

SEARCHERS OF THE RUINS DIG UP FIVE BODIES

Dynamite Outrage Which Wrecked the Plant of the Los Angeles Times Is Believed to Have Killed Twenty Men—Fire Followed the Explosion.

Further Loss of Life Averted Only by the Timely Discovery of Other Infernal Machines—Large Rewards Are Offered—Three Suspects in Custody.

Los Angeles, Oct. 2.—Five hundred men digging for thirty hours in the ruins of the Times building, wrecked by an explosion of dynamite Saturday, have unearthed five of the bodies of the victims who met death in the disaster. Police are guarding the homes of General Harrison Gray Otis, proprietor of the Times, and General Manager Chandler.

Three arrests have been made since the explosion. One of the prisoners is an alleged anarchist, Martin Egan, May, or Alexander tonight increased the city's reward to $10,000. The total rewards are now $18,000, newspapers and labor unions making offers of $8,000 for the perpetrators.

The body of Wesley Reaves, secretary to General Manager Chandler, was the only one of the bodies recovered today that was identified. The others were burned beyond recognition. The inquest will be held Tuesday. Dynamite experts will attempt to solve the cause of the explosion. Little evidence has yet been found.

W. Long and his crew of engravers had a remarkable escape from the sixth floor, all getting out after the explosion. All went to work in the temporary office of the Times. Mark Bentley and his crew of pressmen escaped through the smoke and dust through a hole cut near the sidewalk. Many others who escaped climbed through windows.

Infernal Machines Found. Following the explosion and fire that completely wrecked the building occupied by the Times-Mirror Publishing company, two dynamite bombs or infernal machines were discovered by the police, one at the home of General Harrison Gray Otis and the other on the premises occupied by F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Los Angeles Merchants and Manufacturers' association.

Detective T. Rice, assigned to the residence of General Otis from police headquarters, together with the caretaker of the place made an investigation of the grounds surrounding the home at Wilshire boulevard and Parkville avenue. In an "ally" at the corner of the home and directly under a bay window leading to the reception room they discovered a suit case concealed among the bushes. Thinking that the value was the property of Mrs. Franklin Booth, daughter of General Otis, who had been preparing the home for a trip through Mexico, they went into the house. She disclaimed ownership of the case and Detective Rice started across the street to Westlake Park to ascertain the contents. At this juncture he detected the whirring of the clockwork. He cut the semi-circular slash in the leather case and disclosed twelve sticks of dynamite bound together with wire and an ordinary alarm clock of cheap pattern.

The detective hastily dropped the suit case and made a race for a place of safety. He retreated about fifty yards with a roar that shook the nearby residences, the infernal device exploded. Beyond tearing a great hole in the turf of the park and uprooting several trees, no damage was done. The machine contained enough high powder explosive to have wrecked the entire building.

The other bomb was found earlier in the day by a maid near the foundation of the Zeehandelaar residence. It was connected with fifteen sticks of dynamite and the clock was set to explode at about the same time as the explosion occurred at the Times building. The mechanism, however, had been wound too tight and the bomb failed to explode.

Labor Troubles Blamed. General Otis and the other heads of the paper charge the Times disaster to labor union sources. The leaders of the union repudiate the suspicion and have offered all aid in their power to detect the culprits. For twenty years, following a quarrel with the Typographical union which resulted in making Times a non-union paper, General Otis fought unionism. He has been seconded by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association.

General Manager Chandler of the Times is authority for the statement that an attempt was made to blow up the Times auxiliary plant at College and San Fernando streets a few minutes before the explosion occurred which destroyed the main building. The original explosion, it is claimed, was due to a heavy charge of high explosives was practically confined by the finding of the other bombs and the statements of persons in the buildings near by at the time of the explosion. It is also practically certain that the railway station was in a narrow alleyway that separated the two buildings of the Times.

The foreman of the composing room said: "I was standing near the center of the composing room when, all at once, a terrific force from below seemed to raise a section of the floor clear to the roof. The upheaval came between two linotype machines. Flames and broken timbers flew in all directions. The force of the thing is indescribable.

HUMAN LIVES ARE TOLL OF SPEED MANIA

Four Persons Killed and Nineteen Injured, Some of Them Probably Fatally, Is the Price Paid for the Sixth Vanderbilt Cup Automobile Contest.

So Heavy Is the Tribute That It Is Doubtful If Another of This Series of Races Will Ever Be Run Again—Winner Averages 65 1-5 Miles an Hour.

New York, Oct. 2.—Four persons killed and nineteen seriously injured—several of them probably fatally—was the price that human flesh paid yesterday for the sixth running of the Vanderbilt cup race, won by Harry Grant, driving a 120 horsepower Alco.

Grant won from Joe Dawson, driving a Marmon, by the narrow margin of twenty-five seconds. John Aiken, a National, was only a minute and six seconds behind Dawson.

The race was the most closely contested of any of the Vanderbilt cup contests, and with two small car events run as a unit with the Wheatley hills steepstakes and the Massipian trophy—it brought out a record number of starters. The time of the three cars to finish the main event exceeded the best time ever made in an American road race. Grant, by covering 278.08 miles of the course in four hours, fifty-seven minutes and fifty-eight seconds—equivalent to an average of sixty-five and one-fifth miles an hour—established a new American record. But the wholesale maiming and killing which attended the race cast such a deep shadow that it is doubtful if another Vanderbilt cup race will ever be run.

Dead and Injured. The list of the dead follows: MATHEW R. BACON, mechanic for Harold Stone, killed when Columbia car No. 12 plunged over a bridge spanning Westbury road. CHARLES MILLER, mechanic for Louis Chevrolet, killed when his car left its course and struck a touring car.

EDWARD LYNCH, run down after the race. FRED DZUBIA, New York manager for the Pope-Hartford company, killed in an early morning smash-up on the way to the races.

Those who were injured are: Harold A. Stone, driver of a Columbia car, both legs broken, internal injuries; may die. Mrs. Ferdinand DZubia, both legs broken; condition critical. William Knipper, driver of a Lancia car; broken leg.

Henry Jaggedmond, spectator; hit by Dawson's car; condition serious. Morris Levinson, spectator; struck by Knipper's car; leg broken. Mrs. Gussie Heidtmann, spectator; cut and bruised.

Mrs. Martha Ross; cut and bruised. Joseph Cook; scalp wound. William Peterson; knocked unconscious by flying tire. Thomas Sommers and Edward H. Brown; injured in the D'Zubia accident.

The fatal accident occurred when a Columbia car, driven by Harold Stone, suddenly burst a tire at the approach to a cement bridge crossing Westbury road and plunged over the parapet. The machine went over twice in mid-air and landed on its side, crushing Matthew R. Bacon, Stone's mechanic. Stone, himself, was seriously injured.

Chevrolet's Escape Remarkable. The killing of Louis Chevrolet's mechanic, Charles Miller, came as the climax of a mad attempt by Chevrolet to regain a lead lost through frequent tire trouble. The daring Frenchman, who earlier had reeled off round after round at seventy-eight and one-half miles an hour, got in a bad rut in the back stretch with full power and found his car zigzagging from side to side, unresponsive to the steering gear. With a shriek of horror from hundreds the car plunged into a fence and swept it away like so much paper, then plunging deep into a passenger laden touring car on the side of the road. The impact was terrific and the occupants of the touring car were tossed high in the air. All escaped death, but Miller was caught in the wreckage and was instantly killed. Chevrolet owes his life to the catmaness of his steering wheel, upon which he kept a firm hold. He broke only an arm.

BILLETTS FLY IN HUNT FOR JOHN F. DIETZ

Valiant Wisconsin Sheriff and Two Deputies, Safely Ambushed in a Clump of Woods, Bravely Attack Three Children of the Cameron Dam Settler.

Girl and a Boy, Both Severely Wounded by the Unexpected Fire, Are Captured, While the Other One Escapes—He Shot Too, It Is Reported.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 2.—Sheriff Mike Madden of Hayward and Deputies Van Alstyne of Winter and Corbush of Madison lay in wait at O'Leary's home, about two miles north of Cameron Dam on the road to Winter, yesterday afternoon with a view to the final capture of John F. Dietz, the so-called "beef of Cameron Dam," who for years has defied courts and officers of the law.

Soon along came Clarence and Leslie Dietz and their sister, Myra, children of John F. Dietz, driving to Winter in a light spring wagon. Sheriff Madden stepped out in front of the rig, and cried out: "Halt, throw up your hands or I'll fire."

They did not obey, but urged their horse to more rapid speed, not expecting that the sheriff was in earnest and might resort to force. But the sheriff meant business. He and the deputies fired with their rifles a dozen shots at the Dietz trio at close range and then rushed upon them, capturing Clarence and his sister.

As the officers rushed toward them, Leslie Dietz jumped out of the rig and ran through the woods after he had been wounded, it is believed, in the first fusillade of bullets. Five more shots were fired at him, but he escaped, not giving the alarm to his father, who was not with the party enroute to Winter, as was expected.

Miss Myra Dietz was shot through the right hip and was badly wounded. Clarence Dietz was shot through the left arm. The officers did not give the Dietz brothers any time to shoot, as they raised bullets around the party. The wounded brother and sister were taken to Winter, where the girl is under the care of physicians. Clarence subsequently was taken to Hayward by automobile, under heavy guard, and was lodged in jail.

