

DULUTH STRIKE IS DECLARED OFF

Ore Handlers on the Missabe & Northern Company's Docks Vote to Return to Work at the Old Schedule of Pay.

Similar Action Is Not Taken at Two Harbors and Superior, but at All Three Ports Operations Will Be Resumed Today, at the Two Former in Part With Outside Labor—Mines Are Starting Up, and if Necessary Governor Will Furnish Protection.

Duluth, July 31.—The first trainload of iron ore to be moved from the Mesabi range since the strike began left Hibbing tonight for the ore docks at Duluth. By tomorrow an effort will be made to send down several other trains, although the ore-carrying roads are badly handicapped by lack of train crews.

Duluth, Minn., July 31.—This afternoon the ore dock workers who had been on strike for recognition of the union and a raise in pay voted to return to work. Neither of the issues raised by the men were granted by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern. All employees will be taken back by the company without prejudice.

Other Docks Not Affected. The settlement of the strike on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern docks has no effect on the docks at Two Harbors, operated by Duluth & Iron Range, and the Allouez docks at South Superior, run by the Great Northern road.

A report from Evelevh states that the Adams and Spruce mines of the Steel corporation will start up tomorrow. The settlement of the dock strike has paved the way for a resumption of mining on the range. However, the Steel officials are apprehensive of trouble when work is begun.

St. Paul, July 31.—Governor Johnson informed the Associated Press tonight that he sent three men to the iron range this evening, but he declined to give their names. The governor this afternoon sent the following to Petriella: "The mining companies state that it is not true they have refused to pay the men their June wages. They are willing to pay all the men anything coming to them. They also state that it is not true their armed employees or deputies have patrolled halls where the men are holding meetings for have prevented them from holding meetings therein. Any resistance of the kind you threaten would call for armed interference by me, when all men alike will be protected in their liberty and property."

Clinton, Ill., July 31.—The report of the medical experts who made the analysis of the contents of the stomach of Mrs. Pet Magill, first wife of Fred H. Magill, was received here today. State Attorney Miller announced that the report is to effect that Mrs. Magill died from chloroform poisoning. A trace of arsenic also was found. Lot Herriek, special assistant state's attorney, who is preparing the evidence for the special grand jury, said: "The chemists' report does not weaken our case. We believe that a suicide compact existed between Fred Magill and his first wife. Murder will be our charge."

Cleveland, July 31.—After years of litigation the estate of Alva Bradley, valued at $5,000,000, was divided equally among the heirs today. Bradley, who was a wealthy vessel and real estate man, left the estate in trust for twenty years.

SCHMITZ BOARD ENJOINED. San Francisco Mayorality Issue Is Carried to the Courts.

San Francisco, July 31.—The issue between the board of supervisors appointed by Mayor Taylor and the fourteen named yesterday by Mayor Schmitz for the same offices was brought into court today when Judge Coffey, on the application of the Taylor appointees, issued a temporary restraining order to prevent the Schmitz board from assuming office.

BANK CASHIER IS JAILED. Pennsylvania Man Placed Under Arrest on His Own Confession.

Philadelphia, July 31.—Moreys L. Hartman, former cashier of the Farmers' National Bank of Philadelphia, Pa., which was closed by the comptroller of the currency June 20, was arrested today, charged with misapplying funds, making false entries and falsifying reports to the comptroller. The affidavit on which the arrest was made was sworn to by William L. Fols, national bank examiner. The facts in the affidavit are in accordance with a confession secured from Hartman a month ago but made public only today.

TRAIN BANDIT CONFESSES. Butte, Mont., July 31.—George Tower, arrested for complicity in the hold-up of the Northern Pacific train, May 7, when Engineer Clow was killed, confessed today. He implicated three other men. Tower is aged twenty-two and says his parents reside in Gatesburg, Ills.

MINERS' UNION BOARD AUTHORIZES A STRIKE. FOURTEEN THOUSAND MEN LIKELY TO BE CALLED OUT IN THE PITTSBURG COAL DISTRICT.

Pittsburgh, July 31.—The executive board of District No. 3, United Mine Workers of America, which embraces the Pittsburgh district, tonight authorized President Patrick Feehan to call a strike immediately, alleging that the Pittsburgh Coal company had violated the wage agreement. President Feehan announced that he would give the Coal company a few hours in which to adjust matters. Over 14,000 miners will be affected should the walkout occur, as now seems likely.

BITTEN BY RATTLESNAKE. State Senator Newberry of Iowa Is in Critical Condition.

Waterloo, Ia., July 31.—State Senator Byron Newberry, father of the Iowa football hero, was bitten on the ankle by a rattlesnake yesterday, and is in critical condition. He was bitten in an out field on his farm near Strawberry point.

TROOPS MASSES IN IRISH CITY. 7,000 SOLDIERS NOW IN BELFAST, READY TO GRAPPLE PROMPTLY WITH ANY RIOTING.

Belfast, July 31.—Troops continue to enter the city, emphasizing the fact that the authorities are determined to grapple promptly with rioting whether on the part of the striking dock laborers or of the Middlesex regiment arrived today, bringing a Maxim gun. A section of the Essex regiment will arrive early tomorrow, making a military strength of about 7,000.

SUICIDE COMPACT HINTED. Murder to Be Charged Against Fred Magill of Clinton.

Clinton, Ill., July 31.—The report of the medical experts who made the analysis of the contents of the stomach of Mrs. Pet Magill, first wife of Fred H. Magill, was received here today. State Attorney Miller announced that the report is to effect that Mrs. Magill died from chloroform poisoning. A trace of arsenic also was found. Lot Herriek, special assistant state's attorney, who is preparing the evidence for the special grand jury, said: "The chemists' report does not weaken our case. We believe that a suicide compact existed between Fred Magill and his first wife. Murder will be our charge."

FOR THE KAISER'S ARMY. Cavalry Horses to Be Bred in the Kentucky Blue Grass Region.

Berlin, July 31.—The German government is about to send a full-blooded Trakherer stallion from the royal breeding farms to a stock farm at Fields Place, in the Kentucky blue grass region, leased some time ago for the purpose of breeding cavalry horses for the German army.

JIMMY BRITT REGAINS LAURELS. California Pugilist the Victor in a Terrific Twenty-Round Bout at San Francisco With Battling Nelson of Chicago.

San Francisco, July 31.—Jimmy Britt defeated Battling Nelson in a terrific twenty-round fight here tonight. Nelson had little chance to win, the first blow of the contest almost flooring him. He tried to force the fighting, but was always met by a hard straight left or a right to the jaw, and the crowd was giggling around the ring all but one. There were no clean knockdowns in the contest.

The fight was preceded by a small riot when the crowd, which exceeded all expectations, tried to storm the doors of the building after the police had ordered the doors closed. Mounted officers charged the mob, and a score or more were trampled by the horses' hoofs. Britt and Nelson weighed in at 9 o'clock, making 133 pounds easily. After weighing in both ate a hearty meal. At 9 o'clock every seat in the rink was taken and close on to a thousand persons were standing. The police stopped the admissions to the galleries before the first preliminary. The size of the crowd exceeded even the best hopes of the club management. The great pouring was partly accounted for by the fact that this was the first top-notch fight pulled off in San Francisco proper since the earthquake, and judging from the attitude of Mayor Taylor it probably will be the last. Time was called at 10:04 p. m.

Round 2. At the close range Nelson upped cut twice to the body. Nelson walloped his man two forceful lefts to the stomach. At close range Nelson whipped a right and left to the face. Britt retaliating with a left to the stomach and a left to the ear. In a mix Britt swung a left hard to the ear. Nelson's right ear bled. It was Britt's turn.

Round 3. Nelson kept forcing the pace and made Britt break ground. Nelson jabbed a vigorous left to the face, and followed it with two left swings to the same spot. Then ensued a furious rally, Nelson having the better. As the gong sounded Britt sunk a left twice to the Dane's stomach, making the latter wince. This round was even.

Round 4. Nelson getting close swung a left, then a right to the face. Britt covered and mixed furiously in the center. Nelson did much execution. At the bell Britt rallied and drove two terrific blows to the face. Nelson went to his corner showing no effects. It was a hard round, with Nelson having a shade the better.

Round 5. Nelson forced Britt to a neutral corner. The men fought shoulder to shoulder, making the Californian several times with upper cuts. Then he sent a left twice to the mouth. Britt spat blood. In the center of the ring they exchanged a vicious fusillade to head and face. The round ended in Nelson's favor. Nelson was the stronger.

Round 6. Nelson jabbed a left to Britt's sore mouth, and Britt sent the Dane's head back with a left hook. They mixed it, Britt doing much clever ducking and smothering. It was give and take, Britt throwing science to the winds. Britt came out to the melee with bleeding nostrils, while Nelson was not disturbed. It was Nelson's round.

Round 7. Nelson forced Britt against the ropes, landing almost at will. Britt electrified the crowd by a wonderful rally. He planted a left and a right twice to Nelson's face. Nelson smiled as the gong rang. The round was about even. Joe Gans shouted, "Good boy Jimmy."

Round 8. Britt staggered Nelson with right jolts to the jaw. Britt backed away and continued to pepper Nelson's face. The Dane showed his head and went in all the time. The round was Britt's.

Round 9. Britt shot two lefts to the Battler's face. He followed with a left to the jaw and a right to the same place. Nelson maddened perceptibly and fought back hard. He landed two blows to his left to the face. Nelson nearly slipped to his knees for a misspent punch. Britt whipped his left with great force to the jaw. Nelson closed in only to be a target for Britt's merrily left to the face. It was Britt's round by a big margin.

Round 10. Nelson endeavored to get to close quarters, but Britt backed away and drove two rights to the head, followed with three lefts. Nelson landed a glancing left to the nose. Britt laced out with a left which landed on the nose, bringing blood. Britt then shot two leads to the nose. The gong closed with the round all Britt's.

Round 11. Britt staggered Nelson with rights to the face. Although Britt out-pointed Nelson the latter forced the fighting throughout the round. Britt contented himself with meeting the Dane with long distance swats.

Round 12. Nelson forced Britt against

WEATHER FORECAST. Washington, July 31.—The following is the weather bureau's forecast for Upper Michigan: Generally fair, Thursday and Friday; light variable winds.

PENNSYLVANIA GRAFT. Capitol Furnishings Worth $500,000 Cost the State Two Millions.

Bench Haven, N. J., July 31.—Charles D. Montague, an expert on metal furniture, shows by a report to the Pennsylvania capitol investigation commission today that the state was netted more than a million and a half dollars on a $2,000,000 contract for metallic furnishings.

CHAOS REIGNS IN GEORGIA. Losses Due to Prohibition Will Run Into Many Millions.

Augusta, Ga., July 31.—Chaos reigns in the liquor traffic in this state today, since it is a foregone conclusion that the bill providing for absolute prohibition after Jan. 1 will be signed by Governor Hoke Smith before the end of the week. Dispatches from Savannah and other cities tell a story of financial loss that runs into the many millions.

FALLING WALLS KILL MAN.

