Stocks Are Weak and Lower. New York, Sept. 10.—There were various cross-currents in the speculation in stocks today, and the most obvious effect of the conflicting influences was to stimulate a considerable revival of activity.

The principal development of the day, and which gave predominance to the weakness of copper stocks in its influence on the whole market, was the renewed unsettlement in that trade.

Calumet & Hecla stock from $20 to $15 was an example of the effects in the fall in the price of copper that was of conclusive effect on sentiment owing to the important share in the production of Lake copper enjoyed by the company.

Indirectly They Have Important Bearing Upon Negotiations Looking to Keeping Out the Coolies, and the Exclusion Treaty Prospects Take a Decided Boost—More Turbulence Occurs in British Columbia, and Renewed Protest Is Filed.

Washington, Sept. 10.—That a stringent exclusion treaty between America and Japan is measurably nearer realization than the most optimistic administration official could have believed for forty-eight hours ago is the judgment of the members of the diplomatic corps here.

The officials here deplore what they view as an unfortunate and unwarranted breach of the treaty rights of the Japanese, but they do not fail to perceive the important bearing that this incident will probably have upon the negotiations between the state department and the Japanese ambassador looking to the drafting of a treaty that shall limit the incoming of Japanese coolies instead of leaving the subject to be dealt with in the present loose fashion.

In one way and another they aided each other through the trials the millionaire put upon them, and their friendship soon ripened into love, which resulted in an engagement and the marriage today.

ACCUSES U. S. ATTORNEY

Serious Charges Filed at Washington by a Wisconsin Priest.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Sept. 10.—The Rev. Father Schell of Tony, who has spent months investigating the failure of the First National bank at Ladysmith, and has gathered evidence against alleged defaulters, has appealed to Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely to assist him in the prosecution, as he declares he cannot receive the right kind of co-operation from United States District Attorney William Wheeler, who, he says, "will make a farce of the proceedings if he is allowed or compelled to prosecute the defaulters."

In regard to Father Schell's charges the comptroller says: "If you are correct in your assumption that the United States district attorney cannot be relied upon in this prosecution, the stronger you put the facts to the department of justice, the better it will be for the cause of justice; and if you have an evidence that information in the possession of the department of justice, it is your duty to advise this office of the fact."

DAILY MINING JOURNAL
 A MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY THE MINING JOURNAL CO. (LIMITED.)
 Entered as second class matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

The next move belongs to North Marquette.

"Brush by, white man, brush by," is now the burden of Joe Gans' refrain.

By general consent, the Johnson-Burton campaign is a national affair, and it will have a national audience.

We knew it all the time. Hon. Chas. S. Osborn's experience in public life has fully qualified him to know a good congressman when he sees one.

To avoid the unpleasantness of an election with so many participants the recordership might be allotted on the "emie, meemie, minie, mo" plan.

Escanaba, the Soo, Hironont and who not are talking excitedly about the upper peninsula amateur baseball championship. Talk on, gentlemen; it's by us.

If he is so devoted to peace why doesn't the Laird of Skibo purchase the Krupp plant and put it out of business. Such a step would also help him to die poor.

The Soo Times' false alarm over the congressional situation was at least effective to bring out much hearty endorsement of the ability and aggressiveness of Mr. Young's service for the district at Washington.

It's all over but the jubilation; "Tip" Atwood is for Bradley. How could it be otherwise? Who tossed "Tip" and Arthur Hill in the air? Who had a big hand in the election of William Alden Smith? Who, indeed?

There may be some question about the elimination of Senator Foraker in Ohio, but it is beginning to be commented that the ultimate elimination of Senator Dick is pretty certain. There are frequently great disadvantages in being the tail to a big man's kite.

It has been commented that the Boxer party in the state legislature faces a two horned dilemma. If it stands pat on the present primary law it will furnish the governor and his friends an excellent issue with which to go before the state; if it strikes out the 40 per cent provision there is a probability that the governor or his candidate would get the majority vote at the primaries. The prediction has been made in some quarters that to avoid the first horn the law will be remade; however, as yet there is no reason for believing that this will be the case, and many well informed legislators predict that the special session will close without the law being touched.

The Negaunee and Ishpeming chiefs of police are reported to be strongly in favor of the establishment of central stations in those cities, stations where an officer will be on duty night and day, ready to respond instantly to a call or to put the police departments of the three towns in touch with one another, should the necessity arise. It is said that the establishment of a headquarters in Marquette will be followed by a similar step at both Ishpeming and Negaunee. There is no doubt that police protection in the three cities mentioned and in the county as a whole would be made much more efficient by the proposed change in the system and that the increased efficiency would justify any additional expense that might be incurred.

Lieutenant Governor Kelley approached Auditor General Bradley this week with a proposal that he take himself out of the gubernatorial race in favor of Governor Warner, who, it is now taken for granted, will be a candidate to succeed himself. The two men had a rather lively conversation, not marked by any particular cordiality of feeling, the upshot of which was Mr. Bradley's declaration that he was in the race to stay, irrespective of what Governor Warner's plans may be. Mr. Kelley asked him why, then, he did not throw his influence for the elimination of the 40 per cent provision from the present primary law. Bradley said that he had no idea or intention of trying to dictate to his friends what they should do, either in regard to that law or any other matter. Attorney General Bird has also been mentioned in connection with the nomination for governor; he is no more in touch with the administration than Bradley, and as he is a much stronger man he would be a more promising candidate for the "antis." However, Mr. Bird, it is reported, does not want the nomination. His goal is said to be the supreme court, where his predecessor in the attorney general's office was rewarded for excellent service to the state. This Bradley is the most aggressive candidate of the "antis" and it is coming to be understood that he is the man behind whom the strength opposed to the governor will be massed.

It is now generally conceded that the special session of the legislature will close without any material change being made in the present primary election law. The Boxers are expected to show a firm alignment against the governor's proposal to repeal the 40 per cent provision of that law, relating to the vote on candidates for governor and lieutenant governor. It is even predicted by men who ought to be in touch with the real situation that the Boxers will refuse to allow the people a referendum vote on the subject, although such an action, it would appear, would immensely strengthen the hand of the governor in taking his case to the people. In any event the governor, if he runs himself, or the candidate reflecting his views on public questions, if he should throw his strength to someone else, will be well equipped for a popular campaign in which a thoroughgoing primary law would be the predominant issue. There are some well informed public men who say that the governor will fail because he overestimates the people's concern about primary election. They assert that the mass of the voters have little interest in it; are indifferent, in fact. If this view is correct the governor and his friends are overestimating the value of what is apparently their trump card. On the other hand it is contended that the people are alive to the necessity of securing a real primary law, as opposed to the present Baird law, and will quickly rally to the candidate who best expresses their ideas on the subject. There is no doubt that the attitude of the voters in regard to the general question of primary reform will be a determining factor in the campaign. If the governor has judged it right he ought to win; if not he is most likely to be defeated.

There was a further shakeout in the stock markets yesterday, effecting particularly copper stocks, many of which were carried to new low levels for the present declining movement. The breaks ranged from one or two points to several, and closed the markets at the lowest average of values that has been seen in many months.

The weakness of copper metal, leading to a demonstration by the bears against several leaders among copper stocks, was the determining influence in the day's decline. For once the Boston market appears to have determined the course of the New York market, which was off in sympathy with it.

The metal situation is a perplexing one, and no permanent improvement in the price of copper stocks can be expected until it is cleared up. Copper is nominally quoted by the big selling agencies at, or fractionally above, eight-cent cents, but there are no buyers, not even bargain hunters for big transactions at a lower level. Small lots of copper are offered below eighteen cents, it is reported, without takers.

The lack of business at a juncture when general industry in the country appears to be on a fairly satisfactory basis can be attributed only to the fact that the consumers of the copper metal cannot see their way clear before them. The stringency of the money market has affected seriously many of their best customers, by preventing them from getting the funds to finance projected improvements. Many projects for electrification of industries now using other than electrical power are held in abeyance; new telephone work is nearly at a standstill and many other activities that ordinarily help make an active metal market are affected with a particular seriousness by the tightness of money and the difficulty of borrowing, even at high rates, on what would ordinarily be considered good securities, or of placing bonds.

It is denied that the present serious situation in the copper industry can be ascribed to a war between consumers and producers. The former, it is claimed, and doubtless with justice, would be willing to buy unlimited copper at eighteen cents could they only see an unlimited market for their products ahead of them. Thus it is asserted that the copper situation hangs on the general financial situation, and until the one is cleared up there can be little hope for much improvement in the other.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held this day, a quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share, being dividend No. 14, and an extra dividend of 50 cents per share, being dividend No. 15, were declared payable on Tuesday, October 1st, 1907, to stockholders of record at the close of business on September 9th, 1907. The transfer books of the company will be closed at the close of business on Monday, September 9th, 1907, and reopened on Monday, September 16, 1907. FREDERIC STANWOOD, Treasurer, Boston, September 4th, 1907. (9-9-28-71)

WORK TO NO PURPOSE.
 One great trouble with ardent reformers is that they are prone to try to force people to be better, according to the reformers' definition of better, than the people desire to be. This characteristic of theirs finds frequent expression in the enactment of laws which cannot be enforced and which consequently not only cumber the statute books with dead legislation, but which teach the lawless element of the community a disrespect for law in general.

Practically every state and city in the country has laws or ordinances that are never enforced and that were never meant to be enforced by the men who enacted them. They got on the books simply because a comparatively small number of the people applied political pressure at a time when the rest of the community was too indifferent to apply a compensatory pressure. And there they remain forgotten until a corrupt administration uses them for purposes of blackmail, as Tammany does some of New York's Sunday laws, or until a "crusade" calls them into fitful life.

It has remained for the Prohibition leaders of Indiana, however, to go a step farther than this and attempt to read into a law something that was never intended to be there. Indiana is a license state and provides by statute that "no license shall be granted to any other than a person who shall at the time be of good moral character." To the ordinary layman the conclusion is obvious that the legislators believed men of good moral character would apply. The Prohibition leaders propose, however, to assume that any one who applies for a license is, from that very fact, proved to be not of good moral character.

This reasoning may be obvious to the majority, but unless it is obvious to the majority of their fellow citizens the result of their insistence upon its adoption is likely to injure their cause rather than help it. To get a reputation for over-zealousness or for trickery is a very bad way to win support. If the Prohibitionists of Indiana wish to put their state in the class with Georgia the way to do it is to persuade a working majority of the people that prohibition is necessary. Then they can get laws passed openly and enforced with fair efficiency.

Near Free Delivery Mark—
 Had the receipts of the postoffice been $750 more during the fiscal year ending June 30th, Manistiquette would have been entitled to free delivery of mail.

Resigns Because Too Old—
 A. W. Lyman of Thompson, Schoolcraft county, has resigned the deputy sheriffship for that township on account of his advanced age, he being seventy years old. He was a good official. Louis Telesau was appointed to fill the vacancy and has qualified.

Drowned in Peru—
 Park Blackwell, a nephew of H. W. Blackwell of that city, and who spent his childhood days at Gladstone, was drowned last month off the Peruvian coast. He had graduated as mining engineer and obtained a position at Lima, to take which he was making the trip.

