{ THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR.

NEW SERIES, No. 721.

A. P. SWINEFORD, J. A. HORNSTEIN.

ESTABLISHED IN 1846.

NEUBERGER has something to say to the public on another page, and he says it in his own inimitable way. Feruse before purchasing, gentle reader.

MR. OSHINSKY is now comfortably settled in the Foard Bros. old quarters, corner of Front and Superior streets, and the latter firm is nicely established in its new stand.

J. C. MORSE, Esq., got home early this week. His family yet remain in Paris. The gentleman shows evidence of having enjoyed his journeyings and sojournings abroad.

JUST to be in the fashion, we suppose, Jos. Zryd has moved his paint shop, and now makes signs for all sorts of weather at new quarters on Spring street, next door to the National hotel.

LAST season masters of vessels made complaint that there were not sufficient places to tie up in the harbor. The ore dock extensions have obviated that difficulty, and we hear no grumbling this spring.

THE extension to the merchandise dock is now planked over and in shape to receive freight. Vesselsmen and shippers will find this addition to the facilities of that dock an advantage they will appreciate.

RENTS are still going up, and the point will soon be reached where an exodus from Marquette will set in; when the evil will correct itself. Meanwhile the city will suffer, but what do the landlords care for that?

A DENSE fog came down upon us Monday forenoon, and the dismal toot of the fog horn sounded incessantly at intervals of thirty seconds for the subsequent twenty-four hours. It was a tough dose to start in on, but we still survive.

E. O. STAFFORD & Bro.'s fine crockery store opens out with a superb line of novelties this spring, and also offers special bargains in stone china for the remainder of this month. Their announcement will be found elsewhere in this paper.

THE demand for space in our advertising columns compels us to give up more of the paper to advertisers than we really like to spare. But the business men have ever stood by the MINING JOURNAL, and the paper will not fall them in this, their day of prosperity. 'Twill increase its size first.

IN this issue we publish a large illustration of Messrs F. W. Read & Co.'s new lumber dryer at Eagle Mills. It is now finished and in operation. It has a capacity of over 25,000 feet of lumber, and will add greatly to the facilities of this firm. It is, besides, the only lumber dryer on the upper peninsula.

MR. RICHARD BLAKE returned home from Indiana Thursday, after a two week's sojourn among the Hoosiers. He reports having had a "right smart time," lots of warm weather and bushels of strawberries. And if there is any one who knows how to enjoy the good things of life, it is this same Richard Blake.

If occasion arises the MINING JOURNAL will have a word of warning to whisper in the ears of Marquette maidens. A recent arrival here, who hails from the wicked city of Chicago, will understand what this means, if other readers do not, and a hint in time may spare us the necessity of more extended remarks later.

GOOD work has been done on Front street by the street cleaning brigade, but there are yet a few back streets and side alleys which give notice that they need attention from somebody. On warm days the notice is served on the olfactory of passers-by, and with an emphasis that provokes much profanity. Clean 'em up.

STEEL rails are being put down on the M. H. & O. company's ore dock and approaches thereto this week. In time the track between here and the larger mines will be all relaid with steel, when there will not be so many ore train disasters to report. The sooner this improvement can be made the better for the company and its patrons.

PROF. VAUGHN has organized a juvenile dancing class, which will take its initial lesson this afternoon at Cole's hall. Under the professor's direction the little ones will rapidly acquire those graces of manner and motion which constitute a distinguishing mark of good breeding, and which cannot be acquired too early in life. The class starts off with a good membership.

REPORT says that the Osceola, the new steamer building for Ward's Lake Superior line, will be one of the finest propellers afloat. It is sincerely to be regretted that Capt. Ward has not seen his way clear to put on a line of passenger boats. The people of Lake Superior are about tired of being compelled to patronize the present illiberal and grasping steamboat monopoly with which they have so long been afflicted.

LARGE quantities of herring have been taken in the bay during the week. These are a delicate fish, and delicious eating when properly cooked. This fish is the famed "cisco" of other localities, and much affected by epicures, but are not regarded as much of a novelty here, no doubt because anyone can provide himself with a mess at no greater expense than a dime or a little personal exertion.

CARD OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.—In compliance with the request contained in the following card, we give it a place in our columns:

ESQ. MINING JOURNAL: I desire, through your paper, to tender my sincere thanks to the friends whose many acts of kindness to my late wife during her illness, and whose sympathy for me in my bereavement, have imposed upon me a debt of gratitude that I shall never be able to fully discharge. May God in his mercy for many years spare to them their loved ones be the earnest wish of my heart.

Republic, May 10, 1882.

CINDERS.

"The man who saw a rent in a cloud must have been a Marquette landlord."

There is a young man in town who took his first lesson in a foreign language, and he swears he don't want to know any more of it for the balance of his days.

Jim Bennett stretched his thin legs under Arthur's mahogany the other day, and the Herald may be ranked as a solid supporter of the administration from this onward.

Greyhound blue is the latest shade for trailing dresses and frocks, and is much in vogue. It is a good run, -New Orleans Picayune. So 'twill if it sticks to the trail.

It's a wonder some enthusiastic Irish patriot doesn't bill Parnell's anatomy with lead. There is more danger in being a friend of Ireland than one of her enemies, it would seem.

Sam Fifield announces that he will soon issue a daily from his office. His weekly indicates what the daily will be the venture won't involve any extensive outlay of labor, money or brains.

Where the Georgia minstrels made their mistake in Ireland, and where the public makes its mistake in attending the dismal ghost of a minstrel performance there they are hawking about the country.

Bill Vanderbil's wife has just hired a cook at a salary of $3,000 a year, and she feels that she can't wish up a dinner for her guests without having to apologize for the quality of the biscuit or the toughness of the pie crust.

Griffey wants somebody to hunt him up a woman who can sharpen a pencil or throw a ball of yarn. Are we to infer that he finds the tasks of editing his paper and keeping the chickens out of his kitchen garden at the same time too severe a strain on his capacity?

Patti tells the newspapers through a reporter that her ambition now is "to live quietly and sing to the poor." Her ambition in this is a new development, but she was always fond of singing to the poor. The admission price for her concerts was enough to reduce her audience to that state.

Don Henderson, the pious printer of the Atlantic, sent out a half sheet last week, and he explained the reduction in size by stating that it was in consequence of measures in vogue by him to purify his office. If Don persists in this good work he will soon be issuing a paper the size of a postage stamp. To eliminate the wickedness of his publication will surely be a tremendous task.

It was announced a couple of weeks since that like Stephen was going to try for Congress next fall, and on the heels of that comes the news that he has sold one of his trotting horses for $1,000. He is evidently a good ready, but Cinders apprehends that would rake in more stakes if he kept the trotter on the turf and kept out of the congressional race himself.

The editor-in-chief is in receipt of a what an angry word. The man who expressed yesterday from a friend in Wisconsin, who supposed that the trout-fishing season had opened. He has hired a boy to herd the trout in a vacant lot for the present, and is feeding the wrigglers on liver to keep them in condition for use. The MINING JOURNAL staff will advise the hunter when the trout get to be as fat as the paper may expect to see its columns scribbled with a weird, uncouthly phosphorescent.

The Adrian Times announces that Professor Emil Franklin, the distinguished educator and teacher of German, is in correspondence with Prof. Cooker, looking to opening classes here. The professor has a high reputation in both branches, and is a reader of the highest praise. The Adrian must be a noble community, if we may judge of them by their local papers. Professor Emil Franklin is a very capable man, and endorses the motto which he of the Times does in the burlesque writes himself in the advertisement. "Professor," indeed! The fellow is the loathsome remains of a once prosperous extractor of corn!

Contrasting the poet and the humorist a writer in the London Spectator observes: "The poet looks through lower things upward; the humorist looks through higher things downward. The poet is more intellectual sympathy than the humorist is. The poet's work deals with the loftiest things in his vision attains; the humorist uses his loftiest wit to illustrate what is beneath him. The poet is rather shy of the humorist; the poet dreads and resents ridicule, but who can fault the humorist? The poet in his poetry aims at gravity; the humorist cannot but smile, even at the breaking of his own neck. This is a very true, and very wise, and what puzzles Cinders, after studying intently upon it, is to decide where in thunder to place Tom Reid!

