

SUICIDE CLAIM
ADVANCED FOR
MRS. STANNARD

That the Greenland Man Put an End to His Own Life Apparently Is the Theory on Which the Attorneys for the Defense Will Base Their Case.

Such Is the Indication Brought Out During the Cross-Examination of the Children—Daughter and Son Give Testimony Strongly in Mother's Favor.

Ontonagon, Mich., Oct. 23.—[Special.] The theory of suicide seemed to be established as the basis of the defense of Mrs. Laura Stannard this afternoon in her trial for the murder of her husband, Charles S. Stannard, at Greenland March 28, last. It was so clearly brought out during the cross-examination of Elaine and Alva Stannard, witnesses for the prosecution and children of the respondent, that Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Burrill asked the court for time which to prepare to meet this line of evidence which he assumed he would be given every opportunity.

Children Uphold Mother.

Both children testified on the stand that their mother had been drinking when he was killed, and both testified that he had taken tablets immediately after a period of intoxication. They testified that their mother and mother lived happily, excepting when he was drinking, and that times would be abusive and she would take to task for drinking and for squandering money.

Judge Rebukes Auditors.

A dramatic incident of the session of the trial this afternoon was Judge Jamnigan's rebuke of the auditors of the court when a laugh arose over Elaine's testimony that she was afraid of Judge An Slyck, of the prosecution. Judge Jamnigan told the women present that she was ashamed of them for laughing at "the heart-breaking tragedy going on behind this bar" and said he would have her sheriff remove any man or woman who laughed thereafter.

Expert Testimony Interesting.

The expert testimony of Dr. Victor A. Vaughan, dean of the medical department of the University of Michigan, and Dr. Warden E. B. Miller of Marquette University, Milwaukee, that the death of Stannard, described in a hypothetical question, was due to strychnine poison, was the feature of the morning session. There was particular interest in the testimony of Dr. Vaughan.

There Is Seen Some Danger That, Rendered Desperate, the Dynasty May Stir Up Anti-Foreign Riots to Induce Intervention—Legations Poorly Defended.

Peking, China, Oct. 23.—The revolution which is now manifesting itself in the north as well as in the south. Those who heretofore have believed the northern provinces might rally around the government are now of the opinion that secessions will follow in rapid succession.

The precautionary measures taken in Manchuria, where the government does not permit any mention of the revolution, show the anti-government spirit in the far north. There are persistent reports that rising have been planned for the next few days in the vicinity of the capital. It may be that these reports will not be fulfilled, but they indicate a widespread sympathy with the revolt.

Legations Poorly Protected.

The diplomatic corps has discussed the necessity of maintaining communications between Tien Tsin and Peking. Military commanders report only sufficient troops to protect the legation quarters in Peking and the foreign settlement in Tien Tsin, which number approximately 1,000 and 3,200, respectively.

SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

It is believed that the street railway controversy that has been waging in Detroit ever since the time of Pligree will be settled on the lines of a tentative agreement reached between Mayor Thompson and President Hutchins and General Manager Brooks, of the Detroit United Railway.

Mayor Thompson has driven a bargain with the Detroit United that appears to be a very fair one for the city. It provides both for three cent fares and for municipal ownership, whenever the city of Detroit desires to embark on it.

penditures on the county road system have been heavy of late years and have contributed to considerable increases in taxation. It may well be a subject for close inquiry by the commission whether some type of serviceable road much cheaper than macadam may not be hit upon.

INSURE WITH PETER WHITE & CO.

COFFEE TRUST HAS A STRANGLE HOLD

Asserted that High Prices Result from Pool Between Wall Street and Brazil.

That the present high price demanded for the cheaper grades of coffee is the result of a pool between Wall street interests and the Brazilian government is the belief of a coffee salesman who covers this territory. Brazilian coffee has advanced nine and a half cents per pound in fifteen months and there is reason to believe that the price will go still higher. The salesman submits the following from a New York dispatch as giving a fair resume of the history of the operations of the "coffee trust" during the past year:

"A year ago Arbuckle's and other brands of Rio and Santos coffee known in the trade as 'standard package coffee' sold at retail at 17 and 18 cents per pound. On Oct. 13, it sold for 25 cents per pound, and the record price set on that date means a further boost in the retail price to 27 cents per pound, immediately, and at that price the grower has no profit unless he, too, raises prices.

"The pooled coffee is No. 7 Brazilian—the coffee consumed almost entirely by working people. Thus the trust's $200,000 profits are the piled-up pennies of the poor. The coffee pool is here to stay. Its agreement expires in 1919. It is entrenched behind laws passed by Brazil expressly on the orders of the gentry now manipulating the deal.

"These laws absolutely limit the size of the coffee crop by forbidding the planting of new coffee trees, and by putting a prohibitive export tax on all the crop above a certain quantity. They even permit the burning of coffee in bumper crop years. A tragic though it is, the formation of the coffee trust is a fascinating chapter in high finance. Its inspiration came from the brain of Herman Siesken, of New York, a multi-millionaire, known in the coffee market as old 'Sealskins'.

Dominated the Market.

"From 1895 to 1906 Siesken dominated the American coffee market. Usually he was a 'bull'. He conducted seminars at the Waldorf. He cleared $10,000,000 in his valedictory effort. He represented Wille & Co. of Rio. In 1906 'Sealskins' began studying the world's coffee supply with the idea of controlling it permanently. Of that supply 85 per cent is raised in Brazil and 75 per cent of the Brazilian crop is grown in the state of Sao Paulo. He came to an agreement with Wille and they put the proposition up to the Sao Paulo authorities.

"They proposed, with the actual partnership of the state of Sao Paulo, to act as a syndicated Joseph to the tribes in the coffee fields. In fact years they would buy the crop and store it—coffee keeps indefinitely in storage—for lean years, and thus by holding out the crop in fat years get a big price for the growers. Sao Paulo was to pass the necessary crop-limiting laws. Sao Paulo accepted joyously.

"Bonds to the amount of $75,000,000, guaranteed by Brazil, were issued and taken up by the financiers who received a nice 10 per cent or $7,500,000, for their favor. Brazilian laws prohibited the planting of any more coffee trees, and Brazilian government agents even went through the fields destroying young trees. Then they were ready to dictate the price of the coffee throughout the world.

"A provision of the agreement makes it compulsory upon the trust to store its coffee outside Brazil. So, during the recent flurry when pessimistic brokers were calling attention to the fact that the visible supply of coffee is not sufficient for 60 days' consumption, locked up in the trust warehouses in New York, Havre, Hongkong, London and Trieste were 663,000,000 pounds of coffee—a year's supply for this country, but not an ounce of it for sale—as unavailable as though it had been buried!

"It is estimated that individual members of the syndicate are holding a total of as much coffee as the pool itself now has stored. That is, practically 1,300,000 pounds of coffee are now withheld from the market by the pool's operations. The annual American consumption of all grades of coffee is only a billion pounds. The price of cheap coffee, the sort consumed by the poor, will go up and up and up. And what are you going to do about it?

"Representative George Norris of Nebraska, insurgent leader in the house, offers this remedy: Let the United States put such a high tariff on other Brazilian products that they can't come in, thereby forcing Brazil to repeal its prohibitive export tax on coffee. Norris has offered this remedy on the floor of the house and will make a fight for it at the next session.

