

BRUTAL MURDER IN NEW YORK CITY

Granddaughter of General Franz Sigel of Civil War Fame Is Found Dead in a Room Until Lately Occupied by a Chinaman.

Engaged in Missionary Work Among the Orientals of the Tenderloin District, She Had Been Missing for a Week—Packed in a Steamer Trunk and With the Clothing Torn, the Body Gives Evidence the Young Woman Was Strangled to Death.

New York, June 18.—Packed in a steamer trunk, tied with ropes and left in a study little room in a house occupied principally by Chinese, the body of a young woman was discovered to-night. All indications are that it was a case of murder by strangulation, and while the body had not been identified late tonight, the police believe that it may prove to be that of a young missionary.

Henry G. Barnell, who is interested in the Americanizing of the Chinese, to-night gave the police a valuable clue when he described a Chinaman who formerly occupied the room where the body was found.

Paul Sigel, son of General Franz Sigel of Civil War fame, was summoned to the police headquarters, for his daughter had been missing for more than a week and the police were anxious to have him view the body. Mr. Barnell said that he knew a young white woman by sight only who was interested in work among the Chinese, and he was inclined to think that her name was Sigel. With this partly coincidental information, although vague and uncertain, the police began an investigation.

House in the Tenderloin District. The house in which the body was discovered is in the tenderloin district and is used as a chop suey restaurant, the upper floor being rented to Chinamen.

The man who had occupied the room evidently had left hastily, for there had been no effort to remove anything. He was evidently converted to Christianity, for there were about the room Bibles and prayer books containing names written in both English and in Chinese which gave the information that he was known in English as Wu, H. Lion and in Chinese as Leung Lee-Lam.

Girl Missing Since the 10th. Paul Sigel late tonight examined the clothing the woman wore, but was unable to identify any of the things as having belonged to his missing daughter. A letter with the initials "E. C. S." or "P. C. S." (the letters being worn and hard to distinguish) was shown to Mr. Sigel, but the room did not identify it, though he knew that his daughter wore a letter when he last saw her.

A number of letters which the police expect will throw light on the case were found in the room where the body was discovered. One of these, written in English, and addressed to the missing Chinaman, who occupied the room, but unsigned, warned him that if he did not stop paying attention to "Elsie Sigel," he would meet a terrible fate.

Later when shown the jewelry found in the trunk containing the body of the murdered girl, Mrs. Sigel identified the woman's watch, which she had worn on the night she was strangled.

INCOME TAX ISSUE IS PUT OFF AWHILE

At the Request of Mr. Aldrich, an Agreement Is Reached, Postponing the Question Until the Tariff Schedules Are Disposed Of.

Fight for Lower Duties on Print Paper Is Waged All Day in the Senate, and Is Unsuccessful, the Amendment of the Finance Committee Proposing a Rate of $4 a Ton, or Double That Imposed by the House, Being Adopted by a Decisive Majority.

Washington, June 18.—An informal agreement was reached between Senators Aldrich, Cummins and Bailey at the opening of the session today that the income tax and corporation tax questions should be postponed until after all the schedules in the tariff bill shall be disposed of. Thus the session was almost entirely given over to a discussion of print paper. The debate brought out some interesting statements from both sides.

After the defeat of a proposition to admit paper and wood pulp free, Senator LaFollette proposed an amendment continuing the $4-a-ton rate on print paper until July 1, 1912, when the $2-a-ton rate of the house should go into effect.

Mr. Clapp saying that the price of paper had not increased, as had other products during recent years, Senator Brown of Nebraska interrupted to cite figures in the Mann report showing an increase in the price in 1907 from $40 to $60 a ton.

Explaining the price this year? inquired Mr. Aldrich.

Replying that the price was a little less than in 1907, said Mr. Gallinger, "were less than in any year since 1899, with the exception of one year."

"The price is not so high now," said Senator Brown, "because they are undertaking to chloroform congress by putting the price down."

Explaining that there was a great international question pending before the senate which did not exist when the house passed the tariff bill, Senator Aldrich said that the Dominion of Canada had adopted a policy, announced by the premier, by which it was intended to effect a reduction of the export of logs of wood pulp.

Quoting $27.50 as the price of producing a ton of print paper in Canada, he continued: "The result of our investigation, made through the books of the paper companies themselves, and covering a great variety of mills, under a great variety of circumstances, has led me to the conclusion that the cost in this country is $31.50 a ton, under the most favorable circumstances."

A duty of $4 a ton was not, therefore, in his opinion, sufficient to cover the difference in the cost of production between the two countries. Referring to the report that the International Paper company had purchased 12,000 square miles of woodland in Canada, Mr. Aldrich suggested that the company might be caught in a Canadian trap preventing it from bringing that wood across the line.

To the Amazement of the Prosecution, the Defense Concedes That the Signature of the ex-President Is a Forgery—It Was Substituted for the Real One, It Says, and the Defendant Never Saw It Until It Was Shown in Court.

New York, June 18.—The authenticity of two words on a slip of paper in a glass case—Grover Cleveland—about which the trial of Broughton Brandenburg, charged with the forgery of the article for the New York Times of an article purporting to have been written by Mr. Cleveland, has largely centered so far, lost something of its importance today when Mr. Brandenburg's counsel announced that his client would admit that the signature was a forgery and not that of the former president of the United States.

Entered as second class matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

Senators LaFollette, Cummins et al, yield their opinions to no man; not even to President Taft.

The annual state convention of Elks has been concluded at Calumet, and the Elks have departed for their homes. They kindly left Calumet behind.

Dayton, O., has honored the right Mr. Wrights, and has succeeded in demonstrating that their modesty is almost as colossal as their achievements in aeronautics.

The upper peninsula firemen will find their old friend, the Parker shows, at Calumet this year. They have been engaged as a tournament attraction. This means that Calumet will wind up a noisy summer with a specially noisy week.

Mrs. Gould's counsel may put in a rattling case, but it hardly seems possible that it can overthrow all the testimony that shows the plaintiff to have had too great a fondness for liquor. She was a "ripping bouncer," even for the circles she was traveling in.

The Canadian Soo canal is much less severely damaged as a result of the wrecking of the gates than was expected. The floor has been found in good condition, and the most important work to be done is to replace the gates. The bill will not be as huge as was first feared it would be, but it would hit the Gilchrist company pretty hard if it was levied against that concern. The Canadian canal, it appears, will be repaired and opened in time to handle part of the shipping of the present season.

The Chicago Tribune expresses its sincere belief that the people of Illinois favor the enactment of another direct nominations law, in which the experience of the past few years, and particularly the various opinions of the supreme court on the things that make such a statute unconstitutional, should be applied with the purpose of producing a law that will stand the closest scrutiny. The Illinois legislature is to hold a special session later in the year, and a new direct nominations statute will doubtless be one of the orders of business. The Tribune comments that the politicians have found the direct nominations law not to be the revolutionary measure they predicted it would prove, but one under which they can, within reasonable bounds, control results; thus it believes that even the politicians in the legislature will be willing to turn in and assist with the making of a good law. Friends of the principle will hope that this will prove to be the case.

Company I, Third regiment, M. N. G., of Ishpeming, has gone the way of many other military companies in the state and is to be mustered out for inefficiency. The same meeting of the military board of the state that decided on this fate for the Ishpeming command gave the Adrian company thirty days in which to bring up its efficiency to a satisfactory point, or it was promised a similar fate. The affairs of the Ishpeming company have been understood by those on the inside to have been in none too promising condition for some months past, and the decision of the state board will come as no great surprise. The Ishpeming company, for some reason, did not take firm root. It has not had the enthusiastic support necessary to maintain an organization of the kind at a high stage of efficiency; that this has been true may be attributed to the comparative apathy shown by its members. However that may be, Ishpeming's Company I will presently be but a memory. We have no doubt that Ishpeming people will take the view that while they can have a strong and creditable company they are better off without any company at all.

The report of Governor Hughes' commission of inquiry into stock market conditions is a sane document, such as one would expect from a body of sensible men. It has caused no flurry in the markets, and has been received with approval, rather than disapproval, by the market interests. Those who expected from the commission any wholesale denunciation of speculation are disappointed. The commission finds that same speculation, under reasonable restrictions, has a definite place and value in connection with dealings in the vast amount of securities in American enterprises. The commission pronounces against various practices that are condemned no less emphatically by all legitimate brokerage houses, and has one recommendation of general interest, namely, that no margin deals should be permitted on a basis of less than 20 per cent. The burden of the commission's finding, it appears, is that legislative steps should be taken to enforce on the brokerage establishments throughout the country the same conservative rules and legitimate business methods that are insisted on by the leading reputable houses. The commission apparently believes that if the high standards maintained by these houses are generally enforced, under pain of adequate penalties, the states will have gone as far as is necessary in regulating speculative activity.

Chief Koehler, the "golden rule" head of the Cleveland police department, told the International Association of Police Chiefs this week that by the application of "golden rule" policies he has succeeded in reducing the number of arrests in Cleveland in a year from 30,418 to 10,085, and the city was better behaved, and with less crime, with the fewer number of arrests than when the greater number was made. The new policy is indicated in the following rules which govern the conduct of the Cleveland police department: "Juveniles are never to be placed in prison, but taken home or the parents sent for, and the child turned over for parental correction; the members of the force are to use their kindly efforts in easing the friction and ill temper between man and man, wherever and whenever it makes itself manifest; that the best policeman is the one who manages the offender with the least show or display of authority; that some men fall through some unfortunate circumstances and are not criminal at heart, and should be treated accordingly, in which case the best results may be accomplished with a well-applied reprimand; officers should have sufficient evidence of a competent character to secure conviction before even considering the imprisonment of a person on any charges whatever; any apparent violators who are known to be of good character and reputation are to be accompanied to the precinct station, where the matter is to be carefully inquired into by the officer in charge and the proper action as specified by the common sense policy taken."

THE TARIFF.

When all this tariff gabfest is over we will hope to see a plain statement of the tariffs that have been increased and those that have been decreased, so that the public can judge on a direct setting forth of the facts as to the direction the revision has taken. The debate is so extended and so technical that the average reader who is not making a special study of the question forgets from day to day what was accomplished the day before yesterday, and altogether has but hazy ideas about what the loquacious congressmen are doing. He is, however, pretty well imbued with the idea that Aldrich, Hale & Co. are trying to hand him something, and that if Roosevelt was on the job in the White House there would be some gingery special messages finding their way to the senate chamber just now. On this theory the generality of readers of tariff news are inclined to sympathize with Beveridge, Cummins, LaFollette, and their fellow progressives, in the belief that they are making a conscientious effort to make it as hard as possible for Aldrich, Hale & Co. to put the suspected "something" over on the long-patient consumer, who, however Aldrich, Hale & Co. may have read it, believed that the Republican platform promised downward revision. But, as we say, the generality of readers is badly confused on the tariff just now, and will wait a succinct and easily comprehensible statement of the changes, one that will show plainly their drift. If the scented files revised downward exceed those revised upward by a large enough number, if the decreases are as large as it appears they ought to be, and if the revision promises cheaper prices for a reasonable number of necessities which enter into the "cost of living," the public will doubtless lend at least grudging approval. On the other hand, the careful study of the facts of the completed legislation persuade them that Aldrich, Hale & Co. had really put something over in the interest of the manufacturers against those of the consumer, the consumer will call on President Taft to make good on his campaign promises, and won't be a bit backward about recalling what Roosevelt would do were he still in the White House.

A VEXING SITUATION. It is reported from Grand Rapids that Senator Smith returned to Washington this week without in any manner having changed the face of the gubernatorial situation in his home town. As has been commented, the candidacy of Amos Musselman and the probability that Justice Montgomery will also enter the race puts Senator Smith up against a dilemma of the most vexing nature. He at one time studied law in Justice Montgomery's office, and the judge's son, Stanley Montgomery, ran for the legislature in the Lansing district with the special purpose of giving him a vote for senator, and was elected. On the other hand, Mr. Musselman was chairman of the senatorial committee in 1907, and perhaps did as much as any other one man to make Smith senator. It needs no extended comment to show that Senator Smith's position is a delicate one. Mr. Musselman, as the story goes, was kept out of the gubernatorial race last fall by Senator Smith's influence, and the issue shows that had he run, instead of Dr. Bradley, he would doubtless have been elected. Governor Warner's small majority is a matter of record, and Mr. Musselman would have not been opposed in many quarters with the same vigor that was displayed against Dr. Bradley. Thus it would be a fruitless task to try to sidetrack Mr. Musselman again, and it would be no more practical for Senator Smith to endeavor to induce Justice Montgomery not to enter the race. Altogether it is a perplexing situation for a man who himself has to go before the people two years hence. Knowledge that there was a Kent county faction of considerable strength opposed to Senator Smith would encourage other men to try for his toga, and what otherwise might be a practically unanimous re-election might develop into a regular knock down and drag out fight. Senator Smith's friends cannot but regret the appearance of two Grand Rapids candidates, and they will hope that one of them makes way for the other before the senator has to choose between them.

