MERRITT SAYS ROCKEFELLER BUNKOED HIM

Duluth "Lumberjack, Unacquainted With the Methods of the Money Trust," Tells the House Steel Investigators the Story of His Alleged Wrongs.

Through Loans of Less Than a Million He Lost Control of Mesaba Holdings Valued Now at Upwards of Half a Billion, He Testifies—Blames a Preacher.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Alfred Merritt, of Duluth, first president of the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad, who styles himself a "lumberjack," unacquainted with the methods of the money trust, told the house steel trust investigating committee today that through loans of less than one million dollars from John D. Rockefeller he had lost his holdings in the Mesaba iron mines and the railroad, properties now owned by the United States Steel corporation and estimated to be worth today as high as $700,000,000.

Mr. Merritt and his brother, Leonidas Merritt, who will testify tomorrow, were among the original mine owners in the Mesaba region and part owners and builders of the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad.

Story of the Alleged Flimflam.

The elder Merritt declares that he was induced through F. D. Gates, Mr. Rockefeller's secretary, "in charge of his charitable work" to put up all his holdings as collateral for loans from Mr. Rockefeller in 1892 and 1893. One loan was for $420,000. Others were for various sums. Gates, he said, was a Baptist preacher, in whom he had confidence and who assured him that by placing a call loan he would not be pressed and that he would be taken care of.

The witness related how, two months after he had put up his collateral with Mr. Rockefeller, during the panic of 1893, Rockefeller called the loans, giving him twenty-four hours to raise $420,000, and that, being unable to raise the money, he and his brother lost their property. He admitted that Mr. Rockefeller had offered him an opportunity to buy his property back within a year, but he declared that the oil king had told financiers "to keep their hands off" and that he was unable to raise money anywhere.

RAISE BIG FUND TO HELP COTTON GROWERS

New York Bankers Will Back the Southern Planters to the Extent of $50,000,000.

New York, Nov. 21.—New York bankers who have been conferring here for the last few days with representatives of the growers' conference and the Southern Cotton congress announced this afternoon that they had raised a fund of $50,000,000 to be placed immediately in the cotton belt states for the purpose of handling the cotton crop of 1911 and enabling growers to participate in any rise in the market.

The plan proposes to advance the grower $25 per bale on his cotton, based on the market value at the time of the loan. No interest will be paid on the loan, the only charge being $1 a bale, which is regarded as a legitimate minimum charge for the expense of grading and handling. The cotton is not held, nor taken from channels of trade, but is placed at the best advantage. The grower is given the right to designate the day of sale prior to Jan. 1, 1912, and will participate in any advance in price to the extent of three-fourths of the rise of the market.

It has been decided to place the fund through state committees named by the governor or commissioner of agriculture of a state, and these committees shall be empowered to sell when cotton reaches twelve cents and compelled to do so when it reaches eleven cents, regardless of advice from the growers. Provision against any violation of the Sherman anti-trust law is contained, the promoters believe, in a clause empowering each committee to name the day of sale in case the market falls to twelve or thirteen cents.

STEEL TRUST EXPLANATION

Disputes as to the nature of the transaction arose when D. A. Reed, counsel for the United States Steel corporation, stated that the Merritts had made actual sales of their stock holdings to Mr. Rockefeller, in order to raise money, and that they never had taken advantage of the opportunity to repurchase within a year. Another brother, Mr. Reid declared, had redeemed his stock and secured his pro rata shares at $208 per share when it was taken over at the time of the organization of the United States Steel corporation.

The introduction of Mr. Rockefeller's name in this matter almost resulted in the issuance of a subpoena for him to appear before the committee with the contract made at the time of the Merritt loans. Representative Beall, of Texas, moved that this be done. No objections were heard when Chairman Stanley put the motion, but the committee decided later not to call Mr. Rockefeller until Leonidas Merritt had testified.

Big Suit Settled For Small Sum.

The Merritts were first parties to a transaction with Mr. Rockefeller and others in the formation of the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines and the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern were consolidated. Out of this a suit by the Merritts against Mr. Rockefeller developed, on the ground of misrepresentation of the value of the mining properties turned in by the Rockefeller interests. Subsequently Mr. Rockefeller paid the Merritts $525 in settlement.

Before this settlement and after he had lost his stock holdings and ceased to be president of the railroad, Mr. Merritt testified that F. D. Gates came to him and said that Mr. Rockefeller wanted him to continue as president of the road for another year.

"Was that the Baptist Preacher Gates who was to you?" asked Chairman Stanley.

"Yes," Mr. Merritt replied. "He said that Mr. Rockefeller had confidence in me and knew that I, through my acquaintance with the boys on the range, would be able to get more shipping business than anyone else could do. I guess that was true."

"The Rev. Dr. Gates seemed to be serving the Lord and John D. Rockefeller didn't like," the chairman interrupted.

"But I refused the offer," Mr. Merritt answered, emphatically. "I told Gates that I could not retain my manhood and work for John D. Rockefeller."

CONGRESSMAN BEALL'S SUMMARY.

The intricacies of the transactions were involved and with difficulty were drawn from the witness. Representative Beall finally summed the matter up.

"You do know this, then," said Mr. Beall. "Before you dealt with John D. Rockefeller you and your brother had valuable stock holdings in the Lake Superior region and in this railroad, and after your dealings with him you had no stock."

"Yes, that's it," said Mr. Merritt. "I want to emphasize, further, that before I dealt with Rockefeller I had a one-tenth interest in the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad, which last year made $8,000,000, and that now I have nothing."

"I am inclined to blame the preacher more than I am Rockefeller," added the witness. "He deceived me. I don't blame

ROCKEFELLER SO MUCH. HE BELONGS TO THE MONEY TRUST.

Former Chief Engineer a Witness.

Charles H. Mertz, formerly chief engineer of the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railway, with some bitterness told how he once owned forty-nine shares of the stock in the road, but had to sell it to the Rockefeller interests for $30 a share, in order, as he claims, to make his job "secure."

MEAT PACKERS GRANTED FURTHER TIME TO APPEAL TO THE SUPREME COURT.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Further delay in the criminal trial of the indicted Chicago packers—this time until next Monday—was granted counsel for the defendants late today by Judge George A. Carpenter in the United States district court.

As a result the fight to save the packers from facing a jury probably will continue in Chicago to Washington, where efforts will be made to obtain a stay order from a justice of the United States supreme court. Judge Carpenter stated, however, that unless he had received such a stay order by Monday he would order the packers to trial without further argument. Levy Mayer, of counsel for the defendants, after the delay had been granted by Judge Carpenter, said that the application for a stay order from the supreme court would be made before Chief Justice White at Washington, probably on Thursday morning.

CORONER'S JURY BLAMES PAPER COMPANY OFFICIALS FOR THE AUSTIN DISASTER.

Caldersport, Pa., Nov. 21.—That the Austin dam disaster of Sept. 30 was due to gross negligence on the part of George C. Bayless, president, and Fred N. Hamilton, superintendent of the Bayless Paper & Pulp company, was the unanimous verdict of a coroner's jury here today.

Earlier in the day Hamilton and Michael Bailey, an employe, in charge of the dam, were arraigned before a justice on a charge of manslaughter. A warrant for Bayless was also issued. His home is in Binghamton, N. Y.

JOHN MITCHELL SPEAKS BITTERLY.

John Mitchell told the convention that it was a "packed" convention of the United Mine Workers at Columbus, O., last spring that compelled him to give up his $6,000 "job" with the National Civic Federation. He declared that at the proper time he would furnish proof that delegates bearing improper credentials were sent there to destroy him, at a time when he "was bound hand and foot" in the supreme court of the United States and unable to defend himself against the enemies of organized labor.

After a day of stormy debate, during which the socialists rallied to the support of the Mine Workers' delegation, the convention refused its indorsement by a vote from 4 to 1. As a result President Gompers and other labor leaders will continue as members of the executive board of the Civic federation.

GOMPERS ASSAILS THE SOCIALISTS.

President Gompers bitterly assailed the socialists in a defense of the Civic federation.

"There is nothing we can do to please the socialist party," he declared, "until we go over body, boots and breeches to that party. Then they will remain quiet so long as we remain subordinate to that party. If they succeeded in passing this resolution, they would deprive the honest workers of their voice in the management of the union."

"If the theory of the socialists is right, then the work of the American Federation of Labor is a waste of time and ought to be abandoned. I am going to stick to the trade union movement, no matter what you do. It is dearer to me than any other institution on earth. I owe it so much. It has given me so much opportunity to be helpful to others."

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH IN INDIANA PUTS BAN ON JOYS OF CHILDHOOD.

Indianapolis, Nov. 21.—"All day suckers" community pencil boxes and chewing gum are to be banished from the schools of Indiana, by order of the state board of health. Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the board, prepared today to send throughout a pamphlet indicting several of the joys of childhood as perilous.

"Children are wolf hungry at recess and need a little sustenance," said Dr. Hurty, "but not the kind that grows on sticks, in all colors of the rainbow, and becomes messy after having been sucked by several small mouths."

FIVE-CENT FARE CHARGED FOR DOGS TRAVELING BY TROLLEY IN CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 21.—Hereafter if you wish to carry your dog on the trolley cars you must pay an extra five cents for his fare. Moreover, the dog cannot stay in the car, but must go on the front platform, with the motorman. In summer, he can ride with the smokers on the five-cent seats. A five-cent fare entitles a dog to a transfer. These orders, issued by the Connecticut company, which controls all traction lines in this state, have just been approved here.

DEER KILL IN WISCONSIN IS ESTIMATED AT 2,500.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 21.—Hunters in Wisconsin have killed 2,500 deer since Nov. 11, according to the returns of tags made to the state department here. It is estimated that one-third of the deer population of the state will be exterminated this year.

Young Hunter Meets Death.