Sheriff Madden had warrants for Clarence and Leslie for aiding and abetting their father in his alleged crimes. The officers expected that John Dietz would go out to Winter as usual, but Dietz probably had gone west and that something was doing and so stayed within his breastworks and sent his two sons and their sister along, not expecting, it is presumed, that they would be fired upon if they resisted arrest. Much excitement prevails at Winter, where it is feared that Dietz and his son will attempt to shoot up the village.

Dam's Defender Aged. The renewal of the attempts to capture John Dietz has attracted new interest to his strange career. Dietz himself is aging. He will be fifty years old next April. He has led an outdoor life and should be a hardy specimen of manhood, but his face is furrowed with deep wrinkles, showing anxiety and trouble. His form is bent and he weighs less than ever before.

An interesting object at the Dietz fortress is several big lumber piles of the finest virgin white pine that was sawed from the logs that remained on the Dietz farm when in the spring of 1907 Dietz let the water out of Cameron dam and about 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 feet of logs stranded on the Thornapple river. They remained there until W. E. Moses, a logger of Northland, Minn., hauled them then east and dumped them into the Flambeau river for the Mississippi River Logging company of this city. They were driven down the river and sawed at Chippewa Falls, but there lay over 400,000 feet of logs on Dietz's land that he would not permit Moses to move.

Moses may be styled a diplomat. He first paid Dietz $1,717.17, which Dietz claimed was due him from the Chippewa Lumber & Boom company for past services. That paved the way for the removal of the logs.

To Build New House. Out of this big lumber pile John Dietz contemplates building a handsome two-story frame residence next summer for his family. He has plans already drawn for the house. With the rest of the lumber he proposes to build a substantial barn. His sons Clarence and Leslie have been studying architecture for of assistance in putting up the house and barn. Their present quarters are in a three-roomed log house.

In politics John Dietz is radically socialistic, although he says but little on political conditions. He says nothing on religion. He is a fatalist in belief, stating that when his time comes to die, he will die, and not till then. This creed makes him absolutely fearless. When others counted him lucky, he merely attributed his escapes to the fact that his time had not arrived.

All visitors have noticed the strong bond of affection between the members of the Dietz family. There is certainly strong union manifest in the gallant consideration of the husky sons, Clarence and Leslie, for their mother and sisters, and an open reciprocation from the mother and two daughters. Every member is deferential to the wishes of the others.

The Dietz home is provided with an organ, an Edison phonograph and seventy-five records, and an Oliver typewriter, which the boys and daughters use skillfully. Leslie Dietz also shows ability in sketching the animals of the forest. Myra Dietz has written several short stories and hopes to have some of them accepted by the magazines. Miss Helen Dietz plays the organ with ability, while Johannes Dietz, the ten-year-old, sings to his sister's accompaniment.

Dietz has a powerful field glass, which he uses with good effect from his home on the hilltop to discover the identity of any one approaching his home. He keeps a "scrap book" in which he pastes every newspaper article relating to him that he can secure, whether it is favorable or unfavorable. Friends and sympathizers from every part of the country send him newspapers with marked articles. The "scrap book" is freely shown to all visitors.

HEARING OF VITAL CASES IS DELAYED

Vacancies on the Bench and the Death of Solicitor General Bowers Disarrange the Plans for the Disposition of United States Supreme Court Business.

Litigation Involving the Corporation Tax, the Sherman Law and Labor Among the Matters Likely to Go Over Until After the Assembling of Congress.

New York, Oct. 2.—The death of Solicitor General Bowers will prove a serious handicap in disposing of the cases that are pending in the United States supreme court, which opens its October session Oct. 10. Although Attorney General Wickersham is known as a hard worker, Mr. Bowers was generally regarded as the mainspring of the department of justice on the legal or scientific side. He had prepared briefs and arguments in twenty-three cases which were to have been heard during the first few days of the October term, and what disposition will be made of these cases is now uncertain.

An unusually heavy docket has been prepared for the court, it being estimated that nearly one hundred more cases have been docketed for the corresponding term last year.

Court's Plans Disarranged. Not only this, but, at the request of the lawyers for one side or the other, an unusual number of cases have been advanced for early hearing in order that they might be disposed of and the anxiety of the court and the public might not be obliged to suffer from delay. This program has now fallen into confusion, nominally by the death of two members of the court and the difficulty of designating a new chief justice.

The thought of the community has been centered on the cases which are to be disposed of at this term of court. The list includes, among others, the corporation tax case, the Standard Oil and American Tobacco prosecutions, the Buck Stove and Range case, in which is presented the question of punishment for President Comper because of his disregard of the injunction issued by Justice Gould of the district of Columbia, the West Virginia debt case, which has been at hand for so long and which involves the adjustment of the state debt of Virginia and West Virginia between the two states, the Missouri 2-cent face case.

Cases of Vital Importance. Each of the cases is of fundamental significance to those who are concerned in them and every one would, if the interested parties had their way, be heard only by a full bench, since every one hopes that the new judicial appointees will be men whose sympathies will incline them more or less to his own view of the points involved in his particular case.

While no definite plans for the treatment of the important cases can be certain, there seems to be every reason to suppose that whatever is done on the more sharply contested topics involving good principles will be done only after the bench has been filled. This, in the opinion of many, would mean the use of the time prior to the assembling of congress in continuing the work of a general character, the important cases being deferred until December.

Delay is Retegged. It is recognized fully that the postponement of action with reference to these cases is undesirable. The administration wishes earnestly to dispose of them, partly in order to end the anxiety of the business world with reference to the possible verdict of the court, and also because the verdicts may be of such a nature as to lead the President to demand legislation from congress in an imperative way that he otherwise would not resort to.

This possibility is particularly evident in the trust cases and in the corporation tax case. If the corporation tax case should be decided against the government it would throw the treasury into a position which would necessitate an immediate loan.

Law May Be Modified. In favor of the government it might necessitate some immediate action to modify the anti-trust law. That it may do so is the expectation of many.

It is highly important from the fiscal standpoint that the corporation tax case particularly should be dealt with early. Legislation is always hard to get at the short session of congress, and it would hardly be desired to call an extra session under existing conditions. If such a session were called the tariff question would almost inevitably form the staple of discussion.

CAPT. AMUNDSEN TO PROCEED ON AN ARCTIC EXPEDITION. Christiania, Oct. 2.—According to a letter received here from Captain Ronald Amundsen, on board the Fram, at Madeira, Amundsen has decided to proceed on an Arctic expedition. He promises to make the details when he arrives at Punta Arenas. It was the original intention of Captain Amundsen to start early in the year on a drifting voyage for the north pole. He calculated that the drift through the polar ice would occupy not less than seven years.

TWO LAKE STEAMERS GO TO THE BOTTOM

Freighter New York Founders in Thunder Bay; Lumber Barge Sinks at Muskegon.

Detroit, Oct. 2.—The package freighter New York, of the New York Steamship company, of this city, foundered this morning in Thunder bay, off Point Aux Barques, Lake Huron. The crew was picked up by the steamer Mataafa, bound for Cleveland. The cause of the accident is not known. The Mataafa is on the way to Detroit, but may not stop here. The loss probably is $75,000. Captain Wm. Humphrey commanded the New York, which was a wooden vessel built in 1879. The length of the craft was 260 feet; her gross tonnage registered 1,345, with a net tonnage of 1,274.

Detroit, Oct. 2.—The Mataafa reached here tonight with the crew of the wrecked steamer New York. Saturday afternoon the heavy sea which was running caused the steamer to leak. Her pumps were started, but the inflow was too great. The fire went out. They left the vessel five minutes before she went down. A gale from the northwest and the heavy sea made it difficult to control the yawls, but the Mataafa, with a barge in tow, love in sight and the rescue was soon accomplished. The majority of the crew live in Marine City, Mich.

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 2.—Leaking from many seams, the steam barge L. I. Berth, of the Hines union company, of Chicago, on the way to Buffalo from Chicago, came into port today at full speed. Near the dock it sank. A heavy sea is thought to have caused a leak. The barge, which was towing another barge, both loaded with coal, east of the latter at Little Point Sauble and when it neared here the captain of the vessel signalled the life saving crew. The Berth lies in twenty feet of water and may be pumped out. The one boat Pentland picked up the cast-off schooner and towed it to Grand Haven.

FORGERY OF QUARTO DATES. Bertillon System Said to Have Been Applied to Shakespeare. Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—The forgery of dates of five quartos of the earliest editions of Shakespeare's works by unscrupulous printers has just been proved by William J. Neidig of the English department of the University of Wisconsin by a unique method of measuring type analogous to the Bertillon system of identifying criminals. All the work was done in this country on copies of the quartos in American libraries, and thus becomes the most important contribution to Shakespearean criticism in America.

By careful study of the peculiarities of the type and spacing on the title pages of these quarto editions, Mr. Neidig proves that copies of the quartos dated 1609 and 1608 were really printed in 1619 after Shakespeare's death and not during his lifetime as Shakespeare scholars hitherto assumed.

