DAILY MINING JOURNAL
MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY THE MINING JOURNAL CO. (LIMITED), MARQUETTE, MICH., AUG. 30.

Yes, Senator Burrows said it.
Lots of rain. Fine growing weather.

It remains to be seen whether the harvest of votes will be as the one of two years ago.

President Taft's letter to Representative McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, is a calm and dispassionate presentation of his views of why the country should return a Republican majority to congress in the November elections.

It grows increasingly apparent that Mayor Gaynor of New York is going to have a hard time sidestepping the nomination for governor by the Democratic party.

There is no question that Mayor Gaynor would be far and away the strongest candidate the Democrats could put forward. His prestige in New York has been immeasurably increased since his triumphant election as mayor, and he is now all the stronger for the unsuccessful attempt to assassinate him.

opening of the decade and the revelation of new sources of wealth in iron ore. The decade has seen the opening up of the Swazey range and the determination of the value of the ore deposits lying north of Ishpeming.

Michigan is forging ahead. The next census will show a population largely in excess of 3,000,000. Michigan is a state of great resources and of an energetic and enterprising people.

President Taft's letter to Representative McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, is a calm and dispassionate presentation of his views of why the country should return a Republican majority to congress in the November elections.

The return of a Republican majority will mean a continuance during the life of the next congress of the kind of constructive legislation enacted so generously during the long session of the present congress, whereas the return of a Democratic majority will mean a condition of negotiation, in which the Democrats, powerless themselves to carry out a legislative program, will still be capable of, through their dominance of the lower house, obstructing and defeating the plans which otherwise the Republican administration could carry through.

On the tariff President Taft reiterates his former position. It's a good tariff, he says, even when due allowance is made for its bad spots.

President Taft can see no reason why the Republican voters should not disregard all considerations of factional politics and vote for the congressional nominees of their party. It is his idea that with the close of the primaries, in which all factional issues are fought out, there should be a solid alignment of Republicans behind the successful candidates, no matter from what faction they come.

SHERMAN AT HOME. Reports from Utica, N. Y., indicate that while Vice President Sherman is making stump speeches for the Republican campaign committee his political interests at home are rapidly growing from bad to worse.

It is too bad that more people did not hear Mr. Burrows. They would have enjoyed some capital entertainment. Of course no one would be heartless enough to laugh at the old gentleman's physical infirmities or his pitiable lapses of memory, but the most compassionate will forgive a smile at this prescription for all tariff troubles as compounded by the venerable senator:

"Now, gentlemen, if you would straighten out this tariff question in your minds you should get away from the criticism of the metropolitan press and stop reading the magazine of the country that are giving so much space trying to break up the Republican party.

There you have the party peace of mind that passes all understanding. Keep away from the metropolitan press and magazines. Don't read. Don't think. You might not be able to answer the criticisms and your faith in the party might be upset—or at least your faith in the standpat wing of the party. Go home to your wife and children. They will enlighten you on all these weighty matters of state. And put your feet in the oven where they will be warm and remember only what Burrows said: "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."

And then after reading at length in the Burrows organs that he is to have practically all the votes in the upper peninsula what are we to make of this statement in one of the biggest and strongest newspapers in that part of Michigan?

Representative Townsend is generally conceded to be the choice of the people in the upper peninsula, and he is counting on a large majority over Senator Burrows above the straits. His trip to this region will no doubt produce a great many voters over to his side of the fence, and the excellent results will well repay him for the visit.

One of the things we need about as much as anything is more newspapers that will measure up to the present size and standing of the ninth city of the United States. We haven't got very many as yet.

It is at this time of year, when an important political election is in full swing, that the fittleness of some of the daily press of Detroit is most noticeable.

council was present in a body." And the Soo has about 13,000 population. Then again constant Free Press reports of Senator Burrows' closing meeting in St. Clair county last Saturday night: "Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 20.—Senator Burrows completed the circuit of the Seventh district in this city tonight by addressing a large and attentive audience at the city hall park."

And this report of the same meeting appears in the News-Tribune, which manifests a refreshing disposition to print the political news of the day with commendable regard for the facts on both sides.

"Tonight the senator was widely advertised by his adherents here to deliver an open air address from the court house steps. He spoke to just 174 men and women and children by actual count, closing his campaign in St. Clair county with the meeting. At no point in his speech was the standard protective tariff argument which he utilized greeted with applause, excepting from the front rank in the audience, which was made up of henchmen of the Burrows leaders here."

The calendar of cases for the September term of circuit court is being prepared by County Clerk Jenks.

Carter H. Harrison returned to Chicago last evening, after having spent some time at Huron Mountain club.

