MR. TAFT BRAVES GREAT DANGER

He Faces an Army of Amazons Who Want the Ballot and He Has the Courage to Express a Contrary Opinion.

He Frankly Tells His Auditors That He Is Not Altogether in Sympathy With the Movement, and Then He Actually Is Hissed—He the First Chief Executive of the Nation to Ever Greet a Convention of Woman Suffragists.

Washington, April 14.—President Taft is the first chief executive of the nation to ever greet a convention of woman suffragists. He braved the danger to-night of facing an army of women who want the ballot and was hissed when he had the courage to confess his opinion. Mr. Taft was welcoming the delegates to the convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association.

He frankly told them that he was not altogether in sympathy with the suffrage movement. He said he thought that one of the dangers in granting suffrage to women was that the women as a whole were not interested in it, and that the power of the ballot as far as the women were concerned would be controlled by the "less desirable class." Here a chorus of hisses arose.

Mr. Taft stood unmoved and then, smiling, said: "Now, my dear ladies, you must show yourselves capable of suffrage by exercising that degree of restraint which is necessary in the conduct of governmental affairs by not hissing." The women who hissed were rebuked. There were no more hisses while the president continued:

"If I could be sure that women as a class would exercise the franchise, I would be in favor of it. At present there exists in my mind considerable doubt. Permit me to say that the task before you in establishing your political rights is not in convincing men, but in convincing your own class."

When the president concluded, he shook hands with Rev. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the association, and other leaders. Many of the delegates expressed themselves as humiliated over the hissing incident.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma, endorsed the suffrage movement and dared any man to get up and answer his arguments. "Some man who did not rise shouted 'Tyranny.'" The delegates laughed.

At the conclusion of the session it was announced that a public demonstration would be made by the delegates in an open air tomorrow afternoon in front of one of the public buildings, probably the Capitol.

SHE DISAGREES WITH ROOSEVELT.

Mrs. Baker, Suffragette, of Spokane, Declares Against Large Families.

Washington, April 14.—"Ten years hence to be the father of ten or twelve children will be as much a disgrace as being a confirmed drunkard is at present," Mrs. Baker declared Mrs. Lavinia Baker, of Spokane, Wash., a suffragette who will be heard along an original line of thought at the convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association, which opened in this city today. Her studies of children all over the world, she said, had convinced her that "not more than 10 per cent of them are children of love and that the other 90 per cent are not wanted."

"Roosevelt, poor ignorant man," she continued, "urges large families, but I tell you it is quality we want, not quantity."

A petition to congress advocating the enfranchisement of women will probably be presented Monday, and the delegates will be given a hearing Tuesday.

VOIGHT IS ORDERED DEPORTED.

German Cobbler Figures in a Bit of Humor at New York.

New York, April 14.—Frederick Voigt, the German cobbler who made the world laugh when he seized the town of Koenigsberg, using a borrowed captain's uniform and pressing into service a detachment of the kaiser's soldiers, figured in a new bit of humor today. Voigt, after a pardon by the kaiser, suddenly bobbed up in New York. Today the immigration authorities arrested him and ordered him deported as an undesirable alien. Voigt smiled and, producing a ticket to Germany on a steamer sailing tomorrow, said, "I beat you to it." Had Voigt postponed by his transportation another day, the trip to Germany would have cost him nothing. Hence there is doubt as to who is the goat.

BEVERIDGE'S IDEAS APPROVED.

Eleventh Indiana District Republicans Nominate Candidate for Congress.

Marion, Ind., April 14.—John L. Thompson was today nominated for congress from the Eleventh district by a Republican convention held here. ## "TEDDY" AND HIS SON RIDE IN GONDOLAS.

They Spend Twelve Hours in Venice and Then Leave for the Austrian Capital—The Duke of Abruzzi Calls, and They Talk of Their Travels.

Venice, April 14.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit spent twelve hours here today, leaving this afternoon for Vienna. They enjoyed a trip in gondolas about the city and visited points of interest.

The Duke of Abruzzi called on Mr. Roosevelt, and they talked of their foreign travels. Grand Duke Ferdinand of Austria was at the same hotel as Mr. Roosevelt, but they did not meet. The duke and his morganatic wife, who was Countess Sophia Chetk, did not know that Mr. Roosevelt was there until the visitor was leaving.

Mr. Roosevelt was frequently recognized and respectfully saluted while sight-seeing. Many Americans insisted on shaking his hand, and two American girls, passing in a gondola, called out so spontaneously that the colonel waved his hat. The mayor and prefect of Venice called and extended an official welcome to the city.

Will Stump New York.

New York, April 14.—Theodore Roosevelt will take the stump next fall in behalf of the Republican candidate for governor, according to a statement which will be published tomorrow morning in the World and credited to Roosevelt's friends.

LORD KITCHENER MAKES CHICAGO A SHORT VISIT.

Famous English Soldier Sees No Reason Why International Peace Should Not Continue, but He Says That "It Pays to Keep One's Powder Dry."

Chicago, April 14.—Lord Kitchener, the famous English general, stopped here for a brief period today on his way from the West to New York. He took a short ride about the city as the guest of General Fred D. Grant. He said he saw no reason why international peace should not continue, but stated that "it pays to keep one's powder dry." It was England's policy to always be ready. He said that the construction of the Panama canal was the best move the United States had ever made.

Speaking of conditions in the Pacific, Lord Kitchener said: "I wish I knew what the future would bring forth for the Pacific. It is gratifying to us that for that helps to simplify matters. But only by the movement of shipping in the future can we tell what part the Pacific will take in history. My whole view of the future is one made peaceable by the force of arms."

EXCITEMENT IN COMMONS.

Asquith's Plan of Dealing with the Lords Carries by a Large Majority.

London, April 14.—Amid scenes of intense excitement, the house of commons tonight by a majority of 103 recorded its approval of Premier Asquith's resolution dealing with the veto power of the house of lords.

Mr. Asquith said that if the lords failed to accept the plan the government would advise the crown as to the steps necessary to insure the policy receiving statutory effect. Unless the government could give its policy effect, it would either resign office or recommend the dissolution of parliament.

Mr. Balfour, the leader of the opposition, said that the premier's statement represented the culmination of long negotiations with the Irish party, the Nationalists having agreed to swallow the budget in order to get home rule. The Irish members appeared highly pleased with Mr. Asquith's statement.

MISSION BUILDINGS BURNED.

Rice Riots in China Assume a Decidedly Serious Aspect.

Pekin, April 14.—The rice riots at Changsha, which began Wednesday, continued. The buildings of the Methodist and Norwegian missions have been burned. There is no report from the Yale mission. ## BATTLE IS WAGED IN THE HOUSE

Representative Martin of Colorado Makes a Fight for the Inside Facts Regarding the Sale of the Philippine Friar Lands.

