The Sunday excursions will be a regular feature, whenever the weather is favorable, and in the evening the launch will run from the island to the city.

Gwin vs. Second Team—Sunday will witness the formal opening of the Marquette-Alger baseball league, consisting of Gwin, Munising and the Marquette second team. Lisleville, who tried out with Marquette early in the season, will be the batter for the second team. A good game is promised and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. There will be street car and automobile service to the fair grounds. Admission will be twenty-five cents, grand stand free.

Bridge and Tea—At a meeting of the wives of the members of the Golf club, held at the home of Mrs. S. S. Ormsbee yesterday, committees were appointed and other arrangements made for giving teas and bridge parties at the Golf club each Saturday afternoon during the summer. The bridge game will begin at 3:30 each afternoon and tea will be served from 4 to 6 o'clock. Messrs. J. E. Hall and A. B. Eldridge will be the hostesses this afternoon. Sale Attraction—One of the most successful sales that has been held at Foster's in some months opened yesterday, when an extensive line of bargains was put on the counters for the delight of the feminine shoppers. The response to the firm's advertising was so immediate and brisk that it was necessary to lock the doors for an hour yesterday morning, until the wants of the customers within the store could be attended to and the press thus relieved somewhat. The store was thronged throughout the business hours. The sale will continue for some days additional.

To Be Wedded July 5—Marquette friends of the parties have received invitations to be present at the wedding of Miss Ruth Melberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Joseph Melberry of Fond du Lac, Wis., to Manford Le Due De Voin, of Marquette, on July 5 at the First Congregational church in Fond du Lac. Miss Melberry is a prominent Fond du Lac society young lady.

Big Picnic at Island—Two picnics were held at Presque Isle yesterday, which together brought one of the largest crowds ever seen on the island. Special trains, sixteen coaches in all, brought down the members of the Islemping and Negawame Methodist Sunday schools of the number of 1,299. Mid-Summer Day being a great Finnish holiday, persons of that nationality from all parts of the county spent the day on the island and a large crowd remained for the dancing last evening. In spite of the large number of people on the island, there was no disorder or disturbance of any kind and the day was delightfully spent by all.

BUTTE-BALLAKLAVA.

The Butte-Ballaklava Copper company filed its first annual statement in the office of County Assessor Sullivan yesterday and makes a remarkably good showing. The company has been making the regular shipments of ore since last March, starting with about fifty tons a day, and now shipping from 100 to 140 tons, and the report shows returns from the one pit of $111,528. For the whole year, the expenditures were $168,939 on the year's operations.

The company shipped 4,925 tons of ore to the Pittsmead smelter up to June 1; 100 tons to the Washoe in one lot and 404 tons in another, a total of 5,329 tons. The Pittsmead shipments yielded $49,250 per ton, and one shipment to the Washoe yielded $18.65 per ton, and the other $9.42. It cost the company $23.85 and $23.90 per ton for mining the different lots, a total of $14,940.

The transportation costs were $985 on the ore shipped to the Pittsmead, $19,720 on the 100-ton lot sent to the Washoe, and $83,160 on the second shipment of 404 tons to the Washoe.

The cost of reduction at the Pittsmead has been $5.50 per ton. The first lot treated at the Washoe was $6 per ton, and the second $3.75, the total paid the Pittsmead being $27,087.00, and the Washoe, $398.00 on the first lot, and $1,517.70 on the second.

For labor during the year ended June 1 the company paid out $86,500; for machinery, $20,000; for supplies, $26,704, and for other improvements, $10,000. The item for labor and supplies includes the cost of development work during the year.

BEDDOW ON THE WITNESS STAND

Defendant in Ironwood Bank Embezzlement Case Telling Court and Jury His Version of the Many Illegal Entries Attributed to Him by Prosecution.

Maintains That He Never Made a Single Entry on the Books With Any Knowledge or Suspicion That It Did Not Represent a Legitimate Transaction.

Owing to the inability of the defendant's attorneys to complete their examination of the bank books up to yesterday morning, no forenoon session of United States court was held yesterday. George H. Beddow, the defendant, was on the stand all the afternoon and his direct testimony had not been concluded when court adjourned at 5 o'clock last night. He was ready with direct and complete answers to all the questions put to him by his attorney, Mr. O'Neill, and though apparently somewhat nervous at first, he soon collected himself and thus far has given the impression of a good witness for himself.

Beddow was asked to give his explanation of each of the many false entries and illegal transactions, charged against him by the representatives of the government, in all of which he testified that he had no guilty knowledge or intent of thereby defrauding, or defrauding anyone, and that none of his acts had resulted in any pecuniary or other advantage to himself.

He stated that he was born in England and was thirty years of age; that he had emigrated to America when eight years old and had settled near Bessemer; that he left school at fourteen and took a position as squire at the Avon mine, was later made timekeeper, and after taking a course in stenography was employed as stenographer in the Oliver Mining company's offices in Ironwood.

While there, in 1904, E. F. Larson had asked him to enter the employ of the bank. Starting without any knowledge of banking, he worked up to a bookkeeper and finally was made assistant cashier, the promotion, however, not carrying with it any increase of salary. Mr. John, he said, told him he had been made assistant cashier so that he could sign drafts, checks, etc. He said Mr. Larson had taught him bank bookkeeping and was in active charge of the bank.

Stanlake Draft Explained.

