NO STREET SHOW FOR ISHPEMING

Mayor McCorkindale Refuses License for Carnival on Business Streets.

Mayor McCorkindale has denied a street carnival company the privilege of exhibiting in this city. A representative of the company spent some time trying to induce the mayor to grant a license for a week, but he stood pat. The mayor believes that the people in general, and the business men in particular, do not favor street carnivals. While Ishpeming has never had any experience with entertainments of this character, Mayor McCorkindale has had experience with many of them elsewhere, and he has found that the results have not been satisfactory. A license to show in Negaunee was applied for later, but Mayor Elliott took the same stand as Mayor McCorkindale, and would not, under any consideration, give the carnival company the use of the streets. The company was most desirous of showing either in Ishpeming or Negaunee. It was figured that it would make little difference which city the shows exhibited in, as they would draw largely from the neighboring place in any event.

Mayor McCorkindale took the stand that the extra expense the city would be put to, and the dissatisfaction that would be created among the business people, would not be offset by the enjoyment that the people would derive from the shows. It would be necessary to employ extra policemen and the streets would be damaged.

None of the carnival companies are having easy sailing in the upper peninsula this season and at many places they have been denied the privilege of exhibiting. A company recently spent a week at Virginia, Minn., and according to the papers there the result was none too satisfactory. There was a tough crew following the outfit, and all of the shows were not meritorious. It is said that the carnival company that was at Iron Mountain last week during the Sons of St. George celebration did not do the business the management expected. There was not sufficient patronage to run the several attractions in the afternoon, and performances were confined to the evenings. The merry-go-round and ferris wheel seemed to be the only attractions that were getting big business.

DIED AT BUTTE, MONT.

Former Resident of Ishpeming Passes Away in Western City.

John O'Brien, who was an early resident of Ishpeming, leaving here some twenty-three years ago, died last week at his home in Butte, Mont. He was one of the first members of the Ishpeming division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and he retained his membership in the organization up to the time of his death. For some years before leaving here he was employed at the Barnum mine, and he lived at the Barnum location, also on West Johnson street. The widow of the deceased was formerly Miss Mary Murphy, daughter of Walter Murphy, also an early resident of Ishpeming. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien were married in this city. The Anconada Standard said of his death:

"John O'Brien, a well known old resident of Butte, died of heart trouble yesterday morning at his home, 2128 Placer street. He was seventy years old and lived in Butte for the past twenty years. For fifteen years he had been in the employ of the Butte reduction works. "He leaves a wife, two sons, Walter and John, and one daughter, Mrs. Chris Nelson, all of Butte. His sons are employed as boiler makers at the Butte reduction works. He was a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. "The funeral will take place Thursday at 9 a. m. at the house and St. Joseph's church."

TRELAWNEY WINS PRIZE.

Ishpeming Sons of St. George Society Carried Off Honors at Reunion.

Trelawney lodge of this city won the prize for the best appearance in the Sons of St. George society's parade at Iron Mountain Saturday. The prize is a silver statue of St. George on horseback, with the dragon beneath the horse's feet. The statue is now on exhibition at W. J. Roberts' jewelry store.

About sixty members of Trelawney lodge appeared in the parade. All wore uniforms of black coats, white vests, white trousers and white caps, each carrying a cane and wearing a buttonhole boutonnet. The Norway lodge won the prize for the largest turnout of members of an outside society. Norway had ninety-eight men in line, while its total membership is only 108. The procession was an imposing one, and was made up of several hundred men, exclusive of the seven bands.

The Cornish wrestling tournament was not finished Saturday night. William Pemberton of this city was among those who won a standard, but Ivey and Sleeman, both clever Ishpeming wrestlers, were thrown, the former by a man named Andrews and the latter by Hoar, both of the copper country. Both Andrews and Hoar were reared in Ishpeming. Andrews lived on Fourth street and Hoar lived at the Lake Angeline. John Rowett and two of the Chapman brothers of the copper country were also among those having standards.

INDORSE OPEN DOOR.

London Press Believes Downfall of Theatrical Trust a Good Thing.

The independent theatrical movement is widening its scope in America. A number of theater owners in the South who had clung to Klaw & Erlanger have within the past few days adopted the open door policy, and now there is very little left of the one-time powerful monopoly.

Reginald Piccadilly, one of the best known theatrical authorities in London, who writes for the New York Review, said of the attitude of the English papers toward the independent movement in his cablegram for last Saturday's issue:

"Almost without exception the English theatrical press indorses the open door movement led by the Messrs. Shubert in the United States, and in every paper of importance editorials have been published congratulating the independent leaders on their victory over the theatrical trust.

"The consensus of opinion seems to be that not only will English actors and playwrights benefit by the passing of long dominated theatrical affairs overseas, but that American actors will have better opportunities for development under the freedom of the new regime. It is pointed out that the English public is vitally interested in the progress of dramatic art in the United States.

"Theatrical trust, we claim, tended to reduce managers, actors and authors to a submissive flock, satisfied with ease and subordination and interested only in securing the almighty dollar. The United States was once fertile in great actors and was the native land of Booth, Forrest and Davenport. However, since the organization of the late trust scarcely any actors of acknowledged genius have arisen to take the places of those who have passed away."

ALL IN READINESS FOR THE BIG SHOW

Fazakerley and His Big Vaudeville Company in Town

The people of Ishpeming are certainly in for a big treat in the entertainment line as great preparations are being made for the big free show to be given out on Cleveland-Cliffs lots on Third St. A parade will take place this afternoon and carnations will be given away to the ladies along the line of march. Tonight at 8 o'clock the entertainment will be opened by a band concert and a vaudeville performance will be given that will open the eyes of pleasure loving people. Fazakerley, the man, who has been having such wonderful results in the southern part of the state with his remedies will give one of his interesting lectures on the ills of man kind. The reports of the wonderful cures made by this man with his formulas have reached us from all over the state. The reports are almost too good to be true, but now we will have a chance of hearing and seeing what this man can really do. He claims that he can make the deaf hear, the lame walk, cure rheumatism, stomach trouble, liver and kidney trouble in so short a time, that it seems marvelous, but for the sake of the half-such and ailing citizens we only hope that these reports are not exaggerated.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

The jolly comic opera "Up and Down Broadway," which will appear here Saturday evening, will be the society and theatrical event of the season. In Marquette, where it will be given on Thursday and Friday, the theatre is practically sold out for both nights. There will be the most fashionable and most brilliant audience ever gathered there. A great many society people prominent in Chicago and Detroit have taken boxes and the affair promises to be most wonderful. Gorgeous costumes, stunning girls, fifteen big song hits of the whistling kind, ice dances, a pony ballet and a chorus of 75 are a few of the features of this delightful opera. Ishpeming theatergoers are going to pack the theatre to the limit and the whole affair will be found a most delightful frolic.

CONDUCTOR INJURED.

Patrick Gallery, conductor on the Chicago & Northwestern passenger train, which runs between here and Marquette every morning, later making the run between Ishpeming and the town in the western end of the county, had a foot injured yesterday at the American mine. He was helping the trainmen to unload a skip from the car when the hule fell down, striking his foot on the instep. No bones were fractured, but the foot was badly bruised and it will be some days before Mr. Gallery will be able to resume his work.