Interesting composite photographs of the title pages show that the printers changed only the title lines and the dates, antedating some of the editions; probably in order to avoid difficulties with holders of the publication rights. Mr. Neidig's discovery affects seriously the value of these early editions of Shakespeare. The copy of "The Merchant of Venice" dated 1600, sold recently for $3,000, because having apparently been printed in Shakespeare's lifetime it was supposed that the great dramatist might actually have had some thing to do with the printing of the first edition of this popular play. Mr. Neidig shows that this edition was really printed in 1619, three years after Shakespeare's death and therefore has no more value than a later edition.

Heretofore the imprint date has been regarded as the strongest proof of accuracy and authenticity of time of publication, but Mr. Neidig's careful investigation demonstrates that it may really be of little value.

MR. ROOSEVELT AND PRESIDENT TAFT'S ADMINISTRATION.

A great deal has been said recently in the newspapers of the country, on the stump and in private conversation, concerning Mr. Roosevelt's relationship to, or attitude toward, the administration of President Taft.

If we bear in mind a few fundamental facts and conditions, preceding and culminating in President Taft's election to office, an appreciation of Mr. Roosevelt's attitude should be very simple and plain.

Mr. Roosevelt is a good, well-meaning and honest man of much ability, but he seems to have shown himself deficient in the spirit of aggressive, unswerving and disinterested loyalty to men and principles where such was required and was essential.

Mr. Roosevelt may be considered to have occupied the position of a manager of a vast farm, in the conduct of which he had done the clearing, then the ploughing and harrowing and finally the planting of seed, and then was obliged to relinquish the management when the crop was already in a growing condition.

It would be much fairer, and much better, if the accomplishments of Mr. Taft's administration, up to this time, were never again compared with those of his predecessor in this spirit.

When Mr. Taft succeeded to the presidency with the obligation resting upon him to fulfill his pledge to Mr. Roosevelt he was in an unusual position of trust, and in thinking of this position we may bear in mind the old proverb that "ingratitude is the basest of all crimes."

Mr. Roosevelt recognized that Mr. Taft, his former lieutenant, should have an entirely free hand to make good, in his own way, what he had undertaken to do, and with a feeling of great delicacy absented himself from the country for a period of time covering more than a year.

Taft had turned his back upon such men as Senator Delivier, Senator Cummins and Senator Beveridge, men upon whom Mr. Roosevelt depended and with whom he had worked shoulder to shoulder. Mr. Taft recently admitted that these men had been denied the privilege of being consulted in the matter of federal appointments in their own states, and Mr. Wickersham, as Mr. Taft's spokesman, tried to read them out of the party.

Loyalty is a great virtue and gratitude a very plain duty and it appears that during Mr. Roosevelt's absence in Africa Mr. Taft was lacking in both in a considerable degree. Mr. Roosevelt is a large man and last week at Saratoga he praised Mr. Taft's legislative achievements as fully and cordially as he could honestly have done.

Lillian Russell will speak in Chicago this week on "What the Actress Owes to Her Dressmaker." That ought to be a good bill.—Flint Journal.

Eleven hundred and ninety-three miles by trolley in twenty days at a cost of just $33.10 for fare is the record reported by Henry E. Jurgens of Pittsburgh, who has just returned from such a trip to the New England states. Jurgens is a student of trolley transportation. The trip took him from Pittsburgh through the states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts, with the exception of five short breaks he made the entire circuit by trolley.

BLOOD DISEASES CONTAGIOUS TROUBLES

Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly permeates the system than any other disease. Its infectious virus contaminates every corpuscle and tissue of the circulation, and for this reason its symptoms are of a varied nature. When it enters the blood it is but a short time until the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the skin becomes spotted, rashes and eruptions appear on the body, sores and ulcers break out, the hair falls, and frequently nails on hands and feet thicken and come off. Mineral medicines which simply stush the poison up in the system should be avoided, for when such treatment is left off the old disease will break out again, often worse than before. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison permanently, and it does so because it thoroughly purifies the blood. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and drives out the last trace of the destructive germs, adds vigor to the circulation and allows it to nourish the diseased portions of the body back to health.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, without a particle of mineral, and its vegetable ingredients always hasten the cure by toning up the stomach and digestive members. Home Treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Speaking of the Rochester convention, the New York Globe said: Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall is there in the capacity of generalissimo. If Colonel Roosevelt had general charge of things at Saratoga, Mr. Murphy is equally undisputed commander-in-chief at Rochester. John B. Stanchfield is there in confidential association with Mr. Murphy—the Stanchfield who has been attorney for the defense in the least cases on which Mr. Stimson has been on the other side of the table. William F. Sheehan is also there, close to the throne—"Blue-eyed Billy," who has no aversion to traction monopolists. Daniel F. Cahalan is there, in the robes of a lawyer, the proceeds of his famous warrant. Asa Bird Gardner is there, still flying his favorite motto, "To hell with reform." "Fingy" Connors is there— a little on the bleachers but not altogether out of fellowship. "Pucky" McCabe of Albany is there, receiving better treatment than "Bill" Barnes, his friend and co-laborer, received. The same old luncheon has gathered, full of enthusiasm for the constitution and full of hope that events may give a chance at fat offices and fat contracts.

"We have turned our rascals out." This is the message that has come from Saratoga. "We still cherish our rascals." This is the message that comes from Rochester. At Saratoga the old Republican bosses disclosed themselves, thrown into the discard. At Rochester the old Democratic bosses are a conquering royal flush. If the chief duty of the hour is to purify politics, suppress special privileges, and uphold the law and the Constitution, the Rochester personnel is a rich mine of instruction, especially to the independents who intimate that the Republicans are too crooked to be longer trusted.

Writing of the address of Mr. Werline, the Democratic candidate for congress, at Menominee last week, when Mr. Hemans visited that city, the Mining Journal commented on its growing admiration for Mr. Werline as a man who said he was going to the copper and iron country for two or three days, to learn all about the local tax issue. It remarked that there could be no doubt about the congressional caliber of a man who could satisfy himself about so intricate a question in so brief a time. The Mining Journal is now informed, on reliable authority, that Mr. Werline was mistaken in the newspaper report on which his comments were based. Mr. Werline, addressing his Menominee audience, said that he was not thoroughly informed about the tonnage tax issue, but that he was studying it and when he had digested all the information he could secure regarding it he intended to frankly announce his position on the proposal. He did not say that he intended to look up all the data in the iron and copper country in the brief visit he expected to make to the mining regions last week. The Mining Journal understands that any pronouncement that Mr. Werline makes on this issue will be the result of mature and careful consideration, and it regrets having unwittingly misrepresented him. Needless to say, its comment, based on the press report of his remarks, was made in good faith.

In view of the innumerable open and shut cases in which justice drags its feet, the decisive disposal made by the Kent county police and judicial officers of the murderers, Blood and Shellhorn, comes as a refreshing experience to the law-abiding public and a stern warning to the criminally inclined. This pair of miscreants were incarcerated in the Marquette prison for life in less than a week after the assault that resulted in the death of their unoffending victim. They were sentenced to spend the remainder of their days in prison before the remains of the man they killed were laid in the ground. Blood, the elder of the pair, has a prison record, and is a professional "bad" man, who regarded himself as a hero and carried his jaunty demeanor even into the prison walls. Shellhorn, a mere boy of eighteen, is a product of bad environment and worse associates, and a fit partner for the elder man. They have been stowed away where they belong, and where they will be treated according to their deserts and with due thought of the heinousness of the offense for which they were committed to prison.

The Escanaba Journal says that it is reported that Mr. Osborn's primary campaign cost him $180,000. The Escanaba newspaper can take it from the Mining Journal that this report has no basis whatever in fact, also that Mr. Osborn's primary canvass cost him no more than the modest amount represented by his expenses on his state wide speaking tour. Other expenses incurred in the work of organizing his campaign, circulating literature and supplementing in a general way his efforts on the stump were defrayed by his loyal friends in all parts of the state. Every expenditure made in behalf of Mr. Osborn was a strictly legitimate one, and the sum total of all the expenditures was no swollen fortune, not by many tens of thousands of dollars.

Don't they plant some trees along the banks of those empty creek bottoms, so they would fill with water? she continued. "Yes, yes," said John, "weeping willows, for instance."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune. Seeing is Believing. At a certain college it was the custom to have the students write the following pledge at the bottom of their examination papers: "I hereby certify on my honor that I have neither given nor received aid during this examination." Soon after handing in his paper to a professor noted for his sarcasm, a young fellow hurriedly entered the classroom and said: "Professor, I forgot to put the pledge on my paper." "Altogether unnecessary," replied the teacher. "I have just finished looking over your paper, and I feel sure you did not give nor receive aid."—Lippincott's.

Program at the Bijou—Manager Dorsey calls particular attention to the motion pictures shown at the Bijou, all of which are new and shown here for the first time. Serpeno will fill the first half of the week with a contortionist vaudeville act. Illustrated songs continue to be a pleasing feature of Bijou programs. The management is endeavoring to give better programs each week.

