

BIG CITY IN CHINA IS IN REBEL HANDS

Feeling of the Populace Inflamed by an Execution of Prisoners, a Successful Revolution Breaks Out at Wu Chang, the Capital of Hu Peh Province.

Troops Join the Movement, Their Commander Is Killed and Victory Escapes Only by Flight—Foreigners Are Not Molested—Nationwide Revolt Now Feared.

Hankow, China, Oct. 11.—Revolutionists are today in undisputed possession of Wu Chang. The capture of the city was the climax of a series of sudden developments during the past twenty-four hours, all of which came about as a result of the tremendous feeling aroused by the execution of four rebels.

Foreigners Are Safe. Among the foreigners known to have been in Wu Chang yesterday are twenty-five American missionaries. With the revolutionists in control of a great and important city, it is hard to estimate how fast or far the movement spread.

The fear of the officials now is that the disaffected among the troops spread to this city, and every effort is being made to ward off this danger. Five gunboats are now in the river, in readiness to protect Hankow should the necessity arise.

Most Serious Revolt in Years. Pekin, Thursday, Oct. 12.—The United States gunboat Villalobos is now at Hankow and the United States gunboat Helena is expected to arrive shortly.

A fugitive colonel of the Chinese army informs the correspondents of the Associated Press at Hankow that the entire provincial army, with the exception of two or three thousand men has mutinied.

Wu Chang Big and Important.

Wu Chang is the capital of the central province of Hu Peh and a town of about six hundred thousand inhabitants. It is situated just across the Yangtze river from Hankow, and in a sense the two may be regarded as one city of 1,500,000 souls.

Wu Chang and Hankow, as great trade centers and ports for ocean steamers, have both felt to a considerable extent the influence of Western civilization. Both towns possess electric lighting systems, cotton mills, silk factories and schools.

Dismemberment Threatens Empire. The outbreak of revolution in Wu Chang appears to have come with the suddenness of rain from clear skies, and it can only be taken as an indication of the widespread disaffection throughout China.

Manufacture of Armor Plate Is Left Open to All American Steel Concerns.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—A decision of world-wide importance was handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals here today when it dismissed four suits brought by the Krupp company against Germany.

When the latest processes of armor plate manufacture by the Krupp company became known, the United States government became interested and it resulted in the Carnegie Steel company, now a part of the United States Steel company, and the Bethlehem Steel company obtaining licenses to manufacture armor plate.

It is said that had the Midvale company lost its suit, it might have been shut out in successful bidding by the concerns holding licenses to manufacture armor plate on the Krupp process.

MARQUETTE, MICH., OCT. 12.

THE EQUALIZATION.

If Marquette finds fault with the equalization approved by a majority of the supervisors yesterday, it can expect to hear the comment that it doesn't know when it is well off.

But still Marquette is not satisfied. Its supervisors refused to ratify the equalization that a majority of the board adopted.

With almost equal step the effort to poison the public mind and to prevent a fair trial has continued.

The session of the equalization committee has shown clearly the necessity for a better method of determining property values in the county.

It is commonplace and tiresome to make a plea for a suspension of judgment. Yet such suspension of judgment is the only attitude compatible with true allegiance to law and order.

rehearsable one that the McNamara are, of course, guilty and that the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times was simply one of a long series of outrages authorized and financed by the labor unions.

It is hardly necessary to point out that both of these assumptions indicate a lawlessness of spirit—one about as lawless as the other. The lawlessness consists in the prejudging. Any man who dogmatically says that he knows that the McNamara are innocent, or any man who dogmatically says that he knows they are guilty, is doing what he can to interfere with the administration of justice, and cannot claim to be a friend of either law or order.

The first serious offender against the spirit of the law was Detective Burns. He gravely offended when he made the arrests under circumstances that did not allow the arrested a chance to exercise their full legal rights.

Yet a responsible court in Indianapolis has ruled that the behavior of Burns was illegal, and that the men were illegally taken out of the state.

Then up rose Samuel Gompers, the most representative of the labor leaders. He shouted that the men were innocent, that their arrest was the result of a capitalist conspiracy, and the alleged evidence against them was fabricated by hiring detectives.

With almost equal step the effort to poison the public mind and to prevent a fair trial has continued.

Gogebic, Dickinson and Iron counties, the state tax commission has announced the valuation of all the known iron mines on the Michigan ranges at $85,637,000. This is a reduction of $33,512,500 from the final valuation of $119,150,000, but a heavy increase over the local figures. The tax commissioners had both Expert Finlay's data and the local assessors figures as a basis to work on, and the valuation given in the iron properties is probably the most equitable it is possible to reach under existing methods.—Calumet News.

TELLING THEM HOW TO HANDLE EXPLOSIVES IS STILL LOOKING UP MILITARY CAMP SITES

National Bureau Inspector Is Instructing Copper Country Railroad Employees.

The Copper Range railroad has issued an order to all of its employees who can conveniently do so to assemble in the men's waiting room of the Houghton passenger station today for the purpose of listening to an address on the handling and marking of dangerous freights by C. A. Newell, an inspector of the bureau of explosives of the American Railway association who is in Houghton for the purpose of instructing railroad men in this highly important branch of their work.

The bureau of explosives of the American Railway association was organized in 1907 for the purpose of establishing uniform regulations of the shipping of explosives. All dangerous freights were included under the head of explosives till Oct. 1, this year, when a second class, including all inflammable materials and acids, was established to permit of special regulations. Mr. Newell is now instructing copper country railroad men in the regulations governing both classes.

Railroad Men Careless.

Up to 1907 little distinction was made in freights by railroad men. They would put a car of dynamite or matches of ammunition into a mixed freight train with no distinguishing marks and would handle such cars with the carelessness that familiarity breeds. The result was frequent explosions and fires and a consequent loss of life. The American Railway association desired to prevent the loss of life first and the property loss second and for this purpose the bureau of explosives was formed under the direct supervision of Colonel R. W. Dunn, formerly of the United States army. Local inspectors, such as Mr. Newell, were appointed, instructed in the work and sent out among railroad men to pass on these instructions.

The association's reports for the past four years show the beneficial results. In 1907, the first year of the bureau, the property loss as the result of explosions in transit was $496,820 and 80 people were injured and fifty-two killed. These figures were reduced to $114,622 property loss, fifty-three injured and twenty-six killed in 1908. The figures in 1909 were $2,673 property loss, seven injured and six killed. Last year the property loss was greater than in the preceding year, but only one person was killed and one injured. These figures are for the United States. The bureau of explosives is conducted with the approval of the inter state commerce commission.

Mr. Newell has visited the Dupont Powder company plant at Senter for the purpose of inspecting the handling and shipping force. He also has given similar instructions at the Hancock Chemical company plant at Dollar Bay. He was in Calumet yesterday, instructing railroad men, and will be in Houghton today. Including Mr. Newell's instructions are rules for marking cars containing high explosives, acids and inflammable materials, how to care for these cars in transit and all possible safeguards against accidents. He gives a list of 100 articles in the second class that are considered dangerous by the bureau and subject to special care on the part of railroad men.

WAR RECRUITING OFFICERS

The adjutant general issued during the past week an order for the appointment of recruiting officers in the various companies of the state. The order is issued at the request of the National war department. It directs the appointment of first lieutenants as such recruiting officers and Lieutenant W. J. Saunders of the Houghton Light Infantry and Lieutenant Ira Penberthy of the Calumet Engineers have been designated.

