ELKS' EXERCISES WELL ATTENDED

Nearly 1,000 Marquette County People Present at Elks' Memorial Observances, Yesterday at the Ishpeming Theatre.

Besides Society's Impressive Services, There Were Two Addresses and Several High Class Musical Numbers.

The annual memorial exercises, held yesterday afternoon at Ishpeming theatre, under the auspices of the Marquette, Negaunee and Ishpeming lodges of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, were attended by nearly 1,000 people. Large delegations of members and their ladies were here from Marquette and Negaunee.

The exercises, which were most impressive, were conducted by the officers of the Ishpeming lodge, assisted by officers of the Marquette and Negaunee lodges. In addition to the ritualistic ceremonies and the addresses, there were several pleasing musical numbers by Trombly's orchestra, a quartet, consisting of Messrs. F. P. Needham, Dr. S. G. Main, John Delbridge and Dr. E. G. Robbins, vocal solos by Miss Harriet B. Oltman, of Marquette, and Dr. E. G. Robbins, and a violin solo by Prof. Frank Trombly of Marquette.

The addresses were given by Ed. J. Butler, of Ishpeming, who spoke on the departed brother of the three lodges, and Francis T. McDonald, a well-known attorney of Sault Ste. Marie, who gave the memorial address.

In prefacing his remarks, Mr. Butler complimented the officers and members of the three lodges on the fine attendance, and he reviewed some of the leading features of the society's work, concluding with the following reference to the departed member:

"During the past twelve months Marquette lodge has lost by death two of its worthy members; Negaunee lodge has lost one, and Ishpeming lodge two."

John R. Gordon—

"The first member of the Marquette lodge to depart this life was Brother John R. Gordon, and the upper peninsula's best known citizen. Those who knew the deceased intimately admired him for his generosity of heart and his loyalty to friends. When John R. Gordon made a promise that promise was usually fulfilled. He was a leader among men, bright, energetic, and aggressive, and when he set his mind upon doing anything he labored earnestly and sturdily in an effort to accomplish his aim. It is men of Brother Gordon's type whose services are sought in the conduct of public affairs, and it is men of his type who usually achieve the greatest measure of success in life."

"When we call to mind how, while a member of the legislature, he won from other cities in Michigan the Normal school at Marquette, we must give him the credit he so justly deserved. In that contest he showed his loyalty to his home city, and because of his success in that particular instance his name and memory should long be respected by the citizens of Marquette city."

Ferdinand Bending—

"Ferdinand Bending, the other member of the Marquette lodge to pass to the great beyond within the year, was an ideal citizen, a true Elk and a man whose friends were legion. Mr. Bending came to Marquette in 1887, when a young man; he grew up with the city and he met with success in business, as a result of his energy, thrift and foresight. He was an important factor in the commercial uplift and welfare of his home city, and by his upright business principles gained the confidence and highest esteem of his fellow citizens. Brother Bending was possessed with the gift of kindness and courtesy that drew to himself year after year an ever increasing circle of friends. His strong ties and deepest affections were centered in his family circle, but he was always prompt and cordial in recognizing that which was intended to promote the happiness and welfare of his friends and neighbors. By the demise of Brother Bending his family is deprived of a kind, loving and devoted husband and father; his city a citizen of high ideals, and the Elks' lodge a brother whose memory will be honored and revered in the years to come."

Ross Hansen—

"Ross Hansen, a member of the Negaunee lodge from its inception, left by his untimely departure grief-stricken relatives and sorrowing friends. Taken away in the prime of life, in the midst of his usefulness, his demise was keenly felt. Possessed of a rugged constitution, lofty ambition and a mechanical training, he was a most valuable man to his employers. His genial disposition and kind heart endeared him to his friends and fellow workers. Brother Hansen loved his family better than he did his own life and his parting severed ties of love and devotion in that happy circle that can never again be united. As an Elk, he was appreciative of the honor a man should feel in being identified with so worthy an institution. His manifest devotion to the society and interest in its teachings made him a valuable member, one whom any society could feel proud of."