Cumberland, Wis., Nov. 21.—Lloyd McIntosh, aged nineteen, was killed instantly this morning while hunting deer when the gun of his brother, who was behind him, accidentally exploded.

$1,700 CASH IS FOUND IN SUPPOSED PAUPER'S SHACK.

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 21.—Homer Hoffman, a pioneer woodsman, for years supported by neighbors who thought him a pauper, was found dead in his shack here yesterday by a woman who assisted in his support. A search revealed $1,700 sewed up in an old carpet bag.

SAM'L GOMPERS VICTORIOUS AT LABOR MEETING

He and the Other Trades Union Leaders Will Continue to Associate With Millionaires on the Executive Board of the National Civic Federation.

Following a Stormy Debate, a Socialist Resolution Asking Their Withdrawal from Such Service Is Defeated in Atlanta Convention by Large Majority.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 21.—President Gompers and other labor leaders in the American Federation of Labor may continue to associate with Andrew Carnegie, August Belmont and other so-called "enemies of organized labor," as members of the National Civic Federation. The labor convention closed today in Atlanta, following a stormy debate, during which a socialist resolution asking their withdrawal from such service was defeated by a large majority.

WARNS CANADIANS NOT TO TREAD ON OUR TOES

Sir Richard Cartwright Sees Peril in Hostile Attitude Toward United States.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—"If there is one thing more than another that every Canadian statesman who is worthy of the name ought to avoid, it is fostering a hostile and unwelcome attitude toward the United States," said Sir Richard Cartwright, former minister of trade and commerce, in the Canadian senate today.

"For months I could not take up a Conservative newspaper without seeing some slur or taunt or insinuation or scurrilous attacks upon the government and the people of the United States."

"I observed some little time ago that Premier Borden took occasion at a dinner at New York to express the remarkable good will and affection he entertained for the people of the United States. Had he made that statement while the Canadian election was going on, I would have held his remarks entitled to more consideration. It may interest the gentlemen opposite and Mr. Borden himself to know how these remarks were received in the United States."

Sir Richard read an editorial extract from an American paper, which concluded: "Canada may congratulate herself upon having done more to estrange the two nations than she will be able to repair for many a year."

"Do these slanders of mind recall that the people of the United States are today close to a hundred million strong and within twenty-five years will reach a hundred and fifty million?" continued Sir Richard. "This is the kind of howl that is the sort of nation that these people think it wise and prudent and in the interest of the British empire for us to insult and estrange."

LORIMER DEFENSE SCORES BIG POINT

Federal Expert Accountants Unable to Find Any Trace of the Alleged $100,000 Fund.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The much talked-of charges made before the Illinois senate investigating committee last spring, that Edward Hines, the lumberman, and Arthur Tilden, the packer, had raised $100,000 "to put Lorimer over," received a hard blow today. The United States senate committee's expert accountants who have been examining the books and personal checking accounts of Hines and Tilden reported to the committee that their investigation had disclosed nothing that would indicate that either of the men had financially aided Lorimer's election.

Shortly after Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, had made these charges Tilden was ordered by the Illinois senate committee to appear before that body and bring with him his personal checking accounts for the year 1909. When the Chicago packer failed to respond, he was arrested by a sergeant-at-arms of the senate for alleged contempt. Immediately after he was taken into custody Judge Pettit of the Cook county circuit court granted him a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that the Illinois senate had no authority to enforce the production of the desired data. No appeal was taken from this decision. Claiming that Judge Pettit had blown his only chance of getting down to the roots of Funk's charges, the Illinois senate committee dropped its bribery investigation, with a recommendation that the United States senate reopen the inquiry.

PERJURY PROCEEDINGS IN ABEYANCE.

Federal grand jury action, if any, in connection with possible perjury by witnesses in the Lorimer investigation will not be considered by the senatorial committee until its work is concluded. This was made known today when John H. Marble and John J. Healy, counsel for the committee, refused to testify before the federal grand jury, which had summoned the attorney's Senate Keynote Club of Iowa, a member of its committee. Healy had suggested that some court action might be taken, because of the wide variety of information given the investigators.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The following is the weather bureau's forecast for Upper Michigan: Unsettled, Wednesday; probably snow, Wednesday night of Thursday; moderate south winds.

DULUTH WHOLESALERS JOIN IN MOVE TO CUT THE TARIFF ON SUGAR.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 21.—Wholesale grocers of Duluth are circulating blank petitions, seeking to obtain support for a movement to influence congress to reduce the duty on raw and refined sugar. The tax amounts to two cents per pound on refined sugar, equivalent to an 80 per cent. ad valorem duty. The grocers claim that this is an exorbitant tax and that there is no good reason why all the people should be heavily taxed in the interests of the sugar refining industries.

GREAT LAKES NAVIGATION TO CLOSE ON NOV. 30TH.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 21.—Minneapolis shippers have been notified that navigation on the Great Lakes will close at midnight Nov. 30, when insurance will expire, and that contracts to practices in past seasons when tonnage has been pressing for Eastern shipment, there will be no "special risk" boats after that day.

MILITANT WOMEN DEMANDING THE BALLOT FARE BADLY IN A DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO INVADEN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS—MORE THAN 200 ARRESTS ARE MADE.

Battle Is Fierce but Short and Is Followed by a Window-Smashing Campaign—Rowdies Assist in This and Damage to Property Is Heavy.

London, Nov. 21.—The suffragettes fared badly at the hands of the police tonight. They had threatened to force their way into the house of commons and make protest on the floor of the house against the prime minister's refusal to pledge the government to a bill giving equal suffrage to both sexes, but they failed even to reach the entrance to parliament.

Thwarted by the police, who arrested 220 women and three men, the suffragettes resorted to a campaign of window-smashing. Driven from parliament square by the police, eight hundred of whom were on duty, the women, accompanied by sympathizers and gangs of rowdies, proceeded to Whitehall, armed with bags of stones concealed under their coats, and broke windows in public offices, the Liberal headquarters and the National Liberal club. They even extended their operations to the strand, where windows of the postoffice banks and private concerns suffered from the onslaught.

BATTLE ALL OVER IN AN HOUR.

The suffragettes met early in the evening in Caxton Hall, less than a mile from parliament square and, after adopting a resolution declaring that the prime minister's denial of their request was gross and unreasonable insult to women, called for volunteers for "dangerous service." A deputation of fifty women, headed by Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, accompanied by immense crowds, started shortly for the house of commons to present the resolution or take what other action was deemed advisable. The police, however, were too much for them.

Strong detachments of police, both on foot and mounted, guarded the streets from Caxton Hall to the house of commons and required the attendance of ambulance surgeons. The battle was fierce but short.

SOME "MARTYRS" CHAIN SELVES TO RAILING

An hour after the women emerged from the hall, parliament square had been a scene of peaceful protest, except half a dozen women who had chained themselves to the railings and whose chains the police had to file or break. The demonstration was not as large as those of last year. The damage to property was greater, however, and the number of arrests establishes a new record.

Among those arrested were Mrs. Lawrence, who is joint editor of the paper styled "Votes for Women"; Lady Constant Lytton, sister of Lord Lytton, and the Honored Mrs. Evelyn Haverfield, daughter of Lieutenant General Lord Alvinger.

MRS. PANKHURST IN LINCOLN, NEB.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 21.—While the militant suffragettes of England today demonstrated on the streets of London, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, one of the leaders of the fighting band that demands votes for women, awaited in Lincoln the news of the struggle in her native city. Mrs. Pankhurst said tonight that on the outcome of the London struggle would depend her future action. "If any of my friends are arrested, she said, "I shall return to England at once."

REPORT CONCERNING MOROCCO SHOWS BRITAIN AND GERMANY ALMOST SEVERED RELATIONS.

Berlin, Germany, Nov. 21.—The official report of the secret sitting of the budget committee of the reichstag on Nov. 17, when Foreign Minister von Kiderlin made a report on the Harkov-German relations as affected by the Moroccan dispute with France, was published today. The foreign minister's account of the communications that passed between England and Germany show that the language used on both sides was so railing that a peaceful outcome of the affair under the circumstances is considered most fortunate.

PERSIA YIELDS TO RUSSIA, IS REPORT FROM TEHRAN.

Teheran, Persia, Nov. 21.—It is reported that Persia has yielded to the Russian demands.

Late London dispatches stated that Persia had placed her case in the hands of Great Britain, as diplomatic relations with Russia had been interrupted. Persia, it was said, was prepared to comply with the demands of Russia for an apology and the payment of an indemnity for an alleged insult to the Russian consul when the property of the brother of the deposed shah was seized at Teheran.

REFUGEES IN CHINA IN GRAVE DANGER

Peking, China, Nov. 21.—The killing of foreigners at Sian Fu, Shen Si province, has been further confirmed by two Chinese students who have arrived from that city. During the fighting at Sian Fu a mob attacked the China Inland mission, located outside the city. They murdered Mrs. Beckman, who is said to be an American, and five of the mission children. Mr. Beckman was wounded, but escaped, saving an infant. The surviving foreigners were sheltered by Chinese Christians and subsequently departed eastward, toward the railway. The English Baptist missionary, J. C. Keyte, will leave Peking for Sian Fu tomorrow to ascertain the facts concerning the murders. He will go unaccompanied. The foreign legations agree that they will be unable to send relief to the coast failed to reach many inland places before communication was cut off. About eighty foreigners, almost all of them missionaries, were in Shen Si, of whom about fifty are believed to have been saved. The three Sian Fu missions are the English Baptist, Scandinavian Alliance and Roman Catholic. Those who have escaped are likely to encounter bands of robbers and lose their conveyances, which would greatly impede their progress. The journey of saving a hundred miles on foot would take fully forty days, although the advance party might proceed more rapidly.

MISS CHAMBERLAIN'S NARRATIVE.

