

STEEL PROBERS NO TO SUMMON J. ROCKEFELLER

However if the Oil King and Rev. Mr. Gates, His Almoner, Wish to Reply to the Merritt Brothers' Charges They Will Be Given a Chance to Be Heard.

Testimony of the Duluth Men Is Attacked as Irrelevant, but by Vote of the Committee Is Retained in the Records—Quiz Closes Until Congress Meets.

Washington, Nov. 22.—John D. Rockefeller and his almoner, Rev. F. D. Gates of Montclair, N. J., will be invited by the house committee of inquiry into the United States Steel corporation to reply to the testimony given yesterday and today by Alfred and Leonidas Merritt of Duluth, Minn., charging that Rockefeller, through Gates as his agent, took from them in 1907 ten million dollars in Mesaba iron mines and Duluth, Misabe & Northern railroad securities to satisfy a call loan of $40,000,000.

After Leonidas Merritt had testified today that he had gone to New York with $10,000,000 in securities, he met Mr. Rockefeller two months later had nothing except a "chance to walk from New York to Duluth on the ties," the steel committee held an executive session. Previously, Chairman Stanley had announced that Mr. Rockefeller would be subpoenaed. The committee decided, however, merely to ask Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Gates if they wished to appear and to give them an opportunity to be heard.

When Leonidas Merritt had completed his testimony, in which he dramatically described how Mr. Rockefeller first had captured him with his proposal to form a consolidation of interests in the Lake Superior region, had loaned him money and later foreclosed on him, leaving him and his brother without any equity in properties they had discovered and financed, Representative Danforth of Massachusetts moved that the testimony of both brothers be stricken from the record, on the ground that it was irrelevant to the inquiry. This motion was lost.

In the discussion on the motion, Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, who voted with Mr. Danforth in favor of it, said that he could see little of relevance to the question of the ore-holding values and freight rates of the Steel corporation.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Gardner, "that this testimony is of little value to the committee in getting at ore values or freight rates. Even though it does—perhaps justly so—cast obliquity on the steel trust, it does not show it is of any value in this investigation." Of the same mind were George Wellwood Murray, counsel for Mr. Rockefeller, and E. A. Reid, of counsel for the Steel corporation, but when the motion had been voted down Chairman Stanley said he thought he had, by admitting the testimony of the Merritts, done a great service to "humanity."

Mining Operator Attacks Ore Rates. Another witness today was P. H. Nelson of Duluth, a mining operator, who said the freight rates charged by the United States Steel corporation in the Lake Superior region were exorbitant.

"The steel trust recently reduced the freight on their ore roads from eighty cents to sixty cents a ton," Mr. Nelson said, "but the sixty-cent rate is exorbitant. I agree with James J. Hill that 7 per cent. earnings is enough for a railroad. To bring 7 per cent. earnings on their roads, the steel trust should reduce the rates to twenty-five or thirty cents a ton."

The committee adjourned tonight probably not to meet again until after congress convenes, when the objection of the Steel corporation to a continuance of the hearings because of the government suit against the steel trust will be taken up by the full committee. Representative Littleton of New York, a Democratic member, who is opposed to the committee proceeding further until the situation remained consulted regarding the situation, remained away from the committee room today.

FEDERAL INCORPORATION OPPOSED AT THE INQUIRY SENATORS ARE CONDUCTING. Washington, Nov. 22.—Opposition to a federal incorporation law or the plan advocated by Samuel Untermyer and others for a federal commission to supervise corporations was made before the senate committee on interstate commerce today by Robert R. Reed, a New York lawyer, and Eugene C. Hay, a member of the board of appraisers at New York.

Mr. Reed insisted that the federal remedy for the trust evils lies in forcing corporations to remove objectionable features from their charters and in forcing the states to improve their incorporation laws. Mr. Hay said that any incorporation that had in its charter power to absorb any business is an embryo trust, and he urged federal prohibition against the operation of companies that have power to become holding companies or to exercise other powers of monopoly.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow. MEAT PACKERS' COUNSEL GO TO WASHINGTON, D. C. Chicago, Nov. 22.—Counsel for the nine Chicago meat packers indicted under the criminal clause of the Sherman anti-trust act departed late today for Wash-

"PORK BARREL" PLAN DOESN'T GO WITH TAFT

Estimates for River and Harbor Work Just Made Public Show That the Administration Adheres to Its Policy of Holding Down Federal Expenditures.

Only Projects Approved by Army Engineers Get the White House O. K. and All Told the Recommended Appropriations Are Less Than Thirty Million Dollars.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Estimates for continuing the work of river and harbor improvement throughout the country, made public at the war department today and covering the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, show a strict adherence to the new administration policy of asking congress to appropriate only for those improvements which have received the approval of the army corps of engineers after the most thorough investigation. No new projects of any great importance are provided for in the estimates, and unless congress takes the bit in its teeth and disregards the recommendations of General W. H. Bishop, chief of engineers, the "pork barrel" method of river and harbor work will have been eliminated for a second year.

The appropriations asked for aggregate $29,028,698, as against $30,995,698 for the current year. The estimates will be sent to congress by the secretary of the treasury and President Taft in his message will urge that they be strictly adhered to. They are divided as follows:

Under continuing contracts, $12,114,988 Rivers and harbors (general including Mississippi River commission and examinations, surveys and contingencies) 17,345,450 Under California Debris Commission (expenses) 15,000 Prevention of deposits in New York harbor 153,290

These estimates, it is explained, are intended to cover the minimum requirements for the prosecution and maintenance of the various improvements. They were made up from estimates prepared on the same basis by the various district engineers, this being done to keep within the limited total estimates deemed advisable for the fiscal year of 1913 and on the supposition that river and harbor work will be provided for hereafter by annual appropriation. The estimates are to be divided between the river and harbor and sundry civil bills and are to be applied to 242 works.

Statement by General Bixby. In connection with the estimates General Bixby, chief of engineers, says, in part: "Liberal appropriations are considered proper and desirable for snagging and channel work necessary to make natural channels available wherever water-borne commerce exists or is reasonably prospective. It is believed that extending for such improvements are almost always useful and advantageous to the general public, especially since the introduction and rapid development of small gasoline motor boats for combined freight and passenger transportation. In many cases it is apparent that the failure to use a waterway is due not so much to lack of channel depth as to the presence of snags and other obstructions which can be removed at comparatively small cost, thus making the waterway channel depths fully available throughout the year. When the boat commerce develops or its requirements become greater the existing clear channel will be in its best condition for further and more extensive improvements."

"Improvements adopted by congress, and not provided for in the estimates, have been omitted either on account of insufficiency of funds now available, on account of lack of urgency or of relative importance, or on account of defective projects which were adopted many years ago and are in need of re-examination with a view to revision or abandonment, or in cases in which recommendations for appropriations for new projects have been submitted to congress in special reports."

Some of the Estimates. Among the war department estimates to be submitted to congress are the following: Mississippi River—from Head of Passes to mouth of Ohio river, $3,500,000; between Ohio and Missouri rivers, $1,000,000; between Missouri river and St. Paul, Minn., $1,250,000; between St. Paul and Minneapolis, $200,000. Minnesota—Red River of the North, $17,000; Warroad harbor and Warroad river, $3,200.

Wisconsin—Lake Superior and Mississippi river canal, $150,000; Port Wing harbor, $10,000; Ashland harbor, $20,000; Green Bay harbor, $20,000; Keosauqua harbor, $10,000; Two Rivers harbor, $5,500; Sheboygan harbor, $2,000; Port Washington harbor, $2,500; Kenosha harbor, $10,000.

Michigan—Menominee harbor and river, $9,000; St. Joseph harbor, $15,000; St. Joseph river, $500; South Haven harbor, $3,000; Saugatuck harbor and Kalamazoo river, $9,000; Ludington harbor, $51,500; Manistee harbor, $6,000; harbor of refuge at Portage lake, $3,000; St. Mary's river at the falls, $195,000; Mackinac harbor, $35,000; Saginaw river, $175,000; Clinton river, $2,000.

BEATTIE, SR., FAILS IN DESPAIRING EFFORT

Governor Again Refuses Clemency—Doomed Man Professes Religion and Is Resigned.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., the youthful wife murderer, today received the sacrament of the Lord's supper. He professed religion and told his spiritual adviser that he faced the unknown with equanimity. Although Beattie is subdued in demeanor, the nerve that thus far has sustained the condemned man has not deserted him.

That Beattie is now resigned to his fate is evident by a remark to his guard today, when the suggestion was made that Governor Mann might grant a reprieve at the eleventh hour. "Let it be over with," Beattie is reported to have said. "If it is to be the sooner it is ended the better."

The elder Beattie within the last few hours has paid a secret visit to Governor Mann, in a final despairing effort to gain the governor's interference. It was unavailing.

Beattie spent the day in reading. While much of his reading is of a religious nature, he maintains still his keen interest in the daily newspapers, especially attention to the sporting pages and reads them with avidity.

WAS A PALL-BEARER AT THE FUNERAL OF LINCOLN.

Elgin, Ill., Nov. 22.—Miles Grennon, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln, a pall-bearer at his funeral and the last of the Civil war soldiers who constituted the military escort to the martyred president, died at his home in Marengo today, aged seventy-one years.

SHANGHAI, NOV. 22.—WU TING FANG, director of foreign affairs in the republican cabinet, has notified the consuls that the bombardment of Nanking will begin shortly. He warns them to withdraw their respective countrymen from that district.

Nanking, Nov. 22.—The revolutionary forces are making rapid preparations for the bombardment of Nanking. These will be completed with the arrival of the ten warships now on their way to this place, and an attack will be made on the city simultaneously by land and sea.

A small body of General Chang's imperial scouts last night tore up a section of the railway four miles to the south of Nanking. Prior to this the railroad had been considered neutral territory and had not been interfered with. Within the city wall, eleven thousand men hold a strongly fortified position. They are said to be well supplied with arms and ammunition, but they are poorly provisioned.

Tsao, former Chinese minister to Japan, who is a warm friend of Chang, has been endeavoring to induce him to surrender, but Chang is obdurate. Tsao, who is a graduate of Yale and was sent to Nanking university, has not yet given up hopes of winning over the Manchurian general. The latter has at least stopped killing those who have cut off their queues and has issued a decree assuring the Chinese and others within the city that they are safe. He also has guaranteed protection to the Red Cross.

Noted Progressive Joins Rebels. Tokio, Japan, Nov. 22.—According to reliable private advices from China, Tang Shao Yi, former minister of posts and telegraphs, who had refused to intervene in office under the new regime, has joined the revolutionary army and declared for a republic. He is one of the most prominent of the Chinese progressives in Peking and is well known abroad.

He is a graduate of Yale and was sent to America as a special envoy to thank the United States for the return to China of a part of the Boxer indemnity. The same dispatches declare that Premier Yuan Shi Kai is believed to be only slightly more than a nominal opportunity to join the revolutionary cause.

U. S. Troops Booked for Long Stay. Manila, Philippines, Nov. 22.—The Fifth infantry, due to arrive here Dec. 1, probably will be sent at once to China. The troops will arrive on the transport Thomas and will leave for China on the same boat. They will be reinforced to their full war strength by transfers from other regiments and will be prepared before their departure for a long stay in Chinese territory. They will be accompanied by a hospital corps and detachments of engineers and possibly of cavalry.

Customs Receipts to Pay Debts. Washington, Nov. 22.—Determined to avoid giving any pretext for foreign intervention in Chinese affairs, the Chinese government has ordered all receipts from maritime customs, including the 1901 Boxer indemnities, to be deposited with the foreign banks, to the credit of China's foreign debts. The official explanation of the purpose of the Chinese government to live up to its foreign obligations came to the state department today from the Chinese legation.

SAW MRS. PATTERSON KILL HER HUSBAND

Only Eye Witness of the Tragedy Gives Testimony at Woman's Trial at Denver.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 22.—The only eye witness to the shooting of Charles A. Patterson, for whose murder his wife, Gertrude Gibson Patterson, is now on trial, was placed on the stand today. He is A. B. Shugart, a carpenter, whose home is near the spot where the tragedy took place.

On the morning of Sept. 25, last, Shugart testified, he was stepping from a shed in the rear of his house when he heard two shots fired in rapid succession. Looking in the direction of the shots, he saw about three hundred feet away a man upon his hands and knees and a woman, revolver in hand, standing over him.

"I shouted to her to stop," Shugart said, "and immediately she shot again. The man leaped forward on his face. Running around the house I saw the woman stooping over the prostrate form. As I approached, she ran into the house in front of where the shooting occurred. When I reached the man he was beyond speech."

Physicians who conducted the autopsy upon Patterson's body testified that he had been shot twice in the back, one bullet entering right under the right shoulder blade and passing through his shoulder and the other entering just under his left shoulder blade and passing through his heart. The second wound caused his death, they said.

BLOODY BATTLE AT NANKING IS ABOUT TO BEGIN

With Ten Warships on Their Way to Co-Operate With the Land Forces, the Revolutionaries Prepare to Make a Desperate Attempt to Take the City.

Obdurate to Suggestions That He Surrender, Murderous General Chang Awaits the Attack With 11,000 Men, Well Fortified and Armed but Poorly Provisioned.

Shanghai, Nov. 22.—Wu Ting Fang, director of foreign affairs in the republican cabinet, has notified the consuls that the bombardment of Nanking will begin shortly. He warns them to withdraw their respective countrymen from that district.

