"Goodby, All; Goodby. It Is God's Way. His Will Be Done."---Last words of William McKinley.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY DEAD

End Came, With Family About the Bedside, at 2:15 O'Clock This Morning.

CHIEF MAGISTRATE UNCONSCIOUS FOR HOURS.

During the Early Evening He Was Kept Alive by Restoratives, but These Were Dispensed With on His Request to Be Allowed to Die, and He Gradually Sank---Affecting Farewell With Beloved Wife.

Buffalo, Saturday, Sept. 14.—President McKinley died at 2:15 o'clock this morning. He had been unconscious since 7:50 p. m. His last conscious hour on earth was spent with his wife, to whom he had devoted a life time of care. He died unattended by a minister of the Gospel, but his last words were in humble submission to the will of God, in whom he believed. He was reconciled to the cruel fate to which the assassin's bullet condemned him and faced death in the same spirit of calmness and poise which marked his long and honorable career. His last conscious words, reduced to writing by Dr. Mann, who stood at his bedside when they were uttered, were as follows: "Goodby, all; goodby. It is God's way. His will be done."

LAST SAD FAREWELL.

Cabinet Members and Mrs. McKinley Visit Death Chamber.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Before 6 o'clock it was clear that the president was dying and preparations were made for a last sad farewell from those nearest and dearest to him. Oxygen has been administered steadily, but has had little effect in keeping back the approach of death. The president came out of one period of unconsciousness only to relapse into another. In this period occurred a series of events of a profoundly touching character. Down stairs, with tear-stained faces, members of the cabinet were grouped, anxiously waiting. They knew the end was near and that the time had come when they must see the president for the last time. About 6 o'clock one by one three of the number ascended the stairway—Secretary Root, Secretary Hitchcock and Attorney General Knox. Secretary Wilson was there, but he held back, not wishing to see the president in his last agony. There was only a momentary stay of the cabinet officers at the threshold of the death chamber. Then they withdrew, tears streaming down their faces and words of intense grief choking their throats.

Asked for His Wife.

After they left the physicians rallied the president and he asked immediately that his wife be brought to him. The doctors felt back into the shadows of the room as Mrs. McKinley came through the doorway. The strong face of the dying man lighted up with a faint smile as their hands were clasped. She sat beside him and held his hand. Despite her physical weakness she bore up bravely under the ordeal. The president in his last period of consciousness, which ended at 7:40, chanted the words of the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," and his last audible conscious words, as taken down by Dr. Mann at the bedside, were:

"Goodby, all, goodby. It is God's way. His will be done."

Then his mind began to wander and soon he completely lost consciousness. Life was prolonged for hours by the administration of oxygen and the president finally expressed a desire to be allowed to die.

At 8:30 the administration of oxygen ceased and the pulse grew fainter and fainter. The president was sinking gradually, like a child, into eternal slumber.

Sad Wait for the End.

At 10 o'clock the pulse could no longer be felt in the extremities and they grew cold. Below stairs the grief-stricken gathering waited sadly for the end. Those in the house were: Secretaries Hitchcock, Wilson and Root; Attorney General Knox; Senators Fairbanks, Hanna and Burrows; Judge Day; Colonel Herrick; Abner McKinley; Dr. and Mrs. Baer; Mrs. Duncan, the president's sister; Mrs. Mary Barber; Mrs. McWilliams; Mrs. McKinley's cousin; the physicians, including Doctor McBurney; John G. Milburn; John N. Scatcherd; Harry Hamlin; Secretary Cortelyou, and a number of others. At 9:37 Secretary Cortelyou sent out a formal notification to the effect that the president was dying but the president lingered on, his pulse growing fainter and fainter.

No More Need of Bulletins.

There was no more need of official bulletins after this. Those who came from the house told the same story—the president was dying and the end might come at any time. Dr. Mann said at 11 o'clock the president was still alive, and would probably live for some time. Thus the minutes lengthened to hours and midnight came with the president still battling against death.

Secretaries Root and Wilson came from the house about midnight and paced up and down the sidewalk. All that Secretary Root said was, "The end has not come yet."

Announced by Webb Hayes.

Buffalo, Saturday, Sept. 14.—The announcement of the death of the president to the members of the cabinet was made by Webb Hayes, who said, "It is all over."

Great Sigh of Anguish.

When the news was imparted to those downstairs a great sigh of anguish went up from the strong men assembled. The members of the cabinet, the senators and Jose friends remained but a few minutes. Then, with mournful tread and bowed heads they came out into the darkness and went away. Not one among them had dry eyes and some moaned in their agony of grief. The military guard was augmented immediately upon the announcement. The waiting crowds walked away rapidly, giving expression in unmistakable terms to the great sorrow they felt.

lants, including oxygen, were employed to restore him to consciousness for a final parting with his wife. He asked for her and she sat at his side and held his hand. He consoled her and bade her goodby. She went through the heart-trying scene with the same bravery and fortitude which she has born the grief of the tragedy which ended his life.

The immediate cause of the president's death is undetermined. The physicians disagree, and it will possibly require an autopsy to fix the exact cause. The president's remains will be taken to Washington, and there will be a state funeral.

Vice President Roosevelt, who will now succeed to the presidency, may take the oath of office wherever he happens to hear the news. The cabinet will resign in a body and President Roosevelt will have the opportunity of forming a new cabinet if he desires.

The rage of the people of Buffalo against the president's assassin, when they learned tonight he was dying, was boundless. Thousands surrounded the jail and the entire police force of the city and two regiments of militia were utilized to insure his protection.

AS THE BULLETINS TELL IT.

Incidents of McKinley's Last Hours tersely chronicled.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—The physicians issued the following official bulletin at 9 a. m.: "The president's condition has somewhat improved during the past few hours. There is better response to stimulation and he is conscious and free from pain. Pulse, 122; temperature, 99.8."

At 12:30 p. m. Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following: "The president's physicians report that his condition is practically unchanged since the 9 o'clock bulletin. He is sleeping quietly."

The following bulletin was issued at 2:30: "The president has more than held his own since morning and his condition justifies the expectation of further improvement. Pulse, 123; temperature, 99.4."

At 4 p. m. the following bulletin was issued: "The president's physicians report he is only slightly improved since the last bulletin. Pulse and temperature remain the same."

At 6:40 p. m. it was announced that the president does not respond to oxygen and his physicians announced that unless he does respond to stimulation his death is only a matter of a short time.

A messenger from the house at 6:57 announced that the president was still alive but that there was no hope. The entire staff of physicians is at the bedside.

was the announcement from the Milburn house at 5 p. m.

Charles G. Dawes, comptroller of the currency, who enjoys an intimate acquaintance with the president, arrived here early this evening and reached the Milburn house shortly after 8 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. C. F. Wilson of Tonawanda, formerly pastor of the president's church at Canton, reached the Milburn house shortly after 8 and demanded admittance.

8:31 p. m.—The president is extremely low and is sinking rapidly. He is only kept alive by artificial respiration. All hope has been abandoned. The end may come at any moment.

Secretary Cortelyou and Mrs. McKinley have been with the president for some time. An announcement from the house at 8:50 stated that the president is dying.

A messenger at 9:20 announced that the president was being kept alive with great difficulty by the use of oxygen. It is added that his case is now more desperate.

9:27 p. m.—The pulse has left the president's extremities. He may live till midnight. Consciousness seems to have finally left. In his most recent lucid moment the president comforted Mrs. McKinley.

9:32 p. m.—Secretary Cortelyou has just sent a message to the newspaper men stating he cannot now leave the house as the president is in his last moments.

9:35 p. m.—Dr. Mynter, who just left the house, says the president is slowly dying. The approach of death is already evident as the body is getting cold. Dr. Mynter says, however, that the president may last until 2 o'clock in the morning although the end may come at any time. There is hardly any pulse to be felt.

9:48 p. m.—Some of the members of the cabinet and other distinguished callers have begun to leave the house, indicating that the end is all but here. Secretary Root and Senator Debevoise are among those just departing.

9:53 p. m.—The administration of oxygen has been suspended for some time. The president, before he finally lost consciousness, bade his wife a tender farewell. He was then heard to murmur the words of the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee"—probably his last words.

10:03 p. m.—During his last period of consciousness Mrs. McKinley was at the bedside of her dying husband. She bore her affliction with superb fortitude.

The president's last words were addressed to his wife "God's will, not ours, be done."

10:35 p. m.—The crowd on Delaware avenue near the mansion grows larger and the police and military sentries have their hands full in preserving the lines.

At 10:40 Doctor Mann said the president was still alive and might linger an hour longer.

