PRICE FIVE CENTS.

COL. ROOSEVELT AND HIS FRIENDS OPENED FOR PLAINTIFF YESTERDAY

R. R. Was First Witness Called to Stand When Court Convened, and in Characteristic Manner and With Clicking Phrases Denied, in Detail and in Toto, Editor Newell's Charge That He Is a Drinking Man.

Contentions That He Is Wholly Abstemious Supported by Jacob Riis, Drs. Lambert and Rixey and by Gilson Gardner—Witnesses for Plaintiff Likely to Be on Stand for Two More Days—Trial Devoid of Sensations.

The case of Roosevelt vs. Newell was fully launched yesterday, when the attorneys for the plaintiff put before the jury the testimony of five of their principal witnesses and the contents of two positions.

The star witness was, of course, Colonel Roosevelt himself, who opened the testimony for the plaintiff immediately following Mr. Pound's remarks to the jury. His examination and cross-examination required something less than two hours. He was followed on the stand by Jacob Riis, of New York, Dr. Alexander Lambert, of New York, Dr. Press Rixey, of Washington, D. C., former surgeon general of the United States army, and Gilson Gardner, of Washington, D. C., correspondent of the New York Enterprise association. Between the testimony of Dr. Rixey and Mr. Gardner, the testimony of the defendant's witnesses, Mr. Murphy and Bevan, of Chicago.

O'Laughlin On Stand Today.

Callan O'Laughlin, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, was called to the stand late yesterday afternoon, but as the hour lacked a few minutes of 5 o'clock it was decided to adjourn until this morning at 9 o'clock, when Mr. O'Laughlin will be tried.

The direct testimony for the plaintiff was, it is said, completed today, and there every likelihood that it will be well into Thursday before the main witnesses will be heard. There perhaps a dozen of them still to take stand, and if all the examinations as protracted as those of yesterday will require the better part of two days to get in their testimony.

It appeared to be the general opinion of the cross-examinations of the witnesses for the plaintiff yesterday failed to weaken materially the effect of their direct testimony. Gilson Gardner, who examined Colonel Roosevelt on his return from Europe on his return from Africa, was a particularly effective witness for the plaintiff, and the cross-examination strengthened the impression made. Dr. Lambert was another witness from whom the defendant's attorneys got little satisfaction. Rixey spoke in a low tone of voice, but with difficulty both in hearing the attorneys and making himself heard. Dr. Riis afforded Mr. Andrews some satisfaction because he did not know anything about Colonel Roosevelt, taking a few brandy in milk at times, a thing which Roosevelt had previously testified to.

The cross-examination of Colonel Roosevelt was principally devoted to showing that he had kept figures in his head in the White House. But as the White House was concerned, Colonel Roosevelt was making it clear to the jury that he had kept figures in his head in a manner from that of his predecessor.

The cross-examination of the defendant developed the battle of wits it was expected to produce.

No Sensational Developments.

Indeed so far the trial principally has been notable for the sensations it has developed. The proceedings are interesting in a degree, and are followed with undiminished attention, but so far have not turned up anything very sensational.

The report of the case will be well filled with notices of exceptions, many were taken in the course of the opening remarks of Mr. Pound, and if somewhat rising temperature that he had the attitude of the opposing attorneys while this formality to the examination of witnesses was in progress continued to go up the thermometer of the court room would have shown at ninety in the shade at the close of the afternoon session.

Both Mr. Belden and Mr. Andrews' emphatic exception to the tone of Mr. Pound's opening remarks, protesting that they were more in the nature of speech than a simple setting forth of the testimony for the plaintiff forced to prove. Judge Flannigan was a few minutes busy holding the attorneys in leash, and ruling on objections. But when the opening remarks came out of the way the strain between attorneys relaxed considerably, and the remainder of the day's proceedings was calm and even. For the plaintiff, except for occasional consultations, the case was entirely in the hands of Mr. Pound. His methods are direct his tactics not subtle. He relies on the weight of the evidence to impress the jury, it appears. For the defendant, Mr. Andrews, who sat by Monday while Belden examined the witnesses, carried the burden of the work yesterday, though Mr. Belden participated in insidious objections. Mr. Andrews is a subtle than his principal opponent, has a smooth and carefully modulated voice, an ingratiating smile and times an insinuating manner that if arising in the case becomes hot will, may safely be predicted, warm some of the witnesses in the neighborhood of roasting. Mr. Andrews is an adroit examiner, and draws liberal profits on his skill at suggestion and the art of putting things between the lines.

The Judge's Rulings.

Through the address of Mr. Pound Judge Flannigan ruled almost consistently with the defense, but when the examination of witnesses began on most points raised he held with the attorneys for the plaintiff. This had the effect of letting in considerable testimony to which the attorneys for the defense objected, and many exceptions were taken in the course of the day's work.

Mr. Pound's opening remarks were: "Gentlemen of the jury, the plaintiff in this case is a native of New York, which has, in fact, been his home the major portion of his life. He has had the same uneventful life that the average city boy has, but when he reached the dignity of manhood, the age of which has been set for one thousand years by the English lawyers, and he was permitted to assume full citizenship, he was called upon to disfigure and to execute sundry and diverse trusts reposed in him as a representative of the people, in the first place of his native state, and the people of the United States afterwards. The highest gift given any American citizen was placed upon his shoulders by a great majority.

"Now then, gentlemen of the jury, when he had discharged his duties as president of the United States, and became again a plain American citizen this time, what he had occasion to go to do was to go to the state of Wisconsin, in the city of Milwaukee, at a time when he faced a very serious crisis, he was apprized of the fact that the defendant in this case had published of and concerning him, what he himself and what I claim, his representative, a wicked base, malicious and unjustified libel.

"Now, gentlemen of the jury, it was the defendant in this case, who at the hands of the plaintiff, when he was in power, had subjected to Mr. Andrews, counsel for defense. Objection sustained.

"I say the defendant was without any justification. He must have been in a condition of mind where he did not have the fear of God before him.

"Gentlemen, the man who represents the plaintiff in this case is not a man with a faint heart, but of strong heart, and of noble aim.

"Then, without justification, this libel was maliciously made, and it will appear in this case that this man did not know anything of the facts that he was charged at the time, and that he has continued in the position he assumed by attempting to justify this base fabrication."

Roosevelt a Witness.

Colonel Roosevelt's story was told with little assistance from counsel. When the colonel reached the body of the narrative he had to present to the jury, Mr. Pound's questions merely served to touch the trigger for concisely blocked out statements dealing with his early life, his services in public office, his personal habits and the regimen at the White House when he presided at the head of the table in the White House dining room.

For several minutes, almost without break, the colonel would present important decisions of his testimony to the jury, biting off many of his phrases in characteristic manner, occasionally revealing to the audience some of the sources of his famous sayings, using his hands freely in vigorous, if restrained, gestures, his color gradually mounting as he warmed to his work. He talked directly to the jury, as the persons most concerned with the story he was telling. He had the closest attention of every man in the box, as well of the audience that filled the court room floor and galleries.

Cross-Examination Mild.

The counsel for the defense handled Colonel Roosevelt gingerly. There were but few tilts in which the colonel figured, and in them the colonel showed complete willingness to meet the opposing attorneys' attack and parry. The cross-examination lacked the vigor that many persons expected it would have. Where it related to the colonel's personal habits, Mr. Andrews did not force his attack as aggressively as it was perhaps generally thought he would, and the cross-examination was concluded in comparatively short time.

Colonel Roosevelt was excused from the stand long enough before noon to permit the completion of the testimony

Boston, 1-5; New York, 0-2.
Boston, May 27.—Boston won both games of a double-header from New York today, forcing the Giants into fifth place. The game was decided in an unusual way. In the ninth, Maranville singled and went to second on Myers' sacrifice. Connelly followed with a single, but an accurate throw by Shafer retired Maranville at the plate. Connelly took second. Sweeney then singled to right, dropping his bat as he ran. Connelly raced for home. Right Fielder

GRASSHOPPER ARMY IN ROOSEVELT COUNTY, N. M., IS STRIPPING LAND BARE.

Clovis, N. M., May 27.—The great army of grasshoppers which yesterday invaded New Mexico on the east today reached Elida, Roosevelt county, where the army is twenty miles long and four miles deep and the grasshoppers are literally stripping the country in their path. They are moving westward across the central part of the state at the rate of a mile a day. Growing crops already have been totally destroyed by the grasshoppers and the range bared of grass.

FIRE IN OKLAHOMA DUE TO PECULIAR CAUSE MAY CAUSE FOUR DEATHS.

Kiefer, Okla., May 27.—Eight persons were injured, four probably fatally, and six houses and a lumber yard were destroyed by fire here today. A tank containing five hundred gallons of gasoline had been hauled on a wagon and before it could be unloaded the horses became frightened, ran away and overturned the tank. The gasoline ran down the street and was ignited by the forge in a nearby blacksmith shop, from which the flames spread. Four men who were in the shop were engulfed by the flames and have little chance for recovery. The other persons injured suffered burns while fighting the fire.

WORKMAN, OVERALLS CAUGHT, MEETS A HORRIBLE DEATH ON BATTLESHIP NEW YORK.

New York, May 27.—Imprisoned between the platform and the flooring of a gun carriage on the forward turret of the battleship New York in the Brooklyn navy yards today, Frank Duffy, a contract workman, watched the breach end of a six-inch gun slowly descend upon him, realizing that he was about to die. Laborers did not hear Duffy's muffled cry in time to operate the stopping lever from above and his head was crushed, instantly killing him. He was adjusting machinery and his overalls caught on a projecting bar when he tried to scurry from beneath the gun.

MODERN WM. TELL HAS DEADLY AIM

German Student Who Shoots at Beer Mug on Head Instantly Kills Comrade.

Halle, Germany, May 27.—A fatal imitation of William Tell's arrow shot at the apple on his son's head was given by two university students here today. A student named Krusskopf, who was with some of his comrades in a beer garden, placed a beer mug on his head and another student shot at it with a revolver. The ball struck Krusskopf in the center of the forehead, killing him instantly.

FUR SEALS IN ALASKA ARE TO BE ROUNDED UP AND COUNTED BY CENSUS-TAKERS.

Washington, May 27.—The United States government is about to take a census of the fur seal herd in Alaska. Secretary Rodfield, of the department of commerce, it was announced today, has appointed enumerators to corner the elusive seals and ascertain their number, age and condition. Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department today offered his assistance in the task by instructing the commander of the Behring sea revenue cutter fleet to place a revenue cutter at the disposal of the enumerators in their visit from one polygamous fur seal family to another.

STANGE'S WILD THROWS DISASTROUS TO TIGERS; ATHLETICS BEAT SENATORS TWICE IN EASY STYLE; GIANTS DROP DOUBLE-HEADER TO THE BOSTON TEAM; LOSE ONE GAME WHEN THROWN BALL HITS A BAT.

In the first game, Washington was helped by Plank. The veteran allowed but two singles. Hughes was batted from the box in the fifth inning of the second game, but Altrock, who succeeded him, checked the Athletics.

