Well, "Barnie", how about it?

There will be no gainsaying that Colonel Roosevelt's majority of 100 will be a good round one, if he gets it.

T. H. D. ought to be delighted to learn that he is to have J. J.'s endorsement. If there was any doubt concerning the outcome it ought to be settled now.

The state railroad commission is now investigating the express rates and there is said to be better than an even chance that some of them, at least, will be lowered.

The Escanaba baseball bugs assert that Negaunee's official scorer gave the Escanaba team the little end of the deal in figuring up the batting averages in the recent series.

Representative Tawney can't think of any reason why the Republicans of his district should defeat him, so he blames his lack of success to the Democrats.

Lieutenant Governor Kelley would like to have won the Republican nomination for governor, but he's no whiner.

There is much reason for the demand for a remodeling of the primary election law. It is, at present, anything but a satisfactory measure.

It seems to be likely that Mayor Gaynor will be the nominee of the Democrats for the office of governor of New York.

HEMANS' PLATFORM.

The tonnage tax appears to have been too strong for Lawton T. Hemans. It is to Mr. Hemans' credit that he refused to take it up as an issue.

The Wisdom of Saving

is not apparent with the first dollar saved—it looks too small to many a person. But when a hundred dollars have been saved the effort seems worth while. Acquire the habit of saving—then never break the habit—it won't be long until your bank account will assume goodly proportions and put you in a position to take advantage of some good investment. This bank will receive your first deposit of one dollar, pay you interest on it, and take as much pleasure in watching it grow as you will.

ITS SUCCESS ASSURED.

Gun Club Shoot Monday and Tuesday Will Be a Big Event.

Those in charge of the arrangements for the first annual shoot of the Town and Country club, to be held in this city Monday and Tuesday, report that the outlook is most promising for a largely attended and wholly successful tournament. Nearly all if not all of the gun clubs of the upper peninsula will be represented and there will be a large number of entries in all the events.

On Monday there will be six individual shot gun events, for which in addition to the liberal cash prizes offered, a number of desirable trophies have been put up, among which are a Stevens repeating shot gun, a Gillett safety razor, a Damascus hunting axe and an ideal gun cleaner. The three-men rifle team shoot will also take place Monday, and a handsome cup has been donated by A. E. Elk for the team winning this event. Fifty of the 100 rounds for the J. L. O. Young cup, eligible to any three-men team representing an upper peninsula gun club, will also be shot off Monday.

Tuesday's program will include five individual shot gun events, an individual rifle shoot and a championship individual re-entry rifle match. In the last event the first prize will be a gold and silver medal and the second, a camper's cooking outfit. In the individual rifle shoot, a gold and silver medal will be awarded the winner. Other trophies in the shot gun events in addition to those already enumerated are a cup donated by George N. Goulin, a gun metal hunter's night compass and an ideal gun cleaner. H. J. Waterbury will give a medal to the professional making the highest score. Nearly all of the trophies are now on exhibition at Conklin's jewelry store.

Dinner and supper will be served at the club house Monday and Tuesday by the steward and his wife. Tuesday evening at 6:30 supper will be served to members and those taking part in the shooting events. The prizes will be awarded at that time, speechmaking will be indulged in, and a large attendance is expected.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the secretary's office also at the offices of the architects at Marquette, Michigan and Milwaukee, Wis.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

EXPRESS COMPANIES WERE UNDER FIRE

Had Hearing Before Railroad Commission—Higher Rates for Upper Peninsula.

Express companies doing business in Michigan found their rates and methods of serving patrons subjected to severe criticism at the hearing at Lansing this week before the state railroad commission. There was no decision announced by the commission as to whether it considers the present rates reasonable, as the shipping interests desire to complete certain statistics for the information of the commission before it takes action. It is a safe surmise, however, that the commission is perfectly satisfied there is good reason to revise the entire schedule of express rates. The new hearing will be called in about sixty days, when the commission will be presented with a comparison of the rates in effect in other states with those charged Michigan shippers.

There were two things about the hearing that attracted particular attention. One was the utter lack of sympathy between the patrons of the express companies and the corporations' representatives. The other was the assertion of the companies that the commission has no right to interfere and require the companies to make the rate to intermediate points as low as that to points further away when reached by competing lines.

The shippers' attitude was that the express companies are not disposed to treat them fairly in any respect, and they carried the attack to the corporation representatives at every opportunity. The assumption of the express companies that the commission has no authority to require them to make the rates for intermediate points as low as to competing points somewhat astonished the state officials, for the railroads of the state have never raised this question, but have decided that the law granting that authority is valid and have accepted rulings and revisions of rates.

That there was a fair basis for the celebrated "Pigs is Pigs" story developed when the rate and tariff sheet matter came up for consideration, and the complex features and confusing rates and rules were brought out. In extenuation and explanation the United States Express Co., representative stated that his company has in effect something like 13,500,000 rates and added that it was not surprising if there existed in all that array an occasional injustice or discriminatory rate. He said every effort is made to guard against such errors and would not admit that any considerable number of mistakes of that nature could be found. Chairman Glasgow read computations made by the commission showing the rate charged by different express companies for carrying 33 pounds 60 miles varied greatly, running 60 cents, 88 cents, 50 cents, 76 cents and 66, while for 100 pounds for 100 miles the variation was 75 cents, 90 cents, $1, $1.10 and $1.25. The express men offered no explanation of these widely differing rates.

