The British and Foreign Bible society presents some very tremendous figures in its annual report. Exactly one hundred years ago it spent about $350 and considered that a large expenditure; last year the society spent $1,206,715. In 1902, 5,000,000 Bibles were sent out and since the society was founded 180,000,000 have been distributed. At present the daily average is reckoned at about 16,000.

The Lansing men of the various lower Michigan papers have about written the present session out. They started in with a great burst of enthusiasm and for a long time their contributions to their papers were highly interesting and spicy; now they are routine and stupid. Perchance the houses are to blame. Maybe they had all their fireworks early in the session. More probably everyone is tired, including the people. The houses will stop pretty soon.

Now that the strike of the marine firemen has been settled navigation may be expected to be resumed without loss of time. This strike has been the main reason for keeping the ore carriers tied up to their docks, though, as a matter of fact, there has been no great hurry about getting them into commission. Conditions at the lower port docks and at the furnaces have not demanded an early opening of navigation. There is much ore still in stock, and there is no doubt that the delay has done a great deal to help out the situation. The ore movement in April this year will fall at least a million tons below what it was in April last year, but, if necessary, this discrepancy can easily be made up later in the season.

The Washington Star thus discusses the question of the advisability of Mayor Low's renomination:

Mr. Low has opponents in the ranks of the fusion forces who hold that his leadership has been a failure. They assert, with emphasis, that to re-nominate him many and invite Tammany, with all its many and insure the return of Tammany to power. But the very opposite view obtains among many others, who, while admitting that the reform administration has not accomplished all that was desired by those who brought it in, yet point to many improvements over Tammany's administration and insist that, upon the whole, Mr. Low has done well, and deserves a second term. As they see the situation, to put Mr. Low aside would be to surrender the whole reform movement, confess that Greater New York cannot be governed on non-partisan lines, and invite Tammany, with all its well-known practices, to resume business at the old stand.

Undoubtedly, if fusion cannot be vindicated under Mr. Low's leadership, it is destined to a rebuke at the polls, and Tammany will renew its grip on the city. Perfect government of the people cannot reasonably expect. The most Graft is the ruling consideration; and those who play the game with most skill, and so as to develop all the resources of such a policy, are certain of preferment and of opportunity to employ their talents to the full.

The Shamrock III is having an uncomfortable time of it. The second Shamrock has been keeping her much busier than Sir Lipton and his friends like to have the case, and now comes the crowning disappointment and disaster of her dismasting, an accident resembling so much that which was the misfortune of the other Shamrock when King Edward was aboard. The accident will again give occasion for the inevitable query as to why the challengers for and defenders of the America's cup do not sail real practical yachts, instead of cranky racing machines loaded to the limit with spars and canvas. Some day sportsmen will turn from the present type of crazy flyers and will race craft that a man would be willing to trust his life in in something that resembled hard weather.

All the flour mills in Minneapolis and practically all the spring wheat flour mills in Minnesota and the Northwest are temporarily suspended, and the time when they will resume operations is largely a matter of conjecture. The suspension, it is claimed, is likely to endure for some weeks, and it is due to unfavorable conditions in the industry. The mills, the Western Miller claims, have been operating at a loss, owing to the high price of cash wheat, the high rates of freight and the depressed condition of the flour markets. However, the straw that broke the miller's backs was the act, late last week, of the line boats operating between Duluth and Buffalo in moving wheat on a basis of two cents a bushel, while the proportionate rate on flour is equivalent to five and four-tenths cents a bushel. The Miller says that the transportation lines have told the millers that they need not anticipate any discrimination in rates against flour under the operation of the Elkins bill, but the developments have shown that this assurance was meaningless. "Until freight rates on the manufactured product shall be placed on a parity with those given the raw material, or until the two-cent rate given wheat shall be advanced, the millers will find it impossible to grind," says the Miller, "and unless something shall occur to improve the milling situation, the prospects are that the practically universal shut down of the merchant spring wheat mills will be indefinitely prolonged."

A PRETTY INCIDENT.

A recent occurrence in Essen, Germany, should give occasion for another test of the principle, apparently accepted in the Kaiser's empire, that an officer can do no wrong. The abuse, and even murder, of soldiers by superiors is frequently reported, but never adequately punished. Two young men who had been fast friends from childhood met on the street of their native town during the Easter holidays. One was a private, the other an officer. The first extended his hand in greeting to his old playmate; the latter ordered him to salute. Thinking that the command was given in fun the soldier did not obey, whereupon he was run through through the body with the officer's sword. Such is militarism in one of the world's most enlightened countries in this twentieth century. It would be not at all surprising, either, should the letter of the military law justify this murder.