Cinders is in receipt of an invitation from a valued friend down in Wisconsin, to make one of a chicken-hunting party when the geese are ripe next season, out in the woods. "We expect you to be of the party," our friend writes, "and I want you to begin practicing with a shotgun now, so that by the time the season opens you will be able to hit something besides a hat fifteen paces off; and also that your companions on the trail of the festal fowl may feel proper confidence in your skill as a marksman instead of the harrowing sense of personal peril with which you have hitherto inspired them when you came on the turf with a shotgun in your hands!" With much more in the same strain, clear through to the signature. Now, Cinders, do you walk from here to Minnesota to "jine" that same party, but he resents the slur upon his skill with the shotgun embodied in the invitation, and he is going to get his revenge by telling how he came to "shoot the jolly" away from the woods, and how he got the jolly out of above. It was a jolly party—as jolly as good spirits, animals, glorious weather and just the right number of just the right sort of good fellows could make it. The party was invaded Minnesota during the chicken season on an expedition similar to that projected for the coming summer. Most of the party were good shots, but though we made our shotgun talk just as loudly as any of 'em it was without corresponding results in the shape of chickens bagged. Finally the boys began to hector us on our bad shooting, the most merciless of the lot being the writer of the invitation quoted from in the prelude to this story. "Look here," cried he after we had made a particularly bad miss, "did you ever shoot anything with a gun in your life? Why, it's right full to waste powder and shot in this way! 'Spose you could hit a barn, eh?" "You keep cool till the next conveyer is put up," was our answer, "and you'll see some fine shooting. A man who comes from a civilized community, where good manners are plenty and game scarce, can't be expected to hold his own in a—just then up rose a whole flock of chickens, and crash—bang! went both barrels of our rifles under the firing birds, not one missed. Then the other fellows began to play upon them, and at every shot a chicken would close its eyes and drop dead, not one escaped. When the carnage was over our tormentor resumed his badinage. "By George," said he, "I might have thought you were a chicken when you pointed your infernal fuses my way, but I didn't scare worth a cent—got too much confidence in your bad marksmanship for that. Think you could hit my hat at ten paces?" he inquired, derisively, as he gracefully shielded a nice new five dollar felt hat in the air. We blazed away at the hat as it circled in the air, purposely aiming clear above it, and it fluttered unharmed to the ground. Then the abuse broke out afresh, and C—'s sarcasm grew more withering, as he ironically invited us to try another shot, at the same time sending the hat on a second aerial excursion. "Better wear your hat, old fellow; you can't afford to have a five dollar hat all shot to pieces just to let another man demonstrate that he's just as good a shot as you, with a little practice." "Never mind about me," he exclaimed hotly. "I'll risk the hat, and bet you five dollars besides that you can't hit my hat at fifteen paces!" "Now, look here," said we, in an expostulatory tone, "don't be foolish! We missed your hat purposely—didn't want to ruin the hat and we don't want to win your money—so now let us drop the matter and talk about something else."

"No you don't," he broke in, "you've either got to back down or take the bet. You can't hit the hat and you know it, but I'm not going to let you off without that admission or until that will prove my opinion to be correct." "All right," was our reply, "state the terms of the wager so there'll be no misunderstanding subsequently, choose a judge between us, and let the circus begin. It was soon arranged. A third party was chosen, and the company looking on and throw the hat in the air; were to have the privilege of firing both barrels of our piece at it. If we hit the hat the money was ours, if we missed it the owner of the impudently took the wealth. The preliminaries being all settled, the umpire and interested parties took their places, the rest of the company looking on from a safe distance; and at the word the man chosen to leave the hat sent it spinning twenty feet in the air, and it fell as he judged, it seemed to poise itself in the air for a second, and then gently descended until it rested on the sward, twenty paces away. All this while its owner looked on breathlessly, while we stood carelessly holding our weapon. "Why the d—d didn't you shoot?" he queried as the hat touched the ground. "You'll understand in a minute," came the answer, as we slowly raised our piece and took deliberate aim at the money in the air. "You'll understand in a minute," with which words both barrels were discharged in succession while a cry of horror broke from C—'s pallid lips. When the smoke had cleared away the hat was discovered lying where it fell, a wreck of its former self. "What the d—d did you do that for?" said the disappointed owner, as he looked at the torn remains, and comprehended the full extent of his calamity. "To win the wager, and convince you that you could hit your hat in the first place if we wanted to," was our calm reply. The answer didn't appear to soothe him, and he looked at us with a malignant glare, and that he could never again look upon us as a friend, but his amicable mischievous recent receipt assures us that time has softened though to this hour he has stubbornly refused to admit that he lost the wager, and still owes us five dollars that we persist in claiming was fairly won.

STRAWBERRIES made their advent in our market this week. It doesn't cost a cent to look at the beauties, but a man mustn't think of shortcake for some weeks yet unless he has a bank account to draw upon or owns a share or two of iron stock.

The National hotel is getting ready to entertain summer guests. It is taking a fresh coat of paint on the outside, and undergoing a thorough course of freshening up within that will render it cool and comfortable during the summer months. The reported sale of the house proves to have been a trifle too premature. Mr. Jellison is still the host of the National, and under a new lease, the sale to Mr. Carey having fallen through.

We are informed that the hour of departure of the morning passenger train on the D., M. & M. road is to be changed from 6 o'clock to 7—a decided change for the better as regards the convenience of travelers. Six o'clock is too early an hour for people who can afford to travel by rail to be under the necessity of quitting their beds. The change brings the time of starting within the reach of fishing parties who may want to use this line.

One year ago Thursday, the 11th, the shipping season at this port opened. By the same date this spring the aggregate of ship shipments had reached a grand total of 1,742,000 lbs. of merchandise had been received by boat, and the novelty of seeing vessels arrive and depart daily had entirely worn off. The early opening of the shipping season this year has given business in this section a big start, which it promises to hold during the season.

A LARGE audience witnessed the performance of Sprague's Georgia minstrels at Mather's hall Thursday evening. The verdict of most of those composing it is that the show was more "flat, stale and unprofitable" than ever before, which is tolerably conclusive proof that it was not good to be within range of the end-men's rusty, smutty jokes. Very many of the Georgia minstrel troupes are ripe for the grave, and the sooner they shuffle off the stage the better.

W. C. BROWN & Co. have their knitting factory established in their new location on Washington street now, where they are making socks by wholesale and selling them by retail, or otherwise, as customers may elect. This institution is building up a fine jobbing trade in the towns of the upper peninsula, and the boys say that Marquette people shall have a chance to buy the home article if they don't lay up a cent. Their goods look well and wear better, and what more can a body ask?

A THEATRICAL company that comes well recommended will occupy the stage at Mather's hall Wednesday night next, on which occasion the popular artist, Georgia Woodthorpe, supported by the well-known actor, Mr. F. A. Cooper, and others not unknown to the public in their profession, will present the comedy drama, "Dash, or the Girl of Eldorado." The company will be with us but one night, and those who desire to witness its performance should secure seats at once. For sale at Conklin's.

MR. McNAMARA purposes adding a billiard room to the attractions of his place at Clark'sburg shortly. He is doing a fine business this spring. The sawmill at the same place is running now, and has a supply of logs on hand sufficient to last a couple of months. These items a MINING JOURNAL reporter noted during a flying visit this week, but he didn't have time to enquire if the boom in village lots continues, or whether the price of such property is still appreciating.

THE celebrated physicians, Dr. Kierstead & Wesley, of Chicago, whose specialty is the treatment of chronic diseases which baffle the skill of ordinary practitioners, are at the Tremont house this week, where they may be consulted until Wednesday noon next. These gentlemen have a record of successful cures to show in proof of their skill in the healing art. Persons afflicted with long-standing ailments will do well to take advantage of this chance to consult medical advisors who give confidence assurance of relief.

BARLEY and potatoes are the crops our farmers will spread themselves on this season. There is a market right at home for all of both that can be raised, and at remunerative prices. Meeske & Hoch, the enterprising brewers of this place, are doing much to stimulate the production of barley in the county, and the high price of potatoes is having a similar effect on the cultivation of that wholesome root. The acreage devoted to each of these crops will be much greater this year than any previous one in the history of the county.

THE disorder from which John Reidinger had been a sufferer caused his death Saturday night last, and he quietly passed away about midnight. The deceased was an old resident of Marquette, having lived here over twelve years. He was 54 years of age, much respected, and was engaged in business with his brother, in the meat market now run by the latter, until falling health necessitated his relinquishment of active participation in it. His remains were taken to Watertown, Wis., for sepulture.

Mrs. H. W. JESSUP's death, which had been expected for some time previous, took place at her home in this city Saturday night. Consumption was its cause, which, in the person of this lady, added to its victims one who will be sadly missed from the home she made an abode of purest happiness, and the social circle which she adorned before the dreaded disease set its mark upon her form. Her funeral occurred Monday afternoon, the remains being followed to their last home by a large concourse of sorrowing friends.

ON the ore dock extension the work of planking is now being pushed on, by which the ore is carried from the pockets to the vessels, will be completed this week. The extension will then be ready for service. It is a fine structure, being much more substantially built—besides being more conveniently arranged for the work of unloading cars—than the old dock. On the extension the pockets are so arranged that an entire train can be unloaded without shifting the cars, while on the old dock this could not be done. The advantage is an important one.

FOR disturbing his neighborhood with foul and abusive language, John Tukey, a veteran offender in that and other respects, was before his honor of the recorder's court this week, and had sentence of ninety days in the county jail pronounced upon him. Tukey is irreclaimably vicious, and an excellent subject for chain-gang discipline. We enjoy sheriff Jeffrey to give him a nice hard job in some spot where the sun beats down strongly when the hot weather sets in, to see if some of the county humors in his blood can't be extracted by a sweating process. Everything else has been tried in his case, without success. Perhaps this would fetch him.