The commission is inclined to make their new schedule of rates on a mileage basis. The Pacific, Wells Fargo Co., and the Western Express companies doing business in this state all said they made rates on a mileage basis and considered that the proper way. The American and United States admitted that perhaps fair rates could be prepared on that basis.

The companies doing business in the upper peninsula want to be granted higher rates than are charged in the lower peninsula.

MUTUAL LYCEUM BUREAU COURSE

Ladies of Presbyterian Church Congregation Now Selling Tickets.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church congregation, who recently entered into a contract with the Mutual Lyceum Bureau of Chicago for a series of four entertainments, are meeting with excellent success in the sale of tickets. As the ladies expect to dispose of several hundred, they have put the prices for the series at $2 for adults and $1 for those under eighteen years of age.

The first attraction, the Chicago Operatic company, is booked for the theater for Wednesday evening, Oct. 5. This company is the most expensive of the four attractions. The company is composed of five artists, Lenora A. Allen, soprano; Rose Luffier-Gannon, contralto; John B. Miller, tenor; Arthur Middleton, basso, and Edgar A. Nelson, pianist.

Brush, a magic artist, will give the second entertainment, on the evening of Nov. 2. He has been a student under the best Hindoo fakirs and mahatmas of India. He has performed for a number of seasons at Chautauquas and on lecture courses. Mr. Brush has not spared expense as all the robes and paraphernalia he uses were designed and made especially for him.

Rev. Andrew Gillies, a well-known preacher and platform orator, will be the third attraction. Mr. Gillies has attained conspicuous success as a preacher. Within ten months after entering the ministry he was called from a small Vermont village to the pastorate of the important Methodist church in the capital of Vermont. While yet in his twenties he became the minister of the great State street church of Troy, N. Y., and just after passing his thirtieth year he assumed the leadership of St. Andrew's Methodist Episcopal church in New York city, one of the leading churches of that denomination in the metropolis. He is at present the minister of the Hennepin Avenue church of Minneapolis.

The Castle Square entertainers a male quartet, will give the last entertainment of the course, on the evening of Monday, Feb. 13. It is said that there is not another organization of four people in the Lyceum field possessing equal versatility and excellence. The company comprises a male quartet, a horn quartet, a banjo quartet, two pianists, an instrumental soloist, an entertaining reader and tenor soloist, a whistling soloist and a dialect monologist.

The deceased had been in the country only about two years, having come to Ishpeming direct from his native place in England. He had worked at the Cleveland Lake for about a year. He was about twenty-four years of age and single. He boarded with a family at the Lake Angeline location.

As soon as the body was recovered Coroner William Prin was notified and he empanelled a jury last evening. The inquest will be held some day next week. Arrangements for the funeral will be completed today.

DAY OF SMALL BOATS PASSED

Within the Last Fifteen Years, Average Capacity of the Ore Carrying Vessels has been Doubled, according to Figures Compiled at the L. S. & I. Dock.

Large Carriers Can Be Operated More Economically and Modern Loading and Unloading Machinery Works to Better Advantage Than in the "Little Fellows."

One who has been following marine affairs on the Great Lakes for the last fifteen years cannot but be impressed by the fact that small boats have had their day, and that craft of 5,000 tons or less that were once considered "queens of the lakes" are now cast into the scrap heap as being out of date. The older residents can well remember when the Marquette harbor was crowded with vessels throughout the navigation season, giving an appearance of business and bustle which has been lacking the past few years. As a matter of fact, however, the annual movement of ore from the Lake Superior mines is much heavier than it was in those days, as the average vessel cargo today is three times larger than it was twenty years ago, and the same amount of ore can be handled by less than half as many ships.

Examination of the L. S. & I. dock records yesterday resulted in some interesting deductions from the figures found there. In 1896, the first year that the dock was built, the average amount of ore loaded into each vessel throughout the season was 1,700 tons. From that time until 1900 the average cargo steadily increased until in 1908 it was 6,908 tons. Last year the average vessel cargo today is three times larger than usual, the capacity of which ran from 2,000 to 6,900 tons. This was a purely local condition and did not apply to other ore shipping ports. Figures for 1910 have not yet been compiled but it is thought that the average cargo this year will be close to the record set in 1909.

From 1896 until 1902 not a boat loading at the L. S. & I. dock carried more than 7,000 tons, and in that year all but one carried less than that amount. In 1905 five vessels were loaded with more than 8,000 tons, and in 1906 there were thirteen that carried cargoes exceeding 9,000 tons. The same year seven vessels carried cargoes exceeding 10,000 and since that time 19,000-ton cargoes have been common from Marquette, while vessels loading at other ports have carried as much as 12,000 tons.