STORY TOLD TO MR. ROOSEVELT TRUE, HE SAYS

Former President Not Deceived by Steel Corporation Officials When the Proposed Absorption of the Tennessee Company Was Discussed at the White House.

So Thos. W. Joyce of Morgan & Co. Testifies—Books Showed Trotter Brokerage Firm of Moore & Schley Did Hold Ma- jority of the Coal & Iron Stock.

New York, May 27.—Testimony to prove that Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, and H. C. Frick, a director, did not deceive President Roosevelt, as alleged by the government, when they told him it was necessary for the corporation to take over the Tennessee Coal & Iron company in order to stop the panic of 1907, was introduced by the defense today in the government's suit to dissolve the corporations as an illegal combination. The testimony was given by Thomas W. Joyce, a security clerk in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co.

What the Books Showed.

According to the government complaint, Messrs. Gary and Frick misrepresented the facts when they told President Roosevelt that the brokerage firm of Moore & Schley had among its effects a majority of the stock of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company and that the firm would fail and the panic be accentuated unless the stock pledged as collateral for loans was exchanged for bonds of the United States Steel corporation. It was not true, the complaint stated, that Moore & Schley had an amount of the stock approximating a majority.

What the Books Showed.

Today Mr. Joyce testified that on Sunday, Nov. 3, 1907, the day before Messrs. Gary and Frick went to Washington to see the president, he had made an examination of Moore & Schley's books at the direction of Mr. Morgan and found that firm had 157,000 shares out of the Tennessee company's total outstanding stocks of 298,000, of which only twenty-six thousand were not tied up in collateral pledged for loans. He said he had reported to Mr. Morgan at the meeting of financiers held that night at the Morgan library and that, Morgan had said: "Those figures agree with what I have been told."

What the Books Showed.

Judge Gary followed Mr. Joyce on the stand, but after testifying briefly concerning the organization and growth of the Illinois Steel company, of which he was a director in the early days of the steel industry, he was excused until tomorrow. It is expected he will be on the stand for several days.

The manual training school at Calumet is one of the finest in the country. Mr. Diemer has not yet accepted the Calumet schools an answer. At the close of the present school year, Mr. Diemer will leave for England to join Mrs. Diemer at Bristol, where she has been for some months. He will spend the summer in studying manual training in the schools of various European cities.

HEALTH A FACTOR IN SUCCESS. The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his work is regular—he is never well when they are constant. For constipation you will find nothing so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by All Dealers.

ITALIAN DESPERADO CAUGHT. Meinardi, Formerly of the Copper Country, Arrested in Italy. The different Italian colonies in the copper country are somewhat excited over the recent arrest in Italy of Savino Meinardi, the man who shot Frank Perri, formerly of Hancock, in California several months ago. Meinardi made his escape to Italy, where it is alleged he was wanted for playing a leading part in more than one murder before coming to America with the reported intention of escaping the authorities of his native land.

HANCOCK COUNCIL MATTERS. City Assessment Totals More Than Three Million—Yearly Budget.

According to a report of the board of review to the city council, there is in Hancock taxable property totaling $3,280,810. The annual appropriation bill to meet the running expenses of the city for the coming year provides for the raising of $50,000.

CLARE DAMAGE SUIT. An opportunity presents itself to settle the suit brought against the city by Mrs. Robert Clark for damages for the loss of her husband's life while in the city's employ. The suit probably can be settled out of court and the mayor has appointed a committee of six, besides the city attorney, to confer with Mrs. Clark and her attorneys.

OLD WOOD CAUSES SINKING. Discovery that Leaks are Not Responsible for Sidewalk Depressions. The Houghton village officials have had the water main at the corner of Sheldon and Huron streets uncovered to discover the cause of the sinking of the pavement and sidewalk at that point. The original theory was that the sinking was due to leaks in the village water mains, but the investigation showed that this was not the real cause.

TELEPHONE TEAM WINS. Pounds Opposing Pitchers for 23 Hits in Sunday's Game. The team representing the Michigan State Telephone company's Houghton plant easily defeated a nine representing the Scheurman brewery Sunday morning. The telephone team claims his record for the season is 15 to 5. The scorer for the opposing pitcher for two-and-a-half hours, while his own twirler was touched up for seven. The steal of third base by Lee of the brewers while the bases were full was one of the features of the game.

OPPOSED TO TRADING STAMPS. Secretary of Association Says Discount System Is Better. Trading stamps have made their appearance in the copper country and it was reported yesterday the agents had succeeded in installing the system in one store in Hancock.

SUCCESSFUL DEMONSTRATION. Robert Manderfeld Shows His Cultivator to Farm Experts. Robert Manderfeld last Sunday at Manville farm made a demonstration of his recently invented cultivator in the presence of a number of men prominent in agricultural affairs. Among these present were John C. Mann, proprietor of Maunville farm; F. W. Deaton, one of the most enthusiastic gentleman farmers of the county; John A. MARKETS. WALL STREET STOCKS. Paine, Webber & Co. wired from New York yesterday as follows: The burden of taxation is a problem that always has been and must be seriously reckoned with. Many railroads are taxed with increased expense of operation and the added cost of an expensive basis of security requirements with the limitation placed on their earning capacity by legislation makes a complex situation especially to those railroads whose stock sells below par.

MANY CITIES SEEKING TO BE BANK CENTERS. Currency Geography Disturbs the Administration—Other Washington Gossip. Washington, May 26.—Geography is playing an embarrassing part in the efforts of the administration to frame a currency bill. One of the most debated problems confronting the currency reformers is whether to establish fifteen or twenty, or whether six or eight, regional banking associations. Every section is demanding that it be made a financial center and the administration will be glad to honor it, if politics were the only consideration. But it is discovered that if the regional banking associations should be spread out so thin as to cover all the small spots, some of them might find themselves located alongside independent banks which would be larger in every way than the creature of the new currency law.

Schultz Brown Botle Scientists Praise It. WAHL-HEINZ INSTITUTE FERMENTOLOGY. April 1, 1911. Mr. Alfred Uihlein, Milwaukee, Wis. Dear Sir: Answering your favor of recent date in regard to the influence of light on the quality of beer, will say that our observations, extending over the last twenty-five years, have convinced us beyond a doubt that exposure of beer to light has a very detrimental influence on its quality generally, but especially upon the flavor of the beer. We have tested beers repeatedly in this direction placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed. The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are therefore recommendable. Yours very truly, R.W.B. Schultz & Co. The beer in the white glass bottle had taken on disagreeable odor and taste and was absolutely undrinkable. The beer in the dark bottles did not show this peculiar odor and taste. It is interesting to note the observation that beer in colorless bottles exposed to diffused light will undergo a change, precipitating a heavy sediment and taking on a disagreeable odor and taste. It is a known fact that sunlight and daylight influence unfavorably the taste and flavor of the beer and care must be exercised in the selection of the bottles. Order a Case Today. Ray Zerbel will leave this evening for Chicago and Indianapolis. He will attend the annual automobile races to be held in the latter city.

The regular meeting of Mary L. Markham court, No. 57, of Superior live, No. 17, L. O. P. M. M., will be held Thursday at 3 p. m. in Fraternity Hall.

The Ladies' auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will give a dancing party this evening in Bureau's Hall. Klammert's band will furnish music.

The union barber shops of the city will remain open Thursday evening until 11 o'clock and will be closed all day Friday, Decoration Day, a legal holiday.

The Dorkas society of the Swedish Baptist church will give a cake and ice cream social this evening at 8 o'clock. Coffee, cake and ice cream will be served.

C. V. R. Townsend and wife, Mrs. E. W. Adams and J. M. Perkins and wife, of Negaunee, made up a party of outside visitors who attended the Roosevelt-Newton trial yesterday in Marquette.

C. C. Wiggins, head of the commercial department of the Negaunee High school, spent Monday afternoon in Marquette. During his stay he visited the commercial department of the Marquette High school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Maitland and daughter, Miss Rena Maitland, and Miss Horton of Negaunee, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Maitland, of Deadwood, S. D., who are visiting them, spent yesterday in attendance at the Newell-Roosevelt trial in Marquette.

C. A. Hager and niece, Miss Marion, left last evening for Chicago, on their way South, where they will meet Master George Hager, who will return with them from Staunton, Va., where he has been attending the Staunton Military academy the last year.

The date on the coming wedding of Clifford LaFave, a well-known traveling agent of this city, and Miss Mary Vezma, of Negaunee, has been announced as next Monday morning. The ceremony will be performed in St. Paul's Catholic church, Negaunee, at 7:30 a. m.

James Reidy, of Duluth, of Reidy Bros., formerly lumbermen in this part of the upper peninsula, spent Monday visiting acquaintances in Marquette. He came to this city from Baraga and vicinity, where he estimated some timber lands for the Nester Estate.

Dr. Alexander Lambert, the Roosevelt family physician, who came here with Colonel Roosevelt to testify in the Roosevelt-Newton trial, left last evening for his home in New York city, having been called away on professional business. He testified in the case yesterday.

Among those who obtained excellent pictures of incidents and persons connected with the Roosevelt-Newton libel suit is Ed C. Lemon, the Marquette photographer, who carried his camera to the court room yesterday and obtained a fine picture of the jury seated in its box.

A "basket picnic" will be given Decoration Day at the Town and Country club. The event will mark the opening of the golf season. A golf tournament for the men will be held in the afternoon, and there will be a golf for the women. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock and will be followed by an informal dancing party.

Miss Louise Harwood, daughter of Henry Harwood, of Ishpeming, was taken ill yesterday in this city and had to return to her home. Miss Harwood is a student at the Normal. Her many friends hope that the illness, which appears to have nervous causes, will not be lasting and that she may return shortly to resume her work. Miss Harwood will be graduated from the life certificate course this June.

Sixty-five women, members of the organization, were present at the ten-cent tea conducted at the Methodist church yesterday afternoon by the Ladies' Aid society. The collection amounted to $10. This sum was awarded to Circle No. 4, that department of the society being represented by a larger attendance of its membership than any of the others. Mesdames E. C. Quarters and M. A. Smith are the leaders of the winning circle.

South Shore Won—The South Shore Tigers defeated the Marquette High school team in a baseball game played Tuesday afternoon on Longyear field. The score was 6 to 4. The battery for the South Shore team was Thomas and Reynolds; for the high school, Morrison, Corbett and Murray.

New Officer—A new officer appeared last evening on the up-town beat. Upon inquiry it was found that three months ago the police commission had met Monday evening and had suspended officer Peter Epper, whom former Mayor Jacobs had appointed when the matter of increasing the down-town night force was discussed early in the winter. Frank Matt, a likely-looking "lucky" young chap, having all the typical physical requirements of a patrolman, was the unanimous choice of the commissioners as a successor to Mr. Epper. The latter was appointed without the approval of Marshal Manning, and after he had previously been discharged from the force for cause.

Telephone Girls' Ball—The fifteen operators of the Michigan State Telephone company's Marquette exchange will give their annual ball Monday evening, June 23. Invitations will be sent out in a few days. The party is to be held at the Marquette hotel and orchestra will furnish the music.

