THE INVINCIBLE ALLIANCE.

The destiny of America is wrapped up in that of England. On the day that England sinks to a second class power in Europe, a European coalition will develop which will have for its prime object the partition of Mexico, Central America and the states of South America.

These are the suggestive words of Francis Grierson, in his book, "The Invincible Alliance." Grierson is a writer of some fame, who has been commended by Maurice Maeterlinck. His book is written to emphasize the necessity of union between the English-speaking nations. In the absence of such coalition America may be threatened on the one hand by the nations of Central Europe longing for fields of expansion, and on the other by the hungry hordes of Asia seeking means of existence.

The British Statesman Canning undoubtedly had a far-seeing vision of the necessity of such an alliance as Mr. Grierson advises, when he suggested President Monroe's immortal utterance now called the Monroe doctrine. That doctrine, tacitly supported by Great Britain, has been since its inception, has virtually constituted an invincible alliance between these great nations, and has effectually served its purpose of barring the exploitation of the American continents to any of the old-world powers.

Mr. Grierson sees the chief danger to England in the food supply, should the British Isles by any mischance be cut off from foreign importations. And yet a student of economies has recently declared that those islands could feed their own population with the same intensive cultivation of the land that is found in Holland.

British legislation is now directed towards restoring agriculture to its rightful place in the domestic economy. This will help, but after, all so long as the United States, Canada, Australasia and the United Kingdom, representing the English-speaking peoples, are united in bonds of amity, recognizing the principle that blood is thicker than water, and that the world-interests of all are practically identical, there will be little danger to any of them from the aggression of other races.

VIA HUDSON BAY.

That the Hudson Bay route is still a live issue in Canada is shown by an article in Applied Science, by Wm. B. McPherson. He says the present scheme of the government is to build 418 miles of railroad from the Pas on the Saskatchewan northeast of Lake Winnipeg, to the mouth of the Nelson river, on Hudson's bay. The cost will be about $25,000,000. At the terminal large docks and elevators will be constructed.

A table of distances shows that by this route 537 miles would be saved in the journey from Winnipeg to Montreal; 675 from Brandon; 1,066 from Regina; 1,168 from Calgary; 1,297 from Prince Albert and 1,178 from Battleford, Saskatoon and Edmonton.

An ample harbor can be opened at the mouth of the Nelson. Hudson Bay is the third largest enclosed sea in the world. Its area is approximately five times the combined area of the Great Lakes. Its whale, seal, walrus and salmon fisheries will afford the basis of large industries.

But the principal benefit of the opening of the route will be in the relief of the congestion of the grain traffic of western Canada, which is now so great that the whole of one crop of wheat is not marketed until after the next crop is harvested. It is estimated that by the Hudson Bay route the saving in freight charges on 60,000,000 bushels of wheat would be $9,000,000.

The only formidable obstacle to navigation lies in the Hudson strait. Here vessels are liable to be delayed by ice, but it is claimed that a full knowledge of the character and movements of this ice will greatly reduce trouble from that source. It is a natural obstacle that can be overcome, as other natural obstacles have been overcome, by human ingenuity and hardihood.

The successful opening of this route will be the signal for wonderful development in regions that awhile ago were regarded as practically worthless. Incidentally, the shortening of distance and reduction of freight charges to the Atlantic seaboard may be expected to have some effect upon transportation on this side of the line.

American lines will have to improve their facilities and their efficiency to keep pace with Canadian enterprise.

President Wilson says there is a powerful lobby at work at Washington trying to fix up the tariff bill in favor of special privilege interests. Seems to be the same old story, although it is to be hoped that this time it will have a different ending.

Boston society women have found out what many persons knew long ago—that the custom of wearing mourning for a long time is a relic of barbarian days.

WAR'S EMBERS STILL HOT.

Officially there has been peace in Tripoli for more than half a year. The Treaty of Lausanne was signed October 13 between Italy and Turkey and that compact, formally accepted by the Sultan's representatives, handed Tripoli over to Italy as a permanent possession.

Yet last week the Italian forces in Tripoli suffered a severe defeat. The official accounts say the reverse was the most serious of the entire war in Africa, and there is widespread suspicion in Italy that the extent of the disaster has been partly concealed. An Italian army of about 5,000 men appears to have been overwhelmed by 10,000 Arabs and perhaps 400 Turks, the latter trained soldiers formerly in the service of the Sultan.

The worst phase of this affair, for Italy, is the fact that the battle took place near Derna, not far from the coast. It shows that Tripoli, ceded by the Turks, has still to be conquered from its own inhabitants. Another ominous condition is the abundance of good rifles and ammunition which the desert tribesmen possessed. They seem to be able to get plenty of munitions of war through Tunis, presumably by the connivance of French officials.

In the Balkans the signs of serious trouble between Bulgaria on one side and Serbia and Greece on the other are too plain to be ignored. Detailed accounts of fierce fighting between the Bulgars and the Greeks, near Saloniki, come from too many sources to be brushed aside as empty rumors. There is reason to fear that the conclusion of a definite peace with Turkey may be followed by a bloody struggle over the territory won from the Moslems.

So the embers of war remain hot in Africa and Europe. They do not cool down and die out at the first word of peace from any civil authorities, even the highest. It is an old story. Since the dawn of history it has been shown, a thousand times, that the fires of war are easily kindled but are exceedingly hard, in many cases, to extinguish—which is a very excellent argument for international arbitration and the world's peace.

NOT MUCH OF A SOLDIER.

"How Mexicans Fight" is the title of an interesting article which appears in the current number of the Outlook. It is written by Edwin Emerson, the magazine's special correspondent in Mexico.

The feature which is emphasized is the lack of efficiency which prevails in the Mexican army. American newspaper readers during the days when the city of Mexico was made the battleground between rival forces armed with heavy artillery were puzzled over the slight damage done the city and the comparatively small number of actual combatants killed. Mr. Emerson explains it by saying that neither the Mexican officers nor soldiers know how to shoot straight. Target practice seems to them a waste of ammunition. Reliance is placed in "the natural military qualities" of the people.

"Natural military qualities" do not go very far in actual warfare. No amount of it will enable a soldier to hit what he aims at. The Boers held off an overwhelmingly superior British force by their superb marksmanship. The hope of the small American army today would be in its marksmanship. There is no doubt of what our navy can do along this line. At the periodical target practices over long ranges scores that would have attracted world-wide attention a few years ago pass almost unnoticed because the public has got used to the American navy making high scores.

According to the Outlook writer many of the soldiers in the forces that keep Mexico in turmoil know little or nothing about what they are fighting for. They change from one side to another at the bidding of their chiefs and do not seem to care much which faction they represent. The "battles" which have been featured in the dispatches were little more than skirmishes, he says.

The Latin-Americans, though turbulent and fiery, never have been great soldiers, according to the standards of civilized nations. War to them is a game rather than a science. Perhaps if they were fundamentally more military in their character the harm they would do each other in their contests would cure them of the fighting habit.

In these peaceful days the generals of our army come and go without a chance for impressing their individualities on public attention. Many abide not long in the rank which they have attained, shortly in advance of that sixty-fourth birthday which consigns them to the retired list. The recent appointment to the general rank of two officers who will exercise its authority for three and four years, respectively, is worth notice. They will have time to do something besides preparing for retirement. General Wisser, who will not retire until 1916, is a distinguished artillery expert, who holds diplomas from West Point and the Royal School of Mines, Freiberg, Germany, and is a military historian as well. General Thomas F. Davis, who comes from the infantry, is also a West Pointer and will not reach the age limit for active service until 1917. He has had a busy career in the line. In fact neither general has passed his life in idleness and General Wisser has found time to acquire erudition more than technical. Those peace men looking for "awful examples" of the tendency of military life towards idleness will have to ignore Generals Wisser and Davis.

While Americans are preparing for the observance of the semi-centennial of Gettysburg, and thousands will study the battle by the aid of the monuments and markers on the battlefield, complaint comes to England that the Waterloo terrain is in danger. While La Hale Sainte and Hougoumont still bear the marks of cannon shot, both are in danger of being rebuilt, and part of the Hougoumont wall against which the wave of French courage dashed in vain has already been pulled down. That is not the worst of the situation, according to a British officer who recently visited the field. "Tramcars and cheap fares have been followed by 'tawdry cafes' located on the very spot whence the Imperial Guard recoiled. What is to be done? The suggestion is that cooperation of Belgians and Englishmen who would preserve the topography of Waterloo may be effective in doing for that famous field what has been done for Gettysburg, but the first step, 't' admitted, will be very expensive. If preservation is not organized there is danger that the strategic points will be obliterated by garden and farm field.

Very properly politics plays no part in the pending trial. No person directly interested in the case in The Mining Journal's knowledge knows what the politics of any of the jurymen is. However, it is of course impossible to take any twelve men in Marquette county, as they come, without picking up some Bull Moose, and some Republicans, too. But owing to the avoidance of that line of questioning by the counsel it is to be doubted whether any of the jurymen have given any thought to the possible political side of the case.

Vice President Marshall says he hopes no charity worker will ever come around to the garret where he is suffering in poverty and after investigating his case send up a quart of ice cream. Mr. Marshall may be reassured. Even a charity society would have a hard time locating an ex-president of the United States.

Well, which is it? Is the G. O. P. organized, disorganized or about to be organized? Why don't some of the enterprising press correspondents here in Marquette seek to have the colonel throw a little light on the question?

More than $16,000,000 worth of jewelry was imported into this country last month. Getting ready for the June brides, perhaps.

