

DAILY MINING JOURNAL
A MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY THE MINING JOURNAL CO. (LIMITED.)

Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

The Newberry furnace is not out of blast after all. At the last minute orders were received countermanding the instructions to shut down. Superintendent Johnson made earnest representations in favor of keeping the stack running,

It is stated, in denial of reports to the contrary, that the president has not expressed himself on the third term proposition to any White House callers,

E. H. Harriman has put 6,000 men back at work on his railroad systems.
They were laid off when Mr. Harriman felt dubious about the outlook.

The new Japanese ambassador to Washington is to be Baron Togoro Taki-hira, and his appointment is most satisfactory to this government.

SUPERIOR TRUST COMPANY
HANCOCK MICHIGAN
Capital - - $150,000
This company is under the supervision of the state banking department...

tions strenuously, whereas Aoki was accustomed to exercise a wider latitude of judgment. Perhaps it is this fact that has led the Japanese government to request from him a personal report on his ambassadorship.

The Goldfield situation has taken on an ugly turn. The governor of Nevada made a request for federal troops because he was afraid of what might develop, and they have been sent on, nine companies of 'em. The Goldfield miners are, it is said, armed, to the number of 1,000, and it is feared that there will be trouble.

SHOW A CLEAR RECORD.
Some of Governor Warner's near friends are worried lest the fact that the administration was cognizant of the conditions in Treasurer Glazier's Chelsea bank may handicap the state in its efforts to collect on the bonds securing its deposits in that institution.

Governor Warner did not become aware of the conditions existing in the Chelsea bank until early this year, when, shortly after his appointment, Banking Commissioner Zimmerman learned of the heavy deposits of state money in that institution and of the excessive loans made to members of Glazier's family and the Glazier companies.

The real specimen handiwork of the saloon is the lumberjack on a spree. He brings into town from a hundred to a hundred and fifty dollars. He goes to the saloon. In three days, sometimes in six hours his money is gone, and he is on the street reeling, filthy, dazed and bestial.

The governor may or may not have known about the inequitable distribution of the state's money, and particularly about the amount in the Glazier bank, early enough to have saved the state any risk. He certainly learned of it from Banking Commissioner Zimmerman, but then it was too late to play anything but a waiting game.

It is worthy of note that there has been little disposition in the lower state press to question either the motives or conduct of either Mr. Zimmerman or Governor Warner. On the other hand it is frequently commented that they did about the best they could with a situation that was primarily due to insufficient legal safeguards around the treasurer's office.

No false pretense has marked the career of Ely's Cream Balm. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible like the catarrh snuffs and powders, for mind shattered by cocaine. The great virtue of Ely's Cream Balm is that it speedily and completely overcomes nasal catarrh and hay fever.

AS THE SECOND NAVAL POWER.

The United States has the third navy of the world says Secretary Metcalf in his annual report, and it will have the second if the people insist.
"Our manifest duty," he writes, "is to be strong enough without spasmodic transfers to defend our Atlantic and Pacific waters."

The statement is made that the American navy boasts the most intelligent and skilled enlisted force in the world.
The secretary also quotes from a foreign publication of authority which states that at long range the United States fleet is superior to any other navy. As a sea power we are certainly third, he says, and possibly second.

Not until the body of William Brown, mate on the steamer Lotus of the Escanaba & Gladstone Transportation company's line, was found dead in his bed at Manitowac, arrived at Escanaba was it known that death had been caused by a sudden and fatal attack of diphtheria.

Whining piteously from the cold and hunger, a little slip of a dog, with tail frozen as stiff as a bone, poked its head up at a St. Louis hotel man when the latter arrived in Menominee the other morning from Appleton. Around dog's neck was a note: "Who finds this dog give him food. He's starving—so am I."

Twelve carloads of Christmas trees, the first big season's shipment and one of the largest sent south on one train in several years, passed through Mari-ette, Upper Michigan, season, the demand for the trees secured in the Michigan forests are part of a large consignment.

Freight tonnage through the Soo ship canals in November reached a total of 6,909,877, bringing the total for the season up to 57,983,568. The tonnage for the entire year of 1906 was only a little over 51,000,000. The present month will probably show enough tonnage to bring the total for the season to about 58,000,000.

Norcross Coming Back—
Junior Norcross, who has been coaching the football team of Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis, Oregon, is expected home this week and after the holidays he will resume his studies at the Michigan College of Mines at Houghton.

Application has been made for the admission of Percy Davis to the asylum at Newberry and an examination will be held before Judge of Probate Snell at the Soo for the purpose of investigating the sanity of the man. Davis is well known as a bartender. He entered the hospital at the Soo three weeks ago to receive treatment for dropsy and other complications and during his stay there appears to have developed signs of dementia. The officials of the Bartenders' assocation are looking after his case.

Affiliated with the order for sixty-three years, Henry McNabb, a Chippewa county man, is believed to be the oldest Orangeman on the United States side of the border. He was initiated at Bond-head, Ont., when aged nineteen, and he has been a member of the society ever since. He is now eighty-two years old.
The Orangemen's order in Upper Michigan is reported to prosper in condition by Grand Master Doig, and to be continually increasing in membership. A new lodge is shortly to be organized at Rudyard.