'Twas a pleasant sight that the MINING JOURNAL reporter witnessed on the grounds surrounding the county buildings the other day. Under sheriff Jeffrey's direction, a lot of prisoners, who are serving out sentences for the lighter class of misdemeanors, were at work putting in order and improving the grounds. It did us good to see the lazy scamps earning their board under the lash of a pickaxe, and doing no harm to stir their sluggish blood by a little healthy exercise. The jail wouldn't be as popular a refuge with a certain class of its inmates were they obliged to work their passage through life like the rest of us, as a regular thing.

FRANK BENEDICT, an old-time Marquette boy, and formerly a conductor on the M., H. & O. railroad, came again among us Wednesday, this time to stay. He will resume railroading, but upon another line, the D., M. & M. railway company having enrolled him as one of its freight conductors. "Until further orders" he will have charge of the freight train, and he says that Frank left many warm friends behind him at Marquette, and those who still remain here are overjoyed to see him back again. Of late, he has been farming near Ionia, but he is too thorough a railroad man to like the business, and gives it up without a regret to engage again in a more congenial occupation.

NOTHING more strongly attests to the improvement of business in Marquette than the manner in which the cattle houses are spreading out beyond the limits of what has hitherto been regarded as the business center of the town. There is no longer room within that limit for the volume of traffic, and it is gradually, but surely, encroaching upon the neighboring ground. Superior street promises to rival Front as a busy thoroughfare. Washington is beginning to lose the character of a residence street in that of a business thoroughfare. With the further growth of the city this change will go on, until instead of being Marquette's only business street Front will be but one of them.

We are to be favored with another entertainment by the celebrated Swedish quartette, a combination which made friends of itself when here last winter who will hail the return of the gifted company with pleasure. The date announced for their appearance here is the 19th, on the evening of which day they will occupy the stage of Mather's hall. They can bank on a big house, and the MINING JOURNAL will be only too happy to see it crowded. The company will appear at the following places in this county on the dates given below: Negaunee, on the 18th; Marquette, on the 19th; Ishpeming, on the 20th; Republic, on the 22d or 23d, and at Michigan on the return from the copper country, whether the company goes after the concert at Republic.

We learn that considerable trouble is experienced by the D., M. & M. people in getting their ore cars back from St. Ignace, owing to their tendency to fly the track when empty. The cars are new, and the springs being stiff as yet, they do not yield readily to accommodate themselves to the sinuosities of the track; hence leave the rails on very slight provocation. With time and use this fault will disappear, of course, but in the meantime it is a source of great annoyance to the train men. Later in the plan has been adopted of loading them with gravel at St. Ignace, which is brought back as "ballast" on the cars, and used afterwards to ballast the road. This plan entails some labor, but as there is considerable gravel needed along the line the time required to load the cars with it at St. Ignace is not wholly lost.

THURSDAY'S mail brought the MINING JOURNAL the first letter it ever received direct from Detroit over the new route, and we could hardly believe our eyes when we gazed upon the stamp mark on the envelope, which showed that it was mailed at 12:30 o'clock the previous day in the Detroit postoffice. Verily, this is a new order of things, when a letter mailed at Detroit after twelve o'clock reaches the person to whom it is addressed here at 2 o'clock next day. The pleasure we experienced in this particular instance was not lessened upon further examination, for the letter was from the staunch Detroit house of Allan Sheldon & Co., and contained a $30 remittance to apply on their advertising in the MINING JOURNAL. The through service was made on the new route for the first time Thursday, but a mail agent has not yet been placed on the line.

MR. W. S. RUSSELL, of Oakfield, Wis., with his newly wedded bride, reached Marquette Tuesday of this week, on the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. train, to make through this upper country. Mr. Russell's name is a familiar one to this section, with whose merchants he has built up a fine trade in farm and dairy products for table use. His business in this line has grown to mammoth proportions within the decade covering its existence, and he has many followers in the field which he had the sagacity to first properly value and explore, but none who can rob him of his u. p. trade. His operations extend to all parts of this peninsula, and the desire to meet his many customers in this region partly decided him in choosing this route for his wedding trip. The MINING JOURNAL trusts it will prove a happy precursor to many future visits, and years of prosperity and domestic bliss.

MARQUETTE is noted far and near for the beauty of her location, the goodness of her newspaper men, the beauty of her ladies and the badness of her hotels. The first three counts in her favor constitute a trio of unusually strong claims to an enviable pre-eminence among the cities of the north-west, but after all what people who visit our city are most likely to remember when they leave is how they were housed and fed while here. No town will be popular with the traveling public (and the traveling public in our day embraces the active element of the population) without ample first-class accommodations for the entrance of the night. As Marquette is losing thousands of dollars in trade each year because of her deficiency in this respect. Can the city afford this loss? Or, even if its vigor enables the town to stand it, is it not bad policy to permit business that might be secured to escape us through lack of the public spirit needed to bring and anchor it here?

STOPPING at the Summit house is Mr. A. D. Ayres, superintendent of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and we learn from the gentleman that he will spend a good part of the summer with us. While here he will devote the necessary time to perfecting a complete telephone system on the upper peninsula, in which it is the company's intention to embrace Marquette, Negaunee, Ishpeming and Escanaba, with exchange centers in each of these places having connections with the adjacent towns and mining locations, and also with each other. This would give us a perfect telephone service covering the whole peninsula, and would be of great utility for business purposes, besides furnishing us with a fire alarm service that would add immensely to the security of property in each and all of the towns embraced in the system. Mr. Ayres should, and no doubt will, have the support of our business men in his enterprise, the consummation of which will provide a valuable adjunct to the transaction of business in and between the upper peninsula cities and towns.

ON Tuesday Owen O'Neil, a chronic case and a hard one from the Rolling Mill district, came before judge O'Keefe to answer to a charge preferred against him by one of his neighbors, a Mrs. Atkins, whose complaint set forth that Owen had, during a recent controversy between them, addressed her in language unfit for modest ears to hear. The evidence established that Owen had, indeed, used the vernacular in discussing some personal difference with the aggrieved female with a freedom and force not tolerated by the statute in such case made and provided, nor conducive to the harmony which should prevail in law-abiding communities. Consequently his honor fined him two dollars and costs for having obliged the complainant to smell the "sweet wind of his rhetoric" on the occasion mentioned in her complaint, which Owen paid in preference to boarding it out with sheriff Jeffrey. He had been sampling prison fare until a few days before, and expressed an unwillingness to try it again until he had got the taste out of his mouth.

WHEN he came to take account of cash the other day, one of the boarders at Allen's hotel, on Washington street, found himself $322 short in that useful article, much to his surprise, as he couldn't imagine at first what the deuce had become of it. After weighing the matter in his mind he became convinced that someone had robbed him, and further reflection satisfied him that the thief was a young fellow named Charles Alexander, who had been about the place for some time, and was known to be in want of funds as a rule, and to have a chronic aversion to supplying his needs by honest labor. On inquiry it was ascertained that Alexander had absconded. Upon investigation it appeared that Chicago was the point for which he bought his ticket from Marquette, also that he had money to pay for it—a circumstance corroborating the suspicion against him—and further that he had some bills he owed here before leaving, no doubt out of the stolen funds. Measures were taken to effect his capture, but he had not been overhauled at date of our going to press. Alexander is a young Englishman who came to this country last summer and has operated as a sort of dead beat ever since, imposing upon credulous people by cleverly told stories of his connections and resources. He is a worthless scamp, too lazy to earn an honest living and not sharp enough to run a prolonged career in roguery. There is but little doubt of his ultimate capture, but not much likelihood of the money being recovered. It doesn't take a chap of his calibre long to "blow in" a couple of hundred dollars in the dens and dives of Chicago.

ANOTHER BUSINESS BLOCK.—Mr. Edward Fraser informs the MINING JOURNAL that he will put up a business block the present summer on the ground just south of where Mr. Berdie's building is to stand. It will be a corner building to the Berdie structure, facing on Front street, and having a convenient approach from the rear for the handling of goods, this will make a most desirable location for a mercantile establishment of some sort. The upper story will be fitted up into offices, probably, though we believe this is as yet undetermined. With the Berdie block, Mr. Fraser's projected structure will fill up an unsightly gap on Front street, and further emphasize the metropolitan appearance of that imposing thoroughfare.

WELL DONE!—On behalf of the ordering people of Marquette, the MINING JOURNAL thanks the common council for its action, at the Monday evening meeting, in increasing the police force of the city during the busy season by the addition of two night watchmen. This paper has strenuously urged the council to take this step, and in now as earnestly counsels the two men chosen for that duty to discharge it without fear or favor. The new watchmen are Denis Hogan and Conrad Yungbluth, and they will go on duty next Monday, under charge of city marshal French. If they are the right men for the positions to which they have been chosen, much of the lawlessness that has hitherto been rampant after nightfall will cease to annoy law-abiding citizens, and the ill-bred whelps whose habit has been passing ladies out on the street and staring women in the countenance after the fashion of French. The salary of the watchmen is placed at $60 per month, and their tenure of office is at the pleasure of the council.

