

BAD BLOOD, BAD COMPLEXION.

The skin is the seat of an almost endless variety of diseases. They are known by various names, but are all due to the same cause, acid and other poisons in the blood that irritate and interfere with the proper action of the skin.

Bad blood makes bad complexions, purifies and invigorates the old and restores the new. It is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable.

DAILY MINING JOURNAL, A MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY THE MINING JOURNAL CO. (LIMITED).

Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT. There is a new hand at the helm of the ship of state, but it is the hand of a man who has proved his capacity for executive position, and all will be well with the country, though the president of his choice lies dead by the act of an assassin.

As assistant secretary of the navy, prior to the breaking out of our war with Spain, Mr. Roosevelt showed himself possessed of the power to quickly perceive and understand a situation, which is one of the great essentials in a public man charged with administrative duties.

President Roosevelt is a representative of a class of men who are now coming to the front in public life in this country—men of liberal education and ample means who have an aptitude for politics and fit themselves for taking part in the affairs of government through a proper ambition joined to sense of patriotic duty.

The love and affection of the great body of the American people went out to President McKinley. He had earned both by his great services to the nation, his blameless life, and his kindly heart, which was so full of amiable impulses that there was no room in it for envy, malice, or any of the meaner promptings by which men of less nobility of character are swayed.

Officers of the law made a capture at Lawton this week which will probably result in the returning to a Kansas prison a convict who escaped from there some time ago. Clarence Underwood is his name, and after his escape from the penitentiary at Lansing, Kas., he made for this state and joined his wife at Lawton. He had been traced, however, and was promptly arrested.

A queer complaint came to the Grand Rapids city marshal's office by telephone the other day. The kicker stated that there was a nest of hornets under the sidewalk at the corner of Evans Ave. and So. Union St., and that boys of the neighborhood kept the colony stirred up so that it was impossible to pass the corner. The matter was referred to the highway commissioner for that district.

People at Lowell are stirred up over the disappearance of Rev. J. W. McAlister, pastor of the M. E. church. It is alleged he made improper proposals to a business man's wife, who forced him to make a public apology and then kicked him out of the house. McAlister disappeared last Saturday. He is forty years old and married, but has no children. He was born in Canada and had been in Lowell one year.

Agnes Sly, an elderly colored woman, was found dead in her home at Jackson Wednesday morning. The body was found lying face downward on the floor, dressed in night clothing, and the only other occupant of the house was a large dog, whose demonstrations led to the discovery of the body. Death probably occurred Monday night and from natural causes. Mrs. Sly was a widow and a United States pensioner.

Tom Bawden, the single tax orator who was arrested at Detroit for incendiary utterances concerning the assassination of President McKinley, has been released on bail. The police say that Bawden's career as a public speaker in Detroit is dead and that he will be arrested every time he appears to make a speech, no matter upon what subject. Bawden's companion, who was arrested at the same time on a similar charge, was released after a $10 fine.

The body of W. D. Hollister, agent for the American Express company at St. Paul, was found on the Michigan Central tracks at that place Wednesday night at 11 o'clock by Billing Clerk Mackloerts. The body was completely cut in two. A big gash on the head indicates foul play. Hollister was at the junction with several express packages to meet the southbound passenger at 8:30 p. m. He had one package containing $750, which was delivered to the messenger on the train.

In less than two weeks more the state fair will begin with all its attendant crowds of exhibitors, employes and visitors, but as yet no visible preparations have been made for taking care of them, says 'Pontiac' paper. Few people seem to realize what a state fair means. They have a serene but hazy idea that it will all go off beautifully and Pontiac reap great glory out of it, but unless something is done and done quickly toward taking care of visitors the fair will be full of inconvenience and vexation and Pontiac will earn anything but glory.

The county jail of St. Joseph quarters the most dejected looking negro tramp that ever invaded that city. When captured by the police he was only half clad and what clothing he had hung in rags. His hair was long and unkempt, suggesting the appearance of a wild man. For several months past the tramp

E. F. McKnight of Kelly made a mistake in the dark Tuesday night and drove his horse off an embankment near Henderson, and horse, buggy and driver rolled over and over to the river, 100 feet below. The horse lost an eye and the driver came near losing his life.

Efforts will be made to secure a change of venue for William C. Arnell, of Beaverton, when he is placed on trial at Gladwin for the murder of his wife and child. His claim is that the case has been discussed so generally in Gladwin county that the securing of an unprejudiced jury will be impossible.

The West Michigan Traction company is still buying land for a terminal on the flats in Benton Harbor, paying high prices rather than to condemn property. Work will be commenced within fifteen days. The right of way for the proposed canal 200 feet wide was purchased Wednesday for $13,000.