Lost a Hand—
 W. R. Faulkner, an employe of the Northwestern Leather company at Algonquin, has met with an accident which resulted in his having his right hand amputated above the wrist. Faulkner had just installed a new stamping machine which he and another employe were testing and a confusion of signals resulted in the trip being sprung while Faulkner's hand was directly under the weight.

Lighting Plant Gains—
 While it is not expected that it will make the showing during the summer months that it does in the winter, yet the earnings of the municipal plant during August were nearly as large as any winter month, says the Escanaba Iron Port. The plant shows a gain of $747.58. With the prospects of obtaining power cheaper than it can be furnished at present, the outlook for the plant is especially bright and it may not be long before consumers will receive a substantial reduction in the lighting rates.

Asks Damages of $5,500—
 The city council of Escanaba has received a communication from Sarah Daley, asking $2,500 damages for injuries received because of a defective sidewalk. Mrs. Daley stated that she was walking along Jennie street when she stepped into a hole in the sidewalk and was thrown heavily to the ground, her knee striking a nail protruding from the walk. She claims that she received injuries from which she has not yet recovered and from which she will never recover.

Child Badly Scalded—
 Terribly burned about the head and body by a kettle of boiling water, which slipped from the grasp of her mother, little Lucile Tallent, six-year-old daughter of Joseph E. Tallent, lies in a critical condition at her home at Menominee. While preparing to wash the dishes, Mrs. Tallent picked up a heavy kettle of boiling water, intending to set it upon a stand. Unnoticed by her mother, the little girl was standing near the pantry door, and just as the mother passed by, the kettle slipped from her grasp and the contents splashed over the child.

Ended Life by Shooting—
 Mox Barth, aged thirty-two, is dead at Ford River, Delta county, the result of a successful attempt at suicide, committed at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ayette. No one was in the house at the time but when the remains were found it was easy to see in what manner Barth had come to his death. A shotgun, heavily loaded with buck shot, was the instrument Barth selected for his life taking. Crippled in one hand and suffering from blood poisoning in the other, Barth is supposed to have yielded to a fit of despondency. The condition of the body showed that Barth had placed the muzzle of the gun against the side of his head and pressed the trigger with his foot, one shoe having been removed for that purpose. A large hole was blown through his skull and death must have been instantaneous. At the inquest, witnesses were called and testified that Barth had attempted suicide before and that as long as 15 years ago, when one hand became crippled, he made the statement that if the other ever became crippled, he would shoot himself. Barth has been employed by the Ford River Lumber company as watchman.

Ryerse Lands New Job—
 Harry H. Ryerse of Brevoort Lake, Mackinac county, who as chief fire warden was legislated out of office last winter by the act combining his office with that of the state game warden, has been appointed a deputy state warden, his new duties embracing those formerly devolving on him, in smaller area, and taking cognizance of infractions of the game and fish laws as well. He is one of ten state game, fish and fire wardens provided for by the new law and has been assigned to the territory comprising the eastern end of the upper peninsula.

Rival School Boards Clash—
 DeTont, Chippewa county, has two school boards these days, each insisting upon the privilege of looking after the public schools. The circumstances are of the ten state game, fish and fire wardens provided for by the new law and has been assigned to the territory comprising the eastern end of the upper peninsula.

Sad Case of Drowning—
 With the gift that he was about to present to Miss Lavina Williams and for which he had gone to his death to secure, clutched tightly in his right hand, the body of Frank Kramer, of Cedar River, Menominee county, was found in ten feet of water within a stone's throw of his home. Few drownings in Menominee county in recent years have been sadder. Anticipating a pleasant time at a wedding dance Kramer started from the house, but when he had proceeded but a few rods he remembered that the present purchased for the bride had been left in his boat. Turning about he hurried back to the boat and on his way met several friends, to whom he told his mission. That was the last he was seen alive. Mr. Kramer, Sr., believing that his son was at the dance, went to bed and knew nothing of the fatality until morning. Several of the young men, however, noticing Kramer's failure to return, made inquiries and failed to find any trace of him. When they returned to the boat, a clippy sea was running and the small dock was exceedingly slippery. A hasty examination of the boat developed the fact that the present was gone, but no trace of the missing man could be found. The next morning, several young men who feared their companion had met a watery grave, began to drag the bay near the dock and in a few moments the steel shed pole caught the drowned man's clothes and the body was quickly brought to the shore. Not until the unfortunate youth's remains were found were his parents notified of his absence.

CAMPING IN THE PYRENEES.
 Young Frenchmen Have Found a New Playground in the Mountains.
 A party of ten young Frenchmen are preparing to spend the summer in the Pyrenees. Some of them were through the experience last year and they consider themselves the discoverers of the Pyrenees as a playground. They go in with tents made of duck over light frames, which when set up are about six feet square and five feet high, each of which shelters four or five men at night. They also take a collapsible boat. When the railway is left the first stages of the journey into the mountains are made by picking up some of the muleteers who cross the mountains from Spain taking sweet grapes to the French market. These good fellows on their way home are only too glad to carry the camp equipment on the backs of their burros in consideration of a few polite phrases and a few francs.

At the close of a long day's tramp down the darkening side of the mountains the explorers will sometimes see the flames suddenly shoot up ahead of them. The guides and porters give an exclamation of pleasure and hurry toward it. They find it has been kindled to guide them by some herdsman, whose ear, used to the silence of the mountains, has caught the noise of their footsteps in the distance. He had no idea who they were. Most likely he thought they were smugglers plying between France and Spain.

Close by his hut the camp is set up. In one great soup pot there is an olla podrida of meat and barley. From another comes the fragrance of tea. A skin of red wine is broached and the Frenchmen produce such delicacies as smoked sausage and potted fowl or even pate of foie gras. The air and appetite born of the day's tramp makes everything taste good. In the morning the party splits up for a day's sport. The cook and his aid start for some farm or village to buy provender. If there is water near the fishermen get the boat into commission. Small as it is, it is a staunch craft with a belt of Kapok, or Javense fibre about her which makes her practically unsinkable. This is essential for the water, in the mountain lakes—bowls in the hollows of the hills—is so high that even the best swimmer could have about unaided only for a few minutes.

The young Frenchmen who are going out this year say that they want to make the most of their discovery before it gets misused abroad, because when the joys of reaching it in the Pyrenees are once revealed the region will be overrun by Englishmen and Americans until it becomes as commonplace as the Alps.

ONTONAGON SOUTHERN. Projected Road Michigan Portion of Wisconsin Northern.

It is learned that the Ontonagon Southern railroad, already incorporated for which were filed in the office of the secretary of state at Lansing last Saturday, and referred to in these columns yesterday, is the Michigan portion of the new Wisconsin & Northern railroad.

The Wisconsin & Northern is a road which will run from Oshkosh, Wis., to Ontonagon, at least these towns will be regarded as the nominal if not actual terminal points. It is projected by the Menasha Woodmen company of Menasha, Wis., for the purpose of serving a large and well timbered territory in the northern portion of Wisconsin and the northern and western portion of the upper peninsula, the Menasha Woodmen company having control of a great deal of the timber in the territory.

The Wisconsin & Northern has now some fifty miles of track laid north from Appleton to its junction with the Soo Line and is already doing business. Its surveyors have already crossed the state line in Iron county and have begun the survey for the Ontonagon Southern. The two roads will have approximately a total mileage of 225, of which something more than fifty will be the line of the Michigan road.

COPPER SITUATION AGAIN.

In most of the discussions regarding the conditions in the copper metal market, the real trouble appears to be overlooked. Cobalt Gossip

About 100 men are now at work on the King Edward mine. The Cobalt Lake Mining company has a considerable amount of ore on hand. Shipments will be made shortly.

Trenching is being done on the Alexander mine. The main shaft is down fifty-five feet and sinking work will be shortly resumed.

High grade silver is now being obtained in the Maple Mountain district. Native silver is being found at a depth of ten to twelve feet.

On the City of Cobalt mine twenty-five men are at work. The main shaft is down sixty-five feet and at that level a station is being cut so as to open four veins.

It is reported that the sale of the Dan Mesure claims in the Upper Abitibi district has been completed for the sum of $400,000 to the Timmins brothers of Cobalt. These claims were bought last fall by Dan Mesure and party, and shortly afterwards an option was granted to the Timmins people, who were to spend $30,000 in development.

A Cobalt correspondent says: Two more mines have recently opened up again after the strike. At the end of last week the Colonial, which had been shut down since the commencement of the trouble, began work again, and now three drills are running. The Right of Way has its plant in operation for the first time. The mine has not been operated recently being held up for machinery. The La Rose have twelve machines running, and they are opening up and cutting a very rich vein.

E. Fratke, engineer of the Cobalt Lake Mining company, reports as follows: "The north shaft has been sunk to a depth of sixteen feet, and it has lately been equipped with a small hoisting hoist. Shaft No. 4 is now down ninety-six feet. The drift at the eighty-six-foot level has been carried a distance of sixty feet to the westward, and at the end thereof an upraise has been made towards the lake. The lake level will now be carried backward, and parallel to the lake's bottom, and the ore will be stowed out, as it is opened by these operations. Ample protection will be left in the roof and shaft pillar. On shaft No. 5 the company has drilled on the vein at the ninety-third-foot level for a stretch of eighteen feet. This vein is well defined, and it carries good values in the native silver, with abundant sprinklings of sulfite. Shaft No. 6 is down forty-two feet.

After six months' work, both compartments of No. 2 shaft in the Timmes mine have gone into commission. Owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the timbering in No. 2 shaft from surface to solid rock, it was found necessary to begin repairs some time ago. As a result the shaft was reconstructed for 100 feet. Structural work on concrete were used and the shaft is now very secure, fireproof and impervious to water to the ledge, a distance of ninety feet. While the work of repairing the shaft was under way only one compartment could be used. The other compartment, No. 2, will be in service and there should be an increase in rock shipments. The shaft is down to the thirteenth level, or a depth of 1,400 feet. Sinking to the fourteenth level is now under way.

In order to explore lodes known to exist south of the main workings, the Victoria is extending a crosscut south from its present shaft at the nineteenth level. The crosscut is already in 1,100 feet. Three of the ten lodes known to exist between the principal workings and the eastern sandstone have been penetrated, but none of them revealed copper in commercial quantities. No facts. The relations between the largest producers and the largest consumers are entirely friendly and there will be no difficulty in effecting sales as soon as general conditions justify purchases.

There is a well founded belief that the Baltic lode will be intercepted at this point by the Arcadian, and should this be extended clear across the company's property to the Arcadian lode, and the one east to the sandstone formation, which bounds the Arcadian property on the east.

"BOXERS" WILL STAND UP AT MORIARTY SAYS

SENATOR PREDICTS 40 PER CENT PROVISION WILL BE LEFT IN PRIMARY LAW BY SPECIAL SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Senator M. H. Moriarty of Crystal Falls, who has been in the city the past few days, does not expect the special session of the legislature to accomplish much of importance. During the last session Senator Moriarty belonged to the militant sixteen senators whom the lower Michigan press was accustomed to lump under the convenient term "Boxers." This term meant, primarily, opposition to Governor Warner's pet measures. In particular it meant opposition to the governor's plan to eliminate from the present primary election law the 40 per cent requirement for the nomination of candidates for governor and lieutenant governor by direct vote. Also it meant opposition to the plan of giving the people a referendum vote on the question. A resolution for the latter was finally jammed through by the lieutenant governor's vote, but his voting on the question was subsequently declared illegal, and it will not be put up to the voters.