THE BERDIE BLOCK.—Mr. Philip Berdie has the plans out for his new block, and work on the building will be commenced at an early day. As we have before stated, the site of the proposed building is a most desirable one—being on the property purchased by Mr. Berdie from the Northwestern Life Ins. Co., of Milwaukee, corner of Main and Front streets, south of the former and east of the latter street. The plans show a fine two-story structure, with basement. The first floor will have fourteen feet clear between floor and ceiling, the second level. The front is to be of brown sandstone, the walls of brick, and the store front will be lighted with handsome plate glass windows. Inside the dimensions are to be 27x80 clear on the floor, though a part of this will be cut off in the front part of the store room on the first floor by a hall and stairs leading to the floor above. A side door on Main street, back toward the rear of the building, will allow the loading and unloading of freight without interference with the business in the sales-room proper, while admission to the basement can be had both from a regular stairway in front and an alley in the rear, rendering that an extremely convenient part of the edifice. The stairs there will be five elegantly finished offices—to which a stairway from the front, opening on the sidewalk and having a hall and door entirely separate from the lower floor of the building—than which none more desirable can be found in the city for the use of professional men. On the whole the plans promise that our friend Berdie's building will be a most convenient one for his own business and decidedly an ornament to the place. He expects to have it completed and ready for occupancy by November 1st, next.

A SAD CASUALTY.—The ore dock of the M., H. & O. company, was the scene of a fatal accident Saturday afternoon, the victim of which was John Connor, whose family lives on "Pig street." Connor had been at work on the dock since the opening of the shipping season. At the time of the accident the S. F. Ely was taking on ore, and he and another workman were reeling up the chute—through which the ore is discharged from the pocket into the vessel below. This is not, ordinarily, a dangerous task, but it requires watchful attention on the part of those engaged in it—as, indeed, does all the work connected with the handling of ore on the dock. As the chute was being slowly raised in the manner described by the unfortunate man and his companion the chain used in the windlass caught over the coil for a moment, and ready wound up, for one or two revolutions, and then slipped into its proper position with a jerk that took the crank out of Connor's hands as he was pushing forward on the handle, and he toppled over, falling from the dock to the deck of the vessel underneath. He was picked up in an insensible condition, and was at once removed to his home on Fisher street, where he died from his injuries an hour later. Surgical attendance was had, but his hurts were too severe to allow of any hope for his recovery. In falling he had shot from the dock head first, striking the deck of the vessel in that position, and his skull was terribly crushed. His funeral took place Monday afternoon, and was numerous attended by his acquaintances here, and by the A. O. U. of which organization he was a member—in a body, several of the order attending from Ishpeming and Negaunee. Connor was a hardworking, industrious man, much esteemed by all who knew him, and his fate is deeply regretted. He was middle-aged, married, and leaves a family consisting of a wife and several children, to whom his loss is a grievous affliction.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—An adjourned regular meeting of the council of the city of Marquette was held on the 8th day of May, 1882.

REPORTS AND COMMUNICATIONS.—A communication was read from Dr. Desjardins, health officer, asking the council to fix the terms of remuneration for the performance of the duties of that office; and it was, on motion, determined that the remuneration would be according to the services actually rendered by such officer, his bill for such services to be audited and allowed by the council the same as other bills.

The bonds of the following liquor dealers were presented, and accepted by the council: James Dwyer & Bro., Rothschild & Bending, Philip Berle, John Bauman, Daniel Reynolds, Nelson Jackson, Peter Rasmussen, Edward Hogan, Peter Boyer, Edward Doyle, James Atkins, Pierre O'Mara, Thomas E. Cook, John Marleau, Frank Greenwald, Alexander Trombly, Peter Werner, Charles Rohl, Fred Frei, Fay & Donovan, Dominick Meyer, Joseph Fay, Eugene La Rochele, Edward English, John Thoney, Carl Hanson, William O'Brien, Julius Haakle, August Koch, George Greinenger and Zephyr Boyer.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.—The street committee reported in favor of allowing the crossing petitioned for by Powell Bros. & Co., on the condition that the grade of the crossing should correspond with that of the roadbed. Report accepted and adopted.

The same committee asked for and got further time for the consideration of the petition of Jacob Kremer.

The committee on finance, taxation and gas-light reported that they had audited the books and accounts of the outgoing treasurer, and handed them over to his successor. Report adopted.

Same committee asked for and obtained further time for the consideration of the bill of the gas company for lighting the hose house lamp.

Committee on police, claims and grievances reported adversely on the petition of Thomas Clune, and on motion it was not granted.

The committee on parks, cemeteries and public grounds asked for and obtained more time to report on the state of the park fences.

PRESENTATION OF ACCOUNTS.—The following bills were presented, audited and ordered paid:

A. P. Swineford & Co., publishing proceedings, 15.70
Watson & Palmer, office chair, 12.50
John E. O'Keefe, trying prisoner, 4.00
Robert R. French, arresting prisoner, 2.00
Dan Reynolds, rent of room for election and registration, 4.00
John Jeffrey, board of prisoners, April, 9.75
Dr. Taft, attendance and supplies to pest-house, 56.00

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.—Moved by alderman Lyons and seconded by alderman Frei, and

Resolved, That the north-west corner of Washington and Fifth streets be and is hereby designated as the public pound of the city of Marquette.

Moved by alderman Heffernan, seconded by alderman Bolduc, and passed, that

WHEREAS, It is the desire of the majority of the tax payers of the city of Marquette to have night-watchmen appointed during the summer months,

Be it therefore resolved, That the common council of the city of Marquette appoint two night policemen, whose duties shall commence on the 15th day of May and terminate on the 1st day of November, 1882; that said policemen be under the control of the city marshal, and subject to dismissal by the common council for cause shown either by neglect of duty or malfeasance in office.

It was then moved, seconded, and by a yeas and nays vote passed,

That the salary of the night policemen be fixed at sixty dollars per month, payable monthly, and that the mayor and recorder be authorized to draw orders for their salaries on a certificate from the marshal.

The council then proceeded to ballot for night policemen, and the majority being in favor of Denis Hogan and Conrad Yungbluth, they were accordingly appointed.

On motion of alderman Lyons, the mayor was instructed to confer with the city attorney on the subject of a suit in connection with the Main street sidewalk, now pending in the supreme court, and authorized to employ another counsel in case of the inability of the city attorney to attend to and press the cause to a decision.

On motion the council then adjourned to Monday, June 5th, 1882, at 7:30 o'clock, P. M.
JOHN G. O'KEEFE,
Recorder.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

It is customary in some localities to teach children to think of a text as they drop their pieces of money into the contribution box. A certain little girl at Sunday school recently saw the box approaching and began to search in her memory for a text. She hesitated for a few moments, dropped the dime into the box, and exclaimed triumphantly: "A fool and his money are soon parted."

A SKILLFUL PREPARATION composed of roots, barks, and plants, that act in harmony, and are a pleasant and effective medicine, constitute Burdock Blood Bitters, of which highly commendatory reports are being constantly received.

LAST Sunday evening a Boston divine suddenly paused somewhat near the close of his sermon, and said: "We would all be glad if that young man in the vestibule would come inside and satisfy himself if she is or is not here. That would be much better than keeping a half-inch draft on the occupants of the back pew." And in the solemn silence that followed the congregation could hear a sound outside as of the retreat of an army with banners.

A SIGNIFICANT FACT.—The cheapest medicine in use is Thomas' Electric Oil, because so very little of it is required to effect a cure. For croup, diphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for inhaling the chest or throat, for taking internally or libating, it is a matchless compound.

"WHAT is this man charged with?" asked the judge. "With whisky, yer honor," replied the scintillating policeman.

It heads the list of all other preparations or medicines. In cases of nausea, headache, dizziness or irregularities of the system, Burdock Blood Bitters have no equal. They never fail in affording immediate relief. Price, $1.00.

SPORTING.—"Is the game pretty good this season?" asked a California tourist of a San Francisco urchin who with difficulty supported upon his shoulder a fowling-piece almost as big as himself. "Bully," said the boy. "Plenty of snipe, plover and ducks, I suppose?" "Snipe, plover—ducks? Naw," was the contemptuous answer. "Plenty of Chinamen!"

ALL IS WELL THAT ENDS WELL.—Orin Catlin, 49 Pearl street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I tried various remedies for the piles, but found no relief until I used Thomas' Electric Oil, which entirely cured me after a few applications."

PROFESSOR to classical student: "If Atlas supported the world, who supported Atlas?" Student: "The question, sir, has often been asked, but never, so far as I am aware, satisfactorily answered. I have always been of the opinion that Atlas must have married a rich wife, and got his support from her father."

