MARQUETTE, (L. S.) MICHIGAN, NOVEMBER 11, 1882.

NEW SERIES, No. 747.

Signs of approaching winter, in the shape of storm doors, etc., are fast appearing in all parts of the city.

NUMEROUS drunks, the natural result of such an election as was held here Tuesday, were variously disposed of by his honor of the recorder's court early in the week.

THE Presbyterian church society have arranged with Rev. J. H. Isham to supply their pulpit temporarily, and services will be held as usual in that church to-morrow.

ALL the city saloons were closed on election day by order of the mayor. This was a wise move—it gave the boys a chance to sober up in time to take some interest in the returns.

QUITE a goodly audience was in attendance at the concert of the pupils of the convent school Thursday evening. The programme was pleasingly rendered by the youthful performers, whose execution gave evidence of careful training and good musical taste.

THERE has been an unusually large number of ore carriers in the harbor the past week, all of the larger class. This reporter counted over twenty-five yesterday, and on some days of the week there were even more tied up here waiting for cargoes. The shipping season ends well.

MARKWELL wants the lucky persons who have won suits or hats on election to remember that his assortment of both is the most complete and carefully selected in the city. There isn't a dealer in the county who can give a customer so much satisfaction and clothes for his money as this same Markwell.

VARNUM B. COCHRAN, state superintendent of public instruction, has been greeting his friends in the city this week. Mr. Cochran was a candidate for re-election to the office he now holds, and, although no official returns are in, has probably been returned to the position which he has filled so efficiently and well.

A VERY pleasant social entertainment was given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fraser on Wednesday evening, at which were present most of the society people of the city. The evening was spent in dancing, playing games, etc., and at a seasonable hour the guests scattered to their respective homes, thanking their genial host and hostess for a pleasant evening and a general good time enjoyed by all.

NOTWITHSTANDING that they had previously announced their withdrawal from the ticket, Primeau, for sheriff, and Hayden, for prosecuting attorney, received a number of democratic votes in the election of Tuesday. The democrats who take their politics as they do their whisky—straight—may be supposed to be represented by the vote cast for these two gentlemen. It is encouraging to know that there are a few such still among the living.

WHEN the MINING JOURNAL predicted a long spell of pleasant weather this fall it knew what it was talking about. Here we are, well into November, without having experienced a single unpleasant storm, while the weather keeps right on warm and fine enough to set the oldest inhabitant racking his memory to recall anything like it in the range of his Lake Superior experience. It is high time to get ready for winter now, and we give due warning to that effect. Winter is liable to give us a surprise party any day.

REV. D. STUART BANKS, late pastor of the Presbyterian church, left this week for the east, where his ministerial work will be resumed in another field of the Lord's great vineyard. Rumor says that the reverend gentleman will not labor alone in the next pastorate that will enjoy his ministry, that a change of life will soon follow his change of base—and the MINING JOURNAL sincerely hopes that the report is not wholly unfounded. "It is not good for man to be alone," especially when the man is as good a man as Rev. Banks. His farewell sermon Sunday last was full of feeling, and in the course of it he spoke in terms of strong regard of the congregation that has been his charge for the past ten years, a sentiment that is heartily returned by all members of his late flock.

FRASER'S business building is taking on its brick overcoat. Berdie's block is getting in its doors and windows, and both will soon be fully enclosed, ready to laugh at the frost and storms of winter. These buildings will present a very handsome appearance when their plate glass fronts are in. The Berdie block looks quite finished already, with its imposing cornice, and pretty upper front of brown sandstone. Front street is much improved by the addition to its substantial business houses comprised in the new block, which fills a gap that has hitherto been an unsightly chasm on that thoroughfare.

CINDERS.

"I did it, with my little circular."—Griffey.

Election is over, and lots of red noses about town are bleaching out to a ghastly white.

The most prosperous saloon proprietors on the foot-stool just at present are those of the upper peninsula.

We bolted the "bolters" Tuesday in fine style. If you don't believe it gaze on our distended paunch.—C. G. Griffey.

Hubbell thought he was "just boss" on running a political campaign, but his successor can teach him points in the game.

"Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away" will be the opening words of the "leader" in the average patent-bowled hebdomadist this week. Oh dear!

Among the other things that Ed. Breitung may claim to "carry in his pocket" is a large proportion of the democratic voters of this district. They got into it very deeply in the late canvass.

Very little betting was done on the result of Tuesday's election, yet considerable money "changed hands" in the course of the canvass. The process, however, was of the nature of a business, rather than sporting transaction in most instances.

It wasn't because the display was calculated particularly to call up patriotic thoughts either—still that procession Tuesday irresistibly reminded our citizens of the last Fourth of July celebration in Marquette. All that was needed to complete its suggestiveness in that respect was the gone, but not forgotten, "Jud."

Aprons of the Tuesday's election in this district, Cinders feels constrained to remark that the "respectable vote" of the republican party isn't the immense thing it seemed to consider itself a few days ago. It's a nice vote to go pincening with, but there isn't enough of it to be of any earthly use at the polls.

The idioms of the English language are a puzzle, and no mistake. Thus when the successful candidate began his remarks to the crowd that assembled to hurray over his victory he addressed them thus: "My expensive friends, I am glad to meet you here to-night."

The deep stillness that came over the crowd mystified him greatly, but he understood the cause when he was told that the terms "dear" and "expensive" are not always synonymous.

'Twas 'tween evening that Cinders heard somebody singing "What Shall the Harvest Be" as he was passing along a back street, the voice being a very good tenor. Pausing to hear more distinctly we noticed that the music rolled triumphantly through an open window, and a closer look revealed the vocalist, as the line, "sowing the seeds of a lingering pain," was reached, and the words sat in our ears in tones of divinest harmony. And this was the picture: A big darky munching a slice of belated watermelon and singing between bites!

The sight was enough to destroy all our desire to hear more of the melody, and we couldn't help wishing the darkey might reap as he sowed before he was through with "dat watermelon" as we quitted the spot.

His honor, the mayor of Marquette, took a very active part in the late canvass, and "whooped it up" with the boys on election day and during the preceding campaign right royally. He is well satisfied with the result—tickled to death, in fact—and Cinders feels that in his present good-natured mood the honorable Jeffrey will forgive our relation of this little joke at his expense, which is really worth embalming among the "humors of the campaign." 'Twas on the morning of election day that Cinders overheard a couple of gentlemen talking over what they had seen and heard when the fun had grown to be fast and furious in the morning, night. "By George," said one, "if I could have got a policeman at one time last night I would have had the mayor arrested for violating a city ordinance." "How was that?" inquired the other. The informant was given. "Oh, pshaw," exclaimed the querist, "you couldn't have made anything of that—the election last spring settled it that the mayor and the cows have a right to use the streets and sidewalks for that and similar purposes whenever they feel that way!" This closed the conversation—the last speaker's position was too well taken to admit of further argument.

