CZAR WRES KING EXPRESSING REGRET

Satisfaction for the North Sea Affair Is, However, Still to Be Accorded.

GRAVITY OF THE SITUATION NOT RELAXED

Admiral Has Not Yet Been Heard From, and the London Press, Becoming Impatient, Demands That the Baltic Squadron Be Stopped in Its Irresponsible Career--Language of the Note Admits of No Doubt, It Is Stated, That When the Demands Are Ultimately Presented, Great Britain Intends to Insist Upon Strict Compliance With Them. Recalling Her Ambassador Unless the Amends Be Full and Complete--All Quiet at the Front in Manchuria.

London, Wednesday, Oct. 26.—A dispatch from Hull to The Times says that the correspondent, as a result of his investigation, is of the opinion that the attack on the British trawlers by the Russian squadron was a deliberate act, perpetrated with knowledge of its character.

London, Wednesday, Oct. 26.—The papers display great impatience over the delay of the Russian government in according satisfaction for the Drogger bank affair. They demand that the Baltic squadron must be stopped in its irresponsible career, for otherwise there is no safety for the shipping of any nationality.

London, Oct. 25.—The admiralty tonight issued the following: "On the receipt, Oct. 24, of news of the North sea tragedy, preliminary orders for mutual support and co-operation were issued, as a measure of precaution, from the admiralty to the channel, Mediterranean and home fleets."

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—At midnight the admiralty announced that Admiral Rojestvensky's report on the North sea affair had not yet been received. In the meantime, the emperor has sent a message to King Edward expressing regret and giving assurances that the families of the victims should receive the fullest reparation.

During the day the British ambassador went to the foreign office and formally presented a copy of his instructions. The note is couched in a moderate but firm tone. It stigmatizes the act as inhuman, unjustifiable and deliberate, but makes no direct demands, reserving them pending the receipt of the Russian explanation. It also contains a request that the Russian government place a time limit upon the response. The willingness of Great Britain to await the Russian explanation before formulating demands shows consideration for the Russian position. It has been placed by a deplorable blunder. At the same time this consideration has an ominous ring that seems to emphasize the gravity of the situation, the language of the note admitting of no doubt that when the demands are ultimately presented Great Britain intends to insist upon full compliance with them. It is considered certain that failure promptly to comply with the demands will be immediately followed by the British ambassador's recall.

Czar Gives Assurances.
London, Oct. 25.—The inevitable delays of diplomatic proceedings appear to retard at the moment the settlement of the acute differences between Great Britain and Russia arising from the North sea affair.

King Edward has received from Emperor Nicholas himself a telegram expressing the deepest regret and practical acknowledgment that Great Britain's peremptory note will meet a reply conceding every demand for an apology for the act of aggression against the British flag, compensation for the sufferers and punishment of the officers responsible for what is everywhere conceded to have been a gigantic blunder, and the Russian ambassador to England has expressed to Foreign Minister Lansdowne his sorrow and sympathy.

These developments, which came late in the day, have allayed to some extent the deep resentment in the public mind, and the admiralty tonight gave evidence of its appreciation of the necessity of proving that it is prepared actively to support the position of Great Britain and fulfill the expectations of the world when it issued a statement that orders for mutual support and co-operation were issued to the channel, Mediterranean and home fleets.

The day has been one of the busiest in recent years in diplomatic circles here. The Russian ambassador was an early caller at the Lansdowne house and had a long interview with Lord Lansdowne, after which the foreign minister drove to Downing street and conferred with Premier Balfour and others and for the rest of the day was occupied with a number of matters pertaining to the affair. Almost momentarily the public expected some definite announcement of an official nature, but this evening the foreign office announced that no further statement would be issued tonight. Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador, was occupied until late tonight with a mass of cipher dispatches, and it was announced at the embassy that it would be physically impossible to prepare a formal reply in such a short time.

No Repetition of Rowdism.
While Great Britain is stirred to its depths there has not been the slightest evidence of a repetition of the rowdism of last night, which is condemned on all sides. Count Benckendorff himself referred to the incident of last night as trivial, and did not appear to consider it worth notice. Popular appreciation of the situation was evidenced when King Edward appeared in public today. He was greeted with more than usual enthusiasm on account of the decided tone of his telegram to the mayor of Hull. The report of Thomas Carr, "admiral" of the North sea fishing fleet, dated "The North Sea, Oct. 22," was received tonight. It is a plain sailor's yarn of the occurrence, and does not differ materially from the facts already made public. The statement was headed "Foreign Minister Lansdowne tonight." Divers report that the leak in the Russian steamship Esperanza at Barry was due to neglect to close a seacock below the engine room. Rumor is rife, however, that the attempt to sink the Esperanza was the work of Japanese emissaries.

The Pilgrim society tonight gave a banquet in honor of the officers of the American European squadron. Eloquent speeches were made by Rear Admiral Jewell, Lord Selborne, Rear Admiral Lambton and others. Lord Selborne and Admiral Lambton referred to the North sea affair in firm but conciliatory tones.

an apology and compensation are not forthcoming within the regular time England can have only one manner of action—namely, Russia must be given a sound thrashing and one she will never get over.

Public opinion on the question is well reflected in the following comments of the local press. The Globe says: "An admiral who mistakes a Hull trawler for a torpedo boat can not too soon be hanged at his own yard arm," and expressed the opinion that the Russian fleet, or at least that part of it which is under orders to go through the Suez canal, probably will be held at Gibraltar until satisfaction is secured.

The News says: "The empire that has gone to war in defense of the liberty of one British subject will bring Russia to a realizing sense of her responsibility for the murder of more than ten British fishermen."

The Star says: "The opinion will prevail that the Baltic squadron had more malice than fear to get rid of what it trained its great guns on a helpless fishing fleet."

The News says it would be a more merciful disposition of the Baltic fleet to sink it in the harbor than to send it abroad in command of a panic-stricken admiral to meet a certain destruction when it comes into contact with the Japanese squadron.

Goldwin Smith pours oil on the troubled waters by remarking in an interview: "Let us wait coolly to see what Russia does and not make hurried conclusions. The British government will no doubt act with wisdom and smooth the way for concession on the part of Russia."

BALDWIN'S AIRSHIP FLIES.

California Man's Machine Successfully Tested at the World's Fair.

St. Louis, Oct. 25.—Propelled part of the way by its own power and the remainder of the distance by wind, the airship of Thomas S. Baldwin of San Francisco, in charge of A. Roy Knabenshue of Toledo, made an ascension from the World's Fair today and landed near Cahokia, Ills., nearly ten miles away.

Clinging to the frame-work of his precarious foothold, an iron tube that forms one side of the base of the triangular network of supports and ribs of the airship's body, Knabenshue directed the movements of the machine and maneuvered in circles and against the wind high over the exhibition palaces of the exposition before an accident to the motor which rendered the propellers useless and curtailed his command of the airship.

Notwithstanding the breaking of the motor, Knabenshue did not lose complete control of the machine, but with the momentum given by the wind was enabled to steer the machine in a course that varied several points in each direction from the trend of the wind and to land at a point of his own selecting.

EPISCOPALIANS ADJOURN

Triennial Convention, in Session Three Weeks, Comes to a Close.

Boston, Oct. 25.—The triennial general convention of the Episcopal church closed late today with a public service in Trinity church. From the pulpit Bishop Potter of New York read a pastoral letter addressed to the church at large. The communication, which consisted of more than three thousand copies, considered the problems now before the convention. Bishop Potter, read a pastoral letter addressed to the church at large. The communication, which consisted of more than three thousand copies, considered the problems now before the convention.

Regarding divorce, the pastoral said the facility with which the marriage relation may be taken on and put off, is one of the menaces of American civilization, to the peril of which the Christian people are as yet very imperfectly aroused. The letter made a plea for the permanence and security of the family. It also discussed the negro problem, stating that the church was taking steps to correct the situation as far as possible. Other pressing questions were dealt with.

Little business of importance was transacted at the final business sessions. A resolution permitting foreign congregations now in communion with the church to use forms of service in their own tongue was adopted after a sharp contest. This legislation was enacted specifically for the benefit of Swedish congregations in Minnesota.

Convention's Work Reviewed.
The chief feature of the three weeks' convention was the long discussion on amendments to the canon bearing on marriage and divorce. Although the majority favored a canon which would prohibit the remarriage of any divorced person, the system of voting by dioceses and orders in the house of deputies enabled the opponents of the proposed reform to win in that body. After much discussion a compromise was arranged with the bishops whereby the innocent person in a divorce for infidelity is permitted to remarry one year after the divorce is issued, but the restrictions are so stringent that it becomes exceedingly difficult for such marriages to be solemnized.

The convention also decided to establish courts of review to which appeals from diocesan trials can be taken. It perfected such arrangements that the missionary work of the church will be carried on with more vigor, and appointed a joint commission to investigate the negro problem in the South.

Among the many negative actions taken was the decision not to change the name of the church at this time, nor to act on the proposition to group the dioceses into provinces, with a primate at the head of each.

The next convention will be held in Richmond, Va., in 1907.

Postmaster Van Cott of New York Dies Suddenly from Heart Failure.

New York, Oct. 25.—Cornelius Van Cott, postmaster of New York city, died suddenly this afternoon from heart failure, following a sharp attack of acute nervous indigestion.

KNOX REPLIES TO MR. PARKER

FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL ANSWERS THE NOMINEE'S ADDRESS ON TRUSTS.

QUESTIONS HIS SINCERITY

SAYS THE CANDIDATE SEEKS TO BENEFIT BY THE VERY METHODS HE DENOUNCES.

Declares Him the Creature of Politicians Dominated by Corporate Interests and to Have No Chance Save What They Give Him.

Washington, Oct. 25.—United States Senator Knox, former attorney general, today issued a statement in answer to Judge Parker's speech on trusts yesterday and ex-President Cleveland's remarks on the same topic. He quotes remarks on trusts by both Messrs. Cleveland and Parker, made some time ago, and, comparing these with the speeches recently delivered by the same men, considers them contradictory.