THE BEST OF EVIDENCE.—"Yes, this must be the ladies' cabin," said a young lady to her friend as they halted at the door of the cabin of a Fulton ferry-boat and peered inquisitively in. "Why do you think so?" doubtfully asked the other. "Oh, because there are so many men in it," was the answer.

"THEY tell me Brown has a great car for mule," said Fenderson. "Yes," replied Fogg; "I knew he had a great car, two of them, in fact; but I did not know they were for mule. I supposed they were for brushing flies off the top of his head."

SATISFACTION.—Mrs. Wallace, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for nervous and bilious headaches, and have recommended them to my friends; I believe them superior to any other medicine I have used, and can recommend them to anyone requiring a cure for biliousness." Price, $1.00.

N. B.—Beware of houses that blow about selling goods and getting suits made 25 per cent. cheaper than others can furnish them. Their game is to take your measure—and then take your money for ready-made goods procured from an outside ready-made clothing house, not tailoring establishment. "Give a blind horse the road and he will tumble in the ditch"—unless checked occasionally. So with a certain class of business men, who like to play second fiddle so well that they are willing to make it public. When merchants are obliged to sell under false colors truth is a bugbear to them; and when such make high-sounding statements and promises the public should remember from whence these come. If you want fair dealing, reliable goods, and the worth of your money every time, patronize a reliable house. If you need anything in the line of Men's, Youth's or Boys' Clothing, the place to get the latest styles and the best quality of goods for the least money is at the mammoth establishment of Prospecting, mining, shafting, tunneling, draining, quarrying and sub-marine blasting. The accompanying cut represents my new drill, "The Little Champion," for shafting or underground prospecting. This machine has

ALL OF MY LATEST IMPROVEMENTS, Including Trunk Engines, with balanced slide valves to use either steam or compressed air economically. It has also my "Pat. Hinged Swivel Head," "Pat. Thrust Register," for indicating the thickness of each strata, "Pat. Roller Thrust Bearing," and "Pat. Method of changing the feed while the drill is running."

The drill rods are all fitted with "Pat. Bayonet" clutch couplings," which uncouple by giving the rods one-fourth of a turn. THE HIGHEST TESTIMONY AWARDED THEM FOR RAPIDITY OF EXECUTION AND ECONOMY OVER ANY OTHERS IN USE.

For prospecting, these drills accomplish the most IMPORTANT RESULTS otherwise wholly unobtainable. By their use only can mines be penetrated to a depth of from one to TWO THOUSAND FEET through the HARDEST ROCK, at any angle, taking out a core the entire depth, fully developing the strata passed through.

ISHPEMING, MAY 13, 1882.

WARM spring rains on Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Rev. Buell Smith, mother of Mr. W. H. Rood, was a passenger on the down train on Monday.

ANOTHER case of small pox is reported at Michigamme, the victim being Antoine Munch, the deputy sheriff of that place.

HARVEY NELSON, whilom clerk at the Nelson House, came up to visit his old love last Saturday and remained with us until Monday.

MR. ED. GRIZI has been in the Chicago market during the week, and the result of his purchases will soon be seen in his establishment here.

THERE is room for much improvement to the sidewalks about the city. Unless something is done in this line some person will break a leg and then hop on the city for $2,000 damages.

ALMOST any fine evening owners of fast horse flesh can be seen speeding their nags on the hematite turf of the association park. There are some fine horses in Ishpeming, but another month will see the number of fast speeding ones perceptibly increased. The more the merrier.

THE work of cleaning the rubbish from the back alleys and door yards about town now goes bravely on under the direction of marshal McVichie. The filth will also be gathered from off the streets, and the day is not far distant when the perfume of roses will be more powerful than the foul odors of the stink piles.

POUNDMASTER Blewett swears vengeance upon the gentle street bovine, also hogs and flocks of geese, and will begin the war on 'em in earnest at an early day. He ought to, and will, have the support of the aesthetic portion of the community. Get the dirty beasts off the streets, Blewett, and call on us for assistance when you want help!

THE Lake Superior company has this week straightened First street at the point where it took a sudden cut in the direction of the M., H. & O. depot. The street now runs in a beeline to Johnson street, and will be lined with neat frame houses. While the straightening of this street lengthens the walk to the depot above referred to, it nevertheless greatly improves that portion of the city.

THERE is no city in the county so lacking in shade tree adornment as Ishpeming. Our large number of fine residences might be greatly beautified by a little of this work, and now is the time to begin. The governor's "arbor" day should have been observed in Ishpeming, but it is not too late to have a little arbor or tree planting day of our own. The residence of Mr. Malmberg, on Cleveland avenue, has this week been surrounded by fine young maples, and who will say that his home is not thereby beautified?

SPRAGUE's smoked Georgians held forth in Austin's hall last night and were greeted with the customarily large and motley audience which entertainments of that peculiar class draw. The performance given was not remarkably brilliant in wit or song, but those callow persons who could not withhold their laugh even at a funeral found something to excite their risibles. We like a good minstrel show, and to such a company would hold out nothing but encouragement, but to these fourth-rate vag troupes we—well we must be resigned, for they will come, and always get good houses.

THE wholesale bakery of Wm. Malmberg, on Cleveland avenue, seems to be growing in popularity every day. The superior quality of the goods manufactured is having the effect to build up a large trade throughout the county. The bakery has ample room and facilities for doing work at present, but the growing trade will soon make increased facilities necessary. Mr. Malmberg has just fitted up an elegant little room in which to serve ice cream, during the summer months, and parties who love to regale themselves in the warm summer evenings with a dish of fine cream will not fail to find this place. The salesroom of the bakery has been nicely fitted up this week, and a large stock of confections added to the business. The bakery can now be said to be one of the solid manufacturing industries of Ishpeming, and the only one of the kind in the county.

FILL a man up to the chin with "elegant booze" and single objects will appear like unto an innumerable host. Two Ishpeming men, bent on making a "night of it," went to Negaunee the other evening where they stayed with the boys till morning. They hired a single rig at a lively stable and returned it sound. After sleeping off the effects of their fun, one of them went to the stable to pay for the rig, but was surprised when he found that he had only been charged with one horse. He informed the liveryman that he had had a team, but the liveryman was positive that he only took one. The question was argued some fifteen minutes, but was ended by the declaration of the customer, who exclaimed: "D—n it, I know what I had. Here's pay for a double team." The liveryman took the money and thus ended a useless argument. The companion of the positive customer, when interviewed by the reporter, said he thought they had a hundred horses on the return trip.

DOG EAT DOG.—Although poundmaster Blewett's dog was of doubtful origin, and its breed several times crossed, his owner nevertheless prized the pup highly—even loved it so much that he would shed gore to keep it from harm. This cur got into a street fracas with another dog the other day, and, when discovered by his master, was the under dog in the fight. That was too many for Blewett, so he out with his Krupp gun and sent the strange dog to the happy hunting ground. Next morning Blewett's dog lay cold in death in the alley, and there was mourning in the house of Blewett. Believing that some enemy had a hand in the sudden taking off of his pet pup, and seeing no marks of violence on the carcass, Blewett, with a borrowed butcher knife, went at the internal gear of his dead cur, a la Dr. Bliss in a regular post mortem. The autopsy was searching and scientific; but as the pup was laudable, and no one in the crowd could be induced to taste the gastric juices of the dog's stomach, the carver of dead pups postponed the verdict. He is, however, inclined to the opinion that the pup came to his death by a dose of strychnine administered by the owner of the other dog.

THERE has been a very marked change in the manner of property assessment this year over last, not only throughout the county, but right here in Ishpeming. In former years, property in this section has been assessed away below its actual value, but this year the appraisal in this city is as near the just and actual valuation as a clear-headed and practical man of business could well make it. Last year the assessed valuation of Ishpeming property, as equalized, was $696,785, but this year the New York mine alone will pay taxes on more than that amount. Although the footings have not yet been made, it is quite safe to say that the total assessment of the city of Ishpeming this year will not fall far short of $8,000,000—over ten times that of last year; and the reason for all this is, that the property has been assessed at its actual value. The same rate of increase is shown all over the county. The board of review will meet early in the week, when property owners will have an opportunity to see the rolls. The board of supervisors will also take final action next week. It is safe to say that this city will pay taxes this year on twice as much property as was returned for the entire county in 1881, the amount as then fixed by the state board of equalization being but $4,000,000. The three leading properties in this city will be assessed at or near the following valuations: Lake Superior Iron company, $2,600,000 to $3,000,000; Cleveland Iron Mining company, from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000; and the New York Iron Mining company at $700,000.

SYMPTOMS OF PARALYSIS—A twitching of the eyes, numbness of the hands and feet, with more or less pain and throbbing at the base of the brain, are some of the preliminary symptoms of this rapidly increasing disease. German Hop Bitters should be taken when you are warned by any of these symptoms.

PLATFORM WAGONS.—Walsath & Tislov are agents for Thompson & Hayward's platform spring wagons and bugzies, the best in the market, warranted made of the best material and durable. Samples can be seen at our barn, and you are invited to inspect them. These wagons are sold cheap.

