

INSURGENT SPIRIT SHOWING GROWTH

It Will Be a Strong Factor in the Next House of Representatives.—May, Indeed, Control, if the Democrats Do Not.

Regulars Are Chastened and There Is Not Likely to Be Any Party Divisions—'Progress' the Watchword Everywhere.

Washington, Oct. 25.—President Taft has been given to understand by some of the campaign managers that in case he does not have a Democratic house on his hands in 1911 he is very likely to have an insurgent Republican house.

This does not mean that the leaders think it a Republican majority is imminent. It will hold more out-and-out insurgents than it will men whose affiliations in the past have been with the regulars.

In Ohio, Massachusetts and New York political tourists have found everywhere a tendency to progress, real progress, among the regular Republicans.

Regulars in a Chastened Mood. Many of the old-time Republican regulars will be in the next congress, but they will take their seats in a chastened and a tractable mood.

There are to be many changes in the senate. The Democrats unquestionably will add to their strength, but the plan will not be to force legislative matters, and that the insurgents will be able to pick the ground on which the united factions shall stand.

There are to be many changes in the senate. The Democrats unquestionably will add to their strength, but the plan will not be to force legislative matters, and that the insurgents will be able to pick the ground on which the united factions shall stand.

There were evidences at the last session that the progressive element in the upper house was doing missionary work in an effective way.

Buckeyes Give Object Lesson. The Ohio Republican representation in the lower house gave the best concrete example of "insurgency."

By the coming in immense numbers of Greeks to this country a new nationality is now being added to the already complex lot which makes up the citizenship of the United States.

Practically every European and many of the Asiatic countries have sent immigrants here, but the Greeks are a strictly modern importation.

Their coming has reached a high tide only within the last year or so. Heretofore, they had known the Germans, the Irish, the Scandinavians, the various Slavs, the Italians and other Latins, the Chinese and Japanese, and finally, on the Pacific coast, the Hindus.

Like the Japanese they are quick to learn and to imitate and assimilate. They adopt American clothing; they marry American girls and get American divorces; they crowd the negro out of the shining business, the Mexican out of his chile "joint" and the Italian away from his banana cart.

So far they have not entered into competition with the Chinese laundryman, but they are taking possession of the restaurant business of a certain class which formerly belonged almost exclusively to the Celestial in many of the far southwestern towns.

The "new nationality" is making advances unequalled by any that has preceded them in the United States, and the southwest is justly their favorite field.

The ranks of the original guard must be added those near insurgents who because of recent and unmistakable expression of opinion must move from their neutral ground position either to one camp or the other.

Democrats And The Speakership. In the different states one finds that the Democrats seem to be much more disturbed than the Republicans over the speakership of the next house.

The Democrats, on the other hand, seem to have some fear that there will be bitter opposition from some of their members to the election of Champ Clark as speaker.

There is enough advanced opposition to Mr. Clark to make it appear that while he ultimately is certain of election, there may be lively exchanges in the Democratic caucuses before the nomination of the present minority leader for the speakership is assured.

REPORT ON NAVAL FATALITY. Board Says Panic Caused Swamping of New Hampshire's Launch.

Washington, Oct. 25.—A remarkable combination of circumstances, no one of which taken singularly was responsible, caused the swamping of the sailing launch of the battleship Now Hampshire in New York harbor on the night of Sept. 10, and the consequent loss of more than 100 lives.

Had the men aboard the launch obeyed an order to "sit down in the boat," the boat believes that the accident would not have occurred.

The board found that the launch was deeply loaded, although not more so than for "abandoned ship." She was towed across a strong tide in a sea generally confused, and rendered more so by wind and the swell of at least one steam yacht.

The towing launch must have been making too great speed, although, the board believes, the cause of the disaster was the death of the boatman of the sailing launch, who alone knew what was happening.

The disaster was precipitated by some of the men mounting the gunwale, due to the fact that the launch was jumping overboard when water began to enter the boat.

NEW NATIONALITY IN AMERICA. By the coming in immense numbers of Greeks to this country a new nationality is now being added to the already complex lot which makes up the citizenship of the United States.

Practically every European and many of the Asiatic countries have sent immigrants here, but the Greeks are a strictly modern importation.

Do You Realize?

That despondency in women is a mental condition often traceable to some distinctly female ill!

Women who are well do not have the blues, neither are they irritable and restless. Derangement of the female organism breeds all kinds of miserable feelings such as backache, headache, and bearing-down feelings.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There is no doubt that it has made many remarkable cures of female ills after all other means had failed.

Here are two such letters—read them—they are genuine and reliable.

Plata, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with backache and was so nervous that I could not sleep. I felt like crying all the time. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my catarrh is better, thanks to your advice. I will recommend your medicine to all sufferers."—Mrs. Mary Halstead, Plata, Pa., Box 98.