Considering Judge Parker's statement concerning campaign contributions by great corporations, Senator Knox declares that "Mr. Parker is describing precisely and exactly the sources which gave Tammany Hall its strength, and the cutting off of which in the present election would remove every chance of his carrying New York state, and is not an honest man in political life who does not know that this is the case and know that Mr. Parker is now seeking to be the beneficiary of the very methods which he attacks in his denunciation." Referring to the Democratic nominee's declaration that "contributions by corporations and trusts mean corruption" and that a corporation making such contributions expects, "through its control of public officers, something in the way of legislation or immunity from prosecution, Senator Knox expresses surprise that "Judge Parker should have the temerity to say this when his own intimate associates and supporters, the men who conducted his campaign for the nomination and who are now conducting the campaign for his election, represent these very corporations which he affects to denounce, or else owe their political strength solely to contributions they have received from them in the past and expect to receive from them in the future."

In this connection Senator Knox names several Democratic leaders, including Belmont, Taggart and Hill, and says, "one and all owe their whole power in politics to the intimate connection they have established between the management of corporations and the management of public business." Continuing, he declares: "Judge Parker was created by them, would never have been thought of except for them, and has not now one chance of success save what they give him."

After quoting the Democratic platform declaration on trusts, Senator Knox asks: "As a Republican congress, at the request of President Roosevelt, has just passed a drastic act as it is possible to prepare, striking at all rebates and discriminations and conferring jurisdiction upon the United States courts to restrain and prevent them at the suit of the attorney general, how does this record stand in regard to the assertion that these interests (referring to trusts) have decided to attempt to continue the present administration in power for the purpose of securing immunity from prosecution, except as they have aimed at their existence and ennobled by the present administration?"

Will Circulate Roosevelt's Letter.
New York, Oct. 25.—The Republican national committee announced today that it was preparing to circulate as a campaign document the letter of President Roosevelt to Dr. Albert Shaw on the Panama revolution which was read by Senator Culberson in his recent speech.

Secretary Shaw spoke at a Republican mass meeting at Jersey City tonight. He discussed the tariff and disputed statements made by Judge Parker in his speech last Saturday.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 25.—Secretary Taft addressed a Republican meeting here tonight. He discussed the Philippine question, countering statements on that subject made by Judge Parker and disputing the estimates of the cost of the islands by Edward Atkinson.

BIG CROWDS GREET HIM.

Fairbanks' Visit to Lower Michigan Productive of Much Enthusiasm.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 25.—With an immense and enthusiastic meeting in the Grand Rapids Auditorium tonight, Senator Fairbanks ended a day's speech-making over the southern portion of Michigan.

The senator's trip began at Monroe early in the morning and from that point to Grand Rapids there was an abatement of enthusiasm and no diminution in the size of the crowds.

WINDOW GLASS AGREEMENT.

Pittsburg, Oct. 25.—A joint meeting of manufacturers and jobbers of window glass was held today at which an agreement was reached that will prevent the manufacturers from selling direct to the consumer and binds the jobber to buy only from manufacturers who will protect the trade in the territory covered by the jobbing houses.

DAILY MINING JOURNAL, MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY THE MINING JOURNAL CO. (LIMITED).

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: Per month, by carrier, 1.00; Per year, by mail, 10.00.

MARQUETTE, MICH., OCT. 26. Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

The year that the Democrats are preparing to land their candidates winners with a little matter of $4,000,000 appears to indicate that the principles of high finance are now to be applied to politics.

And now that Governor Luke Wright has spoken it seems to be up to Judge Parker to inform the public as to who told him all those fairy tales about the Philippines. Perhaps he got them out of the Democratic campaign book.

Regarding that Baltic fleet incident there is one thing on which everyone will agree, namely, that there is someone among the Russian commanders, maybe Rojstvensky himself, who should be recalled for a good spanking.

A dispatch says that the Baltic fleet passed Sunday in three sections. Unless it controls its excitable commanders it will presently be spending a Sunday in forty-seven sections, and that, too, before it encounters Admiral Togo.

W. J. Bryan, having saved Indiana, should be sent into Michigan to remind the Democrats that Woodbridge N. Ferris is not the whole thing and that there is still Parker and Davis for whom they should be careful to cast their ballots.

There are some Republicans, good Republicans, too, who express the opinion that the upper peninsula will have to save the state ticket this year. They will in all likelihood learn Nov. 8 that they have been taking an altogether too pessimistic view of the situation.

The Wolverines and Badgers are in the throes of their final preparations for their argument at Madison Saturday. Wisconsin must win, but Michigan rooters can't see just how they are going to do it, for Michigan and Yost must lose, and they can't be denied. The winner should be the western champion.

One thing is certain; all unarmed shipping will now keep carefully out of range of that Baltic squadron. There will be but little danger of a repetition of that attack on the trawlers. They won't run away, if the Russians get that far east, but most everything else except neutral war fleets will.

A Japanese prince is coming to America to cement the friendship between Japan and this country. It is not unlikely that the proposed cement work is to be preliminary to a "touch." It won't be long before the Japanese exchequer will be running low. When the other fellow is broke we seem to be the greatest nation on earth.

If Russia is playing for a world's war, in which the world will become so engrossed as to lose track of the bad mess the czar's government is making of its eastern embroglio, it will in all probability be disappointed to find that the world's diplomats have the situation thoroughly in hand and that it can not force an international mixup. The more it tries the deeper it will get into trouble that will begin and end with itself.

State Chairman Dickema and Senator Alger are touring the upper peninsula this week, and are everywhere being greeted by large and enthusiastic audiences. It would seem that General Apathy is being routed with the near approach of the election date. When the 8th gets here he will be quite driven to the woods, a thing which the Republican majority in the upper peninsula can be depended on to conclusively demonstrate.

"Jim" Murfin professes himself well pleased with the workings of the Wayne county primary law. Murfin has heretofore scoffed at it, and has been a cog in the Navin machine. He began to get from under some weeks ago, however, seeing that whatever the merits of the Wayne law might be, it was bound to undermine Navin to a considerable extent and that it was fixed irrevocably on the county for the time being at least. Murfin is not the man to butt into stone walls. His expressions of satisfaction with the new law might have been foreseen.

A Marquette county politician just returned from a trip to Milwaukee, where circumstances threw him in with members of the anti-La Follette wing of the Republican party, says that the Stalwarts are smarting under the sting of their successive reverses, but are more determined than ever to secure the governor's defeat, if strenuous effort and free expenditure of money can avail. The Scofield ticket is a blind, pure and simple. It is designed to hold those anti-La Follette Republicans who would vote the La Follette ticket if there were no other ticket claiming to be Republican in the field. The dyed-in-the-wool-stalwart Stalwarts will have no turning in to try and elect Peck. To this end high ranking officials have given up railroading for politics; to this end numerous "bribe" have been freely opened; yet the Marquette county observer gives it as his opinion that all the effort is futile. There is a something in the air, a certain atmosphere, that seems to forecast another victory for Wisconsin's doughty governor.

Edwin Denby is a poor man; thus it is argued that the primary election law in force in Wayne county gives the poor man an excellent opportunity to get to the front, because Denby defeated Newberry, who put some $20,000 into his campaign. It may be inferred that no money was spent for Denby, if not by Denby. However, he had a small army of friends at work and they could not have entirely relied on "hot air." Campaign expenditures on behalf of Mr. Denby doubtless aggregated a pretty figure, if it could have been determined. Anyway wouldn't Mr. Denby had as good a chance as Mr. Newberry if the old caucus and convention system had been in vogue? Undoubtedly he would if his friends had put up the same sort of a fight they did last week. Such loyal and enthusiastic support would land a man a winner under almost any system. Altogether too much significance is being attached to this nomination of Mr. Denby.

The governor of Arizona, in his annual report to the secretary of the interior, protests against the plan to admit Arizona to statehood in one state with New Mexico, saying, "the people of Arizona, finding themselves confronted with a plan to unite their territory with New Mexico, have protested vigorously and will continue to do so until they have defeated this repugnant scheme. They would desire that their commonwealth remain a territory indefinitely rather than to be joined with New Mexico." The governor states a belief that the merger would not be acceptable to the mass of people of either territory. The total population of Arizona has increased considerably and is now between 165,000 and 170,000. Its development is proceeding rapidly, particularly the development of its mineral wealth, as none know better than northern Michigan people. Its future appears to be of the brightest; little wonder that the Arizonans prefer territorial government until they can get statehood for their present territory without being lumped in with New Mexico. So would Michigan people under similar conditions.

Its merits may be likened to the principle involved in our Republican form of government; which in national, state and municipal departments is Democratic-Republican in form. Democratic in that the people are the source of power, Republican in that it is representative in structure. Experience shows that pure Democracy is practicable only in the smallest of political divisions, like small townships and school districts, and then only in a very limited degree; while government by representatives of the people has proved the only practicable system in states and political divisions so large that the voters are personally in a large measure unknown to each other and are too numerous to come together to discuss and determine questions of legislation and of administration, as in the old New England town meeting.

For this reason the direct nomination by the voters of candidates in districts so large that the individual voters can not personally know a very large percentage of the other voters is turning out in practice to be a failure. Such is the experience in Minnesota, where those who favor the principles of primary reform and of direct nominations, find the latter impracticable in political districts containing numerous voters, and say, in fact, "it works damnably." In another column we publish an article from the Minneapolis Tribune giving some of the results attained under the new direct nomination law in Minnesota, and warning Michigan not to burn its fingers with such a law. The article is worthy reading and is worthy of careful consideration by those who are confusing primary reform with direct nominations.

THE SECOND PEACE CONFERENCE.

It is reported that in the invitation to be sent to the powers for the holding of another peace congress the date will be left blank. If this shall prove to be the case Russia may receive the invitation more graciously than she did the intimation that the president was prepared to offer his good offices to secure peace between Russia and Japan. The czar's minister in Washington declared on that occasion that offers of intervention from any quarter would be a waste of time. Doubtless the date for the next peace congress was left open because of the fear expressed by some Russians that the conference would take action unfriendly, or at least unfavorable, to Russia in respect to the war. The date will now be fixed by negotiation, which will relieve the president of a delicate task and also prevent any possible outraging of Russian sensibilities.