Dog Unearths Baby's Body—Advices from Norway, Dickinson county, report the unearthing of the body of a baby in the Norway cemetery by a dog which had been prowling about the burial ground. Investigation showed that the remains had been buried to a depth of only a few inches. The dog had eaten one foot and an arm and had mutilated the trunk of the infant when discovered by the sexton and driven away. How the body came to be buried in the cemetery, and so close to the surface, is unknown.

Costly Building Material—The New Hampshire granite which is entering into the construction of the federal building at Escanaba is among the highest priced building material ever used. The stone costs $24 a cubic foot, and in addition the freight from New Hampshire. It is all cut from specifications before it is shipped and each stone is numbered, the number designating the place it belongs in the building. The men engaged in the work of cutting the granite are so accurate and expert in their work that it has been found unnecessary by the contractors to alter the shape of a single stone that has been shipped to Escanaba.

Says Husband is a Drunkard—

Claiming that drink has wrecked her home and that her husband is a habitual drunkard, Mrs. Minnie Hayes of Koss, Menominee county, has applied for a divorce. Mrs. Hayes states that she married Edward Hayes March 28, 1898. The marriage took place at Matton, Shawano county, Wis. She states that since that time she has been a faithful wife and has done everything that she could to add to the happiness of her husband and family. She claims that about a year or more after her marriage, her husband started drinking and went from bad to worse until he is now a habitual drunkard. She has not lived with him since April first of this year. She names specific instances in which his drunkenness has been marked. On July fourth she alleges that he came home drunk and destroyed the dishes in the house. Later she says he lost his position at Koss because of his excessive thirst for drink. One child was born to the couple and the wife desires its custody.

Are Growing Bounteous Crops—

The big farms of C. J. Cook of Menominee are doing a brisk volume of business at the present time. The lands are fairly rife with industry and the growing crops will mean employment to hundreds before the summer is over. The farms contain in the neighborhood of 3,500 acres, the greater share of the land being under cultivation. The products are diversified and numerous. The dairy is a feature and its immense herd of cows furnishes milk for a large number of Menominee and Marinette families. In one location is an immense orchard planted a year ago and which will be bearing fruit in a few years. In another are immense fields of peas, all of which will go into the vining station at the Pine Hill farm whence the peas will be sent to the canning factory in Menominee controlled by Mr. Cook. Other large fields are devoted to tomatoes, beans, pumpkins, rhubarb and other produce, all to be turned into the refining plant.

Van's Harbor's New Sawmill—

Work has been started on the construction of the Van's Harbor Land & Lumber company's mill at Van's Harbor, Delta county, and it is expected that the plant will be completed and ready to be placed in commission by Aug. 15. C. G. Collins, formerly superintendent of the Garth Lumber company's mill, who has purchased the interest of Robert Knick in the Van's Harbor company, is now in complete charge of the operations, having succeeded Mr. Knox as superintendent. The mill is to be a modern structure in every respect. It will be equipped with a single band saw and a resaw for the manufacture of lumber and will also have complete electric light and single departments. The company already has a great quantity of timber delivered at the mill site and will keep the plant in operation for several months without a suspension. The company's railroad, which taps a heavy timber belt, is now within four miles of the Soo line and will be extended as far as possible to Cook's Mills, giving Van's Harbor, Garden and the entire west portion of Delta county an overland transportation connection with the outside world. Mr. Collins, who is now in charge of the Van's Harbor company's affairs, is a thorough lumberman, having been associated with the Garth Lumber company at Garth for nine years and since that time having been a member of the Collins Brothers Lumber company of Madison, Wis.

Escape Death in Flames—

Five persons narrowly escaped with their lives early in the morning from a burning building at the corner of Court and Ann streets, Sault Ste. Marie. One of them, Mrs. Ralph Howlett, awoke to find flames licking up the sheets on the bed in which she was sleeping. She seized her child and escaped while Mrs. Walter Dean was carried down a ladder from an upstairs room. The building is a frame structure belonging to Walter Dean. Mr. and Mrs. Dean and a child lived upstairs, while the downstairs rooms were rented to Ralph Howlett. A small stock of confectioneries was carried in the front. Mr. Howlett was not at home, and Mrs. Howlett was sleeping with her son. The room was filled with smoke and flame when Mrs. Howlett awoke. Her shouts for help were heard by neighbors. The entire face of the building was a mass of flames. Mr. and Mrs. Dean awoke to find their rooms filled with smoke. Mrs. Dean rushed half checked to her daughter's room. Seizing her she made her way down to the second story, where she got out of a window and down a ladder. In getting through she severely cut her right wrist on a piece of broken glass being under cultivation. The products are diversified and numerous. The dairy is a feature and its immense herd of cows furnishes milk for a large number of Menominee and Marinette families. In one location is an immense orchard planted a year ago and which will be bearing fruit in a few years. In another are immense fields of peas, all of which will go into the vining station at the Pine Hill farm whence the peas will be sent to the canning factory in Menominee controlled by Mr. Cook. Other large fields are devoted to tomatoes, beans, pumpkins, rhubarb and other produce, all to be turned into the refining plant.

A THRILLING RESCUE.

How Bert R. Lean, of Cheno, Wash., was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." WOOD AND BUILDING MATERIAL. I ALSO HANDLE Artistic Monuments. COST NO MORE THAN PLAIN ONES IN WHITE BRONZE. Marble is entirely out of date. Granite soon gets moss-grown, discolored, requires constant expense and care and eventually crumbles back to Mother Earth. White Bronze is so very expensive. WHITE BRONZE is strictly everlasting. It cannot crumble, it does not get moss-grown, and it is more artistic than any stone. Therefore why not invest in it? It has been adopted for over one hundred public monuments, and by thousands of delighted customers in all parts of the country. It has been on the market over 25 years and is an established success. Many granite dealers have bought White Bronze for their own burial plots. I have hundreds of beautiful designs of all grades of work, and want to have you see them if you are interested in a monument, headstone, marker or grave cover. On receipt of a postal card will be pleased to call with designs and samples of White Bronze.

ELKS' DOINGS ARE OVER.

Now Come the Knights of Pythias for Upper Peninsula Convention.

The 1909 annual convention of the Michigan Elks, held in Calumet, is ended and the hundreds of visitors have started on the homeward hike, all brightly pleased.

The parade was a gorgeous spectacle. Fully six hundred Elks were in line, while five bands helped entertain them. Grand Marshal P. D. MacNaughton and aides led the march, followed by an automobile completely covered with white and purple bunting and with a monster elk's head fastened to the front.

The following are the state officers elected at the convention: President, Harry S. Scott of Calumet; first vice president, Charles E. Lovin of Saginaw; second vice president, James Kelso of Traverse City; third vice president, O. Ziegler of Lansing; secretary, L. F. Williams of Detroit; treasurer, Charles F. Batwick of Battle Creek; chaplain, John E. Gibson of Port Huron; sergeant-at-arms, George W. Kent of Petoskey; doorkeeper, W. M. Bryant of Detroit; trustee for three years, W. R. Taylor of Grand Rapids.

Next week Calumet will entertain the Upper Peninsula Pythian league.

PARKER SHOWS ARE COMING.

Will Be a Feature of the Firemen's Tournament at Laurium. The visitors to Laurium for the annual tournament of the Upper Peninsula Firemen's association in August will have all kinds of amusement. A contract has been closed whereby the Parker Amusement people will show at Laurium throughout the tournament week.

The fire companies of the upper peninsula are already making arrangements for their accommodations during the tournament. The Negamco company arranged some time ago for accommodations and the happening company this week made arrangements for the accommodation of about forty men. The "So company" will bring a big crowd to the tournament, as they want the meeting of 1910 for their city. Missing is also after the next tournament, Osceola and Mohawk, as well as Red Jacket, are training hard for the racing and running events. The entries for these events this year will be greater in number than ever before. The Laurium committee expects to make this tournament the largest, most successful and best attended ever held by the Upper Peninsula association.

Principal E. F. Benson of the Houghton High school has resigned and has been appointed superintendent of schools at Ontonagon. Mr. and Mrs. Benson will spend the summer at Orchard Lake, this state. The commencement exercises of the Ontonagon High school were held Wednesday evening. There were eleven graduates, Nellie McCarty, Blanch Woodbury, May Dolan, Maggie Singina, Harriet Brentenbaugh, Mary Courtney, Bertha McKenna, Mary Royal, Verner Mettinn, George Gauthier, John Krapnick, Robert Manning. The Hawley Opera House, in which the exercises were held, was crowded to the doors. The exercises were the best in years.

Joe Collins, as he is known in the copper country where he wrestled three or four years ago, or Ed. Adams, if called by his proper name, who is to meet Paul T. Cleveland, at the Calumet theater the night of next Friday, June 25, will arrive within a very few days. Collins is now on his way to the copper country to pick up some cash money from some of the wrestlers of the Cream City who are aspiring to the highest middleweight honors.

DEATH OF WILL C. O'LEARY.

Prominent Hancock Eagle Dies Suddenly in Street of the City. The body of Will C. O'Leary of Hancock was found in one of the streets of that city about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. He had died suddenly and evidently was alone when the fatal moment came. Mr. O'Leary was about forty years of age and was single. He was one of the best known Eagles in Michigan. He was a grand lodge officer and was very active and influential in the order. Mr. O'Leary had spent the afternoon and evening in Calumet, watching the Elks' parade, and seemed to be in good health.

IRON COUNTRY VISITORS.

Chief Jack Lacey of the Leaping fire department and Chief Tim Maney of the Marquette fire department were visitors in Houghton yesterday. Tim Foley of Marquette was with them. WEEKLY COPPER REVIEW

Gossip of Interest Concerning the Market Situation and Various Mining Properties.

[Paine, Webber & Co.]

Michigan's New Lode.

In our weekly resume some weeks ago, when the public was regaled with such a plethora of information regarding the showing of the new lode at the Mass Consolidated property, we called attention to the fact that while so much attention was being devoted to different showings in Ontonagon county the Michigan was quietly working on a new lode which gave excellent promise of exceptional results. This forecast seems to be more than justified by recent results. The lode in the so designated "Bea" adit, has now been opened for a distance of 320 feet, and over half of the openings show very good copper rock. The remainder, while not entirely devoid of copper contents, is of inferior grade. The new lode has one dominating feature characteristic in that you have to break the rock to see the copper. The same lode has been cut on a crosscut driven at the eighth level, ninety feet from the top of the lode. There is not much copper in the lode where shown. And east drift has been run in 130 feet which showed very rich, but lumpy copper. The same lode has been opened from the ninth and eleventh levels and in both there is a very heavy showing of copper. The course which will run higher than thirty-six pounds to the ton but the average will not be that good. The best showing is in the northerly openings, toward the Rhode Island property. Now that the Rhode Island property is in control of the Franklin it is expected that work looking toward the opening of the same formation from the Rhode Island will be undertaken.

Almeck's Copper Contents.

There has been some good investment buying of Almeck during the week, based on the expected increase in the June production of the mine, which is now using a stamp head at the Franklin. The lode in the adit is very heavy, there are patches of this Pewabic course which will run higher than thirty-six pounds to the ton but the average will not be that good. The best showing is in the northerly openings, toward the Rhode Island property. Now that the Rhode Island property is in control of the Franklin it is expected that work looking toward the opening of the same formation from the Rhode Island will be undertaken.

Superior's Strength in the Market.

During the week the one issue which has maintained a position of strength and solidity, really advancing in the face of a generally soft copper share market, is Superior. The cause of the advance is explained in the following: Superior returns from the rock are now averaging twenty-eight pounds of rock to the ton, even in the old Atlantic mill which is still in use by this company to handle desulphurized shipments which are being forwarded from the Superior. The stock has held around $12, and is really the high point on the issue. We cannot advise the purchase of Superior at these figures. In the market the stock is easily maintained at its high figures. There is practically no floating stock. The Calumet & Hecla holdings are of course retired, and the original land owners retain their large holdings in their strong boxes. Friends of the Calumet & Hecla have retired other large blocks purchased at lower prices, so that practically none of the issue is carried on the books of brokers. There is no selling of the stock at any figure. While the mill runs have been exceptional in the case of the Superior it is unwise and unsafe to hope that they will continue at such high grade records as a permanent working basis. If the Superior rock runs twenty pounds to the ton on the average for a month's record, on a straight rock it will be exceptional and if the rock shot which is now being sent to the mill runs with continued depth the Superior will be another exception. However, at the present price of the stock the two shafts will not be profitable. It would have some difficulty in paying a liberal return on money invested, even if the showing of copper returns was better than publicly assumed.

Butte Coalition.

We wish to again call attention to the excellent investment buying of Butte Coalition stock which has been going on for the past six months. There has been no manipulative efforts in this issue at any time, but there seems to be an unlimited demand for the stock from sources which usually know what they are doing in a market way. Our reports from the property continue to be very conservative, but the treasury is in good condition, rock shipments and output are regularly increasing and we believe the property is making money under existing market conditions. It is impossible to state when the Butte Coalition will resume its dividends, but we would not be surprised if a dividend should be announced in a few months. The underground progress of the Coalition's best shafts has been going on quietly and without any brass band effect, but they have opened ore reserves and are in shape to participate in a strong way in any bettered metal market condition.