Walcott, N. Dakota—"I had inflammation which caused pains in my sides, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying all the time. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and I began to feel better and looked better before I finished the fourth bottle of medicine."—Mrs. Amelia Dahl, Walcott, N. Dakota.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

TRAPPING LAND ADDERS. When They Hunt the Hoptoads That Hunt the Flies.

"Along the ocean shore," said the man who has lived there and knows it's life "there may be more or less stuff cast up on the beach which may be of such sort as to attract flies and hoptoads come down to catch the flies.

"Back on the higher ground, in the wire grass, there may be sand adders, sometimes called house snakes. You know the sand adder? It is a very pretty little snake, maybe two and a half feet long, dark brown on its back, with oval black spots having a brown center.

"The hoptoads come down to the beach to catch the flies, the sand adders come out of the grass on the uplands and go down to catch the hoptoads, and as a youngster I used to set traps to catch the sand adders.

"You take any small square box and make a hole in the top and one in the side, covering them over with seraps of netting, these holes being to look through, and then you make in the side of the box another hole of just the right size, which you leave uncovered, this hole being for the sand adder to go through, and then you put inside the box a hoptoad.

Three Generations Use It

The honest, straightforward statement of Mrs. Rhoda Pritchard of Astoria, L. I., is convincing proof of the great merit of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a family medicine.

"I don't know how to express myself in regard to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have taken it for twenty years and it has saved my life several times when I have been given up to die by my physicians.

has to its credit fifty years of success without a question as to its merits as a curative agent. During this time it has brought the blessings of health to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, who find in it the strength-giving properties that are so necessary to them. It quickens and strengthens the heart action, aids digestion, restores health and vigor; makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you see your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Blend," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00 a large bottle. White Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. DOLLIVER REFUSED THE VICE PRESIDENCY

A New Story of the Public Career of the Late United States Senator from Iowa—Hanna Wanted Him to Run With McKinley.

This Proffer Was Rejected, Its Recipient Declining to Be Laid on the Shelf—The Result Was the Ascendancy of Roosevelt.

Minneapolis, Oct. 25.—George F. Anther, political editor of the Tribune, asserts that the late Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver, prior to his death, told him confidentially, with permission to publish it later, the following story of how the senator, then a representative in congress, refused the nomination for the vice presidency in 1880.

Some months before the convention that nominated McKinley the second time Mark Hanna, who was managing Mr. McKinley's campaign, met me in Chicago and told me some of the difficulties he was experiencing in securing a running-mate for McKinley.

"I told Mr. Hanna that I expected and hoped to be elected United States senator from Iowa, that I regarded the vice presidency as a shelving place, and that I was not a candidate for a political sarcophagus. Then he asked me if I would permit the use of my name, promising that at the proper time it would be withdrawn.

"When I went down to Philadelphia shortly before the convention I discovered that my candidacy had assumed serious proportions. My colleagues in the House had taken hold of the matter and my nomination was assured unless Mr. Hanna kept his promise.

"I called on Mr. Roosevelt at his hotel. I found him in his room, with his coat and vest off, his collar off, and with his face flushed. He seemed to be greatly excited.

"When I told him the situation he demurred on the ground that he understood that neither McKinley nor Hanna wanted him. I assured him that he was mistaken. Then he said to me, being his words as he uttered them, it seems singular that the men who can make me Vice President want me to be governor of New York.

"After an extensive conversation I told him if he wanted to be Vice President the thing for him to do, and all that was necessary for him to do, was to go to see Mark Hanna, and he finally consented to do so.

"And that," concluded Senator Dolliver, "is how near I came to being President of the United States."

Mr. Dolliver laughed when he told the story, but there was in his voice a note of regret over the fact that he had not accepted the momentous nomination.

In view of the fact that Galen L. Stone of Hayden, Stone & Co. is a director of the Lake Copper company, the comments concerning property in the current weekly market letter of that firm are thought significant.

"My mother had a red spot on her right hand which began to grow worse rapidly. The neighbors said it was a letter. She got some medicine from a doctor, but it did not do any good. In about a week the letter began to break out on her arm too. She used five or six different kinds of liniments and three different kinds of salves. Not one of these did her a particle of good.