Will Be Buried Here—The remains of Walter Deagon, eight-months-old son of Thomas Deagon, Wagner and Marquette, were brought to the city on the late train last night and will be interred here. The father, a conductor on the South Shore railroad, now lives at the Soo. The child died after a few days' illness. The body was taken to the home of John Deagon, 329 West Third street. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with services at St. Peter's cathedral.

Music Club Meeting—The Saturday Music club had its first meeting of the season last Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Alton T. Roberts. Various songs were discussed, among them the question of adopting several proposed amendments to the constitution for the coming winter and a song recital by the great American tenor, Evan Williams. The work planned by the club this season is a study of Schumann and Wagner and Wagner's influence on modern music, each country being taken up in turn.

Many Went Hunting—There was an exodus of Marquette hunters Saturday and yesterday morning to take advantage of the opening of the partridge season before the birds became scattered and wild because of continued shooting. The outgoing trains were filled with men with guns and dogs, headed for camp in the woods. Others walked or drove to places where they hoped partridges could be found. The wet weather of yesterday made the day in the woods very unpleasant, and few birds were brought home, some of the hunters saying that they were glad to get back alive.

Amendment to Constitution—A proposed amendment to the state constitution will be submitted to the voters at the election Nov. 8, the effect of which would be to give counties having an assessed valuation of $5,000,000 or less, the right to increase their total debt from 3 to 5 per cent of the total assessed valuation. All arrangements were made to vote on this amendment last spring, but the vote was called off a few days before election, and there was no election in Wayne and some of the other counties of the state.

Died in Potato Patch—Coroner L. P. Cray was called Saturday morning by the sudden death of Francis Johnson the day before. Mr. Johnson was seventy-seven years of age, and lived with his wife on a small farm near the Sands schoolhouse. He went out to dig potatoes Friday morning and did not return at dinner time. Upon going out to the field, his wife found him dead in the potato patch. Death was evidently caused by apoplexy and no inquest was held. The body was brought to Marquette and will be interred in Park cemetery today. The deceased had no children.

Sailors' Wages Raised—Wages of the sailors in the employ of the Lake Carriers' association have been raised, the increase going into effect Saturday. FOLLOWING CASE CLOSELY.

Many Here Have Had Dealings With B. H. Sheffels Brokerage House.

The arrest of P. H. Sheffels, the well known New York broker, on the charge of fraudulent use of the mails, and the raiding of branch houses of this company in other cities by the federal officials, has aroused considerable interest locally, because of the fact that a large number of Marquette people have done business with the firm. Mr. Sheffels is the promoter of Ely Central, a stock which has been largely taken up by local investors, and he also attempted to float the South Quincy Mining company, in the copper country, last winter. This scheme failed and the company has passed out of existence.

A suit is now pending in the United States court here, which has grown out of Mr. Sheffels' attempt to launch the South Quincy company. The plaintiff is E. O'Brien of Lansing, who was also one of the promoters of South Quincy. After Sheffels and his experts came to Houghton and began a campaign to boom the stock, they suddenly dropped the proposition. Then Mr. O'Brien started suit, alleging that the Sheffels company had promised to underwrite a large block of the stock and had failed to do so. At the instance of Mr. Sheffels, the suit was taken to United States court, instead of being tried in Houghton county.

THEATRICAL.

"The Lottery Man Tonight."

"The Lottery Man" which will be presented at the opera house tonight, is the third of the Schubert shows that has been sent direct from New York into the upper peninsula circuit this season, the two preceding being "The Blue Mouse" and "The City." These two shows proved to be of an exceptionally high standard of excellence, and there is every reason to believe that "The Lottery Man," though differing in character from the two that have preceded it, will be an equally high class attraction. "The Lottery Man" is a captivating comedy and should be welcomed with a capacity house. The story is that of a New York newspaper reporter, Jack Wright, who borrows a sum of money from his employer, "Foxy" Peyton, agreeing in the event he fails to return the loan, to supply the paper with the greatest news item it has ever had. Of course the reporter loses the money and proceeds to make his money back by ingenuously ingaugrating a lottery which the paper conducts, with himself as the capital prize. The coupons are sold for a dollar apiece and their sale is particularly large among maiden ladies with a disposition to find a husband. Wright, of course, wants Miss Heyer, a girl who realizes the odds are against him. It develops that Lizzie, an old maid in the household of the Peytons, steals the lucky coupon from the cook. Being of a lovable disposition she "flashes" the number and claims Mr. Wright. Miss Heyer, however, discovers that Lizzie has stolen the coupon. She is threatened with arrest and to save herself, gives up the ticket. Mrs. Young, the authoress, has introduced much by-play and many situations which are mild caricatures of everyday conditions. Very cleverly and convincingly she shows the fatality of battling against the onslaught of old age and the good that can be derived from a happy disposition.

Fine Harvest of Oats—

J. J. Connors, a farmer living at Wetmore, Alger county, doubtless has good reason for his belief that few Michigan agriculturists have secured a bigger harvest of oats from the same amount of land than he has. From two acres Mr. Connors has harvested 105 bushels. From one-half an acre of land and one bushel of wheat he can show a yield of eighteen bushels of wheat.

Family of Football Players—

Twice during the last eight years, a member of the McKenna family, of Quinnessee, Dickinson county, has captained one of Coach Brewer's teams at the Michigan Agricultural college, both leaders playing right half. Last week Joe McKenna, a brother "Big Mac" of the team of five years ago and of "Mac" of the last four, arrived at Lansing and was given a suit by Coach Brewer. Joe Mac has played on Menominee iron range teams and is said to show the same ability that made excellent players of his brothers.

Brings Suit for Tolls—

A question involving nearly $50,000 in tolls for the use of boats and river driving improvements will be settled by a suit brought by the Menominee River Boom company against the A. Spies Lumber & Cedar company for $7,000. The alleged uncollected tolls from other companies amounted to more than $40,000. During the years the Boom company has been operating, several millions of dollars have been collected from lumber interests on the Menominee river for tolls under the charter of the Boom company.

Will Not Contest the Election—

Prosecuting Attorney Merlin Wiley, who filed a petition in the circuit court at the Soo, praying for a mandamus to compel the board of Chippewa county canvassers to reconvene and count the ballots cast for prosecuting attorney in precinct No. 2 of Whitesh township, which the board threw out on account of alleged errors and irregularities, has withdrawn his petition and will make no further contest for the office. This action on the part of Mr. Wiley leaves his opponent at the primaries, Mervin M. Larmonth, the undisputed nominee of the Republicans for prosecutor, with no opposition from other parties who made no nomination for the office. On the face of the returns as received by the county clerk, Wiley had a majority of six over Larmonth. The latter petitioned for a recount and the recount gave Wiley a lead of one with several ballots still in dispute. The investigation, however, brought out the fact that many irregularities had been practiced in the conduct of the primary in the Whitesh township precinct No. 2 and as a consequence the board of canvassers, acting under the advice of counsel, H. M. Oren, decided to throw out the votes cast for prosecuting attorney in that particular precinct, leaving Larmonth a majority of twenty-seven.

Mr. Wiley in an interview regarding his position, said: "Both my counsel, Warner & Sullivan and Sherman T. Handy, and myself are satisfied that the supreme court would never sustain the right of the canvassers to make the investigation which they did, or to pass upon the legality of either the enrollment or the election, or do anything except simply to recount the ballots. However I would not care to accept the nomination, even if I could get in on a technicality. I want it by the legally cast votes of the Republicans of this county, or not at all. I have fought for clean, decent and legally conducted elections ever since I have left college. I cannot now consistently ask the courts to disregard those irregularities in order that I personally may profit thereby. There will be no further contest."

May's Slayer Not to Be Prosecuted—

Details of the tragedy which resulted in the death of William Pontow, aged twenty-two years, the son of Herman Pontow, a farmer living on the State road, about twelve miles north of Menominee, tend to show that Otto Schwartz, who fired the fatal shot, did so only with the thought of his own protection. As a result District Attorney Doyle does not intend to prosecute the young man, the investigation seeming to show that the entire affair was an unfortunate accident. Schwartz says wild cats have been numerous late and he has been carrying a gun for his own safety. About 9 o'clock at night he was crossing his brother's farm, when he heard a noise resembling the cry of a wild cat. It was directly behind him and he swung around and fired at what he thought was the animal's eye. The shining spot proved to be a light in Pontow's hat. Schwartz says that Pontow was given to practical joking and that he quickly got behind Schwartz without letting the latter know he was in the vicinity and then imitated the cry of a wild cat. The jury impaneled by Coroner Nason has returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from a shot from a gun, but did not place any responsibility for the accident and death upon either him or the shot. Schwartz is a married man and has several children.

Enriching Our Children

The average citizen would deny vehemently that he wastes enough in 20 or 30 years to make a family quite independent; but it is nevertheless true. The principle of small savings with the ultimate most amazing results has been lost sight of in these days of quick fortune schemes. Its 5 and 10 cent pieces which slip away each day that make a big hole in your income at the end of each month. A bank account will make it easy to stop the little expensive habits.

ENGLAND HAS PUBLIC TRUSTEES

System a Great Boon to Holders of Small Property, Saving Them Much Money.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Consul General John L. Griffiths at London writes that the public trustee has become a recognized and efficient instrument in the administration of estates, in guardianship matters, and in the execution of trusts, in England. The office of public trustee, Mr. Griffiths says, was established because of the growing disinclination of individuals to serve as administrators, executors, guardians and trustees generally, and because of the delay and expense incident to the service of individuals, at times dishonesty of private parties acting in such capacities.