Centennial and Allowez.

Manipulative tactics on the part of some operators aroused some interest in these two properties during the past few days. However the reaction was not as pronounced as might have been expected, following the marketing of quite a block of both stocks at the higher prices.

Franklin.

The Franklin mine has opened a very good course of copper ground on the Pewabic lode, for the twentieth level of the fifth level, all of it in such uniformly fair ground that a good percentage can be sent to the mill for stamping. At the twenty sixth level the plat has been cut and the crosscut started in to the lode. There is every reason to believe that the lode at this point will be fully as strong as at the twenty-fifth when it showed better than any openings above. As a general run this copper course will yield better than twenty-five pounds of mineral to the ton of rock handled, but this means about sixteen pounds refined as the percentage of Franklin lost in the smelting is very heavy. There are patches of this Pewabic course which will run higher than thirty-six pounds to the ton but the average will not be that good. The best showing is in the northerly openings, toward the Rhode Island property. Now that the Rhode Island property is in control of the Franklin it is expected that work looking toward the opening of the same formation from the Rhode Island will be undertaken.

Why Beverage Fights.

Mr. Nelson's colleague, Mr. Clapp, has seen eight years' service in the senate. He is a man of excellent ability and also a student of the tariff. He went out in the campaign last year and told the people of the Northwest that the tariff was not a good thing, and he insists that it is his duty to do what he can to have that promise kept. Albert J. Beverage is on his tenth year as a member of the body. Under the direction of the national committee of his party he travelled across the country, making campaign speeches, and he understood all the while, and so told the people, that the tariff was to be revised downward. He refused to help to do a thing contrary to the promise the party made. His adherence to the doctrine of protection has never been questioned. He simply believes that many of the proposed rates are too high; and he has insisted from the day the bill was brought into the senate that all the light possible should be shed on each and every schedule.

LaFollette Pioneer.

LaFollette is really the man who blazed the way for the campaign the downward revisionists are carrying on. On the lecture platform and elsewhere he has been preaching lower duties for years. His little band of followers from Wisconsin led a notable fight for genuine, unequivocal downward revision plank at the Chicago convention last year. Four years before the LaFollette people had been refused admission to the party at the national convention on the ground that they were not "regular." They came last year capturing the convention and they gave notice that in four years more they would be back and probably be in control. Will that prophecy prove to be true? LaFollette is closing his first term in the senate. He has been what the old guard calls a "disturber" since the day he entered the chamber. He said in substance on the floor of the senate the other day, and with some pride: "Formerly I stood alone; now there is a goodly company of us here." Bristow may be called an understudy for LaFollette. This does not mean that he is not a man able to stand up and fight without the support of the Wisconsin senators. He has demonstrated since this tariff debate came that he can hold his own with any of the old-timers in the senate. The point is that LaFollette had more to do with the election of Bristow than to any other man. When the contest between Bristow and Chester E. Long began in Kansas, LaFollette went into the state and put Long out of the running by reading the senate roll-call showing that Long always voted with Aldrich. That was enough for the people of Kansas. Now what do these seven senators, representing the states that sent them here—Kansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana? These states all cast their electoral votes for the Republican national ticket last November. With the pathetic figure in the background that made his success possible, LaFollette Marden in Success Magazine.

MOTHER.

"All that I am or hope to be," said Lincoln, after he had become president. "I owe to my angel mother." "My mother was the making of me," said Thomas Edison, recently. "She was true, so true that I felt that I had some one to live for; some one I must not disappoint." "All that I have ever accomplished in life," declared Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist, "I owe to my mother." To the man who has had a mother all women are sacred for her sake," said Jean Paul Richter.

Butte Coalition.

The testimony of great men in acknowledgment of the boundless debt they owe to their mothers would make a record stretching from the dawn of history to to-day. Few men, indeed, become great who do not owe their greatness to a mother's love and inspiration. How often we hear people in every walk of life say, "I never could have done this thing but for my mother. She believed in me, encouraged me, when others saw nothing in me." The position she expected me to fill, she painted," said Benjamin West. "A distinguished man of to-day says: "I never could have reached my present position had I not known that my mother expected me to reach it. From a child she made me feel that this was the position she expected me to fill, and her faith spurred me on and gave me the power to attain it." It is a strange fact that our mothers, the molders of the world, should get so little credit and should be so seldom mentioned among the world's heroes. REBELS IN THE SENATE

A Look Backward Over the Careers of These Statesmen.

All More or Less Noted for Independence of Action and All Students of the Tariff—Most of Them Men of Long Political and Legislative Experience—They Favor Protection; but They Believe in Revision Downward, and They Advocate It.

Washington, June 18.—Who are the Republican senators that are enlisted in the fight for lower tariff duties and what is the motive that actuates them in the stand they are maintaining? This seems to be a question of more or less interest throughout the country just now. The number of so-called "insurgents," a term by the way, that hardly applies, has varied from seven to twelve. The seven fixtures in the downward revision camp are Jonathan P. Dolliver and Albert B. Hall in congress; Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, Beveridge of Indiana; Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, and Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas. The two Nebraska senators, Elmer J. Burkett and Norris Brown have voted with the downward revisionists most of the time, but are not entitled to admission into the real insurgent camp. At least three other Republican senators have elected to vote with the "insurgents" on several occasions.

Let's take a look at the seven standbys in the fight. There is Dolliver. He has been in the senate nine years. Before he was sent to the senate he represented an Iowa district in congress for many years. He was a member of the ways and means committee of that body, and helped to frame the Dingley tariff law. For the last fifteen years he has been a student in the Aldrich class of protectionists, but his studies changed his mind.

Cummins Worked With Foss. Cummins was known as a student of the tariff, if not an authority on it, long before he was thought of for the United States senate. He originated the "Iowa idea" which in substance was that the tariff should never be permitted to become a shelter for monopoly. For years before he was elected to the senate he was looked on as the leader of the movement among the Western farmers for larger foreign markets for their products. The American Reciprocal Tariff League, organized in Chicago several years ago, was the joint creation of Cummins and Eugene C. Fleisch of Boston. That league did much toward creating the public sentiment throughout the Central West which is now sustaining the downward revisionists in the fight they are making. Cummins is serving his first term in the senate. He was always counted among the "regulars" until this tariff fight came on. He is a student, a hard-headed Scandinavian, who would rather be right than be senator or President. His studies convinced him that the present tariff is extortionate. Like all the other downward revisionists he is a protectionist. But he would draw the line between a reasonable amount of protection and extortion. He was a member of the committee on resolutions in the last Republican national convention, and was a member of the sub-committee that put its final touches on the platform. He thinks he knows what the promise of the party was to the people.

Why Beverage Fights.

Mr. Nelson's colleague, Mr. Clapp, has seen eight years' service in the senate. He is a man of excellent ability and also a student of the tariff. They came last year capturing the convention and they gave notice that in four years more they would be back and probably be in control. Will that prophecy prove to be true? LaFollette is closing his first term in the senate. He has been what the old guard calls a "disturber" since the day he entered the chamber. He said in substance on the floor of the senate the other day, and with some pride: "Formerly I stood alone; now there is a goodly company of us here." Bristow may be called an understudy for LaFollette. This does not mean that he is not a man able to stand up and fight without the support of the Wisconsin senators. He has demonstrated since this tariff debate came that he can hold his own with any of the old-timers in the senate. The point is that LaFollette had more to do with the election of Bristow than to any other man. When the contest between Bristow and Chester E. Long began in Kansas, LaFollette went into the state and put Long out of the running by reading the senate roll-call showing that Long always voted with Aldrich. That was enough for the people of Kansas. Now what do these seven senators, representing the states that sent them here—Kansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana? These states all cast their electoral votes for the Republican national ticket last November. With the pathetic figure in the background that made his success possible, LaFollette Marden in Success Magazine.

few shrew subjects, and the art of looking pretty, she has a good sound training in general subjects, and is often as well educated when finished as the average man. This alone would prevent the present-day beauty from being vain or insipid. When a pretty woman suffers from a "swelled head" on account of her beauty, it is generally the fault of her friends and parents, especially the latter. If from childhood it is carefully instilled into her that she is "so pretty," the idea is likely to remain after she is grown up, and helps her to make herself a nuisance to others less well endowed by nature, but a girl who is brought up simply never gets so exaggerated an idea by her own importance. By this I do not mean that a girl should be encouraged to seek for a husband, or to take no interest in it, for it is the duty of each one of us to look as well as we can.—Ivy Class, an American girl who won first prize as the most beautiful woman in England.

JUST A WHISPER.

"Rare as is true love, true friendship is still rarer," so the poets tell us, and no doubt it is true, but what a joy it is to have a true friend! One who rejoices with your joys, weeps with your sorrows, shares his last crust or sou with you if need be; sits at your fireside as he would his own; gives you the best of himself; encourages, praises and occasionally chides you; fights for you; trusts you, and, if it would help you, cheerfully would die for you. This is a friend, and, like love, has a thousand meanings—and yet it is so often so lightly said, "Oh, yes, or she is a friend of mine." There are no many instances of ideal friendship between men—they seem more capable of them than women—and also many of them between men and women, the wiseness and narrow-minded folk to the contrary; but they are good friends, and in the end they are most delightful, sincere and true. These friendships have nothing in common with the so-called "affinities" that are making such a stir in the world, as many may think. To find the value of a true friend, let adversity knock at your door; it will help with kindly deeds and few but beautiful words; but if a fair-weather friend, he flies away at the call for help. What a shock it is to your vanity to learn that some one you have trusted and called "friend" is in reality worse than the one we have called "enemy." But after we have recovered from the shock it proves a most salutary lesson, for by it we learn to sift the grain from the chaff as never before and to enjoy to the utmost the "friend" when we find him. Like a rare flower, they must be cultivated properly to have perfect blossoms—without thorns. They who are good friends are also good enemies—fighting in the open, springing covert insinuations or a blow in the dark. In the language of poetry, "there is untold wealth in a friend—if every one would but believe it."

ARE PRETTY WOMEN GENERALLY FRIVOLOUS?

Frivolity and empty-headedness are generally supposed to be the portion of the beauty. Students of the situation account for this by saying that men of the LaFollette school have through their lectures before Chautauqua societies year after year taught the people how to think about these public questions for themselves. Senator Dolliver, who is a student of the situation, says that he hoped no senator would delude himself into believing that the farmers of the Middle West do not understand the tariff question. "Why, bless my soul, they know more about it than any of us," said he. "I have seen them at the meetings turned to these public questions if not by the lectures they have been listening to year after year before the Chautauqua societies." This leads to the thought that the senators who are making the fight for downward revision are the "wise ones" of the Republican party. They are the men upon whom the party must depend for most of its superior oratory in the national campaign. What would have happened to the party in the last national campaign if Dolliver, Clapp and Beveridge, LaFollette, Nelson, Cannon and Bristow had refused to take the stump? Of course, there are pretty women no one can deny, a very great portion of whose life seems to be spent before a mirror, or in a dressmaker's or milliner's show room, or in some beauty cultist's salon, in one continual endeavor to enhance the charms which nature has bestowed upon them. There are many beautiful women who are brainy, domesticated and sensible in every day, and to whom their good looks are not the chief thing in life. To prove the truth of this argument one has only to look into the ranks of the hospital nurses. Have you ever noticed how many really pretty women are to be found in the wards of our hospitals, devoting their lives to the care of the sick and suffering? Yet these women have very little opportunity for "dressing up." Neatness and plainness is their portion in the matter of dress when on duty, and they certainly never have time to waste before their mirrors. If all pretty women were as vain and frivolous as some seem to imagine, there would be but few found in the wards of the hospital, instead of the very large percentage which we have noted.

WOMEN WHO ARE ENVIED.

These attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might live them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at The Stafford Drug Co.'s store.

Agora on Sale Down Town—The Agora, recently issued by the senior class of the high school, is now on sale at Willeson's news stand, Conklin's jewelry store and Penell's drug store. The annual this year exceeds all past efforts in the same direction, and is well worth the price charged for the book to all well wishers of the high school.

Young and both were effective, not a hit being allowed during the game. Dixon, for the prison, also pitched a splendid game, but was given poor support.

Gas Company Settles—The Marquette City Gas company has come to a settlement with the city regarding digging in streets to extend their mains. The company has been given a permit to dig in the streets for this purpose, but, before permission was granted, they were forced to pay $75 assessed against them three years ago, which was the amount expended by the city in restoring two streets to their former condition, after gas mains had been laid.

He will be given a hearing in justice court this morning. Kurella was arrested by Officer Joseph Remoral as the result of a clever piece of detective work. It is said that the watch the man is charged with having pilfered was sold to a Marquette saloon keeper for $6.

Cathedral School Class Day—The graduating class of the Cathedral school held their class day exercises in the gymnasium last evening in the presence of a large crowd. Each of the eight members of the class took part in the program with an oration or essay, all of which showed careful preparation and were effectively delivered. The musical numbers, rendered by members of the cathedral school, added greatly to the interest of the exercises. The graduation exercises will take place next Friday night.

INSURE WITH PETER WHITE & CO. FREE LUNCHES NO MORE.