Even in our own army the gulf between officer and enlisted man is a sufficiently wide one. This is in a large measure necessary for the preservation of that sacred and mysterious thing known as discipline, but it is also a survival of the days when soldiers were practically serfs and officers nobles, with the power of life and death over their followers. The modern conscription in Europe makes it easily possible that the soldier may be the mental, moral and social superior of the officer placed over him, and the American volunteer system works to the same end of making the barrier between the ranks more artificial. Some of these old military notions are being outgrown, but the process is a slow one. "Thinking bayonets" are needed in modern war. The soldier must be something more than food for powder. Discipline in the German sense may be carried too far. The discipline which obliterates the individual, which dwarfs initiative and tends to fuse soldiers into a mere human mass has had its day.

A BIG WHEAT CROP.

One of the favorable factors in the creation of a feeling of confidence on the part of the business world in the continuance of the present prosperity for an indefinite period is the report on the condition of the winter wheat crop. According to the agricultural department the crop throughout the country averages a condition of 97.3. This is the highest figure ever reported by the department at this date and indicates a very large crop. The area sown to winter wheat this season exceeds that of last by two million acres. With these figures for a basis the department computes a crop of 589,411,000 bushels compared with an actual harvest last year of 411,788,666 bushels.

harvested cannot, of course, be said to be in any strict sense exact, but in a general way it presages a heavy yield. Although several months intervene before the harvest, it is not believed that conditions will materially change. It is a fact that for ten years past the reported condition on April 1 has been a reliable indication of the harvest, and unless the weather between now and July is extraordinarily unseasonable the present report may be relied on as a fair index.

Whether the harvesting of so large a crop here with ordinary harvests abroad will justify an attempt to hold to the present level of prices is a question for the experts. The size of the spring wheat crop must also enter into the calculations, and as to that there is now no information. The large winter wheat yield, however, means a great deal to general business, and especially to the transportation companies. The marketing of so many bushels of grain will make work for a great many men. To the farmers, also, the large yield means considerable. Wheat is a cash product, and in many sections is the especial product raised as such. A large crop and lower prices may be just as profitable for the farmer as a moderate crop and higher prices. Coming at the end of a long period of comparative good times for farmers a large wheat crop will mean larger bank accounts and increased expenditures, and when the farmers are spending money freely the entire country feels the impetus.

BIG BEDS OF IT HERE

LIGNITE MAKES VERY FINE AND CHEAP FUEL.

SUPPLY IS ALMOST INEXHAUSTIBLE

STATE PAPER SHOWS HOW IT IS PREPARED FOR MARKET.

Industry at a High State of Perfection in Germany, Where Millions of Tons Are Produced Yearly and Profitably Sold at a Low Figure.

The state department has made public an interesting paper written by Consul General Frank H. Mason from Berlin, giving further particulars on the methods of manufacturing fuel briquettes from coal dust, lignite, and peat in Germany. Mr. Mason says that since writing his last report (December 23, 1902), two experienced engineers—one from New York, the other from Minnesota—have come to Germany to make careful scientific studies of the subject for the purpose of assisting to transplant the industry, or such of it as may be adaptable to American conditions, to the United States. Both these experts have declared themselves astonished by the proportions of the fuel-briquette manufacture in Germany, the size and the number of factories engaged, the amount of capital invested, the technical excellence of the machinery employed, the permanent fireproof buildings, and the modernized methods of handling materials and product. One of these engineers said:

"Of all this, we have at home not the faintest conception. We read in a consular report that there are in this country 286 brown-coal-briquette factories with 691 presses; that they work up annually 44,211,000 tons of lignite; and that the 21 coal-dust-briquette factories of the Dortmund syndicate alone turn out 2,100,000 tons of 'industry briquettes' per annum, but such figures leave no definite impression. We haven't got beyond the stage where a more or less experimental machine press under a wooden shed is considered a briquette factory."

Meanwhile, each American mail continues to bring inquiries from owners of lignite, peat, and coal properties in many states and territories, all asking for further details concerning German processes, the cost, capacity and productiveness of machinery, thermal values and market prices of the various kinds of briquetted fuel, and other information which it is difficult to condense into ordinary correspondence. With a view of answering more fully these inquiries—which at present relate, more especially to the utilization of lignite and peat deposits—the present supplementary report is submitted.

