PUTS IN BILL TO AID TOLERS OF BRITISH ISLES

Chancellor Lloyd-George's Long Promised Scheme of State Insurance Against Unemployment, Illness, and Invalidity Is Introduced in the House of Commons.

That It Will Be Adopted Is Indicated by the Cordiality of Its Reception—The Tories May Dislike It as Socialistic, but They Dare Not Oppose It.

London, May 4.—The long promised scheme of state insurance against unemployment, sickness and invalidity, introduced in the house of commons today by David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, was received with an extraordinary burst of approbation by all the parties in parliament.

While the government's supporters feel that the insurance measure is the most comprehensive plan of constructive legislation ever introduced in parliament, the Unionists offer ungrudging testimony to the capacity and the mastery of the intricate details displayed.

By the provisions of the measure, every worker whose annual earnings fall below the income tax level of 100 pounds sterling will be compulsorily insured against illness so to assure him the receipt of five shillings ($1.25) a week during his incapacity.

War in Mexico Will End Only When the President Yields His Office—This the Ultimatum Presented to the Envoy Representing the Federal Government.

Rebel Chiefs Threaten to Repudiate the Negotiations and They Force Madero's Hand—The Resignation Said to Have Been Promised Privately.

El Paso, Tex., May 4.—The peace commissioners of the Mexican revolutionists formally presented today to Judge Carabaja, the federal envoy, a statement signed by Francisco I. Madero, Jr., appealing to President Diaz to make public the assurances given privately that he intended to resign.

Leaders Have Heated Argument. General Madero's statement was prepared by the rebel commissioners at the negotiations which began early today, only after a heated discussion among the revolutionist leaders.

Some of the rebel chiefs went so far as to address a letter to General Madero, stating that unless he asked for the immediate resignation of Diaz or at least a public announcement of the president's future intentions, they would not support the peace negotiations.

On what General Diaz would do, it was admitted by the federal representatives and revolutionists alike, rested the solution of the difficulties. The rebel successes in the south and central parts of Mexico, where the regular army has been pushed to the rear, have not been regarded.

REAPPORTIONMENT OF THE NATIONAL HOUSE

A Problem for Carpenters as Well as Mathematicians— Solutions Reached.

Washington, May 4.—Enlarging the house of representatives from 391 to 433 members involves two tasks: The first, a problem in arithmetic, to determine how many members each state shall have; the second, a job of carpentry and masonry, to make the house chamber fit the increased family. The latter scheme has been all worked out by Superintendent Elliott Woods of the Capitol, with the assistance of architects and engineers. They are only waiting for a chance to do the work. If congress will ever adjourn long enough they will have a gang of men in the house tearing down and rebuilding at the rate of three shifts a day.

The future hall of the house will be smaller in area than the present one, but will accommodate more members. This is to be accomplished by doing away with the present desks, and installing rows of chairs or benches. While the acoustics of the present chamber are good, the room is now so large that members in remote seats often find difficulty in making themselves heard. By decreasing its area it is hoped to cure this defect.

It would seem a simple matter for the reapportionment framers, after deciding on how many representatives there were to be, to divide the country's population by that number, obtain a ratio, and then apply that ratio to the populations of the various states. But it isn't there several ways of doing it and they bring about different results. Expert mathematicians do not agree on the best method.

The present congress, as did the last, adopted the principle that no State ought to lose a member in the reapportionment. The only way to avoid taking away a member from Iowa, which showed a loss in population by the last census, was to enlarge the house to 433 members. So that was taken as the basis. This produced a ratio, of 211,877 of people for each representative. The bill that was drawn on this basis leaves twenty-one states with the same number of congressmen they have now and gives increases to the remainder. Really, there is provision for 435 members in the measure because it contains a clause which allows Arizona and New Mexico one member each when they shall be admitted to the Union. The census committee of the house having decided on the total membership considered three different methods of apportionment.