In explanation of the "Stanlake draft" transaction, he stated that he had ordered fifty shares of stock and before its delivery had gone away on a vacation. When he returned, he found a draft on $500 for the amount of the stock but the stock was not received. Upon inquiry, Larson said he had used it and would take care of it, which was satisfactory to Beddow, as he did not have the cash to pay for it without selling other stock he had. Larson then told him to charge the draft to the Stanlake account, which he did by crossing out his own name and substituting that of James Stanlake. He testified that this was not an unusual transaction, having been frequently done before without objection on the part of the person to whom the stock was charged. He said the bank officers commonly bought stock for their customers and charged them with it by making out memorandum checks, or in the manner of the Stanlake entry. When he made the charge, he said he had no knowledge or suspicion that Mr. Stanlake had not authorized it.

In the case of the memorandum check charge to the account of Ed Johnson, Beddow stated that the stock had been bought for Larson and John, and that when it was delivered Larson had told him to charge it to the Ed Johnson account. It was a common thing for him to buy stock in his own name for John and Larson and for customers of the bank, declared the witness, and the Johnson charge was made without any suspicion of its not being perfectly proper.

Beddow denied having told Dietrich shortly after his resignation that "Larson might as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb" and said Dietrich had offered, provided he got the opportunity, to replace the Stanlake draft with a memorandum check and so keep Beddow out of any possibility of trouble. The witness said the first he knew that there was anything wrong about the Stanlake and Ed Johnson charges was on the night of June 17, after Larson's removal as cashier, when Larson imparted the information that the charges were unauthorized. That night, Beddow said, he worked in the bank and could have replaced the Stanlake draft with a memorandum check, if he had so desired.

About That "Confession."

Concerning the signed statement made by Beddow in the presence of J. B. McCormick, the witness stated that he intended to make the same statement that he had previously made to Bank Examiner Luther, and that he did not realize the meaning of the document when he signed it. In saying that he knew "such transfers to be illegal," the witness declared he referred to the time he affixed his signature and did not intend to infer that he knew the transfers were illegal when he made them.

Beddow emphatically declared that he never made any entry or transfer on the books with any knowledge or suspicion that it was not a regular and perfectly proper entry, and had no idea that it making it he was doing other than his duty as a bookkeeper. He stated that he bought nearly all the stock purchased by Mr. John in his own name, and that he personally frequently purchased stock for customers of the bank, when asked to do so by John or Larson.

He said that Mr. Brady, the broker, had often been told that drafts with stocks attached could not be credited to his account until the stocks were accepted by the person for whom they were bought, and that Brady had an understanding with the bank to that effect.

The Ochs Bros. Matter.

Beddow explained the Ochs Bros. matter as follows: When the Ochs pass book was balanced, he said he found a

Smallpox in Dickinson County—

There is prospect of an epidemic of smallpox in the east end of Dickinson county. Word was received yesterday morning to the effect that Dr. R. W. Jones had discovered four or five cases at Vulcan and he expresses the opinion that others will develop as a result of exposure. There are a number of cases at Norway and three in Iron Mountain. All the cases are of a mild form. In all cases a close quarantine was established.

No Bath House This Year—

Because of a lack of funds the members of the board of park commissioners will not construct proposed boat and bath house this summer. All of the funds at the disposal of the board this season, will be used in completing the playground that is being arranged at the east end of the park. It is the intention of the board to make all plans for the proposed building this season and next year when sufficient funds are provided, the much needed improvement will be added.

New Trial Ordered—

By a decision handed down by Judge S. S. Cooper of Ironwood, a new trial is ordered in the case of Mrs. Anna Mullen against Frank Loewler. Mrs. Mullen is the mother of the late John Baenen who was accidentally shot by Mr. Loewler in Menominee county two years ago. Mrs. Mullen as administratrix of the estate of her son, begun suit against Mr. Loewler for damages through her attorney Hon. John Power. The case was tried before Judge Cooper at the January term of court and a verdict for the defendant was given. Application for a new trial was made by Mr. Power and one has now been ordered by the court.

Record Automobile Run—

E. W. Jones made a record run from Chicago to Iron Mountain in his Ford automobile. The run was made in less than twenty hours—a record for the distance—about four hundred miles. The first day, a run was made from Chicago to Manitowish and the second day from the Wisconsin town to Iron Mountain. Mrs. Jones and the children accompanied Mr. Jones in the run to Chicago, which was purely a pleasure jaunt, and returned by rail. Mr. Jones says that the roads are fierce in Wisconsin. He declares that Dickinson county highways are far superior to any that he traveled over.

Has Finished Fine Road—

The Solid Rock Construction company has just completed what is easily one of the finest pieces of pavement in Delta county. It is of macadam and extends for 1,000 feet, from the top to the bottom of the Gladstone hill, and has been pronounced to be one of the finest bits of work in the county. The company is now at work on the final stretch of the Ford River Switch road pavement which when completed will make a continuous stretch of twelve miles of macadam from Escanaba to the Menominee county line. The work will be completed by July 15. The company also has a crew at work on the Bay Shore road which when finished will make a continuous stretch of eight miles of macadam.

Minister Changes His Allegiance—

At a meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church it was voted unanimously to extend a call to the Rev. William Roberts. It is understood that Mr. Roberts will accept the call and will enter upon his new pastorate early in September. During the past three years Mr. Roberts has been pastor of the First M. E. church. About a year ago he announced to friends that he intended withdrawing from that church. Mr. Roberts is a fluent and convincing expounder of the gospel and is popular not only in church circles, but with citizens in general. The announcement that Rev. and Mrs. Roberts will remain in Iron Mountain for an indefinite period will be received with pleasure.

