

FISTIC GLADIATORS SIGN THE ARTICLES

Jack Johnson and Jas. J. Jeffries Agree Upon the Terms of Their Championship Bout, and the Match Is Definitely Made.

They Will Fight 45 or More Rounds to a Finish Not Later Than July 5th, Next, Before the Club Offering the Best Financial Inducement, the Winner to Take a Side Bet of Ten Thousand Dollars and Seventy-Five per Cent of the Purse.

New York, Oct. 29.—Jack Johnson and James J. Jeffries signed articles late this afternoon for a fight of forty-five or more rounds to a finish not later than July fifth next, before the club offering the best financial inducement, the winner to take a side bet of $10,000 and 75 per cent of the purse, and the loser 25 per cent.

The preliminaries were arranged in the banquet hall of the Hotel Albany, over a table whereat sat Jeffries, with Bob Vernon and Sam Berger, his manager; Johnson and his manager, Little, and George Considine, "Honest John" Kelly, Sam Harris, Sam Nelson, Bob Murphy and other sporting men.

Jeffries eyed the negro seriously and did not meet his glance, Johnson was affable, but showed nervousness by frequent grins and the constant clicking of two red dice, which he carried in the palm of his right hand.

First Pose for a Photograph. After the principals had posed for a photograph, the business began. Jeffries let Berger talk, but Johnson frequently interrupted his manager with suggestions and objections. Nevertheless, it was remarked that Jeffries was winning nearly every point for which he contended.

It was agreed that the match be for the "heavyweight championship of the world." Berger suggested that the fight go to the club making the highest responsible bid within thirty days. Little agreed, but Johnson asked that each bid be accompanied by $5,000. Jeffries nodded, and Berger assented.

"And have a man on the ground with the coin," stipulated Johnson. When the question of referee was raised, Manager Little, for Johnson, wanted to name his choice, and Jeffries said: "Let the club that gets the bid have the word. They have got as much at stake as we have. Let it wait."

Little was for arguing the point, but Johnson said: "Let it go. That's all right." The number of rounds came next.

Jeffries' Declaration Cheered. Jeffries said: "I don't care if it is six, ten, twenty or a hundred, but I know what the public demands, and I am going to see that they get it—it means a finish."

At this the crowd cheered, Johnson was not satisfied. He feared that the San Francisco club, which only twenty round bouts are allowed, might get the bid, and in that event he insisted that twenty rounds be specified.

"Then 'Prisco won' get the fight," announced Jeffries. "Make it forty-five rounds or more." Swallowing his objections, the negro agreed volubly.

As to the division of the purse, to the surprise of the crowd both men said they were willing to fight on the basis that the winner take all, or 60 and 40 per cent, or 75 and 25 per cent. The latter division was agreed upon.

Jeffries wanted to wager $20,000 as a side bet. Johnson offered $5,000. Little wanted to lay the money at the ringside odds, "as a business proposition."

Matter Is Compromised. As a compromise, it was agreed to let the $5,000 already posted to secure today's meeting stand, with $5,000 additional added forthwith.

"All right," assented Jeffries, plaintively, "but I wanted that twenty thousand."

A rear of laughter arose from the crowd, and even Johnson grinned. Bob Murphy, manager of the Hotel Albany, was chosen temporary stakeholder, the final stakeholder to be chosen by the club.

"No, sub," said Johnson. "I have to say where my money goes." "The club has no say to say than either of us," said Berger.

"No man has more to say about my money than I have," affirmed Johnson, yet he yielded.

9. The contest is to take place not later than July 5th, 1910.

10. It is hereby understood and agreed that the contest shall be fought under straight Marquis of Queensberry rules, with five-ounce gloves.

DR. COOK'S ATTORNEY PROCURING EVIDENCE. Mount McKinley Controversy Is Enlivened When a Prominent Farmer in Montana Makes Affidavit That Barrill, the Guide, Had Often Told Him That He and the Explorer Had Climbed the Alaskan Peak.

Missoula, Mont., Oct. 29.—The Cook controversy was enlivened today by an affidavit from George W. Solleder, a prominent farmer living near the homes of Barrill and Printz. Solleder declares that Barrill often told him that he and Cook had climbed Mount McKinley. Dr. Cook's agent announced that other affidavits had been secured, but the makers had been promised that their statements would be submitted only to scientific bodies.

Dr. Cook declined to discuss the meeting at Hamilton, further than to say the matter was down to a point where it was the affidavit of himself against the affidavit of Barrill, and that the matter could only be settled by an expedition to Mount McKinley to recover the records which he says he left on the summit.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Barrill (the guide who accompanied Dr. Cook to Alaska) has retained me as counsel in case that Cook makes any false charges against him," said General James M. Ashton, a lawyer of Tacoma, Wash., here tonight. General Ashton examined Barrill and Printz and obtained their affidavits. He admitted having paid Barrill and Printz $200, and added: "These men traveled eight hundred miles and were in my office for several days. The money was solely for their traveling expenses and per diem."

HUNDREDS FIGHTING FLAMES. Terrific Prairie Fire Raging in Tripp County, South Dakota. Dallas, S. Hundreds of men and women are fighting the flames. The towns of Lamro and McNeely, which were threatened for a time, have been saved only after strenuous efforts on the part of the fire fighters. BIG CROWDS FLOCK TO THE RACE COURSE

Picturesque Scenes of Former Years Are Re-Enacted as Competitors for the Vanderbilt Cup Prepare for the Great Struggle.

Intent Upon Preempting the Places from Which Death and Annihilation May Best Be Witnessed, Many Thousands Wend Their Way to the Long Island Speedway Where Today Twenty-Six Cars Will Contest for the Much-Coveted Automobile Trophy.

Garden City, L. I., Oct. 29.—Although the Vanderbilt cup race will start at 9 o'clock tomorrow instead of daylight, the same picturesque scenes as formerly were enacted tonight during the hours preceding the unleashing of the competitors for the trophy. The roads leading to the grand stands and other vantage points along the course were alive with automobiles. Nearer the course the machines numbered thousands, while vendors of refreshments and thrifty farmers with everything to sell mingled with the crowds, crying their wares.

Those without automobiles were abroad earlier, intent upon preempting the first row at the turns and other points from which death and annihilation may be witnessed. Increased morbid interest is attached to the contest, as the race will be over a circuit 12.64 miles long, with twice as many turns as last year, when the course measured 23.46 miles. Twenty-six cars are entered, compared with seventy-two last year, and some of the drivers are less experienced. Precautions have been taken by banking all the turns, but this only offers an incentive for reckless drivers to take the turns at full speed.

Four of last year's drivers—Strang, Chevrolet, Seymour and Hunt—will participate. Strang, who will pilot a Fiat car, is regarded by many as a sure winner. His most formidable rival—Chevrolet—will drive a Buick. The four classes of cars will race simultaneously. The smaller cars will overtake the larger ones, and the intermediate machines fifteen times, while the big cars, which alone are competitors for the Vanderbilt cup, will go around twenty-two times.

MARKET FOR STOCKS ACTIVE AND HIGHER.

With Easier Money as the Most Important Incentive, Wall Street Witnesses a Notable Revival of the Speculative Interest, and With United States Steel as the Leader, an Aggressive Advance in Prices Ensues.

New York, Oct. 29.—Today saw a considerable revival of the speculative interest in the stock market. The cause was easier money and confidence that the conditions will further relax with the passing of the Nov. 1st settlements.

London believed to be the source of the supply of the additional funds offered. It was reported that private bankers there had been induced to replace some accommodations recently recalled in response to the maneuvers of the Bank of England to raise the interest rate for the purpose of attracting gold to London.

The attraction for the reports from London was the payment of a commission to the bankers by American borrowers which amounted to a sharp premium over the London interest rate.

The week's currency movement has been against the New York banks, according to the preliminary estimates, although the net result has been ameliorated by shipments of funds from the interior, the balance in favor of New York being estimated at upwards of $3,000,000.

On the sub-treasury operations, however, the banks have lost $3,271,000. Gold exports to South America and Canada have taken an additional $1,450,000. Whatever the clearing house showing may be, the additional supply of funds to loan was obvious today. The stock market proved broad and active, with a comprehensive advance in prices, covering operations of a substantial short interest, and credit advances, considerable of the day's buying. Vigorous recoveries in some stocks which have hung back recently, notably the Hill railroads, were a feature. Steel still absorbed a large proportion of the dealings and led in the aggressive advance. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific showed fresh strength. Copper held a conspicuous position. The bond market, too, broadened materially.

Trade Advances Most Optimistic. New York, Oct. 29.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "Trade as a whole is good and better, the former word hardly suffering to characterize the buoyancy of the demand shown in many lines. Industry responds with orders of full order books, full or over-runs and an insubstantiality of skilled labor. The situation is very satisfactory, and the improvement in the late months of the year promises to place ahead of the front of the list. The advance of the fall season and the marketing of the crops are bringing out a large volume of trade from the country districts. Enlarging pay rolls and fall festivals and fairs are helping to stimulate the distribution in the cities. The week's last week kept pace with and in some cases exceeded the general distribution, despite the high range of values in all commodities. The total bank clearings at the principal cities of the United States for the week have been $3,484,322,900, against $2,561,458,000 in the same week last year."

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review tomorrow will say: "The trade expansion progress, and financial conditions are more settled. The reports from trade circles are so uniformly favorable as to leave no doubt of the widespread character of the revival that is probably within a few days to say that at no previous period has the wealth of the United States made a better showing of growth than at present. Evidence of the rapid expansion in iron and steel is furnished by the quarterly report of the Steel corporation and the appropriation of $10,000,000 for new constructive work. The railroads have continued liberal purchasers, the recent sales of rails aggregating 80,000 tons. The high cost of wool and cotton complicates the textile trade, yet merchants agree that the demand is broadening. Improved conditions are still reported in footwear. Heavy trading has characterized the packer hide market. The trading in sole leather has improved appreciably."

WANTS TO SEE THE BOOKS. Minority Stockholder Makes Trouble for the Brailley Telephone Interests. Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 29.—Interested persons here decline to disclose the occasion for the suit filed today by Herman C. Stifel, a St. Louis broker, against the Toledo Home Telephone company to require the company to permit him to examine its books. Stifel, who is a stockholder, also asks an injunction to prevent the removal of the books.

"As a voting trustee and director, Mr. Stifel had our monthly statements, and could have had any additional information," said President Brailley. "I know nothing of the reason for the suit."

Stifel also is a director of the United States (long distance) Telephone company. Both companies are included among the properties of which the Brailley syndicate recently secured control. Stifel's attorney said, "I am not at liberty to discuss the matter at present."

Indianapolis, Oct. 29.—A petition for a mandamus to compel the new long distance telephone company to permit an inspection of its books was filed here today by H. C. Stifel, of St. Louis. It is similar to the suit begun at Toledo today.

DOESN'T WAIT FOR REST OF THE FLEET

Lighthouse Tender Oleander, With Mr. Taft and His Immediate Party Aboard, Pushes on to New Orleans at Top Speed.

That the Problem of Developing the Utility of the Great River Is in Process of Solution, the President Assures the People; and Speaker Cannon Agrees With Him Except That He Vows He Will Never Vote for Bonds.

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 29.—Although President Taft arrived here more than three hours late tonight, there was not a daylight hour today in which the twelve boats constituting the fleet from St. Louis to New Orleans were in sight of the flagship. The speed of the Oleander was checked on account of bad coal, but tonight she left here at top speed with a new supply of coal. The president probably will land at New Orleans at noon tomorrow, without waiting for the fleet, and will deliver his address to the waterways convention in the afternoon.

At Natchez today, the president spoke on a bluff in the court of honor. Gaily decorated boxes surrounded the speaker's stand, and each was filled with pretty women. Throughout the trip the president has had considerable fun with Speaker Cannon, who has been called for an address at every place that Mr. Taft has appeared. Mr. Cannon agrees with Mr. Taft, except that he vows he will never vote for bonds. The president was escorted to the federal building here tonight, where he briefly addressed a large crowd.

Compares River With Woman. Natchez, Oct. 29.—In his speech here today, President Taft said: "The problem of developing the utility of the great waterway that flows at the base of these bluffs is, I believe, in process of solution. The Mississippi river reminds one of a beautiful, powerful woman. Properly directed (only by suggestion), she is the greatest aid to progress and happiness. But treated without discretion, sought to be harnessed where she will, by force of character, break out, she loses her opportunity for usefulness and sometimes wrecks everything she touches."

"That is the kind of creature that the waterways association has invited the speaker and his associates, a quorum of the committee of the state of the Union, to study, with a view of controlling and making the most of her. And we are going to do it."

"I have one ambition, perhaps others, but this one figures largely in my dreams; and when I lay down my office, the people of the South will feel that the bonds between them and the other parts of the country have been drawn closer."

In response to continued calls for "Uncle," Speaker Cannon reviewed the work of the first waterway convention at St. Louis in 1873, which led to deepening the southern passes of the Mississippi delta. He intimated that if Congress followed the trip of the congressmen and senators who went to the Irazos river, thence to the mouth of the Mississippi and to New Orleans, so many of the most important results in another great work for the inland waterways.