The war department desires to facilitate as far as possible the recruiting of new troops in the event of war. To this end, local recruiting offices are named and they will be provided with detailed instructions, so that if a war should break out it will be possible to recruit all companies up to war strength in a hurry.

Major Heckel's Future.

Major E. G. Heckel, lately commander of the upper peninsula battalion of the Third regiment of infantry, now located in Houghton, is not eligible for promotion to the rank of lieutenant colonel. Colonel Cox says the major has not yet appeared for his examination, but the adjutant general has no fears regarding the major's ability to pass it when he does appear.

Major Heckel's departure from Houghton does not affect his standing in the national guard as the lieutenant colonel of a regiment may live where he pleases in the state.

JAY & HUBBELL SCHOOL

Many Houghton Businessmen Attended It—A. F. Rees First Teacher.

A discussion as to the identity of the bell in the belfry of the Jay & Hubbell school in East Houghton recalled to a number of Houghton businessmen yesterday the history of the school. J. H. Hodgson was one who believed the bell was the one that hung in the belfry of the original East Houghton school when it was opened in 1874 with Allen F. Rees as teacher. Mr. Hodgson says that if he could get into the belfry and examine the bell he could tell if it is the original bell, as he and many of the other boys in the school had scratched their names on it.

The young school teacher of those days, Allen F. Rees, has since attained a commanding position among the attorneys of Michigan and many of his former pupils have attained wealth and position in various fields.

The present school building is the result of much remodeling and additions to a school that was built in 1885 to replace the original school, burned down that year. This school was not a part of the present school district in those days, not having been taken in till about two years ago.

PLAY FOR HUBBARD TROPHY.

Holiday Will Be Taken Advantage of by Portage Lake Golf Club.

Because of the fact that today is Columbus Day and a legal holiday, the members of the Portage Lake Golf club will open the play for the Hubbard trophy novelty handicap, scheduled to open on Saturday. Chairman Robinson of the golf committee requests the members to disregard the date set on the notices issued for the match and to play today if they choose.

S. E. Byrne is the season's winner of the Pope trophy. This trophy was played for three times during the season and won by Mr. Byrne, C. H. Moss and H. W. Worrester. The three played off for the final possession of the cup for the year and Mr. Byrne won. The match was played Tuesday afternoon.

Following are the results so far in the Moss cup event, opened Oct. 3: Thompson beat Douglas, Armstrong beat Hubbard, J. B. De beat Key, Harkness beat Moss by default, Robinson beat Whittemore. Mr. Robinson has qualified for the semi-final.

JURY DISAGREED.

Carl E. Krause Charged With Having Deer Skins in Possession.

Prosecuting Attorney Macdonald returned yesterday morning from Sidnaw where on Tuesday evening he conducted the prosecution of Carl E. Krause, charged with having twenty-four deer skins in his possession. The charge was made by Deputy State Game Warden O'Connell of Iron Mountain.

The case was tried before Justice Ferdie and the jury disagreed, the report being that five were for conviction and one for acquittal. It is likely that the prosecution will be dropped.

JUVENILE DESPERADO CAPTURED.

Arnold Brown, twelve years of age, was captured yesterday morning at 7 o'clock by Officer Brown of Red Jacket. He was detected while taking candy and gum in Foster's news stand, but broke away and almost made good his escape. The police have been on the trail of this daring alleged bandit for some time. The youngster will be taken before Judge Boutley of the county juvenile court Saturday.

MAN CRITICALLY WOUNDED.

Hancock Woman Stabs Husband in the Eye With a File.

During a drunken row with her husband yesterday, Mrs. Barney Leduce of Hancock stabbed the man in the eye. She used a file. The man is in a critical condition. The woman was arrested.

GRUBBS ARRIVES TODAY.

Minstrel Man Coming to Calumet to Direct Show for Elks.

S. A. Grubbs of the Grubbs Minstrel syndicate of Chicago, who is to stage the big minstrel show for the Calumet Elks, is expected to arrive here this evening of Thursday and Friday, Oct. 19 and 20, is expected in Calumet today. Mr. Grubbs will take hold of once and the first rehearsals will be held Friday or Saturday. This show will be something different from anything put on by the Elks of other Calumet or Hancock towns. A special effort will be made to assure a large attendance at both performances.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT EXPECTED.

Maggie Walz Plans to Have Him Dedicate College at Marquette.

Miss Maggie J. Walz, of Drummond Island fame, has launched into the mercantile business and is now a member of the Hancock Dry Goods company, Quincy and Ravine streets. The venture is not a new one with Miss Walz, as she was engaged in a similar line of business several years ago and at one time was a clerk in the store in which she now owns an interest.

Miss Walz will attend the W. C. T. U. state convention at Crystal Falls, Oct. 24, she being president of that organization. Three days later she will go to Milwaukee as a delegate to the national convention. "The lady has long been identified with philanthropic work, but her latest venture along that line is the most important on which she has yet embarked. With the assistance of various individuals and women's organizations, she will endeavor to secure the dedication of the building which she has converted into a national home college for women, especially new comers to this country.

"Colonel Roosevelt is expected next spring to dedicate the home for us," said Miss Walz yesterday. "He is likely to come to the copper country only. We have received no direct assurance as yet, but wires will be pulled that in all probability will result in his coming. We thought for a time that President Taft would dedicate the building, but at the time of his visit to Marquette we were not ready. To particular friends of the institution he stated that the work undertaken was a most commendable one."

SIMCHAS TORAH SOCIAL.

Copper Country Jews Will Have a Festival Sunday Evening.

Invitations have been issued by the First Congregation of Israel for a Simchas Torah social and Houghton Old Fellows temple next Sunday night. The social marks the conclusion of the joyful holiday season that the Jewish people of Houghton and Hancock have just been celebrating for some weeks. The members will play cards and sing and will be a luncheon. The ladies are requested to attend a meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary at the Old Fellows temple during Sunday afternoon, commencing at 2:30 o'clock.

This Simchas Torah social will be one of the largest social gatherings of Jews ever held in the copper country. It is the First Congregation of Israel has grown to be a numerous body in recent years and the members give due observance to both the pentennial and joyful periods of the year. It is understood that a number of prominent Jewish leaders from other parts of the country will attend the social and deliver addresses.

The congregation recently appointed a committee to take charge of arrangements for the occasion of a synagogue. This committee has seen to it that its work that it is now considering sketches for a building that have been submitted by various architects. Secretary Abel said yesterday that the congregation expected to have at least the foundation of the building completed before the Hancock approach of the Portage lake bridge.

NOVEMBER JURY DRAWN.

The jury for the November term of the Houghton county circuit court was drawn yesterday. The term opens the 6th. No very important cases are thus far on the calendar. This term will be Judge Street's last on the bench, as he will be succeeded Jan. 1 by Hon. P. H. O'Brien of Laurium.

A SUBTERRANEAN BATTLE.

Jacob Lehto and Joseph Naasa battled in the bowels of the earth Tuesday night. They are miners, employed some thousands of feet below the surface in the North Tamarack shaft. While at work a disagreement resulted in blows. How serious is obtained is one of those mysteries which no foreigner can understand, since he himself is generally debarred from putting a flowerpot on his own window-sill by special contract with his landlord. It may be asked how all the paper and other refuse indiscriminately thrown in the streets is ever cleared away, and it is disposed of as the case.