Some patrons of the telephone have an idea that the instrument can be made to serve a great variety of uses. Now there was that Ridge street man that Cinders heard of the other day. He ordered a dealer to send some chickens to his house before he started down town in the morning, so that he wouldn't forget it, and after he had made sure of having something good for dinner by taking this precaution he remarked to his wife that a telephone was a mighty handy thing to have in the house, and he really didn't see how he had ever got along without it. At noon he went home to dinner with a keen appetite for roast chicken. His wife didn't appear as cheerful as usual when he entered the house, and a very pronounced odor seemed to pervade the atmosphere. "Why, what's the matter, my dear, and what is thunder is it that smells so foully?" he exclaimed. "Nice chickens, those you got me for dinner," said she in an injured tone; "just go out in the woodshed and you'll discover where the 'fowl' smell comes from!" He did as directed. There lay the chickens, just as the butcher's boy delivered them, while from their carcasses arose the intolerable stench that had saluted his nostrils as he entered the house. He picked them up in a great rage and started for the telephone. "Hello, exchange!" yelled he through the instrument, his voice vibrant with a passion that set the wires to dancing wildly. "Hello," responded the exchange, in dulcet, feminine tones. "Give me _____'s meat market," he demanded. It was done. After the usual exchange of "hellos" this conversation ensued: "Say, send that dashed boy of yours up here at once to get those doubly dashed chickens!" "What's the matter with them chickens?" "What's the matter with 'em, eh? You just hold your nose to this telephone a minute while I hold 'em up to it and you'll find out!" And there he stood holding the foul-smelling birds up to the talking machine, with a smile of exultant satisfaction on his face as he pictured to himself what a dose of nauseating odor he was pouring into that butcher shop half a mile away, until the derisive laughter of his wife recalled him to his senses. Then he went outside and buried the birds to get rid of the smell, swearing softly to himself that he wouldn't buy another pound of meat from that butcher, and wondering between oaths if that confounded Cinders wouldn't get hold of the joke and publish it. To make the matter still worse, he has been fined for swearing through the telephone, and several of the subscribers insist that some of that smell got carried along the wires on the current of his profanity and keeps leaking out through their instruments yet. It was a trying experience.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION.—There was but little excitement generated by the election of Tuesday in this city, despite the grave issues involved; and what there was could hardly be regarded as indicative of any particular enthusiasm on behalf of great underlying political principles on the part of those engaged in producing it. The saloons were closed and empty, by order of the mayor and in obedience to a general law of the state, but most of those who look upon the larger when the campaign is red-hot had got full enough the previous night to endure a day's abstinence without serious suffering, and this interruption of their enjoyment didn't perceptibly dampen their ardor, while it gave them all the more time to do solid work at the polls for the candidates of their choice. The greatest activity in behalf of any one candidate seemed to be manifested by the supporters of Mr. Breitung, whose friends here had a band out parading the streets all day, but the "blowers" who tooted the big horns and the "strikers" who pounded on the drums didn't evince much harmony either from their instruments or in the party ranks. The display tended to further alienate from their party candidate the class of republican voters who were dissatisfied with Mr. Breitung's nomination, inspiring them to even greater exertions against him, but it seemed to "catch the boys," and the vote shows that, though it certainly lost Mr. Breitung a good many republican votes in Marquette, these were fully offset by gains among the class of democrats who revel in a "free for all" campaign, in which the candidate fraternizes with the boys, and is liberal with the "sugar." There was a good deal of quiet work done on the legislative and county tickets by the various candidates and their friends, the result of which can be gleaned from the returns given below, but the interest in the congressional election overshadowed everything else, throwing into the shade the contest over county offices on the one hand, and that over the state ticket on the other. Indeed, the latter was wholly incidental to the more purely local battle, and there wasn't much thought given to the state tickets by the voters of either party during the day. In the county at large the same state of things prevailed, the congressional canvass being the one around which interest centered, that on county officers coming next, and the state ticket being allowed to get along as best it might in the whirlwind eddies of popular feeling set in motion by the efforts of the local candidates. Below we give the return, from the city and county, as far as received up to date of our going to press:

cans have given their candidates for congress and state senator very large majorities, have elected their candidate for member of the assembly and all their county ticket except Mr. Osborn, their nominee for prosecuting attorney, who was defeated by the independent candidate, Mr. Mapes, by a large majority. Mr. Breitung's majority in the congressional district is in the neighborhood of 8,000.

BILLED for two appearances here next week is Morrissey's Picturoque Ireland and Irish Tourist combination, a company that presents a very pleasing entertainment, the character of which may be gleaned from this notice, clipped from the Alpena Reporter of the 7th:

As we predicted, the opera house was well filled last evening to witness the first presentation of "Picturoque Ireland." The introduction of specialty acts by the two Morrisseys and the closing sketch kept the audience in a continual roar of unaffected mirth. Maud Morrissey was re-called until she had to shake her head with a decided "not any more" expression. Many of her selections are new since her last visit, and were rendered in her own inimitable style, while Tom's reputation in log and jig business did not suffer. The musical part of the programme was ably attended to by Messrs. Benjamin and Hudson. These gentlemen, both ex-members of the old Continentals, are fine vocalists, and their rendition of "Ship Ahoy" and the "Bugle Call" drew out deserved praise. All felt that they were a good pair to draw to. Mr. Hudson's violin performance was the finest we have heard since Ole Bull delighted the public here, and his imitation of the apple-pie-bee dance was so ridiculous that it required his full vocal powers to be heard above the wild enthusiasm. "Picturoque Ireland" will make a hit everywhere it goes.

The company appears Monday evening next at Mather's hall, and again Tuesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, when a matinee for children and ladies will close its engagement in this city. Don't miss the fun.

A BOY named Albert Berry, aged about 13 years, was up before justice O'Keefe Wednesday night on a charge of larceny. The complaint was preferred by J. W. Spear, who alleged that this boy and others of the same class were in the habit of pilfering whatever they could lay their hands upon in the shape of small articles displayed in front of his store. The particular offense this time consisted in a theft of sweet potatoes, of which the boy had his pockets full when captured by Mr. Spear. That gentleman had been annoyed long enough by the petty thieveries of these kids, and he resolved to make an example of this one; so marshal French was deputed to lug the boy before his honor, who sentenced him to 48 hours in the county jail. At the same time he took occasion to remark that if any more of these urchins were brought before him on such a charge he would impose a much more severe sentence, as he was bound to put a stop to this system of petty thieving before it grew unbearable to the merchants. We warn the boys who have been engaged in this to take notice that if they are caught in any such peccadilloes they are liable to be sent to try how the atmosphere surrounding the reform school at Lansing agrees with them.

