MAILED DAILY EXCEPT ON SUNDAYS... SUBSCRIPTION RATES: For year, by mail, $6.00...

MARQUETTE, MICH. SEPT. 22, 1910.

Why, Mr. Bryan, you naughty bolter!

There appears to be a slight misunderstanding about who sought that Roosevelt-Taft conference.

Mr. Hemans is coming to the upper peninsula early enough for the voters to forget all about him before election day rolls 'round.

Marquette has the high batter, the high pitcher, second place and a solvent treasury as its share of the spoils of the recent league baseball season.

The Negaunee team has shown Escanaba that it will have to put forward the best it has got, if it enters into a baseball league next year with Marquette, Negaunee and Ishpeming.

Wayne county Democrats will doubtless point out that Representative Denby is much the same kind of a Republican as Representative Tanney is, and proceed to draw the obvious moral.

President Hunter, of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, insists that union labor must have the right to boycott legally. But this promises to be one of the things that union labor can't get. The boycott doesn't stand very high with the American public.

The members of the senate committee on elections and privileges are loth to begin the investigation into Lorimer's title to his seat until all the members are present. They don't want any flare-up similar to the one attending the effort of the Ballinger-Pinchot committee to agree on a report.

It had been reported that the directors of the Hamilton club would refuse to accept Senator Lorimer's resignation, but would censure President Batten for his course in withdrawing Lorimer's invitation to the recent club banquet in honor of Colonel Roosevelt.

It is only a few years ago that the radius of action for automobiles owned in Marquette county was decidedly limited, and was confined to trips between the cities of the county and over neighboring country roads.

The fight in Tanney's district was a hot one. It was participated in by Anderson by Francis J. Heney, prominent Wisconsin progressives, and Gifford Pinchot, the latter having found time to spare from the recent conservation congress at St. Paul to enter Tanney's district to make a speech against him.

with which the improvements are carried on.

The voters of Oneida county who know Vice President Sherman best—those of his own election district, own ward and own assembly district—administered to him a telling rebuke when he defeated him at the polls on the Sherman-Roosevelt issue.

The mining journal believes there is much wisdom in what the Lansing State Republican has to say about the relations that Mr. Osborn, the Republican candidate for governor, is to have with the state convention in regard to the platform which will be formulated by it.

Another shining light in the galaxy of national "standpat" leaders seems to have been retired from active political life. The returns show that Representative Tanney, of the first Minnesota congressional district, has been rejected in favor of Sidney Anderson, a progressive.

The election results indicate that his course has been steadily undermining his strength at home until now the majority has been won to command has been changed into a minority, because of the growth of the idea among his constituents that he has not been truly representing them or honestly endeavoring to look after their interests.

Representative Tanney's defeat is one of the most serious reverses the "standpat" have yet received, and is certainly one of the most significant. VOICE CULTURE. Mrs. Louis Vierling, studio 114 W. Hewitt Ave., Marquette.

STATE POLITICS.

The Iosco county Republican convention passed the following resolution: "We most heartily endorse the nomination of Hon. Chase S. Osborn, of Sault Ste. Marie, as our candidate for governor and approve the 'progressive' platform announced in its primary campaign, in its entirety."

Former State Senator Andrew Fyfe, of Grand Rapids, is a close personal and political friend of William Alden Smith. This being the case, there seems to be a basis for the report that Senator Smith, now that Senator Burrows is down and out, will have Andrew appointed either internal revenue collector or supervisor of customs at Grand Rapids.

Lapeer county Republicans have elected as county chairman Daniel Zubike, who shouted lustily in the primaries for Lieut.-Gov. Kelley, and as secretary, Dr. J. J. Frazer, who shouted equally as lustily for Chase S. Osborn, which is evidence that the party there is united.

When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others. A superintendent of public schools in a Southern state says: "My mother, since her early childhood, was an inveterate coffee drinker, had been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach."

PET MONKEY CALLS FOR "WOUP BRUT"

That Means Wine, According to Prof. Garner, Whose Susie Makes Her Bow to Society.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Professor Richard L. Garner still believes that chimpanzees can talk, think and reason. No matter of newspaper talk or ridicule from "Freiside naturalists" can shake his faith either, and he told an audience at the Wagner Free Institute of Science so.

The Philadelphia Natural History society was there in force and Professor Garner was their guest, with his dear little Susie just out of the jungle, to prove his claim that monkeys do talk.

Susie spoke more than once while on exhibition. Her owner called to his assistant to get Susie a drink. Susie heard the word drink and looked pleased. She turned her head toward the assistant and purred:

"Woup brut."

She said "brut" so sweetly that one was reminded of his latest board waltz music, and Susie laid her head to one side in pleasant anticipation of the fizzy stuff to come.

"Can't find anything but water back here," yelled the waiter in the back room. Susie straightened herself up and looked scornfully at the professor. To think a lady of her training should be asked to drink water "quite overwheeled" she would have felt hurt, of course, but even beer would have been better than water. Susie simply decided to drink.

Susie Made Her Debut.

Susie proved to be a charming female but did her sex no great credit either as a creature of intelligence or manners. Moreover, Susie was not overtly choice in her language, nor did she depart from the female disposition to disobey her lord and master.