A LAUGH OR TWO

This Could Only Happen in Boston.

Eager young man who has called on adored one: "I can't wait any longer, dear. I really had to phone. Will you marry me?" Gentle voice, in reply: "Why, yes, of course I will. But haven't you got the wrong number."

All Alike. "Yes, it's wonderful how sensitive the sense of touch can become. I know a politician who was blind and yet could tell a dishonest man among his associates by merely touching him."

Cutting Apology. Speaking of apologies that read either in front of the Bucklin Banner has had a disagreement with the fire department of that town, and has been called to retract some statement he made. He winds up his apology in the following manner: "Being as how it is necessary I will say that the Bucklin means for his end and without taking into consideration the fact that he would be guilty of doing as they were to have done, although they did."—Topeka Capital.

A Horse Deal. We are indebted to old Charlie Leedy for the following: In front of the village postoffice one afternoon a couple of old farmers stopped to talk crops and horses.

"Are you in the market for a good horse?" asked one. "Always ready to dicker," the other answered.

"Ever see that little bay mare of mine?" "I know the critter."

"How'd you like to own her. She's yours at rock-bottom price."

"Well, John, I'd buy her this morning, but I hate to bust a dollar bill."

Murphy or Bourbon? Jim Murphy had been accused of selling liquor illicitly, and the prosecuting attorney was endeavoring to make Pat, a job teamster, admit that he had delivered liquor to the defendant. He stated that he had once delivered freight to Murphy and that part of the freight was in a barrel, but when asked what the barrel contained he replied that he did not know.

"Don't know! Wasn't the barrel marked?" asked the attorney. "Yes, sir."

"Then how dare you tell the court that you don't know what was in it?" "Because, sir, the barrel was marked 'Jim Murphy' on one end and 'Bourbon whisky' on the other. How did I know which was in it?"

No Trouble at All. One day last summer a German entered an establishment of a photographer in a Southern town, and after several glances about the place, observed mournfully that the photographer did not seem to have the properties essential to the taking of a picture he desired.

"I should like a picture of myself," he said. "Could you arrange for me?" "Maybe you fix a grave here in de shop for me?"

"I am afraid I haven't the necessary accessories," said the photographer. Then, with an attempt at facetiousness, he suggested: "Could we arrange to have the portrait made at the grave itself?"

"Dot's in Pennsylvania," sighed the German. "It would be too expensive to go there. You just fix up some kind of a grave here in de shop. I could keep on dot. It's no trouble for me to veep anywhere."—Harper's Weekly.

Something Doing, After All. Mr. Underdone Cutlets, proprietor of the Speedy Cafe, was notoriously hard-hearted. The most weeping widow who ever graced a melodrama couldn't have wept a slice of stale bread out of his restaurant without him prodding her with a pale and timorous bum approached the desk and made a faint-ringing appeal, it was no surprise to the lunch fiends to hear a curt "Nothing doing. Beat it."

"I'm not a beggar," retorted the hungry man. "I'm willing to scrub floors or wash dishes. I'm just out of prison, and nobody will give me work. I'm starving."

LUDINGTON—Apoplexy caused the death of James Terwilliger, a well-known grocer of this city. He was found by one of his customers sitting in the store, breathing heavily but unconscious, and died before aid could be summoned.

PETOSKEY—After suffering a year from paralysis, Mrs. J. A. Strong, widow of a judge of the Charlevoix probate court and a former senator, died Sunday night. One of her last expressed wishes was that her age be not printed in the newspapers.

HILLSDALE—Vern Gleason, residing near the Ohio line, was killed south of Waldron, this county, when he tried to cross the Wabash tracks on a motorcycle ahead of the afternoon passenger. Both legs were broken. He was injured internally and lived but half an hour.

SAGINAW—President C. B. Warren of the Michigan Sugar company dispelled all doubts as to whether the company would pass its annual meeting and the free sugar bill passed by announcing at the annual meeting of stockholders this week that all six plants would be operated as usual.

TRAVERSE CITY—Cornelius Jordan, aged sixty-five years, a veteran of the civil war, is dead. He was a member of the garrison in Fort Sumter when the charges of treason were laid against the confederates, and he had a long and honorable war record. So far as known, he leaves no relatives.

LANSING—President Navin, of the Detroit Baseball company, writes the state industrial accident board that he has each one of the Tigers insured for $5,000, and that he does not wish them to come under the compensation act. His request will likely be granted. Other employees of the baseball company come under the act.

PETOSKEY—As a last resort to prolong the life of Mrs. Herman Fyke of Boyne Falls, her husband allowed a cut to be made in his arm and without taking an anesthetic lay for over an hour while surgeons at Petoskey hospital transfused blood from his radial artery to a vein in the arm of his wife. Mrs. Fyke had suffered from internal hemorrhages.

FLINT—Flint Masons are the first body in the state to organize a lodge of Knights of Birminghams, a social body known as the blue lodge shrine. There are 150 charter members and on June 26 there will be a big initiation, with Masons from several eastern states and from all parts of Michigan in attendance. A big program has been planned in connection with the event.

GRAND RAPIDS—Raving like a madman attempting to pull the hair from his head and resisting efforts of several deputies to hold him in his chair, William Weber, charged with wife-murder, nearly went insane in the superior court when his case was given to the jury. His moans for his dead wife and child were heard throughout the city hall and nearly caused business to be suspended. The attack was precipitated by the arguments of his own counsel and Prosecutor Phelps.

JACKSON—Jackson will make a strong bid for the 1914 encampment of the state Civil war veterans to this city. The chamber of commerce has guaranteed to care for the financial end, if this city is successful in landing the encampment. The local Edward Pomeroy post will be well represented at the 1913 state encampment, which is to be held at Lansing June 17, 18 and 19. The last time that Jackson had the state encampment was in 1886.

PORT HURON—Captain Daniel McFarlane, seventy-six years old and a resident of Port Huron for the last fifty-six years, died at his home here after an illness of several months. He was born in Nova Scotia and came to the United States in 1830. He was a member of the navy and served on several steamships. He was on the crew of the steamer Saint Marie and St. Ignace at Mackinac straits about twenty years. His widow and one daughter, Mrs. Benson, of Sylvania, Mich., survive.

GRAND HAVEN—Twenty-five years ago John J. Boer, of this city, then living in Grand Haven, Mich., came to Grand Haven with his wife, to visit her relatives. Before his return he found that a handsome gold band ring, with his initials engraved thereon, received as a wedding present, had been lost, and has been searching for it ever since. Saturday his little niece presented him with a box and on opening it he found the long-lost ring, still in good condition. The little girl found it in the chicken yard of her home, where it has reposed for twenty-five years, and Mr. Boer's first act was to take her to a jewelry store and return the compliment.

PORT HURON—A passenger coach, baggage car, smoker and engine of the Pere Marquette train, which leaves this city at 8:40 a. m., were derailed four miles west of Marlette. Though all the coaches were practically wrecked and the engine and baggage car completely toppled, no train or passenger was injured. The engine was disabled near Melvin and a freight engine was sent as relief. A delay of over an hour and a half had resulted and attempt to make up this time was being made. It is stated by the officials that the weight of the extra engine caused the track to spread, precipitating the entire train into the ditch. The baggage coach was telescoped, and other coaches were badly wrecked. Fireman Charles Knowlton, of this city, was buried in the wreckage of water and mud but was extricated without injuries. Engineer Wm. H. Harmon escaped through a cab window. George Galmer, baggage man, was badly shaken, but unharmed. George Nixon, conductor escaped without injury.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Hopeful for Cuba.

Cubans take much pride in the feats of the two Cuban aviators who have made air trips, separately and with equal success, between Cuba and Florida, but those interesting incidents are as nothing in real importance, compared with the manner of the change in the presidency of the Cuban republic. When General Mario G. Menocal was inaugurated at Havana, in perfect order and without the least sign of lawlessness or revolutionary plotting anywhere, it made a new record for Cuba. General Jose Miguel Gomez retired as decorously as Menocal was given the highest office in the country and both generals acted as if they had never heard of resorting to force to settle political claims or disputes.

When a Cuban general succeeds another Cuban general in this manner, in the highest office Cuba can boast, there is reason to hope that the lamentable condition of Mexico will have its proper effect as a warning to the island republic. Cubans of even ordinary intelligence know that their country would never be suffered to sink into the condition which now exists in Mexico. Long before it could fall so far it would be taken in charge by the United States, as an obligation imposed upon this republic by its part in creating Cuba as an independent state and recognized by the terms upon which Cuban self-government was established.—Saginaw Courier-Herald.

Danger of Abandoning the Law. The value of the dreadful experience of Paterson is in the warning it gives to other communities. It has been demonstrated in a way to reach even the intelligence of the stupid and the narrow that it does not pay for public authorities to be lawless and to encourage lawlessness.

The strike, resisting settlement and paralyzing the life of a prosperous city, has gone on for more than three months because of feelings aroused by the disregard of plainly guaranteed rights. In its later stages the chief danger has become more political than industrial. Men, even ignorant Italians, are still capable (let us thank God) of sacrificing material interests rather than submit to and appear to countenance the Russianizing of government. It has been as men rather than as workers that the strikers have rejected adjustment proposals that otherwise they might have been glad to accept. They have known, even if the outside world has not, what things have been done by those who wear the badges of authority, and their hearts have been hurt with just indignation.