We told him so at the time, but he thought he knew more about Germany as an all-the-year-round resort than we did, and wouldn't believe us. And now we are called upon to chronicle his return, after a brief sojourn in the "Vaterland," to take up his residence among us once again, and spend the remainder of his days in Marquette, and under the stary flag! All of which is prefatory to the announcement of our old townsman, Martin Vierling is "home again," with his family, from Germany, whither he went some months ago, after disposing of his business and property interests here, with the intention of making his native land his future home. It didn't require a long residence in the land ruled by Kaiser Wilhelm and prince Bismark to beget in his breast a stronger yearning for the land of his adoption than he had previously felt for that of his birth, and we have Martin with us once more, this time to stay. He is warmly welcomed back by a whole mass convention of friends, among them being the MINING JOURNAL and all connected with it.

An important transaction in real estate was the purchase, by our young and newly married friend, Sam. W. Wheeler, of the elegant residence of Mr. A. A. Ripka, located on Arch street. This is one of the most beautiful residence properties in the city, the site being most desirable, the grounds extensive and commanding a magnificent view, and the dwelling itself a model of architectural beauty, besides being substantially built and provided with every modern convenience. The house was sold with its furnishings, etc., all ready to receive its new owner. The consideration paid was $20,000, we understand—a very low price indeed for this fine property. The MINING JOURNAL felicitates Sam upon his acquisition, the possession of which gives him a beautiful home in one of the loveliest cities of the state.

CORRESPONDENCE.

REPUBLIC.

Dr. Hirschman came very near losing an infant son by drowning one day this week.

Richard Trengrove was up before justice Doyle Monday, on complaint of Elizabeth Trengrove, who says—and the evidence given on the trial amply supports it—that he is a drunken, brutal wife-beater.

Republic polled 352 votes in Tuesday's election.

Mr. M. Courtney, a married man 45 years of age, was found drowned off the railroad bridge on Wednesday. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

The depot platform is strewn continually with tangle-leg freight to trip the unwary, after-dark pedestrian, and still no light.

Slattery lost a horse this week. The animal died of indigestion. A post mortem disclosed a portion of a hay rack in his stomach, which the gastric fluid had not taken any visible action upon, hence the verdict.

The A. O. U. W. society contemplates giving a play of some sort in the near future for the purpose of becoming better known, and to make a little money for hall expenses.

More "scratching" was done at Republic polls on Tuesday than has been done for years before. But 184 straight republican votes out of 352, all told, were cast.

The foundation for the Republic Iron Co.'s new hospital is now complete, and the superstructure is expected to rise rapidly.

Rev. D. S. Banks, of Marquette, was in town Tuesday. He goes down the river to hunt and fish.

A real genuine white kid glove party is set down for Thursday. We go to press with these items before the kid party goes to press, therefore our press can't give results of their press. Now, as time is pressing, I will press on to other matters.

The Erie branch railroad was to have reached the mine Thursday night. Perhaps it did; we don't know.

West Republic has struck a 20-foot vein of ore at a depth of 130 feet. We believe this is west of No. 2 pit.

Republic cast three prohibition votes last Tuesday.

It is a shame that a town of Republic's size has no better system of sidewalks and street lamps. The present management will monkey around and do nothing to remedy this until the people will climb right up and incorporate themselves into a city or something.

Kirkwood's store is smiling all over with Christmas goods.

Another effort will be made to organize a fire department, not a real fire department, but a half made one to answer until we get a good rousing fire to stir up things a little.

ISHPEMING, NOVEMBER 11, 1882.

BORN.—On Wednesday, to Rev. and Mrs. G. Gjertzen, a son.

Mr. HARRY GIBSON is the name of the new clerk in Wadsworth & Co.'s bank.

Mr. A. B. ELDRIDGE is on the Menominee range, but will be in his office again on the 14th inst.

If she is "Only a Miner's Daughter," she'll catch the boys and fill Austin's hall next Monday evening.

No services will be held at the Presbyterian church to-morrow. The evening services will be held as usual, however.

The oldest resident of Lake Superior cannot remember a more agreeable autumn than this—even the chronic kicker has been compelled to go to the rear.

MEMBERS of the Negaunee chapter, R. A. M., who reside in this city, are requested to take notice of a meeting of the chapter which will be held on Tuesday evening next, at Masonic hall, Negaunee.

Mr. W. J. BEEBOUT is having a short vacation with friends down in Iowa, having left for Dubuque, that state, on Sunday last. If he remains firm in his purpose, his return may be looked for early in the coming week.

QUITE a pleasant gathering of society people was held at the Nelson house on Tuesday evening, the dancing being carried on in the dining room. The man who can dance on election day isn't troubled much with politics or the gout.

Gov. JEROME has proclaimed Thursday, the 30th inst., as the day for annual "thanksgiving and praise" and although we haven't seen the document, it's safe to say that he recommends us to "gather in our respective places of worship, there to return thanks," etc.

THE man Shannon, notice of whose mysterious disappearance was published in this paper last week, is still missing from his boarding house. It is quite probable that those who think him dead are mistaken. Men who are not tied to a family are frequently known to leave their bed and board without asking permission of the whole municipality or their boarding mistress.

AN English open face gold watch and chain, with gold heart attached to the latter, was lost by a young Scandinavian lady of this city on Tuesday evening. It is supposed that the watch, which was not securely fastened, was lost by the young lady while walking from Strawberry Hill to the New York location and back over Nebraska Hill through town to Strawberry Hill again. The finder will be liberally rewarded by returning the same to Mr. I. N. Oie.

THE Norway Iron Chronicle, published and edited by Mr. John McCarthy, once a publisher of this city, is the best representative of the iron industry of the Menominee range hailing from that district, and as such commends itself to those of our citizens interested there. The local department of the paper is also so edited as to be a reliable as well as amusing channel for getting hold of the local happenings of that and surrounding towns. Mr. McCarthy's friends in this city will be rejoiced at his success.

A COUPLE of sneak thieves, playing the role of blind man and wife, and who went from door to door ostensibly to peddle bar soap, but really to steal whatever of goods they might get their hands on, were brought to a halt before they had gone far with their work yesterday morning by marshal McVichie. The woman stole a pair of shoes in Sheldon's store, walking out with them under her arm and into a neighboring store where she had them done up. The man who did the shoes up had been notified of the theft, however, and he detained them in conversation until Mr. Sheldon could get the marshal to apprehend them. When brought with the shoes into Mr. Sheldon's presence, the woman admitted her guilt, and the marshal considering that she was the "eyes" of a blind man, allowed her to depart, but commanded that she and her husband should leave the city on the first train. They went to Republic.

Mr. GEO. S. RUSSELL, who is agent for the Singer Sewing Machine in this city, and who has an office in the neat little dry goods store of Dennis McCarty, is a very fine gentleman, and one whom we would not see abused for all the world, especially on our account—hence this notice. George complains that he is often threatened with a clubbing, and that those who threaten him take him for the Ishpeming editor of this paper. One man has repeatedly threatened him, and although George has done his best to prove his innocence, his accuser will not be satisfied. We can only say to the aggrieved party that the sewing machine agent is not the editor of this or any other department of the MINING JOURNAL, but is a man who attends to his own business in a manner that is telling in his own interest and that of his patrons. The chap you are looking for is a small, six-foot-in-his-stocking-foot sort of a fellow, who weighs 200 pounds, and if you think you want a whack at him, Mr. What's-your-name, be sure not to make a mistake in your man or you may not get the trouncing you seem to hanker for.

