

HUGHES THE CHOICE IN EMPIRE STATE

By an Overwhelming Majority and on the First Ballot, He Is Named by the Republicans to Succeed Himself as Governor.

Desperate Struggle on Part of a Number of Leaders Who Had Spared No Effort to Discover a Candidate Upon Whom Opposition Could Unite, Ends in Failure, and on Motion of Executive's Bitterest, Poe Nomination Is Made Unanimous.

Governor—Charles E. Hughes, New York. Lieutenant Governor—Horace White, Onondaga.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Charles Evans Hughes was nominated by the Republican state convention today by an overwhelming majority and on the first ballot to succeed himself as governor of New York.

The governor's re-nomination followed the utter failure of a desperate struggle on the part of a number of county leaders who for four days had spared no effort to discover a candidate upon whom they could unite to defeat him.

The question of the nomination of Governor Hughes was still unsettled. The leaders devoted all day to straightening out contests and gave little or no heed to the probable head of the ticket.

It was really the action of Kings which signalled what might be called a stampede to Hughes.

Hughes' Renomination Will Aid Republicans in Western States.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—The Republican leaders from fourteen Central and Western states, who were assembled here today in conference with Chairman Hitchcock of the Republican national committee, expressed gratification at the re-nomination of Hughes for governor of New York.

Representative Boutell of Illinois, who has just returned from a campaigning tour in Maine, visited the Republican headquarters today. He said the small majority by which Maine was carried by the Republicans has no particular bearing upon the national election.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—Appraised of Governor Hughes' re-nomination, W. H. Taft's remark was, "I am very glad he is nominated." Later Mr. Taft sent the governor the following: "I sincerely congratulate you upon your well-deserved re-nomination, not only makes the state of New York safe in November, but it greatly strengthens the national ticket in every state in the Union. I hope you will be able to give some of your time in the campaign to the West."

Sperry Named for Governor. Salt Lake City, Sept. 15.—The Republican state convention today nominated a complete state ticket, headed by William E. Sperry, for governor.

RECOUNT TO PROCEED. Dr. Bradley's Application to Be Filed With the State Board Today.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 15.—[Special.]—Dr. Bradley issued a statement at Detroit tonight that the recount would proceed. He compared the present situation with a contest in the credentials committee preliminary to a convention.

CHANDLER TO HEAD DEMOCRATIC TICKET. Heeding the National Chairman's Earnest Plea for Harmony, New York's Warring Factions Agree to Pull Together.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 16.—At an early hour this morning, as the result of an extended conference of party leaders, there seemed ample authority for the statement that Chandler had been decided upon as the Democratic candidate for governor.

It was the 183 votes of all but one district in New York county that carried the governor's total beyond the 505, a majority of the convention, required to nominate.

STAND-PATTERS' CHOICE. Ex-Congressman Lacey to Oppose Cummings for the Senatorial Nomination.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 15.—Ex-Congressman John F. Lacey was today chosen by the state party to oppose Governor Cummings for the nomination for United States senator, to be voted upon at the primary in November.

PEACE FLAG PRESENTED. Congressman Bartholdt Central Figure of Ceremony at Berlin.

Berlin, Sept. 15.—Representative Bartholdt, president of the American group of the interparliamentary union, in behalf of the American delegation presented a peace flag to the German group at a public meeting in the Reichstag building tonight.

Taft Congratulates Hughes. Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—Appraised of Governor Hughes' re-nomination, W. H. Taft's remark was, "I am very glad he is nominated." Later Mr. Taft sent the gov-

BRYAN PUTS IN A STRENUOUS DAY

Visits New Jersey, and at Every Point Where He Stops Pours Hot Shot Into Taft and the Republican Party.

His Nomination for the Third Time, After Two Defeats, Has Been Due to One Thing Alone, He Says, and That Is the Growth of the Ideas for Which He Stands—No Longer Is It Feared His Election Will Be a Menace to the Country.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 15.—Pouring hot shot into W. H. Taft and the Republican party at every point where he stopped, W. J. Bryan tonight, in this city, concluded a strenuous day of campaigning in New Jersey, following a few hours in Philadelphia, where he delivered a short speech.

Washington Park, N. J., Sept. 15.—"My nomination for the third time, after two defeats and with no president to help me with his patronage, has been due to one thing alone, and that is the growth of the ideas for which I stand and the conviction among the people that I am on their side."

NO LONGER DEEMED A MENACE. Bryan compared the difference between the conditions in 1896 and the present time.

Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—Mr. Bryan arrived here from Baltimore at 10:20 a. m. today. There was a crowd at the station to greet him.

G. O. P. NOMINEE TALKS TO NEGROES

Ministers Composing the Ohio Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church Are Addressed by Wm. H. Taft.

Denouncing Race Prejudice and Mob Violence, He Says the Best Remedy, and a Necessary One, Is Improvement in the Administration of the Criminal Laws and the Holding to Strict Account of Officers Who Fail to Suppress the Outbreaks.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—This, the fifty-first anniversary of Mr. Taft's birth, proved to be the busiest day he has had since his arrival here a week ago.

In his speech before the negroes, Mr. Taft denounced race prejudice and mob violence. "The best remedy and a necessary one," he said, "is improvement in the administration of our criminal laws."

Shepherd to Stump Illinois. New York, Sept. 15.—It was announced at the national Republican headquarters today that a speaking tour of Illinois would be undertaken by Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman and Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio.

MAKES TORRID RETORT

Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—In a lengthy invective given out on the train between Baltimore and Philadelphia today, William J. Bryan made a hot retort to Mr. Taft's statement yesterday.

USED KNIFE TO KILL

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 15.—The state's case is practically closed in the trial of Joe James, colored, charged with having stabbed C. A. Ballard to death. Blanche Ballard, daughter of the murdered man, testified today that James crept into her room, approached her bed and took hold of her hand.

RECEIVER IS ASKED

Chicago, Sept. 15.—A receiver for the McIlhenny company, a $10,000,000 Louisiana corporation, is asked by William C. Titcomb in a bill filed today in the circuit court here.

