covered with water, but not enough to hinder work for any length of time. One of the small pits was filled so as to cause the suspension of work for several days, but as less than a dozen men were employed there, it was not much consequence. At the Cleveland hematite the condition of things was more serious. One of the pumps broke during the rain, and the entire mine was flooded, causing a serious delay, but no particular damage to the mine. At the Lake Superior more water flowed in than could possibly be pumped out, flooding the bottom levels with two or three feet of water, interfering with work until the surplus water could be raised out, which was done before last night. At the open pit at the head of Main street the most damage was done. Here the flow of water washed the soft ground down into the bottom, covering the floor with drift to a depth of five feet. They are at present mining earth instead of ore at this place, and will have to continue to do so till about the middle of next week.

before the level is cleared. All the other mines were more or less flooded, causing delays, but a day or two will suffice to clear them. There is a report of a cave in at the Bessemer, but at this writing we were unable to learn how true it is. The Winthrop mine suffered the worst of all. A small creek running past the location got stopped up with the floating debris, and the overflow of water found its way into the mine, washing the soft ground from the foot-wall to the bottom of the open pit, breaking the pumps and demoralizing things generally. Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock there were 30 feet of water in the mine, and the pumps were all submerged. The Saginaw, being entirely underground, did not get much of a drenching. The Goodrich, National and Mitchell all had more water than they knew what to do with, but a day or two's pumping will set them all right. The damage, collectively, is very large, but most of the mines will escape with only a day's delay and some extra expense for pumping.

Important to the Ladies In order to obviate the difficulty experienced by ladies in many sections of the state in securing the latest and leading novelties in Dry Goods as soon as they are shown in the Eastern Cities, we have established in connection with our business an order department, enabling ladies to order goods from us either by samples or selected by us subject to their approval. For instance, a lady writes us that she wants a certain number of yards of; say, Black Silk, Cashmere, Velvet-Fringe, Gimp Lace—or any goods of which the shade or color is understood, she simply states about the price she wishes to pay. We make the selections and forward the goods, with the distinct understanding that if when they are received they are not entirely satisfactory in every way they are to be returned to us at our expense and the money refunded. Our trade throughout the state is rapidly increasing. Of all the goods sent out this season not a single article has been returned to us as being unsatisfactory; but on the contrary, ladies who have ordered from us once express themselves as being more than satisfied, and continue to order. We keep only the most thoroughly reliable goods. Our prices are always as low as the lowest. Favor us with a trial order, and we assure you you will do fully as well as though you visited the city in person. Very respectfully, William H. Elliott, 139 Woodward Ave., DETROIT. 670m5

With Sawyer as his senior senator and Rusk in the governor's chair Wisconsin will loom up grandly as a producer of talented public men.

An agreement has been entered into by Scotch iron masters to reduce the product of pig iron 12 1/2 per cent. for the next six months. This is to avert an apprehended glut of that product in the market, and a "canny" exhibition of Scotch foresight and shrewdness it is.

An exchange observes: "Arthur is now president. Let him be fairly judged before being condemned. He wouldn't it be well to wait until he is guilty of some wrong act before speaking of and regarding him as a malefactor? It is dangerous, maybe, but not criminal, to be a president."

Gladstone informs a friend—who gives it away to the public—that he is now enjoying the best of health, and "can eat a good dinner and sleep all through the night." The author of the Irish land bill is the fortunate possessor of an invincible digestion and conscience to be capable of all this.

Robertson waited on president Arthur the other day to assure him that the New York custom house will warmly support him in his efforts to give the country a wise and prosperous administration. Aye, but how long will Robertson be in a position to speak for the New York custom house? There's the rub.

Guiteau says that what he demands and expects is "ample protection by the authorities" until the public mind is settled. It is perfectly settled now as far as the cowering wretch who struck a deadly blow at the public weal is concerned. The public want him tried and hung with as little noise and delay as is consistent with strict justice. That's all.

Senator Bayard will be the democratic candidate for president of the senate. As the republicans intimate that they will offer no opposition to the election of that officer by the democrats, his choice to preside over a body of which he is one of the purest and ablest members may be regarded as a foregone conclusion. He will fit the position admirably.

A spirit medium named Watkins was arrested for giving a hall exhibition without taking out a license at Erie, Pa., last week. He subsequently convinced the mayor of the place that spiritualism is a religion, in the propagation of which he is laboring, and that he is entitled to all the privileges accorded to clergymen, when the order for his arrest was revoked and "the show went on" triumphantly.

Until the White House is thoroughly overhauled and remodeled, to render it more healthy and comfortable, president Arthur will not occupy it as his home. The work of renovation is already going on. In the meantime the president is domiciliated under senator Jones' roof, but will take up his quarters at a hotel as soon as rooms can be prepared for him, pending the completion of repairs in the White House.

Among those who witnessed the inauguration of president Arthur were ex-president Hayes and John Sherman. Unless his excellency is more or less than mortal a thrill of gratification must have shot through him as he received the congratulations of these two, and recalled the time when they were instrumental in removing him from the collectorship of the port of New York, some two years ago, on the assumption that his occupancy of that office was inconsistent with the good of the public service.

A most touching incident of the great tragedy that ended at Cleveland last Monday is related by a correspondent, who witnessed the departure of the late president's mother from Solon to attend the funeral of her beloved son: As grandma Garfield was packing her little bag, previous to her departure, the clasp refused to yield to her trembling touch. Involuntarily she exclaimed: "James, I can't unfasten my sachel!" Then the awful truth dawned upon her afresh, made more cruel by the involuntary exclamation. "What did I say?" she gasped, looking quickly about to see if her utterance had been heard. Mrs. Larabee turned her head the other way, as if she had been pierced by an arrow.

Mrs. Garfield stood trembling with uncontrollable agitation, her breast heaving with emotion she would faint repress, and her eyes brimming with tears. "Mr. Palmer," she said at length, controlling herself by a mighty effort, "you are the only James I have now. Will you unfasten it?" The incident is especially touching, showing as it does the dependence of the mother and the customary courtesy of the son.

Table with columns: Name of Mine, Gross Tons. Includes locations like Chapin, Cyclops, etc.

An increase of 68,034 tons over a corresponding period last year.

It is alleged in some of the papers that the autopsy as reported by the surgeons who conducted the post mortem examination of Garfield's remains was false, and designed to mislead the public as to the real nature of his wound, with a view to covering up gross malpractice in the case. This statement will fall to obtain general credence until supported by better testimony than that adduced in its substantiation. The belief now is that the wound was fatal, and that there was no hope of his recovery from the start. Their bulletins, interviews, and their sanguine promises of "pulling the president through," place the attendant physicians in so ridiculous a light, in view of the result, that it is downright cruelty to add further to their humiliation.