Contrary to reports sent out a few weeks ago the peach crop in Berrien county is large and prices hold up remarkably well. Fruit shipments average 75,000 to 100,000 packages daily by rail, which equal the shipments of last season, and prices range higher. Berrien county farmers are delighted.

Humors

They take possession of the body, and are Lords of Misrule. They are attended by pimples, boils, the itching tetter, salt rheum, and their contagious eruptions; by feelings of weakness, languor, general debility and what not. They cause more suffering than anything else. Health, Strength, Peace and Pleasure require their expulsion, and this is positively effected, according to thousands of grateful testimonials, by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Which radically and permanently drives them out and builds up the whole system.

WILL BE NO STRIKE. Quincy Company Lowers the Rent of Houses to Former Figure.

The Quincy employes have won their point. The rates of rent on the houses owned by the company, and in which some of the men are living, have been reduced to the price in vogue before the raise of 82 a room was made.

At a meeting of the men held at the "dry" just after they came from work Saturday afternoon Captain Samuel Harris informed the gathering, through a committee appointed for the purpose, that the Eastern office had acceded to their demands.

ANENT CALUMET & HECLA. Horace J. Stevens Talks Interestingly to a Boston Paper.

Relative to recent developments at the Calumet & Hecla, Horace J. Stevens, of Houghton, states that the change in management by which James MacNaughton succeeded S. B. Whiting in local charge of the mine July 1, will result in the introduction of a considerable number of economies.

"Mr. Whiting's resignation was not forced, as is generally believed in the East," said Mr. Stevens recently, "but was due to advancing years, and a desire to retire from the extremely onerous duties of his position."

"Mr. MacNaughton is a young man, in the prime of life, with an exceptionally fine record as a mining executive. There has been considerable uneasiness among the mine employes, owing to rumors freely circulated when Mr. MacNaughton came to the mine, that his wages would be reduced, and that the new superintendent would prove a hard taskmaster. This uneasiness is wearing away and is not justified by Mr. MacNaughton's record at the Chapin iron mine, at Iron Mountain, where he made a fine record for low costs while maintaining a good standard of wages."

"It is understood at the Lake that the general policy of the Calumet & Hecla will be determined by Mr. Agassiz, with details left entirely to Mr. MacNaughton, but that Mr. Agassiz still retains the sole power to fix wages and salaries."

"The Calumet & Hecla company has too many bosses—too many petty bosses—and the force of petty officials could be reduced to advantage without overworking those remaining on the payroll. There are also a number more or less nominal nature, all likelihood Mr. Agassiz will continue these men in their positions, or arrange that they draw at least a portion of their livelihood from the company."

"The Red Jacket shaft is not a failure, all statements to the contrary notwithstanding. In fact, it is regarded as a truth impels me to state that it is not a colossal success. It was the first shaft of practically a mile in depth to be sunk, and it was but natural that the errors always attending work in a new and untried field should be found at this shaft."

"The Tamarack people have profited by the knowledge gained through the sinking of the Red Jacket vertical, and their number 5 shaft, now more than 5,000 feet in depth, is the finest and most economically equipped of any of the deep vertical shafts of the Lake district."

"The Houghton shaft, which is owned by Calumet & Hecla on the Osceola lode to the eastward of the conglomerate is a fine property, and its operation will fully justify the heavy expenditure made thereon. It seems to me, however, that the matter of actually operating the amalgamated shafts might be expediated a trifle more rapidly."

"I do not believe that the Calumet & Hecla has yet reached its zenith as a producer, although from the nature of things the mine has reached a point where its production cannot be increased so largely as has been done during the past decade."

Unusual Activity for Fall. A representative of one of the largest New York selling agencies says: "Leading producers continue to quote Lake copper at 17 cents and electrolytic at 16 cents. Domestic consumption continues on a very heavy scale, and unusual activity is assured for the fall, since all manufacturers have practically no stock on hand. Sales have been made during the past week at slightly below quoted figures, but only by a few insignificant producers. Any copper offered at concessions is quickly taken, and there is no doubt in my mind but that both domestic and foreign consumption will be heavier during the next six months than at any time for over a year. Europe's ability to absorb enormous quantities of the metal is well known, and when once foreigners become convinced that the price of seventeen cents is to be maintained, a buying movement of tremendous proportions will be started."

A gentleman who keeps an accurate record of copper imports and exports gives out the following: "Thus far this year, copper exports have amounted to his 59,540 tons as against 10,467 tons during the same period of last year. Exports during the month of August aggregated 6,193 tons, which was sent out. During August, 1901, 56 tons of matte, 4,573 tons of copper and 9,620 tons of ores were imported."