Remains Taken to Detroit—The remains of the late Ferdinand Bending, who died Monday afternoon, were taken to Detroit on yesterday afternoon's train, where funeral and interment will take place. The funeral cortege numbered many sorrowing friends and relatives. Forty members of the Marquette lodge of Elks, of which the deceased was a member, marched in the procession. Six brother Masons acted as pall bearers.
Special Train to Ishpeming—The order of Owls has decided to charter a special train to Ishpeming next Monday night, in order that the Marquette members may attend the dances given that night by the Ishpeming nest. Outsiders as well as members are cordially invited to attend. Those who wish to go may leave word with John Lammi, the grocer, who is the local secretary. The special meeting of the Owls which was to be held Monday night has been postponed until the next regular meeting night at Keough's Hall a week from Friday night.
Shipped to Ann Arbor—The body of Thomas Hall, the negro convict who hanged himself at the prison a week ago, was shipped to the university at Ann Arbor yesterday, where it will be used for anatomical purposes. No relatives were found who cared to bury the body and the state law provides that all unclaimed bodies of persons dying in prisons, county houses, jails and lock-ups be sent to the state university. All expenses attendant upon the preparation and shipment of the body are borne by the university.
Apathy in Politics—Local politicians are much surprised at the apparent lack of interest being shown by the public in the coming state election, and there is considerable speculation as to what the pronounced apathy portends. Several prominent men declare that they never heard so little political talk on the eve of a state election as this fall. The condition seems to apply only to the upper peninsula, as in most of the counties below the straits politics is very lively. Many believe that unless there is a great awakening during the last week of the campaign that the vote in the upper peninsula will be much below the normal. Meetings to be held in the upper peninsula counties within the next two weeks may result in lively things up some.
Mistakes in Descriptions—City officials frequently complain that this city is not well plated, the additions and divisions according to which lots are described in deeds and other legal documents being numerous and several of them of irregular shape. Furthermore, the property deeds in some instances do not correspond with the plats. On West Ohio street recently, in measuring up sidewalk it was found that one property owner's deed called for the east seventy-five feet of a certain lot and his neighbor's property was described as the west forty feet of the same lot. The lot had 143 feet frontage, leaving eight feet in between unaccounted for. Several instances of similar character have been noted lately.
Could Save Expense—Immigration authorities state that thousands of dollars could be saved to upper peninsula counties each year if they would report their alien public charge cases to the department here. Nearly everyone of the cases is subject to deportation, and yet in most instances they are kept along at the expense of the counties in which they are located. Some of the county officers are aware of this fact and in consequence take advantage of the law, but the large majority make no report and continue the unnecessary expense. It only takes from ten days to two weeks after notification to dispose of a case, and if the matter is urgent the telegraph is used so that but a few days are nec-

The play is said to be replete with comedy, sensation and mechanical stage effects, and at the same time uplifting in its moral and spiritual teachings.

Gogebic Range Hunting Fatality—
It was twenty-four hours after he was shot that William Oman, the victim of the recent hunting fatality on the Gogebic range, died from his wound. He was twenty-one years of age, the son of Erick Oman and lived at Little Girl's Point, in Ironwood township. The details of the accident, brief notice of which has already been made in The Mining Journal, are given as follows by the Ironwood Times: The bullet from a 22-caliber short-barrel rifle struck Oman in the temple, penetrating the brain. After a laborious journey, undertaken before daylight, the injured man was placed in Runstrom's hospital where he passed away a few hours after his arrival. Oman and Miss Annette Clement, the latter being the teacher at the Section 32 school, had gone partridge hunting the young man taking along a small rifle. They walked along the highway from the Oman homestead for a distance of about a mile, and failing to find any birds young Oman proposed that they shoot at some targets. A jug was found by the wayside, and after he had loaded and cocked the rifle, Miss Clement was told to shoot at it. She did so, breaking

WELLKNOWN ENGINEER KILLED IN A WRECK

Wm. Russell the Victim of a Collision Between C. & N. W. Ore Trains.

William Russell, one of the most prominent engineers employed by the Northwestern railroad on its Peninsula division, met death Monday morning when two ore trains, running at a high rate of speed, crashed together in a head-on collision at Panola, on the Crystal Falls branch of the system. Mr. Russell was well-known in Ishpeming. He had been employed in this vicinity at various times during the past twenty years. All last winter he ran a switch engine in the Ishpeming yards. Among the railroad men here and at Negaunee he was known as "Whistling Bill."

The cause of the wreck has not been officially determined. Unofficially, it is declared, that the collision took place because the crew of the train bound out of Crystal Falls disregarded orders. The members of both engine crews jumped when the two big locomotives dashed around a sharp curve face to face. Engineer Patrick Tolan and Fireman J. Schmidt escaped without injury. Engineer Russell and Fireman Albert De Cremer also leaped for their lives. De Cremer escaped without injury, but the collision following immediately after Mr. Russell jumped from the cab one of the ore cars shot from the track and caught him in the ditch, crushing his back and causing almost instant death. The body was taken to Crystal Falls, where it was prepared for burial and was then taken to Escanaba. Mr. Russell's daughter, Miss Lillian Russell, is seriously ill with typhoid fever at the family home on Hale street, in that city, and it has been decided by the attending physicians as impossible to inform her of the death of her father at this time. The Escanaba Press says of the accident:

A train crew headed by Felix Hughes as conductor and Patrick Tolan as engineer left Stager early Monday morning with orders to run to Crystal Falls and after making up these train to wait at that station for Conductor Michael Conscience and Engineer William Russell, who were to be met with an extra ore train. A night operator is not employed by the company at Crystal Falls and it was necessary to give the train crew orders for the run from Stager to Crystal Falls and return. Instead of waiting at Crystal Falls, as provided by the orders, the train conductor Hughes and Engineer Tolan started back to Stager with their train. A sharp down grade runs out of Crystal Falls and it is necessary to run at a high speed to make the Panola hill. Running from Stager also it is necessary to attain a high rate of speed to run up the Crystal Falls hill. The bottom between the two hills is filled with reverse curves, making it impossible for one train crew to see the other until almost upon each other. With one train rushing down the Crystal Falls hill and the other down the Panola hill, the two met on a sharp curve without warning.