STATE CANNOT ENGAGE IN PRIVATE BUSINESS

Court of Appeals Upholds the Appointment of Receivers Named to Wind Up South Carolina Liquor Monopoly.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 15.—Covering every phase of the South Carolina liquor case in an exhaustive opinion which deals with the broad question of state's rights, the United States circuit court of appeals handed down an opinion today fully sustaining Circuit Judge Friedman in the appointment of receivers to wind up the affairs of the liquor monopoly long maintained by the Palmetto commonwealth.

GOLFERS BEGIN PLAY FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

First Match Round Finished at Garden City, N. Y. Big Field of Aspirants for the Title Is Reduced from 133 to 16.

Garden City, N. Y., Sept. 15.—In a day of interesting play on the Garden City club links, the national amateur golf championship tournament was advanced to the finish of the first match play round of sixteen holes.

In his speech before the negroes, Mr. Taft denounced race prejudice and mob violence. "The best remedy and a necessary one," he said, "is improvement in the administration of our criminal laws."

LOOKS OVER PAPER MILLS. Congressional Investigation Committee Spends Day at Neenah and Menasha.

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 15.—"I am not prepared to state whether or not my endeavors here have added much to the knowledge I already possessed concerning the condition of the paper industry, but I feel the investigation in Wisconsin will surely result in much good," said Chairman Mann of the congressional committee.

RACE IS SPECTACULAR

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 15.—With a notable field of eleven horses, including Geers' Teasel, Spanish Queen, Acquin and Dewit, it took five heats and some sensational racing to decide the big race on today's card at the state fair grounds.

STOCK MARKET SUPPORTED

New York, Sept. 15.—Evidence of the benevolent control of the course of the prices of stocks by well-fortified powers was still apparent today.

DAILY MINING JOURNAL

A MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY THE MINING JOURNAL CO. (LIMITED)

Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

The game, fish and fire warden's department has not quelled all the forest fires...

Seems to us we have noticed the past few days a distinct moderation in the Detroit F. P.'s fever.

The dissatisfaction of the New York bosses with the New York Republican ticket this year should be one of the ticket's sources of strength...

The Democratic convention in New York appears to have been principally a question whether Finny Conner's man or Charles Murphy's man should be nominated.

As for all this recount nonsense, Mr. Hill ought to be able to prove an alibi. Hasn't he been in California? But we have a suspicion that he has been haunting the telegraph offices.

Of course Attorney General Bird's unsuccessful effort to put and keep the lid on in Ontonagon county entitles him to talk authoritatively about the upper peninsula and its relation to the district primary statute.

The Democratic donkey led the Republican elephant something of a chase in Maine, but the elephant was first over the line, nevertheless.

The candidates for county offices in Kent have formally resolved that they have no sympathy whatever with recount tactics.

In Delta county a recount on sheriff was denied by the commissioners because the seals of the ballot boxes were found to be broken.

Secretary Root's address at the New York state convention was one of the strongest utterances of the campaign to date, and cannot help but carry much weight with all who read it.

Judge Humphrey's decision that whiskey and other liquors must have age and natural color or be labeled 'imitation' is a somewhat disconcerting one for the distillers and the retailers of their product.

In the three-cornered auditor generalship fight in the state convention Senator Fuller of Delta will hold the balance of power, at least.

It is impossible for a layman to legitimately comment on the merit of this Wisconsin legislation because insurance regulation is a technical subject requiring expert judgment.

It is interesting to note that both Mr. Root and Representative Young in their respective speeches discussed the issues along the same lines.

who is generally desired for another term in the office of state superintendent of public instruction. In the upper peninsula both Senator Fuller and Representative Stannard, who would like to be secretary of state, are highly regarded, and it would please this region best if they could both be successful.

Attorney General Bird's comments on the primary law will be read with particular interest in this region, inasmuch as he expresses a belief that the upper peninsula should not be brought under the provisions of a general primary law.

The reason he gives for this view is that "the moving population which only stays in a place as long as work is to be found can be induced to lend its aid to putting men in office who will not enforce the laws."

Of course Attorney General Bird's unsuccessful effort to put and keep the lid on in Ontonagon county entitles him to talk authoritatively about the upper peninsula and its relation to the district primary statute.

The delicate and arduous task of sending out invitations for a royal garden party and receiving the replies is placed in the hands of the Lord Chamberlain...

The names are taken from three lists. There is, first of all, the list of persons who have the "right" to be present at all court functions.

The second list comprises members of the house of commons, high naval and military officers, civic dignitaries, baronets and knights, the judges and leading members of the bar, and heads of the departments of state, lord lieutenants, etc.

The third list is usually drawn up specially for each function and consists of leading members of the church, representatives of art, science, music, medicine and the stage, leaders of commerce and trade, the members of local councils and other governing bodies, and distinguished foreigners who happen to be staying in this country.

The lists having been compiled are submitted to the king, who goes very carefully through them, adding or erasing names as he may wish.

In the old days it was no infrequent occurrence for cards to change hands in a way that was not anticipated or desired.

Most of the old-time counterfeiters have gone out of business or are serving terms in penitentiaries, and many of the spurious coins made at the present time are manufactured by men who are respected in the community in which they live.

Counterfeiting banknotes is more difficult than making spurious coins, but after a man has been successful with silver pieces he takes up the other and with study and perseverance, can turn out a few bills.

It is the custom of the king, however, to meet frequently among his guests on these occasions and to shake hands with or address a few words to anyone he recognizes or who is specially brought to his notice.

Now, strength and wisdom are relative virtues, and vary much with the times and lives in and the opinions with which he has to cope.

Counting modern times to begin with the "Siege de Louis XIV." it would not appear that modern conditions are not conducive to the virtue of courage in kings.

PSYCHOLOGY OF COUNTERFEITING IS A PUZZLE TO FEDERAL AUTHORITIES.

"Like the fly which lights on paper carefully smelt with molasses for his benefit, the man who lets his thoughts dwell upon 'queer' money is caught hard and fast, unless he gets the idea out of his head as soon as it enters."