Water Is Safe—William Johnston, superintendent of the city water works, has received a report of the analysis of a sample of city water taken from a centrally located tap May 21. The chemist pronounces the water as safe for drinking purposes, the test shows it to be in better condition, generally speaking, than for months past.

Young Wife Dies—Marquette friends of Vincent Shorkey, of Two Harbors, Minn., son of Homer Shorkey and brother of William Shorkey, of this city, were grieved yesterday to hear of the death of his twenty-year-old wife yesterday at her home, the young woman passing away after a brief illness. The couple would have been married two years in June Mrs. Shorkey, who was a Two Harbors girl, was Miss Billings before her marriage. She leaves a father, two sisters and one brother. Homer and William Shorkey left last evening to attend the funeral and expect to be absent from the city four or five days.

Menace to Navigation—Owners of small pleasure craft report that the operation of dismantling the old No. 4 South Shore ore dock is causing a large amount of floating debris to be dumped into the harbor, and that while much of this can have no effect on the larger craft it jeopardizes the safety of small boats. The debris is principally in the form of small planks or splinters of timbers, many of them having driven through them large spikes, some as long as ten inches. Should any of the larger pieces happen in the path of a small launch at night, the impact would be sufficient to cause serious disablement. The owners of launches believe that the railway authorities have no knowledge of these conditions, but that once their attention is attracted to them they will rectify matters.

Week-end Excursions—The Munising, Marquette & Southeastern railway has commenced advertising Saturday and Sunday excursions to the several terminals of its line. The round-trip rate on these days to Ishpeming and Negaunee and return is fifty cents. Round-trip tickets to Birch and return will sell on Saturdays and Sundays for seventy-five cents. The round-trip rate to either Big Bay, Munising or Princeton on Saturdays and Sundays will be $1. Tickets to Ishpeming, Negaunee, Birch and Big Bay will be good for return until Sunday night. The return limit on tickets to Munising and Princeton is Monday morning. The Sunday train for Ishpeming and Negaunee will leave Marquette at 10:15 a. m.; for Birch and Big Bay and return, at 8:50 a. m.; for Munising and Princeton, at 8:45 a. m. On Saturdays the trains will run on regular schedule time, except that a special will leave Marquette at 12:30 p. m., for Birch and Big Bay on that day.

Theatrical

Lottie Kendall in the Cast.

Marquette theater goes on Friday and Saturday evening with a remarkable cast of stagefolk in Henry W. Savage's revived production of "The Prince of Pilsen," to be presented tomorrow evening at the opera house. Among the notables whose names are to appear on the program is Lottie Kendall, a well-known musical comedy star, who for several seasons featured the title role of "Alma, Where Do You Live." All who have seen this play will readily remember the vivacious and beautiful "Alma," as portrayed by Miss Kendall. Her work really originated the success of "Alma." In "The Prince of Pilsen," Miss Kendall is cast in the role of the dashing widow. Miss Kendall is the possessor of a remarkably full and powerful mezzo-soprano voice. Miss Edna Pendleton, a comedienne of the "dainty" type, will be seen as "Nellie," the brewer's daughter. "Sidonia," the French maid of "The Prince of Pilsen," will be interpreted by Miss Norma Brown, a clever dancer. Fred Lyons will be seen in the tenor role of "Lieutenant Wagner." Of the old, original supporting cast but one actor remains, and this is Miss Dorothy Delmore, as "Jimmie," the diminutive bell-boy. "Jess Dandy," the German dialect comedian, is the leading attraction, after Miss Kendall, and will be cast as "Hans Wagner," the ridiculous German brewer from "Zinzinnati."

VAUDEVILLE-MOTION PICTURES.

The Last of Vaudeville.

Marquette theater goes on Friday and Saturday evening will see the last of vaudeville, at least for the present, as on Monday, June 2, the opera house is to replace its excellent vaudeville service with Kinetograph motion pictures.

For the last program the management has booked a novel act. Miss Ida Bernes, a singing and dancing comedienne, will be the entertainer. Her performance will differ greatly from anything that has previously been seen here, as she will introduce cabaret features now popular in the theaters and cafes of the larger cities. Part of her sketch is played down among the spectators, and a large part, at that. As Miss Bernes reserves the details of her performance as a surprise, the act promises to be one of the most interesting the house has presented in many weeks.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Greenland Township School District, Greenland, Mich., until 2 o'clock p. m., June 10, 1913, for the construction of a building of four school buildings; one at Greenland, Mich., one at Mass, Mich., and two one-room rural buildings, according to plans and specifications prepared by Derrick Hubert, architect, Menominee, Mich., bids to be received on each of the Greenland and on the Mass schools separate, and on the two small schools in one bid, or separate; bids on the plumbing and heating for the two large schools will also be received separately. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for 2 per cent, must accompany each bid, to be made payable to the secretary of the Greenland Township Schools, Dr. F. J. Larned, to be forfeited to the Greenland Township Schools if the bidder fails to enter into contract after same has been awarded to him.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of Dr. F. J. Larned, Greenland, Mich., or may be obtained from the architect at $10 for the general plans and $5 for the plumbing and heating plans, which will be refunded upon safe return of plans and specifications. The Greenland Township School District reserves the right to reject any or all bids. (Signed) Dr. F. J. LARNED, Secretary. 5-28-9t-e.o.d.

BIG RAILROAD IN FINANCIAL STRAITS

Federal Court Appoints Receivers for the St. Louis & San Francisco Company.

St. Louis, May 27.—Thomas H. West, chairman of board of directors of the St. Louis Trust company, and B. L. Winchell, president of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad company, were appointed receivers for the railroad in the federal district court here this afternoon. The appointment of the receivers here took place about an hour after the appointment of ancillary receivers for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, a subsidiary of the Frisco, by the United States district court in Chicago. The ancillary receivers are William J. Jackson, vice president of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and Edwin W. Winers of New York.

The application here was made to Circuit Judge Walter H. Sanborn, who came here from St. Paul, by the North American company, which is said to be a creditor of the Frisco to the extent of $400,000. A receivership was urged as the only solution of the financial difficulties of the road by James Campbell, of St. Louis, president of that company. The immediate cause of the receivership was the maturing on June 1 of short time notes issued by the railroad for $2,550,000 and which bear 5 per cent interest. The financial difficulties of the railroad are of long standing and are attributed in part to the Southwestern floods of 1911 and 1912, in which the railroad sustained severe losses; to the extreme wages of railway employees, and to the high price of money.

Stocks Slump in the Market.

New York, May 27.—An event long foreshadowed in financial railroad circles—the proposed institution of receivership proceedings against the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad companies—was the outstanding feature of today's stock market.

Long before announcement of the proposed receivership was known, the common and preferred shares of the "Frisco" system were being liquidated, as well as the 4 per cent. refunding bonds and the 5 per cent. general lien bonds. The latter declined eight points, the four per cent. and three-fourths, the first preferred stock seven and the second preferred three and one-half, these quotations representing the maximum losses.

Events of the Day in Court as Recounted by the Associated Press.

Marquette, May 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, a picture of ruddy vigor and perfect health, turned a square head and a square jaw in the direction of twelve farmers, teamsters, miners and workmen in court here today and gave his character for sobriety as "not a total abstainer" but never intoxicated in his life. Testimony by others who followed corroborated such a description of abstemiousness.

If the sturdy-looking man who spent seven years of his life in performing the duties of president of the United States saw anything curious in his position of explaining to the twelve simple toilers of the woods and the mines that he was not really a drunkard, as charged in an alleged libelous editorial by the defendant, George A. Newett, his confidence did not betray it, nor hid his manner.

"At public dinners I sometimes drink a glass of champagne, perhaps two; on an average I may say one glass of champagne a month," said the colonel.

And Drank It in Public.

The witness snipped his words out in his peculiar distinct, choppy enunciation, and added, after a momentary pause, with emphasis, "and I do that in public."

"There was a fine bed of mint at the White House," continued the witness. Then his eyes sparkled, and he said: "I may have drunk half a dozen pint juleps in a year."

A tight supply of wine and liquor was taken on the African expedition and also a bottle of brandy was taken along for the colonel. The physician of the outfit measured it out to him from time to time for chills or other reasons.

"I touched nothing else in the eleven months," continued the witness, "and the doctor, apparently out of a whim, at the end of the trip measured what was left and I found that I had consumed just seven ounces."

Horace Andrews, of the defense, devoted little time to cross-examination. Mr. Andrews' manner is suavely itself.

Colonel Roosevelt was a tractable witness, and Mr. Andrews made no great attempt to change his testimony.

Detests Whiskey and Beer.

The witness expressed a detestation for whiskey and beer. Of the latter he could remember having taken only one mouthful in his life. That was at the Deutscher club in Milwaukee, where he was urged to pay the tribute of a swallow of the amber brew which formed one of the city's leading industries. As for whiskey, he got it mostly under protest upon insistence of his doctors who put a teaspoonful of it in goblets of milk which they sometimes press upon him on occasions of extreme fatigue in the midst of political campaigns.

In short, the colonel's testimony showed that he drank liquor or wine only when compelled to for indisposition or when the conventionalities of public occasions required, except that he takes a glass of light wine, rarely two glasses, with his meals.

Much of the succeeding testimony was introduced to indicate that the plaintiff's physical vigor, his functional perfection, his violence of exercise and his immense capacity for work could not exist in the person of him who "got drunk and that not infrequently" as the alleged libelous editorial in the Iron Ore charged.

Important witnesses on this phase of the examination were Dr. Alexander Lambert, the Roosevelt family's physician and intimate friend of thirty years, and Dr. Rixey, surgeon general, U. S. N., retired, whose official duties during the McKinley and Roosevelt terms of office included little else than to guard the presidential physical well-being. Other witnesses were Jacob Riis and Gilson Gardner, the former a sociologist and writer, and the latter, a newspaperman whose duties for many years compelled him to take close notice of everything pertaining to Colonel Roosevelt.

Dr. Rixey's Testimony.

"He is extremely temperate," testified Dr. Rixey. His heart and liver, which in an alcoholic would be affected, he said, were prodigiously healthy and competent. He never was called upon to treat his friend professionally until he was called to Mercy hospital, Chicago, after Colonel Roosevelt's life had been attempted at Milwaukee. He described the course of the bullet through the ribs, the ghastly wound it caused and the big bruise which covered a considerable part of the patient's right chest.

"None but a very vigorous and healthy man could have stood the shock and loss of blood as did Colonel Roosevelt," he said. "No alcoholic could have rallied as he did." Dr. Rixey gave the plaintiff a clean bill of health.

Gilson Gardner said that he had attended many public functions at which Colonel Roosevelt had been the principal guest and had never seen him under the influence to the slightest degree.

Mr. Riis, asked if the former president had ever been under the influence of liquor in his presence, replied with gusto, "Oh, Lord, no!"

Asked if Mr. Roosevelt used coarse or profane language, the witness replied sharply. "Mr. Roosevelt is a gentleman."

