a dozen or more detectives and spectators who had been passed into the cell-room.

"Can't a man see his mother without everybody 'butting in'?" he asked.

"You ought to be glad to be allowed to see her at all," said one of the police officers.

"Please don't talk that way," said Mrs. Van Dine, who, now that the crisis had passed, was self-possessed and calm.

She resumed talking to the prisoner, who said but little and looked menacingly toward the curiously seekers.

"Yes, my boy," she continued, "you have sinned and your punishment cannot be avoided. But always think that your mother is suffering with you. Her suffering is even more than yours, if that is possible. You must keep up your courage. I have already hired a lawyer for you."

Mrs. Van Dine said that the prisoner had fastened his gaze upon his sweet-heart, who stood with her head buried in her arms. Then the mother's instinct asserted itself again.

"Yes, Harvey, and I will take care of Mamma and his mother and sweet-heart before he stands trial for the series of crimes in which he has participated."

In cells adjoining that occupied by Van Dine sat Emil Roeski and Peter Niedermeier. Then the scene between the mother and her son was broken by the fact that the mother was going on her way in their respective cells apparently unconcerned.

SHOCKS THE POLICE

NEIDERMEIER, CHICAGO BANDIT, MAKES FURTHER CONFESSIONS

Tells of Many Crimes Hitherto Unsolved and Will Give Full Details if Mother Gets the Rewards.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Peter Niedermeier, the confessed murderer of five men, a member of the quartet of bandits who in the last six months killed and robbed many persons in Chicago, today made further confessions to Chief O'Neill with the idea of securing rewards for his mother. Van Dine, Marx and Roeski are not included in the confession. Chief O'Neill is inclined to believe the story.

"I am guilty of crimes for which innocent men are now suffering," said Niedermeier. "Rewards are offered for capture and conviction. If you promise that the rewards will go to my mother, I will convict myself."

In order to verify the confession, Niedermeier outlined the crimes in such manner, Chief O'Neill declared, as only one concerned could. He refused to divulge the names of his partners in the crimes confessed, pending proof that his mother would get the rewards.

Among the additional crimes confessed are: Robbery of the Illinois Central express at Paducah, Ky., in which Barnes, one of the robbers, cut his throat while surrounded. The other escaped.

Held up stage coach near Butler, Neb., two years ago; robbery of mail; one shot; robbers escaped unharmed.

Robbery of Chicago & Northwestern passenger train near Boone, Ia.; six months ago.

Attempted robbery of Baltimore & Ohio train at Edgemoor, Ind., four years ago.

Less important robberies in and near Chicago.

Conceals Names of Associates. In all the cases Niedermeier concealed the names of his associates, merely giving sufficient details to lead Chief O'Neill to believe the murderer is telling the truth. Niedermeier was assured that his mother would receive $500 from the Chicago & Northwestern railroad for the arrest of the Clybourn station robbers.

Niedermeier detailed the Paducah robbery perfectly, offered to tell Illinois Central detectives the entire story of the holdup and to show where he hid after the robbery.

"I stalled the train alone," said Niedermeier. "Then I entered the baggage car and threw out three sacks. Barnes grabbed one. I did not get any, as I was lucky to escape death. Detectives found Barnes in a swamp, with his throat cut and a razor in his hand, with which he committed suicide."

"Before last May I spent three years in robbing outside of Chicago, and, if rewards are forthcoming for my mother, I will make a clean breast of everything."

Confession Startles Police. The police are so appalled by Niedermeier's confession that they scarcely believe all the assertions. It is known that the four bandits have almost quarreled since their arrest over the credit for various murders, shootings and robberies committed in Chicago. All seem anxious to acquire as much notoriety as possible, since death on the gallows seems certain.

It is thought that anxiety for his mother has prompted Niedermeier to make himself the perpetrator of many crimes, the perpetrators of which thus far are not apprehended. He seems to be familiar with most of the notorious crimes committed during recent years, especially those which have been unsolved by the police.

It is said that more specific statements are expected from Niedermeier and Van Dine and probable more arrests will be made soon. Chief O'Neill is somewhat inclined to believe that many hitherto unsolved crimes will be cleared up by the confession of the four men in custody, none of whom is more than twenty-five years old.

None of the prisoners has as much as asked what their probable punishment will be. They seem to take it for granted that they will go to the gallows, and the thought of the possible punishment causes them little concern. When they remain in custody, none of whom is more than twenty-five years old, they speak of them as a joke.

IDLENESS FOR MANY MEN.

International Harvester Company Cuts Its Force of 19,000 to 15,500.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Following its announced policy of centralization, the International Harvester company has decided to discharge 7,500 of its 19,000 employees, saving five million dollars a year in wages. Fifteen hundred employees of the Deering plant have been placed in the service of other divisions of the company. Of the 7,000 workmen in the Deering plant, three thousand in all are to be discharged. The McCormick plant will not discharge more than fifteen hundred of its 7,000 employees. The other 3,000 workmen to lose their positions are in Milwaukee, Springfield, O., and elsewhere.

MENELIK EXTENDS WELCOME.

RESTAURANT KEEPER AT CHICAGO MURDERS A CUSTOMER.

Victim Is Shot Down Because Short a Nickel to Pay for a Meal Costing Less Than a Quarter.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Because he lacked five cents to pay for his breakfast, Marcus Sheehan, a car man, was shot and killed today by James Berganus, proprietor of a restaurant.

Sheehan had fifteen cents and ordered a meal which he thought would cost that sum. Afterwards he was told he owed twenty cents. Sheehan promised to pay the other five cents later.

"Pay now or never leave this place," said Berganus.

Sheehan laughed and turned towards the door, but before he could reach it Berganus, without a word, shot Sheehan in the head.

Throwing the dead body in the street, Berganus locked the door and fled.

MOB AVENGES MURDER. Three Negroes Are Lynched and Posses Are Pursuing Others.

Shreveport, La., Nov. 29.—Reports from Belcher say that three negroes who shot and severely injured Robert Adageer, a planter, have been caught, identified and lynched. Two other negroes implicated in the shooting are still at large, with two posses in pursuit. The three negroes caught were concealed by residents of Belcher to prevent the police from rescuing them. The farmers made no concealment of their intention to lynch the negroes.

Robinsville, Miss., Nov. 29.—George Jenkins, a negro, shot and killed Herbert Clifton, a farmer, today. A posse is hunting for the negro. He may be lynched by this time.