It has been repeatedly stated that the outward cleanliness of Berlin and other German cities is principally due to the general consumption of brown-coal briquettes for household and steam fuel; further, that they are made from ordinary German lignite without the use of tar or other artificial binder; that they are compact to store, clean to handle, easy to kindle, burn with a clear, strong flame, are cheaper than good bituminous coal, and are made practically smokeless. Lignite varies in its value and adaptability for briquetting purposes according to its geologic age, hardness, and the percentage of water contained. A lignite with less than 30 per cent of water is very difficult to work by the usual processes, and it is for this reason that Austria-Hungary, which has an abundance of very old and hard brown coal that contains from 26 to 28 per cent of moisture, has practically no supply of briquettes from that source. German lignite, on the other hand, is of much more recent formation; it contains from 46 to 52 per cent of water, and is usually so soft that it can be cut with a spade. Many lignite beds in this country are filled with logs and pieces of wood, so well preserved in the matrix of partially carbonized material that they burn readily and form a cheap and abundant fuel for steam and other heating at the briquette factories. The part played by the water contained in lignite forms the key to the whole economic briquetting process. The crude brown coal is brought from the mine, crushed and pulverized, and then run through a large revolving tubular cylinder, heated by exhaust steam from the driving engine, and hung on an inclined plane so that the powdered material runs downward through the tubes by gravity and is carried into the machine press that stamps it into briquettes. During this passage through the cylinder, it is dried and heated until there remains the right proportion of moisture, combined with the proper temperature to develop the latent bitumen in the lignite and make the powdered mass plastic and easy to mold under heavy pressure between heated iron jaws into a hard, clean briquette, with a glistening surface and sufficient firmness of structure to stand weather, transportation, and other contingencies. To do this perfectly and economically, the natural lignite should contain, as it comes from the mine, approximately enough water so that heating to the proper temperature for pressing will evaporate out just sufficient water to leave it at the proper degree of moisture. The ideal proportion is about 45 per cent of water; so that German lignite contains rather too much, while Austrian contains much too little, though this latter difficulty has lately been partially overcome by steaming. The important question to be now decided is how American lignite will fulfill these requirements.

During the past six weeks, samples of lignite from near Bismarck, N. D., and from Troy, Ala., have been received at this consulate, turned over to the syndicate mentioned in a previous report, and modeled experimentally into briquettes with entire success. The Dakota lignite is old and hard, contains 38 per cent of water, but crushes and pulverizes easily and forms without binder briquettes of firm structure, which burn readily, are practically smokeless, and leaves only 4 per cent of ash, while the best German brown coal briquettes yield from 9 to 12 per cent of inorganic residue. The percentage of water contained is rather low, but this obstacle, such as it is, can be easily met, and the reduced task of evaporation will be an economy in the general process.

The Alabama lignite, on the other hand is an ideal material, and from the one sample submitted is conceded here to be even superior to the standard brown coals of Germany. It contains the correct percentage of moisture, crushes easily, and molds readily into firm, shining, black briquettes, so clean that, as one of the experts at Magdeburg said, "They might be used for paper weights."

The importance of these simple demonstrations will be inferred from the fact that, according to a recent state geological report, there are 55,000 square miles of lignite beds in Oregon, Idaho and Montana, all near the surface of the ground, and ranging in thickness from twenty to eighty feet. The extent of the lignite deposits in the Gulf states is perhaps less exactly known, but they certainly cover a large area. There are also lignite in Missouri, Iowa, and several other Western states and territories, and it is from all these hitherto practically neglected deposits raw material for the future supply of smokeless domestic fuel will be derived. It will, therefore, be of interest to state concisely what constitutes a first class, up-to-date lignite briquette factory in Germany, where the industry has reached, after many years experience, its highest development. A typical example is the factory at Lauchhammer, about eighty miles south of Berlin, on the direct route to Dresden. This establishment, which is of the latest and most approved construction, has eight presses, with the necessary pulverizing, heating and drying plant, run by electric motors with current generated by steam, evaporated with wood from the mines, and whose under hand-some, substantial buildings of brick, stone, and iron cast, with tracks, switches, and full equipment for handling raw material and loading the briquettes into cars, $371,000, of which $178,500 was paid for machinery. Each press weighs thirty-two metric tons and stamps out 100 to 120 briquettes per minute, or seventy tons in a double turn day's work of twenty hours. The heating and drying apparatus for each press weighs eighteen tons. The power required for each press and dryer is 125 horse power, and both the dryer and jaws of the press between which the briquettes are squeezed at enormous pressure are heated by exhaust steam from the Corliss engine in the power house, the whole supply for the eight machines being equivalent to about 150 horsepower.