An Active Concern—

The Sterling Cedar and Lumber company has developed a flourishing industry on the Carp river in Mackinac county. At the mouth of the river is located the village of Charles, the company's mill, store and offices, and residences of employees and others. The mill is now cutting regularly about 45,000 feet daily, of all kinds of timber. Employment is furnished to from forty to fifty men. Last week there was shipped from the docks 957,000 feet of lumber. Mr. Shoem is the superintendent of the mill and Mr. Beck the manager of the store, and of the office staff. Lately there has been built an addition to the store, materially increasing its capacity and convenience and providing space for commodious office quarters. The Sterling concern is a large one. Its headquarters are at Monroe, Mich., and it deals extensively in cedar, having yards at other points including Bay City, also.

Auto Wrecked by Cars—

Dr. E. P. Swift's Brush rambout was wrecked in a collision with a Northwestern freight car at Curry crossing at Iron Mountain. The chauffeur and O. H. Peterson were in the automobile. As they reached the crossing, the train crew was making a drop of some freight cars into a siding. When the engine was detached from the cars the chauffeur attempted to cross the track behind it, not seeing the cars following. As a result the auto was struck by one of the cars and considerably damaged. Peterson and the chauffeur escaped without injury. The damage to the machine consisted of badly bent front axle, guards torn off and the frame work scratched and splintered in several places.

New Ore Dock in Use—

The first ore was dumped into the pockets of the new Northwestern No. 5 dock at Escanaba this week. The dock, which has a capacity of 90,000 tons, is the longest structure of its kind on the great lakes and is one of the largest ore docks in the world. The contract awarded for the construction of the dock provided that it should be completed by July 1 and the finishing of the big structure several days in advance of the time limit shows well the speed with which the construction work has been pursued. A few minor pieces of work about the dock remain to be finished but the structure is practically completed. All of the pockets will at once be filled, but it will probably be several days before the first cargo is shipped from the new structure.

BLINDED BY AFFECTION.

Peculiar Phase of Humanity is Often Brought Out.

Sometimes a form of love's blindness is seen that may be not blindness, but a clearer sight of things as they are, than is given to most mortals. Two people, the man and the woman, pass through forty or maybe fifty years of married life and so long as they live he sees the girl that he courted and loved and her hair has never grown gray or her form bent so far as his eyesight is concerned. To her he is the same straight and gallant youth whom she remembers so well in the days of her maidenhood. He may be twisted and bent by his burden of years, but she fails to see their traces and he is the same light-hearted boy who wooed her in the shadow of golden afternoons of half a century ago.

The peculiar blindness of love is well illustrated in the affection of the mother for her wayward son, the undoubted black sheep of her family, and yet her best-beloved. No matter how many of the statutes of the state he may break, how many jail sentences he may have served, she is blind in the great measure to his faults and actual crimes. To her he is never a hunted thing that ought to be shut away from air and sunlight for years because of his transgressions. He is her boy, a ladie it may be, playing about her feet while she works at her sewing or puts the house in order. Love blinds her and she sees only the good traits of his boyhood youth.

The police courts are full of instances where affection undoubtedly blinds, if it does not blind, the true appearance of things to the wives and mothers of some of the degenerates who are now and then gathered up by the police dragnet. When the transgressor is threatened with a long jail or workhouse sentence the bruised face and drunken debauches of the disturber are forgotten and only the generous traits and flashes of his good nature are remembered. Love blinds the really injured persons to the shortcomings of the hardened prisoner and every effort is put forth to save him from the consequences of his own acts.—Exchange.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

REPORTS ON THE WHOLE OPTIMISTIC

Grains Strong Yesterday and New York Market Off—The Weekly Reviews.

New York, June 24.—The stock market fell into a depression again today, under the influence of renewed reports of crop damage and of the publication of Attorney General Wickersham's speech at Chicago.

A close correspondence in the speculative movements in grain and stocks was seen in the course of the early fluctuations in the market. Stocks started higher and wheat started lower.

The manner in which the subject of government control of capitalization was treated by Attorney General Wickesham seemed to appeal with new force to the operators in stocks. His utterances were seized upon to indicate a broadening scope for the government's pursuit of corporations.

New York, June 24.—Dan's review was as follows: Business confidence gains in strength as the crop prospects improve and congress enacts its important bills, preparatory to adjournment.

Bradstreet's. "The retail trade and most of the crop reports are on the whole, better this week, as a result mainly of the arrival of the long delayed seasonable summer weather.

"In industrial lines there is little evidence of improvement. The iron trade is fairly active, but pig iron is lower, and the trade feeling is not so bright as in the year is hardly as optimistic as in the first six months. The business failures in the United States for the week were 187 against 225 in the same week of 1909.

WALL STREET STOCKS.

New York, June 24.—Paine, Webber & Co. say of today's stock market: "The sentiment was much disturbed by the character of the reports emanating from the northwest relative to the crop conditions, and also by the remarks attributed to the attorney general, which, in effect, advocated, along the lines of similar assertions, federal regulation and control of all railroad issues.

Boston Stock Quotations.

Boston, June 24.—Today's stock market at Boston is summarized by Paine, Webber & Co. as follows: "The action of the market was disappointing again today. Extreme dullness ruled in both New York and Boston, but there seemed to be more liquidation from tired holders and the buying power amounted to practically nothing.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS.