Pittsburg, July 31.—Fire that threatened to destroy the municipal institutions of this city at Marshfield, twelve miles from here, broke out tonight. It started in the laundry of the main building. Samuel Means, an employee, was killed by falling walls. The fire communicated to the insane pavilion, and police and county detectives were sent to assist the attendants. The 289 inmates were herded safely on the lawns. The fire was controlled after $25,000 loss.

REFORM LAWS AGITATE TEXAS. Liquor Trade Thrown Into a State of Indescribable Chaos Because of Radical Legislation Affecting Saloon Keepers.

Dallas, Tex., July 31.—Confusion hardly describes the situation among the saloon keepers and liquor dealers. The new laws have thrown the trade into indescribable chaos and conflict. The Baskin-McGregor liquor law stops little short of prohibition. It was the result of an uprising against the liquor dealers who thought themselves above popular opinion and that they could either control the legislature or nullify its laws.

The principal feature of the new liquor law is that local option is given to the people in every residence block or a block containing a church or school. The applicant for the license must have been a law-abiding citizen of the city or precinct where he makes his application for two years. His taxes are increased 25 per cent, his fee, or a general license, from $600 to $700, and all saloons must be closed from midnight until five the next morning on all day Sunday.

Most of the confusion among the liquor men has been caused by the so-called Pollard ruling. Assistant Attorney General Claude Pollard handed down an opinion on May 29, interpreting the new statute. He said that the act repealed the existing law, revoked all existing licenses, regardless of whether or not they had expired, and destroyed the force of all bonds given under it. All must obtain new licenses, he added, and it would be illegal for liquor dealers to open their saloons until they had done so.

Things Topsy Turvy. After the new law went into effect, the situation became chaotic. In Austin and Waco all of the saloons were closed. One remained open in San Antonio. In Galveston a few of them closed, but opened again, while the 200 proprietors made a rush for licenses. Houston's drinking places are open under an agreement between the proprietors and the authorities. Dozens of saloon keepers of the 250 in Dallas closed their saloons for a while, and opened them again. The county commissioners of Houston and Galveston are arranging to refund the license money for the unexpired terms of the saloon keepers. Reports from twenty-seven smaller towns show that after the law went into effect, the saloons in twenty-four of them were closed, while those in only three towns remained open. Collin county went dry by a vote of three to one in a local option election. To add to the confusion, the abstentions and the liquor men have started vigorous campaigns along the familiar temperance lines. The prohibitionists are making a general attack on the liquor trade; friends and enemies of the saloons are alike expending money and breath on option elections.

Such a tangle could only be settled by a test case and an interpretation of the law by the courts. This test case originated in the town of Orange, was transferred to Dallas, and argued there last week. The old liquor license of H. B. Rogers, the defendant, does not expire until October next, and the question was raised whether he had a right to continue to sell liquor under it or if the Baskin-McGregor law had revoked the privilege. The point was not covered by the law. During the argument the attorneys for Rogers declared that the revocation of the old licenses meant a loss of at least $1,000,000 to the saloon keepers and between $300,000 and $400,000 to the state in fees.

No License for Women. Under the new law a woman cannot hold a license, and the exercise privilege is forfeited if a woman or minor is allowed to remain in a place where liquor is sold. The latter provision has already led to a curious complication. The grocers in Waco have been warned against selling beer, because children go to their stores. The grocers must give up the liquor or keep the youngsters out.

It is now a felony in Texas to sell or give liquor to children without the written consent of their parents or guardians. The drinking of intoxicating liquor on passenger trains is a misdemeanor. Physicians who make a practice of writing prescriptions for liquor are selling non-intoxicating malt liquors. In local option districts must pay a special tax of $2,000 for the privilege. A man in Orange was arrested last week for not turning over the money before he sold "soft" drinks.

Visitors to the Lone Star state will find that the land of cotton, brooms, cowboys, greasers, and sunshine has lost much of its picturesque quality. No longer may the stranger while away an idle hour playing checkers in a corner of a cafe, according to time-honored custom. No longer will there be poker in the shadow of the bars, nor sad-faced soubrettes pounding on cracked pianos, nor negroes with banjos, nor dancing, billiards, or pool. Even the yellow-skinned greaser with his game cock must betake himself elsewhere. All music, gaming, and dancing are forbidden, even in the same building where liquor is sold.

Public gambling has become a felony.

ANOTHER MURDER MYSTERY. Woman's Mutilated Body Floats Ashore on Staten Island.

New York, July 31.—The mutilated body of a young woman, consisting of the torso from the waist down and the legs, which were severed below the knees, floated onto the shore of Staten Island today. The body evidently had been in the water for some time. There is every indication the woman was murdered.

ARMENIAN PRIEST INDICTED. Is Central Figure, It Is Claimed, in Extensive Blackmailing Conspiracy.

New York, July 31.—Four indictments now lie against Father Levont Martossian, the Armenian priest who is alleged to have turned aside his priestly robes to practice extortion and blackmail. The priest is the central figure in the conspiracy which the district attorney seeks to prove had for its object the robbery of wealthy Armenians and led to the murder of the rug merchant, Tavshanjian, and others who refused to be financially haled. From the slayer of Tavshanjian, Bedros Hampartzian, the police hope to secure a confession establishing that the youth was unwittingly the agent of blackmailing terrorists. Once the assassins is convinced that he was more of a tool than a patriot, the police expect him to make startling disclosures. The indictments against Martossian brought in by the grand jury today charged attempted robbery and extortion.

POLICE SHAKE-UP AT KANSAS CITY. Chief Hayes Ousted as a Result of the Investigation Instituted by the Governor in Consequence of Charges of Corruption.

Kansas City, July 31.—Governor Folk's promise of a shake-up in the local police department, made May 17, when he came to Kansas City to start an investigation of the alleged corruption, was given added force this afternoon when the board of police commissioners failed to reappoint Chief John Hayes and named Daniel Ahern, inspector of detectives, acting chief. Hayes is the fifth officer to be let out or resign since the investigation began. He was appointed chief Oct. 1, 1897, having worked up from patrolman, to which position he was appointed in 1880. He was born at Rockford, Ills., in 1853.

S. M. STEPHENSON DEAD AT MEMONIEE. RICH EX-CONGRESSMAN SUCCEUMBS TO INJURIES SUSTAINED IN RECENT ACCIDENT.

Memoriee, Mich., July 31.—S. M. Stephenson, ex-congressman and multi-millionaire lumberman, died here this afternoon as a result of a fall several days ago while alighting from a carriage. He was a member of the Fifty-first, Fifty-second, Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth congresses and was a brother of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin.

CALIB POWERS' TRIAL IS OFF. Georgetown, Ky., July 31.—The trial of Caleb Powers, former secretary of state, charged with complicity in the murder of Senator William Goebel, has been indefinitely postponed.

Earlier in the session Commissioner Gallagher called Chief Hayes a liar when the latter told the board that Gallagher's son had used his father's influence to secure insurance business in saloons and disreputable resorts. Ex-City Detective Bert Brannan, who had supplied Chief Hayes with the evidence against Gallagher's son, called Gallagher a liar. It required the active efforts of Mayor Beardsley and several officers to restore order.

RAISULI THREATENS TO KILL. Life of Caid MacLean, Bandit's Prisoner, in Dire Peril.

Tangier, under Caid Bouchta, renewed their operations against the lawless tribes today. They surprised Akka, inhabited by Raisuli supporters, and set it on fire. Raisuli's letter to the sultan's minister, threatening to kill Caid MacLean, and an urgent message to Bouchta, advising the suspension of hostilities, have had no deterrent effect on the commander of the Moroccan troops. It is reported that Raisuli has formulated demands that he be made governor of the northern tribes. Failing this, he threatens that the acceptance of the bandit's terms will lead to anarchy, thus affording an excuse for interference by France.

LEGISLATOR WARD TAKEN INTO CUSTODY. STANDS MUTE IN COURT, AND PENDING HEARING SEPT. 6 IS RELEASED ON BAIL.

Detroit, July 31.—Representative Chas. E. Ward, speaker pro tem of the Michigan house of representatives and chairman of the ways and means committee, was arraigned this afternoon in police court here on a warrant charging manslaughter in connection with the death from a criminal operation in April of Miss Edith Presley, proof reader for the state senate. Ward stood mute and his attorney asked for an examination in police court, which Justice Stein set for Sept. 6. The justice then fixed bail at $9,000, which was furnished.

RUMBAUGH IS DEAD. Man Who Shot Himself Following Suicide of Actress.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 31.—Amos R. Rumbaugh, who shot himself late yesterday rather than testify at the inquest over the body of his friend, Miss Laura Mathews, died early this morning at St. Francis' hospital. Superintendent Richardson said this afternoon that in his opinion Laura Mathews and Amos R. Rumbaugh both committed suicide. He believed that Miss Mathews killed herself because of unrequited love on the part of C. A. Coey, a Chicago millionaire, and that Rumbaugh had been drinking heavily, killed himself because of infatuation for the girl.

VERDICTS OF SUICIDE RENDERED. Colorado Springs, Colo., July 31.—The coroner's jury this afternoon rendered a verdict that Miss Laura Mathews, the actress whose dead body was found in a lane near Broadway Monday morning with a bullet hole in the head, had committed suicide.

An inquest was later held over the remains of Amos R. Rumbaugh, who shot himself yesterday afternoon. A verdict of suicide was rendered. Suspicion for a time pointed to Rumbaugh as having caused the death of Miss Mathews because of his apparent infatuation for the young woman and his failure to appear at the inquest. Miss Tillie Green of Scottville, Mich., who was Miss Mathews' nurse and whose effects had been held by the authorities, was declared in no way to blame for the young woman's act.

JAPS REPLACE KOREANS. Decree Is Promulgated at Seoul Disbanding the Troops.

Seoul, Thursday, Aug. 1.—An ordinance disbanding the Korean troops was promulgated yesterday.

GERMAN DIVORCES INCREASE. Berlin, July 31.—The number of divorces in Prussia has increased rapidly of late years, and is still augmenting.

BELGIAN PROPOSITION CARRIES. The Hague, July 31.—The Belgian proposition that the inhabitants of occupied territory should not be compelled to participate in military operations against their country was adopted today, 18 to 15, with twelve absentees.

The British proposition for the abolition of contraband was adopted in committee today, 25 votes to 2.

DAILY MINING JOURNAL
A MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY THE MINING JOURNAL CO. (LIMITED).

Entered as mail matter of the second class
in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

Without doubt State Game Warden Pierce will enjoy his deputies when he gets 'em appointed, but he is finding out that it is serious business to satisfactorily dispose of the appointments.

Senator Foraker refuses to accept the decision of the state central committee that Secretary Taft is Ohio's favorite son, but there is a well defined belief that the voters of the state will acquiesce in it.

Attorney General Bird has relegated another law made by the recent legislature to the legal junk heap. This time it is the law covering juvenile courts, which the attorney general holds to be unconstitutional. He is of the opinion that the constitution does not cover the proposed court and also that the provision of the law providing for juries of six men is at variance with that instrument. There are other defects in the law, in his opinion. He has cut out another piece of work for the Tinker session of the legislature.