If the second peace congress should meet before the end of the year it might not be able to bring about peace in the east, but it could certainly advance the settlement of certain questions that were not touched upon or were left unsettled by the first congress called by the czar. The significance of that Hague gathering lay in the fact that it made a beginning. It did some things that might well have been left undone and left undone much that well might have been done for the world's benefit, but there was health in it for that. There were in evidence serious differences of opinion which prevented final action on some points and resulted in unsatisfactory compromises on others.

The next congress, whether it meets before or after the conclusion of peace in the far east, can hardly refuse to act with some degree of finality upon certain problems for which international law has thus far provided no solutions, whose importance has been magnified by the present conflict and whose settlement need not necessarily wait until the return of peace. Among these are the subjects of contraband of war and the seizure of mails on the high seas. As the father of the first peace congress the czar can hardly decline to participate in a second. Negotiations looking to the selection of a date will doubtless be conducted with such tact that the already badly rumpled fur of the bear will not be further disturbed.

PRIMARY REFORM AND DIRECT NOMINATIONS.

In the minds of many who have but recently heard of primary reform there is confusion of ideas on the subject of primary reform and direct nomination, many supposing the terms to be synonymous; whereas, except for officers of the smallest elections districts, there is nothing in common in the ideas. A general primary election law is now in force throughout the state which defines "primary election" to mean "all elections held by any political party, convention, organization or association, or delegates therefrom, for the purpose of choosing candidates for office or the election of delegates to other conventions, or for the purpose of electing officers of any political party, organization, convention or association." This law aims to promote purity and freedom of action in such elections, its principal provisions being as follows: I. Five days notice of such elections; and in the larger cities voting must be by ballot between the hours of 2 and 3 p. m. Smaller cities may adopt this plan by ordinance confirmed by the voters. 2. Presiding officers and inspectors must be sworn and are punishable for any manner of wrong or fraud in the conduct of such election. 3. Voting by persons without rights, bribery and all other fraud and wrong tending to defeat or affect the result, is punishable. 4. Voters may be challenged and must then swear to their qualifications to vote at such election. 5. No delegate must give a proxy. 6. The use of money, reward, position, place or preference for support or votes is prohibited. In operation this law has been found inadequate in some localities to protect voters and delegates from intimidation and other improper influences; and it amended so as to provide for the private booth and ballot system may be made an effective primary election law under which the nominations of all candidates for office will be so directly controlled by the people as to secure absolute purity in politics. While all might agree to this, it does not require the abolition of the entire convention system or the nomination of all candidates by direct vote. When the primary election law shall be so amended as to protect voters and delegates in the exercise of their free choice, that will be true primary reform. Direct nomination is another thing entirely and is good only so far as it is practicable. Over this question of how far the plan is practicable there is divergence of opinion, some claiming that the plan is capable of the widest application, while others deny that it is adapted to all conditions, and hold that it has inherent defects which preclude its universal adoption.

Professor Bertram Boltwood, a Yale scientist, declares that the health giving power in hot springs is their radio activity. Vassar college, through Professor Braze, has received from the minister of public instruction at Paris 100 volumes concerning French history and art. Louise Michel, the most famous of French anarchists, is against war. "What we want," said she in a lecture, "is the extermination of war, not warriors."

PERSONAL POINTS

Professor I. I. Hani, fishery commissioner of Japan, and Keju Nakamura, editor of the Japanese-American Commercial Weekly, are in Baltimore studying oyster and fish culture. Mme. Stoesseck takes the lead in red cross work at Port Arthur. She is quite an oblivion of danger as her gallant husband. This is the story of refugees bring from the beleaguered city.

Professor W. J. Hess, the Boston Symphony orchestra's new concert master, began his musical studies when six years old, and at the age of ten he was touring Holland and was looked upon as an infant prodigy.

M. Leon Cler, a prominent Parisian lawyer who died recently, left an annuity of $600 a year for the master or mistress of a school who could best teach children the difference between useful and harmless animals.

Alfred Belt, the South African millionaire, has presented the Frankenburg estate, located twelve miles from Johannesburg, to the government for educational purposes. It has an area of 3,000 acres and is valued at $400,000.

Many stories are told of the tenacity of Vernon Harcourt's memory, but in this power he was excelled by Gladstone, who was always remembered at anybody's inability to recall the time and place of any incident of their lives. Once, appealing to Earl Granville as to how the latter had voted on a long forgotten bill, he was astonished by the reply that the matter had escaped his memory. "You have forgotten!" exclaimed Gladstone. "Why, it was only forty years ago!"

Long ago it was accepted as a fact that a successful campaign manager must be not only a good businessman, diplomat and financier, but must be a composer of quatrains also, and above all he must know how to be chatty of professions—must never put more on paper than he can redeem. "And that," said President Roosevelt to a friend not long ago, "is why I wanted George Coe to be my campaign manager. With him in control I knew that if I were elected I should not have my days and nights made miserable by being confronted with a lot of obligations I had never before heard of."

Recently there was a Bach celebration at Leipzig. A certain "Herr von Hesse" figured at the organ. This is the Landgrave Alexander Frederick of Hesse, whose brother married the sister of the emperor and who is himself the son of a Prussian princess and heir to the grand ducal crown. In spite of his position the landgrave leads a very retired life, surrounded by a little circle of poets and musicians, and spending most of his time playing on the organ. He has performed several times for the benefit of charities, but always inconspicuously. He is almost blind and spends the summer at one of his castles and the winter in Paris.

Ex-President Steyn's declared intention to take the oath of fealty to Edward VII seems to have taken the pro-boers of France by surprise. La Patrie could hardly bring itself to believe the astonishing news. It remembers how Mr. Steyn found means to avoid signing the peace conditions, and how, unlike Botha, Delarey and De Wet, he returned to touch the soil of England, and it sent an envoy to Brussels, where the ex-president, now in fair health, is at present staying, to find out the truth concerning the dread rumor of his "submission to England" and his return to the Transvaal. The interviewer found little consolation. "It is true," said Mr. Steyn. "I am going to return to south Africa. The affair is all over."

A COUGH CONUNDRUM

When is a cough more than a cough? When it's a settled cold. When it hangs on in spite of all you can do. Cough mixtures won't cure it because they are merely for a cough and this is something more. Scott's Emulsion cures the cough because it cures the something more. It heals and repairs the inflamed tissues where the cold has taken root and prevents its coming back.

Many stories are told of the tenacity of Vernon Harcourt's memory, but in this power he was excelled by Gladstone, who was always remembered at anybody's inability to recall the time and place of any incident of their lives. Once, appealing to Earl Granville as to how the latter had voted on a long forgotten bill, he was astonished by the reply that the matter had escaped his memory. "You have forgotten!" exclaimed Gladstone. "Why, it was only forty years ago!"

Long ago it was accepted as a fact that a successful campaign manager must be not only a good businessman, diplomat and financier, but must be a composer of quatrains also, and above all he must know how to be chatty of professions—must never put more on paper than he can redeem. The interviewer found little consolation. "It is true," said Mr. Steyn. "I am going to return to south Africa. The affair is all over."

The only incident analogous to that of Mr. Gurney, the English diplomatic attaché who was arrested for speeding his auto, occurred during the administration of President Harrison. A minister from one of the European countries became intoxicated, and while riding along one of the most fashionable thoroughfares of Washington on Sunday, at an hour when the avenue was crowded with autos, the minister from church, was guilty of the most flagrant violation of decency and of law. A police officer who accosted the offender was informed of his diplomatic character, but the policeman, ignoring the claim of immunity, arrested the minister and took him to the police station, where he was detained until an order was received from the state department for his release. The officer who made the arrest was dismissed, the minister was immediately recalled. Soon after the incident was called Secretary Blaine sent for the dismissed police officer and rewarded his faithfulness to duty by giving him an appointment in the state department.

METALLURGICAL BUILDING.

New Structure at College of Mines Fast Nearing Completion.

With the completion of its metallurgical building the College of Mines will be as well equipped for the instruction of students in metallurgy as any institution in the country.

There are two stories and a basement to the building, which is built of brick. The laboratories are in the basement, where there is the advantage of a cement floor.

Other second floor rooms are the lecture hall, machine and model room and two unassigned rooms. All of the rooms are large. The ore and product room and the machine and model room open into the lecture hall so the professor may have any material for demonstration purposes wheeled into the lecture room without any inconvenience.

On the first floor there are the drawing room, special work room, professor's room, supply room, grinding room, two unassigned rooms and an instructor's room.

The present laboratory work in metallurgy is being done in the assay building, while the lectures and class work are conducted in the chemical building.

The quarters are cramped and the completion of the new structure will be welcomed. The professor in metallurgy is Leonard S. Austin, who has been at the college just about a year.

The course in metallurgy will deal with the work insofar as it affects the mining field. The manufacturing field will not be touched. The student will acquire in the course the principles and practice of modern methods in the extraction of copper, gold, silver and other metals.

ROUSING RALLY SLATED.

General Alger and Chairman Diekmann at Hancock Tonight.

The rally at the Korredge theater in Hancock tonight will be the most important of the local Republican campaign to date. The fact that General Russell A. Alger, one of Michigan's senators, and G. J. Diekmann, chairman of the state central committee, are to speak gives an unusual interest to the meeting.

After the report of the committee has been given A. W. Leonard, superintendent of the electric light company, offered a supplementary proposition, reducing the original rates to four cents per one thousand gallons, and the maximum amount about three cents.

Professor O. P. Hood, of the College of Mines, a member of the special committee of engineers, and Village Engineer Clausen were then asked to figure out the comparative costs of pumping by steam and electricity on the basis of Mr. Leonard's second proposition.

Upon the engineers' report, Mr. Leonard further reduced the rates, making the three and a half cent rate three and one-quarter, and the three cent rate two and one-quarter.