It was not the freshness of Miss Chamberlain's story that held the interest of the throng, for she told little that was not known. Her narrative set forth how Edward Ricord, a village barber, deceived her and saved an infant. The subsequent pouring of tar on her body and limbs, while others rubbed it with their hands; and how later she awoke to find herself being driven home by the companion who had deserted her. The tar clung to her body for days. The witness said she failed to recognize any of her assailants.

The different view point of the plaintiff and at least one of the defendants regarding the case stood out plainly when the defense offered the testimony of James Boose a few minutes after Miss Chamberlain had finished her story. Boose had started to attend the "tarring," but did not reach there.

"Why did you wish to go?" he was asked by the prosecutor.

"I just wanted to see the fun," he replied.

"By fun, you mean the process of putting tar on Miss Chamberlain?"

"Yes."

Boose is under arrest, but not on trial now. The three defendants now before the court are Sheriff Clark, A. N. Simms and John Schmidt, charged with complicity in the assault.

Nanking, China, Nov. 21.—General Chang, commander of the imperial forces within the city, in revenge for the desertion of General Shu, who went over to the revolutionaries, has beheaded Shu's relatives.

Michigan Jury Delves Into Deaths of John Wesley Sparling and Three Sons.

Detroit, Nov. 21.—A special dispatch from Ubley, Huron county, says: "Interest is at a fever heat here and in the surrounding country today, over the resumption of the coroner's inquiry into the deaths of John Wesley Sparling and his three sons, who died within the last three years. On Oct. 13, a coroner's jury attributed the death of Cyril Sparling, twenty years old and the last to die, to arsenic poisoning, the stomach of the dead youth having been sent to the University of Michigan for analysis.

"Mrs. Sparling, wife of the first to die and mother of the three young men, held that their deaths were entirely due to natural causes, but John Sparling, Sr., uncle of John Wesley Sparling and granduncle of the dead boys, has been very outspoken in his declaration that the deaths were unnatural. Mrs. Sparling's father was a Methodist minister. Her only remaining son and her daughter reside with their mother on the Sparling farm. The senior Sparling, uncle of John Wesley Sparling, will probably be the chief complaining witness when the case reaches the circuit court.

"John Wesley Sparling died in 1908 in a hospital at London, Ont. Peter, the eldest son, died in July, 1910, and Albert, the second son, died last May. Cyril died in August. After the death of Cyril the body of Albert was exhumed. Today's inquest concerned only the death of Albert Sparling and a representative of the state chemist's office testified that indications of arsenic poisoning were found. Intimations made by the prosecutor indicated that arrests were imminent, and if two arrests were made the two would be one woman and one man."

GAMBLER WHO TESTIFIED AGAINST POLICE AT CHICAGO GETS THREATENING LETTER.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Harry Broloski, reform gambler, today received a letter threatening his life, written on police stationery and evidently a part of the writing paper furnished the central detective bureau. It came to him within an hour after Captain William J. Plunkett had resigned from the police force under fire and three other commanding officers had secured a continuance till Thursday of their trial on charges of inefficiency.

Broloski testified before the police investigating committee which is looking into the relations between the police and vice that shocking conditions existed, and named high officials of the department. Broloski has asked the investigating committee to look into the matter.

MARY CHAMBERLAIN IS A WITNESS AT LINCOLN CENTER, KAS., AGAINST THE MEN CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING HER—HER RECITAL DRAMATIC FOR ITS SIMPLICITY.

Lincoln Center, Kas., Nov. 21.—This was Mary Chamberlain's day in court in the "tar party" case. Facing three of the men accused of complicity in attacking her on a country road north of Shady Bend on the night of Oct. 7, she told in a crowded court room of her terrifying experience.

The young woman's story was dramatic for its simplicity. She gave a coherent narrative of the episode, in a low, even voice. Not once did she entirely lose her self-control. Nor did she speak with any feeling against the defendants. Had she been telling of the experiences of some other person, she could not have been calmer. Throughout the time she was on the stand she addressed the jury, and every jurymen gave her story the closest attention. On cross-examination, her story was unshaken.

The girl's examination lasted about half an hour. The defense reserved the right to recall her later. With the completion of her testimony, the state rested its case.

SENATOR CLAPP'S CLAPTRAP

Big, loud-voiced Senator Clapp, of Minnesota, one of the most blatant of the insurgents now marching under the La Follette banner, was at Detroit last week to give the campaign for his chief a send-off in Michigan.

"Hearing Senator Clapp of Minnesota talk reform in the Light Guard Army is an enjoyable entertainment for a Sabbath afternoon. Visiting with him in his private hotel quarters for half the time is quite as enjoyable. But in the visiting process one gets to know men better and to understand more clearly what they are getting at.

"Clapp believes in the direct nomination of presidential candidates, in the initiative and referendum and recall, in woman suffrage, and in anything in general that he believes will promote democracy to the discomfiture of oligarchy.

"Met with the contention that the need of such peculiar medicine in Pennsylvania or New Jersey or California does not prove the need of it in Michigan he will parry with the reply that the people whom he trusts implicitly in all things, have a lamentable tendency to go to sleep; and when they do, selfish men put things over in the legislature and other places for their own benefit.

"Those who object to Russia's violation of treaty rights have too long been patient with excuses for non-action by our government. This patience happily grows exhausted, and now, as never before, there is unequivocal demand that evading shall cease. Either Russia must live up to the plain terms of her treaty with us or else we must abrogate that treaty.

"Nothing has so far been achieved by protests that are not backed up, or by pleadings with Russia to please obey the treaty, or by futile efforts to get the Russian foreign office to admit that what it calls its 'interpretation' of the treaty is erroneous. The Russian foreign office is in charge of intelligent men. They know without being told so that their 'interpretation' has not a logical leg to stand on. They put it forward because there is no other way to meet the American demand.

"And then there is the American who goes to Russia and is so flattered by the attention that he receives in court circles as to become an apologist for a bloody aristocracy and for religious persecution. John Hays Hammond is not the only American of this type. Jacob Schiff, if so disposed, could make out a long list of men who have made their country ridiculous in the face of the world. It is time for the real Americans to assert themselves and to repudiate recreant representatives who insult their country by becoming apologists for tyranny and religious persecution.

A PROPER ATTITUDE

Whatever the intentions of Mayor Jacobs in regard to the appointment may be, the council is to be commended for its evident purpose to scrutinize closely the nomination that is to be made for the vacancy existing on the police commission. Mayor Jacobs already has to his credit some appointments in which neither he nor the city has reason to feel any glowing pride.

ant commission. In these cases the council sat by and permitted the mayor to have his will, without putting up any effective opposition. It is pleasing to find the council beginning to realize its part of the responsibility in filling board positions, and it is to be hoped, for the welfare of the city, that henceforth it will have the courage to put a check on all mayors who propose men for commissions who have no claim to be given such important recognition.

Under the present form of government in Marquette there is nothing so vital, if the city is to be well administered and the taxpayers' money is to be carefully expended, as the selection of the most available timber for the city commissions. These commissions, control the electric light and power system, the water works system, the administration of the police and the work done on the streets, sewers and parks. An obliging council has pretty thoroughly divested itself of power, to the enhancement of the power resting with the commissions, and all but a small part of the municipal expenditures are made under the direction of these bodies.

It is important that the police commission be a representative body. The people of the city are well satisfied with the police administration of the past two years and a half. To try to re-establish law conditions would be futile of result except to engender hard feeling, and it would mean the final defeat of anyone who tried to take the lid off. If the police board is kept in the hands of men who desire clear government and effective enforcement of the laws, one source of friction in Marquette in the past will be done away with.

It is only fair to Mayor Jacobs to say that he has given no particular evidence of a purpose to change the existing police conditions in Marquette, and that by no act has he shown that he is desirous of upturning the organization of the police department. Nevertheless it is plainly the duty of the council to scrutinize with great care his appointment to the police board, and to insist that a proper man be named for the important place.

The Mining Journal is indifferent, and it is certain that people in general are indifferent, as to whom Mayor Jacobs names for the police board as long as he is a representative man who can be depended on to be responsive to the best influences in the community. The council should see to it that he is a man who would scorn any deal to make a change in the police department simply for the sake of making a change. If the city is to be well policed the officers, from the chief down, must be able to see that good work means an indefinite tenure of office, and is not to be regarded as a possible cause for removal.

THE PASSPORT QUESTION

Those who object to Russia's violation of treaty rights have too long been patient with excuses for non-action by our government. This patience happily grows exhausted, and now, as never before, there is unequivocal demand that evading shall cease. Either Russia must live up to the plain terms of her treaty with us or else we must abrogate that treaty.

A Laugh or Two

No Good. "I don't believe in forcing schools for children," said Woodrow Wilson at a dinner. "A child that knows at four as much as ordinarily it would know at eight is, to my mind, about as useful an object as Calhoun Clay's watch.

"That's a fine watch you've got there, Calhoun," said a friend. "Is it a good goer?" "A good goer?" said Calhoun Clay. "Well, you bet your life it's a good goer. Why, it can do an hour in half the time!"

Hammerstein's Three Beers. "Oscar Hammerstein," said an actress on the Curand pier, "entertained me at tea last week in his new opera house office in London.

"The opera house is in Kingsway. It is a wonderful place, all but the statues on the top. They're hideous, but, being heavily draped, they'll be sure to please the Londoners.

"Mr. Hammerstein at tea talked about his successes and his failures, and his successes as an inventor of cigar making machinery and his 800 successes in opera.

"Then he mentioned his tremendous failure with his first opera house fifteen years ago—how he devoted it to opera ballet and it wouldn't go; how he then turned it into a theater with Mrs. Bernard Beere as his star, and it still wouldn't go, and how at last he turned it into a music hall and made a fortune.

"Yes," said Mr. Hammerstein, "with a checkbook that was the record of that place—first, Meyer beer; then Bernard Beere; then lager beer."—New York Sun.

Ignorant Lady. Frank Miles Day, the architect, desired to illustrate, at the T-Square club in Philadelphia, a piece of architectural ignorance.