A general double column cut of a genial citizen with a no less genial 18-inch ponygry surrounding it is making the round of the Republican weeklies, says the Detroit News. Beads of honey ooze from every other line. For instance, "broad and comprehensive,"
"widely known," "firm in his judgments,"
"man of breadth," "careful in his conclusions," "watchdog of the treasury,"
the best equipped and most desirable candidate mentioned for the high office of governor." His name, the Right Hon.
Dr. James Bradley.

This country is not the only one in which domestic infidelity is seeking relief in the divorce courts at an ever increasing rate. According to the statistics divorce is becoming more and more common in the countries of Europe.
Switzerland seems to be the land of the easiest and most frequent severing of the ties by legal process. Her average is 40 to 1,000 marriages. In France the divorces number 21 to 1,000 marriages, in Germany 17. In 1884 the number of divorces granted in France was 1,879, while in 1904 there were 14,092. Divorce is admittedly a great evil, and in this country has been the subject of many conferences and much consultation. Its rapid increase in the countries of Europe
may in time make it a matter of international consideration, with suggestions of international uniformity of causes and procedure.

Rev. Rutledge and some of the upper peninsula papers are calling each other dreadful names and delivering deadly blows of vituperative rhetoric. The papers in question resent Rev. Rutledge's interference in local affairs, and Rev.
Rutledge resents their resentment. However, hard words will get neither Mr.
Rutledge nor the newspapers anywhere.
Whatever a newspaper's opinion may be of Mr. Rutledge's business, the fact remains that he is within the law in it, and overheard abuse is calculated to make him only the more zealous. And on his part, Mr. Rutledge should realize that there is nothing for him to gain by losing his temper and flying at the news. A controversy in which billingsgate is the medium of exchange reflects no credit on the participants and is little liked by the general public.

At the Soo the abortive attempts at settlement of the disputes between the water power companies continue to attract attention. There is much discussion of the matter, and Soo people are reported to be feeling discouraged over the apparently inability to straighten out the trouble and have an active start made on the improvement of the Michigan Power Canal company's waterway.
When the legislature was in session, and there was a chance of the specific tax law being repealed, the officials of the company were very sanguine that they would speedily be able to get results, but since the adjournment they have,
apparently, lapsed into their accustomed lethargy. But there's a special session coming and unless something definite is done before it is convened we may presently see the Soo people going after the repeal of the specific tax law in deadly earnest.

Despite occasional attempts by newspaper men to stir up interest in the session a little early for gubernatorial politics, and the general public refuses to concern itself with them. There is a deal of speculation as to whether Governor Warner will be a candidate for a third term,
and much comment on the proposed special session of the legislature, which will,
by common consent, have an important bearing on the general political situation. There has been a little heard from Auditor General Bradley's boom, and less of Attorney General Bird as a possible candidate, though the latter, of all the minor state officials, has made the record which has most impressed the public. In the natural course of events more will be heard of Mr. Bird in the connection.
When all is said, however, it is rather early for gubernatorial politics, and all discussion of them at this time is beside the mark. After the special session is out of the way we can begin to find out where we are at.

The Duluth News-Tribune publishes a Virginia, Minn., dispatch asserting that it is reported that John Kolu, state organizer for the Western Federation of Miners, is to spend some time on the Gogebic, Marquette and Menominee ranges, in an effort to get the miners out on a strike, completing a tieup of the entire Lake Superior iron fields. Possibly it is hoped to bolster up the waning Mesaba range strike. If Kolu comes the miners and mine owners of the Michigan iron fields are forewarned, and both should prepare to give him a reception fitting for a trouble-maker, pure and simple. The workmen of the Michigan ranges will be a harder lot to influence than their fellows on the Mesaba.
They are an intelligent class, capable of doing their own thinking, and accustomed to doing it. On occasions they have strikes of their own. They know when they are being used well, and when they feel that they are being treated fairly are not found very patient by men who want to involve them in expensive and profitless trouble.

THE WASTE LAND COMMISSION.
The nine men whom Governor Warner has appointed to study the problem of Michigan's waste lands were expected to meet in Lansing yesterday to organize and lay out their work for the next two years. Individually the men who compose this most important commission are such as to inspire confidence. They represent all parts of the state and in their own communities they are leading citizens. Their public spirit is evidenced by the fact that they have consented to undertake a long and arduous task for which there will be no compensation except such as may come from satisfaction in a great work well done and such as lies in the gratitude and respect of the people of the state.

It is believed by those who heretofore have studied the problem that the new commission's work will result in outlining a forest policy for Michigan probably somewhat along the lines of that now being followed by the federal government in the far west. These persons believe that there are at least two facts which will inevitably lead to such a result. One is that there are considerable areas in the state which while unit for agriculture are yet fertile enough to bear crops of trees. The other is that the water power of Michigan is destined to play a great part in its future development and this water power can be utilized to its full extent only if the water sheds of the rivers are protected by trees.

Should the commission decide to outline a forest policy there will undoubtedly be considerable opposition by interested parties to its adoption. Such opposition was once open and blatant; it is now secret and quiet. For its arguments have been shown to be either knowingly false or based upon misapprehension. Such a forest policy as is advocated by the Michigan Forestry association and by the forestry commission does not contemplate withdrawing agricultural lands from settlement; it does not involve reducing the revenues of any county; it does not lead to turning the country into a wilderness.

Instead it would encourage settlement
wherever there is a large enough area of fertile land to support a farmer, for one reason because sections of cleared land in a forest are great protections against fire; it might well increase the revenues of many of our northern counties, for there is no reason why the state, like the federal government, should not pay the counties a percentage of all receipts from the sale of timber and other products. And a small percentage on very small sales will be infinitely better than the less than no revenue now derived from fire scarred wastes; it would make these regions the workground of many men who would earn good wages and spend them in towns where earners of good wages are now few and far between. The persons who would be injured by a rational forest policy are the land shark who now is able to take state property without paying for it, and he is entitled to no consideration.

"REGULAR AS THE SUN"
"EVERYBODY SHOULD KNOW"
Says C. G. Hays, a prominent business man of Bluff, Mo., "That Bucklen's Aris-matic Salve is the quickest and surest healing salve ever applied to a sore,
burn or wound, or to a case of piles.
I've used it and know what I'm talking

FINNS AND SOCIALISM.
John Saari, a Finnish member of the house of representatives of the Minnesota legislature, is quoted by the Duluth Evening Herald as denying that the Finnish miners of the Mesaba are the backbone of the strike, as has been generally assumed. He asserts a belief that a majority of the Finns on the range regard the strike as ill advised, and he says that it is not for the intimidation practiced by the ringleaders of the strike movement they would return to work. "These so-called leaders are irresponsible," Mr. Saari says. "They have everything to gain and nothing to lose by bringing about these disturbances. They are constitutionally disin-clined to work, and they don't want other men to work. The men are beginning to see this, and consequently are becoming dissatisfied with such leadership. These Socialist leaders are simply parasites on the working men."

Mysterious Vein.
A vein of sulphide copper ore two feet wide has been struck in the Maggie claim at a depth of eighty feet. The Maggie is a branch of the main vein, the Bullwhacker and Montgomery claims on the east side and is being developed by the owners. The vein has an east and west strike, and the owners are therefore confident that it is a permanent one. It was found in a cross-cut 200 feet from the shaft. The Bertha, another fraction, situated a little northeast of the Maggie, has also struck one, but it is in the north and south vein, on which the Bullwhacker and Bertha is silicate of copper, having an average assay of about 4 per cent copper.

Raven.
The Raven Mining company is making good headway in sinking a shaft, and has added about sixty feet to the 700-foot shaft since work has been resumed. The company did a lot of work on the shaft before sinking was started, as it was in a very bad condition. Development work in several of the levels is also being done. The shaft is connected to the Raven mine, and it is doubtful whether anything will be done with the Snozer for some time. There appears to be no disposition on the part of the Amalgamated and Coalition companies to join with the Raven company in a consolidation of interests.

Corbin District.
The ore in the lower adit of the Boston & Corbin company is increasing in width and value as progress is being made on the vein. A double compartment shaft is being sunk from the adit, from which, at a depth of 200 feet, a crosscut will be driven under the ore body. It is expected that within two months ore will be opened below the water level. In excavating for a well revealed a fine vein of ore, about a foot in width, was cut on the Butte & Corbin ground.

WHAT A NEW JERSEY EDITOR SAYS
M. T. Lynch, editor of the Phillipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicine for coughs and colds in my family, but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in praise of it."

to the boundary lines of the lots, but it is charged that the company, through a leasing company known as the Blackbird Mining company, composed of East Butte Extension company officials and others, has gone beyond the boundaries of the lots and mined in Washoe ground.
It is charged that stipes seventy-three feet high have been mined out of a Washoe ore body. The last shipment of ore was attached on the railroad tracks and a suit for damages in the sum of $15,000 and for an injunction was brought against the two companies and their officials.

Butte & Ballaklava.
The new Butte & Ballaklava Copper company which capitalized six acres of ground for $2,500,000, is telling its stockholders and the public that it will in a very short time be mining ore. The company has just started sinking a shaft on virgin ground. It takes other new companies from two to three years to develop a mine to a shipping point, and requires the expenditure of the best part of a million dollars. The Butte & Ball-aklava company is composed of small capitalists, farmers and merchants of North Dakota and Minnesota, who are new in the mining game.

KING EDWARD AS AN ARTIST.
Some Other Members of European Royal Families Who Have Talent
for Painting.
King Edward cannot only boast that he has had a picture exhibited at Burlington House at an earlier age than the most precious of our present Royal Academicians, but that his picture was purchased for a substantial sum before the public even set eyes on it.

There is, as a matter of fact, scarcely one of Queen Victoria's descendants who has not inherited in some degree her love of art. The late Empress Frederick was throughout her life passionately fond of painting and exhibited so much skill that the Berlin Academy of Arts enrolled her among its members in recognition of her
"talent as a composer and a draughts-woman."

Princess Henry of Battenberg is little less skilful with the brush, as is proved by the three beautiful landscapes which for so many years hung in Queen Victoria's sitting room at Osborne, and by many other pictures which have honored places in almost every royal palace in Great Britain. Princess Christian's talent, takes the form of exquisite designs for the tapestry produced under her direction at the Royal School of Art Newdewport, and Princess Victoria, her daughter, is one of the most skilful amateur colorists of flowers in England.

Not in proficiency in art by any means confined to English royalties. It is not long since a sumptuous volume was published for a charitable cause, the illustrations of which were largely supplied by royal artists. The German emperor contributed a striking picture of a large ship riding at anchor on a placid sea, surrounded by smaller boats and with a background of distant snowcapped mountains. Queen Amelia of Portugal was represented by a study of a donkey's head, ornamented with gayly colored trappings; the queen of Spain by an exquisite study of flowers; the Empress Frederick by a powerful sketch of a boy's head, and Princess Clara of Bavaria by an ambitious and successful etching.

The German emperor, as is well known,
is an artist of much more than average skill. One of his pictures, "Eight Between Battleships," is a remarkably powerful piece of work, exhibiting rare skill and technical knowledge; while his design for the tower of the Church of Our Saviour at Jerusalem proves that he is no mere architect and draughtsman.