Material for a City Team but No Place for the Game.

Inquiries among those who take an active interest in the sport show that the prospects are not as bright as they should be, says the News-Tribune, discussing the hockey situation at Duluth.

Duluth can get together a fast bunch of hockey players. There are several Canadians in the city who are achieving get into the fray, and several more will come if a team can be organized.

But the great obstacle is getting a suitable skating rink. Efforts have been made to secure a rink in the city, but they have failed.

Concerning the outlook at the Canadian Soo, the Soo (Mich.) News says: A professional sign has been posted in the Soo is now assured. The organization of a syndicate to finance the proposition is complete and a good portion of the money is subscribed.

While the organization of the syndicate is being completed J. P. Mooney is actively engaged in locating material for a first-class team. He is in communication with a number of the best players in the Dominion and it may not be long before a sign can be constructed that some of the stars of the hockey world have signed to play in the Soo.

The American league schedule meeting is to be held in Chicago about the first of next month. The Soo will likely be represented by J. G. Sutherland and J. P. Mooney.

FUNERAL OCCURRED YESTERDAY.

The funeral of the late Rudolph Schroder, an old Lake Linden resident, was held yesterday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Polkinghorn, of the Methodist church, officiated at the obsequies. The deceased was seventy-four years of age, and single. He was a native of Germany and came to Lake Linden in 1866. He earned the employ of the Calumet & Hecla company and was employed at different times as a fireman and engineer nearly up to the time of his death.

James J. Hollings, state deputy for the A. O. U. Incidentally he is doing considerable missionary work with a view to increasing the membership of the order in this region.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Electric Light Company to Pump the Water at Houghton.

After twice lowering its rates at Monday evening's special meeting of the Houghton common council, the Houghton County Electric Light company secured a contract to pump the water for Houghton's new high service system. Then the council decided to call for a new set of bids on a complete electrical pumping outfit and the installation of the same.

The special committee of engineers and a chairman, Fred Stoyle, of the water board, reported in preference for a steam pumping outfit, stating that with an electric driven pump only a little more than the cost of the coal would be saved at the prices named for current fuel by the electric company in its original proposition.

After the report of the committee has been given A. W. Leonard, superintendent of the electric light company, offered a supplementary proposition, reducing the original rates to four cents per one thousand gallons, and the maximum amount about three cents.

Professor O. P. Hood, of the College of Mines, a member of the special committee of engineers, and Village Engineer Clausen were then asked to figure out the comparative costs of pumping by steam and electricity on the basis of Mr. Leonard's second proposition.

Upon the engineers' report, Mr. Leonard further reduced the rates, making the three and a half cent rate three and one-quarter, and the three cent rate two and one-quarter.

Applications sufficient to warrant the establishment of a night school at Calumet have been received and a meeting was held last evening for the purpose of organizing classes. Classes in book-keeping will be conducted every Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

MINING NEWS

COPPER SITUATION.

Investigation Shows No Accumulation of the Metal Abroad.

The Boston News Bureau not only sent several cables to Europe, but a special commissioner through England, France and Germany, to ascertain the meaning of the large copper exports from this country which have so signified the copper statistics of this calendar year.

First, the former depletion of stocks of European manufacturers who have seen a continually enlarged output from American mines, but who now witness the failure of many European copper promotions to materialize in production, while the older countries of the eastern hemisphere are either open or nearly open to enlarge their production to meet the demand caused by the electrification of Europe and the East.

Second, the increased demand for copper in Europe has been stimulated by the war. It should be remembered in this connection that operations in war are now conducted differently than ever before. They involve various electrical appliances, including telephones and the stringing of wires along lines of battle for staff communications. Few people realize that war is a great electrical developer, and a consumer in the electrical field.

Third, there is a great impetus all over Europe in the line of electrical development, and this development reaches as far east as China. The war has interrupted some supplies of copper from the East, and at points in the East the consumption has been accentuated.

Mr. Bate, one of the officers of the London Statist, which paper makes a special study of copper and copper share speculations abroad, says that England is on the eve of a great trolley development. The Westinghouse Electric company is planning to build in England in order to equip that country electrically. Either the Westinghouse people or many hundred million of dollars of capital must flow south into the electrical development of Great Britain.

Japan for many months has been a large buyer of electrical supplies, and whatever the result of the war, China and Russia must come more and more into the electrical field, and their development has scarcely begun. At the same time the field is opening out in South America, a continent that formerly produced copper for the rest of the world, but where negotiations are now going on for large shipments of copper from North America to South America. The position of American manufacturers at the present time is that they are without supplies for immediate consumption, and are pressing the mining companies on all contracts for immediate deliveries.

Not only have the manufacturers no supplies of copper, but the mining companies themselves have no supplies.

HANCOCK ELKS TO ENTERTAIN.

Will Give a Theatrical Production the Latter Part of November.

The entertainment committee of the Hancock lodge of Elks has decided to put on a show next month for the benefit of the charity fund of the lodge, accepting the proposition of Mr. W. K. Love, who is conducting the rehearsals for the Calumet Elks' annual entertainment, to prepare the production. A congregation of minstrelsy, comedy, songs, dances and specialty acts, the whole to be known as the "Malta Vita Minstrel," will be presented.

The entertainment will be given two evenings, following the plan adopted at Calumet. The first production will be put on on Thanksgiving evening, the dates being Nov. 24 and 25. There will be 105 people in the cast. None but home talent will participate but no difficulty is expected in getting the desired number, as the lodge will have Houghton as well as Hancock to draw from. Though the production will be called a minstrel show, only a few funny "end" men will appear in burnt cork. Handsome scenery and costumes will be provided and the minstrel show production will be attractive to look upon. The program will include a list of everything, such as the best in specialty acts, good songs, new dances and catchy music.

The first rehearsal will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, in the Hancock city hall, and in the meantime Mr. Love will look about for material for the cast, although he will not put much of his time on the production until his work at Calumet is finished. The Calumet show will be presented the evenings of Nov. 11 and 12. From Nov. 12 on there will be rehearsals every day for the Hancock entertainment. Mr. Love makes the staging of amateur productions a specialty and will be amply able to handle the "Malta Vita" Minstrel production of his own and theater goers are assured an interesting performance. Mr. Love put on the Calumet Elks' last year show and made a fine success of it. There is some talk of developing the increasing demand for the increasing demand for the future is for an increasing American demand, with American mines alone able to supply the increasing demand.

The conclusion is therefore inevitable that higher prices for copper must prevail during the next six months of the present trade season. The present price of lake copper is 13 1/2@13 3/4 cents, but 15 cents will probably be paid next week, and in a few weeks the market should be above 14 cents.

The problem will not be that of manufacturers fighting the rising market; it will be that of the producers fighting to hold copper under 15 cents, for now all realize, including the managers of the Amalgamated Copper company, that anything above 15 cents for copper means curtailment of the uses of copper along lines where its use ought to be developed to meet the increasing output which a high copper market will stimulate.

New England manufacturers and New England copper share investors should now awaken to a realization of the fact that underneath the copper situation is today, as never before, the entire world outside of the United States seeking to equip itself electrically, while the United States is leading the world in telephone development, which means a telephone in every dwelling and every hotel room, and upon every office desk, and all connected by copper wires. Today the problem of the copper market is the problem of a rising electric and telephone development. Both are entering a new era or secondary stage of universal development.

ARIZONA MINING NOTES.

Bisbee (Ariz.) correspondence says: Nothing more is heard from the reported find of ore in the new tunnel on the Backbone claim of Higgins, and the general opinion is that it has petered out, though work continues there. The company has reduced its working force, before long it will have to face the question of taking up its bonds, and a large sum will be necessary, for the bond was at a high figure.

Volwiler & Arizona has also reduced its working force, but is pushing ahead underground as fast as possible, driving toward the region in which Lake Superior is at work.

Red Jacket & Bisbee has suspended operations and abandoned its options. Its money is exhausted and its stockholders have lost their put in this. This was not very much, comparatively speaking, for the company never succeeded in selling much stock.

An interesting fact in connection with the area of broken ground in the center of the district is that Calumet & Hecla shafts are thought to be draining junction shaft, and there are indications that water in Lowell and Calumet shafts may be the same body. These three shafts are at the apex of an equilateral triangle whose sides are about 2,000 feet long. Free circulation of water is an indication of a condition of ground favorable for the deposition of ore.

The immense amount of water lifted from Calumet is supposed to have been due to the large area of open ground draining toward any opening made, and not to any unusual circumstance in the vicinity. The shaft at this mine is now bottomed at 1,900 feet, and is to rest at 1,100, where drifts will be started. It is now in leached and oxidized lime and very soft ground, bearing every indication of ore close by. The flow of water is growing less, and is easily handled by one of the two Prescott pumps installed this summer. No work is under way on the 910-foot level other than the new drift toward Junction, which is rapidly nearing a corresponding drift from the other. Both these are in favorable ground, and both are on Calumet territory.

The Lake Superior is preparing for a largely increased force, and new dry and large rooms have been built. The enlargement of Cole shaft, which is to be undertaken at once, will necessitate suspension of operations below the 1,000-foot level. The management figures that this enlargement can be completed in ninety days, but this seems impossible. Still, nothing appears impossible with this Lake Superior company of expert miners and managers. With this shaft completed Lake Superior will enter the ranks of copper producers in a large way. A third shaft will be started later to develop the southeast portion of this company's ground. Arizona, the latest find in this property is an important one, being ore running from 7 to 30 cent in 1,100-foot cross-cut No. 2. It may connect with ore found previously in 1,000 and 900-foot levels.

The Oliver shaft, Calumet & Arizona, is being equipped for production. A large double-truss hoist to handle skips from 1,500 feet is ready for installation as soon as the foundations are built, and these are now under way. A battery of oil burning boilers is going in, and new buildings for surface plant are under way. The mine is now 1,000 feet deep and ore bodies of a very satisfactory nature are being developed. Still Oliver is not deep enough to get the larger haulages, and it will be steadily sunk. It should go 250 feet further to reach proper depth. This company's old reliable Irish Mag shaft is increasing developments steadily and is hoisting about 700 tons of ore daily.