McKay Bill So Drawn That It Takes Effect Immediately.

In turn it has been said that the McKay anti-free lunch bill was given immediate effect and that it was not given immediate effect. At present it seems that the bill was given immediate effect.

The engrossed copy which the governor signed does not bear the clause giving notice that it was given immediate effect, but examination of the original bill and the journal of the senate shows that both houses took action to this end. In the senate McKay of Detroit, the introducer, remarked, in moving to give it immediate effect, that he did so by virtue of section 21 of article 5 of the constitution which describes the classes of bills which the legislature may hasten into laws.

Whether the legislature could take such action is said to be a question, however, as the conventional method is to those necessary for the public health and safety or great public emergencies. It is considered doubtful whether this bill comes within this class, but no one seems to think that phase would affect the legality of the measure, except as to the time it takes effect. The question is not attracting much attention in Lansing, but in other cities of the state prosecutors and saloonkeepers have been greatly perplexed as to whether they should regard the law as binding at this time or not until ninety days after the close of the session.

MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Paine, Webber & Co's correspondent of New York yesterday telegraphed as follows:

"The tone of the market was very much improved today, the heavy selling pressure noted during yesterday's session having subsided and there seemed to be a disposition among room traders to replace part of the lines which were liquidated upon the decline. Sentiment was somewhat mixed, but in good quarters it is still felt that higher prices are not unlikely in the near future, though at present trading is likely to be held in check until the fear of higher money rates subsides."

try offerings. The cash sales were limited to 20,000 bushels, and it was claimed that the price on hard wheat was let down a little. The Argentine shipments were 1,544,000. India shipped 2,461,000. Snow sent another report covering four counties in Kansas, estimating an average of not better than nine bushels for the area of about 600,000 acres examined. July sold 115 1/2 and a shade under 113 1/2, with a rally to 114 1/2 at the close. The later months meet with good support on all the forced breaks due to local bear pressure."

STOCK MARKET PROTECTED.

Banking Interests Take a Hand in the Wall Street Trading.

New York, June 18.—The contest between the opposing forces in the stock market today was quite lively while it lasted, but it was over in the course of the first hour of trading. The forces supporting the prices against a further fall established control in that time, but having done so, seemed disposed to discontinue operations. The prevailing sentiment amongst the professional element of the traders was bullish, based on the unsatisfactory action of the market when it rallied yesterday. The opposition to the tactics of the bears which was asserted at the outset today reflected the determination of the banking interests to protect the market against raiding, and imparted confidence to the holders of stocks in some degree, as which shown by the cessation of the pressure of liquidation.

There was a good deal of discussion amongst financiers and their legal advisers of the possible scope of the suggestions contained in the president's message of the opportunity to extend the government's power to investigate corporation affairs and under the provision of the proposed law to tax the net earnings of corporations. The project is generally considered of far-reaching importance, and some observers assert that a large amount of the selling of stocks has been induced since the message appeared.

The Paris listing project for United States Steel has by no means passed out of discussion and the course of the French opposition to it is regarded as having found significance, as well as financial import. The British request for the withdrawal of the United States government's request for participation by American bankers in the Chinese loan is in line with the supposition that the protest against the United States Steel project is in the nature of retaliation against American bankers for the Chinese matter. The opposition of French industry to some schemes of the pending tariff bill is alleged to be a motive also.

TAR AND FEATHERS READY.

Carmi (His) People Angry With Bridegroom Who Disappeared.

Grand Ills. June 18.—Tar and feathers in ample measure were prepared for Charles Carr, claiming Philadelphia as his home by relatives of Miss Vern Wood, who married the man at the home of her sister in this city. Carr represented himself to be an actor, and avowed a brief courtship they decided to marry. Miss Wood lived in Evansville, Ind., and was very popular in the younger social sets both in Evansville and Carmi. The two went to Evansville and were married at the residence of the bride's sister. Soon after the wedding a message was received, saying that Carr had one or two wives and that trouble was ahead. He was confronted with the rumors and at first denied the stories. He later ventured and admitted that he had been married, but said that he was divorced. He beat a retreat to the station and got out of town just in time. Investigation on the part of the relatives yesterday afternoon disclosed the fact, it is alleged, that Carr had been married to two young girls and then desert them.

Angry citizens, anticipating his return, had prepared to give him a coat of tar and feathers, but the man did not appear.

Miss Kate Sharpe, '07, visited at the Normal on Monday on her way home at Sault Ste. Marie.

The Honorable Patrick Kelley, lieutenant governor of the state, and Mrs. Kelley spent a few hours at the Normal on Monday.

Miss Margaret Harrington, of Hancock, has spent several days with her sister, Miss Ella, a member of the graduating class, and will remain over commencement.

Prospects are bright for a large summer school. Every room at the dormitory has been engaged for some time, and requests for rooms are coming in very rapidly.

Examinations were held on Thursday and on Friday morning. Most of the students not members of the graduating class left for their homes yesterday and on the early train this morning.

Examinations for teachers in the country schools of this county were held at the Normal on Thursday and Friday. Only about twenty candidates for certificates had been expected, but twenty-five presented themselves.

At the athletic banquet held in March, President J. H. Kaye offered prizes for the three best school songs which should be written by students and placed in the hands of the secretary by June 1st. The prizes were awarded yesterday, as follows: Ten dollars for the best, to Miss Esther Lindquist, of Iron River; five dollars for the next best, to Theodor McEwen, of Escanaba, and three dollars to Ethel Thornton of this city.

On Tuesday of next week, a basket picnic will be held at Presque Isle to which all members of the school faculty and all visiting guests are invited. Each will furnish his own lunch and dishes to eat from. The faculty, however, will furnish the coffee. Everything is to be ready for eating at 12 o'clock sharp in order that plenty of time may be given to the island and time left for rest before the exercises of the evening.

Osiris Literary society met on Monday afternoon and elected officers for the fall quarter, as follows: President, Marie Deasy; vice president, Wm. Mullaly; secretary, Katherine Fox; treasurer, Rex Stewart; Mr. Lantner, of the school, was present and urged the members a short talk on the benefits to be derived from active work in a literary society. At the close of the meeting, Dr. Faught was presented with an Osiris pin by the members as a token of their gratitude for his interest in their work.

The seniors taking part in the class play, accompanied by Mrs. Rushmore, other members of the faculty and all of the senior class will leave this morning for Isipeming where the play will be presented this evening. It happens that three of the most prominent characters are taken by students from Isipeming. One of them is the part of Sir Toby Belch, Theo Johnston, Sir Andrew Aguecheek and Ernest Roberts, of National Mine, but a graduate of the Isipeming High school, is Festa the clown.

On Tuesday evening occurred the first commencement function. President and Mrs. James H. Kaye held the annual reception for the graduating class, at their home on the corner of Hewitt avenue and High street. President and Mrs. Kaye were assisted in receiving their guests by Miss Middlekauff, Mr. and Mrs. Lantner and Miss Lantner. In the training school and she reports having about ninety dollars to turn over to the fund from that source alone. Mrs. Rushmore, who has charge of the work of training the members of the east, feels better pleased than ever with the progress made by the students in preparing for it. As every reader of the post knows, "Twelfth Night" is one of his most rollicking comedies. The great dramatist gave free vent to his matchless wit and in Maria, Sir Toby, Malvolio, the clown and Sir Andrew, the greatest characters matched by few others in all his plays. Viola, disguised as a page to the duke, and twin sister to Sebastian, is one of Shakespeare's sweetest women characters. Under circumstances most trying to a woman she preserves her feminine poise and dignity, such a way as to win the hearts of all who know her.

Considerable class rivalry has been manifested during the past few weeks. On Friday evening last, the seniors held their "swing out" by first donning the cap and gown. They repaired to Presque Isle where they took possession of the cave and decorated it liberally with Chinese lanterns and built up a huge camp fire. A regular "class day" program had been arranged, with history by Emma Mackin, prophecy by Doris King and Mackin, and by Florence Markham. These were very clever and were received with the delight they deserved. Refreshments were prepared and as the coffee was being removed from the fire, down came the juniors and a lively skirmish took place, both classes contending for the coffee and also for the possession of the president of the junior class. The president of the senior class, and held a great deal of honor arrayed in cap and gown. The invaders were finally driven off and held at bay while refreshments were despatched. The seniors were chaperoned by Mrs. Kaye, Mrs. Kelley, Mrs. Rushmore and Dr. and Mrs. Faught. After leaving Presque Isle the students made the rounds of the city and serenaded in turn every member of the faculty, with school songs and other expressions typical of college life.

The baccalaureate address will be delivered tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. Bates G. Burr, rector of St. Paul's. It will be given at the Normal school at 6 o'clock. Everyone is most cordially invited to be present. On Monday evening, the class play, Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," will be presented at the opera house, and on Tuesday evening at the same place, commencement exercises proper with the presentation of diplomas will occur. The orator of the occasion will be the Right Reverend Charles D. Williams of Detroit, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Eastern Michigan. After the exercises at the opera house are completed, the annual commencement banquet will occur at the Hotel Marquette. Every available seat was sold several days ago. Owing to the limited space in the hotel a considerable number of applicants for tickets had to be disappointed last year and again this year. President James H. Kaye will act as toastmaster and Belle K. Middlekauff and Dr. E. R. Downing, of the faculty; Simon Anderson, president of the senior class; Florence Markham, valedictorian of the class; H. T. Johnston, president of Ydrasil represents his society, and Miss Delphine Mayer, Osiris.

CANNON'S COMMITTEES.

At End of the Session He May Make His Announcements.

Few Changes Expected in Important Chairmanships; but Some of the House Insurgents Will Be Punished—No Power in Hands of Minority Leader; Fitzgerald Helping the Speaker—Anti-Saloon League Opposes Investigation of the Liquor Traffic.

Washington, June 18.—Speaker Cannon may be ready to announce the house committees at the end of the special session. He had planned definitely to do this, but so far he has not given the subject much attention and it would not surprise some of his lieutenants if he decided to let the announcements go over until December. He knows the desires of most of the members, but he has not got much beyond that. The Democrats are going to him directly with their requests. It was Mr. Cannon who introduced the practice of permitting the minority leader to place the Democratic members. John Sharp Williams, while he was the leader of the minority, was permitted to exercise full authority in the assignment of members of his party to committees. When the present house was organized at the opening of the special session, Champ Clark, the new minority leader, did not so conduct himself as to win the favor of the speaker and the majority that was extended to Williams was withdrawn. John Joseph Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, who helped the Republicans to get out of the mix, up over the rules, conducted himself about the way the speaker felt a minority leader should conduct himself, and that in a quiet way Fitzgerald is having something to say about the assignment of the Democrats. The Brooklyn man is certainly having more to say about it than is Clark. Some of the Democrats who are anxious to see how they will fare are making bold to go to Fitzgerald and plead with him to intercede with the speaker for them.

Insurgents Will Suffer Some.

While no intimation has come from the speaker's room as to what his policy is to be in adjusting the committees, the general expectation is that those Republicans who rebelled against the rules will find that they have been in a bad way. Republican members will also be judged, no doubt, by their behavior when the tariff bill gets back to the house. Insurgent movements are becoming too common to please the speaker. His lieutenants, who no doubt speak his mind, say such movements are not to be tolerated and they suggest that the way to be it is to refuse to recognize the insurgents in the distribution of desirable chairmanships. It is well understood that Henry A. Cooper of Wisconsin will not be retained chairman of the committee on the dining room, he is to be bumped into an obscure place because he is a LaFollette Republican. Marlin E. Olmstead of Pennsylvania is slated to succeed him as chairman of insular affairs. Outlookers are wondering how the committee on agriculture, which attempted to punish those Republican members who chose to follow the political leadership of LaFollette. If he undertakes to carry out a general program of reform in the civil service and in the committee memberships. Most of the men who were chairman of important committees in the last house will be reappointed. Charles F. Scott of Kansas will be reappointed chairman of the committee on agriculture; James A. Tawney of Minnesota, will be retained as chairman of the committee on appropriations; Mr. Crumpacker of Indiana, will get the census committee; Charles M. Keller of Illinois, will be reappointed as chairman of claims; Cyrus A. Suloway of New Hampshire, who has served as chairman of the committee on invalid pensions so long, will get another reappointment; John J. Gardner of New Jersey, will be reappointed as chairman of the committee on labor; William S. Greene of Massachusetts is slated for reappointment as chairman of merchant marine and fisheries; John A. T. Hall of Iowa expects to be continued as the head of the committee on military affairs; Halvor Steenerson of Wisconsin is in line for reappointment as chairman of the committee on militia. If he does not rebel too violently on the tariff bill; George Bingham Foss of Illinois counts on a reappointment as chairman of naval affairs; Richard Barthold of Missouri will be disappointed if he does not go back to the chairmanship of public buildings and grounds; Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts, will be retained as head of the committee on reform in the civil service and Edward L. Hamilton of Michigan expects to be made chairman of the committee on territories again.

Fowler to Be Displaced.