DEATH OF A VETERAN WHO ONCE LIVED HERE

FRIENDS HEAR OF END OF JOHN C. INGALLS AT SOLDIERS' HOME IN GRAND RAPIDS.

John C. Ingalls, a former resident of Marquette, and an old soldier died at the Soldiers' Home at Grand Rapids a week ago Sunday. He will be well remembered by many residents of the city though he left here some ten or more years ago. At the time of his death he was seventy-six years old. Mr. Ingalls was a first cousin of Alice and Phoebe Carey, the celebrated song writers. His name was John Carey Ingalls. He was finely educated, a first class mechanic, a good soldier and a thoroughly honest, conscientious man.

His Army Career.

Mr. Ingalls enlisted in the army August 31, 1862, at Millport, N. Y., and as a private was mustered into Company "C" of the 50th Regiment of New York volunteers to serve three years. On October 23, 1862 he was promoted corporal and on July 16 of the following year he was made a sergeant. He was mustered out with his company June 13, 1865 at Fort Barry, Virginia. At the grand review of the army at Washington in 1865 at the close of the war, Mr. Ingalls was in Company "C" on the extreme right and in that position, led the entire army of the Potomac, as every man took step from him.

Was An Inventor.

While living in Marquette thirty years ago, he spent some three or more years in inventing and perfecting an electric light much the same as in use today, and later discoveries in that line have proved that had he changed the converter he made a very little, he would have perfected the light before Edison made his great success with it. Like many other inventors, he "just missed it" and so, died poor.

Marquette Man His Bunkmate.

A number of veterans who served with Mr. Ingalls are still living and some who knew him well are in Marquette. Among these is Courland E. Moore who was his bunkmate during the war. Before Mr. Ingalls left Marquette about ten years ago, he left his carbine, which he had carried through the war with another friend of his here, Francis M. Moore, clerk of the United States district court, and at the same time Mr. Moore presented him with a revolver. Mr. Moore still has the old carbine and he cherishes it highly as a keepsake.

FUNERAL OF A. J. FREEMAN.

For Forty Years He Was a Familiar Figure on Marquette Water Front.

A. J. Freeman, who for forty years was a familiar figure along the Marquette water front and who was well-known throughout the entire upper peninsula as the Marquette boat builder, died Saturday at St. Mary's hospital and is to be buried this afternoon. The funeral will take place from the Hager undertaking rooms on Front street and the interment will be in Park cemetery.

About a year ago Mr. Freeman became a patient at the hospital and he never recovered sufficiently to leave the institution. In his younger years he was a sailor on the Atlantic ocean and for a period commanded a coasting vessel.

With his daughter he came to Marquette more than forty years ago and opened his boat shop where it now is near the plant of the Lake Shore Engine works. It was about thirty years ago that the daughter married here and returned east. She is Mrs. C. H. Ford, and her home is in Boston.

Mr. Freeman was a skilled boat carpenter and there are now in use at numerous points along the south shore of the lake many boats which he built.

Most of the work he did was upon small sail and power boats and skiffs, though also he was frequently called upon to make repairs upon the larger vessels.

For a period he conducted a boat livery at his shop and many of the patrons of this livery, who were then schoolboys, are now business men of the city. He was not much more than thirty years old when he came to Marquette and he was seventy-five years old when he died.

THE HUMAN WOLF KILLS MOST DEER

MORE TO BE FEARED OUT OF SEASON THAN TIMBER VARIETY, SAYS BARK RIVER MAN.

It is stoutly maintained by Ole Harnstad, and he is willing to back up his statements, if necessary, with convincing proof, that "human wolves," as he calls the men who hunt out of season at night by means of a strong headlight, are responsible for the slaughter of more deer the year around than timber wolves. Mr. Harnstad is a Bark River manufacturer, and he is quoted as saying: "Of late I have quite noticed articles in several U. P. papers calling attention to the fact that deer are very scarce this season. Those who have written these articles seem to agree that the cause of this scarcity is the wolf. In one sense of the word this may be correct, but as there are two kinds of wolves to be considered in this case these articles may be a little misleading to readers who are not familiar with the woods.

"My personal observations are not extended to this whole of this peninsula. As far as this matter is concerned they are limited to only three counties, namely: Delta, Menominee, and Dickinson. For the last fourteen years I have spent considerable time in the woods of the counties mentioned, and during all my tramps I never saw a timber wolf and have found the remains of but one deer which I thought might have been killed by a wolf. This is not saying that wolves do not kill deer, far from it. What I do say is that this one is not near as dangerous to the deer family as his near relative, who, I will try to describe for the benefit of those first mentioned, who are unable to go out and see for themselves.

The wolf, like his brother, hunts only in the night time. If thrown upon his own resources in the woods and obliged to hunt his meat in the daytime he would soon become extinct from starvation.