"He begins to read about counterfeiting, the more he reads the easier the thing seems. Ten to one he has a taste for mechanics and an aptitude for the practical knowledge of metals, if he has the proper disposition, can turn out a pretty fair representation of a dollar or other silver coin."

R. S. Donaldson, formerly representing the New York Mutual Life Insurance company in Marquette, is visiting in the city.

Dr. O. G. Youngquist, who has been a patient at St. Luke's hospital for a number of weeks, has so far recovered that he was removed to his home yesterday.

Mrs. E. E. McIntosh left last night for California, and will stop on the way at Salafed, Nev., where Mr. McIntosh will join her, they proceeding to the coast together. Mrs. McIntosh will be absent from Marquette for about a month.

H. L. Wishart, who is to be the superintendent of the new plant which the Plant Products company is to put in out from Ishpeming, is making daily trips to and from the site of the plant. Contracts for some of the buildings have been closed, and work is now being gotten underway.

Christian Science Lecture—Bicknell Young, C. S. D., a member of the board of lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, will deliver a lecture at the opera house next Monday evening. There will be no admission charge.

Farmers' Institute—A meeting to arrange for the forthcoming farmers' institute was held last evening. It will occur the second week in November. Members will be sought at a fee of twenty-five cents. There will be three speakers from Lansing in attendance at the institute.

"Lena Rivers"—Three acts of the play "Lena Rivers," to be presented at the opera house tomorrow evening, are laid in the sunny south, at the home of the Livingstones, near Frankfort, Kentucky, one of the most beautiful and typical old mansions of the South. The play is crowded with amusing incidents and has had a great success. It is said to be the most popular play now before the public.

Making Investigation—W. A. Roberts, an agent of the bureau of fisheries, department of commerce and labor, has been in Marquette the past two days looking into the apparatus used by the commercial fishermen here in handling their catches. The bureau of fisheries is shortly to publish a report covering the methods used in fishing on the Great Lakes and the data gathered by Mr. Roberts and other special agents will be embodied in it. It will be the first report of the kind ever published by the government.

Vigilant at Birch—Rush Culver was down from Birch yesterday. He says that so far the Northern Lumber company has escaped any serious losses on account of forest fires, but the employees of the company have on a few occasions found it necessary to fight back the flames. The entire working force is under orders to be on the lookout for evidences of fires, and all the necessary steps will be taken to extinguish them in the beginning. Mr. Culver reports that the woods are on a very dangerous condition as they are unusually dry, and if a fire became firmly seated it would do much damage.

Waiting Court's Opinion—City Attorney Brown is awaiting the full text of the supreme court's decision in the case of Laughlin Johnson vs. the city, before deciding what steps will be taken. It is regarded as unlikely that there will be any further attempt made to upset the verdict in the case, as it is thought that the supreme court's finding will be found to be decisive. It is expected that the city will look to the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, which joined with it in fighting the case, for a settlement of the amount of damages awarded, as it is charged that it was the condition of the M. & S. E. spur at the crossing at Carp furnace that was responsible for the accident.

Bradley Agent Here—A representative of Dr. Bradley, who, on the returns, was defeated by Governor Warner in the recent race for the Republican nomination, has been in Marquette county the past two days, looking into the condition of the enrollment books and the poll lists. Previously he visited Gogebic and other counties that returned good Warner majorities. His mission is part of the work being done for Dr. Bradley in connection with the recount which it is said he is to be asked of the board of election commissioners this week. As far as known here the election in this county was wholly beyond question. Some irregular enrollments were attempted in this city in connection with the representative contest, but they were prevented. There are no local current reports of any irregularities whatsoever.

FARMER ASKS DAMAGES.

Carl P. Froberg, by his attorney, A. W. Wolfe, has begun a suit against the Delta county road commissioners, claiming damages in the sum of $1,000 for the flooding of his farm, located in Brampton township. The declaration alleges that the road commissioners caused a ditch to be dug near Froberg's farm for the purpose of draining a large swamp. The swamp was drained, but the water was dumped on Froberg's farm, making it worthless. It is claimed that if the ditch had been extended the trouble would have been avoided, but the commissioners have refused to make such extension, although requested to do so many times during the five years since it was dug.

TAKES EXCEPTION TO ATT. GEN. BIRD

"UPPER PENINSULA" QUESTIONS CONCLUSION REACHED BY STATE OFFICIALS IN REGARD TO PRIMARY REFORM.

To The Mining Journal: There would appear little grounds for controversy with Attorney General Bird's position in this morning's issue of The Mining Journal, as far as he states that the primary law in practice discloses the necessity of additional protection to Republicans against Democratic interference in making their party nominations, and the same may be conceded to be true of Democrats against such interference from Republicans. Cases have been too frequent where unscrupulous candidates have proven that their party fealty extends only as far as they can use the party machinery for selfish political ends. People have deliberately planned to enroll Democrats as Republicans in this part of the state, the ulterior motive being to force their own nomination by outside assistance upon the party they have known to be ready to properly discredit them as candidates. These methods are both disreputable and unfair, as the candidate and his unnatural allies are careful to reserve the right to knife themselves in the numbers by voting the opposition ticket in the election to follow and they can be usually relied upon to follow that course.

Mr. Bird's point is also good, so far as it goes that those who participate in the fall primaries should be required to enroll as early as April of that year. In addition to this, some substantial evidence should be required showing that the voter applying for enrollment is now and has for some time been acting and voting with the party with which he seeks affiliation, and that in good faith he intends to support in the election the nominations made by that party in the primaries. Privilege and power always carry corresponding responsibilities, and the action of a citizen under free government gives emphasis to the inflexibility of this rule.