10:50 p. m.—The rooms in the rear of

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT. The work of the assassin who struck down the president a week ago yesterday is complete.

Brave, wise, and good as he was, President William McKinley is dead by the act of a paltry wretch who slew him because he filled an office which he was twice called by the free expression of the will of the American people.

It is exasperating to think that so noble a man should have his great career cut short by the hand of a murderous scoundrel who was not worthy to stand in his presence, breathe the same air, or enjoy the rights and privileges of citizenship in a country of whose government he was the executive head.

The death of President McKinley by the act of an assassin is a national humiliation as well as calamity. It lays us open to a reproach that will be eagerly voiced against us abroad, and will bring into doubt the efficacy of our institutions, for the purpose of ensuring good government, in the minds of those who are but too willing to believe it wanting in that respect.

But if the president is dead the government at Washington still lives; and, aided by the sore lesson we have been given, we shall work out the new problem confronting us, that of repressing anarchism, as we have the other perplexing ones which have arisen since the republic was founded, placing our reliance in the Providence above us and our own honest intention, and patiently seeking to turn to good account even such afflictions as that which we have now been called on to endure.

SUCH A LAW NOT NEEDED. "There ought to be a law passed to prevent the president from shaking hands with people in a public manner and thereby risking his life," said Frederic A. Coudert, the distinguished New York lawyer, in discussing the attempt made on the life of President McKinley at Buffalo Friday last.

for that reason alone if no other could be urged for dropping it. We should hold our presidents and other high officers of the government in too great a regard to treat them as dime museum freaks, demanding of them as the price of the honors placed upon them that they shall minister to our curiosity whenever they go out among the people for any purpose.

THE ORE MOVEMENT. The current number of the Iron Trade Review says of the ore movement: One of the encouraging features of the week has been the report of the iron ore movement during August, which has but recently been issued by the shippers.

BROKERS' OPINIONS. Copper stocks have "slumped" again, this time in sympathy with the New York market, we are told by the brokers who make a specialty of dealing in this class of securities. These brokers are now sending out very discouraging forecasts of the immediate future of the market.

Thank goodness, we are to have a respite from the annoyance of the Schley court of inquiry until our other troubles have time to work themselves clear. Admiral Howison was quickly disposed of as a member of the court. The testimony showing that he was biased in favor of Sampson and against Schley was conclusive to the minds of the other two members of the tribunal which is to pass on the case, obviously, and it will not be questioned that they acted properly in deciding that he should not sit with them in the hearing.

AN EVIL INFLUENCE. How far the sensational papers which have viciously assailed the motives and policies of the administration may be held responsible for the act of the assassin Czolgosz is very much of a problem. That their inflammatory articles develop a dangerous tendency among the ignorant and criminally inclined class is indisputable.

WE ARE TOO OPTIMISTIC. To The Editor: The supreme optimism with which America has received hitherto the onslaughts of the old world has probably been due to the hope that free institutions, and the removal of a sense of personal oppression, would work transforming miracles in the character of those who sought asylum among us.

Rheumatism. What is the use of telling the rheumatic that he feels as if his joints were being dislocated? He knows that his sufferings are very much like the tortures of the rack. What he wants to know is what will permanently cure his disease.

KILLED BY A LIVE WIRE. THOUGHT QUINCY WILL YIELD.

Alphonse Borrett, Telephone Lineman, Meets Death at Hancock. Miners to Hear Answer of the Company This Afternoon.

Alphonse Borrett, a lineman in the employ of the Michigan Telephone company, met with instant death at 9:23 o'clock yesterday morning, being electrocuted by coming in contact with a live wire while at work on a pole at the Hancock end of the country bridge. Twelve hundred volts shot through him. Borrett's home was at Montreal, Canada. His remains were taken to Krellwitz's undertaking rooms and relatives in Canada were communicated with. Borrett was twenty-five years of age. He had been an employe of the telephone company for two months, joining the company's forces at Ishpeming. Since Aug. 20 the crew has been at work in Houghton rearranging and giving the system a thorough overhauling under the direction of Louis Holt, foreman.

The work in which Borrett was engaged at the time of the fatality was considered very dangerous by the men, two of them having emphatically refused to do it, as the pole supports not only telephone wires but live wires as well. A cable that stretched to the pole at the west side of the bridge had to be unspooled and Borrett climbed the west pole to do the work. He knew of the danger, but thought that if he was careful no harm would result. The wires on the pole form a network in which it is very difficult to work. The live wire from the Peninsula Electric Light & Power company's plant at Houghton which furnishes power for Calumet patterns is strung on the pole in question. Borrett, it is said, realized the danger to a greater degree after he got up on the pole between the wires and was about to give up the job and come down, when his hand came in contact with the live wire. He had just thrown a hand rope over the wires to the ground when the electricity shot through him. He was heard to give one long groan; then he fell on his side and back, with his head resting on his hand. He was dead. The body was supported by the wires over which it fell.

Seven minutes after the occurrence the rest of the crew had taken the body down by means of a rope. Dr. Scallon of Hancock was summoned but Borrett was beyond all earthly aid. The accident was witnessed by several persons.

It is said that the wire Borrett touched was insulated, but that the covering was worn through in places and poor in others. The occurrence has increased the fear of the telephone linemen in regard to working on poles which are known to carry live wires. BLODGETT TRANSFERRED. Cyrus W. Blodgett, who has been the Northwestern road's general commercial agent at Houghton since December, 1899, has been transferred to Harvard, Ill., to take charge of the division station at that place, a post which is considered very important. Mr. Blodgett left yesterday afternoon. Until his successor is appointed at Houghton, Charles E. Webb, who has been Mr. Blodgett's assistant, will be in charge of the local office. Mr. Blodgett has made many friends here and his departure is marked with much regret by all who know him. He first came to the copper country in December, 1898, when he traveled through this region in the interests of the company. The present office in the Douglas house block was opened Sept. 4, 1900.

MISSING FOR SEVERAL DAYS. John Koski, a well-known Finlander of Hancock, has been missing from his home for three days and the authorities are looking for him. Up to the first of the present month he was in the employ of the Quincy company, but after pay day he went to Calumet and spent his wages for whisky. Shortly after returning to Hancock he was missed by his wife. The Koski family lives in what was once the old Quincy schoolhouse on the side hill. Marshal Malherbe has a warrant for Koski's arrest and if the fellow is apprehended he will be tried for habitual drunkenness, on the complaint of his wife. Mrs. Koski has two children to support.

PASSES ARMY EXAMINATION. W. B. Wallace, a young man who enlisted with the Calumet company for service in the Cuban campaign, has successfully passed the examination entitling him to a second lieutenant in the regular army. At present he is a student at Lawrence university, at Appleton, Wis. After the close of the war with Spain the young soldier served with honors in the Philippines and was advanced from the non-commissioned staff to the line. He is now awaiting his commission, and as soon as it is received will be assigned to some army post in the Northwest.

FOR INTENT TO MURDER. During the fore part of the week Daniel Rosenthal of South Lake Linden was charged with assault with intent to murder by Ed. P. Knepper, also of Grover. It is said that Rosenthal pulled a gun on Knepper and that if it were not for interference the latter would have been shot. Rosenthal had a preliminary hearing in Judge Finn's court at Hancock. He waived examination and was bound over for trial in the November term of circuit court. In default of $100 bail he was sent to jail.

Sleeplessness. You can't sleep in the stillest night if you digestion is bad. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla—it strengthens the stomach and establishes that condition in which sleep regularly comes and is sweet and refreshing.

Norris Silver, North Stratford, N. H.: "I purchased a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure when suffering with a cough doctors told me was incurable. One bottle relieved me, the second and third almost cured. Today I am a well man." Stafford Drug Co.; H. N. Meloche, Ishpeming.

The floor became so dirty that numerous sweepings and scrubbing were necessary; but now Postmaster Lang evidently means to put a stop to it.

John R. O'Neil, proprietor of the Aquarium saloon at Red Jacket, has three photos of President McKinley and his wife which are prized very highly. They are snap shots taken in front of the Milburn home at Buffalo the day before the president was shot. One represents Mr. McKinley leaving the house, the second shows him entering the carriage, and in the third the carriage is being whirled away to the exposition grounds. A party of Calumet people, including Mrs. O'Neil, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Moon, were with Mr. O'Neil when he took the pictures.

A NIGHT OF TERROR. "Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Maehias, Me., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her. Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further she was entirely cured. This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Stafford's drug store.