"Will there be any break in the line-up of 'Boxers' at the special session? Will the legislature strike the 40 per cent provision from the primary law?" a Mining Journal man asked Mr. Moriarty.

"No sir," was the prompt response. "The senators who voted against that proposal in the regular session will vote against it in the special session."

"Will the 'Boxers' consent to a referendum vote on the general question involved?" was then asked.

"The line-up will be the same as during the regular session," was Mr. Moriarty's rejoinder.

Mr. Moriarty says he doesn't see how the governor will avoid putting equal taxation for the telephone and telegraph companies up to the legislature. The Mt. Pleasant appropriation bill has to be repaired and there will also be some legislation enacted relating to the state militia, but if Mr. Moriarty's predictions are correct the governor will be thwarted in all the things he particularly wants from the legislature.

GUARD FOR MEXICAN BOUNDARY.
 Plan Suggested to Prevent the Illegal Entrance of Immigrants.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Congress will be urged during the coming session to authorize a force of mounted immigration inspectors to patrol those portions of the Mexican boundary which are now used to gain illegal admission to the United States. Frank P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration, will submit in his annual report that mounted inspectors on the Mexican border are an absolute necessity to the effective administration of the immigration laws, and there is every reason to believe that congress will heed his request. R. W. Dowe, internal revenue collector, with headquarters at Eagle Pass, Tex., has been in Washington recently, and speaking of the great need for mounted immigration inspectors, said:

"Without sufficient inspection the immigration laws will be practically a dead letter on the Mexican frontier. There should be mounted immigration inspectors similar to the mounted revenue inspectors. Frequently my men round up bands of immigrants skulking in the bush and place them under arrest. Were it not for the friendly co-operation between the customs and the immigration services many more would get in, and as it is I should suppose that half of those who attempt to come in illegally succeed."

The line from the Gulf of California to the Gulf of Mexico is about two thousand miles long, but there are many sections where it is not practicable, either because of the distance from railroads or of the mountainous character of the country, to attempt to get through. I believe that, with the help of the mounted customs inspectors, a hundred immigration inspectors could maintain an effective patrol of the accessible portions of the boundary. Considering the number of men at his disposal and the new problems constantly arising, Commissioner General Sargent is coping ably with the situation, but the Mexican country seems to be full of men intent on crossing into the United States, and there is little to prevent their doing so. Really, the state of Texas should be made a distinct immigration district, with a full commissioner in charge and an ample band of mounted men to enforce the law."

Most of the immigrants who are rejected at the regular ports of entry make an attempt, sooner or later, to come into the United States through Mexico. During the last sixty days the government has expended $15,000 for railway fares for Japanese apprehended and deported. The immigration officials regard the situation as serious, and hope they will be able to impress the facts on congress in order that immediate steps may be taken to stop this leak.

FINLAND MAKES BIG DEMANDS.
 Wants Russian Army Withdrawn and Right to Fix Own Taxation.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 10.—Finland's new constitution, which the senate recently submitted to the czar for presentation during the current session of the diet at Helsingfors, effects sweeping changes in the government of the duchy, including a series of concessions to the imperial powers in its relation to Finland.

The status of Finland is to be that of a semi-sovereign state bound to Russia by a personal tie only—the identity of the emperor-duk. The Russian army is to be withdrawn from the fortified posts, as the emperor-duk must govern Finland exclusively through his Finnish subjects. The rights of Finland must be observed by the emperor-duk. To this he must take oath upon his accession to the throne.

Treaties affecting Finland require the consent of the diet. The diet must occur in all tax levies before their assessment, and also on all calls for military service in so far as Finns are concerned.

MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Paine, Webber & Co. telegraphed from New York yesterday as follows:

"The bear element had their inning in the New York stock market today and declines were scored all along the list. Aggressive selling of Amalgamated Copper and Smelting, due to the weakness in copper metal, unsettled confidence and caused considerable liquidation. At present quotations for copper metal it is very evident that a large number of the producers will either have to increase their production, or lower dividends will have to be paid, which of course, would cause considerable selling, although it is admitted that at ruling prices standard copper issues have discounted present metal quotations. From the tone of the market it would seem that lower prices will be in order, but we are inclined to favor the purchase of good stocks for a quick turn around these levels."

FORESTERS' HIGH COURT.

Some Wisconsin Branches Will Ask for Separate Jurisdiction.

Members of the Independent Order of Foresters, of which there are several hundred in Ishpeming besides a large number in other parts of the upper peninsula, will be interested in knowing that the members of the society in Milwaukee are to make application for a high court jurisdiction for the branch in that city. The members there believe that the interest of the society can be better served if an independent jurisdiction exists in that county. In order to bring about the desired change it is necessary for the officers of the county association to file an application with the supreme court. This is considered the most important step ever taken by the Wisconsin Foresters and the members of the courts in Milwaukee and other towns near there believe that the request will be granted.

This move on the part of the Milwaukee Foresters is of vital interest to members not only in that county but in other sections as well. If the application is favorably acted on it will mean that the county will sever its connections with the high court of Wisconsin and in a jurisdiction by itself. It will elect its own officers and promote its own field work, employing its own deputies. In case the supreme court decides in favor of the change the first officers of the new organization will be named by the court.

There are two other states besides Wisconsin, in which high courts are established, these being Michigan and Minnesota. The members of the supreme body recently visited Milwaukee and the prominent Foresters of that city then took occasion to advise them of the feeling on the part of the members in the county, relative to the proposed change, so that the announcement that application for a separate jurisdiction did not come as a surprise to the supreme lodge officers. It is said that there are over 2,000 members in the several courts of the county.

It has been hinted that dissension has arisen among the members throughout the state and that this is one of the reasons for the desire of the members of the Milwaukee courts to have established a high court for their own, though they will not admit that this is true. They say that the courts of the county will make more rapid strides under the direction of the independent high court of officers, who will reside in their immediate vicinity, than if governed by men who live in the northern part of the state. The present officers of the supreme body reside at Ashland and Superior. The members furthermore point to the fact that the greatest increase in membership during the past year was made in Milwaukee. It is asserted that the Milwaukee Foresters would be satisfied to have a high court jurisdiction of their own, but they believe that a plan to incorporate the other courts of the county would be looked upon with great favor than would the proposition of including only the members of the city.

The Independent Order of Foresters has a large membership in the upper peninsula for some years past and Ishpeming has two of the strongest courts in this part of the state.

It was stated in these columns yesterday that the Ishpeming Eagles defeated the Republic ball team at Republic last Sunday by the score of 12 to 11. This was in error. It develops that it was the Republic club that won. The Republics have been playing good ball throughout the season, having won the majority of their games. Recently they defeated the Ishpeming Stars by the score of 7 to 6.

FROM HOPKINS' CURB LETTER.

"There has been heavy selling of copper in all directions, North Butte and Amalgamated being especially weak, both being off 30 points from the close last night. The weakness in the metal market, and the threatened strike at Butte has been too much for holders and a general selling movement has developed that is likely to carry stocks to a new low level before it terminates. WEDDED IN SPITE OF SELF.

Just as she was about to step into a cab to be driven to St. Hedwig's Polish Catholic church, where she was to be the wife of Joseph Stenshik, Annie Ary balked, saying she had changed her mind and did not want to marry Joseph or any one else.

Persuasion was tried, but Annie continued to demur, keeping Joseph waiting at the church until four stalwart relatives gathered her up bodily, placed her, struggling and fighting, in the cab, and covered the driver to hurry to the church.

Without giving the astonished young woman time to make further objections she was escorted to the altar and the marriage was performed.—Chester, Pa., correspondence in New York Herald.

MARK TWAIN A POOR PRINTER.

No matter what else Mark Twain succeeded in achieving, he could not set type, says Anthony Kennedy, a seventy-one-year-old St. Louis Post-Dispatch "newsboy." Kennedy cherishes as the proudest memory of his life the fact that the celebrated humorist and himself were compositors together on the old St. Louis Democrat for several months in the spring of 1853.

"We were striking type then at thirty cents a thousand ems," said Kennedy, "and while the rest of us were drawing out $12 a week, it was all Sam Clemens could do to make $8 or $9. He always had so many errors marked in his proofs that it took most of his time correcting them. He could not have set up an advertisement in acceptable form to save his life. Naturally, he did not stay in the printing business very long, because he would have starved at it.

"The most remarkable thing I remember about Clemens," said Kennedy, "is the fact that he was not one of the 'boys.' Then, more than now, it was the proud prerogative of printers to be able to drink more red whiskey than men of any other trade. But Clemens, so far as I can remember, never took a drink.

"He was a silent chap, who attended to his own business and didn't mingle with the wild fellows who worked with him. He spoke with a delightful drawl and sometimes unburdened sufficiently to tell a funny story, which he did well enough."

In 1858 Kennedy was a compositor on the New York World and was nominated by his local as a delegate to the annual convention of the International Typographical union. He wrote of his success to Mark Twain, then known from ocean to ocean and requested an endorsement, but worded his communication so unskillfully that the humorist supposed Kennedy had taken a position in opposition to his union. The reply has Mark Twain written all over it.

"Friend Tony," it begins, "I applaud the serenity of your effort to get me in trouble with No. 6. Now you get some other firebrand to tie to your tail when you go through the Philistines' corn; this one's busy. I am thirty-seven years old and 700 years wiser than when we wrought together, good, your worship, Yours, MARK."

NEW BUILDINGS AT PRINCE OF WALES

CONTRACTORS ARE MAKING VERY SATISFACTORY HEADWAY WITH THE SEVERAL STRUCTURES
—DR. J. H. ANDRUS TO HAVE A MODEL HOME.

The several buildings which the Oliver Iron Mining company is erecting at the Prince of Wales mine will be completed before winter sets in. Andrew Lindquist of this city, and J. Wahlman & Son, of Ishpeming, have had crews working there for several weeks past and operations have progressed satisfactorily, though at times it has been difficult to keep as many men on the work as the contractors wanted. The company put in all of the foundations and furnished the material. There has been a delay in starting the foundation for the captain's office, which will probably be the last building completed.

Mr. Lindquist has almost completed the combination shops building, in which there are three departments, for carpenters, blacksmiths and machinists, and the brick layers are to start work on the walls today. The combination office and warehouse building, which Mr. Lindquist is also erecting, is rapidly nearing completion, and work on the roof is to be started today or tomorrow.

Wahlman & Son expect to complete the new dry at the Prince of Wales within a week or so. After the contractor gets through the company will install the steel lockers, baths, etc. It will be some weeks yet before the dry will be ready for occupancy. The foundation for the new engine house, which Wahlman & Son will erect, has just been completed and the crew working at the dry will soon be transferred to that structure.

The circular brick smoke stack, erected by a New York firm, was completed Saturday.

Remodeling Residence.