"Why," he said, "it was as bad as the woman who listened to a lecture on Cook's Cathedral, and, at the end of the lecture, the lecturer's hand and said: 'Oh, thank you, sir, for your illuminating remarks. I often wondered where our colonial architecture came from. Now, of course, I see that it comes from Cologne.'

Mixed Morals. Logan M. Bullitt, discussing grafting in Philadelphia, said the other day: "These people have a mixed moral sense. They remind me of a little Wisshikon girl.

"Oh, mamma," she said, "you'll have to discharge the new governess. She's awfully wicked."

True Connoisseur. Joseph E. Widener, at a dinner in Philadelphia, was congratulated on his father's unique and magnificent gallery of pictures.

"Yes," said Mr. Widener, "my father is a connoisseur, a true connoisseur. I don't use the word 'connoisseur,' either, as the great painter used it. 'A great painter, you know, was asked by his little son: 'Father, what is a connoisseur?' 'Well, my son,' the father answered, 'did you notice that tall white-haired gentleman at my studio tea yesterday?' 'The one with the white-lined overcoat?' 'That's right, my boy! Certainly not! The others drank my Russian tea, ate my foie-gras sandwiches, and took leave. But he—he bought a picture!'

Half a Dozen of the Advantages Claimed for the New System of Cooking in Paper Bags.

- 1. It is economical; the food weighs practically the same when drawn from, as when put in, the oven.
2. It is labor-saving—no cleaning of pots or pans.
3. It is hygienic—no germ-laden cooking utensils.
4. No smell of cooking—the bag is sealed with a common metal clip, such as is used by business men in offices.
5. It saves fuel, and, therefore, money.

Irad Struble, Lost Hunter, Able to Walk to Camp When Found Yesterday.

Irad Struble, of Shepard, lower Michigan, was rescued Friday morning by a party of five hunters who had been searching for him since Friday night in the woods around Nestoria. The fact that he was lost was announced in Monday's issue of The Mining Journal. Struble is a brother of Charles Struble, formerly a popular South Shore conductor, running between Marquette and the copper country.

Hunting Season on the Wane.

The deer season of 1911 will soon be history. One week from tomorrow ends the period when it shall be lawful to kill deer in Michigan, although a few days' grace are allowed in which to bring the venison to town. It will never be known how many deer were killed in the copper country. The number will, however, run up in the hundreds.

Applies for Wolf Bounty.

Joseph Fontaine of Lake Linden has applied at the county clerk's office for a wolf bounty. He killed the animal a few days ago in Torch Lake township. Two Cape May hunters, just back from a hunting trip in Keweenaw county, tell of finding traces of deer destroyed by wolves. It is believed that a good sized pack of the savage animals are running deer up near the point and that they also constitute a danger to lone hunters.

MINING NEWS

TENNESSEE COPPER.

The developments at the plant of the Tennessee Copper company at Copper Hill, Tenn., have placed the company in a unique position. Not only is the property situated in the only successful copper mining district in the eastern part of the United States, but its smelter is the only one of the kind in operation on a large scale direct from copper blast furnaces. The capitalization is $5,000,000. The company has opened up ore reserves, it is claimed, sufficient for ten years' operations at full capacity, and in addition to this there are large probable reserves. The company owns three mines, known as the Polk county, Burra Burra and London. A fourth, the Eureka, is now being developed. The smelting plant consisting of seven furnaces and power houses, has an annual capacity of 200,000 tons of copper. The smelter is connected with the mines by eight miles of standard gauge railroads.

LAKE SUPERIOR ACHIEVEMENT.

The government statisticians place the 1910 production of the Michigan copper mines at 223,683,000 pounds, a figure which represents about 20 per cent of the American mine output. This Michigan copper was recovered from the treatment of 10,869,501 tons of rock, the average recovery being 20 1/2 per cent of copper per ton, a yield which compares with 21 1/2 per cent in the previous year. If Calumet & Hecla's contribution to the production be excluded, it is found that the average copper yield of Michigan rock in 1910—and it is less than in spite of this very low yield and a copper market which averages only a fraction over 12 cents during the entire twelve months, it is indeed remarkable that the mines of this district were able to earn and pay dividends aggregating $6,240,526. An ability to earn such a return for the mine owners on 13-cent copper from rock averaging considerably less than 1 per cent is a splendid tribute to the operators of the Lake Superior properties.

NOTES OF MINING NEWS.

In order for Calumet & Arizona to show full earnings its $2,100,000 a year dividend it is figured that the company must have reduced its cost to about 7 1/2 cents per pound. The average yield of Winona rock in the three months ended Sept. 30 showed considerable improvement over the average for the first four months of the year. Following a four years suspension of production the company resumed shipments last March and in the four months' period ended June 30 the rock averaged 12 1/4 per cent refined copper to the ton while in the following three months ending Sept. 30 the aver-

GOOD ROADS TEND TO CHEAPEN LIVING COST

Secretary James Wilson So Ar- gues in Addressing the Richmond Conference.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 20.—Good roads, as related to the cost of living, was discussed by United States Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, in an address here today before the Good Roads conference. He declared the cost of living would be reduced when there was established a more intimate relation between the producer and the consumer. With the increase in the good road mileage, the parcels post, he said, would perfect the facilities for getting from the farm to the town.

The Grand theatre is showing today and tomorrow Pathe's Weekly. A full description of the different subjects is given in the advertisement in this issue.

Miss Ethel Gammie, of Crescent street, is at St. Luke's hospital, where she has just been operated on for appendicitis. She is getting along nicely.

Fred Needham, of Houghton, spent the last two days in Marquette and left last evening for Ishpeming, where he will spend a day or two with his brother, Frank Needham.

Bishop G. Mott Williams has decided to spend the winter in Washington, D. C., and he does not expect to return to Marquette until March 1. Bishop Williams has not done any active work in the diocese for nearly a year, his health being not the best.

Eagles' Dance Tonight—The Marquette acie of Eagles will give a dancing party at the Owls Hall this evening. Trombley's orchestra will furnish the music and a jolly good time is promised to all who attend. An invitation is extended to everybody to attend and it is expected that a large crowd will participate in the merrymaking.

Wedding Is Announced—Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Beatrice Hanson, of this city, and William Bathgate Castle, of Duluth, which will take place Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 6, at 2:30 at St. Paul's Episcopal church. After the ceremony, a reception will be held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Irving D. Hanson, 339 East Ridge street.

Social For Normalites—The Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church will give a reception and social for the Normal students this evening for Normal students. Supper will be served at 6:30. For a number of years it has been the custom of the Endeavorers to arrange an affair of this kind in order that the Normalites may become better acquainted with the city young people.

Stole a Gold Watch—Sylvester Griffin, a young man well known in this city, pleaded guilty yesterday before Justice Byrnes to having stolen a gold watch belonging to Sergeant Swensick, enlisted officer for the United States marine corps. Raymond Griffin, a brother of the accused, was also arrested, but was released upon Sylvester taking all the blame. Basketball Line-Ups—The basketball teams of the Michigan College of Mines and the Knights of Columbus of this city will line up in Friday evening's game at Legion Hall as follows: College of Mines, Dempsey center, Sparks and Scott forwards, Newkirk and Thurber guards; Knights of Columbus, Ring center, Layne and Connell forwards, Myers, Christensen and Bastien guards. Attachment Writ Issued—F. B. Spear & Sons have caused an attachment to be placed on some of the machinery on Middle Island, which is owned by F. L. MacDonald, the contractor who is putting in the foundation for the extension of the Marquette breakwater. This attachment was made to secure payment of material purchased from F. B. Spear & Sons during the summer. The amount involved is less than $200. It is stated that parts of Mr. MacDonald's equipment at Middle Island has been used by Campbell Bros. of Duluth, who are operating the quarry.

Good Catches of Herring—With quiet weather on the lake for the last three days, local fishermen report good catches of herring. Last week was most disastrous for the opening of the herring season, as it was too rough much of the time to lift the nets and they were badly torn by the heavy seas. Herring seem to be fully as plentiful as in former years and things are now being rushed at the fish houses to make up for time lost last week. The market for herring and all kinds of fish is very quiet at local fishermen have no difficulty in disposing of all they can catch.

Guild Hall Notes—Last evening at Legion Hall the Guild Hall second basketball team won the first game it has played this season. It defeated the Baraga High school team by the decisive score of 53 to 13. After the game, the team met at Guild Hall and elected Frank Dones captain for the season, and Byron Murray manager. The average weight of the second team is about 125 pounds. The boys will be glad to arrange games with other home teams of about the same weight. The boxing class will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The business men's class will assemble at 7:45 this evening.

GRAND ISLAND A HUNTER'S PARADISE

Interesting Article From Pen of T. H. Noble in Current Number of Gateway.

In the November number of the Gateway, a monthly magazine published in Detroit, is published an interesting illustrated article by T. H. Noble, field superintendent for the Cleveland-Chief Iron company, entitled, "A Hunter's Paradise," and being a description of Grand Island, near Munising. The general character of the article is indicated in the following extracts:

"The mecca of animal life on the island is the beautiful lake in its center. Here the wild duck brings out her brood of downy midgets, to chase the water beetles, and wax strong until their growing pinions shall take them to southern waters while their birthplace is clasped in the embrace of a northern winter. Here the loon delights to sound his uncanny note far into the night. The family of beavers, provident against a coming winter, are ever busy with their lumbering operations. The felling of trees, the skidding to the water, the rafting, the building of camp, and the storage of supplies which must be completed during the busy season. Of all the animals which inhabit the north country, these are the most interesting."

"The instinct of the fishes to select spawning grounds best suited to the development of the egg, the ingenuity of the birds which select appropriate sticks that they weave together with moss and the tenacious fiber of bark form a framework which they line with horse hair and bits of wool, and finally create the finished nest, are matters of interest to the naturalist; but mysterious as they seem, he is satisfied with the one explanation of instinct seeking to perpetuate the species."