A sad incident of the Garfield obsequies was the accident Saturday to a party of section men on the Pittsburgh & Erie road, who were run into by the special train provided for transportation from Washington to Cleveland of the press correspondents and others who could not be accommodated on the funeral train. The special consisted of a car carrying the press representatives, and two palace cars conveying the Columbia commandery, of which president Garfield was a member during life. Starting from Washington some three hours after the funeral train, the special went over the road at lightning speed, the object being to reach Cleveland some three hours ahead of the time the funeral train was to arrive. Pilot engines preceded the special to keep the track clear, and avert danger of accident. Both trains reached Pittsburgh and left there at the same moment. At the approach to the trestle bridge over Beaver creek, near Fallston, the pilot engine came upon a party of trackmen, and warned them that the special was coming, disregarding which they placed their hand car on the track and attempted to cross the trestle work bridge before its arrival. As they reached the center, the special came rushing along, and struck the hand car with frightful force, killing three of the men outright, and injuring two others so that they died the same day. Two of the men jumped from the car to the bottom of the creek, a distance of sixty feet, when the special train was seen approaching, and escaped with but slight injuries. The disaster was wholly attributable to disregard of instructions by the men, in trying to cross the bridge before the special. Notwithstanding the delay occasioned by the ghastly accident, the train got to Cleveland ahead of the funeral party, the time made on the trip averaging 45 miles per hour.

Sepulture was given the mortal remains of president Garfield in Monumental Park, Cleveland, on Monday, with every mark of love and respect for his memory that a people bowed down in sorrow for his untimely death could render. The attendance at the obsequies was immense, not less than one hundred thousand people marching in the procession that followed to their last resting place the honored remains of the dead chief magistrate. Never has this country seen anything so grandly imposing as was the ceremony with which his sacred dust was consigned to earth by his sorrowing countrymen. To describe the mournful pageant would call for columns and pages of space, and the wondrous meaning of the sublime picture presented when his form was given back to the dust from whence it sprung would then be felt by the reader. The aged mother, the widowed wife and the orphaned children of the murdered president attended, and the two former bore the trying ordeal with a firmness and composure that served to cloak pangs of the most intense distress that ever pierced the heart of a loving mother and devoted wife. Mrs. Garfield, with her family, will continue to reside at Mentor, where the mother of the late president will pass the remaining days of a life which has had in it much more of joy and sadness than ordinarily falls to the lot of woman. Already measures have been taken to mark the spot where president Garfield lies entombed with an appropriate monument, and the present temper of the people gives assurance that it will be worthy of the virtues and fame of him whose name it will commemorate.

It must strike the public that train robbery in this country is becoming a profitable industry. The danger and exertion bear no proportion whatever to the gains. There is, in fact, no danger, and the exertion is confined to halting a train by putting a stick across the track, with some suitable device to attract the engineer's attention, and then leisurely robbing the passengers and gutting the express messenger's strong box. When the word passes that a train is being robbed—to judge from recent affairs of the kind which have taken place—all hands resign themselves decorously to the pleasure of the highwaymen, purses are produced, and revolvers carefully hidden where the robbers may not be startled by a glimpse of them, and the conductor leads the way from car to car, only anxious, apparently, that no passenger shall escape being levied upon. If there isn't a change of programme shortly that will operate to render exploits of this sort somewhat more risky to the perpetrators, the public will be justified in suspecting that the companies are in league with the robbers—as stage drivers were wont to be with "road agents" in former days—and that this is but a new scheme for getting out of passenger traffic a heavier tribute than it would quietly bear if exacted at the ticket office.

The New York Sun observes that the negroes in this country have now been free for almost half a generation, yet they have been unable to obtain social recognition from the whites either north or south. Even the Methodist of Hayes, adds the Sun, did not avail to secure for Fred. Douglass, the most accomplished of his race, the privilege of officiating as master of ceremonies at the White House, to which he was entitled through the office to which Hayes appointed him. The fact to which the paper quoted directs attention was, perhaps, even more forcibly illustrated in the treatment of the negroes of Cleveland on the occasion of the Garfield obsequies this week. The colored citizens of that city had made every preparation to lend added gloom to the funeral procession by forming part of it, but the mayor forgot to invite them, and they were allotted no place. They were thus forced to content themselves with being merely spectators at the funeral of a president whom they helped to elect less than a year ago. When the mayor's attention was called to the matter he said that he had forgotten all about the colored societies, but it was too late then to remedy the omission. If it had been an election in stead of a funeral that his honor was preparing for his memory wouldn't have played him such a trick.

Frankfort, Ky., has a mayor who has lots of sand in his gizzard, though he appears slightly deficient in discretion. By his influence the city council raised circus licenses from $35 to $70, in anticipation of an expected visit from the great Forepaugh aggregation of humbergs. The circus refused to pay the license demanded, deciding to pitch its mammoth tents just outside the city limits instead. Thereupon the mayor declared war, and his council passed an ordinance restraining the railroad company from unloading the show within the city. The railway company responded with an injunction sued out in circuit court, ordering the municipal authorities not to interfere with the unloading of the show. The mayor requested his trusty police to back him in resisting the injunction, and the sheriff called on the governor to aid him in enforcing the writ. When circus day came there was the liveliest sort of a circus in the city. The governor directed a militia company to report for orders to the sheriff, who, with its assistance, captured the mayor, drove off the police, took possession of the streets, and guarded the show while it was run off the cars and formed in line for the street parade. The mayor could have got away with the circus single-handed, but when the state joined the "great combination" it was one circus too many for him.

In their state convention last week the Wisconsin republicans executed the behests of the new Milwaukee regency that has saddled itself on the party, and dutifully nominated Jerry Rusk for governor. The anti-ring element struggled bravely to avert this result, but the vigor of its effort but tended all the more forcibly to show how firm a grasp the new management has secured on the reins. Associated with Gen. Rusk on the ticket are Hon. S. S. Field, for lieutenant-governor; E. G. Timme, for secretary of state; E. C. McFettridge, for state treasurer; L. F. Frisby for attorney-general; Robert Graham, for state superintendent; N. P. Haugen for railroad commissioner; Phil. Spooner for insurance commissioner. The ticket is not remarkably strong, either in ability or popularity, but will certainly be elected, and by a heavy majority. The democratic party in that state consists chiefly of gullet and stomach, and protracted thirst and hunger have utterly destroyed its vitality. It is too inert and hopeless to reach a hand for victory, even though victory were possible for it—which it is not at present in Wisconsin.

President Arthur has called a session of the senate, to meet Oct. 10th. There will be no extra session of congress. The startling changes that have taken place since the senate adjourned have given the democrats an advantage in that body assuring them of the organization, and the republicans do not prepare to repeat the struggle which created so much bitterness at the last session. The democrats will elect the president and secretary, and a reorganization of committees will also follow. It is expected that the session will be brief and uneventful, as both parties have buried much of their animosity in the grave of the dead president, and are disposed to agree amicably on the questions relating to reorganization and rearrangement of the senate committees.

All the cabinet officers tendered their resignations to president Arthur immediately upon reaching Washington, but no action will be taken on them for the present. A reorganization of the cabinet will necessarily take place shortly, but the new executive intimated to the present heads of the various departments that he desired them to retain their places for some time, until the press of business now awaiting action should be disposed of. There is plenty of speculation in regard to the new cabinet, but absolutely nothing to base conjectures upon in the language or conduct of the president, who bears himself in his new and exalted station with rare dignity and discretion.