The one adopted, which has been in common use for a good many years, is known as the method of major-fractions. A Cornell University professor, W. D. Willcox, prepared a long series of tables on which the committee based its apportionment. Under the present bill there are 17,695 more inhabitants than the average district under the last apportionment act. Three states have populations less than the ratio. Only one of these, however, Nevada, has less than a major fraction. But Nevada gets a member anyhow, because the Constitution provides that every state must have at least one representative.

The major fractions method gives each state a representative for each 211,877 persons, and then if there are more than half that number they are also allowed a congressman. This taking of fractions into account is made necessary, of course, by the fact that the populations of the various states are not divided evenly by the ratio. Where a minor fraction, or less than fifty per cent of the ratio, is left over it is not represented.

In the reapportionment now before congress twenty-nine states get a representative by reason of the fact that they possess major fractions. It is to be remarked that New York state, after the division was made, came out "most exactly even." Mathematically, New York is entitled to 42.99 congressmen; she is entitled to forty-three. In the case of Iowa, 50 had to be considered a major fraction in order to prevent that state from losing a representative.

COLONY FOR INEBRIATES

Maryland Society Will Plan to Cure Drunkards.

Baltimore, Md., May 4.—To establish a colony for inebriates and by scientific treatment to effect permanent cures of alcoholism is a committee of the Maryland Medical and Chirurgical faculty will shortly formulate definite plans to present to the main body at its semi-annual meeting next October. A committee was appointed at the suggestion of Dr. G. Milton Linthicum, who proposed the plan and who has already worked out its salient details. It has the support in outline of Dr. A. P. Herring of the State Board of Lunacy, who is also one of the committee.

"The plan I propose," said Dr. Linthicum, "is a simple one. One hundred thousand dollars will put it in active operation and it is self-supporting. To take a typical example and see how it works out, let us suppose that a drunkard arrested by the police, instead of being fined by the magistrate, and sentenced if he be a hardened offender, is referred to the commission which we plan to establish. This commission, if it finds that the man is a chronic inebriate, will sentence him to the colony. Here he will be allowed to do work of the kind for which he is most fitted, so that while receiving treatment he may be self-supporting. He will be kept in the place for a year or two, or more, until he is entirely cured."

NURSE MARTYR TO HER WORK

Penniless, Her Body Is Saved from Dissection by Her Fellows.

New Haven, May 4.—While prominent clergymen were eulogizing Miss Grace Jeal, a penniless nurse, as a martyr to duty, her fellow-nurses were contributing a fund to give her Christian burial and prevent her body being turned over to the Yale medical school for dissection and were securing the release of her trunk from her late boarding house, where it had been held for unpaid bills. Her case has awakened deep and general sympathy. She only recently obtained her diploma as a nurse and in distress financially, was unable to obtain a case till two weeks ago, when she was asked if she wished to care for a child ill with scarlet fever in a crowded tenement on Jefferson street. Desperate at repeated dunning for her unpaid board bill, she took the case, although she had never had the disease. She was obliged because of cramped quarters to occupy the room with the patient and was soon prostrated with the disease. In her poorly nourished condition she failed to withstand the attack and died. Her condition appealed so forcibly to the Grace hospital officers that they broke a rule and took a patient suffering from a contagious disease. There seemed no recourse upon her death but to open her body over to the medical school, no relative claimed it. The nurses of Grace hospital, however, succeeded in collecting enough to pay her funeral expenses and for a grave. Her trunk is still held in her boarding house, but this claim will be settled tomorrow by her fellow-nurses.

The case would have been impossible in most civilized cities, but New Haven has no contagious disease hospital, and many lives have been sacrificed because it is impossible to remove a patient stricken with a contagious disease from the house where he was taken ill.

Mining News

NOTES OF COPPER NEWS.

The Wolverine Mining company reports an April output of 1,016,000 pounds of mineral, a decrease of 14,500 pounds compared with the same month of 1910, and a decrease of 4,000 pounds from the previous month's output.

The Franklin Mining company reports an actual output for April of seventy-one tons of mineral. A year ago the output was seventy-three tons. For the four months the company produced 316 tons, as compared with 196 tons during the corresponding period of 1910.