In advocating that primary election should be made "optional for counties," and that "if the law is to be made to cover all nominations the upper peninsula should not be brought under that provision," Mr. Bird will be opposed by every true friend of primary reform throughout the state. There are no conditions in Northern Michigan, except in the vivid imagination of the unbalanced alarmist, under which primary reform would be attended with special danger. Mr. Bird may be correct when he says that "under the caucus system the vote can be controlled, and this is the case of the whole matter, but that the caucus system is needed to name good men for office by law abiding citizens is not true. We fear that too much of what the distinguished attorney general has heard in this part of the state has come from those who do not believe in primary reform, and too much of what he "has seen of conditions" here has been restricted to counties calling for action from his office in order to correct derelict public officials. It has been commonly reported here that when some of these were being rebuked for what seemed to be a disgraceful and dishonorable course, they were threatened with removal, they brazenly defied the state by urging that removal would be only followed by re-nomination and reelection by the people. It is specially interesting here that primary election had never reached these parts, and that every officer complained against was nominated under the old caucus system which Mr. Bird has permitted himself to regard as indispensable here to the choice of officers who will enforce the law.

The "shifting vote" of which Mr. Bird complains is almost a pure quantity; so too the unemployed problem upon which undue stress is laid. It is rather a lamentable lack of knowledge than intentional misrepresentation that troubles Mr. Bird as to our conditions. Troublers are not citizens here. We have attracted more and better equipped schools, and the best types of all the Caucasian races; the music of Italy, the versatility of France, the brilliance of Erin and the conquering and unconquerable instincts of all nations truly great, and it is little short of slander to urge that such a people who have a very responsible ability of citizenship during all the years they have been privileged to use the ballot are unsafe to vote in a primary election. Our sturdy Finns, thrifty Scandinavians, Germans, Irishmen, Englishmen and French in many cases have more are influenced by the children sheltered in their homes, whom our schools are preparing for citizenship. In no part of the state and in no state of the Union is more money spent per capita for school purposes, no country under the sun can rightly boast of more efficient teachers or better equipped schools. We look to our schools and our churches as means of security, rather than the reactionary politician or his fetish of a disorderly caucus. Before delivering himself again Mr. Bird is invited to look us up.

His utterances this time are only important as indicating what may be accepted as the position of the upper peninsula on primary reform if passed in silence, and should stir to rational action all who sincerely believe in the principle. Any citizen is as capable of helping to nominate a ticket as of voting for it after some one else has nominated it, and the citizenship of this part of the state is as capable of either as that of any other part of this or any other state. This may seem a little difficult for some people to get through their heads, but I should consider myself dishonored to heart to the section of the country in which I lived were I to feel otherwise. We want no exceptions under the general primary act, nor will we have any. Senator Moriarty has openly stated that he will respect the wishes of his constituents if they will make the same known to him. See to it that he be properly advised this time on the question of primary reform, the district he represents being overwhelmingly for that principle. Follow up every representative to the state legislature and every senator from this part of the state, and make life miserable for him until he is ready to work for the same degree of primary reform for Northern Michigan as for any other part of the state.

MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s correspondent at New York yesterday telegraphed as follows:

"The list was feverish today, being strong in the early session under the leadership of the Harriman and Reading, but later declining under heavy pressure, after considerable diversity of opinion as to the indications presented by the elections in Maine. Political developments are commencing to receive a great deal of attention and news from this quarter may perhaps induce the interest responsible for recent movements in the market to refrain from forcing higher levels until the outlook is more assuring. The selling was mostly by the professional element, together with liquidation on a small scale by outsiders, and the latter as yet have not displayed a disposition to buy stocks in quantities at this level. We are still inclined to the opinion that values are too high and would be surprised to see the list sell considerably lower."

Boston Stock Quotations.

Writing from Boston yesterday, Paine, Webber & Co. had the following to say of the stock market:

"The market was fairly strong in the early trading, with Union Pacific and Reading the features. The coppers were dull and neglected. About two o'clock heavy selling on election scare rumors caused a sharp decline all through the list, and many stop orders were caught. The market will probably open lower tomorrow, on this class of selling, but we believe the large interests are still arrayed on the bull side and a rally will follow the close tomorrow."

MONKEY AND MAN HAVE ONE-ROUND GO.

The Former Weighs Only 25 Pounds but He Got Decision.

What's a 180-Pound Irishman? Nothing at All in a Clinch With a Strong-Armed Simian Who Objects to Having His Face Washed.

New York, Sept. 15.—Twenty-five pounds of man-eating monkey is considerably more than equal to 180 pounds of brawny man. This discovery was made by James Riley, keeper at the Bronx Park Zoo, during a well-meant effort to give the latest arrival in the monkey house a few hints on his toilet.

Riley is in the Bronx hospital, bitten until he looks like a new sample of the buttonhole stitch. The monkey is chattering softly to himself in his cage, and vainly wishing that he had a little sauce on Riley before eating him.

Riley is a great, big, strapping fellow, twenty-eight years old, muscular, and weighs something more than 180 pounds. The monkey weighs about twenty-five pounds in his Salome costume, but strips for a fight at something over three tons. He was brought to the Zoo from South America a few days ago, and pending definite domestic arrangements, was placed in a nice new cage, all inside exposure and closed plumbing. The 200 other monkeys in the monkey palace have been gritting their teeth over this obvious favoritism, but the newcomer just sat tight in a corner of his Bronx flat and thought of the Bismarck monkey.

It is the custom at the Zoo to photograph all new arrivals, as soon as they have become moderately accustomed to their surroundings. Therefore, Official Photographer Sanborn announced that he would take several full face and a few profile views of the Bismarck monkey.

He went to the monkey house and looked the situation over, and then determined that the monkey would be better looking in the picture if he had his face washed. Riley, who is one of the principals at the monkey house, was called on to dust Mr. Bismarck off.

Riley entered the cage, whistling lightly. The Bismarck monkey retreated to one corner, and turned loose a few choice lines of monkey ex-cuse-words. Riley walked over toward him, planning to get him by the scruff of the neck, scrub him to a rich glow, and then, in the meantime, snatch the camera man's attention. About the time that Riley got within striking distance of the monkey, the monkey struck. It's no funny matter to have twenty-five pounds of husky baboon clinch about your neck trying to life your nose with one hand, as Riley found. He could no more disengage these wiry arms of the baboon from about his neck than he could have torn loose bands of steel. The monkey shrieked like a calliope in pain, and in a moment Riley added a few notes to the choir.