Interest centers around a few of the important committees which the speaker must, for one reason or another, reorganize. The committee on banking and currency will be reorganized by important committees in this congress if the program to overhaul the currency and banking laws of the country is carried out. The impression that Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey, who was chairman of this committee in the last congress, is to be dropped, grows stronger. Edward B. Vreeland of New York, is the man the speaker will probably put at the head of the committee. Fowler is to be punished because he opposed

IMPURE FOOD WIDELY USED.

Dr. Wiley Reports on Charitable Institutions—Striking Facts Brought out in Recent Investigations.

Buffalo, June 18.—A paper, prepared by Dr. Wiley of the department of agriculture, was read at the session of the conference on charities and correction. Dr. Wiley discussed pure food and its relation to charitable institutions.

Dr. Wiley charged that the use of imitation jams and jellies, or low grade flours, of meats which do not command good prices and foreign countries. William P. Hepburn of Iowa, who was at the head of the committee, failed of reelection. The probability is that James R. Mann of Illinois will get the chairmanship. Charles E. Townsend of Michigan would like to have the place, and he is a prime favorite with the president, but he is several points below Mann on the old committees, and his promotion over Mann's head will hardly take place. James B. Perkins of New York seems to be in line for the chairmanship of the committee on foreign relations. Robert C. Cousins of Iowa, the old chairman of the committee, voluntarily retired from congress, and Charles B. Landis of Indiana, who would have been in line for the place, was left outside the breastworks. The chairmanship of the committee on post-roads and post offices is giving the speaker a great deal of concern. He realizes that it will be difficult to find a man to take the place of Jesse Orestes. Up to this time no one has had any intimation as to who is likely to get the place. It seems as good as settled that De Alva S. Alexander of Buffalo will be the new chairman of rivers and harbors.

The committees that will have to do with the expenditure of public money are all to be made up of men who understand that an era of retrenchment is at hand.

TRIMMED HIS BUSHY BEARD.

No Wonder Doorkeeper of Congress Took Effis for an Outsider.

Washington, June 18.—William R. Ellis, a member of congress from Oregon, appeared at the door of the house yesterday and for a minute or two was denied admission to the chamber. When Mr. Ellis left the capital last he had a beard that ran around his face and extended a foot or two below his chin. It has not been a well kept beard. It was multicolored, disorderly, rampant. Mr. Ellis was a changed man today—no longer that the house employes failed to recognize him.

"You can't go in there, sir," shouted a doorkeeper as Congressman Ellis started to pass into the house. "This way to the gallery."

Mr. Ellis was at last identified and allowed to go to his seat. Some time yesterday Mr. Ellis visited a tonsorial artist, where he had a minor operation done on his beard. In the old days the Ellis whiskers began at the temples, extending down each cheek in great abundance and then dropping in great large bush as far as the waist line. The Ellis whiskers exposed to public view today are radically different, bearing a close resemblance to what are known in London as nuttin claps.

The number of boiler explosions in the United States in 1908 was 470. This compares with 471 in 1907, 431 in 1906, 450 in 1905 and 391 in 1904. The number of persons killed last year totaled at 281.

A DIVISION OF LABOR.

The following dialogue at the Bow county court today deserves to be recorded:

Witness—One day I had some shrimps to sell and I asked the plaintiff to help me. He said "I can't push the barrow because my arm is bad but if you like I'll come along with you and holler."

Witness—Well, it's like this, sir. A man can often shout when he can't shove.—London News.

CASTLE DOME MINING COMPANY.

COMPANY I TO BE MUSTERED OUT

Mayor F. E. Keese and James Clancy of this city are members of the board of directors of the Castle Dome Mining company, organized this week in the copper country. Elsewhere in this issue will be found an advertisement containing much interesting information concerning the company and its claims in Arizona. The company is incorporated under the laws of Arizona and has an authorized capital of 300,000 shares, at a par value of $5 per share. Senator M. Morarty of Crystal Falls is president; John R. Ryan of Calumet, vice president; Paul Schmeller of Calumet, secretary, and Bat Quello of Calumet, treasurer. The directors besides Messrs. Keese and Clancy are Messrs. Morarty, W. H. Richards, W. H. Jobe, Thomas Carlyen, James J. Evers and John R. Ryan. Mr. Richards is general manager of the Carrigan-McKinney company's mines in Michigan and Minnesota; Mr. Jobe has supervision of the Pickands-Mather mines on the Menominee range; Mr. Carlyen is captain of the Victoria Copper company's property; Mr. Evers is sheriff of Houghton county, and Mr. Ryan is a prominent business man of Calumet.

F. H. Finnegan, who secured control of the claims from the original company, and has turned them over to the new corporation, is expected in the city today to complete arrangements with the Ishpeming brokers for the securing of subscriptions for stock to be offered to the public. Subscriptions will be taken during the evening of Tuesday and Wednesday at the brokerage offices of the upper peninsula, also in Duluth, and it is expected, in view of the favorable reports on the property, that the stock will be in good demand. It is reported that a considerable quantity of the stock has already been subscribed for in the copper country, also on the Menominee range. Mr. Finnegan, whose headquarters are in Calumet, has been located in Minnesota for a number of years and is largely interested in farm lands and mining properties in that state.

FROM MORGAN'S CURB LETTER.

"After the holiday in Boston yesterday, and considering the acute weakness which developed in the New York market, Copper opened stronger this morning than was generally expected. Some liquidation was in evidence, but offerings were very well taken. After the second hour, when the market was at about the lowest level, prices began to firm up, and on scattered buying some very fair advances were brought about. Amalgamated, after selling at 79 1/2, rose two points, Anaconda, North Butte and Arizona Commercial one point each, and Superior & Boston gained 3/4. On the curb Greene Cananea, Groux and Live Oak were most active. Greene closed at 125, Copper at 123, Anaconda at 107, Wednesday's close. Live Oak was bid up from 7 to 7 1/2, without bringing out any stock, but later receded 1/2. Cactus was offered a little more freely, and sold at 3 1/2. Chief Consolidated was in good demand around 1 1/2, and was very friendly to the long side of copper. The Castle Dome Mining company, organized June 12th, 1909, is the latest copper promotion to attract public attention. The company is capitalized for 300,000 shares at $5 par, 500,000 shares of which will be offered for public subscription at $1 a share, subject to call of $4 a share at the discretion of the board of directors. The property consists of thirteen claims in the Globe district of Arizona, situated seventeen miles west of the city of Globe, 1 1/2 miles north of Cactus, and adjoining the Continental mine of the Old Dominion. The work on this property consists of several open cuts and tunnel and three permanent shafts. The money derived from the sale of stock is to be used in payment for the property and for the installation of proper machinery. Subscription began at 10 o'clock on next Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22nd and 23rd. We have secured an allotment of Castle Dome stock, and shall be pleased to enter your subscription. Allotments, as usual, will be subject to a cut in the event of over-subscription."

Company I, Michigan National Guard, organized three years ago, is soon to be mustered out, though Captain A. C. Ludington has not yet been officially notified to this effect. The state military board, in session at Lansing Thursday, issued the order relating to the Ishpeming company, while the Arizona company has been given thirty days in which to reorganize, failing which it will meet a similar fate. The quartermaster general has been directed to secure Company I's arms and equipment.

The announcement of the board's action relative to Company I will be a surprise to Ishpeming people, as well as most members of the organization. Captain A. C. Ludington sent his resignation to his superior officers over two weeks ago, but it has not yet been accepted. He received an acknowledgment of his resignation, and was yesterday advised that Colonel Cox would be here last evening to confer with him.

The company has been going down hill for some months, in spite of the fact that Captain Ludington worked hard during the eleven months he has been its head, to put it on a sound footing. He has not met with proper encouragement from the members or public. Only about two weeks ago some twenty-five of the fifty-eight members received their discharge for the cause of another company. Some were dishonorably discharged, and others were released on account of being unable to give the work the attention required under the law. The terms of twenty-one of the members who joined the company when it was organized will expire within thirty days. Several of these, among them some of the non-commissioned officers, had notified the captain that they would not re-enlist, so upon the expiration of their terms of service the company would have been left with only about fifteen members. As the law requires that there shall be not less than fifty-eight enlisted men and three officers, Mr. Ludington was satisfied that he would not be successful in securing a sufficient number of desirable recruits to put the company in condition to stand inspection.

Captain Ludington yesterday said that the members, as a rule, did not take the proper interest in company affairs, and it was a hard matter to get them out to the drill meetings. He has realized for some months that the state of affairs would eventually be obliged to muster out the company. For a while after Captain Ludington took charge, the company was in fair condition, and it made a good showing at the national encampment, held last August near Indianapolis. Plans had been partially perfected for this year's encampment at Ludington, but it was feared that the organization would go to pieces after the members had returned from the trip. An effort has been made during the past few months to secure desirable members to take the places of those discharged and the ones whose terms of service will soon expire, but the officers met with little encouragement.

"TWELFTH NIGHT"

The members of the senior class of the Northern Normal, composed of young men and women from various parts of the upper peninsula, will produce Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" at Ishpeming theatre tonight. It is reported from the Normal that the entertainment will be one of the best that the students have ever given and in view of the very reasonable prices of admission to be charged the house should be well filled. Two Ishpeming students will have prominent parts in the cast, and several others well known are among the principals. Original musical numbers and dances are to be introduced, and the production is to be given under the direction of Mrs. Rusmore, who has many times delighted Ishpeming audiences with her clever readings. The prices will be fifty cents for seats on the lower floor and first two rows of the balcony, and thirty-five cents for the balance of the balcony. School children will be admitted for twenty-five cents.

AN INTERESTING PLAY.

"The Great Devereux Case," which will be presented by the Yankee Doodle Stock company Monday evening at the opening of its week's engagement at Ishpeming theatre, was one of last season's greatest dramatic successes. Miss Ruth McCandley, the leading lady, will wear an imported dress of white satin silk and gauze over white satin. It is embellished with sprays of wheat done in cut steel. The company comes well recommended, and is producing good plays, besides introducing specialties of a high order between the acts. The advance sale of seats for Monday night will open today.

WITHIN THE CAR.

"Fare." The passenger gave no heed. "Fare, please." Still was the passenger oblivious. "Ily the passenger term fare," said the conductor. "I imply no reference to the state of the weather, the complexion of the admirable blonde you observe at the contiguous seat, nor even to the quality of service furnished by this philanthropic corporation. I merely allude in a manner perhaps lacking in delicacy but not in consciousness, to a monetary obligation set up by your presence in this car, and suggest that, without contemplating your celebrity with enmity, you liquidate."

At this point the passenger emerged from his trances.—Trib Bits.

STUDENTS RECEIVE MATHER PRIZES

DONALD HAYDEN, MARGARET SCRIBNER AND MARY BRAZIL WRITE BEST ARTICLES ON FEATURES OF CITY IMPROVEMENTS.

President W. G. Mather of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company recently offered three cash prizes to the students of the Ishpeming High school submitting the best articles on any feature of civic improvement work. Fourteen articles were submitted to the judges, Revs. M. M. Allen and W. B. Meads and A. E. Sterne, commissioner of schools. The first prize was awarded to Donald Hayden, the second to Margaret Scribner and the third to Mary Brazil. Following are the three articles:

Organization as an Agent of Improvement.

In the past experience has shown us that organization has always been a large factor in success; this has been particularly true in attempts at improvement or reform whether of a local or national character. The Anti-Saloon league and the Anti-Slavery societies have served as striking examples of this statement; therefore attempts at improvement or reform in our own city should not be confined to the spasmodic efforts of a few citizens, but rather of a body composed of individuals having the spiritual and material welfare of the community at heart. Organizations having the above mentioned object as their aim are to be found throughout the entire United States and in practically every instance they have been the instrument of decided improvement. In this city there is ample room for improvement along numerous lines, but in order that better conditions may be obtained the fault of those now existing must be clearly pointed out to the inhabitants; this can be done in a forceful and intelligent manner only by a body whose statements would carry indisputable conviction. Therefore if there is to be improvements made in our city there is not only an opening but an immediate need for a Civic association as such organizations are commonly called.

Such a body should contain a large representation from all classes; the clergy should be present in large numbers as then the moral side of all questions would receive more attention; the merchant, professional and laboring classes ought to be in prominence as between the three there would be no danger of material matters being lost sight of. An association of this nature would bring before the public what is unquestionably good as it would bring before the public what is unquestionably bad, and improvement should be made, and a quick and decisive action would be the result. Heretofore our city has shown itself as being very much opposed to the thing called "behind the times" in any matter, but unless steps are soon taken towards the reforming of certain existing conditions, such an imputation might truthfully be made.

Some questions that body of the nature we have described might at once take up are: A site for a new fire hall, public playgrounds, the abolition of billboards, the improvement of the appearance of certain streets, lawns and alleys, and the much talked of question—the limitation of the saloon.

The present position of our fire hall is, to say the very least, inconvenient because of the closeness of the railroad tracks which render liable at any time a delay that might prove disastrous. The department has outgrown its present home and needs greatly enlarged quarters in order to render the efficient service that a town of this size should possess.

There are at certain places in the resident districts and on down town thoroughfares huge billboards whose glaring advertisements, often indecent, are an eyesore and a disgrace to a progressive community.