On Sunday last the friends of C. H. Seaborg followed his mortal remains to their last resting place in the cemetery of this city. Henry, as he was familiarly known in this city, came here ill about three weeks ago, lying, until his death, at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. F. Gylling. He was subject to a painful disorder for two years past, which resulted in his death Friday, the 3rd inst. His death closed the career of a young man of good character and much promise. Until his breath failed him he was full of vigor and energy, without the least presentiment of filling an early grave. As manager of J. Sellwood's store he was one of the most popular young men of this city. Upon leaving the employ of Mr. Sellwood he took the road as traveling salesman for a large wholesale house in Chicago, and was meeting with good success as a commercial man. His death is a loss to his employers and a cause of sorrow to his large circle of friends and acquaintances.

THE marriage of Mr. Fred P. Tillson, the popular druggist of this city, and Miss Minnie E. Bennett, a former school mistress and society young lady here, was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents, Detroit, on Thursday last, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Ramsey, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church, of that city. The event is spoken of as brilliant, both as regards the number of society people present and in the number and elegance of presents bestowed. The happy couple will pass the month in travel, and will be at home to their many friends after December 1st. Mr. Tillson has secured the late residence of mayor Outhwaite, which he is having fitted up for the reception of his bride, whose coming to abide with us again is hailed with much delight by all who knew and appreciated her worth as a cultured young lady. The MINING JOURNAL offers its congratulations, but when the question arises as to which is to be most congratulated—the husband or the wife—we will call it a draw.

THE Haswin-Stephany theatrical combination is billed to appear in Austin's hall on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week, and the tickets for reserved seats are now on sale at Tillson's. This company is in every way deserving of public confidence and patronage—at least by that portion of the community who delight in an evening of dramatic entertainment. Mr. Haswin that is—or Mr. Hazenwinkle that was, and by the last mentioned name he will be recognized in this city—is just as thoroughly an actor by any name as he chooses to call himself. Their former visit to this city is still fresh in the memory of those who attended their entertainment. We believe the company deserving of a liberal support and feel confident that those who attend its entertainments will be rewarded by a feeling of satisfaction. The company presents "Only a Miner's Daughter" on Monday evening; "Othello" on Tuesday, and "All that Glitters is not Gold" on Wednesday evening.

A SLIPPERY MOKE.—Jas. Harvey, a double-distilled negro who has been employed as cook at "The Club" during the past two weeks, has been found wanting in regard to character, and was allowed to go. One day last week Mr. Harrington, the bar-tender, who has apartments in the building, left his vest, containing $60 in notes, in his room. Later he had use for the money, and on going for it discovered that it had been taken. He notified the cook and asked him to find it, promising to reward him if successful. The following day the cook gave notice that he was tired of his job, and would leave, and that being his right, he was allowed to depart in peace; but the suddenness of his leaving excited a suspicion in Mr. H.'s mind and he had the "moke" shadowed. Harvey made arrangements to leave town the same day that he left the restaurant, and as the train was about to depart, policeman Covio took him in custody on a warrant issued by justice Kennedy, before whom he was taken and there searched. His boot contained the missing $60 and more money besides, and his luggage contained several of Mr. Hunt's and Mr. Harrington's shirts, besides two boxes of choice imported cigars taken from "The Club" stock pile. The only wrong done the "moke" was in letting him go scot free on giving up his plunder, and provided he left town, which he agreed to, like a sensible man in a tight place.

FIVE THOUSAND letters have been received by the proprietors of the White Wine of Tar Syrup, from parties claiming to have been cured of consumption by its use.

GLOCKE, the Cleveland avenue tobacconist, has the greatest variety of the meerschaum goods—pipes, cigar and cigarette holders—in the upper peninsula—also, briar, apple-wood, Weichsel, German China and French clay goods in endless variety. ## Awards at the Cincinnati EXPOSITION.

DETROIT, MICH., OCTOBER 9, 1882.

In justice to our patrons and the line of goods they sell, we are proud to inform them that Garland Stoves and Ranges were awarded two first premiums and two medals, at the Cincinnati exposition, one medal being the only gold medal offered to manufacturers of cast iron stoves, and consequently the highest award in this class; the other a silver medal, which of itself is equal to the highest award received by our competitors, clearly vindicating the position taken that Garland Stoves and Ranges carried off the highest honors of the exposition, over all the leading manufacturers of the country, proving incontestably that Garland Stoves and Ranges are immeasurably superior to all their competitors; the same has been proven in all parts of the Union. Whenever Garland Stoves and Ranges have been exhibited, they have been awarded first premiums, where offered, including all the leading expositions, state and county fairs throughout the country. They received six first premiums at the California state exposition, and the only first premium at the Minneapolis exposition, etc.

It was admitted by the visitors at the Cincinnati exposition, that our display of Stoves and Ranges was the finest display ever made there. We have had the same photographed, and are now figuring for copies to be sent to all our customers, which, if carried out, will be sent as promptly as possible.

Respectfully,

MICHIGAN STOVE COMPANY,
Detroit, Chicago, Buffalo.

These Stoves are only sold in Ishpeming by JOHN W. JOCHIM.

THE MINING JOURNAL, Entered at the Post Office at Marquette, Mich., as second-class matter.

Work at the Illinois will be resumed as soon as new and larger pumps can be put it.

The Carp River Iron Co. has shipped from its furnaces this season 10,832 tons of pig iron, and from its quarries 3,917 tons quartz.

Of the total shipments by lake to date the mines of Marquette county have contributed, 1,677,422 tons; those of Menominee county 715,205 tons; the two mines in Wisconsin 258,355 tons, and those of Baraga county 31,995 tons.

The first shipment from the Nanaimo mine, Iron River district, was made during the past week. It is not probable, however, that the management will be able to very materially reduce its stock-piles before the close of navigation.

CAPT. THOS. WILLIAMS has been installed as superintendent of the Indiana mine, which he pronounces, after examination, one of the most promising mining properties on the Menominee range. Capt. William Oliver succeeds Capt. Williams at the Brier Hill.

The Calumet now occupies a place in the list of shipping mines, and if the weather holds good a week or two longer her management may succeed in getting away enough ore to fill all contracts made for the present season's delivery. The ore is as good as any on the Menominee range, and the deposit is now definitely known to be one of large proportions.

The first shipments were made from the Iron River mine during the week ending Oct. 21, and up to Nov. 8 she had shipped 15,814 tons, and is now sending the ore away at the rate of 1,000 tons per day. Manager Jones informs us that he hopes and expects to close the year with an output of not less than 30,000 tons. This would be the most remarkable exhibit ever made by any of our mines.