DEAR SIR:—In answer to your inquiry as to how much I realized on the insurance in the Northwestern Mut. THE MINING JOURNAL.

Entered at the Post Office at Marquette, Mich., as second-class matter. THE total lake shipments of ore up to and including the 10th inst. was 206,238 gross tons, against a total of 25,889 tons during a corresponding period last year.

At the Beaufort a force of 45 men is employed stripping for two open cuts. A shaft is down 50 feet in ore, from the bottom of which a drift 20 feet north struck the foot-wall, while another has been run south 30 feet without encountering the hanging.

At the Wetmore find, section 25, stripping for three open cuts is in progress on the west end of the property, where a working face of 25 to 40 feet can be easily obtained.

At the Indiana mine about 40 tons of clean, rich ore can be seen anywhere on the Menominee range is being raised daily, the new skip-road now being in full operation.

The Winthrop Iron Co. has contracted with the Iron Bay foundry for engines and pumping machinery for the Winthrop mine, which, when completed, will be the largest pumping plant in the upper peninsula.

ANOTHER suit involving the title to an iron mine was commenced in the circuit court for Marquette county a day or two since. The suit is brought by Wallace, Walter, James and Frank Pierce against Jonas J. Pierce, their brother, by bill in equity, to compel the conveyance to them of an undivided four-fifths interest in the Swanzy mine.

SHIPMENTS.—The following is a statement of lake shipments of iron ore and pig iron for the season up to and including May 10:

ANNUAL REVIEW

OF THE IRON MINING AND OTHER INDUSTRIES OF THE UPPER PENINSULA OF MICHIGAN.

THE MENOMINEE RANGE.

The first practical discovery of iron ore in Menominee county, was made by the brothers Thomas and Bartley Breen, sometime previous to 1867, though the veteran explorer, S. C. Smith, claims to have been, and probably was, aware of its existence in that section as early as 1855, in which year he traversed what he called a new range, south and east from Lake Michigan to Escanaba, locating what is now the estate of the Republic Iron company on the way.

The most easterly of the mines on this range is the Emmet, of which the Emmet Mining Co. held a lease until last summer, when the mine was, for some reason, abandoned and the lease surrendered.

Table with 2 columns: Mine Name, Gross Tons. Lists mines like Breen, Chapin, Cornwell, etc.

Table with 2 columns: Mine Name, Gross Tons. Lists mines like Chapin, Cornwell, Curry, etc.

It will be noticed that the number of mines from which ore was shipped in 1881 was the same as the year previous—the only difference being the substitution of the Hewitt for the Breen.

There are three pits at the east Vulcan, numbered 1, 2 and 3 respectively. There are, or have been, at this point two distinct lenses of ore—the Lowell vein of red ore, and what is or was known as the chimney of blue ore—the latter being of exceptionally fine quality, and the other rather below the grade of first-class.

which owes its existence to the keen foresight and indomitable will and perseverance of J. J. Hagerman, Esq., until lately owned in fee simple, or in leasehold, no less than six of the mines embraced in the foregoing list—the Vulcan, Cyclops, Norway, Quinnesec, Chapin and Florence.

in the purchase yielded no less than 278,706 gross tons last year, the value of which, on the cars at the mine, was over one and a quarter million dollars. The Cambria company has heretofore imported a large portion of the ores used in its furnaces, and this purchase will make it a steady consumer of Lake Superior ore to the extent, at least, of the amount which these mines may hereafter be made to yield, and which will, of course, make room for an equal amount of other ores in our home markets.

The most easterly of the mines on this range is the Emmet, of which the Emmet Mining Co. held a lease until last summer, when the mine was, for some reason, abandoned and the lease surrendered.

THE VULCAN

There are three pits at the east Vulcan, numbered 1, 2 and 3 respectively. There are, or have been, at this point two distinct lenses of ore—the Lowell vein of red ore, and what is or was known as the chimney of blue ore—the latter being of exceptionally fine quality, and the other rather below the grade of first-class.

that no long timbers are used, the plan being to secure every foot of ground as fast as the mine work progresses. It is enough in this connection to say that the innovation, if such it can properly be called, is one which will, on inspection of Capt. Curnow's work, commend itself to any practical miner of ordinary intelligence as certain to mark a new and important era in the history of our iron mines.

There is apparently a large body of ore at this point, there being ore on all sides of the chamber referred to on the bottom level, while there is a large amount that can be secured, when the proper time comes, by taking up the timbers at and around the old shaft in the blue ore deposit.

No. 2 is the most easterly pit, and like No. 1, is being metamorphosed into an entirely new mine. A new double cage shaft, similar to that in No. 1, is going down to a depth of 300 feet at the west end of the old open cut, which is being filled up with debris from the underground workings.

At No. 3 another vertical shaft is down 175 feet in ore. This shaft has two compartments, same as the other, though only one cage will be used at present. It is located some distance south of the deposit, and is simply a vertical continuation of the old shaft below the point at which it was diverted on an incline into the deposit.

The West Vulcan will be made the subject of a separate chapter in our next issue.

within one year. The ore in the old workings pinched out at a depth of from 50 to 75 feet, and the new lessees are now testing the ground with one of Bullock's diamond drills, which will cut the formation at a depth of 100 feet under the old pit.

At the Illinois they are still wrestling with a defective boiler, purchased from Worner, Chicago, and which the management devoutly wishes that individual had safely stowed away in his back yard, for instance.

Political assassinations are, unhappily, by no means rare in our day, despite the vaunted civilization of the age in which we live; but they can never become so common as to fail of exciting universal horror and reprobation when so causeless, brutal, and wholly unprovoked as was the cruel murder of Lord Cavendish, Ireland's new chief secretary, and under secretary Burke, at Dublin, on Saturday evening last, the particulars of which stamp it as one of the most cowardly and desperate crimes of its class perpetrated in this century.