"In the case of the beaver, the same instinct furnishes the motive, but to carry out the plan calls for a much higher standard of mental caliber, which we must accord a place in the realm of intelligence. The promoters of a new colony constitute themselves into a corps of engineers. Thoroughly organized, and with a plan definite to inspire their human rivals, they cruise the country for every feature of its topography which might have a bearing on their hydraulic scheme. They are satisfied that the conditions are favorable to a uniform and constant supply of water, they then make their preliminary survey and finally adopt a location."

"The stretches of sandy beach along this island lake are the favorite playgrounds for the children. They come here in the early evening and romp to their hearts' content. These frolics seem to be the sole expression of playfulness in the daily life of the elk at this fall season, the balance of their time being given up to vegetating pure and simple."

"The native deer also make an evening pilgrimage to the lake, but this with them is a more serious business, for the governing instinct of their lives is protection against the attack of wolves, and, if possible, they will approach the lake from the windward side so that sound or scent of danger will be carried to them from the land. Even then they tile down the well-beaten trails to the water's edge with great caution, ever hanging back for a sign of danger. So little are they accustomed to expect danger from the water, that frequently they may be quite nearly approached with a boat, and in this way some of the best photographs of wild life have been obtained."

"To those who take pleasure in the study of animal life, the island offers a field of ever-increasing interest. Nearly all of the specimens which have been placed on the island have listened to 'the call of the wild,' and are following out their natural destiny as truly as if they had never been captured. While it would not be sportsmanlike to shoot one of these animals because their bounties are well known, the sensation of discovery, and the interest of studying their habits is just as keen as was that of resident Roosevelt when he watched for hours the animal life in far away Montana. With such opportunities in easy reach, why is it that so few break away from the tedium of a town, and do not avail themselves of the delights of this wonderful land?"

His clothing became caught in the gearing. Lamphiere was instantly drawn up and hurled with great violence against a pillar. His head struck the post, his neck was broken and he was otherwise injured. The man was already dead when fellow employees reached him. The deceased was thirty-five or forty years of age and was married. He is survived by a wife and three children. GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT FIRMLY ENTRENCHED

American Road Builders Discuss Methods of Construction and Maintenance.

V. S. Hillier, superintendent of the County Road Commission, who last week attended the eighth annual convention of the American Road Builders' association in Rochester, N. Y., yesterday stated that the meeting was by far the most enthusiastic and successful the organization has ever held. The weather was the only disappointing feature. Most of the 1,400 members in attendance inspected the roads in Monroe county, which in recent years has been a leader in highway construction. Mr. Hillier paid particular attention to the condition of the highways and the manner of their construction.

The original object of the American Road Builders' association, Mr. Hillier stated, was the promotion of the good roads movement, but at the meeting held last week little attention was paid to that phase, as it has been permanently launched in practically every state in the union. The question most generally discussed pertained to the future methods of construction and maintenance, rather than to the advancement of the good roads movement. Many of the prominent superintendents of road construction, as well as members of highway commissions, etc., presented some interesting facts as to the manner in which they were conducting their work, also provided considerable interesting data as to the cost of construction and maintenance.

There is no state in the union in which road construction has been conducted along an extensive line as in New York, and Monroe county alone has completed, or has under construction, 208.80 miles, the cost of which has totalled $1,374,489.19.

State Bonded for $50,000,000.

A few years ago New York state issued bonds in the sum of $50,000,000, to be used for road construction and maintenance. Under the state law, the counties and townships combined pay about 50 per cent. of the cost, the state paying the balance. The townships pay approximately 30 per cent., while the county pays 20 per cent.

It will thus be seen that New York is paying a much larger sum proportionately than in Michigan for road construction. In this state a reward of $1,000 is paid on each mile of crushed rock macadam road built, while a $500 reward is paid on each mile of gravel road. The rewards received by Marquette and other counties in the upper peninsula on their macadam highway construction has amounted to between 10 and 15 percent. of the total cost. Iron, Dickinson and other counties, which have been building roads of similar character in recent years, have received similar rewards.

Under the state law granting rewards to the counties for new road work, which was enacted some six or seven years ago, no aid is given for the construction of dirt roads, similar to those built in the western end of Marquette county. Some of the counties in the lower peninsula, which have constructed gravel roads since the enactment of the law, have received larger rewards from the state than the roads actually cost them. If gravel was used in the construction of highways built of dirt in this section, the cost would be much greater per mile than in the lower peninsula, owing to the scarcity of the gravel. In many places it would have to be hauled several miles, so that it is not practicable to build gravel roads through some districts in Marquette and other upper peninsula counties.

Expects Federal Aid.

According to Mr. Hillier the opinion was freely expressed at the convention that within the next five or six years the national government will be assisting in road construction throughout the country. He said that public sentiment is growing so rapidly in favor of good roads that congress undoubtedly will be asked to pass a bill appropriating money to be used in assisting the various states in their highway improvements. There has been an enormous increase in the mileage of new roads constructed during the past few years and there is now reason to believe that the work along that line will continue to increase at an even higher proportionate rate during the next ten years than in the past ten.

The roads in Monroe county, as well as those in other parts of New York state, are used more than are the streets of the average country town. He said that the highway between Rochester and Buffalo, which are sixty-five miles apart, is a very busy one, as hundreds of farm-

The opening of the main and side tracks and the handling of ore cars since last week's storm has been the hardest work of the kind that our crews have ever experienced," said an Ishpeming yard man yesterday. "The snowfall was by far the heaviest I have ever seen in November, and we were not prepared for such a complete blockade. The engines without plow were of little use in switching, and our plows could not get around very fast as they had a large mileage to cover. The ore movement was not retarded Friday, but Saturday there was very little shipping, as it was next to impossible to get trains over the mine tracks.

"The yards are now pretty well cleaned up, and the ore is today moving as freely as it did last week. The big plows have been over many of the side tracks and the crossings and other important points in the yards have been cleared of snow. With favorable weather for another ten days a large tonnage of ore will be shipped from the mines, but another storm like the last one will put a stop to the movement in short order.

The railroads having the largest tonnage to open up have had to put on extra men this week shoveling snow and in other ways helping to make the work easier for the switching crews. A South Shore plow was busy in the yards here yesterday, and the removal of snow from the main tracks on cars will be started today. The cold snap of two weeks ago, followed by the heavy storm, greatly added to operating costs of the roads handling the ore from the best mines. It will be some days before all the surplus snow is removed from the playgrounds of the season. The object is to encourage children in the care of their teeth. The members at present number 1,000. They have all been taught how to use their toothbrushes and have entered a contest for the best kept teeth. Prizes will be awarded in each branch of the league.

IT WILL ARBITRATE BUSINESS DISPUTES

New York's Free, New Court Is Expected to Obviate Long Litigation.

New York, Nov. 20.—Details have been made public of a tribunal of arbitration, which has been established by the Chamber of Commerce with the authorization of the supreme court of New York county, to settle disputes of merchants, brokers and other business men without the delays and expense of present day litigation. The new system will be put in operation within a few days. There will be no lawyers' fees, no court costs, no expenses whatever except the salary of the stenographer who will record the minutes of the proceedings, and the stationery on which his report will be written. Members of the Chamber of Commerce, active in the establishment of this laymen's court, believe it will open a new era in business and not only will remove from the courts a great deal of costly and dilatory litigation, but will eventually prevent the beginning of kindlier trade relations.

Sereno S. Pratt, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said that there had been prepared a list of more than two hundred members in all lines of business willing to act as arbitrators. Most of them rank among the foremost business men of the city. "The Chamber of Commerce first appointed a committee of arbitration," said Mr. Pratt. "This committee consists of seven men. It is their duty whenever a dispute is brought to them with the request that it be arbitrated to select a man from the list of arbitrators to act as judge. Before this arbitrator each side will present the necessary evidence. In most cases it is expected the principals in the action will appear and that each will state his case as clearly and thoroughly as possible. Witnesses may be summoned and will testify as in a court of law. No lawyers, however, will be admitted to these hearings. Disputants may consult attorneys beforehand, but it will be a fundamental rule of the arbitration committee not to permit counsel to take any personal part in the proceedings."

The arbitration committee of the Chamber of Commerce consists of Charles L. Bernheimer, a dry goods merchant; James H. Post, president of the National Sugar Refining company; Frank A. Ferris of the Produce Exchange; Henry Heintz, coffee merchant; James Talcott, dry goods merchant; William Lammie, banker and railroad man, and Algernon S. Frissell, president of the Fifth Avenue bank.

Supreme Court Justice Vernon M. Davis, who has taken a deep interest in the arbitration plans of the Chamber of Commerce, was asked to swear in the arbitration committee in accordance with the recently enacted statute of the legislature. The judge declared that he would gladly take part in the creation of such a tribunal. In his roles of office he met the seven men of the committee and after a brief address relative to the laws of arbitration and the great good which would be accomplished by a "business men's court" he solemnly invested them with judicial powers.

"It is the purpose of this arbitration tribunal," said Judge Davis, "to settle business disputes informally, promptly and economically. Being men of affairs, the arbitrators selected from among the members of the chamber should get at the issue quickly and correctly. The system is as follows: When two disputants, two merchants, for example, who otherwise would appear as plaintiff and defendant in a court of law, request the board of arbitration of the Chamber of Commerce to act, the committee will appoint an arbitrator of the same line of trade who will listen to all the evidence in the case after the manner of a judge. The parties involved in the dispute will in the beginning sign an agreement binding them to abide by the decision of the arbitrator. If, after the decision, the losing party should refuse to accept the decision, the other party, under the law, may bring the decision of the arbitrator before a justice of the supreme court, who will make it a decision of the court, and as such it will be absolutely binding.

"I believe a tribunal of arbitration established will do great good. It will not only relieve the courts of much litigation which is costly and involved in the delays of the law, but it should be of aid to business, help trade relations and expedite business."