CHURCH FLOOR GAVE WAY.

Panic Marks Farwell Reception to Archbishop Harty at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Nov. 29.—During the farewell reception of Rev. J. J. Harty, recently appointed archbishop of Manila, at St. Leo's church, today, a section of the church floor suddenly sank into the cellar with a score of persons. The floor sank until it rested on the furniture. The women screamed and men struggled. Archbishop Harty counseled calmness and order was soon restored. It was found that none were injured beyond bruises. The reception continued and the archbishop bade farewell to over five thousand persons. He will leave tomorrow for Manila.

JAILED FOR STEALING JEWELS.

Servant of Wealthy Philadelphia Family Is Caught in New York.

New York, Nov. 29.—Charged with stealing $20,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Wm. Welch Harrison of Philadelphia, Adolf Waltz, formerly a servant of Mrs. Harrison, is locked up at a police station. The jewels, including a pearl necklace valued at $15,000, were taken from Mrs. Harrison's room while the family were at dinner on Thanksgiving. All the jewels stolen, with the exception of two small pieces, were found on Waltz.

ALDERMAN MAY GO TO JAIL.

Three Chicagoans Found Guilty of Violating the Election Law.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Alderman John J. Brennan and two political friends—Charles McCauley and Herbert E. Kent—were today found guilty by a jury of violation of the election laws during the judicial election last June. Each defendant is liable to punishment for a term in the county jail ranging from three months to one year, if the decision of the jury is upheld by Judge Gary, as no fine is attached to the verdict. The defendants were placed under bonds.

MARSHAL'S MURDERER CAUGHT.

PRESIDENT SCORES GUILTY OFFICIALS

HANDLES WITHOUT GLOVES THE SCANDALS IN THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

REVIEWS THE INVESTIGATION

HIGHLY COMMENDS THE WORK OF BRISTOW AND HIS AIDES.

Says Inquiry Has Brought to Light a Condition of Gross Corruption of Long Standing and He Hopes for Fitting Punishment.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General J. L. Bristow on the postal investigation made public today, as was a memorandum of the president commenting thereon. The latter is as follows:

Memorandum upon the various papers submitted from the department of justice and the post-office department concerning the investigation into the corrupt practices obtaining in the post-office department, notably the office of the first assistant postmaster-general and in the office of the assistant attorney-general for that department. All the documents in the case are herewith forwarded to the post-office department, and will be held ready for submission to the congress whenever it may choose to ask for them.

It appears that in December, 1902, Postmaster-General Payne and Congressman E. F. Loud, chairman of the committee on the post office and post-roads, held various consultations regarding the postal service, and as a result of these interviews it was determined that as soon as possible after the necessary appropriations could be made by the congress an investigation should be made of the service, both Messrs. Payne and Loud agreeing as to the need for the investigation and the time when it should take place. Accordingly, an increase of $5,000 in the appropriation bill reported in January was made for the express purpose of carrying on the investigation in question. The reasons for the increase in the appropriation were known only to the postmaster-general, to Congressman Loud, and to Congressman Bromwell.

Suspicious Increase.

Subsequently, sometime in January, information was laid before me by Mr. Seckendorff tending to show improper conduct by Beavers, general superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances, and Machen, general superintendent of the free-delivery system; and by William Allen White, holding a list of interviews by or under Tyler, assistant attorney-general for the post-office department. First Assistant Postmaster-General Wynne also informed me that he had become suspicious of the integrity of both Machen and Beavers. After full consultation with Mr. Payne it was decided that Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow should make a thorough and exhaustive investigation of the charges in question and of all matters that might be developed in connection with them. Mr. Bristow's report is a record of as thorough a list of investigating work as has ever been done under the government.

After this investigation had been in progress for about two months it became evident that legal proceedings would have to be undertaken against some of the offenders. Owing to the importance of the case it was deemed advisable that special counsel should be employed, and Messrs. Charles J. Bonaparte and Holmes Conrad were chosen for this purpose. Messrs. Bonaparte and Conrad, in their report to me of Mr. Bristow, speak as follows:

"We consider the report an exceptionally able, candid, and impartial review of its subject-matter and that it shows clearly reprehensible misconduct, amounting in many cases, to crime, on the part of a number of public officials. It is a voluminous document, but this arises, not from prolixity, but from the nature of the matters discussed. We heartily commend the report and deem its conclusions fully justified by the facts it sets forth; and while regretting in common with all patriotic citizens that the grave abuses of long standing which it reveals should have grown up in the post-office department, we consider the exposure of these abuses and the attempts made to punish those responsible for them a work of the highest public utility, quickly and ably performed." In all that is thus said of the report of Mr. Bristow I cordially agree.

Gross Corruption.

The investigation made by Mr. Bristow discloses a condition of gross corruption in the office of the first assistant postmaster-general and in that of the assistant attorney-general for the post-office department. In the case of the superintendent of free delivery, Machen, the evidence shows that his misconduct began immediately after his appointment in September, 1893. In the case of the general superintendent of salaries and allowances, Beavers, it began soon after he was appointed to that place in 1897. In the case of Assistant Attorney-General Tyler it is possible for a number of years, but it is impossible to say exactly when it began. A melancholy feature of the case is that with one exception all the offenders have been for a number of years in the government service. The following is a list of the fourteen post-office employees in the service at the time this investigation was begun, who are apparently most seriously implicated in the wrongdoing, together with an account of the steps that have been taken by the government in each case and a statement of the date of original appointment of each man in the service. (The case of ex-First Assistant Postmaster-General Heath, who had left the service over three years before this investigation was begun, is set forth in the report of Mr. Bristow.)

A Reliable Medicine. DAILY MINING JOURNAL.

A Reporter of The Mining Journal Interviews The Stafford Drug Co. The Interview of Interest to Every Person in Marquette.

So many patient medicines and advertised cures are now offered to the public that our readers should be glad to know the opinion of a man who has spent years in handling them, and profit by his advice.

"Said Mr. Stafford, of The Stafford Drug Co.: 'After having sold drugs and all kinds and makes of medicines for so many years, naturally we have learned something about them, their value, and power to cure.'

"It will build up run-down, tired, debilitated people. It will make the weak and sickly strong and well. It will increase the appetite. It will cure nervousness, irritability and sleeplessness. It will cure stomach troubles, dyspepsia and indigestion. It will make rich, red blood. It will make weak, puny, ailing children strong and robust. It is the greatest strengthener and body builder in the world for old people. It is a great strengthener for weak women. It is a boon to nursing mothers. It will positively cure chronic coughs and colds. It cures bronchitis. It makes weak lungs strong and is of untold value in consumption and all wasting diseases. For the convalescent it has no equal as a strength maker.