The increasing number of automobiles is making it more and more dangerous for children to play on the streets; besides the street is no place for a child as it is unhealthful and he there often forms habits that will do him no good in later life. Many cities have recognized this fact and as a remedy have established at different places well equipped public playgrounds where the child may go and enjoy and benefit himself to a far greater extent than by running wild on the streets.

A large number of streets could be greatly improved if the small plots of grass between the sidewalk and the curb were kept in better condition and if at intervals a few shade trees were set out. The same case applies to the lawns but their attractiveness could be increased if here and there a bed of flowers were planted. In regard to the alleys, if every one was compelled to throw all refuse into a box or barrel of some sort our alleys would present a more wholesome picture than they do at the present time.

The saloon question in this town is not one to be ignored and at the present time there is considerable agitation over the matter. A number of places have solved this problem by allowing only one saloon for every five hundred people and the plan has worked out in a satisfactory manner. It is certain that steps should be taken toward the settlement of this matter as our large number of saloons is not a subject to brag about and besides they exert an influence that is by no means uplifting.

How to Improve Our City.

The site is a primary consideration in the construction of a beautiful village or city. In a review of the world's most beautiful cities, far the greater number will be observed to be situated on uneven ground or near some body of water. The city of Ishpeming is blessed in this respect for it is surrounded on all sides by low hills, picturesque rocky bluffs and numerous small lakes. With these favorable conditions our city should be one of the most beautiful and ideal places in Michigan.

The site of Ishpeming offers a field for improvement more magnificent than that for which Nero destroyed the Imperial Rome. The opportunity lies before us, ample and inviting, and were public sentiment stronger, and public aspirations higher, it would be an easy matter to beautify and perfect our city. What the community now needs most is a park where tired people may rest on summer days, and also a playground to be consecrated to the use of young boys and girls to help them purify their souls, and strengthen their minds, that they may be better able to accomplish their daily school work.

We need better streets and more shade trees. In the mental picture of a beautiful city the tree has an inseparable part. Tree-lined avenues, and tree-lined streets are factors of beauty thrusting themselves at once upon the mind as imperative to the success of a city. They are universal in appeal. The argument in their behalf can be strengthened by consideration of their sanitary value. The foliage inhales carbonic acid and exhales oxygen. As a result, the diseases incidental to heat are less prevalent in streets where there are many trees. Their shade, which is pleasant to see, is also cool. There is less direct heat and less reflected heat, while in winter the trees actually radiate warmth. The beautiful city cannot do without them. Let us yield ourselves to the frame of mind which was Ruskin's when he exclaimed, "What a thought that was when God thought of a tree!"

Beautiful cityhood should bear as little as possible the marks of its making and the ideal would consist in having no cleaning done that is apparent. The very best measure is the restrictive which prevents the deposition of dirt, ash, dirt, etc., to be some inches below the sidewalks of carts. For this reason night work is to be approved, and New York's late experiment of clothing the street cleaners in a neat white uniform is commendable. It dignifies the work and the workman. The respect of the laborer for himself, and of others for him, is increased when he is, somewhat more obviously than even the mayor or himself, an employe of the municipality. For this reason he does his work better and, beyond this gain, the street itself profits by the substitution of a company of uniformed workmen for a motley gang of laborers in dirty and ragged clothing.

One of the most important needs of the city are a number of small detached houses, with sanitary surroundings. At the present time, the crowded conditions of some of the houses cause a great deal of sickness. With a number of small, sanitary dwellings and a stricter enforcement of the quarantine laws, epidemics would soon be things of the past.

A crying need of this community is a humane society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. At present the dumb creatures seem to be entirely without protection, and wholly at the mercy of their owners, whether they be kind or cruel.

One of the things which would both improve the city and please the school children would be a gymnasium within our handsome new high school. It would inspire greater enthusiasm among the students, and would afford them a great deal of pleasure and benefit after their school hours.

In endeavoring to beautify our city one thing must be realized; that is, that the duty and the hope rest with the people. Friends of the cause of beauty in the community should give their labor more than their money, for beauty of city is not a thing to be bought. All workers in the line of municipal art have perceived that the matter concerns the public. Public interest is apprehended to be the one hope of public art. Nor has this, when awakened in the past, ever failed to inspire a worthy achievement.

How to Beautify Our City.

An increasing interest is apparent all over the country. The matter of the cultivation of the soil, beautifying the grounds surrounding the homes, schools and other public buildings, seems to have been given a fresh impetus in recent years.

"The success of the work does not depend on the size of the place, as a small home, no matter how modest the surroundings, has just as good a chance to look neat as a large one.

The growing of trees and shrubs, and the planting of vines to cover unsightly spots and places, or to form screens for yards, verandas, etc., are highly to be commended. Vines planted to cover fences would indeed improve the yard as much as any other one thing, and many vines available for this purpose are easily grown.

A little more care about disposing of waste paper rather than throwing it on the streets would help our city greatly. A very unpleasant sight, seen every day by travelers passing through our city, is a long line of bill boards which are placed near the railway tracks on the rear of certain buildings, and also in many other parts of the city. Most likely the first thought that would strike these travelers would be: The people in this city must be quite regardless of neatness, when they will allow them to come along and make regular bulletin boards out of certain buildings. If these were removed it would add greatly to the neatness and attractiveness of the city.

Another thing which if stopped would give the sidewalks a better appearance, and would also be a protection against the spread of disease, is spitting. It is a very common sight, as one walks along the streets of the city, to see a group of men who have deliberately spat spots of filthy tobacco on the pavement. Ladies who come that way have to take care of their dresses, to avoid the dirty places. The one and only thing to do in this case is to have an ordinance passed, and see that it is enforced.

If some additional attention was given to back yards and alleys, our city would be an ideal one in many particulars. Not only would it add to the neatness of the place, but it would also do much for the betterment of sanitary conditions. In regard to alleys, every family, instead of throwing all their old rubbish in the alley, should have a large garbage box or barrel to deposit all such refuse in. The alley should be kept clean and around, ordering the people to clean up the yards and alleys, everyone should be in earnest, and rake up the back as well as the front, and either burn all combustible things, or put them in a convenient place, but it would also do much for the betterment of sanitary conditions.

There are many vacant lots in our city that are fenced in with old boards. If these were removed and the grounds graded and planted with flowers, etc., would be a pleasant place for sports to be held. Not only would they serve as playgrounds, but would also serve to make the city more attractive looking.

Clean, graded streets do much for the neat appearance of a city. In some places, where a large truck can take a road would be very beneficial to all concerned.

Still another thing that would add to the attractiveness of our city, only so many people fear that cows may come in and destroy their lawns, etc., would be to have the fences removed from both the front and sides. Then a flower border or a border of green shrubs could be used for screening one yard from the adjoining yard.

Things which are needed very badly in our city are crosswalks. There are no crosswalks in any part of the city. They would accommodate the people greatly. In most of the cities around here, the streets are supplied with crosswalks, and there is no reason why we cannot have them.

To have a fine large fire hall for our firemen would not only show the "cladness" that the people of Ishpeming have respect for them, but would give us another large building to be proud of, and help to complete the attractiveness of our city. When strangers come into our city (especially firemen) they joke about their fire hall. They do not deserve this; they fight bravely to save the homes of the people in the city, and to give them a fine hall would be giving them what they deserve.

A city with beautiful homes is always a pleasant place of residence. A home with pleasant surroundings is one that attracts the children of the family. It makes the place dearer to them, excites a sense of pride and cleanliness, and letters the sanitary condition. No other work is of greater importance than the making of our cities attractive. A village improvement organization would do much to alter the present state of conditions, and one should be organized and put into motion.

PORK HIGHER THAN ANY TIME SINCE 1882

RECEIPTS OF HOGS FALL OFF OVER SIXTY PER CENT IN THIRTY DAYS—LITTLE PROSPECT THAT PORK WILL BE CHEAPER IN NEAR FUTURE.

The price of hogs, which has been advancing steadily for several weeks past, has now reached a point where pork is almost a luxury. On Wednesday hogs sold on foot in the Chicago markets at 88.15 per hundred, the highest price obtained since June, 1882, when there was a shortage of pork.

A beef man yesterday said: "I would not be surprised if the price of hogs reaches 89 within a few weeks as there is a greater shortage now than at any time in the past twenty odd years. Many of the country representatives of the wholesale packing concerns have not been able to get any pork for a month or more past for their trade, and others are receiving only a small proportion of the amount they could use, even at the present high price."

The movement of the wholesale concerns are in doubt from day to day as to what percentage of the orders for pork they will be able to fill. Some idea of the slump in receipts can be gained from the fact that when hogs are plentiful from 60,000 to 70,000 head are received every Monday and Wednesday in the Chicago stock yards, these being the big days of the week. For nearly a month past the average receipts on Mondays and Wednesdays have fallen to between 20,000 and 30,000 head.

"The wholesalers now have to get on an average of from fourteen to sixteen cents per pound for their pork loins. This is the highest price that I have ever known loins to sell at. Many retail markets, particularly the smaller ones, have temporarily quit handling pork, as their customers will not pay the prices demanded. The stock men who are raising hogs are not anxious to dispose of them even at the present prices, as they believe that they will get more money for them later in the summer. The wholesale concerns have men scouring the stock raising districts endeavoring to buy pork."

"Good beef is also high, though there has been several times during the past few weeks when it commanded better prices. Good grade cattle are now bringing 87.25 per hundred on foot in the Chicago markets. This necessitates a charge by the wholesalers of an average of ten cents per pound for the dressed beef. There is very little prospect, so far as an organized market is concerned, until the young cattle come into the market in the fall. This should be a lamener way for the stock raisers. A hog of ordinary size will now bring as much money as a critter would a few years ago. For instance, a 400-pound hog is worth $32.50 in Chicago at the present market price."

McClelland of Coleraine and Miss Luella Puckett, formerly of this place, who were recently of Cass Lake, Rev. J. M. Davies of the Presbyterian church officiating. Only a few near friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present at the ceremony. Mr. Beaudette and Miss Miller, both of Coleraine, acted as best man and maid of honor respectively.

"The bride is well known in Grand Rapids, having made her home here at different times during the past four or five years. Mr. McClelland is a popular young man in the employ of the Oliver Iron Mining company at Coleraine. "After a wedding trip, which will take them to points in Illinois, the happy couple will settle down in a home which the groom has prepared in Coleraine."

VETERAN TOMBSTONE MAN.

Wisconsin's Dealer Visits Negaunee for the First Time in Four Years.

A. W. Johnson, who is generally known throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan as "Tombstone" Johnson, was a Negaunee visitor yesterday, this being his first trip to this district in four years. Mr. Johnson engaged in the tombstone business thirty-six years ago and made his first trip to the upper peninsula twenty-seven years ago. He has sold more tombstones in the iron and copper districts than any other dealer, and has sold many hundred of tombstones in this county.

Mr. Johnson is now financially interested in the Green Bay branch of the Fox River Valley Marble Granite & Customstone works of Appleton, Wis. He reports that the concern is doing a large business and a big force of men is employed at the works. The only work done at the Green Bay branch is the marking, which is done by a compressed air apparatus. Mr. Johnson now puts in practically all of his time at the Green Bay house.

Took Poison by Mistake—Arising at an early hour in the morning to take a dose of medicine, Mrs. A. J. Smith of Manistique, while the servant of Schoederast, mistook the bottle in the darkness and, before she had discovered her blunder, had swallowed a teaspoonful of carbolic acid.

Close Call from Disaster—What might easily have been a fatal accident occurred at the Berkshire mine near Stambaugh, when six men—John Kotto, Joseph Carimati, Campbell Gressell, Herman Alston, Angel Fassit and one whose name could not be learned—went into the skip to be lowered to the level on which they were working.

Declares Moon Affects Crops—William Kingsley, of Cornell, one of Delta county's best known citizens, is disgusted with the United States department of agriculture men who claim to have been investigating the moon and its relation to crops for a number of years, and who have recently declared that the moon in no way has any effect upon crops. Mr. Kingsley, in discussing this matter a few days ago, said: "I know that the moon does have an effect upon man, beast and crops. I am seventy-six years of age and have made a study of this subject all my life, and I can say that the moon affects the weather, but I do not know that certain positions of the moon are invariably followed by certain kinds of weather. This moon business isn't guess work with me. I have tested it and I know. The Washington fellows may think they are right, but they have something to learn yet."

Plan Excursion to Neguague—Members of the Institute Jacques Carrière of Escanaba are making elaborate preparations for a railroad excursion to Neguague, on St. Jean de Baptiste day, June 24, when members of French societies throughout the peninsula will gather at that place for a transfer demonstration. A special train has been chartered for the occasion. It will leave the Northwestern station at 8 a. m. on the day of the celebration and will return to Escanaba at 8:30 on the evening of June 24. A special rate of $1.25 for the round trip has been secured by the society and it is expected that the excursion train will carry a big crowd of people.