FILL TEETH FOR TEN CENTS. Greenwich (Ct.) Dentists Agree on the Rate to Help the Poor. Greenwich (Ct.), Oct. 29.—"Teeth filled at the rate of ten cents a tooth" is the price agreed upon by all Greenwich dentists, some of whom have won reputations for themselves all through the East and all of whom number among their patrons a greater or less number of New York's aristocrats who summer here. It seems like a great opportunity, and it is, but there are conditions.

The patient must be a Greenwichite and a child, and he or she must present himself or herself at the rooms of the United Workers on certain days of the week in order to have the work done. In other words the United Workers, which is an organization composed mostly of wealthy people, have interested the dentists in their work among the poor to the extent that they have founded an association and have offered to take care of the poor children's teeth.

The work is intended to be done free and the ten cents a tooth is charged in order that the children and the parents may not feel that they are the recipients of charity, but may feel that they are paying in a measure for what they get. Scores of the children have been treated so that they may go through life with good teeth, instead of having them ruined before they reach the age when they can earn money enough to pay for treatment. This is only one phase of the benevolent work of the United Workers. Their president is Mrs. George E. Nicholas, a well known New York and Greenwich society woman.

BLOW ON THE HEAD KILLS. Walter Steele, an Illinois Man, Is Charged With Murder. Peoria, Ills., Oct. 29.—Sam Reitzel, a former saloon keeper, is dead at Bath, Ills., and Walter Steele, a fisherman, is held at Havana, charged with murder. The coroner's jury declared that Reitzel was killed by a blow on the head inflicted by Steele with a beer bottle during a saloon brawl Monday night. Reitzel died this morning, without regaining consciousness.

NOVEL CONVENTION IN GREATER NEW YORK.

With 150 Policemen on Hand to Keep Order, and With 1,000 Delegates Present from the Sixty-Three Assembly Districts, the First Political Meeting of Women in the City's History Demands the Right to the Ballot.

New York, Oct. 29.—One thousand delegates elected at conventions held in each of the sixty-three assembly districts of Greater New York filled the floor of Carnegie Hall tonight at the first women's political convention ever held in this city. Peaceful as was the purpose of the convention, there rested in adjoining cloakrooms 150 policemen with nightsticks in their belts.

A platform presented by Mrs. Clarence Mackey was adopted. It affirmed: "That men and women are born equally free and independent, equally endowed with intelligence, and equally entitled to the free exercise of individual rights; that the natural relation of the sexes is cooperation and independence, and that governments which impose a tax and laws upon women citizens, without giving them the right to consent or dissent, exercise a tyranny inconsistent with just government."

The convention demanded an amendment to the state and national constitutions permitting women to vote; amendments to the city charter requiring that one-third of the board of education be women, and compensation for all civil service employes, including teachers, by position and not by sex.

MR. CRANE'S RECALL IS DECLARED UNJUST. Charging an Attempt to Humiliate Without Adequate Cause, and Desiring to Show Their Contempt of Such Methods, Prominent Chicagoans Invite the Former Minister-Designate to Be Guest of Honor at Banquet.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Fifty Chicagoans, leaders in commercial and professional circles, today sent Charles R. Crane an invitation to be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given at Mr. Crane's convenience. The invitation recites the alleged unjust recall of the former minister-designate to China and commends his attitude throughout, adding: "No conduct of yours has diminished our confidence in your fitness. We believe that the published circumstances, trivial in themselves, were unfairly made use of in an attempt to humiliate you without adequate cause, and we wish by this means publicly to protest against such methods, which cannot fail to have a tendency to discourage prominent private citizens from accepting public office."

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Tonight's campaign oratory included an attack on Justice Gaylor by United States Attorney General Wickersham, who said: "The citizen of New York who is concerned only with the selection of an honest and efficient administration will surely not turn to a judge whose course upon the bench is characterized by political chicanery and demagogic appeals, and surely not to the proprietor of a chain of newspapers distinguished for their unbridled license and gross abuse of the liberty of the press. No; he will turn to a man of wide and successful business experience. Such a man is found in Mr. Barnard."

In reply to a question as to whom he thought the next Democratic candidate for president would be, Mr. Mack declared here today that, due to his position, he could not play favorites. However, in the interview he mentioned Governors Harmon, of Ohio, and Marshall, of Indiana.

GRECIANS FIGHT A NAVAL BATTLE

Revolt Against the Government of King George Takes a Very Grave Turn When Resort Is Had to Shot and Shell.

With Forts and Big Warships on One Side and Torpedo Boats on the Other, the Locality Where Themistocles Worsted the Persians Almost 2,000 Years Ago Is the Scene of a Sharp Engagement Resulting in the Defeat of the Mutineers.

Athens, Greece, Oct. 29.—After almost two thousand years, when Themistocles, the Athenian general, gained his memorable victory over the Persians, Salamis again today was the scene of a naval battle.

The correspondent of the Associated Press witnessed at Scaramanga this afternoon twenty minutes of fighting between twelve batteries and big warships, on one side, which quitted the capital Wednesday, with torpedo boats, on the other side.

Not Much Damage Done. The first shots were fired at 4 o'clock and a sharp exchange of shells followed. Some of the projectiles struck the arsenal buildings, but the correspondent saw only one shell hit a torpedo boat, the Splendora, which was immediately enveloped in a cloud of smoke.

The torpedo boats gradually retired backwards until they obtained the shelter of the headland, when the firing ceased. The rebel vessels returned the fire of the warships and field batteries, during the engagement, but apparently little damage was done on either side. The rebels are led by Lieutenant Thibaldos and are reported to number three hundred.

Athens is quiet, but there is much suppressed excitement. An official statement says that the arsenal, which was in the hands of the rebels, was recaptured, and the mutinous torpedo boats are expected to surrender.

Leader Fighting Single-Handed. Lieutenant Thibaldos appears to have been actuated by disapproval of the tactics of the military league and junior naval officers in consenting to a compromise of the status quo recently issued by the military league, demanding the suspension of all promotions for five years and the abolition of the posts of admirals and other places.

Lieutenant Thibaldos is prominent in the military movement. He was the first officer to go to the camp outside of the city after the premier's refusal to receive the deputation of officers. Subsequently he was commander of the rebel camp. At the meeting of the military league yesterday, Lieutenant Thibaldos said: "I am not demanding the resignation of the premier. Now you abandon me, but I will carry out a second revolt single-handed."

The officers of the D. U. R. haven't sufficiently recovered from the surprise at the passage of Corporation Counsel Hally's ordinance by the Detroit council to be able to know what they think about it.

Helme's paper, the state grange organ, is playing up the tonnage tax as one of the leading issues of the forthcoming campaign for governor. Helme is a resourceful agitator, and if he can have his way the tonnage tax issue will overshadow all others. He is now urging the candidates to embark on the political sea in it.

A. P. Swineford, whose death is reported from Alaska, was among the picturesque characters of Michigan in the eighties, says the Detroit Free Press. He was an aggressive Democrat, a militant newspaper man, a rough-and-ready fighter on the stump, and a man of ceaseless activity. His appointment to the governorship of Alaska removed him from his Michigan newspaper and political affiliations, but he kept alive his acquaintance in the state by occasional visits.

Nick Whelan, speaker of the legislature of 1907, has accepted the task of looking after the gubernatorial campaign of Lieutenant Governor Kelley, and will open offices in Grand Rapids. Mr. Whelan was associated with State Chairman Dieckema last year in the management of the state campaign, and knows political conditions in Michigan thoroughly. In his Lieutenant Governor Kelley has acquired a valuable aide, and his acceptance of the responsibility indicates that the Kelley campaign will be thoroughly organized and conducted with full knowledge of the conditions that will have to be met.

The Grand Rapids Herald discusses the question of how many ballots will be cast for governor in the primaries next year. Lieutenant Governor Kelley has been quoted as saying that 100,000 votes will nominate a candidate. In the last election Governor Warner polled 262,141 votes, but Lieutenant Governor Kelley polled 322,210 and Land Commissioner Russell led the ticket with 330,315 votes. There are probably 325,000 voters in the state willing to cast themselves Republicans in a presidential year. Only 200,911 votes were cast in the last primary nomination of a governor, but it is expected, in view of the fact that direct nominations will next year apply to practically all offices, that the primary vote on governor will greatly exceed this number and fall far short of 300,000. If all four candidates show up strong 100,000 will likely be enough to nominate. However, if there should be a pronounced drift to any two of them as to favorites in the field, the successful candidate will probably have to have a vote considerably in excess of that number.

Tom Johnson started out in the mayoralty campaign in Cleveland with the betting odds against him, but he has conducted his campaign with such adroitness that in his closing days he is the favorite. Johnson has again shown himself the most astute of politicians. When the lines were first drawn he looked like a loser. His plans for three cent fares under city ownership had not stood up under a practical test, a settlement of the traction problem recommended by him had, a few months before, been rejected by a decisive vote and he appeared to be a discredited leader. He put a new face on the situation by putting the traction question out of the way by a definite and final move for its entire settlement, and in the past few weeks has been busy cutting the ground from under his Republican opponent until his description of him as "the disappointing candidate with the disappearing platform" has, apparently, a certain justice. At this writing Johnson has apparently a somewhat better chance than the Republican candidate to be elected, this despite the fact that Burton and other Republican big guns have been pressed into service in the hope of finally giving him his quietus.

The president is being given, in the course of his trip down the Mississippi, plenty of object lessons on the necessity of improving that great water way. The escorting fleet, which was expected to be a compact squadron, travelling as one impressive whole, has the past few days been stringing along like a Fourth of July parade which the marshals are making a heroic effort to stretch over an entire town. The impoverished condition of the Mississippi marine, due to lack of use, made it impossible to assemble a fleet of boats of uniform speed for the president's fleet, and the schedule for the trip was made too fast for the slower craft that had been pressed into service. We are also told that the government torpedo boats that were to escort the president in the lower reaches of the river have been scuttling down stream, always far ahead of him, in an effort to keep in deep enough water. Truly the president is being left in no doubt that the Mississippi badly needs improvement to make it a dependable waterway. When the magnificent possibilities of the river are compared with the present inadequate use that is made of it, one is convinced that those who are insisting that it be given first place in any plan for the improvement of internal waterways are on the right track.

The defeat of the Liberals in the Bermondsey borough in London is far from the result that the Liberal leaders looked for, and as the issue that appears to have been given most prominence was the Liberal budget, was hardly the one other public than the British one expected, as they have been given to understand that the budget was a most popular issue on which to appeal to the British electorate, and that if the Liberals had to meet an election they would, with it to stand on, be strongly upheld. One borough election does not determine the control of a British parliament, any more than one swallow makes a summer, but, nevertheless, the outcome in the Bermondsey borough will lead to some reserve of opinion as to the certain popularity of the budget. The Liberals swept that borough by a majority of 1,750 in 1906, and the Unionist plurality this week was 987. If the Liberal candidate had polled the entire socialist vote of 1,435 his majority over the Unionist would have been a narrow one. The election is regarded as a good test of the country at large, and makes it apparent that if a general election were precipitated tomorrow a Liberal victory would by no means be assured. Evidently the Liberal budget is not as popular as we have been led to believe it is.

Doubtless Collector Loeb, of the port of New York, would prefer not to have any confessed bribe taking weighers in the service of the New York customs office. He probably feels as much disgusted as does Judge Holt at the fact that these men, who properly belong in jail, are enjoying the profits of good jobs under a promise of immunity. Yet this condition is much preferable to having the department permeated by corruption. The dishonest weighers appear to have been pretty firmly and safely entrenched in the New York customs office. It is presumed that Collector Loeb tried all possible means of getting information as to the scope and manner of their operations before he singled out any of their number and endeavored to get them to "come through" with confessions, under promises that they would neither be prosecuted nor disturbed in their jobs. This step by him doubtless can properly be regarded as a last resort. Viewing it in that light, we believe the average man will sympathize with Collector Loeb's opinion that it is better to countenance a few self-confessed wrongdoers than to throw up one's hands helpless in the face of certain knowledge that serious frauds are being perpetrated from day to day. Collector Loeb took the better and more practicable horn of his dilemma, though it is regretted that no other opportunity offered of breaking into the grafting that has been fattening at the expense of the government.

Dr. Cook's patience has been so far exhausted that he has at last answered his detractors. He charges, in effect, that the Barrill "revelations" in regard to the falsity of his claim of having ascended Mt. McKinley were bought and paid for by the men who have so obviously interested themselves in minimizing his exploits and who have charged that he is a fakir. He asserts that his attorneys are making a searching inquiry into the source of the attacks on him, and he hopes to reach the men "higher up." Dr. Cook's friends will welcome this display of anger by him. In the eyes of many of them, he has been far too complacent under the bitter attacks that have been made on him. They feel that the situation has called for something more than passive denial. When he is called a plain and unadorned man and fakir, the man with red blood in his veins generally "starts something," if he is being traduced. It is unfortunate that throughout this polar and Mt. McKinley controversy we have so far had only the words of certain men, and no means by which either party to the contention could be checked up. The attitude that the public will ultimately take toward Dr. Cook will depend on the verdict of the scientific bodies on his records. He has delayed too long about the task of getting these data in the hands of the universities and other scientific tribunals. It ought to have been the first thing he turned his attention to on his arrival home. Certainly the public will have a right to be indignant if there is further delay.