He Makes Various Charges, but Loses Out, His Resolution Being Tabled—Mr. Rainey of Illinois, too, Assails the Sugar Trust, and It Is Agreed That, if Not Incompatible With the Public Interest, the Customs Frauds Shall Be Investigated.

Washington, April 14.—If not incompatible with the public interest, President Taft will tell the house what facts, if any, exist which would make it inexpedient for the house to enter upon an investigation of the frauds in the customs service, especially in connection with the disclosures of the sugar trusts. A resolution by Mr. Fitzgerald, of New York, was adopted by the house today. It is believed the president, later certain legal conditions with the trust attracted attention. Another interesting feature of the day was a battle for the inside facts regarding the sale of the Philippine friar lands that was waged by Representative Martin of Colorado, who charges that in that sale the so-called "sugar trust" has been unduly favored. The fight was productive of a mass of documents from the war department, but the Martin resolution calling for detailed and specific information was tabled by the house.

Mr. Martin declared that the correspondence corroborated the charges that the friar lands were not being bought by individuals, but for the sugar trust. He protested against the motion to table, saying that it was simply a move to prevent the further airing of the deal. He said that Chairman Olmstead, of the insular affairs committee, had refused to let him see the information, and he added that he may "formulate specific charges against the administration of the Philippines."

NO CORRUPTION FOUND.

Mississippi Senate Asks the Resignation of the Man Who Made the Charges.

Jackson, Miss., April 14.—After rejecting a resolution by a margin of one vote to expel State Senator Theodore Bilbo, who claims that he accepted a bribe of $645 in exchange for a promise to change his vote from Governor James K. Vardaman to Senator Leroy Percy during the recent senatorial contest, the Mississippi senate tonight adopted another resolution demanding that Bilbo tender his resignation. The Vardaman members bolted on the introduction of the resolution. Then the senate adopted a resolution declaring that the senatorial contest was without improper influence and free from corruption. The acceptance of the money, Bilbo explained, was a secure evidence of irregularities in connection with the contest for the senatorship. The senate has been investigating the case for weeks. Senator Percy is expected here tomorrow to make a lengthy speech in connection with the case.

SENATE ADOPTS AMENDMENT.

Authority Over Water Transportation Is Denied the Commerce Commission.

TRACTION STRIKE FINALLY SETTLED

Motormen and Conductors at Philadelphia Vote to Accept the Terms Offered by the Rapid Transit Company Officials.

They Quit Their Runs the 19th of February, Since Which Time Twenty-Eight Persons Have Been Killed by Street Cars as a Result, It Is Claimed, of the Employment of Inexperienced Men—Wages at St. Louis Are Increased a Cent an Hour.

Philadelphia, April 14.—A committee composed of representatives of the striking motormen and conductors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company tonight voted in favor of accepting the settlement offered by the company through the representatives of the American Federation of Labor. The terms of the settlement were not made public but it was said that they include many features of the proposal made through Mayor Reyburn March 29, when the company agreed to take back all the strikers and guarantee them $2 a day until regular runs can be secured for them. The cases of the 174 men whose discharge precipitated the strike Feb. 19 will be submitted to arbitration. The news of the settlement came as a great surprise, as it was generally believed that all negotiations were over. Since the beginning of the strike twenty-eight persons have been killed by street cars. These accidents, the strikers claim, were caused by inexperienced motormen.

St. Louis, April 14.—The United Railway company announced tonight a voluntary increase of one cent an hour to all employees on the St. Louis car lines, numbering 3000, effective May 1. The new scale will have a minimum of twenty-two cents and a maximum of twenty-six cents an hour.

Escanaba, Mich., April 14.—[Special.] A match factory that eventually will be one of the very largest on the globe is to be established in this city. It is a project of Theodore Schneider of Big Bay, Mich., and Escanaba lumber interests. Mr. Schneider is the Upper Michigan representative of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, with mills at Big Bay, Marquette county. He was here yesterday, and as a result of his visit the organization of the match company was effected. Associated with Mr. Schneider in the venture are some of the largest lumbering interests of Escanaba and vicinity. The factory will utilize refuse from the sawmills of Escanaba and Wells, and it will be equipped with machines that will turn out the completed match automatically and at one operation, even to coloring, counting and boxing the product. The plant will be capable of producing several carloads of matches daily. Construction work will be started at once and it is planned to have the factory in commission a few months hence. It will be a notable addition to the industries of Escanaba.

LANGFORD SCORES ANOTHER KNOCKOUT.

In a Vicious Fight in the Vernon Arena, the Negro Defeats Jim Barry of Chicago in the Sixteenth Round of a Scheduled Twenty-Five-Round Bout.

Vernon, Arena, Calif., April 14.—Sam Langford, of Boston, knocked out Jim Barry, of Chicago, in the sixteenth round of a scheduled twenty-five-round battle this afternoon. A straight left to the chin told the story. It was a vicious goall through, with the negro well in the lead after the first six rounds. From the tenth, in which Barry twice went down for the count of nine, until the sixteenth it was one-sided. Langford landed almost at will, Barry surprised the crowd with his strength, despite the terrific bombardment, and a rally in the fifteenth inspired his backers with the hope that he would yet outlast Langford.

Barry's weight was given at 166 and Langford's at 166 pounds. In a clinch in the third round Barry almost threw Langford through the ropes. From then until the eighth the milling was a mixture of terrific slugging rallies and fighting, but after that Langford got home constantly, looking for a knockout. Lorain O. April 14.—Phil Brock was given the decision over Dick Hyland tonight in a ten-round go.

Jeffries Shows More Ginger.

Ben Lomond, Cal., April 14.—James J. Jeffries returned to the training grind today, with more ginger in his work. He boxed three rounds with Bob Armstrong, and was soon chasing the big negro all over the ring. Bag punching and handball followed. As fast as Jeffries appeared, Berger thought that the big fellow was a bit off in his work. Jeffries is much worried over an impending surgical operation on his wife, and that may account for it. He will be thirty-five years old tomorrow.

MR. TAFT SEES BALL GAME.

Washington, April 14.—President Taft, accompanied by Mrs. Taft, today saw the Washington Americans defeat Philadelphia in the first baseball game of the season. As the game progressed and Washington maintained the lead it took at the outset, the president became as enthusiastic as the most rabid fan and repeatedly applauded the brilliant work of the young Washington pitcher. He remained throughout the game. Vice President Sherman, who rarely misses a game, witnessed the contest from another box.

EARTH SHOCKS CAUSE TERROR

San Jose, Capital of Costa Rica, Is Violently Shaken, as Is the Surrounding Zone, and the People Are Panic-Stricken.