Services will be conducted at the German Lutheran church this evening, commencing at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Peters of Escanaba will deliver the sermon.
The Marquette ball team will practice at the fair grounds this afternoon, weather permitting. The men are requested to take the 3:30 o'clock car for the fair grounds.
The members of the Kappa Alpha Pi fraternity will give another of their informal dances in Legion Hall Friday, Sept. 2. Those who usually attend these parties will be cordially welcomed.
The Pioneer motor buses have been withdrawn from the Marquette-Ishpeming route because of cold weather, with its consequent light patronage. The buses can still be had on request for service about the city.
Many Marquette fishermen are preparing to take advantage of today and tomorrow, the last days of the trout season, though the rains of last week have made the streams so high that large catches are not expected.
The Canadian steamer Agawa, loaded with iron ore, grounded off Spear's coal dock about 5 o'clock last night as she was attempting to get out of the harbor. After working for about an hour, the steamer released herself without assistance and proceeded on her way.
Criminal action for perjury has been begun against Wm. Furnish, of West Branch, who is charged with having sworn to false statements in connection with the suit for alienation of his wife's affections, brought by Mr. Robinson against James Triggs. The case will be on the calendar for trial at the September term of circuit court.

Penalty After Sept. 1—City Treasurer Byrne's office is busy these days, due to the large number who are paying their taxes. On taxes not paid before tomorrow night, an additional collection fee of 1 per cent will be charged. Mr. Byrne states that taxes are coming in fairly well this year, and that over 75 per cent of the assessment has already been paid.
Clearing the Ground—The underbrush and trees are being cleared away at the site of the proposed county tuberculosis hospital at Morgan, so that there will be no unnecessary delay in beginning the erection of the building, once the contract is awarded. The more the spectators see of the site, the better are they pleased with it because of its natural location, beauty and availability from both railroad and highway.
Sidewalk Crew Busy—The city sidewalk crew is making use of every minute in order to get as much concrete walk built as possible before frost stops the work for the year. As the board walks become fewer, it is necessary to move the machinery oftener and much time is lost in the moving. It was suggested yesterday that the council would do well to outlaw board walks altogether, as what few remain are in bad condition. This would make it possible for the sidewalk crew to finish a district or ward as they went along, thus saving much time and expense now resulting from so much moving of machinery and tools.
Heavy Voting Yesterday—The campaign for queen of the Macebees carnival and the girls' contest for the beautiful Parisian roll opened yesterday with lively battling by the many friends of the candidates. Both contests look as though they would prove very exciting. The first count will be made by the committee at 11 o'clock today and the standing of the candidates will appear in these columns tomorrow. Nominations to become candidates for the queen contest they can do so by leaving their names and address with Hager Bros., and receive the necessary envelopes and instructions.

Bonus Over to Court—Gus Anderson, who runs a boarding house on Spring street, between Front and Third street, has been bound over to circuit court by Justice Byrne on the charge of selling liquor without a license. Mrs. Manning has been giving special attention to cases of this sort recently and this is the second alleged offender who will have to square himself with Judge Flannigan at the September term. It is stated that there are witnesses who will testify to having purchased liquor at the Anderson place.
In New Store—F. LaBonte, the North Third street grocer, has just moved into his new store building, which has been under construction the past few months. It is a substantial brick structure, with modern front, and is one of the best appointed grocery stores in the city. Mr. LaBonte built up a large trade in the small frame building he has occupied near the site of his new store during the past several years, and is one of the most successful business men outside of the downtown district of the city. In his new stand he is better prepared than ever before to take good care of his trade.

ANN ARBOR—The Eastern Michigan Edison Co. has purchased the Dover and Hudson mill dams near the headwaters of Huron river, just below Portage lake. The dams and two miles of bank with flowage rights were secured from the Birkett Manufacturing Co., a concern formerly in the milling business in Dexter township. The deed gives the Edison company the right to create a power reservoir over two miles long and extending to and connecting with Portage lake. The Edison company has recently acquired similar rights in this vicinity and is understood to be doing the same all the way to Lake Erie.
EATON RAPIDS—While crossing a pasture lot on his farm near Springport George Kreuerick, a prominent resident, was attacked by an ugly bull and only escaped being gored to death by the mad beast's horns. The animal came up behind Mr. Kreuerick and before he could put up a defense knocked him down with his horns, the force of the blow nearly breaking his back and rolling him a considerable distance down a side hill. Mr. Kreuerick fortunately had a Winchester rifle with him and managed to shoot the bull in the head killing him instantly, as he came dashing down the hill at him in a second attack. Kreuerick is in a serious condition as a result of his injuries.
HOLLAND—According to a letter written to one of his Holland friends, Richard H. Post, the young real estate dealer wanted here on a charge of issuing forged papers, expresses his conviction that he will not be brought back to Ottawa county for trial. Post states he has been in the Monterey prison nearly a month and that no efforts are being made to push the case against him, although Sheriff Andre has been in possession of the necessary extradition papers signed by President Taft for nearly two months.