Thus equipped, the plant at Lauchhammer turns out from 500 to 600 tons of briquettes per day, which sell on cars at the factory for from seven to nine marks ($1.06 to $2.14), according to season and market, with an average of eight marks ($1.90) per 1,000 kilograms, or metric ton of 2,204 pounds. Profits depend on the usual varying conditions, locations, management, demands, etc., but it is common to read in the Berlin papers official notices announcing dividends of brown-coal-briquette companies ranging from 15 to 20 per cent of their capital. So enormously has the industry been developed in recent years that there is now an overproduction, and it is said that 100,000 carloads (1,000,000 tons) of briquettes will be carried over to the fuel supply of next summer and autumn.

COUNCIL'S COMMITTEES.
 Mayor Announced Them at Thursday's Special Meeting.
 After the council had disposed of the appointments at the special meeting Thursday afternoon the mayor announced the membership of the various committees as follows:
 Finance and Taxation—Wasanth, Mulvey and Johnson.
 Sewerage—Shea, Bodilly and Abbott.
 Streets and Highways—Johnson, Heggaton and Deacon.
 Electric Light Plant and Water Works—Wasanth, Bodilly and Willman.
 Fire Department—Willman, Laughlin and Shea.
 Police Claims and Grievances—Bodilly, Deacon and Laughlin.
 Cemetery—Heggaton, Abbott and Laughlin.
 Purchasing Committee—The Mayor, Wasanth and Shea.
 The mayor also appointed Miss S. Wellet city librarian. Her salary was fixed at $30 per month, on the motion of one of the aldermen, and the library board was instructed to "look after the library."
 This probably means that the council will place the library under the direct control of the board, with authority to act independently in all matters affecting the library. The board is composed of the two school inspectors, the mayor, city attorney and city recorder.
 The city printing for the coming year will be done by the Negaunee Printing company, it having been awarded the contract at $460. The city charter will be gone over by the city attorney, with a view to making some changes. The city recorder was instructed to call for bids for soft coal.

MARRIED SATURDAY.
 Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock Harry Chamberlain Miller and Miss Fannie O'Leary were married at the residence of the bride's parents. Monsignor Langner of St. Paul's church performed the ceremony. The wedding was attended only by the immediate relatives of the couple. Dinner was served after the wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on the 7 o'clock train in the evening for Denver, Col. Mr. Miller is largely interested in the Colorado mining property, being the manager of an important mine and concerned in the ownership of several others. The bride has spent the greater portion of her life in Negaunee. She has been engaged in school teaching and is an accomplished musician. She recently taught in Colorado, where she met Mr. Miller.

LOCAL LACONICS.

 Benyas & Co. will open their jewelry store in the Caples building about April 21.
 Misses Jennie and Amber Neely, who spent the winter in California, arrived home Thursday.
 Misses Ruth and Florence Wells have returned from their visit, with their father, at Lansing.
 Austin O'Leary, who is attending the state university, is spending his Easter vacation at his home.
 P. B. Kirkwood, Joe Richardson and Andy Seass left Saturday for a few days' outing at Little Lake.
 The council will meet Tuesday night for the purpose of passing on the bonds of liquor dealers and the various city officers.
 May 14 there will be a sale of unclaimed parcels at the Western Express office. Seven consignments will go under the hammer.
 Five Finlanders will leave here tomorrow morning for Boston, Mass. They expect to engage in farming in the vicinity of that city.
 Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Arland expect to leave soon for St. Paul, where they will make their home. Their two sons, Patrick and Lawrence, reside in that city.
 The funeral of Hiram Algure was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. George Algure of Ironwood and son were among those from out of town who attended the services.
 John Rule was appointed a member of the police force at the meeting of the council Thursday afternoon. His name was unintentionally omitted from the list published Friday.
 Ground will be broken today as the first step in the direction of building W. L. Bedford's new residence. It will be situated on Pek street, next to the residence of William Mitchell.

OUR RECORD.
 The record of work well done is perhaps more convincing than argument.
 "In regard to my health," says Mrs. A. M. McCreary, of Oostanauka, Ga., "when I wrote to you in July 1900, was hardly able to do my work. Was troubled with my heart beating too fast and breast hurting so I could not breathe easily. Was so nervous at times that I did not know what to do. Got two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and one of his Pleasant Pellets, and have hardly been troubled since. Have recommended Dr. Pierce's medicines to my friends and advise them to try the same."
 "I consulted you in August last (three months ago) about my case, and you gave me my heartiest thanks for your advice," writes Miss B. Horne, of 208 Scott Street, Erie, Pa. "As soon as your reply was received I commenced taking your Favorite Prescription, for female weakness and other troubles, and in now I am well. Have not felt as well in years as I do now, after taking six bottles of each kind of medicine. Am gaining every day and almost cured. Am now getting pale and sallow. Am recommending Dr. Pierce's wonderful medicine every where."