Why I Advertise

FIRSTLY—The field of Medicine is too large for one man to grasp. SECONDLY—in no other business does one man claim to do everything—take the building of a house—does one man act as plumber, carpenter, painter and practitioner? Yet the ordinary medical knowledge in a business infinitely more divided; but even he, when suffering from a Special Disease, goes to a specialist.

THIRDLY—I am a Specialist and have, through years of practice in one line, become an expert; and to bring this before the public I advertise.

Hundreds of sufferers have been cured by my painless treatments who had been told that nothing would cure them but an operation. A number of cases of Asthma have been cured during the last year (as well as large number of cases of piles) without pain or operation. Many cases of rupture, as well as scores and scores of cases of weakness of both men and women have been completely cured. CONSULTATION FREE

The Flour CARRIED EVERYWHERE

Lower State Notes

BATTLE CREEK—Local capitalists are organizing to fight the tax commission's proposal to assess a tax on the earnings of corporations, and to this end Charles E. Kolb, president of the Union Steam Pump company, has been commissioned to go to Detroit to confer with officers of the Michigan Manufacturing association. It is almost unanimously declared by local industrial leaders that if the plan goes through they will cut down the amount paid out in wages here.

BATTLE CREEK—Armed with revolvers, rusty swords and other weapons, two gangs of boys fought a fierce battle in Merritt's woods, ending a feud between the Union-Wabash avenue crowd and the gang representing the North avenue-Central district. Just how much damage was done is unknown, for when the police auto was sighted the boys fled, leaving Clarence Lozaway, twelve years old, bound to a stake in a fainting condition. The Union-Wabash victors had frightened this captive nearly to death with blank cartridge pistol fire and other tortures. Twenty-five boys participated in the battle, which was not a "play" affair.

LANSING—Franklin C. Upright, the old convict Governor Osborn has just released from Jackson prison, came to Lansing to express thanks to Governor Osborn, but the latter was absent from the city and Upright could only leave word of his gratitude with those in the executive office. Upright had served thirty years and was known at the prison as "Old Frank." His childish curiosity over everything and the interest with which he observed people and happenings along the street and in the capital attracted much attention. His demeanor indicated his long years of confinement, and to many the old man was a pathetic figure.

CORUNNA—Willis Gurden, of Corunna, is in the county jail awaiting trial for an alleged brutal attack upon Miss Verlie Doll, eighteen years old, whom he is said to have struck in the face with his fist. The attack occurred while Miss Doll was out walking with Charles Alber, a local tailor. Gurden, who is under $200 bonds, says he struck at the girl's consort. Miss Doll is a pretty girl employed in an Owosso dry goods store. She says the attack is the culmination of a year's persecution by Gurden, who has forced his attentions upon her. She says Gurden followed her and her escort as they left a picture show, making unpleasant remarks. The attack is said to have come without provocation and Gurden fled after Miss Doll's escort had struck him with an umbrella.

GRANT—Glenn Overly of Ennsley township drew $300 from the bank, intending to take his new bride to Grand Rapids to select honeymoon goods. Glenn retired with the intention of leaving for the city next morning, but when he arose and opened the door he saw his empty pocketbook lying in the doorway. Overly fell in a faint from the shock, as he had worked hard all season preparing for the trip. Sheriff Moore was summoned from White Cloud, but nothing was unearthed that enabled the officers to fix any clue to the robber.

HILSDALE—Mrs. Martin L. Woods, of Cambria village, was burned to death when a gasoline stove exploded. She was at home with her children, but the latter were in another part of the house and it is not known what caused the explosion. She ran from the house with her clothing ablaze and Earl Calmeyer, a school boy, heard her screams and snatched her with a quilt. She was so badly burned that she lived less than five minutes. She was thirty-five years old and leaves a husband and seven children, the youngest four months old.

LANSING—As rapidly as possible the war department is sending to the state military departments the details of a scheme of mobilization for use in calling the militia into service in case of need of its services. Colonel W. G. Rogers, quartermaster general, has received instructions to prepare a comprehensive scheme for the prompt mobilization of the state forces of Michigan. The order directs that the quartermaster keep on hand a plan for transporting the troops to the concentration camp on call, the schedule to include the routing of trains, time of departure and arrival, number of cars required and all other details relative to the collection in camp of all the militiamen, the schedule to be frequently revised in order that at all times it will be ready for instant use. Some time ago similar orders directed the detail of officers in each county as recruiting officers, to be furnished with necessary blanks and information to enable them to begin recruiting the several commands to war strength immediately upon a call for active service. Other orders of a similar nature directed the making of requisitions for the necessary equipment and clothing to completely equip the entire brigade and the prompt report of all shortages. It also is announced that officers of the army will inspect the state mobilization camp site at Ludington and report to the war department what buildings and other improvements are necessary to put it in shape for use, in case of necessity.

JACKSON—Deputy Warden H. M. Thompson of Jackson prison has resigned, according to a statement given out by Warden Simpson. While the resignation was tendered Aug. 21, it was not made public until Saturday. Mr. Thompson agreeing at that time to remain at his duties until a man had been secured to take his place. M. M. Bernard of Indianapolis has been appointed to the vacancy. Mr. Thompson, the retiring deputy warden, has been an employee at Jackson prison for eighteen years. "There is nothing back of my resignation but a desire for a change," said Mr. Thompson. "I want to get into the world again and I feel that a change will be a good thing. The relations between myself and the warden have always been the most cordial." The new deputy, Mr. Bernard, has been engaged in prison work for fourteen years and for over eight years was deputy warden at Michigan City. He was also an officer in the prison at Jeffersonville, Ind. He comes with the highest recommendations. Mr. Thompson has not determined upon his plans for the future, but will remain in Jackson during the coming winter. A successor has not yet been named to take the place of Assistant Deputy Chief, who recently resigned.

MT. CLEMENS—It is reported on authority considered reliable that Captain W. S. Davidson, whose home is at Bay City, is due for a lot of inconvenience. It has been discovered by a representative of the sugar trust that the captain, who has charge of the sugar factory here, has been selling the product of his factory to the local trade, which is in violation of the rules laid down by the combine. Frank X. Tousey, a local merchant, vouches for the truth of the statement that Captain Davidson accepted orders for sugar from him and that he knows of several more who were favored in a similar manner. The future representative spent two days in the city, during which time he visited Mr. Davidson at the sugar factory offices. He did not reveal his identity so far as his name is concerned, but it was understood before he left that he intends to report the matter in full to the head of the combine. The stranger declared that Captain Davidson is under contract to furnish the sugar trust with his entire product and the indications are that the big sugar combine will be dealt with in accordance with his contract. Captain Davidson also operates a sugar mill in his home city. He declines to talk of the affair. A short time ago something was said concerning a difference in the price of sugar when the factory began its present campaign and it was then that Captain Davidson caused to be published a statement that the opening of the factory would make no difference in this respect, as every ounce of sugar has to go through the hands of the combine before being placed on sale.

DETROIT—Governor Osborn has notified J. L. Hudson and others in this city, who were about to send out a call through the state for a conference on direct legislation at Lansing with the governor, that he finds it necessary to change the date of the conference from Nov. 9, as arranged, to Dec. 7. The inference here drawn from the change of date is that the governor has no present idea of calling a special session of the legislature in the near future, either to consider direct legislation or any other subject. The purpose of the conference on direct legislation was to urge a special session and the meet has now been postponed twice since it was first arranged for an early date in September.