Both engineers did everything possible to slacken speed, but without avail. It was seen by both that a head-on collision was inevitable. Mr. Russell called to his fireman to jump and an instant before the two locomotives crashed together he leaped. The two engines came together with terrific force and ore cars behind them were sent hurtling on both sides of the right-of-way. The members of both engine crews escaped with only slight injuries, with the exception of Mr. Russell, who, as he struck the ground, was caught by an ore car, thrown from the track. A large number of cars of both trains were demolished. Both engines were badly damaged and the train was torn up for a considerable distance.

Mr. Russell, the unfortunate engineer, was fifty-five years of age and is survived by his wife and one daughter. He had lived in Escanaba for nearly twenty-eight years and for nearly a quarter of a century had been employed by the Northwestern road. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and was popular with all of the railroad men of the division. He went to work only Sunday evening, after laying off for three weeks because of the illness of his daughter, and that his death should come at this time is another link in the chain of ill fortune that has followed the family for the past few weeks. Mrs. Russell is prostrated with grief.

HOWE'S MOVING PICTURES.

Noted Traveler, as Usual, Is Presenting a Good Program This Season.

Lyman H. Howe, whose celebrated moving pictures have made him famous, will present his latest program at Ishpeming theatre the evening of Nov. 16. Mr. Howe writes the manager of the theatre here that this year's program surpasses any that he has ever before presented. All records for big business have been broken at Louisville, Montreal, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Baltimore, Kansas City, Philadelphia, Detroit and Denver. In each city the company remained five to eleven weeks without a change of program. This is the greatest record that any of Mr. Howe's companies have ever made and he regards it as a stronger guarantee of the importance of the attraction than anything he might be able to say.

The Billboard, recognized as one of the leading theatrical journals of the country, in its issue of Aug. 20 said of the program that will be presented here: "Howe's moving pictures are all the rage, and the audiences are distinctly representative of intellect and fashion. Pictures representing scenes in foreign countries appeal greatly to the people. A picture showing views of the eruption of Mt. Etna evoked the greatest interest and applause. King Edward's funeral was the feature of the week. Large crowds are always in attendance and the admission is greater than the accommodations afford." This was at Baltimore.

MINERS' CLUB.

Y. M. C. A. Members Working in Mines to Form Organization.

At the meeting and reception held in the Young Men's Christian association's class rooms last Saturday night, a number of Ishpeming miners took the preliminary steps toward the organization of a club for mine workers. Speeches were made by William Cowley, a member of the board of directors; William Harris, R. J. Wise, general secretary, and others. Considerable interest was shown by the large number of miners present, and at the conclusion of the meeting all of those present, including several young men who had not previously held membership in the Y. M. C. A., handed in their names as charter members.

The activities of the club will be largely of a social nature and suppers and entertainments will be held at intervals. Educational talks on mining and other subjects will be given from time to time. William Harris and Spencer Libby were appointed temporary secretary and treasurer, respectively, until permanent officers are elected. The club will meet every Saturday night on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. building. All mine workers are invited to become members.

The management of the "Y" has decided to keep the swimming pool filled on Mondays so that miners on the night shift may have an opportunity to use it on that day.

Tonight

A Broken Idol

The Biggest Hit of the Season

Curtain rises at 8:20.

I have withdrawn from the socialist ticket at candidate for state representative of the Second district. The misunderstanding seems to arise from the resignation blank which I printed with our county program and which reads thus:

"To the County General Committee: I, the undersigned, chosen candidate for the office of state representative on the socialist ticket, hereby tender my resignation; the same to take effect when same is dated by the chairman and secretary of the county committee and by them presented to the proper authorities, whenever I shall prove unfaithful to my trust. (Signed) W. J. ROBERTS"

It will be noticed that unless this is read with reasonably close attention, one is apt to get the impression that a resignation has really been tendered. Closer observation will reveal the fact that the resignation becomes effective and operative only when it has been dated and presented to the proper authorities and whenever it shall have been proved that I have been unfaithful to the interests of the people.

All candidates chosen by the socialist party are required to sign these undated resignation blanks. From past experience this has been found necessary in order to make one of our principles, the referendum and right of recall, thoroughly operative.