THE ERIE track has been completed to the mine and the first shipment, consisting of 15 car loads of ore, was made yesterday. All statements agree that the ore now being raised is of very fine quality, while there is a perceptible improvement as to quantity in sight. Nothing but the very best ore the mine produces will be shipped this fall, the larger part of the stock pile requiring careful selection before shipment.

TOTAL lake shipments last week are given at 70,537 gross tons, as compared with 60,324 tons during a corresponding period last year. At the present writing (Friday) the weather is as mild as in mid-summer, and the indications all point to an unusually late closing of navigation. It is now safe to estimate the entire output of our mines for the year ending December 31st, at something between 2,900,000 and 3,000,000 tons.

We learn from the Duluth papers that the surveying parties engaged since May last in locating a line for the Iron Range railroad have come in and report that a practicable route has been found from Agate Bay to Vermillion Lake. The News states that contracts for doing the grading will be let inside of sixty days. Unless the winter should be phenomenally mild no work can be done on the line before next spring, hence we fail to see how letting the contracts for grading in such a hurry will expedite construction of the road.

No agreement between the western steel makers and their employes has yet been reached in the matter of the proposed 20 per cent. reduction of wages. The workmen offer to accept a reduction of 12 1/2 per cent. Several conferences have been held, but without result, though it is believed an agreement will be reached by the first of the year, when the custom with these mills is to arrange a new schedule of wages for the ensuing year, after due consultation with representatives of their employes and with reference to the state of the market.

The Titan and Wetmore mines have both been added to the shipping list during the last week. The MINING JOURNAL is glad to learn that the ruling of Judge Grant, in the case involving the title to the Webster, practically settles the matter in favor of Mr. Wetmore, who can now proceed with the work of development without fear of further molestation. The MINING JOURNAL has always regarded the claim of the contestant as most untenable one, and the ruling of the circuit court fully sustains the views heretofore expressed in these columns.

The total output of the Lake Superior mine for the year, up to and including Nov. 8, shipments by rail included, is given at 279,987 gross tons. We think, however, that this does not cover the entire output, since it does not include any ore which may have been shipped by rail from the first of January to the first of May, on which last date the company's fiscal year begins. In either event the product of the mine for 1882 will very closely crowd 300,000 gross tons. In this connection the MINING JOURNAL may add that the total lake shipments of the Lake Superior mine, excluding the Lowthian pit, was on Wednesday last 232,255 gross tons, of which there remains to be added about 20,000 tons forwarded by rail.

THE MINING JOURNAL is indebted to F. J. Merriam, Esq., of Marinette, Wis., for a copy of his new map of the iron and lumber district of northern Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan. The map is drawn upon a much larger scale than usual and embraces all that part of the upper peninsula which lies west of range 18 and south of town 20, and so much of Wisconsin as lies north of town 29 and east of range 1. It is the best and most comprehensive map of the iron region which has so far been issued, and ought to have a large sale. The MINING JOURNAL is all the more under obligations to Mr. Merriam for the map sent, because it would most cheerfully have paid three times as much as is asked (ten dollars) rather than be without one.

FROM the "semi-official announcement" that the tariff commission will recommend no important changes in the existing tariff laws, we may reasonably infer that the proposed substitution of a specific for an ad valorem duty on iron ore will not be among the changes suggested in its report to congress. This will leave the ore mining industry precisely where it was before—practically without protection, with a rapidly growing importation of foreign ore to menace its future prosperity. How do the mine owners of the district relish the prospect that stretches out before them? Do they imagine that the "passive policy" will be a safe one to pursue forever, and that ore can hold its own against the "pauper labor of Europe" in the long run any more successfully than can the products manufactured from it? If so they will wake to a day of sore reckoning ere long, but they may wake too late.

THE Ontonagon Miner states that the large masses of copper in the Mass mine mentioned a few weeks since, have been cut up and brought down for shipment. The largest of the pieces taken out of the mine weighed 7,800 tons. This find of mass copper brought the October product up to 82 tons, 965 pounds. The Miner predicts that the mine will see the time when the regular monthly product will reach 100 tons, all that is needed to bring it there, the paper states, being sufficient machinery. At the National the work of unwatering is going forward steadily, and the management will have it freed from water by the opening of the new year. The new shaft on the north vein is down about 170 feet, in good paying copper rock. The outlook for the mine is excellent, though the Miner intimates that it will find itself deficient in machinery to obtain the best possible results when the mine is finally cleared of water.

THE Detroit Iron Company made its first shipment by rail and lake last Tuesday—the consignment being one of 20 cars to the Detroit furnace. The principal part of the daily product, however, goes to supply the Deer Lake furnace, which is running on Detroit ore almost exclusively, and making more iron than ever before. The ore sent to Detroit is for a furnace test, upon the result of which depends large sales in the future. That this test will be eminently satisfactory to those making it the MINING JOURNAL does not entertain a single doubt, judging from the statements of those who have already used several thousand tons, to say nothing of the high favor in which a precisely similar ore of an adjoining mine is held by furnace-men generally. The Detroit is still raising about 75 tons per day, with the most primitive appliances, but with additional steam power it will be an easy matter to raise the daily product to 200 tons.

THE trouble at the Dalliba, if such it can be called, was not occasioned by any fault of the management, nor is it yet due, as has been stated by a self-styled mining journal, to the inferior quality of the ore. The facts are that certain of the wealthy shareholders volunteered last spring to advance all the money necessary to equip the mine with all the machinery necessary to a large production, acting upon which suggestion a very considerable debt was incurred which the wealthy shareholders referred to have failed to liquidate, to the very great embarrassment of the management. By reason of the non-fulfillment of the promises made by these shareholders, the management was not only compelled to face the market in order to meet the running expenses of the mine, but operations were very seriously retarded as well, the management being finally compelled to put the mine into winter quarters much earlier than would otherwise have been necessary. The Dalliba is, without doubt, one of the largest ore deposits in this county, and the ore itself as good as any other of the high grade mill ores in this section. Its only disadvantage is that it is rather high in phosphorus for Bessemer purposes, but there is and can be no valid reason why it should not command a remunerative price in the market. There are people in this section just bold and bad enough to insinuate that one or more of the wealthy non-resident shareholders who promised cash advances which have never been forthcoming, have been making a pretty fair margin out of the pressure to which the Dalliba has thus been subjected. We don't know that this is the case; but we do know that the Dalliba is a most valuable mining property, and only needs a fair amount of capital, judiciously expended, to make it a very profitable one to its owners. The near approach of winter suggests the strong probability that a "freeze out" is to be made a part of the programme.