LANSING—The case of the People vs. Theodore Swensen has been appealed from the state supreme court to the supreme court of the United States. This case involves the constitutionality of the state law imposing a tax on foreign liquor dealers doing business in Michigan, the statute having been upheld by the state court. Attorney General Kuhn has just received notice of the appeal in a document signed by Justice M. Harlan, who died last week. As the paper was signed by him only the day before his death it probably was one of his last official acts.

"Get Rich Quick Wallingford."

George M. Cohan, who is noted for the speed and action developed in all his comedy writings, fairly outdid himself in transferring the "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" magazine hero, created by George Randolph Chester, to the stage. In its dramatic form "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" though a straight comedy, moves with the dash that is invaluable in a Cohan musical show. The result is that the play bristles with fun. While the hero, J. Rufus Wallingford, might be criticized by some of his prototypes in real life, Mr. Cohan has made this whirlwind promoter such a lovable character that an audience is in sympathy with him and his visionary schemes, five minutes after he commences to unfold them. In writing the comedy Mr. Cohan borrows only two characters from the book—Wallingford, the central figure, and Blackie Daw, his pal. Around these two figures, utilizing a string of twenty speaking characters and a big mob of villagers who put speed into the story of Wallingford's arrival in the town of Battleburg, and his subsequent promotion of the covered carpet tack, the interurban electric road, real estate and other side lines until he lands in the millionaire's class and, through the faith and love of an honest woman becomes an upright, progressive and desirable citizen. The moral of Mr. Cohan's play is found at the close of the fourth act when Wallingford declares to the sponsor: "What a fool a clever man is for being a crook." This comedy will be presented at the opera house Monday night.

"Checkers."

An imaginary horse race back of the scenes that quickened one's pulse and caused one to sit on the edge of his seat marked the climax of "Checkers," which was excellently presented at the opera house last evening. "Checkers" does not attempt to teach any moral, in fact it violates all the traditions of morality, but it is human, and because it is human it is interesting. A follower of the race track pledges to the girl he loves that he will quit gambling and will make $5,000 honestly within a year. At their parting she gives him a $50 gold piece as a keepsake. But Checkers has hard luck and his only capital is his sweetheart's gift, when he gets a sure tip on a horse race. Parting with the gold piece, he takes a 100 to 1 shot—and wins. When the girl in the case finds that he won, she forgives him and all ends happily. It would be hard to imagine a more unwholesome plot, yet it is intensely interesting because the characters are human. As Checkers well says, "Who wants a woman that is consistent, anyway?"

Hobart Cavanaugh was a decided success in the title role, a part that requires no little dramatic ability. Opposite him played Florence Weston as Bert Barlow, whose winsome appearance and manner fitted in most admirably with the sweet unaffected little village girl she had to portray. Dave Braham did splendidly as "Push" Miller, a race track tout, and Carrie Lamont was paired with him in another side-splitting character part. Joseph Wilkes was a success as the grouchy, stingy country banker, Bert's father, and George Merritt never failed to provoke a laugh as "Uncle Jerry" Halter. George Sweet was well cast as the weak characterless youth with money back of him, he being the direct opposite of Checkers in every respect. The supporting company was an unusually large one and the play was a rousing success.

Grand Rapids Press Commends Attraction Here Thursday Evening. Of "Checkers," which will be the offering at Ishpeming theatre Thursday evening, The Grand Rapids Press of Friday, Sept. 29, said: "Checkers" has been amusing playgoers for eight seasons and judging by its receipts at the Majestic last evening is good for numerous seasons to come. Henry Blossom built his comedy to entertain and it does that. Various familiar faces appear in "Checkers" again this year, although there have been some important changes in the cast. Winsome little Florence Heston continues to play Pert Barlow and invests the role with a sweet and thoroughly pleasing personality. Dave Braham continues in his original role of Push Miller. Joseph Wilkos, who played Adolphus when "Checkers" was first seen here some years ago, has returned to his old role.

MORE WITNESSES IN VONO MURDER CASE INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT AVIATION

Evidence Being Gathered by the Officers Points Strongly to Toddea's Guilt. Secretary to Glenn Curtiss, Well-known Here, Writes of Aviator's Achievement.

Deputy Marshal Collins went to Diorite yesterday to secure two witnesses in the Vono murder case. Both of these made statements to Prosecuting Attorney Bell, and it is expected that their testimony will be important. It is not certain that these witnesses will be asked to testify before the coroner's jury. They may be held for the coroner's jury, but it is now regarded as certain that John Toddea, who is suspected of the crime, will be bound over.

William Talarico, with whom his brother-in-law, Tony Hazzora, of the Salisbury, was visiting, will not likely be a witness, but his wife probably will be asked to tell what she knows of the affair, as she took the victim's revolver from him. Talarico was at work Saturday night and he knew nothing of the murder until he came home from the mine.

It has not yet been learned how Toddea came to be in possession of Vono's revolver, which Hazzora claims Toddea gave to him following the shooting. It is thought that Mrs. Talarico will be able to tell more about this phase of the matter than any of the other witnesses. There will likely be a dozen or more witnesses.

None of Toddea's relatives and friends have been permitted to see him since his arrest Saturday night. Hazzora also so was taken to the county jail. Their countrymen will not be permitted to see either man prior to the hearing. The officers have been tricked a number of times by allowing friends of men suspected of committing murders to converse with them prior to hearings. Toddea and his brother-in-law now tell conflicting stories, but it is thought that if they were permitted to get together or if their friends were allowed to talk with them they would soon agree on one line of testimony.

Toddea was arrested about a month ago on the charge of conducting a "blind pig," but the evidence was not sufficient to convict him. On Sunday he referred to the fact that he had only recently been arrested and he intimated that he thought the officers had it in for him. He seemed to be of the opinion that he would get out of the murder scrape as easily as he did the other. Yesterday he was apparently happy, as he could be heard singing at frequent intervals.

The coroner's inquest will probably not be held for a few days. The Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Kennedy arrives home. He is expected back tomorrow or Thursday.

The jury empaneled by Coroner Pratt is composed of Charles Gustafson, Thomas Redmond, Richard Whinnin, John Hooper, Joseph Gill and John Prinn.

John H. Whitney, secretary to Glenn Curtiss, the noted aviator, who spent some time in Ishpeming last winter, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Whitney and who was a personal friend of Eugene Ely, the aviator whose death was reported in The Mining Journal's press dispatches of last Friday, writes that the deceased of some of Mr. Curtiss' achievements and of aviation in general to a friend in Ishpeming. "The death of Eugene B. Ely, in a Curtiss aeroplane, Thursday, was a great shock to me, especially when I think of his young widow, Mrs. Ely, who was such a devoted wife," writes Mr. Whitney. "I had known Mr. Ely since I was first associated with Mr. Curtiss. He was such a careful operator and had had so much experience, that he is the last man I should have expected to have such an accident."

"The cause of this, and other similar accidents, while making dips is the sudden and heavy strain to the machine in changing a course upward, just before reaching the ground. If anything goes wrong, even for an instant, there is nothing to save the aviator, as he is swooping down to the ground, like a hawk, and before he can do anything to save himself, he has crashed into the ground. It is much the same as a racing automobile headed straight at a stone wall, expecting to make a sharp turn the last moment to avoid hitting it. If anything went wrong, when the operator started to turn, he would crash into the wall before he could save himself."