William H. Kinsman—

"By the death of William H. Kinsman, of the Ishpeming lodge, a devoted wife, loving parents, and grief-stricken friends lost one whose industry and efforts throughout the years allotted to him, were of inestimable value. Those who had the good fortune to be in daily contact with him could not resist loving and admiring him as one would love a brother. He was a man of honest purposes and upright character, who recognized his duty by his calling and shirked none of his responsibilities. He was full of life and ambition—that ambition which every young man should possess; ambition to do good on his fellowman; ambition to make others happy and the ambition to make his loved ones feel that there is something in life worth striving for. Brother Kinsman was the very life of the home, the lodge room and the club room. His bright disposition brought sunlight to the darkest; he was always happy, with a smile on his face, even during the period of his last illness, when his cheering words brought tears to the eyes of his loved ones, who realized that his suffering must soon end. Young men of such a noble nature and steadfast character, as our departed brother was endowed with, are indeed a great loss to a community, to the family circle, and to the lodge in which he manifested such a keen interest."

—William J. Mugfur—

"The other departed brother of the Ishpeming lodge, whose life work we remember so well, was William J. Mugfur. We all recognized in his death an irreparable loss, as he was taken away at a time in life when his usefulness had been but fairly launched. He possessed a most generous heart and he felt the cares and sorrows of others as keenly as he did his own. He was alive to the approval of those who justly merit his respect and whose friendship he valued. Brother Mugfur was extremely unassuming and modest, but ever mindful of the welfare of others. The one feature in his daily life which most challenged the attention of an observer was that of sensitiveness and reserve. He was always anxious to give others the full share of profit, praise and honor to which they were entitled. Will Mugfur did not possess an enemy in the world, and the sorrow expressed at his untimely death indicated how forcibly than anything I can say, the high esteem in which he was held."

"Now, ladies and gentlemen, after presenting the eulogy of the departed brothers of the three lodges of Marquette county in my feeble way, let me add in conclusion that an Elk's never forgotten. As the exalted ruler reminded you in his opening remarks, our departed brothers' faults are written upon the sands, there to be forgotten, while their virtues are inscribed upon tablets of love and memory."

Mr. McDonald's Address.

"We meet today for a purpose that has the dignity and the tenderness of funeral rites without their sadness. It is not a new bereavement that brings us here. We meet not with tear-dimmed eyes around a newly-opened grave, but in honor of those whose mortal remains have long since found repose in tombs decorated with the memorials of nature's love. Above each grave here daily sunshine has smiled, her tears have wept; over the humbled soil has hidden some grasses nestle, and some vines to creep. To nature's signs of tenderness we add our own: Not 'ashes to ashes, dust to dust,' but 'dossoms to blossoms, laurels to the laurels.'"

"It is in such a spirit that each recurring year the members of this order pay loving tribute to the memory of our dear departed. It is a time when we pause in the activities which beset our material lives, lest we forget our absent brothers. There is no ceremony quite so impressive as this, which links its living brotherhood in tender ties or unselfish devotion to the memory of its dead, but fraternal brothers, who, in keeping with the spirit which the occasion invokes, seem to once again enjoy the companionship of those who, while on earth, made life the happier for having known them. The tears have been brushed away, and the grief which seemed to strain the heart to the breaking point, at the parting, is stilled by the sweet consolation of the love, esteem and remembrance of the loved one who will answer the roll call of Ekdrom no more.

"A French soldier, the hero of many battles, was killed in a bloody war. Upon learning of his death, the great Napoleon ordered that his heart should be entrusted to the keeping of his regiment—that his name should be called at every roll call, and that his next comrade should make answer, 'Dead upon the field of honor.' In our memories are the names of many brothers—heroes all—who perished, won no laurels in vain, glorious warfare, but whose memory will ever be kept green and cherished with loving tenderness for the sterling quality of their manhood. We treasure all their hearts today, and when the name of each is called we answer, 'Dead upon the field of honor.'

"The roll call here of your honored dead I know must awaken in your hearts tender sympathies for the father, mother, wife, sisters and brothers, who, with tear-dimmed eyes, had to bear the grief of life's separation. But in severing them from the embraces of those they loved, and who in turn loved them, the God who doeth wonders, whose ways must be adored, but not questioned, has imposed upon us all the duty of blending impassioned feeling with profound and unassuming submission.

"The names of those whose memory we honor here today no doubt are familiar to all of you. Most of you know them as they lived; their lives were a part of your lives, and were it within my knowledge to recount their noble deeds and homely virtues in terms howsoever fitting, I could utter no eulogium equal to that which the presence of this splendid gathering attests to their memory. Here in the sacred silence of a solemn service are gathered friends, relatives and fraternal brothers, who, in keeping with the spirit which the occasion invokes, seem to once again enjoy the companionship of those who, while on earth, made life the happier for having known them. The tears have been brushed away, and the grief which seemed to strain the heart to the breaking point, at the parting, is stilled by the sweet consolation of the love, esteem and remembrance of the loved one who will answer the roll call of Ekdrom no more.

