

Negaunee Is Scene of a Mine Disaster

Fire in the Workings of the Republic Company's Hartford Property Costs the Lives of Seven Men.

VICTIMS ARE SUFFOCATED TO DEATH IN THICK SMOKE AND POISONOUS GASES.

A Candle Left Burning in an Ore Chute Is Believed Responsible for the Blaze, Which at an Early Hour Today Was Still Burning—Only Four of the Bodies Have Yet Been Recovered—Two of Those Who Perished Met Their Doom Needlessly—One Rescuer Reported in Serious Condition.

- The Dead—RICHARD YELLAND, SR. WILLIAM YELLAND. JOHN TAMBLYN. HERBERT DOWER. HARRY WARRY. ED. PUSKE. AUGUST FREDERICKSON.

By far the worst mine disaster reported from Negaunee since the one at the Rolling Mill property on September 29, 1907, when eleven men were killed and several others were injured by the dropping of the cage in the shaft, occurred yesterday at the Hartford mine, when seven men lost their lives by asphyxiation and five more were overcome, barely escaping death.

A Candle Believed Responsible. A fire broke out in a chute on the third level of the main shaft of the Hartford at 8 o'clock, shortly after the men on the day shift began work. It is not known how the fire originated, but it is supposed that a lighted candle was thrown into the chute, which is located within a few feet of the shaft. The fire gained headway rapidly and within a few minutes the shaft was filled with heavy black smoke. Some of the men near the point where the fire started gave an alarm, and those working in the other portions of the property, and within a few minutes all started for places. Those who were late in leaving the shaft were unable to get to the surface, and were suffocated by the thick smoke and poisonous gases.

Soon after the fire broke out an alarm was sent to the headquarters of the fire department and three lines of hose were extended from a point near the engine house. In addition to the water thrown into the shaft by the hose an eight-inch discharge pipe from the mine was broken and the water from this was turned back into the shaft.

Tried to Save His Coat. Some of the men employed underground lost their heads and two of those who perished would probably have been saved if they had done as their partners advised. These were Ed. Puske, a young Finn, and August Frederickson, the head timberman. Puske was on the cage ready to come to the surface, along with some of the other workmen, but he jumped off again, saying that he was going back into the drift for his coat. The men protested and told him that he was taking a big chance on his life, but he could do nothing with him and he left them. His body was later found about seventy-five feet from the shaft, where he had been overcome. Frederickson was in one of the lower levels at the time the workmen began making their escape, but he insisted on going to the scene of the fire. He is believed to have perished at a point between the fourth and fifth levels.

Albert Webb, who works with the mechanics at the mine, was underground at the time the fire broke out and he was one of the first to reach surface. He objected to water being poured into the shaft, declaring that it would have the effect of driving the smoke and gas back into the workings, and later the water was shut off, permitting the blaze to burn while the rescue work proceeded. The men who comprised the rescue parties entered the workings from the Cambria shaft, also through the old shaft at the Hartford, which has for some time been used for lowering and hoisting men and supplies. For a time while the smoke was thick the cages, which work in balance, were raised and lowered every three minutes so that those on surface kept in close touch with what was doing underground. The Hartford mine, which was developed and operated for ten years by the Oliver Iron Mining company, was leased by the Republic Iron & Steel company last July. The Oliver company's lease having expired on the first of the preceding month. Both shafts were sunk by the Oliver company. The old shaft, through which the greater part of the rescue work was carried on yesterday, is 600 feet in depth and the new shaft is over 1,000 feet deep. The latter has a steel head frame and is more substantially equipped than the old shaft. The fourth and fifth levels of the Hartford are connected with levels in the Cambria property. It is said that the smoke and gas accumulated so rapidly in the workings that the men had little time in which to make their escape. During the afternoon those who went underground reported that the smoke was gradually clearing away, but that the farther they went back into the workings the heavier the gas seemed to be and some of them were not able to stand it very long. The bodies of the victims were transferred from the mine to the Dave's morgue as fast as they were brought to surface.

One Death in the Cambria. John Tamblin, one of the oldest miners employed at the Cambria property, died from asphyxiation in the workings of that mine. Five men among the rescuers had a close call, and it was reported late in the afternoon at the Negaunee hospital that one of them, Charles Stan, there was much excitement and there were many grief-stricken people in the party. Hundreds came out from the city during the day, some remaining a short time while others stayed for several hours. Among those who spent the greater part of the afternoon at the mine were Mine Inspector John T. Quine and William Prin, the coroner, both of whom were called over from Ishpeming.

Previous Mine Disasters. With two exceptions yesterday's disaster is the worst that has ever occurred at the mines in Negaunee. When the Rolling Mill workmen lost their lives the cage dropped from surface to the bottom of the mine, a depth of 662 feet, causing the death outright of ten of the workmen, and others passed away later.

The other distressing catastrophe that occurred here took place at the Negaunee mine in the winter of 1902, when nine of the workmen were killed by a cave-in from surface. The disaster occurred at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and by that evening only one body had been recovered. The others were taken out at intervals between that time and ten days later.

Two oxygen helmets procured from the Cleveland-Cliffs company and sent from the Austin mine together with two or three men familiar with their use, were received at the Hartford last evening and with their aid the workings were being explored. More apparatus of the same kind will arrive today from the government's mine rescue station at Urbana, Ills.

At an early hour today, only four bodies had been recovered. These were those of John Tamblin, Herbert Dower, Harry Warry and Ed. Puske.

GIVES THE BALLOT TO A MILLION WOMEN

New Enfranchisement Bill Receives a Large Majority in British Commons.

London, May 5.—Another woman's enfranchisement bill was introduced in the house of commons today by George Kemp, a Liberal member. The measure confers the right to vote upon every woman possessed of the household qualification, but it is provided that married women shall not be permitted to vote in the same constituency with their husbands. It is calculated that such legislation would enfranchise 1,000,000 women. The "household qualification" has to do with the required occupancy as owner or tenant of a house or part of a house in which the landlord or superior tenant does not reside.

The bill passed the second reading stage by a vote of 255 to 88 and was referred to a committee of the whole house. This majority is greater by fifty-seven votes than that given the second reading of the Shackleton woman suffrage bill in July. Pressure will be brought to bear on the cabinet to obtain facilities for the passage of the measure. The suffragettes have promised to abstain from militant tactics if the government does not oppose their legislation.

ACCUSED ITALIAN ASSASSIN CONFRONTS HIS ACCUSER.

Viterbo, May 5.—Mariano De Gennaro who, it is alleged, was the first to attack Gennaro Cuccolo, stabbing him with a dagger, was given the chance today to confront his accuser, Gennaro Abbatemaggio. De Gennaro emphatically protested his innocence. During the exchanges between the informer and De Gennaro, a brother of the latter who was in the audience attempted to interfere and was ejected from the room.

EXCAVATORS AT JERUSALEM REPORTED UNDER ARREST.

London, May 5.—A dispatch from Jerusalem to the Standard reports that arrest of the guardian of the mosque of Omar, which it is reported an Anglo-American syndicate of excavators recently despoiled, together with guards and the chief interpreter of the syndicate, an Armenian.

JAPANESE GENERAL NOGI IS VISITOR IN RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, May 5.—General Nogi, the Japanese hero of Port Arthur, arrived here today on a special mission of placing a wreath upon the tomb of Major General Kondrako, commander of the Seventh East Siberian Rifle, who was killed at the battle of 203-metre hill in 1904 during the Russo-Japanese war.

M'NAMARA BROTHERS HEAR CHARGES READ

Alleged Dynamiters Are Formally Arraigned at Los Angeles, Accused of Murder.

Los Angeles, May 5.—John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Bridge & Structural Iron Workers' association, was formally arraigned before Judge Walter Borah of the superior court today on charges of murder and dynamiting and his brother, James B. McNamara, was arraigned on a charge of murder, all in connection with the explosion which wrecked the Los Angeles Times building on Oct. 1, last, and killed twenty-one men. Ortie E. McManigal, alleged to have made a confession implicating the McNamaras, was not arraigned and is not expected to make an appearance in court until the trial begins. The day for the McNamara brothers to plead was fixed for June 1.

Fully an hour before the hour of arraignment the court was crowded, despite the efforts of the officials to keep the matter secret. Assistant District Attorney Ford read all the nineteen indictments charging the men with the murder of employees of the Times plant. Accused with the brothers in the indictments were Wm. Caplan, alleged to have been an assistant to James B. McNamara in the explosion, and four others, one a woman, who were masked by the names of "John Doe," "Richard Roe,"

ANDREW CARNEGIE GIVEN GOLD MEDAL

American Republics Honor Him—In Turn, He Announces Another Benefaction.

Washington, May 5.—After receiving a gold medal presented by the twenty-one republics, bearing the words "The American Republics to Andrew Carnegie" and "Benefactor of Humanity," Andrew Carnegie today announced that he would give $100,000, in addition to nearly $1,000,000 already donated toward the erection of the Pan-American union building, to be used for the artistic completion of its extensive grounds.

President Taft, Secretary of State Knox and hundreds of persons prominent in diplomatic and official life paid honor to Mr. Carnegie here today when the medal was presented in the hall of the Pan-American union building. John Barrett, director general of the union, declared that never before in history had an individual been so honored by a group of nations. Senor Zamacona, the Mexican ambassador, and President Taft, Secretary Knox and Mr. Carnegie made addresses.

John W. Foster, former secretary of state, and one of the foremost authorities on international law, presided at the afternoon session. He delivered an address on "The Effects of Our Neutralities Laws," suggesting certain modifications of them to meet conditions created by the troubles on the Mexican border. Henry Clews, the New York banker, was another speaker at the afternoon meeting. He commended the action of President Taft in sending troops to the Mexican border.

MR. TAFT'S POLICIES HEARTILY INDORSED

Baltimore Congress Eulogizes His Work in the Cause of International Peace.

Baltimore, Md., May 5.—Resolutions crystallizing the sentiment which has inspired the sessions of the third national peace conference and marking the development of the peace movement throughout the country were adopted by the delegates to the congress today. They contain hearty endorsement of the federal administration for its efforts in behalf of world-wide peace, through the proposed treaty of arbitration with Great Britain and for the establishment of an international prize court and of an international court of arbitration.

Permanent Society Formed.

Under the name of the American Peace Congress, the present body becomes a permanent institution, meeting once in two years. This action was taken to meet the need for a central representative body which shall serve to coordinate the efforts of all the societies in America devoted to the settlement of international disputes by methods other than war. A banquet was held tonight which was largely attended by delegates to the peace conference and persons of prominence in the affairs of the city. Speaker Champ Clark of the national house of representatives was toastmaster and made a brief address in which he said there was every reason why the United States should take the lead in the peace movement.

Michigan Orator Wins Prize.

At a special session of the congress the fifth annual interstate oratorical contest of the Intercollegiate Peace association was held tonight. First prize was awarded to Stanley H. Howe, of Albion college, Michigan, whose topic was "The Hope of Peace."

PLAGUE OF WORMS IN EASTERN OKLAHOMA

Caterpillars Strew the Ground So Thickly That Railway Traffic Is Blocked.

Tulsa, Okla., May 5.—A passenger train was delayed west here today by millions of caterpillars clustered on a bridge. The wheels of the engine crushing the larvae made the track slippery and the drivers spun on the rails. Sand was ineffective, so the train was backed up and after gaining momentum slid through the mass of crushed worms. The plague of caterpillars is general over eastern Oklahoma. At Oreet Park this afternoon street cars were stopped on account of the pests and houses and trees were literally covered with them.

DECLARE DIAZ MUST GIVE UP POST AT ONCE

Unless He Resigns the Presidency by Noon Today, the Truce Will Be Ended, Assert the Insurrecto Commanders.