Two or three hundred monkeys, confronted with the sight of a man and monkey battle, hovered about outside the cage, but couldn't snap their camera fast enough to get a single view.

The other keepers in the monkey house were summoned by the commotion, and, raising themselves with long yawns, managed to jab the monkey through the bars of the cage until he got to Riley. The latter fell to the ground as though dead when he was released. Then the others entered the cage, keeping the snoring baboon at a distance by their clubs and canes. Dr. Riley, who had dressed his wounds temporarily, and then an ambulance was summoned from Fordham hospital and Riley was carried there to recover.

His entire body was covered with bites, but the three most serious wounds were in his arms and his thigh. Riley's right arm was severely wounded, his thumb was almost chewed off, and his left arm was bitten in a dozen places. In addition, he had scores of deep lacerations about his face, neck and back, where the monkey's sharp fingernails had pierced the flesh. He will recover if blood-poisoning does not set in, but the physicians do not disguise the probability of this result. The monkey was pretty badly bruised by the pike poles, but was not seriously hurt. Riley hadn't even scratched him in their battle. The other keepers insist that the Bismarck monkey is suffering from mental torments, and can, say he will have to go to the luncheon if he doesn't behave.

99,000,000 FOR STATE TREASURY. Collection of Corporation Taxes in New York Shows Large Increase. Albany, Sept. 15.—Nearly $9,000,000 was collected by the state in taxes from corporations operating in this state for the fiscal year which will end this month, according to a statement made public by State Controller Martin H. Glynn. This is an increase of more than $1,000,000 over the collections reported in any one year in the history of the state according to Mr. Glynn, who points out that the increase is remarkable in view of the disturbed financial conditions during the year.

TRIALS FOR SHEEP DOGS.

Tests of Skill in Driving Along a Course and Penning in Shortest Time.

In hillside villages, where events are few and far between, the local sheep dog trial stands out as a prominent landmark in the long, laborious year. It occurs in summer, when over Westmoreland weather has its element and sunny morning and evening, the sheep dog trial stands out as a prominent landmark in the long, laborious year.

The sheep dog of the North cannot be called a beautiful creature. Short-haired, rough coated, with lean, restless body, he bears little likeness to his distinguished relative the Scotch collie. But his eyes shine with quiet intelligence, and nowhere in the world are men and dogs more indissolubly one than among the hills of Westmoreland. His faithful friend accompanies the farmer everywhere to market, to auction mart and round the fields in the peaceful idleness of Sunday morning. Such evidence that between the two arises the bond of perfect comprehension and master and servant understand one another without the aid of words.

The course at the dog trial today, as always, is 200 yards long, clearly marked with flags, and the sheep must not be allowed to stray. Obstacles have been put in the shape of open gateways or of flags and posts; and the dog's duty is to drive his three charges between them or else to guide them outside to the right or the left, as the rules direct. The judges take their places in the middle of the course, and the evidence of the first competitor stands near the pen or lipless crevice at the far end. A rope is passed round his arm and secured to one of them, to make sure that he does not venture out of bounds in order to assist his dog, for it is bound wisdom and not human wisdom that is now to be appraised and glorified.

Sleep has been lent by a farmer who has not entered for the trial, each one of the trio a member of a different flock, and a fresh lot is supplied to a new candidate. A flag is waved and the dog drives them from the starting point while the crowd, hardly visible, watches him critically to see how he "frames." The first competitor is evasive and well up to his work. He proceeds quietly, taking care not to harry and persecute the timid creatures, but directs them in a masterly manner round and between the flags, with evident dignified enjoyment of his task. His owner is only allowed to guide him by whistling or by waving a stick, and the wise animal obeys the mute orders with uncanny comprehension. How much patience, how many hours of companionship have led to this understanding and dignified enjoyment of his task. His owner is only allowed to guide him by whistling or by waving a stick, and the wise animal obeys the mute orders with uncanny comprehension.

Grizzle-face scarcely succeeds as well at the final act of the trial, the important operation of penning, at which his duty consists in driving the sheep into the pen of hurdles, while the sheep gives even then by putting up a fourth or a fifth time. In this instance the sheep turn on the dog, stamping their tiny round feet, and it is only after many blameworthy attempts that they consent to "walk into my parlor." A time limit is set for the trial, five minutes for the course and five minutes for the penning, and I see my neighbor, a stout, apple-faced farmer, take out his watch and shake his head.

The next dog is a juvenile, making his first appearance in public. He begins well, but becomes nervous and hurried and drives his sheep to the wrong side of the course. The sight of his master's face makes him pause in indecision, when the tethered one waves his stick frantically and at last in defiance of rules bursts out in a mild expostulation. "Now, lad, get a grip!"

My friend the farmer chuckles. "What's the use, man? That bain't the language 'b'org gits at yam." "Ay, and a gay guid thing too," dryly observes his wife.

Many dogs take their turns, some good, some bad, but the prize, silver given to the sun and moon, is that it is generated largely by the frequent solar eruptions into which a planet of the size of the earth would sink like a pebble in the ocean. Somehow the activities create an extra strata high up in the air that influence radiation materially, so the earth's atmosphere must be warm and gloomy; the sun and moon must be red, and there must be auroral displays.

The largest rock crusher in the world was recently thrown into operation in a cement mill at South Pittsburgh, Tenn., and it crushes all the rock used by a 4,000-barrel plant. The machine has an hourly capacity of 800 tons and sixty per cent of the product is in pieces four inches or less and thirty per cent in pieces two inches or less. The crusher is nineteen feet in height and weighs 425,000 pounds. The hopper is twenty feet in diameter. The operation of this machine alone requires twenty-nine horsepower.

A CHANGE OF HEART.

Chicago Suburbanite Who Forgave His Neighbor's Chickens.