Calumet & Arizona, four miles from Greene Consolidated, is preparing to sink its two shafts to cut the leases the management hopes exist there. It is a Minnesota company, owned largely in the northern iron regions.

Mitchell Development.

The Bisbee Review says: Secretary W. A. Bateman, of the Mitchell Development company, returned from the Huachuca Saturday morning, and in the afternoon closed an agreement with the original owners of the sixty-four claims upon which the company has been operating, whereby the time of the next payment is extended from December of this year to August of next year. The next payment will amount to over $100,000. That this extension has been secured means, by the agreement made with the ground owners, that development work shall immediately resume in the shaft and drill hole where it was left off at the close down a few months ago. The desire of the company for extension of time, it was made clear at the meeting between Mr. Bateman and the ground owners, was due to no shortage of money in the treasury of the company. The idea is that having put $80,000 into the property the Mitchell company feels that it ought to have time to proceed a little further in the matter of determining what it really has before being called upon to put up the large sum involved in the next payment.

Upon the new development that Mr. Bateman gives assurance will commence as soon as he can get back to Michigan and make report, probably sixty or more men will be immediately put to work. As secretary of the company Mr. Bateman will be on the ground and it is probable that he will practically have charge of the development work. The latter is to be direct continuation, as has been stated, of the good work with which the development recently closed.

STANDARD OIL MAKES DENIAL

DIRECTORS ISSUE A STATEMENT EXPLANATORY OF THE COMPANY'S POSITION.

SAY PUBLIC IS MISLED

BIG CORPORATION CONFINES ITSELF STRICTLY TO PETROLEUM.

It Not Interested in Any Other Business Whatever, Has No Hand in Speculation and Does Not Concern Itself With Politics.

New York, Oct. 25.—C. S. Dodge, counsel for the Standard Oil company, authorized the following statement:

"In view of the many false and misleading statements from various sources, the directors of the Standard Oil company deem it to be advisable to state to the company's shareholders and the public that neither now or at any time has the Standard Oil company, or any of its constituent companies, been interested in any business not directly related with and necessary to the petroleum trade."

"It would be almost impossible to designate in this denial the different classes of business with which irresponsible parties have compiled the Standard Oil company's name, but it may not be amiss to specify copper, steel, banks, railroad and gas (other than natural gas) as being the most prominently mentioned."

"With none of these affairs has the Standard Oil company been at any time connected. Individual members of the Standard Oil company have been and are interested as individuals in various enterprises, but this is entirely outside the business of the Standard Oil company, which is oil alone, unaffected by other interests in which its stockholders may invest."

"Neither is it true that the Standard Oil company, John D. Rockefeller or any officer of the Standard Oil company has taken part in securing the nomination of any candidates for office, as is so positively stated."

"Furthermore, it is entirely untrue that there is any Standard Oil party banded together for speculation in stocks, as is so commonly charged. The name of the Standard Oil company is frequently used by designing persons in manipulation of the stock market, but its use is unwarranted."

"The Standard Oil company departs from its usual custom in making this denial for the reason that statements being made at this time by newspapers, magazines and sensational public speakers appear to be unusually mendacious and may to a great extent mislead the public."

RUMORED RAILROAD DEAL

Union Pacific Said to Have an Option on the Great Western.

St. Paul, Oct. 25.—The Dispatch today says: It is stated here on apparently reliable information that the Union Pacific railway has secured an option on the Chicago Great Western railway property.

President Stickney, when asked by the Associated Press this evening to confirm the report, said: "I have nothing to say for publication."

Omaha, Oct. 25.—At the Union Pacific headquarters in this city nothing was known of that report having secured an option on the Chicago Great Western. At Vice President Mohler's office it was stated that a transaction of this nature would be made in New York. Rumors of Union Pacific interests securing control of the Great Western have been heard in local railroad circles for some time.

Vandalia Receivership Dissolved

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—Federal Judge Baker today handed down an order formally dissolving the receivership of the Vandalia railroad.

LOSSES THE RULE

Fruity in Union Pacific the Feature of the Day in Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 25.—Union Pacific sold as high as 112 today and the aggregate dealings in that stock footed up 360,000 shares. These astonishing occurrences were central factors from which all others radiated, and there is little left to say of the market, except in terms of wonder at its dimension and its erratic variety. The final break was from a rush to take profits on the day's enormous trading and on a bear raid.

The published assertion that the retirement of the Oregon Short Line participating bonds had been determined on was the inciting cause of this extraordinary movement. The truth of this report could not be learned from any official source. The exact benefits to accrue to Union Pacific were not very obvious. Although the injunction against the payment of dividends on Northern Securities stock, which forms the collateral for these bonds, makes payment of interest a burden on Union Pacific, heavy capital requirements would have to be met to retire them and the release of the Northern Securities stock would be the only advantage perceptible. But it was assumed, in spite of emphatic official disclaimers, that a settlement of the Northern Securities dispute and a community of interest in the trans-continental railroad world were involved. The buoyant rise in St. Paul was regarded as correlative of this assumption.

The market was subjected to enormous profit-taking throughout the day and the result was constant irregularity and occasional weakness. An engagement of gold for export increased the burden of selling, but the confidence in the market did not seem to be impaired at once by these developments and ingenuity was taxed to pick out new points for aggressive buying. The profit-taking in low-priced stocks which were most conspicuous in yesterday's market was very thin throughout, but was ignored until late in the day.

SAYS COAL TRUST CAUSED HIS RUIN

MINE OWNER GIVES SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY BEFORE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

HIS COMPANY WRECKED

FORCED TO THE WALL BY RATE DISCRIMINATION.

Its Property Now in Hands of Trustees, the Result of a Loss of $800,000, for Which Anthracite Combine Is Held Responsible.

New York, Oct. 25.—John C. Haddock, an independent coal mine owner and operator, testifying today before the interstate commerce commission in the case of Wm. Randolph Hearst against the coal-carrying railroads, said that as a result of tariff discrimination his company had suffered a loss of more than $800,000 in less than eight years. This loss meant the difference between solvency and insolvency, and his company, which at one time had the reputation of a high standard, which he jealously guarded, is now, as a result of the alleged discrimination, in the hands of trustees.

Mr. Haddock said he had persistently complained to the management of the Lackawanna company and had been met by the proposition that he turn his properties over to the railroad. This he had declined to do. In the end there was a compromise by which he received $150,000 from the Lackawanna company in settlement of his claim for $800,000.

Mr. Haddock also said that the Lackawanna company would not furnish a sufficient number of cars to market the output of his mines during the anthracite coal strike, and that the railroad had caused to be removed the spur tracks into the yards of dealers in Norwich and Cortland, N. Y., who purchased coal from his company.

When Mr. Haddock completed his testimony, counsel announced that the complainant would rest his case.

THE PLANS OF JAPAN

Japan has accomplished all that she expected to do the first year of the war and probably more, although Port Arthur has held out much longer than anybody believed would be possible.

General Kodama told me in a matter-of-fact way that they had decided to carry it by assault instead of by siege, and that they were prepared to sacrifice 25,000 lives in that effort. He spoke as coolly as if he were talking about the lives of insects instead of the lives of men. At that time the Japanese expected to capture the citadel about the 4th of July, and he suggested that the people of the United States might consider it a compliment if the Japanese succeeded in their anniversary in that manner.

Military experts are convinced that many more than 25,000 brave Japanese soldiers already have been sacrificed in the siege, and many more are being sacrificed. But the latter cannot hold out much longer. The most reliable reports represent them to be short of both food and ammunition and the desperate efforts of the Russian authorities and sympathizers to break through the blockade indicate that the situation of the garrison is critical. It has received a great deal of supplies from Chinese junks which have managed to elude the vigilance of the blockading fleet, but they are no longer getting through, and the end is near. When Port Arthur falls the Japanese will control the entire Liaotung peninsula and the Korean empire.

The Japanese plan has been to drive the Russian army through the Yelting Pass in the mountains north of Mukden, and then fortify their position so that they may be able to hold it against any force the Russians hereafter may bring. They cannot afford to lose this pass. If they cross the mountains their position would be insecure and hard to defend and the cost and difficulty of transporting supplies would be doubled.

The mountains are a natural boundary and the pass is well fortified and defended. They would not be more than half way to Harbin, which is the junction of the Manchurian branch with the main line of the Great Siberian railroad. That is at least 400 miles south from the Russian frontier. It would be impossible for the Japanese to drive the Russian army that distance, and the desert of Mongolia lies between Mukden and the Siberian frontier.

The winter will be spent by the Russians in massing troops and supplies at Harbin. The Siberian railroad can be kept open almost continuously during the winter, and can handle an average of 5,000 men a week under the most favorable circumstances. But it is not to be expected that this maximum can be kept up during the winter months in that climate. If they are able to transport 2,500 or even 2,000 men a week, the Russians will be very fortunate. William E. Curtis in Chicago Record-Herald.

Congressmen Townsend and William Alden Smith accompanied Senator Fairbanks across the state. Tomorrow will be largely due to the beneficial policy of the Republican party.

Continuing, Senator Fairbanks said: "Republican policies give confidence to your capital, enabling it to go forward, planning and building for the future. Capital is enabled to give your wage-earners better wages because of its assurance that Republican supremacy will not strike the protective system."

"The assault of the Democracy upon the protective tariff system is as distinct and violent as ever. Democratic supremacy means uncertainty and unrest. Under the Republican policy our countrymen engaged in the industries have only to compete with themselves, whereas under the Democratic policy they must compete with themselves and also with others engaged in the same employments in other countries. We should beware that we do not adopt any reactionary policy. Let us adhere to the great policy for which William McKinley stood and which is the policy of the Republican party today."