DEATH CURKED NEAR THEM IN CANADA WILDS

Woman Cook and Twenty-Four Prospectors in Search of "Lost Copper Lode" on North Shore of Lake Superior Are Rescued in the Very Nick of Time.

Snowbound Fifty Miles from Civilization, With a Meagre Supply of Oatmeal as Their Only Food for Many Days, They Are Starving When Saved by a Tug.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 22.—While searching on the north shore of Lake Superior for "the lost shore copper lode," twenty-four prospectors, and one woman cook, on Blackbay peninsula, this is about fifty miles from Port Arthur and is cut off from the mainland by the wilderness. The snow there is from three to ten feet deep, and it is impossible for a human being to make his way through it. The men were camped on a narrow peninsula, and had no means of getting away, by land and they practically were marooned on the peninsula.

"The men tried every expedient. They bored holes through the ice and tried to catch fish, but failed. They went hunting, but for some mysterious reason had no luck. Ordinarily that country is alive with game, and I have seen a dozen moose in a ten-mile walk. But the men were too weak from hunger to hunt well.

Found in Desperate Condition. "When we finally reached the camp on Wednesday, with a tug full of supplies, the camp was in a dreadful condition. The woman had been in baskets and retained her strength. But not the men. The latter sat still and cried. They had not had anything to eat but the oatmeal for many days, and that was all gone when we got there. The men had packed their sacks and were preparing to start through the woods for the railroad, fifty miles away. It would have been certain death for them, for even a strong man with plenty of food could not have made the trip in a week. In their weakened condition they would have died before they went ten miles."

FIRE AT CINCINNATI, O., CAUSES TWO FATALITIES AND A LOSS OF $150,000. Cincinnati, O., Nov. 22.—Two children were fatally injured and a number of men were seriously hurt when a spectacular fire destroyed the main tower of the Baum Safe & Lock company here early this evening. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $150,000, covered by insurance.

Two hundred employees were in the building when the fire started and the flames filled the regular exits in such a short time that almost every one of the employees was forced to seek egress through other channels. Seventy-five men employed on the fourth story jumped from a window to the roof of an adjoining structure, a story below, and then followed a cement wall for fifty feet and finally climbed to a railroad trestle. Several fell in attempting to gain the trestle, and one man—Arthur Knorr—sustained a broken leg and internal injuries. He is in a dangerous condition. Many of the employees were caught in nets held by the firemen.

Two children—Thomas Schall, seven years old and his brother, Peter, five years old—were sitting on the sidewalk when a fire marshal's buggy dashed by. The children attempted to cross the street in front of the buggy and both were run over. They cannot live.

TWO CHICAGO MEN KILLED AND ONE FATALLY SHOT IN "BLACKHAND" BATTLE. Chicago, Nov. 22.—Two Italians were killed and a third was shot and severely injured that he may die, in what the police assert was a fight between "blackhand" operators and intended victims in the South side Italian district here tonight.

Pasquale Damico was shot nine times in the body and Spesano Donello was shot three times in the head and body. Damico dropped dead and Donello probably will not live. A brother of Donello pursued the assassins across the adjoining railroad track and was himself shot three times through the heart. The men pursued escaped.

Captain Harding of the police district in which the shooting occurred said the Damico brothers and Donello had been under suspicion for some time in connection with threatening letters and that a watch had been maintained over them for some time, but this was withdrawn several weeks ago.

INVENTOR THOS. HALL DEAD. New York, Nov. 22.—Thomas Hall, an inventor and maker of one of the first typewriters, died today in Brooklyn. He was seventy-seven years old. Besides his typewriting invention, Mr. Hall invented several sewing machines.

"TAR PARTY" CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

People in Attendance So Interested They Take Dinners to Court With Them.

Lincoln Center, Kas., Nov. 22.—With but two more closing arguments to be delivered, it looks tonight as though the "tar party" case will be in the jury's hands by tomorrow noon. The testimony was completed shortly after the afternoon session of court started today. The attorneys for the defense regard the judge's instructions as highly favorable to their clients. Prosecutor McCanless says he is satisfied with them, however.

The court room was again crowded when Prosecutor McCanless began to speak. Many persons brought their dinners with them in baskets and remained in their seats during the recess prior to the night session. Miss Chamberlain occupied a seat near the jury box, where she had a full view of all the jurors. Her mother was with her. The three defendants—A. N. Simms, Sherill Clark and John Schmidt—also switched their chairs about so they faced the jury, sitting on the right of the "tar party." The other two men were unaccompanied.

Two of the defendants—Schmidt and Clark—were the witnesses today. Each of them corroborated the statements of Simms that the three defendants never attacked the men by the "tar party," but admitted that they made an attempt to reach the scene where the young school teacher was tarred.

MORE POLICE HEADS ACCUSED AT CHICAGO

"Hinky Dink" Also Is Under Fire at the "Commercialized Vice" Investigation.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Charges of inefficiency and neglect of duty were filed against two more commanding officers of the Chicago police by the city civil service commission today, after the commission had heard further details of the alleged relations between the police and vice.

The three men under fire are Inspector John Revere, one of the oldest commanding officers on the force; Captain Barney Baer, of Revere's division, who was criticized for the manner in which he handled the Chicago end of the case in which Dr. Harry K. Webster was charged with murdering his wife, Beatie Kent Webster, and Lieutenant John "Sandy" Hanley, also long a member of the force.

The charges include allowing saloons to operate after hours, allowing improper conduct by the women of the vice district, allowing liquor to be sold in the streets and allowing unescorted women in saloons.

The chief witness before the commission, which is investigating the efficiency of the police, was Ben R. Hymen, formerly an active figure among gamblers operating at race tracks and a political worker for many years. His testimony, contradicting that heard before, was to the effect that vice secured its protection from politicians, not policemen, and he named Alderman Michael "Hinky Dink" Kenna as the "head and front" of the alleged "commercialized vice and graft institutions."

WEATHER BUREAU ADOPTS A NEW MARINE WARNING, ONE FOR SMALL CRAFT.

Washington, Nov. 22.—The weather bureau today adopted an additional marine warning, to be known as the small craft warning, to notify owners of fishing, towing, motorboating and yachting craft of the approach of strong winds that might interfere with the safe operation of small vessels. It will go into effect on Dec. 1 and will consist of a red pennant flown from the flagstaff on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes, and will signify high winds that would not justify the issuance of a regular storm warning.

THE BANE OF IRRELIGION.

It is coming to be generally recognized that one of the chief causes of the unsettling of wholesome conditions in this country, which is bearing fruit in widespread immorality and disregard for constituted authority, is lack of religious training of the young.

Owing to the complex nature of our social life and its imperative demands on the time and thought of parents, religious training in the home is no longer regarded by them as duty.

Clergymen are incessantly complaining of this, and are constantly endeavoring to overcome it by organizing revivals, and the adoption of other methods of bringing into their churches the adults within their several jurisdictions, but with meager success.

That immorality is becoming alarmingly prevalent among the youth of the country is shown by the appalling list of crimes against purity which are reported day by day in the public press.

The unrest prevailing among the people which is manifesting itself in the growth of socialism is another of the evil fruits of the contempt for authority begetters of irreligion.

What a pity it is that some man with red blood coursing through his veins, and armed with a repeating rifle, a couple of revolvers, and a big club studded with steel spikes, didn't happen along just then and turn himself loose on the infamous crew!

TO BE COUNTED WITH. In discussing the Roosevelt editorial on "The Trusts, The People and the Square Deal" recently published in the Outlook, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald pays this tribute to the courage of the ex-president.

A layman who has made a study of the subject, Bird S. Coler, of New York, who was a candidate for governor of that state on the Democratic ticket in 1902 against Odell, was in St. Paul this week, and in a published interview charges the schools with responsibility for much of the trouble.

A Laugh or Two

The Craving for Variety. The servant girl, who had been given an afternoon off to attend a matinee, returned unusually early.

"Why?" said her mistress, "you can't have waited to see the whole performance?" "No, ma'am," was the reply; "it said on the program that Act III was the same as Act I, and I don't want to see it again."—London Opinion.

Crossing Him Out.

Squire—Well, George, you voted for his lordship? George—Don't worry 'bout that, squire. I knowed 'tother chap worn't the one for me, so I soon put my cross agin' him."—Black and White.

Office Seekers.

Senator Bourne was talking about a confirmed office seeker. "His little son," said Bourne, "looked up from his history lesson one night and said to his mother: 'Mother, if anything should happen to the king of England, would he be king?' 'The prince of Wales,' his mother answered. 'If the prince of Wales should die, who would be king then?' She stammered something or other. It was plain she didn't really know who would succeed the prince of Wales. Then the boy interrupted her. 'Well,' he said, with a sigh, 'anyhow, I hope father won't try for it.'"

Scared Off.

Mary Garden was talking in New York about the winter's fashions. "Some of these black and white gowns," she said, "are lovely, but others are too decollete." "A bishop at a reception the other night, rose and took leave rather suddenly. 'Why, bishop?' said his hostess in a hurt tone. 'When it's still so early!' 'I can't help it, dear lady,' said the bishop, with a grim smile. 'You gave me a warm welcome, but your guests are giving me altogether too much cold shoulder.'"

Hard Requirements.

There was a queer old specimen of humanity brought to the Cuyahoga county jail. He had been convicted of the crime of cruelty to animals, and there was no doubt in anybody's mind that he richly deserved the penalty inflicted. It is the custom to examine prisoners, however, before they are assigned to their cells. When this old reprobate was brought up for the interrogation went thus: "What is your name?" "Bud Dobbs." "What is your age?" "Sixty-eight." "What is your religion?" "Great snakes! Does a man hafta get religion before they'll let him inter jail in this country?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Pure Food Allegory.

On a recent trip to Germany, according to Lippincott's, Dr. Wiley, the pure food expert, heard an allegory with reference to the subject of food adulteration which, he thought, should cause Americans to congratulate themselves that things are so well ordered in this respect in the United States. The German allegory was substantially as follows: "Four flies, which had made their way into a certain pantry, determined to have a feast. One flew to the sugar and ate heartily; but soon died, for the sugar was full of white lead. The second chose the flour as his diet, but he fared no better, for the flour was loaded with plaster of Paris. The third sampled the syrup, but his six legs were presently raised in the air, for the syrup was colored with aniline dyes. The fourth fly, seeing all his friends dead, determined to end his life also, and drank deeply of the fly-poison which he found in a convenient saucer. He is still alive and in good health. That too, was adulterated."

Had 'Em Again.

A company of motion-picture actors and actresses gave a performance of "Chanticleer" on the grounds adjoining the suburban studio of a film-manufacturing company. A little later one of the actors, out for a walk, came upon a man seated by the roadside and weeping bitterly. "What's the matter?" inquired the sympathetic player. "In one of the patients at the sanitarium for bugs over yonder," explained the despairing one, "Yesterday the doc said I was well—too well—and that I could leave in a day or two. And what do you suppose I saw this morning? Roosters and hens six feet high and from that sanitarium in ten years, I'll be doing mighty well."—Lippincott's.

One on the Lawyer.

Counsel for the defense began to cross-examine a witness. "Your name, if I understand you correctly," he said, "is John Binks. Is that right?" "Yes, sir." "Now, have you ever been arrested on a criminal charge?" "No, sir," indignantly answered the witness; "never!" "Did you ever commit an offense for which you might justly have been arrested?" "No, sir." "Now, is it not a fact that you once stole from your own father?" Here counsel on the other side interposed, but the witness chose to answer: "No, sir," he exclaimed; "never in my life!" "Well, then," continued the cross-examining counsel, "suppose I say I know that you did steal from your father?" "Gentleman," said the witness, turning to the jury, "she's right. I remember now, when I was about twelve, I stole a box of cigars from my father's shop and smoked them. Counsel, who was a boy then, put me up to stealing those cigars and smoked half of them! (To counsel.) How are you, Jim?"—Ideas.

"Both," the grandmother answered. "You have your mother's remarkable capacity for spending money and your father's absolute genius for not making it."

Here and There

Missouri leads the other states of the Union in the production of poultry. Over $40,000,000 worth of surplus eggs, chickens, turkeys, geese and other fowls were sold off of Missouri farms last year. The amount was about equally divided between eggs and poultry.

Barry county, Mo., has not had a court house for two years. It is not because the county is too poor, but because of rivalry for the county seat between Monett and Cassville, and the citizens refuse to vote bonds for the purpose. The old county court house is torn down.

At Seneca and Racine, in Newton county, Mo., are the only commercial triplite mines in the world. The triplite, a white, chalky rock, is used for making filters, for making scouring soaps, and in many secret processes. It is shipped from these two towns to all parts of the world.

The demand for Missouri horses and mules has not decreased because of the advent of the automobile in the state. There were 157,831 horses and mules raised upon Missouri farms and sold last year. The total number raised in 1908 was 145,152 head. There was an increase last year of 12,679 head, with an average value of $1,294,600.

A citizen of Kirksville, Mo., eighty-nine years old, who boasted that he had never told a lie or quarreled with his wife, died recently. He had been married seventy years, and claimed that he and his wife had celebrated more wedding anniversaries than any other couple in Northeast Missouri. His wife was ninety years old.