Mr. Griffiths points out that when the public trustee is selected instead of an individual no loss to the beneficiaries can follow, as the government is the bondsmen. The charges for administration are reduced to a minimum, and promptness in winding up the trust is secured. The public trustee is authorized to act in the following capacity: Executor or administrator of a will; trustee or custodian of a settlement including a will; administrator under a will, or on an intestacy; administrator of estates of small value; judicial trustees; administrator of the property of a convict.

The public trustee, Mr. Griffiths says, possesses all the duties, powers, rights and liabilities, and is entitled to the same rights and immunities, and is subject to the control and orders of the court as a private trustee acting in the same capacity. It is provided by law that the manner of his appointment shall be as simple and as direct as possible, and the following language is sufficient for that purpose: "I appoint the public trustee as the executor and trustee of this my will." The public trustee may be appointed either alone or jointly with any other person or persons as executor or trustee, or executor and trustee of a will, and either as ordinary trustee or as custodian trustee.

Mr. Griffiths says the primary purpose of the public-trustee act was to provide facilities for the simple, inexpensive, reliable, honest and prompt administration of small estates. Any person or persons interested in an estate in which the gross value can be shown, to the satisfaction of the public trustee, to be under one thousand pounds, may apply in writing to him to administer the estate, unless he sees good reason to the contrary he will undertake the administration. With the view of making the cost of administration as simple and direct and inexpensive as possible, the privilege of taking the opinion of the high court, without recording it, is conferred upon any question arising in the course of administration, has been conferred upon the public trustee.

Provision is made in the act that where it appears that an estate may be more economically administered by the public trustee than by a court, the business is turned over to the trustee. Any person who is aggrieved by any act, or omission, or decision of the public trustee in relation to any trust may appeal to the court. Mr. Griffiths notes that in the two years since the law became effective the public trustee has handled nearly one thousand trusts. The public trustee now has under his care over 450 children on account of one or both the parents being dead. It is made the duty of the trustee to obtain periodically reliable information as to the welfare of these children.

Mr. Griffiths points out that as an indication of the growing disposition to use the services of the public trustee, the fees paid to the official during 1908 and 1909 were as follows: 1908, first quarter, $2,445; second quarter, $4,699; third quarter, $5,941; fourth quarter, $8,623; 1909, first quarter, $10,204; second quarter, $15,967; third quarter, $18,332; fourth quarter, $22,233.

Mr. Griffiths expresses the opinion that there would seem to be in all countries a large field for a public trustee whose sponsor is the government. In the United States, of course, such a trustee would be a state officer, and his sponsor would be the state. Mr. Griffiths says that in every country there are many instances of the mismanagement of estates, and of the discovery by wards when they have attained their majority that their guardian had been wholly inefficient, if not absolutely dishonest.

IN THE DAYS OF SLAVERY.

The truth is that the days of slavery nobody was free at the South. The planter, whose autocracy was his boast, who contrasted himself with the men of other communities as being more completely a free agent than they submitted to enact laws for himself that no other Anglo-Saxon society in the world at that time would have endured. It may not be surprising that Louisiana, with its exotic social ideas, should make "imprisonment at hard labor not less than three years nor more than twenty-one years, or death at the discretion of the court," the punishment for any one who "shall make use of language of 'public discourse'... or in private discourses... or actions having a tendency to produce discontent among the free colored population of this state or to excite insubordination among the slaves." But it is hard to believe that the code of Virginia of 1849 abridged the freedom of speech and press.—Emily James Putnam, in the October Atlantic.

WALL STREET STOCKS.

New York, Oct. 1.—This has been nothing more than a professional market today, with absolutely no features. The buying, both early and late, was of the best character and the undertone of the market at the close was good. Today's closing prices were as follows:

Boston Coppers.

Boston, Oct. 1.—It is becoming more apparent daily that the copper situation is decidedly bullish. The exports for September were 10,000 tons larger than a year ago and London advices are very bullish for a further advance. The local market was more active than at any time this week. North Butte, Isle Royale, Copper Range, Giroux and Allouez were stronger. It looks like the same old story of a creeping bull market, with everybody waiting for great activity before buying. As far as we can see all the bear factors have been eliminated and we advise without hesitation the purchase of coppers at present prices for a five to ten-point rise. Closing prices today were as follows:

EQUINOCTIAL STORM

TALK STILL HEARD.

Efforts of Science to Dispel Popular Delusion Only Partially Successful.

The autumnal equinox is three days distant, but probably a number of thoughtful and usually well-informed people expressed the opinion this morning when they awoke and found the wind in the northeast and the sky darkened by a heavy cloud curtain, that the equinoctial storm was impending, says the Boston Transcript of September 19. This has been the easy way of accounting for the heavy storms that frequently occur at this season of the year. It rests upon the tradition of centuries. It is a confusion of cause with coincidence. We have outgrown to a reasonable extent our fear of witchcraft and our faith in astrology, but still hold fast to the belief that when the sun crosses the line it works a dynamic and disturbing influence upon the elements. Science has repeatedly sought to correct this groundless impression but thus far with only indifferent success. It is by no means unlikely that we shall have one of the largest storms of the season in the near future. Should it be of proportions sufficient even partly to make up the deficiency of precipitation from which we have suffered since the year opened or, in fact, since the opening of the last three years, it would be little less than a cataclysm, and then the "line storm" theories would doubtless have their "ahas" all ready for us; but it would still be the old fact and they would continue to be unable to show the relation of cause and effect. That the moon exerts an influence upon the tides has been demonstrated and science has declared the reason for it, but that the sun when passing southward mobilizes the winds and marshals the clouds for an angry demonstration is one of the delusions that has thus far resisted all assaults. One authority says: "The equinoctial storm is simply a name given to the heaviest storm that happens to occur within a few weeks of the date of the equinox. Sometimes it does not come until October, and the believers in it say that it has been delayed and was unable to get through its operations on schedule time. Sometimes it occurs in early September or late August, and then it is described as ahead of time. As a matter of fact there has not been in two hundred years more than a dozen storms in close connection with the equinox. As many as that could have been connected with any other arbitrary date at this season of the year. The beginning of the stormy season over the North Atlantic is due in August and its period of continuance is into March or April. The "fareback" inauguration day last year would have made a very creditable equinoctial six months earlier. So would each of the several November blizzards that we have experienced during the last 15 years. The popular explanation of storms around this date may be harmless, but it is hardly entitled to respect.

WAS ORGANIZED FORTY YEARS AGO

But Two Members of Original Swedish Lutheran Church Society Now Here.

The members of the Swedish Lutheran church congregation Friday, Saturday and yesterday celebrated the fortieth anniversary of its organization. All of the clergymen in the Ishpeming district, comprising the territory from Saint Ste. Marie to Calumet and from Escanaba to the Menominee range, were invited to attend, and a number were present. All the former pastors of the church were also invited, but none of them were able to be present.

The society was organized Oct. 2, 1870, with a membership of fifty, mostly men. Both Swedes and Norwegians were included, but a few years later the Swedes purchased the interest in the church property by their Norwegian brethren and the latter organized a society of their own.

There are now but two of the original members of the church living in the county. Most of those whose names are on the original list are dead, and a few are living in other parts of the country. The two survivors in Ishpeming are John Wahlman, the contractor, and Hokan Johnson, the latter of the National. Mr. Johnson has been an invalid and confined to his home for twenty-two years past, but Mr. Wahlman has continued an active member of the congregation throughout the entire forty years, with the exception of a short time that he lived in Colorado.

The church and parsonage property, at the corner of Division and Fourth streets, was the site of the first church, which was given up moving in about twenty years ago. During the first few years of the society's existence the services were conducted in temporary quarters, until a sufficient sum was raised with which to start the erection of a church. The church building was one of the first buildings erected in what was then known as the "Cleveland swamp." In those days most of the Swedish and Norwegian people of the city lived at the Cleveland location, and the site was selected because it was about midway between the location and the business district.

No Debts on Property.

Although the congregation was at no time heavily burdened with debts, it was not able to wipe out the last of its financial obligations until a few years ago, when Rev. E. F. Isaacson, who was succeeded by Rev. G. Fletwood, the present pastor, cleaned them up. During the past twenty years a large sum has been spent on permanent improvements and now the society has a fine property, consisting of church, parsonage and combination hall and school building. The congregation now has 600 adult and 400 junior members.

The Ishpeming society has been in charge of some of the most successful ministers serving the church in this country. Among them are Dr. M. Stolpe, who, after serving here for five years, was called to the First Lutheran church of New York city, where he has remained for the past twenty years. Rev. J. Berg, who succeeded Rev. Stolpe, has been pastor of the church at South Bend, Ind., ever since he left this city. He served the Ishpeming congregation for twelve years. Rev. E. V. Isaacson succeeded Rev. Berg, remaining eight years, until his death, which was due to a change in climate. He went from here to Fort Worth, Texas, where he did excellent work, and he is now meeting with success at Lund, Texas.