The arrangements for scavenging are extremely primitive. There are now two services, supposedly distinct. One is that of the "hoonies," or dustmen, who clear the "hoonies," or kitchen dustbins, of all domestic refuse which the cook puts outside on the pavement, and the other

ADVERTISING TRAGEDY.

Timely advice given Mrs. C. Willoughby, of Marengo, Wis., (R. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and she could do little to help her. After many remedies failed, her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's New Discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has no equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by The Stafford Drug Co.

DIRTY PARIS STREETS.

Pavements Littered with Colored Advertising Sheets and Refuse.

For years past the newspapers of Paris, reflecting unduly the weight of public opinion, have never ceased at tacking the Prefect of the Seine and the Municipal Council in all its branches and departments, whose names are legion, for the disgraceful condition of the streets of the capital of art, science and beauty. Paris, which sets the fashion to the rest of the world in taste in all that goes to make life pleasant and beautiful, is a standing example in her public thoroughfare of everything that is offensive to eye, nose and ear.

The first and most crying nuisance is the everlasting distribution of flysheets, which begins at early morn and lasts until evening. Not one in a hundred of the passers-by ever keeps the rags of paper they snatch from the distributors, but after casting a careless eye over them throw them on the pavement. No statistics have ever been compiled of the number of these prospectuses and advertisements daily issued, but it is no exaggeration to say that they really paper the boulevards by 12 o'clock with a disgusting and repulsive surface of multi-colored refuse. It is perhaps not generally known that the men who are engaged in disseminating them are paid, not by the hour, but by the hundreds of thousands they can get rid of, and it naturally follows that, besides pestering the public in an insufferable manner, they seize every chance of surreptitiously letting as many of them as possible escape unperceived into the gutter.

But perhaps the greatest cause of complaint lies in the state of the streets themselves. It is no uncommon thing to find holes as deep as a bucket. We betide the unhappy motorist who leaves the few well-paved main thoroughfares. He is bumped and shaken, and travels in general discomfort. The reason for this is that, besides pestering the public in an insufferable manner, they seize every chance of surreptitiously letting as many of them as possible escape unperceived into the gutter.

A CZARINA'S ICE PALACE.

The Building and All the Furnishings Were of Ice.

The use of ice for architectural purposes is an art that has been carried to a high state of perfection in northern countries, and some almost incredible feats have been accomplished in this curious branch of industry.

Probably the most remarkable building constructed wholly of ice was the palace built on the Neva by the Czarina Anne of Russia in 1739. The first attempt to construct this building was the unsuccessful, as the slabs of ice were too thin, and the building collapsed in the first thaw.

Subsequently large blocks of ice were cut and squared with great care, and used on one another by skillful masons, who cemented the joints with water, which immediately froze. The building, when completed, was 56 feet long, 17 1/2 broad and 21 high. It was of but one story.

The facade contained a door surmounted by an ornamental pediment and six windows, the frames and panes of which were all of ice. An elaborate balustrade, adorned with statues, ran along the top of the facade and another balustrade surrounded the buildings at the level of the ground. The side entrances to the inclosures were flanked with pillars supporting urns, the latter containing orange trees, whose branches, leaves and flowers were all of ice.

The interior was furnished on each side of the building contained lights by night. The grounds were further adorned with a life-size figure of an elephant, with his mahout on his back. A stream of water was thrown from the elephant's trunk by day and a flame of naphtha by night.

A tent of ice contained a hot bath, in which persons actually bathed. There were also several cannons and mortars of ice and iron and leaded.

The interior of the building was completely furnished with tables, chairs, statues, looking glasses, a clock, a complete tea service, etc., all made of ice and painted to imitate the real objects.

A bed chamber contained a state bed, with curtains, a dressing table with a mirror, pillows, bedclothes, slippers and nightgaps—all of ice. There were ice candles burning naphtha; and most wonderful of all, a nice fireplace containing burning ice logs, blocks of ice smeared with naphtha, and then kindled.—Scientific American.

PRIZE FIGHTS IN MISSOURI.

Famous Matches Witnessed by Farmers and Their Families.

Prize fights in northern Missouri as they were fought forty years ago, long before the Marquis of Queensbury rules were known in the West, would be a striking spectacle today. A Chicagoan who lived in Andover, Mo., in those days recently told how such affairs were run.

Although the fights were bloody and sometimes lasted half a day there was no animosity between the participants. The battle was always arranged as a result of a boast of one that he could "lick" the other. The combats, which usually took place on Saturday afternoons, were called "foughts" by the farmers. Whenever it was announced that two young men would try their manhood superiority the wives and daughters of the farmers for twenty-five miles around would prepare for the event. Pies and cakes of all kinds would be baked, chickens and pigs roasted and fish salads concocted.

As the appointed time the farmers and their families would gather at a clearing in the woods and then the merry-making would begin. Games were played and everybody partook of the good food except the youths who were to test their pugilistic abilities. They remained away until nearly time for the battle.

Stripped to the waist and with bare fists the batters would go at it. There were few rules. Each man had a second and it was always agreed that if one of the participants should not appear the seconds were to do battle. The fight was not divided into rounds. There could be only one ending and that was a complete knockout. Biting, kicking, clinches and butting of heads were prohibited.

One occasion Lem Tompkins and Sam Leachman got into an argument in which they failed to agree as to which one was the stronger. Both were between twenty-three and twenty-five years old and were about 6 feet 3 inches tall. They decided that a "fought" would be the best way to find out. The news was heralded through the country by a rider on horseback. The night before the fight was to take place a man on horseback rode through the neighborhood telling the farmers that the battle was off. At one place he advised the members of a family who were in bed by knocking on the door with a big club that he carried for the purpose. As the farmer's wife came to the door he shouted:

"The fought's off. Lem Tompkins cut his big toe off chopping wood!" He also told them that because the seconds were so unevenly matched there would be no kind of a fight.

"Well, well. What do you think of that?" asked the woman. "Here we've been bakin' for three days 'till ready ter go on a hay stack and now she's comin'." "An' now that fool Lem Tompkins goes and makes a miscue with his ax. He's gone and spoilt all our fun!" —Chicago Daily News.

DEFINITIONS GONE FAR ASTRAY.

It Is Quite Easy for the Super-Educated to Overdo Things—Some Examined.

The schoolgirl who, on being called upon by her teacher to define the differences between an animal and a reality, replied "being engaged and getting married," gave a definition that was at once terse, apt and truthful.

Those three qualities every definition should possess, in the opinion of the Boston Herald, but it is interesting to consider how far some definitions stray away and become so involved themselves that it would take the skill of the oft-quoted and celebrated Philadelphia lawyer to elucidate what the definition of the national bird is intended. The statesman defined his preference thus: "It is quite inconsequential to one of my recognized abstemiousness and super-sensitive stomachic nervousness, whether he tendered an infinitesimal portion of the osaque nutmeg and nutmeg extract, the superior fraction of a pinion, or the snowy cleavage from the cardiac region."

Let any should feel obliged to follow Mr. Everts' choice of language as well as choice of cuts, it might be observed here that the unhappy individual who carves the turkey at your home will probably appreciate it if you simply say that you will have a piece of the drumstick, the upper joint of a wing, or a piece of the breast. It is fortunate, indeed, that Mr. Everts did not attempt to define the stuffing or even his vocabulary might not have been equal to the task.