It has been argued in some quarters that the new method of making charcoal in retorts was not likely to very materially lessen the cost of producing charcoal iron, for the reason that the demand for the by-products must necessarily be rather limited, and that without the additional profits expected to be derived from these by-products, the increased coal product would not more than offset the much larger expenditure for plant as well as the increased cost of charring. In this connection the Journal of the United States Association of Charcoal Iron Workers, says: Within three years, more attention than ever before has been given to the utilization of the vapors arising from the carbonization of charcoal for iron works, and we are pleased that at least a portion of the interest manifested was fostered by the association which this Journal represents. We have editorially indicated the use of retorts, because with them a given acreage of woodland will produce more charcoal than by any other method, and we have held, and still hold, the belief that it was not essential to consider the value of the condensed vapors to demonstrate that their use will, in many localities, prove to be the most economical method of producing charcoal. But as the vapors can be so easily collected and converted into products of a commercial value, it is a true business policy to utilize them. Our conviction is that the old adage, "Waste brings woe," should be applied to manufacturing, and that there is a use for every waste product, which should be sought out and adopted. But the interest bestowed on the subject of producing acetates from the vapors of wood by those who use charcoal for fuel has attracted attention, and complaint has been made. We must confess that we do not belong to the "conservative" mind which fears that we shall be swamped in a deluge of acetic acid, as long as the United States consumes over half a million gallons of vinegar daily, and many other acetous compounds. Nor will we consider that the bottom has been touched by acetates until works located in or about our cities can buy their supply cheaper from large producers of charcoal than can manufacture them from wood costing six or eight dollars per cord. If we are flooding the markets of England and Germany, we are doing just what we should do. We have no means at hand of learning whether the estimate of 4,000 tons of acetate of lime as our annual consumption is correct. But we know that acetic acid is used in producing white lead, and that, according to the census reports, 62,000 tons of white lead and 8,000 tons of other salts of lead acetate of lead among the number were made in this country in the census year, and that 900 tons of white lead and 800 tons of acetate of soda were imported in the same time. In the Journal, vol. 2, page 89, we gave a table showing that in three years—1878, 1879, and 1880—we imported 329 tons of verdigris (sub-acetate of copper) and 15 tons of acetic acid, in spite of a duty of 5 to 80 cents per pound. In 1880, acetates were imported to the value of $1,000. We would remind our readers that, although we do not claim expert chemical knowledge, we know that sugar of lead (acetate of lead), acetates of copper, zinc, iron, alumina, soda, etc., are used in large quantities; and if the demands of the trade are not to-day greater than to require the acetic acid and other combinations resulting from the employment of 4,000 tons of acetate of lime annually, they very soon will be. We do not doubt that the price of acetate has been reduced, and it is a natural sequence to the utilization of the vapors from such quantities of wood as are carbonized by works producing charcoal for fuel, where the acid is a by-product. We expect this very reduction to encourage new uses for acetate. Already, methyl alcohol has found a good market, and is growing in demand, and the cheapness of acetates will induce their substitution for other salts.

THE MACHINE MASHED.—Tuesday's elections resulted in a series of democratic victories which have placed that party again in control of the more important northern states, in addition to have given the democrats a strong majority in the house, and control of several state legislatures where U. S. senators are to be chosen ere another election takes place, thus rendering their restoration to supremacy in the U. S. senate merely a matter of time; and that, in view of these advantages gained, and the disorganized condition in which the terrible defeat it has sustained leaves the administration party, gives the democracy ground for confident hope of electing the next president.

Strangely enough, thousands of republicans are rejoicing heartily over an issue of the election that seems to prestage the approaching disintegration of the party which has so long been held in power through their support. Dignified at last by the brutal disregard of decency manifested by the machine bosses, they turned upon it Tuesday last with a hot desire for vengeance seething through their hearts. To-day their voices are heard in concert with those of their democratic allies, rejoicing over the work done on that day, while the ruins of the machine are scattered everywhere and the crew that lately manned it are in full flight for the woods. It was not a democratic victory in the narrow, partisan sense of the word—it was that and much more. It was a victory of the people over mere trucking political managers; a victory of honest republican voters over prejudices that had long held them in thrall; a victory of the popular vote over the influence of money in elections; a victory that should stand as a warning and a lesson to political parties and their leaders for many years to come. As such we hail it, believing that its immediate fruits will be the eradication of governmental abuses which had grown intolerable, a much-needed purification of politics, and the permanent retirement from connection with public affairs of a loathsome crew of venal place-hunters, from the date of whose ascendancy in its councils the downfall of the republican party may be traced, and to whose gross abuse of usurped power the tremendous reverse that befell it at the polls Tuesday can be attributed. Not least among the surprises with which the returns come laden is that afforded by the figures attesting the result in our own state. People rubbed their eyes and pinched themselves to make sure that they were not dreaming when they read that the state had elected a democratic governor and six congressmen, with the chances of having a small majority in the state legislature. The day has gone by when "anybody can carry Michigan" for the republicans. We imagine it is hardly necessary to enjoin the party managers not to forget it.

The most sanguine hopes of the democrats in New York and Pennsylvania were cast entirely in the shade by magnitude of their successes in these states. In New York Cleveland is elected by over 190,000 majority, the democrats have a majority in the state legislature and on the congressional delegation, while in Pennsylvania about the same result was achieved, but by less imposing majorities. Pattison and his associates on the democratic state ticket have between 30,000 and 40,000 majority in that state. Massachusetts joins the procession with 15,000 majority for Butler, and in many other heretofore republican strongholds the democrats have made marvelous gains, the more substantial fruit of which is the return of a decisive majority of democratic representatives, by which they will have absolute control in the lower house of the next congress. The returns received here are yet very incomplete, but there is no doubt of the general result as outlined above being verified by the official figures.

Connell, deceased, on reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Elizabeth Connell, praying that administration of said estate may be granted to James Yambie. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the twentieth day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said decedent, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be held at the probate office, in the city of Marquette, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the MINING JOURNAL, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Marquette, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Marquette, ss. At a session of the probate court for the county of Marquette, held at the probate office, in the city of Marquette, on Friday, the twentieth day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two. Present, Hon. Edward NEGAUNEE.

BY ACCLAMATION.—Mr. Edward Breitung, of this city, held an election last Tuesday, which was one of the most brilliant successes, in its way, that we ever witnessed. The unanimous choice of the St. Ignace convention has been ratified, not only by an avalanche of votes in his own city, but by the shower of them that fell into his hat from the other cities and towns of the district. It would seem that his right to a seat in the next national congress is not a question for dispute—at least if 8,000 majority stands him for any sort of use. Although the day was one set apart for the choice of representatives in both branches of the legislature, and for the election of county officers, so slight attention was paid to other than the congressional fight, that the candidates for lesser positions were almost lost sight of except by the aspirants and their most intimate friends. It was Edward Breitung's election; it was his money that paid for the music, and all the other "tricks" that kept the boys good natured; and had it not been for him the evening gathering at the Breitung house—where the best imported blood of the grape flowed like water—would not have amounted to a piceyune. It was the most stupendous pic-nic Negaunee has seen in its history—so big that there are those even to this day who do not tire talking about it. Very little of business was done in this city, and yet the streets were crowded all through the day, with men who had plenty of money—they didn't have time to think of anything but the election. Considerable drunkenness on the street was noticeable through the day, while in the evening the sober men were the exception. It didn't cost anything to get drunk, so every man who has a hog side to his nature let it predominate. The democrats and prohibitionists went home early in the day and took comfort in the words of the immortal Billings, "Blessed are those who expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed;" but the grand army of Breitung voters held the fort all day, and afterward made the loudest kind of a night of it. We give below the vote of the city by wards, except that for the prohibition candidates for governor and congressman, who received eight votes each in the city:

Table with columns for 'FIRST WARD', 'SECOND WARD', and 'THIRD WARD'. Each column lists candidates and their respective vote counts for various offices including governor, state senator, representative, sheriff, clerk, treasurer, and prosecuting attorney.