It is a matter of remark that the German court was the only one in Europe that failed to express sympathy with this government in the loss by death of its president, and with Mrs. Garfield in her terrible bereavement. This is a handsome return for the somewhat puzzling friendship manifested by the American people for Germany in the Franco-Prussian war, and the deep indignation felt and expressed in this country when the emperor's life was attempted a couple of years ago. It is useless to expect anything from a hog but a grunt. The great body of the German nation is not to be judged by the discourtesy of its rulers in this matter.

The French are not achieving any greater success in North Africa than did the British in their campaigns against the Zulus. The latest reports from Tunis and Algiers represent the French forces as in a badly demoralized condition, anarchy prevailing in every department. The colored troops seem to fight nobly in their native jungles, whatever they may do in our own country when matched against the aborigines of the western plains.

The Chicago & Alton railroad company has notified the state of Missouri that the state will be held responsible for the loss incurred by the company in the recent train robbery within its limits. The company holds it to be the duty of the state to repress outlawry on the extended scale practiced by so many of its citizens, in disregard of which it becomes liable for the loss and injury thereby entailed on innocent parties. A precedent for the ground taken by the Chicago & Alton people is found in the case of the Pittsburgh riots in Pennsylvania, where the state indemnified the companies for property destroyed by the rioters.

Chicago Times: Some people are gifted by nature with peculiar ability to say exactly the wrong thing at the moment of all moments to make it the most conspicuously ill-timed. Dr. Robinson, of Cleveland, is one of these blundering mortals. He was an ardent friend of Garfield's. Seeing Hancock on the funeral train, he greeted him with the remark: "General, I did all in my power last fall against you and for my friend, but I wish to God now you were president." The remark, it is said, greatly embarrassed General Hancock, and, indeed it couldn't well have been otherwise than embarrassing.

The fears of a stringency in the money market which prevailed a short time ago have entirely disappeared, partly in consequence of the immense volume of gold flowing to this country from Europe, and partly because of heavy purchases of bonds by our own government. These two causes have sufficed to thwart the schemes of operators who might have otherwise managed to force a temporary, but nevertheless disastrous, "squeeze" in the financial marts of the country—a result for which our people have reason to be profoundly grateful.

THE FUNERAL CORTEGE AT CINCINNATI.—The autumn day is lovely, with its mellow sunlight and hazy splendor on the circling hills, while the whole city, clothed in its trappings of woe, is like one vast pall. Nothing is to be heard or seen but expressions of sorrow and manifestations of respect for the illustrious dead. Along the line of march the air is redolent with choice, floral offerings. The public buildings and squares are draped and adorned with unique representations in memoriam, while benighting inscriptions greet the eye at every turn. Conspicuous among them is, "God reigns, and the government at Washington still lives." In large black letters on a white ground, surrounded by appropriate mourning decorations, and surmounted by a large likeness of the martyr president, are the significant words that give expression to the eminent public service, of the lamented Garfield, as well as denounce the base crime of his detested assassin:

"He hath borne his faculties so meek; hath been so clear in his great office; that virtues will plead like angels, trumpet-tongued against the deep damnation of his taking-off." —Macbeth: Act 1; Scene 4.

The distant sound of the trumpet, followed by the dead march and the tolling bells, mournfully hush into silence the great throng along the line of march, for the cortege and procession in honor of our departed president is approaching. All societies and classes, from the wealthiest to the most lowly, vie with each other in heaping laurels upon the honored head of the noble chieftain of this republic, who so cruelly died by the hand of an ignoble murderer. A shower of flowers fall upon the funeral car, which consists of a double platform, the base of which is seven by fourteen feet, and hung with heavy crape which hides the wheels from view. The other covering consists of black velvet with a deep border of silver lace, while at each of the four corners are large floral urns in which incense is burning. At one end of the upper platform is a sailor and at the other a soldier. In the center of this platform is a broken column, with laurel wreaths at the bottom and immortelles around the top. Ten black horses, led by colored grooms dressed in black, and wearing crape on their hats and arms, are drawing the funeral car. The procession is grandly, solemnly realistic, and it is an occasion most notable in Cincinnati's history. It is an offering of love from the sad hearts of her stricken people, and all feel that fitting tribute is being done to the beloved Garfield, who did not suffer and die in vain. His martyrdom has united his people in bonds of love and sorrow. The south grieves as for a Washington, the north as for a Lincoln. As mourners they stand side by side, and are one. As sections of an afflicted nation they have a common impulse and ambition. As Garfield has mellowed and subdued individual animosities, so has he softened sectional pride and heart-burnings. The south and the north stand to-day as one people, one nation, and, if the reckless hand of violent political disturbers can be kept from them, will continue as brothers in peace and harmony. Garfield, living, would have been a mighty power for good in this nation. But Garfield, suffering, dying, dead, does his countrymen service almost beyond conception.

PAUL BRITTELL. Cincinnati, O., Sept. 26th, 1881.