That the Federal Executive Will Yield Very Shortly Is the Opinion at Mexico City—Meanwhile the Negotiations of the Peace Envoys Are Halted.

El Paso, Tex., May 5.—If President Diaz does not announce by tomorrow noon his intention of resigning, an attack on Juarez as well as a conclusion of the truce for the Chihuahua district is imminent. This was the opinion of the insurrecto leaders tonight, after a twenty-four hour wait for the answer of President Diaz to the suggestion made yesterday by Francisco I. Madero, Jr., through his peace commissioners to Judge Carabajal, the federal envoy.

General Madero was approached tonight by one of the federal go-betweens to ascertain whether he would consent to an extension of the armistice, which expires tomorrow. He replied that he would consent to that question tomorrow morning. He said that if an extension was asked by the federal government he would demand specific reasons before granting it.

Envoys Marking Time.

Judge Carabajal, as well as the other peace commissioners, remained in their hotel here all day. Dr. Gomez, head of the rebel commission, said at 10 o'clock tonight that he was still waiting word from Judge Carabajal as to yesterday's proposition and that no more peace conferences would be held till a reply was received from the rebels.

Some of the federal go-betweens admitted it was their impression that the government had received the Madero proposition last night, but could not state in what form it had been sent.

Resignation Expected Shortly.

Mexico City, May 5.—The resignation of Porfirio Diaz as president of Mexico within a very short time is regarded here today as a certainty. Should the announcement of his intention to resign be made tomorrow or even tonight it would cause no surprise to the members of his cabinet. No authoritative confirmation of this could be obtained, but there appears to be little doubt that President Diaz, resigning the seriousness of the situation and responding to the popular demand, will retire when order is restored. At the president's office today no statement could be had and the members of his cabinet, realizing that he was the only man here who could know his intention to resign, were silent.

Important Conference Held.

At 1 o'clock today Minister of Foreign Affairs De LaBarra was peremptorily summoned to the office of the president. On arriving there he found Senor Limon, minister of finance, who likewise had been summoned. The three officials were in conference for hours. Immediately afterward typewritten statements were issued by the foreign office to all the newspapers, saying that the resignation of the Chilean minister set for tomorrow and the banquet to the same official scheduled for tomorrow night had been postponed until May 12. The reason for this change of plans was given as the "slight illness of the president." The president's indisposition is known to be slight, but on orders from his physician he must remain indoors.

Rides in His Automobile.

Since the statement was issued President Diaz is known to have been out riding in his automobile. This morning he was apparently in his usual health. This, in connection with the fact that Limon was held, gives rise to the belief that his announcement of his intention to resign will not be made before tomorrow at the earliest. In the event of his resignation, there will be no opposition by the present officials to Senor De LaBarra's incumbency of the presidency pending new elections.

Washington to Stand Pat.

Washington, May 5.—While many reports from Mexico that have reached the White House are far from encouraging, President Taft and his cabinet are still hoping for peace. The cabinet discussed the Mexican situation at length today and it was determined that this government shall "stand pat" for the present. No more troops are to be ordered to New Texas and for a time at least no war vessels are to be sent to Mexican waters. Further demonstrations by this government along the Texas frontier or movements in Mexican waters are contingent upon the outcome of the negotiations between the Diaz government and

PERPLEXING QUERY IS PUT TO HIGH COURT

Whether "Corners" in Commodities Constitute a Violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law Is the Question Presented to the Nation's Supreme Tribunal.

Washington, May 5.—Another puzzling question about the Sherman anti-trust law has made its appearance in the supreme court of the United States to plague that tribunal. It is this: Does a conspiracy to fix the price of commodity by procuring a "corner" constitute a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law?

The government ranks the importance of the question alongside that of the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases now awaiting decisions by the supreme court. The case came to the court today on a writ of error obtained by the government from the recent decision of Judge Noyes of the New York federal court in regard to the anti-trust law indictments against James A. Patten, Eugene C. Scales, Frank B. Hayne and Wm. P. Brown. The New York court dismissed the counts in the indictment which charge a conspiracy to "corner" the cotton market.

GOVERNOR WOODROW WILSON SPEAKS AT KANSAS CITY.

Kansas City, Mo., May 5.—Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, in a speech before the Knife and Fork club in this city tonight declared that a new political era promising much for the welfare of the nation is now upon the American people. The movement is one of reform, marked by a process of restoration, rather than that of revolution, he said. The Democratic party is not closely allied with the reactionary forces, "the interests," as is the Republican party, said the governor, and therefore the Democratic party is better able to serve the people in the "process of restoration."

GETS WORST BEATING OF HIS BOXING CAREER

Al Kaufman, California Giant, Is Knocked Out by Jim Flynn of Pueblo, Colo.

Kansas City, Mo., May 5.—With a hard right swing to the jaw, Jim Flynn of Pueblo, Colo., knocked out "Al" Kaufman of San Francisco in the tenth round of their fight here tonight.

Never before in his career had Kaufman suffered such punishment as he received tonight. Eight times Flynn floored him. Three times did the giant Californian take the count of nine and after each knockdown he seemed almost from an immediate knockout by clinching his opponent and holding on to gain strength.

When the knockout finally came a minute before the fight was scheduled to end, Kaufman was a bloody and pitiable sight. Blood streamed from his left eye, which he closed in the third round, and his mouth. His face was a mass of bruises. Other than a baby swollen face, due to Kaufman's left jab, Flynn was apparently unharmed. He rushed Kaufman at every opportunity. With lowered head the former fighter would charge his taller and heavier opponent, swinging rights and lefts which usually went home to Kaufman's head. Flynn used his left most frequently. He landed at least twenty hard blows with this hand alone. Kaufman was unable to ward off Flynn's blows when he started a rush.

Kaufman was slow. He continually tried to shove Flynn away and make a long range battle of the affair. During two rounds, the first and the fifth, the Californian got the kind of battling he wanted, but then he found that his left jabs and right swings were not strong enough to affect his slugging opponent. The result was never in doubt after the second round.

Flynn weighed 171 pounds and Kaufman 205.

Coulton and Forbes Matched.

Chicago, May 5.—Johnny Coulton of Chicago, the hantamazing champion, and Harry Forbes, former champion, were tonight matched to box ten rounds before a Toronto (Can.) club May 19.

SOME STOCKS UP AND OTHERS DOWN

Day's Price Changes Unimportant, as a Rule—Amalgamated Copper Strong.

New York, May 5.—Trading in stocks assumed no well-defined trend today and the market was hesitating, with several diverse movements. There was an absence of the sustained selling pressure which upset yesterday and the short interest seemed to be more concerned about covering than attempting any extension of their operations. The changes of the day as a rule were unimportant.

Amalgamated Copper was a strong feature of the late part of the session. A factor contributory to the strength of this issue was the statement, made on the authority of a representative of the Guggenheim interests, that the demand for copper abroad, especially in Germany, was excellent. The reports of the steel trade, while not decisive in nature, indicated that some improvement had taken place within the last week.

Copper Metal Quotations.

On the New York metal exchange today, standard copper was dull, with spot and the May, June, July and August quoted at 11.60@11.70. The London market was firm, spot at £33, 17s, 6d and futures at £34, 10s. The custom house returns show exports of copper so far this month at 4,583 tons. New York dealers quote lake copper at 12.37 1/2 @12.50, electrolytic at 12.12 1/2 @12.25 and casting at 11.87 1/2 @12. On the week ending May 4 shows an aggregate of $3,329,129,000, as against $3,705,014,000 in the corresponding week last year.

The indictments arose out of the "bull" campaign in cotton in 1910 on the New York cotton exchange. It was estimated that the alleged leaders of the campaign, Patten, Scales, Hayne and Brown, made between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000.

FLORIDA'S STATE SENATE PASSES A DRASTIC BILL TO REGULATE THE SALOONS.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 5.—Following the defeat of a constitutional amendment for statewide prohibition at a recent election, the state senate today passed a drastic bill regulating the saloons of the state. It prohibits the sale of liquor to habitual drunkards, requires saloons to close at 8 o'clock and not to open until 7 o'clock the following morning, abolishes all screens and forbids music or games in saloons. It further provides that not more than one fourth of a pint of any intoxicant shall be sold to a customer, this to be in a sealed package. It is believed the measure will become a law.

RECIPROCITY PACT UNDER HOT FIRE

Tory Leader Says It Is the Most Damnable Proposal Ever Made to Canada.

Ottawa, May 5.—A bitter attack on the reciprocity agreement was made tonight by R. L. Borden, opposition leader, in an address at a dinner attended by all the Conservative members of parliament and the present establishment of the reciprocity proposals, he declared, "are the most mischievous and damnable that have ever been made to Canada." President Taft, Mr. Borden said, recently commended reciprocity to the American people, on the ground that it would present the establishment of a system of preferential trade throughout the British empire. That alone, he asserted, was sufficient to condemn the whole proposition in the minds of loyal Canadians and British subjects. Premier H. B. Hall of Columbia, Premier Hazen of New Brunswick, and Robert Rogers, minister of public works in Manitoba, asserted that their respective provinces were opposed to the agreement, on the ground that it would lead to the separation of Canada from Great Britain.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMAN SUPPORTS FREE LIST BILL.

Washington, May 5.—Representative Warburton of Washington, a newly elected Republican member of the house, announced his intention of supporting the Democratic free list bill in a speech in the house this afternoon. Mr. Warburton said that many of the Republican criticisms of the bill were undoubtedly well founded, but others overdrawn. He believed the bill would not do all its Democratic sponsors expected of it, but it was a step in the right direction. He urged the taking of off the duty on sugar. Mr. Smith of Michigan was one of a number who spoke against the bill.

OPIMUM CONFERENCE POSTPONED.

Washington, May 5.—The international opium conference which was to have met at The Hague July 1 has been postponed for one year. Germany, Japan and Portugal are not prepared with the data which Great Britain desired should be presented before the opening of the conference.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. TAFT GIVE A GARDEN PARTY.

Washington, May 5.—President and Mrs. Taft entertained late this afternoon at a garden party given at the rear of the White House. The large guest list included many persons prominent in the capital.

MARQUETTE, MICH., MAY 6.

THE COMMISSION MEETING.

There were both gratifying and amusing features at the meeting of the police commission Thursday evening.

In the former category is found the declaration of the mayor that he stands for the enforcement of the laws against both the saloons and the houses of ill repute.

He said he had made his position clear on this point before election and since election, and he expressed resentment that there should have been any suggestion that the bars would be let down.

In fact the mayor's attitude indicated that he favors even more strict enforcement of the laws than has been the rule in the past two years.

One of the amusing features of the session was the mayor's apparent misconception of his powers in connection with police administration, as compared with the powers of the other members of the commission, and the manner in which the commissioners allowed him to get away with his assumption that he is the king pin in all matters connected with this department of the city government.

The mayor objected strenuously to the passage of a resolution calling for the enforcement of the laws relating to the liquor traffic and the suppression of houses of ill repute. He insisted that he could be depended on to look after these things. His attitude plainly indicated his belief that this responsibility is peculiarly his, and that the other commissioners have little right to share it.

And, as we have remarked, no commissioner combated this view of the matter.

The mayor's view is faulty and based on nothing more than mistaken assumption. The mayor's share of the responsibility for police administration is exactly one-sixth. He has, in the first instance, little more authority than any other member of the police commission, and there are five of them. Nor can any member of the commission get rid of his responsibility by letting the mayor assume it for him. It is inherent in the office he holds and he cannot be quit of it in this happy go lucky manner, even if he would.