"We cannot make a stronger statement and can only ask such people in Marquette to try Vinol on our guarantee." The Stafford Drug Co.

Mr. Jones, editor of the St. Ignace Enterprise, which has been conducted as a Democratic newspaper, is tired of butting his head against a stone wall and will henceforth aim to keep the editorial columns of his Enterprise independent.

In announcing the change Mr. Jones says that "in its present hopeless, chaotic condition Democracy has no chance in national affairs. Nor, candidly and fairly, does it deserve success."

He says further that a Democratic newspaper has no influence in Michigan at present, for the strongly entrenched Republicans pay no attention to an avowed enemy. The conclusion is that Mr. Jones is going to do his future newspaper campaigning very subtly and that his readers, or victims, will not know when their political faiths are being undermined.

It is assumed that irrespective of its independence, Mr. Jones will keep his paper up to its old standard, which has been a very excellent one.

WILL CANADA ACQUIRE.

The proposed adoption of a protective policy by Great Britain is of scarcely less importance to the people of Canada than to those of the United Kingdom, involving as its principal promoter claims it will, not only the continued prosperity of the British Isles, but the creation of "an empire such as the world has never seen," an empire of which the Dominion is to form an integral part.

That the goal which Mr. Chamberlain sets for himself is a lofty one there is no denying and its appeal to Britons may well prove strong. At a moment when they are told that within their grasp lies the means of assuring a future far more magnificent than the past has been. They have but to adopt a tariff on food-stuffs and then they can barter preference for preference with their great colonies, the mother country with its teeming millions providing a market wherein the Canadian farmer and the Australian drover will be allowed to undersell their American and Argentine competitors on condition that they provide a market wherein the British manufacturer may enjoy a like advantage over all rivals.

This is a picture calculated—at first glance—to excite the enthusiasm of all concerned. But when the Canadian looks closer his ardor will suddenly be cooled, for he will see that the scheme which is to preserve British power and create an "empire such as the world has never seen" implies sacrifices on the part of the country to which it owes his first allegiance, quite disproportionate to any benefits which it would receive. To be a member of an empire such as the world has never seen may be indeed a glorious destiny, but to be a poor member, a comparatively unimportant member with no chance of ever becoming more, robs the destiny of much of its effulgence. And that is what inevitably awaits the Dominion if imperial preference becomes a fact. The fostering of home industries must cease, the tender nursing of years which is only now beginning to show results, must go for nothing.

In short, Canada must devote herself to agriculture and that by an axiom of political economy spells poverty. Britain will provide a market for Canadian grain, but in exchange Canada must provide a market for British manufactures; for what would it profit the islanders if Canada keeps out German and American rivals and yet retains against them a tariff wall high enough land pays Canada for the food she eats to protect herself from them. If England may be sure that she will be called upon to pay England for the clothes she wears. Otherwise the people across the water would soon find so on-sided a "preference" irksome and their feeling for Canadians would soon become much akin to that which some centuries ago drove their nation into its great struggle with the Netherlands simply because, as one of their rhymers complained, "In matters of trade the fault of the Dutch is giving too little and taking too much."

NEW WAY OF USING Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writes from Durban, Natal, South Africa, saying: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some on the dummy that the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and cured the baby. This remedy is for sale by Stafford Drug Co., J. M. Perkins, Nechance, and Henry Harwood, Lehigh, Pa."

ANXIOUS MOMENTS.

Some of the most anxious hours of a mother's life are those when the little ones of the household have the croup. There is no other medicine so effective in this terrible malady as Foley's Honey and Tar. It is a household favorite for throat and lung troubles, and as it contains no opiates or other poisons, it can be safely given. Sold at DeJardin's Pharmacy.

A CASE.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50-cent bottle of Green's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or croup. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

A POLICEMAN'S TESTIMONY.

J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Ia., writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least a half dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world." Sold at DeJardin's Pharmacy.

Miners Given Turkeys—

There are still a few men employed in the Iron Mountain mines notwithstanding the newspapers have discharged several thousand. This is mostly illustrated by the fact that several companies on Thanksgiving Day distributed nearly fourteen hundred turkeys to their employes, married men or men having families dependent upon them.

Fought the Fenians—

Samuel Hamilton, a Memnonian tinsmith, has resigned from the Canadian government a medal and is also promised 100 acres of land in the provinces for his participation in the Fenian war in 1866. Mr. Hamilton was one of a company that was organized in Canada at that time and was stationed on the frontier near Niagara Falls. He participated in a number of skirmishes incidental to keeping the Fenian invaders out of Canada.

Will Lumber in Louisiana—

The Ludington, Wells & Van Schaick Lumber Company, formerly of Michigan, is erecting one of the finest lumber plants in the South in Calcasieu parish, Louisiana. The plant consists of a two story frame mill, 64x336 feet, equipped with two bands and a gang, reinforced with concrete. It will have a 25x45 Corliss engine, supplied by eight boilers; a large log pond and a five room standard steam kiln. Cottages have been erected for employes and a large planing mill will be built soon. The company controls a rich tract of 53,000 acres, a supply sufficient to meet its wants for fifteen years.

New Industry for Luce County—

Roscoe Bros., of Oak Harbor, Ohio, who own an extensive tract of hardwood lands in Columbus and Lakefield townships, Luce county, will build a mill at McMillan, and will manufacture their product. They have formed a company, which will be known as the U. P. Lumber and Co. The plant consists of a two story frame mill, 64x336 feet, equipped with two bands and a gang, reinforced with concrete. It will have a 25x45 Corliss engine, supplied by eight boilers; a large log pond and a five room standard steam kiln. Cottages have been erected for employes and a large planing mill will be built soon. The company controls a rich tract of 53,000 acres, a supply sufficient to meet its wants for fifteen years.

A Tip for the Farmers—

If the farmers of Schoolcraft county could supply the demand for beef cattle, they could overtake the thousands of dollars which would be kept in the city and county, comments the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune. More than nine-tenths of the meat used in the city of Manistique is purchased from the city and the greater portion of the money for it by the consumers finds its way to the coffers of the packing companies. If the farmers would engage more extensively in the business of raising cattle for home consumption, the city would find a ready market and receive good prices. The money expended for this necessity of life would be in circulation in the city and county indefinitely. Under present conditions, the consumer pays the retailer and the latter transfers the money from his safe to the packing house representative in weekly installments.