The management has had some difficulty with the village council. The claim is made that the company is building a branch railroad track to the yard and has failed to do that. The brick company has had difficulty in getting men and the weather has been unfavorable a good portion of the summer, which has made it rather discouraging. It has been offered a site and bonus where good clay can be obtained in cutting meadows. The company is now building a branch railroad track to the yard and has failed to do that. REPUBLIC. MANY INTERESTED IN THE ERIE. E. F. Bradt Found Numerous Strings to Untie Before Getting That Mine. E. F. Bradt had considerable of a task on his hands when he undertook to procure an option on the Erie mine, where he recently began exploratory work. There were seven or eight different parties interested in the property, and the consent of all these had to be obtained before he could get the option he wanted. The Erie has had quite a remarkable career from the first. The original owners were Frank G. Holton and Chas. A. Mack. They obtained possession of the land and began exploring there on a small scale in 1867. Before they had done much work they got other capitalists interested in the property. From that year until 1881 no less than fifty different persons were interested in the prospect in one way or another. A number who bought large interests sold lesser ones to others until the records of the different transactions filled several pages of the county records. While the various deals were being consummated more or less work was being done at the property, though operations were in a very haphazard and unpractical manner. Wright and son of Erie, Pa., were the last to operate the mine. They abandoned it in 1881, after having spent quite a sum. They not only stood the cost of considerable exploratory work, but also paid for the seven miles of railroad extended to the mine. This was later dismantled and the rails were sold at a sacrifice. It is said that the Wrights were at one time offered $150,000 for their interest in the property, but declined to sell. Speaking of the property to a Mining Journal representative this week, Mr. Bradt said that the Erie will some day be a winning proposition if the reports he has received of it are true. The drill recently started is located a short distance east of one of the shafts, where it is thought an extension of the deposit will be encountered. If the ore proves up as well there as he anticipates Mr. Bradt will unwater the shafts and begin working them. The depths of the shafts is unknown, but they are supposed to be about 200 feet. Two grades of ore were discovered at the mine. One is a Bessemer of very good quality, and the other is a non-Bessemer. Mr. Bradt is working a force of thirty-five men, including the drill hands and the men employed in sinking test pits. The old shaft at the Channing exploration has been unwatered and some drilling has already been done there. One drill is stationed a short distance from the shaft and the other is working in it from surface. An old hole bored there by the Channing party is being put down deeper and thus far the showing is very favorable. Mr. Bradt is satisfied that the former explorers did not go deep enough to fully test the formation.

FOUNDATIONS COMPLETED.

The foundations for the crusher plant, engine and boilers are now about completed. This does not include the foundation for the engine that will be installed immediately north of the crusher.

The workers were very fortunate in not being compelled to blast out any part of the ledge to allow the foundations to go in.

The east wall of the boiler house foundation rests on the ledge, but it was not necessary to cut away any stone. In fact the ledge came in there in just the right form to serve the purposes of the builders.

There will be a pocket put in below the side track opposite the crusher. This will be used for the reception of ore from the south end of the mine. The ore will be dumped from the railway cars into this pocket and later taken by tram to the crusher. It will not be necessary with this arrangement to operate the crusher in the winter season. It will be a summer proposition, so that the plant will be idle when there is no shipping being done.

While the plant will be installed before the opening of navigation next year it will not be operated until the shipping season of 1902 opens.

REDS THREATENED

GREAT CROWDS GATHER IN CHICAGO AND BUFFALO.

SHOUTS OF LYNCHING RAISED.

PRECAUTIONS FOR EMERGENCY TAKEN BY AUTHORITIES.

Militia Is Called Out in the Exposition City to Protect the Armories, and in the Other the Police Force Is Held in Readiness.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Judge Chetlain today concluded to take up the habeas corpus case of the alleged anarchists in the regular court room on the South side. The change was made at the request of the sheriff, who stated that he was afraid an attempt might be made to rescue the prisoners if they were taken through the streets by the police. He said the people were excited on account of the bulletins from Buffalo, and it had been reported to him that threats of lynching had been made. After an argument by the counsel the case was postponed until tomorrow, no decision having been given on any of the points raised.

Mobs in Dangerous Temper.

Chicago was quiet all evening. Around the bulletin boards large crowds gathered to get the latest news of the president's condition. There were many expressions of deep feeling against the murderer, and not a few were leveled at the anarchists confined in the county jail here and toward Miss Goldman. The crowds, particularly in the down town districts, were in dangerous temper and had many anarchists, men or women, turned loose, killing would have followed as soon as the crowd could manage it.

Three men, one the son of a prominent hotel keeper, visited the offices of the papers during the early part of the evening with a call written out and signed by all three, asking that if definite news of the death of the president came by ten tomorrow morning they wanted ten thousand men to meet them in front of the county jail to lynch the anarchists confined there. The call met with little response, though the general feeling was with them.

The police recognized the possibility of trouble when authentic news shall be received of the president's death and announce themselves ready and able to protect the prisoners if any attack be made.

Police Held in Reserve.

General orders were issued tonight by the chief of police for every available man on the police force throughout the city to be kept in reserve in the event of any demonstration against the anarchists. Thirty-five men were detailed to watch the principal hotels and public buildings for any signs of a demonstration, and thirty more were held in reserve. At the detail station, the entire day force was held on reserve duty. "I look for no trouble," said Chief of Police O'Neill, and am positive there will be none in Chicago. If it comes I am safe in saying that the prisoners will be protected for every available man. I can sympathize with anybody inclined to avenge the president. There will be no trouble here, the country may be sure of that. It may be necessary to keep them all locked up until after the president's funeral if he should die. It would be murder to turn them loose unless it was done in the most secret manner."

MOB AT ASSASSIN'S PRISON.

Rush Is Made but the Police Easily Control the Throng.

Buffalo, Sept. 13.—Large crowds tonight assembled on Main street, in the vicinity of the newspaper offices and on the streets surrounding police headquarters, where Czolgosz is confined. Although the sidewalks are so crowded that pedestrians are forced to walk in the center of the streets, the throng is an orderly one and no demonstration against the prisoner has taken place. As a precautionary measure ropes have been stretched across the street leading to police headquarters and no one is allowed to approach the station except newspaper men. A large force of police is on duty about the building and anyone approaching is challenged at every twenty or thirty feet. A reserve force is held in the headquarters building for any emergency that may arise.

Militiamen Take a Hand.

Later—The Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth regiments of the National Guard have been assembled in the barracks to be in readiness should the large crowd assembled about police headquarters make any hostile demonstration. There has been no indication of a disposition on the part of the crowd to riot, and the assembling of the National Guard is simply a precautionary measure.

Later—Only two companies have been assembled at each armory. They will not leave their quarters. The authorities believe it advisable to summon a portion of each regiment to act as a guard over the rifles and ammunition in the armory. The crowd is quiet and orderly. At 10 p. m. there were very few people in the vicinity of the police station, but Main street in the vicinity of the newspaper offices was crowded.

Rush Made at the Station.

The city went into a state of ferment when news of the sudden collapse of the president was announced. When the crowd found the rumors confirmed, somebody shouted, "Let's find the assassin," and then the crowd started for the station, but the police were prepared and though six thousand had gathered they were easily handled and pushed back from the station, later dispersing quietly.

Roosevelt in the Mountains.

News of Crisis Reaches Him at Secluded Club—Starts for Buffalo at Once.

Berlin, N. H., Sept. 13.—The chief of police today telegraphed the chief of police of New York to look out for a foreigner who left here this morning for New York, declaring he was on his way to Washington to kill Vice President Roosevelt.

North Creek, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Vice President Roosevelt is stopping at the Tahawus club, twelve miles beyond the reach of telephone or telegraph. Carriers have been sent to reach him.

New York, Sept. 13.—Vice President Roosevelt was found on the top of Mount Marcy late this afternoon. He will start immediately for North Creek, N. Y., which point he will reach between 9 and 10 p. m. From there he will take a special train awaiting him.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13.—A telegram from North Creek states that Vice President Roosevelt cannot reach Albany before 7 or 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Long Drive Through Woods.

North Creek, N. Y., Sept. 13.—8:30 p. m.—It is now believed that Vice President Roosevelt cannot reach here before 3 or 4 o'clock tomorrow morning. The message sent him early this morning, giving but few details of the president's condition were the only ones received by him. A team has been despatched from the Lower Adirondack, a distance of ten miles from where Roosevelt is stopping, with the latest bulletins showing the alarming condition of the president. These should reach him at 10 p. m. Should he start at once he will be obliged to drive or ride thirty-five miles over a dark road before the village of North Creek can be reached.

CUP RACE IS OFF.

Will Be Postponed for Few Weeks, Maybe Until Next Season.

New York, Saturday, Sept. 14.—On account of the death of the president, the international yacht race will be postponed. Whether the postponement will be for a few weeks or until next season, is not yet decided.