For sheriff: Jno. Jeffrey, Rep. 265; J. H. Primeau, Dem. 5; Jeffrey's majority 260. For clerk and register: Gad. N. Smith, Rep. 175; Patrick Keyes, Dem. 85; Smith's majority 90. For treasurer: B. W. Wright, Rep. 198; Jno. Thoney, Dem. 62; Wright's majority 136. For prosecuting attorney: Eugene E. Osborn, Rep. 81; Egbert J. Mapes, Ind. 166; Mapes' majority 85. For the offices of circuit court commissioners, county surveyor and coroners, the republican candidates received majorities of 140 each.

ASSESSOR KIRKWOOD is in Chicago. THERE are very many new hats being worn just now, but for real expensive headgear the one sported by this missionary takes the cake.

MANY of the bright "smiles" taken on Tuesday haunt the takers still. Champagne is too rich for the blood of the average Negauneeite.

THE MINING JOURNAL not being an illustrated publication, will be our apology for not displaying any eagles or blue-eyed hawks this week.

Mrs. REILLY, mother of the Hon. C. J. Reilly, ex-judge of the Wayne circuit court and a candidate for re-election, is in the city as a guest at the home of Mrs. Ellen Caples, on Main street. Mrs. Reilly's home is in Racine, Wis.

JNO. A. KRUSE and wife, of New York, are in the city. Mr. Kruse will make the upper peninsula his headquarters during the winter, and his particular work will consist in blowing in some of his fortune on the Grace furnace, Marquette—getting that institution ready to "blow in" by spring.

THE next regular meeting of the newly organized Negaunee Chapter of R. A. M. will be held in Masonic hall next Tuesday evening, and the high mucky what-d'ye-call-him desires us to say that he looks for a full attendance. The meeting will work in the 4th degree below zero—if any of you know what that is—we do not.

MR. HARRY GIBSON, so long an employe in the general offices of the Iron Cliffs company, and one of the popular young men of this city, returned to the county on Tuesday, after an absence of several months. Harry has been down on the Menominee range since leaving here, and is yet in the employ of a Lake Superior mining corporation. His many friends in this city were glad to welcome him among them again.

If the vote a man receives when he runs for office be any criterion of his popularity, then our friend Jeffrey, who contested for the office of sheriff, is even a bigger man 'nor Breitung—and we have reason to believe he didn't make half the fight, nor spend within $50 of as much money. When you want to size up a man's popularity in a campaign, there is nothing stands so much to his credit as the free-will offering of votes, and that's what Jeffrey got.

THE work of laying the water mains was begun this week, under supervision of marshal Johnson, the pipes having arrived last week. The work starts from No. 7 pit of the Jackson mine and is marching up Iron street as fast as providence and the size of the force of men employed permits. The trenches are being laid six feet deep, thus giving the pipes a covering of four and a half feet of earth, as low down as the frost is liable to get. We will soon be able to take water in ours—and pure water, too.

THE meeting for organization of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle has been called for next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and the place designated for the meeting is the lecture room of Prof. Whitney, at the Case street school. Some 35 persons have already signified their intention of joining the society as members, but if there be others who would consider it a privilege to be of the studious circle they will be cordially welcomed at the coming meeting. In the matter of profitable winter evening entertainment the new organization promises more than all the social dancing clubs this side of the grave, and we hope our young people will show their good sense by taking hold and aiding in the success of the enterprise.

THE Catholic fancy fair held its closing fete on Monday evening and was as large a success as its projectors had reason to anticipate—it not more so. The church will clear, by its seven evenings of encounter with the world, nearly $1,500. In the contest for the diamond bracelets between Miss Nellie Gaffney and Miss Carrie Sporley, the former came off victorious and has our permission to wear the diamonds. Tom Flynn is lordling it over the other printers of the county just now, because he happens to own a $336 gold-headed cane—that being the amount realized on the walking stick which was contested for between the present owner and Charley Sporley. We are glad the church realized so much money, for, strange as it may appear, it was needed.

WEDNESDAY evening was the date of an affair here which was highly enjoyed by a few of the many friends of representative-elect Breitung. At 8:30 o'clock a party of twenty—comprising some of our leading citizens and those who had worked strenuously for the result obtained on Tuesday—repaired to the residence of that popular gentleman, and, as a testimonial of their high esteem and lasting regard, presented the successful candidate with a massive and beautiful epergne. The height of the piece was 24 feet, and it certainly was of most elaborate and artistic workmanship, of Damascene silver inlaid with gold, with rich cameo glass side dishes over-reached with golden cupids, and the whole surmounted with a flower rose of cameo raised glass. The affair was wholly impromptu, and goes to show the high esteem and sincere affection with which the recipient is held in the hearts of his fellow townsmen.

A MEETING of clergymen doing God's work in this county was held here on Monday afternoon last, the purpose being the organization of a county ministerial association—a society designed to embrace the clergymen of all evangelical denominations who choose to enter, and which is to have monthly meetings for discussion and exchange of thought on the great subject of Christianity, and the quickest way of converting that part of the world that lives and votes in this county. The meeting was organized by the election of Rev. A. F. Ashley, Presbyterian, of Ishpeming, as chairman, and J. M. VanEvery, M. E., of Ishpeming, as secretary. The clergymen present were unanimous in their desire for a permanent organization, and such was agreed upon. The next meeting will be held in Marquette, at 2 P. M. of the 20th inst., at which time Rev. L. E. Lennox will read an essay. A committee on programme was appointed, consisting of Rev. A. F. Ashley, Ishpeming; Rev. Kerr B. Tupper and Rev. P. R. Parish, Marquette. Rev. H. E. Davis, of this city, and Rev. J. M. VanEvery, of Ishpeming, were appointed a committee to prepare a constitution.