Was in Libby Prison—

Oliver P. Hall, a resident of Drummond Island, Chippewa county, who has just proved up on his homestead, is a veteran of the civil war and one of the few survivors of those who were once in the hands of the rebels in Libby prison. He was a private in Company D, Twelfth New Hampshire volunteers, and it was while on picket duty that he was captured and taken to Libby prison. He suffered while in this foul pen were the same as have been told in story and history and when he was released it was with his health impaired and unfit for any other service. From Libby he was taken to the hospital at Fort Leavenworth, where he remained for some time, but he never recovered his health. He is now a resident of Drummond Island, where he has a comfortable home at Grand Rapids. He spent the remainder of his days.

Makes Cows Give More Milk—

Michael Krick, proprietor of the Birch Creek (Menominee county) cheese factory, says that cows fed on the tops of sugar beets together with their other feed, give more and richer milk. He has had plenty of chance for observation and large and small dairymen in the vicinity have commenced to feed their cattle on sugar beet tops the cows give 25 per cent more milk and that it is much richer than formerly and makes 25 per cent more butter. A large amount of milk is brought to the cheese factory daily by the farmers of that locality and Mr. Krick has paid particular attention to the result of beet tops and has had practically all of the cattle on that feed since he has been in the business. The fine results of beet tops for feed were told of by Superintendent Geismar, of the state experimental station at Chatham, during the campaign for beef and milk, but the farmers seemed rather skeptical. Now, since they have made the practical test themselves, they have become convinced of the value of the feed. Many of them prefer to use the tops in this manner instead of using liquid fertilizer, for which they are also excellent.

Will Give Work to Many—

The announcement that two hardwood manufacturing industries are assured for Munising is confirmed by A. A. Doty, the controlling spirit of one of the factories. The name of Mr. Doty's company is the Munising Package and Co., a partnership between him and his mother, Mrs. M. Doty. The other factory will be a branch of the American Handle company, of which W. H. Thompson, of Grand Marquette, is president and general manager. The two factories, while working together in a way, are entirely independent of each other. Each factory will use different kinds of hardwood timber, and by conducting wood operations in different parts of the county, the timber they go to at the least possible expense. Mr. Doty says they already have purchased sufficient timber to keep their factories in operation for twenty years. The first class mill will soon be located in Northwestern company's two mills at Munising, which the new operators have purchased, and plan for necessary changes and improvements. Mr. Doty says: "We do not expect to operate in the next year, but we are confident that the reason that we still have a full year's work to clean up our timber at Manicouche. By operating on a smaller scale next year we shall not be obliged to purchase any new machinery, and then next fall we shall have our business very busy."

GERMANY'S TOY INDUSTRY.

Value of Annual Exports Goes Up Into the Millions. The toy industry of Germany is the subject of an interesting report to the state department by Commercial Agent Harris at Eisenstock. The manufacture of toys in Germany is an industry which gives employment to fully 50,000 people. The total value of the annual exports amounts to $13,196,336. Mr. Harris says that the prosperity of this industry like a great many other important lines of manufacture in the German empire, is dependent upon the importation of certain raw materials from abroad. The wood grown in the forests of Bavaria, Thuringia and Saxony, is especially suitable to the industry and that one product has had more to do with its development and stability than any of the others. The manufacture of toys in Germany has become centered chiefly in the cities of Nuremberg and Sonneberg, which cities have become famous for the quantity of their products. They supply fully 80 per cent of all the toys exported from the empire.

To Manufacture Hardwood, Too—

G. E. Leveque, who is in the sawmill and lumbering business at Germfask, Schoolcraft county, announces that he will start a hardwood mill at Cook's Bay, on Lake Manistique, about four miles north of Germfask, and that the mill will be ready for operation in February. While most of the shingle companies of the upper peninsula have been unable to get any but a low price for their product, and even at that have a large amount of unsold stock on hand, Mr. Leveque got rid of the whole output of his mill. The product was sold in the East and brought top prices. These shingles were all eighteen-inch, while those manufactured by most of the mills are sixteen-inch, and this is given as the reason for the readiness with which they were bought up. Mr. Leveque recently shipped thirty carloads of pulpwood to Appleton for use in the paper mills there. During the past season the Leveque company turned out 45,000 cedar toys, 5,000,000 shingles, 6,000 poles and 30,000 cedar posts. The company expects to get out a large amount of basswood, elm, ash and birch this winter, to be cut in the hardwood mill, and three camps are now in operation. More will be started soon and men are now being engaged.

Oil Spilling the Water—

Residents in the Rapid River district of Delta county are getting some apparently convincing proof that there is oil in that section. All around the vicinity of the oil well of the Cream City Development company the people are having great trouble getting good drinking water on account of the fact that every morning they find a scum of oil on the top of the water. This is exactly what the oil well men have feared. That is, that the oil finding its outlet blocked by the filling of the mouth of the well, has to recede in some direction and so follows the water course through the ground to the surface in streams and swamps throughout the vicinity. Visitors from Escanaba have seen the water in the swamps around the well continually covered with a scum of floating oil and have also seen thick green oil coating from the mouth of the well around the plugs which the operators put in place when the drill was removed. The story concerning the Rapid River oil strike will soon be told, as the equipment purchased in Milwaukee has already begun to arrive. The pumps are not yet ready for shipment, but the large tanks and valves which are to be used as reservoirs for holding oil until it can be shipped are arriving and being transferred to the seat of operations.

Colonization Proving Successful—

A. L. Emerson, of St. Paul, a representative of the Michigan & Wisconsin Land company of that city, was in Escanaba a few days ago to confer with the land department of the I. Stephens company regarding a large number of farmers from western Wisconsin and eastern Minnesota who plan to locate on I. Stephens company land in Delta county. The Michigan & Wisconsin Land company is under contract to colonize a whole township. This firm has done some excellent work in the colonization line within the past year, and in the last six months Mr. Emerson has located thirty families in the above mentioned township, all of whom are now settled there and engaged in clearing land and improving the property. These colonists are from the vicinity of Kenyon, Stillbrook and Leiland, Minn., and Watertown, Wis. All are experienced farmers. Accompanying Mr. Emerson on his recent trip was a delegation representing twenty-five Stoughton (Wis.) families who plan to locate in Delta county. The representatives were pleased with the outlook. Mr. Emerson declared that the work of colonization is only in its infancy as yet, and that next season he expects to see a flood of families from further west coming to Delta county. The I. Stephens company has representative land agents in all parts of the northwest, and it probably will be but a few years when broad-tilled acres and orchards will take the place of the cut over timber lands. FRIENDS WERE SKEPTICAL.