"The first sign of the approach of such a wolf is the strong glare from a headlight. If he is strictly up-to-date he will wear one of those powerful carbon lights which enables him to see not only the eyes, but the whole body of a deer at some distance. His favorite haunts are in outlying clearings and old, unfrequented roads, where deer come to

FIRST GAME TONIGHT OF LEAGUE BOWLERS

PLAYERS HAVE BEEN DIVIDED INTO EIGHT TEAMS WITH FOUR MEMBERS TO A TEAM.

The principal bowling contest of the season, a three-men contest, will commence tonight at the Marquette Bowling company alleys in the Bacon building, at 8 o'clock. The bowlers have been divided into eight teams of four members each, from which each team captain will select the three to bowl in any match. There will be four matches each week, and if three rounds are played, as planned, the contest will continue until next May.

Suitable prizes will be awarded the winning team and also for the highest individual scores. The alleys have been better patronized this season than at any time since they were taken over by the local bowlers, and it is thought that the present contest will arouse more interest than any of the previous ones. The teams have been arranged as follows:

Team No. 1—Allen, Conklin, Foster, Bernard.
Team No. 2—Bell, Foley, C. Drake, Layne.
Team No. 3—Dunster, Davis, Couze, Bellmore.
Team No. 4—Foard, Anderson, Weiser, Messier.
Team No. 5—Godwin, Stafford, Jeanson, W. Hodgkins.
Team No. 6—Sultz, Osgood, Marcotte, Bush.
Team No. 7—Miller, Webb, G. Rydholm, Gooding.
Team No. 8—Van Iderstine, Werner, Brooks, LaFave.

The schedule for this week is as follows: Monday, Team No. 1 vs. No. 2; Tuesday, No. 3 vs. No. 4; Wednesday, No. 5 vs. No. 6; Thursday, No. 7 vs. No. 8.

THEATRICAL

"Gingerbread Man."

"The Gingerbread Man," which played at the Opera House Saturday night, was all that was expected, and more. The individual singing, particularly, was of a high order, easily the best that has been heard in Marquette this season, and the chorus also was excellent. Garrick Major, as "The Bogie Man," sang a number of baritone solos which called forth a storm of approval and he was recalled repeatedly. Also in the first act, the duet by Mabel Day, as Mazie Bon Bon and Evelyn Kellogg, as Jack Horner, "Beautiful Land of Bon Bon," made a pronounced hit. Throughout the entire play were a number of other songs, all of which took well. The singing and dancing of Nellie Nice, as Margery Day, was also most enjoyable. The comedy element was well supplied by Ross Snow, as "The Wise Man," and by Charles Lichter, as "Simple Simon," who, by the way, appears to have a good tenor voice, though he is not heard alone in any part of the play. Percy Matson, as "Good Fairy," is the limit—nothing short of it. The show is well staged, the acting good and the girls are all pretty. Its success is well earned.

Engagement Cancelled.

Manager Kreepeck of the opera house has announced that owing to the illness of a number of members of the company, the Mack-Leone organization will not appear in Marquette tonight as had been announced. The impending engagement of the company has also been cancelled. The Mack-Leone people are well known to Marquette theater-goers, and the postponing of their engagement here is generally regretted.

THE NEW EDUCATION.

Of yore the educator was wont to look at the work-a-day world from afar, and somewhat askance. At college he had passed from the student's desk to tutoring, from tutoring to a professor's chair. He was accustomed to regard men and things chiefly as depicted in books, tabulated in statistics, or reported in the proceedings of legislature and courts. How the college looked from the outside, wherein it failed to prepare its graduates for the toil and tug of actual life, he knew not. And thus usually the college staffs of a generation ago were leaven indeed, but leaven that kept to its own corner, secluded from the lump. In contrast to these aloof educators of times past are thousands of teachers throughout the technical and agricultural schools of America today. They stand for a revolution profoundly affecting all other schools. Not many years ago all boys were educated as if to become clerks, or pass to the professions of law, the ministry, or medicine. But most boys must earn their bread at farming or railroad-ing in the factory or workshop; why, therefore, begin at school to teach how these life tasks may be performed faithfully and well? And why not, also, bring out the significance of these tasks, involving as they do principles of the highest importance and interest? From "Dr. Robertson and the Training of Canadian Farmers," by George Iles, in American Review of Reviews.

ASCERTAINS THE NAME OF AN INSOLVENT CREDITOR

Recently, a wealthy merchant in Paris, who does an extensive business with Japan, was informed that a prominent firm in Yokohama had failed, but the name of the firm he could not learn. He could have ascertained the truth by calling, but, to save expense, he went to a well-known banker, who had received the news, and requested him to reveal the name of the firm.

"That's a very delicate thing to do," replied the banker, "for the news is not official, and if I give you the name I might incur some responsibility."

The merchant argued, but in vain. Finally he made this proposition: "I will give you," he said, "a list of ten firms in Yokohama, and I will ask you to look through it, and then tell me, without mentioning any name, whether or not the name of the firm which has failed appears in it. Surely you will do that for me?"

"Yes," said the banker, "for if I do not mention any name I cannot be held responsible in any way."