cess by which the homogeneous character of our population is brought about necessarily impairs the general harmony and imperils the stability of the government. From the last number of Don Henderson's paper, the Allegan Journal, it is plainly inferable that there has been a ruction between Don and his wicked partner, Reid. For some time back Reid has been running the office, while the senior was helping the state officers and legislature run this great commonwealth. When Don found time to look after his own affairs he claims he found them in a very bad way. A rupture between the parties occurred, and now Henderson is telling how it all happened through the columns of the Journal, while his late partner is making the pages of a rival publication racy with his account of the distressing affair. The moral of all this is that it pays a man to attend to his own business; also that it takes a bigger man than Don Henderson to run a small newspaper and a great state at one and the same time. Hereafter, it is to be hoped, Don will look after the interests of his printshop and leave the management of state affairs to those who have more leisure and not less capacity for such pursuits. There will be a sound of rivalry by night—and by day, too—at Fond du Lac and Oshkosh during the Wisconsin state fair will take place at Fond du Lac during that week, and the northern fair, which aspires to rival the state exposition, will show forth its glories at Oshkosh at the same time. The ancient feud between the two places gathers bitterness from the prospective contest for supremacy, and if it were not for the cooling influence of the back water sent in upon them by those dams at Neenah and Appleton the embers of their dislike might be fanned into a disastrous blaze by the wind of their controversy over the merits of their respective fairs. At first sight it seemed to us unwise to place two fairs of such magnitude in direct rivalry, but the row between them may attract a larger attendance to both than could have been assembled by any other method of advertising. DeLong and his party have been found—dead, where they perished, as had been surmised, from hunger, cold, exposure and exhaustion. The history of the Jeannette expedition may now be written. There is nothing of mystery longer hanging over the fate of the vessel and her crew—it proves to be a dismal repetition of previous efforts to navigate an ocean of grinding icebergs with a frail vessel. The north pole, however, remains as profound a mystery as ever, to tempt other ambitious spirits to useless sacrifice of exertion and life. In a hearing in the star route cases a controversy broke out between Bob Ingersoll and Bliss—the former representing Dorsey and the latter the government—in which Ingersoll called Bliss a liar, point blank. Bob's manners appear to be no better than his religion, if his behavior in the defense of star router Dorsey be taken as a sample of his culture. He is conducting himself as a bully and a blackguard in the case. The Evening Herald comes to us from Prince Arthur's landing. It is about the size of an old fashioned Pennsylvania flap-jack, but large enough, if properly edited, to fully represent the growing interests of its immediate section. The number before us is a very creditable effort, and we hope Graffe & Harvey, its publishers, may meet with the most abundant success. Mrs. Scoville is coming to the front rapidly. She is now before the public as a lecturer, and before the courts asking for a divorce from her husband. Scoville says she is crazy, but as he seems indisposed to let her go in peace, his fidelity is more patent than her insanity. They're a bad lot all around. NEWS SUMMARY. The thriving city of Racine, Wis., was visited by a destructive conflagration Friday night of last week, which reduced a large part of the town to ashes, doing about $200,000 of damage. The property consumed was well insured. Although the territory swept by the flames was of considerable extent, the loss is comparatively light, inasmuch as the best built part of the place escaped unharmed. The fire was fanned by a fierce gale of wind from the lake, and was not brought under control until 8 o'clock next morning, though help arrived from Milwaukee and Chicago in response to an appeal for aid, and rendered effective assistance to the local department in fighting the conflagration. On the recommendation of attorney general Brewster, president Arthur has remitted the portion of Fitz John Porter's sentence disqualifying him from holding any office under the government. The river and harbor appropriation bill has been finally agreed upon. As perfected, it divides up $4,000,000 among the different rivers and harbors whose improvement is contemplated. Of this amount the Duluth and Superior harbors are the only beneficiaries of the appropriation on Lake Superior. The former gets $400,000, and the latter $35,000. The striking mill men at Meskegon still hold out. There have been no violent demonstrations lately on the part of the strikers. The mill owners are importing laborers from Canada. President Arthur has issued a call for an American peace congress, to be held in November next. Senator Logan has been sojourning at Hot Springs, Ark., for the benefit of his health, and finds himself much better. In Phoenix park, Dublin, Saturday afternoon, Lord Frederick Cavendish, the new secretary for Ireland, and Thomas Henry Burke, under secretary, were assassinated by persons unknown. The victims were strolling in the park, half a mile from the city gate, and a quarter mile from the chief secretary's lodge. A car containing four men drove up, two of whom drew knives and stabbed Cavendish and Burke several times in the throat and breast. A hard struggle for life was made, the corpses being found ten paces apart. Two young gentlemen riding bicycles discovered the bodies and summoned the police. The ground was spattered over with blood, and Cavendish's left arm was broken. The pockets of the victims contained coin, notes and watches, showing that robbery was not the purpose of the crime. No clue to the assassins has yet been obtained. Reports from the peach growing district of the state announce that the young peach buds have been injured by late frosts so that not more than half a crop can be looked for. Other fruit trees have suffered from the same cause to a greater or less extent, and the prospect for a plentiful fruit crop is lower Michigan may therefore be regarded as having been "nipped in the bud." At Bay City one day last week there were ten runaways on the street at the same time. It was a regular "equineknockout" while it lasted. One man was run over and badly hurt, another was flung through a store window but escaped without serious injury, and there were numerous narrow escapes and demolished vehicles. The man run over was one John Rowell. He is not expected to live. Boston detectives gathered in thirty street car conductors the other day, who were swindling their employers by using bogus punches. A dispatch from engineer Melville, under date of March 24th, announced that he had found the bodies of Leut. DeLong and his party, eleven in number, where they perished. The bodies were together in one spot. They had apparently struggled against cold and hunger until utterly exhausted and discouraged, and then died together in the place where their remains were found, on the frozen delta of the Lena, where they had wasted their strength in seeking an outlet to civilization. Their books and papers, containing an account of the sufferings and discoveries, were found with the bodies. George Otto Trevelyn has been appointed chief secretary of Ireland, to succeed the murdered Lord Cavendish, and the under secretaryship has been tendered to one of Forster's special magistrates named Blake. The new chief secretary is an advanced liberal, whose appointment is regarded as indicating that the government will not abandon its policy of conciliation in Ireland on account of the recent assassinations. Bennett, of the Herald, was dined by the president Monday, and gave the latter a ride in his new yacht the next day. The new Chinese bill enacted by congress has been signed by the president. It limits the suspension of immigration from China to ten years, but in other respects is practically identical with the vetoed bill. In the Mason case an adverse decision has been rendered on the petition for a writ of habeas corpus presented by his counsel. This disposes of the case, as far as the courts have to do with it. Only executive clemency can now relieve him, and that will not be immediately exercised in his behalf, from present indications. Mrs. Mason has realized about $4,000 from subscriptions for her benefit, and will await the release of her husband at their home in Virginia, purchased with the money. The tariff commission bill has passed both houses of congress, and received executive approval. The president will name the gentlemen to compose the commission in a few days. BUSINESS NOTICES. $300 REWARD. I will give $300 for the arrest and delivery to me at place of arrest of Ted Gaffney and John Casey, both from Neenah, Marquette Co., charged with assault with intent to kill, and who broke jail at Marquette April 29th, 1882. Gaffney is about 25 years old, 5 feet 9 inches high, weighs about 170 pounds, is light complexioned, hair reddish cast, small mustache, scar of scar on first finger of right hand; lately night watchman of Neenah. Casey is about 20 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches high, weighs about 165 pounds; is light complexioned, light brown hair, narrow forehead, large mouth, skin freckled. I will give $200 for any information that will lead to Gaffney's arrest. JOHN JEFFREY, Sheriff of Marquette Co., Marquette, Mich., May 1st, 1882. NOTICE! Mining Men! ISHPEMING, MAY 13, 1882.

CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY
Time of departure of passenger trains from Ishpeming, in effect 1881.

zens there is not a unanimity of feeling in behalf of the enterprise, and it will probably be sometime before the effort to float it is renewed.

Mr. FRED. BRAASTAD went to Chicago on Tuesday.

Mr. CHARLES HAM has returned from Nebraska.

ITALIAN immigrants have arrived in large numbers during the past week.

Mr. DAVID LEECH, of the Nelson house faculty, returned home on Tuesday.

ANY quantity of carpenters can find employment in this city—contractors are yelling for them.

JNO. W. JOCHIM has been made agent for the celebrated Improved Howe scales. His card is in another column.

Mr. J. S. FAY, JR., of Boston, secretary and treasurer of the Lake Superior Iron company, has been in the city during the past two weeks.

ALDERMAN F. P. MILLS left for Crystal Falls on Thursday, whither he goes to assume the superintendency of the Youngstown Iron company.

NEXT to the ulster, the genial warmth of the coal stove sticketh closer than a brother to most of us; but there are those who have shook 'em both and taken to the straw hat.

Mr. T. W. DURHAM—not the blooded bull tobacco one, but the clerk at the Commercial house—has been on the Menominee range during the week on business for Mr. Geo. Chopat.

THE excavation for the addition to the Cleveland engine house has been completed, the stone is on the ground, and we understand that the work of building will soon be commenced.

Mrs. WM. FARRELL and daughter have gone to Dakota for a month's visit with friends. This temporary breaking up of Mr. Farrell's family deprives some of our young men of a comfortable home—they will now tackle the immutable boarding house.

THE Catholic church and parsonage grounds are being handsomely ornated with shade trees and shrubbery, thereby much improving and beautifying the property. A row of one dozen poplars will be set in the street in front of the church and pastor's residence.

THE Swedish Lady Quartette will make a second appearance at Austin's hall next Saturday evening the 20th inst., and the sale of seats has begun at Tillson's at the rate of one mighty dollar per head. There will be a large audience present to hear this talented troupe.

DON'T throw your ashes upon the street, but save 'em for the soft soap man. Two prominent citizens—Wm.
Uren and Charles Sodergren—were arrested on Tuesday, and fined, for placing ashes on First street, and thereby raising the street grade above the sidewalk level.

DR. B. S. BIGLOW, who has been in New York city since January, returned home on Monday, and is again hard at work attending to his practice. Mrs.
Biglow is still in poor health, yet so far improved that her early recovery is looked for. She will not return until perfectly restored.

DIED.—On Tuesday, the 9th, after an illness of but one day, Edward, son of Peter and Ellen Hanson, aged seven years and six months. The funeral occurred on Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the community in their affliction.

STRAWBERRIES, ripe and luscious, are arriving daily and are temptingly displayed in the windows of the green grocer, but the cost of the fruit staggers the individual who prices them.
There are but few at this season who can afford to look upon the strawberry when it is red, at the price marked on the side of its false bottomed box.

ALDERMAN JOHNSTON'S residence is being inclosed with fence. All fine residences should be fenced in, for the street bovine—bless its innocence—is no respecter of persons, and would just as soon graze upon the green sward which surrounds the home of elegance as chew tin cans and old boots in the back yard of the plebeian. Strange
'tis, but true.

ONE of the great needs of Ishpeming at the present time is a neat and sufficiently commodious opera house or public hall. The time when a hall with a seating capacity of 250 was sufficient for Ishpeming has passed.
When a city has fully 8,000 people, and is rapidly growing, it is time capital and enterprise seeking employment may safely go in on an opera house.
Won't some one think of this matter?

STILL BORN.—The Scandinavian newspaper which was announced to appear in a short time is now pronounced dead, even before its debut. Those of our citizens who had subscribed to the capital stock have had their checks returned, and have been notified that the enterprise is "off" for the time being.
Among the leading Scandinavian citi-

NOTICE OF CONDEMNATION.—To Phillip Heidlebach, and all other persons having, or claiming to have, any title or interest in the lands hereinafter described and sought to be acquired, or any portion thereof: Take notice that on the 5th day of July, A. D. 1882, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, a petition in behalf of the Chicago and Northwestern railway company will be presented to the probate court for the county of Marquette, in the state of Michigan, at the probate office in the city of Marquette, in said county, for the purpose of acquiring title to a strip of land one hundred feet in width, being fifty feet on each side of the centre line of the railroad track of said company, for a roadway, as now surveyed, laid out and constructed across the following tracts of land in said county of Marquette, to-wit: The north-west quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty-six (26), and the north-east quarter of the north-east quarter of section twenty-five (25), all in township forty-seven (47), north of range twenty-six (26) west, in accordance with a map and survey of the said railroad filed in the office of register of deeds in said county of Marquette. An application will be made to said court on the filing of said petition at the time aforesaid, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, for the appointment of three commissioners, as provided by statute, to ascertain the necessity of taking and using said property by said company, and to determine the damages or compensation which ought justly to be made by said company to the persons owning or interested in said lands, at which time and place you can, if you desire, appear for your interest in the premises.