Mr. Lindquist has had a busy season and he has work enough in sight to keep his crews active until the end of the year, if not longer. Besides his contract at the Prince of Wales mine, he is completely remodeling Dr. J. H. Andrus' dwelling, formerly the Mackenzie home on Main street. The work was started about three weeks ago and Mr. Lindquist does not expect to give the interior the finishing touches inside of seven or eight weeks. The dwelling will be one of the most convenient in Negaunee. The entire interior has been rounded off and all the rooms are to be replastered, new doors and windows put in and new plumbing, etc., installed. It will contain eleven rooms and a large reception hall, besides the bath rooms, closets, etc. The fathers began work there yesterday and men in the employ of the board of public works are wiring it.

WANT MORE STREET LIGHTS.

Two Arc Lamps Ordered Some Time Ago Not Yet in Position.

During the past year the council has ordered the board of public works to place four arc lamps in the residence part of the city, but only two of them have thus far been installed, and the property owners concerned are wondering when the other two will be put in. One light has been placed at the intersection of Teal Lake avenue and Main street, and another has been put in at the intersection of Tobin and Peck streets. One is to go in on Pioneer avenue, near the Catholic and Presbyterian churches, and the fourth is to be placed at the intersection of Main street and Brown avenue. A resident of that part of the city said yesterday that he could not understand why these two lights have not been provided before this, as it is nearly a year since the council ordered them put in, whereas the new light at the intersection of Tobin and Peck streets was not ordered by the council until last spring.

The board of public works has not felt in a position to put on the additional lights on account of the condition of the machinery at the power station, but it is likely that these, as well as other lights badly needed, will be added to the circuit as soon as the new machinery is in use. It is said that at least ten more arc lamps are needed in the residence district of the city.

ANOTHER BIG SALE.

Duluth Auction Company Will Close Out Shea's Stock of Merchandise.

As will be seen by John Shea's advertisement in this issue the Duluth Auction company is to have charge of his closing out sale, which will be resumed next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. At the sale conducted some weeks ago, Mr. Shea disposed of a considerable quantity of the merchandise, but as he intends to retire from business he proposes to sell out the entire stock, if possible. His stock consists of a complete line of dry goods, shoes, clothing, furnishings, etc.

The Duluth Auction company, the manager of which is now in the city preparing for the sale, has conducted many similar sales during the past few years, and it invariably meets with success. The store is to be closed today and will remain closed until Saturday morning, in order to give the employees an opportunity to mark down the prices on all the goods. A large blue sign has been placed in front of the building calling attention to the sale and announcing the time of its opening. A large poster has just been issued and will be circulated throughout the county, quoting the prices on men's suits and overcoats, shoes, dry goods, etc. It will be seen from this list that the prices have been greatly reduced.

POLICE GUARD CARDINALS.

CHURCH OFFICIALS IN FEAR OF THE ANTI-CLERICALS.

Mounted Escorts Follow Carriages of Prelates—Government Trying to Suppress the Disturbances—Reason for the Animosities is Being Sought—Cardinals Believe in More Liberal Policy for the Vatican—Italian People Becoming More Socialistic.

Rome, Sept. 10.—It is probably the first time in the last fifty years' history of the church that cardinals have had to be escorted through the streets of Rome by police, yet this has happened within the past few days. Since the insult to Cardinal Cassata two weeks ago, the cardinals have kept to their residences so far as possible, but the business of the congregations requires that they should attend meetings, sometimes three or four times a week. It was for this reason that several members of the Sacred college applied to the police for protection. They obtained it, notwithstanding the indignation of the Italian government to pursue a policy of non-interference in the anti-clerical demonstrations. It was arranged that each cardinal should be accompanied by an escort of two mounted policemen. These follow the cardinals' carriages wherever they go. At the gates of the Vatican palace the policemen have to stop, for no Italian official or officer is permitted to enter, but as soon as the carriage of a cardinal emerges, the escort assigned to it follows and sees the prelate safely to his residence. This state of affairs has been evident for some time, notwithstanding the declaration of Italian officials that the government would punish severely all attempts at assaults on priests or prelates. The declaration, however, has had little effect with the anti-clerical mobs which are so greatly disturbing churchmen in Italy.

The Catholics, however, are commencing to retaliate. Last Tuesday a meeting was held at Milan of the Catholic Social Federation, at which 320 Catholic societies were represented, together with many bishops and several members of parliament who belong to the Catholic party. Cardinal Ferrari, the archbishop, made a powerful address regarding the anti-clerical situation, and resolutions were adopted censuring the government for its apathy and inactivity in the present crisis.

The Italian government is just now adopting special measures to suppress the disturbances, but it is believed here, notwithstanding that serious disorders may be expected on Sept. 29, the anniversary of the occupation of Rome by the government. So strong is this belief that orders have been issued to the clergy of Rome by Cardinal Respighi, the vicar general of the pope, that they should not leave their residences on the day named.

Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, continues to make regular trips every week from the papal villa at Castelgandolfo. He has not yet used his new automobile, possibly because it might be conspicuous and attract undue attention. He travels to this city by train and a carriage from the Vatican palace meets him at the station every Friday morning, when he comes to Rome to attend the usual session to the diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican, and to consult with the pope. At Castelgandolfo the cardinal is always kept in sight by the police when he takes drives, and when he arrives here there is also a sufficient number of police officers and detectives about to see that no one offends him or insults or harms him. It is general belief here that since the outrage perpetrated upon the cardinal, the Spanish government has been remonstrated with the Italian authorities regarding the matter, and that the measures adopted for the cardinal's safety are a result.

Prelates here have been trying to find an explanation for the sudden outbreak of anti-clericalism throughout Italy, and just now there is diversity of opinion. Paul Sabatier, a French writer, who has recently stated his opinion that Pius X. is too autocratic and that because of this there has come about a revision of feeling among the Italian people. This writer criticizes the measures recently adopted by the pope, which resulted in the driving of many priests from the city of Rome because they were there without sufficient occupation or reasonable motive. The friends and relatives of these priests, he says, are leaders in the anti-clerical movement.

causing the same matter and two parties have been formed in the Sacred college. One is headed by Cardinal Oreglia, the dean, who persists that a conservative policy must be followed and that then everything will come right in time. The other party favors a change of policy on the part of the Vatican authorities, and is headed by Cardinal Agliardi, who has long been known as one of the most liberal members of the Sacred college. With him are all the cardinals who come from the north of Italy. They claim that the policy of the Holy See regarding the question of temporal power, ought to be moderated so as to bring about some kind of conciliation with the Italian government. The matter has already been submitted to the pope, and something may be done along these lines.

One thing is certain, it is that there is little real religion in Italy, much less respect for the clergy. Because of the much-discussed question of temporal power, many of the Italian people have come to consider the church and the clergy as enemies of existing institutions. This feeling is admittedly general throughout Italy. It is also true that socialism has made much progress in Italy in recent years, organized bodies being now established in every Italian city. One of the principal tenets advanced by these organizations is hatred of church and clergy; a tenet which in other countries does not enter into the socialistic doctrine.

The same may be said of the Masonic organization in Italy. It issued the other day a circular denouncing personal attacks on the clergy but acknowledging the justice of the anti-clerical manifestations. While the Masonic order in Anglo-Saxon countries lets religion and religious bodies alone, in France, Italy, and even in Spain it openly opposes the church and the clergy. That it is to blame for the anti-clerical disturbances of past weeks no one would say, but it represents a sentiment which made them possible.

By right of succession, Monsignor Tomelli, coadjutor archbishop of Boston, will be given the place of the recently deceased Archbishop Williams, and the necessary briefs are already being expedited by the Dataria, which is the department of the Curia having charge of such matters. It is rumored here that even higher honors are in store for the prelate, and that he will, at least for a time, be employed in the diplomatic service of the church. He is well and favorably known in this city, having resided here several years as rector of the American college, and the secretary of his recent mission to Japan on behalf of the Holy See disclosed his diplomatic ability. Just now the pope wants to send a representative to the mikado and no one here would be surprised if the archbishop of Boston should be selected for this important mission. Father Michel of Carbonara, the apostolic prefect of Abyssinia, has recently been here and had several conferences with the pope and the Vatican authorities regarding his mission. He says there are at present only 14,000 Catholics in Menelik's empire, but that the favor recently shown towards the church by that monarch meant a great increase in membership in the African country. It is known that the pope and the negus exchanged greetings not long ago, and that the Abyssinian emperor, who claims direct descent from the Queen of Sheba of King Solomon's time, promised to do his best to protect Catholic interests in his dominions. Because of this assurance Father Michel expects the church rapidly to advance in Abyssinia.

The pope has dispensed French priests who are obliged to do manual labor in order to earn their livelihood, from wearing the cassock and the tonsure. This measure has long been employed from the Vatican by several of the French bishops. These priests, if in good standing, will still be allowed to officiate in the churches, especially on Sundays, in accordance with the rules of their dioceses.

AMERICAN OFFICERS NEEDED.

PLAN PROPOSED TO ATTRACT THEM TO THE PHILIPPINES.

General Edwards Proposes a Civil Service Retirement Scheme and Will Discuss the Matter with Governor Smith—It Would, of Course, Apply Only to Americans; Filipinos Require No Inducements to Stay—School Teachers of the Lower Grades Especially Are Needed—Would Cost Less than $100,000 a Year.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Civil service retirement in some of the higher grades in the Philippine service is the object of a law in whose passage the bureau of insular affairs has interested itself. It has long commended itself to Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, chief of that bureau, and will be among the questions about which he will confer with Governor General Smith when he visits the islands next month as aide to Secretary Taft. A rough draft of the proposed law has already been made, but its framers have encountered a number of obstacles. What General Edwards desires to accomplish is proving to be very difficult of accomplishment by means of a civil service retirement law. It has been found that in order to bring such a law within the resources of the government, it may be necessary to burden it with so many unpopular features as to make its passage by the Philippine commission doubtful.

For example, the purpose which General Edwards has in mind is to encourage the best of those Americans who have entered the Philippine civil service to remain in its ranks that the government may obtain the full benefit of their experience. It is obvious that such a law must apply only to Americans. There is no demand for an inducement to the natives of the Philippine Islands to enter the government service; their applications now far exceed the demand, or rather the number of those whose training and education makes them available. The Filipinos in the government service are earning their livelihood in their native land and can live at home. With the American it is different; he is thousands of miles from home and the leave granted him by the government is none too generous, while the trip home is long and expensive. His living expenses in the islands are much greater than they would be in this country and long service in that climate is not welcome as a health restorer to say the least. It is easy to see at a glance that the application of a civil service retirement law to all employees, Filipinos, as well as Americans, would prove too expensive an experiment for our governing body in the Philippines to undertake at this time.

Not only should such a law apply only to Americans, but students of this problem believe it should include only Americans of a class whose services in the islands are needed for some time to come. There would appear to be no necessity for inducing American school teachers of the lower grades to remain in the islands indefinitely; the government would have no difficulty in replacing this grade of employes every two or three years. This is also true of Americans serving in clerical positions under the Philippine government. The applications for such positions are always great, but the demand and the government is thus enabled to select those who appear best fitted for this service.

It is in the higher grades that there is a great demand for permanent service and of the best character. Here is where great difficulty is experienced in retaining good, live, competent Americans of the sort needed efficiently to carry out our colonial policy and to administer their respective offices in an exemplary manner.