Taney county, Mo., is said to supply the finest cedar in the world for making lead pencils. In the railroad yards at Branson there is enough cedar timber piled to run a pencil mill for twenty-five years. All the material belongs to the American Pencil company. They also have bought most of the uncut cedar timber in the county.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, president of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is the owner of a land tract of 10,000 acres in Illinois, on which she is conducting a "back to the farm" enterprise. Only a short time ago Mrs. Scott was elected president of a coal-mining company, to succeed Adlai E. Stevenson, formerly vice president of the United States.

A New York banker who feels that the privacy of his own residence has been invaded by the construction of apartment houses on adjacent property, has filed plans with the building department of that city for a fence 150 feet high. A nine-story apartment building is to be built on the lot west of the home of this banker, who is J. M. Francolini, and he figures that a fence 150 feet high will be required to keep its future occupants from looking down upon him.—Popular Mechanics.

Once at the table of Sir James Knowles editor of the Nineteenth Century, the talk ran on the relative physical and mental value of woman relates the Strand Magazine. Turning to Sir Raymond Lankester, the aged prime minister (Mr. Gladstone) said: "I am of the opinion that the relative value of a man and a woman is in all classes of society about the same as it was in my grandfather's time in Jamaica. When they wanted to buy a negro they gave one hundred and twenty pounds for a man and eighty pounds for a woman, and," he added, "that is a fair measure of their relative values the world over."

City Brevities

Today's weather: Colder, with probably snow.
Yesterday's temperatures: Seven a. m., 27 degrees; noon, 37; 7 p. m., 34. Highest, 38 degrees; lowest, 23.

Warren Flanagan, of Iron Mountain, was a Marquette visitor yesterday.

Born, yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. August Erickson, a daughter.

J. J. Teeple, of Pinckney, Mich., is spending a few days with his son, P. G. Teeple.

Mrs. J. H. Freeman and Mrs. J. E. Mallock of Champion, spent yesterday in the city.

W. F. Fitch, president of the South Shore road, went to Chicago last evening.

Mrs. Frank A. Wentworth was taken to St. Mary's hospital yesterday, suffering from a severe case of stomach trouble.

Raymond Griffin left yesterday morning for Norfolk navy yard, to enter the service of the United States marine corps.

The benefit card party arranged for this evening will be held at Bureau's Hall, instead of at the Brunswick Hotel, as was first arranged.

Anderson & Mellin will receive tomorrow for their Thanksgiving trade a consignment of native beef, which formed a part of Swift & Co.'s exhibit of prize cattle at the St. Paul live stock show.

The midweek paper service at the Presbyterian church tonight will be led by the pastor. The subject will be "The Shining of God's Face Upon His People." Strangers will be made especially welcome.

Professor S. S. Bruce, of the Michigan College of Mines, at Houghton, was in the city yesterday arranging for the entertainment of a party of twenty-five students, who will spend Saturday in this city.

John Struble, of Ann Arbor, who joined in the search for his brother, Irad, who was lost in the woods near Nestoria for several days, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Struble stated that his brother became lost by passing across a logging road without noticing that he had done so, then continuing for a long distance in the same direction in search of the road.

Mrs. Rush Culver and daughters will leave today for Pennsylvania to visit friends. Mr. Culver and son, Harry, will leave tonight for Chicago to spend about ten days. The Culvers have shipped their household effects to Monroe, La., where Mr. Culver has purchased a plantation and will make his home within a very short time.

Ryan Case Settled—The complaint against "Paddy" Ryan, who was charged with having stolen an overcoat from H. Byers and sold same to an employe at Stewart's livery, has been withdrawn. It is understood that the matter has been settled up so that no one is the loser. Ryan was in the city yesterday and stated to the police that he intended to "cut out the drink" for all time.

Mind Reader at Bijou—Mme. Zenda, who is touted as a seer of more than usual ability, before the boards at the Bijou the last half of this week. Mme. Zenda is said to be more than a mind reader. She locates lost articles and answers many questions put to her by members of the audience. Three good pictures will be shown, with Mutt and Jeff as the feature. Something in the nature of a novelty in a musical line is promised in a few days.

Sparrow Season Opens Soon—Marquette boys are beginning to look forward to Dec. 1, the opening of the three months' season on which a bounty of two cents each is paid on English sparrows, as some boys in this city make a practice of earning Christmas money by slaughtering sparrows. By putting in all his spare time, tramping several miles each day and using up several boxes of ammunition, the average small boy can earn as much as thirty cents a day and take chances on getting his name into the papers in connection with a "didn't know it was loaded" story.

Charge for Dogs Here—Marquette people were somewhat amused to read in the Associated Press dispatches yesterday that in Connecticut a law recently had been passed authorizing street car companies to charge five cents fare for dogs riding on street cars. It has been the customary for some time in this city to charge not five cents, but a dime, for the privilege of giving a dog a street car ride, and at the offices of the company it was stated yesterday that it is customary in cities in this part of the country to charge fare for dogs on street cars.

Turkey Shoot Saturday—The first turkey shoot of the season will be conducted at the grounds of the Presque Isle Shooting club Saturday afternoon. Both hunting rifles and shotguns will be used and as fast as the better marksmen each get one turkey they will be barred, giving the others a chance. The rifle event will be at 200 yards, off hand, with hunting guns and sight only. One sighting shot will be allowed. There will be an interesting shotgun handicap event, the contestants shooting from the 12, 16 and 20-yard lines, for turkeys. The marksmen should catch the 1:30 car to be in time for both events. There will be a good fire in the stove, if the weather is cold. Saturday's shoot is preliminary to a grand turkey shoot to be conducted by the club on Thanksgiving Day. The club is arranging an elaborate program for that day.

INSURE WITH PETER WHITE & CO.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

We take this means of publicly expressing our sincere gratitude to the many "friends in need" who assisted in the search for Irad Struble, who was lost in the woods near Nestoria for several days. We are especially grateful to the management of the South Shore railroad and its employes. Had it not been for the unselfish efforts of disinterested parties, Mr. Struble would never have gotten out of the woods alive.

IRAD STRUBLE,
JOHN STRUBLE.

Rev. S. Donald Rogers Thought to Have Sought Greener Pastures in Wisconsin.

A Munising dispatch to the Grand Rapids Press gives this interesting bit of information regarding the tramp preacher who for a time received no little attention from half-baked philanthropists in this city and Detroit who are devoting time and newspaper space to bringing about a reform of the management of the Marquette penitentiary: "S. Donald Rogers, who poses as a 'Quaker minister,' and who some time ago, gained considerable publicity in connection with an investigation of Marquette prison, appears to have shaken upper peninsula snow from his shoes. The preacher's last stop in the peninsula was at Iron Mountain. This city is close to the Wisconsin line. When the police there were notified by the sheriff of Schoolcraft county to take him into custody he had departed Badgerdomward and could not be headed off.

"Rogers' career in the upper peninsula covered a period of more than half a year. He first appeared at Marquette. It was at the time the Marquette prison was much in the public eye. The preacher had met Gov. Osborn on a train. The prison topic came up and the governor gave his fellow traveler permission to visit the penitentiary and look things over. Rogers was a guest of the state for a time and then he communicated with the governor. The prison was splendidly managed, he stated; there were no cruelties, and Varian Russell was the right man in the right place, etc. etc. His investigation, concluded Rogers hung on.

"The prison officials kept tab on the parson with the result, it is alleged, was detected in an attempt to smuggle out a letter written by a convict. Rogers was arrested.

"The parson's opinion of the prison administration was suddenly changed. The penitentiary was 'poorly managed.' The men were 'ill-treated' and the warden was a 'veritable slave driver.' These changed views were duly put on the wire.

"On Rogers being ousted from the prison he hung around Marquette for several weeks. The warden's charge against him was dropped and the preacher left town. He appeared subsequently in Munising, Sault Ste. Marie, Manistique, Escanaba and Iron Mountain.

"At Manistique and the Soo he purported to be about to establish an agricultural or nature school, while at Iron Mountain he was taking orders for a book soon to be published and at Marquette for a time he talked of taking over the Hotel Superior as a home for ex-convicts.

"The charge against Rogers is that he shook the dust of Manistique from his feet without settling his hotel, livery and various and sundry other bills."

"The Private Secretary."

Alan Dale, the eminent New York critic, was asked at a banquet one night to name the funniest play ever written and, without the slightest hesitation, he answered, "The Private Secretary." He went on to say that he had seen the play a dozen times and had enjoyed it more the last time than he did the first. Coming from such a high authority as this, it is not remarkable that the play in its present revival is meeting with distinctive success. C. James Bancroft, the celebrated English comedian, and a cast of notable players, are presenting "The Private Secretary" on tour and will appear at the opera house Saturday night. Mr. Bancroft has played the part of the Rev. Robert Spaulding over 2,000 times, once by command before the court of the late King Edward, and many prefer his interpretation to that of William Gillette, who created the role in this country. For those who go to see Mr. Bancroft in his forthcoming production, there is a great treat in store. It is not often that the combination of the funniest play ever written and one of the most distinguished English actors to play it, can be taken advantage of.

"The Traveling Salesman."

With Robert E. O'Connor in the title role, "The Traveling Salesman" was presented at the opera house last evening before a rather small audience. As predicted in the advance notices, "The Traveling Salesman" proved to be a comedy of great possibilities. Its popularity is the result of the clever manner in which members of the traveling fraternity and other characters found in every small town are taken off. Mr. O'Connor is well fitted, both in appearance and action, for the part of the "drummer," and his work was by all odds the best part of the show. The leading lady is Bess Dunlop, who was pleasing in the character of a winsome, innocent but bright ticket agent at the railroad station. Julia Earl made a big hit in the woman's character part, and Johnny Jones, as Julius, the hotel porter, never failed to amuse. The other members of the cast were only mediocre.

Upper Peninsula

Baraga Hunter's Prize—
Dick St. Arnold, of Baraga, killed a wild goose the other day. It was a beauty, standing five feet high, measuring seven feet, seven inches from tip to tip of wings, had paddles 7 inches wide and weighed sixteen and one-half pounds.

Escanabans Must Clean Walks—
Official notice has been given to the people of Escanaba by Mayor J.S. Lindsay that in the future the municipal snow plow will not be used and that the city ordinance, compelling each household to clear snow and ice from all sidewalks, fronting and abutting his property, will be enforced in all of its provisions. There are over fifty miles of walks in the city.

Snow Is Deep at Perkins—
It is reported that a delivery horse belonging to H. D. Gibbs, who conducts a store at Perkins, Delta county, stepped from the beaten track, near the center of the town Tuesday and plunged head-first into the snow at the roadside. So deep was the snow, is the claim, that the horse was completely covered and it required three men with shovels to dig the animal out and assist it to its feet.

Big Shipment of Green Hides—
A shipment of 60,000 pounds of hides was made from Escanaba this week by Isaac Schuman. The hides were billed to a Chicago tannery. Mr. Schuman is one of the largest hide dealers in the upper peninsula, having his stock from all parts of the district and shipping from Escanaba. The present is one of the largest shipments ever sent out of the peninsula.

Will Travel in Foreign Lands—
William E. Irwin, Escanaba agent of the New York Life Insurance company, has left for an extended trip that will include several of the "far countries." He will go first to Mississippi and other Southern states, working his way north to New York, where he will take passage for Italy Dec. 8. After a stay of several weeks in Naples and other Italian cities he will go to Egypt and spend the winter on the upper reaches of the Nile. It has been Mr. Irwin's custom to spend his winters in the south or in Europe, returning to Escanaba in the early summer. Mr. Irwin some time ago received a communication, telling him that out of all his hundreds of claimants he ranked nineteenth in the amount of insurance written.

Graphite Mine Closes—
The Detroit Graphite company has suspended active operations at its mine south of Taylor, Baraga county, the frost and heavy snow calling a halt. Twenty-seven hundred tons of graphite have been mined, the largest amount ever gotten out in any one season, and the same will be shipped to Detroit to be manufactured into paint. The company has an excellent demand for its product. Much of it is used for painting iron and steel structures. The Detroit company also helps to provide Uncle Sam with paint for his vessels. D. P. Menard, who has the contract to haul the ore from the mine to Taylor switch and load it on cars, will commence the work the first of December and expects to finish by the break-up next spring.

Fake Message Found in Bottle—
Harry Dolbe, while at work making repairs to the dock of the Peninsula Bark & Lumber company at the Soo, picked up a bottle in the river that had become lodged under the timber work. Inside the bottle was a business card of "The Charles J. H. Clark, Prop., 2031-33 Prospect avenue," the name of the town not being given. On the reverse side of the card is written in lead pencil: "S. S. Coroma, Dec. 22nd, 1900. We are in distress on rocks off Whitefish point, Lake Superior. Send help quick." So marine men are inclined to look upon the bottled message as a fake. In the first place there are no rocks off Whitefish point, and again one can remember a steamship by the name given as having been wrecked in Lake Superior.

Markets

WALL STREET STOCKS.