The policy pursued does not pay—it does not pay mill owners and those identified with mill owners in interest. The I. W. W. is not weakened when its methods are imitated by public officers, and it is possible for its leaders to say: "Proletarians, behold before your eyes proof that this middle class government cares nothing for the principles on which it pretends to be founded and seeks to impose its will by lawless force. Are we not justified in trying to do the same?"

Under the law men in this country have a right to work or to cease working. Men have a right to assemble in peaceable meetings and to listen to any speaker that pleases them. This speaker may not be prevented from speaking or punished for what he says except if he specifically shows that his words violate a definite law. Men have a right to freedom of movement and to walk on the streets as they please, provided they do not interfere with the privilege of their fellow citizens to do the same. Men have a right peacefully to accost other men and to advise them to work or not to work. Men have a right to be free from arbitrary arrest and imprisonment and from the abusive profanity of club-wielding policemen. These rights have not been respected at Paterson. It has been openly proclaimed in newspapers that the law was to be suspended, or parts of it that the city's rulers do not like. The consequence has been that a bad situation has been kept before the public eye. Surely in view of such an exhibit no other community will be disposed to imitate Paterson if there is an I. W. W. invasion. The way to fight revolutionary and subversive ideas is to refuse to become revolutionary and subversive yourself.

Bill Hayward must laugh inside as he beholds capitalists and employers tumbling over each other to adopt his essential ideas.

As a newspaper that is opposed to anarchy the Globe hopes the Paterson lesson will suffice to persuade other communities of the wisdom of sticking to the law—to all the law.—New York Globe.

UPPER PENINSULA Church Bazaar Nets Nearly $1,400. The three-day bazaar given under the auspices of St. John's church proved one of the most successful church affairs ever held in Menominee, nearly $1,400 being realized from the sale of the various articles and the supper served one evening. This money will wipe out the debt on the handsome $7,000 parsonage erected two years ago, the church, parochial and rectory now being free from debt. For sale at the fair various articles were donated by the merchants of the two cities.

$15,000 Bond Issue Wins at Detour. The majority of the people of Detour, Chippewa county, expressed themselves in favor of bonding the town for the sum of $15,000 for building a school when the issue was submitted at a special election. The two-thirds majority was returned in favor of this proposition. The town already has an ideal site and it is understood that building operations will be started as soon as possible in order to have the structure ready for the next school year. The present school at Detour has been a mark for criticism for a number of years on account of its unsanitary condition. The building it is too small to permit the entire student body to meet under its roof and the school boards is compelled to rent halls in order to accommodate the pupils.

Tie Vote at Escanaba. At the election held in Escanaba for the selection of seven ward charter commissioners and three commissioners-at-large, in the First ward, which, with the Fifth, was the only ward in which a contest was held, there resulted a tie vote between Peter Jensen, the candidate of the Taxpayers and Independent Progressive parties, and James Powers of the Citizens' party, the count standing twenty-one to twenty-one. ## TWELVE GRADUATES TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Commencement of Suomi Finnish College Will Be Conducted This Evening.

Exercises marking the close of the college career of twelve students will be held this evening in the auditorium of the Suomi Finnish college, Hancock, when a class of young men and women will receive diplomas from Rev. Dr. J. K. Nikander, president of the institution. The commencement address will be delivered by Superintendent F. A. Jeffers of the Adams township schools.

The personnel of the graduating class speaks well of the standing of the institution. Of the twelve to graduate nine are from Michigan and three from other states, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

At a recent meeting of the class the motto, "Methods and Order Make All Things Easy," was adopted. The class flower is a white daisy. Gold class pins, with enamel lettering, "S. C. C.," have been ordered, and the auditorium tonight will be decorated with banners, having on them the name of the college.

Dr. Dresslar Proposes Houghton Teach Manual Training in a Separate Building.

Dr. F. B. Dresslar, sanitation and ventilation expert in the employ of the United States bureau of education, visited the Houghton schools yesterday morning in company with Superintendent Doelle. Dr. Dresslar was particularly interested in the manual training department, which he considers excellent.

In his report to the school board, which will be presented to the taxpayers at the annual school meeting, Dr. Dresslar will recommend that a building be erected to house the gymnasium and the manual training department. The present department with its fine machinery and excellent instructors has no business being housed in such quarters as it is now in the basement of the Central school. Dr. Dresslar believes, and he declares that a new building is imperative if this most important department is to do the work that it may reasonably be expected to do.

In what other recommendations Dr. Dresslar will make, he was not prepared to state yesterday, preferring to wait until he has finished his inspection either this evening or tomorrow.

Dr. Dresslar came to Houghton for the purpose of investigating the ventilation system of the schools, which are admitted by the school board to be bad, particularly the systems in the Central and East Houghton schools. He came at the request of the board.

MEANEST MAN ON EARTH.

Believed to be a Resident of Hancock—Mutilated a Horse.

Mayor Ojala and all of the officers of the city of Hancock are looking for the meanest man on earth. He is believed to be a resident of Hancock. His identifying mark was the deliberate mutilation of one of the magnificent fire department horses.

Just when the crime was committed was not learned, but when Ira Priest, one of the city teamsters, visited the stable in the rear of the city hall to care for his horse the next morning one of the animals appeared restless and refused to permit its driver permission to open it. An investigation followed, and it was discovered that someone had dashed the contents of a bottle of acid on the right flank. The acid must have been thrown at close range, for the horse which developed shoving on large one and several smaller ones where the liquid splashed. It is the belief of the teamsters that the acid was intended to blister the horse, cause an irritation from the harness and eventually make the horse kick and become unmanageable.

Mayor Ojala was notified of the incident and he called a druggist and Fire Chief Esley into consultation. This investigation is still on and if present suspicions are later found to be correct, arrest will follow. The penalty for a crime of this nature includes not only the payment of a fine, but a heavy prison sentence.

Markets

Paine, Webber & Co. wired from New York yesterday as follows: The feature of the early market was the weakness manifested by the liquidation of some specialties not enjoying a broad market, consequently were sold at concessions. In the afternoon there was an absence of commission house trading and the market turned dull and in the absence of pressure the traders committed to the short side started covering movement causing prices to close substantially above the low level, the leaders on the advance being Union Pacific, Reading and Copper. The day's closing prices were as follows:

But, starting with next Sunday, he has laid out a stiff program of inspiration work. His schedule of addresses follows:

Chicago Wheat.

Paine, Webber & Co's Chicago correspondent had the following to say of the wheat market in that city yesterday: Action in wheat today was somewhat disappointing, but still standard point, but it was evident that there was a lack of confidence on the part of short sellers on the dips. Buying was based on a continuation of serious crop damage claims coming from Oklahoma and Kansas. The crop in Indiana was slightly better than the crop in Iowa, and in Indiana it will do well to turn out an average yield. In this case, the best of the best counties in Kansas with a lower crop promise than recently. Absence of volume of public buying which usually attends a crop scare such as the reports from the southern states, and the fact that had much to do with taking the edge off the market the last hour. A rather sharp drop in prices at Minneapolis also caused some selling. We feel like advising the buying side of the market on good developments.

Ruez's Market Letter.

George F. Ruez, broker, of Liverpool, yesterday said: "The new York market opened from this morning, but developed some weakness and declined from a half point to two points, especially the leading issues, such as Amalgamated, Reading Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific but rallied sharply during the last half hour on news covering the Boston market after opening firm, suggested when the New York market became weak. Calumet & Arizona selling off from 65 to 64, Chino from 40 to 39 1/2, Ray Consolidated, from 19 1/2 to 18 1/2, Hancock was slightly weaker at 18 1/2 to 18. Green Canada was slightly lower around 6 1/2, on news of a plan to reduce the outstanding shares from 3,000,000 Par $20 to 600,000 shares, Par $100.00. North Butte held around 28 1/2 to 28 3/4. Indiana was fairly active at 8 1/2 to 8 3/4. The curb, Southern Indiana was somewhat stronger around 10 to 10 1/2. Raven called an assessment of 15 cents per share, payable June 25th to stock of record June 7th."

Mining News

President R. H. Gross of East Butte has returned to Boston from a periodical visit to the East Butte property. He reports the property now running at full capacity, with the smelter outputting better than 1,250,000 pounds of refined copper per month, while earnings are piling up at a generous rate. According to an unofficial report East Butte cleared $90,000 in April. As East Butte is doing a considerable custom smelter business the recent rise in copper must have added largely to its profits. Stockholders of the company are anxious to know when the proposed shutdown will be made in order to permit of the enlargement of the furnace. President Gross, when questioned as to this, would not say just when this action would be taken. He intimated, however, that additional improvements and additions were being made to the present plant which might do away with the necessity of a shutdown at this time. While he declined to state the exact nature of these improvements, he declared that as cost cutters they were of material value. However the addition of a dust chamber and the Dwight-Lloyd sintering plant resulted in a saving in 1912 of $130,000 in fines which had been going up the chimney at a total initial cost of only $50,000. The present improvements, according to President Gross, are along the most advanced lines of modern smelter practice and mean big savings in the cost of production at East Butte which is now showing perhaps the lowest cost in the Butte camp. Underground conditions are declared of continued excellent character, with the shaft now at a depth of 1,700 feet. The showing in the East Butte territory, which skeptics at one

MYSTERIOUS TAMARACK DEATH.

Jacob Minerich Becomes Unconscious Underground and Dies.

Jacob Minerich, forty-five years of age, a miner in the Tamarack, became unconscious yesterday morning while at work. He was taken to the Tamarack hospital, where he died a short time later without recovering consciousness. An inquest and autopsy will be held today as the cause of the man's death has not been determined.