I hope this will make it sufficiently clear that I have not resigned. Yours sincerely,
W. J. ROBERTS.

BALL GAMES START TONIGHT.

The games of the indoor baseball league of the senior class of the Young Men's Christian association will open tonight with two scheduled contests. The first game will be called at 7:45 sharp, and the second at 8:45. The captains met and chose their teams last night. Every member of the senior class has been chosen on the lines and will have a chance to play in all the games.

HAD A GOOD YEAR.

A. Bonnell, manager of the Mitchell Automobile company, who is making a tour of the upper peninsula in the interest of the concern, spent yesterday in Negaunee with D. D. Smith, the company's Marquette county agent. Mr. Bonnell stated that the Mitchell company manufactured 4,000 cars this season and that practically every one of them was sold. Many of the automobile factories have many cars in stock but the Mitchell people, he stated, were kept busy supplying the demand. The corporation is now capitalized at $10,000,000 and Mr. Bonnell said that not a share of the stock is for sale. The concern has been doing business for over fifty years, having started in a small way in the manufacture of wagons, carriages and other vehicles. The Mitchell company, like all other automobile concerns, has made quite a number of improvements in its cars for next season and the concern expects to turn out nearly as many, if not a greater number, in 1911, than were manufactured this year. Mr. Bonnell said that many of the concern's agents throughout the country are already placing orders for cars for next season's delivery.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Matti Lantinen of Ishpeming and Miss Selma Kapka of Negaunee, were united in marriage Monday evening at the home of Joseph Ikkela, on Park street. Judge Irving Argall performed the ceremony. The couple will reside in Negaunee.

Mercedes, thirteen-months-old daughter of Peter Bernard, died Monday afternoon. Death came unexpectedly, the child having been sick but a few hours. The funeral will be held this morning at 9 o'clock from St. Paul's church.

Skoglund & Kroop, of Ishpeming, who have the contract for the plastering of the Negaunee National bank's new block, have started work. The first floor rooms will be given both coats of plaster before the work is started on the second floor as the latter has not been lathed.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company has transferred its snow fence from the north side of its old track to the north side of the new double tracks, at a point near the new shaft being sunk at the Negaunee mine.

GOOD HEADWAY MADE AT CONCRETE SHAFT

Mason Work in C. C. I. Co.'s New Shaft at Negaunee Mine is Down 460 Feet.

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company is making splendid headway with its new shaft and power building at the Negaunee mine. The concrete in the shaft is now down 390 feet from surface and judging from the progress made during the past month, the concrete will be completed to the bottom by Feb. 1. The brick work on the power building has been completed to the top of the windows and preparations are now being made to put the steel girders in position. Most of the steel for the building has arrived, and the structure will be enclosed within six weeks or so.

A considerable quantity of cement will be used in the construction of the concrete shaft, as the walls will average about fourteen inches in thickness. The work has thus far moved along without interruption, and the shaft will be completed fully as soon as the management anticipated. The gravel for the concrete is procured immediately north of the shaft, and is hauled in by tram cars, operated by an engine in the pit. There is an immense quantity of gravel available near by and it will not be necessary to haul any from a distance. The gravel and cement is dumped into a chute, leading to a building immediately west of the shaft, where the concrete is mixed. A mixing machine is used and the cost of preparing the concrete is comparatively light. As fast as the concrete is mixed it is lowered into the shaft in a bucket and put in position by a crew working below.

The new shaft is the only one that has ever been put down in the Lake Superior district by this method. When the shaft is completed the management anticipates that the job will be satisfactory in every way and that the concrete walls will stand up as well as those put down in the shafts where the air system is employed, such as is used by the New York Foundation company, which is soon to begin putting in a concrete lining at the Maas mine shaft. The concrete work will not be finished until a depth of 700 feet is reached. It is expected that the new power plant will be completed when the shaft is finished. The machinery for the power plant will be similar to that recently installed at the North Lake mine, and will be operated by electricity.

The company will have considerable surface work to do before ore can be shipped from the new shaft. Extending the railway spurs will be quite a job, as it will be necessary to remove a considerable quantity of dirt, on account of the elevation of the shaft.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

Did Not Take Jury Long to Reach Verdict in Ackley Inquest Case.

The jury impanelled Saturday by Coroner Prin to investigate the cause of the death of Thurman Ackley, the young man who was killed last Friday night by falling from the skip in the Cambria mine shaft, reached a verdict within a few minutes after the testimony of the last witness was given. The verdict was to the effect that the deceased had fallen into the shaft as a result of his head coming in contact with the timbers, while riding in the skip from the bottom of the mine to surface.