W. A. Clark, who has returned to Butte after a visit to his property in Arizona, declares that the outlook for good crops is favorable and that nothing now prevents the return of prosperity except "too much politics." He also says that European copper consumption is enormous, and that May exports should reach 30,000 tons.

The two new Ahmeek shafts, numbers 3 and 4, which were started at an angle of eighty degrees, have been turned to the angle of the lode, thirty-six degrees, and are descending on the footwall. A depth of about 1400 feet has been attained by the shafts, the last station the eighth being cut at a depth of 1340 feet, and another station will be cut eighty feet further down.

N. L. Amster, president of the Arizona Commercial Copper Company, says: "Conditions today are very different from what they were this time last year. At that time the company had a floating debt of about $400,000, was pumping about 4,000,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours, had no working capital, and the seventh level looked very poor. We now have very little water to pump, no floating debt that has to be liquidated, and we have ore on the tenth level, and a fairly good-sized working balance in the treasury. We are now sinking a winze from the 700-foot level to connect with the 1000-foot level; sinking the shaft to the 1200-foot level; drifting on the vein on the 1000-foot level, and cross-cutting to the Old Dominion vein, which traverses our property to the north of the Black Hawk vein."

It is reported that fully one-third of the outstanding 450,000 shares of stock of the United States Copper company are now held in Holland, bankers in that country having issued certificates, according to the usual custom in that

TOO MANY BEGGARS VISIT NEGAUNEE

Citizens Are Asking Police to Drive Out the Undeserving Ones.

Negaunee has been visited by several professional beggars this week. Some of them are strangers, but others have come here at regular intervals for some years past. A number of the business men have complained to Marshal Jackson, and he has decided to drive out all impostors. Wednesday a strong, healthy looking man, who was apparently well able to work, began making the rounds of the business houses and residence districts, but he had not gone very far when the marshal accosted him and told him that he would give him one hour to get out of the city. The fellow promised to go, but at the expiration of the hour he was still begging. He had every appearance of being a drinking man, so the officer arrested him and took him to the jail. After several hours confinement he was given his freedom and he took the first train out of the city.

A PROGRESSIVE IMAGINATION.

An Alaskan paper, the Douglas Island News, relates the following school incident which occurred at Fairbanks, a trifle farther north: "The Old Oaken Bucket" was up for consideration and the children were asked to depict their impressions pictorially. On one of the papers turned in was three buckets and a lot of small dots. Asked to interpret it, the young one replied that the first bucket was the 'Old Oaken Bucket,' the second was the 'Iron Bound Bucket,' and the third the 'Moss Covered Bucket.' 'But what are the dots for?' asked the teacher. 'Oh, these are the 'loved spots that my infancny knew.'"

GREWSOME DISCOVERY.

Remains of Premature Children Found in a Cigar Box.

Two men fishing in the Carp river yesterday morning made a grewsome discovery at the bridge which spans the Marquette road at a point some two and one-half miles east of Negaunee. A small bundle on a rafter attracted their attention, and on investigating they found it to consist of a cigar box wrapped in a piece of cloth. Within the cigar box were the partly developed bodies of two infants, evidently twins. The grewsome find was brought to the city and was turned over to the authorities. The remains subsequently were buried. An investigation is in progress.

WEDS IN THE WEST.

Former Negaunee Girl Is the Bride of a Spokane Young Man.

Miss Verecille, formerly of Negaunee, but now of Spokane, Wash., was united in marriage last Saturday morning at Spokane to Ben Halborn, a well-known cattleman of that city. The bride was attended by Miss Elsie Winerich of Minneapolis. Geo. Bronk of Spokane was best man. Miss Verecille wore a gown of french embroidery and carried tea roses. Miss Winerich wore pale blue messaline and carried apple blossoms. A dainty breakfast was served at Davenport's. Mr. and Mrs. Halborn will make their home in Spokane.

CURFEW WILL RING.

All Young People Under Sixteen Years of Age Must Go Home Early.