The fry will be shipped so as to be received here Aug. 6, on the train due at 3 p. m. Marquette sportsmen interested in keeping up the supply of game fish in neighboring waters will take them to lakes where the conditions are suitable for them.

No Resident Gun License—In one particular State Game Warden Pierce was misquoted in The Mining Journal yesterday. The gun license provided for by the new law applies only to non-resident hunters. A general gun license law was proposed, but it was not the desire of the legislature to put any additional burden on resident hunters. They all have to pay for the privilege of pursuing game is the deer license fee, if they want to go out after venison. The salaries of the deputy game wardens will be defrayed from the general fund of the state.

SONOMA GIRL EASY WINNER.

Highball Is Lame and Does Not Participate in Cleveland Race.

Cleveland, July 31.—The prospect of a contest between Sonoma Girl and Highball in the 2:15 trot, scheduled for today, drew to the Grand Circuit meet the largest crowd at the Glenville oval in many years. Highball was lame, and was withdrawn. As a result, Sonoma Girl obtained a hollow victory.

Thornway was the only favorite of the day to lose, Alice Pointer, the second choice, winning the 2:11 pace in straight heats. Ed. Geers, who drew the distance flag three times on Tuesday, won the 2:05 pace today with Ardello, the Memphis pacer that won the Chamber of Commerce stake in 1906. The mare won handily.

McLevitt, driver for Davis Shaw of Cleveland, scored his second victory of the day when he won the 2:09 trot with Lillian R. This race was featured by the reappearance of John Splan, a veteran reinsman on the Grand Circuit, who drove Bidora, which finished fifth. Summaries:

2:11 pace, $1,500 (five starters)—
 Alice Pointer 1 1
 Thornway 2 2
 Billy W. 3 3
 Time 2:05 3/4.

2:15, trot, $5,000 (eight starters)—
 Sonoma Girl 1 1
 Gentle H. 2 2
 Clary Latus 3 3
 Time 2:04 1/2.

2:05 pace, two in three, $1,000 (five starters)—
 Ardello 1 1
 Nervolo 2 2
 Hal C. 3 3
 Time 2:05 3/4.

2:09, trot, two in three, $1,000 (six starters)—
 Lillian R. 1 1
 Allie Jay 2 2
 Emboy 3 3
 Time 2:06 3/4.

Desauter, July 31.—Dan Patch today put a new mark of 2:01 1/2 on the Desauter track. His time by quarters was: 30 1/2, 1:01 1/2, 1:32 1/2, 2:01 1/2.

WESTERN TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Chicago, July 31.—The play in the Western tennis championship tournament at Onwentsia today reached the semi-finals in the singles and the fourth round in the doubles for men and the semi-finals in the singles and doubles for women. In the men's singles, the players left are Alexander of New York, Emerson of Cincinnati, and Neal and Weidner of Chicago. Alexander and Brackett of New York are the only out-of-town team left in the doubles.

JIMMY BRITT REGAINS LAURELS

the ropes and landed a left and a right to the face. He worked to the center of the ring. Nelson went to his knees, partly from a slip. They mixed viciously. Britt fairly smothered his man with left and right punches. Nelson tottered about the ring like a beaten man. He lunged to Britt and butted the Californian, for which he was warned by the referee. Nelson spat blood when he went to his seat. Britt clearly earned the honors.

Round 13. Britt was cool and appeared to gain strength as the fight progressed. He shot a fearful left to the stomach and followed it with a light left to the jaw. Nelson, however, forced the fighting. Nelson again almost slipped to his knees, but was quickly in fighting position. Nelson vainly sought to land on his antagonist, but could not locate him. "Britt," "Britt," yelled the crowd at the pace.

Round 14. Following Nelson's instructions, Nelson forced Britt about the ring. As usual, his efforts to locate Britt were fruitless. Britt drove Nelson's head back with a straight right. They wrestled, and Nelson gave Britt his elbow, flooring him. The crowd disappeared. It was Britt's round.

In the fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth, Nelson continued to force. But always Britt was backing away, meeting Nelson's advances with lefts to the jaw. Nelson fought strongly, but could not catch Britt. The crowd continued to yell for Britt. The Dane showed signs of weakening in the seventh round from head smashes to the mouth.

The nineteenth was a repetition of the preceding round. At close quarters Britt landed a right that looked wicked enough to put out an ordinary man, but Nelson never faltered.

Round 20. They shook hands, and then fought hard. Nelson drove a wicked right smash to the jaw. They mixed furiously, Britt leaving the better of it. Britt drove Nelson to the ropes. Nelson tottered about the ring helplessly. Britt yont at his man like a maniac, and almost sent Nelson through the ropes with a right flush to the jaw. The gop saved Nelson from

MUST STAY IN PRISON.

Ex-Chaplain Kirkman's Petition Denied in Federal Court.

Topeka, Kas., July 31.—Federal Judge Smith McPherson filed an opinion here today denying the application for a writ of habeas corpus made by George W. Kirkman, ex-chaplain of the United States army, now serving three years in the federal prison at Leavenworth. The decision is important as bearing upon the matter of the time allowed military prisoners for good behavior. It is Kirkman's second rebuff in his effort to secure his release.

HER WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN.

Runaway Iowa Girl Disappears from Holy Jumpers' Home.

Waukesha, Wis., July 31.—A sensation was caused today at the habeas corpus proceedings brought by Mrs. Anna Lundell of Sae City, Ia., for the release of her daughter Olga from the Holy Jumpers. The return to the writ alleged that the girl had disappeared from the Fountain House, the mansion of the Jumpers, some time before noon Monday, and her whereabouts are unknown. The return to the writ was made by the Metropolitan Church association. It further states that Olga came to the institution voluntarily and had remained there voluntarily. It is also alleged that the girl was driven home by her father and mother and was unwilling to return to them.

NOVEL OKLAHOMA PROJECT.

Co-Operative Bank Established by Labor and Farmer Unions.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 31.—So far as can be learned, the first co-operative banking institution, backed by both union labor and farmers' unions, is being established at the present time in Oklahoma City. Articles of incorporation have been filed with the territorial secretary, Charles H. Filson, and a charter secured for the Co-Operative Bank and Trust company, an institution capitalized at $500,000, and proposing to do a general banking business, with main offices in Oklahoma City.

SPENDTHRIFT GRANDPA.

"I guess I've discovered the great American spendthrift," remarked a Clevelandian who travels, as he gazed at the little smoke ringlets he had been making. "Yes, I don't know what his name is, but I rode up on Cincinnati with him on the train the other day. He was an old fellow with a white beard that flowed over his chest, like milk out of a tin bucket. We got to talking and after a while he told me that he was going to some little town over the other side of Buffalo to see his son. 'My boy's got two youngsters that I haven't seen for nearly three years—well, fact is, I never have seen the youngest one. I guess they won't be glad to see me or anything.' I remarked then carelessly that youngsters usually were crazy to have their grandfathers come with his stories and candy. Then all of a sudden he sat up, his right eye, slipped his hand to his thigh, and exclaimed, 'By your know, I've forgot to get any candy for these kids.'"

"Just then the trainboy entered the car. 'I know what I'll do,' said his whiskers, 'I'll get some candy from that boy.'"

"He was an easy mark for that boy, this grandparent was, he? Yes, he wasn't. Do you know what all he bought? He got a five-cent package of milk chocolate."

NEW TERROR IN RUSSIA.

VENDETTA SOCIETY IS LEGALIZED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

School Boy Is Sent to Siberia Because He Belonged to Social Democratic Organization.

St. Petersburg, July 21.—Arrests continue here at a rate which warrants the suspicion expressed in some circles that the government's plan of dealing with the crisis is to imprison one-half of the population and employ the other half to mount guard over them—a plan which, I may remark, is quite in keeping with the no less ingenious plan of the government's sole supporters, the "Society of Real Russian People," whose scheme for settling the complicated agrarian question is by immersing all Jews in boiling oil.

The prisons in St. Petersburg are now so crowded that in the fortress of SS. Peter and Paul the garrison have evacuated part of their barracks, to make room for prisoners. But, though two other military barracks have been converted into jails, the congestion is still so great that a party of Kronstadt revolutionists, whose trial was to have begun some days ago, could not be brought to St. Petersburg in time owing to lack of accommodations for them here.

The estimates for the construction of new jails amount to over $1,000,000. Thirty persons are arrested daily in St. Petersburg by the secret police. Eighty are sent into exile from St. Petersburg every day. Telegrams from this report that the authorities there are working day and night at the construction of a huge temporary prison. The only solitary gleam of sense which the government has so far shown in this business is its determination to take advantage of this opportunity of utilizing some of its unlimited supply of prisoners for the construction of a second track of the great Siberian railway. Four hundred convicts will soon be sent from Russia to begin this work.

Special Columns of "Jail News." So many Russians have friends in jail or have been there themselves or expect to go there soon that the papers print special columns headed "Jail News," just as the English and American papers devote a special section to the doings of the fashionable world at seaside resorts. As if the number of arrests was not sufficiently numerous as it is, a considerable number of reactionaries who have lost relatives at the hands of the revolutionists have formed themselves into a vendetta society, which the government gladly legalized on June 29 (although it still refuses to legalize the great Constitutional Democrat party), under the title of "Victims of the Revolution," and which has for its object the discovery of revolutionary plots and the arrest of the plotters. This adds another terror to life here, for one may now be legally held up and searched by all sorts of crazy amateur detectives, who are encouraged, and even armed, by the government.

Another disagreeable feature of life in Moscow is the possibility of arrest and unlimited detention in prison for being in possession of illegal literature, and, as it would take an expert, assisted by a staff of secretaries, to ascertain what books, papers, pamphlets and photographs are on the "index" (seven photographs of members of the last Duma are regarded as "illegal literature" in some parts of Russia), no person can be safe under this regulation except perhaps those who keep no printed matter or manuscript in their possession and who have never printed matter to enter their houses in any form, even in the form of old newspapers wrapped around parcels.

Speaking of strange associations, one of the strongest here consists of seventy ex-members of the Duma, all of whom were arrested during the revolution. Next to being caught throwing a bomb the speediest way to ruin one's self and one's family in this country is to get elected to the Duma as a Liberal member.

Children Sent into Exile. A peculiarly distressing feature of the revolutionary activity of the day is the part played in it by mere boys and girls. To mention a few recent cases out of thousands, on June 25 one Warsaw schoolboy was sent to Siberia and another sentenced to imprisonment for two years in the fortress for belonging to the committee of the Polish Social Democrats.

On June 26 a youth of sixteen, the leader of a band of robbers, whose ages ranged between ten and fifteen, was killed with a companion by unidentified persons. On June 29 a youth of eight named Koo was sentenced to death at Vilna for an alleged attempt to murder a police inspector who had come to arrest his (Koo's) brother, an army deserter. On June 29 the Lutz correspondent of the Business Gazette of St. Petersburg, wiring apropos of the murder of a girl by boys whose ages ran from four to sixteen, explained the fact that so few murderers are now arrested by saying that boy murderers, being small and agile, can easily slip round the corner and disappear.