New York, Sept. 13.—The attendance of yachts at the approaching international yacht race, according to the well known yachtsmen, to be the largest known. The anchorage of the New York club in East River, between Twentieth and Twenty-eighth streets, is the gathering place of the yachts, and at present there are about seventy vessels, representing a value of about $40,000,000, at anchor. The yachts belong to or have been chartered by persons residing in various portions of the country, and many of them have come from England especially to attend the races. The largest vessel now at anchor is the steel yacht Marguerita, chartered by Anthony J. Drexel, the Philadelphia banker, in England. The vessel arrived at Philadelphia ten days ago and came to this city on Wednesday. Mr. Drexel has as his guests five prominent Englishmen and their wives. On Wednesday evening the entire party dined at the Waldorf-Astoria, returning to the vessel late at night. The Marguerita represents an outlay of nearly $2,000,000. It registers 1,704 tons, is 323 feet over all, has a water line of 272 feet, 34.6 feet beam, 16.7 feet depth, and draws 16.8 feet of water.

Other yachts at anchor are the Sybarite, chartered by George J. Gould; J. Pierpont Morgan's Corsair, the Fuscarova, chartered in England by Robert Ballentine; R. A. C. Smith's Catania, the Aileen, the property of W. R. Leeds, president of the American tin plate company; Daniel G. Reed, vice president of the same corporation has the Alcide, which he chartered from Georgiana F. Drexel; Pliny Fisk, the banker, has the Admiral; John R. Drexel, the Sultan; H. A. Hutchins of the Standard Oil company has the Gunilda; Henry C. Rouse, the Lady Godiva; Samuel F. Shaw, the Belleme; D. Willis James, Aloha; Walter Jennings, Clementina; J. J. Hill, the railroad magnate, Wacouta; John H. Hannan, the tars; and Miss Eloise L. Breen, the Elva.

It is expected that the number of yachts will be increased and that by the time the races take place there will be at least 100 vessels at anchor in the river.

Cleveland, Sept. 13.—Judge Eli Torrance of Minneapolis was today unanimously elected commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. General Sikes having withdrawn.

Mrs. Calista R. Jones of Bradford, Vt., was unanimously elected national commander of the Woman's Relief corps.

CAPITAL SHOCKED

NEWS FROM BUFFALO CAME AS A CRUSHING BLOW.

RECOVERY CONFIDENTLY LOOKED FOR

CHANGE IN PUBLIC POLICY IS NOT ANTICIPATED.

Believed Roosevelt Will Ask the Cabinet to Remain in Office, and There Is Little Probability of an Extra Session.

Washington, Saturday, Sept. 14.—The official announcement received at the White House at 2:35 is as follows:

- Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14, 1901.
- To Colonel B. S. Montgomery, Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C.
- The president left at quarter past two o'clock this morning.
- George B. Cortelyou.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The news of the expected death of the president came as a crushing blow to the national capital. Nowhere, perhaps, had the citizens been so full of confidence in the ultimate recovery of their beloved president and the buoyant bulletins of the past week from the sickbed had filled them into a false sense of security which made the shock terrible when news that the Buffalo tragedy would have a fatal ending came to them.

All day long the bulletin boards were surrounded by crowds waiting in suppressed excitement the latest word from the Milburn home, and the numerous newspaper extras were eagerly snapped up. Little work was done in the great executive departments, as at the slightest expense clerks dropped their pens and turned to talk in small, awe-stricken groups of the chances their chief magistrate had against death in the gallant struggle he was making in the far away city on the lake.

Secretaries Pictures of Distress.

The three cabinet officers in the capital today were pictures of distress. Two days ago Secretary Hay left his chief apartment on the road to recovery, and today Postmaster General Smith, who had left Buffalo even later and reached here this morning, said that when he came from the Milburn home yesterday the president was, according to his best information, surely on the mend. The postmaster generally returned to Buffalo on the 7:15 train tonight.

Secretary Hay had engaged accommodations on tonight's New England train, intending to return to his New Hampshire summer home for rest, but he cancelled the order early in the day, as on him devolved the important functions at once on the president's demise. He divided his time between the state department and his home, waiting for the end in patient resignation and prepared for his sorrowful duty of conveying to the nations of the world in official terms the news of the demise of a third American president through the agency of an assassin's bullet within the short space of one human life.

As a senior member in rank in the cabinet, upon Mr. Hay's shoulders will rest the burden of government of a great republic in the important interval that must elapse before the vice president, under the terms of the Constitution, assumes the cares and responsibilities of the presidential office.

At his home in Woodley, Secretary Gage mournfully awaited the close of his chief's life. During the day he has been at the treasury department and kept in touch with financial affairs in order that the president's end might not cause commercial disturbance that foreign to the part of his department could avert.

General Gillespie, acting secretary of war, stuck at his post in the war department for the purpose of making such orders as the sad event would force him to issue. He communicated with General Miles, at Seattle, and the latter notified the department he would return immediately.

No Change in Policy Looked For.

The fact the physicians had given up all hope caused some discussion among public men of the probability of an extra session of congress and early changes in the cabinet, but the consensus of opinion is that no cabinet changes or important departures in public policy were at all likely for some time to come and that congress would not be assembled until December.

All the cabinet members, chief diplomatic officials and the head of important bureaus, according to custom, will tender their resignations to relieve the president of embarrassment, but it is believed that Colonel Roosevelt will follow the precedent set by President Arthur, after Garfield's demise, and request them to continue in office. Some of the cabinet members are not in good health and would probably welcome relief from duty, but all would until such time as they could be relieved easily, if indeed, the request relief at all.

Under the presidential succession act, a cabinet officer who becomes chief magistrate would have to summon congress in special session, but the requirement does not apply to the vice president succeeding to the office of his predecessor and it is believed no extra session will be called in the absence of statutory requirements, as the three months intervening until December can be bridged over without difficulty and there is no special occasion for congress assembling.

Many Prayers for Recovery.

In many local churches today men and women assembled for quiet prayer that the life of the president might be spared. The largest was held at the Metropolitan Methodist, where President and Mrs. McKinley worshipped. Here, many women offered earnest prayers that the life of the president might be spared. A number of them quietly told of pretty incidents on the part of the president they had witnessed and dwelt especially on his fondness for children. Incident after incident illustrating the kindness, love, charity and religion of the president was recalled by a group standing around his empty pew.

Washington, Saturday, Sept. 14.—When the blow fell and the official announcement came that the president had passed away, the crowds which had been waiting, as well as the government officials, save a few clerks, had gone home. Secretary Hay had given directions what should be done, and Acting Chief Clerk Martin immediately sent cablegrams to every United States ambassador, minister and chargé, notifying them of the death and instructing them to inform the governments to which they were accredited by a group standing around his empty pew.

Washington, Saturday, Sept. 14.—The official announcement received at the White House at 2:35 is as follows:

- Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14, 1901.
- To Colonel B. S. Montgomery, Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C.
- The president left at quarter past two o'clock this morning.
- George B. Cortelyou.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The news of the expected death of the president came as a crushing blow to the national capital. Nowhere, perhaps, had the citizens been so full of confidence in the ultimate recovery of their beloved president and the buoyant bulletins of the past week from the sickbed had filled them into a false sense of security which made the shock terrible when news that the Buffalo tragedy would have a fatal ending came to them.

All day long the bulletin boards were surrounded by crowds waiting in suppressed excitement the latest word from the Milburn home, and the numerous newspaper extras were eagerly snapped up. Little work was done in the great executive departments, as at the slightest expense clerks dropped their pens and turned to talk in small, awe-stricken groups of the chances their chief magistrate had against death in the gallant struggle he was making in the far away city on the lake.

Secretaries Pictures of Distress.

The three cabinet officers in the capital today were pictures of distress. Two days ago Secretary Hay left his chief apartment on the road to recovery, and today Postmaster General Smith, who had left Buffalo even later and reached here this morning, said that when he came from the Milburn home yesterday the president was, according to his best information, surely on the mend. The postmaster generally returned to Buffalo on the 7:15 train tonight.

Secretary Hay had engaged accommodations on tonight's New England train, intending to return to his New Hampshire summer home for rest, but he cancelled the order early in the day, as on him devolved the important functions at once on the president's demise. He divided his time between the state department and his home, waiting for the end in patient resignation and prepared for his sorrowful duty of conveying to the nations of the world in official terms the news of the demise of a third American president through the agency of an assassin's bullet within the short space of one human life.

As a senior member in rank in the cabinet, upon Mr. Hay's shoulders will rest the burden of government of a great republic in the important interval that must elapse before the vice president, under the terms of the Constitution, assumes the cares and responsibilities of the presidential office.