The proposed law provides that when any citizen of the United States shall have served as an officer of the Philippine government for ten or more years at an annual salary of not less than $3,000, he may be retired upon his own application and shall receive for a number of years equal to the number of years of such satisfactory service certain compensation for the services rendered by him during the period of his active service.

Examination of the roster of the Philippine islands shows that there are sixty-five American employes in the archipelago today, exclusive of the constabulary and of the officers detailed from the Marine Hospital service, who receive more than $3,000 salary, thus the total annual salary of these sixty-five men is $407,600.

Ten years' service would be regarded as rather a short period in the United States, but it is regarded as amply sufficient to warrant the retirement of employes of the Philippine government serving in the islands. At the end of their ten years' service the employes of the class included within the proposed law would be retired with 25 per cent of their pay, but they would receive their retired pay only for a period equal to the period of their actual service. In other words, a man serving in the Philippine government for ten years would receive retired pay from that government for an additional period of ten years of one-fourth the average pay he received in active service. A man serving twenty years would receive for an equal period one-half the average pay he received during his period of active service.

Estimated on this basis, the entire cost of the proposed civil service retirement law would be less than $100,000 a year to the Philippine government, and this would be correspondingly reduced if the number of Americans receiving $3,000 or over be further limited. It is not on the ground of expense that the enactment of such a law presents obstacles, but because its exclusion of all the Filipinos and of the Americans occupying positions in the lower grades would render the proposition most unpopular. Perhaps by amending the law so as to further reduce the number of American beneficiaries some of the opposition might be overcome in view of the fact that a larger number of the higher salaried positions under the law would be available to Filipinos.

7,000-MILE OCEAN RACE.

American Bark Made Remarkable Run on Trip to Buenos Ayres.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.—After a race in which she proved herself one of the swiftest square-riggers afloat, the Norwegian bark Alexander Lawrence, Captain Haavensen, has arrived from Buenos Ayres with details of a contest from Boston to River Plate in which four fast, heavy, and sturdy craft contested a rough and tumble course of something like 7,000 miles.

The start of the race was announced months ago, when the Lawrence left Boston light two hours behind the trim British bark Ensuada, Captain Morris, of about 200 tons less register. Both were deep with lumber for the South American port. Two weeks ahead of the Lawrence and the Ensuada was the Norwegian bark Tana, and yet further along the journey was the British bark Snowdon.

The Lawrence, last of the four, kept the Ensuada in sight till night separated them. She was not sighted again by Captain Haavensen for a matter of two months, and then not till the Lawrence had been in Buenos Ayres twelve days. The Tana swept into Buenos Ayres several days behind the Lawrence, but the Snowdon, with her large margin of time, managed to arrive there two days before any of the racing freighters dropped anchor. Captain Haavensen says he is willing to put his change against anything of her size on the next passage to the river.

The log of the Lawrence, shows she was forty-nine days on the return trip. The vessel made the passage in ballast, coming here under charter to load another cargo of lumber for Buenos Ayres.

SEA BRINGS HIM WEALTH.

Boys Sanbar for $185; Sells as an Island for $10,000.

North Wildwood, N. J., Sept. 10.—By the action of the sea a bar of sand has been created into an island, and the man who paid the state $185 for it two years ago has just sold it for $10,000.

The island is to be enlarged with sand pumped from the sea and connected with Five Mile beach, which probably will afford a means of connecting the coast trolley lines between Atlantic City and Cape May in the great project of a continuous line from Atlantic Highlands to the Cape.

By one of those puzzling switches of the currents the bar began to rise about ten years ago, and as it gradually grew higher and higher it at last was visible above high water. The shifting sands continued to pile up and finally created the island.

GOOD OYSTER SEASON.

REPORTS FROM FIELDS POINT TO HEAVY CATCH.

Output Plentiful, Oysters Unusually Large, Tender and Toothsome—Great Fleets of Boats Are Now Busy in the Chesapeake and Delaware and Tributary Waters—Tales of Shanghaiing of Men for the Tonging Already Are Current—The Oyster a Political Issue in Maryland—Eastern Vivalves Planted on Pacific Coast.

Washington, Sept. 10.—In the midst of the distractions of politics, the wrangling of trusts, and throes of excitement over the order for the battleship fleet to go to the Pacific and pervasive rumors concerning Attorney General Bonaparte and Public Printer Stillings, Washington has been soothed and reassured over the oyster news from the Chesapeake, the Delaware and adjacent waters. Frequent and felicitous are the advices coming to the national capital as to the oyster outlook for the season. Not only is the output to be plentiful, but the oysters are said this year to be unusually large, tender and toothsome. All of which has lightened the gloom of a dull summer down along Pennsylvania avenue and caused a great fussing and frothing among the old-time catering resorts of the capital, where they make much of the oyster, not to mention such things as terrapin, chicken a la Maryland and hoe cake, served on the self-same tables as those round which Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and other statesmen of historic memory used frequently to gather.

The oyster season is talked of vaguely by a lot of people that have no idea what it means. Any old denizen of the region around the Chesapeake will tell you that the oyster months are the months with an "r." In other words, the oyster season begins with Sept. 1 and ends with the close of April. May, June, July and August not having the "r" in their composition were not intended by nature as fit for the eating of the oyster. All the rest of the months were so intended, and the spelling proves it, according to the old timers who have grown up on familiar terms with the oyster business.

Great fleets of oyster boats are now busy about the Chesapeake and Delaware bays and tributary waters gathering oysters. The first shipments are beginning to reach Washington. The gathering of the oysters is called tonging or dredging. The oyster boat is known colloquially as the "pongy" or the "bugeye." The pongy is narrower than the bugeye, the latter being broad, almost tub-shaped. The tonging is the process used to gather up the oysters with the smaller boats. Dredges are used in the larger ones, the dredge scooping up the oysters practically in the same fashion that dirt is excavated by the dredging process.

Simultaneous almost with the beginning of the oyster season, the stories start of shanghaiing, and like cruelties on the oyster fleets. They are tales of bitter, sickening hardship and abuse. Those who know best say the half is not told. The life on the oyster boats is a rigorous one and many of the masters are brutal in the extreme. Many a man recovers from the effects of a delirium in the low resorts of Baltimore, Philadelphia and cities along the coast near to the oyster region to find himself on an oyster puny, doomed to months of hard work, with little sleep, poor food and abundant beatings if he shows any disposition to revolt. The oystermen keep at their work through the storms of the winter season, regardless of snow and ice or any considerations of weather. One must sleep on little better than a shelf and lead a miserable existence, toiling away at the tonging or dredging in the same fashion that dirt is excavated. It is generally said that shanghaiing is growing less and less frequent, but the fact is no winter passes without tales of cruelty drifting in from the oyster coast and more than this, any winter in the hospitals of Washington, one can find human wrecks, beaten, half-starved and in rags, who have the ill luck to be lured in some fashion into the oyster fleets, and have had the good fortune to escape. The oyster is a favorite food for statesmen, but statesmanship keeps at their work through the cruelties practiced on the oyster boats.

Considering the vast numbers of oysters consumed all over the country each year, it is not strange the problem of preventing the supply giving out should be a serious one. Over in Maryland the oyster has got into politics. The legislature last winter provided for a state shellfish commission, whose duty it is to attend to the matter of conservation of the oyster, by seeing to it that oysters below a certain size are returned to the water, and various methods of protection. Study of the diseases of the oyster is one of the things to which the commission will give attention. Oyster interests in Maryland are powerful, and many of the oystermen oppose the commission as an institution tending to injure their business.

Aside from the necessity of protecting the oyster against extinction, Maryland folks have been disconcerted lately by reports that eastern bivalves are being planted on the British Columbia coast by enterprising Americans who believe there is a great future for the business there, and who are looking to the supplying of markets as far east as Winnipeg and Chicago. It appears, too, the Olympia oyster beds are being carefully cultivated and are flourishing, providing the supply for much of the far northwest. It is asserted, according to consular reports, that experienced oystermen regard the Pacific coast as quite as well suited for the cultivation of the eastern oyster as are the Atlantic coast bays.

CHINESE AND RATS IN BLOODY BATTLE.

Army of Australian Rodents Fight Celestial Fishermen in California.

San Francisco, Sept. 10.—For forty-five minutes a gang of more than fifty frightened Chinese fishermen and an army of Australian rats, home fed to unusual size, fought on the slimy drying platform at Point San Pedro, on the Marin county shore, and it was not until Constable George Agnew and Game Warden George E. Ortman of San Rafael arrived on the scene of carnage with armed deputies that the rats were routed and the battle ended.

TO STUDY FOREIGN TARIFF.

President Will Send Commission to France and England.

Washington, Sept. 10.—There is no longer any question as to the intention of the government to send abroad a commission of tariff experts to get information as to the German, French and English tariff systems and consular methods of handling import and export business. While an official announcement is still withheld, it can be stated without fear of contradiction that the personnel of the commission has been definitely determined and that the commission will sail on September 17 and has already engaged accommodations on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

The commission will be headed by W. J. Reynolds, assistant secretary of the treasury, who is in charge of customs affairs and has been in that position for three years or more. The other two members will be Marion De Vries and Byron S. Waite of the board of general appraisers at New York city. The high character of the officials indicates the seriousness of purpose on the part of the administration in sending them abroad. While it may never be admitted officially, yet it is known that the commission's principal business will be to study the systems of foreign countries with which the administration has closed new commercial and tariff arrangements or with which it wishes to do so within the next year.

The commission is expected to make an exhaustive investigation, through which it will fortify the administration to meet the storm of criticism which it will receive during the coming session of congress over its trade treaty with Germany. The American Protective Tariff League is openly arrayed against the administration in this connection, and so are half a dozen other big associations of manufacturers and importers.

Cortelyou Has Exclusive Control.

It has been learned that Mr. Cortelyou the secretary of the treasury, has been given exclusive responsibility in handling the work of the commission. He seeks to avoid the mistake of the last commission which went abroad. It develops that one of the members of that commission was persona non grata to at least two of the governments of the countries visited and these governments refused to recognize the commission including him in its membership. The result was that the United States, with some humiliation, had to withdraw him and substitute one of our consuls residing at a foreign capital. The facts have never before reached the public prints and will possibly never be admitted officially, unless congress calls for their report through a resolution.

The personnel of the new commission has been carefully canvassed. Indeed, foreign governments have been sounded as to their acceptance of the members. James B. Reynolds has been at the head of the customs affairs of the government long enough to be accounted an expert. He possesses rare tact and good sense and has passed through a hard schooling in journalism and public office, which has fitted him for delicate diplomatic tasks. Mr. De Vries was formerly a member of congress from New York state. Mr. Waite was formerly a circuit judge in Michigan. The two latter men as members of the board of general appraisers, occupy life positions with annual salaries which compare favorably with those of cabinet officers. As members of the board they are in positions of rare confidence and of a judicial character.

Wax Fat on Fish.

After the dead rats had been removed and first aid had been rendered to the wounded and scared Celestials, an expedition from a score of the fishermen, patched up by gesticulation and pantomime, made plain the story of the struggle and robbed it of its delirium treatment suggestiveness.

The principal camp at Point San Pedro has installed a platform 150 feet wide and fully 600 feet long, on which are laid the shrimps to dry. The platform is laid over the sweep of shore extending from the hill to the water's edge. Underneath the platform rats have made their home. They are of the Australian breed, and are enormous, for rats.