Marshal R. W. Jackson announces that the curfew law will be strictly enforced in Negaunee commencing next Monday night. After that date all boys and girls under sixteen years of age found on the streets after 8:30 o'clock, unless they can offer some good excuse for being out, will be called to account by the officers. Marshal Jackson said that he had received many requests that he should enforce the curfew law. He discussed the matter with Mayor Elliott, and the mayor is strongly in favor of the step. The bell at the fire department headquarters will be sounded promptly at 8:30 every evening. Mr. Jackson will instruct the officers to bring all youngsters found on the streets after 8:30 o'clock to the city jail.

It has also been decided to abolish the plan of keeping a police officer at the city hall, to answer night calls. This officer has been assigned to the eastern part of the city, from where a number of requests for police protection have been received. Henceforth every time a night call is received at the central telephone office, a red light signal on Iron street will be flashed. It will be the duty of the officer on Iron street to call at the telephone office or to telephone to learn where the call was received from.

During the year or more that an officer was retained at the city building very few calls were received. One to three weeks sometimes passed before there would be a call of any kind.

NEGAUNEE CEMETERY REMOVAL NOTICE.

The contractor engaged in removing the bodies from the old Catholic and city cemeteries to the new cemetery has found a large number of unmarked graves, and is having difficulty in such cases in giving notice to relatives. To facilitate this work it is desired that all persons having friends or relatives buried in unmarked graves should immediately furnish to Mr. Charles O. Stensrud, contractor, or to Mr. Thomas M. Wells, and Mr. Dan Shea, superintendents, information as to the names of persons buried in the location of the graves, particularly within the following described portion of the Old City Cemetery, to wit: A strip beginning at the dividing fence between the City and Roman Catholic cemeteries extending thence easterly 400 feet, and the entire width of said cemetery.

On account of the difficulty also in finding relatives in many instances where the graves are marked, all persons having any information that will assist the contractor or superintendents are earnestly urged to communicate with them at once.

Similar notices will be published from time to time as the work progresses at other portions of the cemetery.

FENTON—James Fowler, aged 29, was eating breakfast with his wife when he choked on a piece of beefsteak. In his efforts to dislodge the meat a blood vessel burst and he died before a physician could be summoned. Fowler was night fireman at the light and power company's plant.

CHARLOTTE—Claiming that he cannot sleep well at night since he traded his fine trotting mare, Mollie S., to H. L. Pollock, Ren Shaver, a Clinton county farmer, has brought an attachment suit for $1,000 to recover the mare. Shaver alleges that he has become so attached to the horse that he cannot bear to part with her. Both men have engaged attorneys and interesting developments are expected.

KALAMAZOO—Because their 8-year-old daughter pleaded with them constantly to marry again, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bittenbender, who were divorced three years ago, were remarried. Both the father and mother admitted that it was because of the constant pleading of the child that the differences which led to their divorce a few years ago had been forgotten. At the time the divorce was granted it was specified that the little girl could remain with her father a part of the time.

OWOSSO—The fact that he fought for his country in the Cuban war secured a recommendation for mercy by a jury for Henry Rubelman, charged with bootlegging. The jury found him guilty as charged but asked clemency for him as he was charged with furnishing liquor to Peter Flynn of Morrice, who became drunk and claimed to have been robbed and was locked up for drunk when he reported it.

DETROIT—John F. Prentiss, real estate man, reported to the police that his pocket was picked of $1,300 in the revolving door of the Babl block while he was on his way to his office. A man stumbled in the same compartment of the door with him, he says, apparently by accident. The alleged pickpocket who robbed Mr. Prentiss, the police believe watched him draw the $1,300 from the First National bank and then followed him. The money was in Mr. Prentiss' outside overcoat pocket.

ADRIAN—Russell Smith, aged 17, a youth who was reared by Indians with whom he was left when a child, was captured by Deputy Sheriff Fred Teachout after several shots had been fired. The last twice swam a river and eluded his pursuers for several hours in the woods. Smith is charged with larceny from a residence at Tecumseh. He had a rifle and several cartridges left when captured, but had lost his boots and part of his clothing in his flight.