A gentleman of this city permits us to print the following letter from a lady in Tuscola county, descriptive of the late forest fires in that section, and the condition in which they have left the inhabitants. generally "used up" is about what you might call it. We had such a dreadful time in this country at the time of the fire that it seems to me I shall never get over it. I am very sure I shall never forget it, as long as I live. I cannot describe to you how terrible it was. We were completely surrounded by fire at one time. If it had reached the field where we stayed, one whole afternoon and night, we would never have been able to escape; we were on the lookout and as fast as a place caught we put it out, so we saved ourselves and the goods that we had taken from the house. We moved everything out that we could, expecting the house must burn, for the fire was not three feet from it on one side and very near the front and back. In some way or another, I cannot tell how or why, it did not burn, but everything else was swept away—barns, sheds, granary and shops, wheat and oat stacks, about twenty tons of hay, twenty-five or thirty hives of bees and all the fences. I tell you it was a desolate looking place the next morning after the fire, but after all I feel that we have a great debt to be thankful for. My father came very near losing his life and if he had the other losses would seem very small in comparison. He was trying to save some large piece of machinery and had it as far as the door of the wagon shed, when the building fell in, knocking him down directly in the fire, but my brother happened to run just at that moment and saw him and he shouted to some one and rushed in and dragged father out before he was very much burned. He had quite a burn on his face and his left hand is very badly burned, but it is getting along nicely. The fire came upon us very suddenly. We could only see it miles away at one o'clock p. m. and never dreamed that it would reach us, so I took my children and went to my brother's, which was but a mile from father's. We had only been there about two hours when we saw the flames spreading so fast that we knew it would soon reach father's buildings, so I left the children with their aunt and I started for home. When I was within about half a mile of home the fire became so bad that I had to run for my life, so I took off my dress skirt and hat, wet my handkerchief and tied it over my head, wet my tie and kept it over my mouth and I tell you I just flew! This happened on Sunday and I never saw the children again until Tuesday. The fires were raging so terribly before dark that we could not get to them. The next day we expected they had all perished in the flames, for we could see the flames as high as mountains and thought nothing could save them, and, of course, we were helpless and could do nothing for them. Oh, it was fearful! My brother's house was also saved, although he lost every thing around it, and considerable damage was done to the furniture, for they were so sure the house would burn that they took everything out and buried what they could, but many things were broken and some of their carpets were badly burned. There are many families near them that lost everything they had, even their cows and horses. My father did not lose any stock that he knows of yet. But how much better off we are than the people in Huron and Sanilac counties. In Tuscola county there were very few lives lost, but in the other counties they were burned by the hundreds.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The post-office at Ewart, Oscoda county, in this state, was entered the other night, and the safe relieved of its contents—about $900 in cash and stamps, and a smaller amount in money orders. The safe was blown open with gunpowder. The next day the safe was found empty. A passenger train on the Iron Mountain road, Ark., was stopped by robbers Thursday night of last week, between Hope and Emmett, and most systematically and thoroughly "worked" by the gang. Two men took charge of the engine, while three robbed the passengers and express safe, securing about $18,000 in all. $16,000 of which was taken from the express safe. The robbery was daringly executed, and the train men and passengers were so completely paralyzed with fright that no resistance whatever was offered. The railroad company offer a reward of $5,000 each for the capture of the men concerned in the robbery, and the state adds $500 supplementary as an inducement to the apprehension. A fire at Lansing the other day, which was started by a lightning stroke, destroyed Allen, Hall & Co's planing mill and the Lake Shore elevator, doing damage to the amount of $81,000. A duel took place on the 25th between district attorney Lewis and Peyton Wise, of Virginia, despite the efforts of the authorities to prevent it, but without serious consequences. Lewis fired too low and Wise too high, and after this harmless demonstration the seconds arranged an amicable settlement of the difficulty between their principals. It is believed that this will end the "demition row" between the two families, unless other members stir up more mischief. An obscure and very fatal disorder is running its course among the horse population of St. Louis. It is called pink eye. Fully one-third of the animals in that city are said to be attacked by it, and the embarrassment to business is serious. King Kalakua and suite reached New York on the morning of the 23rd. Announcement is made that the White River Utes have abandoned their new reservation in Utah and returned to their old grounds. They are well armed and declare that they will not live on the new location. A stampede of white settlers from the vacated reservation has taken place. For counterfeiting Mexican silver dollars, H. H. Payne, an American resident on Mexican territory, has been jailed by the Mexican authorities. An eloping couple committed matrimony on the fly at Erie, Pa., the other day. They were hotly pursued on the street by the bride's obdurate father, when they halted, called witnesses to hear their mutual agreement to take one another for man and wife, and a sympathizing magistrate subsequently pronounced the ceremony legally binding. The precedent establishes a "simple, cheap and effective" method of entering the wedded state for loving pairs embarrassed by opposing friends or want of the cash required for license and justice fees. Chas. M. Fiske, of Augusta, fell from a hotel window at Ypsilanti Friday night of last week and was killed. The body was found where he fell next morning. How the accident occurred is a mystery. New York has contributed $70,000 in cash to the relief fund for the Michigan sufferers, besides a large quantity of clothing and provisions. Late news from Stanley, the explorer, dated from the Congo river, states that he has been seriously sick, but is again in the enjoyment of robust health. A steam threshing machine boiler exploded last week at Thurlow, Ont., killing three men and injuring four others badly. Quincy, Ill., was visited Saturday by a destructive tornado that destroyed a vast amount of property and caused the death of four men, besides injuring more or less severely twenty others. The Malloys, of New Haven, Conn., are adding to the unsavory flavor of the family name rowing out of the girl Cramer's murder by quarrel among themselves. Last week the large dry goods store of Edward Malley was closed by the sheriff on an attachment suit brought by Michael Carroll and three Malloys, one of them a brother, and the other two nephews, of the proprietor. The latter compromised these suits, and then commenced an action against his troublesome relatives for false and malicious attachment, lodging two of them in jail, in default of bail, where the others will join them as soon as they can be found by the sheriff. It's a nice family all 'round. A terrible cyclone nearly demolished the village of Camden, Ill., Saturday afternoon. Mrs. D. Watts was killed by a falling house, and other persons received hurts. Only two houses were left uninjured in the place when the storm had passed over. For some weeks past the Williams brothers, Wisconsin's famous desperadoes, have been hiding in Calhoun county, Ill., on the Mississippi river, intending to work their way farther west from there as soon as opportunity offered. The officers of the county got wind of it, and on Sunday a posse under sheriff Lammy, of Calhoun county, assisted by another under sheriff Bluffs, of Pike, undertook their capture. Sheriff Lammy's posse came upon the fugitives in a piece of timber, when a sharp fight occurred between them and the officers, in which Lammy was shot dead, and two of his aids received wounds, the desperadoes escaping. Parties are in hot pursuit, and it is believed that they cannot get away this time. The Williams boys were armed with Henry repeating rifles which they have given ghastly proof of their ability and readiness to use with precision and effect. The murdered sheriff was very popular, and his death will be quickly avenged if the murderers are taken. While the memorial services in honor of the dead president were in progress at Atlanta, Ga., Monday, a riot between the negroes and whites broke out that bore fruit in numerous bloody encounters during the day and night in which a number were badly bruised and wounded. The inception of the row was the act of a colored man who became enraged because he couldn't force his way into a hall where exercises appropriate to the occasion were taking place, and who kicked over a stand of arms belonging to a squad of white soldiers of the 5th U. S. artillery in his anger. In return one of the soldiers clubbed him with his musket, when the colored man rallied to his defense and the riot became general. The affair was deeply disgraceful. Some colored troops stationed at the place participated, siding with their civilian brethren, and a dusky captain with several of his company are among the prisoners taken in the melee. No lives were sacrificed, fortunately, though many shots were fired. A terrible dynamite explosion occurred in the yards of the Rock Island depot at Council Bluffs, Iowa, last Monday. Some days previous the Rock Island company received a car load of the explosive for shipment west. It was brought to Council Bluffs, but the Union Pacific Co. refused to receive or forward it, and the stuff was placed in the Rock Island company's yard, awaiting further advice from the consignor. Monday afternoon the car was observed to be on fire, and after an ineffectual attempt to stay the flames the station agent gave word to all parties to flee for their lives. Ten minutes later the explosion took place, scattering ruin on every side. The timely warning given had enabled all to reach a safe distance from the spot, and no lives were lost. The damage to property in the neighborhood was very great. The railway company's freight house, round house and repair shops were entirely demolished, and thirty freight cars were reduced to splinters. Where the car stood a hole was torn in the earth twenty feet deep and nearly one hundred in diameter. Buildings were damaged within a radius of half a mile around, but the remote location of the yards rendered the loss to other than railroad property comparatively light. The railroad was instantly killed and thirty others more or less injured by the derailment of a construction train on the Des Moines Northwestern railroad, seventeen miles northwest of Panora, Iowa, on Monday. During progress of a stockholders' meeting of the Oregon & Nevada railway company at Reno, Nov., Tuesday, a row broke out in which revolvers were freely handled. S. C. Scoville, secretary of the meeting, and a San Francisco man named Baskin, received injuries. It is believed that the latter's will prove fatal. Intense excitement has prevailed at Independence, Mo., during the trial of Bill Ryan, for the Glendale train robbery, the past week. As the trial approached its close the feeling of apprehension caused by the appearance in the town of numerous desperate characters deepened. It was believed that an attempt would be made to rescue Ryan in case of a verdict against him, and governor Crittenden was appealed to for aid, Monday night. He came on at once, with men and arms, and his presence had a marked effect on the conduct of the supposed friends of the noted train robber. A large force of marshals and police are guarding the court house and jail, who can be relied on to thwart any attempt to rescue Ryan, though he boldly avows that Jesse James will deliver him from the grasp of justice if he should be convicted. The trial is nearly over, and its issue is awaited with anxious interest. Geo. W. Hunt, paying teller of the Importers' and Traders' bank, of New York, was committed to the Tombs on Tuesday, charged with having embezzled $16,000 of the bank's funds. Hunt is 42 years of age, and has been for 26 years in the bank's employ, 25 of which he has been teller. His first defalcation was committed in April last. Speculation that turned out unfavorably involved him in the originality. Burr Godfrey was arrested at Vermontville, in this state, Monday last, on suspicion of being engaged in counterfeiting, and was bound over to stand trial after an examination before U. S. commissioner McCutcheon. He is a young married man of 32, and has a family consisting of a wife and three children. An Alpena dispatch gives intelligence of the drowning of a party of four persons off Adams Point Saturday night by the swamping of a boat in which they were out sailing. They were George W. Harrington and daughter, of Crawford's Quarry, Mrs. Patterson, of Rogers City, and a lawyer named Cowles, from Point St. Ignace. None of the bodies were recovered. A locomotive drawing a passenger train on the Hastings and Dakota division on the C. M. & St. P. railroad exploded near Shakopee, Minn., Monday morning, as the train was nearing that place. Grove Bradbury, the engineer, was instantly killed, and the fireman, William Bowers, badly hurt. By mismanagement in handling the transfer boat, the sleeper on the Canada Southern day express, bound for Detroit, was run off to the water while the train was being transferred over the river from Amhtsberg to Grosse Ile early Tuesday morning. As near as can be ascertained, fourteen passengers occupied the coach when it went down, and it is believed that all were rescued, though there is some uncertainty on this point. The boat was run against the dock with such violence as to send the sleeper off heading, and the passenger coach next to it barely escaped following.