The professor told his audience that Susie was quite a debutante. In fact, she was presented to the public for the first time and it was observed that Susie will have to take another term in finishing school before she can hope to be a success.

She very indelicately preened her toes when the lecturer was explaining that he had kept Susie constantly by his side morning, noon, and night, in order to prove that environment and example were not so vitally important as heredity. She curled up roundly when Mr. Garner reproved her for chewing the job of his ear instead of kissing him. She very rudely spat at a lady who offered to shake hands and showed, absolutely that she was not a perfectly honest girl by stealthily running her hand into the breast pocket of a gentleman's coat while she embraced him rapturously with the other arm and kissed him on the cheek.

When She Says "Good Morning."

Susie picked up an apple when the professor held out his hand and said "apple." She picked up an orange when asked to do so. She picked candy out of a box, which action, considering her sex, was not regarded as amazing. She also discriminated between a ball and a cube without actually having them in her hand.

Professor Garner spent the entire time allotted to him in telling his audience that apes did talk and that scientists who declared that he was mistaken were themselves undisciplined. He said that all animals could talk to an extent proportionate to their ability to think. He uttered several ape words which sounded like volapuk done in reformed spelling. For instance:

"Guviff Tsch tak tuuro" means "Good morning."

PARTY NEAR DESPAIR IN EMPIRE STATE

Republican Harmony Is Hardly Likely and Danger of Defeat Increases.

New York, Sept. 21.—Quite aside from the result of the Maine election, the Republicans of this state, whatever their affiliations with one or the other of the warring camps, are approaching a stage of despair over the prospects of the state campaign.

Here are the elements of Republicanism in New York at the present time: First, the adherents of the Old Guard, who are battling now only with a view to controlling the state convention, as if that were the end of all political activity.

Second, the adherents of the Old Guard, who are battling now only with a view to controlling the state convention, as if that were the end of all political activity. It may be said in all seriousness, if with another meaning, that the state convention will be the end of the Old Guard, and that the adherents of the Old Guard, as Barnes and Woodruff would stand in show of winning; and if, on the other hand the Roosevelt forces should dominate the situation, that domination means that the Old Guard meets its fate on convention day instead of election day.

Third, the adherents of the Old Guard, who are battling now only with a view to controlling the state convention, as if that were the end of all political activity. It may be said in all seriousness, if with another meaning, that the state convention will be the end of the Old Guard, and that the adherents of the Old Guard, as Barnes and Woodruff would stand in show of winning; and if, on the other hand the Roosevelt forces should dominate the situation, that domination means that the Old Guard meets its fate on convention day instead of election day.

Fourth, the adherents of the Old Guard, who are battling now only with a view to controlling the state convention, as if that were the end of all political activity. It may be said in all seriousness, if with another meaning, that the state convention will be the end of the Old Guard, and that the adherents of the Old Guard, as Barnes and Woodruff would stand in show of winning; and if, on the other hand the Roosevelt forces should dominate the situation, that domination means that the Old Guard meets its fate on convention day instead of election day.

Fifth, the adherents of the Old Guard, who are battling now only with a view to controlling the state convention, as if that were the end of all political activity. Seventh, the adherents of the Old Guard, who are battling now only with a view to controlling the state convention, as if that were the end of all political activity. ODD CLEWS TO MURDERS.

Criminals are very forgetful persons. The famous series of frauds on the Bank of England by the Benson brothers a generation ago was terminated by the fact that the forgers of the drafts forgot to date the last one presented. This almost incredible blunder led to the break-up of the most dangerous band of criminals England has ever known.

HEROINES OF THE WAR.

Erecting monuments to the dead is the accepted way of honoring a beloved memory and perpetuating it for the tender esteem of future generations. Every crisis has its heroes and many have their names to men of war and men of peace, statesmen, men of letters and leaders in learning, with here and there a recognition of some woman's work. The Civil War, as natural with so great a conflict, was especially rich in heroes, and the numbers of commensurate women to men of war and men of peace, statesmen, men of letters and leaders in learning, with here and there a recognition of some woman's work. All made the trip in good time. The big Lozier made the one-way trip in two minutes over three hours and Max Reynolds's Hupmobile made it in less than three hours. The three cars traveled together.

New Walks in Park—Robert Hume, under the direction of the park, cemetery and street commission, is laying out walks diagonally across Washington street park, to meet the east of which a part of the 8500 recently appropriated by the council for improvement of the park is being used. Home From Mexico—S. R. Kaufman arrived home yesterday morning from a ten days' trip to Mexico and the southwestern states. He went to Mexico to inspect the mines of the El Dorado Consolidated company, near Paral, where a new concentrator is to go into commission within a few weeks. At Bisbee Mr. Kaufman says that talk about the proposed consolidation of the Superior & Pittsburg and Calumet & Arizona companies is general. Dr. Ricketts, the well-known mining engineer, and his assistants are looking over the properties, with a view of determining their relative resources. Five shares of S. & P. to one of C. & A. is the basis for the consolidation that is most discussed.