Thirty Successive Tremors Are Experienced Within Thirty Hours, and the Vibrations Continue—The Losses So Far Are Upwards of $1,000,000—Houses Are Abandoned and by Order of the Government All Business Is Suspended Until Safety Is Assured.

San Jose, Costa Rica, April 14.—During the past thirty hours the city and surrounding country have experienced thirty successive earth shocks. The population is panic-stricken and houses are being abandoned by everybody. The losses so far are over $1,000,000. No loss of life is reported. The vibrations have not ceased, however, and the government has ordered the suspension of business until safety is assured. The first shocks occurring last evening were slight, but they became much more violent and even the staunchest buildings were shaken to their foundations. In several instances weaker buildings were partially wrecked. Communication is interrupted, and details of the damage in the disturbed zone are lacking.

Costa Rica is very mountainous, with a number of volcanoes, some of them active. San Jose, the capital, has a population of 25,000.

STOCK MARKET IS STRONG.

Crop News Is Encouraging, and So Are Other Important Considerations.

New York, April 14.—The stock market today gave further evidence of the ordered and systemized proceedings of the large operative forces which were supposed to be responsible for the advance of the day before. The stocks which were the strongest were subjected to profit-taking at different times today to take advantage of the new demand attracted from outside sources by the demonstration yesterday. The new demand was reported as considerable, as shown by the buying orders received by commission houses.

There was not much specific news to account for the action of the market, but the current discussion dwelt largely on general considerations. The crop news was considered encouraging and the decline in grain and cotton prices emphasized this view. A bountiful yield of the natural products in the proportion that it can be foreseen at any time is of unfailing effect in raising the expectations relative to security values. The collected views of Chicago bankers which made their appearance today dwelt upon this fact with special force and reliance for sustaining the credits entered into in land enterprises and in irrigation projects in the West.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England pointed to a decrease in the demand from that source for the New York gold holdings. The two Hill stocks were strengthened by intimations of coming financing which it was believed might involve subscription rights to stockholders of value. There was a report that the price of lake copper had been advanced by an interest which had made a sharp cut earlier in the week. Dividend increases were the subject of rumors about United States Steel, Pennsylvania and other stocks. There was a belief prevalent that a comprehensive advance in freight rates was in contemplation by the railroads as compensation for the rising wages of the employees.

The bodies of three men were recovered, seven badly injured men are in a hospital and it is said that five or six are still in the wreckage.

The cans of little fish were taken on board the fish tug Theta and distributed by the government employes and Captain Parker.

Census Starts Today—Uncle Sam's census enumerators will start out today to count the people of the United States. The work will be done rapidly and must be completed by May 1. Those who will take the census in Marquette are: First ward, David Carlson; Second ward, Joseph Hogan; Third ward, Rose Patenaude; Fourth ward, W. C. Jellison; Fifth ward, Mary Dooley.

Fruit Still All Right—A Marquette citizen who has been making investigations to ascertain whether the frosts of the past week have damaged the early fruits reported yesterday that he thought that cherries and huckleberries had not been damaged. He stated that Leo M. Geismar, superintendent of the Chatham experiment farm, has made a careful investigation along the same line and was of a like opinion. Cherry buds near Chatham were examined and found to be uninjured and the same was found to be the case with the huckleberry blossoms, which are almost ready to open.

The first boat to arrive will be the Michigan, and the Ishpeming also is due some time Monday. The Pontiac is expected in with a load of coal the first of the week.

After the election of delegates to the great hive convention and officers of the county convention, the visiting members retired to Shea's Hall, where the Negaunee ladies were serving delicious meals. In the evening, Busy Queen and Superior hives of Marquette gave public initiatory work, flag drill and a song under the direction of Deputy Mrs. Keough; also guard drill directed by Mrs. Patterson. The forty-two ladies, all gowned in white, in the initiatory work and guard drill, deserve great credit for their efficient work, and the 300 or more who witnessed the same were loud in their praise.

Taffing—A form of jolly, which may take the place of prosperity. Globo-trotting.

Taffers—Members of the family. What they do, what they say, the clothes they wear, and how they spend each moment. Also relatives of all kinds, distant and near.

Other forms of the genial word will be announced later. All of its meanings have not yet been published. Some say that they will not be permanently incorporated. Some say that it has elements of weakness not yet discernible. Others declare that it is a hybrid word, and is borrowed from the Ted Cycle. That it is being largely used there can be no doubt.

ONLY CONVICTIONS SINCE SEPT. 1, 1909

ATTORNEY GENERAL HOLDS THAT THE WARNER-CRAMTON LAW DOES NOT REFER TO LIQUOR DEALERS CONVICTED PRIOR TO THAT DATE.

In response to inquiries concerning the construction to be placed on certain sections of the Warner-Cramton liquor law, City Attorney Brown asked for and has received the opinion of the attorney general relative to the time since which two convictions for violations of the liquor law will prohibit any such dealer from taking out a license this spring.

The act regulating the liquor traffic took effect in 1887 and the changes made by the Warner-Cramton law were amendments to that act. One of these amendments declares that no license shall be granted to any liquor dealer who has been twice convicted of violating the liquor laws "subsequent to taking effect of this act. Whether this phraseology refers to the adoption of the original act in 1887, or to the adoption of the amendment in 1909, is the question on which the attorney general's opinion was asked.

A letter received from Henry E. Chase, deputy attorney general, yesterday, states that the law should be construed to refer only to convictions that have taken place since last September. The letter received by the city attorney was as follows:

April 12, 1910. Mr. George P. Brown, City Attorney, Marquette, Michigan.

Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of April 8th in which you ask whether or not the provisions of the general liquor law as amended by Act 291, Public Acts of 1909, prohibiting the issuance of a license to any person who has been twice convicted of a violation of the liquor laws after the act takes effect, apply to two convictions since the original act took effect in 1887, or to two convictions since the act of 1909 became operative.

Section 4 of the original act as amended by Act 291, Public Acts of 1909, provides that the board or council shall not approve the application of any person "who has subsequent to taking effect of this act, been twice convicted by a court of competent jurisdiction of any violation of the liquor laws of this state or any other state after this act takes effect"; and also provides: "Every license issued under the provisions of this act shall be upon the express condition that in event of the license being convicted two times in a court of record of violating the provisions of this act after this amendment takes effect, such license shall be revoked, forfeited and becomes null and void, and the license shall be forthwith precluded and debarred from continuing in the retail liquor business."

I do not believe these provisions of the statute can be construed to apply to convictions had before the act of 1909 became operative. The legislature in referring to convictions "after this act takes effect" referred to the taking effect of the act of 1909. That was the act under consideration and it speaks only from the time it became operative. It is our opinion, therefore, that this provision refers to two convictions had since Sept. 1, 1909, whether or not the offenses were committed before or after that time.