GREENVILLE—In line with the ancient and honorable phrase that it takes "Methodist fire and Baptist water" to make things go religiously, the Baptist and Methodist churches of Greenville have joined in a laudable competition to see which church can get the largest Sunday evening congregation during the heated term. When many city churches are closed tight in July and August and others hold only a morning service usually with light attendance this plan looks like demonstration of the superior vitality of the rural church. Only the heat of feeling prevails between these two churches. The contest is altogether friendly. The original plan was that the winning church should enjoy an entertainment at the expense of the loser. It is now stated that each church instead will give a banquet to those persons who have worked for the success of the movement. Particular attention has been given to winning the young people, who generally remain to the church service after their Sunday night devotional meeting.
SOUTH HAVEN—Acting upon instructions from Prosecuting Attorney Warner of this county, Chief Fred Lietz of the local police department has advised numerous dealers in an illegal liquor racket known as "Hop Cream," that it will not be permitted to be sold in this county any longer. As a consequence, there are at present some 15 or 20 barrels of the stuff at the docks and in warehouses which must be returned, and larger orders cancelled. It has been a popular drink among the resorters. The death knell of "Hop Cream" was sounded when a local man, after being arrested on the charge of drunkenness, declared to the court that he drank ten bottles of it, and it made him feel as though "he had a windmill going in his head." The ministers took up the matter and the county attorney was besieged with letters of protest until he issued the decree putting a ban on the drink, basing it upon a report from the state dairy and food commissioner to the effect that "Hop Cream" would do no in a local option town.

KALAMAZOO—"I will not be a candidate for president in 1912," declared William Jennings Bryan while in Kalamazoo. This is the first time the Nebraska politician has stated that he would not make an effort to secure the democratic nomination for the presidency in 1912. There is plenty of good material in the party, but who will be the next candidate for president on the Democratic ticket depends upon what the next congress does. I believe the Democrats will control the next house. That the country is dissatisfied with the Republican party is manifest from the strength of the insurgency movement. Mr. Bryan refused to make any comment when asked about the possibilities of Gov. Harmon on Ohio being the Democratic candidate for president two years hence.
DETROIT—A resolution was passed at the session of the United Garment Workers of America in convention here

LOWER STATES NOTES.
LANSING—The increase in population in the state brings joy to the Michigan National Guard and the naval reserve. Under the present military rating the state troops receive an appropriation based on the population of the state. This, in the case of Michigan, was according to the state census of 1904, and unless the new figures of the state had been in by September 1 the next appropriation would have been based on the 1904 figures. Now that the federal figures have been made public the per capita appropriation will be made on the new census. The state census of 1904 gave Michigan a population of 2,530,016 and the new figure is 2,810,173, an increase of 280,157. The reserves get 1 cent per head, which means that they will receive $2,801,571 additional, but the troops receive 6 cents per head and will therefore receive $16,809,222 additional. This money goes into the state treasury for the maintenance of the two branches.
SAGINAW—Saginaw is considerably aroused over what it alleges to be an injustice in the federal census report of the populations of Bay City and Saginaw. Business men and commercial organizations are calling on Washington for an explanation. The census report credited Bay City with an increase of 17,538 or 63.5 per cent in ten years, while giving Saginaw's increase as 8,165, or a little less than 20 per cent. It is claimed the report does Saginaw an injustice by not explaining the fact that Bay City's apparently large increase was due almost entirely to consolidation of East and West Bay City five years ago. The population of these two cities ten years ago was 40,747 and their population as consolidated is now 45,196, or a real increase in population of 4,449, or 10.4 per cent, which is just half of the increase in Saginaw's growth and percentage of increase.

PROVIDING for the creation of a $100,000 sick and death benefit fund by assessment of the organization's members. The convention also voted not to allow Canadian overall manufacturers to use the stencil in cutting patterns. All of the old officers of the organization were re-elected and Indianapolis was chosen as next year's meeting place.
LOOKING 'EM UP COMES WHEN VACATION'S OVER.
That is Solemn Duty of All Returned Travelers Toward New "Friends."
"Now" said the summer boarder just back from his summer vacation, "we are looking 'em up in the directory."
"Looking 'em up! Who are you looking up?"
"Why," says the summer boarder, "the people we met while we were away. You know you can't tell about 'em exactly while you're with 'em."
"When a man or a woman quits his or her native heath and goes abroad he or she is likely to step up several pegs to a higher plane, to put on, as the saying goes, front, and you can't always tell. In these days when everybody wears good clothes you can't always tell just who or what they are with certainty. They may be what they now seem to be or they may not."
"We come to know our fellow guests names by hearing them spoken and by seeing them on letters when we are looking over the mail for our own, and then as we stay along in the same house together for awhile we may get or think we get a good line on them, but we may make miserable blunders. I've met people that I have doped out as being quite considerable, some punks, that turned out to be not so much; and then I've met many people who didn't talk loud who turned out to be considerably more than the modest sign they carried said."
"And in these days you can't always tell with any sort of certainty by his appearance what business or profession a man is in. I have made myself some ridiculous mistakes in this way."
"We may be able to tell every clipp what sort of a chap a man may be personally, whether he's sweet and wholesome and whether we'd trust him and that sort of thing, and yet not come within ten rods of guessing right what he did for a living. In these days when everybody not only wears good clothes but conforms to the fashion men are not distinguished by their apparel as once they were and the same is true in greater measure still of women. And then again, as I was saying, when we go away we put on our lib and tucker and we have money to spend; and if we have also nerve—and are not the great majority of Americans thus endowed?—why, we are not apt to shrink in our own esteem and not likely to let our selves dwindle any more than is necessary in the estimation of others."
"So we jot down the names of a few of the people that have most impressed us and when we get home we look 'em up in that commodious reference work, that comprehensive, all embracing, metropolitan Who's Who, the city directory, and seasoned as we may be, some of the things we find there on such occasions are nothing less than surprising."