The list was made, the banker looked through it, and, as he handed it back to the merchant, said: "The name of the merchant who has failed is there."

"The firm I've lost heavily," replied the merchant, "for that is the firm with which I did business," showing him a name on the list.

"But how do you know that is the firm which has failed?" asked the banker in surprise.

"Very easily," replied the merchant. "Of the ten names on the list, only

MACHINERY NOW GOING IN.

Foundations for Vandevanter Mine's Mill Plant Completed.

The officers of the Vandevanter Lead & Zinc Mining company are advised by Superintendent Fox that excellent progress is being made with work on the new mill. The foundations have been finished and the machinery is now being installed. The management expects the plant to be ready for operation by the middle of January.

Reports from the Pine Tree mine are to the effect that the new mill is working satisfactorily. A detailed statement of what the plant is doing is expected this week. It is reported that the percentage of mineral being lost in the concentrating is unusually small. The plant is the finest in Wisconsin, and it was properly installed, which cannot be said of many of the plants erected in that state during the past two or three years.

A number of the Ishpeeming shareholders of the Baxter mine pool will attend a meeting of the stockholders this evening at T. E. Thorens' office in the First National bank building at Negaunee.

WILL SEE SKI TOURNAMENT.

Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire Want Next National Contest.

With no snow at Duluth and other places in Minnesota and Wisconsin the professional skiers who will compete at the national tournament in Duluth Feb. 11 and 12, will not have as much time as last year to get themselves in condition for the contests. While there has been more snow here than at most places in the Northwest where there are ski clubs, the members of the Ishpeeming organization have not yet taken up the winter's sport. This time last year they were out for four very successful outings had been.

Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire, Wis., are prominent candidates for the national tournament in 1908. Julius Howland, president of the Chippewa Falls club, suggested that the clubs of Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire hold a preliminary tournament in which only their members shall compete, the loser dropping out of the race for the national tournament, and at the same time throwing its support to the other.

SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTES.

Many Teachers and School Patrons Attended Meetings Held Last Week.

Commissioner Sterne states that the series of institutes held at the various places in the county last week were unusually successful and profitable. They were conducted by Professor Laird, of the department of psychology and pedagogy, at Ypsilanti, assisted by Principal Kaye of the Northern State Normal. The talks on "Discipline," "The Child," and "The Scope and Value of Education" by Professor Laird, and "The Trends in Education" by Principal Kaye were deep, scholarly and far-reaching in the best educational thought of the day.

The arrangements and entertainment by local superintendents and citizens at the places where meetings were held were admirable and perfect, and County Commissioner Sterne wishes to express his appreciation and thanks to all. "When the head and heart of the home is in league with the brain of the school, it is well with the child."

The enrollment of teachers was 276. The attendance of patrons in the villages was large and appreciative.

HAS A BIG CHORUS.

"The Gingerbread Man" with his ingenious brown girth and brown face with frosted ornaments on his clothes, and frosting about his eyes and mouth, surrounded by a superb cast and big beauty chorus, will be seen at Ishpeeming theater Wednesday evening. This big musical extravaganza is considered to be the best work of Frederick Ranken and A. Baldwin Sloane, and as presented by Nixon & Zimmerman will be the one big musical attraction of the year.

HOLIDAY TRADE STARTS.

Many Ishpeeming People Making Their Selections for Christmas.

All signs point to a satisfactory Christmas trade for the Ishpeeming merchants. The general shopping did not start as early this season as last, due largely to the hurry over the issuance of cashiers' checks to the mining company's employes, but since the pay days in November there has been considerable steady buying.

Some of the Ishpeeming merchants have already received their complete holiday lines. It is expected that before the close of the week all the business houses will have complete lines. "We are already having a good holiday trade," said a clerk in one of the stores yesterday. "The season promises to be a profitable one, and so far as we can now judge we will have very little of our holiday stock left two weeks hence."

The store proprietors and their employes are pleased that the buying has started, as within a week or so they will be able to judge whether they will need additional holiday goods to meet the demands. Last season some of the merchants were obliged to purchase a second and third time, the rush the last week or ten days being much greater than they anticipated.

GRAND CHANCELLOR HERE.

S. T. Carlton, grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Michigan, was the guest of Zenith lodge Saturday evening. Mr. Carlton visited a number of the upper peninsula lodges last week, conducting a school of instruction at each place. Inasmuch as the Ishpeeming lodge had shown itself perfect in the ritualistic work at the last two annual contests of the upper peninsula teams Mr. Carlton did not devote his time to instruction, but instead gave an interesting and instructive review of the order's work. The meeting was attended by about 150 of the members, the Uniform Rank escorting Mr. Carlton from the hotel to the Woodmen hall, and conferring upon him other military honors. The ladies of the Presbyterian church served a banquet at 10:30.

FROM HOPKINS' CURB LETTER.

"There was considerable weakness in today's copper share market, Trinity being especially weak on account of Mr. Lawson's announcement that he was going to look out for himself in the future and not the public. There is no news of importance in the metal situation, prices remaining about the same as last week."