"Thus, instead of supplying Europe with 26,000 and 12,000 tons of copper monthly, as was the case last year, we are actually shipping no copper abroad whatever. It is true that domestic consumption has increased markedly during the past year, but it cannot be denied that the larger producers now have on hand unusually large supplies of copper."

Copper Gossip. The St. Mary's Mineral Land company is exploring for the Baltic lode with a diamond drill. At a depth of 122 feet in solid rock some evidence of amygdaloid formation was encountered.

George L. Walker in special correspondence from Tucson, Ariz., to the Boston Herald, says that the smelter of the Hecla Copper Mining company is at present turning out about 200 tons of 55 per cent copper matte monthly. The mines contain large bodies of 5 per cent sulphide ores. The management plans to construct a 500-ton concentrator for the treatment of these sulphide ores. When the concentrator and roaster are at work, the smelter should turn out at least 400 tons of copper monthly, or nearly 10,000,000 pounds of copper annually. A mistake was made on the part of the management in rushing the completion of smelter before they developed the mines. Nearly $400,000 of the original $500,000 cash placed in the treasury have been expended; 500,000 shares of stock still remain in the treasury.

The New York statement to the effect that a big copper surplus is being stored at the Lake is ridiculous. Last winter was the first in the history of the district that the mines shipped their entire output by rail instead of storing as heretofore. With the exception of the Bigelow group, all the mines sell practically direct to the manufacturers. With the exception of Tamarack, Osceola and Isle Royale, all shipments of copper are being made as fast as possible with requests that shipments be rushed.

COPPERDOM BREVITIES. The copper country branch office of The Mining Journal is located in Room 3, second floor of the Deo Postoffice building, Houghton. All having business with the paper are cordially invited to call. Telephone No. 376.

A. M. Lowden, superintendent of the twine room at the McCormick Harvester Manufacturing company at Chicago, who was in Houghton for a few days last week on business, returned to Chicago Saturday afternoon.

Satell, the great hypnotist, will open his week's engagement at the Houghton Armory Opera House tonight. His coming has been awaited with interest by Portage Lake people whom he promises to entertain with the mysteries of his art every night this week. Tonight at the opera house he will put one of his subjects in a hypnotic sleep. The latter will then be placed in a bed in the window of Miller's department store and left there until Wednesday evening when he will be awakened.

OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION.
 Light and Power Commission Announces its Meter Rate.
 Office of the Light and Power Commission, Marquette, Mich., Sept. 12, 1901.
 To the Users of the City Electric Current for Lighting:
 This commission, in May last, found the amount of electric current being used for lighting had grown so as to fully equal the capacity of our dynamo, and immediately began an inquiry as to the best method of providing the increase demanded by the rapidly increasing number of users.
 A careful examination under the advice of an expert engineer has shown that to properly handle our present load or to add a second dynamo will cost a much larger amount of money than we have at command now.
 On the other hand we find the wastage of current incidental to our flat-rate system to be very large, estimated at one-third of the total amount of current output. We also find that the meters now manufactured for measuring electric current are reliable and satisfactory in operation and of moderate cost, and that the flat-rate system is everywhere generally being abandoned in favor of the meter system. The advantage of the meter system is mutual: The city will get pay for all the current used, and the user will be able to put in lamps liberally wherever required for only the current actually used.
 We shall under this system, with our present dynamo, be able to serve a much larger number of users, and at the same time give each all the current desired.
 We have therefore abandoned the flat-rate and adopted the meter system for lighting, and will put in meters as rapidly as possible, starting the charge by meter at the beginning of next following setting of meter. The meter in each case is to be placed inside the house at a point near where the wires enter and where our man employed to read the same monthly can get to it with least inconvenience to user.
 The following schedule of meter rates this day adopted by this commission for immediate effect:
 For each 1,000 watt hours each month, up to 50, ten cents per thousand; 51 to 75, nine cents per thousand; 76 to 100, eight cents per thousand; 101 to 125, seven cents per thousand; 126 to 150, six cents per thousand; and all over 150, five cents per thousand. Minimum monthly charge, one dollar. The commission will furnish, set, own and keep in order all meters, without charge therefor.
 In providing a sliding scale as above, we follow the general custom of other cities having proved that a rate which is equitable and proper for a small installation becomes prohibitive for a large one.

ISHPEMING TEAM WON. FIVE TO FIVE THE SCORE.

Marquette Golf Players Defeated by the Hematite City Aggregation.