Chicago, June 24.—Wild fluctuations, varying almost three cents, wound up today in a net gain of 3/4 to 1 cent for wheat. Experts traveling in the northwest issued sensational reports as to the prospective crop losses, one authority putting the probable North Dakota product at only about forty per cent of the total estimated by government on June 1. Light but general rains today over North and South Dakota, however, with cooler temperatures, halted what threatened to be a runaway market.

Pongkeepsie, June 24.—Clear skies and cool weather. This is a cheering forecast for tomorrow for the crews of the five colleges represented here for the sixteenth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association on the four mile Hudson river course.

Cornell the Favorite in Sixteenth Annual Regatta on Hudson.

There will be three races. The varsity four oared for the Kennedy challenge cup, over a two mile course; the freshmen eight oared, two miles for the stewards' cup, and the varsity eight oared, over a four mile course, for the varsity challenge cup.

ORATORS AND ORATORY.

Eloquence That Appeals to Sense and to Reason. Mr. Bryan tells us that he was never a great orator except when he had a great theme and there is shrewdness in the remark, though St. Denis, that Dean Swift could write beautifully on the subject of a broomstick, as doubtless he could. There are orators and orators. The eloquence of Demosthenes was like a tidal wave that engulfed his audience.

prices and the explanation was that the southwest had offered large quantities of new hard wheat to the cash people up there. There is not much in the forecast to suggest general rains for the spring wheat country, but the way the private reports came in the last hour would indicate that the rains are gradually spreading, in probability when the excitement is over there will be found a fair harvest promise and this may easily bring a good reaction in prices from the top figures of today.

Cotton Market.

[By Paine, Webber & Co.] New York, June 24.—There was no decided change in the weather and crop news. Texas had some scattered showers the past three days, but in the main the state remains dry and rain is badly needed in some sections. The plant lacks the growth necessary to put on a liberal fruitage and the drought is retarding that growth.

HOODOO SIGNS FOLLOW JOHNSON

If Big Negro Is Superstitious His Nerve Will Be Shaken—Fight a Certainty.

Reno, Nev., June 24.—If Jack Johnson was a superstitious negro he would regard with apprehension certain peculiar facts connected with his arrival at Reno today. When he left San Francisco last night, it was an undertaker who said the final words to the champion were finally retained here just thirteen minutes past 1 o'clock. To round out the "hoodoo," he settled in his training quarters on a Friday. The number of Johnson's telephone at his Chicago home is Douglas 1313.

Jeffries Training Hard. Jeffries put in a hard day's training. Tex Rickard today received a telegram from Gov. Dickerson, in which the governor said:

"Prize fights can be licensed under the laws of this state. My duties are to enforce the laws, not to make them. There will be no interference from the governor's office, if the requirements of the law are complied with. This decision is irrevocable. You may use this telegram as you see fit."

William Muldoon, at one time Sullivan's trainer, tonight said that Jeffries was not in sympathy with the rebuff John L. Sullivan received from Jim Corbett. According to Muldoon Jeffries will accord John L. a friendly reception, if the veteran calls again.

Chicago, June 24.—Protests against the Jeffries Johnson fight, continued to flood the office of Governor Dickerson, but they are promptly relegated to the waste basket.

BIG BOAT RACES OCCUR TODAY

Live in Tents While in Salt Lake City.

The unique spectacle of Indian teepees pitched in the shadow of towering buildings may be seen in the rear of the federal building at Salt Lake City, Utah, where a score of Indians from southern Arizona will appear before the United States court as witnesses.

Accompanied by an interpreter, the Indians arrived in Salt Lake. While they are allowed outside a part of the city which would enable them to put up at a second class hotel, the starward braves, their squaws and papooses prefer the wild environment to which they have all ways been accustomed. A tent pitched on a gravelly surface near the better than a boxed mattress bed. Food cooked in Indian style is more to the liking of their taste than that served at the first class hotel or the best restaurant.

The Indians and their improvised camp in the heart of a big city were a curiosity to onlookers. While the young braves walked aimlessly about the streets gazing at the varied display of goods and novelties in store windows, the squaws seemed more inclined to peep near the federal building where they were that they were under the protection of the strong arms of their good friend and provider, Uncle Samuel.

The squaws brought with them many samples of their patience and handiwork in the shape of buckskin novelties in hats and beads and willow woven baskets, which they offered for sale to the passersby.—Salt Lake Herald-Republican.

mar, fine in elocution, ornate, classical and all that. Edward Everett was that sort of orator. There is no more persuasive orator. His is the limpid stream, clear as crystal, and winds under mossy banks, through shady groves, rippling and laughing and delighting and enchanting. William C. P. Breckinridge was once called, except on an occasional school, though he could on occasion be one to command as well as to persuade. Charles James Fox was pronounced by excellent authority to be the greatest parliamentary debater the world ever saw; his is the convulsed, never persuaded. For spoken eloquence put in cold type Edmund Burke was the greatest of them all; and yet so poor was his delivery that his rising to speak in the commons house of parliament was called "the dinner bell," and he was left to come to empty benches, where are admittedly the finest parliamentary orations in language. The speech of Richard B. Sheridan in the commons on the resolutions to impeach Warren Hastings was possibly one of the greatest orations in our country or in England. The intellectual and educational distance between speaker and audience is become too short.—Washington Post.

A TOWN OF NEW RELIGIONS.

Battle Creek enjoys a unique distinction, that of having been the home of more strange and freak religions than any other city in Michigan, if not in the United States. The intellectual soil seems to be fertile for the growth of mystic and occultisms.