Another amusing feature of the meeting was the assumption of the mayor, which he made little effort to conceal, that the police administration in Marquette had been singularly lax under Mayor Vaughan and the police commission during the two-year period recently closed, when it is generally recognized that never before, for an equal period, had the police done their work with equally good results. The mayor must have a poor idea of the intelligence of the people of the city if he expects to befuddle them on that point. But here again he was uncontradicted by the commissioners he was, in effect, attacking.

In discussing this phase of the question the mayor referred to conditions existing when he previously filled the executive office, asserting that the town had never been so orderly and so decent as during his term of service. Now as a matter of fact the town under Mayor Jacobs was neither better nor worse than it was under most mayors fifteen to twenty years ago. When he was mayor the saloons did business as long as there was any business to be done, and the houses of ill repute were tolerated as a "necessary evil." Nor is Mayor Jacobs particularly censurable because this was so. Public sentiment has made tremendous strides since he last held office. But Mayor Jacobs must not make the assertion that Marquette was anything but a free and easy town when he was formerly in office and expect to get away with it. The police commissioners may humor him in the pretense, but the people generally will not.

It was somewhat depressing Thursday evening to note an apparent willingness on the part of the police commissioners to abdicate their powers and responsibilities to the mayor, when the mayor has no more power on the board than any other member. The best results will be obtained by this, and by all the other municipal boards, when the members insist on a full recognition of their standing as members with equal powers with the mayor and refuse in any manner to be waved aside.

Mayor Jacobs is to be congratulated on his stand in favor of law enforcement, and the city is fortunate in that his position on this question is so definite. But he can well forego the humbug that police administration has been lax the past two years when everyone knows it had never before been as strict and effective, and he can well refrain from recalling his former administration as a "golden age" of civil and moral righteousness, for it wasn't. It was just the kind of an administration in these respects that Marquette was accustomed to have fifteen to twenty years ago.

In New York Governor Dix has started the Tammany braves in the legislature and some of the other members by the nomination to be banking commissioner of George C. Van Tuyl, Jr., of Albany. This Mr. Van Tuyl, Jr., whose name sounds as if he might belong to one of the fine old Dutch families in New York, may be admirably qualified to be banking commissioner, but the Tammany braves, and some of the other Democrats in office at Albany, view with concern the fact that he is enrolled as a Republican in the Sixteenth ward at Albany. True he voted for Governor Dix, but this must be considered to be a small claim for recognition as a Democrat when it is obvious that many thousands of Republicans did the same thing. It is said to be likely that the Tammany senators and some of the other Democratic members of the upper house will oppose Van Tuyl's confirmation. They do not look with pleasure on this course of Governor Dix in overlooking party lines in filling such an important office. They would prefer that it should go to a man about whose regularity there can be no question.

N. P. Hull, master of the state grange, says that Senator Townsend has turned a deaf ear to the grange's representations about reciprocity, so it can be assumed that the junior senator is going to vote to uphold the president in this matter. Mr. Hull opines that if Mr. Townsend's time to stand for re-election were closer at hand his attitude might be different. Not if he desired to serve his political interests. The farmers have made a tremendous clatter against reciprocity. Their noise has been all out of proportion to their strength. If the issue were submitted to the voters of Michigan they would likely be badly outvoted on the subject. Judge Murfin, of Detroit, for instance, is quoted in these columns as asserting that sentiment at Detroit is strongly in favor of ratifying the agreement. The same thing is true of most of the cities. Reciprocity is by no means the generally unpopular proposal that the farmers would have it appear. As for Master Hull's speculation of what Senator Townsend's attitude would be if the time when he had to stand for re-election were nearer at hand, it is obviously idle. Master Hull can't know anything about that matter.

Judge Murfin, of the Wayne circuit, is quoted at Grand Rapids as saying that there is an overwhelming sentiment at Detroit in favor of reciprocity, but that "the same people who favor the measure believe that if Senator Smith opposes the treaty he does it on conscientious grounds. They give him the credit of his convictions and because they disagree with him in this one matter, they will not disagree with him in all others. I have heard this opinion repeatedly expressed and I believe it is the attitude of Detroit. We favor reciprocity. We are sorry Senator Smith can't see it our way entirely. But his stand won't hurt him with us. He will still be a prime Detroit favorite. We know that he stands where he thinks he ought to stand; and that's the place for any man who is big enough to be a senator of the United States."

Governor Osborn has named a newspaper men's commission to have charge of the plans for the erection of the Zach Chandler statue authorized by the recent session of the legislature. Its members are Arthur H. Vandenberg, editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, H. M. Nimmo, of Detroit, editor of Detroit Saturday Night, and George A. Nowett, of Ishpeming, editor and publisher of the Iron Ore. The commission is a strong one. Its members are men of excellent judgment and taste, and can be depended on to see that the Zach Chandler statue is made by an artist who will produce a work creditable alike in execution and pose. The commissioners will serve without pay, but a small part of the appropriation made by the legislature is set apart for their expense.

Governor Osborn and the redoubtable Richard Fletcher had an interview at Lansing this week. The governor showed Dick where he had sufficient information about irregularities in his conduct of the office of state labor commissioner to warrant his removal, but he said that in view of the fact that his term was about to expire he had decided to take no action. Dick didn't say anything about sticking on until January 1, 1913. In fact Dick had a comparatively small part in the conversation.

President Taft's assurance to the peace conference that the United States is not looking for new territory was dictated by the Mexican situation and the reciprocity agreement, no doubt, but it will hardly convince anyone who has suspected our designs that we have no designs whatever. For them to be convinced would be to surrender their pet bugaboo.

Marquette furnished another example yesterday of how the liquor law is foolishly restrictive at times. Because there was a vote on the water bond issue question which attracted practically no attention, and hardly a sign of interest, the saloons had to close their doors. It's provisions of the law like this that the saloon men have a legitimate right to complain of.

The Woodmen certainly think a lot of Collector Burns. It he had failed to lead in his present office, it is plain to see that he would have fallen into another term as national director, at the modest stipend of $8,000 per year.

The theater managers of the Northwestern country are shortly to hold their annual meeting in Milwaukee. Perhaps they will appoint a commission to determine why so few attractions took advantage of the "open door."

Marquette's example has been contagious. Negaunee also has dusted off its curfew ordinance, and the marshal announces that it will be strictly enforced. Ishpeming is next on the list.

It will probably be July 1 before the senators will get around to voting on the reciprocity bill. Meanwhile the Congressional Record will carry a heavy freight of tariff speeches.

Porfirio Diaz can have peace at any time that he will resign the office of president and the emoluments thereof. But suppose he was re-elected?

Anyway the Woodmen like Speaker Baker of the Michigan legislature. They re-elected him state consul for a third term, and without opposition.

Wells is to have a blast furnace. With a charcoal plant already operating there it certainly seems to be a strategic point for one.

The interest in the bonding issue yesterday was not as keen as it might have been, but the results were satisfactory.

Homesteader Dietz appears to be getting along in a most satisfactory manner without any expert legal assistance.

Better book your passage for the trip to the coronation. There will be precious little room on the last few boats.

Yes, it must be conceded that the Twenty-first ward in Chicago is pretty well looked after.

PUTTING THE STATE ON A BUSINESS BASIS.

Gov. Osborn has made a notable departure from the established practice of Michigan executives in his discriminating exercise of the veto power. As a usual thing executives are content to consider appropriations for public purposes as a whole, and if the general purpose is good they will stand for a liberal loading with excess items which might well be eliminated. Gov. Osborn has evidently gone through the items of institutional appropriations very carefully, and while intending to reduce the total amount provided for, he has stricken out here and there until the aggregate elimination foots up a total of nearly a million dollars.

Such work necessitates a careful inspection of the allowances and an intimate knowledge of the actual needs of state institutions. The elisions are made in the interest of the taxpayer. It is probable that in striking out each item the governor has caused disappointment to hundreds of individuals and aggregations of individuals who have favored the forbidden items for good and sufficient reasons, but it must be remembered that for several years past the state of Michigan has been doing business in a very unbusinesslike fashion. Various expenditures have been incurred deliberately, and the legislative session, as if afraid of its own action, has frequently omitted to make any appropriation for carrying out its own undertakings. This has caused an excessive amount of money to be expended which have overdrawn the funds in the treasury and caused deficits which later sessions had to make up. It is evidently Governor Osborn's intention to put the state on a sound business footing, without prejudice to an excessive tax rate, and he is going about it in the only possible way—limiting expenditures.—Detroit News.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Marquette.—As at a session of the probate court for the county of Marquette, holden at the probate office in the city of Marquette, on Friday, the 21st day of April, in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

Present, W. T. Potter, Judge of Probate, of and for the estate of John A. Sarri, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Anna M. Wickstrom, widow of said deceased, praying that administration of said estate be granted to herself, or to some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 15th day of May, A. D. 1911, at two o'clock in the afternoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the next day and heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the city of Marquette, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Daily Mining Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Marquette, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in a true copy.

A Laugh or Two

Preparatory Expense. A young woman who was visiting a friend in the south, and heard many stories of the way in which the darkies managed to excuse themselves or account for idleness, came one day upon Uncle Ike, street car driver, and said to him: "Taking a little rest, aren't you, uncle?" she said pleasantly.

She inquired gushingly, "Oh, colonel, don't you love Longfellow's poems?" "Can't say I do," he replied. "Never read them, in fact. Consider all poetry absolute drivel."

"But," she persisted, "surely you cannot help admiring this verse of his out of 'The Day is Done,' you know: 'And all the night shall be filled with music, and the stars that infest the day shall fold their tents like the Arabs, and as silently steal away.'"

"By Jove!" he exclaimed, "there is something in that. I know those Arab beggars—they would simply steal anything."—Tit-Bits.

The Game's The Thing. It was the great event of the season—the final for one of the football cups—in Lancashire. The rivals, who had hailed from Preston district, were the happy possessors of a good field, and all prone to disagree on finding that they had to play on ground with scarcely a blade of grass visible.

Killing Them Off. A schoolmaster, wishing to impress upon his class the great population of China, said: "The population of China is so great that two Chinamen die every time you take a breath."

One of the first effects of the approaching coronation in felt in London in the huge demand for servants, especially for waiters, in hotels. Hundreds of foreigners, especially Germans, are being imported. The Swiss agency is engaging waiters by the hundred daily. Good servants pick and choose places. Clubs find it particularly hard to fill vacancies, as waiters are looking forward to a golden harvest of tips in the hotels and restaurants. Servants absolutely refuse to go to houses in the country.

The Young Woman's Christian association in Brooklyn is conducting a class for young women who are soon to be married. CADILLAC—John Hansen, who claims that his home is in Holland, was taken from a box car suffering from exposure and lack of food and may die. He has been sleeping in a barn at the fair grounds and begging his food, being too ill to work. He is now at the county jail and is being given treatment.

ELK RAPIDS—A council of the Ottawa Indians is being held here, 100 men being in attendance with Chief Henry E. Leupp in the Indian and His Problem among the friends who he trusts the Indian is a genial companion and a lively story-teller, full of humor himself, and appreciating heartily the humor of others.

In the Sioux outbreak of 1890, not a few Indians belonging to the usually peaceable element left their homes and went to the arena of hostilities, either out of mere curiosity or with a notion that the trouble might spread till all were drawn into it on one side or the other.

During the absence of a number of members of one band, their local agency issued its annual call for firewood. It was the custom of the government to buy from the Indians what they would cut, by way of encouraging them in this useful industry.

A weak-minded fellow who always had been treated as the clown of the tribe, and who had stayed at home in spite of the excitement saw here his golden opportunity. He had never exerted himself before to earn his own living, because the timber operations involved too much hard work; but what could be easier than a plan which had just entered his mind?