Five of the men employed in the mine testified before the jury. Four of them, Samuel Stanaway, Jr., Charles Stanaway, Louis Laforest and Wilfred Lemay, were riding on the skip with Ackley when he fell away. All testified that Ackley was standing in the skip when it left the bottom and that just before it reached the point where the shaft takes a bend to an incline of about fifty-five degrees he got up out of the skip and sat upon the outer edge. Laforest, who was near Ackley, called his attention to the fact that the skip would soon reach the knuckle and to be on the lookout for it. Ackley did not seem to pay any attention to the warning and instead of bending over to let his head pass the timber, remained in his upright position. According to the witnesses the blow received by the deceased was of sufficient force to fracture his skull.

Oscar Johnson, the foreman, who was at the bottom of the shaft when the skip started up, testified as to what position Ackley occupied in the skip. He also testified that he was standing near the entrance to the level at the bottom and that he saw Ackley's body immediately after it reached the bottom. The men who make the trip to surface at night nearly always bring their lunch into the mine with them, but for some reason they did not do so that evening. The company does not allow the men to ride in the skips, and notices warning them not to do so are posted in the shaft.

SACRED LILY PLANTED HERE.

Archie Orr, who is a great lover of flowers, has received from LaPorte, Ind., his former home, roots and seeds of the Egyptian lotus, known as the Sacred Lily. So far as is known, this plant grows in only four lakes in this country, one of these being Orr's lake, at LaPorte. The greater part of the land surrounding the lake is owned by the Orr family, and was named after the Negaunee man's father. Mr. Orr has planted two of the four roots, together with the seed he recently received, in his fish pond at his home, and the other two are on exhibition at Orr & Wentala's jewelry store.

Mr. Orr believes that the lily is one of the rarest flowers grown in the United States, and it is highly prized by LaPorte people. When he was a boy there was only an ordinary crop of the lotus in the lake, and some ten years ago they disappeared almost completely, but at the present time the surface of the lake is almost completely covered with them. During the season when they blossom, LaPorte people carry them away in boatloads, and many times the roots have been transplanted in other lakes, but they have never grown. They have been planted in the lake adjoining Orr's lake, but without success.

The lily is cream color and its leaves are a beautiful green, and they grow from two and a half to three feet in diameter, while the flower itself is from six to eight inches in diameter. The LaPorte Daily Herald of last Friday gave the following interesting account of the history of the flower:

"Some years ago the LaPorte Herald made an investigation concerning the nativity of the strange and beautiful plant, with reference to its habitat and growth in America. At that time it was known in but four points in the United States, two places in Connecticut, one in New York, and at Orr's lake. Hon. H. E. Scott thinks, however, that it is now more prolific but still considered quite rare. As to its origin in Orr's lake no man knoweth, but the seed may have been carried thither by aquatic migratory birds, as the seed forms an article of food.

"The flower is very beautiful. 'Lotus,' the name given by the ancient Egyptians to a rich fruit, concerning which much dispute now exists, no fewer than eleven distinct species of plant being enumerated under this name by Fee, in his Flore de Végét. during 1822. One of the most notable of them is the Lotus-tree or Lotus-bush, a native of the north of Africa and south of Europe. The name 'Lotus' was also given to several beautiful species of water-lily, especially the blue water-lily (nymphaeaceae), to the Egyptian water-lily, and to the Nelumbo, which grows in the stagnant and slowly running waters in the south of Asia and north of Africa, and of which variety the seeds in the Republican office are representative. By the Egyptians it was called 'skinn,' or 'sheshin,' and is called by the Arabs, 'besh-nin.' It grows in the Nile and has a large white flower. The root is eaten by the people who live near the Lake Menzah. It was the rose of ancient Egypt, the favorite flower of the country, and is often seen made into wreaths or garlands, placed on the foreheads of females, or held in their hands and smelled for its fragrance. It frequently appears in the hieroglyphs where it represents the upper country or southern Egypt and entered largely into works of art—the capitals of columns, prows of boats, etc. In the Egyptian mythology the nelumbium speciosum was sacred to Osiris and Isis as regarded in Egyptian delineations as signifying the creation of the world. In the mythology of the Hindus and Chinese, it plays a distinguished part. The Hindu deities of the different sects are often represented seated on a throne of its shape or on the expanded leaves. The color, in southern India, is white or red, the color faded to be derived from the blood of Siva, when Kamadeva, or 'Cupid,' wounded him with the love arrow. Lakshmi was called the 'lotus-born,' from having ascended from the ocean on its flower. Among the Chinese the lotus had a similar reputation and poetic meaning, being especially connected with Fo, or Buddha, and symbolized female beauty.

"Mr. Scott will endeavor to propagate the Sacred Lily at Orr's lake. The seeds left at this office are to be divided among cottage owners around Lake Manitowish who would like to propagate its growth near their lake homes. The planting season is right now at hand. The seeds should be planted about one foot apart and with a stick pushed down into the muck two or three inches, in water ten feet from shore line, or at points sure to be covered by water all the year, and out of reach of frost."