Minerich came to the United States about six months ago from Croatia, where he leaves a widow. He has one son somewhere in the United States.

BAN ON STREET CARNIVALS.

Attitude of Hancock City Council Cannot Be Mistaken.

There will be no more street carnivals in Hancock, at least during the time the present administration is in office. At the last session of the council permission was given to the party to lease the Driving park to the Sons of St. George lodge of Quincy, which will have a carnival company present for the state convention of the order in July.

Members of the council have been interviewed on the question of permitting street carnivals in the business district of the city and they are firm in their stand in opposition. It is argued that street shows leave the city in a dirty condition and not infrequently heavy damages to the thoroughfares result.

ORIENTAL QUESTION LOOMS UP SERIOUS

Coalition of Japan and China Would Mean Mastery of Asia and Pacific.

Boston, May 27.—Private advices from Washington say that the Japanese reply on the California question is so imperious in its tone that its publication would mean the peace of the nations, hence its suppression by the Wilson administration.

One of America's men of wealth who made his money years ago in the Orient says: "Twenty years ago I left the Chicago exposition for Japan and China to look after my interests there. I visited every seaport on the Asiatic coast and everywhere flew the British flag, while 90 per cent of the commerce was in English bottoms. Today 80 per cent of the commerce of China is in the hands of the Japanese and is carried in Japanese bottoms."

"J. J. Hill, it will be remembered, started a line of big Pacific steamers to develop trade between Puget sound and the Orient. He has abandoned the entire enterprise, save one unprofitable ship, to the Japanese. The American and the Canadian transcontinental railroads are all entering into contracts with the Japanese trans-Pacific liners, except the Canadian Pacific, which has just put on two additional big ships between Vancouver and the Orient; but the Canadian Pacific it should be remembered is more in the steamship business, with its 100 ships, than any other railroad in the world."

"Every man, woman and child in the islands of Japan, is part of an organized fighting machine. The boys are drilled in the streets before they are ten years of age by schoolmasters and drilling masters, and their education looks to war and conquest. Every child in Japan must attend school for six years and they are now extending the time to eight years. Everything in Japan means practical and defensive education."

"Japan is now taking charge of not only the trade, but the education of China. Japan, under a secret treaty with Russia, has undertaken to organize and mold the new republic of China. It has taken possession of its commerce and is now taking possession of its education and its military training, and when the Chinese people are organized and drilled by the Japanese, they will be even a more magnificent fighting machine than the Japs themselves and then Japan and China will be ready to assert a mastery over not only Asia, but the Pacific ocean and all the islands therein. The Pacific coast states of America are not as much alarmed over the prospect as are New Zealand and Australia."

"A celebrated English statesman who lived in the Orient for thirty years remarked recently: 'Our children, and if not our children's children, will have to combine all the nations of the English-speaking world to save Christendom from the hoers of Japanese and Chinese when they attempt to overturn the world.'"

RAY CONSOLIDATED.

The Ray Consolidated property is fully living up to the expectations of the management, although because of the necessity of underground ore extraction as contrasted with the open shovel surface operations of the Copper and Chino, the development of the property to the point of large production has been a much slower process. Briefly stated, Ray Consolidated has outstanding, assuming all costs converted, 1,587,500 shares. Its production in 1912 was 34,000,000 pounds; it should be 40,000,000 pounds in 1913, and an output at the rate of 75,000,000 pounds in a nearby probability. It is claimed that Ray Consolidated's cost per pound of copper, when producing at the rate of 75,000,000 pounds, will not exceed 8 1/2 cents per pound. On a 15-cent price for copper (the metal is now 15 1/2 cents) profits on this cost basis should be equal to $3.35 per share. A reduction in the metal market to fourteen cents would reduce Ray Consolidated's divisible profits at the rate of less than fifty cents per share. The directors yesterday declared a dividend of thirty-seven and one-half cents.

LA SALLE.

Rock shipments from La Salls will commence in the near future, just as soon as a half mile of track can be laid in to the shaft. In the meantime the underground openings at No. 2 are showing a grade of copper rock which is much better than expected and flattering in appearance when compared with any of the rock which formerly came from this opening on the Kearsarge formation. Appearances count for a whole lot more in judging Kearsarge rock than they do in judging Calumet conglomerate or Baltic ledge rock or the Superior ledge rock. The copper certainly is so plentiful in evidence in this new rock that the management is compelled to stockpile it to get it out the way of advanced openings. In this No. 2 shaft it is most encouraging looking rock that never has come out of any of these shafts.

CALUMET & HECLA.

The Kearsarge ledge which contains an average of copper not as good as that found in the old Osceola ledge where opened on the Calumet & Hecla property is showing up in better condition in the southern end of the property. This is particularly true in No. 21 shaft. Japan and China will be ready to assert a mastery over not only Asia, but the Pacific ocean and all the islands therein. The Pacific coast states of America are not as much alarmed over the prospect as are New Zealand and Australia.

"A celebrated English statesman who lived in the Orient for thirty years remarked recently: 'Our children, and if not our children's children, will have to combine all the nations of the English-speaking world to save Christendom from the hoers of Japanese and Chinese when they attempt to overturn the world.'"

CENTENNIAL.

Centennial is in position underground to increase rock shipments to 1,000 tons daily, but there is little expectation of getting up to this point for some little time owing to the difficulty in procuring miners. However there will be a slight increase in the output effective about June. The Centennial rock is not averaging above seventeen pounds refined copper to the ton, notwithstanding the fact that another drift has been cut into the rich Wolverine shaft. Too much ought not to be expected from this section, which at best is rather limited in area and can not be mined in any large quantities. It does serve as a good rich place to help up the general average of the whole camp's rock but it will not cut any appreciable figure in the Centennial's output until there are further openings. The only sinking which Centennial is doing now is in No. 2 shaft. This has been going down in a grade of rock uniformly poor.

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he knows what he is talking about. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Played to Good House—"The Chimes of Normandy" was presented last evening for the second successive time by the students of the Marquette High school. It was thoroughly appreciated. The individual work of the principals was even better than on the succeeding night.

Clearing the Island—Keeper Robert Hume of Presque Isle has had twelve men employed the past few days clearing up the island of the dead trees. The dead trees have been removed from the grassy spots and the winter's accumulation of debris is being burned. The park is taking on a decidedly Irish appearance. The roads are now in fine condition and since the gates cutting off vehicle traffic at the neck have been removed the motorist drive to Presque Isle in large numbers daily.

Work on Boulevard—A crew of fifteen men has been employed the last week at clearing Lake Shore boulevard of the many tons of sand, driftwood and boulders that were deposited there by the winter storms. A steam road roller is being used on the recently uncovered portions of the boulevard, as well as on the Presque Isle drive, from the boulevard north to the Dead river bridge. Within a few days, probably by the end of this week, the two roads will be in fine condition. Several thousand feet of the boulevard, from the point where it joins Pine street almost as far as the bend near Picnic rocks, has already been cleared of sand. Several teams are being used in the work.

INSURE WITH PETER WHITE & CO. THE SILENT GUNS.

The historic guns that for sixty-three years have done duty at the Virginia Military Institute spoke for the last time when, upon the fiftieth anniversary of Stonewall Jackson's death, they thundered their salute to their former commander. "Let this battery, which has known so much of toll, like the sword and the shield," was the order read to the corps by Commandant Wise, and then Colonel William T. Poague of the Rock-bridge Artillery, who had commanded the guns in the war between the states, and eight of his surviving gunners fired the guns for the last time upon the same parade ground whence, in 1861, Jackson marched the cadets to the camp of instruction at Richmond.

"Venerable with age and honorable service," the guns tenderly have been placed to rest about the spot where Jackson in immortal bronze surveys the valley of Virginia, in whose defense he waged a campaign that earned for him glory that grows brighter and brighter with the years. The silence guns are rich in association with him. A year after they had been given to the institution by President Zachary Taylor as an evidence of his admiration for its cadets, who were his personal escort at the unveiling of the Washington monument here, Thomas Jonathan Jackson came to the institution, and serving as instructor in artillery, used the guns for his work in that connection. They were captured by General Hunter of the Union army and were taken to Washington, two years later to be returned to the institute by Lincoln's secretary of war, Stanton. They remained in use from that time until their retirement, one serving as the evening gun.

Never silenced by the guns of the invader, they are now by reverent hands mounted to stand in eternal guard over the hills where sleep Lee and his mighty right arm, Jackson. Silent for all time to come, they yet will speak from generation unto generation concerning their captain, who lived and who shall live again in the shadow of the wings of Jehovah.—Richmond Times Dispatch.

THIRD WOMAN CLAIMS TO BE THE WIDOW OF THE LATE HOMER MORRISON.

Chicago, May 28.—Another woman claiming to be a widow of Homer F. Morrison, whose death already was mourned by two widows and a fiancée, came to light today. She is Mrs. George Williamson of Barrington, a suburb, who reported to the police that Morrison, or Williamson, as she knew him, married her several years ago and deserted her soon after.

Police investigation of Morrison's recent death revealed his much-married state. Mrs. Homer E. Morrison says she married Morrison three years ago. Mrs. E. W. Thompson reported she married him seven years ago, and Miss Pearl McDivitt declared Morrison had promised to marry her next month. According to their stories, Morrison spent some part of each day with each of the three women.

Coroner Hoffman decided today that he would make an examination of Morrison's body, being satisfied that death had come from natural causes.

BANK DIRECTOR BILLINGS BLAMED BY STOCKHOLDERS FOR THE WALSH FAILURES.