To the nearest cabins of the absentees he repaired and deliberately tore them down, sawing the logs into cord lengths, piled these into his wagon and hauled them to the agency, where he received the standard price for all he brought, no questions being asked as to where he got it, for nothing was then known of the source of supply.

How did the owners act on their return? Their first sensation was one of amazement to find their dwelling razed to the ground; possibly the next was indignation, but if they manifested any I never heard of it.

All I know is that in telling me the story they laughed over it as if it were one of the most amusing incidents that could be imagined—only a new item added to the clown's long list of comical pranks; while the author of the mischief would stand by, enjoying the recital as much as the rest, and evidently taking a little pride in the novelty of his practical joke.

I suspect that this is one of the cases where most of us will admit that the Indian sense of humor is even keener than the Caucasian.

WANTS FIREMEN'S 1912 TOURNAMENT

Red Jacket Department Decides to Make a Bid—Has Support of Businessmen.

The Red Jacket fire department decided Thursday night to ask the Peninsula Firemen's association to hold its tournament and convention for 1912 in that village.

The department will send a running team to the tournament at Bessemer this year and will take an unusually active interest in the many affairs in connection with the association members that Red Jacket is alive and capable of caring for the tournament next year. A meeting will be held in two weeks for the purpose of electing a manager and captain for the track team and candidates are invited to attend the meeting.

Chief Trudell has been assured by the businessmen of Red Jacket all the support necessary to the proper entertainment of the visiting firemen next year. The chief has assurances which lead him to believe that the association will decide on Red Jacket unanimously.

The meeting of the firemen Thursday night was such an enthusiastic one that the chief decided on a practice run on Eighth street. The hose wagon was taken to Scott street and a run made from a hydrant there to one on Pine street, the complete length of the village, three fifths of a mile. Water was delivered from the hose in one minute and 21 seconds, which is believed to be a record for the distance.

Chief Voetsch of Houghton, first vice president, and Village Clerk Ellis of Red Jacket, second vice president of the Peninsula Firemen's association, left last night for Bessemer to attend a meeting of the executive committee.

Houghton Firemen Ask More Pay.

The Houghton village council took under advisement Thursday night the question of giving the members of the fire department a raise in pay. Within a few minutes after the council adjourned fire broke out in the Hartman block and the department was given an opportunity to show their class. Every man on the paid list responded to the call and a dangerous blaze was extinguished in a jiffy.

The members of the department offer this fire as an instance of the work they have to do. It involved quick action on the part of a number of men who had been routed out of their beds after midnight and who had to travel varying distances to the fire. They did good work and they feel that such work should be paid for at a better rate than $5 per month.

The way the matter came up in the council was through President Barden's announcement of the annual appointments of the officers and members of the fire department. The following were appointed on recommendation of the department:

Chief—Louis Voetsch. Assistant Chief—Ray Eggleston. Foreman—William J. Hankey. Engineer—W. E. Sewell. Firemen—Maurice Spring, Mart Haas, Frank Holtzman, Thomas Daly, Theodore Steller, Will Uen, Fred Meyer, Patrick Golden, Tim Regan, Paul Kranes, E. J. Berkford.

Unpaid fireman—Charles Armstrong, W. E. Sewell, Peter Ruel, J. R. Robert Harrington. The members of the department receive $5 per month each, the chief and other officers slightly more. All ask the council for double pay. The council favors the plan but does not feel that the village can afford the raise. But Chairman Hays of the finance committee has a plan which may work out to the mutual interest of the village and the department. Mr. Hays has not stated the plan in detail but part of it is to reduce the number of paid firemen and give the remaining members the increase in salary, creating at the same time a reserve company, which can be called out for serious fires. The reserves would be paid for each fire attended.

Chief Voetsch does not favor the plan of reducing the strength of the department. As at present constituted the department consists of 24 active men, 16 of whom are paid and eight not paid, being volunteers but regularly elected to the department. The roll is not filled now because some of the members have moved away or resigned and the chief has not as yet found good material with which to fill the places.

At the council Thursday night Chief Voetsch explained how the firemen were paid in other large towns of the upper peninsula and the showing was against Houghton, the salaries paid in other places being generally larger. The chief insists on an active paid fire department, even if the pay is only nominal, as $10 a month. He says the time when volunteers can be called from the spectators has gone by.

PETER SHEA DIES SUDDENLY.

Peter Shea, thirty years of age, a cigar maker by trade, was found dead Thursday night at the home of his brother, Michael Shea, Hancock. The body was found on the floor of the kitchen. The deceased had been alone in the house all day and had been dead several hours when found. Heart failure is given as the cause. The deceased held the distinction of being the smallest member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in the state.

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS. Frank Rosier Comes to Houghton to Look His Last Upon His Brother.

Frank Rosier of Chicago, brother of William Rosier, who died suddenly at the Knaut Hotel Wednesday night, arrived in Houghton yesterday morning to take charge of his brother's funeral. The two brothers had not seen each other in eighteen years. William Rosier left no estate, beyond the few personal effects left in his room at the hotel. These his brother took charge of. The arrangements for the funeral had not been completed yesterday but the obsequies will be held in Houghton, probably today.

INTERESTING TAX SITUATION. Peter Ant Lived Outside Houghton but Paid Village Taxes.

The Houghton village council Thursday night returned to Mrs. Lena Martin $15.90, being the amount of village taxes paid by her father, the late Peter Ant, for the years 1890 to 1906 inclusive. The refund was made because the land tax was not located in the village of Houghton but in Portage township.

Miller has a great reputation as a long distance runner, while Steitz is generally considered to be in a class by himself when it comes to marathon work. If any other runner desires to enter this race he is cordially invited to do so.

REMAINS IN STATUS QUO. Park Addition Argument in Houghton Deferred for a Month.

The Houghton village council did not on Thursday night settle the question of the Park addition's admission to the village. It was decided to let the matter go over for a month. The meeting was largely attended and there was a warm discussion. Trustee Hartman argued for the admission of the addition and Dr. L. H. Hubbard and J. T. Finnegan, residents of the addition, were his principal antagonists.

ROADS STREWN WITH TACKS. Laurium Authorities Plan to Make Example of One Miscalculation.

Two or three days this week parties who the village authorities of Laurium claim they know have been distributing tacks in the wheel paths and on the pavement in the vicinity of the corner of Third and Hecla streets. Several punctured automobile tires and badly used and torn bicycle tires have resulted and the repair shops have been kept busy. The authorities plan to make an example of the alleged guilty party or parties. It is said that more than one person is mixed up in the work.

HOE LIBRARY SALE FETCHES OVER $997,000 AND MANY MORE TREASURES REMAIN.

New York, May 5.—The Hoe library sale, at which single treasures of written and printed art have sold for a fortune, came to an end of its first quarter today, with nearly $1,000,000 realized. Thirteen thousand and five hundred books were disposed of and the grand total for the ten days reached $997,363.50. Three-fourths of the great Hoe collection still remain to be disposed of in a series of sales to be held in November, January and March.

FLETCHER ON GRILL. But Governor Decides Not to Remove the Labor Commissioner.

Lansing, Mich., May 5.—Gov. Osborn called State Labor Commissioner R. H. Fletcher to his office yesterday to answer to charges which the executive said were sufficient to warrant removing Fletcher from office. Fletcher was asked to make an explanation, and after he had made his statement the governor announced he would not remove him, in view of the commissioner's assertion that he had acted in the best interests of the state.

MISS BURTON MAKES CHARGES. The other charge was made by Miss Luella Burton, former factory inspector.

Miss Burton, former factory inspector, made a charge against the law providing a nine-hour day for working women. Fletcher denied this. The governor also showed Fletcher letters he had written urging coal miners to get up a petition asking Gov. Osborn to reappoint him to office after forty-two years' imprisonment. Fletcher said that at the time he engaged Elliott, he found it necessary to engage a lawyer to represent him with employment for the year around, and as he was a good man he went to Gov. Warner and Attorney General Bird and they advised him that he had authority to say when Elliott should draw pay.

COLOR-COLORED FOGS AND RAINS. When Red Hail and Black Snow Mystified Residents in Different Localities and Ages.

Black snow, which has recently been falling in an Alpine valley, is a very rare meteorological occurrence. The whole valley and the surrounding mountains are several inches deep in it. However, nobody has been able to suggest a reason for its occurrence. But if black snow is more common, it is often seen in spring at the head of Alpine glaciers. Scientists used to believe that the hue was due to the presence of innumerable tiny fresh insects, but it is now known to be caused by a microscopic plant, which is pink when growing and a deep crimson when in a state of maturity.

THE VALUE OF THE WHEATSTONE. There are still a few people who object to a colliage course on the ground that the subjects taught are not practical, and therefore are of no benefit toward fitting young people for gaining a livelihood.

Uncle Joe Koontz picked up his whetstone and sharpened his sylvan vigorously, thinking he had "downed" the professor, who was pleading for bright young Joe to have a college course. "No, sir! There ain't any sense in him going to college to learn a lot of things that he won't ever have any use for. Now there's their Latin and Greek and physics and a lot more stuff that he couldn't make a living on, and what's the use for him to flog away his time on them?"

Biopelle, Brown, A. Biopelle, Scholtus, Howard, Weiser and Jeanouin.

Looks Like a City—With temporary buildings going up almost every day, the land near where the new ore dock at Presque Isle is being constructed looks like a mushroom city. One of the most noticeable of these buildings is a shed built on the L. S. & I. merchandise dock, which has been waterproofed both roof and sides, and which will be used for storing cement shipped from the lower lakes until it is needed at the dock. File driving is going ahead rapidly now and within the next two weeks the concrete work will be begun.

Back in Prison Again—Deputy Warden Catlin returned last night from Owen Sound, Ont., with Frank Richards, who broke his parole about two weeks ago, leaving this city in company with Florence Lempe, a domestic. He and his companion were quickly traced to Owen Sound, his former home, and he was taken into custody by the police of that city. Before leaving for Marquette with the prison deputy, Richards and the Lempe girl were married, the ceremony being performed by the Methodist minister at Owen Sound.

Governor Osborn Coming Soon—Governor Osborn is expected to visit Marquette soon, possibly before the end of the month. He is now in the Soo, where he went to observe the thirtieth anniversary of his wedding, and he may come to Marquette before he returns to the lower part of the state. He has been requested to attend the next meeting of the board of control of the Marquette prison, when the affairs of that much discussed institution will be gone over. The governor plans a tour of all the state institutions with the purpose of giving each of them a thorough inspection.

INSURE WITH PETER WHITE & CO.

RINK BUILDING CERTAIN.

Large Structure to Be Erected on Baraga Avenue Within Next Two Months.

Tredeau Bros. and Schram, of Creboyan, closed a deal yesterday with Wm. O'Meara, agent for the Ward estate, by which two lots on the north side of Baraga avenue, between the Carney block and the Filmore House, were sold to the Creboyan men, who will put up a building there for a skating rink as soon as possible. The price paid was $2,600. The lots have seventy-five feet frontage and are 117 feet deep and practically the whole space will be occupied by the building.

Work on the rink building will be begun as soon as the necessary papers, which have to go to Pittsburgh, are made out, and the Creboyan men hope to have the building completed and a rink in operation within six or eight weeks. At the next meeting of the council, May 15, a petition will be submitted, asking permission to build the rink building, which the council will probably be glad to grant.

Mr. Tredeau stated yesterday afternoon that they had not yet decided whether to put up a wooden frame steel-plate structure, or to use concrete blocks in the construction of the walls. It will be one story high and the entire floor space will be unobstructed by partitions, supports or columns of any kind. While the principal object in putting up the building is for skating rink purposes, the owners expect to encourage indoor baseball and other sports requiring a large floor space, and the building will also be rented for dances and large gatherings or parties of any kind.