"It was Mr. Ely who performed the remarkable feat last winter in San Francisco of alighting on the battleship, Pennsylvania with his aeroplane, a feat much more difficult than the dip which caused his death, as he had to steer his machine, going from fifty to sixty miles an hour, so as to alight exactly on the small inclined platform built on the battleship, and, at the same time, had to reduce his speed just the right amount so the machine would not be damaged by hitting the bumpers when it had run along the platform. This feat he performed with perfect success, its object being to demonstrate that in time of war an aeroplane could make a scouting trip and return and alight on its battleship."

"In person, Mr. Ely was tall and slight as are so many of the noted aviators, including Mr. Curtiss. His personal manner was exceedingly pleasant and agreeable and everyone who knew him liked him. His remarkable achievements in aviation had in no way changed him from the pleasant, unassuming, quiet-spoken man he always was."

Curtiss' Water Aeroplane.

Concerning Mr. Curtiss' experimental work last winter in developing the "hydroplane" or water-aeroplane, Mr. Whitney writes: "Mr. Curtiss' desire was to perfect a machine that would rise into the air from the surface of the water, a thing which had often been attempted, but never successfully, after much experimental work, and after building several machines and discarding them, he finally hit upon the solution, which was to take the main surfaces, engine, controls, etc., of a regular aeroplane and fit under it a suitably shaped float, made of light, rigid material, suitably braced. This float sustains the machine in the water while at rest. When the engine is started it slides along the surface of the water, rising out of it gradually, until at about thirty-five or forty miles an hour the float completely emerges from the water and the machine is in the air."

"It is a pretty sight to see a machine start sliding up over the water, and then rise into the air, and leaving a neighboring craft, no matter what their speed, far behind. Especially is this so, when the machine is handled by Mr. Curtiss, whose great skill and long experience give him such thorough control that he seems a part of the machine, which seems endowed with life, sailing, dipping, and turning with the ease, confidence and graceful poise of a bird. It was amusing to see him run into a flock of water birds, which were numerous on San Diego Bay, and see their frantic endeavors to outfly the machine, which were evidently completely bewildered by what to them was apparently an enormous bird, which passed them so easily."

idents have occurred under the immediate supervision of Mr. Curtiss. It is when the aviators make flights by themselves that the absence of Mr. Curtiss' watchfulness and counsel results in disaster.

"Had Mr. Ely been flying the water aeroplane, the chances are that he would have escaped with a wetting, as did Mr. Witmer, at Green Bay."

Asked regarding his duties with Mr. Curtiss, Mr. Whitney said, "In addition to taking care of Mr. Curtiss' correspondence, as secretary, I have charge of all the photographic work and we keep a complete photographic record of all the experimental machines. These photographs are carefully filed at the factory, and have already proved a valuable record for reference."

"When in Ishpeming Mr. Whitney had a very interesting collection of photographs of the Curtiss machine, including many of Mr. Ely in flight."

STEEL CORPORATION OPERATING DRILLS

Big Company Is Preparing to Put Forty at Work on One Mesaba Tract.

Although the officials of the United States Steel corporation are talking of cancelling their lease on the Hill ore lands, in the Mesaba district, they are not curtailing their exploratory operations in the Minnesota field, and it is now expected that the company will have a greater number of drills in operation than the coming winter than at any previous time.

no less than forty drills on Sections 2, 19, 21 and 30, near Aurora. The officials estimate that it will take the forty crews about fourteen months to complete the drill work. The lands to be explored have been under control of the company for some time, and it is said that there are excellent prospects of finding large ore bodies. The steel corporation intends to explore the tracts thoroughly, and it is anticipated that several hundred holes will be put down. The Aurora News said of the work to be done by the Steel corporation: "There will be something doing in exploratory work in the vicinity of this village during the next year, as forty United States Steel corporation drills will be operating near Aurora within a very short time. "Practically all the work will be done between Aurora and Mesaba in sections 2, 19, 21 and 30, and it is estimated that it will take the crews about fourteen months to complete the job. "The drills and men began coming in Saturday of last week, when the first three drills to be used arrived at the Aurora depot. As early as Tuesday of this week nine drills were here and some of them were on the ground and practically set up ready to start boring into the ground. "As fast as the drills can be brought here they will be sent to operations, each drill bringing with it a crew of three men. With forty drill crews, teamsters, helpers, cooks, etc., the entire gang will number about 150, if not more than 150. Their headquarters will be the Stevens mine location, where the office building, the dry and the blacksmith shop have been fixed up for their winter camp. Some of the married men will move their families here and occupy the houses at the Stevens. "L. V. Johnson will be superintendent of this big crew of men, being called "walker" in the parlance of drill men. He will make his home at the Stevens also, and from there will direct the important work of searching the entire section for ore. This is to be one of the most thorough explorations ever made in the vicinity of Aurora and if good finds are made the time consumed may be much longer than now thought. "The engineering work for all this drilling has been done and the crews have gone in. All that the drill men have to do is to set their machinery where directed by the blue prints and begin boring into the ground. It is considered certain in Aurora that some important finds will be made. "Many other drills are now being operated throughout the Mesaba district. Cole & McDonald, the diamond drill contractors, have a large number in operation for several mining corporations, and some of the territory that was only partially explored some years ago is now being given a thorough test. Four drills are working on the Fayal property; several are also operating at the Lounsbury location, near Aurora, and considerable drilling is being done in and near Virginia.

ers, and all foreign markets were weak and a little lower. The reaction today was natural and hardly as much as the leaders in trade expected. The chances of accident to the Argentine crop is on the side of buyers. Closing prices were as follows: May wheat, 106 1/2; corn, 60 1/4; oats, 50 1/4; pork, 15.85; lard, 9.17; December wheat, 101 1/2; corn, 57 1/2; oats, 47 1/2; January pork, 15.72.

Ruez's Market Letter.

George F. Ruez, broker of Ishpeming, yesterday said: The New York market was quiet but steady and closed with fractional gains throughout the list. The Boston copper was also firm with Greene Cananea the leader on the reports of a dividend declaration soon. The metal continues to creep up in London and this is bound to start the copper share market. Such stocks as Range, Calumet and Arizona, East Butte, Hancock, Greene Cananea, Gironx, Live Oak, Inspiration, and Lake will be the leaders.

Upper Peninsula

Wolves Plentiful in Luce—Bounties on fifteen wolves were paid by the Luce county board of supervisors last week. Wolves are said to be more plentiful in Luce county this fall than in a number of years.

Bags Two Wild Cats—Delta county clerk at Escanaba the scalps of two wild cats he killed a few days ago at Ensign. He will be paid a bounty of $3 each.

Dies Under Tons of Rock—Louis DeCarlo, employed in breaking rock at the top of the chute at his crusher plant at Iron Mountain, fell down the chute and was buried by tons of rock that fell upon him. His body was not recovered for several hours.

Drowns in a Tub of Water—The one-year-old child of Geo. Beckus, of the Great Western location, near Crystal Falls, was drowned last week in a tub of water that had been placed on the floor for washing purposes. The mother went to a neighbor's house for a short time and during her absence the little one climbed into the tub, falling face downward.

Train Ground Him to Pieces—One of the most horrible sights ever witnessed in Bagley, Menominee county, was seen when the body of Peter Zoller was found on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad track. Parts of his remains were picked up for two miles along parts of his clothing were found between Carney and Nadau. The deceased was a bachelor, about fifty years old, and lived on a farm about four miles from Bagley. It is supposed he was accidentally struck by a train.