Chicago, May 28.—Suits to hold C. K. G. Billings, banker of New York and Chicago, responsible for approximately $5,000,000 due to the failure of the John R. Walsh banks, the Chicago National and the Home Savings, were begun in the circuit court today. The stockholders who brought the suits charge that Billings' negligence as a director permitted Walsh to operate schemes which led to the wrecking of both banks. The amount lost by the Chicago National bank is placed at $3,500,000 and the Home bank losses at $1,500,000.

The demurrer of Mr. Billings is on file, attacking the sufficiency of the allegations and stating that the other directors should be the parties to the suit. A plan to accept $152,125 from Mr. Billings in full settlement of his liability was prevented by an order of Judge Tutthill, who appointed W. C. Niblack receiver for the bank. Arguments on the suits were set for next Tuesday.

ESCAPED CROOK BAKER RECAPTURED WHILE ABOUT TO BUY WOMAN'S GOWNS.

Albuquerque, N. M., May 28.—James Arthur Baker, the alleged notorious "man-woman" crook, arrested at Flag-staff, Ariz., from Sheriff Wilson, of Riverside, California, and a deputy while being taken back to that city for trial on a charge of grand larceny and forgery, was captured here today by Chief of Police Thomas McMillan. Baker at first denied his identity, but broke down and confessed, after he had made a desperate attempt to escape upon reaching the city. He was disarmed by a newspaper reporter and McMillan, after a struggle.

Baker told of his escape from a drawing room of a Santa Fe train while the officers slept. He crawled through the ventilator in the ceiling of the car and took on top of the Pullman for the first stop, where he jumped off and escaped. With $70 which he had taken from a pocketbook belonging to one of the officers, he bought a ticket east on the next train, arriving here yesterday. He declared that he was on his way to a store to buy feminine gowns with which he disguised himself when arrested.

WALL STREET MARKET IS DEPRESSED AGAIN.

New York, May 28.—The stock market was again under a cloud the greater part of today's session, sentiment being even more unfavorably affected by over-night developments connected with the St. Louis & San Francisco receivership. The securities of that system were subjected to another heavy selling which resulted in new low prices. Pennsylvania sold at low record figures. The market, however, manifested a rallying tendency toward the close. The selling of Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting seems to have its origin in rumors pointing to slackening operations in that industry, the same reason applying to Steel.

BURTON GIBSON'S CASE IS IN HANDS OF THE JURY.

Newburgh, N. Y., May 28.—At a late hour tonight the jury which in its hands the fate of Burton W. Gibson, the New York lawyer charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Szabo, his client, had reached no agreement, after having deliberated since 4:15 o'clock this afternoon. A mistrial was feared, as happened on the first trial of Gibson last fall. The only time the jury was heard from was when there was a call for the letters in which Mrs. Szabo wrote relatives a few days before she met her death in the waters of Greenwood lake that she would sail for her home in Europe on July 27. The fatality occurred July 16.

CLAIMS HE WAS HYPNOTIZED INTO MARRYING THE GIRL.

New York, May 28.—A husband's defense of hypnotism to a charge of abandoning his wife the day after he married her is made in a suit for separation brought by Mrs. Ethel P. Hughes against Norman A. Hughes, Jr., a bookkeeper. Mrs. Hughes applied to Supreme Court Justice Gerard for alimony, and said that her husband married her on April 25, deserted her the next day, and on April 28 advertised that he would not be responsible for her debts.

In reply, Hughes said he met the plaintiff a year ago through a flirtation, and paid her attention subsequently, but on no occasion promised to marry her. He said that some months ago, after he had been drinking in the plaintiff's house, she told him he had agreed to marry her, but he could not remember it.

"As a matter of fact, I was engaged for a number of years to marry Miss Belle Duffy, for whom I have the highest regard," said Hughes. "A license had been issued for my marriage to her at the time I married the plaintiff."

Girl of Thirteen Months to Take New York-Duluth Launch Trip.

New York, May 28.—A thirteen-month-old baby girl is in a Belleville, N. J., party on an 1,800-mile cruise in a practically open gasoline launch. Other members of the party are the baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, and their six-year-old son.

The destination of the travelers is Duluth, Minn. Their course will be through the Passaic river up the Hudson, through the Erie canal and thence through the Great Lakes. The trip will cover about thirty-five days, including stops for camping.

Provisions to last a week will be carried, but most of the edibles will be provided by rod and gun. Miller is an engineer.

STUDENTS GO ON STRIKE.

Want Teachers Reinstated and Principal Ousted.

Youngstown, O., May 28.—Seventy-five South high school pupils, out of a total enrollment of nearly 600, went on strike this week because of the removal of members of the faculty and the retention of Principal Charles B. Dyke.

The strikers marched to the board of education offices and made their protest. They were advised by Superintendent Chaney to return to their studies and to leave the complaint for the board to dispose of. Petitions are being circulated on the South Side of the city requesting the board to investigate rumors about certain faculty members.

The pupils carried a banner on which was inscribed: "Kick Dyke out, we want Chatty." The strike is liable to affect the graduation exercises, as several of the strikers are members of the senior class.

WILL ASK COLONEL TO START TRACK MEET

Ex-President to Be Invited to Fire Pistol Opening the Upper Peninsula Tournay.

D. F. Stull, director of the upper peninsula high school track and field meet to be held Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds, announced yesterday that the representation would be twice as large as that of last year. Thirteen schools have entered and all are sending more than the four contestants for whom the Normal Athletic association will pay transportation expenses. Some schools are sending to Marquette as many as nine athletes.

The high schools at the following places have placed entry lists in the hands of Mr. Stull: Houghton, Hancock, Calumet, Rockland, Ironwood, Wakefield, Iron River, Iron Mountain, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Marquette, the Soo and Escanaba. The principal of the Republic High school has assured Mr. Stull that his school will send a team, but so far his entry list has not been received. Seven of these schools had representatives last year. The other seven, including Republic with Rockland, Ironwood, Wakefield, Iron Mountain, Ishpeming and Escanaba, will participate for the first time.

Preparations are being made to board and lodge about two hundred visitors on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. For the purpose of organizing the work of receiving the representatives and finding boarding and rooming places for them, a meeting of the men students and faculty of the Normal has been called for this morning at 11 o'clock. Anyone wishing to take some of the visiting athletes either for room or board may leave their names with the proper committee by calling telephone No. 973 J.

It is expected that some of the schools will send their representatives tomorrow and therefore all trains from tomorrow morning until the hour of the meet will be met by reception committees. The visitors will be assigned to rooms at once. The men of the Normal will constitute the reception committees. The registration of the visiting athletes and the distribution of identification numbers will take place Saturday forenoon in the laboratory of the department of biology, on the second floor of the Peter White Science hall. Another purpose of today's meeting will be for the purpose of appointing committees for registration and also the officers of the meet.

It is hoped to induce the entire gathering of athletes to remain in the city until Sunday, as on Saturday evening the students and faculty of the Normal will unite in giving the visitors a reception. It is expected that some two hundred couples will be present and the Normal will do its utmost to make the affair a jolly occasion and one that will be remembered as one of the biggest social events of the school.

The reception will be given in the Normal gymnasium and will begin early in the evening with a short program. A seven-piece orchestra has been engaged to furnish music. A grand march will precede the dancing.

Theodore Roosevelt, who will be in Marquette Saturday at the hour of the beginning of the meet, will be asked to do it if he will not ride in an automobile to the fairgrounds to open the meet by firing the starting pistol for the first event.

Mr. Stull said yesterday that he expected the schools from nearer cities would send large delegations of rosters. He has found the students enthusiastic. Ishpeming and Negaunee will probably be the largest contributors to the ranks of the side-lines. The entire student body of the Normal will turn out Saturday afternoon and the individuals will group themselves according to the schools from which they were graduated. The afternoon will be a gala occasion and Mr. Stull is endeavoring to make it a sort of half-holiday. The meet will of necessity have to begin at 1 o'clock, as there are already more entries than were expected.

Mr. Stull was a speaker for a few moments at the Marquette High school yesterday morning, asking the students to turn out en masse to support their team. The results in preliminary field and track athletics have been encouraging and it is believed Marquette will have excellent opportunity to finish near the top of the contest of winners.

At an inter-class meet held Saturday afternoon at the fairgrounds, nine events were put on. The winners given in the order of merit, were:

50-yard dash—Hanson, Farrell and Schumacher.
440-yard run—Widmer, Madigan and Reany.
100-yard dash—Hanson, Schumacher and Madigan.
Half-mile run—Lindstrom, Reany and Widmer.

Widmer.
Mile run—Lindstrom, Reany and Liberty.
220-yard dash—Madigan, Hanson and Windoff.
High jump—Harkin, Lindstrom and Widmer.
Discus—Harkin, Lindstrom and Hanson.
Hammer—Liberty, Lindstrom and Harkin.

CAN MEMORY GO ON STRIKE?

Here Are a Few Stories of Wanderings and Disappearances Caused by Curious Tricks of the Mind.

Can the human memory go on strike, leaving the other tangible and intangible parts of the mental and physical makeup to continue their ordinary weekday routine? Will this explain the strange disappearances and wanderings about of men and women which occur so frequently?

Does the memory get tired of being taxed so heavily, and does it see that no consideration is paid it and no allowance made for its fatigue does it deliberately pull its own machinery throptic and retire to some nice spot of therapeutic calm? Is this what happened recently when S. Frank Holley, an active business man, went on a business month in New York, coming to his real self in an uptown rooming house from where he phoned his mourning relatives that he was on the way home?