When the Druggist says he has something that is good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, just tell him, "There's nothing just as good." He says so because he hopes to make a better profit but his own mixtures have not stood the test of long experience and success as have Doctor Pierce's medicines.

SEASON'S BIG WORK

KIBBEE & WHITE HAVE GOTTEN OUT 10,000,000 FEET.

PINE TO BE CUT AT DEAD RIVER

MILL IS NOW BEING PREPARED FOR THE SUMMER'S RUN.

Ferguson Bros. Will Do a Little Summer Logging, Getting Out in Neighborhood of Three Million Feet.

Kibbee & White, for whom Ferguson Bros. have been lumbering during the past winter, have taken approximately 10,000,000 feet of pine from the Dead River mill, which they recently purchased from the Michigan Iron & Land company. This pine, together with between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 feet more that Ferguson Bros. will lumber near the mouth of Mulligan's creek during the summer months, will be cut at the Dead River mill of the South Arm Lumber company, which will go into commission the first of May or possibly a little before. The mill is now being put in condition for the season's run and a force of men is at the Hoist making minor repairs in preparation for handling the logs. Everything will soon be in readiness for a start and the saws can and will begin work when the logging trains begin running from the Hoist, which will be as soon as ice conditions will permit. There are now jammed behind the hoist approximately 5,000,000 feet of logs, some 7,000,000 feet of which is owned by Kibbee & White. This firm thus has but in the neighborhood of 3,000,000 feet still to come down the river to the hoist and it is stated that this lumber is so disposed that there is no doubt that it will come through all right. Reichel Bros. cut will run between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000. It will also be manufactured at the Dead River mill, which will run night and day through the season. Kibbee & White's contract with the South Arm people is for the transportation of their cut to the mill from the Hoist, working it up into lumber and placing it on the dock ready for delivery to the vessels that will transport it to the market.

Fine Quality of Cut. Kibbee & White express themselves as highly gratified with the quality of the season's cut. There were many bearish reports on the quality of the pine included in the Michigan Iron & Land company's stand and there were many people who asserted that it would be found poor. These predictions are disappointed and the action of Kibbee & White in purchasing the timber is amply justified by the developments in regard to the nature of the timber carried by the tract. This winter's cut is all first grade stuff, and it will work up into fine lumber. The timber is all taken from virgin land. Kibbee & White's holdings have never been lumbered over in any manner whatsoever. This firm is looking forward to two additional seasons' operations on Dead River. It will take at least this time to complete the cut of the pine now owned, and approximately 10,000,000 feet will be lumbered each year. Kibbee & White have been adding by purchase from time to time to the timber they bought from the Michigan Iron & Land company and they have expanded in no little degree the amount of their original holdings. They are on the market for more pine and they will be pleased to pick up tracts well located in regard to their present holdings.

Ferguson Bros., it is stated, will work two camps on the summer lumbering operations referred to above. The tract that they will cut over, near the mouth of Mulligan's creek, is better adapted to summer than to winter lumbering. High wheels will be used in handling the pine to the river. Kibbee & White's operations on Dead River, together with the lumbering that will go on in addition to their activities during the remaining two years' work they have projected, will constitute the last lumbering of any magnitude that will be carried on in that country. The Michigan Iron & Land company's stand of pine is the last timber holding of great size in this once heavily wooded region and when it is gone there will be left only isolated groups of pine, the lumbering of which will not be a task of any great importance.

"A TRIP TO CHINATOWN." It Will Be Presented at the Opera House This Evening. "A Trip to Chinatown" will be presented at the opera house this evening. The late Charles Hoyt wrote and produced a score or more of successes, but the one that made him the most dollars and placed him most prominently before the public as a successful author was "A Trip to Chinatown." Hoyt's brightest times, cleverest satire and wittiest observations are embodied in this play. The vaudeville features are novel and up-to-date and the music and songs are the latest successes of popular authors. This season the play has been given an entirely new scenic outfit. The company is said to be one of the best ever seen in a Hoyt comedy and includes William Kellar Mack, Jack Campbell, Frank Beulah, Percy Walling, William Stinson, John Doyle, Sylvia Starr, Kitty Wells, Nellie Bennett Miller, Molly Saylor, Zenie Blair and others.

Abundant health is assured when there is good blood in the veins. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine to make good blood. Begin taking it now. It cleanses the system, needs at this time you will do you great good. Sharpens the appetite, steadies the nerves. 3

LIBRARY PLANS EXPECTED.

They Should Be Here This Week—Are Somewhat Overdue.