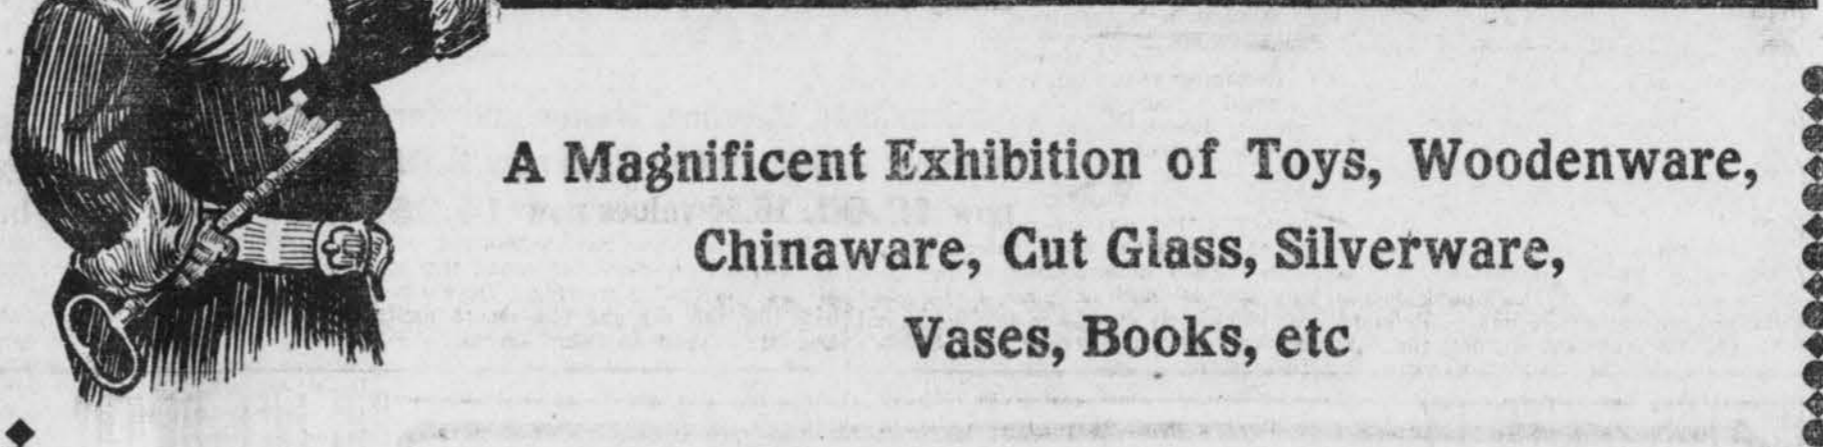

"We are placed here on earth not for the capricious exercise of our own individual faculties. Those faculties are the means by which we are to attain our own happiness here and hereafter; and in the practice of this conception of our duty the full measure of happiness will be made out to us by consecrating a part of our lives to the alleviation of human misery and grief as we meet them day by day. To attain harmony and consistency between the conscience of the individual and the conscience of humanity, no sacrifice is too great. This order, the family and our beloved country are but different spheres in which to exercise our activity and power of sacrifice toward this great aim. And in the inevitable progress of humanity we will then be exalted to heights of love, in thought, or in action, as priests of charity and benevolence, and as guides to the multitudes on their way."

"At the conclusion of the exercises the members of the three lodges and their ladies repaired to the Anderson block, where an exceptionally fine lunch was served. A few of the Marquette members returned home on the 4:30 train, the others remaining until 7 o'clock."

FINNISH FARMERS LEAVING NEGAUNEE

Several of Them Plan to Locate in a New Finnish Colony, Near Keene, N. H.

John Syyrämaki, who recently sold his farm on the Palmer highway, and Jacob Maki, another well-known Negaunee Finn, will leave this week for Keene, N. H., where they will locate on farms.

A Finnish colony is being established some six or seven miles from Keene, in an old farming district, from which many of the early settlers have departed in recent years.

Andrew Jacobson, who also owned a farm in the district between the city and Palmer, and who sold out last spring, owns a place near Keene.

Several of the Finnish farmers, who own places in the district between the mines on the East Negaunee range and Palmer have had offers for their places and a few of them may sell before the close of the winter and move to New Hampshire.