An evening paper published in Boston recently contained an advertisement reading as follows: "A lady of enterprising thought and sentiment would delight to assist as far as possible unjoyous human lives through intentional and other suggestions, as also by importations of that healthful and invigorating life which nature and the sun ever offer."

That was a poser to every one in the office, and although it was published in the personal column there were grave doubts whether it had been inserted in the proper place. Finally it was shown to the baseball reporter, who, in reading it through twice carefully, threw it across the table with the exclamation, "Oh, rats! That woman just wants some one to talk to, and the consensus of opinion was that he had struck it right."

A business man whose bookkeeper reported that he was ill with erysipelas looked it up in a dictionary for his own satisfaction, having an indefinite idea as to what the disease really was. This is what he found: "The erysipelas, or erysipelatosus proliferating in the interstices of the connective tissue is the etiologic factor in the secretion of the erysipelatosus toxins." "Holy Cats!" he remarked. "I bet I have to pay for Smith's funeral before many days."

PERIL OF THE WILD BIRDS.

To meet the onslaught of vast commercial interests that have been a fierce fight to break down bird protective laws in many legislatures throughout the country a call for the support of every American woman, farmer and business man, must depend upon agricultural prosperity has been issued from the headquarters of the National Association of Audubon Societies. While rich millinery and market firms are known to be working desperately to make in the state of first breed in the wall of legal protection, which has only recently been flung about its bird life, leaders in the granges, civic organizations and women's clubs in every section are offering their help to rouse the people to defend the schemes of the commercial bird butchers, who are succeeding in killing this state's safeguards on bird life, their powerful raids will be next directed at the laws that protect game and insect eating wild birds in California, Massachusetts, Oregon, Louisiana, Missouri and other states, it is declared.

As a basis for the battle of the people against the commercial forces that would fatten on the relics of American bird life, the Audubon workers are offering their national organization, which can count on 1,300 active members, scattered through thirty-nine states of the Union. Each of these men and women is being urged to rally the people of his or her community to protest against the destruction of state bird protection laws that is being cunningly pressed by agents of the millinery and market combinations. Leaders in the national scientific, ornithological and zoological organizations, as well as the National Federation of Women's Clubs, have been pledged to co-operate in this urgent appeal to the people.

Legislation to revive spring shooting and kill game storage laws for the selfish ends of the game butchers has already been introduced in this state, and the milliners are now backing a bill which will nullify the effect of the law protecting insect eating birds that the Audubon association helped to put on the statute books after years of successful opposition from the powerful millinery forces. Special funds are being raised at Audubon headquarters here by individual contributions to enable expert ornithologists to go to Albany and point out the danger to the bird crops and game resources in such measures.

"Years of effort and accomplishment toward legally guarding the birds that save our crops from destruction by insect pests as well as our waning game birds will be wasted if the milliners and market men win even one victory in this crucial contest," said T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 141 Broadway. "We know that other state legislatures are watching the efforts of the commercial interests to overthrow bird protective laws in the Empire state, and that if they succeed the effect will be to break down all barriers against the forces that are constantly plotting to destroy American bird life for their own gain. In this critical time we can only count upon the moral and financial support of every man, woman and child in this country who would be benefited by the perpetuation of our economically valuable bird resources."—New York Tribune.

THE LAST UNSWATTED FLY.

Poor Pet Bessie, and the Sadness of Her Demise.

Bessie was the last fly we had. The others had all been poisoned, or tangled to death, or swatted, or we thought they had all gone; but I went over to Brown's and Bessie followed me home. I let her in at the kitchen door, when mamma was not looking, and she hid in the cupboard till supper time.

When papa sat down to supper he looked around him and seemed lonesome, as if he missed some familiar face. I said, "Papa, do you miss some one?" but he merely said "No, I don't miss any one." Miss Gertrude Siegel has returned from Duluth, where she has been visiting for several weeks.

Miss Emma Boven left last evening for Chicago and Detroit, where she will spend the coming two weeks.

William Grill, of Tilden township, presented three wolf skins at the Detroit conference, on which he received a bounty of $81. The wolves were killed Oct. 4.

J. O. DuBois has taken a position in the J. H. Foster company's dry goods store. Mr. DuBois is a competent man. He comes here from Montreal, where he has had several years' experience in large stores.

Salvation Meeting Tonight—A special meeting will be held at the Salvation Army barracks this evening at 8 o'clock. Lieutenant Colonel Marshall and Major Boyd, of Minneapolis will be in attendance and make addresses. Local Salvationists anticipate a meeting full of good things and extend an invitation to all interested in the work to attend.

Reception for Pastor—Members of the First Methodist church last evening tendered a reception to their pastor, Rev. Joseph Dutton, and wife, who were recently returned to this parish by the Detroit conference. Supper was served at 6 o'clock, after which a musical program was rendered and felicitations exchanged. A large part of the membership of the church was in attendance.

Football Game Saturday—Saturday afternoon at Longyear field will be played the first football game of the season in this city. The opposing teams will be Marquette Guild Hall and Gwin Y. M. C. A. These two teams played a brilliant game at Gwin last Saturday, which was won by Guild Hall after the hardest kind of a struggle by the score of 6 to 5. The contest here Saturday should be a fine exhibition of the great college game.

Railroad Brakeman Hurt—Howard Doherty, 115 Palm street, a brakeman on the South Shore, met with a very painful accident Monday night about 10:30. While riding at L'Anse au Loup, in some manner he fell under the moving train. He had presence of mind to catch the brake rod which saved his life. He suffered a broken leg and other injuries. He was brought to Marquette by special at 2:30 Tuesday morning and taken to St. Mary's hospital, where last evening he was resting as comfortably as could be expected. Mr. Doherty is a brother of Raymond Doherty, who met with an accident a few weeks ago on the L. S. & I. railroad.

A Miniature Forest—The north window at A. E. Archambeau's store has been transformed into a miniature forest in anticipation of the hunting season. Pine, maple and birch trees with the ground covered with leaves and a lake in the foreground is the first impression of the display. Closer examination reveals miniature deer, rabbits, birds, dogs, and hunters. Above the trees are hung skins of numerous furbearing animals, such as lynx, timber wolf, etc. The idea of the display is original and its effect is wonderfully realistic.

W. S. Ewing Has Silo—R. C. Angvine, of Coldwater, who was in the city yesterday, has just completed the construction of a silo for W. S. Ewing at his farm at Chocoday. Mr. Angvine is an aggressive, progressive farmer and he states that he is greatly impressed with the agricultural possibilities of the Chocoday district. He believes that ensilage could be grown very profitably and fed to cattle. Believing that this is pre-eminently a dairy country, Mr. Angvine is of the opinion that silos would be big money makers for the farmers of this county.

K. of C. Ball Tonight—Today will be Columbus day and the annual Columbus day ball, given by Marquette council, Knights of Columbus, will take place on Fraternity Hall this evening. The hall has been elaborately and very beautifully decorated and no efforts have been spared to make the ball a grand success. Two new pieces of music, written by a local composer, will be featured in the program. One is "The Man of the Hour" and will be played for the grand march. The other is a two-step dedicated to the Knights of Columbus. The musical program will consist of twenty-four numbers and three extra numbers at the Hotel Clifton during the evening.