Although the weather was unfavorable Friday night, the church services were largely attended. Friday evening sermons were preached by Rev. A. T. Fant of Iron Mountain, and Rev. S. Bergdahl of Republic. At a meeting held Saturday afternoon Rev. Ekeberg of Marquette preached. Some of the other visiting clergymen were heard Saturday evening and yesterday, when services were held in the morning, both Saturday and evening. Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings the ladies of the congregation served refreshments to all who attended the meetings. The church was decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves and flowers, and special music was given by the choir and by several of the soloists.

"PAID IN FULL"

Well-known Dramatic Critic Has High Praise for the Play.

Acton Davies, the well-known New York dramatic critic, said of "Paid in Full," which will be seen at the Ishpeming theatre tomorrow night, following its first presentation in New York city: "After all, if the play is really the thing then there's a new 'thing' in town. It's called 'Paid in Full,' by Eugene Walter; it has taken anchor at the Astor theatre and there it is going to remain for an indefinite period. 'Paid in Full' scored an immense success last night—one of the sensational successes of the season. Its boldness, its simplicity and its originality all told in its favor. Here at last was a young American playwright brave enough to dramatize a Harlem flat and its occupants; he has taken his theme right out of every day life on the upper West side and played his dramatic cards so well that he held his blasé first night audience in his hand and not only interested them intensely, but gave them in one act both a great surprise and a real thrill. Young Mr. Walter arrived last night and the management, the Wagenhals & Kemper company, is to be congratulated upon the uncommonly fine cast which carries 'Paid in Full' to the great success. 'Paid in Full' can speak for itself, and, more than that, it is one of those plays which pays its audience with full measure."

$5,000 REWARD FOR RESCUER.

English Newyeds Rescued in Midoccan Show Their Gratitude.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—The arrival of Captain F. Turnavick, owner of a small fishing fleet operating on the Labrador coast, has brought to the attention of the public a remarkable tale of rescue on the high seas. Captain Turnavick came to Montreal to receive a check from London, Eng., for $5,000. This check was from Mr. Bartlett-Contts of London and was sent to Captain Turnavick as a reward for saving his life and that of his crew. The incident started from the Shetland islands, where Mr. Bartlett-Contts has an estate, in his private yacht on his wedding day last July. The yacht was blown out to sea and across the Atlantic in a big storm in which three members of the crew were drowned. Captain Turnavick, in his fishing schooner, came across the shipwrecked honeymoon couple clinging to each other in the rigging of the sinking yacht off the coast of Labrador.

Captain Turnavick rescued them just in time and sent them back to England in one of his fishing vessels and the check for $5,000 is the substantial side of the gratitude which the rescued pair gave to the worthy captain.

THE DIFFERENCE

Between Our Pianos and Others May Be of Interest to You.

If you had a really fine piano in your home, would you care to lend it to a friend, or to let it go out of your possession for any consideration? It is not likely you would. In fact, no one would. It is also a fact that good piano dealers do not rent first class pianos to "Summer Resorts," nor any other "Resorts." The fact is that anyone who has ever spent any length of time at a Summer Resort would not care to buy any of the pianos after being used there. There is more wear and tear on a piano at a "Summer Resort" in one season than there would be in your own home in a lifetime. At our special sale of New and High Grade Pianos now in progress on Cleveland avenue, opposite Braastad's store, we are offering the celebrated and world-wide favorably known "Kimball" pianos direct from these great factories in Chicago at prices and terms which you are asked to pay for "Resort" pianos. Call and see them and you will be convinced. It is much more satisfaction to buy such an important article as a piano for your home, to know that that piano came from, and is made by the greatest company in the world building pianos than to buy one that has been used at a "Summer Resort" or any other "Resort." We have hundreds of customers in this city and county who have our pianos for years and enjoy them. We will be glad to have you call on us any day or evening and we will take pleasure in showing them to you whether you wish to buy or not. We can, and we will, save you money on a beautiful New Piano, but we have no "Resort" pianos.

LOWER STATE NOTES.

ST. LOUIS—Fred Kemp, a local liveryman, was killed in an auto accident. He took a party five miles to Merrill and when about five miles east of St. Louis on their return the auto went into a ditch. Kemp was thrown under the auto and instantly killed. The passengers were Forest Holsberry and two vaudeville actors, playing in St. Louis. They escaped serious injury.

PONTIAC—John F. Burns, the man who stole a valuable horse from Ed Stout because he was sore at the latter over an argument about his wages, went into circuit court and pleaded guilty to horse stealing. Burns took the animal from its pasture, rode it to Detroit, attempted to sell it and was arrested.

LANSING—The supreme court has affirmed the decision of the circuit court of Wayne county in the case of Anthony Thiesen against the Detroit United railway. Thiesen was a driver in the fire department at Detroit and was hit by a D. U. R. car and badly injured while en route to a fire, and was awarded damages to the extent of $250. The D. U. R. appealed the case on the grounds of contributory negligence, but the supreme court sustained the decision of the lower court.

HASTINGS—Explaining that he had been drinking and that he had not recovered from the effects of cocaine and gas administered by a dentist, John Alferling was acquitted on a charge of perjury in the circuit court. He signed an affidavit when in this condition charging Dan Rice of Carlton with furnishing him liquor. On the trial of Rice he denied the affidavit. Hence his arrest for perjury.

LANSING—Clerks and other employees in the various state offices here will not be assessed a part of their salaries this year for a contribution to the campaign fund of the Republican party. The state board of auditors decided to discontinue this practice which has been in vogue for many years. Secretary of State Martindale introduced the resolution to familiarize himself with some of the branches of industry taught in that institution.

BELLEVEUE—W. P. Bender, who lives near Olivet and who was accused of stealing property from neighboring farmers, was brought into Justice Beers' court here on a warrant charging him with the theft of some harness and hatched wire from H. J. Wells and D. G. Cronk. The property had been found on his place Monday by Deputy Sheriff Youngs, who went there armed with a search warrant. Bender pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was fined $20 and costs, amounting in all to $41.43.

PONTIAC—George Elmer, of Owensboro, Ky., went to court on steps of the Presbyterian church. He was arrested for being drunk and when arraigned told the court he had worked not more than two weeks in his entire life. He was sent to the Detroit house of correction for sixty-five days in which to familiarize himself with some of the branches of industry taught in that institution.

L'UDINGTON—One of the most pathetic cases resultant from the wreck of car ferry No. 18 is the insanity of a deckhand, Michael Petroski. He was one of the last to leave the sinking ship, but was struck by a falling smokestack and badly injured. He lay for some time at the Paulina Stearns hospital, but was released from that institution recently. The Pere Marquette Steamship company gave him employment in the freight sheds. This week Petroski showed that he was mentally deranged, and he is now violently insane. He imagines that Captain Kilty wants him to go back on No. 18. He seems to hear the voices of his dead officers and shipmates calling him. He has been placed in the county jail, where he smashed the windows and exclaimed: "You had better get up from that bed, for Captain Kilty told me the ship was sinking." Petroski will be kept here for a few days until the doctor can decide whether his derangement will be more than temporary.

LANSING—The Michigan Power company, a local concern that furnishes electrical power to Lansing business houses and residents, will have to put a new set of rates into effect within the next thirty days, according to an order which was issued by the state railway commission. Some time ago the citizens of Lansing went before the state commission and complained that the rates in force were discriminatory. The commission ordered a hearing, and the power company made a strenuous effort to show that its rates were alike to all, but the state commission ruled differently and held that the present rates were unjust, hence the order.

GRAND RAPIDS—The police have arrested the slayers of Marimus Landman, aged sixty-six years, the proprietor of a small general store on the outskirts of the city, who was held up, slugged and robbed of the day's receipts as he was on his way home last Saturday night. They are Clem Blood, aged thirty-six years, an ex-convict, who served ten years in the Ionia reformatory for shooting a Kalamazoo man, and Arthur Shellhorn, eighteen. Shellhorn confessed to the robbery, and as implicating Blood. The last acknowledged committing the deed in a most cold-blooded manner, saying he struck the aged man over the head with a sock containing a large rock. Blood met Shellhorn during the homecoming week, and at the latter was ill he gave him money to obtain the services of a physician. Twenty-seven dollars were obtained from Mr. Landman, who died a few hours after he was felled to the ground.

BAY CITY—While John Nesbitt, miner, sat upon the end of the pier at the old water works slip, his son, Jack, three and a half years old, and Marjory Love, three years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Love, fell into four feet of water in the slip and were drowned. Not a cry or sound was made by either of the children. Nesbitt knew nothing of the tragedy until Mrs. Love came to the end of the pier, where he still sat fishing, to ask him if he knew where her daughter was. Nesbitt and Mrs. Love searched the neighborhood without success. Returning to the slip they saw the girl's bonnet floating in the water. The bodies were soon found.

LANSING—The supreme court has held that it would be illegal for the Lufkin Rule company of Saginaw to file articles of incorporation with the secretary of state with a clause inserted that employees should be permitted to hold stock in the concern, with the understanding that the company should be entitled to buy it back at any time within two years after the employee left the company. It was shown that transfer of stock would be an impossibility and that it was evidently a scheme to keep the stock forever under the control of the corporation.