NOBODY WANTS A SPARYARD.

James B. Sutton of Mystic, Conn., Unable to Sell His Plant.

Mystic, Conn., Nov. 20.—James B. Sutton of Mystic, who has the last sparyard between Boston and New York, is anxious to sell out his spar making business but can find no one to buy and is going to retire from the business and allow its existence to cease. There is no longer a demand for masts for vessels which makes the business profitable, though there is some demand for flagpoles, masts or booms for derricks and occasionally a ship is to be outfitted with a spar or two.

Mr. Sutton is nearly eighty years old, though still active, and will take it easy for the rest of his days. His sparyard was started by him in 1853 and has supplied spars for most of the vessels built in Mystic and vicinity since that time. In 1853 Mystic was one of the biggest shipbuilding centers in the country. The Greenmans, Mallorys, Forsytes, Arons and Grinnell and Maxson & Fish were all building vessels in those days. Back in the sixties the Sutton yard had a contract to supply all the spars for fifteen vessels built at Mystic for use of the Spanish government in Cuban waters. In the old days the timber used to come from Michigan, but for ten or fifteen years back it has been necessary to send to the Pacific coast for it. The last lot of pine was transported over 7,000 miles to the Sutton sparyard. Under the new plan the remains of the once flourishing business are still to be seen, but there is less and less to do each month.

NEWLY FORMED ASSOCIATION WILL FIGHT TEND TOWARD GOVERNMENTAL OPERATION

New York, Nov. 20.—For the announced purpose of conducting a national movement against "fraternalistic legislation" and the growth of socialism, the American Property and Property association has been organized here by a number of businessmen and other wellknown citizens. The association has sent forth an appeal, calling attention to the "alarming growth of revolutionary and restrictive legislation" and advocating opposition to "all attempts to establish the government as a competitor or controller of any department of social activity or industries which can be equally well conducted by private enterprise."

AMERICAN FARMS ARE WEARING OUT

Man Careless in Use of Soil Must Disappear, Asserts Dr. Van Hise.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 20.—Addressing the Lowell institute on conservation of natural resources, Professor S. E. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin said, in part: "The conservation of the soil is most important, since the soil is the source of our food and clothing, and the human race cannot get along without these commodities. The wasteful extravagance of the American people as regards the natural resources is becoming alarming in its extent."

"A great deal of the soil in the Middle West and in the East is being depleted by erosion, which is brought about by the methods of rectangular plowing and the planting of one kind of crop year after year until the soil is worn out. The materials necessary for productive soils are potassium salts, phosphorus salts and nitrogen. When these materials are entirely extracted the soil will be worthless.

"These materials are quickly being extracted from the soil by the foolish methods of cultivation and the prospects look dark for the agricultural future of the nation. The loss of phosphoric acid from the soil is estimated at 15,000,000 pounds per annum. It is natural that a newly occupied country should have been exploited for its resources as was this country, but the type of farmer who had worn out two farms during his life must now disappear.

"China and Japan have partly solved the problem of conservation by methods which the so-called civilized nations have yet to adopt. We are to be more patriotic than to look at the few years in which we occupy the earth during our lifetime. This country will undoubtedly have a history as old as Egypt and China and Japan, and surely these are civilized countries.

"The waste of the sewage materials must be stopped if we are to come near any solution of the great problem. The guano product of the islands off the coast of Peru will quickly give out. The phosphate-producing birds are being killed off and the Peruvian government is doing nothing to stop the practice.

"The phosphate beds of the Florida and the Carolinas should be used to recuperate the soil of our own country, and not sent abroad. The Geological Survey has discovered large phosphate beds in Idaho and Utah, which contain according to a conservative estimate about 2,500,000,000 tons of hydrogen phosphate rock. Science will solve one side of the problem, but the methods of cultivation must be changed. Despite what is being done by the agricultural colleges the education is inadequate. The problem of education is indeed appalling but it must be solved, the beginning must be made now.

"We are facing the problem of the conservation of the soil. If the population increases for the next two hundred years as it has in the past then the problem will be to feed and clothe a race which the soil cannot support unless we provide for it now. Conservation is therefore the most important problem which has ever confronted the human race. We are progressing, and all political and social questions will be solved in due time. But we must give our attention to the question of conservation now if we are to provide for the nation, because conservation means the good of the greatest number and for the longest time."

SAYS HE FELL ASLEEP IN HIS AERIAL CRAFT

Rodgers Declares Mysterious Gas in the Upper Air Stole Away His Senses.

Pasadena, Nov. 20.—Ethereal asphyxia, a dreaded something which lurks in the upper air and creeps irresistibly upon the senses of the aviator, falling him in a dreamy unconsciousness, is blamed by Calbraith Rodgers, the transcontinental flyer, for his recent accident. To the same form of somnolence he lays the death of Hoxsey, Johnstone, Ely and others who fell from a great height after having seemingly lost control of their machines.

Rodgers' explanation as to the cause of his fall is believed to have given scientists a subject for much study before its solution. Rodgers fell while flying to the ocean at an altitude of 1000 feet. When the ethereal somnolence first began, he says, he realized his peril and planned down, but couldn't overcome the sleepiness. One hundred feet from the ground he went to sleep, he declares, and the air-craft was wrecked. Rodgers' mind remained a blank for the thirty minutes he declares Rodgers. The dreamy sleepiness is entirely different from that, he says. There was no stifling, choking or pain of the ear drums. The air possessed a peculiar odor, like that of chloroform or ether. In proof that it was not carbonic air, or weak heart, he points to the fact that he lost consciousness when only 100 feet aloft.

"The same thing killed Hoxsey, Johnstone and others who crashed to earth after a mysterious accident," says Rodgers. "I guess for the first time in five through this experience. I first felt this drowsy sensation when I was up 1000 feet. I had an irresistible desire to sleep and let the machine care for itself. I felt no pain. I got a grip on myself and started for earth. The nearer I got the more sleep I became. I righted the machine while 100 feet up, then became unconscious, and the machine crashed to the earth.

"I took the cases of Ralph Johnstone and Arch Hoxsey. Both were flying high, and became sleepy. They realized the danger and started downward, but fell asleep and the air tragedies resulted. Each fell from a great height, and the cause has always been a mystery. I believe some sleep-producing gas lurks in the upper air. This is the first time that I have ever encountered it. It was strong enough to overcome my will power and lul me into a sleepy haze."

Astronomers of the Carnegie solar observatory say it may be inter-stellar gas, and they have taken up the study. Scientists here are much interested.

If present plans are carried out, the work will complete the ocean to ocean flight which was interrupted when he fell Sunday. He is suffering from severe sprains in both ankles, and it will be necessary to strap him into his machine with his feet in plaster casts if the flight is made.

"Plaster casts won't bother me," said Rodgers. "I could fly if my feet were amputated, and I'm going to touch the Pacific with my skids if it kills me."

It cured my daughter of a cold and my neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Everyone in our neighborhood speaks highly of it." HOW SMUGGLERS WERE PUT TO ROUT

U. S. Attorney Wise Describes Prosecutions Resulting in Restitution of $8,000,000.

New York, Nov. 20.—United States District Attorney Wise told several hundred members of the National Jewelers' Board of Trade at luncheon something of the war that his department, co-operating with the customs officials, has been waging against smugglers. To show what an excellent model effect the prosecutions had had Mr. Wise gave figures showing that the custom-house receipts at his port from passengers' baggage this year had been four times what they were six years ago.

"Soon after taking office I realized that the customs laws of this country were being violated by a great number of importers," said Mr. Wise. "On investigation I found that many of these frauds had been discovered and reported, but that the government had generally compromised with the offenders, agreeing not to prosecute on condition that the smugglers should pay a sum of money. This practice on the part of the government I believed encouraged the smugglers to further crimes. In the hope of stopping smuggling, the collector of the port and I agreed to start a campaign for the exact and rigorous enforcement of the entire smuggling statute, which provides for the imprisonment of the smuggler and the forfeiture of his goods. But it has been difficult to get the courts to back me up."

"Conviction after conviction of prominent persons has been won, but in vain have I cried for penitentiary sentences. The obscure, the unimportant or the poor man was sent to Atlanta, to Blackwell's island or to some other prison, but the rich and the influential, or poor and unknown. There is less excuse for the former than for the latter. But it has been difficult to send the rich to jail. The judges evidently think they should have plenty of warning, and in case after case I have been compelled to wait for jail sentences. There was a certain gentleman convicted of smuggling. WORK CONDUCTED SUCCESSFULLY HERE

Classes for Foreigners at Labor Temple Are Accomplishing Much.

The class work recently introduced at the Labor Temple under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. is meeting with success. Only a month considerable has been accomplished and classes numbering in all sixty-six students are being conducted in the English language and subjects required in naturalization.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays, afternoons and evenings, these classes meet with the different instructors. The subjects taught are the English language, American history, civics, geography and an explanation of naturalization. Then the students are coached for the naturalization examination.

The work is in the hands of R. J. Wise, the general secretary of the Ishpeming Y. M. C. A., Mr. Warmkesie, of the faculty of the Ishpeming High School, and T. J. Clark, also of the Ishpeming High School faculty. An industrial course in plumbing is being taught by Louis Swanson of this city.

None of the men who are taking up the work are citizens, and few have even a working knowledge of the English language. For the most part they are Finnish miners. For this reason classes both in the afternoons and evenings on the night shifts can have a day's sleep and get around in time for the day classes, and those on the day shifts in the mines can be on hand in the early evenings. There is no age limit in the work, and old and young alike are in the classes.

The success with which the new educational movement is meeting is gratifying to all concerned. The plan has been tried for only one month here, but in Ishpeming it was introduced a year ago. Its success there has led to branching out, and this year courses have been continued in education through the country. The same courses are now available to non-citizen miners here. The classes are open to all miners, and all foreigners who wish to learn the language or prepare themselves to become citizens may enter.