That are doing tit chasing. It may seem queer that anyone would think of killing hounds, but out in the Pacific Northwest there is always a feud between city sportsmen who invade the country with hounds on one side and resident ranchers on the other.

Oregon passed this odd law because of the ravages of wild animals upon domestic animals. It is claimed that hounds protect the deer by chasing them. This sounds paradoxical, of course, but this is the way it is explained in Oregon. "Hounds will rarely run a deer down and kill it themselves, and unless some hunter shoots at the deer will escape. But while the hounds are loose they will clear the woods of the animals that prey upon the deer. In the spring a wildcat will kill nine or ten fawns to feed its kittens, and the number of wildcats is so great that they destroy more deer than hunters do."

G. T. Kelly, a rancher, has the following to say about the law: "This law was passed because the attacks of wild animals entail a loss of $1,000,000 each year. The hounds run these wild animals away, saving the farmer's stock. But under the old law, if hounds were set after wild animals, they invariably ended by running deer, subjecting their owners to fine and rendering the dogs liable to be killed. The result was that the dogs could not be used and the wild animals had things nearly their own way."

"I was put out of the goat and sheep business under the old law because I could not turn my dogs loose. The hounds would have kept away cougar, lynx, foxes, wildcats, coyotes and wolves, but I did not dare let them go because they might run deer. When I quit I had less than half as many goats and sheep as when I commenced."—St Paul Dispatch.

OREGON'S UNIQUE GAME LAW.

The Odd Situation Caused by a Feud Between Sportsmen and Ranchmen.

The state of Oregon has a unique game law. In fact, no one appeared to know of its existence until a few days ago, when several ranchers were fined heavily for allowing their dogs to run deer.

The ranchers commenced kicking about heavy fines, and then some anti-quarian discovered that the last legislature passed an act making it a misdemeanor for a hunter to kill a deer that was being chased by dogs, but at the same time put in a proviso that prevents the ranchers from killing the dogs that chase the deer.

In other words, you cannot kill deer that are being chased nor shoot the dogs

EIGHT SHORT STORIES.

Anecdotes Worth Reading, Selected at Random.

John Sarp Williams tells of an old darky whom he once encountered in a railroad station at Charleston, and whom the congressman, expecting to remain in town but a few minutes, desired to take a note to a friend in the city.

Poor Wages.

John B. Lennon, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, delivered recently in Bloomington an address on strikes.

An Impression.

"Ah, I have an impression!" exclaimed Dr. McCosh, the president of Princeton college, to the mental philosophy class, according to Judge. "Now, young gentlemen," continued the doctor, as he touched his head with his forefinger, "can you tell me what an impression is?"

No answer. "What? no one knows? No one can tell me what an impression is?" exclaimed the doctor, looking up and down the class.

"I know," said Mr. Arthur. "An impression is a dent in a soft place."

"Young gentlemen," said the doctor, removing his hand from his forehead and growing red in the face, "you are excused for the day."

A Detail.

Just after his ordination a young minister of Richmond was given the opportunity to conduct the morning service in an Episcopal church in that city.

He was extremely nervous and got through the service with much difficulty, says Harper's Weekly.

"I was rather flustered," he remarked afterwards to a member of the congregation, "but I flattered myself that I pulled through without a mistake."

"I must admit that you did well," responded the parishioner; "in fact, the service could not have been much better conducted; but it was the first time I've ever known the evening service to be given in the morning."

The Aged Babe.

W. H. Trimmer of Moline, Ill., says there are no happy faces in New York. Mr. Trimmer, an aged, healthy, cheerful man, visited New York last month, and the strained, worried, and pale faces of the New Yorkers shocked and displeased him.

"You live too fast," Mr. Trimmer said to a reporter. "That is your trouble, fast living. Your very children have an aged air. Why—" He gave a loud laugh.

"There was a young couple on the East Side that postponed the christening of their first born till the little fellow was three years old. In the hushed and crowded church, when the clergyman took the white-robed babe in his arms and sprinkled its small face plentifully with water, its grimaces and spluttered and shouted up angrily in the good priest's face:

"Hey, chise it, will ye? If you do that again, I'll biff you one."

The Involuntary Volunteers.

Alfred H. Love, for forty years the president of the Universal Peace union, was discussing the conference at The Hague.

"War bears hardest on the private soldier," he said. "I think that if the world would delegate to The Hague, with full authority, a lot of privates equipped from some recent war—young men without arms, young men without legs, young men without noses—then universal peace would come at once."

"Whenever I think of our private soldiers and war I think of one of our later South American revolutions. There was a general who promised to send into the field 200 volunteers from his district. There, he said, the people were furious to avenge their wrongs with powder and shot.

"The general retired to his district, and in a week his 200 volunteers arrived in three freight cars, bound hand and foot. Along with them the general sent this message to headquarters: 'I transmit herewith the 200 volunteers promised. Please return the rope at once.'

His Trouble.

A small, quiet-looking man, smoking a large cigar, sat by the side of a medium-sized automobile that was drawn out on the road as a large touring car came along, driven by a man with an interrogatory aspect.