"I'm having much the same sort of experience lately that you're plagued with," remarked the red bearded commuter to his seatmate with the grizzled mustache. "The man who lives next door to me has started up a chicken ranch in his back yard. I'm pulling strings to see if I can't get an ordinance passed by the village board prohibiting the keeping of livestock. I've got two members of the board pledged to support the measure if I can get anybody to introduce it."

"Why won't you introduce it?" "They have reasons, they tell me." "The chickens bother you much?" "Bother me! Well, I shouldn't say they did. It's one continuous cluck, crow and cackle from morning till night, and then some. There's one rooster that seems troubled with insomnia and every time he wakes he begins to whoop it up until he gets every other rooster started. Then when the hens get down to business, during the day it's 'cut-out-cut-out, cut-out, cut-out, caw-w-kk' and 'crr-r-r-r, squawk, squawk,' all the time."

"They certainly are noisy birds," agreed the man with the grizzled mustache. "Noisy!" said the red bearded commuter. "It's no name for it. What does a man want to keep 'em for? That's what gets me. I'll tell you: When I moved out from the city I expected to secure peace and quiet. Next month of the people in our community did the same thing. They're business men and they need rest. They get enough on their nerves all through the day without having them racked and jabbed and jarred after they get home."

"I laughed when you were calling curses on your neighbor's head, but I know what it is myself now. By the way, did you make him dispose of the pests, or are you still suffering?" "I'm not suffering now," replied the man with the grizzled mustache, "not a great deal. I guess you let it get on your nerves a little too much. It got you around to thump the fellow if he didn't move 'em off somewhere. You were going to feed 'em poisoned corn. You were going to buy a shotgun and take pot shots at them from your bedroom window. You were going to put a stick of dynamite under the hen house. If you don't call that letting it get on your nerves I don't know what you would call it."

"I think I was a little under the weather last week," said the man with the grizzled mustache. "I probably said more than I really meant."

"You didn't mean to say that any man who keeps chickens was a coarse-grained brute and a barbarian?" "Not as bad as that."

"I suppose not. You don't think that your chicken keeping neighbor ought to be tarred and feathered and ridden on the sharpest procurable rail?" "No, really. I don't have anything like that happen to his chickens with a smile. 'It's really a good fellow. I got acquainted with him the other day.'"

"I suppose you told him that you wished he'd kill off his chickens?" "No, exactly. I don't see, he called me over to the fence and handed me half a dozen new laid eggs. He said the hens were laying faster than his folks could use the eggs. They were rather the case articles we've been having. Of course, I don't do any chickens are noisy, and yet when you get a little used to them the noise isn't unpleasant. There's something cheerful about the crow of a rooster, and the kind of reminds you of rural scenes forever."

"And this change of sentiment was wrought by half a dozen new laid eggs?" "No, really. I don't do any chickens are noisy, and yet when you get a little used to them the noise isn't unpleasant. There's something cheerful about the crow of a rooster, and the kind of reminds you of rural scenes forever."

"The work of reclaiming the Danish heaths has been accomplished largely through the cooperation of the Danish prison authorities and individuals who wished to embark in farming on their own account and had no means of buying ground. In such instances every inducement is offered the agriculturist to become the owner of a plot of ground on the heath. For him to break up the earth single-handed and start business would be a physical impossibility. It is here the prisoners do the preliminary work."

SOMETHING ABOUT TOADS. Do They "Spit Venom" and Can They Exist Without Air? The toad has a broad back and can bear much ill treatment, or certainly he would not have survived among us all these years. Men have always done his best, or worst, to get him into bad odor, and even today, especially in country districts, where he is especially engaged in doing good service at the expense of slugs and other noxious things, the toad bears an evil reputation without in the least deserving it.

IN THE GRANDSTAND. Shortly after Bob and Nellie became engaged Nellie insisted on going to a ball game. "I just date on baseball," she told Bob.

"Rather sudden, isn't it?" asked Bob, who liked to sit on the bleachers, where he could see better and seats were cheaper. When a fellow is engaged to be married he'd better be counting up the cost of everything—even baseball games.

"But you know, Bob, now that we've engaged and know we're going to live with each other all our lives, I must take an interest in the things which interest you."

"The kitchen?" "Yes—the batter, the fouls, the plate and the base."

DEMOCRATS NAME COUNTY TICKET

MET IN CONVENTION AT CITY HALL YESTERDAY TO CHOOSE THEIR CANDIDATES.

FULL SLATE WAS SELECTED

Peter Kremer Named for Representative After E. C. Anthony Resisted Strong Urgings to Have Him Make the Run.

Judge of Probate—J. J. Dundon, Ishpeming. Sheriff—John T. Williams, Ishpeming. County Treasurer—Isaac Gustafson, Ishpeming. County Clerk—Peter Trudell, Jr., Neegaunee. Register of Deeds—Joseph S. Courtney, Marquette. Prosecuting Attorney—John Heffernan, Marquette. County Surveyor—Phil Pegin, Ishpeming. Coroners—James P. Roberts, Ishpeming; Theophile Roy, Neegaunee.

Above is the ticket placed in nomination by the Democrats at their county convention held at the city hall assembly room yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The convention was a harmonious one, with a fair representation of delegates present.

The following delegates were chosen to attend the various conventions to be held this month:

State—T. J. Dundon, Ishpeming; M. O. Scully, Marquette; C. F. Sundstrom, Michiganville. Alternates, William Andrews, Ishpeming; Joseph Fay and John Thoney, Marquette. Congressional—William Andrews, T. J. Dundon, E. C. Anthony, P. Trudell, Jr., John Manning, C. F. Sundstrom, J. H. Mortley, M. O. Scully, Joseph Schilling, Joseph Fay, F. S. Byrne, Peter Primeau, J. H. Lewis and John Power. Senatorial—L. L. Goodnow, James Farn, William Andrews, John Power, E. A. Gourdeau, E. C. Anthony, Dennis Driscoll, Henry Leif, Peter Kremer, Joseph S. Courtney, Peter Primeau, Louis Riedinger, Henry Lee and James J. Roberts of Ishpeming.