The trustees for the Peter White library this week expect to receive from Patton & Miller the plans for the new structure that is to be built at the corner of Front and Ridge streets. It was hoped to have the working plans and specifications by the first of the month, but there has been some little delay in finishing them up. Bids for the erection of the proposed building will be called for very shortly after the receipt of the plans.

COUNCIL THIS EVENING.

Aldermen Will Act on Mayor's Appointments to Various Offices.

The council will assemble this evening to act on the mayor's appointments to various city offices. There is comparatively little interest in the session this year, as it is understood that things are out and dried to an unusual extent, so much so that it is an open secret what men will be named to the various offices and that they will be confirmed without dissenting vote. All the old officers, with one exception, it is reported, will be named. The only new man on the list, it is said, will be Captain Kruger, who will be appointed harbor master. The council and mayor will make an unusually harmonious and mutually pleasant start on the new administration.

NINETY DAYS.

Thomas Holland Will Spend Them in the County Jail.

Thomas Holland, the hobo who was arrested Friday evening while prowling around Martin Vierling's residence on Hewitt avenue and who had been terrorizing the women in the hill district for a number of days, was taken before Justice Byrne for trial Saturday morning. The judge, on his own motion, sentenced him to ninety days in the county jail for ninety days. He was handed over to Sheriff Pengelase at once, and he will spend the remainder of his sentence where he can no mischief. Holland is a vagrant and a rascal, and a saucy fellow withal. He is an old hand, apparently, at the tramping game.

"THE STROLLERS."

It Entertained a Full House at the Theater Saturday Evening.

"The Strollers," a musical comedy of great vogue, which one theater-goer commended as "chiefly notable for a lack of music and a lack of comedy," was the attraction at the Marquette theater Saturday evening, where it entertained, in a fashion, a large house. The music of "The Strollers" is by Ludwig Englander, and it is good and attractive. The story of it, far too little, but there is a little of it, far too little. The book is by Harry B. Smith, author of "Robin Hood," but it will never increase his fame.

The company is the Marquitta Sylvia organization, with Miss Sylvia herself at its head. Popular practice demands that the success of the piece be attributed in large degree to Miss Sylvia's presence in the cast, and very fulsome admiration of her good looks, good figure and voice. The former she has undoubtedly. She is good to look upon and the audience does not tire of doing so. Every now and then when she strikes a particularly effective attitude some of the more susceptible members of the sterner sex start a round of applause out of pure enthusiasm over her handsome face and trim form. Miss Sylvia's voice is not best. It is too slight to be considered a tangible asset. It is sweet, but its lack of volume and strength sharply define the limits in which it can be used effectively in operatic work. Miss Sylvia is this season entering a new field. Heretofore her efforts have been confined to serious work in romantic roles, in which she is said to excel. Her new field is not a genial one. She does not possess the comedy touch. She does not fall in with the audience. She does not retard what success it is achieving, but it is absurd to give her any great credit for that success. Any three or four dozen young ladies, more or less known in staidland, would be equally, if not more, successful in her role. Miss Sylvia's greatest hit Saturday evening was in her rendition of the Flirtation song, with a male chorus of German officers. This was the best thing in the piece and it was well acted and sung. It was enthusiastically received.

In the first act was sung "Strollers We," one of the gems of comedy. It made very little impression. The Flirtation song, "Loretta" and "Look It Up in the Dream Book" were sung in the second act, and were well received, particularly "Loretta." In the third act Miss Dorothy Hunting, one of the most valuable members of the cast, sang "Eyes of Blue and Eyes of Brown," interpolated in a manner which immensely pleased the audience. She has a rich, powerful voice, far the best in the company. These selections comprised all the music, of which "The Strollers" is unusually stingy.

The piece relies on its comedy to make it go, and in the very noticeable lack of sufficient music, the comedians are hard pressed to keep things moving, which may explain why they very frequently lapse into mere "horseplay." The comedians are a clever lot. George C. Boniface, Jr., as August Lump, the Stroller, Neil McNeil, as Mempher, the jailer, and L. D. Don as Prince De Bomsky, were all highly original in their exuberant burlesque and if their work was not on a higher plane of excellence it was probably because Mr. Smith did not give them a chance to place it there. David Torrence, the magistrate, filled his part acceptably, having a good voice.

"The Strollers" was presented by a large company and with every inch of scenery, stage setting and costuming. In view of all this it is really a matter of regret that the piece itself is not more "worth while."

Why, Mrs. Jones, what have you been doing to yourself; you're looking fine. Never saw you look so sweet. Simply took Rocky Mountain Tea last April. Felt fine all the year. 35 cents. The Stafford Drug Co.