Fifty-five years ago the Seventh Day Adventists located there and made Battle Creek their headquarters for the world. Their subsequent wonderful growth made the name of Battle Creek synonymous with Adventism. Then came the Spiritualists, and the city became widely known as the headquarters in Michigan of that cult. At one time, and they had a very large society, and all of the noted free thinkers and agnostics in the country came there to lecture.

It is singular that these two denominations represented the two extremes in religion, one extremely orthodox and the other the broadest kind of liberalism. More literature of these two faiths has been sent out from Battle Creek than from any other city in this country. The ablest and best known authors of both have resided here at some time. Among the first settlers were a band of Quakers. Subsequently they all became Spiritualists.

Next came a colony from the East who were imbued with Fourierism and social reform ideas on religion and exterior life. They established a community, three miles west of the city, built a college and other buildings and called themselves the Harmonists. Several authors and men of note cast their lot with this socialistic enterprise, among them being former Governor Talmadge of Wisconsin, who dwelt here in the community.

One man who obtained a good following was Dr. Dowling. He had a strong personality and could easily influence people. He had a brand-new religion, his followers calling themselves "Christadelphians."

Dr. Swartz of Chicago dropped down to Battle Creek and was the first person to teach the "mind cure" in that city. He got a following that increased and branched off into other systems of new thought, and several societies along that line were organized, including a "Metaphysical Club."

The city has had followers and proselytizers for the "Hermetic Brotherhood," "Age to Come," "Millennium Dawn," "Breath of Life," "Theosophy," "Gnosticism," "Fire Worshipers," "Restitutionists," "Saints of Christ," "Church of the Larger Hope" cults. The latest introduction into the city is a "new thought" cult called the "Flohim Brotherhood."

INDIANS CAMP IN CITY.

GERMAN CITIES LEAD THE WORLD.

I know of no cities in the modern world which compare with those which have arisen in Germany during the past twenty years, writes Frederic C. Howe in Scribner's. There are none in Great Britain, from which country official delegations are constantly crossing the North Sea to study the achievements of the German city. There are none in France, in which country the building of cities has made but little progress since the achievements of Baron Haussmann made Paris the beautiful city that it is.

LA FOLETTE HAS BACK TO THE FENCE

Enemies He Has Raised Up Against Himself Are United This Year in Effort to Defeat Him for Re-election and Thus to Put Quietus on Insurgency.

Brilliant Leader Has Rode Ruthlessly Over Friends, and Many Former Supporters Are Now Numbered Among His Bitterest and Most Tireless Opponents.

Milwaukee, June 24.—Insurgency in Wisconsin is Robert M. La Follette. It was born with his political birth, and his opponents are trying to end it by bringing about his political death. That is the gist of the situation in the state.

Insurgency is older here than it is in any other Western state, because La Follette has been more or less a political influence ever since he graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1870—a flamboyant little red-faced youth then, with a shock of very insurgent curly hair and a kind of compelling, dominating, dramatic force about him which surrounded him at once with the lover of the young idealists of the state.

Young La Follette had, as the older men still has, several points in common with Napoleon Bonaparte. He breaks up all other loyalties and replaces them with loyalty toward himself. He believes in his own star absolutely. And he has no use whatever for half a loaf. He wants the whole of whatever he goes for, and is satisfied with not a crumb less.

His turning down of Davidson, the present governor of the state, is a case in point. Davidson was his lieutenant, and by him was made governor (through the Wisconsin is all of men who have been his friends and are now his enemies. Some are the leaders in the present energetic movement in the state to beat him. He has turned some of them down without any apparent cause whatever. Sometimes he has humiliated them gravely in doing so.

Men Who Cling to Him in Spite of All. But La Follette is so strong, so much like a kind of a bizzard that you can't argue with, that he has not lost all the men he has turned down. He rejected the senatorship that he had won in 1890, and the governorship that he had won in 1900. He rejected the governorship that he had won in 1900, and the governorship that he had won in 1900.

LITTLE THINGS WORTH KNOWING. A complete set of British birds' eggs is worth about $1,000. The average cost of a mile of a transatlantic submarine cable is $12,000.

LA FOLETTE HAS BACK TO THE FENCE. The whole of the world is interested in the case of La Follette. It is a case of a man who has been a leader in the state of Wisconsin, and who has been a leader in the state of Wisconsin.

face, but he is extremely short and stubby; he looks as if his head were too heavy and obstinate that it had held his body down and prevented it from growing upward, like a flat stone laid on the fork of a young tree. On the other hand, his tongue seemed to have been stretched out, like a young tree.

He is a man of a kind of gleam in them that commonly goes with a deeper hue. The whole of him suggests energy, keenness, determination, obstinacy, self-will, uncompromisingness.

Ran for Congress as a Joke. His start as a politician came early. Just after he had hung out his shingle as a young lawyer in Madison there was a public debate on some set question—a sort of debating club affair—and young La Follette won the contest with a fine declamatory oration. It happened to be a case of a man who had been a leader in the state of Wisconsin, and who had been a leader in the state of Wisconsin.

Rest and peace fall upon distracted households when the rains are falling. The whole of the world is interested in the case of La Follette. It is a case of a man who has been a leader in the state of Wisconsin, and who has been a leader in the state of Wisconsin.

Slight Red Eruption Grew to be Terrible—Sleepless Nights and Restless Days Made Life a Burden—Was Completely Discouraged.