Respectfully yours, HENRY E. CHASE, Deputy Attorney General.

THEATRICAL

"Metz in Ireland." Al. H. Wilson, the singing ambassador of German dialect, who sang his way into public favor with the style of love songs and ballads that made the late J. K. Emmett famous a decade ago, comes to the Marquette Opera House next Tuesday evening as the central character in his new musical drama, entitled "Metz in Ireland." As indicated by the title, "Metz in Ireland" contains an Irish atmosphere, but Mr. Wilson loses none of his individuality as a German comedian. He is still the entertaining "Metz" with the droll German dialect, who is ever ready to sing his sweet ballads as he wanders along the byways of Ireland. "Love Thoughts," "Erin's Isle," "The Banshee," "The Nightingale Song" and "Mixed German" are the titles of new songs composed by Mr. Wilson especially for this production.

WILL SOON BE USING SOUTH TRACK

SOUTH SHORE'S LINE, PUT OUT OF COMMISSION BY CAVE-IN, WILL BE OPERATED AGAIN WITHIN A WEEK OR SO.

Within a week or ten days the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company will again begin using its south side line for the movement of ore from the mines to Marquette. The cave-in of the surface above the western end of the Lake Angeline property a year ago last Christmas carried much of the main track. No attempt was made to rebuild the line at that point until recently, when it was decided to fill in the opening and lay the track over practically the same route used formerly. Immediately west of the cave-in the Oliver Iron Mining company utilized considerable space for the stocking of ore from its Section 16 property. The end of this pile is now being removed, in order to make room for the track. The re-establishing of this line will reduce the railway company's expenses considerably in the handling of ore from the mines, as it has been necessary, ever since the cave-in, to pull the trains around on the north side track. Frequently ore trains were delayed.

The mines are now preparing to begin shipping. The Chicago & Northwestern Railway company had calls for cars yesterday from the Lake Superior Hematite and Section 16 properties. The shipments from both of these mines will be confined to the pockets for the time being. The Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company has started shipments from the Lake Angeline and Cleveland Lake properties, and several train loads have already gone forward.

The unusually large attendance at the funeral of the late Peter Fitzpatrick, held yesterday morning at 9 o'clock from St. John's church, was evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. A number were present from Marquette, Negaunee, Escanaba, Marquette and Green Bay. Among the latter were people who had known Mr. Fitzpatrick for upwards of a half century, and several of them had been associated with him for years in railroad work on the Northwestern system, of which the deceased was a trusted employ for over thirty years.

The obsequies were held under auspices of the Ishpeming division No. 1.

THE LATE PETER FITZPATRICK.

HIKE TO GWINN.

A number of the senior members of the Young Men's Christian association will start this afternoon at 4 o'clock on a "hike" to Gwinn, following the route of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's transmission line, which leads out from the Lake mine, extending over the hills around the cliffs. They will return by train, arriving home tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The party will be composed of W. E. Hawthorne, Ted Butler, John McDougall, Don Hayden, Harold Shaddick, Howard Beagohole, Herbert Hodgson, Lee McNeely, Charles Markert, Eskel Lumlun, Will Cooley and Gordon Trengrove.

WEATHER MAN IN COURT.

Uncle Sam's Forecaster Often Called as a Witness.

His Testimony Always Dead and Exact, and He Appears in Cases of All Varieties—His Records Beyond Dispute and Often Contradict Infallible Weather Memories—Some Instances.

Boston, Mass., April 14.—Forecaster John W. Smith has a good many other things to do than to sit in his office at the top of the federal building and form an opinion on the weather. He is an expert witness at more court trials than perhaps any other man in the state, and unlike most expert witnesses, he favors neither the plaintiff nor the defendant and his testimony is irrefutable. For whatever mistakes the forecaster may make in respect to the weather to come (the infallible forecaster and the millennium will arrive the same day), he never makes a mistake about the weather that has gone by. He has it all down in black and white covering every day of the year and every hour of the day from yesterday down to the year 1872. He never trusts to memory; he reads from the records.

It is hardly stretching the truth to say that Forecaster Smith and his record books figure in some trial nearly every day of the year, barring Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. There are times when he gives testimony in three or four courts the same day, and perhaps one of his assistants is somewhere else on a similar errand. Liars may figure, but his figures never lie, hence the value of his testimony. The variety of the cases in which the weather or plays an important part is as astonishing as the number of times that the forecaster goes on the witness stand, ranging from simple cases of injuries from slipping on an icy sidewalk to murder trials. Forecaster Smith has given facts and opinions a number of times in which the defendant was charged with murder or manslaughter, including the Eastman, Tucker and the Annie Mullins trials.

The ways in which weather plays a part in murder trials are numerous. In the Tucker trial, the forecaster was called upon to give an opinion as to whether certain swamp ground was sufficiently hardened by frost to enable Tucker to walk over it without sinking. The point was that unless the ground was in a hardened state, Tucker never could have used the swamp as a short cut whereby he was enabled to cover a given amount of territory after the murder of Madam Page in a specified time. In the Eastman trial the weather element consisted of the direction and strength of the wind to determine if the powder from a pistol shot at a range could be carried away so quickly by the wind that it would not lodge in the clothes or body of the victim.

Aside from matters of life or death, Mr. Smith has had some amusing experiences in the court. No one knows better than he does how fallible the human family is where weather is a point at issue. Mr. A swears that the winter of '82, for example, was one of extreme cold, because he happened to have his ears frosted in one cold day that season and never after his recollection of the winter of '82 is based upon that one cold day. Mr. B remembers that the summer of '82 was abnormally hot, because he was employed in a hospital and ten cases of sunstroke were treated in one day. Both of these men are certain that their memories are the best, but the weather bureau record books show them both in error.

Some Interesting Instances. Recalling some of the instances in which the weather recollections of witnesses in court trials and the actual statistics were diametrically opposed, Mr. Smith tells of one case in which the plaintiff, a young man, was under cross-examination by the late Ben Butler. The plaintiff's suit hinged in great measure on the kind of weather that prevailed on a particular day two years back. This day he described as bright and sunny, a beautiful day. "You are positive about the weather of that day?" queried Mr. Butler. "Absolutely," responded the witness. "I have a remarkable memory for weather."

"Let me see," said Mr. Butler, thoughtfully "what was the weather last Saturday?" queried Mr. Butler. "Bright and sunny," answered the witness. "Yes," said Mr. Butler, "I think I recollect that it was; although I have not as good a memory for the weather as you have."

"What sort of a day was last Friday?" The witness answered without hesitation, and Mr. Butler said: "Well, perhaps you're right; I can't just remember myself."