During that month of absence Holley ate, drank, slept, walked and talked. He may have made an engagement with a temporary money servant. In fact he must have done so, because he had to remember where he lived during this stage and also recall the various necessities of continuity incidental to daily routine. But the knowledge of who he was remained for a month a big, dead blank. Folks he met noticed nothing strange about him. But there was, a walking automaton so far as his identity and his business affairs were concerned.

You could hardly call Holley's condition as one approximating a trance, which doctors sometimes call catalepsy. In a trance there is no voluntary motion. Mental power is said to be suspended. Put a patient's arm or leg this way or that way and the arm or leg will remain that way unless the position defies the laws of gravitation. The will power actuating physical motion is gone. Holley's wasn't as his walking about and eating and drinking proved. His mental powers were in operation, as his selecting and bargaining for his room proved. Memory of his real self had fled the human envelope. Was it because memory was tired and went on strike?

In Chicago some time ago a girl eighteen years of age developed a most peculiar trick of memory. Her family had removed from the south side to the vicinity of Lincoln Park. From the very first day after the removal, the girl, who was private secretary to a railroad official, deliberately took the car and went to the old home. She sat on the stoop the first night after removal until neighbors noticed her strange action and asked her why she did not go to her home. She looked at them in a dazed way and shook her head uncomprehendingly. A friend escorted her to the new north side house. There, when she saw her mother and father, she burst into hysterical tears. Then, after she had become calm and had eaten her dinner, she laughed at what she called her foolish absentmindedness. Her parents laughed too, as it seemed very plain that that was all there was to the action.

But the next night the girl went to the old house again and sat on the stoop, looking down the street with her hands far away gaze. Her searching father found her there two hours after she was due at her north side home. The same thing occurred the third night. After that her father met her every night at the office where she was employed, and escorted her home. Even so, if her father did not keep her in steady conversation from the moment they left the office, she would involuntarily tug at his arm to have him board a car taking her to the old home on the south side.

During the day her father thought she noticed the slightest difference with her quality of service. She was as exact and capable as at any other time. The nearest that came to an explanation of her conduct was that in purchasing the new home on the north side she had done a great deal of planning and figuring after her exacting day's work at the office. Memory, having been called upon in many ways to work overtime in this planning to have things in the new home like things in the old, got tired and went on strike. For three months and more every time the girl's father thought she was cured of her peculiarity and failed to meet her she would go to the old house and sit on the stoop. She always explained after her usual hysterical recovery that she absolutely forgot that she had a home on the north side.

A Nevada case is reported where a man wandered away from his wife and three children. For ten years he was not heard from. Passing through the state again something seemed to snap in his head and he knew himself again. He had gone to Texas, married and had another little family. His wife had died only the week before his knowledge of his real self returned. He attributed his loss of memory to overwork while figuring out complicated contracts.

VALUABLE EGGS.

There is often to be heard some active revolt and more angry protest at the high price of eggs. Had all "hen fruit" as precious a core as that sold some forty years ago by an old negro woman on a corner of housekeepers, league of considerable dealers, or retailers of like mate consumers could hope to keep the price from soaring far beyond the reach of common purses.

"How do you sell eggs, aunty?" she was asked one day by a pleasant man she had never seen before.

"Dem eggs," was the reply, "am worst ob peacine apple; fresh, too, de last one ob 'em. Wiled 'em myself and knows dey's fast-rate."

"The man was hungry, and the old woman's gay turban, neat dress and beaming basket made an enticing picture. He laid down a small coin, and took an egg. "Have you pepper and salt?" he inquired.

"Yas, sir; here dey is," she responded, bearing upon her new customer, who, producing a small penknife, proceeded leisurely to cut his egg exactly in half—when a bright new quarter was revealed, lying embedded in the yolk. Quietly pocketing his find, he picked up another egg, and asked its price. Her eyes, still fastened upon the pocket which held the treasure trove, the old woman hesitated, then announced:

"Boss, dat egg am worst ob dem, suah."

He paid, and opened it, as he had the first. Within glommed a shining gold quarter eagle, which he calmly transferred to his pocket before pricing a third egg. The old woman's eyes were fairly bulging as she gasped:

"Dere no use a-talkin', massa. I can't let you hab dat egg nohow for less dan a quarter; I declare I can't!"

"Very good; there is your quarter and here is the egg," assented the purchaser; and he opened it, to disclose, snugly encased in the middle, two $5 gold pieces. Jangling them carelessly he observed with a nonchalant air:

"Very good eggs. I like them. I think I'll take a dozen. What will be the price?"

"Price!" burst out the excited woman. "You couldn't buy them eggs for all de money you's got. I's gwine take 'em all de eggs all home, I is; and dat money in 'em's gwine belong to me. Couldn't sell no more ob dem eggs, nohow!"

"They were good eggs, but their shells concealed no more buried treasure. Her customer was Heller, the famous sleight-of-hand performer.—Youth's Companion.

IT'S ALWAYS THE WAY.

The man had his own opinion about the wall paper. He didn't agree with his wife on the subject.

"Come," he said in his masterful fashion, "I'll show you what's what."

So they went together to the wall paper store. The wife stood luck meekly and let her liege lord assert himself.

"Something neat and quiet for a library," he said in his easy business way.

They pushed forward a rack of twenty-two rolls of neat and quiet library paper. They showed him each roll. Then they brought out another rack. Twenty-nine rolls this time. He looked at each roll. His eye began to wander.

He was getting nervous. They brought forward the third rack—twenty-eight rolls.

"At the seventh roll he went to pieces. "I've forgotten an important engagement," he gasped to his wife. "Get what you like."

So his wife selected the paper in less time than it takes to tell it, and, although the man grumbled when he saw it, he had nothing to say.

A PERILOUS PROFESSION.

That is a striking passage in "King Lear" where Edgar, pretending to describe the cliff at Dover to the blind Gloucester, says "Half way down hangs one that gathers samphire, dreadful trade!" Samphire is a wild parsley with a salty taste that formerly was used in making pickles, and that often was found in precipitous places near the sea-shore, where those who sought it pursued their calling at the risk of their lives. There are modern quests as dangerous as that of samphire.

Near Easton, Pennsylvania, a week ago, William Crispin, a collector of birds' eggs, lowered himself one hundred feet by a rope in the Pocono Mountains in a hunt for eagles' eggs, and fell two hundred feet to his death. Women gathering wild flowers found his body the following day, and high up on the perpendicular mountain-side there was the end of the rope. Papers on the dead man's body showed who he was and that he had lived at Salem, New Jersey, and the police learned by long distance telephone from his father the object of his mission in the mountains. Crispin left a widow and three children.

"Half the world does not know how the other half lives."

SALTING THE BABY.

An old superstition is that if a newborn baby is carefully and abundantly salted he will be strong and hardy when he grows up, and that evil spirits will never be able to pursue him. And this custom is still clung to in various parts of the world, though the method of procedure is different with different peoples. In certain parts of Russia, especially among some of the Armenian settlements, the salting of an infant is an occasion of great celebration, an event in the life of the youngster which is going to influence the whole of his life. The baby is rubbed well with fine salt, which is left on for about five hours, and during that time songs are sung, food and drinks partaken of, and all the relatives and friends join in the celebration. If this ceremony is neglected bad luck is certain to follow the child even to the last years of his life. Mountain tribes of Asia Minor indulge in the same belief, though with them the baby is generally left from thirty to thirty-five hours in the salt. The longer the duration of time the better chances for good fortune has the infant.

PYTHIANS SEND STRONG APPEAL

All Ishpeming People Want Upper Peninsula Lodges to Meet Here in 1914.

Every lodge of Knights of Pythias in the upper peninsula will receive with in the next few days an invitation from the committee representing Zenith lodge of this city to meet in Ishpeming next year for the purpose of celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of the order and the tenth anniversary of the Upper Peninsula league. This will be the second appeal that the committee has made since the lodge decided to invite the Pythians north of the straits to assemble in this city in 1914.

The members of the Ishpeming lodge feel reasonably sure that the 1914 meeting will be held here. The lodge has the hearty support of the Business Men's association at the city council and it is assured that the citizens will do everything they can to give the visitors a good time. Several of the supreme lodge and grand lodge officers have already announced they will attend the fiftieth anniversary celebration. Among them is Brigham Young, who will be elected commander of the national organization at the forthcoming encampment.

The 1914 session will doubtless be the greatest meeting that the Pythians have ever held in this district. In addition to the Ishpeming lodge proposes, with the aid of other branches of the order in this vicinity, to organize for initiation a class of not less than five hundred members.

Committee's Appeal.

The letter that is being sent out by the committee is as follows:

"Brothers: Zenith lodge, No. 33, of Ishpeming, again desires to renew its invitation for your kind and favorable consideration to its desire to entertain the lodges of the upper peninsula at the reunion to be held in 1914, the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of our order and also the tenth anniversary of the Upper Peninsula league.

"We are repeating our former requests because we feel that we can entertain you creditably, and we are anxious to prove our ability as an entertaining host. We are proud of our city, and of our lodge, which numerically is the strongest in this peninsula. We have all the facilities for taking care of you in the right way, for giving you a good time, and we wish this opportunity of showing you of our hospitality.

"Ishpeming is central to all the lodges of the peninsula. It has no less than four railroads reaching here from all portions of this district, in addition to which there is lake communication from several sources. All the citizens in and out of the order are joining in the invitation and all will combine in extending to you all the courtesies that this warm-hearted mining population is noted for.