Fought in Mexican War—Philip Jacobs of Sturgeon Bay, who is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. L. A. Carrington, at Manistique, is one of the few veterans of the Mexican war now living. He enlisted in the United States army in 1847, at the age of twenty-two. Mr. Jacobs was born in Kleinwaddstadt, Bavaria, Nov. 28, 1824, and served in the German army, coming here in 1846. The following April he enlisted as a private in the Fourteenth infantry, and shortly afterwards went with the command to Mexico, going by steamer to Vera Cruz and then into the interior. U. S. Grant was in the same command, but in a different division. Colonel Lee, afterwards general in the Southern army, was major in the regiment and later was brevetted colonel.

Mr. Jacobs spent three years and six months in Mexico and experienced many hardships. He was for most of the time on the skirmish line thus saw the hard-earned service. The famous battle of Chapultepec was engaged in by his regiment as well as by others, and in four days the citadel was captured. Scott was in command of the American forces and Santa Anna the Mexican. Mr. Jacobs was among the 200 volunteers who went in advance of the troops and scaled the walls, after the effective work of the battery in throwing shells into the fort.

The campaign ended, the regiment was sent to Detroit and later two companies were ordered to Fort Howard, there to hold in check a small tribe of Indians sent from New York by the government. After completing five years of service Mr. Jarvis took his discharge. One of the honors conferred on him was when he was promoted to be orderly sergeant of his company. He remained at Fort Howard for a time after his discharge and was there married, his help being given to the great lay-out some years ago at his home in Sturgeon Bay, where he went in the early fifties to live out a home in the virgin forest.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER.—Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder troubles and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, which he first tried and relieved him and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint."

Closed doors, which became a decided newspaper grievance early in the new administration, are now opening. The willingness to convey departmental information and the momentum toward personal and official courtesy in so doing are becoming conspicuous.

As yet as a news producer, the administration falls well behind its predecessor. Several hundred men in Washington, engaged in collecting items, shaping up situations as to doings and wishes, and writing programs have been realizing this sentiment. The grand gathering industry at the capital, in future Chinese railroad loans in particular, the existing international syndicates must be reserved for further discussion.

Vice President Sherman rules the senate with an iron hand. By and by some one will accuse him of prolonging discussions as much as certain of the leather-legged insurgent orators. There are certain prescribed forms, however quite as much in the breach as in the observance, about breaking into a senator's speech. When things are running along in a lax way, impatient men, who want quick action, break right in without as much as "by your leave."

Mr. President.—"The senator from Ohio." "Will the senator yield?" "Does the senator yield?" (by the vice president.) "I do for a question."

Statistics show that, while England is becoming a less violent nation, it is at the same time becoming more dishonest. Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men.

GERMANY FAVORS AMERICA.

Would Co-Operate With Us in China.—German Syndicate Shows Surprise.—Berlin, June 18.—The American protest at Peking against the conclusion by the Chinese government of the loan agreement with German, British and French bankers for the sum of $27,500,000 for the construction of the Hankow-Sze-Chuen railroad without having given American financiers an opportunity to participate, has caused a stir in diplomatic and financial circles here.

While the German-American agreement of 1904 in order that the present loan shall not be taken as precedent, it is not supposed that Washington seeks a cancellation of the loan contract. Foreign Secretary von Schoen is understood to have said verbally to Ambassador Hill that the German government had nothing to do with this loan; that it was solely a business agreement between the bankers concerned and the Chinese government.

A meeting of Hepatitis camp, No. 1125, Modern Woodmen of America, will be held Monday evening, when special business will be transacted. The officers desire a large attendance of members.

A LAUGH OR TWO.—Satisfied to Stay Out.—An old dorky wanted to join a fashionable city church, and the minister, knowing it was hardly the thing for him to do and not wanting to hurt his feelings, told him to go home and pray over it. In a few days the dorky came back.

George Washington No Sailor.—A Baltimore school teacher had encountered such a degree of ignorance and mental obtuseness on the part of one of her boys that she became disheartened. So it was with considerable sarcasm that she said to the youngster: "I wonder if you could tell me whether or not George Washington was a sailor or a soldier?"

On the Train.—The train at Hampton station was crowded. An elderly gentleman entered a third-class compartment, and looking respectfully to a lady who was occupying two seats, one for herself and one for her luggage, asked: "Are you traveling alone, madam?" "No, sir," was the reply.

Additional Ishpeming

Ishpeming in Brief.—Mesdames Maas and Stess of Neguague will serve refreshments this afternoon at the Golf clubhouse.

A Bell telephone has been placed in Chicago & Northwestern Railway company's freight office here.

The Ladies of Calvary Baptist church will conduct their sale of work next Monday and Tuesday evenings. The proceeds will be for the support of the church.

The Ishpeming band will give a concert at the Calvary church tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 until 6 o'clock. The band is in excellent condition, with a membership of twenty-five, and its concert will be well worth attending.

Rev. W. B. Meade, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, will preach at the morning service tomorrow on the subject, "With Both Hands Earnestly." His theme at the evening service will be, "The Man Who Was Afraid of a Woman." The pastor extends a general invitation to the public to attend.

Otto E. Mackinn, a farmer, living near the city, died yesterday in Dr. Lundgren's private hospital, meningitis being the cause of his demise. He had been ill but a short time. The deceased was thirty-nine years of age and is survived by his wife and one child. The funeral will be held this afternoon.

The Young People's society of the Salisbury Methodist church will give an entertainment in the church hall Tuesday evening. A program of readings, recitations, dialogues and vocal and instrumental musical numbers is being prepared. The admission will be fifteen cents for adults and ten for children under twelve years of age.

The Sunday School society of Salisbury Methodist church will conduct its annual picnic on the school grounds on Midsummer day. The Ishpeming band will be present in the afternoon and will give a concert. Meals will be served during the afternoon and evening and the weather will be most favorable.

YOU CAN'T.—I always feel sorry for the young boy who lives in the atmosphere of "you can't," for he never starts to make a kite, miniature wagon, toy boat, sled or water wheel that someone does not come along at an interesting moment and say to him: "You must not do that; it makes everything so untidy." In man there is what may be termed a "making instinct," and our houses, garments, ships, machinery, and in fact, everything we have are the results of man's work.

CONCLUSION.—In conclusion, will say that the development at the property tends to show the existence of a strong vein containing large bodies of ore in sight ready for extraction, the amount of ore at present removed being small on account of the size of the stopes.

DEVELOPMENTS.—The Success-Meeker vein is developed by the Success shaft, which is 485 feet deep, which is, according to records, 485 feet deep. This shaft contains a bank and ladder way, well timbered, in fair condition down to the 280-foot level. The shaft is hoisted over by a good shaft house 22x45 feet, containing a double flat friction 6x8 Fairbanks-Morse 25 horsepower hoisting engine and a 30 horsepower upright boiler in fair condition.

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale-people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, man can be no stronger than his stomach. A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

LOCATION.—The group of claims as composed of the Success, Meeker, Stoll, and other claims, is situated in the townships of Cuba, Tara, Mattilda S., and Opal lodes, and is more advantageously located in Lake Guleh, Gilpin County, Colorado, one mile south of the Black Hawk Post Office and one and one-half miles southeast of Central City Post Office, on the Colorado and Southern Railroad, just one mile from their main line.

GEOLGY AND VEINS.—The geology of the district is that of a Gneissic Granite formation; that is of a branched Granite traversed by dykes of Andesite Porphyry. REPORTS ON THE CASTLE DOME PROPERTY

To the President and Board of Directors of the Castle Dome Copper Company, Calumet, Mich.

Gentlemen:—I have made a careful geological study of your copper property on Gold Gulch and Porphyry Mountain, Gila County, Arizona, and have the honor to report to you upon the conditions observed as follows:

The elevation of your camp in Gold Gulch is shown by the map to be 4,000 feet. Your camp is located on the little stream that trickles down the gulch, at the foot of Porphyry Mountain and immediately under the prominent point of the mountain which is called Castle Dome whence the name of your property.

YOUR GROUND

It will be seen by the folio map that Porphyry Mountain is charted as Schultze granite. Castle Dome is the western escarpment of Porphyry Mountain and forms the eastern wall of Gold Gulch. The only advice of any avail I can offer is to keep at work persistently till you tap the great deposit from which the rich copper cement on your surface around the camp was leached. In all probability you will not have far to drive when you get the right lead and if indications count for anything it will be an extensive deposit. You can not do better than reflect that the Old Dominion company, the strongest in the Globe field, has purchased some twenty to thirty claims immediately surrounding your ground sideling and ending it. The Continental is regarded as one of the jewels of the Old Dominion's rich possessions, and it is only 1,500 feet from your Wedge claim, and in the same formation, as the folio map shows. That great Copper Company lost no time in gathering in by purchase claims at both the east and west end of your property, and lining your ground. The logical inference is after careful exploration by the geological experts familiar with the district has convinced them of its values.

In the schists, but a stone's throw from your sideling, the Black Warrior company has developed the Scorpion mine, from which some of the finest ore ever opened in the Globe field have been taken.

The Live Oak Mine, at the head of Live Oak Gulch, which has lately been sold for a great price, is an instance, as you may see by folio map of another great mine in the Schultze granite. The Globe field is now throbbing with confidence and energy as never before—beyond a question your ground is in the midst of great copper deposits—not improbably the greatest, if one may trust surface indications. The roads are lined with teams hauling ore from surrounding mines, ores the richness of which would create a sensation if mined in your Michigan field these days—ores running from 200 to 300 pounds of copper to the ton while your Michigan mines are happy to get 25 to 40 pounds to the ton.

To the west of your ground, in the Pinto Creek field, there is a great stir among the developing copper properties that have been idle since the panic. The great development in the Miami, Inspiration, Live Oak, Keystone, and Cactus assures an extension of the railroad. (Since this report was prepared the railroad work was started and is now more than half completed) to these points immediately, and there is every probability that it will in the near future be pushed on around the mountain to your property and the Continental Mine of the Old Dominion company. It is a rather flat truism—but not the less pertinent—to add in conclusion, as a suggestion of the thing needed to make a big copper mine in your Castle Dome property, that it takes money to make a mine in Arizona as well as in Michigan. The favorable differences is that it takes less because in Arizona nature has placed the ores closer to the surface.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed.)

FITZ-JAMES MAC CARTHY.

Mr. S. Russell Smith, superintendent of the Ahmeek Copper Mining company of Ahmeek, Michigan, made a visit to the Castle Dome group of claims, in the interest of the company about a year ago, and presented a very favorable report on same.

H. H. Richardson, mining engineer, son of the well known Houghton County Clerk, Louis H. Richardson, and a graduate of the Michigan College of Mines, who has had eight years' experience in examining mining properties in Arizona, made an examination of the Castle Dome property. Mr. Richardson says: "The Castle Dome property is one of the best prospects he has ever examined."

Below will be found extracts from Mr. Richardson's report:

The Castle Dome adjoins the Continental Mine of the Old Dominion company on the southwest, and is surrounded on other sides by claims owned by the Old Dominion and Black Warrior companies, and by several individual owners. It is in the same district and but a short distance from the following properties, some of which are operating at present and all have been producers of copper: The Black Warrior, Live Oak, Inspiration, Continental and Alsdorf, or Red Springs property, which is to be developed by the Miami Copper company, is also in this district. All of these properties are considered very promising and some of them have large bodies of ore already developed. The geological formation of your porphyry, is Quartz porphyry, Diabase, Schists, and Granite. The Quartz Porphyry forms a large part of the surface of the property and is bounded by the Diabase, Schists, and Granite all of the contacts dipping into the property. It is already probable also that the contacts of the porphyry with the schists and diabase will be found to be well mineralized at depth.

The work on this property consists of several open cuts and tunnels and three principal shafts. The crosscut at the north in the 200-foot level of the Virginia shaft is reported as having cut a well mineralized vein 38 feet in width, just north of the shaft. A little over half way down a one-foot seam of soft black material was encountered, which is said to assay well in copper. Specimens of the rock on the dump from the 38-foot vein show good quantities of sulphides. About 500 or 600 feet northeast of the Virginia shaft is a new vertical shaft, 140 feet deep, equipped with a 22 horsepower gasoline hoist and all necessary tools and buildings. Both of these shafts are well timbered and permanent.

On the Bell claim, still further northeast, is the incline shaft, sunk on one of the fault fractures which is found to be from four to twenty feet wide. Generally it is rather low in sulphides but occasionally high grade pockets are found.

The ore bodies in this property, I believe, will be of large size, and low grade, but of an ideal character for concentrating. The concentrates will be high grade as the sulphides contained in the ore are in themselves, high grade. I consider this property to be one of excellent prospects and should develop into a large mine. Respectfully submitted,

(Signed.) H. H. RICHARDSON.

Globe, Arizona, March 29, 1908.

Mr. P. H. Finnegan, Calumet, Mich.

My Dear Sir:—In accordance with your request to make a statement in regard to the Castle Dome property, would say that for a number of years I was foreman of the Continental mine, lying north and east of the Castle Dome property, and of the Copper Prince, lying to the south and west. I am thoroughly familiar with the underground workings on these properties; and will say, that from a geological standpoint, there can be no question that there are large bodies of ore existing in the Castle Dome property. In my opinion all that is required to make a large paying proposition of it is the expenditure of a proper amount of money in the right place, and that is what I expect to see done soon owing to the activity in the Globe district properties at the present.

(Signed.) P. J. WAGNER.