Paine, Webber & Co. yesterday wired from New York as follows: The stock market again displayed a remarkably firm tone and the copper issues continued to be conspicuous for their buoyancy. Attention was centered in the reports in circulation relative to the state of trade, especially in steel and iron industry, which it is argued has been greatly benefited by the large orders recently placed for equipment. Rail orders on a large scale are expected in the near future and the opinion is expressed in good quarters that any downward change in the prices on financial steel products outside of rails is more likely to be upward than otherwise. We still feel that preference should be given to the buying side of the market, especially on the occasional reactions and that the basic betterment in the copper metal industry will be reflected by a somewhat higher range of prices for the shares of the various copper producing companies, but of course as political discussion becomes more intense, considerable irregularity is likely to be witnessed in the stock market, and therefore the usual safeguards will be in order. The day's closing prices follow:

Boston "Coppers."
Of the market at Boston, Paine, Webber & Co. yesterday said: Based on a further advance of the metal to 13 3/8¢ the local market enjoyed an old fashioned boom. All classes of copper were very active and advancing prices. The volume of new business was large and prices were well sustained all through the session. The floor traders all sold out early but were unable to get back their stock as no reaction came. The advance in the metal gives this boom a real basis and we firmly believe that coppers will sell much higher. Closing quotations follow:

THEY INJURE CHILDREN

Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physics May Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given. Ordinary pills, cathartics, and purgatives are too apt to do more harm than good. They sometimes cause griping, and distressing, after-effects, and may actually injure the health, thus establishing a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee RECALL ORDESLIES as a safe and dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Recall Ordeslies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Recall Ordeslies not only relieve constipation, but help to remove the cause of this ailment. They also frequently overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really, in our opinion, no similar medicine so good as Recall Ordeslies for the purpose to which it is directed, especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form and in two sizes of packages: 12 tablets, 10c, 30 tablets, 25c, and 80 tablets, 50c. Remember, you can obtain Recall Remedies in this community only at our store—The RECALL STORE. The STAFFORD DRUG CO.

Chicago Wheat.

Paine, Webber & Co.'s Chicago correspondent had the following to say of the wheat market in that city yesterday: May wheat, in which there is about 90 per cent. of the total volume of trade at present, acted very strong all day. Brokers for a LaSalle street house undertook to sell some December wheat, but the market would not take it well. Cable news was mixed for the day. All foreign markets were at moderate decline, influenced by the beginning of harvest in Argentina. Later there was a cable from Snow containing sensational claims in regard to blight and black rust, but stating that recent reports of very heavy damage to crops. The domestic wheat situation appears to be reasonably strong on the theory of much lighter supplies later in the year and any accident which might come to the Argentine crop will be a bullish feature. Closing prices were as follows: May wheat, 100 1/2; oats, 65 1/2; pork, 16.00; lard, 9.62. December wheat, 95 1/2; corn, 64 1/2; oats, 47 1/2. January pork, 16.40.

Ruez's Market Letter.

George F. Ruez, broker of shipping, yesterday said: Opening copper metal quotations from London showed an advance of over one pound in the price for the metal since last night. This was followed by the announcement of sales in New York at 13.05 and 13 1/2¢ cents for January delivery. Sales of electro-copper at 12 1/2¢ and 13 cents yesterday afternoon are said to have been enormous, amounting to about 25,000,000 pounds for next year's delivery. It is estimated that November sales of the metal will probably run over 200,000,000 pounds. This will make another big hole in the surplus and higher prices for the metal and copper shares are sure to follow. There was an excellent demand for all the copper shares today. Drove out the good ones on all reactions. Of the medium-priced coppers, buy Giroux, Shannon, Inspiration, Greene Cananea, East Butte, Southwestern, Miami and San Antonio. Such stocks as Lake, Calumet & Arizona, North Butte, Hancock, Alouez and Live Oak will show nice profits if picked up at the present prices.

FINNISH LION TO WRESTLE ZBYSKO

Polish Champion Will Attempt to Dispose of Pilakoff After Match With Lehto.

Lovers of catch-as-catch-can wrestling, and particularly the friends of Karl Lehto, are manifesting much interest in the proposed match between Lehto and Zbyzsko, the Polish champion, which is to take place at Ishpeeming theater on Monday evening, Dec. 11. Since signing the contract to wrestle Lehto in Ishpeeming, Zbyzsko has also signed a contract to wrestle Fred Pilakoff, the "Finnish Lion," in Duluth, the following night. It is expected that both Lehto and Pilakoff will give Zbyzsko hard matches, and both contests are to be wrestled to a finish.

Pilakoff is some pounds heavier than Lehto, though the friends of the latter here believe that Lehto is the more scientific wrestler of the two. The outcome of both of these contests will be watched with a great deal of interest throughout the entire upper peninsula.

In announcing the fact that Zbyzsko and Pilakoff have been matched for a contest in Duluth, the Duluth Herald of Tuesday evening had the following interesting facts about these wrestlers:

"Stanislaus Zbyzsko, whose name in full and spelled correctly is Stanislaw Zbyzsko Cyganiewicz, is to wrestle Frederick Pilakoff, the wonderful big Finn, a finish match in this city on the night of December 12. Final arrangements for the match were closed yesterday.

"From now to the night he steps on the mat with the mammoth Pole, Pilakoff will adopt a special course of training. Wrestlers will be secured to work with him and every effort will be made by his manager, H. J. Maki, to get the huge Finnish wrestler in the condition of his life.

"A week ago Pilakoff defeated Paul Sampson, the German giant, in the copper country. He will back in Duluth shortly and then will start hard and unceasing training for the most important match he has secured in this country.

"Zbyzsko needs little introduction here. He made his appearance in Duluth on the occasion of his first visit to the United States. No wrestler in the history of the local mat game ever received the reception that the Polish champion did here. It might also be said that no wrestler ever made more of a hit than Zbyzsko.

"The match between Pilakoff and Zbyzsko will truly be one between giants, veritable Goliaths; between two of the strongest men in the whole world.

"Zbyzsko has come from the mouth of Duluth Zbyzsko has according to every report, made a wonderful improvement in the catch-as-catch-can style of wrestling. When Vance Rogers of Buffalo was here he was loud in his praises of the big Pole. According to the statement made at that time by Rogers, Zbyzsko has improved 50 per cent. within the past year.

"Zbyzsko is a lawyer, has been an officer in the army in Europe, and is a graduate of the University of Vienna.

He is by far the most interesting wrestler who has come from the mouth of Europe, and he ranks as one of the really great grapplers.

"On the evening that Zbyzsko is to meet Pilakoff it is planned to have Sailor Jack meet one of the best men with more arriving almost daily. The Aurora News of last week said of the drill work:

"Drill outfits and drill crews continue to arrive daily, nearly every train adding men and material to the largely growing list. There are now about thirty drills in operation in the vicinity of the Stevens with another thirty to be installed and operated. There are now over 100 men at the camps and this number will soon be more than doubled. In addition to the Steel corporation drills five contractors are operating."

It is reported that quite a number of additional drills have recently been put in operation in the Cuyuna district, where important ore discoveries are being made. The M. A. Hanna company, which is developing the Barrows mine, four miles south of Brainerd, has started on a second shaft and the management contemplates opening another mine some distance south of the Barrows. The first shaft is now down over seventy feet and the second, which has just been started, is to be a drop shaft.

The Helmer Exploration company is putting drills to work in the Cuyuna district, and Wilson Bradley and the Oberg Bros. are drilling in the vicinity of Deerwood. Henry Spalding, a Crosby man, and his associates, are putting drills in operation near that town and the Carlson Exploration company is also doing considerable drilling. The Carlson has three or more drills working on section 16, town 28, range 49, near Crosby, and the Cole & McDonald interests also have several drills working there.

SENIOR BASKETBALL LEAGUE.

Schedule for Y. M. C. A. Contestants Will Be Arranged This Evening.

The captains of the senior basketball teams of the Young Men's Christian association will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock, in Physical Director Norman's office, to enter the names of their players, and to form a schedule for the winter months. The "Y" is this season developing quite a number of basketball players and it is expected that the league contests will be very interesting. The Owls society is to have a team, composed of members of the "Y", and members of the Ishpeeming high school faculty have organized, while a team has also been entered by Ishpeeming high school alumni.

The "Y" basketball team had a fast workout Tuesday night against two teams of seniors, playing a fresh team in each half. Mr. Norman is quite enthusiastic over the material available for this year's lineup and he believes that the team will be by far the fastest that has ever represented the association. He realizes that a strong team will be necessary in order to hold its own with the fast Knights of Columbus team of Marquette, which will play its first game a week from tomorrow night, Dec. 1.

Two games of indoor baseball will be played in the gymnasium this evening. The first will be between the Business Boys' class team and the "C" Boys' club, and will be called at 7:15. The second game will be between the "Y" and Miners' teams. This will be the third meeting of the latter series, each having won a game. The contest will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The Junior B boys class indoor ball teams played Tuesday afternoon, the Cubs defeating the White Sox in a score of 7 to 3, and the Athletics trimming the Tigers, 10 to 9. The standing of the teams is now as follows:

| | | | |
|-----------|----|----|------|

SHIPPING MANY DEER.

Quite a number of deer carcasses have passed through Ishpeeming on South Shore freight trains since the snow storm of last week. There are a good many lower peninsula hunters west of here and a number of them are now returning to their homes. A car on the freight passing through Ishpeeming Monday night was almost filled with deer carcasses, and one of the coaches on the 4 o'clock train Tuesday morning was occupied by lower peninsula hunters, homeward bound. Ishpeeming hunters who have been in the woods the past week are meeting with better success than those who went out early in the season. Those who would deer are now able to track them, while formerly many of the disabled deer got away.

Final sale of ladies suits, coats and trimmed hats. Prices reduced one-third. 11-22-11. F. BRAASTAD & Co.

MANY FINNS LEAVING.

Many young Finns who have been employed in the mines in Ishpeeming are leaving for the old country to spend Christmas with their relatives. Parties of from one to a half dozen are leaving here daily and nearly twenty of them have departed since last Friday. All of the men leaving are giving up positions at the mines and most of them plan to return after Christmas.

BIG BUSINESS IN SPRINKLING DEVICES

Former Ishpeming Man, in the City Yesterday, Deals in Automatic Sprinklers.

J. F. Brass, who lived in Ishpeming some twenty years ago, was in the city yesterday looking up old friends and acquaintances. He will leave today for the Lake Gogebic district on a deer hunting expedition. During the three years Mr. Brass lived in Ishpeming he had charge of the supply department of the Michigan Lumber company of Saginaw, which had large crews employed in the woods north of this city. While he was here what was known as the McGraw tract, in the Dead River region. The largest crews ever employed in the district were at work there then, and the trade of the Michigan company and their employees was an important item to the business interests of Ishpeming. From here Mr. Brass went to the Lake Gogebic country, where the company operated for a few years. Mr. Brass is now conducting a large automatic sprinkler business in Chicago, having been engaged in that line since he left the Michigan Lumber company's employ. He has control of several of the more important patent devices used on the latest automatic sprinklers and he is doing a big business. He said yesterday that practically all new buildings that are now erected in the larger cities are equipped with automatic sprinklers and in some instances these are the means of reducing the insurance rates more than 100 per cent. Each room in a building, including closets, storage rooms, etc., are equipped with the sprinklers and in many instances they have been the means of checking fires that otherwise might have developed into large conflagrations. With Mr. Brass' devices the water is released from the pipes at any degree of heat desired. Usually the valves are set to break open at 160 degrees. Mr. Brass expressed the belief that automatic sprinklers will be very generally used in the smaller cities within the next few years, especially in newly constructed buildings. He said that a couple of the new blocks in the copper country are equipped with them, and he was under the impression that there is one building in Ishpeming provided with sprinklers, but in this he was mistaken.

J. M. KEITH'S FUNERAL.

Many Floral Designs Were Sent to Fond du Lac by Friends.

The Commonwealth of Fond du Lac, Wis., in its issue of last Friday, contained the following account of the funeral of the late John M. Keith, formerly of Ishpeming, who left here less than a year ago, and who had been ill in Chicago for three months before he passed away: "John M. Keith was laid at rest in Rienzi cemetery Wednesday afternoon following funeral services at St. Paul's Cathedral at 2 o'clock. Rev. Frank A. Sanborn officiated at the cathedral and also read the brief Episcopal burial service at the grave. The bearers were John E. Reeves, C. R. Karsing, C. E. Cleveland, W. L. Cole, A. E. Kremer and George L. McDermott. The floral display was beautiful and included sets of pieces from the Elks and Knights of Pythias. There were many floral offerings of sympathy from friends in Ishpeming, Negaunee, Chicago and Milwaukee.

There were many beautiful designs sent to Fond du Lac by friends of the deceased in Ishpeming and Negaunee, and the ones from the Fond du Lac Elks and Knights of Pythias lodges were unusually large designs. Magnificent pieces also were sent by the office employees of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company here, and the employees of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company.