But Army Officer Proved His Presence Were Not Lost. A young army officer who was in Washington not long ago presented one of his woman relatives here with a superb fur fox coat and a unique carved peacock, fashioned out of a great lump of ivory, with every eccentric intricacy of the tailfeathers brought out with marvelous, lace-like distinctness.

The young army officer got these things in Pekin, while with the American forces during the Boxer scrap. He was showing the white fox coat, the ivory peacock, and a great lot of other magnificent articles of Chinese workmanship to some club friends here one night when they began to chaff him about his possession of the things, the value of which footed up many thousands of dollars. "Loot, of course," they said, winking slyly at each other. "No; really," denied the young officer. "I bought 'em all. Honest Injun." His friends raised their eyebrows. "Peacock," solemnly averred the army officer, "bought 'em all from a British army private. The Tommy had a huge wash cart stacked up five feet high with things like this that he's without home."

the palace. I paid $1.50 for that white fox coat, and the furriers tell me they couldn't duplicate it for $2,000. That peacock set me back $2 of our money, and art dealers say that it is worth all of $1,500. But Tommy was a believer in quick sales and small profits, and that's how I got the stuff so cheap.

"Pretty diaphanous yarn, that, 'old man,' said his friends, keeping at him. "Well, I'll prove it," said the young officer then. "I know that I'd meet up with a crew of skeptical whelps like you fellows, and so I protected myself."

And then he produced from his inside coat pocket a clear-cut, 3x8 photograph, the negative of which he himself had taken, of a grimy, busy looking back private of the British army, standing on a narrow Pekin street, alongside a mammoth pushcart, piled high with loot from the "forbidden" apartments of the imperial palace. One of the hands of the Tommy Atkins, stretched forth, clutched the carved ivory peacocks, and the outlines of the rich and rare white fox coat could be clearly traced on top of the pushcart heap.

The photograph was indisputable evidence that the young officer wasn't the first-hand looter, at any rate, and his friends had to let up on him. "It's a good thing I took that photograph, as I've found out a hundred times since I got back to the States with the 'Chinese stuff,' the young officer said later on. "Like a good many of the rest of 'em out there, I may have been a 'fence,' he added with a twinkle, "but I 'waint no thief.'"—Washington Post.

CATCHING RED FOXES.

Ingenuous Method Pursued by an Old Maine Trapper.

There is no animal in the Maine woods possessed with more cunning than the red fox. The stynest of these animals has passed into a proverb, "sly as a fox," being a term often heard. The trapping season is now just beginning, and many hunters throughout the state are using all the wits they possess in endeavors to be slyer than the fox himself.

There are many different ways to catch Reynard, but there is one old trapper in the forests of this state who catches these animals which he calls his "secret," a plan which he learned when a boy in Vermont and has successfully used for the last twenty years.

Box skins or pelts bring a good price, and from the beginning of the cool weather in October throughout the winter the hides are in fine condition. Steel traps, bait and many different kinds of foxes, but this old trapper's "secret" stands at the top.

His manner of procedure when after the little red dogs is somewhat as follows: In a part of the woods which is known to be inhabited by foxes, and they can be found in nearly all sections of Maine, this trapper, with a steel trap, some cat meat, if it can be procured, and some skunk musk, proceeds to set his snares. Cat meat makes the best bait, but other meat, a piece of beef, will do.

Going up a brook, wading with rubber boots so that no scent will be left, he makes a small drain or canal from the brook into which the water will flow. This little canal is always dug out with a stick so that the hands do not come into contact with the earth and no smell of a human being is left. A small stick is then set upright in the middle of the stream or little canal, the point being an inch or so under water, and the bait is put on so that it looks as if resting on the water. As this necessarily has to be handled, a small amount of skunk musk is put on it so that no scent is left.

The steel trap is then sunk under water where the canal, or if it is in the brook proper, is but a few inches deep. On the plate of the trap, where the animal has to step to be caught, is put a small snail, which lies half in and half out of the water, as if it were a snail island. This is but a few inches from the bait on the stick. The result is plainly shown. No animal will wet its feet if there is dry land to step on, and the Reynard, coming after the meat resting so temptingly on the water, steps on the little island or mound to get it and is lost.

A trap of this kind is never fastened down, as an animal will tear itself loose if securely held. A half-ounce of stick is attached by a rope or chain to the trap, and the fox cannot drag it far, as it catches on all of the traps, bushes or whatever is in the way.

$75,000 FIRE AT CALUMET.

Hosking's Store Destroyed, Other Property Damaged—Incendiarism Suspected.

Hosking & Co.'s dry goods store on Fifth street, Calumet, was destroyed by fire Saturday morning. The loss is complete. The fire burned with great rapidity and in a little over an hour from the time the flames were discovered nothing but a smoldering mass of ruins and the two brick walls of the building remained. The loss probably will reach $70,000, insured for about $25,000.

Adjacent property suffered from heat, smoke and water, although the firemen were successful in preventing the flames from spreading. The First National bank on the one side and the Caesar block on the other were threatened with destruction, and although the buildings were each damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars, mostly by water, the firemen are to be commended for keeping the fire confined to the Hosking structure, which was doomed from the first.

Considerable stock in the basement of Vertin Bros. department store, at the rear, was rendered valueless by a torrent of water which flooded the apartment. Windows of nearby business houses were either melted or cracked by the intense heat and for a time much danger was threatened by flying sparks and burning pieces of wood carried up by the flames.

Calumet was never visited by a more threatening fire and the work of the firemen is worthy of the highest praise. Wedged in between the adjoining buildings and in a crowded portion in the heart of the business district, with Fifth street only about half as wide as the ordinary thoroughfare, it required rare judgment and strenuous efforts on the part of the fire fighters to prevent an appalling property loss. A large portion of the business district was threatened. The interior of the Hosking store was a mass of flame when the Red Jacket department reached the scene about three minutes after the alarm had been turned in. The fire spread with almost lightning rapidity and it was at once realized that the building or its contents could not be saved. The men then directed their principal efforts to saving adjacent property.