At his home in Woodley, Secretary Gage mournfully awaited the close of his chief's life. During the day he has been at the treasury department and kept in touch with financial affairs in order that the president's end might not cause commercial disturbance that foreign to the part of his department could avert.

General Gillespie, acting secretary of war, stuck at his post in the war department for the purpose of making such orders as the sad event would force him to issue. He communicated with General Miles, at Seattle, and the latter notified the department he would return immediately.

MCKINLEY IS DEAD

The Milburn house hitherto darkened has for several hours been brightly lighted. There is much activity in that part of the mansion.

10:55 p. m.—The awful suspense continues. Relatives and distinguished visitors are still gathered in the drawing room awaiting the announcement of the end. This is the part of the house in which the sick chamber is located.

10:59 p. m.—The president is alone with his physicians and nurses. His extremities have long been cold and for over two hours he has been unconscious.

11:05 p. m.—A messenger from the house announces that the president's vitality is marvelous. The conditions remain unchanged and death may come in one minute or not for an hour or more.

11:07 p. m.—Dr. McBurney said it was possible that the president might live for several hours. He is scarcely breathing, circulation has ceased in his extremities and they are cold.

11:12 p. m.—Dr. Mann has just said: "The president is powerless and is dying. He may live an hour."

At 11:47 Dr. Janeway of New York, the noted heart specialist, arrived and was admitted to the Milburn house.

11:58 p. m.—When Dr. Janeway arrived the president was just barely alive.

Buffalo, Saturday, 14.—Secretary of the Navy John Long arrived at 12:06, in time to see the president alive, though unconscious.

12:30.—Frank Baird gave out the announcement from the Secretary Cortelyou that the president was still alive and his condition was practically the same as it had been for an hour. Coroner Wilson reached the house a few minutes ago. His arrival led to startling reports.

At 1:30 a. m. an attendant came from the house and said the president's pulse had shown practically no activity in four hours. There was only a slight heart beat. All of the doctors are still upstairs near at hand to the patient.

1:55 a. m.—The physicians, it is announced, are now remaining with the president out of respect, the time for their services having passed. Mrs. McKinley has retired to her room.

Secretary Cortelyou makes the announcement that the president died at 2:15.

2:24 a. m.—The members of the family, with the exception of the beloved wife, were at the deathbed. Mrs. McKinley was in an adjoining room. Dr. Rixey was the only physician present.

IRELAND'S TOUCHING TRIBUTE.

Death of McKinley Deeply Moves the Noted Catholic Prelate.

St. Paul, Saturday, Sept. 14.—Upon the receipt of the news of the president's death, Archbishop Ireland dictated the following to the Associated Press: "The nation mourns, and we will miss her mourn. She has lost her chief magistrate, whom she loved so dearly; in whom she so willingly reposed her pride. William McKinley is now dead; his memory will live down the ages as that of one most worthy to have been president of the Republic of the United States. I knew him closely; esteemed him; loved him. He was a true man, honest, pure of morals, generous-minded."

Peter Rasmussen was arrested here today. He is wanted in Houghton county for larceny and jail breaking, he getting away from the county bastille two weeks ago Thursday. The arrest was not effected until the conclusion of a lively chase, which caused an appreciable ripple of excitement down town, and it was finally made by Bob Humes in the alley back of the Harlow block, where Rasmussen was attempting to climb a fence. Bob caught him man by the leg and pulled him down. Rasmussen made a bluff at pulling a gun, but examination showed he was not armed. The chase started up on Superior street, when John Penglass, Jr., let out after Rasmussen. Humes was waiting his turn in a barber shop at the corner of Front and Superior streets when Rasmussen arose in flight. He joined the procession. Rasmussen skirted the docks, dashed through the Lake Shore Engine works and did some tall sprinting before he was brought face to face with the nearest of his pursuers. The people he passed on the streets were chary about stopping and he would be running yet as far as their efforts were concerned.

TRADE IS BRISK. Reports of Satisfactory Business Come from Nearly All Lines. New York, Sept. 13.—R. G. Dan & Co.'s Trade Review tomorrow will say: "In the principal manufacturing industries, there is a steady gain in the number of active mills, and full operation is considered near. In the steel trade the urgency for immediate delivery of goods and raw materials is so pressing that consumers are prepared to accept a return to normal activity with little delay. The mills are accepting contracts for the delivery of steel rails far into 1902 at $28, so no change in price is near."

"The shoe shops still operate full force and while the large producers in New England have a most noticeable activity, manufacturers all over the country share in the heavy demand. Dry goods enjoy exceptional activity. The demand of current needs exceeds all expectations and the distribution by jobbers is of enormous proportions. The Fall River print cloth market has received an impetus from several liberal orders, regulars advancing two and three cents. Many lines of cotton goods, bleached and brown, have moved to a higher level and this branch of the textile industry is in a better position than at any previous time in this season, mainly owing to light stocks in first hands. The purchase in woolen and worsted fabrics is the largest in staple lines, and while the mills have few new orders they are fully occupied on long term contracts."

"We did not respond to the lower government estimate, as unofficial authorities still anticipate the greatest yield ever harvested."

As Noted by Bradstreet's. Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "From nearly all branches of trade come reports of satisfactory business, although the crop reports are not as favorable as expected. With the opening of the non-union mills and the return of men to work at Milwaukee and other points the strike is gradually dwindling away and matters are approaching normal. The strength of print cloths is a feature in textiles. Fall River reports show that all available supplies are being taken at advancing prices. Wool is steady though less active. The wheat exports, including flour exports, for the week aggregated 3,647,000 bushels as against 4,666,000 for the corresponding week of last year. The corn exports aggregated 778,000 bushels, as against 2,403,000 last year."

A statement compiled by Bradstreet shows that the total bank clearings in the United States for the week ending Sept. 13, 1901, an increase of 54.8 per cent, as compared with the corresponding week of last year.

STOCKS GO DOWN. Shock of President's Release Affects New York Market. New York, Sept. 13.—The shock of the president's release, fell upon the stock market today with almost greater force than did that of the attack itself upon him. In many instances the measure was seen in the fact that prices as a rule fell today below the low level of Saturday. The condition of the money market left the market vulnerable even to the normal course of events.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS. Features of the Day in the Wheat, Corn and Oats Pits. Chicago, Sept. 13.—Wheat was exceedingly dull most of the session today, with bid selling easier and the close showing losses of 3/4 to 1/2. The unfavorable news from Buffalo had considerable to do with the market. All other news was secondary, although the failure of Liverpool to respond to the upturn here yesterday and the large Northwest receipts had a weakening tendency. At Liverpool, spot was steady to 1/4 higher, with the futures unchanged to 1/4 lower. The clearings were large—1,068,000 bushels—with twenty-six boatloads reported taken for export. The receipts were 137 cars. In corn there was a moderate trade. The market was nervous and the feeling easier, the close being 1/4 to 3/4 lower. Buffalo news was the chief depression influence. The declines in Wall street, lower cables and continued liberal shipments from Argentina were also factors, which aided in the down-turn. At Liverpool, spot was 1/4 to 3/4 lower, with the futures unchanged. The feature was the buying in of 250,000 bushels sold yesterday by a local trader. The receipts were 211 cars. Oats were weak and 1/4 to 3/4 lower at the start, but advanced 3/4 to 1/2 and closed at the top with a net gain of 3/4 to 1/2. Local longs, shippers and New York bought.

The leading futures ranged as follows: December wheat opened at 70 1/4; highest, 70 3/4; lowest, 70; closed, 70 1/4. December corn opened at 56 1/2; highest, 57 1/4; lowest, 56 1/2; closed, 56 3/4. December oats opened at 35 1/2; highest, 35 3/4; lowest, 35 1/2; closed, 35 1/2.

Receipts and shipments were as follows: Receipts, Shipments. Flour, barrels, 20,000 10,000 Wheat, bushels, 223,000 464,000 Corn, bushels, 270,000 165,000 Oats, bushels, 172,000 200,000

* Asked. † Bid. BRITISH WAR OFFICE PUZZLED. What to Do With the Beer Prisoners a Problem Which Baffles. London, Sept. 13.—The monotonous record of small British successes in South Africa continues, but there is no expectation that Boer hunting will cease after Sunday, when the war can be proclaimed to be technically at an end. The expiration of the time limit will enable Lord Kitchener to enforce more stringent measures in dealing with the prisoners captured by his mounted columns.

He may have a definite plan for future operations, but military men here do not expect a new departure, but assert that the process of wearing out the Boers and picking up guerrillas by threes and fours will continue for an indefinite period, while the movement of refugees to Johannesburg, already in progress, will be quickened.