DEFORESTATION HAS NO EFFECT

Chief of Weather Bureau in Official Bulletin Holds That Removal of Forests Does Not Materially Change Temperature or Rainfall in Any Locality.

Says That Land Suitable to Agriculture Should Be So Used, and That Only Waste Ground Should Be Conserved for Growing Lumber and Forest Products.

Wills L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, has recently issued a booklet on "The Influence of Forests on Climate and on Floods," which is particularly interesting to residents of this part of the country. Contrary to the popular belief, Mr. Moore holds that deforestation has little or no effect on climate or on the amount of rainfall. His opinions are based largely on the records of the weather bureau covering a period of nearly forty years taken from all sections of this country, and some foreign countries as well.

Mr. Moore is of the opinion that the principle of conservation, in its commonly accepted meaning, may be carried to extremes. In this connection, he says: "There should be neither wasteful use of resources nor that greatest waste of all, total absence of them, but that economical use which in the end will have yielded the greatest good to the greatest number."

"Preservation of the forests, cutting wisely, but never more than they produce, enables us to draw from a perpetual supply a certain quantity of material for buildings, for furniture, and for fuel, but of course the forested land yields not a handful of wheat nor of corn and makes a wretched substitute for the pasture upon which to feed milk cows and beef cattle. These conflicting interests, the pleading of the poor man's children for bread and meat and the cry of the country for the lumber that only a woodland can furnish, if there were no other interests to modify the result, somewhere find an inevitable balance. But just as the body is more important than its raiment, so, too, is its food more important than its shelter; and therefore in every country the general tendency, with growth of population, is to convert forest lands into cultivated fields, and this tendency should not be discouraged, unless it can be shown that deforestation has augmented droughts and floods, and I believe that it can not be so shown; I believe that forests should be preserved for themselves alone, or not at all.

Virgin Forest Wasteful. "The average virgin forest is wasteful as a source of lumber and of fuel. It is only here and there that a tree is found of proper growth and suitable species for first-class material. As a lumber producer a forest of this kind is analogous to a cornfield planted in scattering hills here and there, instead of being cultivated throughout its extent and planted with that regularity and closeness of spacing that will produce the maximum yield. If the expense is not found to be too great in comparison with the return, forests should be cultivated with the same care both as to species and as to distribution, and possibly, too, as to rotation, that the intelligent farmer uses in planting his fields. In this way returns equal to what we now get could be secured from a much smaller forested area, and there can be no valid objection to decreasing the area where homes and a well-fed people take the place of wild animals and the wilderness.

"One may conclude from the evidence gathered from many sources that summer temperature is slightly less in the forests and in their neighborhood, especially to the leeward, than it is in corresponding cleared sections. Forest temperature is also slightly higher during cold weather than is that of open fields, due presumably to the interference of the trees, and to the insidious type, with free ground radiation. The increase of winter temperature, however, is not equal to the decrease of that of summer, the season during which most vegetation needs all of the heat it can get; and, therefore, it happens that wooded areas may slightly retard the growth of crops in their neighborhood.

Cases of Rainfall. "The precipitation that causes floods in the United States is from the aqueous vapor that is raised up from the vast waters of our continent, and the supply is inexhaustible. Our rainfall is the result of such fundamentally great causes as not to be appreciably affected by the planting or cutting away of forests, or by any of the operations of man in changing the character of the surface covering of the continent. The average discharge of the Ohio River, where I presume deforestation has been as great as in any other part of the country during recent time, has not changed for a period of thirty-eight years, except as caused by precipitation. On the whole, it is probable that forests have little to do with the height of floods in main tributaries and principal streams, since they occur only as the result of extensive and heavy rains after the ground is everywhere saturated, or when heavy warm rains come on the top of deep snows.

of erosion, is of importance, but of unequal importance in different sections. In level countries it makes but little difference in this particular whether the ground is waste, cultivated, or densely forested, while in hilly or mountainous sections the result is different. When soil becomes well sodded with grass, erosion is little worse in fields than in the woods, but usually the fields are eroded from time to time, and occasions come when the best of care and cultivation cannot prevent the formation of bad gullies that injure both the gullied fields and those of the lower grounds that are overflowed.

WARNER WOULD PUT CONVICTS ON ROADS

Governor Greatly Impressed by Success of This Employment of Them in the West.

"Nothing in the six years that I have been governor of Michigan has interested me so much as the plan to work prisoners on the roads or on farms, practically without guards; that it, let them be their own guards, place them on their honor, I know it works, for I have seen it in operation," declared Governor Warner at Detroit this week.

The governor is a member of a commission provided for by the last legislature to investigate prison conditions in the country over, and to report to the coming session of the legislature as to the best methods of handling Michigan's convict problem. He has been west, visiting Minnesota, Iowa and Colorado prisons, and was accompanied on the trip by Edward Anthony, of the Marquette prison board. He was in Detroit on his way home.