FUN WITH THE BOYS.

FLORENCE.—The News states that 800 men are now employed on the Crystal Falls extension, and it will be through by the middle of October if men and money can achieve its completion. The bridge over the Brule is well under way, and iron will be laid to the Falls two weeks after the bridge is finished, weather permitting. Deer hunting is the chief sport now in the vicinity of Florence. The game is quite plenty, as may be inferred from this incident, narrated by the local itemizer: As Mr. Sheldon, of Houghton, was starting to take a ride with a little daughter of "Vint" Northam, and had just got to the east end of town, the little one noticed a line back standing close by, evidently taking a survey of the scenery. Sheldon came back, got a gun and went out and killed him. He was a very large one, but somewhat of a runt. The News rises to correct itself in relation to the increase in the number of school children of the village within the past year. It shows up 250 instead of 24 per cent. We stand appalled. Heavy rains of late have filled the swamps and streams with water, and explorers experience much difficulty in prosecuting work. There was paid out at Florence last month $35,000 and at Commonwealth $12,000, which the News regards as a boss showing for these young points. The Wisconsin and Michigan railroad survey proceeds south of the Commonwealth ridge and close by the villages of Florence and Commonwealth. It is understood that if the road is built along the line of the present survey that a spur will be run to the villages above mentioned. But it is possible that a new survey may be made and a route selected running between the two places and crossing the sink of the Commonwealth ridge further east. Some preparations are being made by settlers along the line of the present survey in anticipation of the road being built along the present line as surveyed. Active operations will probably be commenced next season and the gap between the north and south completed. ESCANABA.—The Port prints a communication from the secretary of the Escanaba & St. Paul railway company in which that official states that his company will "stop at nothing short of a through line connecting Escanaba and St. Paul," although that negotiations for the necessary funds to construct the road are under way and in a promising state of forwardness. A case of speedy justice is noted by the Port. On Monday of last week one Bartle stole a horse, and before the succeeding Monday he had been arrested, tried, convicted, and was on his way to Jackson to serve out a term for the offense in the state penitentiary. We have made inquiry concerning the "rosal" ship, the "Gladstone," ever since the prevalence of the rumor that she was lost, but can get no news of her. She has not been heard of at the Beavers for a month past, nor has any word come about the feet of the lake that we can learn yet, we still keep our faith in Bundy's weather-wisdom and seamanship, and believe he is safe, though we don't know where. ONTAGON.—The Miner reports a meeting held there last week to consider the matter of requiring the M. H. & O. railroad company to commence the building of its road from there forthwith, the sense of which was expressed in this resolution: Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the board of directors of the county supervisors use all legitimate means to require the Marquette, Houghton & Ontagon R. R. Co. to commence the building of their road, at the village of Ontagon. The place has had a taste of railroad, and likes it so well that it cries for more. 'Twill be a sight for gods and men when the county supervisors get to work prodding up the M. H. & O. folks with their ox goads! The Miner learns from Mr. C. J. Wier, in charge of the M. L. S. & W. Ry's Co's survey, that it is now completed from Union Bay to Lake Agogebic, a distance of eight miles, and that a good road with easy grade has been found. From that point the survey will now be extended south until the party surveying through from the Wisconsin side is encountered. Mr. Wier has a large force of men accompanying him, who are cutting out and leveling the route surveyed by him as he progresses. The development of the Agogebic country assures the construction of the road at an early day, concludes the same paper, as many mines will undoubtedly be opened up there the coming year. The locomotive on the new railroad was fired up and made to show her paces for the first time Thursday of last week. SAULT ST. MARIE.—The News has seen a hunter who says that the caribou are moving north, and we are going to have a mild winter. Bless him for a cheerful prophet. We don't care a continental where the caribou go if the prediction based on their movements only comes true. Murray's sawmill, on Sallor's Encampment, is laid up waiting for repairs in consequence of a serious accident. The News remarks that the prosperity of the farmers in that vicinity begins to make itself manifest in substantial improvements on their homesteads. The same paper notes that Wm. Shunk raised on his place this year 1,500 bushels of grain, and others have done equally well. Friday, of last week, was a big day on the canal. Forty-nine vessels, carrying upwards of twenty-five thousand tons of freight, passed through the new lock, and eighteen through the old. This is the best day's work on record. At the state fair Chippewa county was awarded first premium on winter wheat, first and second on spring wheat, and first on peas. The influence of the new lock on navigation is already being materially felt. Cargoes such as were never realized here before are passing down daily. Capt. Wilson's steam barge, Hiawatha, with her two consorts, Minnehaha and Goshawk, locked through with 12,000 bushels of 3,000 tons of wheat on board, or the equivalent of 271 car loads, while the Davidson on the 19th carried 49,000 bushels, or about 109 car loads.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FROM THE HERALD OF WEDNESDAY we glean particulars of a shocking murder which was committed there on Monday afternoon, followed Tuesday night by the lynching of the murderers, Frank and Jack McDonald. About two years ago the two McDonalds, who were brothers, were convicted of a penitentiary offense and sent up for 18 months. Their term expired recently, and they returned to Menominee and went to work in one of the saw mills. Since their return they have repeatedly intimated that they had come back to pay off some old grudges. About two o'clock Monday afternoon they visited a house of ill-fame in the suburbs of the place, where they provoked a quarrel with one Wm. Kittson. A brother of the latter, named Norman, interfered in his behalf, when one Tommy Dunn joined in with the McDonalds, and a desperate fight resulted. After it was over Wm. Kittson lay dead, and his brother Norman was wounded so that his recovery is doubtful. Sheriff Barclay was notified, and promptly arrested the McDonalds and Dunn, together with the inmates of the house where the murder took place, lodging the whole party in jail. News of the tragedy spread on the streets, and produced strong excitement among the people, to whom the vicious character of the McDonalds was well known. Threats of lynching were freely made, but though the sheriff took the precaution of adding to the force guarding the jail, he had no fears of any attempt to anticipate the course of justice. But the desire for swift and summary vengeance grew as the atrocious butchery was discussed, and Tuesday evening people began to gather at the court house. By ten o'clock an immense crowd surrounded the jail, and a demand for the prisoners was made. The sheriff chose to make but little resistance. The jail was soon entered, and the two McDonalds secured. Ropes were placed around their necks, and they were told that a few minutes would be given them to pray. The elder brother defied the mob, but the younger begged piteously for his life. They were then dragged along the street toward the barn where Kittson was murdered, but both men were dead before the place was reached, so the bodies were hung to the sign board, the railroad crossing for a time, being afterwards cut down and strung up again on a tree in front of the den where the tragedy of the previous day occurred. The mob then completed its work by setting the infamous place on fire. The bodies were left hanging until Wednesday morning, when they were cut down and taken in charge by the authorities. This shocking affair is deplored by the best citizens of the place, who feel that the fair name of the town has been deeply stained by this exhibition of brutal lawlessness—wholly inexcusable in a community where the laws are ample to protect society and punish those by whom its peace is disturbed. John L. Buell was seen in attendance on the Milwaukee and Chicago expositions within the past fortnight, which the Herald regards as sufficient proof that he didn't lose his scalp in Arizona. Maybe he "vares a vig." The bridge across the river is settling down in a threatening way, and a disaster is imminent unless timely repairs are made. That fountain at the K. C. Co's boarding house is now down 250 feet. It is of six-inch calibre. The company are after flowing fresh water or salt, and don't give a continental which way may be struck. All the drives are down, and the mills have all the logs they will need for this season. The cut will reach 30,000,000 feet. BUSINESS NOTICES. These lands were selected by experts, for mineral or timber, at a time when but very little land had been purchased from the Government in their vicinity, consequently the lands of the company are invariably the most desirable for either minerals or pine or other timber in the district in which they lie.