The golf contest between the Ishpeming and the Marquette teams played here Saturday afternoon for the Marquette county cup resulted in a decisive victory for the home team. The score was: Ishpeming, 17 up; Marquette, 2 up. The Marquette golfers were outclassed, only one member of the Queen City team scoring against an opponent. Louis Egan of Marquette and Willie Duncan of the Ishpeming team played a very close game, the latter winning by one up; his score was 108 strokes. A. E. Miller was the only visitor who scored over his opponent. He won by two up, making the rounds in 119 strokes to 123 for Mac Barbour. The latter is comparatively new at the game, having played for the first time less than a month ago, and considering this his showing was a splendid one.

George Newett played the star game of the day. He went twice around the links in 90 strokes, defeating A. B. Eldridge by the score of 11 up.

Saturday turned out to be an ideal day for golf. It was not warm and there was little or no wind. However the threatening weather kept many Marquette golfers at home who would have otherwise attended, only five players having come up to participate in the tournament. The following is the score: Ishpeming: Atwell, 2 up; Wood, 3 up; Barbour, Duncan, 1 up; Newett, 11 up. Total, 17 up. Marquette: Stevens; Allen; Miller, 2 up; Egan; Eldridge. Total 2 up.

At the conclusion of the contest a supper was served at the golf club house in honor of the visiting team. About twenty-five persons were present.

The next cup contest will be played on the Queen City links.

NO BLAME FIXED.

The coroner's jury impaneled to investigate the death of Robert Connibar, who was killed by a live wire at the Salisbury location last Tuesday evening, met Saturday and rendered the verdict that "the deceased came to his death by grasping a rope attached to an electric lamp which rope became charged with electricity by coming in contact with a live wire." The jury fixed no blame on the Negaunee & Ishpeming Electric Light company for alleged carelessness in allowing the rope to hang so closely to the ground.

Before reaching the jury the jury visited the scene of the fatality to settle some point which the witnesses could not clearly explain. While out at the Salisbury location, Attorney Young, who appeared for the company, and W. T. Potter, the attorney for Mrs. Connibar, engaged in a war of words, which over the number of hours of electricity carried by the wire which Connibar grasped.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon from the Swedish Methodist church. Rev. Carl Anderson will conduct the services.

Mrs. Munson was one of Ishpeming's pioneer settlers. She came to this city from Sweden over twenty-eight years ago. She was well known in Swedish circles and had a great number of friends.

Pastors and Speakers in Marquette Churches Pay Fitting Tribute.

Regret at the death of President McKinley and respect for his memory furnished the key note to most of the services in Marquette churches yesterday. From all pulpits these sentiments were voiced in heartfelt phrase.

In the evening there was a special memorial service at the First Baptist church, arranged by the pastor, Rev. H. E. Purinton. Judge J. W. Stone and James Russell were the speakers, Judge Stone speaking with his usual good taste and pleasing effect, but under the stress of deep feeling and emotion.

He referred to the fact that he had served four years in congress with the deceased president and the additional fact that they had been born in adjoining counties as explaining why he felt a sense of personal loss in the calamity that has overwhelmed the nation.

Judge Stone dwelt at length on Mr. McKinley's career, the blamelessness of his life, his great ability and his valuable services to his country as a citizen, in war, in congress and, during the past five years, as president.

He spoke vehemently and strongly on the necessity of taking vigorous measures to rid the country of anarchists to which may be attributed the crime that is now the nation's regret and disgrace.

Mr. Russell was heard for fifteen minutes or more, speaking of the example afforded the young men of the country by McKinley's career. He cited it as a striking refutation of the popular fallacy that no honest man can succeed in politics and a testimonial to the fact that the road to the highest public preferment is always inviolable integrity.

A large congregation assembled at the M. E. church, where memorial services were also held. The speakers were Presiding Elder C. M. Thompson, A. R. Bartlett, A. J. Bigelow and Dr. Creighton, all ex-presiding elders of the church. They spoke on appropriate subjects and with unusual effectiveness.

A notably fine sermon delivered at St. Paul's at the morning service by Bishop G. Mott Williams will be printed in full later, space not permitting of its extended treatment this morning.

Death Saddens the City.

Saturday dawned dark and dreary on one of the saddest days that Marquette has ever known. The lowering clouds and intermittent showers of slowly descending rain, falling from a misty sky, were all in keeping with the mood and spirit of the people of the city. By strained effort, they brought themselves to a realization that the news was true and that President McKinley, after a week of brave, but hopeless, struggle, had been removed from his great activities.