"What sort of a day was last Thursday?" The witness' memory began to be faulty. He scratched his head, looked up at the ceiling and was about to manufacture some weather for the day when Mr. Butler broke in: "What! Can't remember back to last Thursday; and yet you are so positive about a day two years ago. Now I have a witness here who can tell us exactly what kind of a day that was two years ago; but he doesn't do it from memory."

Thereupon he called Mr. Smith to the stand, and the forecaster read from the records, showing that the weather was exactly the reverse of that described by the plaintiff. Another case involved a suit for damages against a railroad. The plaintiff brought suit on the ground that thick smoke from an engine standing on a siding had enveloped his horse, which took fright and ran away, smashing the wagon. The attorney for the railroad, in cross-examination, asked the plaintiff how the wind was the day the horse ran away. The plaintiff said there was no wind. Persisting in his line of examination, the attorney finally got the plaintiff to admit that there may have been a light, very light, breeze, barely a zephyr.

"Arrested that it was only a zephyr," said the attorney, "what was its direction?" "If it had any direction at all," said the witness, "it was south."

"You can't be mistaken about that?" queried the attorney. "No," was the positive answer. Mr. Smith thereupon was called to the witness stand and read from the records, showing that when the runaway occurred there was a strong wind from the northwest, which would have carried the smoke away from the horse, rather than toward it.

In a suit against the Boston & North-east Street railway, the plaintiff described the night in which he was hurt as dark, stormy and extremely cold, the temperature around zero. Mr. Smith's records showed that it was a beautiful moonlight night, with the temperature 44 above zero.

Some land in Salem was flooded and the city brought suit against the state. Mr. Smith fails to remember the exact basis for the suit. His records regarding the state of weather for several days previous to the flooding thoroughly convinced the court that the damage was clearly to be classed as an "act of God," and not due to the state's negligence. Mr. Smith later received a communication from the incumbent attorney general, thanking him for his testimony and assuring him that it had saved the state a large sum of money.

A somewhat similar case had the city of Boston as defendant and an Italian concern in the North End as plaintiff. In this instance, the cellar had been overflowed, resulting in a heavy loss in stock. The forecaster's records showed that for several days previous to the day in which the cellar was inundated there had been heavy rainfall, together with an unusually high tide. The strong on-shore winds, he never knew how the case resulted, for after he gave his testimony the action turned to the question of whether other cellars in the neighborhood were similarly affected.

Mr. Smith takes a pardonable pride in the parts which he played in the trial of a sailing vessel's skipper for cruelty to one of the sailors, a negro. This negro sued for damages on the ground that the captain had sent him ashore in the North End as plaintiff and had kept him there until one of his fingers were frozen. The defence maintained that the weather was not as cold as described. The lawyer for the plaintiff called upon Mr. Smith and was about to tell him what the plaintiff and other jurists said about the weather, when the forecaster interrupted him, saying: "Give me the date and the vessel's position and let me give my impressions first-hand."

The attorney did so. Then Mr. Smith looked up the records of that day; found what was the temperature at the shore station nearest the vessel's location; took stock of the atmospheric pressure which prevailed and then gave his opinion on what the weather must have been. His opinion coincided exactly with the story of the negro sailor and other members of the crew. Mr. Smith later gave his opinion in court and the case was decided in the sailor's favor. Unfortunately for the negro, the schooner and her captain disappeared before the damages could be collected.

Many times Forecaster Smith has been called in admiralty cases and railway accidents, innumerable have been the occasions of his appearance in court as a witness. Many of these hinge upon the condition of the rails, whether slippery or dry. Falls on icy sidewalks during the winter are another common instance in which he figures. Even divorcement suits have made demands upon his time and records, in such cases the husband accused his wife of having gone driving on a certain day with the co-respondent. The weather records of that day showed that the two must have been madly in love, for the day was one of the stormiest of the season. As a rule, the witness whose testimony regarding the weather conflicts so remarkably with the records of the weather bureau looks foolish and subsides. Not so one witness whom the forecaster recollects quite clearly. This man gave a very positive statement on the atmospheric conditions on the day in question, and it so happened that his testimony was some 40 degrees below of the actual temperature. Mr. Smith was in court ready to testify, and the attorney who was cross-examining, asked the witness if he would be willing to change his testimony on the weather provided Mr. Smith's records proved him in error. The witness gave a most emphatic "No!" "Very well," said the attorney, "I think with that statement from you I can close my case."

The case which the forecaster remembers with the greatest satisfaction was one in which a widow, owning a small amount of property which was her sole source of income, was presented with an exceedingly exorbitant plumber's bill, which she properly refused to pay. As Mr. Smith remembers the case, the sum of the bill was $390. In court, the plumbers admitted that the bill was high, not on account of the amount of material used, nor because of the plumbing skill demanded, but was due to the fact that the ground was so hard with frost that it was almost an endless task to dig down to the pipes. Mr. Smith's records showed that for several days previous to the time that the plumbers began their task the temperatures had been abnormally high, ranging between 50 and 60 degrees and he gave it as his opinion, based upon the weather for some time previous, that there could have been little frost in the ground, if any. The court immediately dismissed the suit, with advice to the plumbers that they present a fresh bill in keeping with the labor performed. The widow later informed Mr. Smith that the repairs eventually cost her $8.

Suits brought as a result of the foundering of the steamer Portland in the November storm of 1898, Mr. Smith was on the witness stand for two days, testifying as to the nature of the storm and in respect to the warnings which were given by the weather bureau in advance of the storm's arrival on the coast. The principal line of examination was in respect to the advance warnings of the weather bureau; and it so happened that that storm was a notable example of the bureau's efficiency in forecasting. Most emphatic warnings had been issued while yet the sky was clear and the weather serene.

VEGETABLES FOR THE NORTH.

Truck Farmers at Tampico, Mexico, Have Started Shipments.

Tampico, Mexico, April 13.—The truck farmers around Tampico are supplying the United States markets with large quantities of early vegetables, many carload shipments being made daily from Tampico and points near here. A number of buyers of American commission houses are on the ground, and the growers are relieved of the trouble and annoyance of marketing their products. The Bermuda onion crop is just coming in, and soon large shipments, both by boat and rail, will be made to the United States. These onions will come into direct competition with those of South Texas. At present the principal shipments from this section are tomatoes. These have been going forward for two or three weeks. It is estimated that about 60,000 crates of tomatoes will be shipped to the United States from Tampico during the present season. Large shipments of string beans, cauliflower and eggplant are also being made to American markets from this section.

Most of the truck farmers around Tampico are Americans who located here within the last three or four years. They have found that growing garden truck for the early spring markets is a very profitable business. A few Chinese are engaged in truck farming here.

TAFT WEEPS AT PLAY.

Hole in His Handkerchief, Observes An Observant Editor.