THE MINING JOURNAL goes to press too early in the day to allow its dramatic opinionator to throw off his conclusions on last night's rendering of Richard, the three times, by the Haswin-Stephany company, so he only estimates what the verdict will be. The play was not built for small stages nor light weight actors, and if any other of the companies that visit this country had volunteered to present it to our people we should have used our mouth and pen in discouragement; but we have great faith in Mr. Haswin's and in Miss Stephany's ability to present the play well, and we believe that they have too much reputation at stake to volunteer a work they can not perform in a satisfactory manner. We do not like to say that we think Richard III. too heavy for them, but we confess to a feeling of doubt—in the sharing of which we have much company. We consider Mr. Haswin a remarkable man, and Miss Stephany a remarkable woman, as regards their dramatic excellences, and if they succeeded in last night's endeavor we shall not be close-fisted in our laudations. The seats usually held for reserve were all taken, and a good, full house was the natural result. To-night the company will appear in "Only a Miner's Daughter," a simple, pleasing, and moderate-ly sensational drama—a style of work in which we know the company to be abundantly qualified to excel—and we recommend our friends to go if they want an evening of enjoyment.

THE wonders of modern chemistry are apparent in the beautiful Diamond Dyes. All kinds and colors of Ink can be made from them.

This has been a great year for independents. Mapes, independent candidate for prosecuting attorney, made a most brilliant run, beating the regular republican nominee handsomely, although quite a vote that he should have had was cast for Hayden, whose name was improperly printed on some democratic ballots notwithstanding his published declination of the nomination. Mr. Mapes scored a victory to be proud of. Mr. Osborne has our sympathy in his grief—his party has used him most ungratefully.

MR. RANSOM, of the firm of Ransom, Burtis & Marsh, will shortly pack up his goods and chattels and remove them, with his family, to Chicago. This departure will be greatly deplored by the people of this city, and not without reason, for it will make a gap in Marquette society which cannot easily be filled. It is rare that persons make for themselves so many friends in so short a time as did Mr. and Mrs. Ransom, but it is not strange when their pleasant and friendly ways and manners are considered. Mr. Ransom will still retain his connection with the firm of which he is a member.

On pages 9 and 10 of to-day's paper our readers will find the full official report of the proceedings of the county board of supervisors at the annual meeting, held at the court house in this city in October, embodying reports of county officers, and other matters of interest to tax-payers of the county. The pages on which this report is given are in convenient form for preservation, and we suggest that it may be well to pigeon-hole the report for future reference. It contains much information of importance to the people who furnish the funds the disbursement of which the county legislature is entrusted with. Preserve it.

MR. THONEY, the democratic candidate for treasurer, made a surprisingly good run, as also did Mr. Keyes, the nominee for clerk and register of deeds on the same ticket. Placed in the field so late, and with a big adverse majority to confront, the candidates put in nomination by the democrats could not well expect to gather anything but glory in Tuesday's battle of the ballots; but the two gentlemen named have excellent reason to feel proud of the record they made in Tuesday's run over the political race-course in Marquette county. The party should remember them when it needs candidates and grows strong enough to elect them in the sweet hereafter.

MR. BREITUNG's supporters in this city had the band out Tuesday, and the teams that brought his voters to the polls were adorned with mottoes some of which were crushingly appropriate. The "custom house ring" came in for a liberal share of satirical abuse, and the bolting members of the party got a taste of the wrath in store for them as a later issue of the memorable day that sounded the death knell of the dynasty that has hitherto controlled in the republican party in this district. The democrats didn't come in for any of the ridicule, the fire being chiefly directed against members of the candidate's own party. The "bourbons" seemed to relish their unusual immunity from persecution immensely.

OUR people should bear in mind that the Haswin Stephany company will be with us next week, for a three nights' engagement. This excellent company will occupy Mather's hall on the evenings of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the 16th, 17th and 18th inst., presenting plays to suit every taste, and in the effective manner that has given the company such an enviable reputation. Among the pieces rendered will be "Othello," Shakespeare's great play, which, like the love and jealousy it so powerfully portrays, is old but ever new. The other pieces are of living interest, requiring a high order of histrionic talent for their proper rendition, but the company is well prepared to do them full justice, being stronger than ever this season in its array of superior actors.

WORK has been discontinued on the cathedral building for this season. The force of men being now engaged in quarrying stone for another season's work, or in dressing that already on hand. The walls are nearly ready to receive the roof, but the season is so late that it has been deemed best not to undertake roofing the building this year. Excellent progress has been made, considering the small force employed, and it is reasonably certain that next summer's work will put this fine structure in condition to be of service to the large congregation that will worship therein. It will be one of the finest edifices of the kind in the state when completed. Marquette owes bishop Vertin a debt of gratitude for his work in giving us this notable addition to our already large number of beautiful church buildings.

THERE has never been a finer stock of furniture in the extensive warehouses of Hager & Johnson than at present, and now is an excellent time to make selections, before the rush of the holiday trade comes on. This establishment affords as complete an assortment to select from as can be found anywhere north of Milwaukee. The proprietors are determined to do all in their power to keep customers from going away from home to buy their furniture, to which end they make prices that can't be shaded in the larger cities on the same quality of goods. Their growing trade shows that the public appreciates this fact, and to meet its demands they have laid in an immense stock the present season. Don't send abroad for anything you can buy at home to as good advantage, and if you follow this rule you'll be sure to get whatever you need in the furniture line of Hager & Johnson.

VERY little disorder was apparent on the streets this week, taking into account that it was election week, and that a vast quantity of free booze was dispensed to influence the free and independent voters. The strict attention to business of the police force had something to do with this.

TO PROMULGATE THE TRUTH.—The way to get a thing believed by the public at large is to first have a truth to announce without any doubt or suspicion as to its being the truth, and then to keep on telling it by speech and pen, by type and figure, in every way repeating it constantly. Thus it was that when The Louisiana State Lottery was incorporated in 1868 at New Orleans, for charitable and educational purposes, there was a doubt that the managers would act as fairly as they announced, but the fact that Gen. G. T. Beauregard, of La., and Jubal A. Early, of Va., have the sole supervision of the drawings removes this suspicion, and it has been proven up to the 150th monthly drawing on Nov. 14th, that millions have been distributed to parties applying to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., in sums ranging as high as $100,000, and so on down. Tickets cost $5, but fifths are sold at $1 each, and the certainty of the event is supplemented by the knowledge that some one will get $75,000, or fractional parts thereof. Who will it be?

Common Sense Sleights

FOR TEAMING, LOGGING AND MINING.

These sleights have been thoroughly tested in the logging and mining regions, and have proved superior to any other sleights heretofore used. They are loose jointed, the runners acting independently of each other. We claim for them superiority over all other loose jointed sleights for the following reasons: They have a solid cast iron knee made in one piece, making them much stronger and less liable to get out of repair than any sleigh having the knee in two or more pieces. The knees are all alike, insuring uniformity of bearing, so that the sleigh must run correctly. It is the cheapest single team sleigh that can be made, has a less number of pieces, is less liable to breakage and is more easily repaired if broken than any other loose jointed sleigh. It has all the good points of other loose jointed sleights without their defects. We also handle a full line of light business sleights, pleasure sleights, swell body, Portland, and other styles of cutters, and shall be pleased to quote lowest prices to dealers, lumbermen, miners, etc. Send for circular and prices to