NORTHVILLE—State Oil Inspector Frank S. Neal's quarterly report for the three months ending March 31, 1911, shows the inspection of 6,913,243 gallons of oil, of which 52 barrels (2,600 gallons) were rejected as dangerous to use for illuminating purposes. Total fees collected were $13,911.08; total expenses, $7,815.42; net cash to turn into the state treasury, $6,095.66. In the expense account is included the enforcement of the gasoline "red can act," and also the now added labor of inspection of the oil used by miners in coal mines. During April the department found a tank of kerosene oil in a grocery store at Sebewahing that was about half gasoline. One accident had already occurred from the use of it, but no one seemed to know where the oil came from until the department made the investigation. The oil was all dumped and all that had been sold about town was gathered up. Prompt action on the part of the department undoubtedly saved a number of lives, as well as many dollars' worth of property.

C.H. SCHAFFER IN A NEW PROJECT

Controlling Factor and Moving Spirit in Company That Will Build Seventy-Ton Charcoal Blast Furnace at Wells, in Delta County, Beginning This Month.

Fuel for Plant Will Be Furnished Under Contract by Mashek Chemical & Iron Company, a Stephenson Corporation—Schaffer Is a Veteran Iron Man.

C. H. Schaffer returned to Marquette from Escanaba yesterday carrying a contract with the Mashek Chemical & Iron Company by the terms of which he will be the leading spirit in a company that will erect a modern charcoal blast furnace at Wells, Mr. Schaffer will have control of the company that will operate the furnace, and he will have superintendence of the erection of the plant and also general supervision of its operation, once it is put in blast. The company, which will likely be called the Stephenson Charcoal Iron Company, will be capitalized for $150,000. Mr. Schaffer said yesterday, and among the stockholders will be, besides Mr. Schaffer, Senator Stephenson of Marquette, H. A. Upham of Milwaukee, G. T. Stephenson, C. W. Kates and R. E. MacLean of Wells, J. R. Van Evert of Marquette and possibly other Marquette county men.

Work will be started on the furnace location before the close of the present month, and it is hoped to have the stack in blast by the beginning of next year. It will be erected on a site immediately adjoining the plant of the Mashek Chemical & Iron company, which will furnish all the charcoal used as fuel and which is planning on enlarging its capacity somewhat, to meet this new demand. The Mashek Chemical & Iron company has contracted to deliver the charcoal in bins at the furnace, in quantities sufficient to insure continual operation of the stack. About 6,000 bushels of coal will be required daily. The product of the plant will be limited to the pig iron that will be produced, as the by-products that are manufactured from the smoke from the kilns will be worked up by the Mashek Chemical & Iron company.

Mr. Schaffer says that conditions at Wells are most favorable for the proposed industry. The supply of fuel will be constant and will be obtained on favorable terms. The location is within a comparatively short distance of the iron fields, and freights on ore will not be excessive. The railway service will be excellent and will come in part from a company that is allied with the interests that will invest in the furnace. A plant of modern design, of seventy tons daily capacity, will be erected, and as it will embody all the latest ideas in blast furnace construction it is expected that it will be a low-cost producer.

A Veteran Iron Man. The erection and operation of the Wells furnace will bring more actively into the harness than he has been the past few years one of the veteran blast furnace men of Michigan. Though he is interested in the East Jordan (Charlevoix county) furnace, and is president of the company that operates it, Mr. Schaffer has not been as closely associated with the management of that plant as he will be with that of the new Wells furnace. Mr. Schaffer has been a producer of pig iron, in one way or another, for the past twenty-four years, and for eight years prior to beginning to make iron at the Excelsior furnace, at Ishpeming, he was a charcoal contractor, and operated the kilns at Onota.