TAX COM. SHIELDS DISCUSSES VALUATION

Comments on Remarks of W. P. Belden Before the Board of Supervisors.

To The Mining Journal: In the statement I made and which appeared in your Monday's issue, I had intended to cover about all the principal objections that might be raised to the valuation placed by the board of state tax commissioners on the iron mines, but Attorney W. P. Belden is so resourceful that his objections could not be anticipated and so I wish to add a few words based on Mr. Belden's remarks to the Marquette board of supervisors, when he told them they could not "conscientiously" approve the work of the tax commission.

The law governing the actions and powers of the board of tax commissioners at these public reviews is plainly stated in Section 152 of Act No. 17, of the Public Acts of 1911, as follows: "In case of a board, or the members thereof who shall act in said review, shall determine that the assessments so reviewed are not assessed according to law, he or they shall, in a column provided for that purpose, place opposite said property the true and lawful assessment of the same."

The supreme court held in the case of Wattles vs. Lapeer, 40 M. 624, that "assessments upon anything but the true cash value of property are illegal and in violation of the assessor's official oath."

As to cash value, we quote from section 27 of the general tax law as follows: "The words 'cash value' shall be held to mean the usual selling price at the place where the property to which the term is applied shall be at the time of assessment, being the price which could be obtained therefor at private sale, and not at forced or auction sale. In determining the value the assessor shall also consider the advantages and disadvantages of location, quality of soil, quantity and value of standing timber, water power and privileges, mines, minerals, quarries or other valuable deposits known to be available therein and their value."

Having determined to the satisfaction of the conscience of the commission that the property reviewed was of a value exceeding $85,000,000 and that the same was assessed at approximately $20,000,000, the board concluded that the property was not "assessed according to law."

Now here is where the commission and Mr. Belden disagree. The commission believe that, in order to comply with the law, all property coming under its review must be assessed at cash value. It does not believe that it possesses the right to "equalize."

Mr. Belden seems to entertain opposite views for, in response to a question at the Marquette hearing, he stated that a 60 per cent. assessment could be justified by the commission. If an assessment of 60 per cent. could be justified so could an assessment of 33 1/3 per cent. be justified. Mr. Belden filed affidavits at nearly all, if not all, the reviews to the effect that general property was not on the assessment rolls at more than one-third its cash value. Now, I would ask what would be the effect if the commission had decided to "equalize" and had fixed the value of the iron mines of the upper peninsula at $28,500,000? How could the commission justify an assessment, when the earnings for the past five years, as reported by Mr. Finlay, amount to $37,551,292.06?

Mr. Belden says that the assessments were based on a method thoroughly discredited. As a matter of fact the method was endorsed quite generally by the very best and most practical mining men of the iron district and the records of the different reviews will show this to be so.

The statement to the effect that the commission had previously decided to make a reduction in the Finlay valuation to correspond with the reduction made by the state board of equalization is both silly and incorrect.

We do not believe that the mines could be bought for less than the amount fixed by the commission; therefore, we do not think they are assessed beyond their fair cash value. We do believe, however, that they are now assessed higher than the general property and this inequality may be corrected to some extent by equalization.

It is to be regretted that the fee owners cannot be made to share some of the extra burden. His royalty is merely a part of the company's profit and cannot be considered as an expense; but the mere fact that he is able to shift the tax burdens onto the operator is no valid reason why the property should be regarded as of less value; otherwise, by a series of sub-leases, the property could be shown by the operator to be of little or no value and thus escape taxation almost entirely.

With these matters properly and equitably adjusted, the valuation as determined by the commission would not be considered as excessive even by the mining men themselves, and no question would be raised as to how "conscientiously" the work was done.

In a work of such magnitude, and in the time allowed, there may be individual cases where errors can be shown. In fact it would be rather surprising if this were not so; but the work was undertaken without the slightest bias or prejudice for or against any person or mine and the conscience of the commission is not disturbed by the result.

Respectfully,
ROBERT H. SHIELDS.
Houghton, Oct. 11, 1911.

"The Right of Way."

"The Right of Way," a stage version of Gilbert Parker's novel of the same name, was presented at the opera house last evening to a good sized audience by a company headed by Sanford Dodge, who has the part of Charles Steele, the interesting and dissolute hero of the Parker romance. The story is well told in the play, which has numerous dramatic climaxes. The role of Steele was effectively taken by Mr. Dodge, and that of Joe Portugais, the half breed who figures so prominently in the book, was well portrayed by Mr. Bernard.

AN EVENTFUL TRIP.

Marquette Motorists Made Run to Munising in Twelve Hours.

S. A. Williams and A. E. Boswell started for Munising Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the former's Flanders' car, and arrived in the Alger county village at 1:50 the following morning, after an eventful trip. The autoists took the shorter road south from Skandia to Duke's Spur and Lawson, a part of which was built new by the Marquette county road commission this summer. Near Duke's Spur, however, is a stretch of road that the Marquette men say may be all right for an automobile endurance test, but which all motoring for pleasure should steer shy of.

The two found good roads from Marquette to Skandia and south to the cross roads where the Munising road turns east off the Carlsbad road. Both ends of this east and west road are in fairly passable condition, but for about a mile east and west of the railroad crossing at Duke's, the Marquette men found as bad roads as they ever traveled over.

After being ditched two or three times, they went into the mud, stay just east of Duke's, and walked to the Alger county line in search of a farm house. None was found and they retraced their steps, finally finding a farmer west of Duke's who agreed to pull the machine along the road for a half mile or so east of where the machine mired. Before starting on their way, they made arrangements with the farmer to pull them over the bad road on the return trip. N. M. Kaufman's big car stuck in the mud in the same place yesterday and a farmer and his team had to come to the rescue. The Marquette automobile drivers advise pleasure seekers to keep off that strip of road.

HAVE DEER LICENSES.

County Clerk Has Appointed Deputies Throughout the County.

After Friday night at midnight until Nov. 30 the deer in Michigan will have to look out for themselves, without assistance from the game wardens, as the open season begins Oct. 15. Under the new laws, deer licenses run only twenty-five days and their life begins the day they are issued, whether the season is open or not. For this reason, few hunters are getting their licenses in advance, although some have made their affidavits with the understanding that their licenses will be mailed to them the first day of the season.

In order to make it more convenient for the hunters of Marquette county to obtain deer licenses, County Clerk Joska has appointed a number of deputies in all parts of the county, who are empowered to issue licenses. Following are the appointees:

Wm. S. Wilson, Forsyth; W. S. Nelson, Gwin; Hans Gunderson, Isipemung; Alexander Paatti, Isipemung; Erik E. Extrum, Bessley; R. Peckles, Republic; W. J. Gill, Beacon; Nat P. Lowe, Birch; Irving H. ## EXPLORATION AT THE LAKE.

The search for new values in the Michigan copper belt largely to the east side of the mineral range, which during comparatively recent period has contributed the Kearsarge, Baltic, Superior and Lake veins. The output from these sources represent fully one-half of the Michigan copper production, and those who would question the possibilities of the district from the standpoint of new discoveries should remember that eminent authorities had condemned both the Kearsarge and Baltic lodes in their early development, due to which their respective eras of activity were delayed for a long term of years. The Baltic lode was discovered in 1881, but was at once condemned as a "pocket," and it was not until fifteen years later that its possibilities were given the attention that subsequently resulted in the addition to the producing list of the Copper Range Consolidated, today looked upon as among the best mining investments in the district. The existence of the Superior may be traced to the efforts to locate the Baltic lode within its confines. In fact, it is a question if the Superior and Baltic lodes are not one and the same formation. The Isle Royale has renewed its investigation of the Superior lode, which is also under course of development on the adjacent Houghton tract. And the fact does not admit of doubt that the Isle Royale developments on this copper belt are full of interesting possibilities, particularly at this time, in the direction of the Houghton, where its acreage possessions are extensive, say Hayden, Stone & Co.