Verdict for $508—After deliberating for about four hours, the jury in the case of William Tregay against Howard Fenner, a suit for damages because of Mr. Fenner's automobile running into Mr. Tregay's rig on the hill between Negunee and Ishpeming two years ago, returned a verdict for $508 in favor of Mr. Tregay. The plaintiff sued for $5,000. This is the last jury trial of the present term of circuit court. Yesterday afternoon Judge Flannigan heard the evidence of both sides in the suit brought by M. J. Griffin against the Superior Lumber company. Mr. Griffin is suing the company for rent, the company claiming that it is leasing the land in question from the South Shore railroad, and should not pay rent to both the railroad company and to Mr. Griffin.

May Divide Conference—One of the important matters that is to come up at the annual conference of the Methodist church in Detroit this week is the question of the separation of the upper peninsula counties from the Detroit conference, according to dispatches from that city. One plan is to unite the upper peninsula counties with others in Wisconsin, forming a new conference. In this connection, the Detroit News says: "For years the poorly paid Methodist preachers of the upper peninsula, some of them receiving no more than $250 a year with house rent, have been murmuring at the necessity of traveling long distances each year to conference somewhere in the lower peninsula. These men say that if the upper peninsula is formed into a separate conference, it will not be necessary for them to spend, hereafter, a large fraction of their yearly salary to come to the yearly gathering of the denomination."

Immense Stock of Latest Fall Goods Shown at Grabover's Fall Opening.

Hundreds of Marquette county women visited the fall opening of the millinery and cloak and suit departments at Grabover's store yesterday, and all were surprised and delighted at the completeness and excellent selection that characterizes Mr. Grabover's stock this season. Few people realize the size of this store, which consists of five floors that placed side by side would cover nearly half a block. All of this immense floor space is filled with the pick of the best and latest fall offerings, both imported and domestic, for ladies' wear. The main floor is given over to the general dry goods and women's shoes department; a large stock of millinery, cloaks and suits and furs is exhibited on the second floor, and the first floor is devoted to carpets and rugs.

In honor of the fall opening, the second floor has been beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, and the choicest patterns of suits, cloaks and hats are displayed in a manner well calculated to entrance the feminine eye. Mr. Grabover is carrying a larger stock in these departments this fall than ever before and an inspection is sufficient to convince the most skeptical that any woman can find something there to satisfy her particular taste at as reasonable prices, considering quality of the goods, as can be found anywhere. The stock of furs is exceptionally large and well selected, though not as yet arranged to show off to the best advantage.

But it is the millinery department that the ladies find it hardest to tear themselves away from. This department is in charge of Miss Heyman, an expert in her line whom Mr. Grabover has brought to Marquette from New York, and the display of hats simply beggars description. They must be seen to be appreciated. "English styles predominate in millinery this season," said Miss Heyman yesterday, "and the more somber colors, reflecting that the English people are in mourning for the late King Edward, are in the ascendency. The prevailing colors are black and white, black and blue and black and gold combinations. Beaver and latter's plush are the most popular materials for the hat itself, and flowers, especially poppies, are much used for trimming. All of the hats have receding crowns, and it is noticeable that the small hats have very high crowns and the large hats very low crowns. Many of the turbans have a visor effect, an adaptation of the British army cap. One of the new shapes is the peek-a-boo hat, an immense yet strikingly beautiful creation, which almost obscures the face. Another is the jante or mandarin hat, the name of which gives a good idea of its appearance."

All of these latest fads of the season, as well as a complete line of the more modest shapes and styles are to be found at Grabover's and the stock in all other departments of this large store is equally complete and shows the result of expert, painstaking selection.

Guild Hall Notes

J. M. Longyear has kindly consented to give an illustrated talk on Norway and Spitzbergen at the Guild hall Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Longyear has recently had prepared about 150 slides from views taken by himself, while traveling in Norway and Spitzbergen. These slides contain pictures of the countries, the peoples and their customs, and of walrus, seal and polar bear hunting. The talk will be especially interesting because of Mr. Longyear's intimate knowledge of the places and people, and because of the many personal experiences he will relate in connection with the views. Those who heard Mr. Longyear give a talk on these countries last year will be interested to know that the slides to be used in the lecture Friday night are an almost entirely new set prepared from views taken by Mr. Longyear during a recent visit to Norway and Spitzbergen. The talk will be open to Guild Hall members and their friends, and admission will be by ticket only. As the capacity of the hall is limited to 200, that number of tickets will be issued. These can be secured at the Guild Hall Thursday and Friday by members or can be reserved by telephone on those days. Children under twelve will not be admitted unless accompanied by their parents.

The Guild Hall football team lined up against the High school team yesterday afternoon for a short practice game.

VOLUNTEER COMPANY TO HAVE FINE MINE

Shaft Is Down 300 Feet and Ore Is Being Hoisted from Level at That Point.