Mr. F. G. Fritz, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My little girl was greatly benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative, and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is mild, pleasant and effective, and cures habitual constipation. Sold by all druggists.

Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad, is one man who has spoken frankly about the government's land drawings in the west. There has been something of a disposition to hail these drawings as a fine thing for the rank and file of people, because they have promised equitable treatment for all prospective settlers. But Mr. Hill points out that not more than 3 per cent of the applicants for government lands under the lottery plan has been successful in securing the award of claims. The other 97 per cent has spent great sums of money, wasted valuable time and suffered disappointed hopes, all to no purpose. The opening of the Flat Head reservation, he said, brought about the expenditure of $12,000,000 on railroad fares alone, and there have been proportionately large expenditures on account of the opening of other reservations. On the basis of the outlay by the unsuccessful homeseekers, the lands that have been disposed of in these government lotteries have a staggering cost per acre against them. The small handful who have obtained desirable claims will profit considerably from the plan, but for all but this small percentage of entrants it has been a snare, delusion and disappointment. The fairness and equity of the arrangement has been purchased at a very dear price.

The Iowa suffragists have declared for the militant methods adopted by their British sisters in their effort to get the ballot. The same papers that carried this news gave us an example of the militant methods referred to. During the bye-election at Bermondsey, a parliamentary borough of London, Mrs. Chapin, one of the best known British suffragists, slipped into an election booth and smashed a bottle of corrosive acid on one of the ballot boxes, evidently with the intention of ruining the ballots. The acid splattered over the election officials and their faces were cut by broken glass. The suffragist was immediately arrested.

"The day for passive methods is past," said one of the women at Des Moines, Ia., "I am for adopting more radical methods." "I would go to jail for the suffrage cause, but if I were arrested I would resist the officer to the last," said another. It would be interesting to know whether the use of corrosive acid under the circumstances referred to above is among the "radical" methods contemplated by these American women. If they rely on the traditional civility of the American men to protect them from the consequences of such excesses, they will be greatly disappointed. This chivalrous attitude quickly disappears when women make common nuisances of themselves. The law is then invoked and allowed to take its course, as witness the case of Carrie Nation, who is a mild and conservative propagandist compared with some of the British suffragists.

Not all the women who believe in suffrage contend that the time for radical methods has come. Many of them counsel against such methods. It is to be hoped that they will finally control their more excitable sisters. If they cannot do so, suffrage is destined to receive a serious setback.

The late Alfred P. Swineford was made of the kind of pioneer stuff that makes a nation great. His death, in Alaska, at an advanced age, is mourned by intimate Michigan friends, not a few of whom are copper country residents. It is well that he lived to see something of the successful results of his assistance in developing the Alaskan territory, just as he lived to see the results of the mining development of this Michigan mining country, and then, just when the wave of business progress seemed to assure future betterment, he moved on to new fields of activity. We remember when Mr. Swineford took the position as governor of Alaska, an appointment from Cleveland, in reward for faithful political services. Alaska seemed such a God forsaken place in which to plant a live man like Swineford. Yet he made Alaska his home and no man did more to make Alaska advance than did Mr. Swineford. He was always an optimist and always an active worker for the cause he had in hand. When he came to this northern Michigan country first it was in the very early days and he did more than a woman's share in the progress that was made in the early days. In his newspaper work we have to express admiration for his courage. He had his own ideas of great political questions and he advocated those ideas, spontaneously and forcefully, even when he knew that he might be hurting himself in a business way. He was a Democrat of the old school and he was a southerner in his sympathies with the people of the south in the problem that grew out of the war of the rebellion. He was always boldly advocated his ideas whether they were popular or not. Those who didn't agree with his opinions at least recognized his ability. Mr. Swineford was one of the pioneer citizens of the upper Michigan country and he was one of the strongest men that ever left his imprint on the newspaper field of this country.—Houghton Gazette.

Archbishop P. J. Ryan of this city owes the children of the orphanage maintained by the Altoona diocese of the Catholic church a treat of candy and they are impatiently waiting for him to return here so he can buy the best.

The archbishop, who was there attending the ruby jubilee of Bishop E. A. Garvey, was taken to the orphanage at Strossen by the bishop, and delighted the little folks with his famous stories.

"Why is a stick of candy like a horse?" he suddenly asked. "I know," piped a bit of a lad. "Cause more you lick it the faster it goes."

The joke was on the archbishop, and he graciously promised to send some candy as soon as he returned home.—Philadelphia Record.

A seely-looking man entered a store in Trenton the other day, and asked for assistance, backing up his request with a long tale of sickness and lack of employment.

With a wink at his clerk, the merchant pointed to a friend who happened to be in the place, and replied: "Ask that gentleman. He is the proprietor. I am only a clerk."

The friend received the beggar's request in a sympathetic manner, and, turning to the merchant, remarked: "If you want to give a worthy case, Mr. Jones, give him a dollar from the cash register," and walked out of the store.

It was in vain that the merchant protested that it had been a joke. So insistent did the seedy one become that "de boss's" directions should be carried out, that it was finally necessary to do so in order to be rid of him.—Lippincott's.

"Yes," remarked the fat man on the rear platform, "I once refused to buy for the site of Chicago for four clam shells and a quart of rum."

The tall passenger was silent. "I can not," thought the original telephone patents for eleven Mexican dollars and a brass watch," continued the fat man, "but I turned 'em down."

No response. "You are not interested in my reminiscences, friend?"

"I am not," answered the tall man candidly. "I'm selling airship stock. You don't want any."—Washington Herald.

Three Texas "Tightwads." It is said that three of the stingiest men in the state were in town yesterday. One of them will not drink as much water as he wants unless it is from another man's well. The second forbids any of his family from writing anything but a "small hand," as it is a waste of ink to make large letters. The third stops his clock at night in order to save wear and tear on the machinery. All of them decline to take their newspaper on the ground that it is a terrible strain on their spectacles to read newspapers even in the daytime.—Olney (Tex.) Oracle.

Commissioner of Immigration Robert Watchorn said recently of an immigrant: "He was a bad case. He was an ignorant of government as the two Polish policemen were. Two new policemen were once put on the Warsaw force. They did good work, they arrested a lot of people, then suddenly they resigned. 'Why are you resigning?' the superintendent asked. 'The older of the two men answered respectfully: "We are going to start a police station of our own, sir. Boris here will make the arrests, and I will do the fining."—Washington Star.

ALFRED P. SWINEFORD. The late Alfred P. Swineford was made of the kind of pioneer stuff that makes a nation great. His death, in Alaska, at an advanced age, is mourned by intimate Michigan friends, not a few of whom are copper country residents. It is well that he lived to see something of the successful results of his assistance in developing the Alaskan territory, just as he lived to see the results of the mining development of this Michigan mining country, and then, just when the wave of business progress seemed to assure future betterment, he moved on to new fields of activity. We remember when Mr. Swineford took the position as governor of Alaska, an appointment from Cleveland, in reward for faithful political services. Alaska seemed such a God forsaken place in which to plant a live man like Swineford. Yet he made Alaska his home and no man did more to make Alaska advance than did Mr. Swineford. He was always an optimist and always an active worker for the cause he had in hand. When he came to this northern Michigan country first it was in the very early days and he did more than a woman's share in the progress that was made in the early days. In his newspaper work we have to express admiration for his courage. The funeral of Albert Edvardson, who died at St. Luke's hospital Thursday, will be held at the residence of John Anderson, East Arch street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock and from the Methodist church at 2:30, with interment in Park cemetery.

W. J. Chilton, the Morse operator for the Michigan State Telephone company in Marquette, has been transferred to Oklahoma City, where he will have charge of the telegraph work for the Bell Telephone company. The position left vacant in Marquette has been taken by A. F. Allen, of Chicago.

F. W. Youngs, of Iron River, manager of the Youngs Mining company, was in the city last evening. He stated that exploration work had temporarily been abandoned on the old Harlow mining property opposite F. H. Vandenberg's residence, but that a diamond drill was likely to be put to work before many weeks had elapsed.

Two Bankruptcy Petitions—Two petitions in bankruptcy were filed in United States court yesterday. One was filed by Mact Schneider of Calumet, and the other by Lottie M. and Oscar C. Anderson, doing business under the firm name of the Model Grocery at Ironwood. Neither of the petitions have yet been adjudicated.

Died of Appendicitis—Miss Ruth Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cameron, 128 West Ohio street, passed away last evening at 8:15, after an illness of nine days with appendicitis. She was sixteen years of age and was a favorite with all who knew her, both old and young. No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

Declined the Call—Rev. B. L. Newkirk, who was called by the First Baptist church, of this city, as pastor, has declined the Marquette call. Dr. Tupper, who has supplied this church for some months, has consented to remain here for a few weeks longer during the church's efforts to secure a pastor.

Many New Customers—The force of men employed by the light and power commission is unusually busy just now, as there is an exceptionally large amount of installation and wiring work to be done. Thirty-nine new customers have been secured this month and within the year the number of customers has increased about 200. Most of these new installations have been in residences.

An Artistic Window—There is a very beautiful and artistic exhibit of fruit in the west window of Delf's grocery store, which Marquette people should not fail to see. All the fruits of the season are handsomely arranged into a wonderfully attractive display. Two Halloween pumpkins occupy prominent positions and last evening, lighted with electric lights, they set off the display in a striking manner.

Must Support Family—Victor Munson was brought from Duluth by Sheriff Leeman yesterday morning, where he had been arrested on a warrant for wife desertion. He was arraigned before Judge Byrne and turned over to Judge Stone, who, on recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Bell, will probably place him under bonds to contribute toward the support of his wife and family, who reside in this city.

U. P. Influence Won—According to a letter received from Joseph H. Primeau, Jr., who was elected president of the senior class of the law school at the University of Michigan this week, his victory was due to the energetic efforts in his behalf of the upper peninsula students at the university, generated by Tom Clancy of Ishpeming and Tom Riley of Escanaba. The upper peninsula students are apparently able to get nearly everything they want at the university this year, as Good, of Menominee county, was elected president of the senior class of the literary department.

Predicts Higher Copper—S. R. Kaufman, while in Duluth this week, is reported by the News Tribune of that city to have said: "I expect to see copper metal command from 15 to 16 cents a pound before Jan. 1. The present consumption of the metal is about 98 per cent of the production. It seems to be pretty well understood over the country that the producers are seeking to arrive at some plan of combination which will result in giving stability to the copper metal market. The great fluctuations in the price of the metal have been hurtful to the industry. General business conditions are good and are steadily improving. The prospects for 1910 are extremely bright."

BUSINESS IS LIVELY.

Bowling Pin Mill and Camps at Big Bay Being Extensively Operated.

Theodore Schneider, manager of the Brunswick-Balke-Collander Lumbering interests at Big Bay, was in the city last evening. He stated that business was lively in that village and that the bowling pin mill was turning out 2,500 pins every day. As fast as turned out, these pins are placed in the dry house, where they will remain about a year before being finished. No steps have yet been taken to erect a finishing plant at Big Bay and Mr. Schneider did not care to be quoted as to the probability of such a plant being erected there. Active operations in the woods have already been begun and he now has three camps in commission, in all of which about 150 men are employed.

Northern Normal Notes.

President Kaye has gone to Saginaw to attend the annual meeting of the State Teachers' association, held there this week.

Last Tuesday Dr. Tupper gave an interesting and instructive talk at the chapel, his subject being "The Bible as Literature."

This evening Abby Snell Burnell will give an informal talk to the students at the dormitory. She will discuss Hindu life and customs, and will illustrate her talk by showing some of the costumes.

The musical spirit in the school seems to be at work at present. Plans are being made for the organization of a Glee club. A meeting will be held Monday afternoon, and it is hoped by those interested, that as many students as can will be present ready to join. The boys of the school have about completed the organization of a school orchestra.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Rushmore was in charge of chapel exercises, and a delightful program was given. Claude Fendill rendered a piano solo, and Miss Genevieve McDonald read a charming little lyric. This was followed by a reading of part of the first act of the "Merchant of Venice" by Emma Sanders, and Mrs. Rushmore closed the exercises with Tenney's Merlin and the Glean.

It seems that the rally held last week helped the boys greatly in their game-played with the Ishpeming High school football team last Saturday afternoon, for they were victorious, the score being 10 to 0. This afternoon they will again be two games played at the new fair grounds; the Marquette High school team will play the Ishpeming High school team, and the Normal boys will play the Escanaba High school. It is hoped that a large number of rooters will be present. The admission for both games will be twenty-five cents.