The problem which baffles all inquirers is the ultimate treatment of the prisoners. The fighting men of the two Dutch states, with the exception of probably 8,000 guerrillas and Cane rebels, are now prisoners of war. Nobody either in the colonial or war office ventures to forecast what will happen when the 8,000 men still in the field are run down and either killed, maimed, or captured. Shooting will cease for a time, but the British government will have the women and children to feed in the concentration camps and no guaranty that the prisoners when released will not take up arms afresh.

GLOVER UNDER ARREST. Former Congressman from Missouri Charged With Criminal Libel. Cripple Creek, Colo., Sept. 13.—John M. Glover, a former congressman from Missouri is under arrest on the charge of criminal libel, the complaint being made by George McCarthy, a justice of the peace and postmaster at Clyde. Glover was taken before Justice Barber and released on a bond of $500. Early this week Glover printed an open letter addressed to Sheriff Stewart, in which he attacked in rough language the sheriff and all his deputies. His letter was particularly bitter toward McCarthy. This letter Glover has been freely circulating through the mails.

After his arrest Glover was around town carrying a rifle announcing that he would continue to circulate his letters, and that while he expected to be arrested many times he was prepared to give bail in the sum of $1,000,000 if necessary. McCarthy was arrested some time ago on a warrant charging him with offering to accept a bribe as a school director at Clyde.

STOLE A HOUSE. Rich Colorado Widow Sentenced to Prison for Five Years. Victor, Colo., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Mary Berry, a wealthy Cripple Creek widow, will be compelled to serve a sentence of five years in the penitentiary imposed on her by the district court at its last session. She was arrested about a year ago on a charge of stealing a house, tried, convicted, and sentenced to the penitentiary, where she was confined about three months.

Mrs. Berry is an extensive owner of property in this district. Her income

Seek Relief!

The great proportion of women who suffer never make a serious effort to benefit themselves. The most of them go on paying no attention to their little menstrual disorders, believing they will eventually wear off. They grow worse and worse every day. At the period of menstruation a woman is peculiarly susceptible to cold and other external influences and it is also the most favorable time for the development of hidden disease germs which may be lurking in the system. Any physician knows that disordered menstruation, falling of the womb and leucorrhoea are blighting lives in almost every home. No woman should neglect herself a moment after she sees indications of female diseases. Almost instant relief can be secured by the use of

WINE OF CARDUI

It will relieve you right in your own home. Will you accept the testimony of Mrs. Beiger and thousands of other women and really seek relief today? All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

150 Chicago Street, Fort Wayne, Ind., March 27, 1900. Your Wine of Cardui has done a world of good for me. I have used five bottles of the Wine and one package of Theodor's Black-Draught. And since I have started to use it I will not be without it in the house. It helped my sister in Toledo, who did not menstruate at all. She was sixteen years of age and nothing else helped her. I was in a very bad state myself before I used your medicine, but I found relief in three days. And now I feel like a new woman and do all my housework and washing, which I could not do before I took Wine of Cardui. I would be glad to write any poor woman and tell her how I suffered before I used Wine of Cardui.

THE SCHOOL TEACHERS.

There Are Sixty-One Employed in Ishpeming's Public Schools.

So many changes were made this year in the corps of instructors at the Ishpeming public schools that the publication of the complete list of those employed at the several schools will be of general interest. There are sixty-one teachers in all, including Superintendent D. D. Mayne. The schools are still without a music teacher. Miss Soper, who held the position last year, resigned about a week before the schools opened to take a similar situation in the Thomas Normal at Detroit. It is expected that the vacancy will be filled soon, though the school authorities have no one in view at this time. Following is a list of the teachers, with the departments over which they preside:

High School Building.—D. D. Mayne, superintendent; Mrs. Gertrude C. Sober, high school principal; Dr. G. Sweet, land, Miss Virginia Southgate, Ralph R. Price, Miss Pearl McDonald, Miss M. The total enrollment up to this time in the several schools is 2,231, divided as follows: Ridge street building, 451; Division street, 619; Cleveland, 296; High street, 439; Junction, 42 and High school building, 472.

FOOTBALL TODAY.

The first football game of the 1901 season to be played in Ishpeming will take place this afternoon, when the local high school team will meet the alumni. The game will be called promptly at 3:30 o'clock at Union Park. No admission will be charged and the general public is invited to attend.

The contest promises to be a warm one, for the alumni team is first class, and some of the star players who won glory for Ishpeming in past years. They are contemplating giving the regulars a hard rub, and are even so optimistic that they anticipate defeating the high school boys.

The regulars are inclined to think that the claims of the alumni team are slightly overdrawn and while they do not expect a walkaway game are figuring on scoring a few touch downs more than their opponents.

GRACE CHURCH SERVICES.

The members of Grace Episcopal church will attend divine services at the Baptist church, corner of Third and High streets, until such time as their new edifice is ready for occupancy. There will be no early morning service for the present. The first service tomorrow will be at 10:30. The evening service will take place at 7:30. Sunday school will be at 11:45. The Baptist Sunday school will be at 12:15. It is expected that the new church will be completed shortly before the holidays.

ACCIDENT AT LAKE SHAFT.

Charles Kauppinen, a laborer at the Cleveland Lake Shaft, was injured yesterday morning at 11 o'clock by being caught under a heavy piece of timber that he was placing in position. He was holding the timber and slipped, the piece coming down on him as he fell. He was at once removed to the Ishpeming hospital, where his injuries were examined and found not serious. His right side was badly bruised and unless he has sustained internal injuries he will be around in less than a week.

A SHOCKING CALAMITY.

"Lately befell a railroad laborer," writes Dr. A. Kellett of Willford, Ark. "His foot was badly crushed, but Backlen's Arnica Salve quickly cured him. It's simply wonderful for burns, boils, and all skin eruptions. It's the world's champion healer. Cure guaranteed. 25c. Sold by Stafford.

ARTHUR LANGGUTH

PRESIDENT OF THE MICHIGAN PRESBYTERIAN PUBLISHING CO.

An Interesting Incident in the Life of a Successful Man as Told in a Personal Interview.

Mr. Arthur Langguth is president of the Michigan Presbyterian Publishing company and is known as a conscientious and reliable man as far as the official organ of that church, the Michigan Presbyterian, circulates. In Detroit, where he has a handsome home at No. 15 John R. street, he is known as the successful manager of a large business and a leading citizen. In a recent interview he said:

"Several years ago, in some manner, I strained my back. Instead of getting better it became worse and the pain increased so much that I could not lie down on my back and when sitting was obliged to lean forward. It was not only very painful but caused me great inconvenience and in spite of all the remedies I took it did not become any better. I did not want to leave my business but my physician said it was imperative, and so at last I reluctantly consented and said I would go to Colorado for the change of air."

"But as I was making my preparations for the trip, the wife of a minister who is a friend of our family advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and I strongly did so journey and tried the pills."

"Well, it was wonderful. I improved from the very start. I had become extremely emaciated from the pain and loss of appetite, but by the time I had taken a box my appetite began to return, the pains began to leave me and I picked up in health. In a short time I was completely restored and since then I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house, for they are a splendid tonic and strength builder."

Mr. Langguth took the one unflinching remedy and was readily cured. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will not only effect a cure in cases similar to the one above, but, acting directly upon the blood and nerves, are an unfailing specific for such diseases as partial paralysis, St. Vitus's dance, sciatica, neuralgia, nervous headache, after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion and all forms of weakness, either in male or female. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, fifty cents a box or six boxes for two dollars and fifty cents by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. They are never sold in bulk, or by the hundred.

Negaunee and Vicinity.

STRIKE STILL ON. Miners at Roseland Warn Men to Keep Away From That Locality.

About two months ago The Mining Journal published an account of a mining strike at Roseland, British Columbia. At that time the indications were that the trouble between the miners and the mine owners would be settled, but since then new complications have arisen and an amiable settlement seems further away now than ever.

An account of the trouble at Roseland is interesting reading to several Negaunee people, for many families who formerly lived here are now located there. The chairman of the executive committee of the Roseland miners' union has written to several prominent mine workers here, advising them of the state of affairs at Roseland and asking them to use their influence to keep miners from this section from going to British Columbia to take the strikers' places. Everything possible is being done to induce the local miners to remain away, and very few have gone there from here lately.

Before the strike was declared many miners left Negaunee to seek employment in the mining region of British Columbia. A number of these located in Roseland and from reports received recently they are now out of work as a result of the strike. Early in June a party consisting of twelve men left here to locate at Roseland. Their friends have received letters from them in which they said that they were only working a short time when the strike was declared and that since then they have been out of employment.