The following officers of the county convention were named: T. J. Dundon, who has served in that capacity for the last eighteen years, to preside as temporary chairman. Mr. Anthony was given a warm reception. E. S. Byrne was named for temporary secretary. Joseph S. Courtney, Peter Trudell, Jr., and John Power were appointed a committee on credentials and William Andrews, T. J. Dundon and M. O. Scully a committee on permanent organization and order of business. A recess was taken to permit the committees to prepare their reports.

The following delegates were reported entitled to seats in the convention: Marquette City—John Thoney, James Anthony, Peter Primeau, Joseph Fay, Peter Kremer, F. S. Byrne, Phillip Trombley, John Manning, O. D. Davis, M. O. Scully, Louis Riedinger, Jr., Michael Griffin, John Olin, Joseph S. Courtney, John Heffernan and Robert Anthony. Ishpeming—William Andrews, John Power, James Rowe, Ludwig Clement, J. H. Mortley, David Burling, Thomas Biekey, George Vecker, John T. Williams, E. A. Gourdeau, James P. Roberts, Joseph Camer, James George, Albert Anderson, H. E. Hryn, John Nolan, Henry Hassenger, Olivas Lafreniere and T. J. Dundon.

Neegaunee—E. C. Anthony, Henry Leif, P. Trudell, Jr., Richard Kappes, F. Walker, William Wasmuth, James Flannery, Dennis Driscoll, James J. Johnson, Anton Handrickson, Pat Nicholson, Ed Maloney. Michiganville township—C. F. Sundstrom and James M. Heaton. Marquette township—James Farn.

Nominations from the convention cannot have been said to have been particularly in demand, as there were a number of cases in which men who were suggested asked that their names be not put on the ticket, for various reasons. Peter Primeau was named for judge of probate, but said he would be absent from the city during the campaign, and thus felt obliged to decline. Mr. Dundon's nomination for this office was unanimous, as, indeed, were all the other nominations made by the convention. M. O. Scully was mentioned for the nomination for sheriff, but he withdrew in favor of Mr. Williams of Ishpeming. Mr. Trudell and Mr. Heffernan, the nominees for county clerk and prosecuting attorney, also suggested that other Democrats be named for these offices, but the convention insisted on their standing, which they finally consented to do.

Following the disposal of the other business a county committee was named, to work in conjunction with Chairman Dundon and the other officers.

Democrats in attendance on the convention yesterday evidently took much pleasure in contemplating the result of the election in Maine Monday. They argued from the increase in the Democratic vote in that state that the Democrats in the country at large are going to make an aggressive campaign, and the convention, as a whole, can be said to have been in a very optimistic frame of mind. The Democrats who make up the county ticket do not expect to sweep the county, but they say they plan to do considerable work and aid as much as they can in making the general Democratic campaign a lively one.

Kremer for Representative. The representative convention followed immediately on the adjournment of the county convention. It was marked by an insistent demand that E. C. Anthony of Neegaunee, one of the leading Democrats in the upper peninsula, make the run. Mr. Anthony was placed in nomination, and received every vote in the convention. He addressed the convention, saying that he had thoroughly considered the matter and had decided that he would not be a candidate. A second vote showed the convention still unanimous for Mr. Anthony. He again addressed the delegates, saying that he was in serious earnest when he stated that he did not care to make the run and urging them to decide on another man. Mr. Anthony having made it very clear that he would not be a candidate, the nomination of Peter Kremer of this city followed.

Many Democrats hoped to see Mr. Anthony enter the race. They believed that he would make an exceptionally good run, as they figured that his wide acquaintance in the county and his many staunch friends among the Republicans would be the means of giving him a large vote outside the members of his own party.

W. R. BURNS OF MUNISING NAMED AT NEWBERRY

NOMINATED AS REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE FROM SCHOOLCRAFT DISTRICT YESTERDAY.

The Republican convention for the Schoolcraft representative district, held at Newberry yesterday, resulted in the nomination of W. R. Burns, of Munising. Mr. Burns controlled his Munising delegation of three votes, had the two votes of Luce county and also picked up one of the three delegates from Schoolcraft, giving him six out of the eleven delegates in the convention. Following the nomination of Burns, it was reported last evening, the other five delegates organized a convention of their own and placed Edward McNamara of Mackinac in nomination.

The nomination of Burns brought to a close an interesting fight in the Schoolcraft district. J. H. McCallum was a candidate for renomination, but was put out of the running by losing the Schoolcraft delegation, which, it is asserted, was thrown away from him largely because of the interest the saloon men took in the contest. The three delegates put in the slate were supposed to favor McNamara. If they had stuck McNamara, with the three delegates from Mackinac, would have been nominated.

It was rumored some days ago that there was likely to be a surprise in the district, the intention being that McNamara would lose. Thus the outcome of yesterday's convention was by no means unexpected.

J. O. Maxey Also a Nominee. In the district composed of Keweenaw, Baraga, Ontonagon and Iron county, represented last session by W. Y. Stannard, now a candidate for secretary of state, the nominee was J. O. Maxey, a former Marquette man, who was named on the eighty-third ballot, after a protracted convention. There were four candidates, Dr. J. R. W. Kirton of Phoenix, Keweenaw county, James Gardner, of Ontonagon, J. O. Maxey of L'Anse, Baraga county, and P. H. O'Brien, of Iron River, Iron county. Ontonagon struck for Gardner and the Keweenaw vote was polled for Kirton. Ballot succeeded ballot in rapid succession without any material change occurring. Finally Captain Wilcox of the Mass made a motion that the secretary cast the vote of the convention for Maxey, and it was approved.

Mr. Maxey is well known in Marquette, he having been a resident of this city for some two years, before locating in L'Anse. He is a dealer in timber and mineral lands, and a man of excellent ability, well equipped for able service in the legislature. Those who know him here will feel that his district has made an excellent choice.