The number of shares sold during the day were as follows: Arcadian... 15, Indiana... 200, Michigan... 20, etc.

The No. 1 Rose company of the Negaunee fire department will hold its monthly meeting tonight, and the company will hold its annual ball, to be given on Easter Monday, will be considered.

Warming up to his subject, he points out that there are about 15,000,000 families in the United States, who, "figuring on the basis mentioned, are losing yearly from this cause in the approximate sum of $20,000,000."

This is a great idea. The man whose blood does not boil at the thought of the millions that are being taken away from the people by a lot of other people every year through this transparent and unavoidable device does not deserve the name. But will the remedy be complete?

After the government has coined 2 1/2-cent pieces in sufficient number to circulate the designing ones who would fatten on the odd half cent, will not some one discover the outrageous fact that the odd quarter of a cent is still going to the seller's till?

And after this discovery has borne its natural and legitimate fruit in the shape of coinage legislation, thus putting the purchaser on an equality with the seller as regards that particular fraction, will it not be found that the public is still entirely helpless as far as the odd eighth of a cent is concerned?

Of course it will. Once the public's conscience has been aroused and its attention directed to the fortunes that are being piled up by means of the seller's advantage in respect to change, it will hardly stop at half measures. It will meet each issue as it arises.

But the trouble is that each change will only bring into prominence the necessity of a new reform. And as the principle of the infinite divisibility of matter, under which head money comes is pretty well established, it is impossible to conceive of a final, satisfactory

LIGHT HIDDEN UNDER BUSHES

Upper Peninsula Not Represented at Chicago Land Show, Nor Was It Mentioned in Booklet Setting Forth Advantages of Michigan, Which Was Distributed.

Advantages of an Upper Peninsula Development Association, Such as Is Now Being Formed in Menominee, Forcibly Set Forth By an Interested Citizen.

Upper peninsula people who attended the land show in Chicago last week were surprised and amazed to find that there was no exhibit from this section of Michigan, and that visitors from other states would go home with no knowledge that the upper peninsula possesses any agricultural resources or that any crops are raised here.

Michigan was represented, too, with apples from Grand Traverse county, peaches from Oscoda county, berries from Saginaw county, berries from Emmet county and farm produce from a score of counties. Thousands of booklets with a multi-colored cover showing a map of Michigan were given away.

The upper peninsula was not mentioned in the booklet nor shown on the map, nor was there one single exhibit from north of the straits to be found at the land show. Speaking of this matter, one man who has the agricultural interest of the upper peninsula at heart says:

"The upper peninsula is either unknown or erroneously known by 95 per cent of the people of this country. We can raise apples that Oregon cannot produce, we have farms and farm lands richer than Iowa, we have sugar beets sweeter than Colorado, we have strawberries larger than California, we have farms, factory sites, town sites, and splendid forests. The good roads of western Michigan look like country lanes compared with the county roads of the upper peninsula. Yet the people are inactive and are permitting thousands of settlers to pass right by to take up homes in the northwest.

Have Wrong Impression. "Residents of Illinois, Indiana and other states in the east and the middle west have a wrong impression of the upper peninsula of Michigan. They look upon this spot as the early settlers looked upon the land beyond the Alleghenies. They think this country is still backwoods. For all the effort that has been made to advertise this section of Michigan people would still think that bears were still killed daily on the streets of the principal cities. To rid the people of this idea and to give prospective settlers an idea of the upper peninsula as it is an Upper Peninsula Development Association is needed. Such a movement is now on foot in Menominee county and it should receive the support and co-operation of every county north of the straits.

Minnesota furnishes a nearby example of what can be accomplished in the way of development by organization. In the first year of promotion work in that state, the state land sales increased by $482,250 with an expenditure of $5,000. This was in 1905. An upper peninsula tax of one-third of one-tenth of one mill would give a fund of $100,000 or twice what Minnesota expended. Michigan laws provide for such an organization and such a tax. Counties in the western part of the lower peninsula in 1908 formed a similar organization, as the result of which those counties have made more progress in two years than the upper peninsula has in twenty.

The incipient organization in Menominee county will shortly make an effort to interest the entire peninsula. The numbers are unanimously of the opinion that the crops can be raised in the upper peninsula the equal of any shown at the land show, and in many cases the superior. The western states have taken the lead in advertising their farming sections, and the efforts have proved successful, as can be seen in actual figures from the last census returns. The exhibit at the land show from the western states, however, were made mostly by business and commercial organizations of cities in the localities advertised.