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

Richard Quayle was up from Gwinn yesterday. Congressman H. O. Young and wife left last night for Washington. Mrs. W. P. Belden entertained the members of the Bridge Whist club yesterday afternoon. Sellwood's advertisement in this issue will interest many in their Thanksgiving Damask sale. Mrs. M. M. Duncan and daughter, Miss Helen, have returned from the East, where they spent the greater part of a month. E. G. Person, who has been critically ill with pneumonia the past few days, was reported as feeling much improved yesterday. J. Hare, manager of the Metropolitan Life insurance company's branch, went to the Soo yesterday on business for the company. Mesdames H. T. Hulst and V. H. Vandeventer are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Brett, in Milwaukee. They will be home Sunday or Monday. Miss Helen Adduddell, instructor in the Ishpeming High school, entertained the members of a French club to which she belongs Tuesday evening at the Hillier home. There will be dancing, after skating, tonight in the Elite roller rink. Lavigne Bros. orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing, and there will be no extra admission charge. Fred Smith and friends from Elk Rapids, Mich., who have been hunting at Camp Nine for the past three weeks, came in from there last evening. They will leave for their home today or tomorrow. The Royal theater, which reopened Saturday evening under the management of business manager, doing a very good business. Mr. Skiff secured a fine line of films and the machines are being operated to better advantage than formerly. C. Gordon Franson, who has held a position for several years in the accounting department of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's office at Ishpeming, has resigned his position and will leave shortly for Minneapolis, where he has a proposition he may accept. Mr. Franson is going to Minneapolis with a view of making that city his permanent home. The three boys implicated in the robbery of Crowl's bakery will not be tried in the municipal court, as they are under age. W. T. Potter, the probate judge, will give them a hearing some day next week. The boys, who have not been very regular attendants at school, were back in their classes Tuesday and yesterday, and they seem to be pretty thoroughly frightened. Superintendent Scribner has had them "on the carpet" a couple of times since the robbery was committed. Children under fifteen years of age will hereafter be barred from the adults' reading room in the Carnegie library. The youngsters must remain in their own reading room, as they have been disturbing older people who go to the library to read. Several hundred boys and girls visit the library daily between 3:30 and closing time. Mrs. Magnus Klyver, who, as stated in these columns at the time, died at her home in Republic last week, after a few hours' illness, passing away before her husband could reach her bedside. She had always enjoyed excellent health and her sudden death was a shock to her friends. She was a member of the Royal Neighbors and is survived by her husband and four daughters—Mrs. A. Wallen, Mrs. B. Ferguson and Miss Emma Klyver, of Eben, and Mrs. V. Kellstrom, of Republic, who was with her mother when she died.

Lower State Notes

FREMONT—The village schools have been closed owing to diphtheria.

GRAND RAPIDS—The new city directory contains 66,804 names, which on the multiple of two for each family gives Grand Rapids a population of 133,608.

MONTGOMERY—With only $500 on deposit, the Hillsdale county bank, which was started three months ago, has been closed.

BOYNE CITY—The residence of William Jackson of Douglas street was destroyed by fire, together with the contents. The loss is $1,000. None of the family were at home. Mrs. Jackson is in a hospital. It is the second time that the family home has been burned out.

PETOSKEY—Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Weaver, while riding in a cutter one mile west of Petoskey, were thrown out when their horse took fright. The occupants of the cutter were thrown into a snowbank and escaped unhurt. The horse was killed and the cutter demolished.

CHARLOTTE—C. P. Arnold was arrested here for bootlegging, pleaded guilty in justice court and was bound over to the circuit court. Arnold, who is a well-known horse doctor, has been manufacturing the brand of liquor which he sold the last few months and when arrested by Sheriff Donovan presented that officer with the recipe.

CADILLAC—County Agent Ira Wilson of Lake county has been sent to Jackson prison for seven to fifteen years for criminally assaulting a fifteen-year-old Myrtle McNeil. He is a married man. William Wrigleyworth has been arrested charged with a like offense against the same girl. He is out on bail.

CADILLAC—Recent information came from British Guiana of the murder by native Indians of O. E. Davis, a Seventh Day Adventist missionary, whose former home was at Mesick, this county. A cablegram had now been received, saying Davis died of black water fever and that he was nursed by the natives. Mrs. Davis is enroute home.

PEWAMO—The postoffice at Matherston, Ionia county, will be discontinued, according to an order from the postoffice department. After Nov. 30 people of that village of 200 inhabitants will be supplied with mail by a star route from Pewamo. Matherston was one of the first communities in Ionia county to be discontinued in its stead it steadily has declined in importance.

SAUGATUCK—For the first time in twenty-five years there is a fourteen-foot channel from the mouth of the Kalamazoo river to here while the river is low. At high tide the channel will be twenty feet. This is due to the work of the government dredge during the present year, 117,000 cubic yards of dirt having been taken out of the river. It is now possible for large boats to come to Saugatuck.

CADILLAC—Sheriff Evans placed under arrest, Mrs. Beulah Stricker, employed in a local restaurant, and her supposed lover, Frank Freeman. The woman is wanted for the alleged theft of $533 in money and over $40 worth of clothing from a store in Sturgis. Sheriff G. W. Watkins of Centerville escorted his prisoners to a local restaurant, a married woman and is said to have deserted her husband and two children. It is said that the woman has been going about the country since the alleged theft two months ago, masquerading under a false name. Freeman is charged with complicity.

BAY CITY—The Grand Trunk railroad will begin at once work on its new $1,000,000 terminal station and yards on the east side and the bridge that will give access to them from the west side. The last property required to approach the river front on the west side was purchased within the last two weeks and the owners have ten days in which to remove their buildings. All the east side property required, including two blocks for station and grounds, passenger yards, bridge approaches, etc., had long since been purchased and the removal of houses from this property is under way.

SAMPLES OF CLERICAL HUMOR.

Jolly Laughs Afforded the Public by Witty Sayings of Clever Irish Priests.

"Holy men have considered humor to have a high place in the ethics of life," says the Ecclesiastical Review, which is only another way of stating the well known fact that most clergymen, of whatever faith, like a joke as well as the next man. There was Nicholas Burke, for instance, better known as Father Thomas Burke, the great Irish patriot and preacher. Father Tom had a great fondness for riding on the top of an omnibus. Once when doing so after a long church service in Dublin he produced his breviary and was soon deep in its contents. A well known evangelist sitting near by

BEES START RIOT IN GOTHAM.

Police Get a Few Lessons in the Disposition of Crowds.

A cloud of bees came out of the west the other afternoon and swarmed in a soap box in front of Mrs. Ogden Goelet's house. The soap box rested on the back-bone of a sawhorse which a contractor's men had placed near the sidewalk as a protection to passers-by, while Mrs. Goelet's house is having its "front" taken off. The 6 o'clock crowd had never seen the like of it before. It panned until somebody stirred that swarm and then it waited no longer.

Mike McDonald, watchman for the contractor, was lighting his red lanterns which warn travelers against the debris in front of the house when the bees came. Tom Wilson, caretaker for Mrs. Goelet's house, was there, too, watching Mike do the job. Tom saw the bees first, a brown cloud rising half way to the housetops. Mike heard him say:

"Be gone, and what is it?" Mike looked up and replied: "Ten million, up and Jersey." "It's birds," said the caretaker, "and they're coming here."

The bees made for the soap box on the sawhorse. In an instant the box was overflowing and bees were clinging to the outside of the box. A boy set up a shout and the procession halted. Many men and women crowded around to see what was on. The bees intent on their own business harmed no one—that is, until Tom Wilson saw that something ought to be done. He suggested to Mike that the bees were worth keeping, so the two grabbed the box and turned it upside down on the pavement. The bees which were captured were mad enough, but those left out were worse. They hit after the crowd and McDonald and Wilson. All hands scattered. No policeman could have done better.

Ten minutes later the caretaker and the watchman tiptoed back to the soap box. A few of the bees had come back and were clustered on the outside. The bees lived inside were still angry. McDonald thought it was because they couldn't get air.

"The blasted bees are winded, they are," he said, "and they're near smothered already."

"Stuff!" said Wilson. "And how would a million of you like to be in that box after a long hike, sir, and no air?" said the watchman.

He reached for a stick and thrust it under one end of the box. Then the bees came out, hundreds of them, and the few which had settled on the outside took wing again. They flew into taxiab windows and pestered delivery horses.

Perhaps a few horses were stung, but the police registered no rowanways. The open windows of the Buckingham hotel, the Belgravia and the National Democratic club let in a few and bellboys were busy chasing bees. A gang of Italian laborers working at a conduit for the New York Telephone company, got out of the ditch and ran away.

Lieutenant Heffernan, who lives in Fordham, and is familiar with bees, heard of the trouble and dispatched Policeman Dave Lawler hot foot for Mrs. Goelet's house, with instructions how to manage bees. The policeman said afterward that he was trying to think all the way over how the poem went which begins: "How doth the little busy bee," but he couldn't catch the next line.

Lawler, acting under instructions, started a smudge. He gathered some tar paper and put it near the box. It wouldn't burn. Then he asked Wilson for some kerosene. The bees were coming back by this time and were hitting themselves again in the upturned soap box. Lawler put the tar paper about the box, poured on the kerosene, touched a match and waited to see what would happen.

There was little smoke, but the first set to work on the box and destroyed all the bees then and there.—New York Sun.

"The Lord tells us," he said, "that when we pray we should not be as the hypocrites, who love to pray in public and at the corners of streets, that they may be seen by men. 'Now,' he added, 'when I pray I enter into my closet and when I have shut the door I pray in secret.'"

Without looking up, Father Burke replied aloud, "Yes, and then you get on the top of an omnibus and tell everyone all about it."

Once when Father Burke was going to Cork he met in a crowded railway carriage a man, who, repeatedly slipping his hand into an inside pocket of his coat and drawing out a bottle, went on drinking drams; which made the father feel he might soon become unpleasant company.

The next time the man took out the bottle Father Tom dryly remarked: "Your mother must have died early; sir." The man gazed at him in surprise. The priest continued: "It is quite plain you were brought up by the bottle." As all present laughed, the man, feeling ashamed, put the bottle by and left it undisturbed.

Once Father Healy was asked how he would describe a Scotsman, and in answer, assuming as he spoke the Scot's accent, said: "A Scot is a man who keeps the Sabbath and everything else that he can get."

Father Healy, a thoroughly temperate man, on one occasion ordered a humorous, cabman at Bray, known to indulge in an occasional drop, to call for him after dinner at the house of a friend. On the parvey's arrival Father Healy was grieved to notice he was not quite sober. "Drink again, Peter," muttered the priest. "Well, to tell you the truth, yer reverence, I'm a little that way myself."

A barber once in shaving the father had a very trembling hand. "There now," exclaimed Father Healy, "you have cut me! Oh, whiskey, whiskey!" he wound up by way of lamenting the source of the barber's unsteadiness. "Yes, yer reverence," replied the barber promptly. "It do make the skin tender, don't it?"

CONFISCATORY RATES DENOUNCED BY O'NEAL

Alabama Governor Defends, However, State's Right to Regulate Intrastate Traffic.

New York, Nov. 22.—"Confiscatory rates made by a state are as bad as predatory rates made by railroads. Under neither can there be that equality of opportunity which all our institutions try to preserve."

So declared Governor Emmet O'Neal of Alabama in an address tonight at the annual dinner of the Railway Business association here. Governor O'Neal, however, strongly defended the right of the states to regulate intrastate commerce.

"To deny to a state the right to regulate rates on intrastate shipments," said the governor, "would be to enthrone the railroad above the state or any other power, expose its citizens to an unrestricted and unlimited taxation for private gain and involve the destruction of sovereignty. Looking broadly to the general interests of society, it would be better even for the railroads to have unjust laws if there were no other alternative than to have the right of the state to regulate its internal affairs in this regard impaired or utterly destroyed. If the right to regulate intrastate rates reasonably does not reside in the state, it resides nowhere."

Condemns Predatory Legislation.

Governor O'Neal had declared that the law-making power should approach the subject of railroad regulation "in no spirit of passion or prejudice," and carefully avoid crippling great enterprises or impairing their utility. Alluding to his home commonwealth, he said:

"I feel grieved that my own state, lately the theater of a desperate political struggle between the people and the railroads, has through its dominant political party made a declaration of policy on which both the people and the railroads can with justice to themselves and to each other stand. We favor legislation which will safeguard the rights of the public as against such corporations, but condemn any legislative attempts to cripple such corporations by enactments which are harsh, retaliatory or inspired by a spirit of hostility."

"That same spirit of hostility was manifested in Alabama when a law was enacted which denied railroad corporations under the threat of forfeiture of their charters the right to appeal from the state to the federal courts. I denounced such a law then as unconstitutional, because it denied to foreign railroad corporations engaged in business in Alabama the equal protection of the laws—a position which was subsequently confirmed by the United States court of last resort and which law during my administration was stricken from our statute books."

Railroad Official's View.

"Railway legislation has reached a point where the government has become in a very large measure responsible for the adequacy of railroad service and must live up to that responsibility in order to protect and promote the transportation service," declared Walker D. Hines, chairman of the executive committee of the Acheson, Topeka & Santa Fe railway.

"The railroads are in the hands of the government more than ever before and are steadily getting more completely into that position," said Mr. Hines. "The rates which railroad companies can charge are almost wholly controlled by the governments, federal and state. The operating expenses of the railroads are being steadily increased through governmental action, for example, by reducing the hours of service of railroad employees, increasing the size of the crews required to operate trains, increasing the liabilities for injuries to employees, and prescribing the compensation to be paid to injured employees. Moreover, the laws are requiring increased capital expenditures for more expensive cars, for greatly increased expense with a view to promoting the public safety."

"I am not criticizing these conditions. I am merely stating the facts. The upper and nether millstones are getting very close together. Doubtless much must be done in the way of rendering railroad service safer and better, and doubtless changes in rate adjustments need to be made, but these things cannot be done without due regard to the permanent requirements that a way must be left for the railroads to raise the money to perform the improved and extended service which the public demands. You cannot reduce rates and ignore the question of the ability to meet existing and prospective expenses, and you cannot increase operating expenses or capital expenditures and ignore the question where the money is to come from."

"I believe that governmental agencies are coming more and more to appreciate this grave responsibility. But a tremendous and increasing work must be done in keeping the facts clearly before all governmental agencies."