A COPPER SUBSCRIPTION

The attention of the copper world is now being largely directed to the Globe Mining district in Arizona. Arizona stands first among the copper producing states and territories, having produced nearly 30,000,000 pounds more than Montana, its nearest rival. The Globe Mining district is conceded to become the richest mining district in the world. It is the porphyritic copper deposits which are attracting the world's attention in that they are revolutionizing the cost of copper production, as seen in the startling results achieved in Bingham, Ely, Miami and Globe District.

The Castle Dome Mining company offers for public subscription at $1.00 per share 150,000 shares $1.00 paid in. The money so raised is to be used for the payment of the property, and for the installation of proper machinery with the object of putting this company on a paying basis, in the shortest time possible.

Subscriptions for this issue will be taken at all banks and brokerage offices or may be sent to the treasurer of the Castle Dome Mining company, next Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23. In case of over subscription stock will be issued pro-rata. Stock certificates will be issued immediately.

It might be well to add that the property of the Castle Dome Mining company is located on the same schists that is now being developed by such companies as the Miami, Inspiration, Live Oak, Keystone, etc. To indicate the proximity to other mines well known in this district attention is called to the accompanying map, which shows the claims of the Cactus Development company, which is only about 1 1/2 miles distant. Lying to the east of the Cactus will be seen the other famous properties mentioned above.

The development of the Castle Dome property will be pushed with the vigorous spirit which always characterizes an organization in which Lake Superior mining men are interested. With the highly important developments which have attended late work at the Cactus the directors of the Castle Dome have every reason to believe that work at this property will be equally gratifying.

Given a good property the personnel of the men in charge of its affairs is as important a point to consider. A glance through the list of directors of the Castle Dome Mining company discloses some of the most promising mining and business men of the iron and copper countries.

They are men who are confident that they have a property which has all the earmarks of success. They would not for any consideration invite their friends and acquaintances to enter into the proposition with them which is now done in the present stock offering, were they not certain that the opportunity for a highly promising investment was offered.

Mr. James McCarthy, or better known as Fitz-Mac, is a prominent mining engineer and author of the Arizona Copper Book.

Horace J. Stevens of Houghton, Mich., uses Mr. McCarthy extensively on matters pertaining to the copper industry of Arizona. "Fitz-Mac" is to the Arizona mining industry what Mr. Stevens is to the copper mining world.

I also have an interesting letter from N. S. Barry, banker, miner and merchant, and former superintendent of the Old Dominion and Continental mines in Globe, Arizona, and who is well known in the lake district. Mr. Barry speaks in glowing terms of the Castle Dome property.

Among those known in the Lake district and now residing in Calumet and Laurium, who have worked on or have inspected the property of the Castle Dome are the following: Harry Hill, Capt. Richard Roskilly, John Hall, John Geerish, John Mancer and Edward Barber. They can be consulted with at any time for their opinion of the property.

I wish to announce to the public that the Castle Dome Development company was organized June 12, 1909, into a mining company, and it is now offered by some of the best known mining men in the Copper and Iron Country. The Castle Dome property consists of thirteen claims totaling about 260 acres. It is situated seventeen miles west of Globe, and adjoins the Continental mine of the Old Dominion company, the oldest and the strongest, and in all respects the most important company operating in the Globe district. It is the Calumet & Hecla company of the Globe field.

The company has secured title to Continental Springs Claim, a never failing source of water supply, also sufficient timber for some time to come, a factor which is highly important to the mines in this district. Water from these springs can be piped by a gravity system direct to the Castle Dome workings.

An allotment of stock of this company will be offered to the public for subscription on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23. Engineers' reports and a more complete description of the property with further information can be had from P. H. Finnegan, Office over M. and M. bank, Calumet. Phone, 667.

MODERN FISHING ON GREAT LAKES

HOW THE NETS ARE SET AND LIFTED AND THE FISH ARE PREPARED FOR MARKET.

NUMBER BECOMING DEPLETED

Lake Fisherman Believes That Only Increased Artificial Production Can Maintain Industry.

The commercial fishermen of this city do not speak very enthusiastically of their success in landing large numbers of the herring this season. In fact the nets thus far have not been overly well filled, although this time of year is usually the heyday of the fishing season. Whitefish, especially, seem to be even more scarce than last year and, unless greater efforts are made toward their artificial propagation, the extinction of this favorite table fish seems to be not far distant.

"I am a firm believer in fish hatcheries," said a lake fisherman yesterday. "Some people who know nothing of the business say 'let the fish reproduce themselves as nature meant them to,' but the hatchery comes in as a great adjunct to the fishing business because nature does not induce the fish to reproduce his species. Of the millions of eggs that are deposited in the lake every year, hardly one out of a thousand is hatched. If they were all hatched, we would be able to walk to Canada across the lake on fish."

"The fish hatchery takes the place of nature in gathering the eggs and hatching them, when they are placed back in the lake and left to develop for future catches. There should be more hatcheries to replenish the lake with trout and whitefish, for millions of fish are taken from the lake to be shipped all over the country every year and the number left in the lake, although it may seem inexhaustible, is constantly growing smaller."

Many Unfamiliar With Business.
"Many people have erroneous ideas in regard to the lake fishing industry which are highly amusing to us. Some suppose that our nets are placed at the top of the water, where we would catch about 100 fish in a year. Many others suppose that we use a net similar to a minnow net on a large scale and that we sink it into the water and scoop up the fish in the bottom. As a matter of fact, the nets, which are about four feet high, are sunk to a depth of about sixty-two fathoms, or 372 feet, by means of sinkers attached to what we call a 'gang' of sixty nets. At each end, attached to the sinker, is our buoy with its little triangular flag attached to reveal its whereabouts to us."

"The nets hang suspended in the water exactly like a fence some six or seven miles long. Each net is 720 feet in length, and there are sixty nets in a gang, tied together to make one long fence of nets. The nets have several hundred aluminum floats at the top and as many lead weights tied to the bottom to keep them hanging perpendicular."

How Nets Are Lifted.

The manner in which the nets are set and lifted is not generally understood, although it is very interesting. In lifting the nets one man grabs the rope which follows the buoy aboard, throws it around the steam-lifting or winding machine, and over the lever which connects the machine with the engine of the boat. Immediately a rattling noise begins, the paws of the rigger grip the rope and another man in overalls and oilskins coils the rope as it is pulled in. Soon the end of the net appears above the water, followed by the weight which held it in place.

Swishing, dripping, scattering water over everything, the net is gradually started from the depths and worked over the reel of the lifter. This is the great development in the fishing industry. The lifter is in two parts; the reel itself around which the net winds and is pulled off as it leaves the water, and the cylindrical, revolving iron roller over which net and fish pass before striking the reel. Iron jaws, worked automatically by springs, grip the tangled net as it comes up and release it again as it passes around the reel with its burden of fish.

To work the steam lifter two men are necessary. One stands at the reel to keep close watch of the net, see that no fish are lost, and throw back the small fish and undesirable, while another pulls the net and fish from the reel and throws the catch into the fish box near him. Extra vigilance is required in the former, as, while many of the fish are so badly entangled in the net that it seems impossible to drop off, many a live, fat trout or whitefish is caught only by the gills and his wriggling, flopping hold on the net is a precarious one. So the man stands with a hook to jab it into every fish who has a single chance for life and liberty.

Setting the Nets.

The nets lifted are brought home to be repaired and dried, but others are set in their places before the tug returns with her load. In setting the nets, one of the crew sounds the lake as the tug streams along to determine the best depth for setting the nets. The boxes are placed containing the masses of mesh ready to be thrown overboard tied firmly together, and the buoy with its iron weight is set afloat.

Then the captain and another member of the crew squat on each side of a net in the stern. One throws the weight overboard, while the other casts out the aluminum float, the net following behind. Quickly as one of the nets is thrown out, another is substituted, the tug not stopping for a minute of the time. So skilful are these fishermen that not a minute's time do they lose in doing their work.

The fish caught are removed from the nets into boxes made especially for the purpose, and several men at once start cleaning them, which operation should be completed when the tug reaches port, so that the day's catch can be once taken off, and packed in ice boxes for shipment.

SERIOUSLY BURNED.

Child's Clothing Catches Fire While Playing in Vacant Lot.

Irving Weiland, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weiland, 402 West Bluff street, was seriously burned while playing with other boys in the vacant lot back of William Smith's residence, yesterday afternoon. Just what caused the accident is not known, as the first that was seen of the boy was when he was running across Mr. Smith's back yard towards home, his clothing all afire. His screams attracted the attention of Mrs. Gus Lindstrom, who rushed to his succor, and by rolling him in the sand put out the flames, but not until his back and breast had been terribly burned. Dr. Laum was hurriedly summoned and the child was taken to St. Mary's hospital for treatment. Last evening he was reported to be resting more comfortably, although his injuries are considered very serious, if not critical. It is supposed that the boys were playing with matches, and that the child's clothing caught fire while engaged in this manner.

VANDALS AT WORK AGAIN.

Camps Near Birch Have Been Entered During Past Two Weeks.

A number of camps near Birch, owned by Marquette men, have been entered within the past two or three weeks, and looted of their contents. The McLeod, Darragh and Lawrence camps have been broken into. The Darragh camp was looted of everything movable, and much damage was done at the other places. In many cases it was malicious damage. The owners of the camps are indignant at the outrage and would willingly pay well for information that would lead to the arrest of the guilty parties. They have an idea that the camps were entered for the purpose of fitting out some resort located in the same neighborhood and maintained by the men guilty of the vandalism.

The damage done at camps in the neighboring country looks up a large list in the course of each year, but the men who own the resorts have not yet proved equal to ending offenses of the kind. It has been suggested that the unite in offering a large standing reward, say $100, for information leading to arrest in case of camp breaking. Such a course might get results.

HOMESTEAD LANDS FOR U. S. SOLDIERS

MAY REGISTER FOR LOCATIONS ABOUT TO BE THROWN OPEN WITHOUT APPEARING IN PERSON.

The government is giving its discharged soldiers another opportunity to register for desirable homesteads in the West without having to appear in person at the point for registration. The Flathead Indian reservation in Montana, containing 440,000 acres, the Coeur d'Alene reservation in Idaho, containing 200,000 acres and the Spokane reservation in Washington, containing from 50,000 to 100,000 acres, are to be opened for registration beginning July 15 and ending Aug. 5 at Kalispel, Mont. All registrations must be made in person except in the case of veterans honorably discharged after ninety days service in the army or navy during the Civil war, Spanish American war or Philippine insurrection, their widows or minor children, who are allowed to register through agents appointed for that purpose.

The drawing for the lands will take place on Aug. 9, and will be conducted similar to the recent drawing for the Rosebud reservation lands, the applicants to have the right to file in the order in which their numbers are drawn. The date of filing on homesteads is to begin April 1, 1910, so as to allow those living at a distance ample time in which to arrange their business affairs, and make their selections. The lands to be thrown open are good agricultural lands suitable for general crops, and it is expected that they will greatly enhance in value after settlement.

There are in the upper peninsula many discharged soldiers who are eligible to entry on these lands without filing in person, and it is possible that some of them will see fit to try their luck. If their numbers should be among those drawn early they would be assured of a valuable homestead, for there is much fine land in the reservations. Any persons desiring further information regarding the requirements for registration without appearing in person, should obtain it from the interior department at Washington, or by reference to some attorney at Kalispel, Mont.

OPINION OF PUBLIC WANTED.

Presbyterian Session Sends Out Circular Letter for Information.

In a desire to learn why a larger proportion of the residents of Marquette are not affiliated with some religious organization, the Presbyterian session is sending out a circular letter, the text of which is as follows:

Marquette, Mich., June 15, 1909.
Dear Sir:—The session of the First Presbyterian church desires a frank discussion on religious matters with the people of the city. We know of no better way than to address this letter to them, soliciting replies to certain questions and making public the discussion by a series of sermons by the pastor, or by others, as soon as replies are received and digested. We do not care for signatures to the replies, preferring, rather, that they should be unsigned, giving no hint of authorship. Please answer each question briefly and in consecutive order, and return your reply as promptly as possible to Rev. J. M. Rogers, moderator of the session.

In our city of about 12,000 population we have something like an even dozen religious organizations, each trying to do something for the betterment of the community. It is said that these organizations have not enrolled 50 per cent of the population in any real connection with them. We are rather apt to boast of the intelligence, culture and character of our population. If given a chance, then, the people ought to contribute much light to the discussion to be evolved by such questions as are asked below. The questions are asked in no captious spirit, but with an honest desire to meet opinions honestly held and frankly expressed by our citizens.

1. Do you regard our existing religious organizations as necessary to our community life?
2. In your opinion, are the churches meeting our present necessities? If not, in what are they failing? What improvement can you suggest?
3. Is there existing prejudice against the churches to account for the failure to reach a larger proportion of our population? If so, will you give reason for such prejudice?
4. What improvement will you suggest in the character of the church services or the message which the clergy should have for the people?
5. In a personal way:
 - (a) Do you think men are naturally religious?
 - (b) Does the average man welcome an approach on religious questions?
 - (c) Is a Christian life practicable?