"How long have you been here?" "About two hours."

"Can't you find out what the matter is?" "No."

"Trouble with spark plug?" "Think not."

"How are your batteries?" "O. K."

"Haven't got a short circuit, have you?" "O, no."

"Got any gasoline in your tank?" "Plenty."

"Would you mind telling me, sir, just what's the matter with that machine of yours?" In answer the man pointed to a large red farmhouse in the distance.

your address, I will telegraph or cable you the glad news at my own expense."—Collier's Weekly.

Willed Away the Laundry.

When a perfectly strange woman came for the soiled clothes three weeks ago the mistress of the house came to the conclusion that her own laundress had simply employed a messenger, and made no comment on the circumstances.

"Where is Susan?" she asked the tall any bony structure who came for the clothes.

"She has gone to Pennsylvania to live, yes," answered this person, with composure. "She went to Pennsylvania some time ago, and she left good-by for you, but s'long es yuh didn't seem tuh notis I didn't say nullin'."

"But why didn't she come and tell me and allow me to make some arrangements about my laundry?" asked Susan's ex-mistress.

"Well, she le' yo' clothes tuh meh. She made a will an' le' dem clothes tuh meh. Wese allus been good friends, and so w'hen she le' she say 'I may wash yo' clothes long ez I wish tuh, an' dere yuz no use worryin' yo' 'bout it, no waz dere?'"

To which moderate and sensible question the mistress of the house could only remain speechless.

WASPS AS PAPER-MAKERS.

The Wonders of a Nest—Havoc Wrought by the Insects—Ways to Destroy.

It is the last loving act of the common wasp in every colony to elect a certain number of their lady fellows and go through the process of "feeding them up," for a wasp queen earns that title simply by reason of her size, and not because of any claim to aristocratic descent.

This feeding lasts the queen wasps all the winter through, during which time they hibernate in some warm corner out of the way of frost and snow.

About March they come forth once more and proceed to look about for a nesting place. Having chosen a site for this—generally in a hollow tree or in some sheltered and sunny corner among dry rubbish—the queen forms a cocoon of "wasp paper," wherein she constructs about a dozen cells and lays an egg in each.

In due time the eggs become grubs, and these are fed assiduously by the queen mother until they completely fill the cell. The latter is then sealed up, and in a few days each grub, which meanwhile has developed wings and legs, and changed from white to yellow-and-black, emerges as a fully-grown wasp.

The real work of nest building now begins, and the whole party go off together in search of a convenient hole in the ground for the permanent headquarters.

This, at least, is what the common wasp does. There are several varieties in Great Britain, and some of them build on the branch of a tree or in the grass of a bank. The little family works very hard to manufacture the material of which the nest is made—a wonderful substance of the texture of paper pulped up from the bark of trees in the wasps' mouths. The wasp was making paper from wood pulp for centuries before man thought of it! This nest proper contains a large amount of "comb," and in each cell the queen lays an egg.

Things now proceed apace, the feeding of the grubs and sealing them up in their cells going on as before, but the queen is now assisted in her labors by her dozen or so original subjects, and the others join in the work as they hatch out. As the summer advances the nest grows stronger and stronger in numbers until the very end of the season, and even then some of the grubs never see the light. "A wasp's nest may contain as many as ten thousand wasps, but an average nest would be about half that number."

Wasps are such hard working little creatures that it seems a sin to destroy their wonderful labor, for the nest is a triumph of architectural skill. At the same time, they commit such havoc in orchards and are so troublesome everywhere where food or drink is to be found that every man's hand is against them. They seldom sting unless molested or touched by accident.

A certain amount of good is done by wasps in killing noxious insects, especially house flies, but this one good act is quite overbalanced by their many deeds of evil. All sorts of methods are adopted, therefore, to destroy them at night time in their nests, but the very best plan of all is to procure some cyanide of potassium in a deadly poison from a chemist, and place a teaspoonful within the hole that leads to the nest, afterward sealing the entrance with a sod of turf. Next morning every wasp will be dead, and the nest may be dug out and destroyed, brood comb and all.—Pall Mall Gazette.

PREVENTING DUSTY ROADS.

Consul T. H. Norton, writing from Chemnitz, says that a Saxon firm has introduced a new road-binding composition called "Apokoin," which has been tried on the macadamized streets of Leipzig and other places with much success.

The material is thus described: "It is a mixture of the heavier residual oils obtained in the distillation of coal tar with high boiling hydrocarbons. The method of mixing apparently involves a certain degree of chemical combination, in which phenol and similar constituents play a role. The manufactured material is prepared for use by heating in iron cauldrons, identical with those used for asphalt, to temperatures ranging from 212 degrees to 248 degrees F. (100 degrees to 120 degrees C.). It is then sprayed evenly over the surface of the roadway with a special form of apparatus, and under such high pressure that the fluid mass penetrates to a certain distance into the upper layer of dust or dirt. The result is the formation of a compact, lustrous black coating, which meets the demands of heavy traffic and is not disintegrated into dust particles. A marked advantage of the new process over the methods hitherto employed for the same purpose, and based upon the use of ordinary tar, is the total absence of odor after the application."