HE IS A LIFE SAVER.

His Friends Are According All Honor to "Andy" Perrin.

"Andy" Perrin, the popular South Shore railroad man who recently moved from Marquette to West Superior, is being hailed as the "life saver" by his friends, all because he was instrumental in saving a helplessly intoxicated sailor from going to a watery grave in the wee small hours of Saturday morning. "Andy," as the yarn goes, had just come in from Duluth on the early train. Before proceeding to his hotel he took a turn around the streets for the fresh air. In the course of his walk he noticed a fellow, who showed every evidence of being very drunk, making for the lake front. Thinking the man might be intending to make away with himself, Mr. Perrin followed him down to the waterfront. The "jag" struck out onto the dismantled South Shore ore dock, with the evident intention of reaching one of the craft tied to it, but he very shortly keeled off his unstable footing into the water. "Andy" took no time in getting into action, and before the fellow had disappeared for the third time he had scrambled down near the water and succeeded in getting a firm grip on the clothes about his neck, supporting his head above water. The fellow was as limp as a dish rag and it looked as if he was all in, but it developed that he was only very drunk. "Andy's" lusty outcries soon brought assistance from the nearby boats and soon the unfortunate was fished out high and dry, none the worse and very little sober for his ducking. Mr. Perrin is saying nothing about his experience, but the details have leaked out nevertheless and the new "life saver" is in line for congratulations. It is a cinch that he saved one tipping sailor man from going to Davy Jones' locker.

TEAMER PATHFINDER CLEARS.

First Ore Shipped from Marquette This Season Goes Out.

The formal opening of the season of navigation at this port took place Saturday evening, when the steamer Pathfinder, one of the fleet which spent the winter here, cleared with ore for Cleveland. The boat was loaded at the L. S. & I. dock.

The first boat to arrive from the lower lakes will probably reach Marquette today or tomorrow. Three at least are on their way here—the Reynolds, with coal for F. B. Spear & Sons; the Neilson, which will take out ore from the South Shore docks, and the Ketchum, which will load at the upper harbor. The latter named vessel is due to arrive Tuesday.

CITY BREVITIES.

Today's weather: Rain; brisk north-east winds. Yesterday's temperature: 7 a. m., 39 degrees; noon 42 degrees; p. m., 44 degrees. Maximum, 44 degrees; minimum, 37 degrees. Charles H. Hall has returned from the Soo and resumed his place at Grabover's store. J. H. Primeau, Jr., came down from Negaunee Saturday, to spend Sunday with his parents. Mrs. A. Mathews and Miss Inez Mathews returned last evening after a two days' outing in the sugar bush at the Schaeffer camp, Ontonagon. The social hop to be given at Fraternity Hall by Superior tent of the Maceabees will take place on Wednesday evening of next week, instead of this week, as previously reported. The land office has sent out about 250 notices of receipt of patents. The patents came in the latter part of last week, and will be issued as soon as the necessary formalities can be complied with.

Notes of Marine News.

Although the matter has not yet been settled, vesselmen and shippers both feel satisfied that wild and contract rates on ore will be fixed at 85 cents from the head of Lake Superior, 80 cents from Marquette and 70 from Escanaba. Coal cargoes are offered freely, and the feeling is firm. One of the two car ferry steamers built for the Manistique, Marquette & Northern railway has been completed, and was turned over to the owners last Thursday. The vessel will ply between Manistique and Northport in connection with the M. M. & N. and the Pennsylvania system. The car ferry is one of the best of its kind that the American shipbuilding company has ever turned out.

WOMEN AND JEWELS.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure-all, but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get this reliable remedy at Stafford Drug Co. Price 25c. and 75c.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS CURED.

"For ten years I had chronic bronchitis so bad that at times I could not speak above a whisper," writes Mr. Joseph Coffman, of Montmorenci, Ind. "I tried all remedies available, but with no success. Fortunately my employer suggested that I try Foley's Honey and Tar. Its effect was almost miraculous, and I am now cured of the disease. On my recommendation many people have used Foley's Honey and Tar, and always with satisfaction." Sold by People's Drug Store.

MANY PEOPLE OUT.

Yesterday's Spring Weather Was Enjoyed by All.

There was more activity around Marquette yesterday than for many a Sunday during the past several weeks, all on account of the fine weather. The sun shone brightly, and although it was not as warm as it might have been, it was still pleasant to be about, and people were about, from an early hour in the morning until late in the afternoon. They drove, walked, and rode wheels, in fact did everything but boated; it's still a little chilly for that amusement.