Marquette has long been in need of a large auditorium or amphitheater and it is likely to be in demand for many purposes other than roller skating, for which it is primarily intended.

"SWAT THE FLY" IS NATION-WIDE SLOGAN

Organized Campaign Against Flies and Mosquitoes Being Carried on Everywhere.

Judging from the number of bulletins that are being sent out by the federal government proposes to make a more determined fight against the house fly this year than ever before. Numerous clubs and organizations have also taken up the fight, and cries of "Swat the fly" are being heard everywhere.

For generations man has given the fly a home, only shooing him away when he became too pestiferous, and only using a fly brush when he insisted on eating at the first table. During all these years the fly recited the shelter of mankind by secretly dragging in all manner of filth and disease and placing it where his benefactors must eat if he has been the advance agent of pestilence and the drummer of disease, and one bright crusader recently said: "He has six legs, and a half dozen hairy grips on each leg with which to carry samples, and these he distributes with a javish hand." These samples he gets from the stable, from carrion—from any place where disgusting things and deadly disease germs are to be found. In short, the fly is a professional poisoner instead of slipping a little arsenic into one's food, he secretes typhoid germs in milk, consumption germs in butter or cream, and other germs in the meats and vegetables. Men hang the occasional human poisoner, but every day they let this insect poisoner go scot free.

With these facts before them the crusaders are going into the campaign in earnest this spring. They are going to annihilate the advance guard before the innumerable reinforcements arrive, thereby hoping to avoid unnecessary warfare. There will be many phases to the campaign this year. News papers everywhere, daily and weekly, are joining in the crusade, and all admit that they constitute the artillery of the crusading army. The American Civic association and the bureau of entomology furnish all the ammunition the crusaders, and this ammunition is of as fine a quality as the art of war affords.

Mosquitoes in Same Class.

The warfare against the fly also includes the mosquito, a recent bulletin on this pestiferous insect reading in part as follows: "Since the discovery that mosquito are not only nuisances but are also conveyors of malaria, yellow fever, filariasis and dengue fever, a great deal of remedial work has been done by individuals and communities.

"Where the rain barrel and rain water tank are necessary they should be screened. The waste places in the immediate vicinity of a house should be carefully searched for tin cans, bottles and wooden or tin boxes in which water can accumulate, and all such receptacles should be destroyed or carried away. The roof gutters of every building should be carefully examined to make sure that they are not clogged so as to allow the water to accumulate. Where the branches of tall trees overhang roofs this is especially likely to occur by agency of falling leaves or twigs.

"The chicken pens in the poultry yard, the water in the troughs for domestic animals, the water cup of the grindstone are all places in which these mosquitoes will breed, and water should not be allowed to stand in them for more than a day or so at a time.

"In slightly marshy grounds a favorite breeding place is the footprints of cattle and horses. In one country village, which contains many small vegetable gardens in clay soil, during a rainy season mosquitoes were found breeding abundantly in the water accumulating in the furrows.

"Even in the house these mosquitoes breed in many places where they may be overlooked. Where the water in flower vases is not frequently changed, mosquitoes will breed. They will breed in water pitchers, in unused guest rooms. They will breed in pipes and under stationary washstands, where these are not frequently in use, and they will issue from the sewers in back yards of the city houses during dry spells in summer time, when the sewers have not recently been flushed by heavy rains.

"Public dumps are great breeding places, because here accumulate old bottles, cans, boxes, bits of tin or iron vessels, and other objects in which water may accumulate for a time. Even a small amount of water will make a breeding place for many mosquitoes. It is quite possible for half a beer bottle to contain enough water to give out literally thousands of mosquitoes.

"All such breeding places should be abolished by covering, draining or treating with kerosene. To keep mosquitoes away temporarily camphor, oil of pennyroyal, oil of peppermint, lemon juice, vinegar, oil of tar and oil of citronella are recommended. A few drops on the face and hands or on a towel hung over the head of the bed are sufficient."

Marine Notes

The lighter Progress, formerly the steamer of that name and built by Wolf & Davidson, is ashore at Ashabula. Several years ago the Progress' engine and boilers were removed and she was cut down and made into a lighter by the Gillen company for use in lake construction work.

The Collinwood was the only arrival in Marquette yesterday, and she is loading ore at the South Shore dock. The Mesaba, which has been at the coal dock for two days, is also expected to take on ore today. The J. H. Wade is expected at the South Shore dock some time today. At the L. S. & I. dock, the Brazil loaded for Ashabula yesterday, and the Choctaw, which is unloading coal at the Soo, may arrive before night.

There is little inquiry for grain, and grain brokers state that at the present time there is absolutely no outlook. A few stray cargoes are going, but aside from this the situation may be said to be stagnant. The rate on grain from Duluth to Buffalo remains unchanged, with few carriers in the market at the present price.

In attempting to make Kemp's slip at Sault Ste. Marie the steamer Alva of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company collided with the Great Lakes tug Boynton, damaging the tug's stern bearings and ripping off forty feet of her rail streak. The steamer went into the Great Lakes dock head-on, knocking out several piles and putting a hole in the planking. The accident was caused by mistaken signals, the engineer going ahead instead of backing.

Driven on the beach in the big storm which swept the lake the first of the week the schooner Petrel, owned and commanded by Capt. Ole Jensen, Manitowoc, luckily escaped serious damage at the South Manitowoc island. Mr. Jensen and his crew of four are safe. News of the disaster reached here in a message from Capt. Jensen to his wife yesterday. The schooner is one of the old timers, built in '64. She will be taken to Manitowoc for repairs when released.

Eight men were scalded, two so seriously they may die, when the main steam pipe to one of the boilers of the steamer State of Ohio, operated by the Cleveland & Buffalo Transit company, exploded Thursday. The State of Ohio, which is a passenger boat plying between Cleveland, Erie, Pa., and Buffalo, was being overhauled and repaired in the Cleveland harbor, in preparation for her first trip. Practically all the members of the crew were aboard.

FRY FOR SALMON TROUT.

Huron Mountain Club Arranged With State to Furnish Fish for Planting.

During the present week 700,000 trout fry have been planted in the Salmon Trout river, which the Huron Mountain club intends to make a kind of fish preserve and will endeavor to prevent the general public fishing in the stream.

With that end in view, the club has obtained control of the land on both sides of the stream for nine miles up from the mouth, and has employed two policemen to patrol the river.

The young trout planted last week were obtained from the state hatchery, under a special agreement whereby the club paid a part of the expense of hatching and all of the cost of planting. The state fish and game commission made two trips to Big Bay this week and from that place the fish were taken to the Salmon Trout river.

Local sportsmen are not any too well pleased at the announcement of the Huron Mountain club inviting the general public to keep off the Salmon Trout this year. There is a deep seated feeling in the northern Michigan sportsman's heart, that the woods and the streams are public property, and that trespassing is no crime as long as no damage is done. Considerable speculation is rife as to the legal right of the Huron Mountain club people to keep people from fishing in the Salmon Trout river. In the unofficial opinion of a Michigan judge any person has a right to meander a stream, which means that he can walk inside its high water limits, without being liable to prosecution for trespass on the property of one who owns the land adjacent to the river. If this interpretation of the law is correct there is probably no way to prevent a person fishing if he does not get outside the high water limits of the stream. There is some talk locally of making a test case of the question.

Normal Notes

Monday evening Osiris Literary society will entertain the members of the faculty. A musical program has been arranged, after which a social hour will be spent.

Superintendent John V. Brennan, of Ironwood, visited the school on Saturday in search of teachers for the Ironwood schools. On Monday, Superintendent Taylor of Munising interviewed a number of prospective teachers.

A great many of our June graduates have already secured positions for next year, and inquiries are being received from all parts of the peninsula, and even from outside of the state, for good teachers.

Mrs. John M. Longyear paid a visit to the school last Wednesday.

On Tuesday morning at assembly Dr. Mount was in charge of the exercises, and four students from his department discussed the subject of student self-government. Miss Edna Thornton explained self-government in general. An argument in favor of student self-government was read by Miss Laura La Broche, and Miss Anna Barron read one in opposition to it. Miss Dorothea Ross then read another paper, discussing the results of the system where it has been introduced. The program was very interesting.

Miss Heloise Duncan, who has been specializing in the domestic science department, was called to her home in Green Bay last week on account of the serious illness of her father. Word was received later that Mr. Duncan died before Miss Duncan reached home.

Yesterday morning, Dr. Hebb gave an interesting sketch of the life and attributed supernatural powers of Eusebius Palladini. He spoke of the wonderful things she can do, and quoted from the discussions and opinions of some of the most famous scientists regarding her wonderful powers.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. McCormick and his "educated" dog gave a very interesting program in the society rooms, before a large audience of training children, students and faculty.

The members of the Senior class are busily engaged in working out the plans for class day. This year the class will give something entirely different from anything ever attempted before by a graduating class. This will be a pageant of Michigan history, dealing especially with the upper peninsula. As there is no comprehensive work covering the subject, the class is gathering available material from various sources and dramatizing the whole. Mrs. Rushmore is in charge of the dramatic work, and Miss Linton is directing the music and choruses. All are enthusiastic and it is hoped that the exercises may be successful.

Invitations have been issued by the Junior class for their annual party, which occurs Friday evening, May 12.

Ygdrasil Literary society held its regular meeting Wednesday evening. After a short business meeting the following Whittier program was given:

- Vocal solo.....Whittier
- Grace Farrell
- Reading, "Kallundborg Church".....Pearl Madden
- Talk on "Forestry".....Whittier
- Edith Unsworth
- Reading, "Telling the Bees".....Whittier
- "Whittier's Place in American Literature".....Miss Hill

"Get the wild turkey hen I sent you?"

"Yes, suh. How in thunduh did a lazy ole—"

"Stuff it with oysters! Maryland oysters, now 't I tell you—none of them devilish little Mobile sumps. An' cranberries from Jubsey?—I wouldn't tech one of them Michigan behies."

"The behies are from Noo Jersey and the oysters from Maryland, suh."

"Good! The wild pigeons wuk wrapped in brown papuh coated with white clay, and roasted in the ashes? Brown papuh, now, heah me, no d— Yankee noospapuh will do fo' a pigeon; its taste of it."

"Newuh foah. Ge'ge, it's brown papuh, and the hittuh is best Louisville cream-made."

"Pot-roast the teal with strips of Mississippi acorn-fed bacon?—no cussed Illinois sow-belly, mind ye?"

"Shoot the poker in the woods myself, Ge'ge and cut the strips as thin as a knife blade."

"Got the robin pie just right this time? You played the devil with that pie once—an English pie, suh, with nuts?—but buth in the crust—yo' didn't put any blackbuds in this time, you young scound'el, to think I couldn't tell blackbuds from robins—fifty robins, no mo', no less, picked dry and laid out to freeze hefo' being drawn?"

"Tended to it all myself, suh."

"Yuh briled the 'tridges on hickry coals?—no cussed oak flavuh fo' me, suh."

"It was sho' hick-ry, Uncle Ge'ge, and the Irish potatoes are roasted in the ashes with their jackets on, and the oyster soup is rich enough to beah the weight of yo' nose."

"Oysters! Now 't I got ye. I knowed a rattle-brained young devil like you would forget somethin'. Did yo' make the oysters rich with cayenne pepuh and celery, thickened with the steeved hahts and livins of meadow lakks chopped fine?"—Outing.

A BOY'S SPRING.

Say, when the spring's a-comin' in, O, ain't it awful sweet!

There's singin' most on every breeze An' sunshine in the street

And when the lay clouds are hung Across the sky, why, all among Them goes the wind a-laughin' out To think of all the joy that's round about.