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is overlooked, it advances the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and many times during the night.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this journal.

From this floor the nuts pass to the second floor where they go through fans which blow out and separate the light weights, and the others pass on to tables in the form of endless movable belts at which tables the hundreds of women and children pick out the discolored and faulty nuts and allow the better ones to pass into a grader, which grades the nuts as to size. Through all this machinery the nuts have been polished until they come out looking as smooth as a pearl. In this condition they are placed in chutes running to the lower floor where they are sacked in bur-lap bags, stenciled with the names of the several brands. They are then ready to be shipped to the cities throughout the country.

More than 7,000,000 bushels of home-grown peanuts are consumed annually by Americans, at a cost of $14,500,000; but one cannot wonder at these startling figures after an investigation in the very heart of the peanut industry—Suffolk, Va.—the largest market in the world for the most valuable nut which grows in the earth.

Suffolk has the largest peanut "factory" in the country, but there are other factories at Norfolk, Newport, Waverly, Smithfield, Wakefield, Franklin, Petersburg and other places. It is an all-the-year-around industry lasting from one season to the next, and it is not difficult to realize that the peanut is one of the biggest little articles in our American trade.

The extent of the use of the peanut by Americans can better be appreciated when it is understood that this heavy annual consumption does not form a part of the regular articles of food, but are eaten at odd times by young, old, rich and poor, white and black. It is an interesting fact that the peanut—almost universally known in the south as the "goober" and "pindar"—did not come prominently before the American people until after the trying days of the Civil war, during which period the boys who wore the blue and the boys who wore the gray found that the peanut section of the southern states furnished a most satisfactory camping place for those who were short of rations, and in this desirable condition the boys of both sides not infrequently found themselves. It was then that the hungry soldiers made meals of the peanuts and felt thankful that such hunger-satisfying food could be obtained by a little "foraging." From these troublous days until the present the rapid spread of the culture of peanuts has been continuous, and once where a small "patch" was planted there are now acres—a hundred acre peanut farm in Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and other southern states being not uncommon.

Possibly the finest peanut grown is the "bunch" variety, but the Virginia "runner" is the most widely known and most popular with the trade, and may be taken as the typical American peanut. The pods are large and white and will weigh about 22 pounds to the bushel. In point of flavor, size and hardness of shell or hull, these are the finest peanuts raised, and the "selects" from these are known to the trade as "Jumbo."

Tennessee produces the white and red, and both are excellent nuts, but not so large as the Virginia. North Carolina has what is known as the African variety, small and full of oil, but pleasant to the taste. The African peanut is claimed by botanists to be the original, but excellent authority gives it as a native of Brazil. Louisiana finds the Spanish—a small but prolific nut—best raised in that region, and immense quantities are grown. The "goober" of Georgia and South Carolina is like the small white and red peanut, the same as grown in Tennessee, and each succeeding year shows an increase in production. One of the southern states grow different varieties, and in every instance it has proved a profitable business.

It has been successfully demonstrated that on suitable soil the peanut will grow in any latitude where Indian corn will thrive, but a good crop depends entirely on the climate—conditions which are found on the Atlantic seaboard from New Jersey southward, in the Mississippi valley as far north as southern Wisconsin. And on the Pacific coast south to the Columbia river.

In the Virginia peanut section, and it is a very extensive one, it has been found that where the land is properly prepared pulverized and made porous, and free from grass and weeds, there is little to be done in the way of cultivation after the seed is placed in the ground. Most planters have adopted the "drill" or "ridge" system, which renders cultivation easy with plows made for the purpose and requiring very little use of the hoe. It is always a nip-and-tuck race with Jack Frost to get the crop harvested before he gets in his work, for a biting frost injures the nut and lessens the value of the vine for forage purposes. Peanut farmers have plows made especially for harvesting the crop, the plow is long and keen and goes deep into the soil, thus preventing the bruising and cutting of the nuts. As the plowmen loosen the nuts from their beds laborers with pitchforks follow and remove the vines from the earth, shake off the loose soil and pile the vines with their roots laden with nuts in great piles. These pitchfork workers are followed by others in a few hours to take the nut laden vines and "shock" them around seven foot poles, care being taken to keep the vines off the ground by placing plank and wood around the shocks. When the shock is finished it is capped with fodder or hay to keep out the rain and then the shock is left undisturbed until ready for the pickers, generally women and children, who are paid so much per bushel for picking the nuts from the vines. Picking the nuts requires a great deal of work for the colored people and Santa Claus and Christmas time money for them comes mainly from this source. It is slow and tedious work and is one of the largest items of expense to the grower. Some peanut farmers do not shock their crop out store it in barns and lofts. Other farmers have invested in peanut threshing machines, but nuts gathered in this way are not as marketable as the hand-picked, the machinery sometimes cracking and breaking the hulls. In former years nearly all planters had their nuts cleaned before sending to market but since the establishment of the peanut factories the nuts are brought in just as they are taken from the vines, the factories or what are in fact recleaners and graders, buy the output of the planters as farmers' stock, and after a treatment of cleaning, polishing and sorting by both hand and machinery the nut is ready for the consumer.