Mad Dog Bites a Farmer—Peter Krutch, a prominent farmer of Harris, Delta county, was severely bitten by a mad dog late last week and has now been taken to the Pasteur institute in Chicago. For the past two weeks, it is said, there has been an epidemic of rabies among the dogs about Harris. A number of canines have been killed, after horses, cats and other farm animals had been bitten.

Mill Employee Is Badly Injured—While at work at the Northwestern Cooperative & Lumber company's mill at Gladstone, Albert Terrio was caught in a chain and severely injured. He sustained a fracture of the leg and a dislocation of the ankle, while the tendons were torn from one of the heels. In attempting to repair the chain without stopping the machinery, Terrio was caught and one leg had been pulled through a small opening, through which the chain passed, before fellow employees could cut off the power and release him from his perilous position.

His Sight Will Be Saved—Word has been received that Alcide Leroux, the farmer at Schaffer, Delta county, interested in a dynamite explosion, will retain the sight of his left eye and it is possible that a portion of the sight of the right eye may be retained. Leroux was injured a few weeks ago while engaged in blowing out stumps. Thinking that a portion of one of the fuses was not burning he returned to one of the charges and was bending over it when it let go with terrific force. It was at first thought that the sight of both eyes had been destroyed, but he was taken to a specialist in Milwaukee. The treatment has been unexpectedly successful and Leroux will return home this week.

Manistique Man Flammamed—John Douglas, who had been around Manistique the last three weeks, pretending to be buying birdseye maple, has absconded for parts unknown, after giving Jack Smith, of the Barnes Hotel, a check for $500, on which he received $75, reports the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune. Douglas told Smith that he was going to Gong City to look at some land. He needed some money and gave the hotel man a check on a Canadian bank. Upon further investigation it was found that the check was valueless and he at once notified the authorities.

Jury Awards Damages of $7,000—The jury in the case of Matt Grimrod, who sued the city of Iron Mountain for $25,000 damages, because of an injury to his knee, has returned a verdict of $7,000 in favor of the plaintiff. The case was tried in the Dickinson county circuit court. All but two of the jurors were Iron Mountain men. Mr. Grimrod alleged that on the evening of Aug. 18, 1910, he was walking along Carpenter avenue, the right hand sidewalk at the Hotel Harding, causing him to fall backward and then to pitch forward onto his hands; that he was unable to move himself until assistance arrived, and after being picked up was unable to go home until further assistance came. The city a short time ago offered to settle the case for $3,000, this amount being refused. The case was hard fought. A number of physicians gave expert testimony on both sides. It is stated that the city will appeal from the judgment.

Deer Hunters Shooting Cows—A cow belonging to Mrs. John Pakka of Newberry was shot by hunters last week, and was so badly injured that it had to be killed. The animal was pasturing in M. E. Bourmann's field adjoining the woods, and it is supposed some one heading off for deer was responsible. There have been several complaints at Newberry lately of the careless use of firearms by hunters and others. Visitors at the cemetery Sunday were badly frightened by hearing the whine of bullets from high-powered guns fired in the adjoining woods. John Koskela, a farmer at Section 19, near Calumet, reports the loss of two cows that were shot by hunters. One of the animals was dropped with three bullet holes through its head and the other was killed by a bullet which pierced its heart.

Escanaba Fishermen Warned—A warning has been given the hook and line fishermen at the Stephenson dock at Escanaba by deputy state game wardens that they, as well as commercial fishermen, must observe the law relative to catching undersized perch. Perch are now being caught in great quantities at the dock and it is claimed by the game wardens that a large majority of fish taken are under the legal size. As many of the fishermen peddle their catches about the city, they are classed by the wardens as commercial fishermen and therefore they must abide by the statutes. The law plainly states that no one shall have perch in his possession weighing less than five ounces and it is claimed that but few weighing more than the legal limit and many that average four ounces and less make up the catches at the dock. It has been found by the wardens that catches of from forty to sixty pounds are being made by single fishermen who are making a business of selling the fish. So long as fishing was confined to those who caught the perch for use in their homes the wardens made no effort to enforce the law on that class, as the number taken was comparatively small, but with the development of fishing on the dock into commercialism it was decided that a halt must be called. The warning is not heeded arrests will be made.

Death Is Shock to Ironwood—Although she had been unconscious for several days, and all hope had been abandoned, Ironwood was shocked when it became known that Mrs. John W. Whiteside had passed away at her home on East Ayer street. The deceased was fifty-two years of age. Specialists had been summoned to confer with the attending physicians regarding the method of treatment, but to no avail. The cause of death was valvular heart disease. The deceased had resided in Loggie county twenty-five years, going to Ironwood from Bessemer eight years ago when Dr. Whiteside became associated with the late Dr. J. R. Moore as surgeon for the Oliver Mining company. Although intensely interested in the work of her husband, Mrs. Whiteside found time to devote to social and charitable matters, and she will be missed among all classes in Ironwood and Bessemer. She was married to Dr. John W. Whiteside on March 8, 1896, at Bessemer. She survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Fournier of Bessemer, and the following brothers and sisters: Charles Fournier, Jr., of Bessemer, Geo. Fournier, of Saskatchewan, Samuel Fournier, of Menominee, Mrs. A. J. Pauli, of Anchorage, Alaska, and Mrs. Walter Crope, of Duluth. With the exception of Mrs. Pauli, all those named were with the deceased in her last moments.

Defiant Law-Breaker Pays Fine—Defying the law and asserting that he would spend 60 days in jail rather than pay a fine and costs amounting to $60, Fred Ruckendorf, a prominent timber jobber of Massville, was charged with willfully killing deer without a license, passed a night in a cell at the Delta county jail. The jobber was arrested on complaint of Deputy State Game Warden Herman Leisner, who found two deer carcasses at the man's home, ten miles north of Rapid River. The deer had been killed within the past week or ten days and the defendant admitted that they had been shot without a hunting license being first secured. He insisted on his right to kill deer at any time that he saw fit and in as great a number as he fit. He defied the officers to arrest him and when he was taken to Escanaba and arraigned before Judge Emil Glaser he was still in a defiant mood. When the court levied a fine and costs amounting to $60 or the option of spending sixty days in jail, he accepted the jail sentence in spite of the fact that he was well able to pay the amount named by the court. He owns an extensive logging outfit with horses and other stock and was preparing to open his camps within a few days. After a night of meditation, however, Ruckendorf decided to foot the bill and was released from custody.

Watchman Lets Thief Get Away—After giving an unknown man a healthy scolding in the morning and hounding him out after chasing the fellow half over the town in a marathon running race, E. J. Barry finally lost a man that stole a suit, fancy vest and two coats from the Barry dry cleaning establishment at South St. Marie. It was 11 o'clock at night when Barry entered the place of business to find a stranger there. The fellow could not give a good account of himself and was seen to be gathering up articles of clothing. When Barry dealt with the operations, the fellow dove out of a rear window, and the proprietor of the place followed him. When both alighted Barry gave chase and after racing over several streets finally ran his man into a small pond where the official guard of the man until a police officer could be summoned. The park watchman, however, allowed the clothes thief to get away. Barry has offered $25 reward for the apprehension of the man and the return of the clothing.