LANSING—No definite action was taken by the representatives of the Retail Grocers' and General Merchants' association of Michigan in regard to forming a credit rating system which would be state wide in effect. The delegates were of the opinion that the credit rating systems which have been adopted by the various grocers' associations are entirely satisfactory. Several of the delegates favored an amendment to the state bankruptcy law which would make it impossible for certain persons to escape their debts by becoming bankrupt.

EAST LANSING—Several new building projects were considered at the meeting of the state board of the M. A. C. school here. The board will ask the legislature for an appropriation of $250,000 to be used in erecting a new library and auditorium building. It is proposed to replace the old college hall, which has stood for fifty-four years and is the oldest agricultural college building in the United States, with a modern structure. The new building will be the largest and most costly on the grounds. The proposed new auditorium will accommodate 2,000 people. At present there is no room which will accommodate the entire student body of the school. The board will not care for all the freshmen. A new place for the library is badly needed. The present building is a fire trap. Should it burn many valuable books which could never be replaced would probably be lost. A new dormitory is also a fairly sure prospect and a new gymnasium may be built. HILLSDALE—John Havens, a veteran, sixty-five years old, is dead as the culmination of a family altercation early last week. His wife came to Hillsdale to complain to the county officers of cruelty. On leaving her house, he set about with an ax or hatchet and destroyed every article of furniture, including dishes, bric-a-brac, pictures and stoves. Undersheriff Keas arrived later in the day to find he had disappeared. Havens spent a day at Addison and the next day under a tree within a short distance of his home nearly all day. Here he was noticed by Deputy Sheriff George Mosher, who was dispatched for him. Under the advice of a physician, Mosher left Havens at the hotel at Jerome where he died a short time later. He had been in poor health and the trouble precipitated his death.

LANSING—The executive committee of the Retail Grocers' and General Merchants' association of Michigan, in session here, adopted a resolution recommending that a state wide credit rating bureau be established. This bureau will keep and exchange a record of customers in each city where there is a retail grocers' association, the object being to keep track of the "dead beats" who move from one city to another. It will also make it possible for a person who deserves credit to receive it, providing he has a good record. The committee went on record as being opposed to a parcels post. The committee was of opinion that if it was adopted by the government the small dealers in the villages and small cities would suffer. The committee completed plans for the state convention to be held at Port Huron early in February. It is expected that 1,000 delegates will attend the meeting.

ANN ARBOR—A woman from the north side decided to give her family a treat, and so she took her eight youngsters to a moving picture show. Every one had a good time, and mother was well pleased with the conscientiousness of being a fond and indulgent parent. About 11 o'clock "mother" woke up. One of the children was crying and wanted a drink of water. Glancing over her brood, after the third had been quenched, she saw a small figure in an empty place—only seven of the chicks were home. Along about the same time there came two calls at the jail. One, from the janitor, bore information that there was a lost kid at the moving picture show, and the added request that she should look for it, as that he could lock up. The other was from a frenzied mother, who gave out the information that her three-year-old baby had been stolen from its bed, and a demand that the thief be found instantly. The descriptions of the lost babe and the stolen one happened to be identical, and the mother soon had her baby, but she can't figure it out yet how she happened to go away and forget that kid, and then fail to notice the omission when tucking the family into bed.

HOW THE FLY GETS IN.

The fly has one supreme motive in life—to move toward the strongest smell. To move toward the strongest smell is the fly's chief desire. In fact, the fly's sight is extremely poor, for nature has never solved the problem of making a small eye see as clearly as a large one. The customary swarm of flies around the kitchen door means only that the kitchen windows are open at the bottom, and since the top of the door is the highest opening in the room, that, rather than one of the windows, is carrying the onslaught and the smell of yesterday's soup. The moral is, adjust the ventilation so that the onslaught shall be through a screened window. No fly will ever see a door open and deliberately fly in. For the same reason all unused chimneys connected with fireplaces ought to be screened just as carefully as the windows.—McClure's.

WILL LET CONTRACT FOR MOVING BODIES

Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company Ready to Turn Over New Cemetery to City.

The board of public works and cemetery committee of the council will meet this week, probably tomorrow, to let the contract for the removal of the dead to the new cemetery. A meeting was held Friday evening, but there are so many important questions in connection with the removal of the bodies that it was thought advisable to defer letting the contract until his week. O. Stensrud, a monument dealer, and McCarty & Son of St. Paul will submit bids. McCarty & Son and Mr. Stensrud are well recommended, and the members of the board and committee feel that the work which is done properly no matter which of these firms is given the contract.

The new cemetery is now ready for use and will probably be turned over to the city this week. The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company has practically finished the work for this fall, but the roads will be further improved next year. Trees will be planted on either side of the two main highways, also in the eastern end of the grounds, nearly one half of which has no trees at all. Several thousand trees were left standing and the portion of the grounds which were not destroyed will be very beautiful.

Over 5,000 pine stumps were removed. Many of these averaged thirty-six inches in diameter, and a few ran over five feet. It was necessary to blast out many of the larger stumps. All of the roads in the grounds are twenty-four feet wide, but they have been graded only sixteen feet in width. The two cemeteries have a combined length of three quarters of a mile. A grass plot will separate the city from the Catholic cemetery. The Catholics will have the eastern end of the grounds. There will be thirteen streets in the city end, running north and south, and eleven in the Catholic plot. There will be five streets running east and west in each plot. The alleys between the lots will be seven and one-half feet wide.

The lots will be fifty by twenty feet in size, and there will be an average of forty in each block. There are 100 blocks in the two cemeteries, which are nearly equally divided. The engineers estimate that at least 67,000 bodies can be interred without crowding the lots, as each of the latter will hold four bodies and allow a reasonable space between the graves. Neither the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. or the city officials have yet been able to ascertain how many bodies are in the present cemeteries, but though the estimate runs all the way from 5,000 to 9,000.

The contract for the removal of the bodies will include the digging of new graves and putting them in first-class condition. The city or the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company will employ a superintendent, to see that the work is done in accordance with the contract. The state law, which prohibits the removal of bodies from a cemetery in June, July, August and September, applies only to the lower peninsula, so that the bodies can be transferred at any time during the year, but it is the intention of the city officials to observe the law applying to the lower peninsula.

A number of people who have relatives buried in the old cemeteries have expressed a desire to look after the transferring of the remains themselves. This is one of the questions to be passed upon at the meeting this week. A time will probably be set this week for the owners of the lots in the present cemetery to make their selections in the new grounds. Those having lots in the old cemetery will be given lots in the new ones in exchange.

PARTRIDGE SEASON OPENS.

Many Negaunee Men Spent Saturday and Sunday in the Woods.

The partridge season opened Saturday and many Negaunee men went to the woods. Most of them did their hunting within a few miles of the city, though several traveled out towards Palmer and east in the vicinity of the Carp river. Others took the train for points along the Northwestern line between the city and Little Lake. Among the latter were Thomas Connor and Charles Sporley, who hunted in the vicinity of Marland's hill, and James Blee, Joseph Buzzo and William Haggan, Jr., who spent the day near Swanzy.

There were at least 150 Negaunee men in the woods yesterday, but none of them returned with any considerable number of birds. It is a well known fact that birds have been hunted in various parts of this county for the past two or three months and particularly during the past month or so.

VICTIM OF TYPHOID.

John Hautavirtto, who has been boarding with a Finnish family on Rock street, died Saturday morning at the Negaunee hospital from typhoid fever. He had been confined to the hospital but a few days and his condition was critical when he was removed from his boarding place. The deceased was thirty-five years of age and he came out from Finland about four years ago. He worked as a miner, but was not very well known in the city. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon.

A new walk is badly needed in front of the building opposite the Raatikainen block, as the walk on that side will be generally used after the new passenger station is completed.

Charles Justila of Humboldt was convicted of violating the game laws in Judge Argall's court Friday and was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail. He was arrested by Bernard Garbalino, who is working at Humboldt, and who is deputy sheriff there. When the arrest was made Justila, who is considered to be a "bad" man, had an open dagger in his pocket. Garbalino brought him down from Humboldt, later taking him to the county jail.

The management of the Negaunee High school football team is endeavoring to arrange a game with the Gwin school team for next Saturday on the Gwin gridiron. The Ishpeming and Marquette eleven will play here that day.
Miss Euphemia Gorind, a graduate of the Augustana school of art of Rock Island, Ill., is forming classes in china painting, oil painting and water color work in Negaunee. Miss Gorind intends to conduct both afternoon and evening classes. Her studio is at the corner of Snow and Tobin streets.

A number of Negaunee people will attend the entertainments to be given at Ishpeming theater under auspices of the Ladies' Reserve fund of the Presbyterian church, the first of which takes place Wednesday at Ishpeming theater, when the Chicago Opera company will be the attraction. The ladies sold in the neighborhood of 100 tickets in Negaunee. Extra street cars will be provided for the accommodation of local people.

LEARN TO JUDGE BUYERS.
Storage House Attendant Explains Characteristics of Her Visitors.

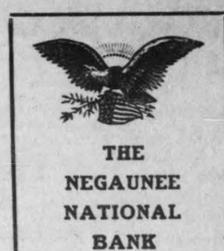

"A tour of inspection always precedes a sale in a storage house," remarked a caretaker in one of the houses as she opened the door of the main room. The promenade was in progress and groups of men and women were in the different departments.