CUTICURA CURED AFTER 16 YEARS OF SUFFERING

"For sixteen long years I have been suffering with a terrible skin disease. While a child I was afflicted with a red eruption on the face and neck, and it grew to be a slight affar but gradually it spread over my body. I tried many remedies and also many widely known doctors in different parts of the United States, but they were of no avail. The plague bothered me more in warm weather than in winter and being on my legs it made it impossible for me to wear shoes or stockings. It was the worst of all. I was in the hospital for several weeks and was completely discouraged. At last I was advised to try the Cuticura Remedies and I did not need them for a week. I was cured. I was cured. I was cured." - Leonard A. Hayes, 11 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30 and Aug. 8, 1909.

WHEN GRANT TOURED THE WORLD

Scolding Editor Chides the People for Short Memory and Recalls the Silent Soldier's Reception.

The editor of the Bookman declares that Americans as a people are extremely short of memory, and gives a "curious and quite harmless" illustration of this national trait in the popular view of the triumphant progress of Colonel Roosevelt. Readers of the newspapers are not so enthusiastic as they once were, and he warmly welcomes a foreigner who has forgotten the journey of General Grant around the world in 1877-78.

It was on the seventeenth of May 1877, that ex-President Grant, called down the Delaware from Philadelphia on the steamship Indiana. Reaching England, he received the freedom of the city of Liverpool, and in London he accompanied the Prince of Wales to the Epsom races, dined with the Duke of Wellington, and the Duke of Devonshire, received the freedom of the city of London, and visited and spent the night at Windsor.

Rest and peace fall upon distracted households when the rains are falling. The whole of the world is interested in the case of La Follette. It is a case of a man who has been a leader in the state of Wisconsin, and who has been a leader in the state of Wisconsin.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

It is a generally recognized fact that medicines taken from the botanical kingdom are better adapted to the delicate human system, and safer in every way, than those composed of strong mineral mixtures. In the early settlement of this land, our forefathers were obliged to procure their medicines from Nature's great laboratories of forest and field. They searched out and compounded the different vegetable materials into teas, concoctions and medicines. That these pioneers found the most potent and valuable of the roots, herbs and barks placed at their disposal, is abundantly proven by the fact that the great majority of them were blessed with rugged health. They cured their diseases and were enabled to do the great preliminary work of civilization because the remedies they used were Nature's remedies, and specially adapted to the needs of humanity.

A few years ago I was taken with Inflammatory Rheumatism. Upon the advice of a friend I decided to try S. S. S. Before allowing me to take it, however, my guardian, who was a chemist, analyzed the remedy, and pronounced it free from potash or mercury, containing only the most completely pure vegetable matter. The cure was permanent. I have never since had a touch of Rheumatism, though many times exposed to damp and cold weather.

EGYPT'S GREAT UNIVERSITY. The Camia El Azhar of Cairo a Twelfth Century Oxford.

El Azhar is a fascinating place to visit. It is a kind of twelfth century Oxford. When you step over the raised threshold, having put on big overalls to enter the holy place, you leave the present day behind. You see first of all a very large open-air court full of spitting figures in turbans and flowing robes. Some are reading, generally with the swaying motion of the body. Some are talking. Some are grouped around an alim (professor), making notes of his discourse. Some are eating. Some are asleep. The court is hot in the sun. You are dazzled as you look up to the slender minarets, of which every graceful detail is sharp against the morning blue. You are glad to walk around under the colonnades, where classes of children are sitting cross-legged on the ground, their bright eyes wandering to us, strangers while they drone mechanically the lesson of the day. And you are gladder still to pass into another court, covered and cool, and equally full of students, among whom you must pick your apologetic way, treading gingerly between the groups.

criticize the absence of a real university in the capital, to the donkey-boys at small places on the Nile, who wistfully ask if the tourist can give them "toggles back." This is a striking change from the attitude of the Egyptians toward education when Mehmet Ali, some eighty years ago, tried to impose it upon them. This able ruler himself learned to read only at the age of forty-five. He resolved that everyone ought to do likewise. He established schools. Parents declined to send their children to them. He did all he could both to force and to persuade them. Small boys were taken to their classes in chains. Others were paid to go. But he could not arouse any enthusiasm. He died. His schools were abandoned. Contented ignorance reigned as before. It continued to reign until recent years. Then it gave way to a desire for education as a means of getting on. It is not in the Egyptian character to desire knowledge for its own sake. Of course, there are exceptions to this number of patriotic Egyptians who honestly feel that it is due to their country's position to improve education. There are, in addition, many Moslems who say with Arabi: "Let us be educated and the heathen supremacy of the Christians will disappear." But speaking generally, one may say that the demand for education springs from the belief that it is a help toward making a better living. The well-to-do Egyptian, loving routine and fearing responsibility, looks upon work in a government, office or a fixed salary and with automatic functions as an ideal occupation. The peasant feels that his sons will earn more money by running behind trowsers' dominions or giving them inaccurate information about monuments than they could if they remained peasants. Hence arises the desire for teaching that will enable boys to pass examinations, and especially for instruction in English, which will make them useful both to the pleasure pilgrim and to the British official.—London Mail.

THE NEW ARITHMETIC.

"When I was a boy arithmetic was an exact science," was the reminiscent comment of a man who now goes to school vicariously and thinks it a proper function of the evening to "hear the children in their lessons?"

"Now, what's the first thing in the arithmetic? Notation, isn't it? Or is it numeration? I can't remember the two things apart now. Anyway, it's the very first thing of all, the study of how to write the figures. Nine digits—no, that can't be it. What do they call them in the book? Oh, yes, significant figures—nine significant figures and a cipher. Or else it was zero. I remember that they called it one way at school and my dad used to call it the other way at home, and if I called it dad's way at school teacher marked me nine for it even if my sum proved.