Robert Bacon, James R. Garfield and Gifford Pinchot probably will testify tomorrow, among others.

NEW YORK WOMAN SUFFERS FROM MERCURY TAKEN BY MISTAKE

New York, May 27.—Suffering from the effects of bichloride of mercury taken in mistake for headache medicines, Mrs. Rae Chessman, wife of a druggist, is a patient in a hospital here tonight, her case a parallel to the recent cases in Macon, Ga., and Chicago. In her case, as in that of the Chicago patient, prompt treatment may bring about a recovery.

Mrs. Chessman, twenty-one years old, and the mother of a two months-old baby, took the mercury tablets in the dark. Almost at once she realized her mistake. Her husband gave her whites of eggs as an antidote, pending the arrival of a doctor, who used a stomach pump without delay. She was taken to a hospital conscious and in severe pain.

MR. FLAGLER'S WIDOW GETS BULK OF THE BIG ESTATE.

St. Augustine, Fla., May 27.—The will of Henry M. Flagler was filed here today. To the widow is left the bulk of the $100,000,000 estate. To Harry Flagler, the son, Mr. Flagler left five thousand shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey stock. Among other bequests is that of $100,000 to Hamilton college of Clinton, N. Y. Other colleges mentioned in the will as beneficiaries are cut off by codicils as having been otherwise aided since the will was made.

PUBLISH NUPTIAL BANNIS IS EPISCOPALIAN PLAN.

Chicago, May 27.—The revival of the old custom of publishing the bans for a reasonable period preceding a marriage was proposed today at the annual convention of the Chicago diocese of the Episcopal church. Formal action is scheduled to be taken tomorrow. Dean Walter T. Sumner's plan of requiring a medical examination preceding marriage was indorsed without qualification. A certificate from some reputable physician will be required before Episcopal ministers will unite a couple in marriage.

Paris, May 27.—The chamber of deputies today adopted by a vote of 386 to 165 the proposal of the French government for raising the $88,000,000 necessary to keep the time-expired soldiers for another year with the active army.

ROYAL THEATRE CLOSSES ITS DOORS

Charles E. Skiff Buys Interests of Zema & Herron in the Lyric and Will Run It.

Charles E. Skiff, manager of the Royal moving theater, in the Voelker block, took over the Lyric theater in the Quayle building, on South Main street, and will succeed Zema & Herron, who have conducted the house for nearly a year and a half, in its management. Mr. Zema is to return to his former home in Cleveland, but Mr. Herron has obtained a position in an Ishpeming office and will remain here. The Royal theater has been closed.

The Royal theater has had a rather eventful history. It was opened some six or seven years ago as a moving picture house and it changed hands on an average of once a year during that period, though Mr. Skiff has had control of it for about a year and a half. The Lyric theater was established by D. E. Rice of Hancock, who managed it for a year or more, selling it to Zema & Herron. Within the past few weeks a stage was erected in the Lyric, with the intention of presenting vaudeville in addition to the pictures. They found after two weeks that this did not pay, as the extra expense of the vaudeville was much larger than they anticipated. In addition they found they could not produce vaudeville to advantage because of the limited stage room. The act that is now appearing there, and which will complete its engagement tonight, will be the last of the vaudeville features, and it is Mr. Skiff's intention to run pictures exclusively along the Lyric. In addition the program that is presented at the Royal. He will not tear out the stage for the present, but it is likely that this will be removed later. Mr. Skiff takes immediate possession and Mr. Zema and his family will probably leave the city today or tomorrow.

Some time ago the Homes Store company, occupying the room on the south side of the Voelker block, was very anxious to secure the room occupied by the Royal theater, but it has not yet been decided that the concern will take the place. Mr. Voelker, who has the room, has no applications for the store room at the present and that the Homes Store people have not expressed a desire to procure it since before Christmas. Mr. Skiff had men at work yesterday removing the chairs, and the picture machines will be transferred to the Lyric. The machines that were used at the Lyric were rented and will soon be returned to the owners.

Mr. Skiff is of the opinion that there is room in the city for two picture houses, including the Ishpeming theater, and he is satisfied from his experience the past year that three will not pay. He does not believe anyone else will come and expects the Voelker building will eventually be used for some other purpose. All equipment was owned by the proprietors of the theater. The Lyric has a seating capacity of less than 300, while the Royal has a capacity of less than 250. Mr. Skiff is taking all of his chairs apart and will store them until such time as he has a chance to sell them.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL.

The Epworth league of the First Methodist church will give a complimentary social this evening at 8 o'clock for its members. There will be games, led by P. Leonhardt, and a musical program will be given, after which lunch will be served. The program will be as follows: Selection—Y. M. C. A. Orchestra. Vocal solo—Verna Mohr. Reading—Lorraine Barnaby. Piano solo—Miss Hanby. Vocal solo—Byron Sibley. Selection—Y. M. C. A. Chorus. Selection—Orchestra.

JURY HELD INQUEST.

A coroner's jury yesterday investigated the death of Joseph Farley, of the Salisbury location, returning a verdict that Mr. Farley came to his death by his own hand. The man killed himself with a twelve-gauge shotgun. The jury, which was impaneled by Coroner William Prin, was composed of Rev. Lewis Keast, William Uren, James S. Roberts, William Grenville, David Spencer and William Makki. There were no witnesses to the suicide.

CLEVELAND AVENUE STARTED.

Trebileck Bros., who have the contract for the construction of the concrete gutters on Cleveland avenue and North Main and Canda streets, which are to be macadamized, have started work on the former thoroughfare. The crew also had men at work yesterday, removing a telephone pole stub at the corner of Cleveland avenue and First street. It is the intention to complete the macadam work as soon as possible.

MINE CAR IS COMING.

The government mine rescue car will arrive in Ishpeming Saturday and will remain for three weeks. It will be stationed on the tracks near the office of the Oliver Iron Mining company. The car is now in Ironwood and will leave that city on Friday. After its stay in Ishpeming the car will go to Gwin, where it will remain a week before returning to the Gogebic range.

WILL HAVE A "SALE"

The Ladies Aid society of the Swedish Lutheran Bethany church in this city will have a "sale" in the Scandinavian Hall on Friday afternoon and evening, May 30th. The "sale" begins at 3 o'clock. There will be a large number of articles on exhibition consisting of fancy work, pillow covers, aprons and other useful articles. Ice cream, coffee and cake will also be served during the day. All are invited to attend.

PIANO BARGAIN.

SIR HUMPHREY LODGE TO ADOPT BIG CLASS

Thirty-Five or More Members Will Be Received in Sons Society Tomorrow Night.

The members of Sir Humphrey Davy lodge, Sons of St. George, expect to initiate a class of thirty-five or more candidates tomorrow evening. It is not known just how many will be taken in several of the members who have been working in the interest of the class, have applications in their possession which will not be presented until tomorrow night. It is possible that some of these will be accepted, and, with those who were accepted at last week's meeting will largely increase the membership. One of the members has secured twenty-four applications.

Because of the long session expected, the meeting will be called to order at 7 o'clock. George Tucker of Marquette, who has been a member of the Sir Humphrey Davy lodge for many years, will give an address at the conclusion of the initiation, and it is expected that a few other members from out of the city will be present, as invitations have been sent to a number of the more prominent Sons in the upper peninsula. Among those invited to speak is Senator Frank James of Hancock, who is a past grand president of the organization. Although Mr. James has not notified the committee that he will be here, the members will be very much disappointed if he does not come.

When the class is received there will be approximately 750 members of the Sons of St. George in Ishpeming. Trelawney lodge, which now has the largest membership of any branch in the United States, has a total enrollment of about 450. Trelawney lodge has increased its membership nearly 100 in the past year. Sir Humphrey Davy lodge began a campaign for new members less than two months ago. Its membership will approximate 300, with the new members.

Both of the local lodges will send large delegations to the annual reunion to be held in Hancock in July. It is expected that Trelawney lodge will carry off the honors for the largest proportionate increase in membership of any branch in the state since the last convention. Sir Humphrey Davy lodge will have the honor of having one of its members elected to the presidency this year. William H. Bamford, who has worked up from the outside door, will step into that office at the Hancock meeting without opposition, and Captain Joe Thomas of Ne-ganue will succeed Mr. Bamford as vice president. Sir Humphrey Davy lodge will also have the honor of having one of its members as secretary of the grand lodge. John DeHridge, who was elected last year after a strong fight, will be re-elected without opposition at the forthcoming meeting.

At the conclusion of tonight's meeting there will be a smoker and refreshments will be served. All members of the society in the county are invited to attend the meeting.

GOLD MINE CLOSSES.

Operations at Michigan Property, West of Ishpeming, Suspended Temporarily.

The Michigan gold mine, where underground exploratory operations have been conducted for the last five and a half months, has been closed temporarily. The rock in the workings is exceptional-ly hard and the drifting proceeded slowly. The development work did not furnish sufficient encouragement to continue the work along the lines followed since operations were started. A sufficient quantity of quartz was not taken out to warrant starting the mill.

Morgan M. Wright, who is interested in the property and who has had charge since work was resumed, said yesterday he would remain at the mine for the present and in all probability a new plan of operation will be decided upon at a later date. A force of seventeen was employed in the development work.

"PRINCE OF PILSEN" TONIGHT.

Henry W. Savage's Big Production At Ishpeming Theatre This Evening.

Lovers of musical comedy are promised a treat in the presentation of Henry W. Savage's "Prince of Pilsen" at Ishpeming theatre tonight. Two large baggage cars are required to transport the company's scenery and the troupe numbers some seventy odd people, including an orchestra of eight pieces. A feature of the orchestra will be a pipe organ, which is used instead of a piano. Of the production The Minneapolis Evening Tribune of the 18th, said, in part:

"One of the pleasantest and most interesting events of the present theatrical season in the current engagement of Pixley and Linder's famous musical comedy, 'The Prince of Pilsen' at the Schubert theater this week. Those to whom the theater is simply a place of entertainment will be pleased to learn that Henry W. Savage has lived up to his reputation of making a good production of every 'show' which bears his name, and that principals, chorus, orchestra and scenery are all excellent.

BACK FROM CANADA.

Thomas F. Francis, who left Ishpeming three months ago on a visit to relatives in Canada and the states, has returned. Mr. Francis spent some time in Toronto, going from there to northwestern Ontario, where he visited his son-in-law, Captain Alfred Hendra, who left here more than a year ago to take charge of mining properties. BOY SCOUTS FLY-FIGHTING.

The Boy Scouts of America, 300,000 strong, have been ordered to take the field against the pestiferous house fly in the weekly gazette of the organization issued from the national headquarters in the Fifth avenue building. "Prevent the Fly!" will be one of the slogans of the Boy Scouts from this time forward until the summer is over. A plan has been worked out by George H. Merrill, publication secretary of the organization, under the supervision of James E. West, chief scout executive, whereby the boys will co-operate with the boards of health of towns and cities throughout the country in a campaign to prevent, destroy and root out utterly the winged buzzers who have for centuries been the small boy's rival in intrusions upon the domestic jam.