"We can tell almost at the first glance just the sort of goods each customer desires," continued the woman. "That woman manages what she calls a family hotel; she is going to examine everything in the place, that is, everything sent in since her last visit, but it is safe to say that she will buy dishes or perhaps a couple of chairs.

"The newly-weds are over there in the corner, but, of course, one does not have to have experience to recognize them. The woman is always the most prudent buyer on their first visit, and the man the reckless one. He wants to buy every fancy article he spies and she is seeking practical things with due regard for the length of life of each purchase."
Backs and seats of upholstered chairs were pinched and pounded by some persons as if they thought the furniture was constructed for punching purposes; others were counting dishes to be sure the sets were complete, and they looked for nicks at the same time.

Pictures and frames were inspected by some, and books were subjected to severe treatment by a woman who appeared to be more interested in bindings than titles. She shook each volume as if she hoped a loose leaf would flutter out or a weak spot loom up, and then turned the pages with care, intent to get all that she was paying for.

A man's interest in the books made them doubly precious in her eyes when she noticed his covetous glances, and she purchased them without waiting to suggest a second price, as the woman in charge of the place expected her to do. Two pianos were banged until they seemed to scream in agony, and rockers were sent bobbing the length of the boards of the room and then across while

EXPLANATION OF STATE TAX LAW

Public Generally Has But Vague Idea of Statutory Provisions Relative to Collection of Taxes and Procedure When Descriptions Remain Unpaid.

How Annual Sale Is Conducted by County Treasurer, and Proceedings Necessary Before Holder of Tax Title Can Acquire Absolute Ownership.

The system of collection of state and county taxes is but vaguely understood by many whose ownership of property would tend to create the presumption of a fair amount of knowledge of the subject, say county officials, attorneys and others qualified to know whereof they speak. State and county taxes are due and payable for the calendar year on the first of December of that year, and may be paid up to the tenth of January next following. From the 1st to the 15th of March such taxes of the previous year as remain unpaid are returned by the city and township treasurers to the county treasurer on or before the first of December of that year, and may be paid up to the tenth of January next following. From the 1st to the 15th of March such taxes of the previous year as remain unpaid are returned by the city and township treasurers to the county treasurer on or before the first of December of that year, and may be paid up to the tenth of January next following. From the 1st to the 15th of March such taxes of the previous year as remain unpaid are returned by the city and township treasurers to the county treasurer on or before the first of December of that year, and may be paid up to the tenth of January next following.

Acting as the agent of the state, the county treasurer offers for sale at public auction, on the first Tuesday in May of the year following that in which the taxes are reported as delinquent, all such descriptions as remain unpaid by the holders of record title. One of the interesting facts in connection with this sale is that those who attend the sale are not permitted to bid more than one-half of the price of it, and the only amount which can be received by the treasurer as purchase price for the property is the sum of accrued tax and accumulated interest charges, together with the collection fee and costs of sale. In some instances rival bidders have agreed to pay the taxes due for an one-millionth or less interest in the property.

Bidding on Small Fractions.

By way of illustration, the practice of bidding has been about as follows: Upon the offering of a description of property by the county treasurer, acting as auctioneer, one man shouts that he bids the sum due on the description for the entire parcel. Another will offer the same amount for an undivided one-half of the description, another for an undivided one-quarter of it, and so on down, the amount remaining the same in each case, but the fractional portion of the land being reduced in each instance. This has sometimes been carried to the extent that in some instances rival bidders have agreed to pay the taxes due for an one-millionth or less interest in the property.

How Title Is Perfected.

In order to finally perfect his title the purchaser of a parcel of land at the auction conducted by the county treasurer, following his receipt of the state's tax deed and after the expiration of the last period of redemption, must either go into circuit court on a petition for a writ of assistance, as it is termed, or else procure quitclaim deeds from all persons having a shadow of a claim, thus removing all chance of subsequent litigation over the validity of the title. The latter procedure is almost invariably followed, both because it is generally less expensive and also because it is commonly considered more satisfactory.

Title to such descriptions as are not purchased at auction sale are struck off to the state by the county treasurer and the state is regarded as the purchaser, although no money passes on the transaction. While the title is thus vested in the state the auditor general will sell the property to any individual at private sale, but the sum for which it can be sold must be the sum of the accrued taxes, interest and other charges. This is sometimes happens that a parcel of land, worth possibly only $100, has taxes and other incidental charges piled up on it to such an extent that its sale price is greatly in excess of its real valuation. Naturally, under such circumstances, there is no particularly insistent demand for property held by the state at such an artificially inflated valuation, and so there is a steady accumulation of non-tax paying properties on the books of the auditor general. Periodically these are decided by that official to the state land commissioner, who immediately has each such parcel of land appraised at a reasonable and fair valuation, the computation being based on what similar descriptions are being held at and entirely disregarding the amount of accumulated state taxes or other charges. When this valuation is once fixed the property may be sold by the land commissioner at public sale for any sum equal to or in excess of the amount thus figured to be its fair value. The prime object of this arrangement is to restore to taxation as much land as possible, as often as it can be done with expedience.

LOCAL FIRM GETS CONTRACT.

Powell & Mitchell to Do Movement Job at Portage Lake Canal.

The bids for the finishing and placing of granite riprap at the Portage Lake ship canal breakwater have been opened and that of Powell & Mitchell, of this city, has been recommended. There is available $30,000 for the work, although the portion to be expended is $45,000. The bids sent in follow:

F. Durocher of Sault Ste. Marie—$24.90 per ton.

H. F. Key of Hancock—$1.92 per ton.

Powell & Mitchell, of Marquette—$1.89 per ton.

J. F. Fredin of Duluth—$2.13 per ton.

Northern Dredge & Dock Co., of Duluth—$2.01.

Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co., of Chicago—$2.25 per ton.

The placing of the riprap will be an embankment to the outer piers to prevent the water getting under the piers and washing away the foundation. The bids are now in the United States engineers' office in Houghton.

CRYSTAL FALLS BRANCH.

Longyear & Hodge Prepare to Erect Buildings There.

According to the Crystal Falls Diamond Drill, Longyear & Hodge, who have recently occupied a modern shop building on the lake shore here, east of the Lighthouse reservation, are shortly to open a Crystal Falls branch. The Diamond Drill says:

"Longyear & Hodge have decided to become permanent fixtures in Crystal Falls and to that end have purchased a lot and will erect thereon an office building and warehouse. The lot purchased is on Crystal avenue next to O. M. Brown's residence.

"It is understood that these people are the main interests in the recently incorporated Nevada Mining Co. and it would not surprise us if, inside of a year, they would commence to open up some of the deposits of ore that they have found in this vicinity.

"During the week this concern has taken an option on the lands adjoining the Hemlock mine on the north and expect to drill them thoroughly."

UNCLE SAM WANTS FOREST RANGERS

Examinations Will Be Held Oct. 24 and 25—400 to Be Appointed Within a Year.

The civil service commission will hold an examination for assistant forest ranger on October 24-25, 1910. The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that 400 eligibles will be needed during the field season of 1911. Assistant Forest Rangers are paid an entrance salary of $1,900 per annum. The examination will be held at National Forest headquarters in Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Nevada, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, and Wyoming.

Forest rangers must be, when practicable, citizens of the state territory in which the National Forest on which they are to be appointed is situated. In the States in which no examinations are to be held there is still a sufficient list of eligibles to make the holding of another examination unnecessary. A ranger of any grade must be thoroughly sound and able-bodied, capable of enduring hardships and performing severe labor under trying conditions. He must be able to take care of himself and his horses in regions remote from settlement and supplies. He must be able to build trails and cabins, ride, pack, and deal tactfully with all classes of people. He must know something of land surveying, estimating and sealing timber, logging, land laws, mining, and the livestock business. On some forests the ranger must be a specialist in one or more of these lines of work. Thorough familiarity with the region in which he seeks employment, including its geography and its forest and industrial conditions, is usually demanded, although lack of this may be supplied by experience in similar regions.

The examination of applicants is along the practical lines indicated above, and actual demonstration, by performance, is required. Invalids seeking light out-of-door employment need not apply. Experience, not book education, is sought, although ability to make simple maps and write intelligent reports upon ordinary forest business is essential. Where saddle horses or pack horses are necessary in the performance of their duty, rangers are required to own and maintain them. The forest service furnishes no personal or horse equipment. Rangers execute the work of the national forests under the direction of supervisors. Their duties include patrol to prevent fire and trespass, estimating, surveying, and marking timber, the supervision of cuttings, and similar work. They issue minor permits, build cabins and trails, oversee grazing business, investigate claims, report on applications, and report upon and arrest for violation of forest laws and regulations.

The examination will consist of questions regarding the use of the forest, supplemented by a field test to show the applicant's fitness to do the actual work of a ranger. Education and experience will be rated on the answers to the questions on these subjects in the application form and on the applicant's use of English in the written test. Horses for the tests in riding and packing will be provided by the forest service. Details regarding the examination, including the names of the places at which it will be held, will be sent to anyone applying to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.
