INSPECTS COPPER RANGE.

State Tax Commission Went Over the Line Yesterday.

Robert H. Shields of Houghton, James H. Thompson of Everett, and William H. Hoyt of Plymouth, constituting the Michigan state tax commission, left Hancock yesterday morning for a trip of inspection of the Copper Raage railroad. They role to Mass City, the western and Hancock now presents to view a terminus, in the morning and on the card declaring that that establishment return trip in the afternoon rode through to Calumet. They will inspect the Mineral Range, Quincy & Torch Lake, Keewenaw Central and Heela & Torch Lake roads during the succeeding days of their visit. The inspection of the Copper Range is the most important of the present visit because of the strenuous fight made ing the day in both towns. before the commission last year by Vice President McKeever. The road is an nually taxed $45,000, a rate of $16.47 per $1,000 on its assessed valuation, and Mr. McKeever contends that the road cannot afford to pay such a high tax. This inspection will either fortify the commission in its position or prove correct Mr. McKeever's contention.

The desire to get rich quick has one merit-it shows ambition. Most men have in their make-up something of the gambler. Don't let that shock you, for if you study the ways in which money is made you will find that the successful moneygetters take big chances, unless they merely marry for it. Speculation used to be carried on very much "sub-rosa." That time has passed. Men don't see very much difference between investment and speculation, and with some reason, for if moral considerations be laid aside it is hard to prove any true logical difference between purchase and poker. Men are as logical as they are able to be but only try to be as moral as they can.

Yerkes, the traction magnate, said he never saw a man of moderate means play the grain market successfully for two years. The temptation is to risk more than you can afford to lose. In speculation men dare to take chances at another man's game that they would shudder at in their own business that they know all about. Lucky people talk about their winnings but most men keep their losses to themselves. When von carry a margin account that involves risks that are beyond your means you're about like the fellow hanging on to a wolf's tail as it runs around a tree. If you lose your grip on the tail, or the tail-lets go the wolf will get you sure. The only man on the race track that always comes out ahead is the man that sells sandwiches. During the past ten years ninetynine speculators out of every hundred would have been richer today if they had kept putting their earnings on deposit at three per cent interest in the