MOTHER'S "NOTIONS."
Good for Young People to Follow.
"My little grandson often comes up to show me how large the muscles of his arms are."
"He was a delicate child, but has developed into a strong, healthy boy and Postum has been the principal factor."
"I was induced to give him the Postum because of my own experience with it."
"I am sixty years old, and have been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for many years. Have tried all sorts of medicines and had treatment from many physicians, but no permanent relief came. I believe nervous dyspepsias suffer more than other sick people, as they are affected mentally as well as physically."
"I used to read the Postum advertisements in our paper. At first I gave but little attention to them, thinking it was a fraud like so many I had tried, but finally something in one of the advertisements made me conclude to try it."
"I was very particular to have it prepared strictly according to directions, and used good, rich cream. It was very nice indeed, and about bedtime I said to the members of the family, 'I believed I felt better. One of them laughed and said, 'That's another of mother's notions,' but the notion has not left me yet."
"I continued to improve right along after leaving off coffee and taking Postum and now after three years' use I feel so well that I am almost young again. I know Postum was the cause of the change in my health and I cannot say too much in its favor. I wish I could persuade all nervous people to use it."

TALKED AFTER HE WAS DEAD

T. P. Bailey, Declared Lifeless, Spoke with Voice and Fingers.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—Medical circles and psychological students are interested in the peculiar phenomena accompanying the death in a private hospital here of Theodore P. Bailey, assistant manager of the Philadelphia offices of the General Electric company. Blood poisoning following a delayed operation for appendicitis apparently caused Bailey's death. At that moment all pulsation stopped, his eyes became glazed and closed, his limbs rigid and his body cold.

But for twenty-seven minutes he continued to talk to his wife and daughter till his vocal organs became paralyzed. He continued the conversation for eighteen minutes more with his daughter by means of the deaf and dumb alphabet. The story is told by his wife, daughter and private secretary. Several physicians today professed to see nothing improbable in the story, though they admitted it was decidedly unusual for a person to be able to talk after his heart apparently had lost all action.

Saturday morning he was visited by Dr. J. W. Kennedy, the operating surgeon, at the private hospital of Dr. Joseph Fries, which he had been taken to the preceding Sunday, suffering from appendicitis. There was hardly any pulsation, and the patient was rapidly growing cold. At 11:40 Bailey seemed suddenly to realize that he was dying and began to talk with his wife and private secretary about his business affairs. He was perfectly calm. At 11:45 he died, to all appearances. His eyes became fixed, a slight tremor passed through his body and then it became rigid with the exception of hands and throat. His eyes nearly closed. The nurse indicated that death had come. Word was sent to friends who waited outside. Then, in whisper, with tremendous mental effort to master the inert muscles of his throat, Bailey began again to talk. For twenty-seven minutes he gave directions for the care of his estate and the education of his daughter, Laura, fifteen-years-old. His sides uttering nervous gasps, he continued to talk. At 12:12 his voice failed him. After trying to master it he made a motion with his hand indicating that he wished to write. A pencil and pad were brought. He scribbled a few words on the pad, but then clearly wrote "Paralysis," indicating by a motion the cords of his throat. A moment afterward one hand, resting on the pillow, was lifted till a finger touched his forehead, indicating that he was still conscious. His eyes were closed and his hands motionless. He had all the appearance of a dead person, but gradually his fingers began to work.

In his younger days Bailey had studied the deaf and dumb alphabet, as an amusement. After the birth of his daughter, Laura, the little girl became deaf-mute and the little girl became proficient in talking with the inmates. The wife and daughter stood by his deathbed, the fingers on the counterpane moved and the little girl bending over translated the messages that his throat could no longer utter. They were words of cheer and comfort for the wife and his daughter, and a message to the secretary.

When Laura bent over and kissed her father on the forehead, thinking he was beyond movement, the fingers worked again and she read: "Kiss me on the mouth, dear!" At 12:25 the fingers became still and did not move again.