Judging from the interest the Roseland strikers are taking in the Lake Superior country, the mining companies in that section must be receiving men to fill the strikers' places from this locality. Bulletins are issued each week by an executive committee, giving an account of the progress of the strike. These are received here and are distributed among the miners.

Last week's bulletin stated that the strike will undoubtedly last for several months, but that the men are confident they will win out eventually. The strikers are demanding a twenty per cent advance in wages and will accept no compromise that the companies have offered. The mines that are closed as a result of the trouble are Le Roi, Le Roi No. 2, Roseland Great Western, Columbia, Kootenay, War Eagle and Center Star.

A Negaunee miner who has kept in touch with the trouble in British Columbia, said "The men are fighting for higher wages, and from what I have learned they will ultimately win. The mining companies at Roseland have made several attempts to compromise with them, but the miners have steadfastly refused to accept any proposition but the twenty per cent advance and the recognition of the union. There are a dozen or more men who formerly lived here involved in the strike and from them I receive reports weekly. The mining companies are endeavoring to secure men from outside to take the strikers' places. So far they have been unsuccessful and as the Canadian alien labor laws are strict there is little chance of importing labor. A few from this section went out to Roseland, but when they learned the condition of affairs they left for other points."

CAME INTO CAMP. Word has been received from Camp Comfort on Little Lake, where John O'Donoghue and family are camping, that a large black bear strolled into camp the other day, and after investigating things fully, he returned back into the woods. At the time Mr. Bruin paid his visit, no one was at home, but Mrs. O'Donoghue and one of her lady friends. They saw the bear coming and got inside the log hut before he put in an appearance.

The visit was the second the bear has made to the camp during the past few months. Early in the summer he called, but was very shy at that time. P. B. Kirkwood, the owner of the camp, says that bears are very numerous around Little Lake, and that next spring he will go down and see how many he can kill. A bear's hide is worth in the neighborhood of $40.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED. The final arrangements for the dance to be given by the ladies of the Alpena society at McDonald's Opera House on the evening of Sept. 19, have been completed. So far the committees in charge have met with nothing but encouragement. The tickets are selling much better than was anticipated and from present indications a large crowd will attend. The proceeds will be appropriated to help reduce the society's debt.

The committees appointed are: Reception, A. Boyer, Louis St. Julian and Ephraim Chaussee; door, Alfred Jandron, Alphons Bandette, G. Trotochaud and Elzear Guimond; arrangement, Joseph Barabee, Joseph A. Mondor, Peter Lemire and Louis Grenier.

DEATH STOOD OFF. E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a grave digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malaria, kills disease germs and purifies the blood; aids digestion, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female complaints; gives perfect health. Only 50c at Stafford's drug store.

B. W. Pursell, Kinterville, Pa., says he suffered 25 years with piles and could obtain no relief until Dr. Williams' Witch Hazel Salve effected a permanent cure. Counterfeits are worthless. Stafford Drug Co.; H. N. Meloche, Ishpeming.

A SERIES OF DANCES.

The Gaynors, who have given instructions in dancing and conducted dancing parties here for the past five or six winters, have decided to retire from the business. Trombly's orchestra will take up the work and a series of parties will be given during the coming fall and winter months. The first one is announced to take place on Friday, Oct. 18, at the Anderson hall. The complete orchestra will be present at every party and the music will be up to the standard. From two to four dances a month will be given, that depending entirely upon the number of public and private parties announced. The members of the orchestra do not wish to have their functions conflict with those given by others. Their idea is merely to fill a want and satisfy the dancing people of the city. Tickets for each party will sell at fifty cents per couple, or twenty-five cents for each single person.

THE ROYAL ARCANUM.

A council of the Royal Arcanum, an old and popular fraternal society, was recently instituted in Ishpeming by Deputy Grand Regent Eff Matteson. The charter list contained forty names. Following are the officers chosen: Regent, W. H. Kyne; vice regent, R. W. Smith; past regent, J. D. West; secretary, T. F. Nolan; treasurer, J. W. Burrows; collector, S. E. McKenney; orator, S. K. Robinson; chaplain, John B. Bilkey; warden, Harry Willis; sentry, C. R. Olson; trustees, Ed Nelson, George Bamford and Erik Rickstadt. A council of the order will soon be instituted in Marquette. After completing the work there the deputy will go to Negaunee, where it is expected that a branch will also be organized.

A FORTUNE TO BE GIVEN AWAY.

A noted philanthropist has started to give away his fortune to charities in all parts of the country, and no doubt much good will be accomplished. There is another agency that has also accomplished a great deal of good, namely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the medicine which has been curing stomach troubles for the past fifty years. No doubt it has accomplished more real good than any other remedy. You cannot be entirely well unless your stomach is in good condition, and the best medicine to bring this about is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It promotes appetite, insures digestion, cures dyspepsia, regulates the liver and keeps the bowels regular, also prevents belching, heartburn or flatulency. Don't fail to try it, but be sure you get the genuine.

EXPORTS FALL OFF

BUSINESS FOR AUGUST LIGHTER THAN FOR JULY.

IMPORTS SHOW GOOD GAIN.

SEPTEMBER WILL BE A GOOD MONTH FOR DISTRICT.

However, General Tendency Will Be Toward a Diminution of Trade as Lake Navigation Draws to a Close.

The exports of the Lake Superior district for the month of August show an appreciable falling off from the previous month and, although September promises to be a good month for the outgoing trade, it is likely that the volume of business with the Canadian provinces and the trans-Atlantic countries will show more or less diminution from now on, as lake navigation slackens up and finally ceases.

The exports for August aggregated $738,868, as compared with $1,140,276 in July. The imports last month totalled $109,603, as against $29,409 for the previous period, a notable increase, which is explained by an unusually heavy import of logs, on the free list.

The grain trade in August showed a great falling off. Wheat held up its end fairly well, but corn, rye and the other cereals, which were important items the previous month, all but disappeared from the list. To partially compensate for this loss, was a heavy export of cars and noticeable gains in machinery and products of iron.

Some Big Items.

The export of wheat aggregated 374,033 bushels, divided between England, 292,789 bushels, and Quebec, 81,244 bushels. The total value of this export was $271,820, as against $348,648 in the previous month. Wheat flour to the amount of 14,897 barrels was taken by Germany, England, Scotland, Quebec and New Foundland, the export being valued at $39,975, compared with $244,657, in July.

The item of cars is listed at $87,946. It was $6,900 for the previous month. After cars, no big figures appear on the list until castings is reached, their sale amounting to $12,433, as against $2,437 in July. General machinery is down at $28,182, compared with $35,878 for the previous period.

Fresh pork, 35,213 pounds, worth $1,899, was sold. England and Quebec took 242,659 pounds of lard, paying for it $19,637. This item in July amounted to $50,604.

Meat products aggregated a goodly figure, $81,111, as against $168,872 for the month of July. They were exported as follows: England, $71,801; Scotland, $5,284; Quebec, $4,026. Scotland paid $2,795 for 18,400 pounds of butter. The export of heavy timber was large, it being valued at $24,610. Lumber, 2,765 M., was sold for $32,299. Doors are listed at $8,746.

Imports and Recapitulation.

The one important item on the list of free imports was logs, 7,863 M., valued at $78,570. On the dutiable list were chemicals, $3,148; fresh fish, $3,106; and wood pulp, 822 tons, $12,346.

The exports were handled as follows: Superior, $172,743. The record of transportation credits cars with $58,313; American steam vessels, $146,431; American sail, $1,281; foreign steam, $23,820; and foreign sail, $9,023. The exports went to Germany, $13,170; England, $324,868; Scotland, $36,190; Quebec, Ontario, etc., $362,915; New Foundland, $1,725.

The imports were, free, $89,690; dutiable, $19,913. American steam vessels are credited with $92,901; American sail, $398; foreign steam, $4,415; cars, $11,889. Of the aggregate, $92 was handled at Marquette; $55 at DeTour; $63,820 at West Superior; $45,636 at the Soo.

AN ANXIOUS DAY.

News of Threatening Change in President's Condition Unexpected.

Marquette people were greatly shocked yesterday, on picking up their morning papers, to learn of the threatening change in President McKinley's condition, the unfavorable news being unheeded by any of Thursday's dispatches. The tone of the Buffalo dispatches was sufficient to put everyone on the anxious seat and additional news from the executive bedside was in great demand, the telegraph and brokers' offices being closely watched for late bulletins.