Last evening the seniors gave an enjoyable party for the juniors and faculty. The affair was in the nature of a Halloween party. The decorations in the gymnasium consisted of greens, banners, and pumpkin Jack-o'-lanterns, while the dining room was adorned with large black cats, witches and brooms, apples, corn and Japanese lanterns, all in keeping with the occasion. The class president, William Mullaly, Miss Purcell, Dr. and Mrs. Faught, Dr. and Mrs. Downing, Dr. and Mrs. Hehl, and Mrs. Kaye received the guests. The Peerless orchestra furnished music for the dancing which was enjoyed until 12 o'clock.

Following is an extract from The Cosmos, published at Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Iowa: "The chapel exercises on Friday, Oct. 1, will long be remembered by the faculty and students of Coe college as a farewell service to Professor Fracker. The faculty, students, and all those who are in any way connected with the college, are grieved to learn that Professor Fracker has severed his connection with the college which he has served so well. We are more than sorry to lose him, for it is impossible to find any man who can exactly fill his place. For nine years Professor Fracker has been a member of the faculty of Coe college. He created the department of psychology and made it the most conspicuous in the institution. He developed it along the line of laboratory work and designed the equipment in the new science hall which will be the best for undergraduate work in the country. Professor Fracker is now at the head of the department of psychology and education in the Northern Michigan Normal school at Marquette, Michigan. We congratulate that school upon securing so capable a man, and wish him the greatest success in his new position. We predict a bright future for Professor Fracker, as one of the leading psychologists in the country."

THEATRICAL

"A Gentleman from Mississippi," one of the brightest and breeziest plays of the season, will have its first presentation in this city at the opera house next Friday night. Wm. A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer, who have made some notably fine productions long before this, "The Man of the Hour" and "Way Down East" among others, are the producers of "A Gentleman from Mississippi," and have brought back to the stage to fill the role of the jovial senator, Burr McIntosh, once famous as "Fatty" in "Trilby," and who since then lapsed into journalism, photography and politics, but has returned and gone back to acting, in which art he will be welcomed by those who knew him as a very clever character comedian in the past. There is a real story to "A Gentleman from Mississippi," and an American story at that, told in the crisp, brisk, biting American style. William Langdon is sent to the United States senate by the people of his native state, who love him for his bluff honesty and sincerity, and by the "trust interests," who imagine that he is so ignorant of procedure that he can be bamboozled in to anything they desire. He has lived in the backwoods all his life and is ignorant of the ways of politicians, but he is a gentleman and has a keen sense for anything dishonest. When he gets to Washington he meets a newspaper correspondent, a bright young chap who knows it all, and then some. The senator wide enough to see that this newspaper man can be of great use to him. He engages him as his private secretary and leans heavily upon him, trusting his young adviser to keep him out of the hands of the senate sharks. The boy guides the old man through the early days of the session and points his conduct when it becomes necessary for him to combat a group of senators who attempt to involve the old Mississippi in a shady deal. The names of the players guarantee an excellent performance, among those in the cast being Burr McIntosh, Will Downing, Mary Moran, Genevieve Kane, Beulah Watson, Ella Aubrey, Madge Farren, Harry Stubbs, Charles Stedman, Henry W. Pemberton, Wm. Wolcott, George W. Miller and M. W. Rude.

STEAMER SATURN DISABLED.

Towed Into Marquette Harbor After Engines Had Broken Down.

The steamer Saturn, of the Gilchrist fleet, has been lying disabled in the Marquette harbor since Thursday evening, while she was towed by the Northern Queen, of the Mutual Transit line, from near Stannard Rock. When sighted by the Northern Queen, the Saturn was flying distress signals and was drifting helplessly about in the lake. The Saturn was en route from Duluth to Buffalo with a cargo of iron ore on board. When twenty-five miles east of Manitowish, the lower connection of the piston rod gave way and the piston went crashing through the cylinder head,

The vessel was left helpless and was allowed to drift down the lake before a strong northwest wind. Twenty-four hours after the accident her distress signals attracted the attention of the Northern Queen, and the latter came to her assistance. The vessel was towed into the Marquette harbor, where she will remain until the engine can be repaired. The repairs are being made by Martin Sweder. It is stated that the Northern Queen's owners cannot collect salvage money from the owners of the Saturn, as the vessel has not been abandoned, but that a reasonable tow bill will be allowed.

SLEEPY GRASS IN MEXICO.

Plant Stupefies Horses and May Be of Use as an Anæsthetic.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 29.—"Sleepy Grass" has been known to the Indians of New Mexico for many years, but only of late have the whites become acquainted with its peculiar properties. It is suggested that it may prove of value as an anæsthetic.

The grass grows along small streams and in damp canons and arroyos of the Sacramento fountain region of New Mexico, and nowhere else, so far as anybody knows. When eaten by cattle it puts them into a sleep that lasts from 12 to 24 hours. The cattle seem to experience no ill effects from eating the grass, and medical men who have been told about it believe that there are possibilities in a medical way in it. The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research is making an analytical test of the grass.

The grass for the test was gathered by H. W. Wolcott of Alamogordo, N. M., a brother of the late United States Senator Edward Wolcott of Colorado. Mr. Wolcott, who is something of a naturalist and a botanist, has written about the grass, wrote to medical institutions and scientists, but could find nobody who knew anything about it. Then he interested the Rockefeller Institute in it.

For many years it has been known among ranchers that cattle and horses on eating the grass fall into a deep sleep. Cows turned out for the day would fail to return to the pen at night, and an investigation would disclose them sleeping in some region where the sleepy grass grew. Travelers have tied out their horses in patches of the grass for the night and have been unable to continue their journey until their animals recovered from their sleep. Thus the properties of the grass became known, but nobody attempted to find a use for it; on the contrary, sleepy grass was looked on as a pest, and how to rid the region of it was the question that troubled the ranchers.

When Mr. Wolcott heard the story from the ranchers and from the Indians he decided to test it. Taking several horses into one of the canons where the grass grew luxuriantly, he allowed them to eat their fill, and they ate ravenously. In a short time every animal was asleep and the slumber was not broken for almost 24 hours. Awakening the animals seemed to be a matter of stupor, but in the course of a few hours they were in as good physical condition as ever.

The Indians have for many years used sleepy grass in taming broncos to the saddle. When they get a bronco that they cannot ride they lead or drive him into a patch of sleepy grass and allow him to eat of it. Soon the horse is asleep, and he is then bound and tied. The horse is so stupefied when he is first awakened that he is easily broken.

CANNON TO CARRY THE FIGHT.

Speaker Will Make Several Speeches Before Congress Convenes.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Speaker Cannon's aggressive opposition to the insurgents is making politicians take notice. Some are conjecturing how the president will appreciate the speaker's emphatic declaration of alliance with him, as well as the speaker's pronouncements reading insurgents out of the Republican party. When in the middle West the president said he was glad the insurgents were still in the Republican party.

With the president's O. K. upon their organization in the senate and house, the old-liners apparently intend to ride roughshod this winter over opposition. All fears of successful combinations between Democrats and Republican insurgents seem to have departed. Otherwise the policy of defiance and stern repression which the speaker has forecasted would not be thought of.

Hitherto the insurgents in the house have forced the fighting. Now the speaker proposes to anticipate them. When he was making up his committee last summer he thought of putting the Republicans in the minority column, but abstained. He is now forcing the fighting in their districts. It is understood that the speaker is ready to make several speeches before the convening of congress, setting forth the program of himself and associates for congressional campaign of next summer.

All this means he intends to face the issue of Cannonism, both in the house of representatives and in the country. The federal elections of 1910 will have to do almost solely with members of the house. Accordingly, the speaker can obtain a direct popular verdict in many districts, either at the primaries or through the voting in the following November.

MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s correspondent at New York yesterday telegraphed as follows: "The feeling in regard to the industrial outlook was much improved by a re-amicous relation existing among the various copper producing interests, by which means it is thought that the consumption and disposition of copper metal will be handled in such a manner as to improve the position of the industry. It would be only natural to suggest some profit-taking and a consequent recession in the near future, but we are inclined to think purchases on the declines will prove profitable. Trade reports indicate further expansion in commercial lines, and plans are said to be maturing relative to new financing by various large corporations."

Writing from Boston yesterday, Paine, Webber & Co. had the following to say of the stock market: "The advance in Amalgamated continued today and the stock made a three-point rally, closing at the top. The rest of the coppers were active and very strong. Copper Range and Butte each advanced two points, but Alouez showed the greatest advance, due to the scarcity of stock. The reason for the advance in Amalgamated has not as yet come out, but it will surely be of great advantage to the rest of the market, and we believe the local coppers show the best opportunity for speculation. The Amster stocks, including Arizona Commercial, Corbin and Shannon, are all having a

Copper Metal Prices.

New York, Oct. 29.—The market for standard copper on the New York Metal exchange was dull and nominal today, no prices being made on call. It was understood, however, that the market was quotable at 12.50 and futures. The London market was bullish the greater part of the day, shorts being fair bidders. Reports from the Southwest to the effect that the offerings of wheat from the interior were on the decrease prompted some buying. A St. Louis trade journal maintained the newly set crop in the country in excellent condition. The December opened at 105 1/2; highest, 106 1/2; lowest, 105 1/2; closing, 105 1/2.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—A material falling off in the shipments of wheat from Russia was the basis for considerable strength in the wheat market here today. The close was firm, 1/4 to 1/2¢ higher. Although the prices reacted at times, owing to realizing sales, the sentiment was bullish the greater part of the day, shorts being fair bidders. Reports from the Southwest to the effect that the offerings of wheat from the interior were on the decrease prompted some buying. A St. Louis trade journal maintained the newly set crop in the country in excellent condition. The December opened at 105 1/2; highest, 106 1/2; lowest, 105 1/2; closing, 105 1/2.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s Wheat Summary.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s Chicago's correspondent had this to say concerning yesterday's wheat market: "The traders were certainly kept in a nervous state from first to last today. The market showed decided strength, both early and late. The local shorts were active buyers on the strong early advance. There was no great selling pressure noted at any time. It will not be surprising if the week-end profit-taking gives the market some setback tomorrow, but the short sellers will be timid because of the punishment they re-

Cotton Market.

Paine, Webber & Co. had this to say of yesterday's cotton market: "The market started rather sluggish, but had proceeded no farther than the call when new outside buying appeared and carried prices upward in leaps and bounds to about yesterday's high records before any hesitation was shown. Spot prices were marked up over the entire south yesterday. In fact it was very hard to get any over of the staple to dispose of it, as the future reward promised for holding back is too great. We are now at a price where there are as many pitfalls as there are possibilities, and behind the widespread desire to see cotton sell at fifteen cents there is the suggestion that there must be some sale at that figure. Will the spinner buy at that or will he employ hand to mouth tactics at that level?"

JURIES IN ENGLAND.

They Get Through Their Work Quickly and With Little Fuss.

The working of the British jury system exhibits a marked contrast with that of our own. It is possible that my experience in British courts was exceptional, but in no single instance did I see a juror challenged or rejected. In all of the courts requiring juries the necessary number of men were present, and they were sworn in without question. In the sheriff's deputy court in Scotland the presiding judge gave notice to the jury that he expected to adjourn the court at 2 o'clock and stated that if they could all remain until that hour he would at once dismiss the men who had been called for a second panel. The jurors conferred together and decided to remain until 1 o'clock, whereupon the judge notified the other men to appear at 12:30. The one jury unpannelled for the morning session rendered six verdicts in cases involving prosecutions for thefts, fraud and burglary.

In the court of quarter sessions at Taunton, England, I saw a single jury in one day render eleven verdicts. I found that it was customary in the several sorts of court that I attended for the same jury to act in successive cases. In no instance did I see a jury leave their seats to make up their verdict. Usually the issue before them was made so plain that all who gave attention knew in advance what the decision would be. I made note of an exceptional instance of delay when the court was forced to wait nine minutes for the report of the jury. In this case the judge gave the instructions as hastily as I could in doubt as to what the verdict ought to be.

Cuba probably has the smallest humming bird in the world—Calypte Helenae (named after Princess Christian), but it may have a rival in fineness in a Peruvian species of Acetris. The Calypte Helenae is an exquisite little creature not quite two inches long, with a forked crimson gorget.

TWO ISHPEMING OFFICERS FIND FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY IN THE ACT OF ROBBING A STORE AT 1 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING.

As Officers W. J. Cids and Andrew Johnson were walking along First street yesterday morning, shortly before 1 o'clock, their attention was attracted by a light in the store conducted by E. Mammula, in the Werner block. They observed through the window that the light was in the hands of a boy who was prowling about the place, going through show cases, boxes, etc. Olds went to the rear entrance and Johnson remained at the front of the building. When the boy heard the officer at the back door, he blew out the light and attempted to hide under one of the counters. The officer soon found him, and discovered that he was a lad less than fourteen years of age. The boy's pockets were partially filled with knives, pipes, cigar papers, candy and other articles. Being under sixteen, the officers decided not to take him to jail. The boy was very familiar with the store. He was in the place Thursday night until 10 o'clock, when Mr. Mammula closed his doors. He was apparently reading a novel when the proprietor told him that it was time for him to go home. The lad gained entrance to the store through the rear door, after forcing his way into the shed. The door was fastened on the inside but the boy broke the glass and reached in and removed the fastener. In his haste to get away from the officers he dropped on the floor about $2 in nickels that he was in the act of taking from the cash drawer.