Mrs. Bailey, in telling the story to William J. Clark of the New York office of the General Electric company, said she believed that it was her husband's love for his family and his wonderful mental control over his body that made it possible for him to retain his mind after his body had apparently died.

"In such cases very clear mentality is not uncommon," Dr. Kennedy said.

"I would not dare to say just the moment" when actual death came to Mr. Bailey. He had no pulsation and his body was cold when I left about 10 o'clock. Undoubtedly at 11:45, when he seemed to the family to die, he had all appearances of death. A hundred years ago a medical man might have said that he was dead. The nurse could find no sign of pulse. It is possible that there was some circulation about his heart still. To most modern medical men death means when, after the heart stops and there is no longer any breath, the mind becomes unconscious for the last time. This case was unusual but not inexplicable to science.

Friends say it was his desire to comfort the wife he loved so greatly that caused him to defy death till he had said all that was in his mind.

WOMEN AND LAWN TENNIS.

In the early days of tennis many writers seemed to agree that it would never do as a sport for women. The risk of strain to the muscles, the handicap of dress as a drag, and finally the danger of "being hit in the eye," all seemed to effect these pessimistic writers. Suggestions were made through the columns of the London Field of various means of making the game easier for women, such as standing nearer the net to serve, having a smaller court, finally, being at liberty to refuse as many services as she liked.

It would have been a pleasure to see one of these men doubters matched against Miss May Sutton at the time when she won the English championship upon the occasion of her first attempt. No sooner did the women fairly start in the game than they began at once to show that very little handicap or special arrangement was necessary to enable them to do good work. The development of croquet in the few years previous had led to a new experience for women; namely, that of being able to compete with men on fairly even terms, and this experience was one of the factors in their desire to continue this same pleasure in tennis. Thus the game has been, like croquet, a great developer in the way of exercise and outdoor pleasure for women.

From this time when Miss M. Langrish won the Irish championship at the Fitzwilliam club, Dublin, in 1879, down to the present day there has been good class in women players. The national English women's championship was established at Wimbledon in 1884, and in Philadelphia the National Association of American first gave sanction in 1889, when Miss Townsend won. Since that time until the occasion when Miss May Sutton, at her best, twice visited England, and won their women's championship, there have been high class women players in both countries. The most promising figure among women players just now is Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, a student at the University of California—Walter Camp in Century.

A KING WITH SUSPENDERS.

A Kentucky capitalist who was arrested in Kansas City for having violated the law of the arid belt, made this plea to the judge for release, relates A. J. Reed in the Minneapolis Journal:

"I own 4200 acres of Kentucky land with blue grass a foot high all over it, 90 head of thoroughbred cattle, 18 stands of bees, a barrel of money and two pairs of suspenders. I'm the only fellow in the world that ever owned two pairs of galuses at once."

The judge was thoughtful, but the plea didn't go with him. "Every man has ideals in his mind. One of them, held almost universally, is to own two pairs of suspenders at once, so that he will not be obliged to change these valuable supporters continually from pants to trousers.

"Now achieve it, however. It is not a matter of money, for many well-to-do and even rich men are tied to one pair of suspenders through early habits of thought and training, inertia, absent-mindedness and the like errors.

"When we see a man who owns two sets of suspenders, we say to ourselves, 'There goes a king.'"

WALL STREET STOCKS.

New York, Aug. 29.—Although the feeling throughout the street is still generally one of uncertainty, the shorts today, in the absence of unfavorable news to undermine confidence, proceeded to cover commitments, and the upward movement was aided by several large professional traders, bullish inclined at least for the present. In good quarters it is not believed that a sustained recovery of consequence is probable at this time, but occasional advances would only seem natural whenever the selling is carried to the extreme. It need hardly be feared that the setbacks will not occur with as much frequency as heretofore, as there is not as yet any indication of willingness on the part of the banking interests to allow material expansion of loans. Demand money was slightly firmer today, and it is thought that as preparations for Sept. 1 disbursements progress, the tendency will be to cause somewhat firmer rates for all maturities. Closing prices today were as follows:

New York Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 29.—The whole attention of the market was given to the sensational movement in August, which after an opening at 62.25, sold at 20 1/2 cents later. This option has no bearing on the general market, but tends to distract the trade until the month expires and obscure for the moment the real conditions. It is merely the final defeat of an element that had underestimated all along the power of the belt, the size of the crop and the extent of the famine in supplies that resulted. The distant months started 3 to 4 lower and after a short show of strength, during which prices moved up to about Saturday's close, eased off again ten points. Heavy receipts of new cotton, the Texas movement being the largest on record up to this date, and expectations that the government report Friday will show that the condition of the crop for the entire belt has practically held its own regardless of the serious deterioration in Texas, is considered likely to wake up to the fact some of these days that they have repeated the mistake of last year.