Cards bearing the motto, "Prevent the Fly," will be sent by thousands to boys throughout the country, giving not only the life history of flies and pictures of the damage they do but also specific instructions as to how they may most effectively be destroyed. First, the Boy Scouts are instructed to "swat the fly," killing of the old ones that lived through the winter or are the first brood of spring, and which can not escape as well as the spry ones. Second, the boys will go scouting for the breeding places of flies, such as stables, garbage cans, and the like, and by cleaning up those places they will do their share in eradicating the national pest. The boys are also urged to get the owners of the stables, sties and other breeding places of flies to sign a contract to keep the places thereafter clean; in the third place the boys are instructed, in case the owners refuse or fail to do so, to notify the proper city authorities.

The plan is to divide each town or city into districts and to assign a troop of scouts to each section.—New York Times.

METHODISTS TO PAY OFF CHURCH DEBT

More Than One-Half the Amount Needed Has Already Been Pledged by Parishoners.

Rev. J. G. Haller, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and other prominent members of the congregation have started a campaign to raise $2,700, which is the amount of the church debt. Unfortunately, Mr. Haller has been taken ill within the past week and will today go to the Ishpeming hospital to submit to a surgical operation. While it is not expected the operation will be serious it is certain Mr. Haller will not be able to resume his church duties for three or four weeks.

Since it was decided to make an effort to raise the money to pay off the debt, Mr. Haller has procured pledges from parishoners amounting to approximately $1,500, in amounts from $5 to $25. Inasmuch as he has been taken ill the pledges for the balance of the sum needed will be obtained by his assistants in the work.

Most of those who signed Mr. Haller's list will pay cash on demand. It is the intention of the pastor and church board to raise all of the money before the end of the conference year, which will be Sept. 1. The $2,700 is the last of the debt incurred when the church building was erected some years ago.

During Rev. Mr. Haller's illness the pulpit will be supplied by different ministers invited from other places. Rev. Mr. Carlyon of the copper country, a former Ishpeming man, has been invited to preach here next Sunday morning and evening.

The men of the congregation will serve a supper in the church basement next Friday evening. Following the supper a short Victrola program will be given by Manager Bellows of Grinnell Bros., music house. The men who will assist in serving the supper will be dressed in white. Ice cream and other refreshments will be served. The charge will

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Domenico Mosca was arraigned before Judge J. D. West yesterday on the charge of assault on the person of Peter Roti. Roti, the complainant, says that Mosca pointed a loaded revolver at him with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder. Mosca will be given a hearing soon.

FOSTERS CORRUPTION, MR. STIMSON THINKS

Former Secretary of War Condemns Rule by Congressional Committee.

Philadelphia, May 27.—Government by congressional committee was condemned tonight by Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war in President Taft's cabinet, as a wretched and impossible system, handicapping efficiency and patriotism and promoting selfishness and corruption.

First aid corrective methods, Mr. Stimson asserted in an address before the Law academy of Philadelphia, may be divided into two classes, fiscal and general legislation, somewhat as follows:

Fiscal legislation—A law should be enacted giving the president the right to introduce into congress a budget of expenses for the coming year as well as proposals of new legislation, if any, through which necessary revenue might be obtained; cabinet officers should be given a statutory right to defend from the floor of the house and the senate the portions of such a budget coming within their respective departments; both houses should be forbidden by law to add items to such a budget, except with the president's concurrence—or the president should be permitted to veto individual items in the appropriation bill.

General legislation—The president should be permitted to introduce bills into congress; these bills should be given preference on the calendar over all other bills except appropriation bills, and amendments to them should be allowed only on the floor of either house; cabinet officers should be given the right to appear on the floor of either house and discuss bills of general legislation so far as they affect their respective departments.

Power to Change Adequate. Of these proposals, Mr. Stimson said: "No one of them would require constitutional amendment with the possible exception of the proposal to give the president the veto power over items in the appropriation bills, and even for the existence of this power there can be made a strong argument from the Constitution. Such power exists today in the state constitution of New York."

Incidentally, Mr. Stimson asserted that President Wilson, by reading his message in the house of representatives, had finely vindicated the theory of co-operation between the legislative and executive departments of government, and made a return to the sound precedent of Washington; but in order to make the reform permanent and effective there is needed the careful construction of machinery by which co-operation will become normal and natural and not dramatic and extraordinary.

At the outset of his speech Mr. Stimson said he wanted to dissent from two methods commonly suggested for remedying the present legislative system. One was that "we don't get good enough men to go to congress"; the other was the referendum as a normal and everyday method of legislation. Of the first method, Mr. Stimson declared his belief that members of congress and the state legislatures were, on the average, fairly representative of the character of American business life about them; the moral standards which they maintain are rather higher than the moral standards of the world about them.

"I believe that the fact that their labors produce ineffective and bad results is due," he continued, "not to any general inferiority of the individual characters but to the fact that they are laboring under a wretched and impossible system—a system which handicaps efficiency and patriotism and promotes selfishness and even corruption."

Styles Referendum Obsolete. As to the referendum, Mr. Stimson begged leave to remind his audience that representative government as a whole "is an evolution produced to meet the problems of a more complex age than the times when the people governed themselves directly. We shall not cure this difficulty by going back to the obsolete machinery of a simpler age."

Mr. Stimson gave instances of the predominance of what he termed the local over the national point of view in congress. Local characteristics of congress pervaded all that it did, he asserted, even down to the minute details of a congressman's work. He deplored the inability of fearless representatives who offended their constituents by subordinating local to national interests to serve the country from other districts than those in which they resided. The principal national tonic of lawmaking, however, had been discarded by the United States, he said, in barring the executive from participation in the introduction and discussion of proposed legislation. Continuing, he said, in part:

"By depriving congress of executive leadership in legislation, we leave it without any natural or normal leadership whatever. In such a body leadership is imperative. We leave this body of over five hundred men entirely alone without fixing upon any one the duty of seeing that certain classes of bills of national importance must be considered first and without giving any one the adequate power to perform that duty. Other nations regard the fulfillment of that duty as falling normally upon the executive. So do we also in our private business."

"It being impossible to develop an executive in congress, and, on the other hand, we having stubbornly kept our present executive out of congress, what has been the result? We have produced a system of committee government under which a part of this selective process is ostensibly done by certain standing committees of the house and senate."

Vast Power Wielded in Secret. "The first characteristic of this development that we notice is that tremendous powers are exercised in secret and by men who, neither as committee men nor as congressmen, are responsible to the country at large. Such a method of secret and irresponsible power is violative of the very first principles of modern democracy. As compared with the leadership of the executive in obtaining in other nations, it substitutes a truly 'invisible government' for the responsibility of an officer, working under the scrutiny of the fullest publicity; bearing the mandate of the whole people and directly responsible to them."

"This system of committee government has not been efficient in performing its duty of supervising legislation, but, on the contrary, has been extremely inefficient. Nowhere has this been so clearly shown as in the case of our fiscal legislation. Ours is the one country among civilized nations to which, as yet, such a thing as a budget is unknown. Only the fact that we are a young nation, with boundless resources, and that our revenues have been increasing in spite of us, has saved us from coming to grief from such lack of foresight."

"The result of such a lack of system is inevitable. Congress is at the mercy of any individual or private interest which can get before any of these committees and on an ex parte hearing impress them with the desirability of an appropriation."

"Such legislative methods simply invite demands for improper favors. The secrecy of the committee room plays directly into the hands of the lobbyist and the corporate seeker for favor, while the lack of personal responsibility makes it impossible for the people to punish any one politically for the results of the system."

Harm Growing Acute. "I believe that by far the greatest part of the inefficiency and attendant corruption from which we are suffering in our federal and our state governments today can be directly traced to that venerable heresy which keeps the influence of our executives out of our halls of congress and assemblies. That it is a heresy has been long and abundantly proven. The harm which it is doing here is becoming constantly more acute. The inability of congress, even with longer sessions and extra sessions, to get through its work is becoming more evident with each year. Very much of the congestion of its business comes simply from the fact that under modern conditions a system without leadership is becoming daily more impossible."

"I believe that there is no sound foundation for the fear that the reform in question would at all diminish the dignity or power of congress. On the contrary, executive co-operation in legislation would enhance the importance and opportunities of legislators. The transfer of the real light from the secrecy of the committee room to the open debate of the floor would necessarily evolve congressional leadership both in furthering the administration program and in calling forth an effective opposition to meet such a well-defined and well-espoused program of the administration. Congress would become a more truly deliberative body."

FARMER, SPARE THAT CROW. Thousands of crows are killed every year by farmers, either by traps or shooting or poison. But experts, who have made a thorough investigation, declare that while the farmer is justified in scaring the crows away from his grain and corn fields, he should not kill the bird, because a single crow can and generally does destroy more cut-worms in a day than ten men could dig up and destroy in a week.

Men cannot locate the wiry, soil-colored little cut-worm; he can only find it by chance, while the crow can locate them with ease and locate their tiny holes in the soil, and with one bang of his strong beak drag Mr. Cutworm forth from the ground to add him to the daily repast.

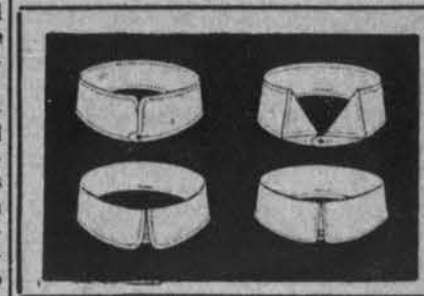

A crow weighing two and a half pounds was experimented upon, and it was found that this bird actually ate his weight in cut-worms in one day, and apparently could have eaten more. The crow, therefore, can save many crops from the ravages of cut-worms in a day than he can destroy in a week.

HANDS ITCHED AND BURNED

So Sore Could Not Close Them, Started With Rash, Just Terrible, Broke Into Sores, Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Him Entirely.

Abbotsford, Wis.—"My son had eczema on his hands for about one year. The eczema started with a rash. His hands were sore so he could not close them, and when he washed his hands with soap he hurt him so he could hardly wash. His hands itched and burned just terrible and if he would scratch them, they would break out into sores. He could not get any rest or sleep, and his hands looked quite bad. We had medicine and salve and it kept getting worse all the time. I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after washing his hands with the Cuticura Soap and putting some of the Cuticura Ointment on two times a day and tying cloths on them for about six months they got well and have not broken out since. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured him entirely." (Signed) Mrs. Laurence Kitch, Feb. 13, 1912.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczema and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough and oily skin, itching, scaly scalp, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, nor do it so economically. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." *Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. COL. ROOSEVELT AND HIS FRIENDS OPENED FOR PLAY YESTERDAY of Jacob Riis before the adjournment for luncheon.

Colonel Roosevelt's testimony first told the familiar story of his political and official activities, with passing reference to the time that he spent in Dakota.

Arriving at the matter with which the present suit is concerned, Mr. Pound asked: "Since you arrived at manhood, what is the truth about your reported overindulgence in liquor?"