The youngsters who a few weeks ago broke into the Ishpeming Store company's store on Bank street and carried away a lot of trinkets did not heed the warning given them by the officers at that time, as they since committed another theft. They entered the room of a man living on Second street and stole his razor and a number of other articles.

ART ASSOCIATION.
 Chicago Artist Endeavoring to Interest Marquette County People.

J. W. Young, a well known artist of Chicago, who aided in the organization of art associations in the copper country the past few weeks, is in the city. He will endeavor to interest the people of the three cities of this county in art work, and he hopes to prefect associations in the Cleveland mine. The object of the organization is to hold annual exhibits of the work of leading artists. During the past year or so Mr. Young has aided in the organization of more than twenty such associations, and he is confident that the membership is doing much to arouse interest in art work generally. The organizations formed in Hancock, Houghton and Calumet expect to have a membership of 1,000, and plans are now being perfected for exhibits next summer, when it will be possible to get a large collection of pictures than at any other time during the year. Mr. Young has conferred with several leading people here, also at Marquette and Negaunee.

A preliminary meeting will probably be held in this city today to outline plans for the organization. Mr. Young married an Ishpeming girl. His wife was formerly Miss Harvey, who was reared at the Cleveland. Her father, John Harvey, was one of the pioneer workers at the Cleveland mine. The family left here a number of years ago for Ironwood, where Mr. Harvey died a few years later. Mr. Young conducts a studio in Chicago.

BIG HOUSE ASSURED.
 Many Orders for Seats for "A Gentleman from Mississippi."

"A Gentleman from Mississippi" will be greeted by an unusually large audience at the Ishpeming theater next Tuesday evening.

The play is a clever comedy written around a stout and jovial Mississippi planter who has been newly elected to the United States senate. Representatives of the trusts have engineered his election as he is deemed to be just the man they can mould to their own purposes, through feelings of gratitude to the supposed friends who put him there. Langdon arrives in Washington with his daughters and takes up his quarters at the one-time famous haunt of statesmen, the International Hotel. Here he is interviewed by a young newspaper correspondent, "Bud" Haines, who impresses the new senator so favorably that he offers "Bud" the post of secretary. "Bud," catching a glimpse of the senator's younger daughter, at once accepts. He proves a valuable ally and plots Langdon through the dangerous places. A trap is set for Langdon to compel him to work for the establishment of a naval base at a point in Mississippi on the Gulf of Mexico, where the politicians have invested heavily in land. "Bud" discovers the plot and helps Langdon defeat the schemes and to save his honor and fortune. Langdon rewards him by bestowing the hand of his younger daughter on him.

The story is told with a prime view to comedy. What might have been made a very serious situation is usually solved in a ludicrous manner that brings roars of laughter from the audience. There is much quaint Southern humor for Langdon and a breezy impudence for "Bud" that are delightful comedy, and, better still, all the lines and situations are clean and wholesome, the fun depending solely on the bright wit and humor of the dialogue.

The cast is a strong one and is headed by Burr McIntosh and Will Deming. There are also such wellknown players as Mary Moran, Evelyn Moore, Genevieve Kane, Beulah Watson, Ella Aubrey, Madge Faren, Harry Stubbs, Henry W. Pemberton, Charles Stedman, William Wolcott, George B. Miller, Henry Robinson and M. W. Rale.

Mrs. Paul was seventy-five years of age, and is survived by one son and one daughter. Her son is Ed. Paul, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company's station agent at Beacon. The remains were accompanied to the copper country by Rev. J. J. Strike, pastor of the Champen Methodist church, R. Thomas, Samuel Davey, Joseph Mitchell, W. E. Trevail, A. J. Rich and H. T. True.

Upper Peninsula

Church in Course of Erection— At a cost of $5,000, a new church for St. Stephen's Roman Catholic parish is being erected at Loretto, Dickinson county. It is expected the edifice will be occupied before the first of the year. Rev. Father Stenglein, of Vulcan, is pastor of the church.

Buy More Timber Lands— Lemox & Shafer, of the Soo, have recently added to their timber holdings in Luce county for the purchase of forty additional acres, making over one hundred acres now owned by the firm and which they are to develop. The operations this winter will be on an extensive scale.

Alcohol Ignited— Henry Herman, errand boy at N. D. Morrish's drug store at Sault Ste. Marie, went into the basement after some alcohol and had turned on the barrel tap and was filling the bottle when a sheet of flame shot up suddenly, caused him to drop the bottle with a crash and rush up stairs where he breathlessly told Mr. Morrish that the basement was afire. While pails of water were being hurried on the floor, Mr. Morrish called the fire department. The application of the chemical extinguisher soon had the blaze out. The flames had eaten their way up the side of the wall and had a nice start on the ceiling. The stock was little damaged, a few hundred dollars probably covering the loss. What caused the fire is a mystery to the proprietor. The boy, when he went to the basement, carried no matches with him as the basement is strung with electric wires. Mr. Morrish's only theory is that the youngster stepped on the straw mat and a flying spark ignited the alcohol.

Old Landmark Coming Down— Old McKinley Hall, one of the landmarks of Menominee, will soon be wiped off the map. Wreckers are now at work tearing down the structure. The building is being wrecked for the lumber in it. The old hall has a history remembered fully by but a few Menominee residents. The plot where the building was located was donated to the Presbyterians in 1808 by the Kirby Carpenter company. The Rev. Henry Looper is a New York woman, cleared the land with his own hands and the building soon resulted. In contributing to the building a well-known former Menominee resident gave his contribution with the statement: "I believe in churches as a business proposition; they are a damned sight cheaper than jails." Services were not held in the church after 1886, when the present Presbyterian church was completed. It was later purchased by the late S. M. Stephenson and renamed McKinley Hall.

Notes of Logging News— J. O. Blunt and John Engstrom of Iron Mountain have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of engaging in the logging business. The firm has recently concluded deals for the purchase of the timber on seven tracts to the north and east of the city and may increase their holdings. Centers have been chosen with loggers for three camps and more may be started. The firm expects to bank over $2,000,000 feet of logs, pine and hardwood, and will also cut considerable pulpwood and several thousand ties.

At Foster City, Dickinson county, the Morgan Lumber & Cedar company has started logging operations for the coming winter, having two camps with fifty men in each camp, and another camp will be started later with fifty more men. The company will log about 10,000,000 feet this season. At Hardwood, Archie Farol has a logging contract for the Spies Lumber & Cedar company and expects to put in 3,000,000 feet. He has 2,300,000 feet cut by E. D. Adler has ordered a traction engine to be used hauling logs from his camp to Grand Spur on the Groveland branch, a distance of six miles. He expects to haul 40,000 feet of logs each trip. Robert Gerster has a crew of fifty men employed at his logging camp at Carey's Spur. William Shady, of Sagola, has purchased five tracts of timber land adjacent to the Sagola-Channing road from Christ Wilson, of Anama, and will put in a small crew of men and log one forty this winter.

A large cut will be made in Mackinac the coming season. There will be few contracts of timber of any extent in which there will not be something doing. Six Ignace lumbermen have holdings in all parts of the county and besides these there are the big mill interests of the western end—the Hudson Lumber company at Garnet, the E. N. McLeod at Rexton, Naubinway Lumber company at Naubinway, the Freeman Lumber company at Engadine, and Cook, Curtis & Miller at Cutis—all of which are planning on getting out all the timber possible. That there is a better tone in the market, with better prices in view, is evidenced by the optimistic view of the operators generally. There is a demand for timber and lumber of all kinds a condition which has not existed for nearly two years, and the outlook for a prosperous season is excellent. Chas. F. and David E. Murray of St. Ignace and Joseph Finkel of Hessel have formed a co-partnership to engage in the lumbering of a tract of about 4,000 acres northeast of Hessel. They already have begun work and will build extensive camps for their operations.

In Baraga county, the Baraga Lumber company has established one camp at Point Abvay and will open another one shortly. About 6,000,000 feet of hemlock will be cut between now and spring. Each camp will employ about sixty men. An important deal was consummated when Fred W. Nichols, agent for the St. Mary's Mineral Land company sold to the Wisconsin Veneer company of Rhineland, Wis., a large tract of valuable timber covering township 26-29 in Keweenaw county. It is one of the largest stands of hardwood in the Keweenaw peninsula. It is roughly estimated that a million and a half feet of red oak alone will be taken out. The purchase carries with it the right to cut standing timber. The oak is original growth and because of its burly character is peculiarly suited for making fine veneer, to which use it is to be put. A large camp already is being established in the heart of the tract, and logging operations will be commenced as soon as weather conditions favor. The logs will be sledged to Lac la Belle, whence they will be taken at the opening of navigation next summer to Ashland by scow, and transported thence by rail to Rhineland, where they will be turned into high-grade veneers for furniture and cabinet making.

The Sparrow-Kroll Lumber company's mill at Kenton, in the southern end of Houghton county, has ceased operations after a most successful season. The cut is upwards of 15,000,000 feet. William Kroll reports that the company will not log extensively this winter. The lumber industry, he says, has picked up considerably, and while prices for the poorer material are low, the company has been receiving a good price for its better grade lumber. There is a rumor that a hardwood mill will be erected in Kenton in the near future. It is understood that local and outside capital are interested.

The Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company's cordwood camps in the vicinity of Dunham and Marquette, on the Gogebic iron range, which have been closed for two years, will be started up again as rapidly as men can be procured. The Northwestern Co. of Chicago & Lumber company's mill at Gladstone has been turned over to the owners by the contractors and is now going into commission. The plant is built entirely of steel and concrete and is a model of its kind.

ISHPEMING SUNDAY SCHOOL ATHLETIC CLUB

REPRESENTATIVES OF CHURCHES OF THE CITY INVITED TO ATTEND MEETING TUESDAY EVENING AT THE Y. M. C. A.

A meeting of those interested in the organization of a Sunday school athletic club will be held at the headquarters of the Young Men's Christian association next Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. A constitution will be adopted and an indoor baseball schedule will be arranged. All Sunday schools or churches desiring to enter teams in the league are requested to have representatives present, as no entries will be received after Tuesday night. Teams are to be made up of boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen years who are regular attendants at Sunday school or at churches where there are no Sunday schools.

The members of the Y. M. C. A. are manifesting much interest in athletics, particularly basketball and football. Many hotly contested games during the winter. Teams are to be organized by practically all of the classes, and there will be from one to two or three games a week after the regular class work.

The classes being conducted evenings are growing in size steadily. English reading and speaking classes for foreigners have had a larger proportionate increase than any other and the members, as a rule, are apt students and are making excellent progress.

Mrs. Abby Smeltz Burnell will be a special attraction for the regular Sunday afternoon meeting, to be held tomorrow in the main lobby, Mrs. Burnell is making a tour of the upper peninsula, presenting her story of Menarche. Tomorrow evening she will appear at the Presbyterian church, under auspices of the Men's Sunday Evening club. Her story is a dramatic recital of life in India. In addition to Mrs. Burnell's discourse at the Y. M. C. A. meeting, appropriate musical numbers will be given. An orchestra will be present and there will also probably be two or more vocal numbers. There will be no admission charge, but a collection will be taken at both meetings to cover the expense of bringing Mrs. Burnell to the city.

The young men who attended last Sunday's meeting at the association building were entertained by a musical set from the Swedish Lutheran church, also by a duet by Messrs Skoglund and Hult. Charles Burt, president of the association, gave a common sense address on "Enthusiasm." He brought out in a forceful manner that success is not achieved without enthusiasm in the cause for which one is working. He emphasized the thought that true success was not the acquiring of wealth, but was reached a step at a time by true education and the forming of right habits, which make good character.

HOWE'S PICTURES. Famous Moving Picture Producer to Send His Company Here Soon.

Lyman H. Howe is to send one of his companies to this section next month. Its date at the Ishpeming theater will be Thursday, Nov. 18.

The company coming here recently established new records for big business at the Garrick theater in Philadelphia, the Hippodrome in Cleveland, Ford's in Baltimore, the Lyric at Cincinnati and the Shubert at Kansas City. In a letter to the manager of the theater, Mr. Howe writes: "We are bringing you exactly the same great program which broke all records for big business at the theaters mentioned. It is a kind of program that grips everybody, inspires enthusiasm and creates talk for weeks to come." The dramatic critic of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin said of the pictures: "Thrills and awe and glory. You would be an excellent title for Lyman H. Howe's new program. There are at least a dozen real thrills—all different in kind—and they leave one with the most delicious sensation imaginable. And the best part of it all is that there is not the least risk to one's person or the danger of attack of nerves. First of all comes the thrill of looking down from a fighting topmast on a battleship with all the big guns roaring, volumes of smoke curling in great wreaths and everybody on the alert as in real battle. It's just absolutely amazing as the real thing and a hundred times more safe. Then there are other thrills—thrills of admiration at majestic grandeur of the Rockies in mid-winter; the frozen splendors of the Ice Palace and winter carnival at Montreal; the exhilarating skating rinks, tobogganing, etc.—the thrill of regret at seeing the giants of the forest laid low by the woodman's axe. Again the barbaric, yet romantic beauty of the Gorge Du Var, France, will inspire a thrill of ecstasy at nature's handiwork; and the peaceful charms of sunset and moonlight on land and sea produce a thrill of exaltation of spirit. These and many other thrills of pleasure and of admiration await the spectator."