Has Limit Been Reached? In the opinion of many marine men the limit in the size of lake vessels has been nearly if not quite reached. Even now the largest carriers draw too much water to pass the Soo locks and are only used in the Escanaba-Chicago and other lower lake ports trade. This year the level of Lake Superior has been lower than usual and many of the vessels have not been able to load to their full capacity. When the new lock at the Soo is completed, it will accommodate all lake vessels now in commission and then Limekiln crossing will be the danger point, as far as shallow water is concerned. Chief among the advantages of the larger boats is that they are operated more economically and that they can be loaded and unloaded to better advantage. Modern dock machinery is the basis for the latter claim. Some of the small boats now going into retirement, it is claimed, will never again be used on the Great Lakes for the reason that they are too small for the business methods in vogue at the present time.

The present season all kinds of records have been broken as to rapid loading and unloading of ore and coal boats. Business today demands that vessels can be loaded and unloaded with the least possible delay. Modern dock machinery cannot handle the same amount of ore in a given time in a small vessel that can be handled in the big carriers.

Fewer Boats Handle Business. Many people cannot understand why a large number of boats have been idle the greater part of this season and that notwithstanding the shipments for the year will compare very favorably with those of banner years. One explanation is that boats are being loaded more rapidly than ever before in the history of lake navigation. Another is that a number of large and modern freighters have been added to the fleet. At Ashtabula the rapid loading and unloading docks are working faster than ever before in the history of that port. The same is true of several other lake ports. Every device for saving time and relieving congestion at the docks is being employed. That accounts for the fact that a larger amount of ore and coal can be moved, even though fewer boats than usual are in commission.

Below are given the average vessel cargoes of ore shipped from the L. S. & I. dock in the last fifteen years:

THREE SHOWS ARE BOOKED NEXT WEEK

Opera House Will Be Lighted Monday, Thursday and Friday Nights.

After a rest of nearly two weeks the theatergoers of this city will be given an opportunity to see three good shows at the opera house next week. The first will be "Daddy and the Girls," which is billed for Monday night; the next Germain, the magician, who comes Thursday night, and Friday, the night following, "The Volunteer Organist" will be presented. All of these attractions are new to this city.

"Daddy and the Girls" is reported to be a snappy, breezy comedy creation, designated as a farce with music. Advance press notices offer clever dialog, sparkling repartee, snappy witticisms, and above all a clean and wholesome atmosphere, as the prominent features of this show, which should command for it good patronage. The cast is said to comprise singers and dancers of distinction and those who attend are promised an evening of wholesome merriment and wholesome entertainment. It has been some time since a magician of note has appeared in this city. Germain, who comes here next Thursday evening, is claimed to be the equal of Herman and Kellar. Germain is said to have a far more elaborate setting for his performance than was ever used in this kind of an attraction before. The draperies will be of silk velvet with a backing of black of the same material. Two pieces of furniture are real Italian hand-carved work and a screen of Japanese tapestry will also be shown. Five Bohemian virtuoses, the Hrazy quintet, will appear with Germain. These young men present a unique vaudeville act, in which their musical ability is brought out to advantage, and they are said to make a most delightful diversion in the program of magic.

On Friday night "The Volunteer Organist" will be offered. This piece is said to be a beautiful pastoral play with an elaborate stage setting, and is to be classed with the best shows that play this circuit. The story depicted in this drama is said to have a strong appeal because of the quaintness of the characters presented and the realism of its reproduction of phases of rural life. One of the special features of "The Volunteer Organist" company is the rendering of "The Holy City" and "The Palms" by Master Willie Golden, a boy soprano from Trinity church, New York. This famous youngster is assisted by Masters Harry Johnstone of the Bromfield Oratory, London, England, and Herbert Howard, of St. Paul's church, Boston, Mass.

JACOB ROSE

Opening of Fall Styles of Men's Suits and Overcoats

The Rose, Rodgers & Rose productions are rightly filling a place heretofore held unassailed by the high-class tailor only. Men of good taste dislike to sparkle with the clothes they wear, and justly shun that magazine picture style of apparel, this decided and separate current, so to speak, existing in the styles of clothes for the man of refinement, and that of the dashing or ordinary fellow is glaringly apparent. Few tailors, and still less ready-to-wear makers, know how to impart to their productions that clingy, yet dropping softness---these beautiful curves and outlines that go so much in line with the natural symmetry of the human form; no stereotyped form or model, but every garment to represent a creation by itself. Such designing and such tailoring has heretofore proved out of financial reach to many, and to fill this gap Rose, Rodgers & Rose have bent their energy and ingenuity and proved singularly successful. You can see the "Ardoc" at our store or at any foremost dealer in the large cities---this most cleverly designed Combination Military and Dress Coat---and the fact will instantly force itself upon you that each garment possesses an individuality that makes it distinguishable from all others and that the designing and tailoring is after a manner hitherto produced only by the exclusive high-class tailor.

"Ardoc" Overcoats in fashionable fabrics of the season at $22.50, $25.00, $27.50, $28.00 and $30.00.

"Ardoc" Overcoats made to individual measure and after particular preferences at $5.00 additional.