Menominee Iron Range, Gogebic Iron Range, Ontonagon Copper District, Silver District of Iron River.

THE MINERAL LANDS of the company are now offered for lease, on reasonable terms, and options given for purposes of examination. Eight of the best and largest mines in the Menominee iron district are on the lands of this company: i. e. East Vulcan (two mines), New Vulcan, Curry, Norway, Cyclops, Ludington, and Sturgeon—and this number will undoubtedly be increased during the present year.

The Mining Journal.

ISHPEMING, OCTOBER 1, 1881.

CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY Time of departure of passenger trains from Ishpeming, in effect 1881: Leave for Chicago and the East... 1:15 P. M. Arrive from... E. D. BRIGHAM Agent.

THE daylight goes out by mining time again. THE Cleveland Co. is putting up an addition to the mine office.

MR. AND MRS. F. M. SACKRIDER returned from their wedding tour Thursday. LUMBER dealers still find it hard to supply the demand for building material.

NOW is the time to advertise your fall and winter stocks of goods in the MINING JOURNAL. HARWOOD's new store is nearly completed, and will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks.

SOME of the disreputable element of this city made a sort of picnic of the president's funeral day. ENOUGH rain every week lately to keep the hematite well in hand, which make the housewives happy.

TALEEN, JOCHIM & Co.—well their new stock of goods must be seen to be appreciated. Call on them. HOUSES to rent are as scarce as ever, after all the scores of new buildings erected during the summer.

THE usual cry for more cars goes up from the mines, where they are striving to move out all the ore possible. THE dance given by the German Social club was very successful, both financially and socially, for the club.

MR. E. HILL leaves for below in a day or two to lay in a supply of the finest groceries the market can afford. P. H. CARROLL, Esq., now a resident of Caseville, Mich., has been in this place on a visit during the past two weeks.

THE sneezers have quit sneezing and gone home, and we are left to enjoy the beautiful autumn days all alone by ourselves. MAXWELL now occupies his new furniture store. It is a fine place, and Mr. M. displays a fine stock of furniture therein.

THE Ishpeming orchards (potato patches) look well, and if there is no frost in the very near future a good crop is promised. SECOND street is being graded north of the Northwestern railroad track. It is rapidly being turned into a passable thoroughfare.

D. F. WADSWORTH is putting the grounds about his residence under cultivation. He will soon have his house ready for occupancy. SOME vagabonds about town felt so sad over the death of Garfield that they dressed their eyes in mourning and have worn them so ever since.

E. HILL is at work fitting up the store in Heineman's block, vacated by Maxwell, preparatory to putting in his stock of groceries and provisions. WONDER if we will ever hear from that water works committee? It looks very much as though the water works question is at rest for the present.

MOCKLER's building has come to a standstill on Cleveland avenue, waiting for the house mover to sober off and roll it along to its new quarters. IT will not be long, judging from present indications, before the C. & N. W. R'y will have a continuous line of road between here and Michigamme.

DERAGO's band is again on deck furnishing music for the various social dancing clubs here. Dominick is an old stand-by and furnishes good music. THERE hasn't been a genuine sensation, or any excitement from which one could write up a first class item, for weeks, and yet you all expect to see the paper full of news.

PINE street, where it has recently been opened, remains in an unimproved condition. If, as is claimed by many, the street is a necessity, it ought to be improved at once, now that it is opened. WHEN sinking test pits for ore it is good policy to sink them in your back yard. Then, if you don't find ore, you can use the pits for wells, as it is seldom that you fail to strike water.

GENERAL Superintendent Marvin Hughtit, and other officers of the C. & N. W. R'y, were in town Thursday looking over the survey of the new route between here and Michigamme. THE committee appointed to rent additional room, to relieve the overcrowded state of the union school house, have scoured the city in vain for suitable apartments, and have given up the matter for the present. Only half day sessions of the primary schools are therefore admissible to give all the children the benefit of the school for this term, half the scholars attending in the forenoon and half in the afternoon. The builders who planned the union school house did not fully consider the fecundity of our population, or if they did, they paid no regard to it; hence our schools are now in this overcrowded state. AN immense quantity of coal has been laid in by everybody for the coming winter, and for once the supply promises to be adequate.