360 MILES IN A DRESSING GOWN

The opening of the catalogues which arrive by post affords bookbuyers some exciting moments. Charles Monselet, in his "Curiosities, Litteraires," tells of a friend of his living at Bordeaux, who, glancing through a Paris bookseller's catalogue, saw the title of a book which he had vainly sought for thirty years. Looking at the clock he found there was just time to catch the morning express for Paris. Stopping only to take some money from his cash-box, he dashed off to the station and arrived at the bookshop in time to secure the prize. As he wrapped up the book the shopman remarked, "If I suppose you live in this street, Monsieur?" "No, I have just come from Bordeaux," was the reply. The plan looked astounded, and the bibliophile discovered that, in his eagerness he had traveled 360 miles in dressing gown and slippers and had never noticed any deficiency of attire.—London Chronicle.

Mining News

CALUMET & HECLA.

One of the most surprising bits of mining news that percolates its way from the underground workings of the Calumet & Hecla mine is the information that the Osceola lode of the Calumet & Hecla mine itself is of late showing a gradual, steady improvement, writes Homer A. Guck, in two of the shafts where the Osceola lode is being mined extensively the higher grade rock that is going to surface is commented on by many of the miners. In fact this improved showing in the Osceola formation is so at variance with precedent in the district that it is a good deal of a surprise.

The Osceola lode, he it known, is a very peculiar formation. It does not carry enough copper to warrant opening on such an elaborate scale as the richest Lake Superior lodes can often be operated. The lode, in places will be very wide and will carry a copper vein rock the full width of the formation, sometimes spreading out to fifty feet. Then in other places it will diminish in size to a couple of feet and the copper contents in this very narrow section of the formation will not be any richer than in the full width forty-foot vein. To mine such a formation by carrying drifts and stopes to full width means a substantial loss in mining costs, for the amount of poor rock that would have to be broken would eat up the profit.

Early in the history of the formation as first opened by the late Captain John Daniell at the old Osceola branch of what is now the Osceola Consolidated, it was found that there was but one profitable vein to mine the Osceola lode and that was by following the copper, regardless of narrow openings. The same policy has been followed by the Calumet & Hecla management in the development of the lode on their property. Strange to say, practically all of the richness which has recently come to the surface from this formation in the Calumet has been found in the footwall. There continues to be a dispute among mining men well acquainted with the characteristics of the formation as to whether it is better to follow the foot of the hanging wall or the hanging wall itself. The fact that the lode is moving better than anticipated in the Calumet property is most encouraging, both to the Osceola and the Wolverine. The old mine has not yet been reopened and while the shaft repair work has been completed it is believed that no attempt will be made to work this section of the Osceola property again unless metal is selling at better than the present price. The Wolverine company is exploring the Osceola formation with results which have not as yet proven satisfactory.

ANACONDA.

The cost of hoisting ore in the mines of the district under control of the Anaconda company is twenty cents a ton by steam, and under the system of compressed air the cost of hoisting is but three cents a ton, making a saving of seventeen cents a ton, writes a Butte correspondent. This means an immense saving, and it can be easily seen why the company is using electricity for working the pumps, ore hauling underground and everything else where motive power is required. When the company has all its mines equipped with the necessary apparatus for hoisting ore by compressed air it will be seen that the saving will be sufficient to play a very important part in the big reduction in costs which the company has stated will be brought about under the merger.

At the present time, but three mines are equipped for hoisting ore under compressed air system, but the next eight months will witness practically every mine of importance in the district under the new system, and this will mean a saving of seventeen cents a ton on the 10,000 tons of ore sent each day to the smelter at Anaconda. When the underground electric cars are at work in the different mines hauling ore to be hoisted to the surface, there will be another big saving, as it is estimated that the care and feed of the mules and horses are costing at least twice as much as will be the electric cars.

If the Anaconda company is putting copper down in New York today at nine cents or slightly under, within a year from now, by the use of electricity for hoisting ore and for underground hauling, it is a fair estimate that copper will be produced and placed on the New York market at somewhat under eight cents, if not at seven cents. Undoubtedly the introduction of electricity in the mines is going to bring about a revolution in the cost of operating.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR.

President A. B. Wolvin of the Butte & Superior company says that 400 tons of ore are being treated at the Basin Reduction works every day and that the net returns will go over $35,000 a month. He says that the new concentrator will handle 400 tons a day and with the new machinery to be installed and new modern methods for handling the ore, the net returns will be considerably increased. A few days ago B. H. Dunshie and J. C. Adams, assistant general superintendents of the Anaconda company, inspected the Butte & Superior mine. They made a very thorough examination of the underground workings and reported that by measurements taken it was estimated that there are now blocked out over 2,000,000 tons of zinc ore. The two Anaconda officials were accompanied on their tour of inspection by President Wolvin.

CALUMET & ARIZONA.

Two new strikes of much importance have recently been made by the Calumet & Arizona company in exploration work. One of these strikes shows oxide ore further south than it has ever before been encountered in the district. The other strike is in sulphides and is in pioneer country. The first of the strikes was made from a working of the Briggs and is 900 feet south of the shaft. It is in the direction of the Dorr lode and is the first in that direction that any oxides have been encountered. Sulphides are found in that direction and the country is considered the highest mineralized of any of the Calumet & Arizona territory. The workings there have been seldom or never in rock, but always in ore or leached matter. It is far away from the developed territory of the camp and the encountering of these oxides that run 7 per cent copper in this country is deemed a matter of no inconsiderable importance. It was on the 1,300 level of the Briggs that a drift ran into those oxides and is still in them. The discovery is too recent to determine the extent of the ore body, but has gone far enough to show some thing of its importance. The second strike is also in pioneer country. In this case the ore found is sulphide in character and it is from the country in which it is found that its importance arises. This country is practically unexplored and may well be termed a virgin territory. It is 10 per cent sulphides, and its high grade values have been highly pleasing to the company. It was in working from the Junction toward the Briggs, that this new ore body was encountered. Heretofore there has been no drifting in that direction and the strike referred to was made about midway between the Junction and the Briggs, a little nearer the latter shaft. The drift is now twenty feet into these sulphides and the ore body is thus far continuous and high grade.

THE STRANGE MUTTON BIRD.

Its Homing Instinct and Remarkable Regularity of All Its Actions.

There are some virgin spaces in the world yet. There is Stewart Island, for example, in the South Pacific south of New Zealand. Although only fifteen miles from the mainland its rocky promontories and stupendous headlands are still the haunt of primitive nature. Only the boom of the southern surf and the cry of the wheeling sea birds. That is all for eleven months of the year. In the twelfth a portion of that virgin solitude is ruthlessly disturbed. The quiet, sooty and shelly beaches of the island become a shambles, running with innocent blood while man, the master butcher, conducts an orgy of slaughter.

For Stewart Island and the group of rocky land specks that surround it are the home of that marvelous migrant, the sooty or short-tailed petrel, a brownish black bird about the size of an English wood pigeon, scientifically classed as Puffinus brevicaudus, but popularly known throughout Australasia as the mutton bird, because of a faint resemblance between its cooked flesh and mutton.

THE WORTH OF PLANTS.

What Each Produces and the Proportion of Soil Strength Consumed.

Some interesting statistics have been gathered by Professor Strakosch of Vienna as the result of his exhaustive study of the plants which are of economic importance—that is to say, the vegetables, cereals, etc., which are of value to the human race—Strakosch has assembled them, so to speak, in his agricultural laboratory and determined with definite accuracy their efficiency as workers for man.

In other words, he has considered them as if they were so many workers of the farm, ascertaining by a series of painstaking experiments just how much each one costs for its keep and how much it produces. The result in each case has been to find out how much of value it takes from the soil in order to accomplish the result. This learned, it is easy enough to strike a balance and to determine the amount of clear profit, or loss, which each plant produces. The so-called economic plants are the workers that create wealth for the human race. By their efforts we are fed and supported. It is of obvious importance, therefore, that we should know which of them are the most efficient, and in capable, producing the largest output, in terms of value, for the least expenditure.

It appears from Strakosch's figures that the most efficient of all economic plants is the Jerusalem artichoke. This justly valued vegetable produces on an acre of good land about 7,127 pounds of starch and other digestible substances. It takes from the soil incidentally 826 worth of material. But the difference between consumption and production, in terms of value, is $116.

One might imagine that the potato would be away up at the head of the list, but it is not so. The beet comes next with an output of 6,384 pounds of digestible substances to the acre, taking $41 worth of material out of the soil and yielding a clear balance of $112. Third in order is corn, which produces 4,663 pounds of digestible substances, consuming $17 worth of material and giving a balance on the credit side of $108 for the acre.

These, then, are the three most efficient economic plants—the best workers for man. The potato is fourth on the list. Taking $4 worth of material out of the soil for each acre planted it yields 4,449 pounds of digestible substances (nearly all starch) and shows a balance of $72 on the credit side. Rice gives 2,254 pounds, taking $5 worth from the land and allowing a balance of $45.

It is perfectly safe at all times and dispels colds, headaches and the pains caused by indigestion and constipation so promptly and effectively that it is the one perfect family laxative which gives satisfaction to all and is recommended by millions of families who have used it and who have personal knowledge of its excellence.

Its wonderful popularity, however, has led unscrupulous dealers to offer imitations which act unsatisfactorily. homes, for innocents to be hatched for slaughter.

The birds in their nest-building operations work with the regularity and precision of human beings and with a great deal more industry than many human beings employ. The first thing they do is to clean out the old nests, which are holes in the ground, arranged in symmetrical fashion and covering miles of ground. Holes that have been filled up are excavated again; those too wet are extended into drier ground by side channels. Thus a single opening in a nest may have three or four side passages. The depth of the nesting holes is regulated by the depth of the soil overlying the rock; but they are never very deep, since their direction is horizontal and tortuous after the birds have burrowed a few inches below the surface of the soil.

So wonderfully is the homing instinct developed in the mutton bird that each pair of birds rear their young in the same nest year after year. Identical markings on young birds reared in the same hole during successive seasons have proved this remarkable fact.

When the nests are cleared out the renovated homes are lined with leaves. During the cleaning and nest making, which is done by both male and female, the birds go without food. Then they flock out to sea, catching fish until about Nov. 25, when the laying of eggs commences. The remarkable regularity which characterizes the mutton bird in all its actions during the breeding season is now again strikingly manifested.

The female birds all lay on or about the same day and at the same time. Some of the mutton bird catchers actually assert that all the birds lay exactly on the same day, but such unanimity seems hardly possible. It is probable, however, that the laying season is compressed within the limits of two or three days at the most, for the belated birds that arrive at Stewart Island after the laying season has started invariably drop their eggs into the sea.

Each hen bird lays one large, white egg with a semi-transparent shell, which is hatched in about four weeks. At first the young bird is a mere ball of down and quite helpless. It remains in the nest until about the beginning of April, by which time it is enormously fat.

The old bird steps feeding the young bird about the middle of April, and the youngster is soon driven from the nest by hunger in search of food, to offer itself a helpless sacrifice to the Maori destroyer, for it leaves the nest quite unable to fly and flops fatly about. It is at this stage of its existence that the young mutton birds are caught for the Australian market, for though the birds in the nest are keenly relished by Maoris, who salt them and send them to their friends as a rare delicacy, they are much too rank then for the European palate.

About the middle of April the old mutton birds migrate to the North. The young ones follow as soon as they are able to fly. About the end of May thousands of young ones may be seen flapping clumsily round and round the island, learning to fly before embarking on their first great migration. In a day or so they wing their way strongly northward in the wake of their parents, those which have escaped the great annual slaughter, which commences some weeks before this. The islands known as mutton bird islands are claimed by different Maori families, who, during April and the early part of May go and live upon these small tempest-swept dots of earth rocks in the great Southern Pacific.

The brown Aesopian sweeps down on the mutton bird island at night-time, lighting himself thereto with unconscious irony by the flare of a torch dipped in mutton bird oil. The butchery of the young birds is a pitiful sight. The fat, frightened, foolish floggings are easily caught and are killed with a blow of a stout stick. In the old days the more ferocious short-gorged savage killed the young bird by a crouching of its skull between his strong white teeth, but the Maori is civilized now, or possibly the modern Maori has not such strong teeth as his forbears.—London Evening Standard.

THE WORTH OF PLANTS.

What Each Produces and the Proportion of Soil Strength Consumed.

Some interesting statistics have been gathered by Professor Strakosch of Vienna as the result of his exhaustive study of the plants which are of economic importance—that is to say, the vegetables, cereals, etc., which are of value to the human race—Strakosch has assembled them, so to speak, in his agricultural laboratory and determined with definite accuracy their efficiency as workers for man.

In other words, he has considered them as if they were so many workers of the farm, ascertaining by a series of painstaking experiments just how much each one costs for its keep and how much it produces. The result in each case has been to find out how much of value it takes from the soil in order to accomplish the result. This learned, it is easy enough to strike a balance and to determine the amount of clear profit, or loss, which each plant produces. The so-called economic plants are the workers that create wealth for the human race. By their efforts we are fed and supported. It is of obvious importance, therefore, that we should know which of them are the most efficient, and in capable, producing the largest output, in terms of value, for the least expenditure.

It appears from Strakosch's figures that the most efficient of all economic plants is the Jerusalem artichoke. In the course of years one miller's flour came to far outsell the rest.

The demand grew and grew, until that miller's flour fed 24,000,000 folks daily.