Has Fine Logging Camps—Warren J. Flanagan, of Iron Mountain, has about completed his plans for his fall and winter campaign in the woods, but is not prepared to furnish figures regarding his probable input of logs and cedar products. Three miles east of Randville he has finished what he considers the best logging camps in the upper peninsula. The buildings include a sleeping and cook camp, with accommodations for forty-five men, 2x76 feet in size; an office, 10x16 feet; blacksmith shop, 12x16 feet, and a barn, 28x30 feet. Pine lumber was used exclusively in the construction of the several buildings. Logging operations have already commenced under the direction of Al Sutherland. The cut will be mixed timber and cedar, a crew of forty-five men being employed. Mr. Flanagan has located a second camp near Merriman, with S. J. Stokes acting as foreman. It is expected to employ a crew of not less than twenty men. The input at this camp will be exclusively cedar. Should business conditions improve, as Mr. Flanagan anticipates, he will start two more camps, to cut hardwood exclusively, and will employ in them not less than forty men. In addition, it is expected to cut and ship 1,000 cords of hardwood. Mr. Flanagan says that this far he has had no difficulty in securing men. His camps are well situated in this respect and he is confident of securing full crews.

WISCONSIN JUNGLE FIGHT BEING WAGED AGAINST TOBACCO REORGANIZATION PLAN. New York, Oct. 22.—Wisconsin is to be added to the states to be officially reorganized in opposition to the reorganization plan of the American Tobacco company, according to advices received here. Louis D. Brandeis, of counsel for the independents opposing the plan, says he has been requested by Governor Frances E. McGovern to represent the tobacco growers and manufacturers of Wisconsin and has accepted. He probably will be designated a special attorney general of the state for the purpose.

NO TRACE OF ROBBERS.

The thief who stole the $1,695 worth of jewelry from the residence of Joseph Sellwood, 1802 East Superior street last Monday, has so effectively covered his tracks that not a trace of him can be found and the police are devoid of a clue to act upon, says a Duluth exchange. None of the stolen property has been discovered in the city pawn offices and so far no information has been received in response to the notices circulated throughout the state and in the larger cities of the country.

Markets

WALL STREET STOCKS. Paine, Webber & Co. yesterday wired from New York as follows: From private advices we learn that business conditions are showing some improvement, giving prospect of a better demand for fall merchandise. However, in many sections a hand-to-mouth policy is pursued relative to purchases of goods and commodities to be affected by the tariff legislation. The forced and drastic liquidation seems to have passed and the market acts as if it were to go up on the announcement of any good news or a letup in the political nagging which has caused an indifferent attitude from a class of people who have money to invest. The fact that so much of our money has been loaned in the foreign market indicates that conditions at home are not entirely to the liking of men usually arrayed on the constructive, as well as the aggressive, side of the stock market. The closing prices were as follows:

Boston "Coppers."

Of the market at Boston, Paine, Webber & Co. yesterday said: The market today was very quiet, but it showed steady strength. The majority of new orders were on the buying side, and offerings of stock were very scarce. Greene was notably strong on the rumor that dividends in a small way may be commenced soon. The sentiment is gradually improving and we think the next move will be a three to five-point rally. Closing prices were as follows:

Chicago Wheat.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s Chicago correspondent had the following to say of the wheat market in that city yesterday: Two or three times during the morning the local trade in wheat for a natural reaction, which was expected. It was the opinion of the best brokers in the pit at the close that the leading bull interests had bought, rather than sold, for the day. The local trade had much less assistance from outside orders than during the late days of last week. While working for the reaction, sellers were extremely cautious, several good reasons existed this morning for the feeling that was in the trade favoring the material reaction from the advance of last week. The final buying flurry Saturday forced local shorts to cover and induced a good many pit leaders to replace lines sold out earlier. On the whole, the weather map in the Northwest was a little improved. The cables were mostly on the side of the sell-

ALL CROPS WERE GOOD THIS YEAR

John Mitchell Has a Farm Near Three Lakes and Is Making It Pay Well.

John Mitchell came to town yesterday from his farm at Three Lakes, just west of Negaunee. Mr. Mitchell is well remembered by the older residents as a former Negaunee man. He once conducted a grocery store where the new Rytkonen building is now located, and twenty years ago he was county treasurer. After his store on the site of the Rytkonen block was burned out he opened another on the property where the new high school building now stands, facing Peck street. Later he moved his store to his property on Clark street.

All crops raised on his farm were especially good this year, says Mr. Mitchell. He has had the property only two years. There are 191 acres in the place, which he purchased from George McDonald. Of this only seventy acres is now under cultivation. His crops are hay, oats and potatoes. This year's crop of potatoes amounted to 1,500 bushels, which were raised on nine acres of land. Mr. Mitchell has found a good market for them at from fifty to sixty cents a bushel.

Mr. Mitchell raised 2,000 bushels of oats on forty acres of his land, which he considers an exceptionally good crop for this part of the country. Oats are selling for fifty to fifty-five cents a bushel, and he considers them a good crop to raise. The remaining land, coming close to twenty acres, produced a hay crop which amounted to sixty tons. This, too, was exceptionally good, better than the average for two years.

Mr. Mitchell considers his venture in farming very successful so far, and he is enthusiastic over the prospects for the future. Four or five years ago there were so few farms that produced good crops that commission merchants did not look for any in this region and the growers who bought of the commission merchants overlooked the local farmers almost entirely. Now the demand from the grocery men and produce dealers is picking up, and where formerly the upper peninsula farmers found it difficult to get rid of their crops at home, they now find a good local demand for their products. Mr. Mitchell intends to put fifty additional acres under cultivation next year and is already planning the ground. He is going to add ten more acres to his potato patch, and plant oats in the other thirty acres.

Many upper peninsula people have built camps and cottages in the Three Lakes country, and hundreds of people go there every summer for outings. It is one of the most popular camping places in the upper peninsula. Among the Negaunee people who were first to realize the possibilities of Three Lakes as a camping place were Peter Trade and Henry Tremblay, who have had summer cottages there for some time.

smoke told him that he was passing over dwelling places. The voice accompanied him, and with it the music of the small motor essential to the aeroplane.

At times—so he told me—he would shut off his engine for a moment, and then the voice would become under it. It followed him through space until finally with one last spurt along the narrow aerial pathway made by the valley of the river, he descended to the race-course.

It was only then that the phantom voice pursued him no longer, and he rushed up and shook hands warmly with the owner of the voice himself, who left the aeroplane station, and in turn congratulated Mr. Hucks on his feat of daring, for few men would have dared to face the dangerous winds and air currents which buffeted his fragile monoplane.

Few of those who came to see Mr. Hucks fly had heard of this amazing experiment. They saw Mr. Grindell-Matthews seated in the entrance of the hangar with the telephone transmitter to his mouth; they saw Mr. Hucks before he started with an unconnected telephone receiver to his ears. And when it was announced that Mr. Grindell-Matthews hoped to speak to the aviator while he was in the air, a search began for instruments whereby the mystery of it might be solved.

All the curious found was a small box strapped on the monoplane and another equally small box which contained the contents of the aeroplane station. Soon the spectators realized the wonder of the experiment, and began to speculate among themselves regarding the possibility of bringing the aviator in touch with the world below.