"I have never been drunk or in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor in my life," the colonel answered, and each word was clicked out with all the emphasis the witness could put behind it.

"What use, if any, do you make of intoxicants?"

"I do not drink whiskey or brandy, except under direction of a doctor. I do not drink beer. I sometimes drink light wine."

"Have you ever drunk port or half and half?"

"I do not drink them."

Drinks Only Wines.

"The only wines that I have drunk have been either white wines, madeira, champagne, or very occasionally a glass of sherry. At home I at dinner may drink a wine-glass or two wine-glasses of madeira. In summer, instead of the madeira, I will often drink a tall glass of white wine and poland water. At public dinners I sometimes drink a glass of champagne, or perhaps two. I think that on the average this means that I will drink champagne about once a month."

"The only exceptions to what I have stated about drinking whiskey and brandy are as follows:

"Mint juleps I very rarely drink. In the White House we had a mint bed, and I should think that on the average I may have drunk half-a-dozen mint juleps a year. Since I left the White House four years ago, to the best of my memory I have drunk mint juleps twice, on one occasion at the country club at St. Louis, where I drank part of a glass of mint julep, and on another occasion at a big luncheon given me at Little Rock, Arkansas, where they passed round the table a julep cup with the mint julep in it, and I drank when the cup was passed to me."

"The only other occasions on which I have drunk whiskey have been when it has been prescribed by the doctor. During the last fourteen years I do not believe I have drunk whiskey straight or with water more than a half-dozen times. On the African trip, the expedition took along a case of champagne, a case of whiskey, and one bottle of brandy. The bottle of brandy was taken for me because I do not drink whiskey."

Brandy as a Medicine.

"As for brandy, I never drink it any more than I do whiskey when I am alone, or at home, or on a hunting trip, or in a friend's house. But on very hard campaign days I do not believe I have drunk more than a half-dozen times. On the African trip, the expedition took along a case of champagne, a case of whiskey, and one bottle of brandy. The bottle of brandy was taken for me because I do not drink whiskey."

"I did not understand you to say you have never taken anything in the way of intoxicating liquors?"

"You did not so understand me; you understood me to say that I did so only in small quantities."

"The small quantities or intoxicating liquors that you took in general would be a little brandy with milk?"

"A teaspoonful in a tumbler full of milk."

"You have never for fifteen years taken more than a dozen glasses of whiskey?"

"I did not drink a dozen glasses of whiskey in fifteen years."

"You never drank any whiskey?"

"I said that in the fifteen years it would probably not be more than a dozen times I have drunk whiskey."

"Now the wine you drink is light wine?"

"Yes, sir."

"What do you mean by light wine?"

"I mean white wines, and sometimes it may be a little madeira."

"And other kind of wine?"

"Now I may have drunk a little red wine and occasionally a little sherry."

"You don't keep any wine of any kind in your house?"

"No, sir."

FLANNIGAN HELD THAT THE TESTIMONY WAS COMPETENT, AS SHOWING THE GENERAL CHARACTER AND CREDIBILITY OF THE WITNESS, OVERRODE ALL OBJECTIONS, BUT ALLOWED AN EXCEPTION.

"How the Other Half Lives," Riis' first book, dealing with tenement conditions in New York, brought Riis and Roosevelt together. Riis returned to his office one day and found a card which had been left by Roosevelt. He would have told what the card contained, only Judge Flannigan held with Mr. Belden that it was irrelevant. At this time Colonel Roosevelt was civil service commissioner in the city of New York.

"You became the greatest of friends," asked Mr. Pound.

"Indeed we did," was the reply, in most certain tones. "I made him my brother, and he has been so ever since."

Explaining the bond of union between them the witness said "He was fighting the same battle I was fighting at the police headquarters."

"During the fifteen years you have known Mr. Roosevelt did you ever see him under the influence of liquor?"

"A Monstrous Lie."

"Lord, no," replied Riis. "The statement that he is a drinking man in the sense of being a free user of liquor is a monstrous lie. I have been with him under every conceivable form of stress and strain and excitement and never, never, have I seen that man resort to liquor."

"Is he a blasphemous man?"

"No."

When cross-examined, Riis was asked whether his work as a writer took him out of politics.

"It has put me right in the thick of it. I have been fighting Tammany in New York for thirty years."

"You lecture to religious societies, do you not?" asked Mr. Andrews.

"Yes, and often to irreligious societies."

"You have got to the point where you would overlook all little failings in the defendant?"

"He has no failings of the kind you refer to."

"You think the defendant is above criticism?"

"Oh, no, he's human. I have many fights with him about things myself."

Dr. Lambert on Stand.

Had Colonel Roosevelt been an excessive user of alcoholic liquor he never would have survived the shock he sustained when he was shot at Milwaukee last year, according to Dr. Alex Lambert, his intimate friend and family physician, who testified yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Lambert said he had known Colonel Roosevelt since 1891, and that he had been hunting trips with him in North Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming and Louisiana. The witness said in his profession he was an expert on alcoholic subjects and he had treated forty thousand of them.

"From your close personal experience with Mr. Roosevelt on hunting trips and in official life at Washington what would you say, was he a man who drank to excess or not?" Dr. Lambert was asked.

"He was extremely temperate," replied the witness with emphasis.

Dr. Lambert said the last time he was called upon to give his professional services to Colonel Roosevelt was when the latter was at Mercy hospital at Chicago suffering from the wound received from the bullet at Milwaukee.

When the witness was asked to describe what course the bullet took in the body, objection was made by the defense on the ground that it was immaterial. Another question was permitted.

"If he had been a constant user of alcoholic drinks what is your opinion as to his chances of recovery?"

"He would not have recovered."

"To what then do you attribute his recovery?"

"To his splendid physique unpoisoned by alcoholism."

On Three Hunting Trips.

Dr. Lambert then told he had been on hunting trips with Colonel Roosevelt in 1893, 1905 and 1907. During these trips, he said, he never had observed Colonel Roosevelt drink whiskey, but once when that was when the colonel was suffering from a slight fever he had contracted in the Cuban campaign.

ROOSEVELT AT THE CANNON RECEPTION

Statement of Colonel Discusses Happenings at That Much Discussed Event.

In connection with the case of Roosevelt vs. Newell, the 70th birthday dinner in honor of Uncle Joe Cannon has been much discussed, and it is understood that the defense will introduce a deposition which will deal largely with alleged events on that occasion. Although Col. Roosevelt in his testimony yesterday only referred to this dinner to assert that all he drank on this occasion was a glass of wine and all he ate was a sandwich, in the formal statement of his testimony—prepared for the newspaper men—has gone further in the matter, as follows:

"On occasion of Mr. Cannon's evening reception, I went in company with Mr. Loeb and with James Sloane, a secret service man. The occasion was not in the afternoon, it was in the evening. We left the White House shortly after nine and returned a little after eleven. Mr. Loeb coming back with me and Sloane, between 4 and 6 o'clock the avenue is densely crowded.

"For the last fifteen years I can give you in detail just about what I have drunk, and I have given it substantially always, and neither during those fifteen years or since I have been of age have I ever under any circumstances been in even the smallest degree under the influence of liquor.

"I do not remember within the last dozen years drinking even a part of a glass of beer except one. That was at the Deutscher club, when I went to Milwaukee I try to go to the Deutscher club for a call. At their request, I think in 1903, I drank a mouthful of beer. They offered me beer, and I asked them if they could not get me some white wine, saying I never drank beer. They asked me if I would not take a mouthful anyway, because they said it was the beer that made Milwaukee famous. So I took a mouthful and then took white wine. They then all sang songs."

MALE FORGER POSED FOR YEARS AS WOMAN

Traveling About the Country in Skirts He Has Unique Criminal Record.

Kansas City, May 27.—James Arthur Baker, arrested here, charged with theft committed at Sumnerland, Cal., in a signed confession to the police said that during much of his life he had posed as a woman and that he had been involved in intricate counterfeiting and forgery schemes.

He early adopted the profession of school teacher, he said. After teaching a few years in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma he went to the Pacific coast, where he found that men teachers were not in demand. He then disguised himself as a woman and obtained a position in an Idaho village under the name of "Alice Baker." No one suspected his secret although he taught one entire season.

In 1910 Baker, still garbed as a woman, went to Los Angeles. Here he met a young attorney who became infatuated with the teacher, and a few months later they went through a ceremony of marriage.

Baker said this attorney exercised a hypnotic influence over him and induced him to take a course of engraving in an art school to make him proficient in counterfeiting. Later they perfected $7,000 worth of bogus $100 bills, he said, and afterward went to Japan, where the bills were exchanged for gold.

After their return to California, Baker said, the attorney proposed that they steal the blank money order book at

LESS COAL BUT HIGHER PRICES

Suspension of Work During Early Part of 1912 Affected Production for That Year.

Washington, May 26.—The production of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania in 1912 was 75,310,049 long tons, valued at the mines at $177,767,054, an average price of $2.36 a ton, according to figures just compiled by Edward W. Parker, coal statistician of the United States geological survey. This is a smaller production than in 1911 by 5,461,439 tons, but the value is greater by $2,814,619. The smaller production in 1912 was due entirely to the suspension of mining operations during April and part of May. Except for this year's output would probably have been a record breaker.

The shortage created by the suspension is estimated by Mr. Parke at about 10,500,000 ton. The new agreement reached with the miners provided for an advance of one per cent on all wages over and above the previous highest average price for anthracite in recent years was in 1903, when it was $2.28 a ton long.

The average price at the mines for anthracite in 1912, as shown by the returns to the geological survey, was $2.36 a long ton, compared with $2.17 in 1911, $2.12 in 1910, $2.06 in 1909, and $2.13 in 1908. The previous highest average price for anthracite in recent years was in 1903, when it was $2.28 a ton long.

An interesting feature of Mr. Parker's statement is that there is at the present time a market for anthracite in excess of coal that will burn. No more coal goes to the culm piles except for temporary storage and subsequent recovery by washeries. The old culm banks themselves are contributing their share to the total production, and these unsightly monuments to town waste are rapidly disappearing. Even the waste from the culm bank washeries is being made to serve a useful purpose by bushing into the mines, partly filling old workings, where it cements together and furnishes supports to the roof while the coal previously left for pillars is removed. This utilization of the waste prevents, too, the injury to farm lands in the valleys, a serious cause of complaint among the farmers when, as in earlier days, the waste from the washeries was spread over their lands in flood seasons. The recovery from the culm banks of the output of small sizes from freshly mined coal constitute about 40 per cent of the total quantity of anthracite sent to the market.

The figures presented by Mr. Parker indicate that the average value per ton for all sizes of anthracite in 1912 was $2.36, or twenty-nine cents above the mining cost, after the agreement for 10 per cent increase in wages went into effect, while the average value per ton in 1911 was twenty-three cents above the mining cost.

It is found that 1,069 Cornell undergraduates are partially self-supporting, and their combined earnings a year amount to $184,906, or $173 per capita, by figures compiled by the Sewall and Spade, an organization of working students. This sum represents 32 per cent of their college expenses, which amounted to $573,794. Only 123 students are earning their room and board. Of individual earnings, 380 men made between $100 and $200, 218 between $200 and $300, 51 from $300 to $400, 31 between $400 and $500, and 42 more than $500.

