that the flames are actually extinguished the loss will be slight. Half the force is idle and the rest of the men are putting in the time on the surface making the repairs that were to have been undertaken a few weeks later.

Section 16 is a very wet mine and it is doubtful if a fire could make great headway among the damp timbers. The timber most likely to burn and it can be most easily protected by streams of water from above. The only way that the flames could spread to the other drifts would be through the shaft so in any event the fire would soon be stopped for want of fuel.

Or a few days would have shut out all possible chance of getting coal before the close of navigation.

Mr. Bronson is expected home within a few days. The latest advice from him is that he met hundreds of men who were after coal and boats, but the number meeting with success was comparatively few. Most of the dealers paid cash for their coal, as was the case with the local concern.

If all the coal on the way reached its destination there will be no shortage in Ishpeming and Negaunee, though otherwise the fire would soon be stopped for want of fuel.

PRINTERS WILL PLAY.

Or a few days would have shut out all possible chance of getting coal before the country it would seem too miraculous to be true.

What Is the Ethel?

Read the following editorials which appeared in the two leading financial and mining journals of the country and you will know:

> "The Ethel Gold Mining Co. presents an opportunity to investors that is seldom offered. This company owns nearly 400 acres of rich mineral property. The proposition they submit is one of the best that has been brought to our attention and anyone making an investment in this company will never have cause to regret it."-The National Banker of Chicago.

> "The Ethel Gold Mining Company commenced operations in the Turret district last July, and in September effected a consolidation with two other companies, which, in addition to its patented mines at Cripple Creek and Aspen, thus came into possession of a large group of claims in the central part of the Turret district, consisting of several hundred acres, extending entirely across the Leadville contact for more than a mile in length and on either side for

> "The Ethel is located between and is next in size to the holdings of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company and the Woods Investment Company and covers the same mineral vein formation of these well known mining syndicates."-Daily Mining Record.

The Ethel is non-assessable, owns 390 1-5 acres of valuable mineral land, has been examined by mining experts from this state, who returned a favorable report, copies of which will be given on application. The ores are gold, copper, silver, lead and iron. The diversity in ores is due to the location of its mines in different mining districts and covers the same iron ore bodies from which the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company shipped ore for twenty-two years,