Test Is Described.
 Before Mr. Hucks started Mr. Grindell-Matthews had a short experimental conversation with him from the seat of his aeroplane. "I am quite ready now," said Mr. Grindell-Matthews. "The mechanism of the sixty horsepower Gnome engine going, and at once even Mr. Grindell-Matthews had to confess that, what with the almost deafening roar of the motor and the shriek of the wind which the aviator would encounter above, the chance of his hearing was a faint one.

The monoplane sailed away with infinite grace, but when it had attained a fair height it swayed from side to side like a yacht hit suddenly by a heavy squall. Higher and higher it soared until, almost lost sight of it above the tall chimneys of the power station.

This was the supreme moment when, for the first time in our history, communication was established between an aeroplane dashing through the air at a rate of a mile a minute and an inhabitant of the world below. Perhaps in later years the history of this event will not arouse any vast feeling of surprise, but to the small band of onlookers who faced the weather on Saturday the wonder of it created an impression so profound that few will forget it.

Marvelous Features.
 Remember that the hunch on the sky to which Mr. Grindell-Matthews was talking was dashing headlong through space at a speed of between sixty and seventy miles an hour. Bear in mind, also, the fact that all he had with which to establish communication with his Ishpeming friends below was a small oak box which a child could carry.

It was this, more than anything, that impressed us, for it seemed incredible that the human voice, with the aid of this small box, could undertake that blurred object dashing through the air. Mr. Hucks flew in a circle with a radius of between four and five miles, and at no point of the circle did the aeroplane fall.

"Such an instrument will be a great blessing to all aviators," Mr. Hucks told me after his voyage. "When one attains a great height one seems cut off absolutely from all living things. On long journeys it is impossible not to feel a sense of loneliness, and when I heard Mr. Grindell-Matthews' voice—at first it was certainly somewhat uncanny—it gave me a sense of being at home, even in the air.

"In the near future I can see aviators not only talking to one another in the air, but on long distance tests keeping up a constant stream of conversation with their families at home."

TALKS TO AVIATOR FLYING IN SPACE
 Man Hears Distinctly While Moving at 60 Miles an Hour—Aeroplane Successful.

London, Oct. 23.—Mr. Grindell-Matthews continues to demonstrate that his aeroplane will work. A few days ago he tried a marvelous experiment at Cheston, in which he succeeded in conveying messages through the air from the ground to an aviator while the latter was flying in an aeroplane at the rate of sixty miles an hour in a brick wind. A Daily Express correspondent thus describes the proceedings:

"I was in the solitude of the heights when the voice first came to me. Far below the crowd seemed like minute specks. Immediately beneath a cloud of blue-black smoke told me that I was above the great chimneys of the Cardiff electric power station.

"It was then that I heard the cheery 'Hallo! Are you there?' of Mr. Grindell-Matthews, and realized to the full a new meaning of this commonplace phrase cast up to me from the toy world below."

In this manner C. B. Hucks, the aviator, described to me his first impressions on hearing Mr. Grindell-Matthews' voice in the region of the clouds, though the speaker and his aeroplane station were invisible to him.

It was on Saturday afternoon, when sudden squalls kept sweeping over the Ely race course at Cardiff, and broken clouds raced across the sky, that Mr. Grindell-Matthews spoke to what appeared to the small army of spectators as a blurred and fantastic object tossed about hither and thither at the pleasure of the elements. In reality the object was Mr. Hucks dashing through space in his monoplane at sixty miles an hour, with the phantom voice ringing in his ears.

Voice Followed Aviator.
 The voice would not be denied. Now he was rushing headlong above the muddy waters of the Taft. A thin line of

UNSUCCESSFUL FLIGHT.
 Negaunee Man Sees Aviator in Wright Biplane at Laurium Sunday.

Jalmar O. Johnson of this city went to Laurium to spend Sunday, and while there visited the Laurium Driving Park, where De Goey, a Duluth aviator, was scheduled to make a flight. De Goey used a Wright biplane. When the time came for the flight there was scarcely a breeze, and though it was cold and snappy, the sun shone. Promptly at 3 o'clock De Goey appeared before the immense crowd, and his machine was dragged out of its shelter. The engine was quickly and uneventfully started and the aviator was off. He traveled 300 feet without rising, and then, upon leaving the ground rose to a height of only ten or fifteen feet. He circled around the course for ten minutes or less, when, as he was making one of his sharper turns, his right plane—lower, upper and balancing—dipped too low, and struck the earth, throwing the aviator out and temporarily putting the machine out of business. The aviator made no further flights that day.

IMPROVEMENTS STARTED.
 The entire back wall of Rosen Bros. & Klein's store is being torn down, and the owner of the property is planning to build a new wall and rear entrance to the store. More light will be provided for both floors by the use of prismatic glass windows. The removal of a lot of stock now located in the back part of the store, both upstairs and down, is made necessary, and as the floor room is already crowded, an alteration sale has been planned to relieve the pressure for space. It will begin Wednesday morning, and continue for ten days. A detailed announcement can be read on another page in the firm's advertisement.

DEMAND ON LIBRARY HAS INCREASED WITH OPENING OF SCHOOLS.
 Miss Wellett, the librarian, reports that the circulation of books during the month ending Oct. 22, 1911, was 2,936. The month ending Sept. 23, the circulation amounted to 1,680. In the month ending Aug. 23, it was 1,656. These figures show that with the coming of cold weather and the opening of schools the library is made more use of by its patrons. The increase is particularly noticeable at the opening of school, because many new cards are issued to children just entering the fourth grade. Miss Wellett makes it a rule not to issue cards to children under ten years of age. These new patrons who come in every September, the older school children seldom draw books during their vacation, and consequently the circulation drops off during the summer months. The circulation for the month ending July 23 was the smallest of the year, reaching only 1,450.

The patronage of the library is growing more rapidly this year than in former years, and Miss Wellett expects the circulation to establish a new record. When the improvements are completed, and the library is made more roomy and attractive, it is expected that the circulation figures will show a marked gain.

THE POPULAR DISEASES.
 Health Officer Larson says that diphtheria is now well under control here, and that if quarantine rules are closely observed in homes where there are diphtheria patients no more trouble need be expected. In his opinion the disease is gradually dying out, due to the stringent measures adopted by the doctors. Considering its virulent form Dr. Larson says that if the disease had not been quickly restrained an epidemic which might have reached serious proportions. Only three cases developed last week, and they were only in mild form. The week before four cases developed, one of especially virulent form, causing a death.

There are only two cases of typhoid in the city. The city water is safe for drinking purposes. Typhoid is not a contagious disease, but is infectious. Unless one actually gets the germs of typhoid into the system, the fever did not contracted. Dr. Larson says there is no need to fear a typhoid epidemic.

Inflammatory rheumatism, and pneumonia are troubling many Negaunee people, and the physicians are constantly busy with tonsillitis and cases of plain, old-fashion colds.

FEDERAL COURT CONVENES NOV. 7

Unless the Grand Jury Session Should Result in Unexpected Verdicts, Term Will Be Very Short, as There Are Few Cases on the Calendar as Made Up.

Criminal Actions Are Expected to Be Disposed of in Short Order—List of Traverse Jurors—Judge Sessions, Who Succeeds Judge Denison, Presides at This Term.

Present indications are that the business of the adjourned September term of United States court, which will convene Nov. 7, will be quickly disposed of. Few cases have been placed on the calendar, either criminal or civil actions, although it is probable that the criminal docket will be augmented when the grand jury makes its report. It is not known, however, that any really big criminal cases are to be brought before the grand jury.