The history of the Kearsarge vein affords a parallel case to that of the Baltic. This copper belt was first brought into prominence in 1882, when its development commenced on the Wolverine. But because this property failed to disclose the riches at a depth of 600 feet, which have since resulted in dividends of nearly $7,000,000, it was condemned as worthless, only to be taken over by those now directing its affairs in 1890 and who, six years later, declared its initial dividend. The early failure, if it may be called such, of the Wolverine retarded the development of the Kearsarge vein. In fact, it was not until after Wolverine had proved its bonanza values beyond any manner of doubt that the Kearsarge Consolidated commenced the sinking of two shafts on the South Kearsarge, yet this property has since been its most consistent producer. In the list of dividend-payers on the Kearsarge lode are Wolverine, Mohawk and Osceola Consolidated, to which soon will be added the Ahmeek, the future of which probably excels that of any mine in the district. In addition, the Alouez, adjoining the Ahmeek, is a property of excellent promise. In the discussion of the future possibilities of this district the Kearsarge vein should not be lost sight of.

Nor was there a lack of skepticism when the Lake vein was discovered or for some time thereafter, despite its rich disclosures from grass roots which, however, furnished no warrant for the high prices to which its shares went soaring. Geologists contended that the Lake was a fissure formation in which future permanency would prove lacking, but the answer to this has been furnished in the Kearsarge veins the Michigan district was supplying about 65 per cent of the entire American copper production. The present-day broad uses of copper were then unknown, and it is only fair to state that the limited demand for this commodity contributed to the difficulty with interesting capital in the exploitation of these belts. But the fact remains that prior to the discovery of the Baltic, Kearsarge and Lake veins, the possibilities of the Michigan district were constantly confronted with apprehension, born of the Michigan district's lack of discernment, which required years to overcome.

The Adventure has recently disclosed the existence of three heretofore unknown copper bearing veins upon which development work is in progress with encouraging results.

The best thing to do is to fit yourself to digest any good food.

We believe we can relieve Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the result which it produces. We exact no promises, and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely, nothing could be fairer. We are located right here and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. Then, if not satisfied, come to us and get your money back. They are very pleasant to take; they aid to soothe the irritable stomach, to strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, and to promote a healthy and natural bowel action, thus leading to perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation.

A 25c. package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Stafford Drug Company.

meared in this direction within the next few weeks. The shaft was materially injured during the time that it was being used for lighting the line in the High Ore mine, having been turned over to the Anaconda company for that purpose. A number of wall-plates were badly warped and twisted and these will have to be replaced before sinking can be resumed. This may take two or three weeks. The shaft is now down to a depth of 1,400 feet, and on this level an extensive ore body was opened up, the ore averaging between five and six per cent copper and carrying a good average in silver. From the general formation of the ground and the well defined walls, as well as from the history of the surrounding properties below the 1,400-foot level, there is reason to believe that with additional depth the Butte-Ballaklava will develop bodies of ore that will be equal in value to the body on the 800-foot level, the mining of which was restrained more than a year ago by injunction proceedings instituted by the Anaconda company. On the 1,200, 1,300 and 1,400-foot levels the ore showing is excellent and the workings are being put in shape for an increased tonnage just as soon as the metal market will warrant. It will be the policy of the company to continue sinking and to thoroughly develop the property at depth. The company has four known veins, aside from the one in litigation.

BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT.

The Butte-Alex Scott, among the recent producers, is making a very fine showing and the Little Annie, which was recently opened up by the company, has also come into the producing class, reports a Butte correspondent. The company, during the past month, shipped forty cars of ore running from 6 to 11 per cent, and is now maintaining shipments of an average of seventy-five tons a day. The ore is being secured from the 1,500, 1,600 and 1,800 foot levels. Superintendent Stone reports that there is ore enough blocked out and in sight to continue shipments for an indefinite period. A few days ago a very important body of copper glance was opened on the 1,800. It was intended to carry the Little Annie shaft down to a depth of 300 feet, but on account of the richness of the ore on the 200-foot level this has been abandoned for the time and all the force employed is at work developing the claim in a full one and the vein runs its whole length. The Little Annie is sending four cars a week to the East Butte smelter. This ore runs twenty-five ounces in silver and $1.50 in gold. The Little Annie gives every promise of pro-

LA SALLE.

The La Salle property is not contemplating a resumption of rock shipments, as has been reported, writes Homer A. Guck. As a matter of fact the stamp mill test, which La Salle made some time ago of stock pile and shaft rock, did not show very encouraging results, on the general average of ground handled. Since that time the underground operations have not been very extended, although some good ground has been broken in the twelfth level of No. 2 shaft. In fact the showing at this point is more encouraging than anything the Tecumseh ever opened in its palmiest days. The shaft is now down close to 1,800 feet. No extensive shipping could be done from this point without the installation of added equipment, which the management does not feel warranted in purchasing until it gets better underground results.

TUOLUMNE.

The installing of the Tuolumne new surface plant is getting along very well; but it is not believed that it will be in commission before the middle of next month at the earliest. The management did figure on having the plant in operation by the first of the month, but there have been unforeseen delays. As soon as the half equipment is in working order the sinking of the shaft from a depth of 1,550 feet to 2,000 feet will be commenced. A station will be cut at a depth of 1,800 feet and another at a depth of 2,000 feet. About the first of December the company expects to increase its output to about 250 tons a day, as compared with 150 tons at present.

EAST BUTTE.

While no effort is being made to increase production at the East Butte, the property, including the mine and the smelter, are being placed in condition for a greatly increased output just as soon as the market will warrant. A new smelting plant is now being built and will be a valuable addition to the smelter in saving the finer fine dust as the finer concentrates, which formerly have been going to waste. The material for a third furnace is on the ground and will be set up shortly. The capacity of the smelter will then be increased to 750 tons a day. The East Butte company is now earning at the rate of about $35,000 a month. It is probable that sinking will be resumed during the next few months. It is the opinion that the largest ore bodies will be found below the present level of 1,200 feet.

BIG BOOK OF THE OLD TIME.

A famous old Pennsylvania folio, the largest book issued from any American press previous to the American Revolution, at Merwin Clayton's, is a German translation of Tielmann Van Braght's great work, "Hot Bloedig Tonel of Martelaar's Spiegel" which was printed on the Mennonite press at Ephrata, Pa., in 1748-9. This copy is in the original call binding, with brass corner pieces and brass clasps. It is considered to be in some respects the most remarkable book of the Colonial period.

The Pennsylvania Mennonites in 1745 requested their brethren in Holland to have Van Braght's work translated into German, but their request was not complied with, so the Ephrata Brethren undertook the laborious task, making the translation, manufacturing the paper, and doing the printing and binding. Fifteen men were kept at work on it during three years, though not without interruption, as the supply of paper sometimes gave out. In the present copy is the rare copper plate frontispiece, representing the Army of Martyrs marching toward heaven. This copper plate was probably executed in Holland, and, according to Hildeburn, an authority on the Ephrata Press publications, most copies of the work were issued without it, as the design was offensive to the Mennonites.