MIDSUMMER CELEBRATION.

Large Crowd Assembled at the Cleveland Park Yesterday.

The Swedish picnic, conducted yesterday at Cleveland park, under direction of the Scandinavian society of Negaunee, was a social and financial success. It is said that the attendance was the largest that has ever assembled in the grove. With the temperature in the neighborhood of ninety degrees, people were glad to get under the shade of the trees, and during the afternoon and evening the grounds were thronged.

PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT.

Large Number Attended Parochial School's Closing Exercises.

The annual entertainment of the pupils of St. Paul's parochial school, held Thursday afternoon and evening in the auditorium of the new high school building, was a most successful one. Several of the numbers were unique, and were a surprise to all present. Every seat in the auditorium and gallery, also many extra chairs, were occupied, and a number were obliged to stand.

LOCAL LAONICS.

Paul Bell is visiting his grandparents at Bryan, Ohio. Mrs. L. J. Dousseron has been quite ill the past few days. Mrs. Mary Boyd, who has been ailing for some time, was critically ill yesterday.

BASEBALL TODAY.

The Negaunee and Ishpeming teams meet today and tomorrow at the Union park. If Marquette wins both games at Crystal Falls and Negaunee drops one to Ishpeming, the Marquette nine will still be at the head of the percentage column, but if Negaunee wins both games up to Ishpeming and Marquette loses one to Crystal Falls the Negaunee nine will be in the lead.

AIR-OR-PLANE IS NOW OUT.

Flying Toy Is Quick to Catch the Public's Attention. The development of the flying machine has brought out a variety of flying toys, one of which, called the air-or-plane, is now being demonstrated and sold in the streets. The air-or-plane consists of a thin strip of celluloid six inches long, fashioned in the form of a two bladed propeller and having midway of its length a hole in which is inserted one end of a round six-inch stick. By rotating this stick rapidly between the palms of the hands the propeller is made to spin, and when the stick is released the air-or-plane may be made to fly upward or sidewise or straight ahead, according to the angle of inclination at which the hands are held when the handle, or shaft, of the propeller is rotated.

HOW THEY LIVE WHEN AT HOME

Professor J. C. Monaghan Delights Large Audience at Baraga Auditorium Last Evening, Telling of Home Life and Customs of European Peoples.

Describes Most Entertainingly the Salient and Commendable Traits of Character of Those Out of Whose Lives This Country Is Being Built Up.

Professor J. C. Monaghan, who spoke in Baraga auditorium last evening under the auspices of Marquette council, Knights of Columbus, was greeted by a large audience, and delivered one of the real oratorical treats of the year. His subject was "How the Other Half Lives" and he treated it in an intensely interesting manner. The speaker was introduced by Mayor Daniel Vaughan.

The speaker began by saying that Herbert Spencer says life is the adjustment of internal forces to external conditions—one poet tells us it is a stream, another a dream, another a great game. Here the speaker quoted a poem called "The Game of Life." He said he had no desire to deal with the degraded phases of life usually thought of when the term "other half" is used. He thought a discussion of such subjects hardly suited to an audience such as he saw before him. His purpose was to take his hearers on a trip abroad to the other half of the world, to Europe, whence there comes to us a million of people every year. He thought we ought to go traveling if only to see how those that come to us live at home.

Emerson says we bring back from Europe what we take there with us. Boyle O'Reilly said the same thing in a simpler and far more effective way. He said one brings back from Europe what ever one goes after. So in life we get out of it whatever we put into it, or seek.

Professor Monaghan then asked his audience to enter Scotland by way of Clyde. He said the Scotch hills are overhung with a purple hue, caused by the heather. This indicates poor soil, hence the Scotch have to work hard, but the hard work has developed hardy men and women—men and women self-reliant, self-respecting and self-supporting.

He then spoke of the Highland Scot as one of the finest types of men on earth. He said the Highlander lived on buttermilk and oatmeal porridge for breakfast, porridge and milk for dinner, and to diversify his meals he had milk and porridge for supper. His estimate of the Scotchman's character is not canny, meaning crafty or cunning, but canny in the sense of shrewd or knowing. Better men and women the world has never known than are to be found in the Highlands.

View of England.
He told many amusing incidents and anecdotes to illustrate Scottish life and character and then led his hearers into England, saying life there is high in parts and low in others. On the whole England is a happy, prosperous country. The first thing one sees in England are its beautiful abbeys or cathedrals, Durham, Salisbury, Lichfield, York, Canterbury and Westminster. These are the longest in one's memory after he has left England. Among these, in happy beautiful homes in the hills and in the valleys the English people live. The world works for them, all parts paying tribute to them, for the British flag floats over one-third of this earth. The characteristic of the English is pertinacity. Whatever they undertake they usually persist until they succeed. This point the speaker illustrated by incidents and anecdotes.

Passing into Italy he said the Italians live largely in an atmosphere of art. They love music and excel in it, vocally at least. They build magnificent buildings, are great painters and, incidentally, the speaker said, all of Italy could live easily on half of what America wastes. Some one has said half of Italy's thirty-five millions could live in what New York city wastes. Anecdotes were related to show how life is lived in Italy.

