Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

We are not acquainted with the exact location of Swat, and our ideas about the office of Akkoun are decidedly nebulous, but we are willing to take it for granted that Mr. Osborn will not run for it.

The Woodhill murder mystery is no longer a mystery, the edge of interest is off the Sigel case, the Goulds are, for a day or two at least, out of the front pages of the newspapers.

The corporation tax proposal is acceptable to Aldrich as a means of killing off the income tax.

There have been over thirty bomb outrages in the course of the so-called "gamblers' war" in Chicago, and the police have not been able to make a single case against the guilty men.

Health officers may advise as much as they please, the newspapers may give up columns of space to "timely warnings," the police officers may be as active as they can in watching the sale and restricting the improper use of explosives.

The Houghton Gazette Tuesday referred to the reported candidacy of Angus Kerr for congress, and strongly intimated that there would be an important announcement in regard to it before many weeks had passed.

Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture reports that his special commission has found that the packing business at St. Louis is conducted with all due sanitary precautions and with regard to the public health, and the muckraking assertions of the inspector who lately addressed an open letter to the secretary are entirely disproved.

announced that they will not be reopened until the management can reopen them with its own plans for the conduct of the business in effect.

The following paragraph is from the Outlook, but Editor Roosevelt did not write it: The people of the United States are entirely ignored; but the people cannot long be ignored.

Once again The Mining Journal calls attention to the figures showing that the police commission ought to be able to get through the fiscal year nicely on the money at its command.

This is indeed a day of big things, when governments and men in association undertake and carry out projects of such immensity that they almost stagger the imagination.

In general terms, Mr. Hooker proposes that the federal government shall issue 2 per cent gold bonds running up to one hundred years to the amount of $5,000,000,000.

Extremes occasionally meet. We find, for instance, Harper's and LaFollette's Weeklies taking substantially the same view of President Taft's corporation tax proposal.

BIG GUNS TO GUARD CANAL. Uncle Sam Is Planning to Spend $10,000,000 to Fortify the Isthmian Waterway Against Attack in Time of War.

Washington, June 30.—If the plans of the war department are carried out, there need never be any fear of a foreign nation taking the canal which has cost Uncle Sam so much money.

MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s correspondent at New York yesterday telegraphed as follows: "The approaching holidays showed their influence in the dullness during today's session, and after an early display of strength considerable realizing took place, causing an irregular close."

The final quotations follow: Amal. 82 M. E. T. 41 1/2 Ana. 40 1/2 Erie 12 1/2

Writing from Boston yesterday, Paine, Webber & Co. had the following to say of the stock market:

"The London prices came weak this morning, but the prices on this side were strong, and for the first hour specialties showed good advances. The market then turned dull and sagged for the balance of the session."

Closing prices were: Adv. 7 1/2 7 1/4 Arc. 4 1/2 4 1/4

Explorers Hopes To Find Lost Icelandic Colonies. Pleasantville, N. Y., June 30.—A letter from Stefanson, the explorer, received by a friend who lives here, hints at a possible unraveling, either of the mystery which for more than sixty years has enveloped the fate of Sir John Franklin's two ship companies or of the greater mystery concerning colonies of Icelanders who long ago migrated to Greenland and then disappeared.

With the disappearance of Franklin's two ship companies in that neighborhood and with the lost Icelandic colonies of Greenland in mind the problem has its interesting features."

FLEEING FROM WARDEN, MAN TRIES TO SWALLOW A BIRD ILLEGALLY SHOT.

Bill of Songster Sticks in Throat He Chokes and is Captured.

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—Alderman Steve Ward, of Granite City, Ill., who also holds the office of game warden, pursued George Licka, a Polisher, to arrest him on a charge of shooting song birds. Licka had shot a brown thrush, and as he ran from the warden he attempted to destroy the evidence against him by stuffing the bird in his mouth, and attempting to swallow it, feathers and all. The bill of the bird caught in his throat and became wedged there. Licka choked and fell. The bird had to be forced from his mouth. Licka was arrested and today was fined $25 and costs, which he paid.

FLIRT, IT'S NOT BAD, BUT NECESSARY, SAYS A HARVARD PROFESSOR.

Tired-Out Boys and Girls Need Pleasantry for Recreation, He Avers.

Boston, Mass., June 30.—Professor George Herbert Palmer of Harvard, twice married and reported to be contemplating a third venture in matrimony, has come forth with the pronouncement that a little flirting, properly conducted, of course, is not only advisable, but imperative for the average college boy and girl.