In their writing, the Chinese make use of at least 214 groups of signs, each group containing from five to 1,354 separate characters.

FRIGHTFUL FATE AVERTED. "I would have been a cripple for life, from a terrible cut on my knee cap," writes Frank Disberry, Kelliker, Minn., "without Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which soon cured me." Infallible for wounds, cuts and bruises, it soon cures Burns, Scalds, Old Sores, Boils, Skin Eruptions. World's best for Piles. 25c. At The Stafford Drug Co.

BOTH BOYS SAVED. Louis Boon, a leading merchant of Norway, Mich., writes: "The boys of Foley's Honey and Tar absolutely cured my boy of a severe cough, and a neighbor's boy, who was so ill with a cold that the doctors gave him up, was cured by taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Nothing else is as safe and certain in results. Sold by all druggists.

FROM MORGAN'S CURB LETTER.

"The New York market opened higher, with Amalgamated and Steel the features. These stocks were well bought and advanced about two points. The strength was attributed to renewed talk of the perfecting of an organization which would control the copper industry, and to improvement in political affairs in England from a financial standpoint, together with professional short covering in this country.

In Boston, the entire list, with few exceptions, was higher, while the Coleman issues displayed the greatest activity for the year, with trading and gains about equal in volume in Green-Canaan, Butte Coalition, Gironx and North Butte. The Calumet & Hecla stocks were all strong and higher, though trading was light. Boston apparently sees some regulation of the copper industry near at hand, though no authentic confirmation can be had. Wyandotte was stronger on the reported strike next Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. A constitution will be adopted and an indoor baseball schedule will be arranged. All Sunday schools or churches desiring to enter teams in the league are requested to have representatives present, as no entries will be received after Tuesday night. Teams are to be made up of boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen years who are regular attendants at Sunday school or at churches where there are no Sunday schools.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

Miss Elizabeth Patterson has arrived home from Minneapolis and St. Paul, where she spent the past two weeks visiting relatives.

Rev. C. L. Adams, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will give an illustrated sermon especially adapted to children tomorrow morning at the 10:30 o'clock service.

The members of the Ishpeming High school football team will go to Marquette today on the 1:50 train. A round trip rate of fifty cents has been granted by the South Shore management.

The members of Mrs. Spitzer's division of the Presbyterian church will conduct a rummage sale some time in the near future. The time and place where the sale will be held will be announced in a few days.

The Ishpeming city football team will play its first game of the season tomorrow afternoon at the Union Park grounds with the Negaunee Tigers as their opponents. The contest will start at 2:30 o'clock, and the admission will be fifteen cents for men, with ladies free.

The advance in the prices of the leading copper issues yesterday was the means of attracting a number of the Ishpeming people to the brokerage offices. There was an unusually large trade in a number of the coppers and it was the busiest day the brokers have had in several months.

A. C. Braastad, Fred Isaacson and Eric Hult, who have spent the past week in Chicago for F. Braastad & Co., will arrive home this morning. While in the city they purchased a complete line of holiday novelties for the toy and crockery department, also the fixtures and furniture for the second floor departments.

Children's and infants' bonnets and coats, bear skin leggings and mittens in the most approved styles. Prices always right. (10-29-24) JOS. SELLWOOD & CO.

ENTERS MEXICAN FIELD. Fruit Company to Raise Bananas and Run Ships to Galveston.

City of Mexico, Mex. Oct. 29.—The development of the banana industry by large independent financial interests in the states of Tabasco and Campeche and the exportation of large quantities of the fruit from Mexico to the United States via Galveston has caused the United Fruit company to turn its attention to this country as a possible source of its supply of bananas for the trade in the middle and western portions of the United States. Representatives of the United Fruit company are said to have acquired extensive tracts of land along the navigable rivers in the state of Tabasco. Part of this land is already planted in bananas and the remainder is to be placed in the fruit as rapidly as possible. Preparations are being made by the company to apply to the Mexican government for a concession for the operation of its fruit steamers between Mexican points and Galveston.

The United Fruit company has had control of the banana trade for many years, obtaining its supply of the fruit chiefly in Central American countries. The fact that the Gulf is successfully grown in the lower Gulf coast region of Mexico and that the cost of transportation between the banana districts of this country is much less than between Central American points and New Orleans and Mobile is the cause of the proposed change in the base of its operations by the United Fruit company, it is said. Some of the growers in Mexico have had difficulty in producing a marketable fruit, owing to the fact that the

S.S.S. RIDES THE SYSTEM OF CATARRH

Catarrh comes as a result of impurities and morbid matter in the circulation, and is a disease that only attacks mucous membranes. The entire inner portion of the body is lined with a delicate skin or covering of soft, sensitive flesh. Thousands of tiny blood vessels are interlaced throughout this mucous surface, and it is through these that the inner membrane receives its nourishment and is kept in healthful condition. When, however, the blood becomes infected with catarrhal impurities the tissues become diseased and Catarrh gets a foothold in the system. The early stages of Catarrh are characterized by such symptoms as a tight, stuffy feeling in the head, watery eyes, buzzing noises in the ears, with partial deafness and often difficult breathing and chronic hoarseness. These are merely symptoms, and while sprays, inhalations and other local treatment may temporarily relieve them, Catarrh cannot be cured until the blood is purified of the exciting cause. S.S.S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its head, and removes every particle of the catarrhal impurity. Then the mucous linings are all supplied with fresh, pure blood, and allowed to heal, instead of being kept in a constant state of irritation by the catarrhal matter. Special book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

FORTUNE LAID BARE BY FLOOD. Copper Mine About to Be Closed Suddenly Shows Great Riches.

Denver, Oct. 29.—On the verge of abandoning his copper mine and then to reap a fortune as the result of the floods in Mexico, in which nearly 2,000 souls lost their lives, is the odd experience that has befallen John C. Hancock of Denver.

Hancock, with three St. Louis men, bought a copper mine near Guadalajara, Mex., about a year ago. The four put about $7,000 in the venture, but it failed to pay. Hancock recently sold his chief engineer to close the mine and sell it if possible. Two days afterward he received a wire from superintendent to hold his claim, and later came a more detailed telegram, stating the El Lucero mine had developed a vein of copper four and half feet wide and running its entire length. The discovery was the result of a mountain slide, which carried away tons of dirt and exposed the vein. The vein led to others and the mountain slide was responsible for the opening of other veins of ore, which will total $500,000 in value, it is estimated.

The mine is not far from Monterey, where the loss of human life was greatest. Mr. Hancock, who has just returned from Mexico, said that it has been raining steadily there for weeks, which caused the landslide and the great loss of human life. On his claim, he says, it rained heavily for seventy-two hours, which forced the mountain side to cave and roll a distance of 1,000 feet. Instead of abandoning the mine, a force of men will be put to work and active mining operations will be begun.

If a girl can make a man jealous it's a sign that she has him going.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

WELL RECEIVED AT GREENVILLE

CHASE S. OSBORN DELIVERED PRINCIPAL ADDRESS AT THE BANQUET OF THE REPUBLICAN CLUB.

Chase S. Osborn, who delivered the first address he has given since he declared himself a candidate for governor, was well received Thursday night at the banquet of the Republican club at Greenville, Montclair county, where he was greeted by a cordial audience which penetrated his remarks with applause. He said:

A state becomes more and more every day a great business corporation. The governor might be called a general manager and the legislature the board of directors. In a sense there is competition between all the states of the Union; rivalry as to state pride; the carrying out of state policy; the realization of state ideals; all combining to make life as easy and pleasurable and safe as may be possible under human conditions. If Michigan were the best managed state, it would sooner or later create the highest citizenship and attract the most desirable people. Its citizenship today is above the average and so, I believe, is its administrative record. But we should not and will not stop with this. Good state government means the least offensive enforcement of law consistent with good order and good morals; the lowest cost-compatible with doing our state duty and the happiest commingling of sentiment and art with which is practical. Whatever is good for the individual or family is good for the state, or, conversely, that which is genuinely beneficial to the state is likewise wholesome for the unit. With this in view it ought not to be difficult to determine our duty. If our brother is crippled in mind or body or morals so as to impede his life, it is our duty to care for him. Hence we shall always have our penal and eleemosynary institutions and always they will cost more to maintain, but the cost will increase proportionately to our growth in population and wealth. That the average burden will not be too heavy, with good management.

Michigan and the other states carved out of the Northwest Territory sustain a somewhat different relation to the general government from other states. The thirteen original states, in the nature of a contract or treaty, between Virginia and the United States, and the latter trusts us to carry out the provisions of that agreement concerning the performance of state duties in the very best manner. Without taking a single backward step, it would appear that there are many advantageous things that Michigan might do.

One great need is the modernizing of the state's business. If the Standard Oil company or the United States steel corporation, or the Michigan central railroad were to conduct their business affairs so wisely as some states manage their business, their failure would have been colossal as their success has been tremendous. There are many things to be learned and applied from the business methods of great corporations. In Michigan there is much duplication of work. This should be corrected. A great reform might be wrought and much money saved by systematizing and unifying the work of purchasing state supplies. In this regard the purchasing departments of great business organizations may be studied with profit. This important public work should not be done by Tom Dack and Harry, as at present.

At the present time conservation is a great fad in the land. The idea is good, but it should not be carried to wild extremes. In Michigan conservation should be accomplished gradually, without haste or great expense to the state. Farmers should be encouraged to keep wood lots and grow trees on their farms and fence lines. This could be inexpensively done by the state supplying the young trees. In the state are over 50,000 acres of public highway.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.
Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. State Zine, Ind. will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine dribbling by day or night. Double rows of trees could be set out along all these. With a wood lot on every farm and trees growing along every highway, Michigan would never suffer from lack of arboral growth, and the great fire danger to which solid forests are subjected would not exist. There are still great forests in the state. These should be protected from fire and at least a portion of the expense might be charged directly to the owners. A system of taxation might be devised under which encouragement would be given to forest owners not to harvest their trees. Fire lanes might be required and the forest debris laws should be perfected and enforced.

Diffuse Agricultural Knowledge.
There should be a greater and more common diffusion of agricultural knowledge and means to this end should be provided. Elementary agriculture, covering floriculture, horticulture and arboriculture should be taught in all of the public schools, both in city and country. Children should know about the germination of seeds and about the soil. County agriculture schools in which this elementary work could be made more complete should be encouraged. The state of Georgia has thirteen county agricultural schools. This elementary work, supplemented by the county agricultural school, would equip every pupil for farming, if he or she cared to take up this important activity. In this manner too, a great increase would be brought about which would result in higher standards among farmers, and better conditions of farm life.

On Primary Reform.
Primary reform is a result of progressive evolution in popular government. There seems to be a world wide in this direction, resulting in the weakening of autocracy and theocracy. In China, Japan, Russia, Turkey and elsewhere. If primary reform should vitiate individual public interest, then it will have been justified. The law is not perfect yet, but there is no reason why it may not be improved from time to time. At the present, it very properly, to a degree, prescribes how candidates for office may not seek to influence the public. In this direction it might be well to make it unlawful for candidates to make large or small contributions to the nomination of autocracy and theocracy. This is one way often taken to influence voters by the wholesale and would seem only to be one form of indirect vote buying. A sub-department of information and publicity would be a good thing for Michigan. There are millions of acres of undeveloped lands in Michigan that are just as productive as the lands the government is reclaiming in the west and are nearer the market. This western reclamation work is in advance of necessity and should have the earnest attention of Michigan's delegation in congress. If the government is going into wholesale reclamation, Michigan should have its share of the work and money. Its deserts may be shown.

There are many districts in which expense may and should be reduced in Michigan without impairing efficiency or neglecting duty. One governor in two years may not be able to do much, but he ought to be able to inaugurate some progressive advantage so meritorious as to command approval. Thus will efforts for good administration be cumulative and more than compensate for such embarrassments as naturally fall to a brief tenure in office.

HOW SHE CHEATS UNCLE SAM.
What won't women do to cheat the customs officers? The New York Tribune relates that at a recent luncheon where smuggling was under discussion a tale was told that would have put any customs officers on his guard against the rich traveler forever after. The smuggler was a friend of one of the luncheoners, and had brought over a lot of diamonds concealed in the little plastic casings at the hem of her chiffon dress. These casings usually hold little lead pellets or clippings, and the customs officers evidently have never thought of them as a hiding place for gems. This was the woman's crowning achievement, but she has other ways that are dark for throwing dust in the eyes of officials. The customs people never trouble her about clothes, it appears, because she has a lot of dress belts with the names of New York dressmakers that she can put in trunks bought abroad and when worn a little they look quite "New York."