Other scarce works in the same collection are: Swaine Drake's "Account of a Voyage for the Discovery of a Northwest Passage by Hudson's Straights to the Western and Southern Ocean of America in the Ship California," published in London in 1748; first French edition of Robert Beverley's "History of Virginia," printed in Paris in 1707, and containing twelve copper plates, representing Indian customs and manners; a German Bible, printed at Willemsberg in 1561, and a rare Andrew Bradford, Philadelphia, 1738, imprint, entitled, "The Archbishop of Cambra's Dissertation on Pure Love, with an Account of the Life and Writing of the Lady, for Whose Sake the Archbishop Was Banned from Court. And the Grievous Persecutions She Suffered in France for Her Religion," etc. No copy of this imprint seems ever to have been sold at auction.—Exchange.

DEATH OF MRS. RACINE.

Pioneer Resident of Greenwood Passed Away After Lingering Illness.

Mrs. Xavier Racine, of Greenwood, died yesterday noon, cancer of the stomach being the cause of her demise. Mrs. Racine was a patient at St. Mary's hospital, Marquette, for two weeks, and was brought home yesterday. From the time of her arrival until she passed away she sank gradually and the members of her family had no hope for her recovery.

The deceased, who was about fifty-eight years of age, was one of the first settlers at Greenwood, she having lived there with her uncle, Leo Papin, before her marriage. She was married about thirty-five years ago and after her marriage located on the farm where she died. The husband of the deceased has been a most successful farmer and has prospered during all the years he has been located at Greenwood. He now has one of the finest farm equipments to be found in this region. Besides the husband, the deceased is survived by two daughters and six sons. The daughters are Mrs. Charles Coran, living at Greenwood, and Miss Mahina Racine, residing at home. The sons are Sam Racine, living at North Lake, William and Fred, who reside at the Junction location, in this city; Joseph, Frank and George, liv-

BIG NEWS FOR PIANO BUYERS

Grinnell Bros.' Great Annual Summer Resort Sale Now in Progress.

HUNDREDS OF MATCHLESS BARGAINS IN WORLD FAMOUS PIANOS—MANY OF THEM JUST LIKE NEW.

Sensational Price Reductions and Exceptionally Easy Terms to Close Stock Out Quickly—Store Open Evenings.

A grand opportunity for money-saving is afforded piano buyers by the extraordinary sale now in progress at Grinnell Bros.' store in the Anderson block, 203 Main street, Ishpeming. The occasion is the firm's eighth annual clearance of Summer Resort Pianos.

In order that the importance of this sale may be appreciated the conditions making it necessary will be briefly explained.

Hundreds of pianos are rented by Grinnell Bros. each summer to cottagers at the various resorts in Michigan. These people want music in their summer homes and are usually well able to afford it. Grinnell Bros., with their vast stocks, exceptional facilities and chain of 24 stores at different points in the state, are the only house in a position to handle this Summer Renting business. They get $25 to $100 for the season's use of a piano, or Player-Piano, depending upon the value of the instrument.

On account of the severe heat of the past spring and summer more families spent the season at resorts than ever before. Consequently Grinnell Bros. were called upon to furnish an unusually large number of pianos. These instruments have now been returned and their warehouses, already well filled with new pianos, will not accommodate the rented instruments.

This is the situation confronting Grinnell Bros., and they have decided to meet it by making such attractive prices on the rented pianos that buyers will quickly be found for them.

Every dollar received as rent for these pianos has been deducted from the prices, and in many cases additional large reductions have been made in order to close them out immediately.

These rented pianos must not be confused with the ordinary "bargain" pianos (old instruments that have in many cases outlived their usefulness). Most of the pianos included in this sale were brand new and left the factory but a few months ago, many having been shipped in carload lots direct to the Summer Resort stations, unboxed and placed in summer homes. At the end of the season they were reboxed and sent to Grinnell Bros.' several stores for this sale, thereby minimizing the amount of handling, as well as the expense. The little use they received during the sum-

CHAMPION SUFFERS HEAVY FIRE LOSS

Midnight Blaze Started in Derie Saloon Building, Sweeping the Entire Block.

Four buildings, including three business blocks, in Ishpeming, were destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The structures burned were Mrs. M. C. Bellmeur's store and residence, combined, Ed and Will Derie's saloon, which was conducted in the former Champion hotel building, John Mahaney's livery stable, and Joseph Hebert's residence. All of the buildings are in the block opposite the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company's freight depot.

The fire broke out in the northwest corner of the second floor of Derie's saloon building at ten minutes before 11 o'clock Tuesday night, and it was 4:30 before the people of the town were convinced that no more damage would result from the fire.

The upper story of the Derie building was unoccupied and it is not known how the blaze started. The fire had gained considerable headway before it was noticed and as there is no fire fighting apparatus in that part of the town, the buildings, all of which were frame structures, were at the mercy of the flames. A call was sent to the mine, on the Beacon hill, more than a half mile distant, for aid, and several men came down from there, but they did not bring the hose or other equipment with them. When they saw how serious the fire was they returned to the mine for the outfit, but so much time was lost before it was put into operation that the best the men could do was to save the adjoining properties. It was about 1 o'clock before the equipment from the mine was put into action, so that the fire had more than two hours start. Meanwhile the men in the lower part of the town fought the flames with buckets, but when they saw that the four buildings were doomed they directed their efforts to the saving of the near by structures by pouring water over the roofs and placing wet blankets on them.

For a time it was thought that Huber's meat market, located about twenty yards from the Hebert dwelling, on the opposite side of the street, would also be burned. In order to save the Huber barn it was necessary to tear down the wagon shed and it was with considerable effort that the flames were kept away from the barn. Had the barn taken fire the meat market building, also the Huber dwelling, immediately on the west, would likely have gone and Harry Davidson's block, west of the Huber residence might also have been destroyed, though there is a vacant space over fifty feet in width between Huber's dwelling and Davidson's place.

Heavy Losses Sustained.

The owners of all of the properties destroyed are heavy losers. Derie Bros. estimated their loss at $5,500, with $2,000 insurance. Mrs. Bellmeur estimates her loss at $5,000, and she carries $2,500 insurance on her stock of merchandise, building and household furniture. She succeeded in saving a part of the family's clothing and some furniture, but the entire stock in the store burned. She had recently increased her stock of groceries and other goods and carried the largest lines that she had ever had. The fire was burning for some minutes before the members of the Bellmeur family were awakened. When they were called their building was filled with smoke and they were obliged to get out hurriedly. The Hebert family was also obliged to leave their home in a hurry, but they saved some of their furniture. Everything in the Derie building was destroyed.

Mr. Mahaney saved his horses and some of his rigs, but twelve tons of hay and a large quantity of oats, stored in the barn, was burned. Mr. Mahaney had conducted the livery business about four months, he having bought the building and outfit from Dolphus Levine, who ran the livery for a number of years. Mahaney estimates his loss at about $1,000 and he carried no insurance. The Derie brothers had been in the saloon business there since May 1.