It must not be concluded from this, however, that the police are utterly inefficient for in Yalut Orovsky "government" (Omutinsky Parish, they have just seized an alleged "dangerous" person, Semen Pankin, whose age, attested by official records, is 121 years. Semen is now in Tumeny jail. Another police triumph was the capture at Peterhof of a blind man, who is charged with trying to corrupt the army because he gave a soldier a revolutionary leaflet.

To the army there is such a lack of discipline that it is proposed to form permanent disciplinary battalions of 10,000 men in the village of Molyet, where the Japanese prisoners were confined during the war. Opposing this project, the Novoe Vremya says that such battalions would be the cadres of a future revolutionary army. The same thing might, I think, be said of a proposal of the reactionary Moscow Gazette that in view of the recent mutiny at Kiev, caused by volunteers, the latter should now be formed into a special battalion and should not be allowed to mix with the other soldiers.

Such is life in the land of the czar!

THE KIMBERLY-WILFLEY MINES.

Superintendent in Charge Sends Satisfactory Reports of Progress Made Since July 1st.

Since the Wilfley mines and mill were taken over by the Kimberly-Wilfley Mines company, the president, Mr. Russell, has received reports at intervals from the superintendent in charge of the properties, Mr. C. L. Buckingham, giving in detail the work being done and the progress made in getting the mines in condition for regular production. To satisfy the desire of many of The Mining Journal's readers who are interested in the company for information regarding its operations, Mr. Russell has furnished these extracts bearing on the headway made to date, taken from the superintendent's reports to him:

Kimberly-Wilfley Mines Co.,
Kokomo, Colo., July 13, 1907.
Mr. Jas. Russell, Pres.,
Marquette, Mich.

Dear Sir:—On taking over the Wilfley property I found the mill (the old Wilfley mill) in such condition that it could not be economically operated; it having been allowed to run down lately until it was doing very poor work. They were running their roasted ore to the magnetic separators so hot that these did not do close work, and as a result the proportion of zinc run into their profits heavily. I at once set about rectifying the trouble and have the work well under way. Have the old Wilfley furnace nearly all down and the ground ready for the erection of a new one to replace it when that may be needed, and have also torn out the old log ore-bin, which stood up above the mill. The logs obtained there have been transferred to the rear of the new mill, on the Kimberly property, and will be used in construction of the trestle for the tramway from the new mill to the Kimberly tunnel. This saves us a considerable amount of money. The grade for the 10-inch reservoir is completed nearly 2,000 feet out of the 2,500 feet for laying the pipe. It will be finished to the reservoir site early in the week, when we will set to work on building the reservoir with an addition of force that we can by that time spare from about the mill. With this reservoir and the pipe line as planned we will have a head and flow of water that will enable us to throw water 25 feet above the highest point of the new mill and to knock the old mill over into the creek, in case of fire. This will materially reduce the cost of insurance, besides giving us a strong and even pressure in our mills, something quite essential in obtaining the best results from mill work on all kinds of ores.

The Wilfley mill is now about ready to operate on the lead ores, and we have several hundred tons of this grade of ore in the mill, taken from the strike in the fissure vein in the lower tunnel. This ore, you understand, needs no roasting, and can be treated at a very small expense. It should make from $30 to $40 concentrate. In working this mill on this ore all the labor needed will be one man on shift to look after the tables, and a laborer part of the time to feed the crusher. This strike gives promise of furnishing all the ore needed to keep the old mill busy, in which case we will not need the roaster at the old plant, so need not re-build it for the present, if ever. It is certainly looking fine, and is producing about 18 cars of mill ore (about 30 tons) to one shift. In a few days we will have made room to put on two shifts and later three a day, which we will do, if I want to find out what there is in this vein as soon as possible. It surely looks mighty good now.

The crosscut we are running off the incline in the upper Wilfley tunnel, one off to the right to catch the White Quail shoot, and one to the left to catch the ore shoot from which we are now shipping ore, are in about 45 feet each. We are still clearing out the incline farther up the hill beyond where we are now talking out shipping ore, so as to get action on the ore body farther up. I

I also started work in the lower Wilfley tunnel to catch up that fissure vein. I caught it after going a little distance and upraising, and am now in eight feet of ore carrying gold, silver and lead—no zinc. I am still crosscutting to see how wide the thing is. It is an excellent milling ore, can be treated without roasting, and should make a high-grade concentrate. As soon as I get the old mill ready to run I will start it on this ore, without the roaster. I give you some of the assays of the shipping ore from this strike, as we are sorting it:

| Grade. | Silver. | Lead. |
|--------------------|----------|----------------|
| No. 1... 14-100 oz | 2 1/4 oz | 5 1/2 per cent |
| No. 2... 10-100 " | 30 " | 5 7/8 " |
| No. 3... 8-100 " | 5 1/2 " | 4 " |

This makes a pretty attractive ore, being worth between $50 and $60 a ton. The mill dirt, which looks excellent, I have not yet had time to test, but hope soon to get an opportunity tomorrow. As soon as I do will report, letting you know its value.

I am going after the ore as fast as conditions warrant, and am working three shifts of men in the mine.

I am sending you some small photos showing the stack of the Kimberly furnace and a small portion of the tramway, now under construction, from the Kimberly mill to the mouth of the Kimberly tunnel. This tramway is fifty-two feet high at the first tower over from the mill, and will be hoisted in up to the mouth of the tunnel. It will carry four tracks, two from the Wilfley incline train and two from the Kimberly tunnel, and will be equipped with two sets of scales, one for each set of tracks, for weighing the crude ore into the mill from the mines, and send the train to the roaster building, also to check against the mill operations.

The stack shown in the photo is now fifty feet high, and ten feet wide will complete it. It will stand sixty feet from the base to the top, and will contain 50,000 bushels. It is eleven feet square at the base and seven feet two inches at the top. The line for carrying all the furnace and send the train to the roaster building, also to check against the mill operations.

Work on the Wilfley roaster furnace at the Kimberly plant was started today, and is moving along at a good rate. We have received two cars of lumber for the roaster building within the past few days. Lumber was ordered in April, and has not come in ever since. The delay in getting lumber has been expediting, but another mill has just started up at Bessemer, near here, and I am now making prompt deliveries from that mill. I expect to get enough lumber here next week to complete the roaster building and tramway.

The funders to take the refuse from the Kimberly mill to the creek are in. These are all of concrete, and a No. 1 job and might be good for fifty years. The pumps are all set in the mill, piping of all kinds nearly in, and everything pertaining to this plant is in a most advanced state. I am now after the parties who are to furnish the parts of the equipment and supplies for which we are waiting with the stiffest letters every day, for their delay is the only got possession of it. If they made money with that outfit, what can't we do with the new Kimberly mill, operating on the same grade of ores?

Sent out six carloads of shipping ore this morning and am loading more today. The Wilfley mill has been pounding away every minute since I cut it loose, and I can see no reason why it won't keep on running at the gait it has struck from this time forward. I have it manned with clean-cut men, who are here for efficient work, and I propose to see to it that good milling is done at the plant from now on. I feel that we have done very well this month, taking into account the state the old Wilfley mill and workings were in when we took the property over on the first of the month. Next month we can considerably reduce our labor charge, as we can now begin to cut down our force, and in September, unless there are unlooked for delays in getting the parts of our equipment now due, and the material we still need, I will have the new mill ready to go into operation.

HAWK FRIEND OF FARMER.
CREDIT GIVEN BIRDS BY A GOVERNMENT SCIENTIST.

He Incidentally Declares the House Cats the Most Destructive of Mammals—They Will Not Eat Rodents if They Can Get Feathered Prey, While the Hawk Prefers the Former—Prejudice Largely Due to Lack of Discrimination—There Are Hawks and Hawks, and Ever the So-Called Hen Hawk Often Is Valuable to the Farmer.

Washington, July 31.—What risks men will take in the name of science is proven anew. Dr. A. K. Fisher of the Biological Survey comes forward with a spirited defense of hawks and owls, seemingly without knowing or caring that Snippers, the six-toed cat, is one of the most prized and valued members of the White House colony of pets. Dr. Fisher definitely stigmatizes the house cat as "that most destructive mammal."

The brochure of the government scientist in defense of the hawk is illustrated by occasional flashes of a sentimental philosophy. Here is a taste of it: "How often are the services rendered to man misunderstood through ignorance." Then comes the stinging blow at Snippers: "The birds of prey, the majority of which labor day and night to destroy the enemies of husbandry, are persecuted unmercifully, while that most destructive mammal, the house cat, is petted and fed and secretly sheltered to spread destruction among the feathered tribe. The difference between the two can be summed up in a few words—only three or four birds of prey hunt birds when they can procure rodents for food, while the cat seldom touches mice if she can procure birds or young poultry. A cat has been known to kill twenty young chickens in a day, which is more than most raptorial birds destroy in a lifetime."

Dr. Fisher, upsetting all traditions and current beliefs, declares hawks to be among the best friends of the farmer. He declares the prejudice against these birds is largely due to lack of discrimination. Knowing that hawks and owls attack poultry, farmers do not stop to think that such depredations may be committed by a few species only, but sweepingly condemn the whole family. He asserts that it would be just as rational to take the standard for the human race from the acts of highwaymen and pirates as to judge all hawks by the deeds of the few, and adds: "Even when hawks are observed beating tirelessly back and forth over the harvest fields and meadows, or owls are seen flying silently about nurseries and orchards in search of the voracious rodents which destroy all grain, produce, young trees and eggs of birds, the curses of the majority of farmers and sportsmen go with them, and their total extinction would be welcomed."

That hawks and owls often swallow their smaller victims entire and tear the larger ones in pieces, swallowing each fragment as it is detached, is a statement that Dr. Fisher may have to prove some day. He divides hawks and owls arbitrarily into four classes, according to their beneficial and harmful qualities. To the wholly beneficial class belong the large rough-legged hawk, its near relative, the sparrow hawk or ferruginous roughleg, and the kites—the white-tailed kite, swallow-tailed kite and everglade kite.

The chiefly beneficial class contains a majority of our hawks and owls, and includes the following kinds: Marsh hawks, Harris hawk, red-tailed hawk, red-shafted hawk, short-tailed hawk, white-tailed hawk, Swainson hawk, short-winged hawk, broad-winged hawk, Mexican black hawk, Mexican goshawk, sparrow hawk, Audubon osprey, barn owl, long-eared owl, short-eared owl, great gray owl, barred owl, Western owl, Richardson owl, Acadian owl, screech owl, snowy owl, hawk owl, burrowing owl, pygmy owl, ferruginous pygmy owl.

Dr. Fisher, upsetting all traditions and current beliefs, declares hawks to be among the best friends of the farmer. He declares the prejudice against these birds is largely due to lack of discrimination. Knowing that hawks and owls attack poultry, farmers do not stop to think that such depredations may be committed by a few species only, but sweepingly condemn the whole family. He asserts that it would be just as rational to take the standard for the human race from the acts of highwaymen and pirates as to judge all hawks by the deeds of the few, and adds: "Even when hawks are observed beating tirelessly back and forth over the harvest fields and meadows, or owls are seen flying silently about nurseries and orchards in search of the voracious rodents which destroy all grain, produce, young trees and eggs of birds, the curses of the majority of farmers and sportsmen go with them, and their total extinction would be welcomed."