During the eleven months that the Volunteer Ore company has been preparing to open its new mine near Palmer Lake, on the Cascade range, excellent progress has been made with the work and the property will, within a few weeks, enter the shipping list. The shaft is located about 300 feet from the north shore of Palmer lake, and three-quarters of a mile northwest of the old Volunteer property. Before starting the shaft the company sunk a large number of drill holes on the southern rim of the Negaunee basin, so the management has a pretty good knowledge of the ore deposits. Many of the holes were put down about 100 feet apart, and the tract under control was pretty thoroughly explored. Before the Volunteer company began work, Alexander Maitland, who owns the land, also put down several holes, but most of his drilling was done some distance to the northeast, toward the Empire mine, which is located on the hill less than a mile distant from the Volunteer company's new shaft.

The ore comes quite close to surface southwest of the shaft and outcroppings were found in the bottom of Palmer lake, where a drill hole was put down last winter. In order to shut off the possibility of a heavy flow of water into the mine at some future time, the company built a dam 500 feet in length across Palmer lake and the greater part of the water in the north end has already been drained off. The lake is about three-quarters of a mile in length, and the water in the upper end will be held in reserve to supply the boiler plant at the old Volunteer mine, which will be used in the operation of the property. The ditch leading from the north side of the lake is now carrying very little water and in time it is expected that that portion of the lake will be dry enough to eliminate all danger of a flow into the mine, when the ore is being opened down through raises that will be opened in that direction.

Ore of Good Quality.

The shaft is now down 300 feet, from which point a drift is being started to attack the ore body. Another drift is also being extended from a point 100 feet from the surface, through the main part of the ore body will be reached lower down. Ore was encountered in the shaft near where the first drift was started and a few hundred tons were hoisted before ore was encountered near the second drift. The ore at the latter point is of better quality than that found near surface. Indications are favorable for finding ore of considerably better quality than that produced at the old Volunteer mine, where operations were suspended some seven or eight years ago.

New Steel Shaft House.

The American Bridge company is completing the erection of a steel shaft house, and as soon as the work is finished the installing of the cage and skip in the shaft will be started. Up to this time all the hoisting has been done in a bucket by a temporary plant. The engine now in use is not large enough to continue the sinking much deeper. The main Volunteer plant will be ready for operation in a week or ten days, when the temporary plant will be abandoned. The latter consists of a three-drill air compressor, a seventy-five horse power boiler and a small engine with a four foot drum. The shaft will have three compartments. The one for the cage will be ten by six feet in size, the one for the skip five by five feet, and the ladder compartment also five by five feet. The cage will be one of the largest in operation on the range and all of the timber used in the mine will be lowered in it. A good sized area has been cleared for the stock pile and the South Shore has already completed a spur to the property. The Chicago & Northwestern company, which recently finished a survey, expects to have its line into the mine before the shipping season closes.

Extensive Pipe Lines.

Workmen are just completing the trestles upon which are extended the water and air lines from the old Volunteer engine house to the property. The trestle stands are thirty-two feet high in the low lands and all of them have concrete bases. The task of putting in the concrete through the swamp, particularly north of the engine house, was a difficult one, as the muck is twenty feet deep at that point, and considerable water had to be handled. An eight-inch air line has been put in and a six-inch water line has been extended from the engine house to the lake, through which the water supply will be secured. The operators of the old Volunteer mine had difficulty in keeping their boiler plants in good condition, because of the water used. It was secured from the Palmer creek, which is the headwaters of the Warner creek. This water contains a large percentage of lime. In the overhauling of the boiler plant it was necessary to remove 310 lines, all of which were heavily coated. The plant at the old Volunteer had the reputation of being the hardest plant to fire in this section. The trouble all came from the water. The pipe lines extending from the engine house to the mine are 3,700 feet in length, and both the air and water pipes have been provided with expansion and contraction joints every 400 feet.

Two electric cables, each of 47,000 feet of wire capacity, have been extended from the engine house to the mine. A Corliss engine is being put in condition to operate the electric plant, which will furnish power for the operation of the underground haulage system, pumps and the lighting system. The distance between the engine house and the mine is so great that the management considered that it would be impracticable to use steam for the operation of the pumps, and it is thought that the electrical power will be more satisfactory, as well as more economical.

A force of men has been employed overhauling the boilers and engines. The air compressor will furnish power for thirty drills. The hoisting plant is provided with unusually large drums and the boiler plant has been equipped with a feed water heater. The plant was at one time considered the finest on the Marquette range. It was installed many years ago, when the late General Alger owned and operated the property. The engine house is an exceptionally large one and there is a spacious machine shop adjoining. The latter has been equipped with an entire new outfit of lathes, drilling machines, etc., and is now in full operation.

To Erect New Dry.

The company will within a week or so break ground for a modern dry house, which will be located about 200 feet southeast of the shaft. The dry will accommodate between 200 to 300 miners. It will be a brick structure and will be fireproof, with steel lockers, steel baths, washbasins, etc. It will be provided with both shower and tub baths.

The company is using the old Volunteer office, also the warehouse. Both of these buildings are in good condition. All of the houses at the location that were in bad condition are being repaired and families are now waiting to move into the unoccupied dwellings. Last month the company had 120 men on its pay roll, but a few of the men who were working on the pipe and air line trestles have been laid off. The property is in charge of Thomas Fellow of this city and Captain William Corbhill is directing the underground operations. John Gougeon, who has superintended the overhauling of the boilers and hoisting plants, also the installing of the temporary plants, is the master mechanic, and Henry Lehman is in charge of the surface construction work.