GROCCERS AFFECTED BY RECENT COURT DECISION

SYRUP LABELS MUST BE MORE SPECIFIC, NOT ONLY STATING MIXTURES IN THE SYRUP BUT THE PERCENTAGE OF THEM

A decision, affecting the grocers of the entire state, regarding the manufacture and sale of maple syrup has been handed down in the supreme court. Hereafter all cans containing maple syrup and other syrups must not only be labeled as compounds, but the labels must declare the percentage of each syrup in the mixture. Any can of syrup labelled otherwise will be sold in violation of the law and merchants will be subject to the law's penalty.

The decision grew out of the case of the state dairy and food commission, against the Pierre Viasu Maple Company. The inspectors of the department condemned a certain maple syrup labelled "Pure Canadian maple syrup, and cane syrup." An analysis showed that cane syrup predominated, and the inspectors insisted that the percentages be placed on the label, so that the consumer would know exactly what he was getting. The company procured an injunction restraining the commissioner from making this requirement. To its ill of complaint the commission filed a demurrer, which was overruled by the court below, but which the supreme court says should be sustained.

The supreme court holds that not only must the syrup be labelled as mixtures but that the percentages of the ingredients must be given. Labels stating the mixtures of syrups are used by practically every company, but undue prominence is given to the "maple syrup." Analyses show that the percentage of genuine maple syrup in the so-called "maple syrups" is seldom more than 25 per cent, is often only five per cent, and is frequently less.

If you anticipate buying a Steel Range or cook stove, don't overlook getting our present proposition.

CARELESSNESS CAUSE OF FOREST FIRES

SUCH IS OPINION OF VETERAN MICHIGAN LUMBERMAN, FATHER OF STEWART EDWARD WHITE—GOVERNMENT FORESTRY SERVICE.

"Carelessness"
In that one word T. Stewart White, one of Michigan's pioneer lumbermen, characterized the cause for the forest fires which, carrying damage and devastation in their wake, have for the last week been sweeping over the northern part of the state and spreading a black pall of smoke over all Michigan, says the Grand Rapids Herald.

"In my observation and experience in the lumber business," said Mr. White in explanation of his somewhat startling assertion, "I have learned that but two causes can lead to these forest fires—lighting and carelessness. In California and the west, where lightning is rarely accompanied by rain, the fires are usually occasioned by electrical disturbances, as the splendid work of the government forestry service precludes any possibility of their being caused by forest fires. But here in Michigan, where lightning always goes hand in hand with a heavy downpour of rain, the fires originating from this cause are extinguished as soon as they break out, and the only reason for the immense forests being destroyed by fire is carelessness on the part of farmers and lumbermen, who are thoughtless about building camp fires in dry weather, or about throwing burning matches on the ground.

"But it was supposed that the recent fires in the state were caused by sparks from locomotives," he was reminded.

"Even in that case carelessness can be given as the sole cause for the fires. If the owners of timber would take precautions to watch their forests in dry weather, the locomotive sparks would not have an opportunity to gain such headway as to result in a disastrous fire.

"I remember well one instance in my own experience which will illustrate well my point. My son, Stewart Edward White, and myself were on a trip through Nevada during an especially dry season some years ago when we stopped and built a camp fire for the night. We used no tent, and slept only on tarpauline, and with no thought of possible forest fires we turned in when the fire had slumbered and went to sleep. A large stick remained, however, which had not gone out. A wind arose and blew this ember into flame, and if my son had not awakened at the crucial moment, with the fire creeping up on his blanket, we might have been in the midst of a dangerous fire.

"Although I have driven through woods that were alive and have had many experiences with forest fires," continued Mr. White, "I was never situated in a dangerous position by reason of them. No one need be caught in a forest fire, if, as I say, due carelessness is exercised. The usual methods of preventing the spread of fires are by back firing and the use of fire breaks on paths cut in the brush and younger growth of trees through the forest. Back firing is the name given to the process of setting the woods afire at some distance from the approaching line of fire and letting the two stretches of flame meet, thus forming a large waste over which the fire cannot burn and preventing it from going further.

"At other times paths are cleared in the forest some 25 yards wide to prevent the spreading of the fire. These are called firebreaks.

"The fires in this section of the country, while perhaps as disastrous as those in the west, are entirely different from the big California and range fires in that they are what are known as 'overboard fires,' while west they have almost entirely burnt fires, and the flames do not reach into the foliage and destroy the trees as they do in this state. The wind, always a powerful factor in big forest fires, carries the flames up into the tops of the trees here, and damages the timber, while in California the older trees are not damaged, although the younger growth is of course destroyed.

"The splendid work of the United States forestry service out west is probably all that saves the timber lands from more disastrous fires. The government keeps a trained force of men at work patrolling the woods on the lookout for fires, and in one case which I remember the men put out 11 fires which were raging at the same time in different parts of California."

COURT MATTERS.
Conviction in Criminal Case in Circuit Court Yesterday.

Yesterday morning in circuit court was given over to the hearing of the case of the People vs. Romeo Carullo and James Fatiga, who were arrested because of a street affray that occurred in Ishpeming last July. In the affray a gun was used and a boy was shot. He subsequently died, but was carried off by appendicitis, and it was not charged that the wound he received was responsible for his death. A number of Italian witnesses were heard in connection with the case. The jury returned a verdict of guilty. The men have not been sentenced.

When court reconvened at 2:30 o'clock a jury was called in the case of Paulina Haupt vs. Thomas Connors, trover. The complainant is seeking to recover the value of 600,000 feet of lagging—mineral timber—which she alleges was cut by the defendant some three years ago on lands north of Humboldt to which she has title. The defendant was lumbering in the vicinity at the time and it is alleged that he trespassed on the Haupt acreage. This case is now on trial.

In U. S. court the docket was gone over and the cases on it disposed of or set for trial. The grand jury was in session the greater part of the day. Indictments were returned against Roche and Ross, the postoffice robbers recently arrested at Escanaba.

The Maple Grove Dairy will serve their milk in quart, pint and half pint bottles from now on.