"We have here a fine, clean town, with good streets, model sanitary conditions, beautiful drives about town, plenty of willing automobilists and good shows and you can carry the key to the very best we possess. We have good neighbors in Negaunee and other towns close by. We will give you a feast in sociability and good fellowship and do our utmost to advance the cause of Pythianism. We will make it so every good fellow not already in will want to join.

"The present league of the Upper Peninsula Knights of Pythias was organized here in June, 1904, and in each succeeding meeting with two exceptions Ishpeming lodge has been represented by a strong third rank degree team as well as by a large representation of members. It has always exhibited much interest in the order, which is best proved by its membership.

"We want you to designate our town as the meeting place, and we want you to assist us in aiding us in this ambition. We will thank you for your kindly cooperation.

"Enclosed please find ribbons for delegates. Yours in F. C. & B."

The letter is signed by John S. Olson, chairman; George A. Newett, Thor Orem, William Hooper and Jas. A. Blackney, secretary, constituting the committee.

PLATTING LOTS.

Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company Will Have Property to Lease in North Addition.

Ray Brotherton, engineer for the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's land department, and his assistant, Napoleon Marckety, are laying out lots in what is known as the North addition, north of the old cemetery, where the surface of the swamp was raised some four or five feet the year before last. The filling has sagged in a number of places, due to the wet condition of the swamp, but this trouble will be eliminated as soon as the sewer system is extended to that point. The location will be a desirable one for building purposes, as it is not more than ten or twelve blocks distant from the business district.

Messrs. Brotherton and Marckety have just finished platting 120 acres of the company's land between the New York mine and the Union park, to be leased for truck farming. The plats are one acre in size and most of them have already been leased. The greater part of this space has been used for some years past by Ishpeming farmers. The leased plats are now being fenced and streets have been laid out on the north side of the street car track, but on the south side the fences have not yet been erected. The land is very desirable for raising garden truck and as the plats will be leased at a very reasonable price those who secure them will be able to make good money on their investment.

WILL HAVE A "SALE"

The Ladies Aid society of the Swedish Lutheran Bethany church in this city will have a "sale" in the Scandinavian Hall on Friday afternoon and evening, May 30th. The "sale" begins at 2 o'clock. There will be a large number of articles on exhibition consisting of fancy work, pillow covers, aprons and other useful articles. Ice cream, coffee and cake will also be served during the day. All are invited to attend.

FIREMEN TO OBSERVE MEMORIAL SUNDAY

Members of Ishpeming Department Will Attend Services at St. John's Church.

The members of the Ishpeming fire department will hold annual memorial services Sunday, June 1. They will attend high mass in St. John's church at 10 o'clock, and at 1:30 will leave their headquarters on Lake street and march to the cemeteries to decorate the graves of the departed.

The officers of the department have issued special invitations to relatives of deceased members to attend the church service, also to be present at the cemetery, with the request that they mark the graves of the dead firemen with American flags and that none of them be overlooked.

Members of the upper peninsula fire departments have observed an memorial day the first Sunday in June each year since the organization of the Upper Peninsula Firemen's association in Ishpeming in 1895. The Ishpeming department has never failed to commemorate the occasion appropriately, and as a rule there is a large attendance both at the church and at the cemetery.

Twenty members of the Ishpeming fire department have passed away and their bodies have all been interred in the two local cemeteries. The list of the deceased members is as follows:

BASEBALL SEASON TO BE OPENED TOMORROW

Ishpeming Will Have Strong Line-up in First Game to Be Played With Negaunee.

Ishpeming will be represented by a promising baseball team when the Marquette county league season opens tomorrow afternoon at the Union park diamond, in spite of the fact that the team has just been organized. Only about half of the local players have been practicing so far this season, but it is expected that within a week or two all of the men will be in pretty good form.

A meeting of the members of the team will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at "Pop" Geelan's pool room to elect officers and to make arrangements for the handling of the gates, patrolling of the grounds and other details. The uniforms, bats and other paraphernalia used by last year's team have been turned over to the present organization, so no expense will be incurred in the start-off of the season.

In the line-up will include several former members of the profession of former years and the rest of the team will be made up of men who have been playing with the Settlers the past two or three years. The pitching staff will be exceptionally strong, as it will consist of Mahoney, former twirler for Negaunee; Steve Toman, who pitched for Ishpeming two seasons prior to his going to Gladstone two years ago; Robe Goulette, also a former member of the team, and Adamson of the Settlers. When not in the box, Adamson will be in left field. He is one of the best fielders Ishpeming has ever produced.

Also Nichols, who was sub-catcher for Ishpeming the past three seasons, will stand behind the bat and "Pop" Geelan, the veteran slugger of the league nine the past two seasons, will be on first base; Joe Martin, who has played excellent ball at second for the Settlers, will hold down that position and Tomelo, who has been holding down third for the Settlers, will be on that sack. Embloom, a young player, will be at short. He is said to be exceptionally fast in the infield and his friends expect he will make good. When Adamson is pitching one of the set-backers will be in left garden and Gust Simpson, former player of both the Ishpeming and Negaunee teams, will resume his old position in center field. John Manley, who has been with the Settlers, will be in right field.

The Ishpeming team will go to Gwinn Sunday and the Marquette nine will meet Negaunee at the Union park.

WINTHROP WOMAN PASSES.

Mrs. Johanna Nyberg, wife of Peter Nyberg, a well-known resident of the Winthrop, died yesterday. She was fifty-five years of age and was born in Sweden, the family coming to America in 1882. Besides the husband, she is survived by two sons and two daughters. One daughter is married and lives in Munising and she will be here to attend the funeral. The obsequies will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Swedish Lutheran church.

HAVE YOU A FRIEND AFFLICTED WITH ASTHMA?

Frank S. Archibald, of West Swansey, N. H., writes:—For the past five years I have suffered with Asthma almost constantly. I was so nervous at times, I could hardly remain in my school. This disease coupled with the nervous strain to which teachers are always subjected made life almost unbearable. During a visit to my home in Hillsdale, Mr. Mann, a local druggist, called my attention to your White Wine of Tar Syrup. At first I was skeptical as I had tried almost everything with no permanent help. Finally I took home a bottle and the cure it effected seems almost miraculous to me after my former repeated disappointments.

I want to recommend your remedy to everyone who has been afflicted as I was for five years and I shall be glad to reply to enquiries regarding my case.

GAVE EXPERT TESTIMONY.

Former Ishpeming Mining Man in Newport Mine Test Case.

Joseph Sellwood, formerly of this city, now living in Duluth, and Dwight E. Woodbridge, also of Duluth, were this week at Ironwood, where they gave expert testimony in the case of the Newport Mining company against the state of Michigan.

This was a suit involving the validity of the so-called Finlay valuation of mines and intended to overturn the entire system of mine valuations adopted by the state upon the recommendation of J. R. Finlay, mining engineer, who some two years ago was engaged by the tax commission to appraise all mining properties in the state.

In addition to Messrs. Sellwood and Woodbridge, several others were called as expert witnesses. Among these were C. K. Smith, head of the mining school of Wisconsin University; R. C. Allen, state geologist of Michigan; John Birkinbine, engineer of Philadelphia; J. U. Richards, who is in charge of the ore business of M. A. Hanna & company, Cleveland, and C. R. May of New York, senior American partner for the accounting firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co.

LLOYD COMMODORE TO LIVE ON LAND

Captain Hogemann Makes His Last Voyage After Forty-Four Years Spent at Sea.

New York, May 28.—After the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, arriving from Bremen, had been made fast to her pier in Hoboken Captain Dietrich Hogemann, commodore of the fleet, announced that it was his last voyage, and that Captain Charles Polak of the George Washington would succeed him.
Of his forty-four years at sea the retiring commodore has spent thirty-four in the service of the North German Lloyd company. In that time he has made 110 round voyages as an officer and 183 voyages as a commander, traveling 2,287,743 miles and carrying 759,000 passengers.
Captain Hogemann is sixty years old and hale and hearty. He said yesterday his first voyage was made in 1869 as a boy on the steamship Union of New York. On his return to Bremen he determined to be a thorough sailor. He started in on a sailing ship and rose to the rank of mate in five years.
"In the fall of 1870," said the captain, "we were captured at the mouth of the English channel by a French man-of-war and taken to Belle Isle, where I was held a prisoner in the fortress for seven months. It was just after the Battle of Sedan, and the French were so excited against the Prussians that the captain was afraid to land us at Pointe-aux-Francais. That was my only accident. I am pleased to say, and I have never been shipwrecked or in any disaster at sea. I was ten years in sailing ships altogether, finishing as captain and traveling in that time 100,000 miles, which, at a rough estimate, gives a total of 2,287,743 for my forty-four years. I entered the Lloyd service in 1879 as fourth officer and was promoted to the rank of captain on the Preussen in that year. My first voyage was from New York to Naples and back, and the Kaiser Wilhelm II, seventeen in the Kaiser der Grosse, thirty-eight in the Kaiser Wilhelm II, and this is my fifty-third voyage in this ship.
"The directors asked me to stay another year, but I am going to retire now and enjoy a few years ashore, and learn what it is to sleep every night in a comfortable bed without having an officer knocking at the door and saying it is foggy or something is to call me to the bridge. This voyage I have had only one night at sea."
Captain Hogemann said that having government ships watch for icebergs was an excellent plan for the safety of the big passenger liners. He thought that the big ships now building had reached the limit, as larger vessels would be too unwieldy to handle in narrow waters and too deep to enter the rivers and harbors.