This charitable idea of giving free education to prospective citizens, who in all probability would be unable to attain citizenship without it, has met with the heartiest commendation of all leaders in education throughout the country. The Young Men's Christian association is responsible for the origination of the idea, and it has had the support of the public and the employers of the foreign labor ever since it was first tried. It is needless here to go into detail concerning the benefits derived from educating foreign labor. It is a great good movement which has in it an uplift to civilization. By cutting short the foreigner's period of ignorance, and by hastening naturalization, the benefit of good citizenship is helped, and social conditions are made better.

MARRIED IN DULUTH.

Former Negaunee Man Was Married to Zenith City Girl.

Announcements of the marriage of Al Murray to Miss Martha Leise of Duluth were received here yesterday by friends of the young man. The wedding took place on the 8th of November. The couple will make their home in Virginia, Minn. Mr. Murray is a steam shovel operator at Marble, on the Mesaba range, and is the son of Mrs. Gordon Murray, who lived in Negaunee up to five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Murray will be at home in Virginia after the first of December.

MANY FROM NEGAUNEE.

Large Farming Settlement in Vicinity of Maple Ridge.

Elias Ahola, who formerly lived here and who owns a farm about four miles from Maple Ridge, was in Negaunee yesterday on business. He said his acquaintance here that he was doing well, and like most of the other settlers in the Maple Ridge farming community, managed to make a very successful living from the soil.

Mr. Ahola speaks in enthusiastic terms of the farming industry in this section. It is the one thing, says he, that is full of undeveloped possibilities which has not been overdone. All the land owners at Maple Ridge are contented with farm life, and are making their property support them all the year. There are now settlers to the locality, which, in Mr. Ahola's estimation, is the best in the upper peninsula. They are mostly of Finnish nationality. Over half of the people who have settled in Maple Ridge are from Negaunee. Within a radius of ten miles there are three hundred settlers, mostly all Finnish, who have in some way gotten their start in the world in Negaunee.

There is one drawback to the settlers at Maple Ridge, which will be remedied next year. This is the lack of a good road which lead to their nearest market. However, the money has been appropriated and work started upon a new county road between Lathrop and Little Lake, and by the first of August next year it will be finished. "This will be a great benefit to the farmers," says Mr. Ahola, "and one which will be greatly appreciated. At present, we have a very poor road, which connects us with Lathrop and Little Lake, our first market places."

All of this year's crops were good, according to Mr. Ahola, and the heavy fall of snow which came during the latter part of last week will prove a good thing in some ways for next season's crops.

MARRIED YESTERDAY.

Edward Liquee and Dora Mallette Were United in Marriage at St. Paul's.

Edward Liquee and Dora Mallette were united in marriage at St. Paul's church at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, the Rev. Father LaMotte officiating. Following the ceremony, which was attended only by the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, the wedding party retired to the home of the bride's mother, on Case street, where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. Following this, the couple took an early train for the copper country to be away on a short honeymoon.

The ceremony Herman Thibault supported the groom and Lillie Burko acted as bridesmaid. The bride wore a white embroidered dress, and was clad in white from head to foot. The bridesmaid also wore white, and both she and the bride carried bouquets of white lilies. The couple are both highly respected Negaunee young people, and they have a host of life-long friends who are one in wishing them a long and prosperous married life.

A HARD EXPERIENCE.

Henry Larson and Ira Thomas Were Literally Snowed in at Haines, Camp.

Ira Thomas and Henry Larson arrived home yesterday, after having spent about two weeks at the Haines camp, which is in the Dead River district about seventeen miles north of Ishpeming. The last few days of their stay were not altogether pleasant for them. During the storm of Thursday, Friday and Saturday considerable over three feet of snow fell in the locality of the camp, which is nearly twice as much as fell in the city. The country in the Dead River district is practically uninhabited, there being a few or no camps in the vicinity of Haines, and consequently no open roads in winter. After the storm had subsided, Thomas and Larson were practically snowed in, because neither had snow shoes.

During the two weeks of their stay, various parties of hunters had come and gone. The last party to leave them was made up of Warren Thomas, Frank Larson, and T. P. Kirkwood. They left the camp just before the storm set in. The two men left in camp had planned to come into town on Friday or Saturday at the latest, and stocked their provisions accordingly. By Sunday morning, when the storm subsided, these were pretty well used up, and so packing them, the two men decided to start back home before more snow came down.

Before they had gotten fairly started, they discovered that they were "up against it" without snow shoes. The snow in all directions through the country as high as their waists, and it was heavy and loose. The roads or trails could just be made out and that was all. The two men walked and stumbled through the snow until exhausted, and still had scarcely negotiated a third of the seventy miles when, in the course of their journey, they had to cross Dead river. The stream when they had gone over it on their way out was only a few inches deep, but on their return it had swelled up, and the water in its course was several feet deep, and the banks had widened. The surface of the water was covered with slush, and the only way the men managed to cross was with an old raft which they dug out of the snow. Before they had gone much farther, however, they were met by Frank Larson who had taken a team and sleigh and had gone to get the two marooned men. It was a most trying drive, the snow most of the way reaching up to the horse's flanks. The roads are mere trails in the best of weather, and out of use altogether in the winter so in the trip, the horses had to break their own path.

The party arrived in the city yesterday morning and all thoroughly worn out after their tough battle in the snow. They report that there are plenty of deer in the vicinity of the camp, and Thomas and Larson both claim to have had splendid shots at deer while trudging homeward through the snow, but because they could not be managed to carry them they decided not to shoot.

HAD A HARD TRIP.

The storm which swept the upper peninsula last Thursday, Friday and Saturday seems to have left a good many people in the woods without snowshoes or other means of travel. In cases of people coming home on Sunday their trips seemed to have been burdened with unusual hardships.

Alvin Belstrom, Walter Fredericksen and Andrew Johnson went this week on a hunting trip twelve miles from Gwin. On last Saturday afternoon young Belstrom's grandmother, Mrs. T. C. Belstrom, died at Grand Island. On Sunday afternoon, the news reached Gwin and Captain Jory's team went out into the woods after the boys. There was about three feet of snow covering the ground, and the hardships encountered in breaking a road through the woods with a team and sleigh are beyond description. It took all day Sunday to reach the camp, and the party drove all Sunday night to get back to Gwin. None of the boys got any deer, and they were shut up in the camp from Friday until Sunday on account of the storm, having taken no snowshoes with them. The boys arrived in the city Monday. The driving, they said, was the hardest they ever want to experience and they have learned from their experience to always carry a pair of snowshoes with them when hunting at this time of the year. Had they not been sent for, they have no idea of how they would ever have been able to travel on foot the twelve miles to Gwin.

I. C. S. MEN HERE.

Wilbur Perkins, division superintendent of the International Correspondence schools, and James Phillips, the Ishpeming representative of the organization, are in the city advertising and soliciting courses offered, and trying to stir up an interest in correspondence methods. Mr. Perkins is from Calumet, and makes Negaunee, Ishpeming and Marquette about once a year. The west window of J. E. O'Donoghue's music store has been rented for advertising purposes, and a display of books and materials used in connection with the courses are on display and are attracting a good deal of attention.

Mr. Perkins says that in this country the work is meeting with great success, and there are almost two hundred students taking the various courses scattered in the three cities. The most popular courses are the mining, steam and the electrical engineering courses. The courses appeal to all classes of people, and are taken advantage of by all men and women of all ages, representing every trade and occupation, from bankers to photographers, according to Mr. Perkins, can be found right in the three cities of the county who are now taking courses in whatever line of work they are interested in. In Negaunee there are about fifty students, and in Ishpeming the same number, but in Marquette there are seventy-five students.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever, and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose cured them, and three bottles cured them." says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by The People's Drug Store.

ADVISES PAID DEPARTMENT

C. A. Palmer, State Fire Marshal, Expresses Surprise That Marquette Depends on Volunteers For Fire Protection—Other Small Cities Have Paid Men.

Sentiment of Fire and Water Board Probably Adverse to the Plan, Believing Efficiency Can Be Reached Under Present System—New Hose House Likely.

There has been considerable discussion of late regarding the Marquette fire department and its adequacy. It has been pretty generally agreed that the proper fire protection of the city demanded betterments along certain lines, and that it is particularly desirable that another hose house be built and equipped north of Ridge street as soon as possible. It has also been suggested that the present fire fighting force could wisely be increased and better organized.

In view of the fact that a committee of the board of fire and water commissioners has recently been appointed to investigate the degree of protection afforded the city by the present fire fighting force, it is especially interesting to know that C. A. Palmer, state fire warden, who visited this city recently, is firmly convinced that Marquette can well afford and should have a paid fire department. Disclaiming any attempt to "butt in" to things that are no concern of the state, fire marshal, Mr. Palmer expresses surprise that Marquette is dependent upon a volunteer department, and declares that in other cities of the same size the state, where paid departments are in service, the results have proven most satisfactory. In a letter written to The Mining Journal, Mr. Palmer says in part:

Mr. Palmer's Views.

"Relative to establishing a paid fire department service in Marquette, I can not refrain from expressing my great surprise to learn that a city so beautiful, with so many high class and valuable public buildings, and business blocks as Marquette has, should be dependent upon a volunteer fire department. "While we have never assumed to interfere with that department of the municipal government of any city, and would not with reference to Marquette, it seems to me that you are jeopardizing your city every day you are without a paid fire force. The reply might be made that we have gone along so far all right, but tonight you may have a disastrous fire, and tomorrow it will be too late to lock the door after the horses are gone.

"There are at least a dozen or more cities in Michigan of 1,000 inhabitants and less, with paid fire departments, and I cite you particularly to Pontiac, a small city, but with one of the best fighting forces in the state; also, Lapeer, Manistee, with less than 13,000 inhabitants, Traverse City, Ludington, and any number of others. "I hope in discussing this matter with your board of fire commissioners, you will have it definitely understood that this is purely suggestive upon our part, and not with a desire of interfering with matters which strictly are not of our concern."