They thrived so well on the fish and shrimps laid out on the platform that their numbers were augmented from Sausalito on the south to San Quentin on the north, forcing them out and on fearless. They parabolized the livelihood of the Chinese, who drove stakes from the platform to the ground beneath, hoping to corner them off. That was yesterday, and Ah Tong and Quong Hing, two of the boldest of the fishermen, were placed on guard, to curb any of the rodents that might appear.

Bite Yellow Legs.

The tide coming in threatened the boats, which swarmed onto the platform. "Swish!" went Ah's club and "Swat!" went Hing's, but the rats showed teeth and fight. Other Chinese, attracted by the cries of the two guards, who yelled when they felt the sharp fangs of the rats penetrate their thin trousers and drew blood from their yellow legs, arrived; but so did more rats, and the fight might have been going on yet if the flying squadron from San Rafael had not arrived and added gunpowder and bullets to the fray, seeing which, frightened at the noise, diminished in numbers, and admittedly beaten, the rats scurried hither and thither, to cover.

TO STUDY FOREIGN TARIFF.

President Will Send Commission to France and England.

Washington, Sept. 10.—There is no longer any question as to the intention of the government to send abroad a commission of tariff experts to get information as to the German, French and English tariff systems and consular methods of handling import and export business. While an official announcement is still withheld, it can be stated without fear of contradiction that the personnel of the commission has been definitely determined and that the commission will sail on September 17 and has already engaged accommodations on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

The commission will be headed by W. J. Reynolds, assistant secretary of the treasury, who is in charge of customs affairs and has been in that position for three years or more. The other two members will be Marion De Vries and Byron S. Waite of the board of general appraisers at New York city. The high character of the officials indicates the seriousness of purpose on the part of the administration in sending them abroad. While it may never be admitted officially, yet it is known that the commission's principal business will be to study the systems of foreign countries with which the administration has closed new commercial and tariff arrangements or with which it wishes to do so within the next year.

NEGAUNEE

INQUEST IN MALLONEY CASE.

Verdict of Coroner's Jury Was Returned Monday Evening.

The jury in the case of the late John Malloney, who was killed a week ago Monday at the Mary Charlotte mine while working as a switchman on the South Shore line, returned a verdict Monday evening, the inquest having been postponed from last week. It was to the effect that the deceased was struck by a water pipe which had been left projecting close to the track by a member of another South Shore crew whose train had passed over the track a short time before.

The relatives of the deceased talk of bringing an action against the South Shore company or the Breitung interests in an effort to recover damages. The engine upon which young Malloney was employed had passed over the track several times that morning prior to the accident, but it appears that the pipe which is used to furnish water to the locomotives, had been lying on the ground. It was shown by actual measurements that the pipe was within nine inches of the car on which Malloney was riding, at the time he was injured. It is supposed from the evidence given in the inquest that Malloney had jumped off the car just before reaching the pipe, coming in contact with it with such force that it threw him under the wheels of the car.

The pipe was installed by the operation of the late Charles E. Breitung and has been used many times by the train crews working in the yards. It was put there to save the train crews the time necessary to come up town for water.

RECORD BREAKING HOUR.

The Passion Play moving pictures at McDonald's Opera House Saturday and Monday nights proved to be the best attraction that the house has had in some years. Saturday evening the house was packed and Monday evening many people were turned away. It was the intention to run the pictures three nights, but it appears that there was a misunderstanding in the booking, and the company producing the pictures left last night for Michigan, where they will show them at the county fair grounds under a tent. Manager Hohnberg expects to secure the pictures for a return engagement, as he believes they would again be a good drawing card. The usual Wonderland entertainment was given last Monday night and the house occupied tonight by the "Peck's Bad Boy" company and tomorrow and Friday nights by other attractions. Mr. Hohnberg announces that his Saturday night program will be one of the best he has given since opening the house.

PLASTERERS VERY BUSY.

The plasterers of Marquette county are this season having the busiest summer they have experienced in many years. There are several jobs at present being worked, and the houses being built are being finished. The ten double houses being constructed by L. E. Chaussee at the Mary Charlotte mine location would be finished before this time if the plastering had been completed as soon as the contractor expected. Mr. Chaussee has assured that this work will be finished within ten days, and it is expected that the buildings will be ready for occupancy inside of three weeks.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT.

A message was received here Monday announcing the death of Garrett Landers, a former resident of Negaunee, who had been ill at the home of his parents at Newport, R. I., ever since he left Negaunee about a year ago. His wife left Monday evening to attend the funeral, which will be held at Newport. Mr. Landers was very well known in Negaunee as he resided here for a number of years prior to his departure. He is survived by his widow and two children.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mrs. H. Young of Sands visited friends in Negaunee yesterday. Joseph Lefebvre of Princeton was a Negaunee visitor yesterday. Elias Dwyer spent Monday and yesterday in Marquette on business. The employees of the Negaunee, Mars and Jackson mines will be paid Saturday. Miss Anna Joyce, cashier at the Savings Bank store, is enjoying a week's vacation. Joseph Lebeau, a former resident, is here from the Mesaba range on a visit to relatives. Contractor T. M. Solar has several bricklayers working on the Old Fellows block and good progress is being made with the outside walls. William Zeidler of Republic was in the city yesterday. He is a candidate for the office of poor commissioner in the second district of the county, and was here interviewing some of the supervisors. Negaunee will be well represented at Ishpeming theater tomorrow evening when "A Message from Mars" will be the attraction. Miss Nan Hay, the leading lady in the company, is well known to a number of Negaunee people. Clark Walker of Detroit, an expert telephone man, arrived in the city yesterday and will be here some days checking the Bell Telephone company's switchboard from its present office in the Cleveland-Cliffs building to the new station in the Nagley block. T. L. Collins recovered two cows yesterday that had been lost for a week or so. They were in the Ishpeming pound, his attention to their whereabouts having been directed by a notice in yesterday's issue of The Mining Journal to the effect that the cows were to be sold Friday by the poundmaster.

FLOUR IN THE ORIENT.

Formosa Takes Great Quantities of the American Product—New Modern Mill at Kobe Backed by U. S. Capitalists.

Washington, Sept. 10.—In reply to an inquiry as to the market for American flour in Formosa, Consul J. H. Arnold of Tamsui, states that during the year 1906 about $250,000 worth of American flour came into that market. He continues:

There was a total import of 50,000 barrels of flour for the year, and over ninety per cent of this amount was American manufactured. This represents an increase of 35 per cent over the imports for the year 1905, and an increase of about 100 per cent over those of ten years ago. The principal reason for the high imports for 1906 was the low price which prevailed during the year. The new import tariff which went into effect Oct. 1, 1906, raised the duty from 23 cents to 73 cents a barrel, and may be in part responsible for the large imports during the earlier part of the year, yet statistics for this year do not bear that out. Up to the first of March of this year, there have been over 12,500 barrels imported, an amount considerably larger than for the same period a year ago. At this rate the importations for the year will exceed those for the year 1906 by 12,000 barrels. One merchant imported 3,000 bags (750 barrels) from America direct. The bulk of the flour which came into this market during 1906 came through Japan. In former years most of the American flour coming to Formosa came in Hong Kong. The shipment of 750 barrels marks the initial shipment of American flour direct to Formosa via the northern port of Keelung.

Several merchants have been trying to introduce American flour. It is alleged that Australian flour is not sufficiently strong in gluten to satisfy the demands in this market. Three-fourths of the flour consumed here is taken by the Chinese trade. The Chinese want a flour rich in gluten, rather than rich in starch. Strength is the text for the Chinese purchaser. He does not care for whiteness; in fact, a darker flour more readily suggests strength than does a white starchy flour. The Chinese trade uses the bulk of its flour for manufacturing into flour strings, a sort of a macaroni. I have seen these strings thirty and forty feet long, suspended upon racks for drying. Naturally, a flour rich in starch would not produce a good string. The merchant here buys what in California is known as superfine flour. The flour produced by the Washington mills seems to be better adapted to this market than any other at present coming here.

There is some Japanese-made flour being imported into Formosa. It seems to be the product of the Nipponi roller mills, and I am given to understand that it is made of American imported wheat. Owing to the increased duty upon foreign manufactured flour, it seems but reasonable to expect the Japanese manufactured product to extend its trade very materially. It will probably not be many years before the Japanese mills will be able to draw upon Manchuria for their wheat. As the Manchurian wheat is raised under conditions quite similar to those which obtain in the state of Washington, it is quite likely that it will be strong in gluten and well adapted to the Chinese trade. Even after the much-talked-of Harbin flour mills are in full operation and even after the fields of Manchuria are producing all the wheat that can profitably produce, there will still be a demand for American-made flour. The increasing consumption will certainly allow for enormous increase in the production. The population in Formosa is essentially Chinese and the consumption here has increased 100 per cent in ten years. If this is to serve as an index to the changing taste of the Chinese in China, we cannot but expect wonderful developments during the next decade.

Consul Hunter Sharp of Kobe says that among the new companies which have been recently formed in Japan as a consequence of the Japanese customs tariff which went into force on Oct. 1, 1906, is one at Kobe, of which the capital is largely American. He adds: The mill is supplied with machinery and a rolling mill, and is fully equipped with the latest improved wheat washers and dryers. It has compound condensing tandem engines of 350 horse-power, with water-tube boilers, and a steel smokestack 125 feet high. The warehouses are connected by elevators, having belt conveyors to handle flour and wheat, with a count-out one side and a branch line to the main railroad on the other. The mill has a capacity of 1,500 barrels daily. Straight grade flour will be produced, as there is but little demand in Japan for hard grade or a white flour. Should the enterprise prove successful, this company proposes to erect mills in other parts of the country and possibly in Manchuria. The mill is expected to open soon, and when it and the other mill now in progress of construction are in full operation, together with the old mills, the output of flour will be greatly increased. While this will greatly check the importation of American flour, large purchases of wheat will have to be made abroad. Recent investigation shows that some contracts have been concluded for the supply of wheat from Manchuria. The color is too dark to meet with general favor, although the flour is reported to be of an excellent quality, with the exception of its color. Millers put the price of 15 to 20 cents less per bushel (33 pounds) than American wheat. Seed wheat is being introduced into Manchuria, and there can be little doubt but that country will supply Japan in the near future unless the Pacific slope meets the competition.

TEXAS LAWYER EMPLOYED TO FIGHT HIS OWN LAW.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 10.—The retail liquor dealers and saloon men have organized a Texas State association by the amalgamation of the associations in twelve cities and towns to fight the liquor law. The association will raise $500,000 to be invested and the earnings from this to be used in the election of legislators friendly to the liquor traffic. Nearly all of this fund has been pledged by the liquor manufacturers and brewers.

Another fund of $100,000 is to be raised by the Retailers' State association for the purpose of contesting and combating the various objectionable features of the new Baskins-McGregor law. A strange feature of the plan is the retention of one of the authors of the bill, McGregor, as leading counsel for the liquor men. While organizing for their own preservation the state association will also endeavor to procure the repeal of all dispensable resorts and dives where beer or liquor is sold.

The Brewers' association offered a

MORE TROUBLE FOR STANDARD OIL.