There was a general movement toward Presque Isle, and the street cars handled a big traffic. The first sign of the coming season's annual rush. In addition many people walked and drove to that resort, where the roads are now dry and the footing is good, although the shrubbery, trees, and grass as yet show little sign that spring is here.

The new furnace was an object of great interest for many curious eyes. It was visited by hundreds of people. They began inspecting it early in the morning and the last of the visitors did not leave the premises until well into the evening. The casts were observed with great interest and between them the visitors swarmed through the engine, boiler, ore storage, and casting rooms, also wandering in and out among the charcoal kilns and the buildings for the chemical plant. It was the first time the general public has had a good opportunity to inspect the furnace since it was put in blast and there need be little wonder that it was so generally taken advantage of. The greatest admiration was expressed for the plant, and its fine equipment was a source of wondering comment.

The land office has sent out about 250 notices of receipt of patents. The patents came in the latter part of last week, and will be issued as soon as the necessary formalities can be complied with.

Emil W. Piper, who has been employed at the power works, has given up his place and will leave this evening for his home at Cameron, Wis. He was a member of the Leans' indoor baseball club.

L. R. Glendinning and bride, formerly Miss Bessie Billings, who were recently united in marriage here, will make their home at Superior, where Mr. Glendinning is manager of the Superior circulation department of the Duluth News-Tribune.

The commissioner of the land office has adjudged the final proof offered by Hal J. Hollace of Houghton sufficient. The case is entitled Abraham Swollita vs. Hal J. Hollace, and 160 acres in Houghton county are affected. In the interim Mr. Hollace has passed away, and the title will go to his widow.

Thomas Byers, a teamster employed at a lumber camp in Schoolcraft county, is in jail at Manistique pending trial on the charge of assaulting Edward Schrimshaw, a fellow workman, with a heavy iron poker. Schrimshaw was badly pummeled about the head and an eye was cut open. He is receiving treatment at St. Mary's hospital, where last evening he was reported much improved.

The state supreme court has admitted Harvey B. Hatch of this city to practice. Mr. Hatch was one of seven students to pass the examination held at Lansing last week by the board of law examiners. The class numbered fourteen. Another successful candidate was Howard Streeter of Houghton. The court will resume the call of the calendar tomorrow, the call for that day being 150, 33 and 37.

A. I. McDonald, formerly engaged in the grocery business here, at the corner of Third and Michigan streets, who left Marquette with his family for Scotland about a year ago with the intention of settling there to stay, has returned to the states. He arrived in the East last week, with his family, and has now gone on to Corning, Cal., where he will settle, engaging, it is said, in business. Mr. McDonald did not find the business opportunities in the old country all that he had expected.

Miss Tekla Farm, soprano soloist, will be the leading feature in a concert to be given at the Presbyterian church tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. Miss Farm will be assisted by Dr. Eldred Robbins, tenor; Lloyd Bennett, bass, and Ernest Ludlow, guitar, of Ishpeming, and Ernest Norma Ross, the Mandolin club, Professor Kluge and the church choir of Marquette. An attractive and diversified program will be rendered. Miss Farm is the leading soprano in the Grose Point Presbyterian church at Detroit. She formerly lived at Ishpeming and is very well known in this county.

The members of the Marquitta Sylvia Opera company Sunday here, leaving this morning for Escanaba, where they will present "The Strollers" this evening. David Torrence, the baritone, was heard last evening in the music at the Presbyterian church, where his fine voice was greatly enjoyed. Miss Sylvia is evidently a pedestrian. In the afternoon she tramped off down below the prison on the Chequamegon road, attended by one of the ladies of her company. She returned on towards five o'clock, dusty, but apparently happy, with her pet poodle enjoying a free ride under her arm.

... TO BE ... NOT "WELL DRESSED" BUT "BEST DRESSED" costs no more effort than the looking for the Friend label in a garment's right hand inside pocket. FRIEND CLOTHING has not a trace of the wholesale job lot appearance usually associated with clothes that are "ready-to-wear." Every garment has an individuality of its own, and a character that is not lost after the first week of wear. Style, fit and finish find their best expression in these garments. THE FRIEND GUARANTEED CLOTHING IS LEADING DEALERS, MARQUETTE.

THE SPRING LAMB and poultry-for-the-table season is here. The tender and palatable variety of both here, too. By here we mean the butcher store known for blocks and squares around as Hathway's. We claim to know a good deal about meat and poultry, and use our knowledge to your benefit. If you want strictly fresh eggs and imported Frankfurt sausage direct from Germany, this is the place to get them. FRANK W. HATHWAY'S, PALACE MEAT MARKET.