That hawks and owls often swallow their smaller victims entire and tear the larger ones in pieces, swallowing each fragment as it is detached, is a statement that Dr. Fisher may have to prove some day. He divides hawks and owls arbitrarily into four classes, according to their beneficial and harmful qualities. To the wholly beneficial class belong the large rough-legged hawk, its near relative, the sparrow hawk or ferruginous roughleg, and the kites—the white-tailed kite, swallow-tailed kite and everglade kite.

The chiefly beneficial class contains a majority of our hawks and owls, and includes the following kinds: Marsh hawks, Harris hawk, red-tailed hawk, red-shafted hawk, short-tailed hawk, white-tailed hawk, Swainson hawk, short-winged hawk, broad-winged hawk, Mexican black hawk, Mexican goshawk, sparrow hawk, Audubon osprey, barn owl, long-eared owl, short-eared owl, great gray owl, barred owl, Western owl, Richardson owl, Acadian owl, screech owl, snowy owl, hawk owl, burrowing owl, pygmy owl, ferruginous pygmy owl.

Dr. Fisher, upsetting all traditions and current beliefs, declares hawks to be among the best friends of the farmer. He declares the prejudice against these birds is largely due to lack of discrimination. Knowing that hawks and owls attack poultry, farmers do not stop to think that such depredations may be committed by a few species only, but sweepingly condemn the whole family. He asserts that it would be just as rational to take the standard for the human race from the acts of highwaymen and pirates as to judge all hawks by the deeds of the few, and adds: "Even when hawks are observed beating tirelessly back and forth over the harvest fields and meadows, or owls are seen flying silently about nurseries and orchards in search of the voracious rodents which destroy all grain, produce, young trees and eggs of birds, the curses of the majority of farmers and sportsmen go with them, and their total extinction would be welcomed."

and itself owl. The class in which the harmful and beneficial qualities balance includes the golden eagle, bald eagle, pigeon hawk, Richardson hawk, Apollon falcon, prairie falcon and great horned owl. The harmful class comprises the gerfalcon, duck hawk, sharp-shinned hawk, Cooper hawk and goshawk.

Dr. Fisher distinctly hedges in commenting on the red-tailed and red-shouldered hawk. There is no denying that both of these "do occasionally eat poultry." He adds that while not more than 7 per cent of the red-tailed's food consists of poultry, "it is probable that a large proportion of the poultry and game captured by it and the other raptorial hawks is made up of old, diseased, or otherwise disabled fowl." It is to be doubted whether this official statement will reassure the farmer who sees a red-tailed hawk soaring above his poultry yard and prevent him from letting fly a charge of shot at the visitor.

It is asserted that the red-shouldered hawk, or as it is sometimes incorrectly called, the "hen hawk," is common, and very valuable to the farmer. It is more nearly omnivorous than most of our birds of prey, and is known to feed on mice, birds, snakes, frogs, fish, grasshoppers, centipedes, spiders, crawfish, earthworms and snails. "Such facts as these," he says, "have been recorded for successive years within a few hundred yards of a poultry farm containing 800 young chickens and 400 ducks, and the owner never saw them attempt to catch a fowl. Besides mice, squirrels, shrews and insects, which form their principal food, frogs, snakes and crawfish also are taken. Such facts as these must convince intelligent persons not only that it is folly to destroy this valuable bird but that everywhere it should be fostered and protected."

Dr. Fisher reserves his condemnation for the Cooper hawk and the sharp-shinned hawk. The first names, he declares, are given to a "cocker hawk" and is by far the most destructive species we have to contend with, not because it is individually worse than the goshawk, but because it is so much more numerous that the aggregate damage done far exceeds that of all other birds of prey. Although not so large as the goshawk, it is strong enough to carry away a good-sized chicken, grouse or cottontail rabbit. It is especially fond of domesticated doves, and when it finds a cote easy of approach or near its nesting site, the inmates usually disappear at the rate of one or two a day until the owner takes a hand in the game. The arboreal and ground squirrels appear to be the mammals most frequently taken by Cooper hawks.

The sharp-shinned hawk, a miniature Cooper hawk, is fully as destructive to bird life as its larger cousin. Although rarely attacking full-grown poultry, it is very partial to chickens and often almost exterminates early broods which are allowed to run at large. So birds from the size of doves, robins and flickers to the smallest warblers and titmice, are safe from its attacks. In examinations of the stomachs of this hawk the remains of nearly fifty species of birds were recognized, and the list is of so much interest it is here given: Arizona quail, mourning dove, downy woodpecker, red-shafted flicker, yellow-shafted flicker, chimney swift, cowbird, orchard oriole, grackle, housefinch, goldfinch, savanna sparrow, western savanna sparrow, white-throated sparrow, field PIONEER OF COUNTY TALKS OF EARLY DAYS

MAN WHO TRAVELED THE INDIAN TRAILS A VISITOR IN ISHPEMING—HELPED TO BUILD THE JACKSON FORGE IN 1848.

Samuel L. Barney, Marquette county's oldest resident, who settled in the county July 7, 1847, is spending a few days in Ishpeeming, visiting his son-in-law, George Trethewey, proprietor of the Urban House. Mr. Barney was superintendent of the Marquette county poor farm for thirteen years, up to a few years ago. He has visited Ishpeeming many times during his long years of residence in the county, and he likes to talk about it and the other cities of the county, comparing them as they stand today with what they were from a quarter to a half century ago.

Mr. Barney yesterday said that he frequently walked over the Indian trail from the old Jackson forge, about three miles east of Negaunee, in the summers of 1848 and 1849 to visit John Durt, a government surveyor, and his men, who were then surveying land near the old Lake Superior and Lake Angeline mines. He remembers well the spot where Mr. Durt built a shack on the Lake Superior hill between the Lake Angeline and Lake Superior Hematite. He and his men spent the greater part of two years there. Mr. Durt was a member of the old Lake Superior hard ore property, he having secured a homestead which embraced that part of the city. The tract was later disposed of to the Lake Superior Iron company.

The Indian trail of which Mr. Barney spoke started at the site of the present South Shore freight depot in Marquette, and went westward to a point near where the Jackson forge was located. It passed over the ground where the first ore was discovered at the Jackson mine in the spring of 1846 by Thayer Carr and James Chapman, who were in the employ of P. M. Everett of Jackson. Mr. Everett was advised of the presence of the ore at the Jackson by Major Gesick, an Indian warrior, who had many times traveled over the trail from Marquette to Jackson. From Jackson the trail went to a point near the Cleveland company's hard ore property and around by the South Shore company's south tracks to the shore of Lake Angeline, extending west through the territory immediately south of the Junction.

Mr. Barney talks very entertainingly of the pioneer days. He and his father and uncle and four or five other white men came to this region from Lake county, Ohio, they having been engaged by the Jackson Iron company to build a road for the party. The members of the party were experienced iron bloomers, and they remained at the forge until some time after it went into commission.

Mr. Barney's father was a carpenter by trade as well as an iron maker of considerable experience. He himself had charge of the ox team which was used to haul the iron from the forge to Marquette, also for the transportation of the supplies used in the camp. During the winters of '47 and '48, Mr. Barney said, there were only twenty-six white people in Marquette county, and all lived in one house at the Jackson forge.

The old gentleman remembers well the facts, as they were told to him, as to how the discovery of ore by the Indians was first made known to the white men. He said that a little party of white men and Indians were seated around the camp fire at Marquette when the Indians advised Mr. Everett of the "black stone" they had discovered on the trail. Mr. Everett and his party took samples of the ore to Calumet, Mich., where it was made into iron.

During the past quarter of a century or more Mr. Barney has paid several visits to the site of the Jackson forge, which was the first of the several forges constructed in Marquette county, and plans to go there again before returning to his home in Marquette. He said that the last time he visited the place he was hardly able to recognize the site, as everything had changed. A few years ago Captain Samuel Mitchell erected a monument to mark the site of the forge. At the same time placing one near the Jackson mine, where the first ore was discovered.

NO TRACE OF HOKKINEN.

Ishpeeming Man Who Disappeared Over a Week Ago Still Missing.

A diligent search all week by friends of Able Hokkinen, who disappeared from his boarding house a week ago last Tuesday evening, has failed to locate him. The missing man has two brothers in Ishpeeming, one of them Henry Summi, the clothing merchant in the Kettunen block, corner Division and First streets. The brothers, and a number of their friends, have done everything in their power this week to locate him, but no one has been found who could give them any information. It is thought that Hokkinen's mind was slightly unbalanced when he left his boarding place, as he had been melancholy for some days before his disappearance. He was a quiet, industrious young fellow, and had many friends among his countrymen here.

Mr. Nurmi fears that his brother, if either in the woods or that he has lost his life in one of the mine pits or lakes near the city.

WILL NOT WRESTLE HERE.

Copper Country Champion Refuses to Meet Carkeek in This County.

John Lacey has received a letter from Joe Ziehr in which he states that he will not wrestle Jack Carkeek in Marquette county; that he wants him to come to Calumet, where he says a larger gate money can be obtained. Ziehr, it appears, has been unable to secure backing for the $500 challenge from Carkeek's friends, otherwise negotiations might have been closed some days ago. Ziehr also makes the statement that a purse of $500 will be raised in Calumet and given to the winner of the match, provided it is pulled off there. This is meeting Carkeek's backers on their own proposition, but it is not likely that it will be accepted, as the latter do not believe Ziehr should give Ziehr and his friends their own way in everything they ask. His claim that the receipts would be larger in Calumet than in one of the Marquette county cities will not carry any weight with Carkeek's friends, and if Ziehr does not put up a letter excuse that that northern aceing way of the two propositions made by the Marquette county men it is likely that negotiations will be called off. Carkeek is still in Negaunee, but he will probably leave there for Omaha before the end of the week.

ENTITLED TO RECOGNITION.

State Warden Says Marquette County Has Done Much to Protect Game.

Charles S. Pearce, state game, fish and forestry warden, spent the greater part of yesterday in Ishpeeming. He is making a tour of the upper peninsula prior to the appointment of special deputies. He was seen by The Mining Journal representative and he said that one deputy each will be chosen from Marquette and Houghton counties. There are fifteen counties in the northern district, and it is expected that at least six of the ten deputies to be named at this time will work in the region north of the north line of Arance county. Mr. Pearce says that Marquette county has stood at the head of the list in the state, in the protection of game, and that it has expended a larger sum annually than any other in the payment of game warden Houghton county ranks second.

For several years past, Marquette county has not had less than two wardens, and it must have had two wardens prior to the appointment of special deputies. Houghton county also has had two for some years past, but there are a number of the upper peninsula counties that have not had wardens for some months. Ontonagon county, Mr. Pearce said, had done its share toward game protection.

The state warden said that he expected to make his appointments soon after his return to the lower peninsula. He is to spend a few days in the copper country. There are a large number of applications for positions as deputies. The first list now has had two for the revenue from hunters' licenses will be considerably in excess of that obtained during the past few years. The average sum received annually from deer licenses issued for several years past has been about $18,000.