$100,000 fund to the Anti-Saloon league to be used in purifying saloons in Texas but the offer was rejected.

Dr. Morehouse Says He Wants $100,000, too for Use of Patents.

New York, Sept. 10.—Dr. Charles L. Morehouse of 325 West Thirtieth street has outlined a plan which, if successful, may better the Standard Oil company and John D. Rockefeller in paying the $250,000 recently assessed by Judge Landis in Chicago. Dr. Morehouse wants at least $100,000, and he says he intends to make every possible effort to get it. The physician was one of the pioneers in the oil business in this country. At one time he was associated in business with Frank Rockefeller, brother of the Standard Oil man, and he lays at the oil trust's door his downfall, as well as the fact that he is now, at the age of eighty-five years, forced to work for a living instead of being in a position to employ colleges and medical institutions by the thousand.

Dr. Morehouse's grievance against John D. Rockefeller, whom he has known from boyhood, is that the Standard Oil company has, since the days of the Civil war, been using three patents obtained by Dr. Morehouse, which he says are responsible for the piling up of the Standard Oil millions. One of these patents, the original grants of which the doctor showed the reporter yesterday, were given on a process for the manufacture of axle grease. The doctor says that the Standard Oil company is now using another is "for improvements in the process and apparatus for manufacturing oil" and the third is for pressing oil. Of course, the patents have expired, but Dr. Morehouse says that the doctor has, in case he presses his suit, that he would sue illegally during his lifetime, and that the oil trust refused to pay him royalties. The axle grease patent was obtained in Canada, and the others were granted by the United States patent office.

The claim also is set forth by Dr. Morehouse that he is the originator and inventor of a process for manufacturing non-explosive petroleum products. In this connection he is much amused by the outcome of a suit this week in Boston against Henry H. Rogers and Charles Pratt, Standard Oil men of this city, in which Winfield S. Sloem, the auditor, decided in their favor the action brought by Caldwell, Walter M. Raymond to recover $30,000,000 of alleged royalties for the use of a secret process rendering petroleum and its products non-explosive. Dr. Morehouse said yesterday that he was certain this was the process he invented and used in Cleveland.

Dr. Morehouse engaged first in the business of spinning and manufacturing lubricating oils in Cleveland in 1860. At one time he says his income was over $120,000 a day. He was supplying oil to 144 railroads, he said. In 1872 the doctor said John D. Rockefeller asked him to take his brother Frank into partnership. Two years ago the doctor went to John D. Rockefeller, he says, and asked an interview "in regard to my patents on the treatment of oils." The letter, though registered, was returned to him, unopened, and he says that he never saw it, he says, received similar treatment.

NEW GIANT LOCOMOTIVES.

One the Most Powerful Ever Built, the Other the Speediest.

New York, Sept. 10.—Two record-breaking giant locomotives have been put into commission, one on the Erie, the other on the Pennsylvania. The former is of the type known as a 2-10-0, and is really two locomotives in one, and is so powerful that on heavy loads it can be safely used only for pushing, its pull being so great—94,800 pounds—that no car couplings could be depended on to hold it. The locomotive complete tips the scales at 410,000 pounds. The water tank in the boiler carries 22,000 gallons, No. 2,400 is, in short, the largest, heaviest, and most powerful locomotive ever constructed. The second of the new leviathans is an express engine of the so-called Pacific type. As it is a racer, its total weight is, of course, much less than that of the mail recorder power, being but 292,200 pounds, and its tractive power but 31,000 pounds. All its links in size and pull, however, is made up in speed, as its driving wheels have a diameter of 80 inches. It is, in fact, as large and powerful an express locomotive as present road limits and track strength will permit. When running at maximum capacity it will haul over three times as much freight, and such stoking as this is beyond the power of a human fireman, except for short periods. Therefore, it is asserted, until rights of way are revolutionized and a practical automatic stoking machine for locomotives invented, the new Pennsylvania flyer may be said to mark the limit of advance in steam express engines.

FLAW IN CANADIAN LAW.

Serious Situation Created in a Chinese Smuggling Case.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 10.—The case of eleven Chinamen who are held in custody here as smuggled aliens has developed a flaw in the Canadian law which the comptroller of Chinese at Ottawa is finding much difficulty in straightening out. The Chinese here were apprehended when they came ashore from the schooner Chloris, which had brought them from Newfoundland. They were seized and placed in confinement, and have already had two preliminary hearings. The captain of the vessel is also held, although he claims that the Chinese escaped from his ship without his consent or knowledge. The Canadian law affecting the immigration of Chinese, although providing that a Chinaman who enters Canada irregularly may be placed in jail for a year, makes no provision for the disposition of the prisoner after that time. The law gives no authority for the deportations of the aliens. Should the Chinese immigration authorities release the men at the expiration of their confinement, the Chinamen would be free to establish a permanent residence in Canada, without even the payment of the $500 entrance fee. An effort will be made at the next session of parliament to amend the law. The case of the captain of the vessel which carried the Chinamen is amply provided for in the law. A fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 for each of the aliens landed may be exacted, and his vessel may be seized under a section of the law.

WORLD VOYAGE ALONE IN YACHT.

Five-Year Trip the Ambition of Captain Peters, Who Hopes to Get $100,000 for It.

New York, Sept. 10.—If all goes well the sixteen-ton schooner Pastime, now lying at the Marine Basin, Brooklyn, will start on a trip around the world, and the only one on board will be her captain, Charles O. Peters. The skipper is a young Dane, well built, full of suggestion, full of grit, a far-away look in his eyes, and an ambition as wide as the seas he is about to cross. The captain is well known. He has earned a reputation as a life saver, was a petty officer on the despatch boat Fern during the Spanish war, and he has followed the sea ever since he was a boy.

The bronze skipper unfolded a scheme which showed plainly that while there would be some glory in sailing a boat alone on a trip to every port in the world there would be no glory in becoming stranded upon the rocks of finance. This is the skipper's scheme. "My aim is to sail the Pastime alone on a trip which, I think, will take about five years. I shall start from New York and go to Halifax, from thence to the coasts of England, Scotland and Ireland, and to Scandinavian ports then to the German and French coasts, afterward proceeding through the Suez canal, visiting later oriental ports, including those of Japan, China, and the Philippines. From there I shall sail to Honolulu and San Francisco; then south and later come up the east side of South America and through the West Indies."

At this point the weather-beaten mariner paused for a moment and then went on: "Now, that's a nice trip and a long one, ain't it? That trip's going to cost some $100,000. I don't care who it is. I shall make a contract with a big house or with a great corporation or some manufacturing concern to advertise their productions. An individual or a corporation will not do it. The contract carries a mutual twenty-five feet square, and you can see how I do display advertising. I can use other sails, too. My idea would be to sail up the rivers and inland waters of every country, and point out in fitting language the merits of American manufactures. The captain paused again. "Do you think $100,000 too much for such a trip?" he asked. "Of course I wouldn't be averse to taking a representative of the employing concern with me, or in any case I would make a satisfactory arrangement."

The Pastime has quite a history. She was built in 1880 for the governor general of Canada, who sailed her for twelve years. Fred Whiting of Boston then purchased her, and the son of a wealthy mill owner here, and the latter the daughter of a farm laborer and an employe in the mill of her father-in-law, became known to the public at noon today.

Young Lapworth confirmed the report that he was married, but refused to say when or where the event had taken place or go into details. He is the last of six sons of the rich mill owner to marry. The young people have been much in each other's company during the past two years. It is said that the Lapworth family objected because the boy was so friendly with employes of the mill.

Lapworth is employed as a foreman in the mill owned by his father, and in

SKYSCRAPERS A FIRE MENACE.

Underwriters' President Declares Gotham Preparing Itself for New Disaster.

New York, Sept. 10.—That New York city is preparing itself for a new variety of disaster which will be as appalling as it will be spectacular is the new belief of George W. Babbs, president of the New York board of fire underwriters. In the course of his talk with the commission appointed by the building codes insurance committee of the board of aldermen to obtain the advice of architects, insurance writers, and builders upon the question that some day the roof of the financial district will be swept away by a devastating fire that will leap from skyscraper to skyscraper hundreds of feet and lay the lower part of the firmen, he gave voice to these views.

Mr. Babbs added that the board of fire underwriters feared and fully expected such a unique conflagration as the result of the massing of tall buildings on narrow streets in the lower part of Manhattan. At present, he added, he knows of no way to prevent such a catastrophe. "With our present unlimited height of buildings in the financial center, where the streets are being converted into narrow canyons by the walls of thirty and forty storied buildings," he said, "we are courting a disaster that would outlast that of any other great fire in the country. The San Francisco fire has taught that so-called fireproof buildings cannot withstand the attack of a concentrated mass of flames. Few more dangerous would a fire be when it was sweeping through the top levels of our lines of lofty buildings."

"Fire experience has taught that a high building of great area nurses the hottest fires. It is not only beyond the range of possibility, but the fire underwriters fear that there is a very strong probability of a fire starting in the nest of skyscrapers and beating across streets from the windows on the top floors to other buildings. All systems of sprinklers and attempts at fireproofing would not avail in the least in an instance of this kind. The froun away down below could do nothing. The fire would gain such headway that when the edge of the skyscraper zone was reached there would be a blaze of such proportions as to imperil the whole city. Reliance cannot be placed in any fire department even under the most favorable conditions when once a fire is sweeping uncontrolled."

In order to prevent a fire of this character Mr. Babbs urged upon the commission the necessity of recommending legislation limiting the height and area of buildings all over the city. Mr. Babbs would limit the height of non-fireproof buildings used for commercial or manufacturing purposes to fifty-five feet and an area of 5,000 square feet while he would allow the height of fireproof office buildings to be 125 feet with an area of from 20,000 to 30,000 square feet. Any height or area above these figures increased the fire risks to excessively dangerous points, he said.

TYPEWRITER COMBINE RUMORED.

Royal Company Said to Be Nucleus—Thomas F. Ryan Interested.

New York, Sept. 10.—It is rumored that a large group of American capitalists, with Thomas F. Ryan at the head, is forming a large company to acquire all the big typewriter interests in this country, and obtain control of the industry throughout the world. Among the leading stockholders there are mentioned Mr. Ryan, his son, Allan A. Ryan, the Hugheses, Charles M. Schwab, H. P. Whitney and John B. McDonald. Recently these formed the Royal Typewriter company, which it is believed will be the nucleus of the entire enterprise.

A plant, said to be the largest of its kind in the world, is being erected at Hartford, Conn. Several of the chief men of the Underwood company have been secured. It is said. The Royal company is made up as follows: President Allan A. Ryan; vice president, E. B. Hess, inventor of the Royal machine; secretary, I. V. Medicine; treasurer, Leon W. McCall; son of J. A. McCall; directors, the above-named officers and J. E. Neaher and Philip T. Dodge of the Merchenthaler Linotype company. Director Neaher says: "There is doubtless considerable money available when affairs develop to a point where more capital is needed. At present I believe the capital is about $1,000,000. The company has been recently organized to manufacture and sell the Royal typewriter, and to date we have been giving most of our attention to the foreign trade. The foreign market for American typewriters is enormous, and will continue to grow."

