CHATHAM MAY LOSE EXPERIMENT FARM

MENOMINEE WANTS INSTITUTION MOVED FROM PRESENT LOCATION TO THAT COUNTY.

STATE BOARD HERE YESTERDAY

Chairman Was Non-Committal Regarding the Matter, Saying Decision Would Be Made After This Visit.

A. J. Doherty, of Clare, a member of the state board of agriculture, and who was recently elected chairman of the commission authorized by the recent session of the legislature to take over the public lands of Michigan, was a Marquette visitor yesterday. He is accompanied to the upper peninsula by I. R. Waterbury of Highland and W. H. Wallace of Bay Port, also members of the state board of agriculture, and their particular business at this time is to look into the advisability of moving the Upper Peninsula State Experiment station from Chatham, in Alger county, to Menominee county. Mr. Doherty spent yesterday in Marquette, leaving last evening for Chatham, where he and the other members of the board, including W. J. Oberdorfer of Menominee county will look over the Chatham farm, from there going to Menominee with the purpose of seeing what the Menominee county people have to offer.

Yesterday Mr. Doherty was non-committal about the proposed removal. He said he had not gone into the matter deeply, and would probably base the opinion finally arrived at on what he saw during the present trip. Menominee county interests have for some months been urging the proposed removal, and they have had the support on the board of Mr. Oberdorfer, the Menominee member. They have contended that the logical location of the experiment station is Menominee county, because of the great progress made in that county in agriculture and because it is the location of the first county agricultural school that has been opened in Michigan.

One of the principal arguments against the change is the fact that the conditions existing at Chatham are more nearly average conditions for the upper peninsula than those existing in Menominee county. This was called to Mr. Doherty's attention yesterday, and he admitted that there might be a good deal to it.

The state board of agriculture is spending $5,000 annually on the farm at Chatham, this including the superintendent's salary. Much money has been invested in permanent improvements, including a comfortable house for the superintendent, barns and other structures. Superintendent Geisner has a considerable acreage under cultivation, no small part of it in experimental crops. It is said that the movement to move the station from Chatham will be vigorously opposed, particularly in Alger county.

An Important Commission.

The state lands commission, of which Mr. Doherty is chairman, and of which William Kelley of Vulcan is the sole upper peninsula member, is, under the statute governing it, one of the most important commissions in the state. It virtually takes over the auditor general's and land commissioner's offices, both of which officials are members of the commission. It will have control of 1,000,000 or more acres of public domain, and both reforestation and protection of the existing forests from fire will fall within its scope.

"The commission has just been organized," said Mr. Doherty yesterday, "and will feel its way carefully. The work before the members is a vast one, and we will move slowly to avoid mistakes. We have appointed a committee to inventory the state lands and find the present status of the reforestation work done in the state reserves set aside a few years ago.

"We are also going to do all in our power the present season to prevent forest fires. We have a fund of $100,000 we can expend for this purpose. Already there have been a number of fires that might have developed seriously, some of them near Metz, where so many lives were lost last year. For one thing we are going to at once take steps to compel the railroads that traverse the western regions to equip their locomotives with servicable spark arresters. Some of these roads have been running locomotives not equipped with these devices, and we have no doubt that they have been the cause of many disastrous fires."

BOUND OVER TO COURT.

Birch Man Must Answer to Charge of Running Blind Pig.

William Noyes and Claude Ingells, of Birch, appeared before Justice Cray yesterday to answer to the charge of having sold liquor without a license in that village on Monday, July 5, which was the date of the Fourth of July celebration. As the result of the hearing, Noyes waived examination and was bound over to circuit court under $200 bonds, which was furnished by Rush Culver. Ingells was discharged after the prosecuting attorney had examined the evidence against him. Ingells runs the Northern Hotel at Birch and Noyes the pool room in connection.

The charges against Noyes and Ingells were preferred by Charles Pellissier, Walter Lattrell, and others, presumably because of a charge of larceny preferred against Pellissier and Lattrell by Ingells, on which Lattrell has been bound over to circuit court. Pellissier was discharged by the justice, following the preliminary examination.

It is alleged that Lattrell, on the day the Fourth was celebrated, reached through an open window and took $13 out of the pocket of the clerk at Ingells' hotel. Pellissier and Lattrell were both arrested on warrants, and had to remain in the Marquette calaboose for several hours, prior to the hearing before a justice. At that time, friends of the two threatened to file complaint against Ingells and Noyes for running a blind pig, if they pushed the larceny charge.

A. FINE'S STORE ROBBERED OF CASH

BURGLARIZED MONDAY NIGHT AND BETWEEN $20 AND $30 TAKEN FROM THE CASH REGISTER.

A. Fine's general store and meat market was broken into some time Monday night and between $20 and $30 taken from the cash drawer. That a robbery had been committed was first known when Mr. Fine opened the store yesterday morning, and found the cash register in the store open and badly damaged and the money drawer in the meat market in a similar condition. No money had been left in the money drawer in the meat market Monday evening, but about $50 had been locked up in the cash register, all of which was taken except $22 in bills, which were in one of the rear compartments of the cash register drawer and were evidently overlooked by the thief or thieves.

Mr. Fine is of the opinion that the money was taken by members of a crowd of young boys, who make a practice of hanging about the store and in the immediate vicinity late at night. One of these boys was taken before Justice Byrne yesterday afternoon and put through a grilling examination, but he had maintained throughout the ordeal his entire ignorance and innocence of the affair.

It appears that entrance into the building was effected by way of the side door leading upstairs, and into the store through a door at the foot of the stairs. The door between the store and meat market, which are in the same building, was not locked. Mr. Fine says that both of the first named doors were locked early Monday evening, but thinks that some one came into the store after supper and unlocked the door between the store and hallway, while he was busy with customers. A glass panel was broken in the outside door by the burglars, making it easy to reach through the aperture to turn the key on the inside.

The cash register had evidently been broken open with a screw driver, which was left lying nearby. The screw driver belonged in the butcher shop and was kept in an out of the way place, which is one of the many reasons for believing that the theft was committed by some one thoroughly familiar with the premises. The money drawer in the meat market was broken all to pieces in an effort to get it open, and the hammer used for that purpose, which was also left nearby, had been taken from the truck in the front part of the store.

Mr. Fine was in the store until about 9:30 Monday night, and states that he was watched closely by several boys for some time before closing, at least one of whom saw that he did not take the money out of the cash register before leaving for the night.