Take Matter Up With Clubs. "Commercial clubs and business organizations of other cities will be communicated with with a view of getting assistance from them. The matter is an important one and also an expensive one, and would take about a year to complete the work. Local people who are interested in such an organization are of the opinion that what is to be done should be done at once. It should be worked on this winter and by next summer, when it becomes time to advertise the upper peninsula, every preparation would be made.

The main purpose of the association would be to place an exhibit at the Chicago land show next year. This is considered to be the best advertising medium in the country. Nearly every state in the central west, the south and the west is represented. Thousands of settlers are located through this medium this year, and thousands of them will be located next year.

"Every business organization in the upper peninsula is working for more business and an increased population. Why should they let the greatest opportunity pass without notice? An increased population on the farms of the country would mean more business, larger population in the cities, and the whole country would be benefited."

WISE WEATHER PROPHECY.

Presque Isle Bear Went to Sleep Just Before Winter Set In.

The bear at Presque Isle gets an inside tip on the weather long before Observer Patrick, of the weather bureau, in the opinion of Robert Hume. Whenever the bear goes into his hole and falls asleep for the winter it is a good bet that there will be cold weather until he comes out in the early spring. This year the bear went to sleep Nov. 21, twenty-five days earlier than last year. Almost the same day winter came in earnest and has been with us ever since. Last spring the bear woke up about the first of March, seemingly knowing intuitively that the back of winter was broken and later events showed that he was not mistaken. The longest time he ever spent in his winter bed was 113 days. That was the longest winter there has been in fifteen years. Usually, he sleeps from two and a half to three months.

The bear at the island is fifteen years old, having been caught when very small at Grand Marais. He does not know what it is to be at liberty and is as tame and harmless as a dog, at least to those who take care of him. Until five years ago he had a mate, captured at the same time, but she died and he has since been the sole occupant of the cage and den.

ENGINEERS HAVE POLLED STRIKE VOTE

Will Be Counted in Chicago a Week From Today—Nothing Known of Result.

The engineers in the employ of the D. S. S. & A. Railway company have completed their vote on the question of whether they, along with the engineers of sixty-one other railroads north and south of Chicago, will strike for the enforcement of the demands relative to wages and working conditions that they made on the management several months ago. Nothing is known about how the South Shore engineers voted. Each man enclosed his vote in a sealed envelope, and they are to be sent to the Brotherhood officers at Chicago, where the votes of all the engine drivers on the railroads affected will be counted on the 12th, a week from today.

The railroad men are very reticent when approached with questions concerning the situation, and none of them can be induced to speak definitely about it. They say they have no knowledge of how any of the engineers voted, and when questioned about the attitude of the men as it appears in their talk regarding the subject they are non-committal. At the same time the South Shore engineers have been voting, the engineers on the Northwestern, St. Paul and Soo Line in the upper peninsula have also been preparing their ballots for all the important roads operating in this region are affected.

The Brotherhood and the railway managers came to the parting of the ways Nov. 7 last, after they had been in conference in Chicago since the latter part of September. There was originally a wide difference between the parties to the disagreement, but both sides made concessions, until when the break came it was reported that there was but 7 per cent in salaries standing between them. This was equivalent, if the demands of the engineers were granted to $2,700,000 annually. It was reported, and the changes in working conditions the engineers were standing out for would mean another $500,000 to the railroads.

Some of the railroad men say that even if the vote declares in favor of a strike, it is not likely that the engineers will quit their jobs immediately, as they believe that there would be further overtures to a peaceful settlement of the differences, in the hope of avoiding the widespread interruption of business that would follow on so general an engine strike as one in which the engine drivers on all the railroads affected would mean.

WOULD LENGTHEN SEASON FOR DEER

Warden Pierce Thinks It Might Lessen Danger of Accidents in the North Woods.

Among the various things that will come up for consideration by the next legislature will be revision of some of the game laws, and State Game Warden Pierce has some ideas along these lines which he hopes will be adopted when the lawmakers gather for their next biennial session.

Under the present law the open season on deer begins Nov. 10 and closes Nov. 30, and as Mr. Pierce attributes a large number of accidents which occur annually to the shortness of the season he will advocate that it be lengthened at least three weeks. It is his opinion that if the season could be extended there would not be such a large number of hunters in the woods at one time and the danger of accidents would be greatly reduced.