WHY BRYAN SUPPORTS PARKER

Half a Loaf Better Than None at All, He Explains in Indiana.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—W. J. Bryan had a busy day in Indiana today. He spoke to large crowds at Fort Wayne, Kendallville, Goshen, Warsaw, North Manchester, Polk, Rochester, Plymouth and Ellettsville.

At Plymouth, where Bryan declared to be in a strong silver and Bryan county, he said: "Are you disappointed that our platform does not contain all you would like to see in it? Are you disappointed that our candidates are not as good as many reforms as you would like them to be? I share this disappointment with you, but how can we advance any reforms which are dear to us by assisting in the election of the Republican candidate? If our candidate does not represent all that we desire in the way of reform, the Republican candidate stands for no reform whatever, and we can not advance bi-metallic through the election of a Republican candidate. Secure any other reform by legislation."

Continuing, Mr. Bryan said: "We do not need a large army if we deal with the laboring man as a citizen, patriot and brother, and why should we deal with him as a public enemy in time of peace? Those who labor on the farm and in the factory produce the nation's wealth, and in time of war they fight the nation's battle. If the laboring man will stand to defend the nation's honor and risk his life in his nation's defense, he ought not to be put at the other end of the musket when he asks for justice to himself, wife and children. If he volunteers when his country needs him, his claims ought not to be ignored when he needs remedial legislation at his country's hands."

In his speech in South Bend tonight Mr. Bryan spoke of the reforms needed by the government and declared them to be the vital issues of the campaign. He said: "The election of the Democratic ticket will hasten every reform by removing the overshadowing issues. A Republican election will delay all reforms because a Republican victory will only continue the issues now absorbing attention, but may add new ones now unsuspected."

MEMPHIS RACES

Sweet Marie an Easy Winner of the Free-For-All Trot.

Memphis, Oct. 25.—Sweet Marie easily won the free-for-all trot today, beating Dr. Strong handily in straight heats. Marie was never fully extended and her time in the second heat was very extraordinary.

The Emerald stakes for 2,000 paces brought out the four fastest ones, John M. Sneath's entry was odds on favorite, and after losing the first heat to Loranda he easily won the succeeding heat.

Prize Alert was sent against the 1,500 racing record but failed to reach it. His time by quarters was: 29 3/4; 59; 1:29 3/4; 2:01 3/4.

John Dillon was sent an exhibition mile to beat 2:00 for trotters. Accompanied by a runner on the side, he narrowly finished the mile in 2:02 1/2. By quarters his time was: 30; 1:00 3/4; 1:30 3/4; 2:02 1/2. The race summaries follow: Free-for-all trotters, $1,000, (four starters): Sweet Marie, 1-1; D. Strong, 2-2; Oatman, 4-3. Best time, 2:05.

2:17 trot, $1,000, (six starters): Colonel B, 1-1; Gold Bird, 2-2; Early Letcher, 3-3; Buckman Boy, 4-4. Best time, 2:13 3/4.

Wanted Paul to Tell Him

A story is being related of Paul Du Chailu, the one-time African explorer, to this effect. One evening when returning home on foot he observed a man evidently rather the worse for drink who was engaged in vehemently embracing a lamp post. Disengaging him with some difficulty, the explorer started to take him to his home, the location of which the man was still able to remember.

Having finally reached their destination, the beholders who affectionately grasped Paul Du Chailu by the hand, exclaiming in tones of fervent gratitude:

"I shay, o' feller, youah all right. Whatsh' your name?"

As the explorer did not particularly care to give his name in full he merely replied that it was Paul.

"So it's 'ah—Paul,' sh' it?"

PRIMARY REFORM

MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE GIVES FORMAL WARNING TO THE VOYERS OF MICHIGAN.

MINNESOTA'S EXPERIENCE

It Has Not Resulted Favorably to a Belief in Direct Nominations as a Political Cureall.

ly into the direct nomination law under the guidance of political visionaries, designing demagogues and greedy grafters. The intelligent citizenship of the state is disgusted with it. The state of Oregon fell into it through the previous visionary folly of the initiative. The intelligent citizenship of that state is tired of it before it has been in operation. There is no such excuse for the state of Michigan. The lamp of experience is shining on its path.

Primary Law All Right.

"We discriminate between a direct nomination law and a general primary law, though they are often confused in the public mind. We think it highly desirable that the state should take the same charge of primaries to secure the secret ballot and prevent manipulation, intimidation and corruption that it exercises over the elections. We believe it well that these primaries should nominate candidates for office in the smaller districts, where the people are protected by personal knowledge of candidates from errors of ignorance and deception.

"But we believe that, in all other cases, the primaries should appoint delegates to conventions where nominations should be made by a majority, after conference and deliberation. The wisest states are working in this direction. We trust that Michigan will decide to go with them."

Probably no newspaper in the United States has had as varied and thorough an experience with the primary reform movement than the Minneapolis Tribune. The Tribune was the first to propose a primary law for Minnesota, a member of its staff drafted the first law and the Tribune's support made its passage possible. The Tribune addresses Michigan on the subject in the following language:

"We hear the state of Michigan is in danger of burning its fingers with a direct nomination law. We trust that the state of Michigan will not act without reflection. We earnestly beg of it to study the experience of other states that have made the experiment, and not to accept the hasty judgment of superficial observers or interested persons that the law works well.

"In fact, it works damnable. Its practice is the reverse of its theory. It does not put power in the hands of the majority of the people. By multiplying candidates and confusing the public mind, it gives office to the most industrious advertiser and campaigner by a plurality that may be only 10 per cent of the whole vote.

"It does not raise the standard of public service in electoral districts larger than those in which every candidate is personally known to his neighbors. It has distinctly lowered the average quality of new members of congress in this state. It gave Minnesota a mayor who has once been convicted for bribery and who, pending his third trial, had the audacity to appeal to the people to vindicate him by nominating him to congress under this law.

"It does not banish corruption from elections. By putting a premium upon publicity it has tempted nearly every newspaper in this state to encourage an army of candidates, in order to extort money for keeping them before the people.

Works Well in a Small Way.

"On the other side, it has distinctly raised the standard of members of our city council and plainly tends to keep in office county officials who have made a good record. So far, it has not corrupted the judiciary, though the tendency is to keep in office the judges who are favorably known; but we do not know what will happen this year. It is an admirable thing for districts so small that candidates are personally known to voters. It proves the sterling virtue of the people by improving the public service wherever the public can act intelligently under it. But it has proved that such intelligent and effective action is not possible on a larger scale than that of the New England town meeting.

"The state of Minnesota rushed blind

Minnesota Sick of It.

This is strong language that follows, but its sincerity cannot be questioned: "The principle of direct nominations is an excrescence foisted on the primary law by crack-brained cranks, designing demagogues and greedy grafters. It works well for small election districts, but abominably in larger ones. Minnesota is heartily sick of it, as we believe South Dakota, Oregon, Michigan and Wisconsin will be, if they should be guided into trying it.

"All the real benefits of a sound primary law can be realized without encumbering it with the principle of direct nominations, except for the smaller election districts. It can be used there without destroying the party organization or imposing minority candidates upon the party by a small plurality vote. These and other evils are sure to follow in the larger election districts, which demand the concentrated and orderly methods of representative government to make the rule of the majority effective.

EXPERIENCE IN FURS.

Unless one has had a very wide experience in buying furs and is thoroughly familiar with the various varieties, it is well to select furs of established reputation, and in any case it is the safest way, as the durability of many furs is otherwise unknown until worn. The value of a Fur Garment hinges upon two points, the quality of the fur and the workmanship. We make furs of every variety for men, women and children. Quality and workmanship is the best.

POTATO YIELD LARGE.
Tubers Selling in Wisconsin at from Sixteen to Twenty cents Per Bushel.

If Marquette county farmers are brought into competition with Wisconsin potato raisers this fall they will do very well in the sales. The Wisconsin yield this year is so great that the farmers are disposing of their potatoes at from sixteen to twenty cents per bushel. This is from fifteen to twenty cents less than Negaunee farmers are now receiving. It is said that the Wisconsin men are afraid their stock will not keep until spring, and for the past few weeks they have therefore been crowding the market, so anxious are they to reduce their supply. The following is from a recent issue of a Milwaukee paper:

"Farmers are bringing hundreds of bushels of potatoes into the city this year. They have taken advantage of the fine weather that we have had in the last few weeks and have begun to market their products. Tubers in the county are no longer considered a luxury after the enormous harvest this year. Potatoes are at least one cent and a half higher than last year, and are obliged to pay exorbitant prices for this winter. Men who made a circuit of the county report that any amount of potatoes can be purchased from sixteen to twenty cents per bushel. Owing to the great size of the tubers this year it is thought that the potato will be short lived. For that reason farmers are trying to get them sold at the earliest possible opportunity."

ELECTION NOTICES POSTED.

During the past few days notices of the election and registration have been posted about the city by Recorder Will Mitchell. In the notice issued by County Clerk Ross attention is called to the resolution adopted at recent meeting of the board of supervisors relative to the proposed county road system. The question will be stated on a ballot separate from the other ballots submitted to the electors and will read: "Shall the county road system adopted by the county of Marquette?" So far as can be ascertained a majority of the Negaunee electors will vote in favor of the system. There is no particular talk in opposition.

WILL SPEND WINTER IN WEST.

Rev. S. M. Gilchrist left Monday evening for Chicago, where he joined his daughter, Miss Louise. They will go to Denver, where Miss Gilchrist will spend the winter. The young lady has been in the lower peninsula for about two months past. It is said she has gained several pounds in weight and is feeling considerably better than when she left Negaunee. She will attend school, taking one or two studies, while in Denver.

CARIBOU ARRIVE TODAY.

C. V. R. Townsend, of the Cleveland-Cliffs land department, received a telegram yesterday morning from A. O. Jopling, who is bringing five caribou from Newfoundland, advising him that he will arrive at Marquette today with the animals. The message came from Montreal. The caribou will be a valuable addition to the Cleveland-Cliffs company's game exhibit at the island.

BACK BROKEN IN MINE.