All of the buildings were erected more than twenty years ago. The Bellmeur building originally stood on the right-of-way of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, and when the line was put through there the railroad company moved it to its new location. None of the parties burned out had yesterday decided to rebuild, but it is likely that Derie Bros., who were doing a good business, will put up a new block. Mrs. Bellmeur also had a good stock of goods and she may decide to build again. All of the parties burned out are old residents of Champion. Mrs. Bellmeur located there thirty-two years ago, while the Derie boys, who are sons of Edward Derie, are among the pioneer residents. Messrs. Mahaney and Hebert also have been there for years.

NEW CLERGYMAN COMES TO NEGAUNEE

Rev. Hartley Cansfield Is Highly Spoken of by Former Howell Parishioners.

Rev. Hartley Cansfield, the pastor of the Mitchell Methodist church, who was appointed to take the place of Rev. J. C. Planette at the last M. E. Conference, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. Mr. Cansfield has been twenty years in the Methodist pulpit, and comes to Negaunee highly spoken of by those whom he has served during his residence in Howell, from where he has been sent.

Rev. Cansfield is a married man and has a family of six children, four of whom are here with him. Two of them are attending school in lower Michigan. He has moved into the parsonage, which the ladies of the church had prepared for his arrival. His household goods have arrived with him, and he will be at home in the parsonage at once. The church ladies prepared a supper and reception for Mr. Cansfield and his family, and everything was done to make the new pastor feel at home in his new surroundings.

Rev. Mr. Cansfield will preach his first sermon next Sunday morning, and will hold service again in the evening at the Presbyterian church. The Methodist church, which is just being finished, after its enlargement and remodeling, will be opened about the last of the month.

Rev. D. C. Planette leaves tonight for Madison, where he will take up his new duties in connection with Lawrence college. He leaves with the best wishes of the many friends whom he has made during his residence in the city, who hope he will be as successful in his new work as he was while he filled the pulpit of the Mitchell Methodist church.

SAMPLE TAKEN.

A sample of water was taken from a standpipe sunk on the shore of Teal lake, near the water works, to be sent to the state laboratories for bacteriological and chemical analysis. The sample was taken under average conditions under the supervision of the city health officer, Dr. Larson. It is supposed that in case of necessity, sufficient water for the public drinking supply can be secured from standpipe wells sunk in the clean sand of the lake shore, in case the present water supply should decrease.

ROUGH GETS ANOTHER.

Partridge Hunter Caught After Long Wait on North Shore of Teal Lake.

At a quarter to six Tuesday evening Deputy Game Warden John Rough caught, after a three hours' wait on the north shore of Teal lake, a man who goes under the name of John Parpari. He was brought before Justice Argall yesterday and paid a small fine for violating the game laws.

Deputy Game Warden Rough has found that it is useless to chase a violator, and that it is better policy to await his return from the hunt. Tuesday afternoon Mr. Rough noticed a row-boat on the north shore of Teal lake. He concealed himself near the boat and waited. It was a quarter to six before the violator approached. The deputy searched and arrested him and then beat it back to town to take in as much of the Masonic celebration as he hadn't already missed.

DIED IN SAGINAW.

Mrs. John Horn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lamer, of Negaunee, died Tuesday night at a little after six o'clock in Saginaw. Mrs. Horn had been ailing for the past two years with a complication of diseases. She was well known in Negaunee, having spent her life here up to the time of her marriage. She visited Negaunee for two months this summer. Her mother received a telegram Tuesday afternoon advising her to leave for Saginaw at once, that her daughter was very ill, and she left for Saginaw that night. At seven o'clock another telegram came saying that Mrs. Horn was dead.

DAWE-LAUGHLIN.

Negaunee friends of the parties were made surprised yesterday afternoon to learn of the marriage of Elias Dawe and Mrs. Josie Laughlin, widow of the late Ed. Laughlin. The ceremony was performed by Father La Motte at 3 o'clock. Robert Jackson supported the bride, and Miss Miller, a niece of Mrs. Laughlin, was the other witness. Mr. and Mrs. Dawe left in the evening on a wedding trip.

COLUMBUS DAY.

Today is Columbus Day, the 419th anniversary of Columbus' landing on American soil. The Italian societies of Negaunee have planned to celebrate the occasion by parading the streets and holding a public meeting at the city band stand, where speeches in English and Italian will be made. This evening there will be a ball in the Scandinavian hall on Gold street, the music to be furnished by the Italian concert band.

REMAINS SENT HOME.

The remains of Martin Morris who was killed the night before last by falling from a scaffold on the trestle being built at the Negaunee mine, were taken last night to Manitowish. A brother and a cousin who were working here with him accompanied the body, also the foreman of the crew in which Morris worked, and two friends. Morris lived in Timothy, Wis., just outside of Manitowish, where his folks have a farm.

CALLED FOR STEAMER.

Fire Alarm Rung Early Yesterday Morning to Get Men Out.

At about one o'clock yesterday morning Negaunee people were aroused by the incessant ringing of the big fire bell at the top of the hose house. Chief Johnson had a telephone call from Champion asking for help from the Negaunee fire department in extinguishing the fire which threatened to wipe out the village. They were asked to send up the steamer, and a special train was answered the alarm to handle the big fire engine, and the horses were hitched to it. It was dragged to the South Shore tracks where a train made up of a flat car and a caboose was waiting for it. However, before it was loaded another telephone call reached the chief, telling him it was useless to send the steamer, as the fire was checked.

WILL GO TO OMAHA.

Dr. J. H. Andrus, a Delegate to American Prison Association Meeting.

Dr. J. H. Andrus leaves Saturday for Omaha, Neb., to attend the annual meeting of the American Prison Association, as a delegate from Michigan. He was appointed by Governor Osborn, in a letter received recently, explaining the purpose of the meeting and the matters to be brought up for discussion. The meeting will concern itself with reforms in the administration of prisons and reformatories, the establishment of juvenile courts, and prisons, and the compensation to prisoners families, and for prison labor. Delegates will be present from all over the United States and Canada, even from Mexico. The attendance is comprised of state delegates, prison officials and prison boards, and also authorities on penology.

The doctor will leave Saturday and go to the meeting, which is to be held from the fourteenth to the nineteenth of the month, inclusive. He will be absent a week or ten days from the city, because after attending the sessions in Omaha, he will take a trip East in which he will combine divers business matters with pleasure.

AT THE BIJOU.

Last night a film entitled the "Vita-graph Monthly" was presented at the Bijou. It is a series of picture stories of a month's picture events. Among other interesting items was the head-on collision of two rapidly moving automobiles, taken during a demonstration made before scientists to ascertain what the effects would be. The annual meet of the American athletic association, held at Pittsburg, was another remarkable piece of photography. Flights at the national aviation meet made another absorbing photographic subject. A glimpse of President Taft while he visited one of the smaller cities on his still uncompleted trip was another interesting feature.

OWLS' CHARTER MEETING.

The first meeting of the new nest of Owls, formed in Negaunee during the past week, will be held in Kirkwood's hall on the evening of October 17th, at eight o'clock. At this meeting application for membership will be acted upon and dues accepted. All those who join on that evening will have their names on the lodge's charter. An initiation fee of five dollars is exacted, after which the dues are but fifty cents a month.

AMATEUR NIGHT TONIGHT.

Manager Poore of the Bijou theater desires his patrons to know that tonight positively will be amateur night. He has arranged the biggest and best program the amateurs of the city have ever given at the theater. In addition to the amateur show there will be an exhibition of a number of fine moving pictures. 10-12-11