Flirting is the surest road toward the proper knowledge of social life, declares the professor, who has the distinction of being the oldest member of the Harvard faculty and whose second wife, Olive Freeman Palmer was president of Wellesley College from 1881 to 1887.

"I think the girls of Radcliffe and the boys of Harvard devote too much of their time to study," says Prof. Palmer. "They should mingle a little frivolity with their studies; in other words, they should flirt."

BABES TIED TO POSTS.

Mothers Drink Beer While Little Ones Howl Outside—Law Easily Evidenced at London by Women Who Want Liquor—How One Merchant Thrives.

London, June 30.—When parliament passed the children's act, which, among other things, prohibits children from being taken into saloons by their parents and young persons under sixteen from smoking cigarettes, it was thought that a way had been found for dealing with two great evils which afflict this country. The act, however, has been found to be unworkable in many instances, and many magistrates and persons who are interested in the welfare of the children declare that the state of the youth of England is worse than it was formerly.

There are few laws which, as Dan O'Connell said, one can not drive a coach and horses, and this seems to be a law with a big gateway indeed. The enterprising London publican has already made it not only a dead letter, but a farce. The day after the law went into effect one saloon keeper in a London suburb, whose house is a favored resort for the rich, sent his boys to the holidays, cleaned out an old horse trough, filled it with clean straw and labelled it "reeche."

A small boy was placed in charge and mothers were invited to leave their babies in it while they refreshed themselves. A few hours after the "reeche" began business, there was a line in front of the saloon between two intoxicated mothers who could not agree on the ownership of a baby. The boy, who in the best of circumstances would not have been an ideal nurse, neglected his duties and soon there was a mix-up of screaming infants which had finally to be sorted out and comforted by the mothers who were driven out of the house by the publican for fear the row would attract the attention of the police.

Barmains as Nurses.

Another publican, wiser than the first, assigned one of his barmains to the duty of caring for the infants in a separate room, but while the children were probably better off than they would have been with their mothers, the object of the law, which was to keep the women from drinking, was defeated. Passing along the Old Kent road the other day the correspondent saw an infant of about eighteen months tied with a piece of rope to a lamp post, and screaming lustily. A policeman was called to comfort it by allowing it to play with his whistle. The reporter I asked what was the matter. "Blooming shame, I call it," he replied. "The poor little kid's mother is in the pub and she leaves it here. Can't take it in with her, you know, but she must have her beer, so she ties it up like a dog. There's another lot," and he pointed to a row of half a dozen older children sitting on the edge of the sidewalk, with their feet in the gutter, waiting for their mothers to emerge from the saloon. On the same stroll I saw a number of women sitting on the sidewalk drinking beer which they had brought from the bar, and nursing their children at the same time. I saw one woman give her infant a sip from her glass, although this also is forbidden by the new law.

Would Get It Free.

A man who keeps a mussel and whelk shop in the Euston road has taken advantage of the law to turn an honest penny. He has posted a notice in his shop that he will fetch beer from the "pubs" next door for any lady who will buy his goods he will fetch the beer for nothing.

Paul Taylor, a London magistrate, commented severely on the state of affairs produced by the new law. He had a number of women before him who were charged with fighting outside a saloon, and the policeman told him that it was a common thing to have fights like this since the passing of the children's act. The women took their beer to the street, got drunk and fought, and being outside the premises, the publican did not exert himself to keep order, as he was bound to do if they were in his house. The magistrate declared that it was questionable whether the act had been of any service to the cause of temperance, and declared that he was disposed to think from the cases that had come before him that it had done more harm than good.

The prohibition against cigarette smoking is largely nullified by lads who are just over sixteen. They get the cigarettes for nothing by acting as purchasers on commission for smaller boys to whom the tobacconists dare not sell. The usual commission is two cigarettes for each package of ten, and it is paid willingly by the city officer boy to whom the "weeds" have become a necessity.

BILL TO PROTECT GIRLS.

Employment Agents in London, England, Will Be Greatly Restricted.

London, June 30.—A bill containing far-reaching provisions is being brought forward by Sir Ivor Herbert, Mr. Yorall and others for the purpose of suppressing what is known as the white slave traffic. It is believed that one of the channels through which many unwary girls are brought to ruin is the unrestricted enterprise of sundry employment agents, who attract girls with a genuine desire to go on the stage of the music hall. These girls are often induced to sign contracts for a limited term, which are not infrequently null and void. The girls are then thrown out of employment in a foreign country, of whose language and ways they know nothing, and become the victims of rogues.