The fire was discovered by a number of men on their way to work about 5:50 o'clock. Not familiar with the location of the fire alarm boxes in that vicinity the men chased aimlessly about for a few minutes, finally succeeding in finding a fire station engine who gave the alarm. The department responded quickly, and shortly after the Calumet & Hecla departments came to the scene in response to second and third alarms.

The Red Jacket department, seeing that the building was doomed, paid attention to the Caesar and First National bank blocks, while the Calumet & Hecla department played on the burning building with several lines of hose. Twenty-five minutes after the first alarm had been sounded the burning structure fell inward with a crash and the firemen who happened to be standing too close came within an ace of being struck by the falling debris.

About this time the windows of the Eagle drug store, Richards' clothing store and Blum's saloon, across the street, began to crack from the intense heat. The glass in the bank building was broken and melted and the woodwork of the windows took fire. The firemen fought the fire from the inside and soon had it under control.

The loss from smoke and water in the interior of the bank is considerable, although covered by insurance. The insurance offices of Webb & Van Orden were flooded with water and the damage is quite large. Dr. MacLeod's office also was somewhat damaged.

The flames spread to the Caesar building, licking their way through the partition at the rear but a plentiful supply of water checked the progress of the fire in that direction. The stock of the Star Clothing company, presided over by Nathan Ruttenberg, in the Caesar block was somewhat damaged by both fire and water.

The origin of the fire is not known, but W. H. Hosking, the senior member of the firm, believes that it was the work of an incendiary. There was no fire of any kind on the premises the night before. The building was heated by heat from the Vertin department store plant and was lighted by electricity. The incendiary idea is generally believed. It appears that the fire broke out suddenly, as the nightwatchman who patrolled the street at night did not smell any smoke nor did he see any signs of fire.

The Hosking building was insured in the Webb & Van Orden agency for about $6,000. The stock was carried for a total of $19,000 in the Faneuil Bros. & Guck, the W. J. Holman and the David Armit agencies of Calumet. Mr. Hosking estimates the loss on the building and stock in the neighborhood of $70,000. The property loss on the adjacent buildings brings the total loss up to about $75,000.

Hosking & Co.'s store was one of the largest and best stocked in the copper-country metropolis. It enjoyed large patronage and only recently the firm decided to enlarge its store by taking in the ground floor of the Caesar block, adjoining. The Hosking structure was a frame building, but was brick veneered. The stone walls of the Caesar and bank buildings had considerable to do in saving those structures.

SERVANT GIRL IN JAIL.
Anna Herbert, a servant employed by Dr. N. Hansson of Hancock, has been sentenced to thirty days in the county jail by Justice Finn for the theft of a watch from the Hansson home. The watch was stolen from the Hansson home. A week ago last Wednesday Mr. Stringer was notified by Dr. Hansson that the water pipes in the house were leaking. The former went to the Hansson home to investigate. He took off his coat and hung it up and upon his return to his office found that a ten-dollar bill had been stolen from his pocket. It later developed that the Hansson home was the only other person in the house at the time. A warrant was sworn out for her arrest, but she was not to be found at the Hansson home. She was apprehended Thursday and Friday afternoon was arraigned before Judge Finn.

EASY FOR DUGGAN.
"Jimmie" Duggan, the clever little Houghton boxer, had an easy walk in "Jack" Brennan, the Baltic mine location man who was represented as being rather handy with his dukes, in the new fire hall at Hurontown Saturday evening. The two were matched for ten rounds, but Brennan lasted only two. He was a disappointment from the start. Duggan rushed matters from the outset and it was seen that his opponent was outclassed before the expiration of the first round. Brennan was taken out early in the fourth with a vicious right hand swing. A Cornish wrestling match between "Jack" Tippett of California and his brother, Charles Tippett, was held at the same time. The man from the West took three out of five falls. His work was well thought of by a number of Cornish wrestlers who were present.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL.
The isolation hospital, which is being erected in connection with the new hospital in West Hancock for the Sisters of St. Joseph, will be completed about the first of the year. Contractor George McMillan has completed the basement portion of the building. The structure is well under way. The building is 30 feet in size and is two stories high, with basement additional. It is located about forty feet from the main hospital to which it will be connected by an underground passage. The basement will be used for the boiler room, and the second floor will be equipped with a complete laundry plant. The isolation rooms for persons suffering from contagious diseases will be located on the second floor.

LOGE HAS MADE A RECORD.
Portage lodge, A. O. U. W., of Houghton, has an enviable record. Since a year ago last July it has not failed to have an initiation at each meeting. The lodge started this work in a membership of only four members. It has since grown to a membership of twenty-five. The lodge has steadily increased in size as a result of the work of its members. It has a complete laundry plant. The isolation rooms for persons suffering from contagious diseases will be located on the second floor.

TURKEY PRIZES AWARDED.
J. N. Mitchell, proprietor of the Mitchell alley at Hancock, has awarded turkey prizes following the contest in Houghton. The prizes were awarded to the bowlers who bowled the highest scores on the alleys during the month: Gus Jacobson, score 270; Charles Dover, 245; Dan Fisher, 235; C. Stecker, 235; A. Barbeau, 231. Jacobson's score is the record for the alleys to date. Miss Katherine Tibor, who bowled 195, won the prize for the highest score made by any lady bowler. Ed Lee, the well-known candy manufacturer, was awarded the prize for turkey for the highest score on Thanksgiving Day. He bowled 294.

CAPITAL STOCK INCREASED.
The A. Haas Brewing company of Houghton on Saturday filed new articles of incorporation increasing the capitalization of the corporation to $150,000. The stockholders and the number of shares held by each are as follows: J. H. Haas, 5,000; S. S. Sager, 3,500; Joseph Strobel, 3,500; W. P. Miller, 1,500; Michael Messner, 1,900; A. D. Edwards, 1,100.

WAS LOST IN THE WOODS.
Lost in the woods for twenty-four hours was the experienced William Satterly, an employe of the William mill, the latter part of last week. The mill was closed and the entire force went out to look for him. He was found about midnight in a famished and worn-out condition. Satterly had been hunting and strayed away from his companions.