Winston, Ct., April 14.—Minute observations of the actions of President Taft at the theatre have been made by E. S. Ela, editor of the Manchester Herald, who recently occupied a box seat at a Washington theatre near that of the president. Mr. Ela told all about it in his paper. This is what he noted: 1.—The president doesn't mind being looked at. 2.—His seat is bigger and stronger than the average theatre seat. 3.—His eyes were moist after the sad close of the second act of "The Awakening of Helena Richie."

4.—He did not try to conceal the moisture. Far from it, he drew forth a folded handkerchief, shook it open and applied it to where it would do the most good. 5.—The presidential handkerchief had a hole in it.

HUMAN BONES ON DEPOT SITE.

Coroner Will Investigate the Unearthing of Skeletons at Joplin.

Joplin, Mo., April 14.—Laborers excavating the site of the new union depot, at the corner of Broadway and Virginia avenue, uncovered what appeared to have been a line of graves, in which were found portions of what are pronounced human skeletons by physicians. No skulls have been yet found and the bones are badly disintegrated. The Kansas City bottoms, as the valley between the two parts of Joplin on which the depot is being constructed, is called, has for years been the scene of many crimes. Innumerable shallow, abandoned mine shafts, sunk in the early days, offered convenient hiding places for bodies. The coroner will investigate the graveyard discovered.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Do Forest, Wis.—"After an operation four years ago I had pains down backache, and a weakness. The doctor wanted me to have another operation. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured of my troubles."

Mrs. AUGUSTE VESPERMANN, De Forest, Wis.—"I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LILY PEYROUX, 1111 Kerlere St., New Orleans, La.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirm the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. HEN LAID 29 EGGS IN DAY.

Now a Rhode Island Feathered Wonder Is in a Museum.

Providence, April 14.—It will be 11 years on April 15 since Mrs. Anna McNally, of this city, laid an egg which was laid in a single day. She began to watch them and was not long in discovering that one, a little Plymouth Rock, was so prolific a layer that one nest did not suffice for her needs. This busy little hen was improving nests and laying eggs all over the farm, as it were. The hen was shut up in a coop by herself and after a few days close observation there was no doubt in the minds of Mrs. McNally and of Bernard McNally, her husband, that the white hen was little short of a miracle.

Mrs. McNally on her next trip to the village store told the story of the hen's amazing fruitfulness and a crowd watched from eight o'clock until one in the afternoon and came back and watched the white hen lay her egg. The hen laid six eggs each of which was duly marked with the hour and minute of its taking from the nest and with the names of the watchers, who had ceased to be scoffers. The McNallys became a Mecca to which all biologists and students of men from biological departments of the colleges flocked to see the wonder.

Mrs. McNally kept a record of the eggs laid by the hen for a period of fifty-four days beginning March 28 and ending May 7, on which date she laid nothing but the only good egg, which in baseball parlance, she scored during the nearly two months of her phenomenal laying. She contributed to the product of the poultry farm a total of 1,756 eggs, normal sized, perfectly shelled and marketable. The average of which eggs weighed about twenty-five pounds or nearly six times the weight of the hen, which tipped the scales at four and one-half pounds.

The hen lived till spring of 1903, when she was killed and dissected, to have her secret discovered if possible in the interest of science. This was done, but the little white hen which had been too modest to cackle, even when she was doing stunts at egg producing that amazed the world, had no secrets to disclose.

The autopsy revealed nothing out of the ordinary in the makeup of the bird, and she was stuffed and presented to the Museum of Natural History at Roger Williams Park, where she occupies a niche in the only hall of fame to which a hen ever was admitted.

MOTHER'S PLEA WINS JUDGE.

French Magistrate Shows Leniency When Confronted with Babe.

Paris, April 14.—"It is my baby that you are judging," said a young mother, as she held her child in her arms in a Paris court, where she was being tried for having attempted to stab the father. The judge steered his heart as best he could against her tender appeals, but this task was made more severe by the pathetic eloquence of the baby's mother, Mile. Miropolska, who pleaded for the mother. What was a mere man, though a judge, to do in such a distressing situation? He cut the Gordian knot by sentencing the mother to six months' imprisonment, with the benefit of the first offenders' act. The mother's sobs became hysterical at this point.

"Here, take my baby and nurse it while I go to prison," she screamed, and offered to place it in the judge's arms. It took a lot of persuasion from the judge, the public prosecutor and the lady counsel to make the mother understand that she would not have to go to prison as long as she kept peace.

POLITICS IN RECIPROcity.

Chance for Capital Seen by Leaders at Washington.

An Innocent Resolution Provides for Negotiations with Canada with a View to Establishing Freer Trade Relations—All Democrats and Many Republicans Probably Would Vote for It—There Are Some Sensational Possibilities.

Washington, April 14.—Shrewd politicians are beginning to see good political capital, for themselves, at least in the issue of Canadian reciprocity. Representative Butler of Massachusetts has offered in the house a resolution on that subject and possibly will bring about this innocent document will be decided interesting. The resolution is as follows: "Resolved, That it is the sense and judgment of this house that negotiations with Canada should be instituted at this time with a view to establishing closer commercial ties and freer trade relations with that country; and ordered, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the president of the United States."

Colonel Ames has had this resolution up his sleeve for a long time. He has badgered the wit-out of the old guard with it and threatened that he would hold it over "till Foss got here," if necessary, and jam it through the house anyway. He introduced it, however, several days ago, and it took a week to get a copy of it to the White House. Measures of this kind go to the committee on ways and means for consideration, and at any other time in our national history since 1861, probably a proposition of this kind would have no more prospect of emerging from the committee than one to declare the desk of Alvey A. Adee vacant. But times have changed, and now the Canadian reciprocity question is a good deal of a live issue. Colonel Ames wants the president to urge Chairman Payne to report the resolution out and it is understood that the two gentlemen will confer on the proposition before long.

Taft and Fielding on Record.

It will be remembered that President Taft and Minister of Finance Fielding of the Dominion of Canada are on record in black and white as promising to meet again and discuss the possibilities of freer trade between the two countries. It is not to be taken from his familiarity with the history of attempted reciprocity, President Taft does not realize what a task he has undertaken in even promising to talk the subject over with the statesmen of the Dominion. They have made it very clear, in days gone by, that they had no time to come down here merely for a talk, and the American congress a good many times has made it equally clear that it had no use for the court adopted. The court just been on the verge of a tariff war, which was averted only by a kind of gentlemen's agreement which either side could modify at a moment's notice; and the country is still shivering with a realization of the political and financial catastrophe that has been so narrowly avoided.

A Shrewd Move by Ames.