Say, when the dam's a-roarin' loud, O, ain't it fine to hear!

I know a man who went away But came back every year

Just in the spring to stand and see The waters tumble—Hully gee! I guess he feels just like us boys; There's something makes us kind of still in that big noise.

And, say, some time at dusk, when all The sky is colored red,

An' when the air's just full of spring, An' I just can't go home to bed—

Say, I've just stood and listened while the river roared an' most a mile I'd see the foam go streakin' down A-swingin' past, beyond the town.

An' something in me'd kind o' stir An' I'd be there all standin' still—

An' then—an' then—I'd almost choke, For, somewhere near, a whisp-poor-will

Would start and call like anything An' then—an' then—some way the spring

An' river, an' soft air, an' sky Would be too sweet, like tender-ness.

I'd be like that man comin' back, I guess— I'd stand an' love 'most everything; Say, ain't it funny in the spring?

THE GOLDEN PLOVER.

One of the most wonderful instances of migration is that of the golden plover, which winters in the southern part of South America and nests in the bleak "Barren Grounds" within the Arctic circle, some venturing beyond the Arctic archipelago, even as high as latitude 81, far up in the region of everlasting snow and ice. The plovers arrive in this inhospitable land during the first week of June, when the snow is hardly melted and the little lakes are locked in ice. Here they hurry to make shabby little nests in the moss, only a few inches above the frozen ground, where they lay their eggs and rear their young. As soon as the young birds can fly, in August, the flocks shift their quarters to Labrador, where they grow fat on the black berries which cover the ground during the summer season. Then they are ready for their wonderful flight.

Over Labrador and Nova Scotia they fly, and leaving the coast of the latter country they strike directly southward through the trackless sea. Over more than eighteen hundred miles of ocean they urge their aerial journey to the easternmost of the West Indies, where some of them break their flight and rest for a time, though others keep on and on, until the mainland of South America is reached, twenty-four hundred miles from the Nova Scotian shore.

Even on the north coast of South America the plovers' journey is not ended, for after a brief halt the southward flight is resumed, across the eastern part of Brazil, until the plains of Argentina are reached, almost down to Patagonia, where they remain from September to March. The native birds are busy with their nesting, for this is summer in the southern hemisphere; but the visitors from the north never nest in the south, though the climate is favorable and food is abundant.

When March comes instinct awakens in the golden plover, some mysterious influence calls it once more to begin its wanderings. Northward it flies again, but not over the route by which it came south. The course of the first part of their spring migration is yet unknown, but in March they appear in Guatemala and Texas. By April the long lines are winging their northward way over the Mississippi prairies; early in May they enter Canada, and by June the plovers are once more in the land of the midnight sun. Eight thousand miles they have flown northward from the southern limit of their winter home; 8,000 miles they will go again when the nesting season is over, and their northern and their southern routes are 3,000 miles apart. No one knows just why the golden plover makes this long journey in fact, no one knows why any of the birds migrate.—Henry Holcomb Bennett in St. Nicholas.

ESKIMO HOSPITALITY.

The usual sights on entering are: On the way opposite you a steamer-like berth, covered with skins—the sleeping quarters of the family; underneath, or in front, sit one or two of the women, busily sewing; to the right, a man making hunting gear. Never will you find an Eskimo family idle. All occupants are naked to the waist, sometimes only covered with a loin cloth. Along the wall on either side burn several lamps. These lamps are shallow soapstone basins filled with the oil of the seal, whale or walrus; along the edge is placed a little ridge of moss which answers the purpose of the wick in our lamps. The lamps do not smoke, and besides illuminating, throw a great heat. Above the lamps are shallow soapstone basins filled with the oil of the seal, whale or walrus; along the edge is placed a little ridge of moss which answers the purpose of the wick in our lamps. The lamps do not smoke, and besides illuminating, throw a great heat. Above the lamps are shallow soapstone basins filled with the oil of the seal, whale or walrus; along the edge is placed a little ridge of moss which answers the purpose of the wick in our lamps.

You are cordially invited to take off your things and stay a while. This means discarding to the same extent, for the air is foul and the temperature that of a Turkish bath. If you come during the meal time, which is at any hour of the day, you are cordially invited to partake; you decline and no offence is given. If the meal consists of frozen fish, blubber, or something they know the white man abhors, some joker will especially entreat you to join his dish and then there is a great laugh all around. The Eskimo loves to laugh, play practical jokes on his friends, respond in witticisms, and is of a happy, childlike disposition. Treachery, stealing and lying are practically unknown among them; the two latter only since some of them have imitated the white man. I am not including the Siberian, Greenland or Labrador Eskimo.—Capt. F. E. Kleinschmidt in Pacific Monthly.

The board of public works and health department of the city is this spring paying more attention to the removal of garbage, than ever before, and it is evident that Ishpeming's streets and alleys will be kept cleaner than usual. Dr. R. A. Burke, the health officer, recently issued a general notice to the property owners, asking them to clean their lots and remove the refuse to the alley or before the 15th of May 2nd, 1911, by the health committee of the common council, board of public works and the health officer, of this city, it was decided unless this request is complied with, to enforce the ordinance relating to removing manure, manure boxes and other offensive garbage from alleys or other public grounds in this city.

ARKANSAS DIAMOND MINE.
 Connecticut Yankee Makes It Pay by Selling Admission Tickets.

Down in Arkansas is a man who owns a diamond mine and makes money out of it. He does it by selling tickets of admission, and his property is the one steadiest revenue producer among all the diamond mines in the world. The tickets cost 50 cents apiece, and the audience, or whatever they rightly may be called, are at liberty to keep all the diamonds they find. This man is M. M. Mauney, and his business methods clearly indicate his Connecticut origin.

But Mr. Mauney does not own the only diamond mine in the Arkansas diamond field. Six separate properties in it are held by incorporated companies and two by individuals. Mr. Mauney being one of these two. In 1909 about 1600 diamonds were taken from this field.

The Arkansas Diamond Company, the most ambitious operator in the field, began explorations in the latter part of 1909 by sinking a number of prospecting pits and by the erection of a small diamond-washing plant. By March, 1910, the little plant had taken out about 800 diamonds, and the construction of a larger plant was under consideration.

The twenty-five stones belonging to the Arkansas Diamond Company which have been cut are regarded with high favor by those interested. They are all described as very brilliant, among them being several fine blues and some pure whites. Among the uncut stones is mentioned one which is a pure white recent, for which the company has been offered $125 per carat.

Diamonds have been found in several other states, principally in California. Two of these gems were picked out of a rock with which a man named George Stone was washing gold in an old placer and hydraulic mine at Cherokee Flats, Butte County, last year. But Mr. Stone was not a diamond expert, and the stones were saved merely because they were attractive. One of them was sold for $10. It is stated that not less than 200 diamonds have been taken from the placer grounds at Cherokee Flats and thereabout.

As interesting as any, however, are the diamond discoveries in Indiana, a state where it is recognized that anything may happen. In 1908 a stone weighing about one carat was found by R. L. Royce some distance north of Martinsville, Morgan County, and other diamonds found in the same region are still in the hands of the finders.

A diamond said to be worth $500 was found at Massena, N. Y., about twenty years ago by L. J. Barbour, who discovered it while blasting some rock at that place. While the rock was being removed Mr. Barbour noticed the crystal and picked it up. Jewelers who examined it pronounced it a diamond and a beauty. It is said now to be in the possession of Mrs. Barbour, who is living at Farmington, N. H.

Gately's Spring Suits

Are now $5.00 less than any previous year.

It is simply second nature for Gately's to show more choice in more value at less price than any other concern. Because Gately's count on the volume of business they do, and their enormous purchasing power enables them to "Buy for less and sell for less."

Now then, some folks are crying "Hard Times." We haven't felt any—and don't want to—so we took full advantage of every cash buying concession, and we therefore bought even heavier than usual for this spring. Which fact coupled with a preference for plenty of business at less profits makes the head lines exactly true, and places Gately's value beyond all hope of competition.

Bond Issue Proposed

A special meeting of the directors of the Delta County Agricultural Society will be held at the office of Secretary T. E. Strum at Escanaba next Monday evening to consider the advisability of issuing bonds. It is proposed to hold a county fair the coming fall and the money it is planned to raise will be used in constructing buildings at grounds already prepared.

False Teeth Picked Up

Henry O'Brien, an employee of the Menominee River Sugar company, while going to work at Menominee the other morning found an upper set of false teeth along the railroad track. Evidently some woman—they appeared to be women's—had stuck her head out of the window and the jar of the train or a coughing spell had caused the teeth to fly out of her mouth.

Alleged Poisoner Acquitted

In Justice Linden's court at Escanaba Joseph Ziegler of Cornell township was tried this week on a charge of dog poisoning and was acquitted. There was no proof submitted to show that Ziegler had scattered poisoned meat promiscuously about, as alleged. The charge was preferred by Thomas Aleksans, whose dog had died of alleged poisoning.

Loose Job at Washington

Owing to the change in politics at the national capital and the resultant election, Lieutenant John O'Connell, of Iron Mountain, who has been one of the police members of the Washington office for the past several years, is now out of the service and has returned to the Menominee iron range. He has been appointed a game warden, with headquarters at Crystal Falls.

Is Convicted of Theft

Walter Duer of Fond du Lac, who was tried on the charge of stealing $820 from Mrs. Emma Church of Green Bay at the National Hotel in Menominee, was found guilty in that city this week, after the jury had deliberated for four hours on the case. Duer and Mrs. Church were on their way to Duluth, and stayed a few days at Menominee. Following the alleged robbery the man disappeared. Later he was arrested in Wisconsin and served a year at Waupun prison, having been convicted, it is said, of the charge of deserting his family at Green Bay.

Channel Being Deepened

The Menominee River Sugar company is dredging along its docks at Menominee to make the channel deeper. The dock is 100 feet long, and at the present time the channel is but fifteen or sixteen feet deep, sometimes not deep enough to permit big boats to load or unload there. It is the purpose to make the channel eighteen feet deep. Few big boats unload at this dock, but those that do are the largest on Green Bay. The futile attempts of the steamer Amazon to get to this dock showed the need of dredging. At that time the boat became stuck while drawing but thirteen feet of water.

Veteran Conductor Very Ill

William Jones, a veteran Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul passenger conductor, is in a Milwaukee hospital receiving treatment for blood poisoning and it is said he cannot recover. About a year ago, at the Iron Mountain station, Mr. Jones was attacked by a drunkard who, in defending himself, the conductor struck the man a violent blow in the mouth. His knuckles were cut by coming in contact with the fellow's teeth. The wound was considered trifling and no extra attention was given the cut until blood poisoning set in. It is now feared that even amputation of the arm cannot save his life. Conductor Jones is one of the oldest conductors on the Lake Superior division of the St. Paul road and has many friends in the upper peninsula.

Peculiar Coincidence

A unique coincidence was offered in the recent trial of the case of ex-Superintendent F. D. Davis against the Escanaba board of education. Attorney M. J. Doyle, leading counsel for the plaintiff, is a member of the board of education at Menominee. Attorney N. C. Spencer, one of the attorneys for the defendant, is a member of the board of education of Escanaba. Judge R. C. Flannigan, before whom the case was heard and argued, is a member of the board of education at Norway. Such a mingling of school board members in the trial of a case growing out of school affairs probably was never before recorded in the peninsula. Mr. Davis, who is suing for salary under the terms of a three-year contract which was repudiated by the present Escanaba board, will, it is stated, appeal to the state supreme court, Judge Flannigan having ruled against him.