STORY OF A SWORDFISH FIGHT WITH WHALE.
A battle between a whale and a swordfish was witnessed by the crew of the French bark Germaine on the voyage from Newcastle to Astoria, Oregon. The swordfish was evidently the aggressor. The whale was trying to escape, but being interested in the fight that they had paid no attention to the near presence of the vessel. The tactics used by the swordfish were to leap high in the air and try in coming down to pierce the back of the whale, but the latter skillfully eluded many such attacks, until finally, after being wounded several times, it received the sword of the fish directly in the back. This thrust evidently reached a vital spot, for they both disappeared for a few minutes, when the body of the whale floated to the surface and the sea around it was covered with blood.—San Francisco Chronicle.

ONLY MAKES A BAD MATTER WORSE.
Perhaps you have never thought of it but the fact must be apparent to every one that coughing is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the use of drastic cathartics like the old-fashioned pills only makes a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are much more mild and gentle in their effect, and when the proper dose is taken their action is so natural that one can hardly realize it is the effect of a medicine. Try a 25 cent bottle of them. For sale by The Stafford Drug Co., J. M. Perkins, Negaunee, Henry Harwood, Ishpeming.

COPPERDOM BREVITIES.

Ed. Noble has resigned his position with J. J. Fox, the Hancock barber, and will go to St. Joseph.

Mrs. E. C. Griffin and child have returned to Houghton after a two months' visit with relatives in Batavia, Ill.

A large number of people enjoyed the skating in the Amphitrope Saturday evening. The rink will be open again this evening.

"Riley" Harn, the Portage Lake hockey team's new goal tender, arrived Saturday. He will be employed by Ed. Haas & Co.

A diver is at work removing the Croze screw, which was sunk near the Houghton end of the county bridge during a severe storm some weeks ago.

A special meeting of Houghton lodge, F. & A. M., will be held this evening for the second degree. The newly elected officers also will be installed.

Rev. Watson B. Millard of the Hancock Congregational church and Rev. A. Lincoln Shear of the Calumet Congregational exchanged pulpits yesterday morning.

The amusing comedy, "Reuben in New York" will be the attraction at the Kerredge theater, Hancock, Wednesday evening. The show is said to be ridiculously funny.

The Raymond trio of musicians will begin an engagement at the Board of Trade at Houghton this evening. They will give nightly concerts and a musical treat is promised all who hear them.

The St. Patrick's church fair will close this evening at St. Patrick's Hall in Hancock. The fair was to have closed Saturday evening, but as a number of articles remained unsold it was decided to continue for another night.

The men's meeting at the Hancock Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon was conducted by the Hancock society of the Brotherhood of St. Paul, organized among members of the Hancock M. E. church at the time of its dedication a few weeks ago.

The first games in the regular schedule of the Calumet Bowling league were played between the Dragons and the Clerks on the Miller alleys, Friday evening. The Dragons took three straight games. The league games will be played twice each week.

C. A. Pearce of Lake Linden has purchased one hundred Angora goats, all thoroughbreds, from Governor Bliss of Saginaw. The goats are a hardy stock and require but little attention. They are particularly valuable to the farmer who is clearing land, and their fleece brings good returns.

A severe northwest storm, accompanied by snow, raged on Lake Superior Saturday night. A fleet of five or six boats was sheltered in Lily pond, at the upper canal. They were still there yesterday morning waiting for calmer sea before venturing out. All of the vessels are up bound.

An athletic contest was held in the gymnasium of the Portage Lake branch of the Y. M. C. A. at Hancock Saturday evening. The events were the rope vault, standing high jump, tug-of-war, fence vault, fifteen yard dash and class work on the horse. Members of the senior classes participated. It was the first of a series of contests to be held during the winter.

Eero Erko, a Finnish literary gentleman, who was banished from his country by the Russian government earlier in the year and who visited friends in Calumet several months ago, giving several lectures during his stay there, is preparing a book on "New Finland" which he will soon have ready for publication. Mr. Erko is at present in New York city. He is being assisted in his work by some of the foremost of Finnish writers.

Robert E. Lee, the well-known representative of the Smith-Prentice Typewriter company, who has been traveling in this section for some time, left Friday afternoon for his home in Milwaukee. He is slowly recovering from his recent attack of heart trouble and a hemorrhage and hopes soon to be himself again. It is not likely that he will return to this territory. His physician has advised him to seek a climate less severe and Mr. Lee undoubtedly will be asked to be transferred to Texas.

The Houghton Bowling league has finished its schedule, with the Hennes team the pennant winner. Another schedule may be arranged, including two or more additional teams to make things more interesting. The present aggregations are the Hennes, Businessmen, Barkers and Antiques, which finished the schedule in the order named. The surprise of the whole series of matches occurred last Wednesday evening when the Antiques, who have rather an inglorious record, defeated the Businessmen two out of three games.

INFLUENCE OF COLOR.
Effect of Light and Dark Hues Upon Different Rooms.

In deciding what color scheme to adopt for a room the first thing to consider is from which point of the compass it receives its light. The next is the woodwork—and last its size. If the woodwork is of hardwood it is in a musty setting the question as to the color is the keynote to the whole. If it is to be painted or stained, it can be painted or stained to suit any scheme of color one wishes.

A room facing north is without sunshine, and this lack of sunlight should be supplied artificially by an abundance of yellow or red. Light coming from the north is said to be a cold light, and as blue is a cold color, it should never be used in such a room.

Blue can only be used in a room that is flooded with sunshine. Green can be supplied artificially either from the north or south. In the former it should be rich and warm in quality, and the ash curtains should be either rose color or yellow. A touch of red should be introduced somewhere, as the contrast emphasizes the value of the green.

As a rule, the darkest colors are on the floor, and gradually lighten toward the ceiling. The hangings should be a trifle darker than the walls, and the ceilings considerably lighter than the walls.

Red seems to be universally used in halls—as they are seldom light, and seem to require red to give a cheerful aspect. But it should be a bright, brilliant color, to overcome the darkness of an unlighted hall. Terra cotta is not deep enough and Pompeian and Indian reds are not rich enough.

The Excitement That Attended the Great Event.
In full sight of the thousands lining the walls.
A great shout went up. Red flags, red parols, rags, blankets, anything that told of Luigi's colors, rose and fluttered in the sunlight.
"Primo! Primo!" yelled the crowd.
"Viva Castellani! Viva the Zannetto!"
The gondolier surged on, Francesco's face deathly white, his breath short, his grip nervous—now abreast of Luigi, now behind.—Metropolitan Gazette.

A REMARKABLE CASE.
One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude K. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of my cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by The Stafford Drug Co., Marquette, and H. N. Meloche, Ishpeming.