Old heads may remember days of similar national regret and mourning, but to the youth of the late generations Saturday was a new experience. It is not too much to say that the city was hushed with its sense of reverence for the nation's dead, its unspeakable regret of the dastardly crime which resulted in the president's death and its consuming rage against all classes threatening the continued reign of law and order. There was no boisterousness to be observed anywhere and exuberant joy had temporarily lost its sway in all hearts. The sad news was discussed in monotonous and all intercourse was in a subdued shade which would have impressed any unimpaired observer who might have noted the general conditions, with the fact that some great tragedy vitally affecting every person in a magnificent country had just been consummated.

Marquette's testimony of love and respect for the dead president was no effusive, it being sacredly cherished in the individual hearts, but it was all the more deep and soulfelt for this reason. The outward signs which betokened the national calamity were the draping of a number of business houses and the half-masting of the stars and stripes on every premises that boasts a flag staff.

All through the day, the life, deeds, death and the tragical circumstances of the end of the deceased executive were discussed at the hotels, in the homes and stores and about the streets. Many were the glowing tributes paid to the beloved president's memory. All lines of partnership were lost and everyone remembered that in the assassination of McKinley the fundamental principles and cherished institutions of the country were attacked by a representative of a class which, today, popular opinion is inclined to demand "should be driven into the ocean."

Long Weary Vigil.

In Marquette, as elsewhere, everything has been unsettled since the telegraph lines bore throughout the land the horrifying news that the president had been stricken by an assassin's bullet. People have been borne away from personal and local affairs to the mighty feelings and motives of love of country and patriotism that are touched with real intensity only "in times that try men's souls."

They followed, with loving attention, every fluctuation in the sufferer's condition. They were cast to the depths by the first news of the attempted assassination and seized the published details of the dastardly crime with an avidity that has rarely been equalled in late years. The first favorable advices were heralded with joy and a feeling of relief that found its expression in words of great satisfaction at the probable recovery of the president.

Each favoring dispatch was welcomed with more acclaim than that which immediately preceded it and when advices were received Thursday morning to the effect that the cabinet, relatives and friends had left Buffalo and the president was practically convalescent, then, and then only, did the interest in the dramatic scenes being enacted at Buffalo show any diminution. The "evening" bulletins were convincing in their positiveness and on every hand it was believed that the crisis was past and that the executive was on the high road to recovery.

This feeling left the people but illly prepared for the threatening relapse described in detail in Friday's papers and for the rapid voyage to the realms of death which it presaged. Friday was a painfully anxious and unsettled day, the people preparing themselves for the worst, which, early in the evening, it was seen was inevitable.

While nearly everything has been lost sight of in the major calamity of the president's death there are other interests that demand some attention from people whom they vitally affect. The speculating and investing talent has some thoughts for the markets. The exchanges were all closed Saturday and it is said that business will also be suspended the early part of this week. "What will the opening be," is a query in which many are greatly concerned. Since the murderous bullets sped their paths, there have been violent fluctuations in the exchange marts. The Saturday following the assassination saw all stocks badly off. Then followed a few days of recovery, in which appreciable gains toward the former high prices were made, this condition being a result of favorable news from the president.

Friday saw another couple of points slump on the threatening turn in the president's condition, which resulted in his death. What has the immediate future in store?

There are those, and they are numerous, who maintain that the president's death was largely discounted Friday and they assert that there will be no great additional falling off from present quotations. They admit the possibility of some further declines, but they assert that, in any case, the recovery will be quick and sharp. This view is favored by most of the talent.

The general tendency among the speculators and investors is toward caution and they are resting on their oars until they are able to define, with reasonable certainty, the drift of the market.

"BELLE OF NEW YORK."

It Will Be Presented at the Opera House Thursday Evening.

Edward J. Connelly, the well known comedian, is again at the head of the organization which will present "The Belle of New York" at the opera house Thursday evening. Mr. Connelly already enjoys a great popularity and his success in the part of the elder Bronson, both in England and this country, has been remarkable. It is a role well fitted to Mr. Connelly's peculiar style and voice. The balance of the cast is identical with that seen last season in this musical comedy, including, as it does, the bright young actress Miss Beulah Dodge, whose sweet, demure impersonation of the Salvation Army lassie is pleasantly remembered by all who saw her last year. The manner in which she rendered the famous "Follow On" song was generally commented on and was considered one of the gems of the opera. It is stated by the management that several new features have been added this season, notable among which is a novelty interpolated in the last act.

The court house front was draped in black Saturday in recognition of the president's death. The federal building was not so draped, as it is the understanding that the government has decided to dispense with all such outward signs of grief.

Some fancier of blooded canines who hasn't the fear of the law in his heart broke into the cellar of Gennell & O'lson's place on Washington street Saturday night and took therefrom a valuable pup.