The guests from out of town were Mrs. Corwin, Aurora; Mrs. Whitman, Eveleth; Mrs. Kingston, Minneapolis; and Miss Leavitt, Cleveland.—The Virginian.

Homer Whitman, who was last week released from the Ishpeming baseball team, will probably finish out the season with Crystal Falls. He played at short in both of the games against Ishpeming Saturday and Sunday, and gave a fine account of himself, though he did not secure a hit in either game. He returned to Ishpeming yesterday with the local team, as did McFarland of Rapid River and Lamers, who is making his home at Trout Creek. McFarland will play the remainder of the season with the Ishpeming team.

David Hooper, who spent a month visiting relatives and friends in Ishpeming and the copper country, has left for his home in Plymouth, Pa. He was accompanied by John Hooper and the latter's daughter, Mrs. William Whaley, of South Main street, who will spend five or six weeks visiting relatives in Pennsylvania.

All of the Ishpeming members of the Lake Superior Mining Institute, who attended the fifteenth annual meeting last week, have returned home. Some of them arrived yesterday, others Sunday, and a few came Saturday. Most of those who came yesterday saw the automobile races at Elgin, Ill.

FINE EQUIPMENT AT NORTH LAKE

Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company's New Mines Will Have Modern Plants.

Although a large force of men is employed at the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's new North Lake properties, it will be some months before all of the equipment is installed. Among the important work yet to be done is the installation of a second drum and 400 horsepower dynamo in the No. 1 power plant. One drum is now in operation there and is used to do the hoisting from the shaft which is now being sunk. This shaft is now some 200 feet or 300 feet. The drums at both shafts are the same size, being ten feet in diameter. Both of the drums at the No. 2 shaft are in position and one of them is now being used in the hoisting. One drum at each power plant will be used for the operation of the hoists and the other for the skips, which will be operated in balance.

The plants are now running smoothly. The dynamo to be attached to each drum will have a 400 horsepower capacity and the drums in each engine house will be operated independently. The machinery in the blacksmith and machine shops is also operated by electricity. A power drill sharpener is now in operation in the blacksmith shop and the machine shop has been provided with lathes, drills and other machines.

Drifting has been started in the No. 2 shaft, but it will not be started until the ore has not yet been reached. A small amount of ore has been hoisted from No. 2.

The miners employed in No. 1 shaft are now using the boiler plant, which is a furnace for heating water, and a changing house. The plant is connected by a tunnel with the shaft and the workmen are not obliged to go out into the open when going to or leaving the mine.

HOW TO BE HANDSOME.

To be handsome is not always to be good, but there is surely no harm in being handsome if you can become so without spoiling your face. For years I was considered homely. My best friends admitted it, and my enemies made unkind references to it. I knew that there were dermatologists who were perfectly willing to give silver bridges to bridgeless noses, dazzling brilliance to lack-luster eyes, and ravishing outlines to hideous profiles, but I did not care to go to the expense. I determined to be my own dermatologist.

I have drawn an outline of my profile as it was before. I began to work on my face. It will be seen that, while intellectual, it was not handsome. My ear was too long, and my nose too like a toe, while my brow needed building up and my chin pushing forward. My eye, while not beautiful, had character, and I decided not to alter that, but the other features needed manipulation.

I began with my nose. When I went to bed I lay on my back with a flatiron bound to my nose. It was painful at first, but I soon got used to it, and day by day my nose changed its shape until at last it was perfect. I next tried sleeping standing up in a prepared bed, with heavy weights hung to my chin. This had a tendency to bring my chin forward. Luckily I was out at a job, so I was able to do my sleeping in the day time. To give myself a high brow I made a hat like those used by the hat makers to ascertain the size of the head. This I screwed on my head on retiring, increasing the pressure each night. It also took double doses of headache powder, as I needed them. As I look back it does not seem more than six months that I labored with my visage, but my diary tells me it took a year.

I appended a profile of my face as it was after I had secured beauty for myself. The difference between the two profiles is great, and the torture was great, but it is certainly pleasant to hear people say whenever I appear in public "Who is that strikingly handsome man?"

THREATENS TO KILL RYAN.

Threats to kill John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated, caused Albert C. Gennsberger's appearance in Judge Donlan's court this morning before an insanity commission, consisting of Drs. Don Campbell and Christ Turner, says the Anaconda Standard. Gennsberger admitted that he had made threats and intimated that he still retained his resentment against Ryan. He said, however, that he would appeal to the courts for justice before taking extreme measures.

Some time ago Gennsberger was the plaintiff in an action against the Ashbee Copper company. The case was lost to the plaintiff. Gennsberger has since alleged injustice on the part of John D. Ryan, and therefore the threats against the mining president's life.