Mr. Schaffer has at times been connected with or operated several plants. One of his most successful ventures was the operation of the old Carp furnace through the peak of the pig iron boom some ten years ago. The plant was a big money maker for a period of a few years. It was producing at low cost and there was a ready demand for the iron at exceptional prices. After selling his interest in that plant to the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, which continued to operate it until about three years ago, Mr. Schaffer became interested in the erection of a plant at Boyne City. This plant was sold to the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company a short time after its completion at a very satisfactory figure, and the deal had hardly been closed before the iron market slumped badly.

Since this sale Mr. Schaffer, while still interested in the East Jordan company, has given comparatively little personal attention to the iron industry, but he expects that the Wells enterprise will call for much of his time. Mr. Schaffer has had uniform success in his furnace ventures, and the men who are associated with him in the Wells enterprise feel well pleased that he is to be in charge of the erection and operation of the plant there.

KEEP THE CITY CLEAN.

Carelessness in Throwing Paper on Streets Is Criticized.

The attention of a representative of The Mining Journal was called yesterday to the large amount of paper that was lying in the streets and gutters in the downtown district. Close observation revealed that small pieces were lying all about the streets, and the business man who called the reporter's attention to the matter said that on the side streets conditions were very much worse. He complained especially of Lake street and the cross streets between Front and Lake. Now that the season of tourists is nearly here, it would seem fitting that Marquette people should take an especial keen interest in the city being kept neat, and there is no one way in which every citizen can do more toward this result than by refraining from throwing refuse of any kind on the streets or sidewalks, and by using his influence to prevent others from doing it. The appearance of laws and gutters in the vicinity of school buildings would indicate that the public school pupils are among the worst offenders in this respect, but the boys and girls can scarcely be blamed for doing what they see their elders doing every day.

MAYOR ASKS TO BE GIVEN FREE HAND

Says He Will Take Care of Law Enforcement—Special Police Must Have Bonds.

At the meeting of the police commission last evening, Commissioner Rogers offered a resolution putting on record the sense of the commission that there be no changes made in the police regulations of this city, and that the officers be instructed to strive for more strict enforcement of the laws, particularly those regulating the saloons and houses of prostitution, than in the past.

Mayor Jacobs objected strenuously to the passage of such a resolution, stating that he thought the administration should be given a chance to see what it could do. The mayor declared that the laws on the statute books were there to be enforced, and that he did not intend to tolerate any violations, but that this was a matter that he would like to take care of himself. He thought that the passage of such a resolution would be in a sense, a personal slap at him, suggesting that his predecessor knew more about running the city than he did. "During my former administration as mayor," said Mr. Jacobs, "the city was kept in better order than it ever has been kept since, and I should like to have an opportunity to carry out my own ideas and methods in the matter of law enforcement, without having my hands tied by any resolution. You need have no fear but that I shall be on the job and that I will do my duty."

After considerable discussion back and forth, Mr. Rogers' resolution failed, as no one seconded it.

Police Powers Revoked.

Special police, paid by private parties whose property they guard, but who are given police powers by the commission and sworn in by the recorder, came in for a considerable discussion, the result of which was that the appointments of all special policemen who have not filed bonds, as required, were revoked until such bonds are filed and accepted by the commission. This resolution hits at the two policemen employed at and paid by the Pioneer Iron company, and the watchman for the Raymond Concrete Pile company at the new dock. These three men have been sworn of their police powers until they file an acceptable bond. Hereafter, no special police will be sworn in except on the orders of the mayor or of the police commission. Hereafter, no special police commission for policemen to succeed Arthur Hebert, resigned. There were nine applicants for the position, and upon a secret ballot being taken on all the candidates, Fitzgerald received three votes; Peter Kriemer, two, and Dan Wiseman, one. Mr. Fitzgerald was then selected to the position by acclamation.

There was some talk concerning the advisability of increasing the police force, in view of the dock construction work at Presque Isle, which is likely to result in the importation of laborers of a disorderly class, but the matter was finally laid over until the next regular meeting, which will be held May 20.

The rapidly increasing demand for the products of the Marquette City Dairy is due entirely to the excellent quality of the goods. 4-27-imo.