NEGAUNEE.

DR. L. D. CYR and family were expected home from their extended western trip yesterday.

A GENTLEMAN of wealth contemplates the erection of a number of good tenement houses this summer.

CAPT. JOHN SWEENEY'S new residence on Case street wears an ornamental, as well as comfortable, look.

The fire company is arranging for another public ball at Winter's hall. Balls are always in order in this country.

DR. JOHNSON, of Ishpeming, is looking after Dr. Mackenzie's practice during that gentleman's absence in the west.

JOHNSON'S lumber, lath and shingle mill is now working a full force and turning out a large amount of builders' material.

KRAMER has an elegant line of silk and satin dolman's for ladies' summer wear. They are the most elegant out-door garment in the country.

The Mitchell building is being repaired. The store floor is also being lowered to the sidewalk line. When finished the store will be one of the most desirable in the city.

Mrs. Wm. S. CALHOUN, of Chicago, who has been visiting her mother during the past three weeks, returned on Monday. She was accompanied south by Mrs. J. F. Stevens and the little Stevenses, who go to Chicago for a month's visit.

P. N. CARDOZO, of Escanaba, has opened a branch clothing establishment in the store recently vacated by A. C. Seass, the cigar manufacturer. Cardozo proposes to carry a fine line of goods. The store will be under the management of Mr. E. Levy, a gentleman who has custom drawing qualities.

The frame work to the new portion of Capt. Merry's residence is up and the work of putting the place in readiness for the reception of the family is going slowly on. An inspection of the plans shows us that the house will be one of comfort and great convenience on the interior, and of great external beauty.

SEVERAL Italian miners at the Cambria indulged in a free fight at that location the other night, which resulted in the severe punning of one of their number. Justice Roy applied the healing balm to his wounded soul in the shape of a three dollar fine on his antagonist. The wounded man's anatomy bears evidence of a severe struggle.

MR. GEO. J. LONSTORF, having passed his examination in analytical chemistry at the state university, returned home on Sunday last. George ranked high in his classes, and comes from his alma mater with nothing but honor. He is now a full-fledged assayer, only lacking in experience, but as this will come to him, his future success is assured. The MINING JOURNAL suggests that he open an office right here—and now.

EX-MARSHAL RICHARDSON has accepted the clerkship of the Cambria mine, and will again be upon the rolls of the Iron Cliffs company. Men of Richardson's calibre are always in demand, and don't need to box for employment. Joseph retires from the marshaling and enters upon his life of labor with about the same degree of satisfaction as does the hungry tramp when he enters his father's house after a free trip over a railroad from a far country.

WINTER'S hall was "chock full" of humanity last Wednesday evening, the occasion being the appearance of Sprague's Georgia minstrels. This gang is composed of fifteen gentlemen appearing, well-behaved darkies, whose call to this mode of gaining a livelihood the writer takes the liberty to question. Each and all of them might make progress with a pick and shovel, but as a band of minstrels they are an utter failure. The performance was devoid of anything witty, the songs came from throats better adapted to calling swill in the alley in the silent hours of night, and the dancing was more like that of a faithful churchman with the grapes than anything we have ever seen since we had 'em. Good minstrel shows are good when you get 'em good, but we of Negaunee will have to go outside if we ever indulge. They won't come to us because the distance back is too long a walk.

A NIPPED GAME.—Mr. and Mrs. Luke, keepers of the boarding house at the Wheat mine, are not now living in that perfect harmony which should characterize the truly good husband and wife, and we don't wonder at it. Lately they have been harboring a young fellow named Dave Skinner, whose hours have been passed in idleness, except when he rendered his services to Mrs. Luke in the way of washing dishes and other like amusements incident to house work. Luke himself is a laboring man, above suspecting unfaithfulness on the part of his wife, but as he was a party to entertaining a viper he is now part sufferer. In the hours which Skinner spent with Mrs. Luke about the house he succeeded in alienating her from the man she had sworn to love, cherish and obey, and on Saturday he had so worked on the woman that his proposition of an elopement was accepted. While the man Luke was at work, Mrs. L. packed her clothes in Skinner's trunk, which was taken to the depot with its owner, who purchased a ticket for Marquette, whither she was to follow him on the next train, the two intending to leave that city by steamer. On coming home to dinner, Mr. Luke was made aware of the elopement, and, supposing they had taken the C. & N. W. train, went to Cascade Junction and telegraphed both up and down the line for his wife's apprehension. He then came to this city, and just in time to find his traitor spouse boarding a train for Marquette. He took possession of his unfaithful wife and marched her back home, where she now remains, closely guarded. Luke and his wife are English, and are both young. She is not just the looking woman most men would care to be encumbered with. She has no children and very few clothes, the latter being with Skinner, who is waiting for his "mash." Let him wait.

IN ANTICIPATION.—They were a fresh but apparently loving couple of pea-soups that entered a down town dry goods establishment and made music for the clerks the other day. It was but a few hours before the time appointed for one of God's ministers, or a justice of the peace (we don't know which), to join them in the bonds which can only be broken by the circuit court, and the prospective groom, wishing his bride to appear in garments becoming her soon-to-be-angelic(?) station in life, had persuaded her to accompany him to a furnishing house, where his money would procure the much needed garments. The selections she made showed that she had been correctly educated for her station, as the garments she selected were of the more expensive kind. He remonstrated here and there a little as she made her costly selections, but she tapped him under the chin and fed him molasses until he willingly let her have her own way, while he paid the bills. Everything had been selected but the bridal hat, and he had manifested a strong preference for a five dollar one, which she liked, all but the price. The cost of other pieces of head gear was asked—and when she came to an eighteen dollar one, the desire of her little fluttering heart seemed gratified. This was the hat she must have. He remonstrated, but she again used the molasses argument, much to the amusement of the clerks who stood behind counters and piles of dry goods watching the dove-like proceedings, their handkerchiefs stuffed down their throats to the collar bone to prevent audible laughter. After five minutes of coaxing, and the use of an immense amount of sweetness, the prospective groom succumbed, adding to his consent: "Now, Birdie, dear, you must be real good to me after we are married!" She said she would, and not long after the twain walked out with their purchases. Whether the girl has kept her promise, the writer sayeth not.

AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN DOCTORS.—It is said by some of the most celebrated physicians in Europe and America that the German Hop Bitters are one of the best remedies in use.

A BURGLAR got into the house of a country editor the other night. After a terrible struggle the editor succeeded in robbing him.

"POUR ON OIL."—L. P. Follett, Marquette, O., states that he has used Thomas' Eucletic Oil for burns, and has found nothing to equal it in soothing the pain and giving relief.

It was an Ohio man, when a terrible storm set in one night, who rushed into the house of a neighbor and cried out: "Jones, this is the end of the earth!" "I'm afraid so—I'm afraid so!" was the reply. "And what shall we do?" "Make our peace with heaven!" The wind blew still stronger, the house began to shake and the excited man exclaimed: "Jones, you lost five bushels of wheat last fall!" "Yes," "And you have your suspicions?" "I have. The man that took my wheat had better own up." "Can you forgive him?" "I can." "Well—" Here the wind suddenly dropped, and after a look through the window the conscience-stricken man turned and finished: "Yes, if ever I meet him I'll advise him to call around."

TUTT'S PILLS

A DISORDERED LIVER IS THE BANE

of the present generation. It is for the Cure of this disease and its attendant, BILIOUSNESS, HEADACHE, DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, PILES, etc., that TUTT'S PILLS have gained a world-wide reputation. No Remedy has ever been discovered that acts so gently on the digestive organs, giving them vigor to assimilate food. As a natural result, the Nervous System is Braced, the Muscles are Developed, and the Body Robust.

Chills and Fever.

Dr. RIVAL, a Physician at Bayou Sara, La., says: My plantation is in a malarial district. For several years I could not make half a crop on account of bilious diseases and chills. I was nearly discouraged when I began the use of TUTT'S PILLS. The result was marvelous; my laborers soon became hearty and robust, and I have had no further trouble.

They relieve the engorged Liver, cleanse the blood from poisonous humors, and cause the bowels to act naturally, without which no one can feel well. Try this remedy fairly, and you will gain a healthy Digestion, Vigorous Body, Pure Blood, Strong Nerves, and a Sound Liver. TUTT'S PILLS, Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of One Dollar.