He appears as a man of more than average intelligence. No signs of the sanity could be discovered, and he was released by the commission.

one approaching it in size. It was well hit with a raking shot and I fancy it died, but shall always regret that I did not fire again and make sure of this for I could have persuaded the skipper to stop the steamer and put me ashore so that I might have taped the animal. In fact he said he would have done so had the crocodile not escaped. The eighteen-foot gaur I measured in the Brahmaputra was a large one, but I believe I have seen a few bigger. In 1894 these animals were very plentiful, although in five or six years they got scarcer, as many people used to fire at them from the passing steamers.

"I have an idea that the late Sir Samuel Baker mentions a large crocodile in his book on the sources of the Nile, but it is so many years since I read the work in question that I have forgotten the facts.

"A crocodile is an awkward animal to skin, for the skin is very firmly attached to the body. A good many natives are killed by these animals every year, and in places where they are dangerous the natives make a circular fence in the water to protect themselves when in bathing and drawing water."

The passage referred to by our correspondent is no doubt that in "Wild Beasts and their ways" (chapter xiii) where Baker wrote of having seen on a bare patch of grey granite on an island in the Victoria Nile "two vast forms, each as thick as the body of a hippopotamus, antediluvian monsters glided slowly and fearfully along the gently sloping granite and when half beneath the water they exposed a breadth of back which was the most extraordinary sight I have ever seen in my long experience of crocodiles." The canoe in which he was travelling at the time was about thirty feet long and he judged the surface of the granite at about sixty feet, but "would not presume to estimate the length of these extraordinary creatures."

AMBASSADORIAL PRIVILEGES.

In the popular mind—the American mind at least—there is very little difference between an ambassador and a minister.

For instance, says a writer in Harper's Weekly, one curious privilege of an ambassador is that he, and he alone, when dismissed, may turn his back to the sovereign.

When the audience is at an end the ambassador waits to be dismissed by the sovereign. When dismissed the ambassador bows, retires three paces, bows again, retires three paces, bows a third time, turns on his heels, and walks to the folding-doors.

Another privilege of ambassadors is the right of being ushered into the royal presence through the folding-doors, both of which can be flung wide for him.

One privilege appertaining to the ambassador, one capable of causing great inconvenience to the ruler, is the right of demanding admission to the sovereign at any hour of day or night.

ORIGIN OF THE PASSION PLAY.

A hundred years ago a great calamity came upon the village of Oberammergau, Bavaria, which made a profound impression upon the inhabitants, and they vowed to God that if he would make an end to their distress they would render greater devotion to him and increased service in the establishment of his kingdom.

IRON-COPPER CIRCUIT NOT FAVORED HERE

Fans Do Not Believe Sullivan's Plan Would Be Self-Supporting.

"I am not in favor of Ted Sullivan's plan for the formation of an iron-copper country baseball league next summer."

"I think we will do well if we are able to re-organize our present league next season. So far as Negaunee is concerned the men who have been most liberal in contributing to the support of the team are not grumbling."

"The Crystal Falls fans are perhaps heavier losers this year than the supporters of either of the other three teams. They are entitled to much credit for the way they have stuck to the game."

"I have heard many fans express themselves as favoring Escanaba instead of Crystal Falls next season, and I have heard others express themselves in favor of Gwinn, which now has a very good team, as well as a good ball park."

"The expense of sending a team to Gwinn is much less than to Crystal Falls. If the league is reorganized next summer, I shall oppose a division of the receipts. I believe that after this year's experience all of the teams will be satisfied to take the receipts of their own games."

Daniel Shea and Michael Burns, who attended the session of the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, held last week at Port Huron, as representatives of the Negaunee division, arrived home Sunday.

BIRD VICTIMS OF FASION.

In the lecture theater of the civil service commission under the auspices of the Selborne society, James Buckland gave an address on the need of legislation in regard to the slaughter of the world's birds in London in 1847 and men in Venezuela for their plumes, but in 1908 the number had fallen to 257,916.

The effect of ten year's slaughter during the breeding season has been to reduce the available supply from 1,500,000 to 50,000.

A vast number of feathers used in the millinery trade of England are brought into the country by means of false declarations. Despite the fact that the humming bird is protected by law throughout Great Britain's possessions in the West Indies, three plumage sales have taken place in London this year when the skins of over 25,000 humming birds were cataloged. The prices realized varied from 1d. to 1 1/2d. a skin.

BE CAREFUL ON PRIMARY DAY

Provisions of Law Regarding Manner of Conducting Election Are Very Strict and Voters May Have Ballots Rejected if Not Discreet in Behavior.

One Must Not, After Marking His Ballot, Expose It in Such a Way as to Show for Whom He Has Voted—Electioneering Within 100 Feet of Polls Forbidden.

Many of those who have given careful study to the primary law under which the election of Sept. 6 will be conducted are of the opinion that the election inspectors will have cause to throw out many of the ballots voted, because of violation of one or more of the complex regulations laid down for the manner of conducting the election.

Upon going to the polls every voter will be asked which party he is enrolled, and after having satisfied the inspectors that he is an enrolled voter he will be given a ballot containing the names of the candidates for all the offices to be nominated by his party.