ESCANABA PEOPLE FEEL DISSATISFIED

Not Because Negaunee Won, But Because They Didn't Understand the Agreement.

It develops that through its defeat of the Escanaba team in the first game of the double-header played at South Park Monday afternoon the Negaunee team won the honor of holding the baseball championship of the upper peninsula for the season of 1910, says the Escanaba Mirror.

"Now what I've think of that?" It also develops that the second game, which Escanaba won by a score of 2 to 1 was merely an exhibition contest and had no bearing upon the championship, as the public supposed it to have. The explanation handed out is that because some of the Negaunee players would be obliged to leave today for school, and they would be unable to play another game, the series should end Monday in the holding of the championship by the Negaunee team.

Entitled to Championship. While this agreement was perfectly proper, it is charged that the public, at least the Escanaba portion of it, was not informed of its having been made until after the first game Monday had been played. It is even charged that the players on the Escanaba team knew nothing of it until after Sunday's game was played. As to that the Mirror's information is not positive, but it is certain that the outcome of the series has created a great deal of dissatisfaction among the fans here, although on the showing made by the Escanaba team in Sunday's game and the first game of Monday it is freely conceded that the Negaunee team is entitled to the championship honor, even though the local die-hards win the second game, a six-inning affair.

In the second game Monday Escanaba players displayed some of their real class and outplayed the team which had just administered to them so crushing a defeat. Neither the Negaunee players or the fans from this city, that had been watching, had they won the championship, and that was quite enough.

COMPARATIVE AVERAGES.

Escanaba's Batting Was Much Weaker Than Negaunee's in Recent Series.

Inasmuch as the Escanaba baseball team had a higher batting average in the Delta County league than the Negaunee nine had in the Marquette-Iron County league, a comparison of the averages of the two nines in the recent championship series of five games is of interest. Ray Cullis, who finished the league series with a percentage of 245, had a percentage of 309 in the five games against Escanaba. He led Roseவர் who ranked second, by thirty-four points. McDonald, who pitched Saturday's game here, heads the Escanaba batting list. He was three times up and had one hit, giving him a percentage of 233. O'Connor, the catcher, comes next, with four hits out of fourteen times at bat, giving him a percentage of 286.

Negaunee's team percentage was 232, and Escanaba's was 141. In the five games the Negaunee players made forty hits, and Escanaba twenty-three. It will be noticed that big Mike Walsh, Escanaba's crack catcher, who made a hit with the fans by his appeals for a little more "pop," did not get a hit out of sixteen times at bat, and two of his teammates were also let down without hits.

DIED AT HARRIS.

Miss Rose Delonghery, who was well-known in Negaunee, having visited here many times during the past fifteen or twenty years, passed away Monday at the family home at Harris, Mich., tuberculosis having been the cause of her demise. The deceased was a cousin of Mrs. Phil Hogan, and she was about twenty-five years of age. Her brother, Patrick Delonghery, who died some five years ago, also from tuberculosis, was operator at the Chicago & Northwestern Railway station here for some years. He was a big, strong healthy-looking fellow until he developed quick consumption from a cold. He died within six months after contracting the disease.

The Gwinn baseball team slipped one over on the Lathrop team Sunday at the Gwinn ball park by the score of 22 to 2. Chris Buckley, who pitched for Escanaba last year, was in the box for Lathrop, and the Gwinn bunch simply batted the rivets off his shoes. Einar Swanson started to pitch for Gwinn, but was relieved in the seventh inning by "Doc" McCroxy, who went to sleep in the field because he had nothing to do.

EAR PIERCING; HOW IT IS DONE.

Long ago it was little children, often infants, who had the ear pierced, but since the revival of the earring as a fashion it is the grown-ups only who present themselves for the operation. There was once an idea that piercing the ear was good for the sight, and among the poorer classes a horrible method was to draw a thickish piece of worsted or soft cotton through the hole, usually made with a copper wire, and the removable of these bits of stuff made the wound jagged and irritated.

All this is, happily, a thing of the past, though many still risk the consequences of inserting rings of base metal instead of those of 18-karat gold, which alone are really sanitary.

The perfect art of ear-piercing is possible only to the expert trained by much practice and deft use of his hands. Naturally it is not exactly cheap. What skillful operation is?

Many things have to be considered before the actual piercing is done. One essential is that the hole must be most exactly placed in each ear equal distant from the bottom of the lobe and from the face. The spot for the hole having been correctly determined, a cork is put at the back of the ear, and here a most important point has to be considered, as if not correctly and firmly held, the wire will go in a slanting instead of a direct line, which would cause the earring to fall out or tilt up. Another vast improvement upon an original method is the substitution of a jointed gold ring with ball fastener for the old pointed "sleeper."

This, slightly oiled, can be moved painlessly backward and forward until the ear is perfectly healed, which should be in six weeks' time from the piercing. Before the operation is performed, both the hands of the operator and the lobe of the lady's ear, are well washed in boracic lotion. The instrument employed is of most delicate construction, consisting of a tiny tube, through which the wire is passed. After use this instrument is well boiled in antiseptic preparation in a little platinum saucer—such a one as we might expect to find in a fairy's kitchen, if the good people condescend to anything so material as food or cooking.