OLD STREET RAILWAY MAN.

W. J. McCorkingdale and family are entertaining his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. McCorkingdale, and Miss Emma Oble, of New Orleans. They are to remain here about six weeks. Mr. McCorkingdale was for six years chief engineer of the New Orleans Elston company, which operates the street railway and lighting plant of the city. He gave up the position two years ago, on account of his health, and has since been taking a rest. Mr. McCorkingdale is one of the oldest electrical engineers in the country, and is very well known to the leading men in that line of business.

MEN PAST SIXTY IN DANGER.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostatic glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostatic gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." FROM HOPKINS' CURB LETTER.

"It seems that the worst is now over. The United States Steel corporations statement is out and it shows a falling off in the orders booked and the dividend was not increased. Money remains tight and crops have to be moved. All these factors have been anticipated. Some very well informed people are now buying the better copper shares for investment. All coppers were weak, North Butte being the leader in the movement down, while Butte, Calumet and Green-Cananga and Superior & Pittsburg sold off slightly."

Rupert Allen is visiting his uncle, George Thompson, in Republic.

William Webster of Sault Ste. Marie spent yesterday in Ishpeeming.

Charles Lang of Duluth looked after business in Ishpeeming yesterday.

D. W. Powell and Joseph Fay, Marquette supervisors, were here yesterday.

Mrs. George Jones and daughter, Viola, are visiting relatives at Grand Rapids, Wis.

Captain Thomas Walters arrived home yesterday morning from the Mesaba range.

Victor Silas and wife were tendered a social surprise at their home Tuesday evening.

A. J. Moilanen will return to Calumet today, after spending a few days here on business.

Gust Rydberg, who spent a few weeks in the city visiting his brother, Professor Rydberg, has left for his home at Kane, Pa.

Zenith club will give its next hop a week from tomorrow night at Braastad's Hall. Tombsly's orchestra will furnish the music.

Mrs. John Fallon, who came down from Hancock to attend the funeral of the late Michael Collins, departed for her home last evening.

Miss May Cutler has returned from a last trip to Canada and other points. She was accompanied home by her aunt, who will spend a month or more here.

Thomas Delahunt, secretary of the Wallace H. Hopkins company, is in the city, to remain a week or more. It is about six weeks since his last trip up from Chicago.

Mrs. William Betterson and children have returned from a visit with relatives in the copper country. They were accompanied home by Mr. Betterson, who went up Saturday.

Carl B. Knapp, manager of the local office of the Wallace H. Hopkins company, and wife, left last night for Chicago, taking a boat from Marquette. They will be absent a few weeks.

Ed. Viking, who spent the past few weeks in the city visiting his mother and other relatives, returned yesterday to his home in Milwaukee. He holds a responsible position in the advertising department of the Milwaukee Journal.

Company I will hold a special drill Friday evening, and there are to be three drills next week. It is expected that forty-eight members of the company will attend the commencement in the lower peninsula, beginning the 16th of this month.

Unusually large audiences have witnessed the "Passion Play" in moving pictures this week at the Majestic theatre. Manager Schott has decided to retain the attraction for tonight, and it is possible that he will run it the remainder of the week.

The funeral of the late William Laughlin was held yesterday morning from St. John's church, and was very largely attended by the members of the Ishpeeming division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, as well as other friends of the family.

Mrs. A. J. Youngluth and son, Roy, arrived home yesterday from a six weeks' visit with Henry Demmert and family in New York. They were accompanied from Buffalo by Mrs. Walter Stromwell and son, who spent six weeks there visiting her mother.

John Claven, a member of the Ishpeeming Light Guard band, and Miss Anna Osjold were married Saturday afternoon at the home of his parents, Rev. J. Leilich, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church, performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Claven will reside at 608 Vine street.

J. H. Quinn arrived home yesterday from Cuba City and other towns in Wisconsin, where he spent a week. A few days before Mr. Quinn arrived at Cuba City, Captain Joseph Storey, formerly of this city, who is now located at Joplin, Mo., in charge of a lead and zinc property, was there and examined a number of the mines. Mr. Quinn was advised that the captain thought well of the Vandeventer, Pine Tree and Baxter.

Orders for piano tuning left at William Laughlin's furniture store, or at 206 Cleveland avenue, will receive prompt attention.

Mercantile Business Sold—

Gustave Rosenthal, the pioneer merchant of Newberry, has sold his dry good and clothing business after an active business career of over twenty-four years. The purchaser is Samuel Newman, of Au Sable. The store will not be taken over by Mr. Newman until the early part of September, giving the new owner time to wind up his business affairs at Au Sable, where he conducts a large dry goods and clothing establishment.

New Church for Munsing—

Before long Munsing, with a population of 3,000 people, will have six church buildings—Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopal, Swedish Baptist and Scandinavian Lutheran. All but the last named edifice are now erected. Ground was broken for the Scandinavian Lutheran church on Onota street, corner of Spruce street. The building will probably be constructed of antique concrete blocks, old English style, and its dimensions will be 30 by 40 feet.

Logging Contract Awarded—

C. C. Houghens, a logger, of Baraga has taken a contract under the terms of which he will cut 4,000,000 feet of pine on the middle and east branches of the Ontonagon river for the Holt Lumber company of Oconto, Wis. This timber will be driven to Ontonagon, but whether it will be shipped by rail to Oconto or manufactured by the mills at Ontonagon is not stated. The Holt people have two camps south of Ontonagon and Beckland, and a tow line in the spring. At present the company has about two million feet of logs in the boom at Ontonagon which will be shipped by rail to Oconto.

State Lands to Be Sold—

State Land Commissioner Rose announces a sale of state lands in Muskegon county for this week, when over thirty-six hundred descriptions will be offered at public auction. This is an unusual large list for a single county, though it does not include much over one hundred descriptions of farm lands, nearly thirty-five hundred of the descriptions being platted lots in cities, villages and suburban and resort subdivisions. Later in the month, large lists will be offered in Lapeer and Ontonagon counties, and following that there will be sales for Schoolcraft and Chippewa. The offerings will be more extensive than would have been the case if sales had not been held up during the first half of the year. That was rendered necessary by uncertainty as to the effect of proposed legislation.

Tourist's Tragic End—

With no one to bear her cries for help, Mrs. J. H. Ehlers, a tourist at Mount Sterling, Ill., was drowned in the Batchawana river while trying to recover a mooring. Mrs. Ehlers in company with her husband and her mother, Mrs. Burrows, left their summer home at Plover Island at Les Cheneaux. Arriving in the bay they pitched their camp a short distance up Batchawana river. It was during the absence of the men that the boat broke loose from its moorings and drifted slowly out into the river.

When she tipped over, "During my vacation," said L'Oignon, "I took lessons in sailing a boat."

"And how did you make out?" asked Tete de Veau.

"Not very well with the boat, but I learned to swim beautifully."

The "Easy Marks" of the Scottish Stage.

Miss Rose Stahl tells this amusing story in her "My Yesterdays," in the Bohemian about her first visit to Glasgow. Her little Scotch dresser gave her an insight into certain conditions. Miss Stahl writes:

After my act she came to me and said, "My eery, the folk in the gallery were weel-behaved this night. An' there wasna a chorus out' there either!"

"What chorus?" I asked in wonder.

"Why this is the first week they havna had the chorus, three girls on each side of the stage, so that when the lads in the gallery dinna like the act they can throw bottles an' things at the chorus and not hurt the actors and actresses."

A LAUGH OR TWO.

My Little Electric Fan.

For some the wind, the howling gale, The wintry blast to bring relief From summer heat, they ride on sail To shore, to isle or northern reef.

My little electric fan for me, My pink pajamas, an easy cork, And winds from every land or sea Are mine in little old New York.

From old Cathay or distant Ind With spice or murmuring lullaby, I am the Master of the Wind, My little electric fan for me.

An easy cork, a quaff or two— The rigor of the storm is mine. Then sing, my heart, as we sail the blue, Swept by the hurricane 'neath the Sign!

Beneath the Sign of the Southern Seas, To rise and fall at anchor now, With zephyr kind and loving breeze To kiss my cheek and fan my brow.

Adrift beneath the Southern Star, A dreamy wind that none can see, My pink pajamas, a good cigar, And my little electric fan for me! —New York Evening Sun.

Across the Styx.

The new arrival being shown about by a friendly guide, they halted in a massive doorway and looked at a group of men who were seated about a round table.

"Who are these?" the newcomer whispered. "The great military commanders, they hold a council of war here every day. The newcomer's face brightened.

"That's Alexander presiding, isn't it?" "Yes, it's his turn today." "The little man is Napoleon, and the bald man is Julius Caesar, and that's Wellington's nose, and there's Grant's cigar, and over there is Oliver Cromwell, and next to him is Gustavus Adolphus, and then comes von Moltke, and I suppose that's Joshua. But, say, who in the world is the dark complexioned man over there—the one who jumps up every other minute and yells, 'There's nothin' like elephants! There's nothin' like elephants!'"

"That? Why, that's Hannibal!" Cleveland Leader.

on the stage and be thrown at, so that the high-priced "artists" may not be named by the gallery. I dare say the girls grow to be expert dodgers in time, but it is not a particularly inviting vocation.

Social Progress.

She was a prude of more than middle age, Prone to deliver homiletic strictures, Was down on aught pertaining to the stage, And bored the mayor to cut out living pictures.

While gazing on the surf she thus gave tongue, Distressed beyond all measure at the vision: "We never wore these bathing suits when young," And said it with a virgin-like precision.

One baby visaged, devoid of sin, Short garbed, unloosed at once her lingual tether, Replied: "Ah, 'tis lovely to go in, I've never dared to, in the altogether." —Town Topics.

"Do you suppose peek-a-boos will be worn in heaven?" "I don't know, but they ought to be popular in the other place."—Houston Post.

Had the Habit.

A story is current concerning a professor who is reputed to be slightly absent-minded. The learned man had arranged to escort his wife one evening to the theater.

"I don't like the tie you have on. I wish you would go up and put on another," said his wife.

The professor tranquilly obeyed. Moment after moment elapsed, until finally the impatient wife went upstairs to learn the cause of delay. In his room she found her husband undressed and getting into bed. Habit had been too much for him when he took off his tie. London Tit-Bits.

WHAT OUR CONSULTS SAY

Consult General George Horton of Athens states that olive pits are largely used for fuel in Greece, in furnace and other fires where the odor is not an objection. Besides the domestic product, 14,000,000 oaks were imported from France during 1905. The cost 1 drachem and retail at 1.60 to 2 drachems per hundred oaks. (One oak equals 2.82 pounds; 5 1/2 drachems, equal to 81.)

The Mexican consul general in Argentina, who has been instrumental in largely increasing exports to that republic, has proposed a plan to have merchants and producers of his country ship direct to South American countries, and through American and European middlemen. He claims that this method, if adopted, would be the means of expanding Mexican commerce for such articles of produce as tobacco, henequen, zapune, and raw materials, as they could be transported at a greater profit. Up to ten years ago all the twice and fibers used in Argentina came from Manila. Since then the importations from Mexico have grown from nothing to 86,000,000 gold.