Charles Venka, a married man, had his back broken at the Negaunee mine Saturday evening. He was dumping a car of ore on the fourth level when the weight of the load came down on him before he could get out of the way. The man is in a precarious condition and it is thought the injury will prove fatal.

LOCAL LAONICONS.

Phil Levine and wife spent yesterday with Mr. Levine's people at Republic.

Ben Neely, Jr., arrived home yesterday morning from a business trip below.

Julius Jacobson arrived home yesterday morning from the World's Fair and Chicago.

A few Negaunee men went to Ishpeming last evening to see the bowling exhibition.

City Recorder Will Mitchell is preparing to supply Negaunee hunters with deer licenses.

Mrs. L. E. Chausse entertained the members of the Y. M. C. club last evening at her home.

John Nelson and John Williamson have returned from the World's Fair, after a ten days' visit.

Mrs. W. L. Bedford and Mrs. Will Mitchell will leave tonight on a ten days' visit to the St. Louis exposition.

Mrs. John Shea has returned from Lake Linden, where she was called a week ago last Friday on account of the death of her brother.

John and Jerry Driscoll and the latter's wife, who came here from Utah last week to visit relatives, went to the copper country yesterday.

Negaunee people witnessing the production of "The Princess Chic" at Ishpeming theater tonight, will leave here at 7:30, that being the time the cars will depart.

Plasterers began work yesterday morning at Captain E. Tom's new dwelling on Mill street. The Negaunee & Ishpeming Street Railway & Electric company's men are wiring the building.

Dave Foley of Ironwood, who was one of the first men in the upper peninsula to open bowling alleys, has sold his outfit to an Escanaba man. The bowling business has not been good at Ironwood for over a year past.

Joseph Barabé arrived home yesterday morning from a Missouri hospital, where he has been receiving treatment for the past few weeks. He is feeling very much improved in health and will immediately resume work in his store.

C. E. Foote, pension attorney of Kalamazoo, Mich., spent yesterday at J. Q. Adams office, where he examined a number of claims of local veterans. Mr. Foote reports that several thousand pensions have been granted under the new ruling.

John T. Burke of Ishpeming is working a number of men and teams on a filling job at the Moore mine. The mine is being operated with a larger force than when work was resumed a few months ago. Mining and shipping will be continued until the close of navigation.

A number of farmers in and near Negaunee still have potatoes, turnips and other vegetables in the ground. There have been so few fine days during the past six weeks that they have not been able to harvest all their crops. One intends to wait any longer. For one farmer said yesterday that he did not intend to dig his potatoes now, more than an inch of snow fell here Monday night, but most of it disappeared again yesterday.

mine is looking exceptionally good. The third and fourth levels are in the rock 1,300 feet. Shipments to the stamp mill are averaging 1,000 tons daily. Sixty-five drills are operating, with more added gradually.

Quincy production is showing gains lately, and it is possible that last year's output of refined copper may be equalled, or slightly exceeded, despite the time lost in last winter's strike. The reports as to the big hoist that put No. 7 shaft out of commission for some weeks.

No. 5 shaft of the Mohawk, now in the ledge, makes a brave showing of copper in the few feet of rock penetrated. There is ample reason for believing that the new shaft will prove equal to the average of the mine, if not richer, and, some eighteen months later, should be of material assistance in feeding the mill.

Centennial has about cleaned up its stockpiles, which have been sent to the mill from day to day since stamping was begun, and the returns secured from the mill hereafter will show an increase, due to a better average grade of rock being stamped. The Centennial management is giving out no figures of rock stamped, or percentage of fine copper secured.

The Tecumseh management is believed to be deeply interested in the drill exploratory work being conducted on the Laurium property. The Tecumseh tract includes two forties that are exceptionally well located with regard to the strike of the Keweenaw ledge, and their investigation need not be surprising in the event of continued encouragement on the lands of the Laurium, adjoining.

The continuance of favorable results at Isle Royale is reflected in the Lake buying of Atlantic, due to the belief that the strike of the Keweenaw ledge, as the values being disclosed on the south side of former property. The advance in the price of copper will, of course, hasten the return of Atlantic to the market, and the American capitalists are expected to take place during the coming winter.

As soon as the new hoist goes into commission, the Franklin will be able to operate its stamp mill to its full capacity. At the present time this is impossible, as the mine is not in a position to supply the necessary supply of rock. Only three heads are operating full time now, the fourth being in commission at intermittent periods, and the plant is treating 1,340 tons of rock every twenty-four hours.

Sinking at the Alloway, which was suspended for some time because of the diamond drill hole put down from the dump through the ledge, is again making good headway. The dip of the ledge has been proven unexpectedly sharp, and there remains more sinking to be done than had been figured, hence there will be little news from the Alloway until early next spring, when the ledge should be reached by the shaft.

Marmaduke Richardson of Paris has sold the Norwich and Lafayette copper properties in the Porcupine Mountain district of Ontario, Canada, to the Copper Crown Mining company, composed chiefly of St. Louis, Mo., people, which is developing the Hamilton mine. The Norwich is the most important property, other than the Victoria, west of the Christopher river. It has been worked intermittently during the last half-century and has produced a million pounds of copper.

The Winona yield of refined copper per ton of rock stamped this year has been about seventeen and one-half pounds. The copper structures are light, for which reason the average saving is not effected at the stamp mill. The drifts south of No. 2 shaft have been consistently good, and probably afford better promise than the openings between Nos. 2 and 3. The best rock coming from the fourth level steps. The company is operating nine drills. Its policy is rather to make a thorough test of the values already developed, and this will be pursued during the remainder of the year.

MILLIONAIRES POOR STOMACH.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer the most excruciating pains that the millionaire endures. The cause of the trouble is a standard medicine like Greene's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. MINING NEWS

The claim owners who sign the agreement with the Mitchell for the extension of fourteen in number. They owned nine separate groups of claims, which were brought together and turned over to the Mitchell company through W. G. Pritchard.

Secretary Bateman has left for Michigan. Enroute he will stop at Durango, Colo., where he will see Ambrose Chedid and secure his signature to the contract under which extension of the time of the payment to Aug. 1 is made. Mr. Chedid has signified his willingness to sign the contract. He will be the last of those interested to give signature.

Before leaving the city Mr. Bateman instructed that preparations for the resumption of work in the Huachuca be made at once. The diamond drill is to be started by Driller Downing just as soon as he can make ready. He has a contract of work which will be installed in the shaft at a depth of about 400 feet below the 300-foot level of the shaft. In the same connection it is stated that one of the first things to be done upon resumption of work is the installation of pumps of increased capacity to handle the water coming into the shaft. This water was seriously interfering with work in the shaft when the shutdown was made.

VICTORIA.

At the Victoria mine, says A. L. Caranahan, all energy is being centered upon the completion of details necessary for the beginning of production from that lode. Before the start of the new year the completion of the shaft, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by the Peoples' Drug Store.

WHAT IS REGO?
ReGo Tonic Laxative Syrup is a preparation originally put together for physicians' use, and it is still largely prescribed by the best practitioners. Its wonderful cures of Constipation, and all attendant evils, such as Nervous Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness and indigestion, have led the manufacturers to believe that a great service would be rendered to their fellow men by offering to the public this famous medicine in convenient form. They have such faith in the merits of the medicine that they offer a trial bottle free to any one who will cut out this notice and present it to the Peoples' Drug Store.

In reply to inquiries we have pleasure in announcing that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is like the solid preparation of that admirable remedy in that it cleanses and heals membranes affected by nasal catarrh. There is no drying or sneezing. The Liquid Cream Balm is adapted to use by patients who have trouble in inhaling through the nose and prefer spraying. The price, including spraying tube, is 75 cents. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Brothers, 50 Warren street, New York.

SCROFULA

Swollen glands, tumors, white swellings, sores, pustular or scaly skin eruptions, flabby muscles, brittle bones, weak digestion, emaciated, ill-nourished bodies, are some of the well-known earmarks of Scrofula. Scrofula is inherited. Parents too closely related by the ties of blood, or tainted with consumption or blood poison, may look for signs of Scrofula in their children. The middle-aged often have it, but children are the chief sufferers. Scrofula breaks down the vital forces, and the blood becomes so weak and poor that it does not nourish the body. The remedy in all scrofulous affections must be that which purifies the diseased blood, builds up the weak digestion, increases the appetite and gives new energy and strength to all life's forces. No medicine has won so much fame as a blood purifier as S. S. S., and its tonic effects upon the system are not equalled by any other remedy. It makes the weak, tainted blood rich and strong, and drives out of the circulation all tubercular deposits and morbid matter that cause the glandular swellings, sores, abscesses, tumors and other horrible symptoms that make Scrofula so dreaded and dangerous.

Write us fully about your case. Medical advice will cost you nothing.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Cleveland, Ohio, August 11, 1903.
I inherited Scrofula from my parents, and this means of course, weak, impure and run-down, debilitated condition of the system. I have seen under treatment of physicians for quite a period at different times, but their treatment did not do me anything like the good S. S. S. did last year. The general health, the appetite, the digestion, gives strength and energy, builds up to being an excellent blood purifier. It adds to the success as a remedy for Scrofula. It did more for me than any other medicine I have used. I commend it to you.

Iron Notes

"American" Steel Works in Canada—A great stimulus has been given to the iron and steel industries of this country by recent legislation, states correspondence from Toronto. The American steel works go into effect Nov. 1, and there is consequently a rush on the part of American rail mills to fill existing contracts before that time, while new orders are going to Canadian producers. The "American" tariff amendment to the tariff is being rigidly enforced. Where contracts are made by American firms for the installation of machinery, duty has now to be paid merely on the articles imported, but on the whole contract price, including the cost of the labor employed in Canada in the work of installation. The effect of this is to confine American contracts to the shipment of machinery and give installer work to Canadian firms.