At present no hunter is permitted to kill more than two deer in a single season, and Game Warden Pierce believes that this portion of the act should remain unchanged. According to reports received from the various counties in the northern part of the state, deer are growing in numbers, instead of being exterminated as is commonly supposed. The number of hunters from outside states is steadily increasing each year, according to statistics compiled by Mr. Pierce, who believes that more license fees could be secured from non-resident hunters if the season should be extended.

Although Game Warden Pierce has not received the final reports of the number of deer killed in Michigan during the season which closed last week he estimates that 10,000 deer were slain. Reports show that 3,718 deer were shipped across the straits from the upper peninsula to Nov. 19, inclusive.

SIX TEAMS NOW IN HANDICAP LEAGUE

Re-Organization Effected Saturday for the Good of the Game—Plans for Week.

At a meeting of the special committee having in charge the general management of the affairs of the five-men handicap bowling league, held Saturday afternoon, it was decided to reduce the number of teams in the league from nine to six. The Vikings, Yankees and Guild Hall B teams have been weak in interested members all season and considerable difficulty has been experienced in getting enough men together to play their games as scheduled. Accordingly, these three teams have dropped out of the league, which will hereafter consist of the Guild Hall A, Canucks, Pilgrims, Square Deals, Lafayettes and Summits. The few enthusiastic bowlers on the three disbanded teams have been assigned to other teams by mutual agreement of the men themselves and the various team captains.

In taking this action, the committee has been actuated by the belief that it was better for all concerned to have six live teams, all the members of which would be on hand when games were scheduled, than a greater number composed in part of members who were indifferent. Each of the six teams now in the league has team spirit and will, it is thought, be on hand to play their games as scheduled.

Manes, of the Vikings, has become a member of the Canucks, while Jeanson, of the same team, will play with the Lafayettes from now on. Kukul, of the Yankees, has also joined the Canucks, while Beaudin, Easley, Carr and Giesregen, former Yankees, are now members of the Summits. Any other members of the disbanded teams will be assigned to other teams to show a disposition to take an active part in the matches. The six teams, as now constituted, are composed as follows:

Guild Hall A—Miller, Roberts, Spear, Phelps and Cunningham.
Canucks—Gowlin, Lowe, Stafford, Richards, Kukul, Manes and Withey.
Pilgrims—Forsell, D. Anderson, A. Riopelle, Davis, Gooding, Waterbury, Kolka.
Square Deals—Russell, Rose, Gall, Barber, Kepler, Coleman.
Lafayettes—Marcotte, Bolduc, Reau, Erickson, St. Julien, Jeanson.
Summits—Lobb, Ammermann, Beaudin, Easley, Giesregen and Carr.

The present standings of the teams of the league and the schedule for this week are as follows:

G. P. W. Pet. Ave.
Square Deals 12 10 833 858
Pilgrims 15 12 800 845
Lafayettes 15 10 666 811
Summits 12 5 416 771
Canucks 12 4 333 773
Guild Hall 9 3 333 769
Schedule—Monday, Pilgrims vs. Square Deals; Tuesday, Lafayettes vs. Guild Hall; Wednesday, Square Deals vs. Canucks; Thursday, Guild Hall vs. Summits.

PENSION FOR FIREMEN

State Association Drafting an Amendment to the Constitution.

The executive committee of the Michigan State Firemen's association, of which Morse Hobb company of this city, is a member, met last week for the purpose of going over the provisions of the proposed constitutional amendment that will be submitted to the legislature, says the Lansing Journal. Several changes were made in the original draft which do not alter the original proposition in any respect, but which it is thought will make the matter more feasible in the eyes of the members of the legislature.

The plan is to ask for a constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to spread a tax of one-fifth of one per cent for the purpose of providing pensions for firemen and their families. The argument advanced by the firemen in support of their measure is that the hazardous nature of their occupation practically prohibits the carrying of insurance, and when a fireman is injured he is left without provision for his future or that of his family except such as the men may carry among themselves in relief associations and similar organizations. Thirteen states have already adopted some form of firemen's pensions, and the committee is hopeful that Michigan may fall in line.

All hats will be sold at reduced prices for the remainder of the season.

J. W. Greer, Greenwood, La., suffered from a severe case of lumbago. The pains were so intense I was forced to hypodermic injections for relief. These attacks started with a pain in the small of my back which gradually became fairly paralyzing. My attention was attracted to Foley's Kidney Remedy and I am glad to say after using this wonderful medicine I am no longer bothered in any way by my old enemy lumbago. The People's Drug Store.