There are probably forty varieties of bananas cultivated in Hawaii, but only some half dozen of these have a commercial value. Bananas sold in the San Francisco market for from 81 to 82.00 per bunch. Good banana land may be obtained in the vicinity of Honolulu, where the fruit must be grown by irrigation, or in the neighborhood of Hilo, where the agricultural conditions are exceptionally favorable, but where the facilities are extremely limited. The sugar industry is becoming an important one in Hawaii, about 1,000 acres having already been planted. Experiments indicate that it can be successfully cultivated from sea level up to 2,500 feet and with a rainfall as high as sixty inches. Hawaiian grown sisal is pronounced by fiber experts to be equal to that produced in Yucatan. The yield amounts to from 600 to 1,000 pounds per acre per annum, valued, according to length, strength and luster, at from 6 1/2 to 8 1/2 cents per pound. L. O. B. Honolulu.

TO HOLD WRESTLING MATCH ON LABOR DAY

CARKEEK IN MARQUETTE YESTERDAY SAYS DETAILS OF MATCH ARE BEING ARRANGED.

WILL GO INTO TRAINING SOON

Former World Champion Cornish Wrestler Eager to Meet Ziehr Who Recently Accepted His Challenge.

Jack Carkeek, former champion Cornish wrestler of the world, who is to meet Joe Ziehr, was in Marquette yesterday. He said that the details of his match with Ziehr are being arranged and that the meeting will probably take place at Ispenning on Labor Day.

May Train at Birch.

Carkeek said that he will possibly go into training for the match next week. Where he will train has not yet been determined, but it is probable that it will be at Birch. Within the period between the time he starts training and the time of his meeting with Ziehr he will have to work off about twenty-four pounds. He now weighs 224 pounds and he wrestles at 190.

Carkeek said that his backers have already placed $500 for the match and are waiting for Ziehr or his backers to come forward with their money. In the event that this is not forthcoming, he stated that the match nevertheless would be held unless Ziehr passes the challenge which he accepted at Ispenning recently. It was stated that Carkeek's backers and others who are interested in the match are willing to hang up a purse of $500 for the match, if Ziehr fails to find financial backing.

The Challenge.

The occasion of Carkeek's challenge was Ziehr's victory over Charles Coveat at the Sons of St. George celebration Saturday July 20 at Ispenning. A few minutes after this match a Carkeek backer issued the challenge and stated that Carkeek's backers were prepared to place anything from $500 to $1,000. Ziehr accepted the challenge, but so far he has not placed his forfeit money. Ziehr is by no means without a following and those most familiar with the event being planned said yesterday that Ziehr and his backers will be on hand to fill their part of the contract in plenty of time for the match. Only recently Ziehr stated that for months he had wished to meet Carkeek and when the matter of the challenge was being arranged he said he was glad that the meeting was to be arranged.

KERMIS NOTES.

There has been criticism of our way of spelling kermis. To tell the truth the kermis was held in various countries, with the name spelled in each differently, so that one is not far wrong to spell it almost any old way. Kermesse or kermess are from the Dutch and Flemish, kermis or kermis, the German being kermis or kermesse, from kerk (church) and mis (mass).

The Century Dictionary gives three different spellings, kermis, kermess and kermis. Then there is the Bohemian kermesh, Polish kermisz, Russian kermeshor kermash, and so on. These kermises were held in all those countries, and were originally, because the custom was more strictly adhered to, and because attention was drawn to them by the celebrated paintings of Teniers. The paintings of this master are numerous, and embrace a great variety of subjects, all of a joyful character—inhabitants of a village, all out in holiday attire, a fiddler, or a beggar in the foreground, a dance, or a feast, or both, games of bowls and skittles, a sturdy gurdy and trials of skill in archery, youth and old age viewing with each other, in enthusiastic if not always graceful, evolutions about the green sward. The "kermesse" is the title of one of these celebrated pictures. The rustic figures made interesting subjects for the brush of the great painter, and brought down to us an idea of what the ancient kermises must have been.

ARE STUDYING CATECHISM.

A class of sixteen young men and women are receiving daily instructions in catechism at the home of Rev. A. Andrea pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, in preparation for their confirmation which will take place about Christmas. At the present time there are four young men and twelve young women in the class, but it is expected that this number will be increased. The study hours at the pastor's home are from 9:30 until 12 o'clock each morning except Sundays.

BLAZE AT ORE DOCK CHECKED BY NEW TUG

CHARLES HALLADAL MAKES PROMPT RESPONSE AND EXTINGUISHES FIRE QUICKLY.

The fire tug which arrived in Marquette last week responded to her first alarm of fire in the port last night when a blaze was discovered on the old stone and lumber dock, which adjoins No. 1 ore dock, and which lies between it and the passenger boat dock.

Although the fire was extinguished quickly and without difficulty, had it gained sufficient headway, within a short time it would have swept over the one dock. It is believed that the fire was caused by the careless use of matches in the hands of young boys who were seen fishing about the place in the afternoon.

The blaze was discovered by a section foreman. The fire tug had just tied up on the south side of the passenger boat dock, and the crew were preparing to leave work for the day when the man who discovered the fire called to them. The tug at once slipped its moorings and ran across the slip to the side of the fire.

The stamper and one of the two hoses were brought into action and the flames which were spreading toward a derrick owned by Hall & Mitchell on the dock, were extinguished. As they were washing up when the alarm reached the dock, the crew still had the soapuds on their faces and hands while they worked to put out the fire.

JUVENILE COURT LAW IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

SUCH IS THE OPINION OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, JUST HANDLED DOWN—MANY REASONS GIVEN.

Now it is the juvenile court law that is held to be void and valueless, and another of the more important enactments of the last legislature is to be laid on the shelf.

Attorney General Bird has advised the judge of probate of Van Buren county that the new juvenile court law is unconstitutional, and the official was instructed to disregard the law and permit the justice courts to handle juvenile cases. This decision has been expected, but it was not formally given until long investigation, which only strengthened the conclusion of the law's invalidity.

The attorney general says that if the law is construed as providing a separate court it is unconstitutional for the reason that the constitution vests the judicial power in a supreme court, circuit courts, probate courts and justices of the peace. On the other hand if it provides for extending the jurisdiction of probate courts the law is unconstitutional because it provides for a fine of $25 and a trial before a jury of six, the constitution guaranteeing to citizens the right to a trial in criminal prosecutions in courts of record by a jury of not less than twelve. A probate court is a court of record.

Again the title of the act takes away the jurisdiction of the probate courts over children sent to the state public school at Coldwater, while the body of the act makes provision for the commitment of children to the school. The effect of the act is to take away jurisdiction over children from one to twelve years of age.

The act provides for an increase in the salaries of judges of probate of $1000 a year for each 15,000 population of the county in which they have been elected. This provision of the law, the attorney general holds, is not within the scope of the title. Many other provisions of the law are unworkable, and for this reason judges of probate are advised not to proceed under it. The decision of the attorney general makes it unnecessary for the governor to reappoint all county agents as he would have had to have done if the law had been valid.

NEW SYSTEM NOW IS IN OPERATION

CHANGE MADE IN METHOD OF KEEPING ACCOUNTS IN OFFICE OF THE SOUTH SHORE.

RESULT OF HEPBURN RATE LAW

Only Books in Which Shipment Accounts and Income Accounts Are Kept Are Affected By the New Statute.

The provision of the Hepburn rate law which provides that certain parts of the accounting of American railroads be uniform, and which compels all roads to use the same system of keeping certain of their accounts, is now effective. Auditor Delf of the South Shore yesterday said that the new system is now in operation in the South Shore offices.

The new system concerns only the books in which the accounts of shipments and the income accounts are kept, and for this work, new books have been opened by the company. Mr. Delf stated that as soon as it is well established, the new system will call for no more work than that which was formerly in use. He stated also that the working force in the office would not be appreciably affected by the change.

At the present time while the change is being made in the books of the company, the work is rendered more difficult than it will be later. The law went into effect July 1 but the change has not been made until now because the auditing departments of railroads are only now taking up the July work. These departments are always one month behind and therefore July's work is being done in August. The reason for this is that the agents who have the primary handling of accounts, only make their reports at the end of each month and these reports do not reach the auditing departments until about the 6th of each month.

The Purpose.

The new system, Mr. Delf stated, is in a large measure in accordance with the recommendations of the association of railway accounting officers. The interstate commerce commission representative of the body which evolved the system is Professor Adams of the University of Michigan, a national authority as a railway expert. The purpose of the new system is to enable the interstate commerce commission to make comparisons between roads without difficulty so that accurate information may be quickly obtained by the commission when passing upon cases which come before it.

DAVIS RETIRES THIS YEAR.

Five More Admirals to Follow Before the Close of 1908.

Washington, July 31.—Rear Admiral Charles Henry Davis, second in command under Admiral "Bob" Evans in the Atlantic fleet, will be placed on the retired list of the navy August 28, at the age of sixty-two years.

Admiral Davis was the seventh well-known admiral that has been retired this year and before it ends five more rear admirals will be retired. The six who have already retired and their successors have been:

Rear Admiral Charles I. Sigbee, who commanded the old Maine, retired January 16, succeeded by George A. Backwell, promoted from captain, who will in turn retire as rear admiral on May 15, 1908. Rear Admiral W. Mead, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, who retired February 8, succeeded by Seth M. Ackley, promoted from captain, who will in turn retire October 13, 1907. Rear Admiral Joseph E. Craig, commandant of the league island navy yard, who retired November 24, and was succeeded by John P. Morrell, who was promoted from captain.

Rear Admiral George C. Reiter, chairman of the light-house board, was retired July 6 and was succeeded by Eugene C. Lutz, the commandant of the Washington navy yard, who was promoted from captain.

Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson, chief of the bureau of navigation, was retired July 6 and was succeeded by Uriel Sobrer, secretary of the light-house board, who was promoted from captain.

Rear Admiral James H. Sands, superintendent of the naval academy, was retired July 12 and succeeded by Albert Conden, promoted from rear admiral.

Because of his prospective retirement Admiral Davis will not accompany the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific coast. Admiral Davis' retirement will create a vacancy in the list of rear admirals which will be filled by the promotion of Captain Edwin Conway Pondleton, who is now the ranking officer in that grade.

PECAN CROP OF TEXAS THE LARGEST IN YEARS.

Austin, Tex., July 31.—The Texas pecan crop this year will be larger than for many years. The great-growing district is principally in the southwestern portion of the state, with Austin as the central distributing point. The trees along the valleys of the Colorado, Llano, Comal, Concho, Nueces, San Antonio, Guadalupe and San Marcos rivers are loaded down with nuts, and unless some unforeseen blight occurs to them the yield will be enormous. The formations have a strong, healthy appearance at this time. The pecan harvest will begin the latter part of October and will continue through November. The crop has been almost a failure for several years, and prices have gone up until the nut is now selling for fifteen cents per pound wholesale. It is expected that there will be a big crop in the price when the new crop begins to come in.