The winning flour is Gold Medal.

Millions of women, watching millions of bakings, came to demand that flour.

The reason lies here:
We built our own test kitchen.

Day after day, year after year, we learned the requirements of perfect flour. We learned the wheat that makes it.

Now we grind that wheat through 20 sets of rolls. Now we sift it through 110 silk cloths.

And the flour that results has won millions and millions to

RADIUM'S PLACE IN SURGERY.

Prominent Surgeons Finding It of Value as a Post-Operative Adjuvant.

Recent experiences in the use of radium have led a number of surgeons to the conclusion that the element is of more value as a post-operative adjuvant in surgery than as a primary agent for the destruction of malignant growths. In commenting on this conclusion, the Medical Record says:

"The Dominion Medical Monthly contains an article by W. H. B. Atkins and F. C. Harrison, Toronto, on the use of radium, and particularly with regard to their experience in its employment. Perhaps the most instructive part of this paper is that which refers to post-operative prophylaxis.

"It is pointed out that Louis Wickham of Paris, in his most recent publications, insists strongly on the association of radium with surgery. He claims that in many instances the radium rays will turn an inoperable case into an operable one, and that after operation for malignant disease, when, no matter how extensive the dissection, one can never be sure of having removed all the cancerous tissues, radium should be used as a prophylactic measure in order to destroy any stray neoplastic cells.

"Atkins and Harrison state that in three cases they have applied treatment in this manner, two of the cases being sarcomas and the other a carcinoma. In one of the sarcoma cases, a man sixty-one years of age was operated on in May, 1908. A very extensive dissection was done in London, England, in August, 1910, and six days after this operation the patient went to Paris, where radium applications were made by Wickham for a period extending over three weeks. In October, 1910, he was given in Toronto another thorough radiation over the field of operation, and particularly at points where the scar tissue was in excess.

"Atkins and Harrison appear to take the view held by Wickham, that it is unwise to etch too much for the therapeutic properties of radium. That it is valuable in certain forms of malignant and other diseases is known, and it is especially of use as an adjuvant to the knife.

"Radium therapy is scarcely yet out of its swaddling clothes, but, judging

LEAVE WILD TRIBES ALONE.

Native Philippine Writer Asks That His "Uncivilized" Brothers Be Allowed to Develop.

The word "tribe" has several shades of meanings and as applied to the Philippines it is not separated into tribes possessing distinctive tribal descent. With a few unimportant exceptions, there are no very definite lines of separation, or specially marked characteristics, between tribe and tribe. The most that can be said is that they are geographical tribes of more or less common racial descent.

Of the 60,000,000 inhabitants classified by General Sanger as "wild and uncivilized," probably two-fifths are Moros, or Mohammedans; the remaining three-fifths being "pagans"—to use Professor Blumentritt's designation—and therefore within the compass of his chapter. Of these non-Christian and non-Mohammedan peoples, the most interesting, from an ethnological point of view, are the Negritos, while the Igorrotes are by far the most important.

The most important question of all, however, is: How are these people to be brought under civilization?

There is but one way; it is an easy way. It is Nature's way, and is this: Leave them alone. Set an example if you will, but leave them to work out their way. Set an example, may be an example in righteousness, in self-sacrifice, in high-mindedness, in magnanimity, in probity in small things as in great—and these people will desire your civilization. They will live it just in proportion as you live it. By degrees, step by step, as the conditions permit, they will adopt it. Each step thus taken will necessitate a new adjustment, and will produce a change in their nature. Thus by continuous interaction of environment and nature the process of development will proceed. This is Nature's way; it is infinitely superior to any method that the wisdom of man can devise.

The Filipinos were a civilized people when Spain went to the islands, and they simply exchanged one form of civilization for another. Civilization—that is, real civilization—is not a matter of outward form. It has nothing to do with the clothes you wear or the house you live in or the extent of your worldly possessions. It is the degree of moral and intellectual attainment. True, there are certain material accessories and refinements, but these accessories are not the thing itself. You would not civilize a savage simply by dressing him in fine clothes and by giving him a mansion and a bank balance. Conversely, a civilized man would still be civilized even though he became penniless. It was the Filipinos, at the time when Spain came to the islands, were as high in the scale of civilization as Spain herself—in some things higher. They had a written language; they had schools in every town and village; they had manufactures of their fabrics, internal and external commerce; they had a feudal government, part of which remains in form and part in name at the present time; their laws relating to slavery were superior to anything ever enacted in the civilized world, being in favor of the slave and not of the master. It was, therefore, a simple and natural thing for them to exchange the outward forms of their own civilization for those of the European. In some respects they were the losers, but in adopting the Spanish language, and in thus finding an avenue to European literature, they gained an advantage which their own degree of civilization enabled them to make use of.

In this connection, it may be asked: Did any people civilize Japan? Or, has she become civilized only within the last thirty or forty years? It is hard to think so. Japan's own degree of civilization has enabled her, within a short space of time, to adopt many of the arts, and methods of European civilization, with, in some cases, doubtful advantage to herself.

Let us hear, then, the conclusion of the whole matter, writes Sixto Lopez, a highly educated Philippine citizen, in the Philippine Free Press. Owing to the enormous advance in the facilities of world intercommunication, it is unnecessary for the Filipinos to have a resident tutor. We may have many things to learn and many things to adopt. Intercommunication will amply suffice—we can go abroad, we can welcome the good of every nation to our shores, we can learn as Japan has learned, without suffering the loss of national life and self-respect. And inasmuch as the resident tutor has brought, and cannot help bringing, a host of evils which blight and demoralize our uncivilized tribes, it were far better that he should withdraw. The initial wrong of taking our country in the cause of all our subsidiary ills. The only cure for these ills is the righting of that initial wrong. The greater will include the lesser—the cure is bound up with the cause.

ICE CREAM MADE FROM SOUR MILK.

Inventive Dane "Doctors Up" Product Until It Deceives the Palate.

Some half dozen years ago there was a young college educated Dane living in Sioux City, Ia., who had a mania for experimenting with sour milk drinks. While in college he became acquainted with the famous theory of McChalkoff that the prolongation of life depends largely on the introduction into the system of plenty of the bacilli found in sour milk.

Pampered on sweets, however, the young American has a prejudice against the sweets which have "spoiled" and so hurries pell-mell into a grave which might have been barricaded behind a sour milk can.

This young, inventive Dane was not slow in discovering another national tendency. The American will partake of things with a relish if he does not know for sure what they are. So he set about to doctor up his sour milk drinks with fruit juices, and flavoring extracts, working all the time toward a beverage which should contain the healthful bacteria without the—American—unpalatable flavor.

It was not long until the little workshop of the Dane was the Mecca of men who knew a good thing when they tasted it. Railroad and traveling men had a habit of looking forward to spend Sunday in Sioux City and dropping into the shop of the Dane, and incidentally, to quaff some of his pleasing beverages. They never associated their better health with the drinks, but were content to tickle their palates with the various and sundry colored and flavored concoctions, the like of which no man, not foreign born, had ever tasted.

That was the genesis of lacto, the new frozen dairy product which has recently come upon the market, and which is nothing more or less than ice cream made from sour milk. Doesn't sound a bit good, does it? Well, that is what several score college professors, college students and ordinary garden-variety beings in the round Ames said a few months ago. And so Professor M. M. M. and the young Dane of the Sioux City experiments, now head of the dairy department of Iowa State Agricultural college, set about to show them how little they really knew about this particular subject. He set his dairy students to making lacto and he sent it about the campus and even down to Ames for sampling. Some he told, but others he left in peaceful ignorance. All he asked was that they take a taste and let him know, honestly and truly, just what they thought of the stuff. This was the result: Out of 179 persons who sampled lacto, 128 pronounced it very good, thirty-seven good, six fair and eight poor. Comparing it with common vanilla ice cream, 111 reported that they preferred lacto, nine considered it equal to ice cream and fifty-nine preferred ice cream. Comparing lacto to sherbet, 123 preferred lacto, thirty preferred sherbet and twenty-six considered lacto equal to sherbet. The Dane was beginning to be vindicated.

Lacto is skimmed milk, which has been soured by a commercial lactic acid culture, combined with eggs and fruit flavors and frozen to the consistency of ice cream.—Technical World Magazine.

SHIPMENT OF ORE IS ABOUT AT END

Hartford's Last Consignment Goes Forward Today—South Shore Had Busy Season.

Today marks the beginning of the end of the year's ore shipping season in Negaunee. The South Shore railroad takes its last load from the Hartford mine today, and it is expected that before the week is over shipments will practically cease.

Navigation on Lake Superior is fast drawing to a close, as is seen by the fact that the last boats are now in Marquette harbor or en route to that port. The Northwestern will continue to ship to Escanaba for some time yet. This has been an especially busy season for the South Shore railroad. Some of the most valuable cargoes, and especially the Breitung properties, have shipped heavier than ever before. The prospects are that after this each successive season for some years will bring even extra business to the railroad.

There are still a number of boats to be loaded at Marquette, and as soon as these vessels have cleared the work of loading these boats is a slow job, owing to the frozen condition of the ore. At the mines and stockpiles less trouble is experienced. The ore is not as badly frozen here as it is elsewhere on the range. Reports from Escanaba show that shipping there has been subject to much interference the past week, on account of frozen ore, both in the cars and in the pockets of the docks. Neither here nor at Marquette have the conditions been so annoying.

Handling ore trains the past week or so has been a troublesome job, owing to the snow and cold weather. All freight trains have been late, and much extra expense has been entailed, due to the loss of time and the necessity of bringing additional engines and equipment into use. Winter railroading in this territory is always hard, and the sudden coming of the snow this year has made it a most unusual difficulty. Handling and hauling snow were begun earlier by over a month this year than in normal seasons. Trainloads of snow have been removed from the yards since last week's storm.

WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT.

Former Secretary Is Honored by State Dental Examiners.

A Negaunee dentist, who wishes his name withheld for reasons of his own, was highly honored at the meeting of the state board of dental examiners at Lansing last week. For some time he has been the secretary of the board, but at the recent meeting he was elected president for the coming term. However his term of membership expires at the close of the year, and he is a candidate for reappointment. He is receiving strong support from the dentists of this part of the state, also from the officers and instructors of the state university, of which he is a graduate, as well as his fellow members on the board.

At the last meeting, twenty-three candidates took examinations for state certificates in dentistry, which allows them to practice. Seven of the number failed to pass. Seventeen junior students of the university took examinations in their junior work. These candidates have the privilege of taking final examinations for a practitioners' certificate at the end of their courses.

While in lower Michigan the Negaunee dentist witnessed the Michigan-Pennsylvania football game at Ann Arbor last Saturday. In this game Michigan won by a score of 11 to 9, but the doctor claims that Pennsylvania had the better team. Neither of the doctors, he says, was as good as those which contested in the Michigan-Minnesota game last year.

For a good time go to the Elite roller rink. Skating, dancing and skating for the one admission. 11-23-1d

PLACE GROWING RAPIDLY.

Many Negaunee People Have Purchased Property at Duluth's Steel Town.

H. M. Blair, representing A. K. Kuehnow of Duluth, the owner of the property in "Norton's Steel Plant division," a new settlement nine miles from Duluth, was here yesterday, on business. He and his agent, Joseph Verellone of this city, have been busy the past few weeks, interesting Negaunee people with the prospect of a new steel plant, and have already sold lots to a number of persons here. Anyone who is interested and has an honest intention of buying property will be taken to the site and returned at the expense of the land agents. Every Saturday night M. Verellone takes a party of prospective buyers to Duluth, and has sold property to these parties at the rate of five lots a week.

Since William Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, announced positively, at a banquet tendered him by the businessmen and merchants of Duluth, that a $30,000,000 steel plant, for the manufacture of all kinds of heavy steel products, would be built at the site owned by the corporation, there has been a tremendous boom in real estate. In addition to the steel plant, which will be one of the greatest in the world, a large cement factory will be built, a factory having a capacity of ten thousand barrels of cement a day and costing over two and one-half million dollars. The erection of these plants has been started and is well under way, and it is expected that within a year the steel plant will be in commission. In the address referred to, Mr. Farrell predicted a great future for Duluth.

The property which Mr. Blair is selling is in the best possible location adjacent to the steel plant, and building has already commenced there. Since the sale of land, mostly thirty building lots have been erected, mostly homes for people who have procured employment in the building of the plant. Some Negaunee people who have purchased land have done so with an idea that in the future they will go there to work. Others have bought it as a good investment in valuable real estate.

HAS TOURED ABROAD.

Roller Skater Harley Davidson Has Won Various Athletic Honors.

Harley Davidson, world's champion roller skater, who will be at the Palace rink all next week, is an all-around athlete and has been awarded prizes in every quarter of the globe. He has made great records in boxing, lacrosse, bicycling and running. He is not only a champion on roller skates, but has won distinctions as an ice skater. He won his world's title in London, at the Olympian rink, where he was awarded a purse of $2,000 and a diamond medal valued at $500 for his victory over all contestants.

On this occasion 150 skaters were pitted against him, and his competitors required sixteen rinks in which to qualify for the final race. There were fourteen thousand spectators in attendance, said to be the largest crowd that ever witnessed a roller skating fete. Subsequent to this contest, he toured Europe and the British Isles, breaking records and winning victories wherever he traveled. At the Riverview Park rink, in Chicago, in 1907, Mr. Davidson won two medals and a cup and was presented with a purse of $3,000 at a contest, where he skated one mile in two minutes and thirty-seven seconds, and two miles in five minutes and twenty-five and four-fifths seconds. These are the fastest records of their kind ever achieved on a regulation track.