World's Politest People.
The French, Professor Monaghan painted as the world's politest people, and among its bravest, citing the kindness and courtesy shown to strangers when they travel in France. He visited a vineyard and other places illustrating his point by particular examples. He illustrated the bravery of France by citing Ney's actions at Waterloo, when he ordered the soldiers of France to fire the volley that was to end his own life. Other happy illustrations were cited to show that the French were one, and may be again, a great nation.

told no one would know it. "Yes, sir, I would know it." From Germany the audience journeyed down to Holland, into a land in which people lived almost in luxury, a land of milk and honey.

Dutch Cleanliness.
The Dutch, he said, are noted for their cleanliness, their love of country and a sturdy defiance of the elements. He pictured the way they won their land from the sea, fertilized it, built their beautiful homes, saying that success was based upon the ownership of the soil. He said the Dutch were patient, plodding and persevering. Their liberties can never be interfered with, as the people, by tearing down the dykes, could convert their beautiful land into a vast sea.

Ireland was the last land visited. It was described as beautiful, built bowl-like, with mountains around its coasts, hence not to be destroyed if the people wanted to destroy it. The suffering of centuries endured in Ireland and written in the record of her years in blood and tears Professor Monaghan attributed to the fact that the land did not belong to the people. He said they are living better now since, under the land purchase act, they are able to buy now, in seventeen or eighteen years, by paying only $300 or $400 dollars a year, what they never could hope to own before the passage of the act, a time in which they had to pay a rack-rent of $500 or $600. He said the Irish were a people of firm faith, great hope, in spite of all they had suffered in the past, and hospitable. To prove these points he cited many examples.

Thus then they live, these people out of whose lives this land is being built up. They come to us from the Tiber and the Thames, the Rhine and the Danube, the Elbe and the Loire, the Suir and Shannon, Vistula and Volga. They bring to us the rich, red blood of health, warm, loving hearts. They are as a rule good and willing workers. Let us give them welcome at our gates and godspeed as they go over the hills into the interior. If they love the old lands so much the better, they will be all the more faithful to and fond of this. If a Murrefresboro or Stone river is to be won the Germans will give us Sigels, Rosencranzes and Schurzes, the Irish O'Menahers, Sheridans and Sichelshes, the Poles, Pulaskis and Kosciuskos, the French Lafayettees and Rochambeaus.

THE FLOWER FESTIVAL.
Rehearsals in Progress for Unique Entertainment July 5-9.

Since the first meeting was called to talk over the Flower festival a week ago, rehearsals have been progressing daily and about 125 dancers have been enrolled altogether. Great enthusiasm is manifested on all sides over the unique entertainment which will be given out in the open from July 5 to 9. The program is divided into three parts, representing the flowers of spring, summer and autumn, at which the Goddess Flora will preside. In the spring will appear tiny snowdrops, violets and crocuses. Little Johnny jumps up will pop up eye to the season, while dainty yellow daffodils will bring this delightful group of dances to a close.

In the summer blossom the sweet peas, daisies, roses and bachelor buttons not to mention gaily sun flowers and their tiny relatives, the black-eyed susans. The autumn brings blazing poppies, gorgeous chrysanthemums and the multi-colored autumn leaves.

Some of the flowers sing as well as dance and offer a pleasing variety of entertainment. Truly, the full orchestra will be an added attraction, offering the latest and catchiest music for the occasion. Two numbers being taken from the "Arcadians," now running in New York. Various booths among the trees will enhance the general effect, while myriads of lights will transport the visitor into a veritable fairyland.

The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Young Women's guild of St. Paul's church, directed by Mrs. W. J. Pettes and Miss Palmer, which is sufficient to assure something both successful and delightful.

THEATRICAL.
"A Woman's Way."
Miss Grace George, who made her first appearance before a Marquette audience in "A Woman's Way" at the opera house last evening, with her winning manners and irrepressible humor, won her way into the hearts and favor of all present. While there is no great amount of literary merit in the lines of "A Woman's Way," which consist largely of a recital of such small talk and scandal as are said to usually make up social conversation among the "400's" in the hands of Miss George and a worthy supporting company, the three acts proved intensely interesting and enjoyable.

The story is centered in the troubles of a fickle young husband, who has become enamored of a wealthy widow, who is what a flirt and an adventuress. His faithful wife upon hearing of an automobile escape, in which her husband and this widow were the principals, instead of petitioning for a divorce, determines to hold fast to her husband and to win back his love. To this end she gives a dinner party to which she invites the widow and several of her former admirers. By a succession of humorous and at the same time pathetic scenes and climaxes, the husband eventually realizes what a fool he has been and the superior charms of his own dear wife.

The part of the faithful wife, of course, is taken by Miss George. Elwood Cromwell played opposite her as the husband and gave an excellent impersonation of a young man who has more money than brains. The advantages were well played by Carolyn Kenyon, and the supporting company all filled their places acceptably.

The magnificent gowns worn by Miss George and the other women in the play were much admired by the feminine portion of the audience.

Two Nines Have Been Formed and Much Interest Is Manifested.

A goodly number of Guild Hall members have been practicing baseball at the Longyear field this week and it has been decided to organize two nines to be known as the first and second nines. A meeting of the players will be held at the Guild Hall Monday evening to organize the two nines and to select captains. There is plenty of material among the Guild Hall members to make up two good amateur teams, and it is planned to arrange matches in the near future with other amateur teams in the city and county. The players will practice this afternoon at 4 o'clock and every week day afternoon until further notice. Mr. Thayer, the new director, who will arrive in Marquette July 4, is said to be a fine baseball player and his coming will give an added impetus to the interest in the game.