NOT A SICK DAY SINCE.
"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Returners and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver and Kidney troubles and General Debility." This is what B. E. Fass, of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50c, at The Stafford Drug Co.

SKIERS NOT ACTIVE YET.
Members of Ishpeming Club, However, Will Likely Soon Make Plans.

Although winter weather has arrived and is, apparently, here to stay, the skiing enthusiasts have made no plans as yet for engaging in their exhilarating sport. A member said Saturday, however, that the ski club would very likely reorganize.

A few years ago Ishpeming was known all through the Northwest as the home of the most daring ski riders outside of northern Europe. One or two contests here attracted attention all over the country. During the last winter or two, interest seems to have languished, notwithstanding that skiing develops the qualities of a superb athletic better than many of the more popular outdoor amusements. There are many people here who followed the pastime with zest in their native homes. From these there could be recruited some riders whose facts would revive the present flagging interest.

There are a number of places near the city where excellent courses could be established. There are some objections to maintaining the same, but the club members will be taken up if the ski club resumes its activities.

The snowshoe club has already opened its season. Snowshoeing is not so popular in favor of skiing, its decline in popularity coinciding with the increasing interest in skiing. Protests have been raised against the growing tendency to allow social features to predominate, but little heed has been paid to them.

There was some talk last year of building a new toboggan slide, but it failed to materialize. There is no doubt that tobogganing would soon be once again in favor, if it should once be introduced.

SUBJECT CATALOGUE COMPLETE.

The subject catalogue of the city library, which has been in course of preparation for several months, is practically finished. Every volume has been listed, with a detailed summary of its contents. The catalogue is kept by the card system, with a series of cards for each book, some of the reference volumes and others in which the separate subjects are indicated by exception. The card bearing the title comes first, followed by the others with the different topics grouped in systematic order, giving the pages in which they are found. Card catalogues have been adopted by nearly every public library in the country and are generally used by the patrons. They are a great convenience, enabling one in search of matter or a certain subject to find it quickly and easily. Many volumes which have seldom been taken from the shelves because they have never been fully inspected to learn of their exact contents will now be made of. The subject catalogue was started over a year ago, but it is only within the last few months that exclusive attention has been given to compiling it. Miss Ann Swezey was engaged during the summer to take charge of the work and has given her entire time to it ever since, being aided by one or two assistants. Hereafter the new books will be entered on the catalogue before they go into circulation.

CIRCULAR TO TEACHERS.

The following circular has been sent to all the teachers of the county by Commissioner F. D. Davis:

"I have the honor to announce that the Hon. Delos Fall, state superintendent of public instruction, has appointed ex-State Superintendent H. R. Pattengill, L. D. Harvey, of Menominee, Wis., as instructors at the annual teachers' institute, to be held at Ishpeming, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 4 and 5, 1903. It is required by law that the schools of the county be closed during the institute and that a report of the attendance of teachers be made by the commissioner to the department at Lansing.

"Teachers in attendance at the institute are entitled to receive pay for one day lost from school, but school officers should require teachers to present certificates of attendance for both Friday and Saturday before making such payment.

"The inspiration and instruction received at such a meeting are productive of much good for the schools and the teacher who fails to be present at each session, except on account of sickness or other urgent necessity, is lacking in the spirit of the law.

"The opening session will be Thursday evening at the high school auditorium, where Mr. Pattengill will give his popular lecture, entitled 'Made in America.' Mr. Harvey will speak on 'Annual Training in the Elementary Schools.' The regular sessions of the institute will begin Friday morning at 9 o'clock, and continue until Sunday afternoon.

"Music will be furnished for the various sessions under the direction of Miss Peavey, of the Ishpeming city schools.

"Reduced rates will be given on the railroad and Superintendent Scribner will have in charge of all local arrangements for the accommodation of teachers.

"All the meetings are free and the public is cordially invited to attend."

The program of the institute has not yet been fully arranged. The exercises will consist of talks and discussions, led by Mr. Pattengill and Mr. Harvey.

TURNED JOKE ON AGENTS.
Insurance Men Thought Telegraph Operator Would be an Easy Mark.

A lot of insurance men, in attempting to play a joke on a telegraph operator election day evening, had the joke turned on them in a very unexpected way.

The New York Life Insurance agents had arranged to get the election returns by a special wire run into their office. They decided that it would be an excellent plan to insure the life of the operator while they had him at their mercy, and help pay for the telegraph service with the money received on his policy. They brought their wives, daughters and sweethearts to the office to hear the returns, and gleefully told them all about their little joke that they could enjoy the sport as the game proceeded. All the agents, in addition to their usual exuberant flow of argument, brought with them endless statistics and facts of all kinds to prove that an insurance policy is the only guarantee of a happy successful and contented life.

When the agents sized up their victim, they were jubilant. He was just the kind of material an agent likes to work on—a large, stout man who attended strictly to his work and appeared to take life very seriously. They were doubtful as to his financial standing, and so decided to strike him for a rather small policy.

The physical examination, they thought, was the proper preliminary. After discovering that he was barely able to pass the examination, and in imminent danger of physical deterioration and death, which of course they would discover, they would then be able to work upon his fears most effectively. They had medical examiners with them, and were many against one. They could not fail, they thought.

So on some pretext or other, the insurance men gathered around, while the ladies looked on from afar, and the examiners skillfully proceeded with the examination. Their victim made no resistance, and all was going well. They found that the operator's heart was not bad, but showed signs of congenital weakness. His lungs were well, was he sure none of his relatives had died of consumption? So they proceeded, while their victim submitted meekly.

But just then the operator quietly drew forth a card and silently passed it to the examiner who had just been taking liberties with his ribs. The card read, "C. E. Young, New England Mutual Life Insurance Co."

The operator was indeed an insurance man and he thoroughly enjoyed the joke. He had formerly been an operator and had been induced to work that evening because of the telegraph company being short of operators. He had not known of the scheme to insure him, but quickly discovered by professional instinct.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

CHRONIC SORES Signs of Polluted Blood.

There is nothing so repulsive looking and disgusting as an old sore. You worry over it till the brain grows weary and work with it until the patience is exhausted...

A chronic sore is the very best evidence that your blood is in an unhealthy and impoverished condition, that your constitution is breaking down under the effects of some serious disorder.

Often an inherited taint breaks out in frightful eating sores upon the limbs or face in old age or middle life.