NEGAUNEE GIRL HONORED.

Miss Hannah Benyas Won Freshman Honors at Lawrence College.

Miss Hannah Benyas, daughter of Simon Benyas, who formerly lived in this city, has won the Normal Brokaw scholarship at Lawrence college. The family now resides at Appleton, Wis. When they lived in Negaunee, Mr. Benyas was a merchant. Under an Appleton headline, the Escanaba Press publishes the following:

"The three scholarships, each of which are worth $100, are awarded to freshmen on the basis of a competitive examination, held a few days after the opening of the fall semester, in the high school subjects of English, Latin and Mathematics. All students regularly matriculated in the college as freshmen without entrance examination or condition, and enrolled as members in the above classes, are eligible to participate in the competition. Miss Hannah Benyas, who won the Norman Brokaw scholarship, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Benyas, of this city. She was born in Pennsylvania, but received her early education in the schools of Negaunee, Mich., and the first ward school of Appleton, graduating from the Appleton high school with honorable mention."

AT THE LABOR TEMPLE.

There will be dance at the Labor Temple tonight, given by the Socialist party. On Thanksgiving day, two meals will be served under auspices of the Socialist party. They will be Thanksgiving dinners, one at noon and one at 6 o'clock in the evening. There will be a charge of fifty cents for each and a person can take both meals for seventy-five cents.

To rearrange the committee plans to serve from 150 to 200 people this year. Last year at an event of the same kind 175 people were served. Since then the Labor Temple following has grown considerably. The menus for each meal will include turkey, meats, dressings, vegetables and a dessert of pies and puddings. The tables will be laid in the restaurant downstairs. William Risto and wife, who act as stewards, at the temple, are planning for the feast. Mrs. Henriekson has been engaged to do the cooking. An order has already been placed for twenty five turkeys. The public is invited to the dinner.

PUBLIC IS MORE EXTRAVAGANT

One Who Has Given Some Study to Cost of Living Problem Believes That High Grocery Bills Are Largely Result of Fastidious Taste of the People.

Luxuries Consumed in Larger Quantities Than Ever Before and People Will Have Them Regardless of Price—Weights and Measures Law Dead Letter.

With the higher cost of provisions and the mounting fuel bills as the winter comes on, the "cost of living" problem assumes more serious proportions than in the summer time, when work is plentiful and the family larger can be eked out with vegetables from the back yard garden. Indications are that eatables of all kinds will be as expensive as last year, and some of the staple articles, coffee and sugar for example, are considerably higher than a year ago. For this reason the cost of living problem is being discussed in many Marquette homes these days.

One local philosopher, who has given considerable study to this problem, has decided that the extravagance of American people is in large measure responsible for the economic condition of which everybody is complaining. "People are continually wishing themselves back to the days when a man could live and keep his family well on $10 a week," he says yesterday, "but the fact of the matter is that these people could get along just as well on the salaries they get now as did their forefathers, if they were only willing to economize and live as their fathers did. I am not advocating going back to the days of our fathers, but I am convinced that the problem of living is becoming more acute every day fully as much by reason of the growing extravagance of the present generation as on account of the increased cost of certain kinds of provisions.

Luxuries Are High.

"Loud complaint is made now about the advance in coffee, for which a fabulous sum is spent every year, and yet in no sense is it a necessity or a good thing, although I confess that for me there is no substitute that fills the bill except, 'Another cup, please.' Yet a better beverage can be made of cereal at a cost of only three cents a pound.

"Then there is the rise in sugar. The average consumption of sugar in this country is $5 for each inhabitant. If that amount could be reduced to $1 per capita we would have much less about kidney diseases, but like the coffee habit, people are accustomed to use lots of sugar, and they are going to continue to use it, no matter what it costs.

"One reason for the increased size of the monthly grocery bill is that people nowadays want everything delivered to them in fancy packages. There is little demand for bulk goods of any kind, in spite of the fact that the package article cost twice as much as the same amount in bulk. We get a nickel's worth of olives, in a twenty cent bottle, and surely our breakfast foods cost less than the boxes that contain them.

"So it is all along the line. By sitting down with an open mind and figuring it all out, you will find that it is the price of luxuries that have advanced most sharply in recent years, and yet the public will continue to use these luxuries, many of which are recognized to be positively injurious to health, no matter what they cost. It isn't fair to compare the cost of living today with that of twenty years ago unless you also take into consideration that people in those days bought more economically and had less extravagant tastes than the people of today. With the exception of meats of which again people are eating far more than is good for them and butter and eggs, my investigations have shown that the cost of the necessities of life is not so much higher than it used to be.

Weights and Measures Law.

"To illustrate my point that people buy less carefully than in the days gone by, I noticed the other day that a boy back in 1846 the state of Michigan passed an act making the state treasurer the official sealer of weights and measures for the state, the county clerk for each county and the township clerk for each township. Each and everyone of these officials is required to have in his possession weights and measures conforming to the state weights and measures. The state has the necessary weights and measures in great array, with all the necessary equipment to tell exactly whether a pound is a pound or a quart a quart.

"The old law goes into details relative to the method of defending the people against under weights and scant measures, prescribes fees for inspecting scales and prescribes a penalty for any official sealer who fails in the performance of his duty. While the law is now out of date, the point is that there are no requests to have it enforced, although investigations of a few of the large cities have shown that people are being defrauded by short weight scales and small sized measures most shamefully. If the public was really in earnest in its desire to decrease the cost of living, it seems to me that they would see to it that when they brought a pound, or a bushel, or a gallon, they knew they were getting what they paid for.

"One or twice a year some one applies to the state treasurer for a test of weights and the array of testing balances and brass weights is handed forth from the cupboard; the remainder of the time the fine apparatus is idle while so far as is known only two or three counties in the state have their official weights and measures and it is not known that any township clerk makes annual pilgrimage among the corner stores of his township as the law prescribes to see that the scales in those establishments are up to the standard.

"The law authorizes county and township clerks to buy the official seals in case the supervisors and township boards fail to furnish them.

Duties of Sealers.

"The real astonishing feature of the proposition, however, is that some enterprising township clerk has not taken advantage of the terms of the act which has been in existence over a half century, to add a little to his income from his office. The law prescribes that he shall put up written notices in three public places once each year, notifying the people that he can be found at a certain place to seal such of their great and small scales, beams, weight and measures as they bring to them. The act also authorizes the clerk to charge three cents for each scale weight or measure not found conforming to the standard and two cents each found to be standard. He is also directed to visit each store and liquor shop and examine their scales, weights and measures, charging double the fee he does for those brought to him. The law authorizes the use of 'vibrating steel yards,' a weighing contrivance better known twenty or fifty years ago than now.

"Just how much penalty the counties have lost is a question of some magnitude. It specially provides that each sealer may be fined $5 for each failure to perform his duty, and as only two or three counties pay any attention to the matter, there are a whole lot of county and township officials, who, having never heard of the law are amenable to fines for failure to enforce it.

STATE NEEDS BUREAU OF AGRICULTURE

Detroit Board of Commerce Has Joined in Movement to Boost Farm Lands.

Along with the Upper Peninsula Development bureau and the Western Michigan Development bureau, the Detroit Board of Commerce has joined hands in a movement to promote the agricultural development of Michigan. The Detroit businessmen are committed to the belief that the best work in this direction can be accomplished by establishing a state agricultural department. Endorsing such a department, Milton A. McRae, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, is quoted as follows:

"The agitation for a state commissioner of agriculture is crystallizing into an insistent demand. Every day new points of view present themselves which impress upon the minds of every thinking man, the various needs of such a department in our state government. The woeful ignorance of people not familiar with agricultural conditions of the possibilities and opportunities, the state of Michigan holds accounts for the present under-development of Michigan's most valuable resource, namely, her farm lands.

Secretary Wilson's Opinion.

"James Wilson, secretary of the agricultural department, was the guest of the Detroit Board of Commerce on his trip to the upper peninsula for a period of five days on the steamer City of Cleveland. While riding with him in an automobile in the country adjacent to cities in the upper peninsula, he said unqualifiedly that there were unlimited possibilities for agriculture even in the upper peninsula. This may strike some as startling when they consider that the great statesman, Henry Clay, said on the floor of the United States senate, that no one, in his judgment, but the men who inhabited the moon would live in the section of the country we now call the upper peninsula. Secretary Wilson said that the state of Michigan, in an agricultural sense, would be just what the people made it, that its possibilities were unlimited.

"We should not forget the old maxim 'Familiarity breeds contempt' and that we are apt to overlook what is near us and invaluable and feast our eyes on things far away, following the illusion that 'Distance lends enchantment.' The Thumb district of Michigan is a prototype for every man who disbelieves in Michigan agriculture. That country was a vast forest of stumps forty or fifty years ago, having previously been covered with pine. Today it is undoubtedly one of the finest dairy countries in the United States, and there are still thousands of acres of stumpe land in the state of Michigan which can be reclaimed, drained and made most profitable.

"The crying need of Michigan then, is to give the people of the state awakened to the opportunities that are literally knocking at their individual doors, to stimulate interest, and this interest having been aroused, to provide means of scientifically educating the individual in order that he may obtain results commensurate with the progress of modern science. The Michigan Agricultural college is a splendid institution doing a wonderful work, but its scope is too limited. We must broaden the field, bring the results of scientific endeavor to every individual and not limit them to the young man who has three or four years in which to educate himself for scientific agriculture. A state agricultural commissioner will do this.

He will do more. He will put Michigan back where it belongs, as one of the leading agricultural states in the union. Every schoolhouse in Michigan should be inculcating the idea that tilling the soil is not only an honorable vocation but a most profitable one."

SPEAKERS FROM UNIVERSITY. Will Be Sent Out This Winter to Cities Where Requested.

Alumni and friends of the University of Michigan will perhaps recall that last March the regents of the university voted to devote $10,000 to the work of university extension, carrying the university to those throughout the state who could not come to it. Something in the way of extension work was done by the university last year, and it will be remembered that President Hutchins toured the upper peninsula and gave a talk in this city.

Since that time plans have been formulated to this end, lectures have been selected from among the different faculties, and those subjects which will be of greatest interest to the greatest number of people have been selected. These lecturers are to go wherever in Michigan there shall come a call for them. The only expense to the city, town or village which shall ask for these lectures is that the local expenses be paid—that is, the expense of the hall, lighting, etc. The University of Michigan assumes all other expense in this extension work.

That this plan is to be received gratefully throughout the state is manifest from the letters that have come to the university even now, before the matter has been entirely arranged for. The work now is being considered by the deans of the different departments. The plan as yet is not fully perfected, but it will be very shortly, and then a pamphlet descriptive of the lectures will be published for general circulation. The university extension course will give in all 200 lectures of the scope so wide that it would seem the particular need of every village, town or city of Michigan would be met.

AFTER LIQUOR DEALERS.

Several Ishpeming Saloon Men Charged with Selling to Minors.

No less than eight cases, alleging violation on the part of certain Ishpeming saloon keepers of the liquor laws in having sold intoxicants to minors, were filed yesterday in circuit court, and will come up for hearing at the December term of court. The defendants in every case have been bound over to circuit court by Municipal Judge West, of Ishpeming. Four of the eight cases are brought against Omie Kangas, the defendant being accused of having sold to four different boys, seventeen and eighteen years of age. Two cases are brought against Waldmar Whittala, for the same alleged offense, and in two other cases that go to make up the eight, the liquor dealer in the toils is Oscar Salien.

These cases indicate that the officers of Ishpeming are determined to wipe out the illegal practice of selling liquor to boys under the age of twenty-one, and the arrests already made are likely to cause the liquor dealers in all parts of the county to be more than usually inquisitive as to the age of a young man who applies for a drink at the bar. Judge Flammigan has repeatedly ruled that an excuse that the dealer thought the youth had attained his majority will not be accepted in his court, the law placing the responsibility in this matter, on the saloon keeper.

Two other criminal cases were filed in the prosecuting attorney yesterday, both alleging abandonment. The defendants in these cases are John Pigott and James Jeffrey, both of Ishpeming.

INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK.

At a recent meeting of the Lake Superior Land company, of which P. P. Chase, of Negaunee, is president, and F. M. Moore, of this city, secretary, it was voted to increase the capital stock of the company from $80,000 to $500,000. None of the additional stock has been issued as yet and all of it is not likely to be issued for many years.

The Lake Superior Land company was organized to take over certain lands in Marquette county, which are thought to be valuable because of undiscovered mineral deposits. Most of the lands now under the control of the company are located north and west of Ishpeming, in close proximity to what is known as the North Lake district. The purpose in increasing the capitalization is to induce the owners of other lands to pool their interests with the Lake Superior Land company in order to hasten the development of the entire property. The company does not intend to sell any stock, but will issue income bonds or stock in return for lands pooled with the company.

It has been found that the development of mineral lands has been frequently retarded by the multiplicity of interests in the properties. As long as mineral lands remain under individual ownership there is the possibility of legal controversies, some of which have prevented exploratory work for years, while the matters at issue were being threshed out in the courts. By getting together and pooling interests in a corporation the promoters of the Lake Superior Land company believe that better results for all concerned can be accomplished.