City Plant a Bonanza

Escanaba's municipal lighting plant is surely a money-maker. In fact, it is a bonanza and the best thing the city owns in the way of producing returns on the investment. According to the financial statement covering the period from March 1, 1910, to March 1, 1911, the plant was operated at a profit of $26,038.41, or about double the amount of profit the previous year. The cash on hand March 1, 1910, was $3,047.75 and one year later was $18,740.15. The gross earnings were $53,771.52 and the net earnings $50,616.44. The operating expenses were $29,437.01, leaving $21,179.43 the profit of operating, while the receipts from other sources amounted to $1,858.08 more, making the total profit $22,038.41. From this profit, however, there must be deducted the depreciation, which amounts to $6,499.48, leaving $15,539.93 as the actual net profit. On Feb. 28, 1911, the total number of consumers was 1,289, of which number 1,120 used electricity and 169 gas. The valuation of the plant March 1 was $71,120.03, as against $69,461.79 April 30, 1910. Extensions made during the year cost $8,157.72. The plant procures its electricity at a very low rate from the power company, which has harnessed the Escanaba river and which is now about to build a second dam.

Convicted of Deserting Family

Charles Olson, charged with the desertion of his wife and child, was found guilty in about a half hour by a circuit court jury at Menominee. Olson told an unusual story. He said his wife was planning to bring suit against a neighbor for slander and he did not wish to be brought into the case because of the publicity it would give family matters. For that reason he went to Escanaba. Olson asserted he wrote to his wife from that city and asked her to join him and make her home there. He said she refused and he was arrested for desertion. In his charge to the jury Judge Flannigan said if the jury believed Mrs. Olson's good name had been in jeopardy when she intended to bring suit for slander it was Olson's duty to stay with her and defend her, but that if it was believed Olson had good reason to go to Escanaba, and offered to take his wife to live with him there, then he was not guilty. Olson has not yet been sentenced.

Damage Suit Sequel to Murder

Two years ago last New Year's day a Finn was killed in a saloon brawl at Mansfield, says the Crystal Falls Drill. The matter attracted quite a deal of attention, as the affair was a particularly bad one, the day being a legal holiday, but the conditions were such that it was hard to fasten the responsibility upon anyone. The prosecuting attorney spent three days examining witnesses and trying to get evidence upon which to base a criminal case, but no clamor was made for the parties on both sides that he was unable to get such testimony as he deemed needed. Rather than put the county to a big expense, which he knew must end in failure, he refused to direct any arrests and the case was dropped. It seems now that there is every indication of a revival of the case on the civil side of the court. A suit has been commenced by the heirs of Macki, the man killed, against John Anesi, the saloon keeper, and his bondsmen, Raphael Motke and Roger Jackson. It is said that the papers were served during the week and that the case will come to trial soon. If this information is correct it is the first time that a suit has resulted from a saloon row in Iron county since the opening wedge for a line of damage cases, that will make it extremely hazardous to go on saloon bonds where so much of the population is foreign and saloon brawls are frequent and hard to evade.

W. Frank Knox's Post

It has already been related in the dispatches that President Taft has appointed W. Frank Knox, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., a member of the board of Indian commissioners, of the interior department. This commission acts in an advisory capacity to the secretary of the interior in all matters relating to the conduct of the many government Indian schools throughout the country, in the purchase of supplies for the Indian schools and agencies and in all matters relating to Indian affairs. Secretary Fisher announces that he intends making this commission a most important aid in the conduct of Indian affairs. Questions of considerable importance, involving large sums of money, have grown out of the settlement of Indian reservations in the west, particularly in Oklahoma and New Mexico and Arizona. Millions of dollars' worth of valuable agricultural lands are in process of transfer from the Indians to the settlers who are going on the lands and this condition has invited attempted frauds and produced scandals, one of which involving several millions of dollars reached the floors of congress during the last session and resulted in a sensational inquiry. All of these matters will come before the commission for investigation. The last member of the commission, supplied by Michigan, is ex-Governor Jerome. The position is an honorary one with no salary attached.

CALUMET & HECLA.

The fact that F. W. Denton, the general manager of the Copper Range properties, had brought an action to restrain the holding of the adjourned meeting of the Calumet Mining company, has been taken to indicate that Mr. Denton was aggressively opposed to the Calumet & Hecla merger. Such is not the fact. Mr. Denton is related by marriage to the Chadbourne family. In fact his wife, Hannah C. Denton, is a daughter of the late Thomas Chadbourne. Mr. Denton's application for an injunction was brought only by virtue of the fact that no executors had been appointed for the Chadbourne estate, and it was impossible, therefore, for the estate to bring an action in its own name. In compliance with the wishes of the Chadbourne heirs, Mr. Denton consented to allow the bill to be filed in his name. The matter is purely a personal one and Mr. Denton's family position in the matter should not be construed as in any manner reflecting the position of the Copper Range company. It has been assumed that if the Chadbourne request of President Shaw to allow a representative to examine the Calumet & Hecla property were granted, Mr. Denton would be the man to make the examination. While no answer has yet been made it can be said that if his request is accorded to and an examination is made, it will not be made by Mr. Denton.

THE OLDEST BRITON.

A Man Estimated to Be 170,000 Years Old—What Scientists Say of Him.

The fossil remains of the Galley Hill man were discovered by Mr. Robert Elliott, a printer in Underwood and a zealous collector of everything which throws light on the prehistoric inhabitants in the South of England. On a day towards the end of September, 1888, he and his son Richard set out to visit certain gravel-pits which were being worked in the valley of the river, from which it is separated by a distance of some miles above Gravesend—one of them being the pit at Galley Hill. At this place the main road from Gravesend to London passes near the edge of a great bank of chalk, which rises up about ninety feet above the level of the river, from which it is separated by a distance of some miles above Gravesend—one of them being the pit at Galley Hill. The bank of chalk is worked by the numerous cement factories scattered along its base. On the top of the chalk is an extensive bed of gravel some ten feet deep, which has to be removed as the chalk-pits are extended. In the gravel were discovered the bones of the Galley Hill man, and it is regarded by them, and with good reason, as an ancient bed of the Thames. In the gravel the old, or palaeolithic, form of flint implements are found; so are remains of the mammoth and other animals which existed in England when the glacial period was at an end. In those days, just as at the present time, the river engulphed, entombed, and in some cases preserved in its bed many things which might be caught in its flood.

On reaching the Galley Hill pit, Mr. Elliott found the flint tools, including a hand-axe and a sharp edge for such things as archaeological value. Jack had something of particular interest for his visitors—namely, a human skull which he found in a sandy clay layer of the gravel pit, indicating the level of the river at the time the skull was eight feet from the surface of the gravel and two feet above the chalk—too deep to be accounted for by supposing to be a burial. Fortunately, Mr. Matthew Hayes, now schoolmaster at Greenhithe, saw the skull when first exposed, before it was removed to the highest level of the gravel, and in its natural and undisturbed state. The skull was already uncovered and taken out, but the other bones of the skeleton were still embedded in the sandy clay, and were excavated by Mr. Elliott with great care—they were soft and very fragile. He also observed that the overlying gravel was just as the river Thames had laid it down. Further, the condition of the bones, certain primitive points in structure, and the fact that remains of a similar type of a man have been found on several occasions in ancient strata below the level of the river, led him to believe that the remains discovered by Mr. Elliott were those of a man who lived in England when the Thames, carrying probably a larger volume of water than it now does, flowed on land which was nearly 100 feet above its present level.

GUILT AND A TOP HAT.

The Curious Clew That Captured Some French Robbers.

A very clever stroke of business has just been accomplished by the Criminal Detective Department, which has succeeded in capturing a masked band of four robbers, owing to the simple information that one of them was wearing a top hat when they tried to break into a house in the country in the middle of January. The house was inhabited by an old lady in very comfortable circumstances, and her maid. They were aroused on that night from their slumbers by the barking of the dog, and the maid, observing that the door was open, opened a window, beheld several men in the garden, one of whom was trying to pick the lock of the front door. Enjoining silence, he pointed a revolver at her; but she rushed up to the roof, and pulled vigorously at an alarm bell, which in the previous arrangement with the neighbors was to bring them to the spot if trouble came. Lights promptly flashed out at the windows of the houses nearer and men called out, "Don't be afraid; we are coming to your assistance."

great giants for their aid; but when his ship was wrecked or his crops failed for lack of rain, he sought to appease their anger with sacrifices upon his rude altar. Ages passed before man learned that these forces were as willing to work for us as against him, if only he could learn the secrets of control.

The history of the world is largely the story of how man has obtained increasing mastery over these nature giants and used their powers in the tasks of progress.

At the first nature giant that man tamed by his use. Probably, from seeing a tree swayed by this mighty power, man came, at last, to reason that if the tree was aboard a boat, the boat would move in the direction of the wind; so he made a mast from a tree-trunk, and rigged up some rude sail from skins of animals, to take the place of leaves, and found that he could go much faster and farther than with his paddle alone. Gradually, then, he learned also by means of "steering," to sail in any desired direction, no matter which the wind blew. Thus he had discovered the principal used by every sailing vessel since. Later he devised the windmill for grinding grain and drawing water. A balloonist, by going higher or lower, can likewise find a current of air that will take him in almost any direction, and man has traveled thousands of miles by this means. The kite also makes use of the wind-power, and has suggested the aeroplane, which man has now made possible through later discoveries. The vacuum cleaner is another way in which the power of air in motion is used.

As yet man cannot perfectly control the wind giant, for cyclones sometimes do great damage on land and sea, but even this occasional damage may yet be subdued.

State Pure Food Inspector John Rowe, is already in the dictionary for this very use, and that is so persistently ignored by the people that apparently those calling for a word do not know that telephono or telephony is already given place in the list of words, with derivation as to its last syllable from the Greek word meaning speech. The composition is right enough, but the word is likely to stay in the dictionary. If a single word must be had for telephone message and just telephone itself does not appeal, the logical phrase is telephonogram. Already in good standing is telephonograph, to designate the receiving instrument for recording telephone messages. Then the telephone message is obviously a telephonogram, though that word escapes attention entirely in the list of more than a hundred offered.—New Bedford Standard.

COLD, UNFEELING WRETCH.

Though His Wife Had Saved Him Money, He Doesn't Rejoice.

"John, will you please unhook my waist?"
"All right, as soon as I get my collar off."
"Don't you think this dress is becoming?"
"Yes."
"Think it makes me look slimmer than I look in any of the rest of my dresses, don't you?"
"I guess so."
"Did you see anybody there who was dressed in better taste than I?"
"No."
"And think how cheaply I got it made. Do you remember that pink dress I had two years ago?"
"I dunno."
"Oh, yes, you remember it, John. The one I had made when I went to St. Louis. Would you suspect that I have had all the bead trimming from that gown put on this one?"
"No."
"Well, I have. If I bought it new it would have cost $25. Don't you think I manage well?"
"Uh huh."
"Do you suppose there's another woman in this town who dresses as splendidly as I do on what you allow me for clothes?"
"I've never thought anything about it."
"Well, you would think about it if you got such bills as most women make their husbands pay. Did you see any one there who looked better than I did?"
"I didn't look around much."
"Did you ever see me when I looked better?"
"I guess not."
"Think what it means to you when I make such a fine appearance. Everybody must get an impression that you are able to give me much larger allowances than you do for clothes. It gives the impression that you are prosperous. Can't you see what an advantage it is to have people get such an idea?"
"O, pshaw! One might as well talk a stick as to you!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Council Will Hold Special Meeting Next Monday Afternoon.