In other words, while the United States has been indifferent to the value of Canadian wheat for forty years, the moment there was danger of forfeiting that good will and getting into a tariff quarrel, the whole country was disturbed. Representative Ames, as an antidote to the danger from which agriculture is suffering, has capitalized this sentiment and now proposes to work it to the utmost. If he is unsuccessful in getting the committee to report the resolution, he will carry about a petition which, with certain signatures, will have the result of bringing the resolution into the house. The democrats will vote for it solidly, while the number of Republicans who would dare vote against it might be very small. In fact, some Republicans who have talked the situation over say that the votes on this resolution might decide whether they will be returned to congress by their constituents.

This is not a joint resolution and it has no force except as an expression of sentiment. On the other hand, it would place back of President Taft the authority of the great popular branch of congress to go ahead and see what kind of a trade he can make with Canada. So far, he has not shown any authority for taking this step nor should he succeed in negotiating the most admirable treaty imaginable, is there a scrap of law in existence to make such a treaty effective. He must go to congress, and probably to both houses, for the ratification of any treaty he may negotiate.

Should he find himself doing this, it would mean that the tariff question would be reopened in its most acute form. The United States has the closest relations, business and social, with the Dominion of Canada. The country could regard a tariff war with Germany with comparative equanimity, but once he gets into trouble with Canada and the public man or men responsible would be removed from the political map.

Some Sensational Possibilities. Not to take the Ames resolution too soberly, but merely to point out actual possibilities. If the president should make a satisfactory arrangement with the official encouragement of the house, the situation would play up against the senate with startling force. Treaties of this kind are submitted to the house usually to avoid constitutional difficulties, but the real battleground is the senate. For forty years the senate has defeated or pigeonholed reciprocity treaties of any material scope; and the senate could not ratify this one without going back on all its traditions, re-voicing a protest from the most important provision of the Aldrich-Payne law, and compelling a good many dignified and venerable statesmen to eat very unpalatable crow. Congress could hardly ratify such an arrangement with Canada without thereby inviting other countries to propose and accept important concessions—and the whole reciprocity programme would be in full swing. Unless the Ames resolution—and others of the kind which may be introduced—is smothered so effectively that its dying cries cannot be heard by the people, the Massachusetts representative is in the attitude of a fair haired young man stepping up to a barrel of gunpowder with a lighted match.

PROFIT IN EIGHTY-CENT GAS.

New York Company Earned 6.5 Per Cent the Past Year.

Increase of the Net Income Over 1908 Is $2,455,693—Proof of the Justice of the Court Decision—Consumption Has Increased as Result of the Lower Prices.

New York, April 14.—Proof that the eighty-cent rate for New York city has not only been justified by the analysis which the public service commission's chief statistician has issued of the earnings of the Consolidated Gas company and its subsidiaries for the calendar year of 1909. For while the commission's expert, Dr. Webber, has had to correct his figures in one particular following the revision of the figures issued by Vice President Carter of the gas company, the fact remains that the eighty-cent rate has produced net income $2,455,693 greater than the company earned in 1908 and a return of 6.5 per cent on the company's capital stock. This is the proof of the piddling of iniquitous prophecies which the Consolidated Gas company and its friends offered to the public after the supreme court of the United States had decided that an eighty-cent rate was not confiscatory and therefore legal as enacted by the legislature. Its importance lies in the fact that it sets at rest all the talk that the Consolidated, when a sufficient time had elapsed to demonstrate what it would earn under the new conditions, would apply to the courts to have the rate question reopened on the ground that the prospects of increased business on which the supreme court, like Judge Hough of the United States circuit court here, relied, had not been realized.

Taking the court's word as typical, the analysis which the supreme court made of the property and income of the gas company showed that the eighty-cent rate all but provided the six per cent legal return on the property at the valuations which the court adopted. The court predicted that the increased consumption of gas due to the lower rate would more than make up the difference and enable the company to earn six per cent and more upon all the property upon which it was proper that a return be earned as against the consumer. This the company predicted after the decision would never happen, and its various apologists looked hopefully to the time when the fallacy of the supreme court should be demonstrated and the good old times of 81 gas restored. The result confutes these contentions. Not only has a return of better than 6.5 per cent on the company's capital stock been demonstrated, but there has been a most substantial increase in the amount of gas consumed, the very thing that might be expected to be the first fruits of a lower gas rate.

C.S.S. SKIN DISEASES

The skin is composed of two distinct layers. One is known as the epidermis, or outer skin, which has no fibres, and serves principally as a covering to the body, and a protection from outward dangers to the delicate flesh beneath. The other layer is known as the derma, or true skin, and is composed of elastic fibres, fat tissue, glands, lymphatics, nerves, etc. The thousands of tiny veins and arteries with which it is interlaced constantly supply every fibre and tissue with healthful properties from the circulation to keep the skin smooth and perfect.

This is changed, however, when the blood becomes infected with humors, acids or impurities. Instead of constantly supplying rich, nutritive properties to the skin, the circulation deposits the acid impurity with which it is contaminated, into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes irritation and inflammation, which splits or breaks the thin outer cuticle, while the tissues beneath ulcerate and discharge upon the surface in the form of Eczema, Salt Rheum, Tetter, etc. There is likewise a dry form of skin disease, such as Acne, Psoriasis, etc. In these varieties the humor in the blood diseases

One Small Trader Whose Business Has Not Been Absorbed.

One small business that has not yet been swallowed up by the big ones is that of the small trader who makes clothes for men and for women and cleans, repairs and presses.

So as to most of the things they find their way to the tailor over the arm or in a bundle, but the modern young man has discovered another way which is not without its merits and advantages.

Danger in House Amendment to the Naval Bill.

Washington, April 14.—The great shipbuilders of the country will be seriously embarrassed if the naval appropriation bill ultimately is not rid of its provision requiring an eight-hour day in private yards where the new battleships will be built.

Eight hours is the regular day upon all "public works," but a little while ago when it was proposed to extend the eight-hour system to cover battleships, the navy general Wickham came to the fore with an opinion that battleships are not "public works."

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company has a number of men employed installing motors and other electrical equipment at the various mines where power furnished by the new transmission plants recently installed at the Maas mine engine house here and at the central power station on the Swanzy range is to be used.

The management of the company has decided to call its new Dexter property, west of the North Lake mine, the Barnes after the Barnes Land company, which owns the fee. The shaft at the Barnes is now down about thirty feet and an air compressor and hoist, both of which will be operated by electricity, are being installed.

Two new locomotives for the Virginia Mining company at Virginia, Minn., passed through Negaunee yesterday.

Alex Bean, who was severely kicked by one of the No. 2 Hove company's horses a few weeks ago, is getting along nicely, though it will be some time before he will be able to resume work.

Peter Barasa & Co., the local plumbers, have the contract to equip Timothy Hughes' dwelling in Ishpeming with a complete new outfit.