Six criminal cases carried over from the May term will be on the calendar, but it is not expected that any of them will take a great amount of time. It is expected that Moy Kin Lai, who is charged with having corruptly attempted to influence a witness, will put up a stubborn fight, but the other cases may be settled without a trial. The criminal cases set for hearing are the following: United States vs. Hyman K. Kohn; buying United States army property.

United States vs. Arnaldo Emery; re-filling a bonded bottle. United States vs. Edward Perron; failure to render monthly report as wholesale liquor dealer. United States vs. Moi Kin Lai; corruptly attempting to influence a witness. United States vs. Harry Harrison; smuggling silver ore. United States vs. Wm. Joseph Leighton; smuggling silver ore.

Traverse Jurors. Following is a list of the traverse jurors who have been subpoenaed for the coming term:

The names of the grand jurors are not given out in advance. Judge Sessions, who succeeded Judge Denison Oct. 3, will be on the bench at the coming term.

EARLY SHOPPING SLOGAN IS DUE.

Only 52 Days Remain for Purchases for the Christmas Tide.

There remain but fifty-two more shopping days before Christmas, and soon all the stores will be admonishing their patrons to "Do your Christmas shopping early." Up to three years ago almost everyone put off their purchasing until the last week before Christmas, but about that time a number of philanthropic societies took up the cause and waged a fight for early buying. Since then each year the tardy ones have been fewer and fewer until now the belief that only necessary purchases will be made after Dec. 20 is well founded.

Everyone is benefited by the change. The shopkeeper is not harassed by an army of women searching through piles of accumulated gifts and finally selecting something which is not at all suitable, thus creating bad feelings against the store.

The customer does not have to buy anything at hand, but makes his or her selection at ease and quiet. The aisles will not be crowded with a mob of women all bent on getting the last one of something. And, having time, the article desired may be gotten at the lowest price and the least trouble.

And last, but not least, the shop girl should be considered. Year after year in some department stores it has been necessary to maintain what practically amounts to a Red Cross corps to care for the girls, half-dead from neurosthenia caused by the strain and tenseness of exhaustion. Humanity alone demands that all should do something to make the Christmas-tide seem more like Yuletide to the working girl. And this can be done by early shopping.

MISS CROWLEY'S FUNERAL.

Beloved Teacher to Be Laid at Her Final Rest This Morning.

The funeral of the late Miss Elizabeth Crowley, whose remains were received in the city Sunday morning from Rochester, Minn., will take place this morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's cathedral, with solemn high mass. In the passing of Miss Crowley, Marquette mourns one who through her estimable qualities, loving manner and cheery disposition endeared herself to all. Her friends are legion in all walks of life; for every one she had a smile and a pleasant greeting. They are the better for her having lived. Especially was she endeared to the children, as was shown by the endless procession of school children who called at the home, 127 Fisher street, for one last loving look at her, who was teacher, friend, guide and counselor in their many childish difficulties. None was too trivial for her consideration and advice, which was always theirs for the asking. None went from her but with a lighter heart, a lesser burden and a hopeful outlook. Her's was the charming personality which moulded character.

Miss Crowley was born at Ishpeming, Feb. 12, 1868, and early moved to Marquette, where she had since lived. Completing the course in the high school under the late Miss Anna Chandler, she entered the teacher's profession at the early age of sixteen years. Many of her pupils who today are men and women are living testimony that "teachers are born, not made." As an educator, she was foremost in her profession, and her passing is mourned not only by her co-laborers in Marquette, but throughout the upper peninsula.

In September, 1892, she entered the city schools as primary teacher at the Hampton street school. Her advance was rapid, she having been principal of the Olcott school from its opening until September of this year. She leaves three brothers and three sisters. The brothers are Henry, John and William, of this city and the sisters are Mrs. Everett Easton of Barker, Texas, Mrs. James Bird of Watertown, New York, and Mrs. William Blackwood, Chicago.

As a mark of respect the schools will be closed during the morning today, the school flags will be half-masted and pupils and teachers will be given an opportunity to attend the funeral. Many beautiful floral pieces express the high esteem in which the community held Miss Elizabeth Crowley. "Requiescat in pace."

IMPROVED FLOUR SIFTER.

George McEachron Has Patent on Useful Household Device.

George McEachron, a resident of Forsyth township, who is making his home in this city, has just received a patent on an improved flour sifter, which he invented some time ago. He has sold the exclusive right to manufacture and sell the sifter to Joseph E. Reay of this city, who is making plans for putting it on the market as soon as possible. The sifter will be sold to wholesalers and handled through the retail dealers. It will probably be sold at twenty-five cents.

The advantages of Mr. McEachron's sifter over others on the market are that it can be operated with one hand and that it is simpler and less expensive to manufacture. It is cylindrical in shape and will hold about a quart and a half of flour. The sifting process is accomplished by squeezing the handle, which agitates the stirrer on the bottom, causing the sifted flour to drop through a fine screen below. Springs in the handle force the handle and stirrer back to its first position as soon as the pressure of the hand is released. With this sifter a woman can sift her flour or meal with one hand and stir whatever she may be making with the other. It is said to have been pronounced very convenient by housewives who have seen it, and it is predicted that it will have a large sale.

BOY SHOT IN ANKLE.

Victim of Trout Creek Hunting Accident at St. Mary's Hospital.

Mistaken for a deer and shot in the ankle, twelve-year-old Anthony Eloff, son of Peter Eloff, of Trout Creek, was brought to St. Mary's hospital yesterday morning for treatment. The accident occurred about five miles from Trout Creek shortly before noon Sunday. Whether the foot can be saved cannot be determined for several days.

The Eloff boy was out hunting with his uncle, George Hallam, and the latter shot a deer about a half mile from the Eloff homestead. As the two were dressing their kill, the crack of a rifle was heard and a 30-30 bullet pierced the boy's ankle. A moment later, William Hallam, a nephew of George Hallam, appeared and admitted that he had mistaken the boy's brown corduroy pants for a deer and had fired at him. The boy was taken to his home and brought to Marquette on the first train, which arrived here at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The attending physician is hopeful that it will not be necessary to amputate the injured foot.

FOUR MURDER TRIALS.

Unusual Interest Will Attach to December Term of Circuit Court.

When Marquette county circuit court convenes in December, it is probable that four murder cases will be on the docket, which is remarkably a record for this county. Before the adjournment of the September term, it was known that three murder cases would be on the December calendar, and the arrest of John Todola on the charge of having killed Dominick Vono at Diorite last Saturday night probably means a fourth murder trial.

The three men under indictment for murder or manslaughter are William Nedean and James McAuliffe, of Negaunee, and Samuel Robinson, of Northland. John Todola will be the fourth alleged murderer, in case he is bound over to court.

Samuel Robinson was tried for the murder of Clemens Schmidt a year ago and was convicted of manslaughter. At the September term of court, he was granted a new trial by Judge Flannigan, who held that he had erred in his charge to the jury at the first trial. Robinson pleaded self-defense. He has been in the Marquette prison since his conviction.

William Nedean is charged with having killed Matt Saarikoski, of Negaunee, while a member of the police force, and James McAuliffe, as is generally known, is charged with having killed James Gaffney, a Negaunee liquor dealer. It is certain that Nedean's case will be hard fought, and if McAuliffe's attorneys plead insanity, as is generally expected, this also is likely to be a long drawn out trial.