Owing to the construction of the machinery it is necessary for the factories to be four-story buildings, but the machinery is neither costly nor complicated, consisting of fans, brushes, polishers and separators. As the great loads of nuts are brought to the factory by the planters the sacks are carried by elevators to the top of the fourth floor where the nuts are put in large cylinders on the next floor where they are cleaned by attrition, fans taking out the dust as they are passed in and around the cylinders.

From this floor the nuts pass to the second floor where they go through fans which blow out and separate the light weights, and the others pass on to tables in the form of endless movable belts at which tables the hundreds of women and children pick out the discolored and faulty nuts and allow the better ones to pass into a grader, which grades the nuts as to size. Through all this machinery the nuts have been polished until they come out looking as smooth as a pearl. In this condition they are placed in chutes running to the lower floor where they are sacked in bur-lap bags, stenciled with the names of the several brands. They are then ready to be shipped to the cities throughout the country.

TWO SURVIVORS OF VOLUNTEER COMPANY

OF THE 185 FROM MARQUETTE COUNTY IN CIVIL WAR, ONLY ONE IS NOW LIVING.

39 WERE KILLED IN BATTLE

Street Commissioner Robert French and E. C. Anthony of Negaunee Are Only Ones Left of Company.

Of the one hundred and eighty-five men of Marquette county who volunteered for service at the opening of the Civil war, just one survivor is now living in the city, and that one is Street Commissioner Robert French. There is but one other survivor of the hundred and eighty-five who went to the front living in the county, and that is ex-Mayor E. C. Anthony of Negaunee. So far as is now known these two are the sole survivors of the volunteers who went from Marquette county. Of the one hundred and eighty-five, thirty-nine perished in battles and since the war others have died and the number of survivors has grown smaller until only the two are left.

The First Company. At the opening of the war, Mr. French says that a number of the young men of the city, which then had a population of about 2,500, showed great spirit, and from the first sought an opportunity to enlist. About forty of these formed a company and drilled about the streets. They made a number of efforts to join one of the regiments then forming, but at first were unsuccessful. At that time one of their number, Billy Edwards, who was a moulder, fashioned a little cannon about three feet long, and this was one of the cherished possessions of the company. As time passed it seemed that the company was not going to be called upon and, as it appeared that their work was in vain, the interest of the little company slackened for a period.

Company Reorganized. Then later George W. Drummond, who was a sergeant of a Detroit company, came to Marquette and reorganized the company, with the result that on July 27, 1861, it left Marquette with about sixty men. Mr. French was with the company. Most of the number were from the city, but also there were a number from other points in the county. From Marquette they went to Ann Arbor and in September went on to Washington where they were mustered into Company "F" of the First Michigan regiment.

After this company had left Marquette, E. C. Anthony and Edward Watson organized the second company which came from Marquette county. It was a company of cavalry. Following that a recruiting station was established here and a number of others went to the front.

A fact that is little known is that one of Marquette's prominent citizens of today was a Confederate soldier, and what is still stranger, his brother, who is also a Marquette man, fought on the Union side. The former Confederate soldier is Justice of the Peace Byrne, and it is his brother, City Treasurer Robert P. Byrne, who fought on the Union side. The two brothers enlisted in the respective armies from their home city of Baltimore, and after the war, both came to Marquette and have lived here since.

FIRE AT NEW FRENCH CHURCH.

Origin of Blaze Which Threatened Destruction of New Edifice Unknown.

Smoke was discovered issuing from the new French Catholic church on Washington street about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and it was found that a fire had broken out and was making rapid headway in the rear of the church. An alarm was turned in and when the firemen arrived, the floor of that part of the church, called the boys' sacristy was in flames. With some difficulty the spread of the blaze was checked and the fire was finally extinguished. The entire floor of the sacristy, which is in the northwest corner of the new structure, was destroyed and the walls and the roof were badly damaged. Also the stucco work in the interior of the church was damaged somewhat. Rev. Father Jodocy last night stated that the loss would exceed $500. This loss, it was stated, is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

TRAINMEN ELECT OFFICERS.

Unique Features Planned for Dance to Be Held New Year's Eve.

The L. L. Hood lodge No. 10 of Railway Trainmen yesterday elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Carl V. Oberg, master; Thomas P. Pigott, vice master; Joseph C. Trudeau, secretary; Charles W. Kiel, financier; Peter LaPlant, general agent.

At the meeting the plans for the dance to be given at Fraternity hall were also discussed. One interesting feature of the dance will be the electrical display which is to be shown at midnight. The south wall of the hall is to be decorated with ground pine and carnations, and in the center of the wall will be the electric figures 1-9-0-7. Upon the last stroke of midnight, the last figure in the row will change from a seven to an eight.

On the published announcements of the dance, at the bottom, is the injunction "Don't forget to get your mileage at Fraternity station for the dance," and this has been a puzzle to many. This mileage is a unique form of program which is being designed for the occasion.