MAILED MONDAY

Miss Carrie Salvage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Salvage of Brown street, and Louis Duca, of Gwin, were united in marriage Monday evening at the parsonage of the Mitchell Methodist church. BELLS WILL BE TOLLED AT NOON

Orders Relating to Observance of Decoration Day Have Been Received by G. A. R.

The Charles H. Towne post of the G. A. R. has received orders from headquarters at Bridgeport, Conn., formally designating the observance of Memorial Day Friday, May 30. At the last national encampment it was ordered that during every city be tolled for five minutes after twelve o'clock noon, and that all flags be placed at half mast.

Formal Orders. "In accordance with the provisions of the rules and regulations, Friday, May 30 will be observed as Memorial Day.

"It is to be hoped that this day will be appropriately recognized by every post and every comrade of the order. With the swift passage of time there comes the inevitable diminution in our ranks, but those who survive should keep up a good spirit.

"The flying years have added materially to our work of decorating the graves of our Union veterans. Let us give one day in loyal devotion to their memories and add to the many object lessons in patriotism and gratitude to the heroic defenders of the land that we have given in the past, the influence of which on our citizens has been and will continue to be of priceless benefit to our redeemed and reunited country.

"In this work call to your aid the auxiliary and affiliated patriotic societies of the Grand Army of the Republic. Let the Woman's Relief corps, the Ladies of the G. A. R., the daughters of veterans, the sons of veterans and also the sons of veterans' auxiliary all help in the work, and do not forget that the United States War veterans, those veterans of a still later war than the one in which we participated, are also ready and willing to render service in the work.

"Ask the pastors of the churches and the school authorities to hold appropriate services on some convenient day to commemorate the deeds and devotion of the Union veterans and to honor their memories. Invite the officers and official bodies and the various civic societies and citizens generally of your several communities to join with you in the observance of the day.

"Attention is called to the action of the 44th National Encampment which ordered that as part of the public exercises of Memorial Day, bells be tolled from 12 o'clock noon to twelve-fifty, that flags be placed at half mast and that comrades remain standing with uncovered heads during this period.

I am prepared to do chimney sweeping, repair storm windows or sheds, masonry work, etc. Give me a call at 217 East Iron street, Phone 108.

When a woman loves, she marries to increase her happiness, just as a child blows a soap bubble to increase its size. The pathos of a woman parted from her love is nothing to the pathos of a woman with no love and flirtation as it is to distinguish between a diamond and a rhinestone.

Why should the woman weighted down with tragely receive so much more sympathy than she whose life is filled with petty troubles? A pound of feathers will balance with a pound of lead.

JOHN GILPIN UP TO DATE.

Francis Daggert, fifty-year-old farmer of Lakeville, five miles north of Middleboro, Massachusetts, turned his home town into a motordrome a few days ago and amused the entire population, as well as a fair sized non-resident gallery, for eight hours. Daggert's first trip on his new motorcycle was the headliner.

For months Daggert has been reading in the farm journals to which he subscribes of the automobiles that Kansas farmers own. Determined to be on a par with his southwestern brethren of the soil, he bought a motorcycle and started to learn how to operate it on the smooth surfaced roadway that encircles Lake Assawampset in Lakeville.

The engine sputtered and Daggert jumped astride, with nearly three gallons of regulation gasoline bouncing up and down in the tank. When he had made the circuit once, Daggert tried to shut off the power, but the prospectus he had left behind him was the only thing that explained where the necessary lever was.

And so Daggert rode round and round on the Lake Assawampset roadway, speeding by his kindly neighbors. A few who knew where the lever was situated shouted advice to him as he whirled by on each lap, but Daggert was chugging away in the direction of North Rochester each time before the words could be hurled from his friends' mouths.

The news spread around Lakeville and by 3 o'clock, after Daggert had been around about twenty times, had been around about twenty times, had the townspeople had gathered round and motordrome to see the novice speedster in his continuous performance. People also came on electric cars from Middleboro and other surrounding towns to see Daggert.

One bright neighbor painted a big sign which told Daggert how to stop his motorcycle, but he went so fast that he couldn't read it.

As the inevitable shades of night began to fall the gasoline began to give out, and Daggert came to a full stop at 5:07, after having traveled over eighty-five miles and without having learned how to stop a motorcycle in the most approved and generally adopted manner.—Boston Post.

M. CONSTANS AND THE SULTAN. The recent death of M. Constans, former French ambassador to Turkey, has given the Parisian papers opportunity to bring to their readers many stories of his pleasing personality. But charming man though he was, it was current comment that his manner was quite frank and that he cared little for the rules of etiquette. It is recalled that when he presented his letters to Abdul Hamid he entered the chamber with as much effrontery as he would have shown before the president of the French republic. He walked straight to the Sultan as he sat upon the throne and gave that mighty personage a hearty handshake. The old Ottoman functionaries, who formed a hedge from the entrance of the great hall to the imperial chair, were shocked and offended by this brusqueness.

Abdul Hamid, however, pressed the hand of M. Constans with reciprocal effusion and at once engaged in friendly conversation with him, an interpreter translating his questions and the responses. In fact, the Sultan speaks and understands French very well, and a lively twinkle was in his eye. When the moment of separation arrived the stupefaction of the Ottoman functionaries was complete when they saw M. Constans again press the hand of the Sultan as he would have pressed that of an old Turkish friend. The ambassador then marched deliberately toward the door with his back turned squarely to the monarch.

Never before had such a thing happened to the Sultan. The prestige of the descendants of the prophet had never before been so attacked. The Sultan at that moment had an inspiration which could only result in completely breaking away from all the finess of Oriental diplomacy. He rose to his feet, and, closely following the French ambassador, continued to talk with him. Arrived at the door M. Constans was obliged to turn again toward the Sultan to shake the imperial for the third time. He was then in such a position that the few intervening steps to the door were made backward. And thus was saved the honor of the sons of the prophet.

The tips outwear the gloves.

The Kayser SILK GLOVE

Three generations of American Women have set their "stamp of approval" upon "KAYSER" Gloves—and for over a quarter of a century "KAYSER" Gloves have maintained their supremacy in the glove world.

"KAYSER" Gloves are the result of a lifetime spent in Silk Glove making—in striving for the attainment of that superlative degree of excellence that makes the "KAYSER" Glove the standard by which all other Silk Gloves are measured.

There is no excuse for accepting the "just as good" kind—"KAYSER" Gloves "cost no more" and carry with them assurance of quality and reliability.

There's a way to tell the genuine—"look in the hem." If you find the name "KAYSER" you have the glove that "don't wear out" at the finger tips.

PEOPLE LISTEN TO JACOB RIIS

Noted Sociologist, Author and Lecturer of New York City, Now in Marquette as a Witness in the Roosevelt-Newton Case, Talked at the High School Yesterday.

Invited by Principal McNeel and Willingly and Promptly Responded—Used Powerful Moral Lesson in Driving Home His Admonitions—Mentions Roosevelt.

On the invitation of Principal J. H. McNeel, Jacob Riis, of New York, the noted sociologist and author, a personal friend of Colonel Roosevelt, who is here as a witness in the Roosevelt-Newton libel suit, talked to the students at the high school yesterday morning. He told of his own early school days, and compared the changes in his generation of boys with those of the present day in this country. In return for it all he told the students they owed it to their city, their state and their country to make the best of what was given them. They were to be square first and last. Mr. Riis used as an illustration of what he had in mind the case of Patrick Mullen, a young Irish blacksmith who came to this country sixty or seventy years ago and settled near his home on Long Island. Patrick made shotguns and made them so well that a gun with the name Patrick Mullen stamped on the barrel came to be worth many times what any other shotgun would bring. It was Patrick's honest toil that was wrought in it. In time grafters came and tried to get him to sell them his stamp. They offered him large bribes. Patrick's only answer was to grab them by the neck of the neck and the seat of their trousers and throw them out of the forge into a mudpond outside. Mr. Riis told his hearers that if they would adopt Patrick's plan, the world would be a better place to live in. The devil was always sniping around trying to corrupt the good. He said: "I know," said Mr. Riis, "that we are told nowadays that there is no devil; that he has gone out of business; if he has, I want to know who is carrying his business on. We come upon evidences of it every day."

The Fate of Fair-Haired Charlie.

The speaker went on telling of a boyhood friend, fair-haired Charlie, who went to the bad, was sent across the seas to this country and enlisted as a soldier while drunk. He served nearly thirty years in the army, rising as high as he could when he was sober, but always his enemy got him down until at last, just when another six months' of service would have entitled him to retirement on a living pension, he struck and kicked an officer in drunken fury. The measure was full; they drummed him out of camp in disgrace. When the doors of the fort fell to behind him, there was a report and Charlie was found dead, shot through the heart. They sent Mr. Riis his note book as his next friend. His pages told of the struggle he had had with his enemy and how by slow degrees he had lost hope. On the last leaf was the entry: "The road of by and by leads to the town of Never." The town was in sight then at the end of his road. "By and by" had been the snare that caught him. Mr. Riis showed his young hearers how they could avoid it by taking their stand early and made use of the example of Billy Hicks, a sailor on one of the warships, to bring home his lesson. Billy was a rough and ready Jack Tar, captain of the foretop. Some particularly dangerous work was to be done on it that had cost two men their lives. The next day was Billy's turn. He might have had permission to practice with the signal lights and for an hour flashed signals into the sky. In the morning he went out on the top and did the dangerous thing and came off unhurt. A week later the deck officer of another ship lying down the Roads showed Billy's log what it was he had signed. He had read it and copied it down. This was the message:

Billy Hicks's Message.

"God, this is Billy Hicks. I ain't afraid of no bloomin' man or devil and I ain't scared of no Davy Jones locker neither. I ain't no lawlin' baby, a fusser' around her dad for sweets and I don't ask no favors of you except one. This is it: When I strike the top tomorrow, let me go with the nerve of a man who's clean. And God, dear God, from this day on let me have the feelin' I use to have when I felt at my mother's knee and said 'Our Father, God night, dear God.'"

Billy had backing, said Mr. Riis, Charley had not. With that backing any man can win in life, he continued. "And then the speaker went on to tell of his friend Colonel Roosevelt, with whom he had come here and of what he meant to the young in the nation. The jury was safely locked up, he said, and he could speak his mind freely. He, the speaker, was glad that it had been given to him to live in the day of a great American and to know and believe in him instead of having to wait until the man was long dead to admit his greatness. They called Washington a thief when he was president; Lincoln an anarchist and a clown; Cleveland a wife-beater, and they had called Roosevelt a drunkard with exactly as much right as now. Few could be leaders of these fellows, but it was given to everyone to be a loyal follower and without loyal followers there could be no great leader. Mr. Riis chose sides early and he had followed Theodore Roosevelt through thick and thin, and expected to continue to do so till the end. He showed his hearers the man as he was—clean-living, clean-minded, square, always what he seemed to be, and told them of the simple life-styles that had made him the great American he is.