Really, there's no necessity for piercing, as there are plenty of screw earrings.

Upper Peninsula Collision At The Soo—

The News gives the following details in regard to the collision reported at the Soo Tuesday. The steamer Lakeland, up-bound, and the barge John Smeaton, in tow of the steamer Maricopa, down-bound, came together about 4:30 o'clock Tuesday morning while the boats were near the middle of the Little Rapids cut. The Lakeland was struck by the Smeaton on the port side 50 feet back from her bow, the stem of the barge cutting through the steel plates of the steamer. The barge was making a hole 10 feet long by 20 feet deep from the 8-foot mark up. The Smeaton hit so hard that she went into the steamer nearly to her pilot house, narrowly missing some of the steamer's crew in the sleeping quarters. The Smeaton's stem is twisted and she is otherwise injured. Her cabin became wound around the wheel of the Lakeland, making it impossible to steer the steamer, and she was towed to this port by a Great Lakes tug, Captain Alex. McCowan of the Lakeland, has informed the owners of the boat that he is of the opinion that temporary repairs can be made here, so as to allow the steamer to proceed up the lake. The Smeaton was also towed to the Soo, where she will receive temporary repairs. The captains of the two boats refuse to talk, although it is admitted that the accident occurred before the heavy fog of the night had completely lifted. According to the report of Hugh Cook, the lookout at the cut, the Lakeland entered the cut from above at 4:00 o'clock and the Maricopa from below a few minutes later. Both boats were blowing fog signals at frequent intervals and running about six miles an hour. Cook didn't see the boats when they came together, neither did he hear the crash. When the fog lifted he saw them lying at the edge of the channel and believed that they had anchored on account of the fog. As soon as he found out that a collision had taken place he notified the offices of the Pittsburgh Steamship company, and Captain Scott of the revenue cutter Mackinac. The Lakeland had seven passengers aboard, three of them being young men from Detroit on their way to Daulton on a pleasure trip. They are J. J. Sandich, Thomas Zimmerman and Charles Marly. According to Zimmerman he and his companions had become awakened by the blowing of fog whistles and not being able to sleep got up. Zimmerman was looking out of his stateroom window when without warning he saw something black go whizzing by and the next moment the crash came. A water tank or something was overturned or broken and water was running down the stairs and in the darkness it was believed that the boat was sinking. After the fog lifted and they were able to inspect the damage they went into the sleeping quarters of the crew, which were cut into by the stem of the Smeaton. If there had been anyone in the bunks they would have been surely killed, as the bunks were cut into and the quarters completely wrecked. The accident is said to have been caused by the barge taking a sudden sheer as the two boats approached each other and she could not be swung around in time to avoid a collision.

The Lakeland is a combined freighter and passenger boat and is owned by the Port Huron & Duluth Steamship company. She was formerly the Cambria of the Pittsburgh Steamship company and was rebuilt into a passenger steamer last winter. The Maricopa and Smeaton are Pittsburg Steamship freighters.

I have opened a restaurant and lunch counter in Tracey block on East Iron street. Good service guaranteed. (9-13-2w) JOHN HUGGINS.

HIGH SCHOOL HIGH CROWDED

Enrollment Larger by Forty-one Than Last Year, and the Assembly Room is So Congested That Pupils and Teachers Will Be Hampered in Their Work

Senior Class Numbers Fifty-Eight and all But Three of the Eighth Graders Have Entered the High School—Four New Teachers Are on the Faculty.

Figures compiled by Superintendent Gehrand, of the public schools, show that the total enrollment in the public schools at the present time is 1,957, an increase of twenty-nine over the enrollment on the corresponding date last year. This increase has all been in the high school, where there are 324 enrolled, forty-one more than last year. The enrollment in the grades is twelve less than last year, but it is expected that many more will come within the next few weeks, either of their own free will or at the instigation of Trust Officer Ed. Quarters, who will shortly start drumming up the absentees.

A glimpse into the high school assembly room during working hours makes one think of the old days, so closely are the pupils crowded together. Because of the congestion the work of the high school is likely to be seriously hampered this year, and the school board should take immediate steps to relieve this over-crowded condition before next September.

During the summer fifty more seats were placed in the assembly room. This was accomplished by putting two rows of seats together, thus cutting down the number of aisles one-half. The result is that the pupils in effect are sitting two in a seat, a practice which has long since been condemned by all educators. There is now seating capacity, such as it is, for 228 pupils in the assembly room, and all but four seats are occupied, though school has been in session only two weeks.

Very Few Dropped Out.

Ninety-three out of ninety-six pupils who completed the eighth grade work last June have entered the Freshman class and others who have come in from other schools bring the membership of the Freshman class up to 121, twenty-one more than last year and much the largest class in the history of the high school. There are eighty-one in the Sophomore class, sixty-four Juniors, and fifty-eight Seniors, at least fifty of whom will graduate in June. All but three of last year's Junior class have begun the work of the Senior year. In most schools there are many who drop out in the eighth grade and at the close of the Junior year, and the record of the Marquette schools in this respect is most creditable.