A large party of Negaunee people will go to Ishpeming tonight to see Al. H. Wilson and his company in "Metz in Ireland" at the Ishpeming theatre.

Bids for the construction of the Negaunee National bank's new block, on East Iron street, will be opened today.

Matthew Malloney, who is moving the old Montreal House to his lot on Jackson street, will have to tear down the east wing, which was formerly occupied by the hotel.

SEED BLOWN 100 MILES. From Them Trees Have Grown in Southwest County.

In the light of a recent demonstration it seems a good wind, indeed, that blows no ill, says B. E. Sutherland in the Kansas City Star.

When they came has been a subject of speculation, as no round leaf cottonwoods are found in the Dolores valley, and no seeds could, therefore, have been brought down in the water.

GUILD HALL CIRCUS A BIG SUCCESS

IMMENSE CROWD DELIGHTED WITH MONSTER CARNIVAL THAT OP-ENED LAST NIGHT.

A TONIC FOR THE BLUES

Just the Place to Forget Care and Trouble and Join in a Riot of Merry Making—The Parade.

Like most circuses the Guild Hall carnival and circus has been advertised as a stupendous event, but unlike many circuses, the Guild Hall entertainment was in no way a disappointment. With an ideal night for a parade and for people to be out of doors, the streets were thronged early in the evening, and a large crowd followed the great street parade to the Guild Hall and paid their money to see the show in the big tent
and all the side shows.

Both sides of Front street were lined with people last evening by the time the advance cohorts of the Guild Hall carnival and circus parade made their appearance. The street pageant was one of the most elaborate and altogether unique spectacles of the kind that has ever been gotten up in this city by local talent. There were equestrian riders, wild animals, three bands, floats, ponies, donkeys, clowns, buffoons, and what not else. The procession reached from Washington street to Baraga avenue and was not at all the disappointment which is so frequently the aftermath of much touted circus parades.

The pageant was headed by four equestrian riders, mounted on handsome sorrel steeds. Immediately following was the City band and then six more equestrians, three ladies and three gentlemen.
Our Boys' band furnished music, stationed in the middle of the cavalcade, and the Marquette Finnish band in handsome new uniforms, brought up the rear.

Features of Parade.

Several of the floats and comic novelties are deserving of special mention.
First of all, there was Teddy Roosevelt in African costume riding in a float with an unwillingly submissive tiger lying at his side, roaring and thrashing about the while, his expression indicating that he would like nothing better than to make a meal of some of the bystanders, could he but break the chains by which he was enthralled. In another float were Explorer Peary and Dr. Cook, with two polar bears, the two Arctic discoverers evidently being engaged in a heated controversy over their respective claims to places in the hall of fame.

A most ludicrous feature was a team of draft horses hitched to a two-wheeled logging wagon, attached to which was a little express wagon with a cage in which a beautiful specimen of the species, felis domestica, peacefully reposed and wisely winked apparently oblivious of the excitement. Then there was the famous

Pretzel band and various kinds of clowns, all of which gave the parade a decidedly circus aspect. Two of the most interesting animals were an elephant and a handsome bird, the species of which is yet to be determined by the ornithologists of the Normal school. Black face and white face minstrels and other out-landish personages and animals too numerous to mention filled out the glorious spectacle.

Inside the Guild Hall was brilliancy of color, lightness of heart, and joy and frivolity reigned supreme. It made one think of a mardi gras or a street fair and there was not only something but two or three or four things doing every minute. The building was appropriately decorated with flags and red, white and blue bunting, with attractive little booths in every available corner, where ice cream, pop corn, confetti, lemonade, squeakers and all other carnival necessities were on sale.

Gymnastic Work Excellent.

The program in the assembly room started promptly on time and was even more entertaining than had been anticipated. The girls' drill with wands and dumb bells served as the kind of a curtain raiser that put the crowd in the right humor to enter into the spirit of the show. This was followed by a parallel bar exhibition, which, from a gymnastic standpoint, was one of the best events of the evening. Eight tumblers were next in order and they did some very clever stunts. To enliven each of the acts, two clowns kept "buttin' in"
with ludicrous attempts to imitate the act that had just preceded.

Garbed in farmer costume, the Guild Hall Glee club made its initial public appearance, and sang several songs in a highly pleasing manner. The celebrated "Pretzel band" did an exceedingly comical vaudeville act and was called back twice for encores. The audience paid no attention whatever to the warning
"Don't laugh—it might hurt their feelings," which had been printed on the programs. This closed the first part of the show in the big tent.

Then the side shows were opened and everybody did his or her best to be in a half dozen or more places at once for the next half hour. The swimming and diving exhibition in the plunge room drew large crowds and many of the aquatic stunts approached the marvelous. The under water swimming contest was particularly good. In the gymnasium an equally interesting show of an entirely different character was going on. It consisted of a horizontal bar exhibition, a girls' basketball contest and dancing to the music of a phonograph.

Besides these two attractions, there were numerous other places that made it absolutely impossible to keep your money in your pocket. The "Follies of 1910," Nigger Baby Skittles, "Dance of the Seven Veils" and the fortune tellers all drew their fair share of patronage.

Strong Man Made a Hit.

The closing acts on the main stage consisted of an excellent vaudeville program of six numbers. It opened with a tumbling exhibition that would compare very favorably with acts of like kind done by professionals. The Glee club made a second appearance in more songs, which were equally well received with those rendered in the first part. The strong man who lifted immense dumb-bells with his arms and teeth was one of the decided hits of the evening. The old Florodora and quartet (with varie-tious) were on hand, and the first juitsu exhibition ever shown in the city followed. The program closed with a boxing contest, in which the boxers wore blackened gloves.

Teddy Roosevelt was on hand with a good sized menagerie and made a clever little speech, in which he took off a number of the new paper stories that have appeared during the past few weeks relative to the ex-president.

CAME HERE IN 1853.

Mrs. Antoine Geroux Lived in County
Over Half Century.

Mrs. Antoine Geroux, whose death was reported yesterday morning, had been a resident of Marquette county for over half a century, she having come to Marquette when it was a straggling village in 1853. During her long residence in the county she made her home most of the time here and at Negaunee. Her husband was killed thirty-three years ago at Ten Kilns, at Deer Lake, near Ishpeming, his life being crushed out by a falling tree, and one of her sons, Henry Geroux, was killed in the explosion at the powder mills here four years ago. Three sons, Joseph, William and Mederic, and two daughters, Mrs. Edmund Vadnais of Marquette and Mrs.
Alfred Derosie of Hermansville, Menominee county, survive her. Mrs. Geroux made her home with her grandchildren,
Mr. and Mrs. Hector Pieher, at Michigamme, and she was taken with her fatal illness there. She was taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Vadnais, here April 1.