Roosevelt's Life-Styles.

"Be ready," was the first one. Learn all there is to learn and put it to use. That is all there is of luck in this world, the ability to seize the opportunity that comes through having fitted oneself for it. "The only fellow who makes no mistakes is the chap who never does anything," came next. Make up your mind, and take the responsibility. So a man's mistakes shall turn out to be the best capital he has—he will never make just that mistake again.

"Have all the fun you honestly and decently can; that is, good fun for the boys which they can take home and laugh over with mother, sister and sweetheart when that time comes; the rest let go, it does not pay."

DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN.

Fourteen-Year-Old Daughter of Octave Hebert Passed Away Yesterday.

After a brief attack of pneumonia, contracted following a surgical operation for appendicitis, Marie Rhea Hebert, aged fourteen years, the daughter of Octave Hebert, 509 Washington street, passed away yesterday noon at St. Mary's hospital. The girl had been in good health since leaving the French parochial school, which she attended until last Christmas. Her parents removing her at that time because of a decline in her physical condition. She became ill with appendicitis suddenly and a week ago Monday underwent an operation.

Her parents, two brothers and a sister survive Miss Hebert. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

FIRST PERFORMANCE WAS SUCCESSFUL

"Chimes of Normandy" Played to a Large and Appreciative Audience Last Night.

The presentation of Robert Planquette's beautiful French comic opera, "The Chimes of Normandy" by students of the Marquette High school last evening at the opera house was a gratifying success. The house was filled with an appreciative attendance, every seat on all floors being occupied, with standing room in demand. The performance was a triumph for the young people who gave it. Nothing occurred to mar the beauty of each of its many scenes. The opera is in three acts, and, differing from modern plays of a similar nature, it is a real opera. The music is in a continuous score, and much of the dialogue is set to music. The score is rich in melody, the tunes are easily followed and the vocal score is without musical intricacies. Otherwise the opera would not be so readily adaptable to high school presentation.

Miss Gilling's Work Appreciated.

The principals carried their difficult roles with ease. These young people were chosen for the various parts not only because of their musical talent but because of individual characteristics which suited them to the roles. The leading feminine part was that of "Serpolette, the good-for-nothing." This was taken by Miss Signa Gilling, a gifted vocalist and a clever young actress. So well has she developed the part that her classmates believe she was "born for the stage." The part of "Serpolette" requires greater effort than any other in the opera. Miss Gilling portrayed it with life and vigor and gave it a finishing and refreshing touch of naturalness. The young woman is gifted with a clear, though not powerful, soprano voice.

Miss Florence June, as "Germaine," the lost marchioness, individualized her work in a manner that won approval. Her efforts were roundly applauded.

The four principal male roles were those of "Henri," the marquis of Cornille, carried by Harold Spion, baritone; "Le Comte," a fisherman, who disguised as a coachman and who escapes lead into the difficulties of the plot, interpreted by Earl Ross, tenor; "Gaspard," the miser, featured by Russell Frei, bass, and the bailiff, portrayed by Felix Penzill, bass. The young men acquitted themselves admirably. Mr. Spion, whose part really was opposite to Miss Gilling and who might be called the "leading man," worked under great difficulties. In the months of practice and rehearsal of the music, he overworked his voice and at practically the last minute before the play was presented it all but failed him. Notwithstanding he did justice to the part.

Chorus Especially Good.

The success of "The Chimes of Normandy" was in large measure due to the choral work. To Miss Norma Ross, director of music in the schools, under whose direction the opera was staged, is due the credit of having secured the cast included sixty persons, and so well trained were these in the eccentricities of the score that they sang freely, openly and entirely without effort. This resulted in well-sustained notes, rounded tones and perfect harmony that are seldom achieved in working with so many singing in unison. The choral numbers were among the most delightful of the performance and as during a large part of each act the chorus has the stage this feature helped wonderfully in winning the appreciation of the audience.

Every ensemble number was good. Probably that near the end of the first act known as the "Coachman's Chorus" was the best. Upon the second appearance of the chorus in the second act another different chorus number won repeated applause. "The Chimes of Normandy" song at the end of the second act also won exceptionally good. It would be difficult to say which of the operatic numbers, in which three or more characters sang the parts, was best. The duet in the last act was thoroughly appreciated. Much of the success of the musical numbers was due to the excellent orchestration, which was under the direction of Frank Tomblin. The orchestra score was interpreted by Tomblin's orchestra.

To Be Repeated Tonight.

For the benefit of those who were unable to obtain seats for last evening's performance, the Chimes of Normandy is decided to repeat "The Chimes of Normandy" tonight. The indications are that the second performance will be even better than the first, as is always the case in amateur theatricals. The seats have been selling well for this evening's performance and the opera house is again likely to be crowded. Many persons still hold tickets purchased from high school students and these may be exchanged for reserved seats at Bigelow's store. Both the members of the cast and the faculty of the high school are elated over the success of the opera, which is undoubtedly the most ambitious theatrical effort the students of the high school have ever made.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

Twelve Cases Set for Trial Upon Opening of Circuit Court.

The opening business in circuit court Monday was the disposition of the criminal docket. Of the twenty-seven cases, twelve were set for trial, nine were passed and, all but one of the others—arraignment being deferred in that instance—were continued.

Two cases were added after the docket was made up. These were those of the People vs. Archie LaCrosse, violation of the liquor law, in which a plea of guilty was entered, and the People vs. Howard Stewart and Leo Rivers, which was set for trial. It was at first believed the latter case, in which the charge is larceny from the person, would not be disposed of until the September term.

In the case of the People vs. Edmund Patenaude, Stanley Sheeh, William Gregory Caven and Wilmer Harkin, held for burglary, arraignment was deferred, which amounts to a dropping of the prosecution of the case for the time being. The young men, who are to be state's witnesses in the Marquette libel law violation cases, will be sentenced after they have testified. They have already pleaded guilty to the charge on which they are held.

Other cases for trial this term are: The People vs. Chester Pleau, charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, etc.; Raymond Robbins, bastardy; Charles L. Christian, Baldo Lango, Ani Lakkaka, Louis Vierling, Edgar Lohb, Charles Mellugh, Jeff Moran, Con Mahoney and John B. Perenchio, all violation of the liquor law.

The following cases, in which the parties named are defendants, were passed: Paul Gonyea, charged with violation of the game law; Peter Catto, indecent exposure; Jennie Burnside, violation of the liquor law and keeping house of ill fame; Reuben Stevens, assault with intent to rape; Christ A. Ohlsson and Felice Beltrame, violations of the liquor law; Peter Rasmussen, keeping house of ill fame, and Algot Anderson and Howard Carlson, burglary.

The cases continued, with the names of the defendants, are as follows: Paul Dexter, charged with bastardy; Leonard Field, bastardy, and Donald McDonald, violation of the liquor law.

Twenty-three issue of fact cases, for trial by jury, and seven issues of fact for trial by court were set for trial at this term. Five other issue of fact cases were continued. Five others were either countermanded or dismissed and one other was settled; another was passed. Eight charity cases were set for hearing. In one other a demurrer was filed and another was passed.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

(Official.)

Marquette, Mich., May 19th, 1913. An adjourned regular session of the common council was called to order at 8 o'clock p. m. by the mayor, the Hon. William Fashbender.

Present—Aldermen Butler, Donovan, Ekstrom, Hennessy, Madigan, Mellin, Schauer, Scully and St. John—9.

The record of the session of May 31st, approved.

The petition of Joseph Fay and 14 others, requesting that an alley be placed at the intersection of Lape and Main streets, was presented and referred to the committee on parks, cemeteries, streets and sewers.

The petition of A. H. Palmer and six others, requesting that Cedar street be widened from New Street to Crescent street, was presented and referred to the committee on parks, cemeteries, streets and sewers.

The petition of Martin Rustenhoven and 18 others, requesting that a sidewalk be constructed on the east side of Presque Isle avenue sewer from the flush tank at the south end to the present manhole in Sycamore street was recommended. I would further refer in favor of additional extension to Park street, for the purpose of extending the bulk of the sewer of the Palmer addition from the North Marquette sewer and taking into the water from the cemetery that is desirable for use in the flush tank.

The following was presented, and on motion of Alderman Donovan, supported by Alderman Butler, ordered placed on file: Marquette, Mich., May 17, 1913.

To the Hon. Common Council: Gentlemen—Referring to an engineer's report adopted September 3, 1912, and shown herewith, in which the extension of the Presque Isle avenue sewer from the flush tank at the south end to the present manhole in Sycamore street was recommended, I would further refer in favor of additional extension to Park street, for the purpose of extending the bulk of the sewer of the Palmer addition from the North Marquette sewer and taking into the water from the cemetery that is desirable for use in the flush tank.

I would also recommend that the pipe this would be 12 inches in size to furnish an adequate storm sewer for protection of the streets along its line from further damage by flooding; the flow of water in the sewer to be so controlled that an excess can be prevented from the flush tank to the Eastern Trunk Sewer.

I herewith present a profile of proposed sewer for adoption. Respectfully, CHARLES CUMMINGS.

The committee on parks, cemeteries, streets and sewers submitted the following resolution: Resolved, That the profile adopted August 31st, 1912, for first section of "Eastern Trunk Sewer" be and the same is hereby rescinded; and

Resolved, That the profile prepared by Charles Cummings, civil engineer, and hereby attached, can be presented and is hereby approved and adopted for the first section of a trunk sewer, from manhole in outlet to center of Prospect street on line north 48 degrees, 20 minutes, east 128 feet; thence north on line 145 feet west of Walnut street to Michigan street, thence north 48 degrees west crossing Michigan street; thence north to Ohio street; thence north 22 degrees, 30 minutes east crossing Ohio street; thence north on line 185 feet west of Walnut street produced to center of Hewitt avenue; thence north 32 degrees, 30 minutes, west in Lake Shore boulevard 425 feet to center of Prospect street, and that this resolution and said profile be duly certified by the recorder and placed on file.

On motion of Alderman Butler, supported by Alderman Madigan, said resolution was unanimously adopted.

Moved by Alderman Schauer, supported by Alderman St. John, and carried unanimously, that the controller is hereby directed to assess the property upon special assessment rolls for public improvements.

On motion of Alderman Schauer, supported by Alderman Donovan, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the action of the common council on April 21st, 1913, in confirming the appointment of George P. Brown as city attorney, is hereby rescinded.

Alderman Schauer submitted the following resolution: Resolved, That the salary of the city attorney is hereby fixed at $900 per annum, commencing May 1st, 1913, payable monthly. Moved by Alderman Schauer, supported by Alderman Mellin, that said resolution be adopted.

Moved by Alderman Butler, as a substitute, that the salary of the city attorney be fixed at $800 per year, supported by Alderman Madigan, and lost. Yeas—Aldermen Butler, Madigan, Scully and St. John—4. Nays—Aldermen Donovan, Ekstrom, Hennessy, Mellin and Schauer—5.