Not Favored by Board.

Judging from informal expressions heard from time to time, it is thought that a majority of the fire and water board are not in sympathy with Mr. Palmer's suggestion, but believe that an efficient fire fighting force can be worked out at much less expense through the medium of a volunteer department, concentrated along lines similar to those in effect now. It is believed by many that a paid fire department would prove a much more expensive proposition than the present volunteer system.

It is reported, however, that the board intends to give more attention to the fire department than it has in the past, and the prospect for another hose house is brighter than it has been for some years. Not long ago the board asked the street commission whether that body would be willing to take off the rock on the city lot at the corner of Front and Prospect streets, and this is taken by many to mean that the fire and water board contemplates the erection of the new hose house there. This would be an excellent location for a hose house, and would afford the north part of the city much better fire protection than it receives now.

Another common belief with regard to the fire department is that a certain number of paid men should be employed, thus in a way combining a volunteer and a paid department. Those who are paid men in each hose house, it is pointed out, would greatly increase the efficiency of the volunteer firemen, as they could act as captains at times of fire, and there would be no delay because of the failure of firemen to arrive promptly, as was the case at the Anderson fire in South Marquette a short time ago. Perhaps the same results could be obtained by providing sleeping quarters in the hose house, where some of the volunteer firemen would make their home, being on call for duty at any time during the night.

NOTICE.

To the property owners, taxpayers and other persons interested in the following improvement, to-wit: For the construction of a sewer in Michigan street.

Notice is hereby given that the specifications for the construction of an eight-inch sewer in Michigan street, from a manhole in Oak street to a point 250 feet west of the west line of Oak street, with four-inch "Y" for lateral sewer, together with estimate of the expense of constructing said sewer and profile of the work to be done and district to be improved and assessed to pay the cost thereof, are now in the office of the city controller for public examination.

The district to be assessed to pay for said sewer crosses all the lots and parcels of real estate abutting on said portion of Michigan street on both sides thereof. The common council of the city of Marquette will meet on Monday, the 4th day of December, 1911, at 10 o'clock p. m., at the council chamber in the city hall, and consider any objections to said proposed improvement, and the district assessment roll prepared therefor, and for the continuation of said roll.

Dated, Marquette, Mich., November 21st, 1911.

DANIEL S. DONOVAN, Recorder of City of Marquette.

NEW MEAT MARKET.

Fassbender & Pierce Will Open Shop at Manthei Stand Dec. 1.

J. C. Fassbender and Fred Pierce have formed a partnership under the name of Fassbender & Pierce, and will open a retail meat market Dec. 1 at the corner of Washington and Third streets, in the building formerly occupied by Manthei's market. The store room is now being overhauled and prepared for putting in the new stock. Some new fixtures will be installed and the place will be made into a first-class meat market. The firm intends to carry a complete line and large stock of first-class meats. Both members of the firm are old hands at the retail meat business and should be able to make a success of their venture. Mr. Fassbender, the senior member of the firm, has been in the meat business nearly all his life, and until about six years ago conducted a market on Front street, in the Frei block. Mr. Pierce is also experienced in the meat business, having been employed at the Robinson & Pierce (now E. A. Beaumont) shop for some time.

COULD OFFICE BE DISPENSED WITH?

Opinion Expressed Yesterday That Street Superintendent Is Not Necessary.

In view of the resignation of L. E. Riedinger as superintendent of streets on Monday, Robert Peters, president of the park, cemetery and street commission, yesterday authorized H. J. Koepf to assume charge of the street work until further notice. Mr. Koepf by common report is Mayor Jacobs' choice for Riedinger's successor, but no permanent appointment can be made except at a meeting of the commission, which is attended by at least four members. City Attorney Brown stated yesterday that President Peters had acted within his authority in appointing Mr. Koepf temporarily, provided the exigencies of the situation demanded an immediate appointment.

The resignation of Superintendent Riedinger was much discussed in municipal circles yesterday, and as well the affairs of the street commission in general. It developed that there are some taxpayers who believe that there is no need of a street superintendent during the winter months, and that there is reason to believe that the office could be dispensed with altogether. One prominent taxpayer expressed his views as follows: "Before the organization of the street commission the city charter authorized the appointment by the council of a street commissioner, whose duties substantially included that of both the present street commission and the superintendent of streets. Since we now have a street commission of six members, it seems to me that the city could well get along without a street superintendent, having instead several foremen who could work under direct orders from the commission. In this way I believe the expense of the department could be cut down $1,000 a year.

"In case the street superintendent were dispensed with, it would probably be necessary for the members of the commission to pay some more attention to the actual detail of the work than they have been doing, but I cannot see why the plan would not work out all right. A foreman for each department of the work could be engaged at a slight advance of the wages usually paid in that department, and I believe the work would be just as efficiently managed.

"It seems to me that this plan should appeal with special force now that it is planned to do less street work in the next few years than has been done in late years. The streets of this city are now in excellent condition, and compare very favorably with those of any city in the country. Most of the work during the next few years will be the making of necessary repairs on streets already built, and it seems to me a needless expense to employ a high salaried man for street superintendent."

IS A HANDSOME BOAT.

M. H. Alworth's New Ninety-Foot Gasoline Yacht in Port Yesterday.

One of the trimmest pleasure craft ever seen in the local harbor—the Oneda, owned by M. H. Alworth, of Duluth—tied up at Spear's dock for a few hours yesterday. The Oneda is on her maiden trip from Muskegon, where she was built, to Duluth. The vessel was built for Florida waters, where Mr. Alworth spends a good part of his time, and she will be taken south by way of the Great Lakes, New York and the Atlantic ocean some time next summer. The Oneda is ninety-six and a half feet long, sixteen feet, six inches beam, and is operated by two six cylinder gasoline engines, rated at 100 horsepower each, but capable of producing more than that. The boat is propelled by a twin screw and altogether built as perfect as a gasoline boat can be made. She draws only four to five feet of water, having been built with a view of cruising in the Florida rivers and bayous. She is capable of making fourteen miles an hour.

Her equipment is sufficient to accommodate a party of six or eight with comfort and includes a well arranged galley, a combination dining and smoking room, several berths, all with running water, and a state room for the owner. Forward there are two more berths, and sleeping quarters are provided for the crew in the forecastle. In appearance the boat resembles a large launch. She is painted white with a cabin finished in natural wood. Captain Flynn, formerly master of the Alvinia, T. F. Cole's yacht, is in charge of the Oneda.

J. H. LEWIS BUYS HOTEL MARQUETTE

New Owner Intends to Make Extensive Improvements at Popular Hostelry.

As predicted in The Mining Journal of yesterday, John H. Lewis purchased the Hotel Marquette yesterday forenoon from A. F. Koepcke, representing the owners, the Peter White estate. The purchase includes the hotel and two lots on Front street, but not the house in the rear, facing on Rock street, which has been occupied by the hotel employees.

Mr. Lewis, the new owner, plans to make extensive improvements on the hotel building, the cost of which will aggregate $7,000 or $8,000. It is probable that it will be two years before all of the improvements contemplated are completed. In the immediate future, Mr. Lewis intends to excavate the basement and fit it up for a pool and billiard room and bar. There will also be expensive changes made in the lobby, and it is possible that the lobby will be enlarged by the space now occupied by the bar room. A considerable sum will also be laid out in the way of new furnishings for the hotel.

The Hotel Marquette was built in 1884 by Mrs. Sullivan, who a short time later moved away and sold the property to Henry C. Thurber. Mr. Thurber's financial affairs became entangled and the result was that in 1889 the hotel was taken over on a mortgage by Peter White, who since held the title. Mr. Lewis was engaged by Mr. White to manage the hotel nineteen years ago and he has held that position continuously since that time. During the period of Mr. Lewis' management, the Hotel Marquette has become favorably known to the traveling fraternity throughout the Northwest, and its patronage and reputation has steadily increased. The hostelry is in particular favor because of the excellent meals which Mr. Lewis has earned the reputation of providing. Mr. Lewis is generally regarded as one of the most capable and popular hotel men in the business and the traveling public generally will be glad to know that the hotel has passed into his hands.

Members of Lake Superior Press Association to Visit Land Show.

The annual meeting of the Lake Superior Press association, including in its membership most of the editors of the Upper peninsula of Michigan, will be held this year in Chicago, Dec. 4 and 5. This date has been selected as at that time there will be three gatherings of interest in that city—the land show, the stock show and the irrigation congress.

F. O'Brien, editor of the Iron River Reporter, is secretary of the association, and he writes that J. W. Hartman, president of the Chicago Ben Franklin club and the originator of the Ben Franklin cost system, will give an address on "Cost of Production," which should be a valuable feature for publishers engaged in the job printing business. Others who will address the upper peninsula editors are Frank V. Norris, credit man of the J. W. Butler Paper company; B. B. Herbert, editor of the National Printer-Journalist; Theo. E. Quinby, manager of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, and Phil J. McKenna, formerly an upper peninsula newspaper man.

Monday evening, Dec. 4, the editors will be entertained with a luncheon and theater party, given by the type foundry and paper dealers of Chicago.

Theatrical

"The Traveling Salesman" Tonight.

Robert E. O'Connor in the comedy success of the season, "The Traveling Salesman," by James Forbes, the author who gave the public "The Chorus Lady," will be seen at the opera house this evening. This announcement should arouse unusual interest among the theatre-going fraternity, as "The Traveling Salesman" has been heralded as one of the greatest laugh-provoking plays ever produced. The play deals with incidents in the life of the drummer on the road, and besides containing abundant material for laughter, is so true to life that it has received the endorsement of two traveling men's organizations, namely, the United Commercial Travelers of America and the Travelers' Protective association. The performance here will be under the auspices of Upper Peninsula council, U. C. T.