The result of these tariff changes, coupled with the great prospective demands caused by railroad construction, has been to stimulate activity in iron and steel manufacture and to increase the tendency on the part of the American capitalists to retain a share of the Canadian market by investing in Canadian enterprises. A rumor has had currency that the United States Steel corporation had secured control of the Northern Iron & Steel company, whose plant is situated at Collingwood, Ont. While it has been denied as premature, it turns out to have some foundation. Major John A. Currie, president of the Northern Iron & Steel company, states that overtures looking toward securing control had been made by a prominent official of one of the large American steel companies and negotiations entered into. The proposition contemplated the enlargement of the Collingwood plant by the addition of two blast furnaces and perhaps a steel plant. In the meantime, however, further legal proceedings have been taken in the name of the Cramp Steel company, to obtain the injunction restraining the transfer of the plant and assets of that company to the Northern Iron & Steel company.

The Dominion Iron & Steel company, Sydney, N. S., in which Toronto capital is largely interested, has its new washing plant completed and partially in operation. The new rod mill is turning out a high grade quality of rods. The construction of the steel rail mill is being pushed forward rapidly, the contract providing that it should be in readiness for operation early in the year. The foundations are completed and a portion of the machinery has been shipped. The company has contracted with Frank, Kroschel & Co. (Bismarck, Germany) for the installation of a plant for the utilization of waste ore in the manufacture of pig iron in accordance with a process of agglomeration. The dust discovered some years ago by the German firm. This plant will cost about $8,000 and will have a daily capacity of about seventy-five tons. The plant is not so far in use on this continent and the Dominion Iron & Steel company will hold exclusive rights in the process for Canada.

It is reported that a recent visit to Canada of John A. Tapping, president of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company, had to do with the proposed steel corporation plant on the Canadian side. In the event that the legal complications of the Cramp Steel company prevent the carrying out of the Collingwood project some other location will be selected. Peterboro is seventy-five miles east of Toronto on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk, is considered in this connection.

Dr. J. M. Bell, who has been exploring the Michipicoten iron ore district, reports to the Ontario bureau of mines that the iron-bearing area has been found to be considerably more extensive than he supposed. New deposits have been discovered in several places, the most promising being at Cameron lake and on the Tucaswa river, where bodies of magnetic occur.

The Mountain Iron mine, at the village of the same name, on the Mesaba range, will be developed largely during the coming season. The entire westerly side of the pit back and the north side, and sidings, can move in the mine without switching and can come in on one side as emptied, pass the shovels continuously and go out the other side still made up as when they entered the pit. This will be of the utmost moment in cheapening costs of production and increasing possible output. The mine has been working with ease this summer and is making an output of about 1,000,000 tons. Four benches are opened for mining and four shovels are stationed about the mine. Very little stripping has been carried on during the season.

About 18,000 tons of steel rails will be shipped to Corea, within the next thirty days by the United States Steel corporation. Three British vessels have been chartered for the purpose of conveying the material. The steamship Inverness is now loading at Tacoma, Wash., with part of the rails, and the Hero and Quito will carry the balance from the same Pacific Coast port.

The exploratory work of the International boundary line on the easterly extension of the Vermillion, is not proceeding as satisfactory as it was hoped would be the case. In one of the holes driven by diamond drill, ore was cut a few weeks ago, but it was a narrow seam and was mixed ore and Jasper.

The Helen mine of the Lake Superior corporation, at Michipicoten, is now employing about 160 men and the output is averaging between 800 and 1,000 tons

NEW GENERATOR TO START TODAY

IS EXPECTED THAT THERE WILL BE NO MORE TROUBLE AT THE LIGHT AND POWER PLANT.

INSTALLATION IS COMPLETE

Machine Was Ready to Go Into Operation Yesterday, But It Was Thought Best to Let Foundation Set Thoroughly.

Today it is expected to put the new Westinghouse generator in commission at the light and power station. The machine was set up and in readiness for operation yesterday, but the Westinghouse expert asked that the start be postponed, wishing to give the concrete foundation ample chance to set properly. Last night the incandescent lights were illuminated by use of the old generator. Tonight, however, it is expected that they will be illuminated by the new machine, and that henceforth it will run without interruption.

While its installation has been proceeding the past two days there has been considerable interruption of the service. Monday night large parts of the residence districts were cut out for a few hours. Last night the same steps were necessary, the belt drive being unable to handle the full load, which is now very heavy before 6 o'clock, when all the stores and offices are open. The old machine has been carrying a number of incandescent lights far beyond its nominal capacity for several weeks past. It has been generating so much current that the recording instruments have been insufficient to measure its load. The machine has been attentively and anxiously watched, as it was feared it might give out. If its temperature had run up to a dangerous point it would have been stopped to avoid wrecking it. However, it has carried its heavy burden admirably, not once occasioning any trouble. As far as is known it is now as good and serviceable as it has been at any time during its eight years of service. Nevertheless the light and power commissioners and superintendent are well pleased to have the anxious period over, and to see the new generator go into service. The installation of the machine has proceeded without a hitch. It is now set up permanently, on a solid concrete foundation laid just east of the water wheel. All that is necessary to put it in operation is to couple the shaft of the wheel to its shaft and to turn on the water. This will be done today, without ceremony, and another milestone in the story of the municipal plant will have been passed. The enlargement of the plant's facilities provided by the installation of the new generator is expected to be sufficient to serve Marquette for several years to come, unless there should be an unprecedented demand for electricity. Then, too, the old generator will be held in reserve and can be thrown on at any time, either alone or in conjunction with the new and larger machine. The belt drive is retained to operate the are generators. It is planned to ultimately remove these generators and to light the streets by means of the new machine, but plans to this end are not as yet definitely formulated. If the water wheel occasions no more trouble the electrical service should now be uninterrupted, and in every way the best that the city has ever received.

HOT SUPPER TONIGHT.

Catholic Ladies Will Serve It in Connection With Their Fair.

A special feature of the Catholic fair being held at Fraternity hall this week will be a hot supper served by the ladies auxiliary to the A. O. H. tonight before 7:30 o'clock. The charge will be twenty-five cents and there will be an excellent menu. In the evening there will be singing by the boys' choir of the cathedral. Last evening the fair attendance was large and there was a ready sale for the articles on display.

"PRINCESS CHIC."

Opera Comique Given an Elaborate Presentation Last Evening.

"The Princess Chic," an opera comique by Kirke La Shelle and Julian Edwards, which has had a successful career of several seasons, was last evening presented at the opera house here for the first time. The production is modeled closely on the original production and is presented by a large company, with a wealth of costumes and an effective scenery. In the cast are a number of excellent principals. These things should mean an excellent presentation of this tantalizing offering. It does run off fairly well, and last night was received with a fair measure of applause, but the fact remains, however, that the presentation is not well rounded, and at times is disappointing.

Musically, "The Princess Chic" is well worthy of attention. A number of the choruses are excellent and some of the lyrics have exceptional merit. In the cast Gust Vaughn, as Charles the Bold of Burgundy, Sophie Brandt, as the Princess Chic, George W. Callahan, as Breva, a soldier of fortune, Caroline Lum, and Jane Vander Zee, in minor parts, gave excellent vocal performances, and were well, and deservedly so, received. Mr. Vaughn, in particular, gave a fine rendition, both musically and dramatically, of his role. The second soldier of fortune was George A. Thomas. As a soldier of fortune he did well enough, though rather voiceless, but when he doubled as King Louis XI, and essayed some heavy music in an ensemble number the result was rather disastrous. Callahan, Thomas, Harry Monroe and Jack Henderson made some excellent fun, and the male chorus was commendable. With so much good, it may be asked what was wrong? The female chorus fell below the mark, for one thing. It was large enough, but the girls didn't seem to sing out, and were inert. Possibly the size of the house adversely affected the production. It was not as large as it might have been. However this may be, it seems that "The Princess Chic" might easily be made to "go" better than it did last night.

Mr. Perless, representing The Sunshine Cloak and Suit Co., will have his full line of goods on display at our store all day today. Those wishing exclusive styles will do well by calling and inspecting the line of garments on display. All goods new and the latest style.

ALGER AND DIEKEMA.

Their Marquette Date Will Be Friday Evening of This Week.

The Marquette date of Senator Russel A. Alger and State Chairman Garret J. Diekema will be Friday evening, when they will speak on the issues of the campaign at the opera house. Senator Alger and Chairman Diekema are now engaged on a very successful tour of the upper peninsula. They have addressed a number of large meetings this week, and have aroused great enthusiasm. People are generally anxious to hear General Alger, his prominence in public life being too well known to require comment. His remarks on the present campaign come with a stamp of authority from a man of his position in the national councils. Chairman Diekema has been at the head of the Republican organization in Michigan for the past several years, and is an interesting and convincing speaker. The rally Friday evening will be the most important that Marquette has had during the present campaign, and will be the last meeting, in all probability, before election. The distinguished visitors should be given a rousing reception, and doubtless the opera house will be filled to its capacity.

Senator Alger and Chairman Diekema will be followed here by Woodbridge M. Ferris, the Democratic nominee for governor, who will be heard in his own behalf the evening of Nov. 3. The Marquette Democrats expect to give Mr. Ferris a fine audience and look for a good attendance from Ishpeming and Negaunee, as Mr. Ferris will talk only in Marquette in this county. He will come from Calumet, and will go from Marquette to Escanaba, also filling another upper peninsula date after leaving Escanaba.

DATA ON EARLY HISTORY.

Might Now Well Be Preserved at the Peter White Library.

Peter White has been requested by a number of former residents of Marquette who retain an interest in the city in which they were pioneers and where their younger days were spent to suggest the advisability of securing manuscript records of happenings of early days for preservation at the library for future generations. Attention is called to the fact that the library now has excellent facilities for the safe-keeping of such records. Papers from former residents of the upper peninsula, likewise from old residents still living in this region, would have a considerable value. Narratives of early events connected with the history of this region, recitals of personal experiences and other matters of equal interest may well be sent to the librarian for deposit in the vaults and for indexed registration, making them convenient for reference. There are a number of people who could contribute very interesting and possibly valuable papers of the nature indicated. They might very well take the trouble to prepare them. A number of contributions are, indeed, already assured.