MONEY COMES IN BUNCHES.
To A. A. Chisholm, of Trenton, N.Y., now, His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from nervousness, torpid liver, constipation, indigestion, and general debility," he writes. "I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, no ambition, grew weaker every day in spite of all medical treatment. Then used Electric Bitters. Twelve bottles restored all my old-time health and vigor. Now I can attend to business every day. It's a wonderful medicine." Infallible for Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Blood and Nerves. See at The Stafford Drug Co.

THE BED-ROCK OF SUCCESS.
In a thick, black brain, backed by indomitable will and a resolute energy, Smith power comes from the splendid health that Dr. King's New Life Pills impart. They vitalize every organ and build up brain and body. J. A. Harmon, Lizenor, W. Va., writes: "They are the best pills I ever used." 25c at The Stafford Drug Co.

Making Good Lifts—
The commercial fishermen at Grand Marais are making fairly good lifts at present and the outlook is that the fishing will be good the balance of the season. Besides the naphtha fleet there are a few small boats fishing out of the port. This makes an industry of no small importance.

Water System Installed—
Every house in the Baltic mining location near Standau, numbering about forty, is now connected with a water works system. The water is pumped from the Greenhook exploration into a tank on the top of a hill and then by gravitation is furnished to each house through pipes laid in the streets. This enterprise on the part of Pickands, Mather & Co., the operators of the mine, is thoroughly appreciated by the people.

Pastor Resigns Charge—
Rev. Frank Hallock, pastor of Grace Episcopal church in Marquette for the last two and one-half years, has resigned his pastorate to accept another charge in Jersey City, N. J. He has taken an important part in civic affairs of Marquette and was one of the organizers of the Young Men's Christian association composed of business men and others who meet regularly to discuss subjects of interest in civic life.

Possums Get Away—
George J. Campbell, of the Soo, superintendent of the commissary department of the South Shore railroad, received a couple of possums the other night from a friend staying in the Soo. They were placed for a while in the show window of a hardware store where they attracted more or less attention. The possums broke out from the box in which they were confined at night, and it was two days before they were discovered. One was found asleep in a box on the topmost shelf in the store, while the other had found a hiding place in the basement. Mr. Campbell now has them safe in a strong box.

Parish Fair Very Successful—
The bazaar conducted at Escanaba by the ladies of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic parish proved a great success. Rev. Father Langan, the pastor, says: "I am most certainly pleased with the result of the bazaar that is just closed. We cleared approximately $2,000 and that in the face of opposition. I desire to express my sincere thanks to every member of the congregation as well as every merchant of the city and all who contributed to the brilliant success that was scored."

Enters Gilmore's Boxing School—
Art Alford, the Hulbel pugilist, has gone to Chicago, where he will undergo thorough training with Harry Gilmore, the well-known fighting trainer. Gilmore has the reputation of turning out some of the best men in the country. Alford's friends feel confident that the Hulbel man will make good. He has weight, strength, endurance and punch, all of which are necessary to one who wishes to follow up the boxing game. He has an abundance of confidence in himself and should come home from Chicago better equipped than ever.

Poisonous Draught Killed—
Mistaking a bottle of strychnine for medicine which he had been taking for several days and swallowing a portion of the contents before realizing his blunder, Peter Semer, one of Delta county's oldest and most respected residents, died at his home in Portage Creek, Wis., last night at Portage Creek. Less than two minutes after he took the poison a call was sent to Menominee and a doctor hurried with all possible speed to the scene. But he was too late. The deceased was close to seventy years of age and had been in the country for nearly four decades. He was born in Luxembourg, was reared to manhood in that province and came to Escanaba, Mich., shortly after he reached his majority. For many years he lived at Escanaba, but he had recently returned to live on his farm. He is survived by his wife, sons, George, John and Peter and daughters Carrie and Elsie.

30 Years of Success
The B. M. Hyde Co. Offer a Remedy for Catarrh. The Medicine Costs Nothing if It Fails
When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when it offers that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Mucro-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success in his record.
We receive many good reports about Rexall Mucro-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Mucro-Tone is, it would be the only demand for it.
Rexall Mucro-Tone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effect tends to disinfect and cleanse the entire mucous membranes tract to destroy and remove the parasites which injure the mucous tissues, to soothe the irritation and hereby the secretions stop the mucous discharge, build up strong healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the mucous cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. It is comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and a feeling of buoyancy.
We urge you to try Rexall Mucro-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Mucro-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Marquette only at our store.—The Rexall Store, The Stafford Drug Co.

WILL WIND UP BUSINESS TODAY.
Hugo Mueck, who is to retire from the retail meat and provision business, will close his market tonight, but he will be at the shop on Monday to receive customers desiring to settle their accounts. Mr. Mueck has disposed of a considerable portion of his stock of merchandise during the week and he expects to close out the remainder to one of the dealers today. He has in the neighborhood of 500 customers, some of whom have been trading at the market for many years. Hugo Mueck has been connected with the business ever since he left school, having learned the trade under his father.

LOCAL LACONICS.
Den Smith and Paul Honkavara of Palmer arrived home yesterday from Chicago, where they spent four or five days on business.
Mr. and Mrs. George F. Shadden of Cleveland, who have been the guests of W. A. Garner and family for a week past, left yesterday for their home.
Will J. Mans arrived home yesterday from a visit of several days in Minnesota.
There was a drop of about ten degrees in the temperature here yesterday, and it is generally expected in view of the cold wave that is sweeping over the entire country that there will probably be a further drop in the temperature before it becomes warmer.
From present indications the death rate in Negamue will be considerably lower this year than last, as fewer than 100 deaths have occurred here since the first of the year. In 1908 there was a total of 161. If the monthly average during the past ten months of the year is not exceeded in November and December the total number of deaths will not be above 115.
The Negamue high school football team will not have a game tomorrow, but the members are practicing hard for the contest a week from tomorrow with the Ishpeming deft. Marquette today and wins from Negamue next Saturday. It will have the championship of the county. Next Saturday's game will be the last contest between the two eleven, unless Negamue wins. In that event another game will be played, as the first one was a tie.

ACTIVITY IN COPPERS.
Rumors of Big Amalgamation Has Caused Revival of Interest.
Negamue people financially interested in copper properties kept a close watch on the stock market yesterday, and the brokers had a busy day answering queries. Because of rumors of a big copper combination which will be that trade that the United States Steel corporation is to the iron and steel industry, most of the leading copper issues moved upward. It is reported that yesterday was one of the most active days of the Boston stock market has had in months, the volume of business being unusually large.
The conviction that the Cole-Ryan interests, the Amalgamated Copper, the Guggenheims, and Phelps, Dodge & Co. are planning a combination of the copper industries under their control is growing and it seems to be the opinion of mining men here, who are in touch with the situation, that such a merger would be the best thing that could happen to the copper market at this time. This conviction is largely reflected in the buying of the leading shares in all of the eastern markets. It is very generally admitted that if the proposed consolidation is effected, the price of copper metal will soon advance. This will stimulate interest in the copper shares and as a result all of the leading issues should show substantial gains. Many people in this county have been holding copper shares for anywhere from one to four or five years past and they talk as though they will be glad of an opportunity to liquidate them.
It is rumored, in connection with the consolidation talk, that W. E. Corey is going to leave the steel corporation to accept a berth with the proposed copper combine.

ITALIAN-AMERICAN FEDERATION.
Negamue Men Will Aid in Management of New Organization.

Felix Chiabotti and A. Cavallo, who attended the convention of representatives of the Italian societies of the upper peninsula at Iron Mountain, Sunday and Monday, for the purpose of organizing a grand lodge, were well pleased with the treatment accorded them. The Italians of Iron Mountain made extensive preparations for the entertainment of the visitors, who were met upon their arrival Saturday evening by a brass band and a large delegation of the Iron Mountain members. A torch light procession followed and the evening was enjoyably spent. The convention convened Sunday morning and meetings were held throughout that day and Monday.

Both Messrs. Chiabotti and Cavallo, also Emanuel Cazzallo of this city, were honored with offices in the new organization, which is to be known as the Italian-American Federation of the Upper Peninsula. Mr. Chiabotti is one of the honorary presidents and he is also a vice president, and Mr. Cavallo is a member of the board of directors. Frank Arteri of Princeton is another member of the board of directors and Joseph Anzeroli of Princeton is a vice president. Vincent Vario of Calumet is grand president; Attilio Castiglione of Calumet is grand secretary; Dominic Zana, South Range, first vice president; Emanuel Gzalle, Negamue, second vice president; John Scavaria, Iron Mountain, treasurer; Joseph Graepiano, Norway, is assistant treasurer.

It is estimated that the federation will have at the start not less than 4,000 members and it is expected that this number will be greatly increased in a short time. It was decided to call the first assessment of funds to provide for the death benefit about Jan. 1. The assessment will be $1 for each member. No death benefits will be paid until the members have paid into the treasury $2 per capita. The matter of the time when the first death benefit will be paid was left to the discretion of the board of directors, who were also authorized to call the necessary assessments for the maintenance of the federation and the payments of necessary benefits, not exceeding $1,000. A committee was appointed in each city and town to interest Italian immigrants in citizenship.

It was decided that the federation shall prepare exhibits for the Italian national exposition, which is to be conducted at Turin, Italy, in 1911. Exhibitions will be entered through the Italian chamber of commerce of Chicago, and will appear in the United States department. Italians throughout the upper peninsula were some time ago invited to prepare these exhibits.

WILL WIND UP BUSINESS TODAY.
Hugo Mueck, who is to retire from the retail meat and provision business, will close his market tonight, but he will be at the shop on Monday to receive customers desiring to settle their accounts. Mr. Mueck has disposed of a considerable portion of his stock of merchandise during the week and he expects to close out the remainder to one of the dealers today. He has in the neighborhood of 500 customers, some of whom have been trading at the market for many years. Hugo Mueck has been connected with the business ever since he left school, having learned the trade under his father.

LOCAL LACONICS.
Den Smith and Paul Honkavara of Palmer arrived home yesterday from Chicago, where they spent four or five days on business.
Mr. and Mrs. George F. Shadden of Cleveland, who have been the guests of W. A. Garner and family for a week past, left yesterday for their home.
Will J. Mans arrived home yesterday from a visit of several days in Minnesota.
There was a drop of about ten degrees in the temperature here yesterday, and it is generally expected in view of the cold wave that is sweeping over the entire country that there will probably be a further drop in the temperature before it becomes warmer.
From present indications the death rate in Negamue will be considerably lower this year than last, as fewer than 100 deaths have occurred here since the first of the year. In 1908 there was a total of 161. If the monthly average during the past ten months of the year is not exceeded in November and December the total number of deaths will not be above 115.
The Negamue high school football team will not have a game tomorrow, but the members are practicing hard for the contest a week from tomorrow with the Ishpeming deft. Marquette today and wins from Negamue next Saturday. It will have the championship of the county. Next Saturday's game will be the last contest between the two eleven, unless Negamue wins. In that event another game will be played, as the first one was a tie.

It was reported yesterday that Frank Rousing, who has returned to permit the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic Railway company to use its right-of-way through his land for a track to the Milwaukee and Davis mines, received a telegram from Robert Ewing, the owner of the farm, telling him not to interfere with the railroad company, as he had given up his lease of the strip included in the right-of-way before he left the city. It is assumed that this will be sufficient to convince Mr. Rousing that he has no legal grounds for preventing the company from making the improvement, and it is expected that matters will be adjusted so that the work can soon be started.

IRON STREET TO BE IMPROVED NEXT YEAR

MAYOR WINTER BELIEVES THAT CRUSHED ROCK MACADAM WILL BE MORE ACCEPTABLE TO PEOPLE THAN PAVEMENT.

Many Negaunee people are wondering when the council will improve Iron street, the bad condition of which caused much unfavorable comment this fall. For several days the mud was ankle deep on practically all parts of the thoroughfare. It was by far the worst looking street in the city and from the opinions expressed it is clear that the tax payers want it rebuilt.

Mayor Winter, as well as other members of the council, wanted Iron street rebuilt this year, but certain preliminary work must be done before it can be permanently macadamized. The mayor said yesterday that the management of the Marquette County Gas & Electric company has been asked to put in new rails, also to extend service connections to its gas main opposite every building on the street, so that it will not be necessary to tear up the surface after the macadam is laid. It is proposed to put in much heavier rails than are now in use, and it is expected that the company will get at this work the first thing in the spring.

Another thing that will have to be done, the mayor says, is to remove the telephone and electric light poles from the gutters. During the past few years more than 100 poles have been removed from Iron street, but in spite of this there are considerably over 100 still standing. Many of the poles Mr. Winter says, are unnecessary, and he expresses the opinion that the council will order the telephone companies to remove them to the alleys and back streets.

Many Negaunee people have expressed the hope that the council would decide to pave Iron street, but Mayor Winter says that the expense would be so great that the taxpayers would surely object. He is satisfied from the work the board of public works has done this fall on Park street, which has been macadamized with crushed rock, that this material will make one of the best streets to be found in the upper peninsula, and that it will need but little attention after it is properly put in. It is proposed to remove several inches of the gravel from Iron street and build up a solid foundation of three courses of crushed rock. The rock has been tested by experts and pronounced first-class for street paving. The crusher plant worked perfectly this fall and it is conveniently located for the haul to Iron street.