Four new teachers are numbered among the high school faculty this year. Miss Mabel M. Bradshaw, of lower Michigan, is teaching Latin in the place of Miss Goldie Grant, who was married during the summer. Miss Luthera Ebert, of West Chicago, is in the English department, taking the position made vacant by the resignation of Miss Prall. Forrest E. Brown has been engaged to teach English and mathematics, filling the position occupied by Miss Werner last year. Joseph Bayley is at the head of the manual training department, filling the position left vacant by the resignation of Daniel Green a few days ago. Miss R. C. B. Brown will have charge of the girls' athletics, while Mr. Brown of the boys' athletics, and Miss Ebert will look after the girls' literary work.

There is also considerable congestion in several of the grade buildings, particularly those on the north side of the city, and nearly fifty pupils are enrolled in some of the lower grade rooms. There is plenty of room in the schools located south of the South Shore railroad tracks. This condition of affairs indicates that the center of Marquette's population is rapidly moving north.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Mather Street Sidewalk Proves Bone of Lively Contention.

What appears to be a lively neighborhood fuss was aired at the council meeting last evening, the two parties in the controversy being ably championed by Aldermen Hennessy and Donovan, respectively. At the last preceding meeting of the council a resolution was adopted ordering a concrete sidewalk to be constructed on the north side of Mather street, between Third and Fourth streets. At the meeting last night, a petition was read, signed by eight of the nine property owners affected, asking that the order to construct the walk be rescinded.

Alderman Donovan led the fight for the petitioners and was assisted by Alderman Peters. Mr. Donovan stated that there was a good walk on the south side of the street and only one dwelling house on the north side, and that the proposed walk was not needed. He declared further that several of the property owners were widows and unable to pay to the new walk, which would be of benefit to no one except the owner of the lone house, who, by the way, is Alderman Hennessy.

Alderman Hennessy replied hotly and declared that a majority of the property owners in the first place were favorable to the construction of the walk and that their signatures to the protest had been obtained by duress. He further said that the widows owning property on the street were better able to pay for a sidewalk than he was. The request of the petitioners was finally tabled by the vote of five to three, and unless there are further developments the walk will be built.

As a parting shot, Alderman Donovan announced that injunction proceedings would likely be instituted to prevent the building of the walk.

The roll assessing the cost of grading Waldo street from Presque Isle avenue 150 feet east was approved. The petition of residents of Park avenue to mendicize the street between Washington and Bluff streets was granted and the controller instructed to prepare an assessment roll. A petition for an electric light at the corner of Fitch avenue and Hawley street was referred to the street committee. The next meeting of the council will be held Oct. 2.

HEMANS' SCHEDULE.

Intends to Make Mining Tax Question His Principal Issue.

Details of Lawton T. Hemans' campaign in the upper peninsula have been announced. Next Monday evening he will be at Menominee, and Tuesday he will be devoted to Noyah and Iron Mountain. Wednesday he will go to Ironwood, and Thursday will be spent in Houghton county, where four speeches are scheduled. Friday afternoon he will visit Ishpeming and Friday evening will talk at Marquette. Saturday he will spend at Escanaba and Gladstone, and he also plans to visit the Soo before his return to the lower peninsula.

According to the Detroit Journal Hemans will be accompanied on his first two days in the upper peninsula by J. T. Cudaly, of Menominee, and through Gogebic and Houghton counties by P. H. O'Brien, of Laurium. Frank T. McDonald, of the Soo, will spend the remainder of the time he is in the north country with Mr. Hemans.

"Mr. Hemans is going to make the mining tax question the principal issue of his campaign," the Journal says. "Of course a general criticism of the Republican administration in the state for a number of years back will also form a big part of his talking program."

Talk of Whelan for Secretary.

The Detroit Journal says that there is considerable talk of Nick Whelan, former speaker of the house, for secretary of the Republican state committee. Mr. Whelan has temporarily taken charge of the secretary's work in the headquarters opened by Representative Diekmann, the state chairman, in Detroit. W. F. Knox, of the Soo, is a chief for the state chairmanship, and it is urged that Whelan's selection for secretary would be conducive to party harmony, as he was one of the leading Kelly men, and it would make Kelley's supporters feel good to have him selected for that post.

Whether Whelan will be named for secretary is, however, a matter of doubt, though he is an able man and a popular one. Paul H. King, of Lansing, who had a large part in the management of Representative Townsend's campaign, is being put forward by the Townsend lieutenant for that post, and has already been assured of much support. If Representative Townsend wants King to be secretary he probably won't be many votes shy of landing. There is no semblance of opposition to Knox for chairman anywhere in the state.

UPPER DAM OPENED.

Prompt Measures Taken to Increase Dead River Water Supply.

The reason for the sudden decrease in the amount of water flowing in Dead river, which made it impossible to supply the demand for light and power at the city electric plant yesterday, is as much of a mystery as ever. When the water started to go down in the dam Tuesday afternoon, Bert Ruhl, of this city, was at once sent to the Silver Lake dam north of Ishpeming and arrived there about 11:30 Tuesday night. The gates were opened for about twelve hours in order to flood the river and last evening there was a normal head of water at the power plant.