LIGHTNING struck L. McClaskey's residence at the New York mine Thursday night. It was a very heavy bolt, however, and no serious damage was done. SUPERINTENDENTS of mines situated outside of the corporate limits complain of the scarcity of men. Miners will not go out in the country to work as long as there is enough to do in town.

THE base ballists got on their ear rather late in the season, and on account of the continued rains, and approaching cold weather, the back talk among the clubs will probably not result in much. GIL HODGKINS is building a mammoth barn on Pine street, which reaches the whole length of a block from Pearl street to Cleveland avenue. He will fill it with a lot of horses which he will keep on sale there.

ISHPEMING has done her full share for the relief of the Michigan fire sufferers. The cash contributions amounted to $664 07. Ten big boxes of clothing, mostly new, have also been forwarded, the estimated value of the latter being placed at $1,200.

THE bathing and drowning season is over except so far as the oyster is concerned, whose troubles are just beginning. The innocent bivalves will be drowned in bowls of tepid water and their dead bodies sold for fifty cents each during the next six months. THE first social party of the season, given by the Waltz Club Tuesday evening, was well attended and a very enjoyable occasion. There is nothing like a Waltz Club hop for genuine enjoyment, and it is hoped they will continue their hops during the coming winter.

A CROWD of men and boys hung Guitau in effigy Monday afternoon. They do not stop to think that it is just such notoriety as this which the wretch craves, and that it was for the purpose of obtaining it he shot the president. Hanging him in effigy is merely exalting such a paltry knave as Guitau.

THEY WERE SEVEN.—Seven arrests were made last Sunday at a First street saloon, where a lot of bums congregated and got drunk for want of anything else to do on that day. They were stored away in the city jug for safe keeping over night, and were appropriately decorated with fines by justice Kennedy the following morning.

ISHPEMING asserts itself more and more every day. We have larger and finer stores, and more of them, than any town on the peninsula, and the number is increasing all the time. And there is ample opportunity for them all to do a good business, from the trade that is coming here from surrounding towns and mining locations. AT Jos. Sellwood's store the fall stock is all in, and the shelves are crowded with an elegant display of goods for fall and winter wear. Mr. Sellwood keeps a neat store and a complete stock of goods. He always gives perfect satisfaction to his large number of customers, and few of them ever have occasion to go elsewhere.

THE Norwegian Lutheran congregation has extended a call to the Rev. Gerhard Gjertson, of Rochester, Minn., and the latter has accepted the same. He will arrive here Nov. 9th, to take charge of the spiritual welfare of that flock. The Norwegian Lutheran society is to be congratulated upon securing the services of a divine so able as Mr. Gjertson. The gentleman was in this city during the recent conference, and his short acquaintance with the people here has led to his being called. Mr. Gjertson's learning is not confined to the Norwegian language, but he is also an English scholar, and during his visit here delivered a lecture in the English language.

THE FUNERAL DAY.—In accordance with the request of mayor pro tem. O. E. Downing, all business was suspended in Ishpeming last Monday. No work was done at the mines or workshops, while trains were pretty generally suspended on the railroads. Services were held morning and afternoon at the several churches. No public demonstration was made. The nearest approach to a parade was the procession of the I. O. O. F. lodge from the lodge room to the Presbyterian church in the afternoon. That church was crowded to its utmost capacity, and the people there were addressed by the Rev. A. F. Ashley. A large number from here went to Marquette to take part in the more elaborate ceremonies there, crowding the down trains morning and noon. The feeling generally was a very sad one, and the sorrow for the illustrious dead was profound.

NEGAUNEE.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Fox buried an infant child on Sunday.

Will the council defer purchase of the Marquette property until it is everlastingly too late?

MILLER & ROESSLER have succeeded to the proprietorship of the red front green grocery, having purchased the same of C. Stoppentach.

REV. L. E. LENNOX, the newly appointed pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, has arrived in the city and will preach his initiatory sermon to-morrow.

We are pleased to chronicle the marriage of Mr. Ernest Meyer, the watchmaker at Cyr's, to Miss Bertha Peterman, of Milwaukee, which event took place in that city last week. We congratulate.

FEIBISH has gone to Cincinnati and Louisville, where he proposes purchasing a stock of the choicest liquors to be found in those markets. The goods will be along soon, and everybody will want to sample 'em.

THERE is good prospect that the local and Ishpeming base ball clubs will yet meet on the diamond field in a contest for $100 a side. Arrangements are being made for a game next Thursday; but there is lots of time to "kick" between now and that day.

AUSTIN B. MORSE has returned from his purchasing visit south and east, and the establishment of Morse Bros. & Co. will soon be filled with the result of his carefully selected purchases. They will have a stock of goods that will paralyze other dealers with astonishment.

The common council has at last settled the city attorneyship question by deciding that Jones can legally hold the office, or at least that they will let him hold it anyway whether he can do so legally or not. The question was settled by a vote of four to three. The mayor's pus is laudable, and his temperature frigid.

The saw mill of Isaac Johnson, at Teal Lake, was set in motion last Saturday for the purpose of a test. The machinery worked well, and as soon as some little additions can be made, the hum of the buzz saw will be a familiar noise, for it will run every day. Mr. Johnson also contemplates the addition of a sash, door and blind factory in the near future.

BAT McCARTHY, the man who gained considerable notoriety early in the summer as the father of healthy triplets, came up from Escanaba last week, got drunk and cruelly beat his wife. He was taken in custody by the marshal. This inhuman monster has on one or two former occasions maltreated his wife and family, and it is about time the law should protect them from a repetition of his drunken and devilish caprices.

THE OLD STORY.—A most horrible and distressing accident occurred at the Chicago mine Wednesday noon, wherein the victim, Mr. Josiah Ellis, the pit boss, was so fearfully injured that when his death comes, as it probably soon will, it will be welcome to the sufferer. The cause of the accident was a blast, and though no one was present to witness the calamity, yet it is believed that it was caused by Ellis' revisiting the hole to see why the blast did not explode. The theory is that he had lit the fuse, and after waiting longer than the time necessary for the charge to explode, went back to the hole just in time to get the full force of the charge in the face and head, which threw him a distance of fifteen feet.

When picked up the injured man was found to be frightfully mangled and nearly dead. The flesh was torn from his neck and face, his upper lip cut off and both eyes blown out, and an examination by the physician revealed the fact that his skull had been fractured in three places, so that it is almost an impossibility for him to recover. Ellis was a robust, unmarried man of 35 years of age, and was held in the highest esteem by his fellows.

IN MEMORIAM.—In pursuance to the proclamation of the mayor, Monday last, the day of the funeral of president Garfield, was observed as a time of mourning throughout the city, business of all kinds being discontinued and memorial services held by the different congregations. The city was quite generally draped with the insignia of death, and some of the business blocks and private dwellings were decorated in a tasty, and even beautiful, manner. Owing to the absence of the pastor of the M. E. church, the Presbyterians united with that congregation in their church, which was fittingly draped for the sad occasion. The sermon, delivered by Rev. H. E. Davis, is pronounced by those who heard it as being one of power, and touchingly appropriate. At the close of the sermon Mr. Luzerne Frost read selections bearing on the character of the martyr, from the recent speech of Hon. Emory A. Storrs, of Chicago, and Jno. Q. Adams, Esq., delivered a short but effective and truthful eulogy on the character of the dead president, and his remarks impressed the audience more than ever with a sense of the great loss the country sustained in the untimely and terrible death of this great man of the people—the christian statesman. The service at the Episcopal church was none the less impressive, the church being also beautifully draped, and decorated with floral offerings. The sermon of the rector was able and befitting the occasion. At the hour for the services the bells tolled mournfully, and all the air a solemn stillness bore, telling that the hearts of the people were bowed down with a great grief. No other great national calamity could touch the chords of sympathy in the hearts of the people as did the martyrdom of Garfield, yet they bowed in submission to the hand of Him who ruleth all things well, and will watch with longing eyes for any good that may come from so mysterious and seemingly unwise a dispensation.