During the past summer a number of concrete cross walks have been put in after it is properly put in. It is proposed to remove several inches of the gravel from Iron street and build up a solid foundation of three courses of crushed rock. The rock has been tested by experts and pronounced first-class for street paving. The crusher plant worked perfectly this fall and it is conveniently located for the haul to Iron street.

The council will ask the street railway management to order rails and other material this winter so that the change can be made the first thing in the spring. The idea of removing the street railway from Iron to Jackson street has been practically abandoned and the line will remain on Iron street indefinitely.

The roads leading to Marquette and Ishpeming and the outlying locations were never in as good condition as they are at this time. The city has spent a considerable sum in improving the thoroughfares the past two or three years, and as these roads will not need any particular attention for a few years to come the board will be able to give the business and principal residence streets attention next year.

A Blow in the Back.—An overcoat is a necessary nuisance and the tendency to take it off on warmish days in late autumn and winter is as strong as it is unwise. A treacherous wind hits you in the back and the next morning you have lumbago. Rub well and often with Perry Davis' Pinker and you will be astonished to find how quickly all soreness is banished.

ELKS MEMORIAL.

Three Lodges of County Will Probably Hold Exercise Here This Year.

The Elks lodges of Negaunee, Ishpeming and Marquette will join forces this year in holding their annual memorial exercises, and it is likely that they will be conducted under auspices of the Negaunee lodge. The services last year were held at Marquette and it was proposed then that they be held this year at Ishpeming, but the officers of the Ishpeming lodge have asked that they be held here instead. The matter will be brought before the lodge by Exalted Ruler T. A. Thoren at its regular meeting next week. If the lodge is appointed an arrangement committee will be appointed and steps taken to perfect the plans. The exercises will most likely be held in McDonald's Opera House.

At the last meeting of the Ishpeming lodge a committee was appointed to confer with the Negaunee and Marquette lodges with a view to completing arrangements for the exercises, and it is understood that if they are held here there will be a large turnout from both cities. A prominent speaker will be engaged to deliver an address, and one of the members of the Negaunee lodge will present the eulogy. An appropriate musical program will be given in connection with the exercises and the families and friends of the members will be invited to attend.

REFORESTATION IN THIS STATE BEGUN

IMPROVEMENT OF MICHIGAN AND MARQUETTE NATIONAL FORESTS IS UNDER WAY.

WILL GUARD AGAINST FIRES

Tracts to be Patrolled and Fire Breaks Are to be Constructed—Will Plant White and Norway Pine.

The Michigan and Marquette national forests, located in this state, have been placed under administration, and actual work toward the improvement and better utilization of these areas for forest purposes has begun.

The two new national forests will be administered from Au Sable. They have been placed under the charge of S. N. Higgins, who has had many years of experience in forest work and lumbering in northern Michigan. Provision has been made for the employment of a sufficient force of forest guards to protect these areas adequately during the dangerous fire season, and funds have been made available for the beginning of planting and improvement work immediately on a small scale.

The Michigan national forest covers 132,770 acres on Au Sable river in Oscoda, Iosco, Alcona and Ogemaw counties. This is an area of sand jack pine and scrub oak lands which have been repeatedly burned. With the exception of a few scattered clumps of Norway pine and small patches of spruce and tamarack swamp, it contains no timber of commercial value.

The Marquette national forest, including some 30,000 acres, is in the northern peninsula near Sault Ste. Marie and Chippewa county. It contains mainly sandy pine lands which were originally well forested with white and Norway pine but have been cut clean and in most instances severely burned. These old fires are not now producing any forest growth except in scattered patches where jack pine is replacing the original timber.

Now Devoid of Good Timber.

While these two small national forests are at present practically valueless from the lumbermen's standpoint, they lie in the very center of the original pine belt of northern Michigan, including soils which are very largely unfit for agriculture, but most of which are naturally adapted to the production of the white and Norway pine timber which once made this region the greatest lumber producing district in the United States. There is, therefore, a great need for their protection and careful management much of these areas can be again restored to pine forest and this will be the object of the federal government in their administration.

The chief and most necessary work for the forest officers charged with the administration of these lands will be that of fire protection, both by patrol during dry periods and by the construction of fire breaks through clearing narrow strips around the areas, the protection of which is most urgent.

The second and equally important task is the gradual reforestation of the portions of these two forests which are capable of producing a valuable growth of timber. This work will serve as an object lesson for what can be done with at least a part of the large areas of burnt over land in the lake states. White and Norway pine, natives of this region, will be used chiefly, but experimental tests on a small scale will be made of other species. As soon as practicable, the lands embraced within the forest boundaries will be carefully examined and classified in reference to their suitability for forest planting, the areas best adapted to successful reforestation will be selected and plans made for collecting seed and beginning planting operations. It is probable that a forest nursery will be started on at least a small scale next spring and the work of planting pushed as rapidly as the available funds of the forest service permit.

Patented Lands Not Affected.

The acreage of these national forests does not affect in any way the patented lands or unperfected claims which may be included within the forest boundaries. The status of all such lands remains unchanged, the only question being decided by the forest service being to report from time to time, as requested by the department of the interior, upon the unperfected claims to determine the compliance of the claimants with the federal land laws under which such claims were initiated.

The district forester of district No. 1, which includes the national forests in northern Michigan, held an examination for forest rangers at Au Sable on Oct. 25 and 26 for the purpose of selecting competent men for the permanent force for the administration of these two forests.

PARTY LARGELY ATTENDED.

K. O. T. M. O. W. Dance Last Evening Was an Enjoyable Event.

The dancing party at Fraternity Hall last evening, given by the Knights of the Maccabees of the World in celebration of the first anniversary of the organization of the lodge in this city, was largely attended and all spent a delightful evening. The hall was handsomely decorated, part of the decoration of the Knights of Columbus hall having been retained, and were augmented with Halloween ornaments and lodge emblems. In the neighborhood of 100 couples were in attendance and tripped the light fantastic until the "new moon" hours to the music of the Peerless orchestra. About midnight the dancers took an intermission and enjoyed a luncheon at the Colonial Inn.

PLAY STARTS NEXT WEEK.

New Plan for League Contest to Be Tried by Marquette Bowlers.

The management of the downtown bowling alleys has hit upon a new plan for a league contest that has not been tried before at Marquette and which has met with strong approval among the bowlers. It will be a five-man handicap contest in which the individual bowlers will receive handicaps according to their average scores. The teams will thus be approximately of equal strength and the contests will be closer and more interesting than heretofore.

The following bowlers who usually average 165 or over will be put down at "scratch," and will receive no handicap: E. W. Allen, H. O. Bell, M. H. Foard, F. G. Jenks, A. E. Miller, O. Mans and W. H. Van Iderstine. Each other bowler will be given a handicap for the first round of the contest equal to the difference between his average last season and 165.

An effort will be made to have one strong bowler on each team for the steadying effect upon the other members of the team. At the end of the first round the handicaps will be revised in respect to the averages made in that round, with a view of making the conditions at all times as fair and equal as possible.

A meeting of all the bowlers interested will be held at the alleys at 8:30 this evening, at which the handicaps will be announced and the teams selected, and play will commence next week. It is believed that this plan will be very popular and successful, as it has been wherever tried at other places.

MICHIGAMME RIVER WILL BE BRIDGED

STRUCTURE TO COST $5,000 TO BE BUILT JOINTLY BY DICKINSON AND MARQUETTE COUNTIES.

The Marquette and Dickinson county road commissions are advertising for bids for the construction of a bridge across the Michigamme river, about two miles north of Floodwood, which structure will form a part of the proposed highway connecting the two counties over what is known as the Witch Lake road.

The bids must be in the hands of the commission by Nov. 10th. Each bidder must submit complete detailed drawings and specifications, covering the design of the proposed bridge, and materials to be used. The latter must conform to "Cooper's Specifications" of highway bridges and to the general specifications on file at the offices of the county clerk, Marquette and Dickinson. The successful bidder will be required to enter into a joint contract with the commissioners of the two counties and to give satisfactory bonds, aggregating $3,500, for the faithful performance of the contract and of the payment of all material and labor claims. The bridge is to be completed not later than July 1st next year. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to accept any bid they may deem to be to the interest of the two counties.

The estimated cost of the bridge is $5,000. The specifications call for a single-span, steel truss bridge, 120 feet long and not less than eighty feet between piers and the bottom chord not less than eight feet above the water line. The roadway will be sixteen feet in the clear with a reinforced concrete floor not less than six inches thick with a concrete curb not less than six inches high and six inches thick. The bridge must be of sufficient strength to carry a live load of 100 pounds per square foot, also for the passage of a twenty-ton steam road roller having seven and one-half tons on each rear wheel. The foundations, piers and wing walls will be constructed of concrete.

The contracts for building the highway will also be let at an early date. The counties will expend $5,000 each during the coming season.

INJURIES PROVED FATAL.

Timothy Griffin Passed Away at St. Mary's Yesterday Noon.

Timothy Griffin, who suffered a compound fracture of the skull by falling into the hold of the steamer Ionia at the L. S. & I. dock last Saturday, passed away at St. Mary's hospital about noon yesterday. Immediately after the accident, the injured man was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where an operation was performed, and for a few days he made satisfactory progress and it looked as if he might recover. On Wednesday, however, he developed unfavorable symptoms and declined steadily until the end. Mr. Griffin was born in Huron county, Ontario, forty-nine years ago and came to Marquette county in 1882, where he has since made his home, with the exception of one year, when he was employed in the construction of the Duluth & Iron Range railway in Minnesota. Since having been a resident of this county, he has almost constantly been identified with the furnace industry.

He was one of a family of ten children, the second youngest, all of whom were living until his demise, and all of whom, except two brothers residing in Canada, were at his bedside at the end. Besides, he leaves a wife, whom he married at Ashfield, Ont., sixteen years ago, and five children, ranging in age from fourteen to two years.

The brothers and sisters left to mourn his untimely death are: P. W. Griffin, of Marquette; James and John, of Kintail, Ont.; Mrs. Mary Cashen and Mrs. D. G. O'Connell, of Taconite, Minn.; J. B. Flynn, of the Soo; Mrs. John Haley, of Ishpeming; M. J. Griffin and Mrs. John Fitzhenry, of this city.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's cathedral with interment in Holy Cross cemetery.

REVIVAL OF MUSIC AND LETTERS IN IRELAND

MYLES MURPHY TALKS OF GREAT AWAKENING AMONG THE PEOPLE OF THE EMERALD ISLE.

Myles Murphy, of New York, one of the leading lights of the Irish literary revival, was a visitor in Marquette yesterday, arranging for the presentation here of "A Gentleman from Mississippi," at the opera house a week from tonight.

While Mr. Murphy is one of the best known managers of an amusement company, he is also a writer on Irish history and literature. For many years he was the American representative of the Irish Literary society of London, which has numbered among its members most of the brilliant writers of the Celtic race living in Ireland and England.

"There is a marvellous awakening in Ireland at the present time," said Mr. Murphy at the Hotel Marquette yesterday, "and I am almost tempted to prophesy that in another generation or two the musician will go to Ireland for their inspiration as they do now to Bayreuth and Italy."

"Last year I arranged a concert tour for the famous tenor, Joseph O'Hara, and accompanied him throughout Ireland. To my surprise a new national spirit had arisen and was permeating the whole island. People who had paid no particular attention to the beautiful old Celtic melodies now were enthusiastically cultivating a knowledge of them, and even the lower classes were picking up the old songs and singing them with the deepest affection. The great importance of this movement lies in the fact that the children of the coming generation will become so saturated with the strange characteristics of the Irish music that those who may develop a genius for composition, as many will in this new wave of progress, will utter their thoughts in a style strongly tinged with these characteristics. This is how the great Norwegian school of music was founded. The mother of Edward Grieg sang him to sleep in his cradle with old Norse melodies. As a boy he heard and loved them. A German education in music did not shape his thoughts, it merely taught him how to express them in the best musical form, and he gave to Norway a national school of music."

"The Irish are a musical people and they are responding with enthusiasm to the calls for musical festivals. It is really wonderful to note the rapid increase in the number of bands and orchestras in Ireland and many of them are of a high grade. In Limerick alone, a city of about 30,000, I found no less than seven bands."

"Irish literature is also beginning to attract attention from famous literary men and women. The workers up to the present time have been doing the drudgery, getting the material, the material for the high school grand opera librettos can be found here also in the legends of Cuchullin and Finn, and some day the poet and composer will come who will make another Bayreuth out of Dublin."

"The condition of the Irish people through the country. Since they have become their own landlords they no longer fear to improve the property lest their rent should be raised. It is delightful to note the pretty cottages and flower gardens that have taken the place of the shabby tenement houses of twenty years ago. With contentment will come artistic development, and I am sure it will not be long until Ireland will be heard from, musically and in literature."