Most of yesterday there was only about six inches of water running over the spillway, barely enough to operate the smaller of the two water wheels. All of the heavy power users and some of the lights in the city were cut off yesterday morning. Mr. Ruhl states that there is an abundance of water in the Silver Lake dam.

Superintendent Retaille walked from the power plant to the Hoist yesterday, hoping to find what was shutting off the natural flow of the river, but was unsuccessful. He is contemplating walking up the river all the way to Silver Lake if the flow does not increase today. That beavers have built a dam across the river some time ago is the only explanation offered for the sudden decrease in the flow, and this is not probable, as beavers do not ordinarily build dams in large rivers. No similar phenomenon has occurred for seven or eight years, and then it was found to have been caused by the gates of the dam at the Hoist having been closed by a lumberman, without the knowledge of the light and power commission.

HOUGHTON MAN FOR RECEIVER

Political Gossip That T. H. Dawson Will Be Candidate for 'John Jones' Job.

A story that T. H. Dawson, formerly a leading Ishpeming business man, who is now in business in Houghton, will be a candidate for appointment to be receiver of the Marquette land office, to succeed John Jones, of Ishpeming, has had currency the past few days, and is said that if Mr. Dawson wants the appointment he can probably have it, at the hands of Senator Smith and Representative Townsend, after the latter qualifies as senator.

Mr. Dawson was one of the original Townsend men in this region. His acquaintanceship with, and friendship for, the Jackson man dates back to their boyhood, it is said, and he took hold in Houghton county and left nothing undone that would advance Townsend's interests in the primary campaign. Representative Townsend is said to be highly appreciative of Mr. Dawson's work in his behalf, and it is asserted that he would be glad to see him designated for the receivership of the Marquette land office, in which a change is certain to be made, as soon as the term of the incumbent expires.

Burrows Disappointed.

Upper peninsula men who have met and talked with Senator Burrows since the primaries assert that, despite the fact that he has made little fuss over the outcome and in his formal statement professed himself satisfied with the decision of the voters, the senator is sorely disappointed by his decisive defeat, and is particularly "touchy" on the subject of the upper peninsula vote. He was badly misled by his lieutenants in this region, who, apparently, had little conception of the undercurrents of the political drift. Everywhere he went on his trip in the upper peninsula he was told confidently by all the men he met that he would get from 75 to 90 per cent of the vote, and he believed as much with considerable confidence until the election returns began to come in. It is said that a prominent Burrows man in Marquette county, answering a query in regard to the outlook, wired a day or two before election that Burrows would get three-fourths of the vote.

The result in Marquette county, it is asserted by men who have talked with Senator Burrows, is particularly unexpected by him. He and his advisers regarded this county as one of his strongholds, and they had been assured that the senator could count on a handsome majority from its voting precincts. The news that Townsend had carried it was one of the stunner surprises for Senator Burrows and his leading lieutenants in election results that tremed with surprise. It is said that the senator has displayed considerable interest in the detailed returns for Marquette county, seeking to ascertain just how he fell down and how badly they tumbled.

One result of the failure of the Burrows people in Marquette county to make good is said to be a pronounced apathy on the part of the senator as to the fate of the federal officials located in Marquette county whose terms of office are shortly to expire. John Jones, the receiver of the land office, is one of these. Though Burrows carried Ishpeming by a small majority, Townsend carried Jones' ward, and Senator Burrows is said to have lost all interest in this erstwhile faithful henchman.

Off the same party grounds is Senator Burrows' attitude in regard to the Marquette collectorship. Heretofore the senator has refused to accede to Senator Smith's demand that C. J. Bryns of Ishpeming, receive the appointment, but now it is stated that he cares very little what becomes of this office, as long as Bryns is content to be a standstill out against Bryns failed to turn anything over to him in the recent primaries. In this connection, it is stated, it has been called to Senator Burrows' attention that Representative Townsend got a good sized majority in the Third ward in 1908, the year when both Bryns' opponents for the collectorship. It is said to be possible that Senator Burrows will withdraw his opposition to Bryns' appointment when congress reconvenes. He is not enamored with Senator Smith, but is so displeased with the failure of the men who have been urging him on, and on Bryns to deliver that he is disinclined to stick the fight on longer, particularly as he knows it is beyond his power to land an appointment for any man of his choice who is opposed by Senator Smith and that, in all probability, his continued opposition to Bryns would probably avail only to delay his appointment until Representative Townsend took his oath of office as senator, in March of next year.

Sensor Burrows is now in Chicago, in attendance at the sessions of the Lumbering committee. He has met a number of upper peninsula men there, with whom he has talked frankly in regard to political conditions and the outcome of the primary.

The defeat of Senator Burrows means many new faces in federal offices throughout the state. Several important posts are open or about to be open, as the deadlock between Senators Burrows and Smith over patronage has tied up the disposal of all offices for a year or more past. These places will be filled by Senator Smith and Representative Townsend, who are expected to work in perfect harmony.