THE FAIR.—Monday evening will be the opening night of the Catholic fair at Winter's hall, an event which the members of the Catholic congregation in this city are eagerly looking forward to in the hope that it will put in their treasury an amount sufficient to enable them to prosecute the Lord's work with a larger zeal, and thus do more valiant service in securing recruits for the army that is "marching to Zion" and a mansion not made with hands. The principal feature of the opening night will be a drama, entitled "The Poor of New York," presented by an array of local artists, who have been practicing long and faithfully, and will not fail to do themselves credit, and delight and edify their audience as well. The remaining nights of the week will be devoted to "taking chances," and we hope all our young men, and old ones, too, will go prepared to invest largely, for it will be impossible for them to withstand the wifing winsomeness of the charming creatures who will approach them with tickets. There is always lots of amusement at a church fair, even if it is a religio-monevo affair, and any one who goes will never regret the sacrifice of a few paltry shillings—which, after all, you know, really belongs to the Lord, and are only given us in trust. In some Catholic fairs dancing is permitted, and to the young man who loves this sport this feature will be an added inducement for gathering him in. To encircle the dainty waist of some still more dainty member of the church militant and whirl in the "dizzy duteh," so to speak, will place him in a rapture of rapturousness too awfully utter for comprehension. Supper will be served by fairies in white slippers at a slight advance on the cost of the "lay out." The tickets for the first night, including the play, have been placed at the low price of 35 and 50 cents. On each succeeding night of the week 15 cents will pay the gate fee. Let all go who can, and thus aid a noble work. If you can't go, or won't, send 'em a dollar, and take our word for it the money will not be refunded.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is such a remedy, and no other so eminent, that it is invaluable to every community. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the best drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergymen's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has effected all over the world are a sufficient guarantee that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—A special meeting of the council was held on the 24th day of September, 1881, at which the Mayor presided. There were present Aldermen Deary, Prentice, Mutially, Lyons, Pickands, Williams and Mack. The minutes of the former meeting was dispensed with.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.—The committee on streets, sewers and bridges presented the following report, which on motion was accepted and ordered placed on file:

To the Honorable, the Mayor, and Common Council of the City of Marquette: Your committee has examined the work done, under contract, by Patrick O'Keefe, as per assessment roll No. 1, and by Charles Bohm as per assessment roll No. 2 and 3, and find the work has been done in accordance with the contracts and to the satisfaction of the street commissioner, and the same has been accepted by your committee. We herewith present our statement of the cost of said work, together with the amounts paid to each contractor, and the amounts now due them.

Table with 2 columns: Description of work and Amount. Includes items like 'Assessment to the city for street crossings' and 'Contract of Patrick O'Keefe'.

Table with 2 columns: Description of tax and Amount. Includes 'For general fund', 'For highway fund', 'For school fund', and 'For water fund'.

ANSE.—A mass meeting was held here on the evening of Friday, Sept. 25, at Welch's hall, to consider the feasibility of taking action to compel the M. H. & O. R'y company to build a road from Ontonagon to L'Anse.

Another cargo of coal for the M. H. & O. company was unloaded here this week, from the schooner Bunker. The railway people don't propose to run short of fuel next winter, it is plain to see.

The village committee on health should take steps to have that pool of water on Mrs. D. Curry's lot drained off. It is a disease breeder, and it is a shame to permit it to stand, an unsightly menace to the health of our village.

A party of persons connected with the Iowa Central railroad came here in a car of their own the latter part of last week, ostensibly on a pleasure trip. At any rate we couldn't ascertain that they had any other object. From here they went on a fishing expedition to the head of Keweenaw Bay. They seemed either not to know, or not to care, that the season for taking trout is past, and no one here felt called upon to inform, or interfere with, them.

Some of the young hoodlums about town will get themselves into trouble, and the lock-up, unless they quit throwing stones promiscuously, as is their habit. While standing on the railroad track talking with a friend the other day, Mr. J. B. Swift was struck and severely hurt by one of the missiles.

Michael Bower, county clerk of Ontonagon county, was here visiting friends the past week.

Monday, the 26th inst., was a sad and memorable day in this village, as all over the land. Our business houses were closed as a mark of respect to the memory of the late president, and all public and many private buildings were draped in mourning.

At one o'clock p. m. a procession was formed at the fire engine house, composed of citizens, societies and school children, which paraded the principal streets to the Methodist church, where hymns were sung by the choir and a brief eulogy on the late president pronounced by E. L. Mason, after prayer by Rev. Markham.

No Preparation on earth equals St. Jacobs Oil as a safe, sure, simple and cheap External Remedy. A trial entails but the comparatively trifling outlay of 50 Cents, and every suffering with pain can have clear and positive proof of its claims.

BUROCK'S BLOOD BITTERS. MR. J. G. ROBERTSON, Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "I was suffering from general debility, want of appetite, constipation, etc., so that life was a burden; after using Burdock's Blood Bitters I felt better than for years. I cannot praise your Bitters too much."

MR. BRUCE TURNER, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "I have been subject to serious disorder of the kidneys, and unable to attend to business; Burdock's Blood Bitters relieved me before half a bottle was used. I feel confident that they will entirely cure me."

MR. ASSETH HALL, Binghamton, N. Y., writes: "I suffered with a dull pain through my left lung and shoulder. Lost my spirits, appetite and color, and could with difficulty keep up all day. Took your Burdock Blood Bitters as directed, and have felt no pain since first week after using them."

MR. NOAH BATES, Elmira, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I had an attack of bilious fever, and never fully recovered. I can now, though 61 years of age, do a fair and reasonable day's work."

MR. BLACKET ROBINSON, Prop'r of the Canada Presbyterian Toronto, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered greatly from off-occurring headaches. I used your Burdock Blood Bitters with happiest results, and I now find myself in better health than for years past."

SWEET'S PATENT Common Sense Sleigh. The Strongest, Most Durable, AND MOST PERFECT SLEIGH IN USE.

RESPECTFULLY CALL THE ATTENTION of Lumbermen to this cut, showing Sweet's Logging and Supply Sleighs. We are now making eight different sizes, suitable for all kinds of work, both double and single, and of any width of track desired.

It is a well-known fact that these sleighs will draw larger loads, with more ease of draft, than any other sleigh produced. They are built loose jointed, so that each runner will act independent of each other, and will not tip over in bad places, as the common stiff-jointed sleigh is sure to do.