The unfortunate turn for the worse in the condition of the sufferer furnished the one popular subject of conversation and it was discussed from every possible point of view throughout the day, the one query on every hand being "what's the latest news?"

The Mining Journal printed an extra leaflet yesterday morning, which contained dispatches describing the relapse in further detail, it containing matter received too late for the regular editions. It was distributed down town and was eagerly read by those who got hold of it.

As the bad news became worse through the afternoon, the interest and suppressed excitement increased and the inquiries became more numerous and pressing. The telegraph and brokers' offices were frequented by large throngs, asking for the latest information. After supper the streets were again thronged with eager groups, of serious men and speaking in subdued voices of the various phases of the tragedy. After so much hope, the necessity of facing the inevitable was particularly hard. All through the evening information was eagerly sought and over The Mining Journal's phones there was a constant demand for the latest information.

This morning's dispatches tell their own sad tale.

CLEARY AT THE TILLER.

President Rode in Life Boat Night Before He Was Shot.

Captain Cleary, of the Marquette life saving crew, had the honor of holding the tiller of one of the regulation life boats in which President McKinley and party were escorted about the Pan-American waterways Thursday night, the evening before the executive was stricken by an assassin's bullet. The president and party were watching the evening illumination and fireworks. The Buffalo Courier has the following mention of the display and Captain Cleary's boat and crew:

"President McKinley clapped his hands continually, and as Mr. Milburn was assisting Mrs. McKinley to her seat she also clapped her hands. The signal was given to turn the carriages about, but the president checked the move and said he desired to watch the scene as long as possible.

"For fully two minutes he stood in the carriage, looking in all directions, but said nothing. The crowd continued to cheer him and he took off his hat and bowed. But he seemed more interested in the grandeur of the scene about him.

"As the program had to be completed, the carriages were turned about and the procession, with the cavalry and the Marine band at its head, marched away to the Art Gallery.

"There the president and Mrs. McKinley, with Secretary Cortelyou and President Milburn, walked down to the little floating dock and were placed aboard the largest of the life boats at the life saving station at the grounds.

"The president and Mrs. McKinley were given the rear seat, on which cushions had been placed, while Mr. Cortelyou and Mr. Milburn faced them and rode backwards. Dr. Rixey was also in the boat.

"Captain Henry Cleary of the life saving service had command of the boat and sat on the high air tank in the stern with the tiller in his hand. The crew, selected because each one is a hero, having performed some heroic act in the life saving service, was composed of Jacob Van Welden, Peter Enright, Dan Mulcahy, Bob Oliver, Frank Johnson, George Engler, Theodore Pokey, Ernest Hungerford, Hugh Harriety and John Hurd.

"Secretary Gage and the rest of the company which had witnessed the illumination from carriages, drove to the life saving station and there occupied seats on the runway from the boathouse down to the water.

"The high reeding bank which forms the crescent across the lake from where the fireworks are shown, and in the center of which is the life saving station, was packed with people. It was said to have been the largest assembly ever gathered in this vicinity to witness one display.

"The life savers brought the president's boat into the slip alongside the life saving station amid the cheers of the crowd, which had been waiting patiently for hours.

"Mrs. McKinley enjoyed the ride in the boat and was smiling when she and the president were shown to seats at the top of the stand and directly in front of the boat house. In this position the executive was shielded from the view of most of the crowd by the house, and this fact, together with some hitches in the fireworks, tended to dampen the enthusiasm of the people.

"There was a long delay before the hallet and pantomime started on the boat in midlake and while that part of the performance was good the crowd was anxious for the fireworks.

"After the fireworks the president and Mrs. McKinley were again placed in the life boat and returned to the landing at the Art building, where accompanied by President Milburn and Secretary Cortelyou, they drove to Mr. Milburn's residence on Delaware avenue."

PLAINTIFF GETS JUDGMENT.

Thomas Broderick Will Have to Pay Joseph Brisson $200.

Circuit court was busy yesterday with the case of Joseph Brisson vs. Thomas Broderick, it being a suit for $1,000 on account of an alleged illegal arrest and false imprisonment. The case went to the jury in the afternoon, it being a couple of hours before it returned a verdict of $200 damages for the plaintiff.

The case was the outcome of trouble which occurred the middle of last February. Brisson was employed on a street car. Broderick was a prospective passenger. The car was run some feet past the point where he was standing and words ensued. Finally Broderick, who was a special officer, arrested Brisson for using abusive language and brought him to town where, after spending a couple of hours in the county jail, he was tried and sentenced by Justice Donovan. He paid his fine and some weeks afterwards instituted the suit which was concluded, as outlined above, yesterday.

As soon as the jury in the Brisson-Broderick dispute withdrew, another was drawn to serve in the case of Ferdinand Besler vs. Amede Dupres, the litigation concerning the destruction by fire of a quantity of railroad ties. It was the intention to begin taking evidence this morning, but, as an accommodation to the witnesses, L. D. Hardy was heard yesterday afternoon. This case will keep the court occupied today.

THE RENEWAL A STRAIN.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell-rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries" have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may avert much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion, and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

A light lunch can be had at any time during the day or evening at Heppner's. (9-5-11)

SCHOOLS WELL FILLED.

Enrollment in the High School is Unusually Large.

The enrollment in the Marquette schools is heavy this fall and the buildings are already comfortably filled. In some grades there is a prospect of overcrowding, although provision against this condition was made this year by employing a quartet of new teachers, some members of the corps being too heavily burdened with work last year.

COPPERS BADLY OFF.

Unfavorable News From President Responsible for the Decline.

Coppers were all off yesterday, opening at about the low mark. The unfavorable news from the president was responsible for the decline. Paine, Webber & Co. said:

"The stock markets are all demoralized on the bad reports of the president's condition. We believe today's market has very nearly disclosed the president's death, should that occur. It is a time to go cautiously, but we believe stocks are very cheap."

Hayden, Stone & Co. wired the Laidley Commission Co.:

"The news from Buffalo caused general weakness and of course, the coppers went with the rest of the list. An amalgamated was particularly weak and the selling continues to be most persistent. Houses used by insiders in both New York and Boston have been open buyers for several days, but we believe this is only a blind. While we are as confident as ever that the Standard Oil people will make a big success of their enterprise and while it ought to rally sharply with any advance in the market, we think there is good solid disappointment at the semi-official report that the dividend will not be increased. Money is working tighter in Boston and we are of the opinion that what started for an old time bull market has been knocked in the head."

A. R. Jones & Co. said of wheat:

"The board markets all felt the general depression resulting from the bad news from Buffalo. The market is in a disposition to trade. We think the market would have done better today but for this news. To a large extent tomorrow's market hinges on this same point. There is no encouragement to act except the low prices."

JEWISH NEW YEAR.

Its Observance Began Last Evening at 6 O'Clock.

This is the season of the Jewish New Year, its observance having been begun by the orthodox Jews last evening according to the Jewish era it is the year 5662 from the creation of the world. The two festivals of the fall season, the "feared days," as they are called, the day of atonement, (yom-kippurim), occurring at an interval of ten days from each other, have retained, almost unimpaired, their former spell to stir the Jewish heart to its very depths.

Both the solemn association of this day and its designation as new year's day, are due to post-biblical or post-exilic circumstances. The Babylonian exile marks in many respects the turning point in Israel's religious development. The biblical documents presuppose the Jewish year to begin with the vernal equinox, or thereabouts. The Jews accepted the custom of fixing on the autumn season as the year's commencement from the Assyrian-Babylonian. The festival is known as the "head of the year," its most peculiar rite being the "blowing of the horn." It is held to recall the revelation of God on Sinai, which was also accompanied by the blasts of the shofar, the Hebrew name of the instrument. That on this day the world was created is the opinion of some of the Talmudic doctors.

As new year's day in the Gentile world is a propitious time for the exchange of civilities and the compliments of the season, so is the Jewish. In the ritual of the synagogue, the prayer on that day is, that all men without distinction of race or creed be recorded in the book of life for a year of happiness and good works, and as the friends meet, they repeat in Hebrew, the wish, "For a good year may you be recorded."

DEATH OF MRS. GOODWIN.

Mrs. Anna R. Goodwin, sister of the late Col. James Pickands and Major Harry Pickands, departed this life from an affection of the heart, Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock. She had been suffering greatly for some time. Mrs. Goodwin had resided here for about twenty-eight years, and had a large and devoted circle of friends to whom she had greatly endeared herself. She was not only a charming friend, but was a woman of great public usefulness, having been long a moving spirit in benevolent work. The poor, and all working for the poor, will greatly feel her loss. Besides others of her own generation, Mrs. Goodwin is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. F. Maynard. The funeral announcement will be made later.