The bill proposes that all agents, who for reward obtain employment for any girl under twenty-one years of age, otherwise than as a domestic servant, shall yearly take out excise licenses for carrying on their business. Penalties will be imposed on agents proved to be acting without such certificates.

Applicants for licenses must satisfy the constituted authority as to their character, and that they have caused a notice to be exhibited on two consecutive Sundays on the principal door of the church or chapel of the parish where they have applied for permission, a notice to the effect that they are seeking power to act as juvenile female employment agents.

They will be compelled to keep books in harmony with statutory directions, and the local authorities will have power to appoint visitors of either sex to be agency visitors, "in order to inspect the conduct of the business and to examine the books." Any contract entered into by an agent with or on behalf of a girl under twenty-one years of age shall be null and void unless the contract has been read over and explained to such girl, and the contract is in a language which such girl understands. Other provisions are equally stringent.

Ironwood's School Census.—Frank A. Hoody and H. Keese have completed the school census of the city of Ironwood and have enumerated 3,841 children of school age. The gain is twenty-two over the number found by the enumerators last year.

George Rickard, a former resident of Iron Mountain, was accidentally killed by the automobile at Leadville, Colo., some days ago. His body was found by the fall of a rock, weighing 1,300 pounds. The deceased was forty-three years of age and leaves a wife and five children.

John S. McCarty, a well-known resident of Ironwood for nearly twenty years, was struck by the Wisconsin Central's west-bound passenger train as he was walking along the track in the east end of the Ironwood yards and was instantly killed. The unfortunate man was a carpenter by trade and lived with his daughter, Mrs. James Trudgen, South Mansfield street. He took a short cut through the railroad yards in going to his work, and was caught by the train as noted. He is survived by five children: Mrs. Samuel Watson, Hortonville, Wis.; Clarence, Evoltville; Arthur, Fosterville; Mrs. James Trudgen and Mrs. Girsch, Ironwood.

Realizing that the Soo is an advantageous port for the purpose, the Gilchrist Transportation company has decided to build a central supply station there, similar to the one operated by the Pittsburg Steamship company. It will be located at the foot of Johnstone street. The buildings will be of stone construction. Besides an ice house, two other large buildings will be erected, and the station will be ready for business next spring. The company operates a line of 100 boats, which will need large quantities of supplies. Business men say that this step on the part of the Gilchrist company will mean a better market for Chippewa county products.

Anxious to Meet Ziehr Again.—John Rowett, of Bessemer, was interviewed the other day regarding his recent wrestling match with Joe Ziehr at Calumet. He said he was satisfied in every way with the outcome of the match; that Ziehr was a much better man than he had thought him to be, but that he believed he could have won the match had it been wrestled to a finish. When asked whether he would enter the wrestling tournament to be held at Ironwood next month in connection with the celebration of the Sons of St. George, Rowett said that he would not take the tournament. He said that he was in a listless condition and thought that he would be able to give a good account of himself. He is anxious to meet Ziehr again. It is expected that Ziehr also will participate in Ironwood's tournament.

Suit for Health Officer Sues.—A suit has been started by Dr. B. T. Phillips, health officer of the city of Menominee, against the county of Menominee for the recovery of monies claimed to be due for services rendered. The amount sued for is $170, which represents a cut in a bill of $370. The county has in the past paid the health officers of the city and townships ten dollars per day for attending smallpox cases. In the case of John Laurent, Dr. Phillips attended him nineteen times between Dec. 22d and Jan. 13th and in the case of Harry Conant he made eighteen visits between March 8th and April 6th. This made a total of thirty-seven

I ALSO HANDLE Artistic Monuments COST NO MORE THAN PLAIN ONES IN WHITE BRONZE Marble is entirely out of date. Granite soon gets moss-grown, discolored, requires constant expense and care, and eventually crumbles back to Mother Earth. Brackets, it is very expensive. WHITE BRONZE is strictly everlasting. It cannot crumble with the action of frost. Moss growth is an impossibility. It is more artistic than any stone. Then why not invest in granite? It has been accepted for over one hundred public monuments, and by thousands of delighted customers in all parts of the country. It has been on the market over 25 years and is an established success. Many granite dealers have bought White Bronze for their own burial plots. I have hundreds of beautiful designs of all grades of work, and want to have you see them if you are interested in a monument, headstone, marker or grave cover. On receipt of a postal card will be pleased to call with designs and samples of White Bronze.