The determination of the government to break up the huge land tracts of the west and to recover property wrongfully obtained from the government is another sphere of activity that is requiring more and more work on the part of the department of justice. It is necessary also to consider most inspection and pure food legislation, the increasing importance of insular affairs, and the important fact that the administration is exerting every energy to secure strict government control over all interstate corporations and stricter control over railroads.

All these things make the demands heavier on the department of justice. Attorney General Bonaparte is said to realize this fully and to feel the department must expand to meet the expansion of government activities in numerous directions. Talk of Mr. Bonaparte's retirement from the cabinet has about died down. Mr. Bonaparte has taken a lease on his Washington residence for another season, and this is cited as pretty clear evidence that he is to remain.

S.S.S. RIDES THE SYSTEM OF MALARIA.

Malaria is an atmospheric poison which we unconsciously breathe into our system. The blood in its constant passage through the lungs absorbs the germs, and they destroy the rich, red corpuscles of this vital fluid and reduce it to such a weak, watery condition that it is unable to properly nourish the system, and disease gets a foothold. Then the symptoms of Malaria, such as pale, sallow complexions, weak vitality, poor appetite, deranged digestion, and perhaps chills and fever show that the trouble is affecting every part of the body. Malaria also affects the liver, producing a chronic state of biliousness and often a long spell of fever follows when the blood becomes fully contaminated with the poison. Chronic Sores and Ulcers, boils, aches and pains, and skin affections of various kinds often result from the insidious disease if the poison is allowed to accumulate in the blood in sufficient quantities. Malaria must be removed from the system through the circulation, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. This great remedy goes down into the blood and drives out all germs, microbes and poisons, and permanently cures Malaria. S. S. S. not only cleanses the blood of the cause, but furnishes it with the healthful properties it needs, so that instead of a weak, germ-infected stream, spreading disease throughout the system, it becomes a rich, red fluid, nourishing the body and enabling it to resist disease. S. S. S. is also the greatest of all tonics, and builds up and invigorates the entire system while ridding the blood of the germs of Malaria. Persons who are suffering from Malaria will be pleased with the prompt and pleasant results produced by the use of S. S. S., and can take it with confidence because it is an absolutely safe medicine, being free from harmful minerals of any kind. WILL ASK BIG APPROPRIATION.

Attorney General Plans Enlargement of Department of Justice.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Well-advised officials of the department of justice say they believe Attorney General Bonaparte has in mind an enlargement of the department, such as will make it commensurate with the demands upon it. It is said the attorney general will ask congress for a much larger appropriation than usual. The exact sum is not known, but there is no doubt substantial arguments can be made in congress why the department of justice should be provided for on a more liberal scale. It is pointed out that the demands on the department are constantly increasing, and yet the appropriations made for it are extremely low.

A high official of the department today talked about the conditions that demand an enlargement of the department of justice. He said the activities of the government against the trusts, rebating railroads, and the like, were constantly growing. Just now the government is engaged in grappling with the most powerful monopoly in the world, the Standard Oil company. This case is virtually a test of the Sherman anti-trust law. The interstate commerce laws alone, by reason of exerting a greater degree of government control over railroads, are developing much important litigation and are certain to develop more. This litigation in its smallest part is certain to find its way to the supreme court and will require the most careful attention of the department of justice, even if much work is done by special counsel.

The determination of the government to break up the huge land tracts of the west and to recover property wrongfully obtained from the government is another sphere of activity that is requiring more and more work on the part of the department of justice. It is necessary also to consider most inspection and pure food legislation, the increasing importance of insular affairs, and the important fact that the administration is exerting every energy to secure strict government control over all interstate corporations and stricter control over railroads.

All these things make the demands heavier on the department of justice. Attorney General Bonaparte is said to realize this fully and to feel the department must expand to meet the expansion of government activities in numerous directions. Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kitchner & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kitchner's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SAVS HE WILL PROVE OFFICE WAS STOLEN

M'CARTHY NOMINATED AS CITIZENS' CANDIDATE PROMISES STARTLING DISCLOSURES.

MASS MEETING TO BE HELD

Moore, Siegel and Donovan, It Is Said, to Be Nominated at the Three Conventions to Be Held Tonight.

Edward J. McCarthy, nominated as a candidate for recorder on the Citizens' ticket, addressed the convention at the city hall last night, and declaring that he had been defeated by fraud at the last election, promised to describe the manner in which the alleged fraud had been committed at a mass meeting which he said would be called for some night this week.

Charges Fraud.

Following the announcement that he had been nominated, McCarthy thanked the convention and asked its assistance in making the race for the office. He referred to statements recently published over his signature. He stated that he believed that he had been elected when he ran against Donovan and asserted that the office "had been stolen from him."

In his published communications, McCarthy stated that if nominated he would tell the manner in which he had been defeated, and there was some disappointment expressed by the crowd when he said last night that he would not go into the details until the night of the mass meeting. He did state, however, that at the mass meeting he would describe the matter fully and would convince his hearers that fraud had been committed. He asked all those present last night to bring their friends to hear what he would have to present.

Denies Charges.

In his address he referred to charges which he said had been made against him and reviewed the answers which he has published. He stated that he had been a resident of the city all his life, saying that his father had died when he was eleven years old and that he had struggled to support his widowed mother and the other children, two brothers and three sisters. He denied a charge he said had been made by his opponents that his mother was receiving aid from the county.

The Nominees.

When nominations were called for William Henry placed McCarthy's name before the convention and A. C. Parker named E. J. McCarthy, though in his address, Chairman Button stated that the name of J. Gillett, who is also a candidate for the office might be voted upon by the convention.

There were sixty-two votes cast, 41 for McCarthy and 21 for Spencer. The three tellers were Walter Ward, A. C. Parker and Donald Cameron.

The election is to be held next Tuesday and it is stated that one of the seven candidates for the office, Shields McCarthy has withdrawn from the race. Shields McCarthy is now acting controller and though recently he had a controversy with Mayor Robertson, it is believed by some that he will be appointed to fill the vacant controllership. Three conventions are to be held at the city hall tonight.

Conventions.

The independent convention is to be held in the police court room and this convention, it is said, is called to nominate H. L. Siegel, who is now filling the office of recorder, appointed temporarily by the council. He lacked one vote of being appointed to fill the office at the last meeting of the council, the afternoon being equally divided on the question and Acting Mayor Asie casting the deciding vote that the office should be filled by an election.

Daniel S. Donovan is the candidate who, it is said, will be nominated on the People's ticket. Donovan was elected over E. J. McCarthy at the last city election and resigned from the office. This convention is to be held in the assembly room at the city hall.

The union convention is scheduled to be held in the assembly room of the city hall also and at the same hour that the People's convention is called for, 8 o'clock. This convention, it is said, is for Arthur T. Moore. Moore is an electrician and is said to be supported by the union labor vote of the city.

TEAM RUNS AWAY.

Lake Superior Ice Company's Wagon Crashed Into Another Wagon.

A team of heavy bay horses attached to an ice wagon of the Lake Superior Ice company took flight at an automobile at the corner of Spring and Front streets yesterday afternoon and dashed down the grade on Spring street between Front and Lake streets into a wagon of the Kelly Hardware company.

The hardware company's wagon was standing near the curb in front of a blacksmith shop and when the heavy ice wagon crashed into it, a front wheel was shattered and both of the horses attached to the ice wagon were thrown off their feet. There was no horse attached to the hardware company's wagon. The runaway attracted considerable excitement and it was thought that one of the fallen horses had broken its leg. With difficulty the two horses extricated from the tangled harness and it was found that neither of them was injured. The only damage done was to the front wheel of the hardware company's wagon.

MANY DELAYS.

New Paving Cannot Be Laid Until Rain Ceases and Fair Weather Returns.

The street commission was delayed for some time by the non-arrival of the tarvia which is to be laid on about five blocks of city streets as an experiment. Later when the tarvia arrived, the tools to lay the material were lost somewhere between Marquette and Chicago and there was another delay. A week ago the tools were found and they are now here, but the work cannot begin until fair weather returns and the delay now is being caused by the rain.

TEAM, MAN AND WAGON IN BRIDGE DISASTER

OFFICIALS BLAMED FOR UNSAFE CONDITION OF STRUCTURE OVER MOUTH OF DEAD RIVER NEAR PRESQUE ISLE.

A team of horses with wagon and driver crashed through the bridge over the old mouth of Dead river on the Presque Isle road yesterday afternoon and after dropping a distance of ten feet into about eight feet of water, both the horses and driver escaped.

Bridge Was Rotten.

The accident occurred about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The team and wagon is owned by F. B. Spear & Sons and the driver is Thomas Mayotte. The wagon was loaded with bran and hay and was on its way to the boarding house of Carl Hansen on the lake shore. The total weight it is estimated was 7,000 pounds and the cause of the accident was the unsafe and rotten condition of the bridge.

The escape of the horses and the driver is regarded as miraculous and the wonder expressed is that a disaster with more serious consequences has not occurred before now. It is said that the bridge which has been in use for the past twenty years, has been unsafe for a long time, and it was made more so, by the recent heavy rains.

The Accident.

Mayotte had almost crossed the bridge when it began to give away in the center under the weight of the wagon. The horses were on the northern approach and as the wagon sank, it drew them backwards through the opening in the bridge floor. Mayotte leaped from his seat into the stream and swam ashore. The animals as they fell tore the harness apart, and when they struck the water they were not impeded and were able to follow the driver. The wagon and its contents are still in the stream.

Officials Blamed.

The bridge is one of those used by all vehicles except the street cars in reaching Presque Isle and its destruction shuts off all traffic by vehicle to the grounds. Within the past few months hundreds of conveyances and many heavy touring cars have used the bridge.

Comedy Founded On Ex-Governor Peck's Humorous Story Makes Hit.

Peck's Bad Boy, founded upon Ex-Governor George W. Peck's celebrated story was presented at the Opera House last night. The play is funnier than ever this year and it scored an instant hit with the audience. The part of Henry, the bad boy and that of Buster, his chum were ably handled by Estelle and Louise Plunkett. Harry Willis played the part of Shultz, the grocer and Tom Carter that of the bad boy's father and both were good. The company is a strong one and the stage setting was all that could be desired.

COMMUNICATED.

To The Mining Journal:—Because other members of my family have had similar trouble, and because I believe that many other people must also have had the same experience, I want to make public the inconvenience that my brother, Will McCormick, had, largely because of the inattention to duty and surliness of a policeman, in reaching my home Monday night. He came here from Gladwin, Mich. The train was over an hour late, and he, being unfamiliar with the city and finding no one at the depot who could direct him to my home, started out to find a policeman, for directions, after trying in vain to get into two hotels near the depot. He encountered a policeman near the City Hall. He asked for some information about my place of residence, but the policeman didn't know where it was. Then he asked to be taken or directed to some hotel, where he could either consult a directory or get lodgings. The policeman made no offer to aid him, and, on his insisting, gave him an indefinite direction to a hotel that led him up and down Third street. A man who had been drinking finally offered to take him to my house, but when he reached the residence district it developed that he did not know where it was located. After several attempts to find it he gave up, and started back for the depot. He then encountered a man who happened to be bound for his home, located beyond our place, and he took him directly to it. He reached my house at 2 a. m. yesterday morning.