TRACK TO COPPER COUNTRY BLOCKED

Freight Wreck at L'Anse Played Havoc With South Shore Passenger Service Yesterday.

Passenger train service between Marquette and the copper country was maintained under difficulties yesterday, because of a freight train wreck on the L'Anse hill early yesterday morning. The track was blocked until after 6 o'clock last evening, and all passenger trains were operated by way of Sidnaw, and from there to Reewenaw over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Mineral Range railroads.

Train No. 2, due in Marquette at 2:55 p. m., did not arrive until evening because of having to take such a circuitous route and No. 4, due at 7:45 p. m., was also very late, being delayed until the main track could be opened for traffic. A new train was made up at Marquette to run on the time of belated No. 2, which left for St. Ignace at 2:45 p. m., the regular No. 2 being abandoned here. West bound passenger trains Nos. 3 and 1 made the run to the copper country by way of Sidnaw and were late in reaching their destination.

The breaking of a wheel on a freight car, belonging to the United States and loaded with oats, was responsible for the accident. As a through freight was coming down the L'Anse hill the car wheel went down without warning and in less time than it takes to tell it, five cars had left the rails and were every which way across the track. The train dispatcher at Marquette was at once notified and the wrecking train was sent to L'Anse without delay. Clearing the track proved a big job and the work was not completed until last evening. Fortunately, none of the train employees was injured in the accident.

CHOCTAW IN ACCIDENT

Was Rammed by the America at Sault Ste. Marie Monday Morning.

Word has been received from the Soo that the steamer Choctaw, which has been a regular visitor to this port the past summer, was rammed by the America this week, while tied at a dock in that city. Carl Rydholm is first mate of the Choctaw and on this trip, Wm. Daniels is the second mate, both of these young men being Marquette boys. James Deagan, also of this city, is one of the sheelmen. None of the crew was hurt. The Soo Evening News of Monday gives the following account of the accident: "The steel steamer America collided this morning at 1 o'clock with the Choctaw, which was tied at Kemp's dock, causing about $1200 damage to the latter steamer. The America, owned by John P. Reiss of Sheboygan, Wis., was enroute from Superior, for Cleveland with a load of iron ore and in making a landing at the dock lost control of the steering gear, and struck head on into the Choctaw, a steamer owned by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company. No damage was done to the America and Master H. E. Tappan intends to resume his trip in the morning. The Choctaw will probably be repaired at the Soo dry dock, the extent of work upon her not being completely ascertained yet."

MONEY GOES FOR SERVICE

Boiler Insurance not as Profitable as Small Losses Indicate.

"An item relative to boiler and fly-wheel insurance, published in your issue today, gives an erroneous idea of the profits made by the company handling these risks," P. W. Phelps, of the Peter White Insurance company, said yesterday. "You refer to a company with a dividend income of over $1,000,000 which had but $70,000 of losses. These figures do not take into account the value or expense of the service given by companies handling these risks. The Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection & Insurance company, for instance, according to its report for 1909, had a dividend of 5 per cent. The management expense over a period of ten years has never been less than 71 per cent of the income from premiums and has been as high as 90 per cent. For the past ten years the average underwriting profit has been 8 per cent. This branch of insurance business is, it will be seen, conducted on a close margin and is by no means as excessively profitable as is suggested at first glance by the great discrepancy between actual losses paid and the premiums received."

NEW LOCK AUTHORIZED

By Its Use Government Expects to Fasten Mail Pouches More Securely.

A new mail pouch lock is expected to make its appearance at the local postoffice in a short time. The lock has already invaded Wisconsin and the government is equipping its offices with the new safety device as rapidly as possible. The mail pouches throughout the United States are to be adorned with the new lock, which is of the altogether different pattern than those in present use. Announcement of the change and also a model of the key have been received at the local postoffice.

The old lock was called the "eagle lock," and the new design is known as the "double star lock." The difference cannot be seen at a glance, but the mechanism of the latest models is altogether different from the old one. The keys are also similar in appearance, the old ones bearing the design of the American eagle, the new ones a double star.

This move on the part of the postal department is thought to be a step toward the safer conduct of the mails. It will be a valuable change for the reason that there are many keys in existence which are moulded after the old pattern.

Evening Clothes For Men Are Rarely Made Well

Yet you need them for the most careful dressing you do. Only high-salaried tailors should ever touch them—and high-salaried tailors who work for the usual merchant tailor are few.

You need evening clothes for the winter's festivities—for club, for dance, for the theatre. The way of wisdom is to purchase them as built by STEIN-BLOCH, full dress and Tuxedo. A corps of tailors do nothing else in the STEIN-BLOCH shops—and they don't botch their work.

The matter of price is also an interesting one to listen to. Try us before you decide this full-dress question.

Full Dress Suits - $38 to $50.
Business Suits - $18 to $30.
Overcoats - $18 to $35.