Consulting Engineer Feesing came down from the copper country Thursday to attend the meeting of the council that evening. He anticipated that matters pertaining to the paving of iron street would be considered, but the council decided to hold a special meeting for that purpose next Monday afternoon. Before going into session the members of the council will visit the old and new cemeteries to inspect the work being done there. If it is found that everything is not moving satisfactorily, cemetery matters will also be considered at the special meeting. It is expected that the council will decide Monday to proceed ahead with the paving work.

EXPERT REPORTS ON POWER PLANT

Expenditure of $15,000 Needed to Put It in First-Class Equipment.

W. H. Yates appeared before the council Thursday evening to present a report upon the condition of the municipal electric and boiler plants, he having previously been instructed to look them over with a view to determining what improvements are necessary to put the plants in first-class condition.

Mr. Yates' report, which covers a number of typewritten pages, is in detail and the members of the council were so impressed by it that they instructed him to prepare plans for the proposed improvements.

Mr. Yates' report sets forth exactly what each engine and boiler was doing and what it is capable of doing. He said that the Atlas engine, which has been in use for some years, is not in good condition and that it does not help out the turbine as it should. The engine was originally rated at 225-horsepower on 120 pounds of steam. The engine, he declared, is much too small for the plant, even if it were in good condition. The engine is not economical, to start with, and both it and the condenser are of the cheapest construction. The plant at the present time requires a 320-horsepower engine, in order to obtain the best results.

The Worthington turbine, Mr. Yates reported, is of splendid design and is economical, but it is not giving the best of service, owing to the condition of the Atlas engine. It was never intended that the turbine should run a twenty-four-hour service continually, but this has been necessary much of the time for the past two years. The equipment at the power house should have 150 pounds of steam, but the present boiler plant can give only 120 pounds.

The electrical part of the turbine, Mr. Yates reported, is, on the whole, in good condition, and needs no particular attention at this time. The Stanley alternator is a good unit and should be retained, and with proper engine to drive it a separate induction motor driven turbine exciter should have been purchased for the turbine at the time it was installed. At present this is the piece of apparatus most needed in the station.

REPORT ON LIGHTING PLANT.

Receipts For Service for March a Little Larger Than March Last Year.

J. T. Burns, clerk of the board of public works, reported to the council Thursday evening that the receipts for lighting service in March were $1,969.43, compared with $1,918.97 in the corresponding month last year. The sales of electrical material in March were $297.31, compared with $292.27 in March, 1910. In April 135 incandescent lights were added to the circuit, making the total now in use 9,556. There are now sixty-seven street lights on the circuit and ten commercial arcs.

According to the monthly report of Superintendent A. F. Willman, of the board of public works, 155 tons of coal were consumed in the operation of the electric lighting plant in April, compared with 180 tons in April, 1910. The number of kilowatts generated in the operation of the incandescent service was 30,640, compared with 29,400 in March of last year. In the generating of the street lighting, 4,492 kilowatts were consumed.

In the operation of the water works during the month was 45,702, compared with 43,492 in April last year. The committee of streets and highways reported that $247.99 had been expended in April. Of this amount, $146 was for plowing roads, walks and shoveling snow; $88.30, opening roads in the new country; $17.25, for opening gutters and alleys; $384.25, cleaning streets; $82 hauling sidewalk and curb filling; $14.74, sanding walks and cleaning crossings.

TABOO CRACKERS AND PISTOLS.

The Marquette-Alger County Medical society sent a communication to the council Thursday evening, calling attention to the fact that the Marquette City council had, at a recent meeting, adopted an ordinance prohibiting the sale and use of large fire crackers and toy pistols within the city limits, and suggesting that the Negaunee council take similar action. The sale and use of cannon crackers and toy pistols is being prohibited in many cities throughout the United States. The toy pistol, the physicians contend, is a more dangerous article than the fire crackers, as it has been found in recent years that a larger number of fatal cases of lockjaw have developed among children using toy pistols than have resulted from injuries received from other noise making devices. The city attorney was instructed to draft a resolution prohibiting the sale and use of these articles in Negaunee prior to and on the Fourth.

QUEER IRISH "REMEDIES." A correspondent sends the Lancet the following list of "remedies," drawing attention to the almost incredible fact that such superstitions still linger in out-of-the-way places in Ireland and Wales. The first five remedies are for epilepsy and come from Roscommon:

Where a person falls at the time of the first attack, if on a flagged pavement or in a court, at once lift a flag. Kill a fowl and cut a piece of the warm flesh. Place the bit of fowl with a silver coin in the hole and replace the flag, and there will be no return of the fit.

A child fell on a road on her way to school, having an attack of epilepsy for the first time. An old woman ran from her house and said, "Don't touch the child!" She then undressed the girl, and taking the chemise, she burned it, then redressed the girl with a new chemise in place of the burned one.

Dig a hole in the road where the person falls and put in a silver coin.

Procure the milk of a foal (not a mare), which is very rare, and give a teaspoonful three times a day.

For warts the following recipe is held good in County Mayo: Cut twelve pieces of straw with the joints in the centre of each piece, place them in a hole in the ground, and as they decay the warts will wither. For shingles, an old Welsh gardener told his mistress that he was able to cure the affection by passing his hands over the affected parts, as he was the great-grandson of a man who had shot and eaten a bit of an eagle, which had given him and his descendants this miraculous power.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right" when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

NO TREES BUT FOR THE BIRDS

At the Methodist Church Last Evening, Dr. E. R. Downing Told How Useful Is the Feathered Tribe in Destroying Insects and Other Destructive Pests.

Spoke Only of Species Found in the Vicinity of Marquette—Some of Their Habits and Reasons for Them—Young Folks Have a Part in a Good Program.

As the principal feature of an enjoyable program at the Methodist church last evening, Dr. E. R. Downing, of the Normal school faculty, delivered a lecture on "Birds." Dr. Downing confined his remarks entirely to birds found in Marquette and vicinity, and each species that he described was made to appear before his audience by means of stereopticon views. The lecture proved very interesting and those who heard it cannot but be more observant of and more interested in the feathered tribe than they were before.

Incidentally, the lecture was a powerful plea to foster bird life, and to protect them in every way possible. "If there were no birds, there would be all probability no trees," said Dr. Downing. "Birds are the great protecting agency of forest life. Nearly all birds destroy insects and other pests that are harmful to tree life and other vegetation, and with the possible exception of the English sparrow, there is not a species that does more good than harm."

Dr. Downing began his discussion of native birds with the crow, which he described as very cunning and discreet. He stated that the raven and the crow are often mistaken for each other, though the raven is larger and more generally is found in the deep woods. He said the public owed a great deal to the woodpecker family which is one of the most effective insect destroyers of the bird family. From thirty to 100 wood boring grubs are the daily catch of a woodpecker. Sapsuckers, he said, are often blamed for eating into trees, and it is generally supposed that they are after the sap. This is a mistaken idea, as they simply dig holes to start the sap, that the birds can catch them. The good they do much more than offsets the damage they do to trees.

Among other common birds which were described so that those in the audience can recognize them hereafter were the chick-a-dee, the blue jay, the wild canary, the cedar waxwing, the crossbill, the kingbird, the phoebe, the bobolink, the belted kingfisher, and the various thrushes.

"When one thinks of sparrows, he usually thinks of English sparrows," said Dr. Downing. "As a matter of fact, there are about twenty different kinds of sparrows to be found in this locality. All of them, with the possible exception of the English sparrow, are useful and beautiful birds. There are also a great number of birds here that belong to the thrush family. The robin found here is not the robin red breast of the East, but is a red breasted thrush."

"Birds are great travelers, and some of the species found here in the summer time migrate as far south as Patagonia in the winter. It is quite remarkable that birds usually come back to the same general locality every spring and fall, and often build their nests in the same place year after year."

Males Wear Bright Dress.
"It is commonly known that the males of most species of birds have more gaudy plumage than females. There is a reason for this. The female has the important function of sitting on the nest and hatching out the young. Her somber coat makes her inconspicuous and so protects her from discovery by destructive animals. For the same reason, birds eggs are usually much the same color as the material of which they build their nests. There is one bird that builds no nest of its own, the cow bird, but lays an egg in the nest of another bird, the result often being that the little cow bird is so much larger than the rest of the brood that it gets most of the food."

"Michigan has a high regard for her birds and it is unlawful to kill all kinds of birds except English sparrows, crows and a few species of hawks. There is a heavy penalty imposed upon conviction of bird killing."

Dr. Downing's lecture was preceded and followed by several musical and literary numbers presented by the young people of the church and congregation. All of these numbers were entertainingly given and were greatly enjoyed. A good sized audience was in attendance.

LARGE MAJORITY FAVOR BOND ISSUE

By Vote of Nearly Four to One Water Works Intake Extension Was Authorized.

That Marquette will in the very near future have a pure water supply for which it need not make apology, is practically certain as the result of the special election held yesterday. The $75,000 bond issue asked for by the board to extend the intake about 3,000 feet into seventy feet of water was carried by a majority of nearly four to one. Of the 488 votes cast yesterday, 386 were in favor of the bond issue and 102 against it.

While only a small percentage of the electors of the city voted on the proposition, the vote was larger than had been anticipated by many, inasmuch as the question had been voted on and carried a year ago, and a second election was necessary only to obviate any possibility of the former election having been technically illegal. Now that the voters have sanctioned the desired issue of bonds, the water board will at once take steps toward selling the bonds and the work of extending the intake will be begun and possibly finished this year. The water board has anticipated the result of yesterday's election in some degree, having already engaged Hering & Fuller of New York, to take general charge of the construction of the intake. Plans and specifications are already in the hands of the board, and as the preliminary work is already out of the way, actual letting of the contract and the beginning of work may be expected within a short time.

Guild Hall Notes

The Guild Hall baseball team will play its first game of the season at 2 o'clock this afternoon on Longyear Field, against the Marquette city team. The lineup of the Guild Hall team will be: Christensen, Hatcher, pitchers; Thayer, Johnson, catchers; Catlin, first base; Bastion, second base; Frei, short stop; F. Johnson, third base; Bowser, Quarters, and Hayes, in the field. A carload of clay has been put in the infield, widening the base lines and filling some of the low places, and the diamond smoothed so that the Guild Hall has as good a diamond as there is in the city. The team expects to have a successful season and promises to make the city team play real ball this afternoon if it wants to win.

The F club will play a game on Longyear field this morning at 9 o'clock, and the S club will have a game this afternoon at 1:30.

The younger members of the D club will not go to Lakewood for May flowers this morning, as has been reported by some. Instead they will have the regular gym class at 10 o'clock.

The Car That's Famed For Hill Climbing

Our Mr. Frank Shoblaske will start out from Munising on Monday next to demonstrate the car at Marquette, Negaunee, Ishpeming, Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls and Iron River

LOOK at this partial list of Marion victories. There is Boyce in his famous Marion that thundered through the mud and driving rain from Charleston to Indianapolis without a hitch---365 miles---in 26 hours. There is Monson, in the car that took second place in the Elgin National Road Races, and also the Marion that flew in just three seconds behind the 90 H. P. Simplex---at Brighton Beach---taking second place. There are the Milo and Algonquin Hill Climb trophies captured by the

MARION

Marion "Forty" Five-Passenger Car $1,650.

The Marion factory has never turned out a special racing car. The cars that do the racing are identical with the cars you buy from the Marion dealer.

The Marion car is handsome to look upon. Take the "45"—at $1,700—shown below. It is the masterpiece of our thousand picked men. It is a good, large, roomy car—one that is built for comfort as well as to stand the strain of the most severe usage. Every line, every curve, shows its distinctiveness.

Make it a point to see the Marion car. We will be glad to take you for a ride and answer specifically any questions or doubts you might have in mind. Get in touch with our demonstrator, or write us for the Marion book on the "Thousand Man Car."