When the ballot is returned, folded so that only the number is visible, the inspector must make sure that the voter has returned the same ballot that was given him, and if it is not the same ballot the inspector must reject it and such voter will not be allowed to vote at all.

One of the most startling provisions of the law is the following: "If any enrolled voter shall, after marking his ballot, so expose it to any person as to reveal the name of any candidate voted for thereon, such ballot shall be rejected and such voter forfeits the right to vote at the election, and the occurrence shall be noted in the poll book opposite the voter's name."

Others Must Be Able to Read. In order to know for whom he is voting, the voter must be able to read his ballot, as the order in which the names of the candidates appear on the ballots will not be the same on any two consecutive ballots given out by the inspectors.

For instance, on one ballot Osborn's name will appear first in the list of candidates for governor, on the next Kelly's name will be first and Musselman's name first on the next. This means that a political boss can no longer tell his henchmen to put an X opposite the first name or the last, but that every voter must determine for himself, without any assistance, which candidates whose names are on the ballot he wishes to vote for.

Another section of the law makes it a misdemeanor for anyone to solicit votes within 100 feet of a polling place while the polls are open on election day. Any person who offers or gives to another intoxicating liquors within any polling place is also guilty of a misdemeanor.

It is the duty of election inspectors to cause instruction ballots to be printed for each party on yellow paper, and to distribute said instruction ballots in the same manner and at the time provided for the distribution of the official primary ballots.

As the polls will be open until 8 o'clock in all cities over 5,000 and until 10 o'clock in Detroit, the results of the primary election will probably not be definitely known until some time Wednesday and possibly not until Thursday. This will certainly be the case if the race between any of the candidates is a close one, as, in several instances, it promises to be.

Primary Vote Two Years Ago. The vote on government in the upper peninsula at the Republican primaries two years ago was as follows:

Table with 4 columns: Name, Total, 1908, 1909. Includes names like Warner, Bradley, Earle, Alger, Baraga, Chippewa, etc.

HUMANE SOCIETY NEEDED.

Dumb Animals Often Cruelly Treated in This Community, It Is Asserted.

In the opinion of a number of Marquette people, a humane society is a crying need in this city. One who is familiar with horses and their treatment said yesterday that the way these animals were abused by certain persons was a crying shame and would not be tolerated in many places.

Another common practice is to leave horses tied on the street for hours at a time. As an example, one Marquette man noticed a few days ago, near Negunee a horse that was tied at a hitching post from 9 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night without anything to eat or drink.

Three horses were shipped into Marquette from West Virginia yesterday that were in deplorable condition and one of them died a few hours after he was taken off the car.

THEATRICAL.

"Edward Russell Stock Company."

The Edward Russell Stock Company opened a week's engagement at the Marquette Opera House last evening with a very entertaining comedy entitled "The Bachelor and the Maid."

The company is made up of good actors and the production last night was well received. The play dealt with the troubles of a man who fled to his wife to satisfy her as to the reason for his being out all night, and the exasperatingly funny complications that resulted while endeavoring to keep up the lie in the light of later events.

Tonight the company will appear in Victorian Sardons' great comedy, "Divorees" (Let's Get a Divorce), which is based on the famous L'Article 47, which was about to be adopted in France at one time, whereby a man and wife by saying they were unsuited to one another were immediately granted a divorce.

DOG ATTACKS SON OF G. W. HIBBARD

Young Man, Well Known Locally, Bitten on the Leg by a Vicious Canine in Seattle.

Gerald, son of George W. Hibbard, formerly of this city, was recently bitten by a vicious dog in Seattle, where he now resides, but according to letters received by friends of the family the young man is well on the road to recovery.

Gerald Hibbard, sixteen years old, son of George W. Hibbard, assistant general passenger agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway, who lives at 1102 Sixteenth avenue north, was attacked by a vicious dog on Fifteenth avenue, near East Mercer street, yesterday afternoon and severely bitten about the leg.

"Young Hibbard was riding a bicycle and was passing a milk wagon when a big brown setter, which was following the wagon, grabbed him by the leg and sank his teeth deep into the flesh. The boy leaped from the wheel and getting behind it kept the dog at bay until it was called away by its master."

"Suffering great pain, he hurried to his home, where he was met by his chum, Philip Gray, sixteen years old."

"Gerald gave Philip a 22-caliber revolver, and his chum went gunning for the dog. Only a few blocks away he saw the milk wagon. The dog was under it. As he approached the wagon, according to his story to the police, the dog leaped at him. Philip drew the revolver and as the dog came at him fired. The bullet pierced the animal's ear and yelping with pain it ran down the street, escaping before the boy could fire a second shot."

"Gerald Hibbard was immediately taken to the office of Dr. Eugene Allen, in the Cobb building, where the wound was cauterized."