ROSEVALE WITH VIRGINIA.

Bert Rosevale, who left here the latter part of last week for the Mesaba range to join the Virginia team of the trolley league, which is comprised of eight nines, pitched his first game Sunday against the Hibbing team and made an excellent showing. It was a fifteen-inning game. Rosevale going into the box in the eighth inning, when the score was a tie, 1 and 1. In the ninth each team scored two runs, but Rosevale retired the batters in one, two, three from that time until the end and allowed but one hit during the seven innings that he pitched.
Rosevale is no stranger to the Mesaba range fans, as he pitched with the Virginia team in the Northern league some four years ago, before he came to Negaunee. The teams in the trolley league are playing almost as fast ball as the Virginia men of the Minnesota and Wisconsin leagues, and it will surprise Rosevale's friends here if he is not annexed to the big team before the season is far advanced. He has been given a position in Virginia and he will also be paid for his batting average.
Roy Cullis of this city, who is playing with the Superior team, hit the ball over the fence in a game with Duluth at the latter city Monday. He was also credited with one other hit. Cullis has been playing a fast game at short, but his batting average took a slump the last ten days and he dropped from around .250 to .193. His two hits in Monday's game put him above the .200 mark again.
It was thought and hoped that Rosevale would remain in Negaunee. The Marquette county league season will open tomorrow afternoon with the Negaunee and Ishpeming teams meeting at Union Park and Gwinn and Marquette at the latter city. Ed. Musro, a former member of the Duluth team, who has been pitching for the Bessemer team this season, is expected here today or tomorrow and he will probably be in the box for Negaunee tomorrow afternoon.

ICELAND'S FIRST RAILWAY.

To Be Built About the Harbor of Reykjavik for Freight Transportation.
Washington, May 28.—Consul General E. D. Winslow, Copenhagen, Denmark, writes: "The harbor of Reykjavik, in Iceland, is to have a railway built about it so as to facilitate the transport of freight and ease the congestion due to old-fashioned methods. The enterprise is small to begin with, but it is thought that once an opening is made on the island a railway running across to Thingvall will be built. The new improvement will cost about $300,000 and will consist of about 6 1/2 miles of track around the city and harbor. It will be Iceland's first railway. The improvement will not be completed before 1916.
The Althing of Iceland has, on former occasions, voted money to defray the expense of investigating the possibilities and cost of railways on the island, and a plan, with the estimated expense, has been laid before for a railway between the capital, Reykjavik, and Thingvall, with branching lines. The harbor railway now building is private."

BORN IN SPEEDING AUTO.

Babe Sees Light of Day in New York Hospital Ambulance.
New York, May 28.—If the first born baby of Mrs. Sophie Linker fails to keep up with the procession when he grows to manhood it will not be because he did not start auspiciously, for he was born in a hospital ambulance ambulance running almost a mile a minute.
Mrs. Linker and her husband Nathan, whose home is in the Bronx, were on a Third avenue "L" train bound for Mrs. Linker's mother's home when events began to happen hurriedly. The train was halted and Mrs. Linker was taken to the waiting room of the elevated station at 143d street.
An ambulance was called. When it arrived at the hospital it carried two passengers besides the physicians. It was a boy.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our appreciation for the sympathy and favors extended us during our recent bereavement. We feel under very great obligations to friends in Gwinn, as well as in Ishpeming. We wish particularly to thank those who sent flowers.

MOVING A CANVAS TOWN.

Inverl is a flourishing town in the northern part of New South Wales. It has only quite recently been connected by rail with Sydney, which is some 500 miles distant; previously, Glen Innes, forty miles from the main Northern trunk line, was the nearest railway point. It is now, however, the terminus of the Northwest line, which junctions on to the Northern line at Werris creek, some two hundred and forty miles from the metropolis. An interesting incident occurred while the line was under construction; one part of the line had been completed, and it was necessary for the local camp of the navvies, plate layers, etc., to be carried farther on to the next section. The canvas homes of the workers and their families were accordingly shifted bodily on to the railway trucks, and the contractor's engine took them some ten miles away to the scene of their new labors. This queer removal serves to show the practical method of the Australians.—Wide World Magazine.

WONDERFUL SKIN SALVE.

NIGHT WATCHMEN GET INCREASE IN PAY

Council in Special Session Voted to Raise Salaries from $2 a Day to $6.5 a Month.

The monthly wages of the nightwatchmen of the city were raised to $6.5 a month at a special session of the common council held at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. The night policemen have received $2 a day for work between the hours of 7 o'clock and 6 o'clock, day and night. The meeting was called by Mayor Heggaton to determine the attitude of the aldermen in regard to the increase. He stated at the meeting that he did not believe policemen were, at the present time, receiving proper remuneration.
Alderman Wasmuth spoke in favor of granting an increase of $3 per month, and his opinion received the support of the other members. A resolution offered by Mr. Wasmuth, that the council's former action in setting the salary of nightwatchmen at $2 a day be rescinded, was seconded and unanimously passed. Immediately following the passage of Alderman Wasmuth's resolution, Alderman Nelson moved that the question of an increase in salary be referred to the committee on bonds and salaries, of which Aldermen Hogan, Nelson and Mitchell are members. A recess of ten minutes was taken during which the committee drew up its report, recommending the proposed increase to $6.5 per month. The report was adopted without a dissenting voice.
A communication to the mayor and common council from the Charles H. Towne post of the G. A. R., inviting the city officials to be present at the Memorial Day services and ride to the cemetery in the afternoon was accepted and the aldermen will attend in a body.

COMMITTEE MAKES FINAL ARRANGEMENTS

Meetings of United Italian Societies Will Be One of Biggest Events This Summer.

At a meeting of the executive committee held last Sunday evening, final arrangements were made for the meetings of the United Italian societies, which are to be held in this city on June 19, 20 and 21. A tentative program was arranged several weeks ago and the final program will not differ greatly from this. Members of all Italian societies throughout the upper peninsula are looking forward with pleasure to the convention and large delegations will attend from all parts of the peninsula, according to information in the hands of the home committee.
It has been definitely decided that the first two days will be given over to a convention of the delegates from the various societies. It is now planned to bring several prominent Italian speakers here from outside cities, although their names have not yet been announced. Attorney Barasa, of Chicago, may be one of the speakers, it is said, and several copper country speakers may be included in the program.
The copper country societies are earnestly working for the next annual meeting of the United Italian societies and the delegates will probably vote to give the convention to them, as the officers of the organizations are located in that part of the upper peninsula. The strength of the United Societies is shown here and in the copper country, where practically every Italian is a member.
The last day of the meeting will be an auspicious occasion, the city officials of the various towns and also the county officials being on the list they invited.

MINING NEWS

KEEWENAW COPPER.

The Keweenaw Copper company is getting results from the drilling on the Ashbed, says the Native Copper Times. The drill in No. 42 hole cut the Ashbed at a depth of about 400 feet. At this point there was considerable copper and the vein was upwards of twenty feet wide. The Times feels that some day, and probably before long, conditions will be revealed on the Ashbed, a hole that will warrant the company in preparing for shaft sinking on this high grade vein for the purpose of mining. The Ashbed should be mined and handled very cheaply, and, opened extensively, may be made to pay handsomely.

ROSEVALE WITH VIRGINIA.

Bert Rosevale, who left here the latter part of last week for the Mesaba range to join the Virginia team of the trolley league, which is comprised of eight nines, pitched his first game Sunday against the Hibbing team and made an excellent showing. It was a fifteen-inning game. Rosevale going into the box in the eighth inning, when the score was a tie, 1 and 1. In the ninth each team scored two runs, but Rosevale retired the batters in one, two, three from that time until the end and allowed but one hit during the seven innings that he pitched.
Rosevale is no stranger to the Mesaba range fans, as he pitched with the Virginia team in the Northern league some four years ago, before he came to Negaunee. The teams in the trolley league are playing almost as fast ball as the Virginia men of the Minnesota and Wisconsin leagues, and it will surprise Rosevale's friends here if he is not annexed to the big team before the season is far advanced. He has been given a position in Virginia and he will also be paid for his batting average.
Roy Cullis of this city, who is playing with the Superior team, hit the ball over the fence in a game with Duluth at the latter city Monday. He was also credited with one other hit. Cullis has been playing a fast game at short, but his batting average took a slump the last ten days and he dropped from around .250 to .193. His two hits in Monday's game put him above the .200 mark again.
It was thought and hoped that Rosevale would remain in Negaunee. The Marquette county league season will open tomorrow afternoon with the Negaunee and Ishpeming teams meeting at Union Park and Gwinn and Marquette at the latter city. Ed. Musro, a former member of the Duluth team, who has been pitching for the Bessemer team this season, is expected here today or tomorrow and he will probably be in the box for Negaunee tomorrow afternoon.

Charles G. Schirmer, assistant treasurer of Davis-Daly, who has returned to Boston from a visit to the property, says: "Davis-Daly is looking splendidly, and it is no exaggeration to say promising that even. The opening of the Hesperus ore body has made a big change in future prospects and if further development there turns out as we hope, Davis-Daly should make an important addition to the producing mines of the Butte camp. At the present time we have three crosscuts on the 1,200 level which have cut the vein, proving it for a distance of approximately 300 feet on that level. The vein has widened and the breasts of the drifts show seventeen feet of good ore. We are now driving crosscuts on the 1,200 and 1,500 levels to cut the Hesperus, which should be intersected on the 1,200 within two or three weeks. The crosscut on the 1,500 will have to be longer, so that
